NEW ADDITION — This beautiful stained glass window is one of the many new additions at First United Methodist Church. An open house will be held in the near future for the general public to view the improvements at the church. Ruth Dunn of San Antonio was the artist responsible for this window which was donated by Dorothy Garrett.

Looting, arson and gunfire

Near riot breaks up fiesta

HOUSTON (AP) — Police patrolled a predominantly Mexican-American area on the near north side today after a fight broke up a fiesta celebration Sunday and led to a near-riot accompanied by looting, arson, and gunfire.

Twenty-two persons were arrested and about 15 others were injured, none seriously. One policeman received a broken leg and two television reporters were hospitalized with stab wounds.

While more than 100 policemen were at the scene, all other officers were kept on standby alert more than eight hours.

A police car and a television mobile unit were burned. In the early morning hours, two convenience stores were looted and a fire caused heavy damage to a bakery, variety store, and a laundry in a shopping center.

"It was the good guys and the bad guys," said KPRC-TV reporter Jack Cato, who was struck on the forehead with a brick and stabbed in the back. "One Latin American helped me get out and others were still throwing rocks at us."

The initial outbreak occurred as police sought to break up a fight that developed as about 1,500 persons were attending a fiesta celebration at Moody Park in a predominantly Mexican American community that has been upset since Joe Campos Torres, 23, a young karate expert, died a year ago while in police custody.

"A couple of people got into a fight and some people jumped in," said State Rep. Ben Reyes.

"When the police came, people reacted to their being there."

Four hours after the initial outbreak, police reported scattered looting, said one store was set ablaze, and that no one was injured as several shots were fired from an apartment building. Police in riot gear escorted firemen into the area.

An hour later, police reported the situation was under control.

Police answering the initial fight were pelted with rocks and bottles.

Reyes said there has been "a very volatile situation" in the Mexican American community ever since U.S. District Judge Ross N. Sterling gave probation sentences to three former policemen who were convicted on charges of violating the civil rights of Torres, whose body was recovered from a downtown bayou last May 8.

"It is very easy at this point to agitate," Reyes said. "People feel like they can't get any justice and they didn't get any justice. Folks have been very upset."

Reyes had no criticism for the police.

"I certainly don't believe the police department was in the wrong," he said. "It is my understanding they were trying to break up a disturbance and were victims of circumstances."

Rachel Lucas, one of the organizers of the fiesta, said several people had been circulating among the crowd talking about the Torres case.

"Someone grabbed a microphone and started screaming for justice for Joe Campos Torres," she said.

"These were all young people unknown to us. They were not our people. They were not fiesta people."

Reyes said it was his understanding four or five people ran around telling the crowd how they had been kicked around by police.

"The police didn't know that had been going on and it exploded on them," he said.

Handbills distributed among the crowd by the People United to Fight

Police Brutality organization were headed "Stop Police Terror."

"This has been a year of tremendous struggle against police terror," the handbills said.

Sam Boyajian, operator of a convenience store, said looters took an estimated $1,500 in cash and goods and caused $8,000 to $9,000 in damage.

"They were young Latin American boys and girls," he said. "They were crazy."

Mayor Jim McConn remained in the area several hours and said it had been a "very serious and very tense situation."

"But I want to commend the police department," he said. "I think they used fantastic restraint to keep the thing from getting into a much more serious confrontation."

McConn said he did not believe there had been any attempt to organize a showdown with police.

"I think it was one of those things that happens late in the day, maybe after too much drinking," McConn said.

Abstractors draw fire

Plan deliberate?

By BOB BURTON
Howard County Commissioners agreed this morning to inquire into the possibility of clearing delinquent uncollectable taxes from the county roll.

Jack Watkins appeared before the court, and asked that the $2,005.72 in delinquent taxes on uncollectable property be paid by the county in order to clear the record.

Watkins mentioned the recent city council meeting, where County Tax Assessor-Collector Zarah Bednar's office was criticized by several Big Spring abstractors on grounds of efficiency and competence.

"I think that incident was a deliberate sabotage," agreed Commissioner Bill Crooker. "They were just trying to blow that plan out of the saddle. Some of us have worked for years toward having joint collections. I think it is pathetic to have this happen."

Clayton rallies ample support

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Speaker Bill Clayton today released a list showing support from enough representatives and House candidates to guarantee him an unprecedented third consecutive term.

Stenholm is pace setter in 19 of 33 counties

In final totals Sunday, Charles Stenholm, Stamford farmer and businessman, was out front with a 1,214-vote lead over A.L. (Dusty) Rhodes, Abilene attorney and businessman.

The two candidates face a runoff for the 17th Congressional spot for the nomination by the Democratic Party. The winner will then face Bill Fisher, Abilene attorney who is the GOP nomination for the post.

Tax issue due discussion

The question of whether to combine Big Spring and Howard County tax offices may come up again at Tuesday's regular meeting of the city council, 9 a.m. in City Hall.

Council members and city officials were surprised at the last regular meeting when opposition was raised to what was thought to have been a routine consideration. The issue was then tabled until all involved could meet and gather more information.

It may be taken off the list of tabled items and again brought up for consideration at Tuesday's meeting.

Other items on the agenda are:

—Discussion of a Coronado Hills traffic problem.

—Consideration of an emergency reading of a resolution authorizing the city secretary to enter into contract with State National Bank.

—The first reading of an ordinance changing building permit fees.

—Consideration of a resolution authorizing Mayor Wade Choate to submit an application for funds for a Retired Senior Volunteers Program and a preapplication for Community Development funds.

—Consideration of awarding a bid on sanitation containers.

—Review of minutes of meetings of the Structural Standards Board, the Traffic Commission, the Tourist Development Council and the Big Spring Steering Committee.

—Consideration of claims for damages by Esther F. Hughes and the Sid Richardson Carbon Company.

Of the $2,005, according to Watkins, all but $600 would be returned to the county. The money is connected to 81 parcels, most located in section 32-1-N and section 33-1-N.

Watkins also pushed for more aggressive legal action in the $110,000 in delinquent taxes on real property. Most of that delinquency is in recent years, and should be cleared with the help of the county delinquent tax attorneys.

In other action, the commissioners accepted a proposal from Gene Minter of the Dr. Pepper Co. to install another drink machine on the first floor of the courthouse. They also discussed the cost of sealcoating with County Engineer Bill Mims.

In their afternoon session, the court will meet with Earl Dean, Howard

Briscoe concedes he took lumps

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe sent a four-word telegram to Attorney General John Hill today conceding he lost the Democratic race for governor.

"Congratulations and best wishes," said Briscoe's telegram that Hill read to a news conference.

"I appreciate that very much," Hill said simply.

County Tax Appraiser, to discuss his proposed budget for the coming year. Jack Watkins is also expected at the meeting.

Another controversial item inadvertently omitted from the agenda will be the appearance of District Attorney Rick Hamby. Hamby is before Martin County Commissioners this morning and will appear here this afternoon to request a Special Investigator for his office. Hamby has one assistant presently, Don Richard, but will reportedly request another staff member due to the expected pressure of the enactment of the speedy trial bill this summer.

Other items on the agenda include conferences with Robert Miller, Ben Bancroft, John Deats, and Peggy Crittenden.

The commissioners will also approve bids on Howard County Fair-barn repairs and purchase of a tractor and mower.

'Son of Sam' cops a plea

NEW YORK (AP) — David R. Berkowitz pleaded guilty today to gunning down 20-year-old Stacy Moskowitz last July 31 in the sixth and final murder attributed to the "Son of Sam" killer.

"It was wrong," the pudgy, 24-year-old former postal clerk from Yonkers told Judge Joseph R. Corso in Brooklyn Supreme Court as he entered the plea in the killing of Miss Moskowitz and wounding of her first-time date, Robert Violante.

It was not immediately known if he would follow through with his plan to plead guilty to the five other Son of Sam killings.

Berkowitz, dressed in a blue suit and white open-neck shirt, stood before Corso and answered a long series of questions designed to see if he understood the consequences of his plea.

"Do you know the penalty for first-degree murder?" Corso asked.

"Twenty-five years to life," Berkowitz answered in a clear, firm voice.

Seated at the front of the courtroom were judges and district attorneys from The Bronx and Queens, on hand to accept Berkowitz' pleas if he admits guilt in all the Son of Sam killings.

Justice Corso set sentencing for Berkowitz on the Moskowitz case for May 22 and declared a 15-minute recess before continuing with the unusual proceeding.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Picked up tab

Q. Who paid for Hershel Love's television rental fee when he was confined to the hospital here? Surely not the taxpayers. I've been in the hospital and I didn't ask for one because I didn't think I could afford it.

A. According to Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard, the $4.50 for the three days of TV were paid for by the prisoner. But the persons asking the question should brace themselves to see who ends up footing the $1,000 hospital bill. The TV also probably helped alleviate the boredom of the guard assigned to Love.

Calendar: Banquet

TUESDAY
Coahoma Booster Club Sports Banquet featuring Eddie Nicholson, the Armchair Philosopher, 6:45 p.m. at the high school.

Betty Newman will present her students in a piano recital at 7:30 p.m. at the Howard College Auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

All Spring Sports Banquet at Big Spring High School cafeteria, 7:30 p.m.

WEDNESDAY
Meeting of the Big Spring Women's Bowling Association, 6:30 p.m. at Alberto's Crystal Cafe to elect officers. Members invited.

Offbeat: Woman screams "Fowl!"

A woman who resides in the 1100 block of East 6th called police Saturday afternoon, screaming fowl.

She said there was a very mean rooster in her garage who would not allow her inside the garage to get her car out.

Police officers went to the scene and collared the rooster. He was turned over to the code enforcement division.

Tops on TV: Moore show

Best bets on television today are slim but Mary Tyler Moore at 6:30 p.m. on Channel 2 usually provides good entertainment. Lou Grant is at 9 p.m. on channel 7 and highlights an eccentric Superior Court judge tonight.

Inside: Machine shown

Betty Ford at home

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Former first lady Betty Ford spent a relaxing weekend at her desert home following her discharge from Long Beach Naval Hospital, a family spokesman said. Bob Barrett said Sunday that Mrs. Ford's treatment for alcoholism and drug addiction was "absolutely successful." He said she will not require continuing treatment. Mrs. Ford entered the hospital's alcoholism and drug addiction center April 11 after issuing a statement saying she was "overmedicating" herself. She has long suffered from arthritis and a pinched nerve in her neck.

Will begin therapy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hustler magazine owner Larry Flynt, paralyzed from the waist down from bullet wounds, may begin physical therapy in a week to 10 days, says his physician. Dr. Larry Carey, chairman of the Ohio State University Department of Surgery, said Flynt, 35, "is healing well and, nutritionally, he looks good." Flynt was shot March 6 in an ambush outside a Georgia courthouse where he faced trial on obscenity charges.

He remained in satisfactory condition Sunday in University Hospital, protected in his private, $106-a-day room by university police and Franklin County sheriff's deputies. Dr. Ernest Johnson, who will direct Flynt's rehabilitation program, said therapy will include whirlpool baths for exercise and electrical shock to stimulate leg muscles.

