Move for Stricter Prohibition Made In Bills Introduced Late Friday; Seek Limit On Prescriptions

(By Associated Press) AUSTIN, Jan. 11.—Moving rapidly, the house today passed without alteration the university land lease repeal bill endorsed unanimously by the senate yesterday and less than 15 minutes later Governor Moody affixed his signature to the measure.

Without delay, house members turned attention to an investigation of the general land office as the result of a resolution introduced by Representative Loy of Sherman and Petch of Fredericksburg, but not until Representative Beck of Fort Worth attempted unsuccessfully to inject a clause providing that the quiz should not be construed as criticism of the department. Speaker Barron held Beck's proposed amendment out of order and the bill was referred to the public lands committee.

Adjourns Until Monday
The house then adjourned until Monday in order to enable the speaker to select important committees which will function throughout the forty-first session. Chairman McGill said it was probable that his lands committee would not consider the investigation measure until next week.

As in the senate, there was not a dissenting vote when the Hornsby land lease bill was passed for final reading. One hundred and nineteen members shouted "aye" for its passage.

Flu Conference Results In Plan For Big Program

Nation-Wide Study Of Disease To Be Made; Use Of Medicinal Liquor Favored As Possible Treatment

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The two day influenza conference called by the public health service adjourned today after approving a program for fighting the disease. The initial step will be taken next week with the start, by the health service, of a nation-wide study of the disease.

Another part of the program calls for a move by those attending the session to attempt to enlist nationwide support for larger appropriations by congress for general health defenses.

Delegates to the conference included physicians, scientists, and state and city public health officers. Favors More Liquor
One delegate, Dr. Frank G. Atwood, of New Haven, Conn., who said he was a "practical teetotaler," implored the conference to go on record in favor of more extensive use of medicinal liquor in treating influenza. He was unsuccessful in an attempt to introduce a resolution looking to revision of medicinal whiskey regulations to permit physicians to supply all the whiskey they considered necessary for their influenza patients.

After the conference adjourned Dr. W. H. Frost, of Washington, Dr. M. V. Velde, of Cincinnati, and Dr. A. M. Stimson of Washington, conferred over putting into effect the

The fire truck that carried J. Neuell Bryan to his death Tuesday night was repaired and carried flowers to his grave yesterday, following the long line which rolled out from the First Baptist church where Rev. W. R. White, pastor, officiated in the funeral.

One of the largest gatherings of friends that has ever attended a funeral in Lubbock packed the church to pay a final tribute to the popular fireman who lost his life in service Tuesday night when he guided the fire truck into a curb and death rather than hit a car that was driven out into the pathway of the speeding fire truck, as it was answering a call.

Measure Provides For New Allotment of Seats In Congress Among States According to Population

Texas Gains 2 Men

Action, Ignored for Almost Ten Years, Gets Approval Friday; 11 States Given More Congressmen

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 11.—After ignoring for almost 10 years the Constitutional mandate to reapportion its membership, the House late today passed the Fenn bill to prescribe a method by which House seats are to be allotted among the states after the next census in 1930, if Congress should fail to act at that time.

The measure was passed after a motion to send it back to committee failed by a vote of 236 to 134. Debate that held the House for two days preceded passage.

Party Lines Disregarded
Most of the members disregarded party lines and favored or opposed the measure largely according to whether their states would gain or lose representation.

The proposal provides that on the first day of the second session of the 71st Congress the secretary of commerce shall transmit to it a statement showing the population of each state and the number of representatives each state would be entitled to under an allotment of the present 435 seats. It also prescribes a mathematical method for arriving at the distribution of seats.

Distribution Certain
Under the bill it is provided that if Congress fails to enact a law reapportioning the representatives

Twenty-Five Million Added To Enforcement Funds by Senate Group; Law May Be Enforced Stricter

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Without administration solicitation, the senate appropriations committee today voted to treble the fund for prohibition enforcement. It approved a proposal to increase the allotment by $25,000,000, which would be added to the $13,500,000 already appropriated.

The increase, if accepted, would provide for prosecution of the dry laws the highest figure ever made available in the history of the Volstead act.

Before voting on the proposal, however, the senate intends to wait for a report from the prohibition bureau as to how this money would be spent. Several wets have indicated that they will not oppose the increase, if in their judgment the funds are properly allocated.

City's Greatest Need Is Airport, Airmen Declare

Texas Air Transport Men Say Lubbock Likely To Be On Air Routes If Port Of Standard Type Built

Lubbock's urgent need—now—for an adequately equipped, modern airport, was emphatically emphasized with the arrival here Friday of officials of the Texas Air Transport, Inc., and their conferences last night and today with chamber of commerce officials, city officials, and representative business men who are vitally interested in the forward march of this city's progress.

"Lubbock has already overlooked its best bet. You should be on the transcontinental air route, with airport facilities second to none," was the declaration of Silliman Evans, vice president of the Texas Air Transport. "You have the most perfect landing country in the world, here on the South Plains, and why have you not long ago built a modern port for ships of the air, is a mystery to many who know your possibilities."

Mr. Evans remarked of the fact that when he and Tom Hardin, vice president and general manager of the company, arrived over Lubbock in their plane Friday afternoon that they were compelled to circle over the city several times before they were able to locate the temporary landing field northeast of town. And, only through the use of maps would it be possible for flyers, unacquainted with this section, to know when they were over Lubbock because of the lack of markers or signs readable from the Lubbock county's need for paved roads stands out in front of all charges and counter-charges with reference to routing, class of construction, etc. If Lubbock county is to maintain the position it has earned in the past for consistent growth and progressiveness, it is vitally important that this election providing for GOOD ROADS be successful, for nothing hinders progress as much as an inadequate system of roads NOT PAVED.

It is their opinion that everyone in Lubbock county will profit if this Bond Issue is passed—and that the progress of everyone in Lubbock county will be retarded if it is defeated.

New Robbers Found Two Men Charged In "Juice" Theft

NEWKIRK, Okla., Jan. 11.—Robbing electrical current from the city of Blackwell is the charge against C. F. Bays, theater owner, and Redmon F. Cole, electrician, who were to appear for preliminary trial here today. The two have been out on $1500 bond each since their arraignment in district court here several weeks ago. The complaint, the first of the kind in Kay county, was signed by Roy Cox, city attorney of Blackwell. Felony warrants were issued by County Attorney Carver following filing of the complaint.

The two men are alleged to have defrauded the city of current used in operation of a motion picture theater. By means of an improvised connection which tapped the city's electrical wires in such a manner that the meter did not register all the current supplied the theater, the men are alleged to have taken $150 worth of current without making payment.

Lamesa Scouts Show Much Progress In Past Year

At the regular Court of Honor, held at Lamesa Friday night, 35 Boy Scouts of that city, members of troops number 22 and 23, were up for advancement in scouting, according to Warren P. Knox, scout executive for the South Plains area, who attended the court.

The court was presided over by Philip Yonge, chairman, and he was assisted in arranging a very appealing program by Dr. J. C. Lovelace, vice-president of the southern district scout organization, and Dr. A. E. Arnfield, district scout commissioner.

Troop number 23 was winner of the McMillan camping trophy last summer, the troop being sponsored by the Lamesa Methodist church. W. A. Stevens, being scoutmaster. J. A. Spikes is scoutmaster of troop number 22, which is sponsored by the Lamesa American Legion post.

FLU DISAPPEARING

Denison Recovers From Attack of Disease

DENISON, Jan. 11. (P)—Influenza, which paralyzed public schools here before and since the Christmas holidays, is rapidly disappearing, school authorities say. All teachers, who suffered from influenza, have returned to their posts and there is an increase in the number of pupils registered.

In the cities the snow is soon covered with a layer of dirt and soot which chokes its surface and makes it melt faster, as dark surfaces absorb more heat.

Among speakers on the program are International President Sam Cummings, Past District Governors H. G. Hatfield, and Julian Bobo, International Trustee Frank Smith, and International Field Representative Walter Humpton.

Potato Acreage In Valley Decreases

DALLAS, Jan. 11. (P)—Acreage planted to early potatoes in the lower Rio Grande Valley will be 26 percent below the 10,500 acre total of last year if present intentions of farmers are carried out, according to Charles Sperle, truck crop specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture. Farmers in that section found much difficulty in marketing their crop at satisfactory prices last year.

There was a general overproduction of the early crop, and many farmers held their product, hoping to find a better market later in the season, instead of which they encountered lower prices on account of a still greater increase in later crops.

Unique Niches Used For Very Old and Very New

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

MME. RUBINSTEIN

Why a camel should furnish inspiration for an exercise is something that only the experienced camel rider can understand. I admit that I have seen camels—too many of them, and I have ridden on them, and in toto voce, let me say again—too many of them. And I have always been of the opinion that it was the rider and not the camel that did the exercise.

However, there is a distinctive pitching motion which characterizes the camel's walk. It is this movement which we are trying to emulate in the exercise known as "the camel." Here it is.

Take the first position on "all fours," back straight, and knee bent. Now drop your body down to a low "crouch" and raise the head. Now, in a swift springing motion, arch the back and drop your head. Repeat this exercise for at least eight times.

Now let's introduce a little "West Point" into the "camel" variation. Begin with the position. I have described on "all fours." Now balance your weight on the hands. Then in a springing movement, extend your feet until they are straight behind you with your weight balanced between hands and toes. Spring back into the first position; repeat.

Mind you, I'm not classing this variation under simple exercises. It is anything but that. However, it's an excellent one to aid you in developing good balance and firm leg and back muscles.

Here's another rather more difficult to master, but quite easy once you've learned the technique of it. Assume the position, weight evenly distributed on toes and palms, face downward, body stiff and rigid. Move the right hand from the floor and swing it as high outward and to the side as you can. Return and swing the left arm exactly as described. Now, while you are holding the first position, which you will notice is the same in all these exercises, move your hands, little by little, as far outward to either side as you can. Now slowly bring them as far forward as possible.

To finish these floor exercises, resume the "crouch," place your hands on the floor and shock your legs behind, resting weight on palms and toes. Now bend your arms and lower your body straight down to the floor. Bring your legs back to the "crouch" and come to the erect standing position.

too arduous. Fiddlesticks! My own observation is that the average school teacher doesn't know what work is as contrasted with the average woman in business.

