Deadline for the pro-

A spokesman at the normal crop acreage for

Life Is To Be Lived

Rev. Ihsan N. Ardhuermly
Pastor
St. Luke's Methodist

What do you say to yourself when you get up each morning?...Do you say, "Thank You God-I am alive," "Thank You God for giving me another opportunity to love, to care, to give, to relieve, to contribute to the happiness of others," or do you say, "Oh God, not another miserable day that I have to go through and endure."

You know, there are more people who think and feel like the last statement than the first two. To many of us, life is a treat-a-mill, dreary and drudgery. It is to be endured. And in the process we miss out on so much blessing from God, family and friends.

Life is to be LIVED and not to be endured. Life is to be treasured and not to be wasted. Life is to be shared and not to be ignored. Life is that precious gift that we receive ONCE here on earth and how we treat it now will dictate how God will treat us later.

Below are the thoughts of one person who took stock of her life and wished she had her life to live over. Will you take heed?

"If I Had My Life To Live Over"

I'd dare to make more mistakes next time. I'd relax, I would limber up. I would be sillier than I have been this trip. I would take fewer things seriously. I would take more chances. I would climb more mountains and swim more rivers. I would eat more ice cream and less beans. I could perhaps have more actual troubles, but I'd have fewer imaginary ones.

You see, I'm one of those people who live sensibly and sanely hour after hour, day after day. Oh, I've had my moments, and if I had it to do over again, I'd have more of them. In fact, I'd try to have nothing else.
Just moments, one after another, instead of living so many years ahead of each day. I've been one of those persons who never goes anywhere without a thermometer, a hot water bottle, a raincoat and a parachute. If I had to do it again, I would travel lighter than I have.

If I had my life to live over,
I would start barefoot earlier in and stay that way later in the fall.
I would go to more parties. I would ride more merry-go-rounds. I would pick more daisies. I would praise God more.

-An 85-year-old woman

You still have your life, and you still have the opportunity to do something with it. It is God's most precious gift. USE IT to His glory.
Grace-Peace

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT

If You're Not covered under any other retirement plans, start your own.
It is an account called an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) approved by the Internal Revenue Service. It is now possible for wage earners to add to their financial security by establishing their own personal retirement plans. Federal Legislation now permits employees and self-employed persons receiving compensation and not covered under any other retirement plan to establish their own INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT. And you can save immediately on income taxes while planning a secure future for you and your family.

What is an Individual Retirement Account?

An Individual Retirement Account (IRA) is a personal tax sheltered retirement plan. It was developed to bring every American worker the opportunity to build a more secure future for themselves and for their family.

Who can establish an IRA?

IRA's are available to any wage-earner. The only requirement is that you not currently be a participant in an employer-sponsored plan.

Can my spouse establish one?

Your working spouse may establish a separate IRA, too, provided he or she is not currently a participant to an employer-sponsored plan.

How much can I contribute to my IRA?

Federal law allows a maximum annual contribution of $1,500 or 15% of wages, whichever is less. Of course, smaller amounts can be contributed each year.

Are my contributions tax deductible?

For Federal income tax purposes, contributions to an IRA are fully deductible for gross income up to the maximum allowed by law. You can deduct your contribution even through you don't itemize deductions.

made April 9, the new athletic director will begin his duties "as soon as possible."

Uselton explained that the athletic director must assume his position in Colorado City so that he can evaluate the staff and make decisions regarding the program.

Contracts for all Colorado High School coaches will be terminated at the end of the school year in May. According to board policy, when a new athletic director takes over, he may select his own coaching staff.

Uselton explained that the policy of the athletic director choosing his own staff is a common practice, especially in larger schools.

Mike Farda, CISD athletic director for the past five years, recently moved to Moore, Okla., to accept a similar position there.

Since Farda is the athletic director in Moore, he will have the opportunity to choose his coaching staff. Uselton noted that Farda is considering asking three coaches in the CISD system to transfer to Moore to be on his staff.

By selecting his own coaching staff, Uselton said that an athletic director may choose coaches with his same philosophies and methods. That way, more time may be spent working with the athletes and less time adjusting to the coaching staff.

Uselton noted that coaching contracts are for one year, so those employed in the CISD system would terminate in May, regardless of the fact that a new athletic director will be hired.

"Other areas of concern are water supply, water distribution and the airport. We should start developing an emergency water supply probably from wells and our town has a lot of

"There are several problems facing our airport situation now and I'll always be working for Colorado City to have a suitable airport. "I feel like I've learned a lot the past years on the council and that the people of Colorado City will benefit from my experience, especially in the areas of budget and how to check on a city manager.

"I derive a great deal of pleasure and satisfaction in working for our town and your vote and influence in the upcoming election will be appreciated."

J. O. Dockrey Jr.

Earlier, mention was made of personal property coverage. What is it?