Picasso works back

NEW YORK (AP) — The Museum of Modern Art has asked the French government for permission to exhibit a number of paintings and other art works by the late Pablo Picasso. A museum spokesman said Sunday that the works are those which Picasso's heirs have agreed to turn over to the French government in lieu of estate taxes. Museum director Richard Oldenburg said the museum hoped it could exhibit the works before they go on permanent exhibit in a Picasso museum France plans to build.

Familiar face sought

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Daniel Ellsberg, the former Pentagon analyst, has returned with at least 20 other anti-nuclear protesters to the Rocky Flats nuclear weapons plant. Ellsberg and the group set up camp Sunday just outside the plant. Ellsberg and 27 others had been camped on the little-used railroad spur leading to the plant until Friday when they were arrested by sheriff's deputies. The group was booked on charges of criminal trespass and unlawful blockage of a passageway and released a few hours later. The protesters are urging an end to the production of nuclear weapons components at Rocky Flats.

Next likely candidate?

BOSTON (AP) — Joseph P. Kennedy III, the 25-year-old son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, has bought a new home in Boston's Brighton section. The light gray frame house is in the district of House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., but Kennedy laughed off suggestions he might want to be O'Neill's successor someday. Kennedy currently works in Washington for the U.S. Community Services Administration, but is frequently mentioned as the Kennedy family's next likely candidate for elective office.

Granny prefers hiking Rocking chair is out

CHELSEA, Mich. (AP) — Two years ago Mildred Smith got most of her exercise pushing a grocery cart around a supermarket. Today, the 75-year-old widow bowls, swims, plays tennis and works out at a gym. And that's just so she can stay in shape for her favorite sport — backpacking.

The retired schoolteacher just returned from a hike into the Grand Canyon, a trip that took her over a tortuous 40-mile track that began in the arid valley of the Colorado River. Mrs. Smith enlisted her teenage grandson and a few of his friends as trailmates for the seven-day trip. It was their second hike down the canyon. On last year's trip, however, they took the easy way by walking down a well-worn mule trail.

The second trip was rougher: "I wore hiking boots but they didn't have brakes on them. My toes jammed up in front and in time I lost all my toenails," said Mrs. Smith. "If the boys hadn't been so good I'd probably be sitting on a rock out there now," she said. "They helped carry my pack over the worst of it."

The youngsters took foam pads to cushion their sleeping bags. Mrs. Smith didn't need one.

For the record

The vote count in the county clerk's race in Mitchell County was accidentally reversed in Sunday's paper. Joan Beach was elected county clerk with 1,369 votes while Marie Basham tallied 605.

'It's a new ball game'

Commissioner candidates David Barr and Terry Hanson survived the voting debacle Saturday to enter a runoff for the commissioner precinct four slot. Both men expressed their feelings after the election, and said they were still straining at the bit for the next three weeks of campaigning.

"I appreciate the votes from my supporters but I have to admit that the results in my home box pleased me the most," said Barr, a Vincent resident. "Of the 41 votes cast, I got 41, and I take that to mean that the people who know me best think I am capable of doing the job."

"I want the chance to be one of the best commissioners who has ever served Howard County, but I've got to get there first. There's a lot of hard work ahead, and I'm going to work as hard as I know to get elected, and if I make it, I'll work just as hard at representing precinct four."

Terry Hanson said that the next month was a "brand-new ballgame" in terms of campaigning. "It's like starting all over, and I'm excited to be in the running."

"I was very pleased at the turnout and think that much of the high local voter turnout is due to the fact that we had Jim Baum in the Congressional race," Hanson said. "Whatever the reason, though, I'm thankful for the support I got, and very excited to be in the runoff. If elected, I'll do my best — that's all that anybody can promise."

MARKSMANSHIP WINNER

Capt. Sherrill Farmer won the individual division of the annual Police Revolver and Pistol Matches Saturday. He was also one of three men on the administration team which won the team award. The others were Capt. Jim McCain and Sgt. R.W. Howie.

Police beat

Reverse route traveled by officers in heist

City police recovered stolen goods Saturday night, arrested the burglar Sunday morning and then found out where the burglary was last of all. Although it was backward, it was apparently good police work. Officers involved chased a speeding auto on Saturday night. The man in the car apparently ditched it with the motor still running and took off on foot.

The patrolmen found two eight track tape players, turntables, record albums, tapes and a television and stereo speakers in the vehicle. Nobody had reported the items stolen. Police on Sunday morning arrested an illegal alien for suspicion Sunday morning, stopping him along with the border patrol for a possible illegal alien charge. The man also admitted the burglary and told officers where it had occurred.

They then learned that the person who had been robbed was out of town. With the help of friends police found out the burglary had occurred at the home of a man with the unusual name of Willy Willy Willy, 1215 Linburg. Some people refer to him as "Tres Willys". Sunday morning, Jerry Chaney of 601 N. 12th, reported that his 1976 Gran Marquis dark blue car with a white vinyl roof, had been stolen.

One man told police that he was assaulted inside the Lamplighter Club at 12:50 a.m. A & L Garage, 608 W. 4th, reported $1,000 worth of damage to the front of his building where somebody apparently tried to gain entry by driving a vehicle into the front door.

Lisa Borden, Sandra Gale Apartments, reported a stereo and turntable stolen at her apartment. Crystal Hughes reported somebody broke the window of her car while she was at work at Hall Bennett.

Minor accidents included one at 11:30 p.m. Sunday involving a vehicle driven by Jordon Valdronero, 506 Douglas and a parked vehicle belonging to Robert Head of Pueblo, Colo. An accident at 2400 S. Gregg at 11:38 p.m. involved vehicles driven by Rob McDonald, 611 Runnels and Jose Perales,

Hance, Bush to face each other in 19th

Kent Hance soundly defeated his Democratic opponent Morris Sheats to become the Democrat nominee for George Mahon's 19th District Congressional Seat.

The Republican race will be decided June 3 in a runoff between George Bush Jr. of Midland and Jim Reese of Odessa.

Hance jumped to an early lead over Sheats, pastor of Lubbock Trinity Church with 72.5 per cent of his home county. Sheats was victorious only in Midland, Martin and Andrews counties.

Bush's home county of Midland made him the leading vote getter with 47 per cent. Reese received 42 per cent and Joe Hickox collected 11 per cent. Reese won every county except Midland.

Hance, a state senator, said he "tried in every way to avoid personal conflict with our opponent and tried to run the cleanest campaign possible because of our respect for Morris Sheats and the work he has done as minister of Lubbock. His successful role in the community should in no way be handicapped by a political campaign."

TO BECOME TEACHER — Druanne Priddy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Priddy of 2515 Ann, has accepted a teaching position in the Corpus Christi school system. Druanne will receive her B.S. Degree in Elementary Education at Texas Tech in Lubbock May 12. She specialized in English. A 1974 graduate of Big Spring High School, she was named to the Dean's List at Tech four semesters.

A concept that works

Machine that scrubs air

By CARLA WALKER
"The concept isn't new, it's just happens to work," says Air-Guard co-inventor Rpd Budwine of the invention they feel could keep factories, mines and cotton gin emissions within the pollution control standard set by the Environmental Protection Agency.

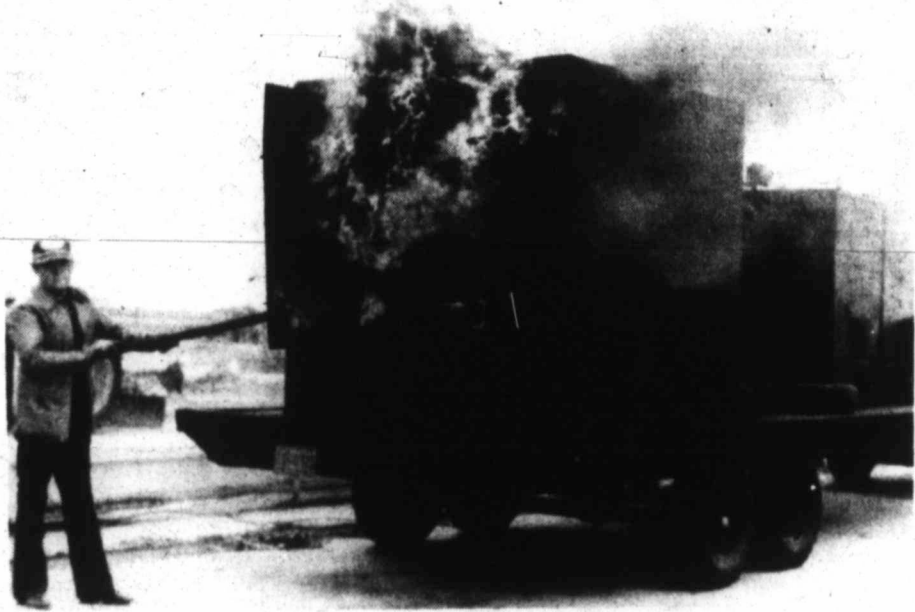

"The first unit that used water and air to scrub particles from the air was invented in 1978, but it worked no better than other pollution control devices marketed prior to ours," stated Budwine.

"Engineers and people who are knowledgeable in the field say that our device won't work—or can't—but we have the proof right on this trailer," said Joe Estes, the other half of the two-man team which designed and built the machine.

The two, along with Budwine's brother, Darrell Ballinger of Carlsbad, N.M., who is part of the company which will market the Air-Guard, were in the Big Spring area last week showing the invention to farmers and ginners and any others who were interested. They showed it in Stanton and at the Big Spring Co-Op Gin.

Some three or four years ago, local gins were forced by the EPA to stop burning cotton burrs, the waste portion of cotton bolls and stalks after the cotton lint is removed.

Since then, use of the burrs as a ground holder has become popular to some extent, since it keeps the topsoil from blowing away during the season between harvest in the late months of one year, and planting in April or May of the following year.

CO-INVENTOR JOE ESTES OPENS FURNACE DOOR
...flames, smoke hot and thick until door is closed

However, problems such as weed seeds in the burrs and other factors mean that much of the waste product has no economic value, and could be burned cheaper than hauling it by truck to a dump location.

In that case, the Air-Guard—which will soon be patented by its inventors, and the name become a registered trademark—would be of definite value to the gins, allowing them to remain within clean-air regulations and still burn the burrs.

"I began thinking about the idea five or six years ago, having worked in oilfields and seen first-hand the problems that industry has with economically obeying EPA regulations," said Budwine. "I met Joe (Estes) and we began to work on it."

"In principle, it works like a big Waring Blender. It takes the heavy particulates before they leave a smokestack or other pollution source, and blend them with water and air, emulsifying them so that they remain in the water rather than going out into the air," explained Budwine.

"It is just a water-air scrubbing unit that works sort of like a water shower. The water going through the pump here looks dirty because the particles from the smoke have been mixed with the water," Estes said, pointing to a clear bubble in the pump of the exhibition model.

