

Chosen Assistant Head Of City Schools

John Williams Is Elected
Principal; Mrs. L. Cummings To Ward School

Election of W. F. Decker as assistant superintendent of Wellington Schools and John Williams as principal was announced Tuesday afternoon, following a meeting of the Board of Trustees Monday night.

Mrs. Logan Cummings was elected to fill the vacancy created in the East Ward School created by the resignation of Mrs. Rose Couch Bergen, who was recently named to the place.

After meeting with the school board for the first time since his election, John L. Beard, superintendent, announced a series of changes contemplated for the city schools during the coming year. One of these will be an effort toward resuming of vocational agriculture in the school system with the opening of the term.

"Assurance has already been given by the area supervisor that a subsidy can be secured from the state department of education to help in financing the department, as is done in other schools where this subject is taught," said Mr. Beard.

More activities for the students, health education and physical education, music and art, will be given serious consideration for the year. Unit teaching will be used in teaching, especially in the elementary grades, as far as is possible, the new school head indicated.

Bus schedules will be run on approximately the same arrangements as last year, it was announced following the meeting. Routes will, however, be extended further in the various communities where there is a demand for the route to be run.

The revival services opened Sunday morning, with Rev. Kirby in charge of the preaching and Weldon Bright in charge of the singing. Theme for the services during the first week are "Hiding From God." "In my sermons I deal with what I sometimes call 'sins of the saints' those shortcomings not serious in themselves, but which keep us from being our best selves," the pastor said.

The theme for the second week's services will be, "How Can I Find God."

REA Ready To Turn On Power In Two Weeks

Celebration To Feature
Pulling Switch First Time, Says Couch

First electricity on the Greenbelt Rural Electrification project in Collingsworth County will likely be turned on in two weeks.

This announcement came from Orval Couch, project superintendent of the REA, who added that only one hitch was in the way of the turning on of the electricity at present. Before electricity can be furnished any members of the co-operative, it will be necessary for 90 per cent of the members to have their premises wired and ready for service.

With the throwing of the switch, energizing the first section of the line, an informal celebration will be held, with speaking by officials of the Greenbelt Association and guests. The place for this meeting has not yet been set.

"We'll want all the townspeople and all those from the rural sections who have given us such hearty support in the project to be present," Couch said.

Further plans for this event will be announced next week. All poles have been set and the stringing of the wires completed, and only a few minor details remain on the electric lines.

Concerning the regulation that 90 per cent of the members be connected with the line before the electricity is turned on, Couch explained that should 90 per cent of the members of a certain stretch of line be wired, they will not be held up due to the slowness of other sections, and it is likely that sections of the line from 10 to 30 miles in length would be turned on as soon as the requirements are completed.

Government loans for wiring the premises are now being made to members of the association. To date, 37 of these have been made, according to Ross Swift, ranging from $14.56 to $374.99. The latter amount was made to the Arnett School, in Harmon County Oklahoma, and which is located four miles east and one and one-half miles south of Dodson.

Any other members wishing to secure one of these loans we asked to contact the REA Office in Wellington or any of the wiring contractors.

July Not A Dry Month, 8-Year Record Shows

July Storms And Wind Damage Absent From This Year's Weather

Although in recent years July has come to be regarded as a dry-weather month, records during the past nine years show that during the last eight years, only once was the month entirely without rain. That was in 1934—reputedly the driest year the county has experienced in many years.

A check through the files of The Wellington Leader since 1931 shows that this year a little less moisture has fallen, with only one-half inch recorded, but on the other hand, the county has escaped cyclone and high wind damage that has been experienced twice during the last eight years.

The precipitation and crop conditions as shown during the various years follow:

July's rain in 1932 brought along with it a cyclone in the south-eastern part of the county. One house was destroyed and several head of stock were killed. Rain throughout the summer had been heavy, and an inch and a half of rain early in the month brought the total for the midsummer to 12 inches. No more rain was reported by The Leader.

The year 1933 proved to be one of drouth, but a half inch rain in July half broke the dry spell, called the most severe in this section in years. This had no effect on the temperature, however, and for several days, it stayed well above 100. Rain, totaling one and one-eighth inches fell on July 18 of that year, boosting crop prospects and cooling the atmosphere.

Dryer than the year preceding, was 1934, for not even a shower was reported in The Leader during July of that year.

In the year following, no rain was received in July until the 12th day of the month, when three-fourths of an inch fell at Wellington and one and one-half inches at Kelley. This rain, however, was spotted, although following it, farmers throughout the county were much more optimistic about their crops.

During July 1936, extremely hot weather was experienced. Early in the month the temperature rose to 104 degrees, although crops at this time were reported not hurting from lack of moisture. On Sunday, July 19, the temperature went up to 115 degrees, but a light shower fell in Wellington. This was followed on July 28 by rains in the western part of the county measuring between one and one-half and two inches. No moisture, however, was received in the northern and eastern parts of the county.

Only light showers were reported in the county until July 19, 1937, but then not only a two-inch rain fell, but it was accompanied by a severe windstorm, which wrecked the Ed Riley Machine Shop, damaged several other Wellington buildings and destroyed crops in the Lillie section. In this section some of the farmers planted their crops for the fifth time.

Although only about an inch of rain was reported in the county during July 1938, and that about the middle of the month, the effects of the heavy June rains was seen in reports of good crops and grassland. "The grass on the Cottonwood Ranch is better than I have ever seen it," commented Lafayette Hughes of Denver Colo., when he visited here on July 18.

Burned to the Ground

Would you be completely covered if fire, tornado, or windstorm struck tomorrow—would insurance cover the whole loss? Make sure NOW that your insurance policy is planned to take care of any emergency which is liable to arise.

When speaking of fires you have often seen and heard the phrase that the building was burned to the ground.