JOHN AND FLOESIE
Every picture seen so far of the two who are rather humorously known as "America's Most Famous Sweethearts," John Coolidge and Florence Trumbull, show the celebrated two either in, about to get in, or leaving Miss Florence's sport racer. Young John doesn't have a car; he doesn't earn enough yet, but his fiancée is a governor's daughter and the car, along with other things, is just taken for granted.

Not that we haven't been assured again and again that the governor's daughter is an eminently sensible young lady who can cook and all that and who is perfectly willing to struggle along on her railroad clerk fiancée's salary—still, one can but hope that young John Coolidge's courage must be pretty stalwart stuff and match that of thousands of other young men who dare take the matrimonial leap.

IT IS SAD?
A 63-year-old telephone operator died in a little Ohio town the other day. In the poor home in which she had lived alone and in supposed poverty they found hundreds of boxes, some opened and some unopened, of the richest, most exotic and luxurious silks and perfumes and all the utterly useless frivolities dear to women. There were so many bundles that there was no room in the house for the funeral.

HER ROMANCE
Much-to-do was made about the nation of this. And yet, is it so pathetic, after all? They spoke of the dead woman's hunger for that romance and beauty which life had denied her, breaking forth in one desperate attempt to get something. Well, maybe she got it. She's not so much to be pitied as the humans living barren lives who never make an attempt to break out nor know how to do it if they would. Who is to say that the seemingly psychopathic trait of buying luxuries which she could never use may not have been this woman's salvation and had real meaning for her?

Approximately 48.3 per cent of the 40,000 graduates of Pennsylvania high schools for the school year 1927-28 are continuing their education.

BY HILDA HUNT

In the days when fireplaces were necessities and not luxuries, as they are today, we used to pose the living room clock on the mantel. Now that we have steam heat, fire laws, and space must be economized, it is sometimes hard to find a place for the old clock, mantle, mantel clock, fast becoming an antique. We like its friendly tick tock, and to dream of the stories it could tell of bygone days, but it doesn't look just right posed on the desk, table, or on top of the bookcase. Here is where the built-in or built-out bookshelves, like those in the sketch, come in handy.

You will notice there are three tiers of shelves for books, raised enough from the floor to be in easy reach of the desk or table posed in front. In the center section is built a compartment just large enough to accommodate the clock, perhaps as dear to our hearts as the old open book. The sketch shows a dropped leaf table of colonial type, which need not be expensive.

Passing from the old-fashioned clock to the very modern radio, we have another problem in where to conceal it. Here is where the antique and the very modern can be combined into a piece of useful and beautiful furniture. In the sketch is shown an antique blanket chest of bygone and almost forgotten period, the upper compartment of which is used for the radio set. A loud speaker and the receiving unit are concealed behind a sheet of wall board at the back of the chest. The batteries are concealed in one of the drawers, and the aerial enters from the back.

Unobtrusive Wood Box
If you are fortunate enough to still live in a house with the old-fashioned open fireplace that burns wood, there is an idea for an unobtrusive wood box that may be made from two canned goods boxes placed top to top. The upper box is hinged to the lower, so that when swung back it discloses a rather deep receptacle that will hold several rather long logs on end. The box may be covered with glazed chintz in color scheme to harmonize with the room, or painted.

Add pears and vanilla and let stand until fruit is thoroughly heated. Arrange pears on top of rice mold and pour over syrup. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry and fold in sugar. Sunday-School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic:—Sin.
Scripture Lesson:—1 John 1:5-2:8.
1 John 1:5. And this is the message which we have heard from him and announce unto you, that God is the light, and in him is no darkness at all.

6. If we say that we have fellowship with him and walk in the darkness, we lie, and do not do the truth.

7. But if we walk in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus his Son cleanseth us from all sin.

8. If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us.

9. If we confess our sins, he is faithful and righteous to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

10. If we say that we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and His Word is not in us.

1 John 2:1. My little children, these things I write unto you that ye may not sin. And if any man sin, we shall have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ, the righteous.

2. And he is the propitiation for our sins; and not for ours only, but also for the whole world.

Time:—John wrote his first Epistle probably near the close of his long life; he died about A. D. 100.

Place:—The Epistle was probably written at Ephesus, where John lived and preached for many years.

Golden Text:—If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. If we confess our sins, he is faithful and righteous to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.—1 John 1:8, 9.

INTRODUCTION
"The Bible's first word is God—'in the beginning God'—and his second sin," someone has remarked.

That is, as soon as we are through with the story of God and his world, the creation, the very next chapter of Genesis, the third, tells us of man's first disobedience. The two forthtelling facts of the Old Testament are, indeed, God and sin; as Christ is the center of the New Testament's two-fold keynote.

SIN
"The characteristic of New Testament teaching is its intense conception of sin as the one great evil of the world—as the central fact of life—around which all the powers of heaven, earth and hell range themselves." Geo. A. Barton.

"The Christian faith finds sin as the cause of the wrong relation between men and God and finds the root of sin in selfishness, a self-assertion of man in disregard of his true relationship to God and his fellows. It is the lower self asserting itself against the higher, the narrower against the broader, the coarser against the finer."—Cleveland Boyd McAfee.

"Sin is a clenched fist; and a blow in the face of God."—Joseph Parker.

THE GENESIS STORY OF SIN
Gen. 3:1-24

The Bible's story of sin may be old, but it is not old-fashioned; it is very up-to-date. How clearly the sinfulness of today is reflected here in this primeval record! The devil is cunning, what ever form he takes. All the more need that we should watch out. But is not practically all our wrong doing intelligent, deliberate? God had said, "Ye shall not eat." They knew.

"A denial of God's Word enters in. The tempter hints, 'Ye shall not die,' as God has said, 'Don't believe it.' The sinner deludes himself, 'I'll get by with it—this time.' One of the saddest items of the story is that we are forever helping one another sin, and trying to shift the blame to the other's shoulders—as Eve Adam and Adam Eve. The vision of the nakedness of sin, how we stand all guilty in God's holy sight, is never long deferred; nor the sound of his accusing voice.

The Curse of Sin
The curse of sin rests on the whole life of man in this world and the world to come, unless he is redeemed from it by the grace of God. After man sinned, he slunk away from the presence of God in shame and fear (Gen. 3:8ff). "The account of the creation and fall would indicate that up to the time of man's sin he had free intercourse with his maker. Sin, with its attendant sense of shame and fear, always destroys one's fellowship with God. And if one sins until the sense of shame and guilt is gone, then his fellowship with God is all the more completely destroyed. This lack of fellowship with God is spiritual death."

The Remedy For Sin
"But there is a remedy for sin. It is a relief to turn from the black picture of sin and its curse to the redemption that God gives to his people. It is like coming out of a night of storm to a beautiful, calm morning in spring, or like the welcome light and fresh air after crawling through the darkness and smoke of a long railway tunnel.

As soon as the blighting hand of sin was laid on man, there appeared a promise of redemption. The seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head (Gen. 3:15). The light of this coming redemption shone more and more brightly until the Saviour appeared, as recorded in the New Testament. By faith the Old Testament saints realized something of the power of this promised redemption and looked forward to its fuller manifestation.

In the fullness of time this Saviour came in the person of Jesus Christ, to give us the privilege today to know him and to proclaim him to all men as the Saviour from sin and its curse."

Confession of Sin, v. 9.
"If we confess our sins," "Our confession is due chiefly to God himself, because he is most profoundly aggrieved by our offenses; but confession may be due also to those about us. Confession will clear our career from misinterpretation and assure the bystanders that we have sought cleansing rather than whitewash."—Rev. Thomas G. Selby.

"If we confess our sins," means just taking the hateful things up one by one and showing them to God, saying: 'I did this, and that, and that.' I have observed so many times in dealing with my little son, that it is very easy to get a general confession from him that he has been doing that which is disobedient, but it is not so easy to get him to tell just what he has been doing that is wrong."—Rev. C. I. Scofield, D. D.

Forgiveness of Sin, v. 9.
"He is faithful and righteous to forgive us our sins," "He" refers to God, to whom our regular confession is to be made, confession before men being made as exceptional condition may prompt and require. In forgiving our sins God is faithful, because he is keeping his promise, and yet just, and right, because we are pleading the atonement for sin which satisfies infinite justice. "And to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." When God forgives us he does two vital things for us: He remits the punishment due to our sins and he cleanses us from the pollution caused by the sins. We are saved from the past, and we are introduced to a future of purity.

Our Advocate With the Father.
1 John 2:1.
"We have an Advocate with the Father." The Greek word translated Advocate means "called to" and signifies some one called to another in a trial to defend him, speak for him, and intercede on his behalf with the judge. "Paraclete" is a transcription of the Greek letters. The Father, if he exercised only his sense of justice, must destroy us for our many sins; the Son continually intercedes with him for us, pleading the sacrifice he has made on our behalf. "Jesus Christ the righteous," John knew Jesus well, and could testify that he was well, and could testify that he was righteous. If he were not entirely righteous he could not plead with a righteous God on behalf of unrighteous men.

Our Propitiation For Sin, 1 John 2:1.
"And he is the propitiation for our sins." "When God forgives men, he releases them from the penalties of their sins; and the death of Christ is the ground on which he releases them."—R. W. Dale. "And not for our only, but also for the whole world." "Nothing gives us such a wonderful impression of what Christ was to his immediate followers as that they actually say in him as he died upon the cross a goodness that outweighed not only their sin but all sin, and could not and could say that God was in Christ reconciling the world to himself."—Rev. James Denney, D. D.

"Christ pleads his death, and then we live."

Be thou my Speaker, taintless Pleader.

Unblotted Lawyer, true Proceeder! Thou giv'st salvation, even for alms; No, with a bribed lawyer's palms. This, then, is mine eternal plea. To Him that made heaven, earth, and sea."—Sir Walter Raleigh.

Livestock Work Is Sought By Cowmen

AUSTIN, Jan. 11 (AP)—The state livestock sanitary commission will ask the legislature for an emergency appropriation of $175,000 to carry on its work, said Richard King, Corpus Christi chairman.

King, with other members of the board, was here yesterday conferring with the executive committee of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association on legislation to be requested.