The unit used to demonstrate the invention consists of a large furnace in which the inventors will burn rubber tires, gin trash, garbage or mine trash, with the Air-Guard being used to stop emission of smoke from the furnace. The entire unit is on a goose-neck trailer.

Estes and Budwine see possible uses of the unit in industry, garbage incineration, production of tires and plastics, ginning, sawmills, and the mining industry.

According to literature from the marketing company, B&B Resources, Inc. of Carlsbad, N.M. (owned by Budwine, Ballinger, and other investors in the project) Air-Guard could "handle airborne pollutants such as mists, fumes and smoke from incineration of garbage thus increasing the useful life of present landfills...provide low-cost incineration, emission-free operation at tire and plastic factories and aid in reclamation of carbon black." In addition, the pollution-eliminating machine has applications in low cost, odor free disposal of cotton hulls and by-products of the sawmill process and control of pollution resulting from mining operations.

"We can adapt the Air-Guard to existing equipment at a site," said Budwine. "Obviously, from looking at our furnace, we don't know a lot about building a furnace. But, the Air-Guard can be adapted to follow in the sequence after an existing furnace, and it is obvious from our demonstration that Air-Guard does work."

National Potash Co. in Carlsbad plans to install Air-Guard in their system and test it the first week of July.

"We are convinced that Air-Guard, which can be installed in one day by a two-man team and requires almost no maintenance, will prove itself capable of handling the problems of pollution from the potash mine as well as the other applications we have mentioned," said Ballinger. "We plan to officially market it by July, but anyone who wanted to buy one earlier could probably get it. It has already proved itself efficient, and the opportunities are endless. The market is right, with EPA standards like they are, and we are already getting a lot of attention."

The machine uses only water and electricity and, according to inventors and investors, does its job with a minimum of installation time, operating cost, and maintenance. If they are right—and the demonstration certainly backs up the claims—then the EPA may have less to gripe about, and the inventors and investors will have done society a favor and capitalized in a sizeable chunk of the American dream.

Two from area place in state

Two additional fourth places were picked up at the state University of Interscholastic League literary contests in Austin by students from this part of the state.

Denise Schwartz of Garden City placed fourth in the state in typing. Ernie Morgan of Forsan placed fourth in the state in slide rule.

Marka Highly of Forsan had not yet heard how she came out in headline writing since they left for home before the results were posted. Lance Johnson of Garden City was also a state finalist in shorthand.

Don Workman leads Short

Democrats in the state legislative district just north of Big Spring decided to put E. L. Short of Tahoka and Don Workman of Lubbock into a runoff. The victor will square off with Republican Joe Robbins in November.

Workman of Lubbock led the ticket with 16,990. Short had 10,770. Workman is a Texas Tech regent, a member of the Texas Tech medical board and a close friend of Dolph Briscoe. Short is a former state representative and a farmer.

Morris (Moe) Turner, a former Lubbock mayor, was only 361 votes behind Short for the runoff spot. Running fourth was Delwin Jones and Jesse George was fifth.

Livestock production has rebounded well

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Agriculture Department expert says the Soviet Union's 1978 grain production goal appears unrealistic but that livestock production has rebounded well.

Fletcher Pope Jr., project leader for Soviet agricultural situation and outlook, said Russia's cattle and poultry inventories were at a record high on Jan. 1 but that hog numbers had not regained their peak of three years ago prior to a 1975 drought.

goals probably can be met," Pope said in a report. "Meat production in 1978 is expected to easily exceed the 1975 record of 15 million (metric) tons, but may fall short of the 15.6 million ton goal in 1978."

The Soviet Union's grain target this year is 220 million tons, up from 195.5 million harvested in 1977.

Pope, as he has before, said the goal "seems to be optimistic unless favorable weather boosts yields" throughout the Soviet grain area.

Law favors foreigners

WASHINGTON (AP)—Critics of tax treaties with other countries say that foreign investors in U.S. farmland get such good breaks they often can afford to out-bid American farmers who want to expand their holdings.

An unpublished analysis by the Agriculture Department says that under certain conditions an investor from a country which has a tax treaty with the United States can legally dodge income withholding taxes. And it said that in some cases, the investor not have to pay taxes on capital gains on the value of his U.S. land investment.

"The implication is that the foreign investor would be willing to pay 12 to 15 percent more for farmland as a result of the capital gains exemption," the report said.

A basic assumption is that U.S. farmland has been appreciating in value and will continue to do so.

"For a large investor whose capital gains would place him in a 60 percent tax bracket for ordinary U.S. income and a 30 percent effective bracket on capital gains, the incentive would range from about 12 to 15 percent if he expects farmland to appreciate at the rate of eight percent a year," the report said.

How a foreign investor is treated depends partly on whether he "is determined for tax purposes to be engaged in the conduct of a U.S. trade or business or acting merely as a passive investor," it said.

If a foreigner buys U.S. farmland as an investment, not as a business, and is in the United States less than 183 days a year, no capital gains tax will be assessed by the federal government. But if the land is operated as business the capital gains tax would apply.

The analysis was prepared by the USDA's Economics, Statistics and Cooperative Service as an internal working paper. However, copies of the report have been circulated among certain members of Congress and others, including major farm groups.

Although tax treaty benefits can also apply to other countries, the analysis uses West Germany as an example.

It said the treaty "provides the opportunity for a German investor in real estate to produce higher after-tax rates or return than a U.S. investor faced with an identical pre-tax rate of return."

Further, a West German investor in U.S. farmland has options available which enable him to be free of capital gains taxes by his homeland.

"Therefore, the German investor often possesses the advantage of escaping from all capital gains taxes and does not relinquish the privilege of being treated identically with U.S. taxpayers in other respects," the report said.

Investors from countries which have no tax treaties with the United States also have options of using such shelters by going through third countries which do have such arrangements.

One example is the Netherlands Antilles "which has attracted considerable capital from other countries for the purpose of investing in U.S. real estate," the report said. The Netherlands Antilles comprise a group of islands in the Caribbean, including the popular resorts of Aruba and Curacao.

The Senate is expected to take up soon a new tax treaty with the United Kingdom which farm critics say will speed up the foreign investment in U.S. farmland and serve as a model for

Wheat estimate is due shortly

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new estimate of 1978 winter wheat production will be issued by the Agriculture Department this week.

The Crop Reporting Board is scheduled to include the estimate, based on May 1 field conditions, on Tuesday. Winter wheat, planted in the fall and harvested the following summer, makes up about three-fourths of the total U.S. wheat production.

Farmers reduced plantings sharply last fall under the pressure of sagging market prices, and USDA programs requiring them to set aside 20 percent of their crop land from production in order to qualify for federal price supports this year.

In its initial forecast last December, USDA said that 1978 winter wheat production could be about 1.32 billion bushels, down 13 percent from almost 1.53 billion bushels harvested in 1977.

similar treaties with other countries.

Reuben L. Johnson of the National Farmers Union says that the treaty, which was approved March 15 by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "contains a provision which would invite large-scale state income tax avoidance by foreign interests dealing in oil, grain, other commodities or investing in U.S. farmland."

Johnson recently testified before the Senate Commerce Committee that "one source has indicated that the foreign investment in U.S. farmland in 1977 alone may have been on the order of $800 million" and that the International Real Estate Institute in Brussels, Belgium, puts the total at $1 billion.

Further, Johnson said, "this may be just the tip of the iceberg."

We're not falling for any old Red story

Leave it to someone from a Soviet-bloc country to try and pretty up a reputation, just when we were ready to paint the man all black (or gory red, as the case may be).

Romanian President Nicolas Ceausescu, speaking before the National Press Club recently, was moved to remark that Dracula was no blood-emboding vampire who feared the dawn but rather a Romanian freedom-fighter.

The subject arose when he was asked what he thought about American tourists who have been descending upon his country to visit Count Dracula's storied castle in Transylvania, located in a mountainous area in central and northwest Romania.

The U.S. image of the mysterious count was shaped originally by British author Bram Stoker's 1897 novel about a creepy nobleman who turned into a bat at dusk, a vampire bat at that. He spent his time in the mid-watches of the night sucking blood from the necks of his sleeping victims.

Down through the years, our movie and television writers have improved on the story, introducing beautiful young damsels who, after being visited by the count, became blood-thirsty themselves, ready to forage all over Europe.

Now comes Ceausescu to say that Dracula was not a count but a commoner and was "a leader of the struggle of the Romanian people against the yoke of the Ottoman Empire."

"It is true that he was tough on our enemies and those who had committed treason," the Romanian president said, "but he was very kind and mild to the people and fought for their freedom."

All very well and good. We would be willing to settle for Mr. Ceausescu's story, except it wouldn't sell in Peoria. Americans like their eerie old legends and they're not falling for anything just because it might promote the Communist cause in Eastern Europe.

Keep those sharpened stakes around. Who knows? Count Dracula might be vacationing at Carlsbad Caverns one of these years.

Moro faces death

William F. Buckley, Jr.

It is harder, in the sweetness of one's own liberty and security, to urge nobility of action in others than to keep silent on the matter, but it must be said, the more urgently because the Pope, addressing himself repeatedly to the fate of Aldo Moro, has thus far failed to say it. Failed to say that Aldo Moro must prepare himself to die like a Christian, even as he sought to live as a Christian.

Mr. Moro has been permitted by his bloody kidnapers to write regularly to officials of the Italian government. Over and over again, Moro reassures the addressee that he writes what is on his own mind, free of duress, of drugs, or coercion of any kind. "I am saying these things in full lucidity and without coercion on my person," were the exact words used to Benigno Zaccagnini, political secretary of the Christian Democratic Party. What Moro is urging on the government of Italy is that it understand the situation as it would understand a situation at time of war. He asks for "the exchange of some prisoners of war...as it is being practiced where warfare takes place, and as is being practiced in highly civilized countries...Why another standard in Italy?"