Many times we do not know when or how a fire starts but we do know that one beyond control, even a fire resistive building, may literally burn to the ground. You should exercise your precaution as far as your own property is concerned; a blaze starting on your neighbor's property might easily spread to your home.

If fire should strike your property tonight, would you be properly prepared? Being prepared means having the right kind and amount of fire insurance in a reliable old line fire insurance company.

Let us save you from the possibility of heavy financial loss by going over your present fire policies, to make sure that the amount of your fire insurance is sufficient to take care of any emergency which is likely to arise. There is no obligation for this service.

Week Given To Destroy Excess Acreage Planted

Wheat Allotment Tabulations Sent To State Office For Approval

Setting of the time limit upon which overplanted cotton and wheat acreage may be plowed up, and the announcements of the mailing of the 1939 cotton yields and the sending of 1940 wheat allotment tabulations to the state agricultural office were made this week by the county agricultural conservation committee, through Clyde Emmert, chairman.

All farm operators who have overplanted either their cotton or feed allotments, and who have been notified of the over planting, will be given one week in which to plow up the excess acreage, Mr. Emmert said. This brief time is being given due to the advanced stage in which the crops are already in over most of the county.

Notices of overplanting are being mailed out on the same date that the plowmeter checking is made. A night shift of workers has been put on to help in getting out the acreage calculations more rapidly.

"Through Saturday night, 1056 farms in the county had been measured, leaving approximately 800 yet to be finished," said C. V. Griffin, administrative assistant in the office. "At the present rate, all measurers in the field feel that this work will be completed by the first week in August."

At the same time, Mr. Emmert announced that all tabulations on the 1940 wheat allotment have been sent into the state office for approval, and that they are expected back in plenty of time to get the allotments out to wheat raisers before seeding time starts.

Mr. Emmert again warned that all persons planning to plant wheat for the first time in 1940 must make application for an allotment to the county committee, and the allotment will be made out of the three per cent of the general allotment reserved for this purpose.

All 1939 cotton yields were mailed Tuesday from the local office to the individual raisers.

Mrs. Lizzie Gargis of the Hackberry community returned recently from Alabama where she visited with relatives at Birmingham, Kansas, Townley and Carbon Hill. While there, she, a sister and two brothers met for the first time in 47 years.

Stars Stop Shamrock Team Wednesday

Accounts For Two Runs In Inning; Pitches

With a pitcher who wouldn't allow his opponents even a hit, and a single player who blasted out two home runs in one inning, Wellington's All-Star softball team didn't give the Columbia-United players of Shamrock even a chance at the big end of the score Wednesday night, July 19. The two teams met on the Wellington field, with the game ending 15 to 8 in Wellington's favor.

Logan Cummings, playing for the first time this season, pitched throughout most of the game with style which local fans declared they had seen neither in a local team or any of the visiting teams that have played here.

High point of the game came when Ira Brisbin, locals' left-fielder, hit two home runs within a few minutes of each other, in the same inning.

"But don't think it was an easy game, for the Columbian-United has one of the best teams in this section," commented Dick Richards, manager, following the game.

Efforts are being made to match games with Electra and Wheeler teams for the near future. Both these towns have outstanding teams, reports here indicate.

The starting lineup for the All-Stars and the Columbian-United are as follows:

Sanitary Project Completes Year's Work In County

With one year's work already behind, enough individual projects on the County W.P.A. sanitation projects are now booked to keep the project running for another three or four months, should no more be received, Floyd Branum, statistician and time keeper for the project said.

Since this work was begun on August 1, 1938, 312 sanitary privies have been constructed over the country with W.P.A. labor. An average of 25 men have been worked on the project since it started.

A total of $11,474.78 in federal funds has been expended.

Sponsors of the project are the National and State Health Department and the County. L. A. Hunt is project superintendent, Mr. Branum statistician and time-keeper, and H. G. Graham is sponsor for the county.

Brown Youth Is Buried July 19th

Funeral services for Ellis Edward Brown, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Brown of Brice, were conducted Wednesday afternoon, July 19, from the First Baptist Church in Wellington. In charge of the services were Rev. G. C. Applewhite, pastor of the Baptist Church at Lockney, and Rev. L. T. Roy, pastor of the church at Lillie.

The boy died late Tuesday evening. He, with his parents and sister, was here to attend the golden wedding anniversary of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Brown of Lillie. He was the youngest grandchild of the couple.

Late in the evening, he became seriously ill and later was brought to a local hospital. An operation performed early Tuesday failed to save his life.

The child was born April 23, 1934 in this county, but moved to Brice several years ago with his parents. At the time of his death he was five years, two months and 25 days of age.

Surviving are his parents and a sister, Betty Jean Brown, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Brown, and these aunts and uncles: Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Corbett Ford, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Westerby, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Akin, all of Wellington, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Akin of Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Brown of Wellington, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown of Duncan, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Johnson of Hamlin, Mr. and Mrs. E. Ward of Hereford, and Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson of Wellington.

Pall bearers were S. A. James, W. F. Durham, Roy Waldrop, and L. L. Waldrop. Flower bearers were Maxene Horton, Glenna Jane McMinn, Jo Ann Ray, Jeanne Waldrop, Ramona Price-Ray, Jeraldine Durham, Patty Ruth Robertson and Cliffla Jean Langford.

Hymns included "Does Jesus Care," and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

Interment was in the Wellington Cemetery with the Ellis Funeral Home in charge.

Tire Methods Must Change Too . . .

The "horseless carriage" could hardly meet the challenge of the modern automobile in durability, speed, safety, and beauty. Yet, in its day, it was the last word. Improved methods of manufacture and scientific advances have brought with them improved cars. Hand in hand with this progress has come improved methods and equipment for tire structure. "In their day" these worn-out methods were all right—but today they're out of step with the time. For modern tires we advise Seiberling Challenge Tires.

