Crowds Gather For Annual Round-Up

Second Primary Election Saturday Will End Nine Races

Three County Contests Will Be Decided

Interest Aroused In State Races By Endorsement Of Governor-Nominate

Citizens of Lynn county will go to the polls Saturday to elect three county officials.

Effect of the endorsement of W. Lee O'Daniel of six state candidates on outcome of state races is a problem, observers agree. His action, though, has tended to increase interest in the election and will without doubt bring out a larger vote than there would have been otherwise.

For lieutenant governor, Coke Stevenson of Kimble county, long a member of the House of Representatives and twice its speaker, is opposed by Pierce Brooks, Dallas county business man and once an unsuccessful candidate for governor. In the first primary Brooks led Stevenson by considerably more than 100,000 votes. O'Daniel has endorsed Stevenson, while Sen. G. H. Nelson, formerly of Tahoka, and an unsuccessful candidate for the office in the first primary, has endorsed Brooks.

In the race for attorney general Walter Woodul of Houston and Gerald C. Mann of Dallas are the candidates. Woodul is a successful attorney of Houston who has had a leading part in Texas politics for a number of years and is now serving

J. R. McIntyre, 80, Buried Monday

A resident of Lynn county exactly thirty-one years, John R. McIntyre, 80, died in a Lubbock hospital just before noon Sunday from Bright's disease.

Funeral services were held at the Tahoka Methodist Church Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Rev. George A. Dale, pastor of the Baptist Church officiating. Burial followed in Tahoka Cemetery under direction of Harris Funeral Home.

Though Mr. McIntyre had been in ill health for several years, he did not become seriously sick until a few days before his death. In fact, two weeks ago the family took a trip to the Gulf coast country, and while returning Mr. McIntyre became ill. He was carried to a hospital and had lingered between life and death for several days before the end came.

He was born January 19, 1858, at Evergreen, Alabama. He came to Texas with his parents at the age of 15 and lived two or three years in Tyler and in Comanche county, finally locating in McLennan county, where he grew to manhood. He bought a piece of land in Bosque county and lived there until he met Miss Elizabeth Smith of Hamilton county, whom he married on Thanks, Merchants!

The management of The Lynn County News wishes to thank the merchants of Tahoka who have co-operated in every way possible to get this week's issue out one day earlier than usual.

This issue, like several others of late, has been issued under adverse circumstances, due to illness of the editor.

We trust that each of you receive just return from your advertising this and each other week.

Tahokans Get Degrees At Tech

Among those receiving degrees at Texas Technological College, Lubbock, Wednesday were:

W. T. Hanes, superintendent of Tahoka schools, Master of Arts.

Skiles Thomas, Bachelor of Arts in Sciences.

Sylvester Reese, Bachelor of Arts.

Lucille Tarrance, daughter of W. G. Tarrance of Lubbock but formerly of Tahoka, Bachelor of Arts in Home Economics.

Brady Nix, former teacher for several years at Wilson, Bachelor of Science in education.

Buses Will Run Next Friday

The Tahoka school buses will make their regular runs Friday, September 2, at their usual time. This is being done for two reasons: first, that the driver and patrons may see just where the bus route will be, and second, that all Juniors and Seniors who ride buses may come for registration on that date.

Due to other rushing business, the bus routes have not been definitely established but will be practically the same as they were last year.

The Dixie route, of course, is new. It has not been worked out definitely but will be within the next few days.

School officials earnestly request school bus patrons to have your youngsters at the various bus stops at the appointed time. They wish to remind you that if a bus carries 40 youngsters and each fellow delays the bus just 1 minute the group will arrive at school 40 minutes late. You have been mighty patient and cooperative in the past and it is believed that you can be depended on in the future.

Lighted Football Field This Year

Night football will come to Tahoka this fall for the first time, a contract having been signed for the installation of a lighting system within the next two weeks, according to members of the school board.

The lighting system will be one of the best available. Eight 55-foot poles will carry 32 1500-watt lamps and reflectors, which should light the gridiron as light as day. The system will be as good as that used by any other high school in this immediate section, it is said.

Increased attendance at games, it is hoped, will pay for the expense of equipment and electricity.

With the lighting of the Tahoka field, every school of this size or larger on the South Plains has a lighted gridiron.

Educated Horse At Round-Up

"Silver King", a educated horse owned by L. I. Stewart of Big Spring, will go through his repertoire of tricks at each performance of the rodeo here Thursday and Friday.

The horse is said to be one of the best "educated" horses in the West.

ON FISHING TRIP

C. T. Tankersley, Joe Tankersley, Jim Burleson, Henry Stewart, and J. D. Hodge left Saturday for the Rio Grande River hunting catfish. They expected to be home in time for the Round-Up.

THE OLD WEST LIVES AGAIN!

Expert-roping, cow-wrestling, hard-riding, cowboys are here today from all over the West to attempt to tame Beutler Bros. bucking bronchos and wild Brahma steers. Spectators at the rodeo arena west of Tahoka will see such riding as the above pictured cowboy on the hurricane deck of Chain Pool, one of the hardest bucking horses in America.

More Customers Needed On Rural Electric Line

Any community in Lynn county wishing rural electric service and able to meet the requirements of three customers to the mile may be eligible to become a part of the Lyntegar Rural Electric Cooperative, Inc. and should get in touch immediately with John Heck, Wilson, president and co-ordinator.

The cooperative has been allotted $300,000.00 by the Federal government through the REA, enough to build 300 miles of high line. Previously $175,000.00 had been promised, and officials of the co-op had been working on a 175-mile line proposition, but at a meeting in Austin last week the allotment was increased.

Mr. Heck was elected as co-ordinator of the Lyntegar Co-operative at a meeting held here Monday afternoon, attended by Tom Garrard, attorney; James F. Daniels and S. W. White, Meadow; A. R. Hensley, Draw; Mr. Heck, Wilson;

O'Donnell Gets First 1938 Bale

O'Donnell received her first bale of 1938 cotton late Monday afternoon, according to W. G. Forgy, editor of the O'Donnell Press.

J. B. Moore who lives five miles south of O'Donnell, in Dawson county, brought in the staple. The Farmers gin ginned the cotton.

Tahoka School Teacher Resigns

Lloyd Harris, teacher of seventh grade work and assistant coach, has filed his resignation with the Tahoka school board.

He expects to accept a position in the Lamesa school system. He taught here one year.

Road Boosters Going To Tatum

Towns along U. S. Highway 380 (State Highway 84) will send boosters to Tatum, New Mexico, Monday to offer congratulations to that town and state on progress of the route from Roswell east to Tatum.

J. E. Shelton of Brownfield is sponsoring the booster trip, while Hon. Tom Garrard is urging that this town be represented at Tatum.

Work is going forward on various sections of U. S. 380, and prospects of a completely paved route are brighter than ever before.

Start Enrollment In High School

Tahoka school officials are urging all High School Juniors and Seniors to come for registration Friday, September 2. Seniors will register Friday morning at 9 o'clock and Juniors will register Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Officials say that they cannot emphasize too strongly the necessity and importance of all above mentioned students being present at the hours mentioned. Some classes will be crowded this year and naturally it will be first come, first served. You will notice that the only date mentioned for registration of Juniors and Seniors is Friday, September 2, therefore if you fail to register on that date you may or may not get your wishes in regard to elective subjects, textbooks, and materials.

Baptist Church Nears Completion

The new Baptist building will be completed by September 1, Rev. George A. Dale, pastor, says.

Carpenters are finishing up work on the auditorium this week, and next week they will remodel and rearrange the basement.

Painters are busy this week, and they expect to get through some time next week.

Pews and other furniture for the auditorium have been ordered but will not arrive for two or three weeks yet.

Rev. Dale says the church expects to have a formal opening of the building the week of Sept. 15 to 25.

The new structure is one of the most modern of church buildings and will be among the first in Texas to be completely air-conditioned.

Election Party Saturday Night

An election party will be staged on Main Street Saturday night beginning with the closing of the polls at 7 o'clock. The affair is sponsored by Tahoka Drug.

All precinct election officers are requested to phone or bring in returns as quickly as possible in order that citizens and candidates may know the outcome.

Three Negroes Are Laying Out Fines

Three negroes, Thomas Jefferson, Eddie Mable, and Will Mitchell, were fined $100.00 and costs each one day last week for the sale of un-tax-paid beer.

The negroes were arrested by the Sheriff's department in the Grassland community. Unable to pay the fines they are laying them out in jail.

Everything Set For Opening Of Show

Rodeo, Parades, Music, And Free Barbecue Are Center Of South Plains Attraction

With flags flying from every business building, citizens and visitors gayly garbed in cowboy style, the Western atmosphere everywhere in evidence, the second annual Tahoka Round-Up opens today.

Well known cowboys are here from all over the West and spectators are coming from many surrounding towns.

Tahoka has put the little pot in the big one, and if nothing goes awry there'll be big doin's in this little city this Thursday and Friday.

The two-days' program is scheduled to start with a band concert this morning at 10:30 by the 75-piece State championship Slaton high school band, under the direction of Clyde Rowe.

At noon visitors are invited to spread picnic lunch on the City Park lawn.

At 12:30 o'clock is scheduled a parade of merchants floats, cowboys and cowgirls, led by the Slaton band and possibly other musical organizations, through the downtown section.

At 2 p. m., the first performance of the rodeo opens with a grand entree at the newly erected arena and corral west of the High School building. Then, the big show is on, featuring nationally known riders and ropers in contests of calf roping, steer riding, bronc riding, wild cow milking and bulldogging. Beutler Bros. famous rodeo stock from Elk City, Oklahoma, will furnish the thrills and spills. Lynn Beutler

School Curriculum Being Revised

(By Supt. W. T. Hanes)

The curriculum of Tahoka Public schools this year is being revised in order to comply with suggestions and recommendations of the State Department of Education.

It is hoped and expected that this revision will so enrich the curriculum that the youngsters will be able to actually practice and demonstrate those ideals and attitudes which they are expected to obtain in school.

Parents are reminded that fundamentals are the most vital part of the curriculum and must not be pushed aside for some new "frills and fads". The "New Curriculum" only proposes to present these fundamentals in a new and better way than the old teacher-question pupil-answer way.

The philosophy of the new curriculum is that the most important thing around a school is the pupil. Therefore, the school should be made to fit the pupil. It also believes that the best way to learn to do is by doing; hence, this new curriculum provides for a maximum amount of student activity—with very close teacher supervision, of course.

Subject matter in the grade school will be grouped around five "core areas", namely: Language Arts, Social Studies, Elementary Science, Vocational Citizenship, and Fine Arts.

Patrons are reminded again that none of the fundamental subject matter is being dropped. It is only a sincere effort to make the school an active, interesting workshop, where your youngsters are learning to become active, healthy, happy useful citizens by actually living that kind of lives while in school.

'International Lawlessness'
Deplored by Secretary Hull

By Joseph W. LaBine

International

Last week as neurotic Europe jittered and shivered, Adolf Hitler led 1,500,000 troops through unprecedented maneuvers. In England, there were signs that Neville Chamberlain's "kid glove" policy toward Germany and England was breaking down. In Shanghai, Japan made bold advances on the International Settlement. (See below).

Into such a troubled world stepped U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull to deplore once again the "tide of lawlessness." A good maker-of-points, Statesman Hull listed a seven-point international program to by Germany. Meanwhile, England's Lord Runciman made little progress in his mission to settle the scrap between loyal Czechs and pro-Nazi Sudeten Germans. As negotiations reached an impasse, Sudeten Ernst Kundt warned the government that the "gap is unbridgeable."

Fortnight ago, Chinese nationalists in Shanghai celebrated the first anniversary of Japan's invasion by raising flags and waging guerrilla warfare. Result was an invasion of Shanghai's International Settlement by Jap secret service agents who were promptly spanked and sent home. Last week two French soldiers were seized and taken to the Japanese embassy where they were held despite protests.

Though Shanghai itself now lives peacefully under Tokyo rule, the foreign-owned International Settlement houses 1,000,000 Chinese still loyal to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. Shanghai diplomats feared that Japan might attempt to seize the settlement, a move that would send U. S., Great Britain and France into an outraged uproar.

Meanwhile, Tokyo tightened its belt once more, taking more economy measures to speed up the war in China. Hankow, long-sought objective, still remained 100 miles away from war weary Nipponese.

Business

Last week Secretary of State Cordell Hull reported satisfactory progress with his reciprocal trade treaty program, whereby the U. S. becomes "most favored nation" with a host of governments. Then came a stumbling block, thrown in his path not by a foreign power but by Mr. Hull's next door neighbor, Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace.