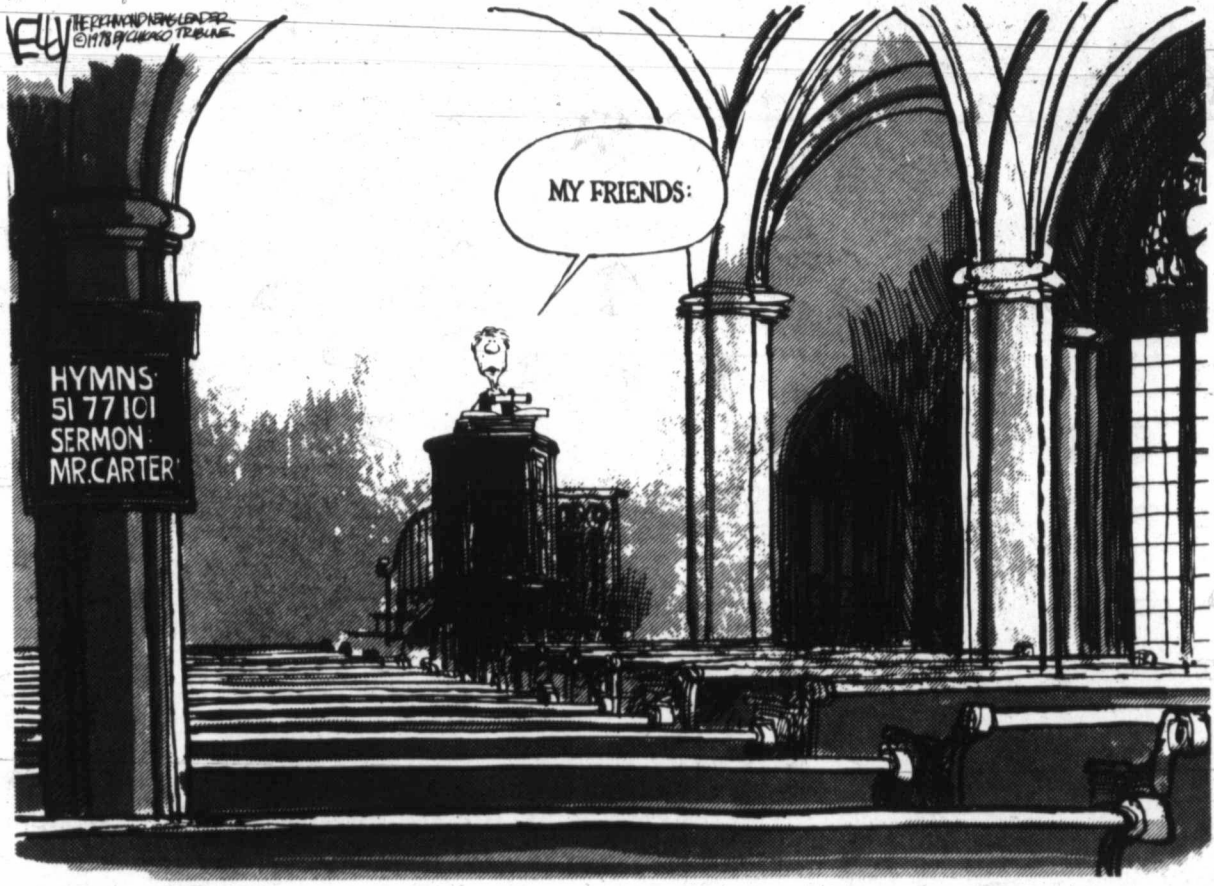

AND MR. MORO nowhere suggests that he will suffer contradictory analysis. Indeed, he is not merely un-Christian but anti-Christian in his bitterness. "I will not absolve and justify anybody. No political or moral reason can induce me to do so." And, again to Mr. Zaccagnini, he takes his morbidity the full measure. "I request that neither the authorities of the state nor the men of the party attend my funeral." Is he seized by an all-encompassing bitterness? Apparently not, as on April 28, addressing the entire Christian Democratic Party leadership, he wrote, "I die—if that's what my party decides—in the fullness of my Christian faith and in the immense love of an exemplary family that I worship and over whom I hope to watch from high in heaven." He is prepared to die because there is no alternative, but he is not prepared to forgive those who permit him to die, out of a dogmatic refusal to engage in "a serious and balanced negotiation for the exchange of political prisoners."

There are two possibilities. One is that Aldo Moro, notwithstanding his representations, is in fact under the influence of drugs, or perhaps that he is being tortured to write what he writes. But serious analysts, men familiar with Moro, with his style of writing, even with his handwriting, are saying that by all the external evidence, he is indeed writing what is on his mind.

Aldo Moro must know, as everyone knows, that Italy is not engaged in a conventional war in which Moro is merely one prisoner of war, and the 13 terrorists being tried in Turin are other prisoners of war. The situation is entirely different, as students of elementary political relations, let alone leaders of the Christian Democratic Party, instantly recognize. Aldo Moro is as much a prisoner of war as Patty Hearst was.

POPE PAUL does will to appeal to the better nature of the Red Brigades. He is committed to the divine proposition that there is a better side to every man's nature, even—we must for reasons of doctrine assume—a better side in the nature of men who killed five other men in cold blood in order to effect the kidnapping of Aldo Moro. But the Pope also recognizes that although it is one's duty to forgive, it is also one's duty to recognize one's duty to attempt—to the extent the flesh is willing—to die like a Christian. The other possibility is that Moro is as he insists he is—capable of lucid thought.

The duty of the Italian government is not to loose on an innocent people 13 men committed to a career of killing and mutilating fellow Italians. The complementary duty of Aldo Moro is to understand the reasoning of statesmanship and attempt to abide stoically by it.

There are many theories

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Only recently I discovered my 25-year-old son is a homosexual. What causes a young man to turn to this way of life? Can you shed any helpful light on the subject? —Mrs. H. V.

There are many theories. A common one involves environment in the home. For what it's worth, this theory states that the mother is over-protective and over-indulgent, while the father may be a brusque character who terrifies his son with demands on the youngster's masculinity. The child, unable to cope, turns more and more to the mother for understanding and protection. The male self-image recedes.

Another theory involves an interruption in the process of sensing gender. The child begins to sense this at about three or four years. There is a phase in growing up during which homosexual relationships of a non-sexual nature are the norm. In pre-puberty or early puberty boys associate with boys and girls stick together, neither having much to do with the opposite sexes. This theory of adult homosexuality suggests that the youngster's attitude toward sex becomes fixed or arrested at this stage.

There may be homosexual acts in these years that appeal to the youngster and come to be regarded by him as the norm. Actual seduction of a child is not regarded as a common cause, however.

If a child is seen to have homosexual tendencies, efforts to correct it can be made. Such signs include the tendency to be a loner, to avoid socializing with the opposite sex, and stunting activities considered usual for age and sex.

I'm asked by some parents about transvestitism—a desire to wear clothes of the opposite sex. This can be normal in young children, but if it persists past a certain age, suspicion should be aroused.

Figures I've seen indicate that 30 to 50 per cent of young homosexuals can be converted by psychotherapy. Treatment is usually not effective past adolescence. Some homosexuals may be actually bisexual, consort with both sexes, marry and become parents.

This subject is charged with great emotion, especially and understandably, in homosexual circles. So one always runs a risk when discussing it clinically of appearing to be on the side of condemnation. It is estimated that there are between two million and six million homosexuals in this country, and they are found in all walks of life. Many do tend to be neurotic, yet most have contributed greatly to society in all professions.

In any event, once an individual is recognized as a homosexual or admits to these learnings, he or she should not be condemned or rejected.

I have been asked my "views" on this subject with some frequency in recent years. "Views" is not the precise word. These are my observations, or what I consider pertinent observations of experts in the field.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am going to college soon and need a pair of comfortable shoes because I know I'll be doing a lot of walking. When I went shopping the saleslady recommended shoes that are constructed so that the heels are lower than the rest of the foot. She said they were very comfortable and were supposed to be good for one's back. Later I heard a doctor on television say they could cause back problems. What is your opinion? —P. L.

Take the advice of the doctor you saw on television. The shoes you describe might be comfortable for lounging in a chair, but not for walking.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to go to my doctor and talk this over with him, but I am too embarrassed. I turn to you, hoping you can help me out.

I'm a 17-year-old girl, and am very small on top (29 in my measurement). But what worries me is that about two or three months ago I was 31, and it seems like I'm shrinking. My mother doesn't know why. Could you tell me what you think of this situation? I want to know before it's too late to do something. —Worried.

Is it possible your first measurement was made at the time of menstruation or just before it, when the breasts normally enlarge? Confine your measuring to mid-cycle and see if you are not "holding steady."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have very severe menstrual cramps just before my period begins. What is the usual cause of this and is it serious? I can stand the cramps, but it is the worrying about them that really bothers me. —Mrs. O. T.

There are several possible causes for cramps before and during menstruation.

These include: congestion of the pelvic structures, fibroid tumor, endometriosis, and others. A pelvic examination would tell much and put your mind at ease or provide appropriate treatment.

More exercise and salt restriction a week before your period may lessen any congestion. Worry can add to any spasm problem you may be having, and it won't, as you already know, help correct matters.

There's an old saying—if your feet hurt, you hurt all over. Dr. Thosteson's new booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get your copy, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Is there a difference between head knowledge about God and heart knowledge about God? —H. M.

DEAR H. M.: Yes, I believe there is a difference, and that it is possible for us to know about God and yet not really know Him in a personal relationship. I have known a few clergymen—even theologians—who knew a great deal about God but who did not know God. When Jesus talked with Nicodemus (John 3:1-21), He was talking with one of the greatest theologians of the time. Nicodemus was skilled in the law of the Old Testament, and was apparently even a teacher of theology. And yet Jesus told him directly that he needed to be born again. Nicodemus had a head knowledge of God, but he had never really given his life to God by faith and entered into a personal relationship with God.

Think of this on the human level. I may know a great deal about someone—his background, physical characteristics, preferences, etc.; but I only know ABOUT that person. I cannot say I know him personally until we are introduced and become well acquainted. Only then can I say that we really have a personal relationship.

It is the same way with God. That does not mean it is not important to learn all we can about God through the Bible. But we need to act on that knowledge by giving our lives to Jesus Christ and trusting Him by faith. When we do that, we come into a new relationship with God. "We also rejoice in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom we have now received reconciliation" (Romans 5:11, New International Version).

Remember too that we are called above all to love God and serve Him. You cannot love someone who is simply an abstract idea. As we come to Christ, we realize how much He loves us, and we realize what a joy it is to be a child of God by faith in Christ.

If you do not know God in a personal way, I invite you to give your life to Him by faith. He loves you, and more than anything, He wants to enter into a deep and personal relationship with you.

End this bias

Around the rim

Carla Waiker

Yellow car owners arise!! It is time to make ourselves heard and end discrimination.

Talks with Herald employees driving yellow cars has confirmed my suspicions. In fact, it was sportsman Danny Reagan who first brought the situation to my attention.

It all started in January, when I was considering buying a yellow Toyota. Reagan warned me that I might be making trouble for myself, but I scoffed and went ahead and bought the car.

NOW, FEB. 1, 1978 will be a day I will always remember. The day I bought myself into the chains of discrimination. If only I had known that Reagan spoke from experience, after owning a yellow Triumph.

Too late, I learned that Reagan wasn't exaggerating. Family news writer Eileen McGuire says she, driving her yellow Chevy, is plagued in the same manner. However, since I acquired a yellow car—something brighter in color than hers—she reports fewer problems than before. The only possible conclusion to be drawn from this fact is that there is a direct correlation between how bright the car is, to how severe the discrimination.

Herald photographer Danny Valdes agrees with our conclusion. He says that he doesn't think he can take the discrimination much longer, and that when he buys a car to replace his yellow Volkswagen, it will be purple or pink or any color except yellow.

Why am I suddenly so angry, when the situation has been going on for so long?

I guess it is simply that I have tolerated the situation as long as I can. I don't know what to do about it, but something has to be done.

IT'S THE BIRDS. Don't laugh, I'm perfectly serious!!! No matter how often I wash my car, I find that every time I park in an open spot, it is bombed by passing birds.