This new Seiberling Challenge Tire isn't just a bargain . . . it's a husky bruiser with "mileage" written all over it . . . yet priced completely below its class!

Its tread is made of "Affinite" rubber — a special compound that stands more bruising wear. Its deep non-skid tread grabs the road when you apply the brakes. Its cord-body is built to take the bumps and the heat mile after mile without weakening.

FOR A MODERN TIRE, IT'S ALWAYS

By H. D. W.

Weather forecast: Old Tack is NOT going to run for congress. Roosevelt is NOT going to run for a third term.

Here is news from foreign lands: Marshall Wells and John Jones, who went to Europe on a freighter, met Winifred Small who went over with a group of girls on the Normandie. They spent July 4 seeing London. Winifred wrote my wife that the English seemed a little cold toward the notion of celebrating July 4, and that they—the Texans—intended to throw in with the French on Bastille day. At that time she was going to meet Marshall and John Jones in Paris, after the boys had taken a trip down the Rhine.

From the correspondence, however, it seems that Marshall and John threw in with the Germans. Here is a note my mother received from Marshall: "Reluctantly leave Germany for Paris for their Bastille day on July 14. The Germans are very friendly and likeable, especially here in Heidelberg which is a most picturesque town—also very gay." In addition, John Jones who is a nephew of Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, wrote practically the same thing to Henry Sullivan.

What is this? Has the German "Gemuthlich" got these boys or has their Texas friendliness got the Germans? For the benefit of Uncle Ed, who may be holding me somewhat responsible for his fair-haired son's safety since I went over to argue that it was all right for Marshall to go, I want to explain that "gemuthlich" is quite different from the "Gastapo." It means something like a cross between neighborliness and hospitality with art of living thrown in to make it broad.

Anyhow, there are a number of questions in my mind. Have our foreign news cables, our radio programs and our movies been giving us a one-sided view of the European situation? On the other hand, did the fact that Jesse Jones secured special papers from the State Department for his nephew and Marshall have anything to do with the good time they had in Heidelberg? Perhaps there is partial truth in both of the questions that are in the back of my mind.

Probably these Texas boys have had no chance to learn about the government of Hitler, but with their first hand impression I imagine that they will have no appetite at all for going over and shooting at some of these people they consider so friendly and so gay. After all, they are at the age when they will have to go first.

The boys and girls from Col-lingsworth keep doing things in a splendid way. The latest news is of John Henry Baumgardner who has been awarded a $500 fellowship of the Texas Cottonseed Crushers Association. He will do research work at Texas Tech. It is another example of another local boy making good in the midst of competition. I admire John Henry, but I think Forrest has more on the ball, and in native intelligence I know that neither one of them can compare with their brother David. At least I secured this latter information from my daughter, and I am disposed to argue that it is true.

Mart Hunter and W. E. Cummings have been trying to sick Dave Thomas on me for a fist fight for something that S. R. Pinkston wrote. There is nothing that makes me madder than this sort of thing. It reminds me of big boys enticing little boys to get into a fight. I have no quarrel with Dave, but I am a good notion to go over and take a poke at Logan just to even the score. I might not come out so well with that football player, but Mr. Hunter's son Earl would be pickings. Or would he?

An advertising agency in Dallas recently wrote The Leader a flat-letter. It concerned the success of the Meadolake Oleomargarine campaign that has been running in this paper. Since so many people have been telling me that it is too dull to advertise, I would like to call attention to the fact that this company picked out this dull time to buy space, and they are highly pleased with the results they have secured from The Leader. In fact they say this paper has pulling power. I try to help those that help me, so I don't mind publishing the free advertisement that if your name is listed in their ad, you will get a free package by calling at your grocery.

The lumber yards have been running fairly consistent advertising here of late. Have you noticed that people have started to do a bit of painting in the town? Before long I intend to paint my house. There is $100,000.00 worth of painting that needs to be done in Wellington. It would be a tremendous stimulus to the welfare of this town if it could be started on a big scale. If pretty homes were advertised as much as new cars, people would decide that there is merit in having an attractive place in which to live. If furniture were advertised as much as these same automobiles a bunch of you parents would not worry so much about where your daughters were speeding on the highway. You could retire into the back bedroom and let her have the pleasure of showing her boy friend what a nice home she had and enable her to give him a notion of what she expected him to provide for her—if and when.

Death To Dandelions

Is your lawn a dandelion-spangled tapestry? Stamp them out with water-white kerosene treatment, developed by A. H. Post of agricultural experiment station at Bozeman, Mont. System: spray yard with kerosene in autumn. Result: see above picture. Warning: water-white kerosene only. If you try colored kerosene, you'll lose the dandelions—and the lawn, too.

I have just returned from a section where they have homes. They are most important. By some means or other we must get away from these conditions that keep healthy, willing and intelligent young people from marrying until they are 30 or 35. Their instinct is to found a home. Riding around over the country won't get the job done. I think homes will.

Two excellent special editions were published in the Panhandle last week. Clyde Warwick at Canyon printed an 82-page paper that was a work of art in every detail. Claude Wells published a 40-page paper that will be treasured by people of that section for many years. Although there was much historical material in it, the emphasis was placed on personal stories in order to show the way of life of the early settlers. Each one of these splendid papers have performed an enduring service for their communities.

PAINT Well painted Homes Rent Easily And Sell Quickly!

Renting agents say that the question of decoration is always one of the most vital in securing and holding tenants. Tests show that rentals can be substantially increased after a dwelling has been decorated... if the decorating is well done, and if the colors are the smart, new colors.

Realtors who have broken an old rule and decorated homes completely before finding a buyer have been amazed at the rapidity with which a buyer appeared. Paint is any home's "best Sunday suit" and it is hard for the average person to recognize genius when it appears in overalls.