In all the world there are wheat surpluses of 975 million bushels. Of this the U. S. has 325 million, Canada 250 million. Easily the biggest competitors in wheat export business, North America's "good neighbors" have made price-cutting moves against each other to sell a major part of the 400 million bushels the world export market needs this year.

What Secretary Wallace suggested last week was an "understanding" on wheat export policy with the Canadian government which has pegged No. 1 wheat at a minimum of 81 cents a bushel and agreed to absorb losses connected with export business. After he reaches an agreement, Secretary Wallace hopes to make a similar provision for U. S. exports, subsidy money to come from customs receipts.

Determined to dispose of at least 100 million bushels on the export market this year, Secretary Wallace might easily disrupt the reciprocal trade treaty by underbidding nations now operating under agreements with Secretary Hull.

Politics

This year, more than ever, state primary campaigns have brought complaints of "dirty poker." In Kentucky, both Sen. Alben Barkley and Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler were accused of misusing federal and state funds to influence voters. Investigating such charges last week, Sen. Morris Sheppard's committee on campaign expenditures found a particularly juicy morsel.

Uncovered in Pennsylvania were letters carrying Sen. Joseph F. Guffey's signature, urging WPA workers to contribute to campaign chests of Gov. George A. Earle, running for the senate, and C. Alvin Jones, running for governor.

Section 208 of the U. S. criminal code forbids solicitation by a federal officeholder of political funds from any person receiving federal compensation. Vehemently denying the charge, Senator Guffey's secretary nevertheless sped word across the Atlantic to his boss, who is touring Europe.

In Wyoming, a quiet primary renominated Gov. Leslie A. Miller, naming Nels H. Smith as his Republican opponent next November. Also renominated was Wyoming's only representative, Paul R. Grever, who will face Frank O. Horton, personal friend of Herbert Hoover.

Crime

In September, 1934, the body of a headless woman was washed ashore on Cleveland's Lake Erie front door. The next three and one-half years produced nine more headless bodies, seven of them men, two of them women. In each case, clues were maddeningly absent; always the same mutilation and cleavage of bodies, always the papers and boxes into which the pieces were packed, always the hopelessness of identification.

Last week, rummaging around a lake front dump, police stumbled on an eleventh victim, headless like the rest. Four hours of patient examination brought no clues. A few hours later crowds swarmed over the dump, uncovered a twelfth torso. Both were women; one may have been a Negro.

As police continued to seek the "mad butcher of Kingsbury Run" they knew only that he was a surgically skilled maniac who apparently has no other motive except a fiendish desire to dissect human bodies.

Sports

In New York's Madison Square Garden, 20,000 fight fans saw dusky Henry Armstrong enter a boxing ring wearing two crowns, world featherweight, world welterweight. In another corner sat Lou Ambers wearing one crown, world lightweight. For 15 rounds they fought at terrific pace as Henry Armstrong clearly held the edge. In the fifth, Ambers dropped under a crushing right. In the sixth, he dropped again under a fusillade of rights. But in the thirteenth he fought Armstrong to a standstill.

At fight's end, Henry Armstrong left the ring wearing three crowns instead of two, the first man in boxing history to hold three titles at one time. But from the audience came jeers, boos, catcalls, straw hats, cigar butts and pop bottles.

Domestic

I am quite confident that he is superior in learning and ability to anyone else available and that his character is equal to his gifts. He has been a dear friend of mine for many years, but I am confident that the judgment I express is not the child but the parent of my affection.

Thus, in 1932, wrote the late beloved Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes regarding Harvard's Felix Frankfurter, whom he wanted appointed to the Massachusetts Supreme court. But famed Jurist Frankfurter declined the offer and

FELIX FRANKFURTER
"He is superior in learning..."

Justice Holmes died. So did another great liberal, Justice Benjamin Cardozo.

To fill Justice Cardozo's post was a job confronting Franklin Roosevelt last week. Since the court already has a liberal majority he would not find it necessary to consider that factor. Some thought a westerner should have the job for reasons of geographical distribution. Others thought it should go to a Jew or Catholic for religious reasons.

Though no appointment was expected before congress reconvenes, pro-Frankfurter sentiment was growing rapidly in Washington. First to climb the bandwagon was Nebraska's Sen. George Norris. Most observers thought Felix Frankfurter would make a good addition to the high court.

Army

Last week, as Adolf Hitler paraded his manpower before the world and England's Leslie Hore-Belisha began "streamlining" Great Britain's army, many an American wondered about his own national defense. To their surprise, investigators learned that U. S. army officials are placing an accent on youth, are moreover tightening efficiency strings.

New regulations require periodic reports on major generals and 12,500 officers below that grade. And, because a score of majors and brigadier generals reach retirement age this year, a wholesale reshuffling of upper ranks is in progress.

But to Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, attending Third army maneuvers at Camp Bullis, Texas, officers were only part of the problem. Said he: "The No. 1 problem facing the United States today from a military standpoint is manpower, which is the worst in our history. There are five reasons, in this order: graft, crime, health, illiteracy and venereal disease."

NEWS
THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Many years ago, this writer, quite unintentionally, aided in making Dr. Ben Reitman of Chicago the first king of the hoboes, by some newspaper stories written with no partisan or political intent. For some reason or other, my name got on the hobo mailing list as a "jungle judge" or "shack" or something and, from time to time, there comes fraternal greetings, campaign literature or news of the order. The latest, from one "Bindle Pete," is quite violently prejudiced against Jeff Davis, the present king, and says he is to be deposed because he rode to Europe on the Queen Mary and because he has been working at Hollywood, helping coach the directors in studies of hobo still-life.

This department has been quite indifferent to the hard luck of kings in recent decades, but it would seem too bad if King Jeff Davis were deposed. He has been a likeable monarch, bald and genial and diligent (perhaps that's the trouble) in the interests of his kingdom, and not making any trouble for anybody.

His father, James Davis, was a journeyman of newspaper mechanical trades in Cincinnati, and young Jeff took to the road at the age of 13, covering more than 1,000,000 miles in his subsequent 40 years of rambling. He assails radicalism in the hobo brotherhood and says he will keep it 100 per cent American. He made more than 2,000 speeches on Americanism during the World War.

How could a hobo ride these slick new chromium trains with the catfish faces? King Jeff probably is working on that.

WHEN she was bad, she was very, very good, and when she was good she was horrid. Not exactly, but, in a rough general way, that was the story of Bette Davis. Hence, while other stars shy away from the hell-cat

Scarlett O'Hara, as not their type, Bette Davis may take her on. Early in her career, Miss Davis played charming hellions with great effectiveness and didn't seem to mind.

She was Ruth Elizabeth Davis, a Massachusetts school girl, changing her name to "Bette" at the age of 12 in preparation for her stage career. She later changed her hair—it is brown—and her general make-up. Entrance to the theater came easily, after a course in a dramatic school. She went to Hollywood in 1932. Her first play, "Broken Dishes," brought few cheers, but, with coaching by George Arliss and better casting, she hit the up-grade.

Trying a break-away from Warners in London in 1936, a ruthless British court condemned her to continued servitude at a top salary. She is one of the few actresses who like unsympathetic roles and she plays them well.

UNTIL recently Franz Lehar was living in Vienna. The news that he is rewriting "The Merry Widow" makes one wonder whether he finds Vienna still merry —whether young writers still write their plays in the cafes along the Kurfurststrasse, as he did in 1905. The world has waltzed along quite a way in the interval between the original and rewritten versions.

Herr Lehar got $300,000 from his overwhelming New York success in 1907. He waltzed it all right into the stock market and bade it good-by. He returned to his native Budapest, lost another lump sum of $75,000 and then became a good business man. His thirty or more operettas, five of which have been produced here, have made him rich.

He is, or was a member of the Vienna Rotary club, attending luncheons faithfully, singing club adaptations of old tunes, wearing a two-inch button with his name on it and engaging in friendly back-slapping—big and gregarious, 68 years old, with his lush mustache touched with gray. He was a "knapsack child," as he put it, the son of a wandering musician. He was a child violinist. Dvorak persuaded him to hang up his fiddle and take to composing.

The Grave of Confucius

The grave of Confucius is in a large rectangle separated from the rest of the K'ung cemetery, outside the city of Q'uh-fow, in China. A magnificent gate gives admission to a fine avenue, lined with cypress trees and conducting to the tomb, a large and lofty mound, with a marble statue in front, bearing the inscription of the title given to Confucius under the Sung dynasty: "The most sagely ancient teacher; the all-accomplished, all-informed king."

Washington
DigestNational Topics Interpreted
By WILLIAM BRUCKART
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—Something like a year ago, quite a furor was raised here by the revelation that the Home Owners Loan Corporation had loaned $40,000 out of its own treasury to its employees who wanted to organize a group which could hire its own doctors on an annual basis. This was public money, because the HOLC is wholly owned by the federal treasury and its function is to loan money on private homes to encourage home ownership. The Group Health association, as it was named, guaranteed medical treatment to its members for a fixed annual fee and hired doctors to do the job.

There was a roar from many quarters at the time because of the use of government money in this manner, but the loudest roar came from the doctors who are members of the District of Columbia Medical society. Few of us realized then, I think, where this controversy was going to lead. I doubt that there were very many persons expected to see the tiny spark fanned into a flame so large. Now, however, that spark has become a national flame, national issue of serious import. For what could be more serious, indeed, than a chance to live when the cold fingers of death creep closer?

The issue as it is now defined, succinctly, is whether the long and honorable history of the medical profession, and all of the scientific assets that this implies, shall be thrown to the winds; whether, in the place of that history and gain and the services of those individual doctors, there shall be created a new basic method, a procedure where the doctors are hired by a corporation subsisting on the annual fees paid by its members who will telephone the corporation offices and say: send me one of your best doctors. In short, as I see it, the issue is whether there is to be personalized, conscientious service or service as lacking in personal interest as a "fill my tank, please," at the gasoline service station.

That is the preface to the recent legal proceedings by our own government against the American Medical association and the District of Columbia Medical society, which are threatened with prosecution as a "trust." The government's action, of course, makes the controversy a national issue, one which interests all of us. The trust busting assistant attorney general, Thurman Arnold, former Yale professor, vows he will break up the "trust" which is the national organization of doctors, but there are those of us who cannot help linking the corporation method of medical practice with Professor Arnold's blast and threats against the doctors who believe in individual practice.

The whole department of justice position strikes me as rather fuzzy, rather asinine and, in some respects, reprehensible. However, if there is to be a complete analysis made and a complete understanding of the situation obtained, it is necessary to know that "President Roosevelt wants it done," and Mr. Arnold is proceeding. It does not seem to matter that there are only a few medical crooks, only a few unethical and unscrupulous medical practitioners; the whole profession must be attacked and defamed. Nor does it seem of great concern to the prosecuting officials that some of those doctors who are promoting corporation medicine throughout the United States have been denied admission to the American Medical association for reasons of character and ethics deemed sufficient to warrant non-recognition.

And while I am about it, I want to pay tribute to that greatest of all American characters, the country doctor. I have personal reasons for offering my humble praise to one of their number, but throughout America there can be found no greater asset. He is a friend and confidant and adviser, minister to the body and the mind. There are some among his numbers that will not have, even do not warrant, respect. But that obtains in every walk of life and my belief is that there are fewer country doctors lacking in honesty and good conscience than in any regular profession or avocation of life.

The country doctor is different from his brother practitioner of the city. The latter probably is better trained, more up to date on all developments of science, perhaps more expert in most fields, but I think I can say without equivocation or doubt because of personal experience that the country doctor is not excelled anywhere among humans for good, common horse sense. And the man or woman who is equipped with horse sense keeps the human race on an even keel.

But to get back to the government proceedings: here we see an action, or threat, against a whole profession that has done as much or more for mankind as the ministers of the gospel. I take it for granted that there are skeletons in the closets of many doctors. There is, and can be, no justification, for example, of some of the high fees charged in cases where people without worldly goods are concerned. Their lives are as valuable as the lives of the richest multimillionaires. There can be no defense, as a further proposition, for laxness and disinterest which are matters of record. But I maintain and shall always believe that there are comparatively few members of the medical profession who fail to give the best that is in them. And when I mention disinterest, I cannot help wondering whether doctors hired by group health associations are going to be much concerned about hurrying to the bedside of an association member after a few years of such practice. The monthly check is going to come in whether the corporation doctor is sympathetic and skillful or apathetic.

But let us get on to another phase; two of them, in fact.