Neither Walt Finley (who drives a rust-colored car) Marj Carpenter (who drives a green car) nor Tommy Hart (who drives a blue car) report more than occasional evidence that birds have passed over their cars. In fact, their response to my question was "no problem whatsoever."

Yet my car is targeted at least once every two to four days, and last week, I reached my wits end. Friday, still wrinkled from water exposure while washing my car Thursday at 7 p.m., I exited the Herald at noon to go to lunch. Upon reaching my car, I found that not one, or two, but three birds had taken accurate aim at my car sometime during the morning.

It has gotten to the point that I am paranoid about getting in or out of my car. Even if their aim is accurate and hits the car, the fallout from such a bomb might not be too pleasant. If cars of every color were targeted, it wouldn't be so bad. But, when the evidence points this strongly to discriminatory practices on the part of these foul flying fowl, I cannot let it pass unnoticed. Rise to arms, yellow car owners!! Hoses and wash rags ready, umbrellas open, let us fight for our rights to own clean cars.

Airbus looms

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — In the months ahead, a squat, new passenger plane called the Airbus could become as controversial as the sleek Concorde SST, but for reasons affecting employment rather than the environment.

The Airbus has been produced by the combined factories of France and West Germany, with each government contributing about $1.6 billion in subsidies.

Of course, American aircraft manufacturers don't get this kind of government assistance. The famous 747 and DC-10 airliners, for example, haven't yet reached the break-even point. If they don't make money, the stockholders will be left holding the bag.

ONE OF THE most enthusiastic boosters of the Airbus is Eastern Airlines, which plans to spend $1.7 billion on 23 of the wide-bodied planes, with options to purchase another 34. By all reports, the Airbus is a fine plane and would improve Eastern's service.

But the purchase of planes from Europe will hurt America's own aircraft manufacturing industry and will cost jobs. Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich, therefore, is outraged over the sale. He has asked the House trade subcommittee to hold hearings on the controversy, and Chairman Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, has agreed.

In a private letter, Vander Jagt complained: "This purchase would be from Airbus Industrie, (CQ) a consortium of five European firms, headquartered in France. If the Eastern sale is consummated, other U.S. airlines have already indicated they will also buy the (Airbus)."

"It doesn't take much imagination to visualize the tremendous adverse impact such billion-dollar sales would have on thousands of American airline manufacturing workers."

Eastern President Frank Borman told our associate Marc Smolonsky that he totally disagreed with the Airbus detractors. He said the aircraft actually was composed of 40 percent U.S. parts and would not cost American jobs.

HOW SWEET IT IS: In past columns, we have reported on the backstage battle over the right to assail small children with television commercials. Many of these commercials try to induce youngsters to eat sugared cereals and candy.

The Federal Trade Commission charges that the hucksters spend $600 million a year to manipulate children, who don't understand the purpose of the advertising and aren't equipped to resist its sophisticated appeal. Nor do they realize that excessive sugar consumption leads to tooth decay, heart disease and obesity. The commission suggests, therefore, that children's commercials may constitute unfair advertising.

Here's another dispatch on how the battle is going. Kellogg's has paid lip service to the commission's inquiry but has quietly dispatched its chief lobbyist, Jim Riddell, to sabotage the inquiry on Capitol Hill. Kellogg's, of course, makes such cereals as Frosted Flakes, which is 47 percent sugar, and Sugar Smacks, which is 64 percent sugar.

Riddell has now convinced key members of a House appropriations subcommittee to forbid the commission from carrying out the crackdown on children's advertising. For example, Rep. Elford Cederberg, R-Mich., who represents Kellogg's home state, thinks the commission is overstepping its bounds. And Rep. Mark Andrews, R-N.D., whose district produces wheat, oats and sugar, says the commission is grandstanding.

Dear Abby

Phone Sales Annoy Potential Customers

DEAR ABBY: I just got interrupted for about the 200th time by some lazy salesman who insists on calling me to the telephone to give me a sales pitch. I must answer my phone because it could be an important call, but I get furious when these pests who are trying to sell me something start in.

I have finally figured out a way to beat this system, and you can help by organizing a nationwide program of attack. Tell your readers that when they get these calls (especially long distance), to say hello, and the minute the pitch starts, to lay down the telephone and let the person talk. When they discover that no one is listening and they have to pay for a long distance call, the method will be too expensive to continue. If you just hang up, it saves them time and money, and they go on to their next victim.

BENNETTSVILLE, S.C.

DEAR S.C.: I agree, telephone solicitation is an intrusion, and I have yet to meet anyone who appreciates such calls. More often than not, people are disturbed, inconvenienced and annoyed, which tends to antagonize them and turn them off whatever is being advertised. However, a better method of discouraging such calls is to politely tell the telephone salesman that because you have been inconvenienced, you will NOT buy his product or service.

DEAR ABBY: After 14 years of marriage and two children, I found out that my husband had a girlfriend. She was a young divorcee, and nothing special by anybody's standards. He admitted that he had been seeing her for two years. Abby, we had a good marriage and a very active sex life, so that wasn't it.

I divorced him, loving and hating him at the same time. He has been a free man for six months now and he hasn't married the other woman. What's stopping him?

My question: Why would a married man fool around and risk losing a wife who loved him, and children who idolized him, and then not jump at the chance to marry the woman who caused it all?

PALM SPRINGS, CALIF.

DEAR SPRINGS: Because some married people are fascinated with "playing house" on the side. They enjoy dreaming, fantasizing, and verbalizing with a lover, secure in the knowledge that nothing can materialize because change, and they realize that the fantasies can become a reality, the "dream" suddenly loses its appeal.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old male college student who has recently accepted the fact that I am a homosexual. Heretofore, I had tried to convince myself that I was bisexual, but I'm realizing that I was wrong.

I never "chose" to be a homosexual. It's just what I happened to be. I was raised with (and found appealing) the idea of marrying, raising a family and living a normal life. Believe me, Abby, I wanted that more than anything. I doubt if "straight" people know of the heartache felt by those homosexuals who truly want but never can achieve this lifestyle.

Why anyone would "choose" to be gay is beyond me. I have been attracted to males ever since fifth grade, and nowhere in my sexual development do I recall "choosing" to like men instead of women. It was just a spontaneous, uncontrollable inclination I had. I wasn't "taught," I wasn't "molested," I've always felt this way. I have two older brothers who had the same parents and same environment, and they are "straight."

In no way do I blame myself for this. I had no control over it. Mine is a life of shame, loneliness, depression and frustration, and believe me, Abby, I did not choose it.

ACCIDENTALLY GAY

DEAR GAY: I believe you, and I know that you speak for many, but you need not continue in a life of loneliness, depression and frustration. Homosexual counseling is available, and I recommend it. You desperately need to accept yourself and respect yourself. And you are as entitled to happiness and a full life as any other human being. God bless.

President Hill urges support

Planters Garden Club met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Paul Guy, who acted as hostess.

Mrs. Cass Hill, president, was in charge of the business meeting.

Each member answered roll call by naming a plant on the State Conservation List, and Mrs. Guy reported from the garden council meeting and the flower show held recently.

Mrs. C.Y. Clinkscales described a place setting for four which she entered in the flower show and won a first-prize ribbon.

Mrs. A.C. Moore explained her display of African violets and soil in the Artistic Division of the show, and Mrs. Hill encouraged members to express their support for the Alaska National Interest Lands Conservation Act HR39 by writing to their representative in Congress.

Members were urged to continue their support of the American Land Trust and the Nature's Conservancy.

A program on flower arrangement using "Woodland Capers" as her subject was given by Mrs. Clinkscales, and she also prepared an arrangement.

Mrs. Moore installed officers for 1978-80. They are Mrs. Guy, president; Mrs. Clinkscales, first vice president; Mrs. Luke Forlenberry, secretary; and Mrs. Hill, treasurer.

Aurora Etheridge and Mrs. Willard Smith were guests at the meeting, and Mrs. Etheridge joined the club.

The next meeting will be June 7.

Does to go to Las Vegas

Big Spring Drove No. 61 of the Benevolent, Patriotic Order of Does met at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Elks Lodge Hall with Shirley Bodin presiding.

Karen Mason gave a report on the quarterly luncheon for the Volunteer Service Council at Big Spring State Hospital which took place Apr. 20.

Kay Williams reported visits to sick members Bertha Clay, Myrtle Smith and Alma George. These members are improving after recent illnesses.

A thank-you card was received from the V.A. Hospital for coffee and doughnuts which were served Apr. 17.

Financial plans were in the making for Mrs. Bodin and Mrs. Mason, who has been treasurer five years, to attend in Grand Lodge Convention in Las Vegas, Nev., June 11-16.

The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. May 16 in the hall.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There is likely to be a mysterious situation you are confronted with today, so make a point to examine all facts and figures in all your business dealings. Be alert to all activities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have an important idea which needs more study and clarification before it can work successfully for you. Relax at home tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A financial expert can give you money-saving advice if you contact this person early in the day. Don't neglect an important bill.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take steps to improve your appearance so that you make a fine impression on others and gain your aims more easily.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have fine creative ideas now and you should put them in operation without delay. Take no chances with the law.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Know what it is that associates expect of you and then do your best to please them. Show more devotion to the one you love.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Confer with a higher-up who can help you make the most of your abilities. Study all angles of a new project you have in mind.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make arrangements for a trip you have long wanted to take and which can bring excellent results. Put your affairs in fine order.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Discuss a controversial money matter quietly with an associate and reason will win out. Show others you have poise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study a civic matter well so that you fully understand it. Avoid an opponent who could give you trouble.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show others that you can do your work in an exact manner while under pressure. Take treatments to improve your health.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make plans to engage in activities today that will give you the most pleasure and satisfaction. Strive for increased happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Try to make conditions at home more pleasant. Study personal aims that are vital to your happiness and go after them sensibly.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very good at selling ideas or products, so be sure you plan now for an adequate education so that your progeny can reach the pinnacle of success that is in this chart. Teach to be courteous to others.

WATCHING THE WINNER — Republican gubernatorial candidate Ray Hutchison (L) watches his opponent, Bill Clements, speak to a crowd of supporters gathered in a Dallas hotel Saturday after winning the primary election. Hutchison, who conceded the election after the vote margin widened to 3-1, pledged his support to Clements in the general election where Clements will meet either incumbent Texas Governor Dolph Briscoe or attorney general John Hill. Clement's wife Rita is standing to the left of her husband.

Number of candidates unprecedented

Dale Milford defeated

DALLAS (AP) — Incumbent Dale Milford found himself on the losing end of vote Saturday in one of the congressional races that attracted an unprecedented number of candidates.

Milford, the three-term favorite, was beaten by Dallas attorney Martin Frost for the 24th District seat. With two counties reporting and one complete late Sunday night, Frost had 55.63 percent of the vote. Milford managed 44.37 percent.

Milford's defeat marked the first for an incumbent congressman since 1954 when U.S. House majority leader Jim Wright won his first race.

Most of the congressional races featured an abundance of new faces. The primaries proved to be a culling process in six districts that took the spotlight because they affect the loss of Texas power and prestige next January due to retirements.