Mortgage Bankers tell us they are willing to loan money on a well-kept house... slow to loan one that is obviously rundown. Dwellings whose rentals are not high enough to pay the required interest have frequently been put in a position to pay out through decorating.

MORAL: For owners, renters, brokers, borrowers, buyers, nothing influences property more per dollar expended than good paint, properly applied... in the new color.

IT STANDS THE TEST OF TIME

LASTING BEAUTY FOR HOMES!

Lincoln paint isn't merely a 1-year or 2-year paint — it provides protection for as long as 5 years! When building or remodeling, remember there is a Lincoln paint for every purpose. Always specify Lincoln.

ON STICKING OUT THE NECK

The person who is unwilling to "stick his neck out" will never grow any taller. That is what Rev. J. Pat Horton told the Men's Bible Class which meets Sunday mornings at the Fair Theatre.

The world was not built by men and women who constantly feared criticism, feared to take the unpopular side, or advance new ideas.

And in these days of "isms" throughout the world, rule by mass psychology, the role of the individual becomes ever more important. Too many of us depend upon our "leaders," and, says Mr. Horton, if leaders are indifferent, we are prone to lose interest ourselves and adopt a "what's the use" attitude.

If we love our American institutions, if we value the liberty which seems to dwell in this nation among a very few in the world, we as individuals will have to be ready to "stick our necks out."

We will have to be ready to make mistakes if they are to result in honest convictions. There is an old saying that "he who makes no mistakes does nothing, he who makes too many loses his job."—Community Weekly, Plainview.

MARS NEAR ON JULY 27

From a maximum distance of approximately 248 million miles, Mars will approach to within about 36 million miles of the earth July 27, the nearest it has been to us since 1924. Astronomers will take advantage of its nearness to make further study of conditions on that planet.

Despite its relative close approach, however, Mars will not outshine Venus in brightness, although the latter is much farther away. The distance of Venus from the earth ranges from 25 million to 161 million miles.

Much discussion has been indulged in concerning the so-called canals on Mars, but most astronomers do not believe these are real, or that there is any life on the planet capable of constructing works of such magnitude. In fact, if there is life on Mars at all it must be very different from anything we can imagine.

Scientists estimate the temperature on Mars to range from 40 degrees at noon to 100 degrees below zero at night. There is very little oxygen in the thin atmosphere of the planet, perhaps not more than one per cent of that contained in the atmosphere of the earth, according to Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of Mount Wilson Observatory.

The air we breathe is about four parts nitrogen to one part oxygen, with minute quantities of other gases. The atmosphere of Mars is believed to be principally carbon dioxide, and very little of that.

AMERICAN REPUBLICS

Improving relations among Latin-American republics are pointed out in a recent Washington dispatch, as well as indications that on the whole a better feeling toward the United States is in evidence.

Bolivia and Paraguay, after their long war over the Chaco area, appear to be getting along quite peacefully. The threatened clash between Nicaragua and Honduras over a boundary dispute seems to have been averted, and the president of Nicaragua recently paid a visit to the president of Honduras. Tension between Ecuador and Peru over their boundary differences has lessened, and no immediate threats to peace are seen in any of the Central and South American countries.

Relations between these nations and the United States, while not all that might be desired in some cases, are generally better than formerly. Friendly visits of high officials of these countries in recent months have been notable.

These include visits to Washington of Col. Batista, Cuba's most powerful political and military figure; President Somoza of Nicaragua; Brazil's foreign minister, Aranha; General Monterio, chief of staff of the Brazilian army, and lesser officials of the various countries. The Chilean minister of finance will visit Washington this autumn.

Next year several other Latin-American leaders are expected to visit the United States, and all these gestures of friendship will inevitably tend to promote peace and solidarity among the nations of the western hemisphere.

MONEY DISAPPEARS

According to officials of the U. S. Mint in Washington, an enormous amount of money issued is lost or otherwise disappears, so that the Treasury never has to redeem it, but is that much ahead.

It is estimated that five billion pennies have been misplaced since the government began making them. Of the old-time 2-cent pieces, of which more than 91 million were coined, more than 57 million are still missing, while less than one-third of the 94 million 3-cent pieces minted more than a half-century ago were ever returned for redemption.

But it is not only small coins that get lost. More than 10 million of the old large-sized $1 bills, the issue of which was discontinued about 10 years ago, never got back to the Treasury, and the same is true of many large-sized bills of higher denominations. Of course, a considerable amount of the old money is probably hoarded away and may come to light some day.

By reducing the size of paper currency by one-third it is estimated the Treasury has saved about 18 million dollars in cost of paper, ink, labor and storage space in the last 10 years.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—What are the principle woes of American farmers? Tractors, landlords, and the WPA, if the correspondence in the files of the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Agricultural Economics forms an accurate indication.

The bureau gets these documents—many of which are written in lead pencil, some of which are ungrammatical—in an accidental fashion. Each year the bureau sends out a questionnaire to some 22,000 farmers. And a lot of the farmers use the back of the blank to record their comments and complaints.

What the farmers write, however, provides an interesting cross-section of the American agricultural mind. It tips the government off on what farmers are thinking about the state of the nation—and just life in general. Let's look at some of the beefs.

A Kansas farmer, for instance, writes as follows:

"There is a condition existing on farms in this locality which can work no good. I am contributing to the evil along with the rest. Five of the farms listed in this report are usually vacant or occupied by temporary residents wholly or in part on relief. What takes their place, the farmer who has a better foothold rents another farm, buys a tractor and combine, puts a larger area in small grain, and runs two farms instead of one. It may be modern but it doesn't have a very bright future."

An Iowa contributor thus: "To survive it becomes necessary for us to use tractors and farm at least 200 acres alone to make it. Hired help difficult to secure at least WPA prices, consequently the farming operators are turning to labor-saving machinery in so far as possible."