Special Session Appears Certain

Long List of Callers Tell Hoover of Outlook Now; More Cabinet Suggestions Are Made

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—With belief in the inevitability of a special session of congress soon after March 4 becoming more universal, a long list of congressional callers had been arranged for President-elect Hoover today to acquaint him with the political and legislative outlook.

Difficulty of enacting suitable farm relief legislation and of revising the tariff act at the present session of Congress had already been emphasized to Mr. Hoover by a host of callers since his return from South America. No later than last night the two ranking members of the house ways and means committee had appealed to him for a special session as soon as possible after his inauguration for the purpose of amending the tariff schedule, with special reference to the ones affecting agriculture.

Suggestions for cabinet appointments also poured upon Mr. Hoover from a majority of his callers. Representative Hawley of Oregon, chairman of the ways and means committee, after a lengthy conference with the president-elect predicted a special session about the middle of April to attend to both farm legislation and tariff revision.

Representative Treadway, of Massachusetts, republished on the same committee, also urged Mr. Hoover to call an early special session.

Treadway was among those who urged appointment on the president-elect suggesting that Secretary Whiting of the commerce department be kept in his present post in the next administration.

Ten persons trapped in their rooms in the Seneca were carried out unconscious, while the remainder of the 50 guests, warned by the night clerk, escaped before the firemen arrived.

Mrs. Nellie Ashton, who was kept from jumping from a third story window by the cries of spectators, was rescued by Patrolman W. M. Palmer, who made his way into the burning building and carried the woman out after she had collapsed.

Tech Cagers Tame A.C.C. Wildcats By Tune Of 42-30

Matadors Stage A Lightning Finish To Whip Wildcats

Ablene Christian College Quintet Bow To Crimson Basketeers In Fast Game Friday Night

Coach Vic Payne's Matador basketeers made their rivals of the hardwood court, the A. C. C. Wildcats look tame last night with a lightning finish to a fast and furious cage contest to down the Christians 42 to 30 in the first of a two game series. A crowd estimated at 1,500 witnessed the contest.

It was anybody's ball game until the final minutes when the crimson basketeers "got hot" and pulled away from the fast stepping Ablene aggregation with Pace and Ablene leading the scoring spree.

For three periods of hectic basketball the Bull Fighters and Wildcats fought nip and tuck with the leading swaying repeatedly. Both teams were playing a loose, ragged game until the last ten minutes of the contest when the cagers on both sides got their machinery sufficiently oiled to play college basketball. Guarding was close on both teams and fouls were numerous, causing four men to go out of the game by this route in the course of the game.

Tech Scores First

Tech grabbed the lead at the outset when Fisher sank a basket from close range, but it was short lived. The Cats came back with a brace of free throws in the second half. Wash Coons, who made himself famous last week by scoring a field goal for an opponent, made his presence felt with his smooth floor work and sensational shots at the basket. Coons together with Phippen set the pace for the visitors during the first half, grabbing the lead from the Tech five at the end of the first ten minutes of play, but the Matadors came back again before the half was over and were leading 17 to 13 when the gun sounded. Fisher and Hodges scored 11 of the 17 points registered by the Matadors in the first half.

Coming back in the second half with the same lineup that started the game the Tech quintet assumed the aggressive and battled the visiting cagers off their feet in the final minutes of play. Wildcat ferocity was met with the stubborn doggedness of the Matadors. Ability of Coach Payne's crew to work the ball through the A. C. C. defense and make their shots good accounted for the rally staged by the Tech.

Leon Fisher, Tech center, carried off high point honors for the night with 12 points, while his team-mate Hodges and Coons of A. C. C. were tied for second place with ten each. The same teams play here again tonight.

YOU and BASKETBALL

BY H. C. CARLSON, M. D.
University of Pittsburgh Basketball Coach

Just as in shooting, practice is the basis for improvement in passing. You should make every pass accurate in practice, for as you practice, so you play.

In the manner of delivery there can be greater variety of passes described than for shooting. In passing you may be pressed and still get away a good pass because of the greater area for the reception of passes.

For general purposes, I put passes in the back court for a long pass, and a push pass for inside the offensive territory, where short passes are more fitting. Each of these types include: aerial and bounce passes, of course, with different pressure applied to the situation.

As in baseball, certain players throw a heavy ball that is hard to handle, other players throw a light ball that is easily handled. Try to throw the ball so that it is already caught.

An easy way to practice passing is by forming two parallel lines 15 feet apart, players facing each other. Practice push passes, both aerial and bounces, moving apart one step on every other pass. Develop accuracy and speed first, then deception looking one way and passing the other.

To start cutting and passing, stand on the sidelines until your receiver gets the ball; then start fast straight across the floor. Your passer will go back to you until you get the ball.

Maybe Etter Can Make Glee Club In Spare Time

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 11.—Coach Enoch Bagshaw at Washington has been complaining of late that the athletic material he has been getting for Washington athletic teams could be much better.

Perhaps Hal Etter, who will enter Washington from here next year, is part of the answer to Bagshaw's prayers, for Etter ranks as one of the best high school athletes ever to enter a college in this section.

While attending a Canadian high school, Etter played hockey and lacrosse with city league clubs and played rugby, soccer, baseball and basketball, swam a lap on the relay team, and reached the all-city tennis semifinals.

If this young man also proves a good football player, he should satisfy Bagshaw, perhaps.

Pinkston Opposes County Resolution

Meeting of Commissioners Said to Be Unofficial, Slator Commissioner Declares Friday

(Special To The Avalanche)
SLATOR, Jan. 11.—Commenting upon the action taken Thursday by the Lubbock County Commissioners' Court when a resolution was passed which placed the county on record as opposing the proposed road bond issue in Lubbock county, Slator, commissioner of Precinct No. 2 of Lubbock county, issued a statement here today.

Before making the statement, Mr. Pinkston said he was anxious for the people of the county to know his position in the matter before the road bond election is held on Saturday, January 12.

Mr. Pinkston's statement, issued here today, is as follows:

"I was notified that there was to be no official meeting of the Lubbock County Commissioners' court in Lubbock yesterday. In fact, I had been advised it would not be an official meeting of the court, but that it would be an informal meeting of the court with members of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs of Lubbock. Therefore, I wish to make the explanation that I did not deem it necessary for me to be present. For this reason, I had no opportunity to voice my objections to the resolution as passed by the Commissioners' court at the meeting on Thursday.

"I am opposed to the issuance of warrants by the county or using any part of our maintenance funds to hard-surface state highways. I believe every dollar we are getting needs to be used for the proper upkeep of our lateral roads.

"This is not the first time I have opposed the issuance of county warrants to hard-surface state highways, and my position on this question should be well-known.

"In my opinion, when a Commissioners' court issues warrants to provide money to hard-surface state highways, they are violating the intent of the law, and I shall, therefore, do all in my power to prevent such action in Lubbock county. I am likewise opposed to the use of regular maintenance funds for hard-surfacing state highways.

"In addition, it is my opinion that there are already too many outstanding county warrants in Lubbock county bearing six per cent interest."

(Signed)
J. T. PINKSTON.

Bodie's Legs Count Him Out

By JACK SORDS

Sports Cartoonist-Writer for Central Press and Morning Avalanche
Ping Bodie, former White Sox and Yankee slugger, is just another illustration of the fact that a baseball player lasts only as long as his legs. Ping retired from the San Francisco "Seals" still the heavy hitter of old, but fat and miserably slow in chasing flies and running the bases. Balls dropped all around him. He knew where he was supposed to go but couldn't get there fast enough.

Ping would have stayed in the big leagues much longer than he did but for the failure of his legs to respond. In fact he might still be up there if all he had to do was bat. How well he could "bust 'em" is well known. Moving around was another matter.

On being questioned by a sports writer some years ago as to the best manner of laying down a sacrifice, Bodie frankly answered that he didn't know how to bunt. He seldom had to resort to that game, so timely were his hits.

It was learned tonight when McMillan said he would go to Fort Worth to confer with officials of the Texas College as soon as he recovers from influenza which has kept him in the hospital for a week.

The vacancy at Texas Christian was caused by resignation of Madison Bell, who resigned to accept the coaching at Texas A. & M.

McMillan said he had not been offered the Texas job nor had he applied for it. He graduated from high school in Fort Worth, and his small daughter, "Bo Peep" now lives there with a sister.

The former All-American grid star conferred concerning possibility of the Texas post with M. F. Ahearn, Aggie athletic director. "We are well satisfied with McMillan's work," Ahearn said. "If he leaves here it will be because of financial considerations."

McMillan, who won fame as quarterback of Centre College, Kentucky's "Frying Colts," came to Kansas Aggies last fall from Beaver Falls, Pa.

The Nut Cracker

By Joe Williams

Several National League teams are taking seriously the suggestion of President Heydler that a tenth man but for the pitcher. If the National League adopts this idea won't Judge Landis have a swell time figuring out the next world series?

The suggestion, however, is a swell one. It might be carried to the pugilistic branch of the sporting endeavor. Heavies who can "take it" might have a substitute step in for them and sock a guy down once in a while.

Babe Ruth might have Reigh Count munching oats near first base to run for him.

But Jack Sharkey still wouldn't need anyone to talk for him.

New Era In Dairy Industry Forecast By Separator Men

In celebration of the second time that an entire carload of cream separators has been delivered to dealers of the South Plains, who represent the McCormick-Deering line of the International Harvester Company, about 35 dealers from various towns and cities of this section, met in Lubbock Friday for a banquet and program, as guests of the company. Last year the dealers of this section of the country were of this area had a carload of them, and the concern has made of the event an annual affair, hoping to soon change it to a semi-annual one.

This Second Annual Separator Delivery Day program was presided over by E. L. Banks of Lubbock, I. H. C. representative for this territory. Following the banquet, held at the Lubbock hotel, a moving picture exhibition of the separators, their use in dairying, with a lecture by C. C. Adkins, of Chicago, southwestern representative of the company, was given.

The development of farm machinery affects the future of the farmers of the country."

Young Stribling Willing To Mix At Any Sacrifice

Jack Sharkey Must Be Reached Before Match Is Certain; Bostonian Said To Have Big Guarantee

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Jan. 11. (P)—Negotiation to carry on the last fight Tex Rickard scheduled seemed safe and headed for the port of Miami Beach tonight.