In South Texas with 10 of 11 counties reporting and 9 complete, Rep. John Young trailed state Rep. Joe Wyatt in the 14th District with a runoff a certainty because of votes picked up by Jason Luby. Wyatt had 41.49 percent of the vote compared to Young's 38.22 percent. Luby managed 20.29 percent.

While some races were concluded by decisive margins, the Big Six that attracted a raft of candidates remained largely up in the air.

The retirees were Reps. George Mahon, dean of the delegation; W.R. "Bob" Poage; Omar Burleson and Olin "Tiger" Teague, a war hero whose health prompted him to withdraw from his safe and secure 6th District.

All but Mahon's 19th District were seen to be Democratic tussles. In the 19th with 17 of 17 counties reporting and 13 complete, Kent Hance was an easy Democratic winner over evangelist Morris Sheats, who said God wanted him in Congress. Hance received a whopping 64.16 percent. Sheats got 35.84 percent. On the GOP side, a runoff appeared likely between George W. Bush and Jim Reese. Bush had received 48.70 percent to Reese's 41.09.

Burleson's 17th District found Charles Stenholm and A.L. Rhodes in a tight race that promised a runoff for the Democratic nomination. With 33 of 333 counties reporting, 30 complete, Stenholm received 35.81 percent of the vote. Rhodes garnered 33.85 percent in the seven-person field.

The duel for Teague's domain bordered on being a classic, with Teague backing Chet Edwards. With all 11 counties reporting, 8 complete, Edwards and Phil Gramm, co-favorites in the race, appeared destined for a runoff. Gramm had 28.27 percent of the ballots and Edwards, 28.56 percent.

Poage's 11th District seemed up for grabs between former state legislator Lane Denton and banker Marvin Leath. With all 19 counties reporting and 17 complete, Denton had 38.42 percent and Leath had 30.96 percent.

Bob Krueger's former territory in the 21st District was another place where prognosticators were on the money. They favored newcomer Nelson Wolff, and Wolff outdistanced the field. But Hondo Mayor Woodrow Glasscock pulled enough votes to make a runoff likely.

With all 32 counties reporting and 27 complete, Wolff received 50.55 percent to Glasscock's 30.33 percent.

State Rep. Mickey Leland had 48.15 per cent of the vote in Miss Jordan's 18th District with the only county reporting incomplete. However, but a big field and a slow count also threw that race into the less-than-positive category. State Rep. Anthony Hall was in second with 21.94 percent.

most attention, others had aspects that made them less than routine.

And in the Houston-Galveston area District 22, incumbent Bob Gammage worked his way through Democratic challengers toward another face-off with Republican Ron Paul, who waited it out without opposition. Gammage claimed a convincing 59.18 percent of the vote with three of four counties reporting and one complete.

Rep. Jack Brooks won his primary battle and took another step toward becoming the Democratic dean of the Texas delegation in District 9. With all four counties reporting, two complete, Brooks received 69.37 percent of the votes. Other Democratic winners were incumbent Ray Roberts in the 4th District with 64.81 percent of the votes, 10 of 11 reporting and six complete; incumbent Richard White in District 16, with eight of 10 counties reporting and eight complete, 79.46 percent, and incumbent Abraham Kazen in the 23rd District, 82.30 percent with 17 of 19 counties reporting and 12 complete.

Republican winners were Wes Mowery in District 6, 87.74 percent; Nick Gearhart in District 8, 70.40 percent; Leo Berman in District 24, 83.11 percent; and Tom Loeffler in District 21, 59.28 percent.

Runoff is assured in Appeals race

Abilene voted heavily for Daniel while the rest of the district voted for Dickenson.

Attorney Joanne Strauss was eliminated in the 11th Abilene race, receiving 2,474 votes.

Dickenson's biggest lead was in Big Spring and Howard County, where he stacked up a 1,200 vote lead 2,629 to 1,401.

Other counties which he led were Brown, Dawson, Erath, Knox, Mitchell, Nolan, Scurry, Stephens and Throckmorton.

Dickenson won Big Spring on four occasions. Judge Daniel did not campaign in Howard County.

There won't be a runoff Promises pay off for Hill

John Hill — Texas attorney general who took his campaign for vigorous government straight to the people — was assured today of victory in the Democratic primary over two-term incumbent Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

"I've been trying this case for 10 years," Hill said, smiling during late vote counting early Sunday.

Votes continued to trickle in today at the Texas Election Bureau but officials said there was no question that Hill had grabbed the Democratic nomination without a runoff.

Voters in the Republican primary nominated Bill Clements over Ray Hutchison and both parties defeated the non-binding pari-mutuel referendum.

The Democratic race for the right to meet U.S. Sen. John Tower in November was won by U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, who led former Texas insurance commissioner Joe Christie all night. Tower was unopposed in the Republican primary.

Incomplete race tallies Sunday included reports from 246 of 254 counties with 198 complete.

Krueger received 55.01 percent with 44.99 percent going to Christie.

Hill, 54, narrowly escaped a runoff, gathering 51.26 percent of the vote in the five-man race, according to returns Sunday. Briscoe was at 41.66 percent. Texas Election Bureau officials said the few remaining votes still uncounted would have no effect on the race other than to simply increase Hill's margin of victory.

Latest figures showed Hill with 824,845 votes; Briscoe, 670,424; and Smith 83,895.

Clements, a wealthy Dallas businessman and former deputy defense secretary under Presidents Nixon and Ford, had no trouble defeating Dallas lawyer Ray Hutchison, a former state GOP chairman. The oilman garnered an even 73 percent of the ballots to Hutchison's 24.28 percent. A third candidate, Clarence Thompson of Fort Worth, took the remaining 2.71 percent without campaigning.

Former Texas Gov. Preston Smith, who had been considered by many to be a contender for the race to force Hill and Briscoe into a runoff, finished a poor third with 5.22 percent. Smith was beaten by Briscoe six years ago.

Donald Beagle, a Nederland welding shop owner, and Ray Mayo, an author-publisher from San Juan in the Rio Grande Valley, received mostly local votes and were not factors in the statewide race. Beagle received 81 percent and Mayo, 1.05.

GAS COOKING... OUTDOORS!

Gas cooking outdoors sure makes sense in the summertime. It keeps the heat out, so your house stays cool. You save on air conditioning. Plus there's no charcoal or lighter fluid to buy, and no wait. Gas reaches cooking temperature fast and cooks full family dinners, everything your inside range and oven can cook, with that great outdoor flavor.

Take the heat out of the kitchen. Install a gas grill on the patio. It sure makes sense in the summertime, or anytime!

Charmglow 2000

Roses for 'Imp'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Call him Wonderboy. Dub him Sir Miracle, Little Mr. Cool, The Incredible Imp.

Damn the clichés — full speed ahead! He merits them all, and more!

The Kentucky Derby is a race to glorify thoroughbred horses, but it remained for an 18-year-old slip of a kid named Steve Cauten to capture everyone's imagination in Saturday's annual spectacle at Churchill Downs.

It was Louis Wolfson's chestnut colt, Affirmed, who got the garland of roses draped around his neck. But who among us doesn't believe a similar bouquet should have been draped over the pink silks of the tiny blacksmith's son from Walton, Ky.

"That boy is unbelievable," commented Robert Baird, 57-year-old veteran rider whose Raymond Earl finished some 30 lengths behind the 1978 Derby champion. "This was his first Derby. No telling how many more he will win."

"Super," added Eddie Maple, one of racing's finest jockeys, aboard third-place finisher Believe It. "He's as good as any jockey I have ever seen."

The highly regarded Jorge Velasquez, who couldn't get high-rated Alydar any closer than a length and a half from Cauten's speeding mount, complained: "The track was so hard, my horse never got going until the last eighth of a mile."

Asked for comment on Cauten's ride, the copper-skinned Panamanian said sharply, "I refuse to talk about jockeys."

Bitterness and disappointment flowed deep at Kentucky's Calumet Farm, which sent Alydar to the post as an even-money favorite in a bid for a ninth Derby champion — the first in 10 years — and a chance to revive the glories of the stable founded by the late baking powder tycoon, Warren Wright.

The race only accentuated the rivalry existing between these two mighty 3-year-olds — Florida-bred Affirmed and Kentucky-bred Alydar, recognized as the country's finest and among the best to come along in years.

Affirmed, who beat Alydar four of the six times they met in 1977, now has drawn first blood in their first confrontation of the new season. But the Kentucky Derby is only the first skirmish in the war for the Triple Crown. They certainly will meet again in the Preakness May 20 and the 1½-mile Belmont Stakes June 10.

Trainer hopeful

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The chances of Kentucky Derby winner Affirmed capturing the Triple Crown are quite good, according to trainer Laz Barrera. Then, with a big laugh, he added: "I'm the only one that can do it."

That became evident Saturday when Affirmed, ridden by 18-year-old wonder Steve Cauten, charged through the stretch to win the first leg of the crown before a crowd of 131,004 at Churchill Downs, third largest in the 104-year history of the Derby.

Now it was Sunday and the rain fell while Barrera stood in Barn 41. He said the Harbor View Farm colt would be shipped to New York's Belmont Park today and remain there for a week before going to Baltimore for the 13½-mile Preakness Stakes May 20 at Pimlico.

Affirmed will face arch-rival Alydar and Believe It and several non-Derby starters in the second leg of the Triple Crown. The Derby was the first time the 3-year-olds ran 1¼ miles.

"This horse can do anything," said Barrera. "At the end of the race he could have kept on running and Alydar would not have caught him. I know what this horse can do. I hope he will be like Secretariat."

The Cuban-born trainer felt vindicated because Calumet Farm's Alydar had been made the 6-5 favorite and Affirmed only the second choice in a field of 11. In six meetings last year Affirmed beat Alydar four times.

Until Saturday they had not met this year, each posting a 4-0 record in taking different routes to the Derby. Barrera kept Affirmed on the West Coast where the Exclusive Native colt won the San Felipe Handicap and the Santa Anita and Hollywood derbies in impressive fashion. Meanwhile, Alydar counted the Florida Derby, Flamingo and Blue Grass stakes among his victories.

The long-awaited duel between the two came off as expected in America's most famous horse race with Alydar making a belated stretch run as Affirmed won by 1½ lengths. Hickory Tree Stable's Believe It finished third, another 1¼ lengths back.

John Veitch, Alydar's trainer, said, "Jorge Velasquez told me Alydar couldn't handle this track. We just got beat. We were farther back than anticipated. We were just too far back to make up the deficit."

Hayes predicts Sixers' win

By the Associated Press.

Elvin Hayes, sometimes playing like a man possessed, predicts the underdog Washington Bullets will finish off the Philadelphia 76ers on Wednesday night.

"I know we're going to win the next game," Hayes said after his 35 points and 19 rebounds paced a 121-105 victory Sunday and gave the Bullets a 3-1 lead in the National Basketball Association's best-of-seven Eastern Conference finals.

"When we won up there, I knew we had 'em," Hayes said of Washington's victory in the series opener at Philadelphia.