And an Illinois farmer says: "Our hired man is hired the year round at $40 per month. Says he believes he will join WPA's who he says have short hours, off days, plenty of leisure, and always looking for surplus relief stuff and get paid for following the lines of least resistance."

It Happened In... 1914

A few people can remember Wellington as being much less modern, more prosperous and less sanitary than today when it happened that, according to The Wellington Leader files:

"At a meeting of the City Council yesterday, the new members were installed. The new council is as follows: Clarence Strong, Mayor; W. V. Davis, Clerk; J. T. Howell, J. L. Brooks, A. E. Brady and J. W. Payne, Aldermen."

Commissioner Goodnight was down from his excellent home in the Buck Creek Community this week looking after the affairs of the county at the monthly commissioners' court meeting.

Mrs. C. C. Small entertained at Progressive Rook Tuesday afternoon. The guests were: Mesdames Hudson, Hardy, Buster, LeDerer and Scott. Misses McIlhaney, Edwards, Chrisman, Greer, Fuller, Small and Wood.

D. P. Winegart, a splendid citizen of the Plymouth community was trading with the enterprising Wellington merchants on Friday last.

An interesting account was given by J. Marvin Hunter of the 50th anniversary celebration of the battle of Adobe Walls by citizens of the Panhandle. Adobe Walls was located 75 miles northwest of Amarillo in Hutchinson County. The account follows:

Aroused to "fanatical pitch" by their medicine man in 1874, 500 Comanche Indians from the government reservation an Anadarko attacked the crude frontier fort of Adobe Walls which was used by travelers as a safe place in which to stop over for the night. One of the travelers had thought the broad Indian trail which he crossed meant trouble and hurried to tell the other 27 whom he found at the fort. He was laughed at by them and convinced only one that his alarms were well based. During the night the Indians attacked and for five days this band of "28 straight shooting plainsmen" held the Indians at bay and finally convinced them that it was useless to fight long.

Jehoshaphat: A King, A Guide

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 30.

Text: II Chronicles 17:1-6, 9.

Like his father Asa, Jehoshaphat had to face a major problem in the worship and ideals of the people. The vigor of the measures that he took to suppress idolatry indicates the hold that false worship had taken upon the people.

False worship means false ideals and practices; and this was particularly true where the worship of Baal, into which the unfaithful were lapsing, was mixed up with licentious and debasing rites, and the moral practices that were contrary to the purity of family and social life upon which the supreme teaching of the teachers and prophets of Israel laid such emphasis.

There are times when the true king or statesman must show his strength of character and his capacity for service as much in opposing the popular trend as in expressing the will of the people. In our modern democracy where so much stress is laid upon majority rule, we are apt to forget that there are great moral and social issues that are never settled by mere majorities.

In the long run it seems fairly well established in history that majority rule is better than minority rule, and that the voice of the people may be more nearly the voice of God than the voice of some corrupt or self-seeking ruler or of some self-seeking ruling class.

But there are times when waves of popular debasement seem to sweep over a people. We have in fact stressed something of this in our recent American life. The immense increase of drinking and drunkenness, the widespread and deeply rooted development of all forms of gambling, the great increase of marital infidelity and divorce, with a general lowering of standards in relations between the sexes—these and many other things have been very acute problems in recent years.

The fitness of leaders is to be judged not by the extent to which they yield to popular clamor and demand, but by the firmness with which even at considerable sacrifice they stand out for integrity and decency. In the long run it is this type of leader who most truly represents the people and who becomes established in popular regard. Our national men of honor have not been the tricksters and the corrupt and self-seeking politicians, but the men who showed some allegiance to higher ideals of statesmanship and service.

Jehoshaphat was a king of this type. He did not believe that it was a king's part simply to give the people what they wanted. It was his duty, rather, to guide the people toward what was best and to suppress in every reasonable way everything that was making for the debasement of the people.

Majority rule does not alter the rigorous demands of righteousness, truth and justice. A task of democracy is so to educate and train a people that these fundamental things become the basis of all thought and life.

A Nation-Wide Housing Problem

Eat Eggs For Stamina

By RUTH J. COOPER, Home Economics Consultant
Breeder-Feeder Association

In a study of American diets, representing a wide range of conditions both rural and urban, the amount spent for eggs was 5.5% of the total spent for food. In comparison to the amount of nutrition derived, this is too low by half. We need about one egg per day or approximately 30 dozen eggs per person per year, or about 11% of the food budget.

Eggs are protective foods. Both the yolk and white are rich sources of protein. An average egg of 70 calories contains about 60% of the protein in the white and 40% in the yolk. Raw egg yolk is easily digested but raw egg white often causes digestive disturbances. That is the reason that egg white is cooked just enough to coagulate the albumins, for then it too, is easily digested.

Fat, and in general, the minerals in eggs are to be found in the yolk. The most important mineral is iron. While the amount is small, it is constant and in a very usable form. One egg furnishes about one-tenth of the daily iron requirement.

Eggs are a rich source of vitamins, containing all except

"C." This wealth alone would place them in the protective foods class without their other qualifications.

An egg is an egg whether it is taken into the diet straight or in combination. Eggs may be used in any of the various methods of cookery and with almost any food. Egg and milk combinations are nutritious and palatable. They round out the protective diet and are insurance against nutritional deficiency.

CUSTARD

2 eggs or 4 yolks; 2 tablespoons sugar; 1-8 teaspoon salt; 2 cups milk (scalded); 1-2 teaspoon vanilla; whipped cream.

Soft Custard—Beat eggs slightly, add sugar, salt and gradually add milk. Cover over low heat either in a double boiler or very low flame, stirring constantly, until the custard coats the spoon. If cooked beyond this stage, it will curdle. Strain. Flavor and chill. Serve with whipped cream.