According to the best legal opinion that is available outside of the department of justice, it seems likely that no court will hold the medical society to be a "trust." The organization of doctors is effected for the purpose of maintaining high standards, to keep racketeers out of the profession. Its members must be of good character; they must adhere to rules that are designed for the protection of the layman who obviously is at the mercy of the man trained in the science of medicine and surgery. The whole purpose seems to be the very simple proposition of self-discipline. (I might say just here that New Dealers all along have called for self-discipline among business and professional men.) The medical men want to destroy the type that feeds upon the hopeless individual's desire to regain health, to live; they want to rid society of the abortionist, the quacks and the men and women who traffic in blood. And the question I propound, therefore, is: can such a profession be catalogued in law or in morals as dealers in commodities like steel or oil or calico? If it can be so held under our laws, then there surely is no point in young men and women slaving through six or seven or eight years of training for the profession. They had better go out and start practicing medicine as the unskilled laborer digs ditches.

In this connection, too, it seems proper to mention an implication of a decision holding the medical societies to be trusts. As set down above, membership is based on character and training. If the medical society is a trust, what are all of your fraternal organizations, your civic societies, your clubs, who elect or fail to elect members because of good character or lack of it? The Masonic order, the Odd Fellows, Woodmen of the World? And, what of Knights of Columbus? That great organization for good also could be broken down if a crook, for selfish reasons, would want membership.

And now to the politics of the situation. It appears to me to be a great tactical blunder on the part of the so-called board of strategy which has President Roosevelt's ear. Those men, most of them untrained in political campaigning, have failed to recognize the human element that is involved. They have listened to the generalities of those who have their own nests to feather and have so far forgotten common sense in politics as to propose a move that can be offset by direct, personal contact.

Let us think of the picture here presented in a hypothetical case. Suppose you are a great supporter of President Roosevelt, believe him to be sincere in his announced interest in the masses, praise his courage and his forward-looking program for government. Along comes old man sickness and lays you down flat on your back. Your doctor comes. You know him, have confidence in him, or you would not call him.

Then, after the manner that usually happens, the doctor talks about a number of things with you. Of course, you know something about the government attacks on the doctors and you want to hear the story from the other angle. I would, and so would you. What is all of this about, Doctor? Is there such a thing as a medical trust?

Well, unless I miss my guess, unless my understanding of human relations is as wet as swamp log—you are going to feel that the whole proceeding is quite unfair and possibly you will condemn the man who "wants it done." That thing will go on in thousands upon thousands of households and hospitals, because the smart alecks who started Mr. Roosevelt in that direction put him on the spot.

CORDELL HULL

accomplish this aim: (1) economic reconstruction; (2) adherence to international law; (3) observance of treaties and their orderly modification when necessary; (4) abstention from use of force; (5) non-intervention with other nations' internal affairs; (6) disarmament; (7) collaboration for culture.

To America, Mr. Hull's speech was a warning that U. S. isolation is no longer possible. To European chancelleries it was intended to be a pep talk for internationalism. But as comment drifted back home next day from London, Berlin, Paris, Rome and Tokyo, it appeared Mr. Hull had only made his friends dearer, made his enemies stronger.

Berlin spoke of his "narrow mental horizon." Rome called him "idealistic and impracticable." Tokyo said his speech was a "repetition of his idealistic diplomacy which contains nothing not included in recent pronouncements." But from ally-hungry Paris and London came only praise.

Two days later Franklin Roosevelt found occasion to make another official U. S. utterance on Democracy vs. Dictatorship. At Ontario's Queens university, where he got an honorary degree, the President (1) extended the Monroe doctrine to Canada by promising that "the people of the U. S. will not stand idly by if domination of Canadian soil is threatened by another empire," and (2) took a slap at Hitler, Mussolini, et al, by remarking: "We cannot prevent our people from having an opinion in regard to wanton brutality . . . undemocratic regimentation . . . misery inflicted on helpless peoples." To France this was proof that "the democracies of the world are standing together."

Foreign

Last February 20, dapper Anthony Eden resigned as Britain's foreign secretary because he didn't believe in consorting with dictators. But Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain set out to make friends with Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini. Appointed as Eden's successor was Viscount Halifax.

Next came conversations at Berlin and Rome, a British-Italian friendship pact, a plan to take foreigners out of the Spanish war, an avowal of peace from Hitler. Until last fortnight Neville Chamberlain was a success at winning friends and influencing people.

But a few days later his house of cards collapsed. Italy began anti-British propaganda despite her "friendship" agreement. Hitler massed 1,500,000 men for war maneuvers despite his peace avowal. Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Spain's rebel commander, balked at eliminating foreign fighters, presumably on advice from Berlin and Rome.

What was still more disheartening, Viscount Halifax met secretly with opinionated Anthony Eden and was reported ready to resign. Some thought Neville Chamberlain might also resign, placing weather-beaten Sir Samuel Hoare in line for the premiership.

At Cologne an anti-aircraft gun was planted in front of the U. S. consulate, barking every 20 minutes at an imaginary enemy in the sky. Throughout Germany, troop trains pulled reserves to the borders of France, Poland and Czechoslovakia for Adolf Hitler's 15-day war maneuvers. From many points, foreign observers sent word of wholesale rebellion among workers drafted for "state tasks."

Nowhere was this Nazi show of power more keenly felt than in little Czechoslovakia, where 400,000 troops were secretly mobilized to forestall a sudden invasion move

Section 208 of the U. S. criminal code forbids solicitation by a federal officeholder of political funds from any person receiving federal compensation. Vehemently denying the charge, Senator Guffey's secretary nevertheless sped word across the Atlantic to his boss, who is touring Europe.

In Wyoming, a quiet primary renominated Gov. Leslie A. Miller, naming Nels H. Smith as his Republican opponent next November. Also renominated was Wyoming's only representative, Paul R. Grever, who will face Frank O. Horton, personal friend of Herbert Hoover.

Star Dust

★ Pearl Was Canny
★ Gargan Reduces
★ "Willie" Flops

By Virginia Vale

PEARL WHITE'S death brought out an odd fact, when her father denied that she was forty-nine. She was forty-one, he said, and added that she had just tacked on a few years, long ago, "to keep ahead of Mary Pickford."

A woman who interviewed the serial star in the heyday of her popularity was talking about her recently. "She was an amazing person," she said. "Think of her having sense enough to save money, back in those days when to be a movie star meant throwing it around. I'll never forget, either, going to see her one day, and finding her reading a French book—in French."

It seemed odd, too, that Warner Oland, who so often played the villain in Pearl White's pictures, should have died soon after she did. He was famous in those days, but of course his great success came with his creation of the screen of the character of "Charlie Chan."

"The Crowd Roars" not only gives Robert Taylor a chance to give an excellent performance; it also brings Bill Gargan back to us in a good picture, minus some 20 pounds. Leslie Howard sent for him to come to England and play in "Alias Mrs. Jones," which he is producing, before Gargan made a hit in the new Taylor picture. But the name of the production will have to be changed, probably, when it is shown in this country, otherwise people are going to think it's just another of the Jones family pictures.

If you've seen Hedy Lamarr in "Algiers" you probably have wondered whether she will be one of our A-1 movie stars in a year or so, or will just be making pictures that are nothing special. And if you've seen the announcement that Josef von Sternberg has been engaged to direct her first picture for Metro, probably you're still wondering. Of course, Mr. von Sternberg may not have been responsible for slowing Marlene Dietrich down so that she seemed to be doing nothing but stand around, but sometimes he's been blamed for it.

There are a lot of good pictures at large nowadays; better make a list of them. Include "The Crowd Roars," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Mother Carey's Chickens," "The Rage of Paris," and, if foreign pictures come your way, "May-erling."

Charlie McCarthy has been such a success on the air here that the British Broadcasting company tried out the idea of having a Charlie of their own. They called the puppet "Willie Winkett." And "Willie" was a flop. Which proves how clever Edgar Bergen really is. Incidentally, Bergen is working on another puppet—figuring that, no matter how popular you are, there's always a time ahead when the public grows tired of the same old thing.

ODDS AND ENDS—Watch W. C. Fields make a come-back as author of, and actor in, "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man," and make Paramount regret releasing him. . . . Isn't it good news that Carole Lombard and Bill Powell are to make a picture together again. . . . Harold Lloyd is threatening to turn producer—though he's still in a picture occasionally—and is also considering making his next picture in England. . . . After having too much excitement, seeing too many people, and having the door of a car slammed on her finger, Shirley Temple was actually glad to end her vacation and get back home. . . . Lots of people didn't believe that Simone Simon would really sail off to France without signing a new contract, though the only contract that offered seemed to be one for appearance at a New York night club.

"Why, yes, was there a rumor I had been sick?" Jeff drawled.

"Have you seen Father? He hurried ahead of us to help you."

"No, but I've heard him. Listen."

Three times a revolver barked.

"Sounds like it was up at the head of the street, somewhere near the Golden Nugget," Bob said.

He had guessed accurately. The bullets from that gun had been fired by Norris into the body of Sherm Howard.

"We'd better find your father, first off," Gray said. "He was fighting near the Ransom house half an hour ago. We might take a look over that way."

"My sister is here, too. I want to make sure she's all right."

"She is. I've just left her."

They moved through the cottonwoods, Gray riding behind Bob. In the shadowy moonlight they caught sight of men approaching.

Gray shouted, "Who goes there?"

The voice of Chiswick answered. "That will be near enough, if you're not looking for trouble."

"We're L. C. men, Father," Bob cried. "Bob—and Pat—and the others."

Someone in Lee's party let out a yell of delight. In another moment the two groups had mingled.

"You have a wounded man," Jeff said, looking down at a form stretched on a door.

"You should know it, boy," a voice answered. "You were there when I got the pill."

Jeff Gray found himself trembling. He swung from back of Bob and walked forward. For an instant he had not been sure this was not a voice from the dead.

"Is it you, Hank?" he asked. "I thought—"

"Sure it's me. Chiswick and his lads got to the cabin in time to save me."

They carried the blacksmith to the Presnall house and put him into the room next the one occupied by Curly Connor.

Ruth showed up, white-faced. "Who has been hurt?" she asked.

"Hank Ransom. If you can't sleep, you can stay with Hank and kind nurse him," Chiswick told his daughter. "Can't afford to leave a man. We're liable to be mighty busy when day breaks, and that will be right soon. Our friends from the W J M and the Lazy B ought to be here early. We'll have from twenty to thirty men."

"Is there going to be a fight?" she asked Gray in a low voice.

He answered gravely, "Up to them."

"You mean—a battle?"

"Not if I can help it. If we're strong enough the outlaws will give way. But I mean to capture Howard, Norris, Duke, Mile High, and two or three others. They are desperate men. I wouldn't expect them to surrender tamely."

"They may run away."

"Then I'll have to run after them. Don't worry," he smiled at her warmly. "This job is almost done."

The headquarters of the outlaws were at the Golden Nugget, the cowboys concentrated in the cottonwood grove across the street from Ma Presnall's boarding-house. Since the break of day there had been no firing. Both sides waited. A general battle in the streets would mean the death of a dozen men. Neither party wanted that.

Gray called Chiswick aside. "I'm going up with a white flag to the Golden Nugget. Any minute something is liable to start. We can't have that."

"They'll shoot you down sure," the cattleman protested at once.

"I don't think so," the officer demurred. "Howard doesn't want any massacre. He knows that won't buy him anything."

"What you going to tell them?"

"I'm going to tell them the truth—that I want Howard, Norris, and some of the others. The rest aren't in it. When they know that, the ones we don't want will melt away. They aren't in a sweat to buck the United States government."

"I'll go with you."

"I'd rather you didn't."

"Some of the boys will listen to me who wouldn't pay any attention to you. Five or six of them have worked for me."

"This is my bear-fight."

"It's mine too," Chiswick insisted. "We're busting up the gang that have been rustling my stock."

Jeff gave up with a shrug. He knew Chiswick could not be talked out of a position he had taken. He did not need to mention how great the risk was. The cattleman knew that.

After giving directions to Dan Brand, who was left in command of the cowboy forces, the two men walked up the street toward the enemy. Jeff waved a white handkerchief.

Yorky called from the door of the gambling-house to ask them what they wanted.

"Want to see Sherm Howard," Gray said.

From doors and windows up and down the street on both sides they could see men peering at them. Mile High came into the open.

"You can't see Sherm. He's dead."

Chiswick stared at the lank puncher. "Dead?"

"That's what I said."

This was stunning news. Jeff had depended upon Howard. Villain though the man was, he was a shrewd and wily schemer who used his brains. Sherm knew that whole-sale killing in the open would be fatal to his cause. It would be his policy to avoid it and depend upon trickery to escape later. If it was true that he was dead, his influence against explosive violence would be lost. The marshal felt as does a man who has walked into a den of lions under a safeguard from the trainer, to discover too late that the man with the whip is not at hand to defend him.

In the air there was an electric tension such as that which just precedes a storm. Both the officer and the cattleman knew that neither of them would walk back down Main street again unless they did so as survivors of the gun duel that was imminent. Gray felt there might be one chance, not to escape a fight, but to avoid being the victims of a massacre. That was to tell his story, swiftly, convincingly.