This is variously referred to as "personal property," "unscheduled property," "household goods," or simply "contents." It means the possessions in your home, with very specific coverage limits on furs, jewelry, etc. These personal items are insured both in your home and when you travel, with limitations. Your home can be burglarized or your suitcase can be stolen at the airport. In either case, a home owners or tenants policy protects you and your family.

To determine the true value of personal property and to expedite payments of claims, you should make a complete inventory of personal property, including each item's cost and date of purchase. Color slides or photographs of the rooms and contents will also be helpful. Keep this inventory in a safe place along with other valuable documents. It will help validate your claim.

Laurey is shown well at a picnic in which she is auctioning off Laurey's basket of food. For a time it seems evident that Laurey will have to eat with a local bad guy named Jud Fry and Aunt Eller is heartsick at the prospect. In the end, though, things turn out well as they always do for all Aunt Eller's in the end.

Laurey is played by Diana Davenport who comes across as the "girl next door" type who you grew up with or you wish you had grown up with. She plays "hard to get," with Curley for awhile but it's all an act for she's in love with him and she knows he's crazy about her.

Mrs. Davenport does a fine job on two particular songs in the production, "Many A New Day," and "People Will Say We're In Love." The latter number is done with Curley.

Curley himself, the hero, is played by Chris Hubbard and he proves to be a mixture of about one half Roy Rogers and one half John Wayne.

The Roy Rogers part of Curley is terrifically handsome, has a great voice and is honest, loyal, truthful and all the rest. He has just one weakness—Laurey. The John Wayne part comes near the end when he learns that Laurey has been threatened and he turns T-O-U-G-H and goes to her defense.

Even Curley isn't perfect though and Hubbard does a good job in a scene which he almost convinces Jud Fry to do away with himself.

Jud Fry, the man in black, is portrayed by Bill Martin. Everyone else sees him as mean and no good but he sees himself as simply a poor misunderstood creature in need of a little love and understanding. Jud Fry's song "Lonely Room," is a real tearjerker.

Ado Annie Carnes, played by Quin Thornburg, is the type of girl who has a one track mind and that one track is M-E-N. She loves all of them. Unfortunately she can't decide which one she loves most, usually it's whichever man she happens to be with at the moment. Ado Annie tells all about this weakness with her performance of the song, "I Can't Say No."

Will Parker, played by Greg Chaney, is in love with Ado Annie.

Chaney and Mrs. Thornburg do a good job on their song, "All 'Er Nuthin'" in which they discuss their romantic problems.

One of the other men Ado Annie has her eye on is the smooth talking peddler Ali Hakim played by Mac McKinnon. He's a love 'em and leave 'em type guy temporarily relieved. You have a chance to spend an afternoon at the park, feeding the ducks or watching the kids play. You might venture to your favorite fishing spot and try your luck or whiz around the lake on water-skis.

For many, the agonizing chore of pulling weeds becomes a delight when accompanied by a spring day.

Excuses to be outside are masterpieces—a sudden urge to paint the house, wash the car or mow the lawn.

After this past winter with the ice and snow we experienced, I was especially excited when I woke up one morning and decided that spring had settled in.

Knowing that spring would quickly turn into a scorching hot summer, I decided it would be best not to waste a day in nursing my spring fever. I would pack a bag of bread, walk to the park and feed the ducks. Then I would drive to the lake and take off my shoes, roll up my jeans and wade in the water. After that, I would settle on the shore to bask in the sun.

As I busily prepared for my wonderful day in the spring, a wretched thought crossed my mind—it was Tuesday and I was supposed to work. Would this constitute sick leave?

After a rather brief telephone conversation with my boss, he convinced me that my "disease" was something everyone in the office had, so I need not be concerned about infecting anyone.

As I drove to work, sunbeams shooting through the windshield, I reasoned that it would be a comfort to be with others who suffered from spring fever—we could encourage each other. However, after thoroughly discussing with the office staff the beautiful weather and the fun we could have if we didn't have to stay in the office, I decided my spring fever was only getting worse.

I survived the first day and I'm certain I'll survive the weeks that follow before summer arrives. However, it won't be without an occasional stare out the window.

who has no intentions of ever getting married.

McKinnon comes across as a character so slick he could sell you the Brooklyn Bridge, throw in the Taj Mahal on the deal and be out of the country with your money before you realized what had happened.

Elaine Fugate plays Gertie Cummings, a giddy female type who is always and ever looking for someone to marry her. In the end she does get married but as to who it is...well, you'll have to see the play and find out for yourself.

There are a number of other characters in the play with mostly singing parts, all of whom do an outstanding job.

Possibly one of the high points of the production comes near the end of the first act when the stage goes dark and Laurey's dream sequence is flashed on a screen.

It was evident that a lot of time had gone into the preparation of "Oklahoma." There was a lot of behind the scenes work by the people who took care of the set design and construction and the costumes and makeup and all the other chores that the audience never sees or knows about.

"Oklahoma" was directed by Carl Berry Moore and George Womack and the entire production shows all the effort that they put into it.

The music was provided by Kent and Betty Holder and an orchestra made up of high school band members and though none of them had any lines, they were as important as anyone in the play since it figures that you can't have a musical without music.