Baked Custard—Combine as for Soft Custard. Strain and flavor. Pour into custard cups and set cups in a pan of water to the depth of about one inch. (Continued on Back Page)

"If that's pure United States up there, I'm glad we're not annexed," he commented.

Land Use Studied Encampment

Attend At Country July 21-22

Women representatives from home demonstration clubs attended Land Use Planning, as sponsored by the state extension service when they met for their annual encampment Friday evening and Saturday morning, July 21 and 22 at the Wellington Country Club.

Appearing on the program were four women who attended the short course at A. and M. college earlier this month, along with home demonstration club members from throughout the state. Recreation, including folk games and swimming, was under the direction of Mrs. L. C. Pharis.

Taking as her subject the theme of the program, Mrs. Cecil Masten discussed land use planning as it is being carried out in the different counties of the state. The keynote of her talk came when she pointed out that farm people will have to solve their own problems, along with the help of those trained in agricultural work. Mrs. Masten also discussed "Buying Problems of the Home," in which she gave pointers which enable the farm wife to get more quality for the money which she pays out.

Mrs. Jess Cook told of yards picked out at College Station and demonstrated as well planned. Flowers, she pointed out, should be planted in beds at the back of the house, while evergreen shrubs and a few perennials are to be used as foundation plantings.

"Can You See Ghosts," was discussed by Mrs. Howden Glasgow, who described home demonstration work as building toward better living to have a fuller, richer and more complete life.

"Young people have opinions of their own, but often they are too polite to tell their parents what they really think of them," said Mrs. L. C. Pharis in her discussion of "What Kind of Parent I Should Like to Be." "Children are proud of their parents, and if they had to pick their own, they would choose the same two parents they have," she added.

Concluding the talks, Miss Margaret Moser, home demonstration agent told of the trip of Mrs. J. L. Morris, president of the Texas Home Demonstration Association, to London to represent Texas at the meeting of the associated County Women of the World.

Swimming, a supper spread picnic style, and games followed the program. Those who spent the night at the club grounds enjoyed an early swim and cooked their breakfast out of doors before returning to their homes Saturday.

Attending the encampment were Mrs. Dora T. Ryan, Miss Moser, Mrs. Frank Carreker, Mrs. Gus Gooch, Mrs. A. R. Clay, Mrs. W. R. Breeding, Mrs. John Groves, Mrs. Ernest Brown, Mrs. J. C. Breeding, Billye Lee Roark, Lyna Mae Lowry, Mrs. Ike Rogers, Mrs. Lee Roark, Mrs. John Daffron, Mrs. John McWhirter, Mrs. Pharis, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Glasgow, Mrs. J. W. McCracken, Mrs. A. N. Hutcherson, Mrs. H. E. Lindley, Mrs. George Deger, Mrs. G. L. Jones, Mrs. S. D. Shaw, Mrs. D. G. Mahaffey, Naomi York, Geraldine Shaw, and Mrs. Masten.

Movement of Every Farm- In Collingsworth

Texas-born movement to put more food on the farm family table reached national proportions when 100 state farmer-committeemen met in Washington last week to draw up the 1940 farm program, and provided for home gardening assistance by the AAA next year. Setting up a general outline from which specific provisions for the new program will be drafted, the conferees recommended a $2 allowance for family gardens, and a $2 deduction from payments otherwise earned if the farm family plant a garden, where state agricultural conservation committees are willing. This move should be of interest to every farm operator in Collingsworth County, W. K. Cottingham, county agent, said, since a large number of farmers and farm women already raise their home food supply, while others in the section are being urged to do so.

There was no doubt about the Texas state committees' feelings on the matter, since it was the first in the nation to seriously suggest garden payments.

George Slaughter, chairman, and Charles Thomas, member of the committee, attended the conference with E. N. Holmgreen, state AAA administrator.

"When you realize there are reported to be more than 200,000 gardenless farms in the state, this action is highly significant," Slaughter asserted, on his return to headquarters at Texas A. and M. College. "Federated club women, Extension Service workers and homemakers, members of the Texas Agricultural Association and others who have urged garden assistance are to be commended for their efforts. Two dollars isn't much, but in some cases it may mean the difference between an adequate garden and none at all."

Victory Prelude: Feller Takes Over

This pitching mound conference was key to American Leaguers' 3-1 triumph over Nationals in annual All-Star game at Yankee Stadium, New York. With word of encouragement, Joe Cronin, Boston Red Sox shortstop, hands ball to Bob Feller, Cleveland Indians' pitcher, as Bill Dickey, New York Yankee backstop, looks on. Sacks were loaded with Nationals in sixth inning when Feller came in. He threw once. Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh Pirates' shortstop, hit into double play, checking threat.

Care Of Soil Returns Fertility To Worn-Out, Worthless Farm

MEMPHIS.—When John D. Reed bought a 100-acre farm near Lakeview, about 12 miles southwest of Memphis, in 1930, residents of the community were astonished. Everyone, they said, knew that the farm was washed away, that it wouldn't produce enough to pay for the cost of the seed—that it was worthless. But John Reed thought he knew what he was doing—he had studied the worn-out farm and had a plan which he intended to carry out.

Today, John Reed's farm is one of the best in this part of the country. Fertility of the soil is increasing each year and crop yields are growing in proportion. From his modern home, equipped with all conveniences—electricity, gas, refrigeration—Reed can look out upon fields which belie the fact that the topsoil practically had been washed away nine years ago. Reed had rebuilt a farm.

It was no simple task that Reed undertook, however, when he came into possession of the 100 acres in 1930. The farm is in the natural drainage of about eight sections of land. Flood water, rushing down the unprotected slopes had washed away most of the topsoil. Gullies from six to eight feet deep were eating through the center of the farm. Reed set out to check this severe erosion and to rebuild the fertility of the land.