"Who's running yore show?" Jeff asked.

Out of the Golden Nugget walked Morgan Norris. "I'm running it, fellow," he said. "If you want to know, I bumped off Howard because he was a double-crossing son-of-a-gun."

Gray spoke, his voice strong and clear, for all to hear. "I've nothing to say to you, Norris, except that I'm going to drag you to prison where you will be hanged for yore crimes. But I'll talk to some of the men you're leading astray. I represent the United States government. We're going to clean up this country. Tail Holt isn't going to be the home of a nest of rustlers, killers, and holdup men any longer. I'm serving notice. The worst of you are going to be rubbed out. The others had better get good right damn now. I'm going to get my men. By noon we'll have fifty cowboys with us. Take my advice and leave this murderer and his crowd. If you don't, you'll get in as bad as they are."

Norris moved forward, his figure weaving as the crouched body of a tiger does. His thin, cruel mouth was set in a straight line.

"So you aim to drag me to the gallows, do you?" he snarled, his white teeth showing. "Me, Morg Norris! Why, you never saw the day, fellow, I couldn't bust you wide open."

Mile High walked into the street to join Norris. In a doorway to the left appeared Clint Duke, a revolver in his hand.

"Put up that gun!" ordered Chiswick sharply.

Norris' hand swept up from his thigh, a Colt's forty-four in it. There was a streak of light, a roar. Five guns blazed. Everybody vanished from sight except the combatants.

Lanes of fire crossed. Through smoke men's bodies loomed, shifting to and fro, padding here and there like those of animals. The crash of revolvers—the cursing of men—the sudden scream of one hit—all filled the air with dreadful tumult. A rift in the smoke showed Jeff a man on his knees, snarling oaths, still firing at him. The man was Norris. From the officer's gun flame darted. He felt a stab of pain and gave it no attention. Norris was sinking lower. His head touched the dust. The weapon dropped from his hand.

Chiswick was still on his feet. So were both the other outlaws. Smoke —shouts—oaths—hideous faces looming out of the fog. Jeff met Mile High and felt the crash of a gun-barrel on his hat. He closed with the tall puncher and clung fast to him, swaying with dizziness and hanging to the pistol arm that waved wildly trying to get a shot into Gray's body. Another face came out of the mist. An arm swept up and down. Mile High's grip relaxed. He staggered against a wall and slid down.

The noise of the guns had died down. Men came out from open doors cautiously, no weapons in their hands. Only three of the outlaws had taken part. Norris lay still in the dust. Mile High was unconscious, pistol—whipped. Clint Duke had vanished.

"All right with you?" Jeff asked his companion.

"Fine. And you?"

Gray's head was getting clearer. He stepped across to Norris and examined him. The killer was dead.

"Where is Duke?" the marshal asked harshly, speaking to all within hearing.

"He ran into Sanger's," someone said.

Jeff said to the cattleman, "Hang on to Mile High," and walked into Yell Sanger's store.

Duke was trying frantically to unbar the back door. He turned, crouched and panic-stricken, to meet the man advancing on him.

"Keep back!" he yelled, and fired.

A moment later he dropped, a bullet hole in his forehead.

The marshal steadied himself against the counter, then turned and walked slowly back to the street. He looked round on those in sight.

"Any more of you want to bust us wide open?" he asked grimly.

Nobody accepted the invitation. All men knew that law had arrived at Tail Holt to stay.

Jeff gave curt orders. "Every man of you shuck his guns. I'll put one of my boys in Sanger's store to check them when you turn them over. There will be no more helling around. Inside of two-three hours I'll let you know who I want. The rest of you will be free to go."

He put handcuffs on Mile High. Already the cowboys were arriving on the run. Chiswick held up a restraining hand.

"Hold your horses, boys," he said. "Everything is fine and dandy. A few of the dime-novel-bad boys got all het up and we had to knock their ears down. The rest of the lads have decided to be good."

Jeff took over the Golden Nugget and the other saloons. None of the Tail Holt gang made any open opposition.

Before the hour was up, a dozen of the rustlers and outlaws were riding into the brush. It was time to be seeking other pastures.

Ruth met Jeff at the front door of Presnall's and drew him into the sitting-room.

"Are you all right—you and Father both?" she asked anxiously.

"All right," he answered cheerfully. "And our job is done. The boys will eat out of our hands now."

"Frank told me," she cried softly. "It was a crazy thing you and Father did. You promised . . ."

"So I did. We wouldn't have gone if we had known Sherm Howard was dead. But it turned out fine."

"Yes. Yes." She went on, with a little flare of possessive feminine ferocity. "But I won't have you doing things like that . . . now."

"Never again," he promised, smiling into her troubled eyes. "I've been talking with yore father. I'm going to quit the service and go into cattle."

"Thank God."

"You won't be afraid to marry me then, will you?"

Courage was in her eyes like a banner. For better or worse he was to be her man, as long as life lasted. She came to him, with a little gesture of surrender that won his heart.

[THE END.]

Washington Letter to Blair Lobbied for Traders Over Indian Boundary Line

A letter written 170 years ago by George Washington, lobbying for the Virginia traders over a proposed Indian boundary line, came to light recently in the William L. Clements library, notes an Ann Arbor correspondent in the Detroit Free Press.

The British government was about to draw a boundary line west of which no white settlers would be allowed, leaving the territory entirely to the Indians. Some Virginian friends of Washington were furnishing provisions to the British garrison at Fort Pitt and feared that the proposed line would leave part of their route, in what is now southwestern Pennsylvania, in the closed territory.

The Virginian merchants, urging Washington to use his influence with Blair to reach General Gage, were anxious to keep the Cumberland-Pittsburgh route open because their Pennsylvania competitors would not be affected by the proposed boundary line, and Washington was to ask Gage whether three or four supply stations could be maintained along the Virginians' route.

Because Washington thought that Gage would have influence in drawing up the treaty, he asked Blair to place his letter before Gage, urging him to secure from the Indians permission for the supply posts desired by his friends.

The fears of Washington and his friends, however, were groundless, because a report of March 7, 1763, by the Board of Trade, had provided that the boundary should run from Pittsburgh down the Ohio to the mouth of the Kanawha river, and in the subsequent treaty of Fort Stanwix the Iroquois ceded all claims to land east of the mouth of the Tennessee river and south of the Ohio.

Blair had seen the Board of Trade report, but sent Washington's letter to Gage anyway, and soon had a reply that the Virginian trade route would remain open. Unfortunately, four years later, Fort Pitt was abandoned, so that Washington's friends kept their trade route but lost their trade.

Washington's letter instead of a copy, was sent to Gage because Blair was pressed for time.

Private Lives

of a number of exciting people are revealed in our new serial story "The Life of the Party."

It's an amazing and dramatic mystery tale in which neither detectives or police are concerned. A bully story that will keep you guessing from the first chapter to the last. Don't fail to read Elizabeth Jordan's "The Life of the Party!"

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY UNION TO MEET

The seventeenth annual meeting of the Brownfield Association will meet with the Gomez Baptist Church at Gomez, Texas, August 30, 1938. The morning program will be on the theme "Sheaves with Rejoicing." In the afternoon "Our Plans of Work" will be presented.

All Baptist women are invited to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Buel Draper are the parents of a fine little boy born in a Lubbock sanitarium Saturday morning. He weighed 7 pounds and 12 ounces.

VISITORS,

We welcome you to our town!

VISITING PREACHER AT METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. A. M. Dupree of Lubbock will preach for me at the Methodist Church next Sunday morning.

Bro. Dupree is a good preacher and I trust you will give him a good hearing.

We are away for a week's vacation at Lake Kemp.—REV. BEN HARDY.

REVIVAL AT CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

A revival meeting was opened at the Central Baptist Church last Friday night by a Rev. Derr from Central Texas. O. Carpenter of Abilene is conducting the song services.

Rev. Holt is pastor of the church.

BAPTIST REVIVAL AT O'DONNELL

Rev. Paul McCasland, Wilson, opened a revival meeting at O'Donnell Baptist Church Sunday. Singing is under the direction of Ernest Hock. Port Worth while Mrs. Hock is pianist.

Rev. J. A. Lunsford is pastor of the O'Donnell church.

REVIVAL AT BROWNFIELD

Rev. J. C. (Johnie) Cohen of Palestine, who has conducted the song services in several Tahoka Baptist revivals, opened a revival meeting at Brownfield Sunday. The meeting will continue through September 4.

Mrs. W. P. Halgood was taken to a sanitarium in Lubbock Monday suffering from spinal meningitis. She has been ill for six weeks, but this disease has developed within the last few days. The Halgoods live on the R. W. Fenton place.

"Pardons" Among Unique Ceremonies in Brittany

The region of Brittany, whose country and language differ from France, observes unique ceremonies known as "pardons" in honor of local saints, usually unknown to the rest of the world. The most colorful pardons, semi-pagan festivals of the dead dating from pre-Christian days but transformed by the church, are those of Saint Nicodeme, the one at Quimper, and the one honoring the grandmother of Jesus at Sainte Anne de la Palue.

The pardon of Saint Nicodeme centers attention to the blessing of the cattle of the region. Cows are decorated with ribbons and cockades and are led in the procession, with drums beating and banners flying. The animals are then auctioned by the church, and their purchase bringing good luck to the stables where they are taken.

The Bretons believe that Saint Anne, the mother of the Virgin Mary, was a Breton by birth, who before the birth of the Virgin voyaged to Palestine where she made her home. This Saint Anne is really an early goddess of the sea, but no one thinks of her in that role, as the widows of the sea, the women of lost fishermen, form the long procession behind the silken banners as it proceeds to the church for vesper services. The Goddess of the Sea was an imperious and cruel goddess, but under her new name canticles are sung.

Nowhere else in Brittany does one see such rich and gorgeous costumes. Every peasant who owns one of these costumes carefully preserves it year after year in a special cupboard which is never opened except for the day of the pardon.

The finest is worn by the eldest daughter, at whose dressing all the family takes part, the grandmother giving advice as she dresses, instructing the girl to walk in the procession with stately steps of dignified mien. The changing of the litanies during the procession, the muffled tapping of the drums, the silken banners carried by the men, make the scene as glittering and as medieval as anything to be seen anywhere in the world.

Pimento, Ginger, Other Plant Types in Jamaica

Some 2,100 varieties of plant life are to be found in the island of Jamaica so that it is referred to, the world over, as the "botanical garden of the New world."

Pimento and annatto are prominent among the island's products—but pimento is not what the American housewife knows by name, being the common allspice, the berries of which grow in clusters on trees some 30 feet tall. Annatto, not familiar to the average tourist, is a reddish berry which, when boiled, yields an oily extract used as a dye.

The famed Jamaica ginger grows abundantly in patches on the red hillsides. The plant somewhat resembles the currant bush, but only the root is valuable, the tops being crushed and used again as seed. A good yield, Jamaicans say, is 2,000 pounds of ginger to the acre. Orchids, acres and acres of them, grow wild in this land of enchantment. The showy three-petaled flowers of lavender shade stand out in beautiful contrast to the white yucca, the aloe and other tropical blossoms. Then there is the fragrant bougainvillea, the brilliant poinciana, the melon cactus, often called the Turk's Cap, and the Woman Dildos, which produces wool along with the flowers and fruit.

Fish Can Give Electric Shock

There are several species of fish equipped with organs capable of giving an electric shock; these include the electric eel, electric catfish, electric ray or torpedo, electric dogfish, etc. The electric eel is an eel-like fresh water fish of Central and South America, which has the power to discharge electric shocks strong enough to paralyze or kill small fish or mammals and even to stun human beings or large animals like horses and cattle. These fishes, related to the carps and catfishes, attain a length of seven or eight feet. The German traveler Baron von Humboldt found that natives of Brazil and Guiana drove horses into the ponds and streams containing electric eels, in order that the eels might exhaust their electric powers, after which the fishes were caught and used for food. The same writer claimed that the shock sometimes caused the horses to drown.

Ashes of the Great

One of the laws of chemistry, as well as of physics, relates to the conservation of mass, that is, the quantity of matter on the earth. In other words, the chemical elements of which a body was composed are still present in the earth or its atmosphere, no matter what changes may have taken place in them. A well-known quotation from Shakespeare relating to this subject is contained in Hamlet, act 5, scene 1, where Hamlet jests about the dust of Alexander the Great. "Alexander died, Alexander was buried, Alexander returneth to dust; the dust is earth; of earth we make loam; and why of that loam, whereto he was converted, might they not stop a beer-barrel? Impetuous Caesar, dead and turned to clay, might stop a hole to keep the wind away."