"I thought we had control of the series after the first game," said Washington Coach Dick Motta. "We play better together than they do."

The 76ers, who won the Eastern Division title handsily and then demolished the New York Knicks 4-0 in the semifinals, insisted they weren't finished.

"We are not planning any vacation," said Coach Billy Cunningham, sounding the keynote. "We are not going to fold up."

But an observation by Philadelphia's George McGinnis sounded a bit ominous for the 76ers as the team's play to date.

"It all boils down to a 2-out-of-3 series, and they've got to beat us one more game," he said, forgetting that the only thing the 76ers will derive from just two more victories will be the early vacation Cunningham wants to avoid.

The Western Conference playoff series between Seattle and Denver, tied 1-1 after Seattle's win on Sunday, moves to Seattle Wednesday and Friday.

Fred Brown, a seven-year pro from Iowa, came off the bench to score 26 points in just 25 minutes of playing time and spark the SuperSonics to the 121-111 triumph over the Nuggets on Sunday.

Brown took charge in the fourth quarter, which began with Seattle holding a slim 83-81 lead. He scored on a 3-point play to open the period, and wound up with 15 points in the quarter as the Sonics gradually moved ahead of a Denver team plagued by fouls for the second time in this series.

Tickets available for sports feasts

Tickets for Big Spring and Coahoma sports banquets are still available today for the Tuesday evening events.

The Big Spring banquet, which costs $3.50 per person, will feature the Rev. Kenneth Patrick as the speaker. Patrick, a well known local supporter of sports and city's youth, will stand-in for Col. John Childs, who regretted the occasion due to illness.

The banquet begins at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the high school cafeteria.

The Coahoma Booster Club Sports Banquet kicks off Tuesday at 6:45 p.m. at the high school gym. Catered by Al's Barbecue, tickets to the affairs sell for $3.25. Featured speaker is Eddie Nicholson, a personality lovingly referred to as the "Armchair Philosopher."

Co-captains for the Booster Club are Raymond Phillips and Carl Frazier.

Ongais leads U.S. racers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Ten years ago, Danny Ongais was entered in the Indianapolis 500 but never got a chance to compete. The U.S. Auto Club told him, in effect, to get some more experience.

Hedid. The former motorcycle and drag racing champion from Hawaii who finally got his first Indy start a year ago is leading the U.S. Auto Club championship point standings with two victories in four races this season.

"I think I just got older," the 35-year-old said of the recent turnaround in his career.

Ongais was the fastest rookie qualifier in last year's Indy 500 and, although he finished only 20th because of an engine failure after 90 laps, his 42nd-lap speed of 192.678 miles an hour is the fastest ever run during a race.

And nobody came close to Ongais' lap at 196.164 recorded Saturday during the opening day of practice for this year's race, making him one of the favorites for next Saturday's pole-position qualifying.

Wilkins-Osborne win tournament

The second round of the Big Spring two-day Partnership was held Sunday at Comanche Trail Golf Course.

Don Osborne and Dan Wilkins of Big Spring Country Club squeaked out a one-shot victory in Scratch Division during high winds on the course, shooting 64-69 for a 133. Big Spring High School Girls Golf Coach Howard Stewart and golf team senior David Howell came from four shots back to almost put it off with a 68-66 134, taking second place.

Don Osborne described Sunday's round as "fairly average and uneventful," however, he did admit to a lucky break or two. Stewart and Howell felt their even par back nine on Saturday contributed greatly to their one shot loss.

Having been 3 shots back after the first round, Abe Gonzales and Sam Subia took a comfortable win in Handicap Division with a 58-61, 119 total. Although both men shot only a couple of strokes better than their handicap, they found the secret of partnership play by "ham & egging it" all around the course both days.

The team of Jerry White and Ron Booth hung on to second place with a 58-64, 122, although the wind took its toll on them the second day. David Hanson, who, with father-in-law Eddie Aciri, had an outstanding first day round of 55 was quoted as saying they "took the gas" on Sunday.

However, the hole-in-one by Aciri and eagle on 18 by Hanson would be a long remembered moment of glory.

Watkins gets rich

DALLAS (AP) — Tom Watson at the tender age of 28 has found the secret of taking pressure and recycling it into fun and $1 million.

"I didn't think about blowing that putt on the last hole. I thought about making it," said Watson, who captured his second Byron Nelson Golf Classic title Sunday with a typical pressure-proof finish.

Watson shot a final 4-underpar 66 to edge hometown hero Lee Trevino by one shot with an 8-underpar 272 over the soggy par-70 Preston Trial Golf Club course for the $40,000 final prize.

The freckle-faced Watson now has banked $1,013,226 lifetime to become the 17th million-dollar winner in tour history.

Watson's duel with Trevino was reminiscent of his head-to-head victorious battles with Jack Nicklaus last year in the Masters and the British Open.

Coaches reunited

Two former Coahoma football players who played under Spike Dykes during the 1964-65 seasons when the Bulldogs won 22 and lost 2

He called his Parnelli-Cosworth racer "not particularly fast" compared to the cars of a half-dozen or so other drivers likely to top 200 mph by next week.

"Pressure is what it's all about," said Watson. "You don't think on your backswing that you have to make birdie. You just don't think about it."

Trevino, who also shot a closing 66, made a tremendous back-nine run at Watson. Trevino eagled the 15th hole to pull even but Watson, watching from the fairway, birdied to go back ahead by a shot.

Undaunted Trevino birdied the 17th hole. Watson responded by stroking a 20-footer into the hole from the fringe for a birdie.

Then came the final test. After Trevino had parred 18, Watson hooked a 6-iron second shot that left him with a wedge chip over a yawning bunker.

"I felt I could get it up and down," said Watson.

And Trevino said, "I thought he would get it up and down. He wouldn't be the leading money winner on the tour if he couldn't. Nobody hits all the greens."

have reunited to coach together.

Eddie McHugh and Mike Hinsley will handle the head football and basketball duties at perennial Class A power, Mart. The Mart Panthers have won six state titles and are expected to win the state championship in track this year.

McHugh, who has been at R.L. Turner in the 9-AAAA district, will handle the athletic director and head football duties while Hinsley, who has been at Lewisville in the 13-AAAA district, will lead the basketball program and coach the offensive line.

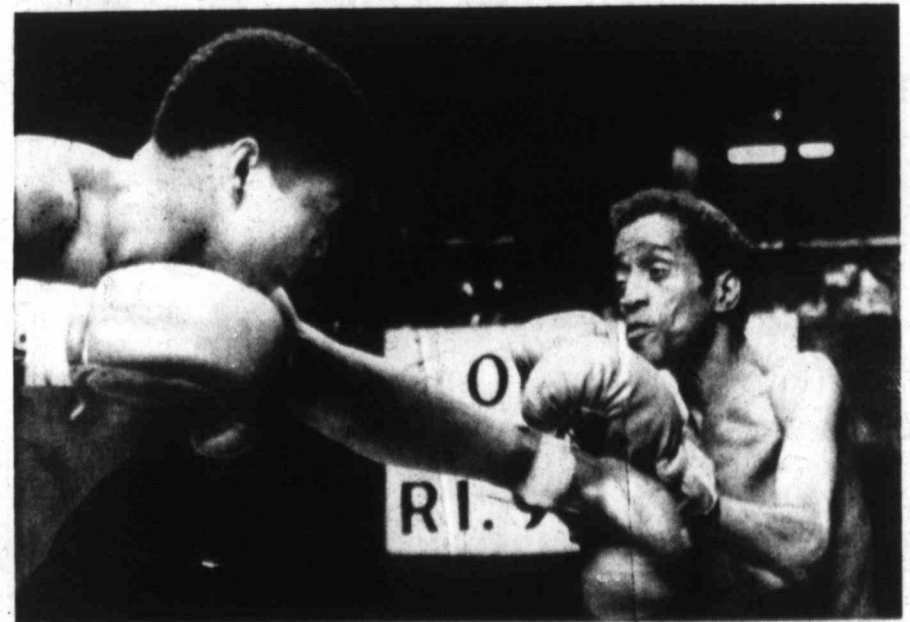

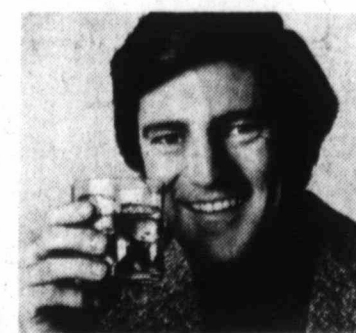

McHugh and Hinsley are but two of many coaches turned out of the Coahoma system. Mike Mosley-Ft. Stockton, Eddie Wolski-Midland Lee, Bobby Pherigo-Pearland, Dwayne Richters-Forney, Dean Richters-Ft. Worth Castleberry, Don Richters-Nixon, R.L. Coates-Lockhart, Gaylon Harrison-Rankin, Snickle Beal-Tulia, Gary Culpepper-Crane and Marshal Williams, Eddie Torres, and Dickey Leopard are a few of the many coaches out of Coahoma High School.

Pirates run Dodgers ragged

By the Associated Press

They used to be the lumber company, the guys with the booming bats. The Pittsburgh Pirates' idea of offense used to be waiting around for somebody to hit one over the wall.