If you haven't yet seen "Oklahoma," I hope you will consider the opinion of a non-expert on musicals and go see it. You will enjoy it even if you have a tin ear and wouldn't know a sharp from a flat if you saw one.

Final performances of "Oklahoma" will be Wednesday through Saturday at 8 p.m. Tickets are $3.50 per person and reservations may be made by calling "For me to make promises to the people of Colorado City or to say that I could simply turn our financial situation around would be a farce. I can say that I will be against any unnecessary spending and that if elected I would listen to your thoughts and react to them fairly.

otherwise I would like to see taxpayers receive an additional facility or service for their tax dollar instead of just an increased tax.

"Very careful planning and spending can keep us within our budget."

"Many citizens have a growing interest in the Webb Auxiliary Field as a replacement airfield for the Colorado City Airport, and a still larger number of citizens find the subject painful to see their tax dollars spent on a public facility they do not and may never use. Perhaps their pain is intensified by the existence of so many other facilities and services that the city needs to maintain and replace, that would include a greater number of citizens. (The street repairs that the severeness of our weather increases.) Water pipe replacement, cemetery beautification, the thousands of stickers that attack your children at the park, the ancient swimming pool, the museum, the fire department. Each with its own interest groups.

"I would like to see all these facilities and services replaced or maintained toward a higher standard."

"The Webb Auxiliary Field is a valuable hunk of real estate dangling in front of us. Its value is its potential as a revenue generator, otherwise it will take away more than it ever gives in return. Some $8,000 worth of asphalt has been poured in the cracks of the runway and taxiway to help preserve the surface. This doesn't include the thousands of dollars in labor used to complete the project. Will preserving the field ever bring us a return or will it be a constant liability?"

"I would need more than a vague promise that industry is interested before I would spend any more money on the airfield."

"Would people or industry pay for the use of an airport facility or would we as taxpayers be footing an expensive maintenance bill?"

"I realize that the cost of building such an airport as the Auxiliary Field is what makes this real estate so valuable, but I also see the value of our town increasing by constantly improving our standards of services and facilities there by raising our standard of living."

"I believe an attractive, well-cared for town will attract people and industry."

"Community growth is important whether it be through industry, population or attitudes. Growth is what will make our city part of tomorrow. Community growth is governed by public involvement. What do you want Colorado City to be in the future? Strong and progressive? This isn't accomplished through careless spending but through careful planning."

"Your council is there to serve you and serve you they should. You have to know the details in order to make a decision. Ask questions, read the records and study what is needed in money and judgement to run the city and cast your vote accordingly."

"I, Nancy Hamner, would like the privilege of serving you on the City Council."

Thank you,
Nancy Hamner

Chamber Of Commerce News

By LARRY WINDERS

Most students of biology are aware that if you put a frog in a pot of boiling water, it will immediately jump out unhurt. Instead, if you put the frog into a pot of cold water and then gradually bring the temperature to the boiling point, the frog will not be able to detect the danger and will be destroyed.

Men and women seem to react in much the same way as the frog when threatened with the loss of their freedom. Never, in history, has a government succeeded in gaining total control over a nation's economy all at once. Always, even in Communist nations, there has been a gradual eroding of liberties.

In the western democracies the process has been more subtle; the facade of the welfare state has benevolently masked the steady loss of individual freedom. Nevertheless, we are so far along the road to socialism that thoughtful people can no longer help but notice the danger.

The President of the United States, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board and the Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors have all publicly warned that if present trends continue we shall have a completely socialist economy with complete governmental control of the individual and property, in this country by the year 2000. Some very heavy evidence supports these warnings!

For example: In 1930 the amount spent by state, local and federal governments was about 10 per cent of personal income; by 1940 it was 20 per cent; by 1970 it was 36 per cent and today it is approximately 40 per cent. Four dollars out of every ten dollars you earn goes for some form of taxes. In 1950 one of every nine civilian employees worked for some agency of government and now that figure is one out of every six.

There is other alarming evidence besides the expanding size and cost of government; the assumption of power is even more ominous. Ten years ago who would have suspected that the government would soon have practically unlimited access to private business records, or that it would be sending inspectors with the power to levy fines to factory doors without a search warrant, or that it would dictate hiring policies to private employers. Unless Americans awake to the danger now, there is no way of predicting what the next decade will bring.

Let us not delude ourselves any longer with a false sense of security. Not only can socialism happen in this country, but it has been coming for a long time—almost imperceptibly at first, now openly with ever increasing speed.

Now is the time for action—before the trend becomes irreversible. There is a limit to the amount of restraint that a free economy and a free people can take before they cease to be free. By all indications we are rapidly approaching that point. There can be no question that unless Americans and American business make positive and strenuous efforts to resist encroachments of unneeded government regulations and federal power, we shall shortly reach the point of no return. So let us all realize the galloping threat of socialism while there is still time—or else share the fate of the unsuspecting frog.