Thomas Writes Of Eagle Nest Fishing

A. M. Meadow, W. O. Thomas and Joe Heare catch the fish at Eagle Nest Lake until they let them fish only every other day.

Deen Nowlin and Newt Barham came by but I think they just let them fish about one day.

I caught some small ones and let several big ones get away.

Mrs. W. O. catches them, too. Mrs. Heare uses Old Mexico safety matches to prevent forest fires.

Eagle Nest is a very beautiful part of New Mexico mountains and valleys. Small fields of wheat, oats, and English peas along the valley are now being harvested. The lake is about six miles long and in the widest spot is about two and one-half miles wide.—A. I. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bucy and children returned Saturday afternoon from a vacation trip to Aransas Pass, Waco, and other cities. Fred brought back pictures as evidence that he found excellent fishing in the Gulf. He caught forty fish one afternoon which were from fourteen and sixteen inches long. If you've ever been around Fred when he was finding success at hunting or fishing, you know to some extent how well he enjoyed that Gulf fishing.

Rev. B. Frank Hasty, field secretary for the Relief and Annuity Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, will speak at the First Baptist Church, Lubbock, Monday, September 5, at 7 p. m., on the Ministers' Retirement Plan. This is an open meeting for all Baptist people, but the ministers and deacons are especially urged to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Swafford of Slaton visited their daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Evans, last week end.

TAHOKA BOOSTERS HERE
ADVERTISING RODEO

Neighbor Tahokans were here Wednesday in great numbers, advertising their Rodeo and Celebration which they are putting on for two days, August 25-26. A great number of cars were along, with all kinds of noise makers. Think they must have borrowed Post's toy cannon.

The first day, Thursday, there will be a basket picnic in the city park. Twenty beeves will be barbecued for the second day, with a proportionate amount of onions, pickles, bread and black coffee to feed 10,000 people.

Come again with your noise makers, neighbors.—Brownfield Herald.

Laying hens need a diet with 16 to 17 percent protein in the summer, poultry husbandmen of the Texas A. and M. College of Extension Service say.

FIRST BALE OF DAWSON
COTTON GINNED MONDAY

Lamesa, August 22.—J. H. Foster today brought Dawson county's first bale of 1938 cotton here. It was ginned by the Lamesa Gin Company.

Sold at auction the bale brought 14 cents a pound. W. B. Collins was the buyer. A liberal premium was being gathered by Lamesa business men and the chamber of commerce this afternoon.

Dawson county ranked third in Texas cotton production last year.

The first flowers developed on a melon, cantaloupe, cucumber, and similar vines bear pollen only and cannot develop into fruit. Flowers that may set fruit are borne singly in the first and second axils of the fruiting branches which are produced after the vines have made some growth.

Political
Announcements

The News is authorized to announce the following as candidates for the offices indicated, subject to the action of the Democratic primary August 27th.

For Representative, 119th Dist.:
ALVIN R. ALLISON of Hockley.
T. W. MONTGOMERY, of Lynn.

For County Judge:
P. W. GOAD (re-election)
G. C. GRIDER.

For County Clerk:
GARLAN G. MCWHORTER.
WALTER M. MATHIS

For County Treasurer:
MRS. JEWELL WELLS.
MRS. A. M. DANIEL.

In less than 5 years the cold storage locker system for fruits, meats and vegetables has grown until community units are in operation in 24 states. Many families who use the lockers prefer them to canning and curing.

All measures to control soil erosion have at least one aim in common—to increase the amount of water into the land and to reduce the amount that runs off.

Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Thomas returned last Saturday from a trip to Eagle Nest, Red River, and other points in northern New Mexico. A. I. claims to be quite a fisherman, and no doubt he did get his share.

Strength During
MIDDLE LIFE

Strength is extra-important for women going through the change of life. Then the body needs the very best nourishment to fortify it against the changes that are taking place.

In such cases, Cardui has proved helpful to many women. It increases the appetite and aids digestion, favoring more complete transformation of food into living tissue, resulting in improved nutrition and building up and strengthening of the whole system.

THE O'DANIEL LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM

An outstanding political question for weeks has been: "What kind of a legislative program will W. Lee O'Daniel advocate?"

In press interviews during the past week the governor-nominate has hinted little by little he broad outline of his gubernatorial program.

During the campaign for the nomination, O'Daniel was sparing in his promises. He confined his speeches to sly, witty attacks on "professional politicians," at the same time telling the voters that he favored universal pensions and the industrialization of Texas.

Since the campaign ended, O'Daniel has been interviewed on almost every public question and in a number of cases has given hints of his ideas on these issues.

Listed below are straws in the wind which indicate the direction of his official program:

1. He wants to pay a pension of $30 a month to every Texan over 65 years of age.
2. He favors the abolition of the present system of administering old age pensions, with the likelihood of returning old age administration to county officials.
3. He is against a sales tax; has not committed himself on a gross transaction tax; has said that the job of finding money to finance his $50,000,000 pension program belongs to the Legislature.

4. He favors remission of taxes to Harris County for flood control purpose.

5. He favors the purchase of the Big Bend Park which was last year vetoed by Governor Allred.

6. He has an "open mind" on the question of race track betting.

7. He favors the proposal to canalize the Trinity River as far upstream as Fort Worth and Dallas in order to promote cheap transportation for Texas products.

8. He wants to industrialize Texas. He plans to appoint local committees to decide what types of industry would be best suited to that locality; then the Governor will try to find companies in other parts of the nation who will come to Texas to establish industries.

9. He will name a business advisory council of outstanding Texas business leaders to aid him in the formulation of his policies.

10. He favors an advertising program to attract tourists and industries to the Lone Star State.

11. He says that all appointments to state jobs will be chosen on the basis of merit alone.

12. By inference, he promised the independent merchants during his campaign that he would aid them in their fight against chain stores. This would indicate his inclination to veto any bill reaching the present chain store tax law.

13. He advised University of Texas regents to add courses to the University curriculum which would train students in the arts of salesmanship and give them a better knowledge of Texas' industrial possibilities.

14. He favors a decrease in Texas freight rates. This matter however, rests with the Interstate Commerce Commission which has jurisdiction over all interstate rates.

Aside from the pension plank, the program in general is not radically different from those of past administrations. As a whole, Texans are in sympathy with a concerted move to industrialize the state, however, there is nothing particularly new in such a proposal.

His "open mind" on race track betting will arouse, in due course of time, a bitter controversy in the Legislature. Eventually, he will be compelled to take a stand for or against the issue.

Eventually, also, he must shoulder the responsibility of paying full pensions to all persons over 65. The 570,000 persons who voted for him will not look to the Legislature to find the 50 million dollars for footing the bill; they will look to Governor O'Daniel—and they will not be disposed to take "no" for an answer.—Amarillo Times.

NEWS CELEBRATES 34TH BIRTHDAY

The Lynn County News last week

being about the only thing done in observing the anniversary.

The News is actually 34 years, 10

WELCOME, VISITORS

Tahoka welcomes you, visitors!
We've done a lot of work and gone to a lot of expense to make the Tahoka Round-Up one of the major celebrations in West Texas this year—to make it an entertainment worthy of our town and county.

We want you to feel at home here today and tomorrow and any other day you have occasion to visit our town.

Tahoka has as fine bunch of business men and clerks and other citizens as there is in any town. They enjoy your friendship and will appreciate your business.

The latching string always hangs out at Tahoka.

Welcome!

Tahoka children are getting ready for another school term. We have a fine school plant and some good teachers. The school system needs a little backing and cooperation from the people of the district. Plan now to attend the opening exercises.
Join and attend the PTA. Let us put Tahoka schools on the map.

One of our good friends says Lee O'Daniel is the best salesman he ever saw. He made a success selling flour. Then he sold himself to the people. And, now, before he even gets in office, he sells out the people.

Just another reminder: Don't forget to vote Saturday. There are some important offices to be filled both at Austin and at Tahoka. Use your right to vote, and elect the man you think best fitted for the respective office.

The Lamb County Leader, Littlefield, came out last week with a big special edition celebrating three anniversaries, Lamb County's 30th anniversary, Littlefield's 25th, and The Leader's 15th. The paper was sixty pages in size and carried many interesting articles and liberal advertising patronage.

There's one thing about the Ta-hoka Round-Up that is especially encouraging. It's one thing that Tahoka has sponsored that the town is behind at least 99 percent.

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Lynn County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon L. M. McDonald, the unknown heirs of said L. M. McDonald, and his wife Mrs. Hattie McDonald, and the unknown heirs of Mrs. Hattie McDonald by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest County where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Lynn County, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Tahoka,
Texas, on the Third Monday in September A. D. 1938, the same being the 19th day of September A. D.
1938, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 10th day of August A. D. 1938, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court as No. 1244, wherein
R. E. Bland is Plaintiff, and L. M.
McDonald, and the unknown heirs of L. M. McDonald, and Mrs. Hattie McDonald, and the unknown heirs of Hattie McDonald are Defendants, and said petition alleging:

That R. E. Bland is plaintiff complaining of L. M. McDonald and the unknown heirs of L. M. Mc-Donald and the wife of L. M. Mc-Donald, Hattie McDonald and the unknown heirs of Hattie McDonald are defendants. Plaintiff is suing for trespass to try title as well as for damages, for the following described tract of land to-wit:

All that lot, parcel and tract of land, lying and being situated in Lynn County, Texas, being 120 acres of land off of the south side of survey No. 6, in Block C-40, as surveyed for public school land fund for the State of Texas, and more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at the S. W. corner of said survey No. 6 for the S. W.
corner of this tract;

Thence east with the south
boundary line of said survey No. 6;

Thence north a sufficient distance for the north east corner of a rectangle tract of land containing 120 acres of land;

Thence west parallel with the south boundary line of survey No. 6 to a point in the west line of said survey No. 6;

Thence south to the place of beginning.

And further alleging that the annual rental value is $900.00 and damages $1500.00, plaintiff would further show to the court that plaintiff is claiming to be the true and lawful owner of the above described tract of land and that he has had and held under color of title from and under the State of Texas, peaceable, continuous and adverse possession of the lands and tenements above described for a period of more than three years before the defendants or either of them, cause of action, if any,
accrued, and before the commencement of this suit.

Plaintiff would further show to the court that he has had continuous and adverse possession of the above described tract of land for a period of more than five years next preceding the filing of this suit.

Plaintiff further alleging that he has had continuous and adverse possession of the above tract of land for a period of more than ten years next preceding the filing of this suit.

Wherefore plaintiff prays for the title and possession of said above described lands and premises, and that writ of restitution issue, and for costs, damages and costs of suit.

Herein Pail Not, and have you before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the said Court, at office in Tahoka, Texas this 10th day of August A. D. 1938.

HATTIE SERVER, Clerk, District
Court Lynn County. 2-4tc.

TAHOKA RODEO BOOSTERS

HERE WEDNESDAY

Some thirty-five automobiles, loaded with Tahoka citizens boosting their big Rodeo which is to be held August 25 and 26, put on a show on the street here Wednesday afternoon to invite our folks to their show.

Attired in cowboy and cowgirl regalia they attracted plenty of attention and our folks knew Tahoka was to have some Rodeo before these boosters departed.

February 4, 1891. They lived in Bosque fourteen years, followed by three years in Runnels county. They came to Lynn county in August, 1907.

The McIntyres settled on their farm a few miles west of Tahoka, where they lived until about ten years ago when they built a home in town. Mr. McIntyre was a hard worker even though advanced in years. Reserved in nature, he was respected and held in high esteem by many friends.

He was converted and joined the Baptist Church in early manhood, and liked to be in church when he was able.

The deceased is survived by the wife and one daughter, Mrs. Wylie (Alice) Fortenberry; a brother, J. D. McIntyre of Muleshoe; son-in-law, Wylie Fortenberry; two grandchildren, J. W. and Genelle Fortenberry; six nephews, Deen, Loyd, P. A., and Claude Nowlin, Tahoka, Carl Nowlin of Greenfield, N. M., and Carl McIntyre of Lubbock; and two nieces, Mrs. N. E. Woods of Tahoka, and Mrs. Leola Fusell of Lubbock.

A long-time resident of this county, he had many, many friends who mourn his death. The News joins these other friends in extending sympathy to the bereaved.

INDUSTRIAL CLUB

Seven members of the Junior's Industrial Club went on a five mile hike August 22. They were: Lenore Anglin, Verda and Grace Bartlett, Ophelia Eudaly, Dorothy Anne Roberts, Carolyn Chandler, and Jewell Young.

A picnic lunch was enjoyed by all present.—Reporter.

County Tax Rate Is Same

State and county tax rate for the year 1938 will remain the same as for 1937, says A. M. Cade, Lynn county assessor and collector, in explaining the rates recently set by the State Tax Board and the Lynn County Commissioners Court.