With William F. Carey, vice-president and former right hand man of the late promoter at the helm, the Garden teamed with activity designed to land Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling in the ring in the southern resort February 27.

One-half of the match is safe, Carey announced, after a long distance telephone conversation with "Pa" Stribling, manager of the Georgia youngster. Tonight Carey headed for Boston to talk with Sharkey and the latter's manager, Johnny Buckley, on the outcome of this confab depends the match.

With no legal contract let over by Rickard as a basis for negotiations, Carey undertook to straighten out the tangle over formal terms and financial arrangements. So far as Stribling is concerned, any arrangement is satisfactory, Carey said, emphasizing that the Georgian desired first of all to go through with the match, even at some sacrifice. Sharkey, understood to have been guaranteed $100,000 by Rickard, may be more difficult.

Jack Dempsey probably will handle the reins of promotion, if Carey succeeds in completing the business arrangements. Carey promised to help in any way desired but gave no further indication of his own fighting plans. "If it is possible the Madison Square Garden corporation will stage that fight," Carey said. "I will be very happy if we can put it over, if only for the sake of Rickard's memory. However, we cannot say we have the match made until the fighters are reached."

No Agreements
The search of Rickard's papers today gave no indication of any agreement under which the Miami Chamber of Commerce agreed to underwrite the contest, as was originally intimated. Neither were any contracts discovered involving Sharkey, Stribling or Dempsey, who had told Rickard he would fight once more in 1929.

BOSTON, Jan. 11. (P)—Convicted that the Madison Square Garden corporation would not stage the Sharkey-Stribling bout at Miami Beach on February 27, promoter Eddie Mack of the Bogan Garden today started negotiations to move the heavyweight fight to Boston.

Reports from the Boston Garden stated that Sharkey has reached an agreement with Promoter Mack. Sharkey already has expressed preference for meeting Stribling in Boston rather than in Miami or any other boxing center, with the exception of New York.

B. Sherrod Urges Greater Work For Section In 1929

Retiring President of B. C. D. Gives Statement Of Appreciation for Co-operation Shown In 1928

B. Sherrod, retiring president of the Lubbock Board of City Development issued a statement yesterday in which he expressed his appreciation to the citizens and business men for their cooperation during his term of service in the office and urged greater work for the advancement of Lubbock and the South Plains in future years.

The statement summed up some of the accomplishments of the board during the past year, and requested that the people strive for greater achievements be aimed at under the regime of H. L. Allen.

Expresses Thanks.
The statement follows: "I want to express my sincere thanks for the wonderful co-operation that has been given the Chamber of Commerce and the Board of City Development during the past year. There have been many things accomplished, a complete statement of which will be given out later. There are many things coming up this year that will take as great an effort on the part of every citizen, and it means more than most people think to give their time and effort to the further advancement of Lubbock and the South Plains. I realize more than ever that 'Lubbock Spirit' that has built Lubbock is worth so much to the city, and what might be done with the full cooperation of every person. "We have made many mistakes in the year's time, and others will be made by others, but we have worked at the job, doing our very best, and we have reason to be proud of the things that were accomplished in so short a time.

"It might appear to some that more could have been done, but it takes time, effort and the closest of cooperation to put things over. I trust before any one offers any criticism this year, they will get the full facts, give their advice and council, then if not carried out as one might think, give the others the same privilege that you might take yourself. There is difference of opinions always, and let's work in the future as hard as we have in the past, continue the same efforts to all try and do the thing right, and I am sure that the results will be that Lubbock will be the city we would all like to see it.

"Give the incoming president your full cooperation, and when called on to work, you will love your town better, your fellow-townsmen better, and will be worth much to you in future years."

Dawson Farmer's Maize Crop Good

Joe M. Peterson Wins First Prize In Four Expositions During Past Fall; Offer Made On Entire Crop

(Special To The Avalanche)
LAMESA, Jan. 11.—It is generally known that the South Plains of Texas is peculiarly adapted to the production of grain sorghums and particularly milo maize but here is a story that proves this section has no equal in quality for milo maize production.

Joe M. Peterson farmer, five miles southeast of Lamesa in Dawson county selected thirty heads of maize from his field last September to show in the county fair. According to the score card the maize was exhibited in lots of ten heads each, and was awarded first, second, and third, by the county judges. Encouraged by these winners Peterson exhibited these same thirty heads of maize in the Panhandle South Plains Fair at Lubbock, State Fair at Dallas, Cotton Palace Exposition at Waco, The Southern Show at Shreveport, La., and the National Fair at Chicago. In all these fairs these thirty heads won first, second, and third, places as in the Dawson county fair.

As a result of this exhibits Peterson has been offered four cents per pound for his entire maize crop but has refused.

A course in the history of living religions, is included in the curriculum of Topeka, Kansas, Senior High school.

Clean-Up Sale Is Planned In Slaton

Farmers Invited To Bring Anything They Have To Sell In Auction Monday; Big Attendance Expected

(Special To The Avalanche)
SLATON, Jan. 11.—A big annual clean-up auction sale for the benefit of all farmers around Slaton, will be held here, all day, Monday, January 21, according to officers of the Chamber of Commerce, who arranged the event. Farmers have been invited to bring anything they have for sale, and it is to be sold at auction without charge.

The plan is thought to be very attractive for farmers, especially at this season of the year, when almost every farmer has something he wishes to dispose of before starting his new crop, and many also want to purchase perhaps the very things other farmers wish to sell. A very large attendance is expected at the sale, which starts at 10 o'clock in the morning of that day.

Modern Business Men Know That Presistent Advertising Makes New Customers And Keeps Old Ones Satisfied

- THAT failure to advertise kills many a profitable business.
- THAT advertising is essential to business success.
- THAT to "ask 'em to buy" makes selling easier.
- THAT progressive dealers don't waste time trying to sell unadvertised, unasked for merchandise.
- THAT the busiest, most helpful thing in any business is advertising.
- THAT a live business concern can't afford to mark time.
- THAT the only business that can afford to mark time is dead.
- THAT the ones who get the business are the ones who go after it in a vigorous way.
- THAT a going business should be a growing business.
- THAT business men today are building their business on a basis of truthful advertising.

Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.—John xv: 13.
Love and death are the two great hinges on which all human sympathies turn.—B. R. Haydon.

A Washington correspondent reports, with some enthusiasm, that President Coolidge was nearly five minutes late the other day at a White House reception. The incident assumed importance because it is the first time the chief executive has ever been a second late on any formal occasion; Coolidge punctuality being as well defined as Coolidge economy. The ordinary routine which has been followed so carefully ever since he went into the White House is "slipping," the correspondent notes, although his afternoon nap is still the day's program and nothing is permitted to interfere with it. One can hardly blame Mr. Coolidge if he begins to lose interest in the many functions in which he is expected to participate. His work is about finished. In less than two months his successor will be inaugurated, and he will pass into private life—an experience for which he may yearn, since he has had so little of it since becoming a full-grown man. Congress is in session, but requires little of the President's attention. If any important laws are passed, which is not expected, Mr. Coolidge can either approve them or veto them, or leave them on his desk without action. There are no important appointments to be made, and nobody is seeking the President's opinion on any important subject. In short, Mr. Coolidge has an opportunity to "take it easy," and if he yields to it no harm can be done. The "healthiest" President didn't get that way accidentally. Mr. Coolidge has always taken pretty good care of himself.

In many of the East Texas Counties good roads are adding very materially in developing some of the best paying industries of the state. The dairy industry is one that good roads will develop. This is one of the biggest things in the future for the South Plains and it is one of the big arguments in building better roads in this country. Good highways will mean much to the farmers in this way, and we should let little differences as to the road destination and the kind of road bed we shall have cause us to lose sight of the importance of good roads.

TRIBUTE
For the first time in the history of Lubbock, have the people been called upon to pay tribute to the life of a fireman. And it is indeed one of the saddest occasions that has come to the people of this city. Sad because the popularity of the young fireman, Sad because the young man was working in the fire department, and his work was to protect the property of the people who live within the city, and it was while performing his duties that the sudden end came to his young life. Lubbock people should and did show their interest in the young man, and expressed their appreciation of his life and his work, by attending in large numbers the funeral services, and accompanying the remains to the last resting place. We know nothing of the condition of the young widow so far as this world's goods are concerned, but we feel that the people of Lubbock should show their sympathy in the loss of a young man who was so good, and in an effort to protect each of us from the flames that come from time to time to destroy property and possibly life.

BLAMED LIQUOR
Under the influence of liquor, Floyd Newton Byrnes, of San Angelo committed one of the worst crimes of the history of the state when he murdered three women members of the same family. He never denied committing the crime, but said he was under the influence of liquor when the crime was committed, and seems to have blamed this for the whole thing. He died in the electric chair, Friday morning soon after midnight, and while he paid with his life, it merely added one more to the list that the tragedy brought. This is not the first time that liquor has caused murder. It is not the first time that it has brought grief and sorrow to the world. It has broken up more homes, put more men in the penitentiary than most any other one thing, and still men will drink it, and will vote for it, and will do most anything to get it. The theory of personal liberty. The prohibition laws of the United States should be made more drastic than they are and enforced to the letter. The nation does not need liquor, and as a beverage it is all bunk. Make America dry, and it will be more prosperous and more happiness will abound.

FIFTY YEARS OF CRIME
Some time ago Clarence Darrow, on being asked about our crime problem, said that "during my half century of practice, society has made no material advance in treatment of crime and the criminal."
His opinion is in striking contrast with the activities of reformers who spend much of their time devising "cures" for the disease of crime.
In that half century of which Mr. Darrow speaks, thousands of criminal laws have gone on the statute books. Panaceas have been offered, and many of them accepted. And yet crime continues and flourishes. Every new law passed means more law-breaking.

The number of people, for example, who have been made law-breakers by such ordinances as have been passed to prevent ownership of revolvers and pistols can not be estimated. Yet such laws are proposed to "prevent" crime. But who ever heard of a criminal paying any attention to an anti-run law? An anti-automobile law would be as sensible, on the theory that if automobiles were taken away from all law-abiding citizens, the criminal would thereby be deprived of their use in his depredations.

More multiplicity of laws does not deter the criminal. He will have his gun and his automobile though the statute books sag with enactments forbidding them as commodities. "Freak" laws make all laws less respected.