With the aid of the county agent he constructed nearly five miles of terraces designed to retain the maximum amount of flood water and silt coming down the drainage way. Next, he set about filling in the gullies. Wire check dams were constructed in the larger gullies, and then anything that might aid in filling in the ditches was dumped in—old worn-out farm equipment, rocks, barnyard residue, trash and hundreds of loads of cotton burs obtained from nearby gins. In one deep gully near the lower field border an old section harrow was placed on end in the bottom of the ditch and covered with hog wire.

Reed soon began to get results. As flood water, heavily-laden with silt swept down from above with each heavy rain, rushed down upon Reed's farm, the terraces spread the water over the farm. Check dams and other obstructions placed in the gullies served to catch and hold a vast amount of silt. Breaks often occurred in the terraces because of the large amount of water they were called upon to handle, but Reed immediately repaired the damage to the structures.

The system has worked well. The six and eight-foot gullies now have silted in until they are difficult to locate. Several feet of topsoil has been added to many spots of the farm. Where it was out of the question to think of crossing gullies with farming equipment nine years ago, Reed now is able to farm across the entire field. At the same time Reed has been building up his own farm, he has benefited the farm below by checking the rush of water which was cutting gullies on the adjacent land.

"During the first few years my cotton would not grow over a foot high, but now it reaches a height of two-and-a-half feet," Reed says. In 1937, he produced four tons of sorghums on 28 acres, while in 1938 he harvested 14 tons from 30 acres. Forty acres yielded 10 bales of cotton in 1937, while 37 acres produced 12 1-2 bales last year. Only 1,400 bundles of cane were harvested from 10 acres in 1937, while 14 acres yielded 8,000 bundles in 1938.

Despite his success in restoring the fertility of his farm, Reed was not satisfied. This year he has sought the aid of the Soil Conservation Service CCC camp at Memphis in establishing a complete erosion control program on his farm.

Terraces have been increased in height and width in order to guard against breaks in the future. The back side of each terrace is being broadcast or drilled to sudan grass or sorghums to give strength to the structures and to provide supplemental feed. Border strips of Sudan and sorghums are planted around the field to provide protection against erosion hazards. A flexible system of strip cropping and crop rotation of cotton, sorghums and Sudan has been worked out whereby cotton, which does not resist erosion, will not be grown in the same strip in successive years. Grazing of stubble is being restricted while a trench silo is used for storing feed reserves.

Reed estimates that his crop yields have been increased by a minimum of 25 per cent on all of his land and that yields have been doubled on some portions, and at the same time he has built a practically worthless farm into a highly productive unit.

Harry de Board, 11, of Coatesville, Pa., won the 1939 national marbles championship, played at Wildwood, N. J., and received a free trip to the New York world's fair.

Farm Security Notes

FALL GARDENS

The value of the fall garden cannot be overestimated. It is an important factor in reducing the grocery bill, and it supplies a type of food needed by people at a season of the year when meat and bread comprise too large a portion of the daily ration. With proper care, much food can be produced in the fall garden.

If the moisture in the soil is adequate, the fall garden should be a continuation of the summer garden. All weeds should be cut and removed before the soil is plowed. Some trampled manure that has dried out may be spread over the garden and disced into the soil. In sandy areas where there is ample rainfall, commercial fertilizer mixtures may be used to stimulate quick plant growth.

It is advisable to secure one-fourth more seed for fall planting than for spring gardens. The germination of seed at this season is poor. Consequently more seed are necessary to secure a good stand.

Seed with a hard seed coat, such as spinach, should be soaked in warm water over night before planting. It is a good plan to press the soil around the seed at time of planting.

Irish potatoes can be made to come up more readily by covering the potatoes with damp sacks until they have sprouted. Then cut them into seed pieces and plant.

Pinto beans, Irish potatoes, cabbage, carrots, and other such vegetables should be planted in August to give them time to mature before frost. Vegetables which require a shorter growing season may be planted later in the fall.

Insect pests are one of the limiting factors in fall gardening. For insects which eat the foliage of the plant, it will be necessary to dust, or spray the plant with poison material such as calcium arsenate or arsenate of lead. One pound of calcium arsenate to ten gallons of water or one-half pound of arsenate of lead to fifteen gallons of water will not make the vegetables unsafe for table use.

To control plant lice, spray with one and one-half teaspoonfuls of nicotine sulphate mixed into one gallon of water. If the temperature is above 75 degrees F., nicotine dust may be used. Mix one pound of nicotine sulphate to twenty pounds of hydrate lime.

Summer is officially here. Days are at their longest. Problem number one in the minds of meal planners is what appetizing foods can be served these hot days. One answer to that question is home-baked quick bread. Even when it is extremely hot no family is satisfied with all-cold meals.

Some kind of nutritious bread should be served at every meal to those who need plenty of energy food. If the family gets barely as many fruits and vegetables as it needs, at least half of the bread may well be made from whole-grain flour or meal. Whole-grain cereals, in addition to supplying material for energy, help to reinforce the diet in some of the vitamins and minerals needed by the body.

Made-to-order for summer baking at home are the quick breads, which can be stirred up in a hurry, and baked quickly. This summer home bakers are finding that wheat flour and cornmeal are unusually abundant and low in price.

Most of the quick-bread recipes calling for flour are worked out on the basis of all-purpose wheat flour. However, whole-wheat flour may be substituted for all or part of the wheat flour, cup for cup, in recipes for muffins, biscuits, waffles, griddle cakes, and fritters. For these breads, any mild-flavored edible fat makes a suitable shortening. The best liquid for food value, flavor, and texture is milk. In any quick bread except pop-overs, sour milk may be substituted cup for cup for sweet. One-half teaspoonful soda is required to neutralize one cup of sour milk.