The state rate is 49 cents, and the county rate is 80 cents on each $100.00 valuation of property assessed.

In order that tax payers may know where their money goes, Mr. Cade gives the following break-down of the state and county rates, respectively:

State Rate
State Revenue	35c
State School	7c
Confederate Pension	7c
Total State Rate	49c
County Rate
Jury Fund	6c
General Fund	25c
Court House & Jail Fund	15c
Court House & Jail Fund on bond	5c
Road and Bridge Fund	10c
Lynn County Warrants, Series 1934	4c
Special Road and Bridge Funding Warrants, Series 1931	1c
Special Road and Bridge Sinking Fund	5c
Permanent Improvement War	9c
Total County Rate	80c

Article 7046, Revised Civil Statutes of 1925 require that there shall be levied and collected from every resident of the State between the ages of 21 and 60 years, on the first day of each year, and who is not exempt, an annual poll tax of one dollar and fifty cents State and twenty-five cents County. Total poll tax is $1.75.

Will Not Use Old Ward School

A rumor that primary grades of the local school system will be moved back to the old Central Ward building is entirely without foundation, members of the school board state.

Just where the rumor started is not known, but the Tahoka school board has not even considered such a move.

The newer part of the old Central Ward is being preserved due to possibility that growth of the town and district may some day make its use necessary, while the older portion of the structure is for sale.

Midland Boosters Coming To Round-Up

Twenty Midland cowboys, with their horses, will be in Tahoka one day of the Round-Up, probably Friday, to advertise the Midland Rodeo September 1, 2, and 3.

This was the information given Lee Roy Knight Tuesday by Bill Collins, manager of the Chamber of Commerce at Midland, who will head the delegation.

Beutler Bros., who are putting on the rodeo here, will also put on the Midland show.

M. J. Duckett of Grassland is visiting in Waco this week.

Second Booster Trip Is Made

On a second good-will trip, 18 cars of Tahoka Round-up boosters last Friday visited Post, Ralls, Crosbyton, Floydada, Lockney, Plainview, Hale Center, Abertown, Monro, Lubbock, Littlefield, and Levelland.

Those making the trip were dressed in cowboy regalia, and were accompanied by a string orchestra. The boosters attracted much attention in all the towns visited, and many people told the boosters they would be here for the Round-Up.

The previous Wednesday a good-will trip was made to the west and south.

Rev. Ben Hardy Is On Vacation

Rev. and Mrs. Ben Hardy and daughter, Mrs. Helen Eubanks, and children, have gone to Lake Kemp, near Seymour, where they will meet some long-time friends, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Randall, of that city, for an outing at the latter's cabin.

Bro. Hardy says they expect to do some fishing, boating and resting.

A visiting preacher will fill the pulpit at the Methodist church Sunday.

Wreck Friday Was Almost Tragedy

While returning from the Tahoka Round-Up booster trip late last Friday, two Tahoka cars were in a wreck in which four cars were involved two miles south of Lubbock on Highway 9.

Ahead of a procession of cars was one automobile pulling a trailer. A woman driver, not in the Tahoka party attempted to pass the car and trailer. On deciding not to attempt to pass the car she threw on her brakes very quickly, and A. D. McDonald, driving a Tahoka Motor Co. car, ran into the back of her car. In order to miss the mix-up, Jeff Connolly, who was behind McDonald, took to the barrow ditch and turned his car over.

Fortunately no one was hurt very badly, and the three cars received only comparatively light damage. Several children were in the Connolly car but they sustained only slight bruises.

VOTE FOR—

Safe .. Sane .. Economical County Government

The election of a County Judge is an important matter to Lynn County. Lynn county voters, THINK before you cast your vote on August 27. Vote for a man qualified to hold the office. Vote for a safe and sane administration. Do not put your county in jeopardy a second time with the State Highway Department, and with the relief agencies.

Judge P. W. Goad deserves a second term based on his record during the past two years.

He has helped keep the county finances in good shape. The highway building program, yet incomplete, is going forward and chances are good for securing Federal aid to build lateral roads. During his administration, these lateral roads have been put in better shape than ever before.

The county jail, the courthouse, and the courthouse lawn have been improved at a cost of $8,000, all of which has been paid for.

Right-of-way has been secured on Highway 84 east to the county line at a cost of $5,000 and the county, the State and WPA are now working on this road. Arrangements have been made to take care of this without asking the taxpayers for an additional dollar.

Though much of the Texas Relief Commission, Works Progress Administration, and State Highway Department have shifted additional expense onto the county, no additional taxes have been assessed to take care of this.

He has given special attention to the solving of juvenile problems so as to give utmost encouragement to the wayward youth.

Judge Goad is a man of character, integrity, dependability.

Lynn county is at the crossroads!

THINK before you vote!

ELECTRIC COOKERY

It's mighty easy to step up to AND it's mighty easy to cook electrically, too—because there is no other method of cooking that has controlled heat. Controlled temperature and time makes cooking a joy. No pot watching... no oven peeping... no burning or scorching of foods. Instead, foods are cooked automatically—and that saves you time, money and effort and gives you complete freedom to do the things you want.

For the balance of August a special offer is being made on all electric ranges. We cordially invite you to visit our office and see how easy it is to "step up to electric cookery."

TWO LAMESA MEN AND ROSCOE YOUTH FACE THEFT CHARGES

Lamesa, Aug. 22— Two Lamesa men and a Roscoe youth today were charged here with cattle theft and a fourth man still is at large after an investigation of thefts in possibly a dozen towns, Gus White, Dawson county sheriff said tonight.

Cecil McDonald, 30, and Lester Ramsey, 18, both of Lamesa and Johnny E. Jones, 18, of Roscoe were charged in complaints prepared by Vernon D. Adcock, county attorney, and sworn to by Sheriff White.

The quartet allegedly stole cattle from a Mrs. Jordan and Ira Robinson here and G. H. Greenleaf of O'Donnell, White said. Theft activities have been carried on in San Angelo, Canyon, Hereford, Plainview and other towns.

Cattle were sold at Seewater, White said.

HACKBERRY H. D. CLUB HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The Hackberry H. D. Club held its regular meeting at the club house Friday afternoon. Miss Boyd being unable to be with us, the program was made up of numbers by club members.

Mrs. S. D. Martin gave a report on her trip to A. & M. Short Course.

"What our club should mean to the community" by Miss Sybil Taylor brought out how various phases of club work benefits both the community and the individual. Mrs. J. D. Hord gave an interesting and amusing account of her trip with the Senior class of the Southland High School.

Tentative plans for putting on the negro minstrel for the second time were discussed after which games were led by the recreation chairman Miss Alta Clements.

Two new members, Mrs. Earl Morris and Mrs. Martin Edmunds joined the club. Two visitors were present, Mrs. Alvin Gordon and Miss Rosa Edmunds of Bradshaw Nebraska.

Less Monthly Discomfort

Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

Songs That Reach Heart

Must Picture the Scene

The better a song enables those hearing it to visualize a scene, the better the song, obviously. Such songs never die. There are songs that have helped untold thousands to visualize a scene or emotion, writes Rev. G. White in the Detroit News.

"When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" was written by an American, Ernest Ball, some 25 years ago, and is regarded by most Americans as breathing of the very spirit of old Erin. "Love's Old Sweet Song" was written in mid-Victorian days by James L. Molloy, an Englishman.

Popular songs of the "Down by the Old Mill Stream" type may become folk songs, for the melodies are simple and sweet and the characters the ever-popular "boy-and-girl" combination. It was written by Tell Taylor in 1910. Another of this type is "Wait Till the Cows Come Home," written by Anne Caldwell in 1917.

"Comin' Through the Rye" was written by a forgotten composer in the Seventeenth century. Robert Burns set down the words we all know. The song refers to the Rye river, rather than a field of rye. Young gallants waited by the stream, which had no bridge, and offered to carry the neighborhood lassies across. In mid-stream they would demand a kiss for a fee, threatening to drop the passenger in the water unless it were paid.

The "Spring Song" is perhaps the best known of the great Mendelssohn's shorter numbers. Several lyrics have been written to the music. "Listen to the Mocking Bird" was written shortly before the Civil war. "Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet" dates to the early Twentieth century.

Chop Suey Was Known to

Chinese Long, Long Ago

Various authorities have stated that chop suey is not a native Chinese dish, but is known in China chiefly among tourists and foreigners, though of course most of the ingredients were well known to the Chinese in China before this became a popular American dish. The usual story, notes a writer in the Detroit News, is that it was hastily invented by a chef in Chinatown, New York city, in 1896, during the visit of Li Hung Chang, the chief calling it a chop suey or mixture of his own creation.

It appears, however, to be much older than this and to be connected with the influx of Chinese labor in the early days of California gold-mining and western railroad construction. A recent history of the Canadian Pacific Railway, "Steel of Empire," by J. M. Gibbon, says:

"Gold in California brought another link with Cathay in the form of a tide of Chinamen who paid fifty dollars a head to cross the Pacific to do odd jobs, ply their trades and wash gold as well as linen. Some of them ran restaurants, with Chinese food for their compatriots, and one of these incidentally introduced what has since become a national American dish, namely Chop Suey. This is said to have been served sarcastically by a Chinese restaurant man to a gold digger in the bowl which is kept with scraps of food for beggars. It was a novelty and caught the fancy of the miners who spread the gospel of this new dish throughout the United States."

Baths Precede Prayers

A special and intricate code of cleanliness must be performed before each of the five periods of daily prayer by the Mahometans unless no opportunity for pollution between these prayer periods has occurred, says the Rocky Mountain Herald. Washing for prayer is a ceremony that must be observed according to the details of the law regarding it. Essentially it consists of washing face, nostrils, head, beard, neck, hands and arms up to elbows and feet up to the ankles. Only when he has accomplished each of these acts three times is he ready for his religious devotions. This is a total of 15 ritual cleansings every day for the devout Mahometans.

Trap-Door Spider Engineer

The trap-door spider, found in southern Europe, Africa, and other hot regions, is a wonderful engineer. He digs a bottle-shaped shaft in the earth and lines it with silk web. Then he makes a trap-door and hinges it to the top with a silken hinge. The door is made of silk covered with scil and fits to a nicety. The spider is also a gardener, for on the top of the door he plants moss so that the door cannot be detected in its surroundings. Also, it is so strong that if man or beast treads on the door it remains undamaged.

Academic Freedom

Academic freedom, as defined in the Britannica Book of the Year, is the right of a person connected with an educational institution freely to express the conclusions resulting from his study, either orally or through publications, without interference or restraint from administrative, political, or religious authority. It is subject to limitations imposed by scholarly bodies who may insist that academic freedom shall neither cloak techniques found clearly imperfect, nor violate canons of professional ethics.

ELDER DRENNON'S NOTES FROM ABROAD

This is our last message from abroad, as we are leaving for home today after an absence of one whole month.

I have had two fine meetings with twenty-three additions. It has not been as hot here as usual due to the good breeze that has blown most of the time.

Cotton picking is in full swing. Most everyone is going to begin today. It will average about a quarter of a bale in this county.

Fruit and vegetables have been plentiful during our entire stay and now I have eaten apples and melons! But, after all is said and done, we are still anxious to get back to good old Lynn with her good breeze and cool nights.

The redbugs have had good eating on me. The only thing that bothered them was that I sweat so much they got water in their eyes. I have sweated almost all the means out of my system. How is that for sweating, Editor Hill?

Editor Hill has failed to send me The News regularly, so I have not

Woman Acting Head Of Tech

An unaffected, kindly faced woman who describes herself as a "mother and housewife" is Mrs. John A. Haley, acting president of Texas Technological college.

"My life has been rather uneventful, just that of a mother and housewife," Mrs. Haley modestly said.

The acting president, whose home is in Midland, has arrived in Lubbock and will sign the diplomas for the class that will be graduated from Texas Technological college Wednesday night.

In her description of herself, she omits the fact that she has served Texas Technological college as a director five years, that she is treasurer of the directorate, and that she was chosen acting president in July by unanimous vote of the board in tribute to her "distinguished service" to the college as a director.

Mrs. Haley's "uneventful" life began on a ranch in Western Bell county in the days when ranch life was considered far from uneventful. She was graduated from Sam Houston normal at Huntsville in 1889. She taught school, then was married in 1891. She went to Midland in 1906. She has served as chairman of the Midland county Red Cross chapter since it was organized in 1914 or 1915. She is active in church and club work.

Mrs. Haley was appointed acting president to succeed the late Dr. Bradford Knapp in so far as diploma signing is needed. Serving in executive capacity at the college is a committee comprised of Dr. James M. Gordon, chairman, Business Manager W. T. Gaston and Dr. Harry L. Kent.—Lubbock Journal

Mrs. Haley is an aunt of the E. I. Hill children of Tahoka.