We need fewer laws but with sharper teeth to punish criminals, if we wish to check crime; not more laws to destroy rights and privileges of law-abiding citizens.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—That show of remarkable longevity, "Abie's Irish Rose," still has a "pull" in high places.

Reduced to film presentation, it held the attention of no less a personage than Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, until after midnight when privately produced after a dinner to the President and Mrs. Coolidge by "the general," which is the inside way to refer to Vice President Charles Dawes.

That's quite unusual for the President. As a rule, at private first showings of the sort, he shows a home-going itch soon after 10 p. m., but he stuck for this particular comedy throughout an eight or 10 reel version still lacking its final pruning.

Pershing Laughed
General Pershing was another guest of "the general" for the show, held in the Dawes leased Washington home, which with part of its furnishings belonging to the late Senator Scott of West Virginia. The story goes that Pershing laughed so hard that he broke down a chair. Without doubt he laughed. Nobody could see that show and not laugh. It is true that a chair collapsed under Pershing but the explanation seems to be that it had been unused in a vacant house for some years and just sort of dried out beyond the hold-together stage.

General Dawes, despite his music loving aspect, does not force musical entertainment on his guests. Occasionally he plays himself if pressed; but special showings of new movies are more to his liking as after dinner amusement for those who dine with him. He still is highly interested in good music, however, and has twice figured in getting a Rumanian royal orchestra hotel jobs in the United States for six months at a crack. The general encountered the squad of fiddlers during his last trip to Paris and much approved of their work, particularly the Rumanian tunes in which they specialized. He was well acquainted with these fellow craftsmen before he left Paris.

Dawes Fixed Them Up
Back in the United States, the vice president got pleas from his orchestra friends to find them an engagement in this country and obliged, through kindness of a Chicago hotel friend. There was trouble about getting them through the immigration bars and again with union musicians in Chicago; but General Dawes was equal to both emergencies. Later the fiddlers did another hotel tour in Washington about which little was published. Now they are back in Europe and easier for a third American invasion. They have so advised Impresario Dawes. What he is going to do about it doesn't appear as yet.

Incidentally, the Bystander has surveyed available data on men now in Washington public life without finding a musical match for General Dawes. He has heard from many friends, however, that President "Big John" McPherson, now retired, was a great performer on the harp.

VITAMIN A HAS MANY IMPORTANT FUNCTIONS
By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Following the discovery of the importance of vitamins for health, it became the custom to call them by alphabetic designations, such as A, B, C, etc., and by other terms which concern the diseases which develop when the vitamins are absent from the diet.

Thus vitamin A was called the anti-xerophthalmic vitamin, B the anti-neuritic vitamin, C the anti-scurvy vitamin; the most important, vitamin D, is necessary in the diet in order to prevent the development of rickets.

Many students of the subject have insisted that the latter names would be preferable, because they are more expressive than those of alphabetic character.

Dr. H. C. Sherman, one of the leading authorities in the field, defends the alphabetic terms. He holds they represent better the fact that we do not begin to know all that the vitamins accomplish, and that the more descriptive names may refer to only a single activity of any of these essential substances.

Vitamin A is concerned with many more things than merely prevention of the diseases of the prevention of the diseases of the eyes called "xerophthalmia." A lack of vitamin A results in a widespread weakening of the tissues of the body and in the lowering of its ability to resist infections.

Vitamin A seems to be essential to growth in the young and to normal nutrition and health at all ages. If vitamin A is absent from the diet, the skin, ears and sinuses seem to become more easily infected. The presence or absence of the body and in the lowering of its ability to resist infections.

Q.—Are twins hereditary?

A.—Nowadays we know that twinning is hereditary and that a man of a family that runs to twins is about five times as likely to have twin children as a man without twins in his immediate family connection. Furthermore, doctors now diagnose the presence of twins well in advance of their appearance.

stones and of stones elsewhere in the body.
Our growing knowledge of this vitamin thus indicates its tremendous significance in the body and also the fact that the other vitamins as well may be concerned with many more factors than the mere disturbance of the body which develops when they are absent from the diet.

Vitamin A is called the fat soluble vitamin. It is present in varying amounts in cod liver oil, in egg yolk, in many leafy plants, in good butter and in many other common constituents of the human diet.

The Mischief Makers Are at It Again!

SO THINK WE

We think it will be a very great mistake if the voters fail to approve the road bonds today.

Paved highways will mean a great deal to the people of this county and to every town in the county. It will mean a great deal to the state in planning the highways in the future. Vote for the road bonds.

Since some of the alleged rumors that somebody was going to get a big slice of pie off the road bonds, has been emphatically denied by those accused so, this part of the objection should be satisfactorily out of the way, and you can vote for the bonds with a clear conscience.

You are interested in the bond election we are sure and today is the day that you can give your approval of them by voting for the issue.

We will never get a bond order that everybody will approve, but the present one seems as nearly right as possible and we are of the opinion that you should support it.

Paved highways in Lubbock county will pay for themselves in a few years by the additional produce that will be marketed by reason of the good roads.

Paved highways will mean much more to every automobile owner in Lubbock county, by reason of the length of time they can use their cars, to more than pay the expense of the bonds, to the average car owner.

You will get more mileage out of your gasoline if you will vote for the paved roads in Lubbock county.

Lubbock county cannot afford to wait longer to vote the bonds for the paved roads. It will take some time to get them built after the election, and by the time they are ready for use, there will be a real need for the hard-surfaced roads.

This is going to be one of the greatest dairying sections of the southwest, and paved roads will speed up the development of this industry, which will mean that Lubbock county farmers will begin to realize more of their produce.

With paved highways, regular daily schedules can be made by the creameries to get the cream to the farms. Without these good roads it will be too expensive to maintain such schedules, and the conditions of the roads in bad weather would mean that the marketing would be uncertain.

Lubbock county in her rapid development should push improvement on the highways. Paved highways means rapid development of both rural and city interests.

Cast your vote for the bonds today, and you will be casting a vote for real progress in Lubbock county.

It will never be that we can have paved roads in front or long side of every farm in the county, but with the roads proposed in the bond issue today, every community will be served.

You should cast your vote today for progress.

But after all probably the most important thing for the voters of Lubbock county should do is to vote for the road bonds Saturday.

We think there are two things that can make a fool of a man quickly. Love and booze, and if the love when the love is for the booze.

MILIONS FOR AN IDEA

Have you checked over your mental possessions lately to find whether you have an idea that is worth eight and a quarter million dollars? Twenty-five years ago John R. Roney, of Chicago, produced an idea. He started a grocery store and then another and soon had ten chain stores. He reached out of Chicago and into other towns. Later he discovered he had 300 stores and he sold out everything, including his big baking and coffee roasting plants, to the Kroger company for $8,250,000. Money had two things: an idea and the nerve to go ahead with it.

IS THIS BUSINESS?

"Business is but a relationship between human beings. Human beings must work and live, but above all they must be happy and it is the duty of every one of us to seek to make those around us as happy as we can."

This speaks a famous business man—Charles M. Schwab. It is not hard to understand why so many little business men are little. They have not the intelligence of the imagination to see business as a great human relationship for purposes above and beyond profit.

OUR OWN FAULT

Don't blame the other fellow if he looks down on you. If you are not big enough he does not respect you, or your position or your title or your money. He is not to be blamed. It is your own fault. If a man fails to dominate, it is because of a certain softness in his makeup. He is weak, timid; lacks courage and character. Don't blame the man who looks down on you. If we aren't strong enough to command respect, then we have humiliation coming to us.

AUTHORITY

Speaking of title and authority, some men try to preserve their executive dignity by a private office and an upstage manner. They fool nobody. You either are somebody or you are not. The trappings of title don't make you a wonderful fellow any more than they make the carriage starter a general.

at $250 when the hunters offered to pay for her.

After you have used your 1923 poll tax receipt to cast a vote for the road bonds Saturday, better step into the tax collector's office and buy a new one for next year. You may need it several times and besides if you do not have one you are not a full fledged American citizen anyway.

Troubles are exceedingly gregarious in their nature, and flying in flocks are apt to perch capriciously.—Dickens.

We think people who use the highways the most are perfectly willing to contribute their share in the building of good roads, and if a highway system can be created that will do this we are sure that it will have the hearty endorsement of the people who use the roads. It will be money well invested.

We think it will be no trouble to grow big sunflowers in this country, and as they are becoming one of the wonderful products of the building of good roads, and if a highway system can be created that will do this we are sure that it will have the hearty endorsement of the people who use the roads. It will be money well invested.

Saturday is road bond election day. We think if you have not paid your poll tax you should.

PUBLIC OPINION

TO THE TAX PAYING VOTERS OF LUBBOCK COUNTY

I, being one of the above group of citizens, wish to express my views as briefly as possible to you through the columns of The Avalanche, with the hope that I may say something that will tend to keep harmony among the citizens of the county, and with the hope also that some who may yet be undecided as to how to cast their votes on the bond issue now before us, might get some thought worthwhile from reading this article.

First. From a standpoint of civic pride and convenience, I want to be as progressive as my financial ability will permit, because much kind of living appeals to my higher nature, and ambition.

Second. From the standpoint of economy, I think that if we can put in one million dollars, and get two millions more out of the state and federal governments, to spend on the roads in our own county, it seems to me that such an investment should appeal to the careful and wise spender of money, and undoubtedly we will get the two for one as above suggested when we get in position to build concrete paved highways designated by the state and federal government, and to get ourselves in position for such a step forward, we must first vote the bonds and be ready to cash them at the proper time, so we can put in our portion of the cash, therefore I recommend the bond issue now at hand, as a safe and reliable investment, and believe that the interest we will hereafter pay in retiring these bonds, will actually be less cost to us than keeping our dirt highways in good repair, and after these roads are paved, the state will take over the maintenance of them, and this item will relieve us of loss of expense, and will also leave a lot of money in the hands of our commissioners court for other purposes.

If we get relieved of the upkeep of all designated highways in the county. True economy, is the wise spending of money, and to build concrete highways, seems to be to be true economy.

I have not talked with near all the voters of the county, but have discussed the bond issue with several and have only met four men that are really and truly outright against the bond issue. One of these men is perhaps the largest, if not the largest land and property owner in the county, and of course anything at all that would advance his taxes to any extent, would be against his interests, and especially since perhaps he does not care to sell any or much of his holdings, therefore, I can appreciate his position in the matter, and if I were he, more than likely I would see the bond issue as he seems to see it, that is, it will be an added expense that we can well afford to miss.