Quickest to make of all quick breads are muffins. They are excellent for any meal. A good hot dish for the cool of the morning may be waffles or griddle cakes. The favorite dish made from corn meal since the Indians started it has been corn pone. Hot biscuits are the universally favored of all hot breads.

Miss Templeton On Scholarship Tour In North

Study Of Business Firms In St. Louis and Camp Work Included

ST. LOUIS.—A Wellington girl achieved national recognition recently when it was announced by the Danforth Foundation that Olivia Templeton had been awarded the 1939 Home Economics Danforth Fellowship for two weeks' study in St. Louis, and two weeks' leadership training at the American Youth Foundation Leadership Training Camp at Shelby, Michigan. The summer fellowship is given jointly by the Ralston Purina Mills, and William H. Danforth, founder and chairman of the board of this national feed and cereal organization.

Miss Templeton arrived in Saint Louis, July 16. For four weeks she will be a member of one of the most representative groups of home economics students in the United States. With junior students representing 35 leading state colleges she will have an opportunity to view the "inside" of big business and study the relationship between home economics and industry, and learn of the opportunities now open for young women with a home economics background. The fellowship program is designed to give young women on the brink of graduation from college a pre-view showing of what to expect in the business and professional world, and to aid them in "catching hold" immediately upon graduation, rather than changing from one position to another the first few years out of school.

As winner of the fellowship, Miss Templeton will be taken on inspection trips of large wholesale, manufacturing, and industrial plants. Research Laboratories, department stores, and the problems of institutional and hotel management will be studied under experts. A trip to a large experimental farm is included in the schedule.

The last two weeks will be spent at the American Youth Foundation Leadership Training Camp on Lake Michigan. Leadership courses for personality development and enlargement of abilities will be taught by nationally known educators, ministers and professional men and women. A well-planned recreational program will be coupled with study at this camp where hundreds of young women meet annually for a fortnight of training and fellowship.

Miss Templeton is typical of the young women chosen for this honor. She was selected from the entire junior home economics class of the Texas State College for Women this past spring because of her outstanding scholarship record, wide participation in campus activities, religious interest, and all-around development.

At college, Miss Templeton has been vice president of Mary Swartz Rose, and secretary of Phi U. Also active in Panhandle, Advisory Council, Chaparral, Alpha Chi and Alpha Lambda Delta.

both food supply and technical phases of raising.

On display will be peaches, grapes, plums, late cherries, early pears, watermelons, cantaloupes and tomatoes. Should anyone in the county have any fruits other than those listed, he is urged to bring these in to be shown.

The program for the day has been announced with these features:

10:30 to 10:45: "The place of fruit in the diet of the farm family," Miss Camp.

10:45 to 11:45: "Fruit varieties that will grow in Collingsworth County," J. F. Rosborough.

11:45 to 12:00: Questions.

12:00 to 1:30: Lunch and studying of exhibits.

1:30 to 1:45: Identification contest under the direction of Miss Camp.

1:45 to 2:30: "Developing, maintaining and managing a home orchard," Mr. Rosborough.

2:30 to 3:00: "Attractive dishes prepared from fruits," Miss Camp.

3:00 to 3:45: Award of ribbons, Mr. Rosborough.

"Every person who possibly can is cordially invited to attend this show and see just what can be done here," said Mr. Cottingham. "The chief purpose of this festival is to create more interest in home fruit supply in the county, and although this county is generally known as being a hard county in which to raise fruit trees, we sincerely believe that after you see just what is being done here, it will be an inspiration to work harder toward increasing the number of fruit trees here."

Prizes will be awarded in two divisions, plates of fruit containing six specimens, or in the case of grapes, one pound, and for half-bushel containers of fruit. Classes included in this are peaches, pears, grapes, and tomatoes.

singers who come for the entire day from within the county are urged to bring well filled baskets.

In addition to the regular singing, a number of quartets, trios, and duets have been secured to sing both Saturday night and Sunday, and others are expected to accept between now and Sunday. E. F. Cook of Amarillo; Horace Lowe of Kirkland; Lonnie Cooper of Vinson, and the Shelton Brothers of Dallas.

Classes will be held five and one-half days a week and both day and night classes will be conducted. The day classes will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning and continue until 3:45 in the afternoon. Night classes will open at 8:30 and close at 10 o'clock.

Both class and private lessons will be taught, and a moderate tuition will be charged for each.

"Our school is open to singers and musicians of all ages and to both beginners and advanced students. In schools conducted in the past, we have had many students as young as 10 and 11 years of age," said Grady Bradford

Tuesday morning.

Assisting the Bradford brothers in their school will be Miss Mildred Coleman of Chillicothe, who will teach piano and piano accordion lessons. Miss Coleman is a talented musician who has studied both at Vernon and in Dallas for a number of years.

In addition to piano and piano accordion, private lessons will be given in rudiments of music, harmony, sight reading, ear training and chorus directing.

This is the first singing school to be held in Wellington in several years.

THEY COMPARED BRAKES and found the Ford hydraulic brakes the biggest ever used on a low-priced car. Greatest in total braking area. The only ones with 12-inch drums.

THEY COMPARED RIDES and found Ford levellest in starts and stops and on the turns and over rough going. Its passenger ride-base, on transverse springs, is much the longest at the price.

THEY COMPARED ENGINES and found the Ford V-8 fastest, most powerful, and the best all-around performer at the price. It's the only low-priced V-8 in the world.

THEY COMPARED COSTS and found the 85 horsepower Ford V-8 gave more miles per gallon in this year's Gilmore-Yosemite run than any other leading low-priced car.

THEY COMPARED CHASSIS and found Ford the steadiest riding because it's the only car at the price with Torque-tube Drive and 4 radius rods for fully stabilized ride.

THEY COMPARED QUALITY and found Ford alone at this price using valve seats on all valves, semi-centrifugal clutch, and a lot of other things that spell fine car engineering!