Jess Benson of Tahoka and Bernie Platt of O'Donnell left Wednesday for Del Rio and Old Mexico on a vacation.

Traced to the Caveman

Less than ten minutes after instrumental music made its first appearance in the world the commentators were on hand to start reading meanings into it. That hairy ancestor of ours who discovered that you could blow fine blasts through an animal horn had barely got back to the cave and begun to strut his new accomplishment before his lady when a pair of shaggy neighbors dropped in to dispute about the significance of his music, observes Edward Barry in the Chicago Tribune.

According to one, the louder blasts expressed courage and defiance, while the more sober tootlings carried a suggestion of the blower's secret fear of the very tribes or beasts he was defying. The other scoffed at this interpretation and declared that the widely spaced tones represented the steady tread of men and that the quicker sections depicted the mincing of women and children.

The astonished composer hemmed and hawed, then guardedly admitted that each commentator was partly right. He could not offend his guests by disclosing the fact that both interpretations were complete surprises to him!

There never has been a time in the history of instrumental music when self-appointed commentators were not busy explaining meanings and concocting stories. Because of the many vivid and undisciplined imaginations which have engaged in this very dubious work some of the world's best music is loaded to the sinking point with a cargo of non-musical meanings.

Insects Have Own Tools

to Bore Holes in Wood

Insect egg-laying requires many tools, of which some are surprisingly like man-made tools. The Sirex saw-fly, for example, says a writer in Pearson's London Weekly, uses a gadget very like a gimlet, with which it bores holes in wood to house its eggs. Another type of saw-fly has at its tail two tiny saws fitted with sheaths. These cut slits in stems or leaf veins in which the eggs are placed.

The ichneumon fly works hard for an hour to drill a hole more than an inch deep in tough wood.

And the ichneumon fly is well aware, in a way mysterious to us, that it will strike a grub in the wood on which to lay its egg. Its young will then have living food to eat when they are hatched.

Also there is a locust which lays its eggs in the earth by boring the soil with a tool like the cobbler's awl, and working on the same principle.

The hypodermic syringe of the surgeons injects fluid under the skin; so does the sting of an insect. Actually, when we knock the bee off our skin, his sting, and part of his body, are left behind. Consequently, the bee soon dies. And that is why it was thought bees could sting once only.

But, given time, the bee can remove his sting and fly off to do more damage with it. The remarkable apparatus he uses to inject poison has barbs which attach it securely to our flesh.

The wasp, as it happens, stings a caterpillar, not to kill it, but to paralyze it—as by our anesthetics.

Pioneers in Smoking

The Encyclopedia Britannica says that the introduction of the tobacco pipe to Europe is generally ascribed to Ralph Lane, first governor of Virginia; in 1586 he brought an Indian pipe to Sir Walter Raleigh and taught that courtier how to use it. Another authority, "The Social History of Smoking," says that the honor of having first smoked a pipe of tobacco in England is divided among several claimants, Captain William Middleton, Captain Price and Captain Koet having smoked together in London. The same author states that pipes were smoked in England before 1584, the plant having been introduced into Europe about 1580 and been under cultivation in England by 1570. Raleigh first brought the practice of smoking into common use and it is probable that he was initiated in the art by Thomas Hariot, whom he had sent out to Virginia for the specific purpose of inquiring into and reporting on the natural productions, including of course tobacco.

Growth of the Flea

Fleas, like all insects, go through stages, from egg, through grub and pupa, to adult insect. The grub feeds on the bodies of dead beetles and other stray animal matter. Then it turns to a pupa, which never eats, but just lies in the dust, in cracks and crevices in the floorboards in houses. It is very sensitive to vibration. Directly a footstep touches those boards, the vibration makes all the pupae wake up and hatch out. From each pops a hungry flea.

The Name Cordelia

The name Cordelia has two origins and meanings. The Celtic meaning is "Jewel of the sea" and the Latin "warm of heart." Despite these attractive meanings, the name is not common. The story of Cordelia, the Welsh princess, has been told by Shakespeare in "King Lear" although the dramatist gave the story a different ending than the fact that Cordelia committed suicide when taken prisoner by her sisters.

T. Cowan Had Wonderful Trip

For some reason The News last week failed to herald the recent trip taken by the T. Cowan family to the West and Northwest.

They spent about five weeks, returning August 11, on a tour which took them through New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, California, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Canada, Wyoming, and Colorado. They traveled 9,000 miles and visited eight National parks.

T. says that Boulder Dam certainly is an eye-opener, but that the Grand Coulee Dam on the Columbia river between Washington and Oregon is astounding. He and his family saw so much beautiful scenery that it would require columns to recount their travels.

Lesson for August 28

ELI: RESPONSIBILITY FOR OTHERS

LESSON TEXT—1 Samuel 3:11-14; 4:12-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Train up a child in the way he should go. Proverbs 22:6.
PRIMARY TEXT—When God Spoke to a Boy.
JUNIOR TEXT—When God Spoke to a Junior.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Should We Do as We Please?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Challenge of Christian Fatherhood.

The responsibilities and privileges of fatherhood need special emphasis, and the lesson of today gives excellent opportunity for such consideration. Too often the rearing of children, which is almost inevitably largely in the hands of the mother, is entirely delegated to her, and the father becomes the man who pays the bills, occasionally carries out a severe act of discipline, but otherwise is almost a stranger to his children.

Girls as well as boys appreciate and respond to the loving and understanding fellowship of a father who really improves the opportunity to build himself into the lives of his children.

Eli is a striking illustration of a man who had attained an honorable position in life and who had discharged his public duties with success, but who failed his own boys, because of weak indulgence. Not a few Christian workers have followed in Eli's path.

I. A Weak Father and Vile Sons (3:13).

The sons of Eli were wicked men who dared even to use the service of the temple for the gratification of fleshly appetites and lusts. (See 2:12-17, 22.) Eli protested against their most flagrant sin (2:23, 24), but evidently he had lost his influence over them, for they did not hearken.

It is not always true that the wickedness of a son is the result of weakness in the father, nor is it always the case that weak fathers have vile sons. Often the sons live far better lives than their fathers, and frequently a godly and faithful father suffers the heartbreak of having a wayward son. But usually "like father, like son" is true.

Boys learn from their fathers—not so much by words of admonition, as by deeds. Let us tell our boys how to live by first living a consistent Christian life, and then lovingly but insistently requiring of them during their days of irresponsibility conformity to the standards of God. We need to build moral fiber into American youth of our country if it is not to fall into the decadence of the civilizations of the past.

II. Judgment—Personal and National (3:12, 14; 4:17).

Sin brings a horrible harvest of sorrow, suffering and judgment, not only to the individual but to his family, and ultimately to the nation. No man can ever divorce himself from his relationship to his family. His people will suffer for his waywardness, perhaps more than he suffers himself. The nation is made up of homes, and consequently when the family suffers the nation will suffer too.

There is a strange theory current that social and political entities have an existence apart from the people who make them up, that our people can drink and gamble and steal and kill, and yet somehow we will still be the "land of the free and the home of the brave." America is what the families in your community and mine are, and our families are what we are. May God help us to be better fathers, mothers, brothers, and sisters.

III. Responsibility and Opportunity.

This division of our lesson is drawn from no special portion of the Scripture lesson, but is presented to place squarely before us the fact that we (and we are speaking specifically to fathers) have a plain and inescapable responsibility for our family life, as well as to emphasize the fact that this is not a responsibility of which we should be afraid. It is God's gift of glorious opportunity.

Eli was a personal success as a priest. He had many commendable qualities, not the least of which was his gracious recognition of the ministry of Samuel, who had grown up in his presence and yet who was recognized by Eli as the messenger of God. (Compare Mark 6:4 and I Tim. 4:12.) But he missed life's greatest opportunity by losing his own boys. Sad to say, many a father has followed him, yes, even we are sorely tempted to make our business (and it may be the "business" of the Lord) the thing of primary concern, and let our children fit in where they may, or not at all.

Let us look on the brighter side in closing our study and recall the inspiring contribution that has been made to our national life, to our spiritual life and our social advancement by those who have come out of the most humble of homes, with the most meager worldly advantages, but with the rugged characters—physically, morally, and spiritually stalwart—which have been nurtured in a true Christian home. It pays, not only for the person and for the family, but also for the nation, to have Christian fathers.

As to Knitting a Chic Fall Sweater

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IT'S time to knit! Or do you happen to be a crocheter instead of a knitter? Either way you do it, it's time to make one of the perfectly charming sweaters here pictured.

We'll wager that at sight of these ultra chic and fascinating sweater fashions your fingers will begin to tingle, your heart action quicken as a sudden urge sweeps o'er you to clickety click those knitting needles of yours faster than they ever clicked before. Or if, perchance, it's a crochet needle you wield, we've an idea it's going to go at rapid pace to complete a "darling" sweater like the crocheted model shown above to the right in the illustration, for of course you will be wanting to have it ready to wear with the new fall suit. The other two sweaters in the picture are knitted.

We agree with you, this trio of hand-made sweaters certainly have a chic and charm about them that is far beyond the ordinary. Not that there is anything complicated about the knitting and crocheting of 'em, for each of the models is really very simple to make.

"Sweaters this year," comes word from Paris, "will be new because of their departure from the conventional." Short, just over the hipbone is the foreword that reaches us in regard to the new fall sweaters. Many are slide fastened for mostly everything is being zippered among the new fashions that can be zipped. The majority of new sweaters have low necks.

The band-and-bow trim that gives such dainty feminine detail to the sweater pictured above to the right in the group is definitely new. It affords a grand opportunity to carry out a two-color scheme which is something to take note of, considering that bicolor treatments are highly important in the current stylizing program. The three bands of contrasting color are fastened with bows made of tufts of fringe formed of the identical mercerized crochet cotton used to make the sweater. You'll love this band-and-bow trimming the more you wear your sweater.

The jacket-like sweater blouse above to the left has that air of sophisticated simplicity about it that every woman versed in the art of smart costuming covets. It is knit of knit-croch in an open-work stitch interspersed with solid blocks that gives a sort of plaided effect. This sweater is the type that looks just as well when you remove your jacket as it does with the jacket on. Make it up in one of the lovely new muted colors and you will find it an indispensable and flattering accessory. The square neck line is a high-style feature. So also are the crochet buttons up the front. Most fashion reports have much to say in regard to the flair for buttons running to larger rather than small this season.

With word emanating from Paris that "it's a year for sweaters in versatile styles," cardigans get headline attention. Variety in cardigan styles is the new mandate, but it must be "variety without fussiness." A cardigan type that embodies all of Paris sweater dictates is the short-sleeved one shown below. It is knit and crocheted of lustrous mercerized cotton. Work it up in a contrast of your two favorite colors.

SUMMER ERMINE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

In the way of a summer evening wrap the short fur, feather or marabou bolero ranks at the top of the list, making an agreeable change from the fashionable cape. The one pictured is in natural beige summer ermine, worn over a white crepe frock with accordion pleated skirt. The smart young women who go to parties and such adore these boleros. The bolero in brown fur (very important for fall) is forecast as a smart daytime item.

Brushed-Up Coiffures Now

Go With Doll-Sized Hats

It seems as if the idea of brushed-up hair is gaining, whether we like it or not. At any rate buyers returning from midsummer trips report that they will show the new tiny doll-sized hats launched by Schiaparelli worn atop higher hair-dress that brings curls up off the ears. It remains to be seen how well the fashion will "take." You never can tell, fickle fashion, fickle public are apt to go to any extreme.

PART FABRIC, PART KNOT NEW FORMULA

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

College girl, here's your cue to smartness in dress this fall. Which is to the effect that the sweater and the cloth skirt in accurate color match is a fashion "must" this coming season. So there's lots of fun ahead matching a sweater knit of shetland, cashmere or angora wool to the skirt of patterned tweed, or if you prefer, a monotone wool of plain or novelty weave. Your choice runs from rich dark autumn tones to the now-so-fashionable pastel colors.

Then there are those amazing three-piece ensembles that employ the identical yarn employed in knitting the sweater, as is used for weaving the cloth for jacket and skirt. There's no-end chic in the costumes of cloth that have short fur jackets with sleeves and borders, knit of yarn in colors that tune to the scheme of things.

Cerise Added to Popular Pinks by Paris Stylist

Cerise is a new step on the ladder of pinks. A pleasant variation of the more purplish fuchsia shade, the cerise is used by Leong for a flowing sash tying around a deep blue evening gown with a halter neck.

And the same vivid shade is the background for a dainty white-dotted Swiss, which forms the bodice for a bouffant white tulle skirt. The bodice is draped up and over the right shoulder but comes under the left arm, thus leaving the left shoulder strapless, while the right is well covered.