Another man says that he is not for it, because he now has to pay more taxes than he can hardly bear, and that the highway 33, should lead out from the east end of Broadway, via Canyon, Acuff and on to Idalou. Another man seems to think the bond issue is insufficient to cover the distance outlined, and that 33 should lead out of Lubbock at the east end of Broadway, and on to Idalou, and I heartily agree with these two men as to routing of 33 as far as the city of Lubbock is concerned, but from a viewpoint of those favoring the routing out of Broadway and of those who favored routing along side the railroad between Idalou and Lubbock, the Highway commission chose to designate the route along the railroad, that all

A SUSPICION OF TEARS DIMMED MONA'S EYES. SHE JUMPED QUICKLY TO HER FEET.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
ASHTORETH ASHE, a beautiful stenographer from Boston, is having an exciting time on ship-board.

JACK SMYTHE, an Englishman whom she meets aboard makes immediate love, and kisses her during the first five minutes of their acquaintance. She snubs him after that—but he warns her, just the same, against her roommate—MONA DE MUSSET, a glorious and mysterious lady. Mona has been very good to Ashtoreth, presenting her with any number of beautiful gifts.

Smythe tells Ashtoreth that the respectable women on board will have nothing to do with her if she continues to be intimate with Mona. "You mean," she demands, "that she is notoriously immoral?" Smythe inclines his head gravely.

But Ashtoreth is becoming accustomed to accepting gifts from women of doubtful morals. There is, for instance, little SADIE MORTON, who extorted $10.00 from HOLLIS HART, Ashtoreth's miserable employer. And Ashtoreth has taken quite a few things from Sadie.

Smythe accuses Ashtoreth of being a gold-digger, declaring that she cares for Mona only because of the gifts she has received. Ashtoreth is very indignant, but realizes that there may be a little truth in what he says. She walks away from him angrily and goes to find her roommate.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVIII

Mona, when she came on deck, had changed her white dress for a complete outfit of green. She was dressed, as usual, with complete disregard of the conventions. There were large single pearls in her ears and a triple string of them about her throat.

She sank gracefully in her deck chair, and crossed her slim ankles. Legs were brown and very slender. She smiled luminously at Ashtoreth, and, leaning forward, kissed her swiftly.

"I have seen Master Smythe," she said, "and he told me what he had already told you. He says, also, 'Mona winked her brows perplexedly—'Oh, yes—he says you are my trumpety little triumph. But, ma chérie, that is not so. He told me that you are in the faces of the fat ladies. That I have embarrassed you, because now they will not speak to you when I go to Guadeloupe. And you will be all alone."

Ashtoreth laid her hands on Mona's knees. "I am sorry," she said, "that he distressed you, because, honestly, Mona, I don't like you. I like you because I like you hearb these women. I'm sorry you're leaving Guadeloupe, because it's been lovely having you for a roommate. Mona dear—truly—if all these cats came."

citizens of Lubbock county should be willing to accept the ruling of the Highway Commission and then work together for something else for the good of the whole county, rather than try to defeat a worthwhile legitimate bond election try to force the Highway Commission of Texas, to reverse itself and redesignate said highway.

In other words, when we enter a contest, I think we should not forget that we as well as our neighbors, and friends, should be good losers as well as good winners, and that if two routes are offered, and only one route can be the highway between two given points, then it is certain that one route must be the loser, and I think the losing side should be more considerate than to try to defeat anything that would be a good investment for the whole people of the county, and the entire county as a whole, therefore I hope that no one will allow themselves to vote against the bond issue through prejudice of this kind.

Another man, who admits he does not own a farm, and that he doesn't expect to own one, suddenly becomes violently interested in protecting the interests of the farmers.

Farmers, beware of brotherly love and free advice, from those who do not have financial interests in common with yours, and lets hope that in the near future us farmers will reach out for ourselves to the extent that politicians will give up the idea of winning an election by arousing our prejudices.

Yours for progress and economy to go hand in hand.

FRED SPIKES,
1612 Broadway,
Lubbock, Texas.

P. S.—I am not a full fledged dirt farmer, but only what might be termed a half and half farmer; that is I have been backing some farmers and can prove that I paid the note at the bank, and I actually own some farms, that is the loan company and I together own them. And none of my farms are adjacent to any of the designated highways, therefore I am trying to be unselfish when I vote for the bonds, and at least I have no bulls for sale, and neither am I being paid for my efforts in behalf of these bonds.

Today's Poem

ST. MICHAEL'S MOUNT
St. Michael's Mount, the ideal tale,
In May with daffodils and lilies,
Is kirled gorgeously a while.
As ne'er another English hill is:
About the precipices cling
The rich renaissance robes of Sun and silver, nature's gifts,
Her gold and silver, nature's gifts,
The prodigal with both hands
showers;
O not in patches, not in drifts
But round and round a mount of flowers

Of lilies and of daffodils,
The envy of all other hills.
And on the lofty summit looms
The castle: None could build or plan it.
The four-square foliage springs and blooms.
The piled elaborate flower of granite,
That not the sun can wither; no,
Nor any tempest overthrow.

about it," she said.
She put the thing about her.
"Come on, then."
He'd talk to her like that, would he? Who did he think he was? And who did he think she was? She'd show him. Just because he thought he looked like the Prince of Wales. Maybe now, with Sadie or Mona, even...
"Come on!" she cried. "What are you waiting for?"
"One little kiss," he told her. "For a sample, you know."

All right. He could have it. Just one, though. One, to show him how very wonderful it would be to have some more. She'd punish him.

Then, without putting his arms about her, he bent and kissed her on the lips. Most boys tried to hug a girl. Jack hadn't touch her.
"Like that?" he asked... And she shook her head, dumbly.
"It will be a ship scandal if we stay here," he informed her. "By the way, did Mona send any message aboard?"

"No," Ashtoreth told him. "She's with friends you know. She won't be back until quite late. She thinks they may know something about her people at Guadalupe... her old nurse. Mona hasn't heard since the hurricane. She says the poor woman was probably killed. She lived all alone in a little house up in the mountains. Mona gets awfully upset whenever she talks about it. She's so good-hearted you know. I imagine she loved that old nurse tremendously."

Smythe shrugged.
"Mona does," he said. "Love tremendously. Just between you and me, though, I imagine she wouldn't be exactly stricken if the poor old nurse had gone the way of all flesh. Not," he added hastily, "that I've any particular reason for thinking so. Only I should think it would be natural enough, shouldn't it have had much in common."

"Why, I know she'd be simply heart-broken," declared Ashtoreth. "She cried all night long last night—just worrying."

They had reached the smoking room.
"What do you say if we have one little drink?" proposed Jack. "Just one."
Ashtoreth felt reckless.

"All right," she agreed. "I'll break a rule. I'll have a cocktail with a cherry in it—no, I won't. I'll have an olive."
"Whiskey and soda," he ordered "and a martini."

While they waited to be served he considered Ashtoreth indulgently.

"You don't ever drink, do you?" he asked. "Such a funny way to order. It's strange, too—you know I thought all American girls drank like fish."

"I told you I didn't," she reminded him.
"I know—but I don't believe all I'm told," he retorted. "Why don't you tell me now that you weren't ever kissed under a moon before?"
Ashtoreth smiled.
"Because that wouldn't be true," she confessed.

It was only last month that Monty English had kissed her beneath a full moon. Sometimes Monty said the prettiest things. That night he had quoted a little bit of poetry. Thomas Moore, he said, had written it. And Ashtoreth had looked it up later. "Fly Not Yet," was the name, and Monty had said that Moore was the loveliest Irish poet that ever lived.

Now she repeated it unblushingly to Jack. Girls can do the strangest things.
"Fly not yet; 'tis just the hour. When pleasure, like the midnight flower. That scorns the eye of vulgar light. Begins to bloom for sons of night And maids who love the moon."

"Beautiful!" exclaimed Jack, when she had finished. "And now, little maid who loves the moon, empty your glass. Time flies."

SUMMARY
Market closed steady. New York contracts one to five points higher and New Orleans contracts from two points up to two points down. The sustaining influence in today's market was the issuance of favorably spinner's takings figures, which showed that during the past week mills took 429,000 bales vs. 364,000 last week and 341,000 the same week last year. Norman Mayer & Co. wired late in the session, "cross currents of opinion covering some irregularity but think ultimate trend of market is upward and favor buying on any good set-back."

BOTH RICH AND POOR OF

LUBBOCK RUB ELBOWS TO MIE

KESSINGER REPRESENTATIVE

Personal Representative of Noted Orgone Health Teacher Tells Anxious Hearers That Modern Ailments Are Mostly Imaginary, and Cites Striking Examples of Conditions Everywhere.

Harvey Martin, the personal representative of Harry Kessinger, the man who claims that Americans have weak stomachs and who met the public of Lubbock yesterday in such large numbers at his headquarters in Bowen's drug store seems to be bearing out his predictions. Scores of Lubbock people called all day to see him and to hear about the Kessinger theories and treatment, and this well known drug store presented a novel sight.

A remarkable feature to the on-looker was the varied types of people whom the representative attracted. They ranged from prosperous looking business men and fashionably dressed women to laborers and their plainly dressed and hard-working wives. All rubbed elbows in a common cause—the pursuit of health, or, as the representative put it, "sound digestion."

A Million Doesn't Help
While commenting upon the striking differences in the varied visitors who called on him, the representative said: "Why not? Because a man has a million dollars, that doesn't make his stomach any better. On the contrary, sitting at a desk all day, riding back and forth in an automobile and stuffing himself with rich food, will put the entire system out of order as sure as fate."

"Most of these men and women I meet tell me they have been acing nerve specialists. The well-to-do seem to attribute the most of their troubles and ailments to nerves. It is modern conditions that have produced the thousands of pale, yellowish and sickly looking people among rich and poor alike in this city as well as in every other city in America. It's broken down, overworked, stuffed-up digestive organs—that is where the trouble lies.

"I am going to make a lot of people realize this before I leave Lubbock.