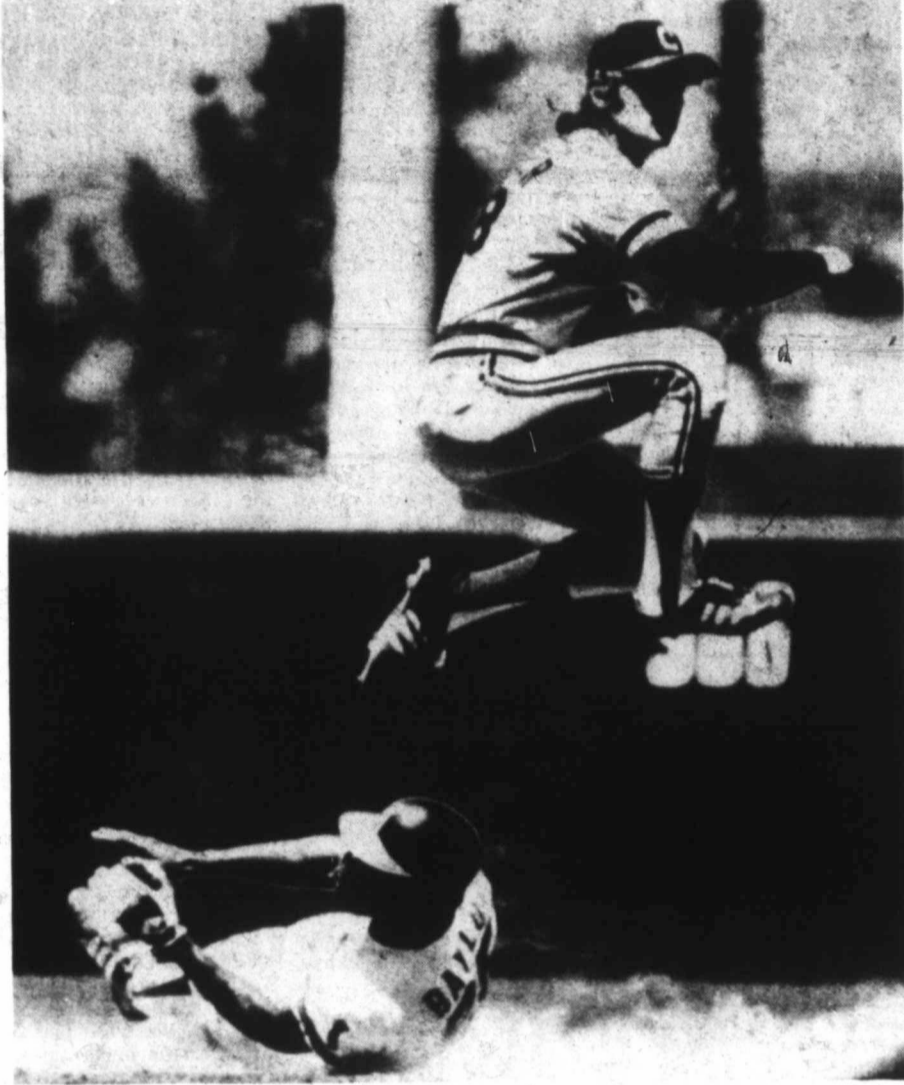

It was a tense extra-inning struggle between two of the hardest-throwing relief pitchers in baseball, 26-year-old Rich "Goose" Gossage of the New York Yankees, whose fast ball has been timed at 99 miles an hour, and 22-year-old Len Barker of the Texas Rangers, who boasts a 96-mile-an-hour clocking.

They were throwing smoke, these two tall right-handers. "We're both power-pitchers," Barker said. "He throws a fast ball and slider and I throw a fast ball and curve, but I don't think either of us threw anything but fast balls today."

Gossage pitched four hitless innings, walking four but striking out five. Barker came on in the 11th, retired the Yankees on three ground balls and struck out Reggie Jackson to start the bottom of the 12th. That was his second-biggest mistake.

His biggest one was a 2-2 fast ball he threw to Chris Chambliss, the next hitter, Jackson, who fanned on a high fast ball, had stopped to have a word with Chambliss on his way back to the dugout.

"He said Barker wasn't throwing very hard and his ball was straight," Chambliss reported. Armed with that vital information, Chambliss jumped on a belt-high fast ball and drove it over the fence in right-center field and against the bleacher wall for his first home run of the season.

Kicks outwhirl Tornado

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Revenge is sweet, especially when it comes in front of 36,057 fans at your home opener.

But the Minnesota Kicks, who tipped Dallas 2-1 Sunday and evened the season series between the two teams at a game apiece, feel they haven't seen the last of Dallas and Tornado coach Al Miller agrees.

"This was a typical Dallas-Minnesota game," said Miller, whose team edged the Kicks 4-3 in a tie-breaker earlier this season. "I guess the teams figure they'll be looking at each other at the end of the season and go at it pretty good."

Title in the bag?

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Jan Stephenson says she isn't surprised that an amateur is her closest challenger in the third annual Women's International Golf Tournament.

Stephenson, with more than $30,000 in winnings already this year, had five birdsies and two bogeys in the third round.

While admittedly pleased with her play, she repeated an assertion made to reporters Saturday after she became rattled and came in with a par 72. "I hate golf," she said. "It's so frustrating."

Power pitchers duel in Big Apple

NEW YORK (AP) — It was not a time for finesse or a time to get cute or a time to go with anything but your best pitch.

It was a tense extra-inning struggle between two of the hardest-throwing relief pitchers in baseball, 26-year-old Rich "Goose" Gossage of the New York Yankees, whose fast ball has been timed at 99 miles an hour, and 22-year-old Len Barker of the Texas Rangers, who boasts a 96-mile-an-hour clocking.

Houston lanced

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Francisco Bolota, Jim Pollihan and Josef Horvath scored goals Sunday as the Rochester Lancers stopped Houston 3-1 in North American Soccer League action.

The victory over the Hurricane came before 8,223 fans in Rochester's first home appearance of the season.

Bolota gave the Lancers a 1-0 lead with just 6:25 elapsed in the game, handling passes from Pat Ercoli and Mike Stojanovic for the score.

Dorsey stymies

El Paso's Jim Dorsey stymied San Antonio hitters as Bill Ewing blasted a three-run homer to lead the Diablos to a 10-5 Texas League baseball victory Sunday.

The game was only one of two Texas League contests in a rain-abbreviated schedule. Midland downed Amarillo 10-4 in the other game. Jackson at Tulsa was rained out.

The Diablos' victory was their second in a row over Western Division leading San Antonio. But San Antonio maintained a six-game lead over both El Paso and Midland.

Dorsey's victory was his third of the year against only one loss. The losing pitcher was Dave Stewart, 3-3.

Ridin' fence And now chess

Eloy Moran, 16, is being included in this column for the second time, which I very rarely do.

But he's "done gone" and gotten himself another accomplishment. Last year, he learned to fly. And for the son of a farm worker out in the Ackerly community, that was quite an accomplishment.

His father, Jose Moran said "Eloy has always reached for the stars." This time, Eloy has qualified to go to the national chess finals in Los Angeles, July 4.

The youth has a very inexpensive chess set, but he plays a wicked game of chess. He went over to Midland after he read about a regional tournament there and won. Then he went to San Antonio in April to take part in statewide competition.

He won, with the final game on April 24. "Almost everybody was older than me," Eloy admitted. The youth turned 17 on May 7 and hopes to obtain his pilot's license. He has already soloed.

"Say," he laughed, "it would be fun if my dad and I could fly to Los Angeles. He thinks nothing of being able to fly at such a young age or at being in a national tournament finals.

When asked where he learned to play chess, Eloy said, "I saw a game one time at Gibsons when I was seven years old and somebody had given me some money to buy a toy. So I bought a chess set." Then he added, "Nobody at my house knew how to play. So I read the directions and taught myself. Then I had to teach my father to play so that I would have somebody to play with." Later he also taught his little brother, Martin, 11 how to play chess.

Eloy recalls, "When I was in Runnels Junior High, Mr. White had a chess team. And he really taught me a lot. I was happy over it because I had just been playing the best I could by the directions in the box."

He pulled out a folded paper of directions, "There they are," he added as he displayed the well-worn rules.

Hustle 3 Loud and clear

By Bill Albright Executive Vice President, Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce Industrial Growth and Development

The message from Washington was loud and clear! If we want to be heard in Congress - if we want our share of the consideration given by agencies and bureaus - if we want an even chance to compete with our adversaries in promoting Freedom of Enterprise - if we want to put a curb on excessive governmental spending, high taxes and inflation in general - well we've got to "sound off."

These admonitions came from senators, congressmen and governmental bureaucrats who know the business of politics and lobbying. They told us at the 66th Annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, that business men, farmers, industrialists, educators, professionals, homemakers and retired persons have a real need to make themselves heard. And that these people are losing out in daily battles with organized groups who support opposition to the traditional "American Way."

Over the years, the strongest proponent of the "American Way" has been the American businessman - the entrepreneur - retailer - wholesaler - manufacturer - producer - transporter - or any other definitive title that denotes the person who puts his energies and assets into an activity that provides jobs for others and turns out good or services.

The record shows that 83 per cent of all jobs in the U.S. are provided by the private sector with the remaining 17 per cent employed by federal, state and local governments. Private enterprise has not failed to provide employment for Americans! In fact, they have expanded production to unprecedented heights and have employed more people than ever before in our history and continue to meet the employment needs of wives and teenagers in unbelievable numbers.

The private sector could do even better if they weren't prevented from full productivity by excessive government regulations, minimum wages, high taxes and deficit spending which shrinks our buying power.

While all that I've said can be substantiated, it doesn't mean a thing unless we make our feelings and desires known to our representatives. Contact the Chamber's Governmental Affairs Committee, Carol Hunter chairman, for additional information and action. Call 263-7641, 8 to 5, Monday through Friday.

Gambling referendum is soundly defeated

Texas voters-vowing once again to keep the underworld under wraps-have turned down for the 10th time in three decades a proposal to legalize horse race gambling. It was not for many a black and white issue of God and the good guys against the gamblers and no-goodniks. But for some the betting issue was a starkly clear morality play set against a backdrop of Bible Belt Texas and its growing urban centers.

The Texas Election Bureau was to continue tabulations today but with 246 of 254 counties reporting, 198 complete, the Democrats turned thumbs down on the non-binding pari-mutuel referendum 52.20 to 47.80 percent. The Republican vote was 50.39 against, 49.60 for.

It was the 10th time in 30 years that pro-bettors have attempted to get a measure across that at least would have put legalized race betting on a local option ballot. It's failed every time.

'Little guy' eyes housing market

NEW YORK (AP) - The securities industry is paying a lot of attention to housing these days, not just because of housing stocks but because of the competition from housing as well.

Yes, some people are buying houses instead of stocks, and the stock market is feeling it. It helps explain to some extent the absence of the so-called little guy.

Goldman Sachs, a securities firm, states flatly in a current report that "homes have replaced common stocks as the most important major component of consumer wealth," and concedes they make good investments.

Business Week magazine features a special supplement in its current issue on "Do-it-yourself investing in Real Estate," citing examples of business people who are dabbling in rental housing.

It concludes that "increasing numbers of smaller investors, leery of the stock market and seeking high profits, are going in for an expanding array of do-it-yourself deals."

One attraction, of course, is the rising price of houses, an asset that one small securities firm equates with a balloon filling with air beyond its capacity. It forecasts a collapse - and a return to stocks.

Goldman Sachs and several other firms disagree. Analyzing the prices of single-family houses, it concludes that on average they appear to be reasonably valued in relation to incomes.

It maintains that demographics, tax benefits, the price-income relationship, the rental return (or the rent saving if owner-occupied) support the $56,300 average price of a new single family home.

While homeowners seldom analyze values with the same professional detail of Goldman Sachs, they apparently reach the same conclusions, based on the amount of money they have invested.

Ten years ago, the securities firm observes, the value of one-to-four-family homes represented 28 percent of consumer wealth. At the end of 1977, however, the $844.5 billion of real value in such homes represented 35 percent of the $2.42 trillion total of real financial assets. Stock holdings amounted to $635 billion.

Some of the change results from the rapid price appreciation of houses. New home prices in the 1970-1977 period rose at an annual compound rate of 10.7 percent. Existing homes rose at 9.3 percent.

Still, Goldman Sachs relates, prices are below the home price-income relationship that prevailed in the early 1960s. The suggestion exists, therefore, that home prices still are within budget limits.

What the study doesn't show are some of the non-financial aspects of home ownership, such as the sense of security provided by a roof over one's head, a security unobtainable with a stock certificate.

When market analysts ask where the little guy is - and millions of his kind have abandoned the stock market since the late 1960s - the literal truth may be that he's at home, living in his security.