Adding Bright Touch

Flowers on the bodice of an evening frock matched by flowers in the hair supply all the decoration that one could want for festive occasions.

Moldy Colors
Moldy colors are being proudly displayed at the moment as being high style.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Explains the Causes of Food Allergy

Well-Known Food Authority Names the Foods That Cause Trouble

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

6 East 39th St., New York City.

A NEW phrase has crept into daily usage in recent years, has in fact become so common that comedians use it in jest and draw laughs from their audiences when they mimic, "I'm allergic!" But the words have deep significance for perhaps 30 to 60 per cent of the population who have cause to agree with the old saying that "one man's meat is another man's poison."

They are victims of the curious phenomenon known as food allergy and have an abnormal reaction to the proteins in certain foods and other substances. As a result, foods which are beneficial in themselves and which usually have an important place in a normal balanced diet, cause a variety of unpleasant effects.

These may range from hives or a skin rash to a gastric disturbance with spells of nausea.

The individual may suffer from migraine headache or an attack of hay fever or asthma; or he may have a tendency to what appears to be bronchial or head colds.

It has been determined that these symptoms in an individual who is allergic are due to intolerance of certain proteins.

Even when the offending foods are fruits and vegetables, it is the protein that is responsible. It has been suggested that the sensitization results because at some previous time, an unsplit or undigested protein in some way passed through the membranes lining the digestive tract and entered the blood stream. This acted very much like a foreign substance and sensitized body cells in some way so that whenever the same food is eaten, the disturbing symptoms occur as a sort of defense mechanism.

Heredity a Factor

A tendency to allergy seems to be inherited. But the substances which caused a disturbance differ with each individual, and the type of reaction also differs. For example, a mother may be allergic to milk; her child inheriting the tendency may be allergic to fish. Drinking milk may give the mother an attack of asthma; eating fish may cause the child to break out with hives.

It is difficult to generalize regarding the foods that cause trouble, because they vary so widely among individuals who are sensitized, and often one person is sensitized to a number of foods. It has been found that the foods most frequently causing allergic symptoms include wheat, milk, eggs, chocolate, pork, fish and shellfish, tomatoes, cauliflower, cabbage, strawberries and oranges.

Skin rashes are believed to be caused most frequently by hypersensitivity to milk, cereal or pork. Hives are reported to occur often from eating strawberries, chocolate, fish and tomatoes. Wheat is frequently an offender in migraine headaches. Asthma seems to be common in persons who are sensitive to milk, eggs and butter.

Other Offending Substances

Foods are not always responsible for allergy, and the symptoms may be produced by contact with wool, feathers, dust, pollen, dander from horses or other animals; or even the sting of a bee.

Discovering the Offenders

The ideal procedure for the allergy victim is to find out the offending foods or substances and avoid them. For early recognition of a tendency to allergy may prevent discomfort and trouble.

There are two ways to discover the trouble makers. One is to learn by experience, either by keeping a record of the foods eaten and noting the appearance of symptoms, or by eliminating from the diet, first one and then another of the foods that are suspected of causing difficulty. The other is to let your doctor conduct simple skin tests. Small scratches are made on the arms and legs, and each scratch touched with a solution made of the protein of a food or substance known to cause trouble. If a person is allergic to that substance, the skin around the scratch swells and becomes inflamed. The inflammation disappears after a few hours and causes no pain or inconvenience.

Other Foods Must Be Used

Once the offending food or foods are determined, they should be eliminated either for all time or until the individual becomes desensitized. If the trouble maker is an uncommon food, such as lobster or clams, the allergy presents no great problem, but when children react to necessary foods such as milk, eggs and wheat, the homemaker faces a difficult task. When milk is the offending food, it must be avoided, not only as a beverage, but in bread, cakes and puddings. Sometimes dried or evaporated milk, goat's milk or soy bean milk may be used instead. When wheat is the trouble maker, the alternatives include cornstarch, rice flour, potato or rye flour; rice and corn cereals; tapioca or barley. When hen's eggs are injurious, duck's eggs can sometimes be used with success, or meat or fish may be substituted.

Sometimes after a period of exclusion, an immunity is built up

SEND FOR THIS FREE CHART OF FOODS THAT OFTEN CAUSE TROUBLE

C. Houston Goudiss will gladly send you, FREE, a chart showing which foods have been found most frequently to cause allergic reactions, and also those which are the least likely to cause trouble. Just state your request on a postcard and address it to C. HOUSTON GOUDISS, 6 East 39th Street, New York City.

so that later the foods may be re-introduced gradually into the diet.

Don't Jump to Conclusions

It must be borne in mind that many of the symptoms produced by food sensitivity may also result from other causes. For this reason, it is unwise to decide that one is allergic without due investigation. Nor must the imagination or the current widespread discussion of the subject be allowed to cause adults or children to mask their unwillingness to eat certain foods with the false notion that they are unduly sensitive.

On the other hand, homemakers should be sympathetic with both children and adults who say with good cause, "I can't eat that!" And it would appear that there may even be some compensation in this unpleasant situation. For a group of scientists who have studied the subject announced a few years ago that those who belong to the allergy group appear to have a definite capacity for becoming intellectually superior. Thus, the child who suffers from a skin rash or stuffy nose today, due to food sensitivity, is apt to be full of energy when he reaches manhood and exhibit unusual ability for cultural leadership.

Questions Answered

Mrs. A. F. J.—The caloric value of fresh or canned mushrooms is very slight, as their carbohydrate is in a form that cannot be readily assimilated. They are useful, however, for adding flavor and appetite appeal to many dishes.

Mrs. A. M. T.—The notion that onions or lettuce contain opium or some other narcotic drug is wholly without foundation. They are two of our finest vegetables.

R. F. B.—Vitamins A, C and D are required for healthy teeth. Calcium, in adequate amounts, is also essential.

A public address system will carry announcements of events, contestants, and music by the Kelly Kids cowboy orchestra.

A special attraction at the arena will be a performance by "Silver King", educated horse owned by L. I. Stewart of Big Spring.

Again at 7:30 o'clock the rodeo performance will be continued, and so will it be at 2 and 7:30 p. m. Friday.

Tonight and Friday night, following the rodeo, Hall Robinson will sponsor a big cowboy dance on a platform in the street between English Theatre and Hogans.

The band concerts and parade will also be repeated Friday, when the biggest crowd is expected.

Friday at noon, guests will receive free barbecue, bread, pickles, onions, beans and coffee furnished by the business men of Tahoka, on the south side of the square. Under the direction of Claude Wells and Wiley Curry, the barbecue is being prepared today.

Finances for the big celebration have been raised principally by R. W. Fenton Jr and Wynne Collier.

The parade is under the direction of L. C. Haney, Henry Maasen, and others.

Dr. L. E. Turrentine, Jim Dye, R. L. Littlepage, and Herman Crouch have had charge of securing and preparing the grounds.

Among others instrumental in staging the affair have been: B. J. Leedy, president of the Lynn County Rodeo Association, sponsors of the event, A. P. Edwards, Winter Knight, H. B. McCord, J. O. Tinsley, H. B. Howell, Deen Nowlin, J. K. Applewhite, Dr. Emil Prohl, Carl Owens, R. P. Weathers, Levi Nordyke, N. E. Wood, Fritz Neuman, Happy Smith, Chas Walden, D. W. Gaignat, Charles Townes, Frank Hill, Truett Smith and others. In fact, the whole town has co-operated in preparing for the occasion.

Sheriff B. L. Parker has deputized ten men to patrol the rodeo grounds and to arrest gate crashers. Two state highway patrolmen are also expected to be present.

Lynn Beutler, arena director, arrived Tuesday night to make preliminary arrangements, and his rodeo stock came in Wednesday from Wichita, Kansas, where he put on a show August 19, 20, and 21. They will go from here to Midland for the rodeo there Sept. 4, 5 and 6.

Many famous bucking horses will be in the arena at the show here, including Amos, from Red Rock, Okla.; Strawberry Roan, Santa Fe, New Mexico; Chain Foot, one of the hardest bucking horses in America, from Montana; Red Snapper, from Canadian; Carry Nation, Pratt, Kansas; Antez, Ellenwood, Kansas; Star, Pampa; Tar Baby, Dumas; and others.

He also has a herd of wild, hard bucking Brahma steers.

Brahma roping calves and milking cows are from the Anderson and Harris herds, O'Donnell.

Sylvester Roane, Elk City, Okla., himself a contestant in big-time rodeos, who arrived early Tuesday, states that many well known cowboys are coming here from the Wichita, Kansas show and other points north.

Among the cow boys entered or expected are: Tex Doyle, Pampa, this year's champion of Cheyenne Frontier Days; Victor Schwartz, Wichita Falls, champion in bronc riding at Denver, Colorado, this year; Frankie Martz, Midland, Ed Curtis, El Reno, Oklahoma, three times champion bulldogger of Madison Square Garden, New York City; Andy Curtis, El Reno, bronc riding champion of Springfield, Mo.; Chas. Broadnax and Jimmy Olsen, Pampa; Dale Adams, Odell; and Whitey Stewart, Karnegy, Okla. There will be many others equally as well known.

Prizes, including the cowboy entrance fees, are expected to reach $800.00 or more for the two days.

Last week brilliantly decorated Tahoka cars carrying over 100 Tahoka boosters and a string band visited about twenty towns to advertise the Round-Up. Truett Smith, J. O. Tinsley, and Jake Leedy were in charge of the caravan.

With fair weather, Tahoka is due to have the biggest crowd of visitors in its history these two days.

SECOND PRIMARY ELECTION IS SATURDAY

as lieutenant governor. Mann is a brilliant young attorney, who, though young, also has had considerable experience in the attorney general's department, as secretary of state, and more recently with the Federal government.

Mann and Woodul ran neck and neck in the first primary. O'Daniel and Lewis Goodrich have endorsed Woodul, while both the other candidates in the first primary, Ralph Yarbrough and Robert W. Calvert, are backing Mann.

G. A. Jerry Sadler, Longview attorney, and C. V. Terrell, present office holder, are candidates for railroad commissioner. C. V. Terrell has long been in Texas politics, while Sadler is a newcomer on the political front. Terrell has O'Daniel's endorsement. Sadler, endorsed by his kinsman, Harley Sadler, ran away ahead of Terrell and the field in Lynn county and much of West Texas in the first primary.

land office, the present commissioner.

For commissioner of the general er, William H. McDonald of Eastland county, is opposed by Bascom Giles of Travis county. McDonald has been the object of much criticism because of his questioned policy of leasing state lands for oil. Giles was practically unknown over the state before this campaign but has had many years of practical experience in the land office.

Richard Critz of Williamson county, the present associate justice of the Supreme Court, is opposed by W. H. Davidson of Jefferson county.

For judge of the court of criminal appeals, the present judge, Harry N. Graves, is opposed by James A. Stephens of Knox county.

In Lynn county, the race for county judge holds the spotlight. Judge P. W. Goad, serving his first term, is opposed by Judge G. C. Grider, who held the office two terms several years ago.

For county clerk, Walter Mathis of Grassland and Garlan G. McWhorter of New Home are in the run-off.

Two women seek the office of county treasurer. These are Mrs.

Jewell Wells and Mrs. A. M. Daniel. There is only one run-off in the county for a precinct office. This is for justice of the peace at O'Donnell, and the candidates are Geo. D. Foster and D. M. Estes.

Citizens of Lynn county are urged to go to the polls Saturday and express their choices for these important offices.

NEED MORE CUSTOMERS ON RURAL ELECTRIC LINE

(Cont'd. from page 1)

Will Barton and J. F. Maxey, Post. Only T. H. Basinger of Post was absent.

The coordinator was authorized to select 10 assistants and to work up possible customers.

"We want to get all the information in the hands of our engineer within two weeks," Garrard said.

"We believe that we have a good chance to do so. We have been encouraged since it became known we had received an additional allotment."

Harry N. Roberts of Lubbock is the engineer for the project.

"We do not want houses wired now as inferred in The News last week," Mr. Heck said. "But we do have to have memberships and easement contracts signed by Sept. 10. All data must be completed by the engineer and in Washington by October 1, if we put this proposition over."

Landlords are urged to cooperate in the move to get electricity to their tenant houses.

Funds are available to serve 900 farm homes in the three counties if sufficient customers are secured.

An effort is now being made to secure a line from Draw to O'Donnell and west to Wells and Newmoore. Many signers have been secured across the northern part of the county.

Parts of the system already have sufficient signers for lines, and Mr. Heck and his helpers are making every effort to make electric service available to all farm homes possible. If the project goes over in its entirety, it will be one of the biggest improvements made in this county in a number of years.

A rural electric distribution system is now being completed over the southern part of Lubbock county.