"Not long ago in an Eastern city a prominent society woman came and said that her maid told her that the treatment I represent was doing wonders for her. She said: 'My maid is suffering from insomnia caused by nervous exhaustion and I have had the same trouble for the past three years.' I wanted to say, 'Tommyrot, madame—both you and your maid are suffering from the effects of too little fresh air and too much hastily eaten and undigestible food.' But I didn't say it. I simply explained the treatment and let it go at that. She will be positive as long as she lives that Orgone relieved her of nervous exhaustion, when in reality all it did was to put her digestive organs in shape so that her food nourished her instead of filling her system with poison gases.

"Get the digestive organs to working properly and the nerves will take care of themselves."

Harvey Martin is meeting the public daily at Bowen's drug store and will be glad to give you the benefit of his knowledge on good health and how to preserve it. adv.

and heifers sold at steady to strong prices; bulls and vealers were unchanged. A limited supply of stockers and feeders cleared at firm prices. Total offerings were 14,200 as compared with 13,025 a week ago and 14,414 the same day a year ago.

CHICAGO GRAIN
CHICAGO, Jan. 11. (P)—Enlarged shipments of wheat both from Argentina and Australia causing Liverpool quotations to weaken did much today to pull the wheat market here down. Besides, profit-taking sales on the part of recent buyers of future deliveries of wheat and cow alike was much in evidence.

Closing prices for wheat in Chicago were unsettled, 5-8c to 1 1-8c net lower. Corn and oats finished unchanged to 1-4c of and provisions at 2c to 12c advance.

BRADSTREET'S REPORT
NEW YORK, Jan. 11. (P)—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: Trade and industry report a cheerful feeling and an upward trend in the first full week of the year, this latter in the face of sharply irregular weather, the pressure of inventory-taking and the tendency natural at this season to look around and prepare for the ensuing year.

The outstanding features of the week have been a sharp upturn in operations and employment in the iron, steel, automobile, implement and machine tool industries—lines all well situated before the arrival of the new year—and an active buying in hard and soft coal. Other features of the week have to do with the picking up of automobile manufacturing, aided by shows which began this week at New York, opening of January furniture sales at central-western points, fairly liberal buying of railway cars reported at the west, and the throwing off of the holiday dullness in the raw wool, cotton and silk manufacturing and kindred industries. The metal trades have shown some price stiffening coincident with the resumption of a higher percentage of operation.

Weekly bank clearings $15,103,053,000, an increase of 15.9 per cent over a year ago.

NEW YORK STOCKS
NEW YORK, Jan. 11. (P)—Prices again wavered between cross currents of buying and selling on the stock market today, which quickened the pace of trading to the fastest rate since Monday.

An unsettling factor was a rise in the call money rate from 6 to 7 per cent in the late afternoon, which put an abrupt end to the impression which had been gaining ground in some quarters that bankers' predictions of an average rate of 7 per cent for some time to come were unduly pessimistic. The rise was attributed to withdrawal of funds for week-end requirements.

The steel shares stood out as pillars of strength in the uneven market. They were heavily bought as result of the striking vitality of the industry disclosed by U. S. Steel's unofficial tonnage report yesterday. A wide assortment of issues, however, in which motors, food, merchandising shares and a number of the sterling dividend payers were prominent, turned heavy, particularly at the close, when the higher money rate inspired week-end profit-taking.

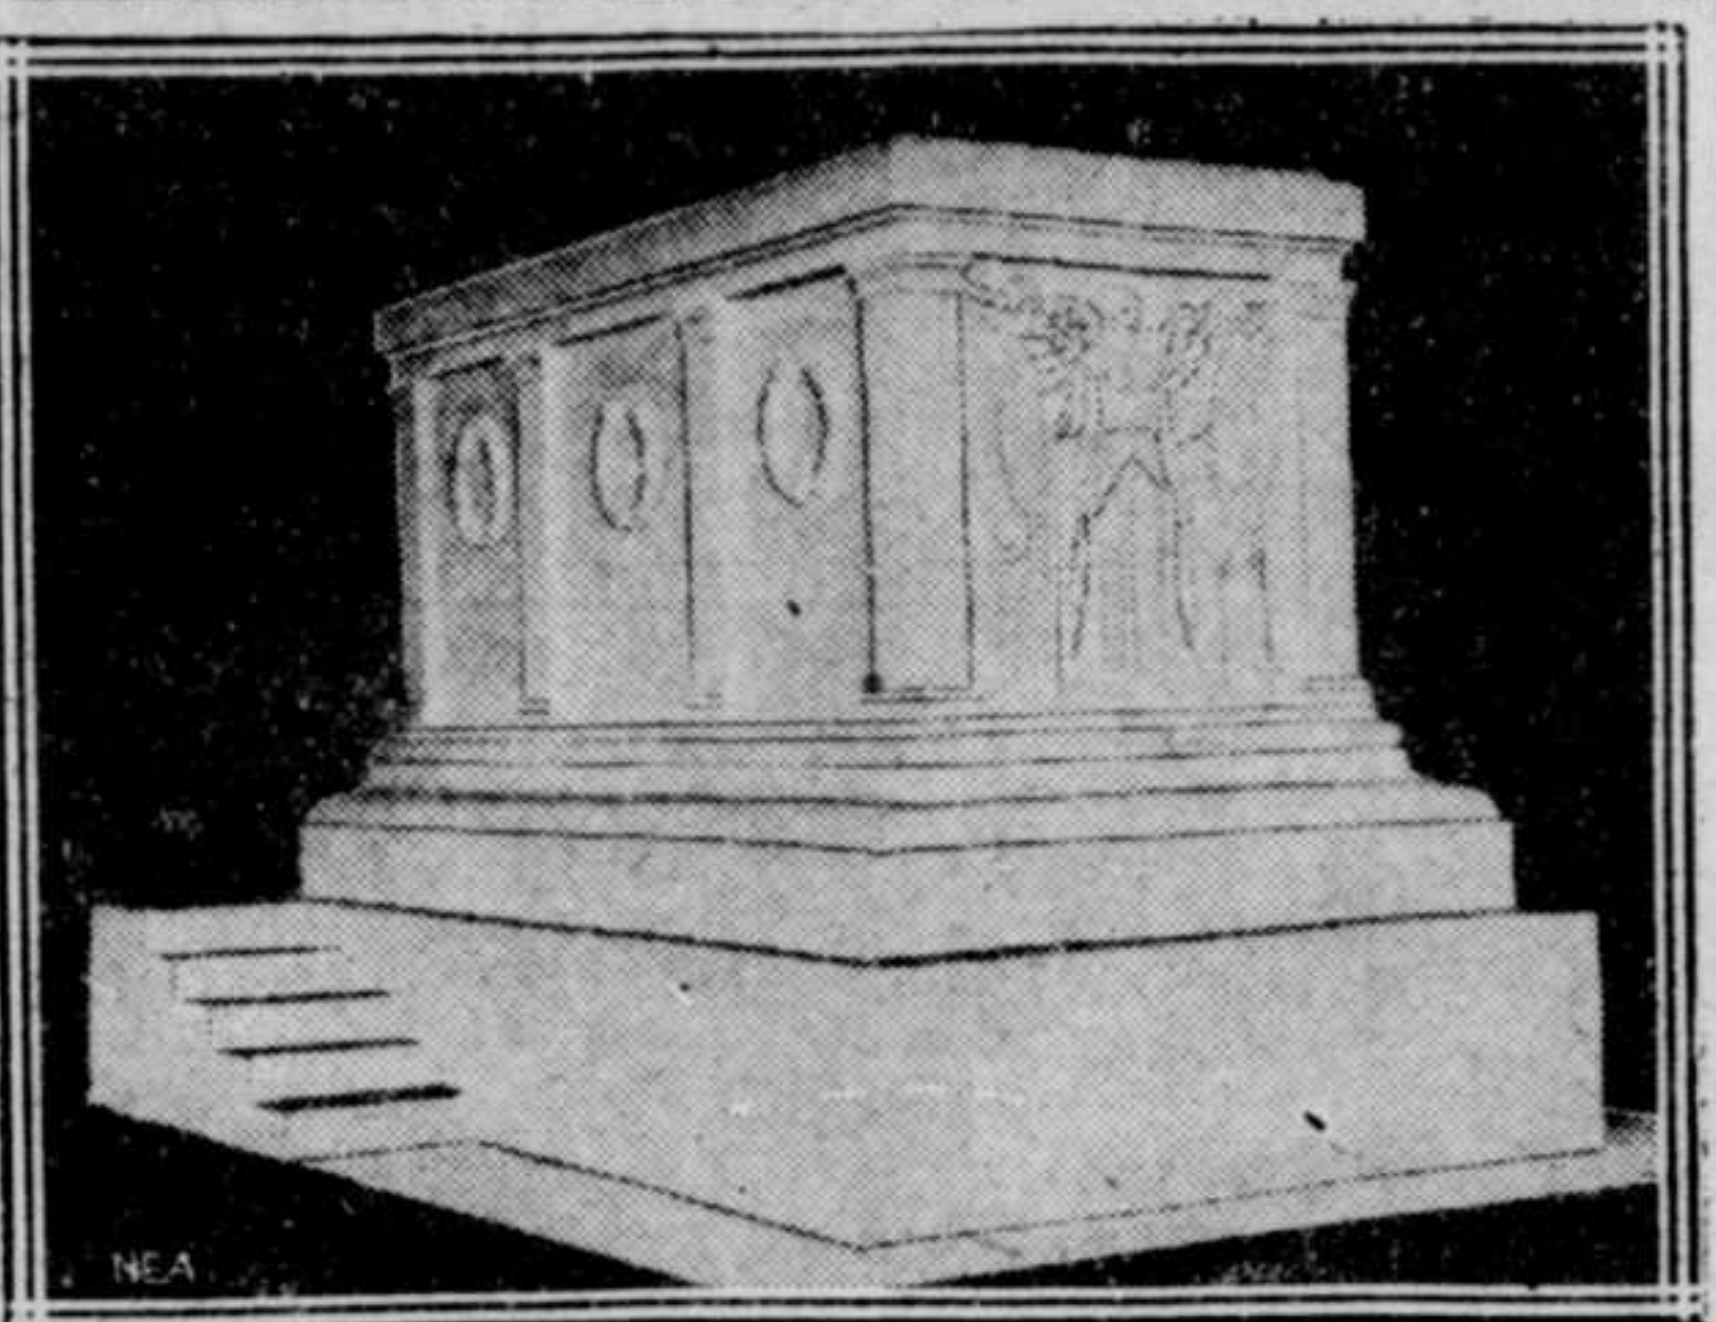

Total sales aggregated 4,242,400 shares, which was about 240,000 more than yesterday.

Maintenance of a 7 1-2 per cent for time loans and new bond offerings this week totalling less than $18,000,000, little more than half of last week's total and about one-seventh of the total for the like week of a year ago, were regarded as rather gloomy commentaries on the credit situation.

There was little of moment in the day's industrial news. Firmness of the copper market was reflected in an increase in brass ingot prices, and future hardening of scrap metal.

gains, under the stimulus of the announcement last night of the new utilities holding company sponsored by J. P. Morgan and company.

In the steels, U. S. Steel was especially in demand, as an extra dividend of some sort is expected as a result of the unusual mill activity and the recent $26,000,000 tax refund. The issue rose nearly five points, touching 168 3-4.

A. M. Byers sold down 10 points at one time on the announcement of pipe price reductions, and closed more than six off. Radio gained about 4 points, then fell back 10. Union Pacific, Norfolk Southern, Montgomery-Ward, Mexican Seaboard, General Motors, Goodyear, and General Electric were among issues sagging about 2 to 4 points.

Rheumatic Pains Yield To Capudine

Those who suffer from rheumatism will find that Capudine will greatly assist in the treatment by relieving the pain and reducing the fever and inflammation. Rheumatism is a serious disease and should have the attention of a good physician, but the patient should be made comfortable as suffering retards recovery. For this purpose nothing is better than Capudine. Being liquid, it acts almost instantly—much quicker than tablets and powders.

Capudine does not upset the stomach, and is more effective in relieving pain and high nerve strain. Millions have found grateful relief from its use during the past 30 years. At all drug stores.—30c and 60c sizes. (adv.)

Farmer Confesses Missouri Murder

WARRENSBURG, Mo., Jan. 11. (AP)—Arrested today after he had driven the body of his victim 45 miles to his home near Kingston, Mo., and after hiding it in his barn and going to bed, Prentiss Bullard, 23, farmer, confessed he had slain Clay Branch, 33, near Lone Jack, Mo., late yesterday after a quarrel. He said he shot in self defense.

In his confession Bullard said the quarrel grew out of information Branch had given him that he (Branch) had robbed a restaurant in Holden. Bullard said he shot Branch twice when the latter declared "you know too much on me, I'm going to blow your brains out," and reached for a gun.

among the states, the seats shall be distributed in accordance with the allotment made by the secretary of commerce.

Although the measure was contested sharply, the opposition was beaten on every material change proposed.

Advocates of the bill submitted figures estimating that states would gain members as follows: Arizona 1; California, 6; Connecticut, 1; Florida, 1; Michigan, 4; New Jersey, 2; North Carolina, 1; Ohio, 3; Oklahoma, 1; Texas, 2; and Washington, 1. Others would lose.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. (AP)—Delegates to the Southern Tariff association today adopted a resolution asking congress to levy a full rate of duty against all products of the Philippine Islands imported into the United States in competition with products of this country.

consumed in a canvass of returns of the general election by a joint senate and house committee and almost three hours after they began a check of the official returns, the legislature was informed that Gov. Moody had received 582,972 votes as compared to 120,504 for his republican opponent, W. H. Holmes, and that Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller polled 583,614 votes. Mrs. Lena Moore, republican candidate, was given 119,887, the canvass revealed.

Hopper Is Heaped
One hundred and fifty-two bills and several joint resolutions had been heaped into the hopper when the house ceased activity.

The dry element made its first move toward stricter prohibition enforcement in two bills read late in the day. One by Representatives Dewey Young of Wellington, W. J. Simmons of Texarkana, W. H. Wigg of Paris, and B. J. Forbes of Weatherford, would repeal the evidence clause of the search and seizure act passed by the 35th legislature and sought to limit the amount of alcohol the second, signed by seven authors, hol or intoxicating liquor prescribed by a physician to one-half pint, with the stipulation that not more than one prescription can be given a person within ten days.

plan to canvass representative sections of the country to gain information on what manifestations of the present epidemic have been.

The conference adopted a resolution expressing regret over the absence of Surgeon General Cumming of the health service who called the gathering. It was announced that Dr. Cumming was "quite sick."

Smith Avers He Yet Heads Demos

NEW YORK, Jan. 11. (AP)—The New York Times today said it was "undoubtedly in democratic circles that Alfred E. Smith would declare himself the actual as well as the titular head of the democratic party in a nation-wide radio speech next Wednesday evening."

The recent suggestion of Representative Box, of Texas, democratic whip, that the Smith policies be discarded by the party was said to have caused friends of the former governor to expect a reply from him. The sentiment in the "outh for the displacement of John J. Reskob as national chairman of the party was regarded as a possible factor in inducing Mr. Smith to state his views to the people.

The former governor will speak over WEAFA and a chain of 37 associated stations of the National Broadcasting Company. His speech will begin at 8:30 p. m., eastern standard time.

Arrangements for the speech were made, the democratic national committee said, in response to thousands of requests.

veston proposed a bill permitting cities to acquire and maintain parks and play grounds outside the city limits.

The judiciary appropriations bill, appropriating more than $5,000,000, was reported out without change and senate consideration of the measure was expected early next week.

All motorists in Texas would be required to have licenses, to be renewed every three years, under the terms of a bill introduced by Senator Wirtz.

Air Men

air, he also stated.

A. P. Barrett, president of Texas Air Transport announced last Tuesday night, in an address made over radio station KTAT, which is the only radio station in the country devoted to the development of aeronautics, that his company would immediately inaugurate passenger airplane service between every important city in the state of Texas, which has airport facilities. This intra-state system of air passenger routes will connect with the great inter-state system of important air lines circling the United States and Mexico.

On Pathfinding Tour
"We are on a pathfinding tour of the state now," continued Mr. Evans. "Our purpose being to determine the cities to be on the routes of our Texas system."

At 9 o'clock this morning Mr. Evans and Mr. Hardin will meet with the directors of the Board of City Development, members of the B. C. airport committee, Mayor H. D. Woods, and the city commissioners, in the chamber of commerce offices at the city hall. At this meeting the visitors will be advised of Lubbock's plans for obtaining a modern airport, on which much work has been done during the past several months. There are about 20 different sites selected that are available, and it will soon be announced, it is thought, which of these will be chosen as a landing field. As soon as this is done, the work of building hangars, placing markers, beacon lights, etc., will be started.

Hardin has the record of having been in the air for more than 6,500 flying hours, which is one of the highest records in aviation. He piloted the first air mail plane over to fly to Mexico City, having taken the airship from Nuevo Laredo, last October, to the capital city of Mexico, over the difficult mountain ranges between the Rio Grande and Mexico City.

Hardin and Evans left Fort Worth at 10:30 yesterday morning, arriving at Ranger at 11:35. Evans making a speech to the Rotary club of that city. Their trip to San Angelo from Ranger was made in one hour and 10 minutes, and to Big Spring from that city, against a heavy head wind in one hour and five minutes, a distance by air of 96 miles. They flew to Midland from Big Spring in 25 minutes, a distance of 40 miles, and came to Lubbock from Midland in an hour and 25 minutes.

WEST TEXAS TO MEET

Joint Senate and House Committee to Hear Pleas

AUSTIN, Jan. 11. (AP)—A delegation of West Texans will come here January 17 to confer with a joint Senate and House committee on public lands regarding proposed legislation directly affecting land titles in that section of the state. Homer I. Wade, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, announced tonight.

The delegation is expected to support a bill which would not force persons defending title to their property in litigation with the state to come to Austin for a hearing. Other legislation to be discussed at the time, Wade said, concerns land titles to river beds, and ownership to property found to be vacant of title.

MAN DIES IN TAXI

FORT WORTH, Jan. 11. (AP)—Leo Haynes, 40, died from a bullet wound in the breast received while he was riding alone in a taxi cab. A revolver was found in the cab.

Bond Election

one box in the county voted for that bond issue. There is a possibility of several surprises from several sources. The opposition might prove not so great as it has been judged to be. It might prove even greater than expected.

Bean Answers Pinkston
County Judge Robert H. Bean, in answer to Commissioner J. T. Pinkston's statement made in reference to the Slaton commissioner not being invited to the meeting here Thursday, when the county commissioners' court passed the resolution favoring the best type of roads possible and issuing warrants to supplement money to be voted for road building, if the bonds are not sufficient, stated Friday.

"I did not call the meeting until I got the letter from the state highway department. When I read it, I immediately called the meeting and I also put in a call over long distance for Mr. Pinkston, at Slaton. I wanted him to attend the meeting and tried to get in touch with him. The telephone operator stated that he was out of town and would not be back until that afternoon. As the meeting was called at 11 o'clock, was impossible for us to get in touch with Mr. Pinkston."

To supplement the effort of the several score of workers, 5,000 circulars have been printed, urging citizens to vote for the bonds, these being a duplication of a page advertisement appearing in the Lubbock Daily Journal and Morning Avalanche. These were being distributed over the county, and will be distributed today.

Principal arguments made against this election have been the fact that Highway Number 53 was designated in definite miles and bounds in the election order, but not in the petitions that were circulated before the election was called; that not sufficient bonds are being voted to build concrete highways, and the suspicion that someone would make money out of a cheaper type road.

Abernathy Suspicion

The suspicion has taken hold in the insinuation that M. G. Abernathy, one of the leaders for this bond issue, was representing an asphalt company and that he had made it so the county could not build concrete roads; would have to build asphalt, and that he would therefore make a commission on such a deal. Mr. Abernathy has stated in emphatic terms that he personally favors concrete highways and that he has never represented, and does not now represent, any asphalt company.

Greatest objection has been to the Highway Number 53 routing, and this has come from citizens in Lubbock who went through a losing fight to try and have this route come into town on Broadway, instead of Avenue H.

One result of investigation as to how this will affect the votes, brings the knowledge that many Lubbock route state they want the highways paved into Lubbock more than they want any certain highway to come into town over any certain route.
