Thomas Plans Own Review In Landy Case

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas promised today to review personally the Navy's refusal to grant a reserve commission to Eugene Landy, 21, on the ground his mother is a former Communist.

Thomas told reporters he learned of the case only today by reading the newspapers.

He said Landy, who was graduated as second highest ranking student yesterday from the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, N. Y., will get "justice."

But as to what Thomas' decision will be, he said:

"I have reached the age where I never make a decision until I have heard both sides."

The young midshipman today appealed the decision to the Bureau of Navy Personnel in Washington, D. C. He said in a signed telegram:

"It is respectfully requested that reconsideration be given Midshipman Eugene W. Landy's application for commission, ensign, USNR.

"If there is any additional information about Mr. Landy or his background needed, please be advised that he is ready and willing to cooperate in any way the Navy determines best."

Landy, clad in his white cadet uniform, received his bachelor of science degree along with his 95 classmates.

But he was not permitted to join in the next stage of the ceremonies. He stood in line with his arms at his sides while his fellow graduates raised their right hands to take a mass oath of allegiance as reserve ensigns.

Nor did he join them in scaling his cap into the air.

Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-NY) has called the Navy ruling on Landy "unjust" and has asked for a full report.

Landy received a telegram from the office of Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) advising the Navy would be glad to reconsider his application for a commission.

He expressed gratitude for "the help of Sen. Smith, the 100 per cent support from the newspapers, the cadets, and the people in town who have given their wholehearted cooperation."

Secretary Thomas, whose talk with newsmen came later, said he intends to review the case regardless of whether Landy appeals the rejection of the commission.

Landy, who intends to sail tomorrow as a seaman on a Texas-bound oil tanker, expressed confidence the Navy would reconsider his case.

An academy spokesman described Landy as "one of the brightest students we ever had" and said "there has never been any question of Landy's loyalty here."

A BOY'S FAREWELL TO HIS DOG—Rod Wilson, 11, holds back his tears as he shipped his black mongrel puppy, Smokey, off to a new home from Burbank, Calif. The boy had claimed the dog from an animal shelter last June. It had belonged to a man who died. Recently the dead man's mother, at Southern Pines, N.C., asked that the dog be sent to her. Rod gave up Smokey and sent him flying off to North Carolina.

Third Annual C-C Barbecue Set Aug. 30

Plans for the third annual Chamber of Commerce mid-year membership barbecue were announced this weekend by the merchants committee of the chamber.

The Rev. Leon Hill, Baptist evangelist of Amarillo who is widely known as a humorist and public speaker, will be speaker at the barbecue, which will be held Aug. 30 in the Towle Memorial Park picnic pavilion.

Tickets will go on sale in a few days at $1.50 per plate. About 165 new chamber members will be guests of the organization at the barbecue.

Last year, about 400 persons attended the barbecue, and more are expected this year. R. E. (Prof) Jackson of Denton was speaker last year, while judge O. F. Dent of Littlefield was speaker at the first such barbecue two years ago. Entertainment for the barbecue will be announced later.

Bob Taylor, chairman of the merchants committee, also is general chairman for the barbecue. Serving with him on a barbecue sub-committee are Jim Mixon, Mel Zane Gilbert, and George Webb.

The fair will have exhibits by Japan, Belgium, India, Egypt, Sweden, France, West Germany, Great Britain and Finland.

Discord Fades Out, Sen. Johnson Says

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) said today Congress has attained national unity on foreign affairs, with "the voices of discord" cut to a whisper in the session ending earlier in the week.

Johnson, the Senate Democratic leader, said the legislators' accomplishments "put to rest the fears of those who had so little confidence in the American system they thought it would not work unless both the Congress and the executive were controlled by the same political party."

Still hospitalized after a heart attack, the Texas senator said in a statement that during the session "rancor and bitterness were reduced to a minimum and efforts were concentrated on resolving issues in the light of the national interest."

This provided something of an official answer to the charge by Joseph L. Rauh Jr., national chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, that Democratic leaders had waved the banners of "teamwork" and "bipartisanship" in accepting what he called "hopelessly inadequate" proposals by President Eisenhower on domestic issues.

Previously, Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) said of the ADA charges that "it is unthoughtful and unjust to make any such blanket indictment of the congressional leaders and of President Eisenhower."

Johnson conceded Congress did not complete its program. He mentioned as major issues for the next session final action on the Upper Colorado project, highways, social security expansion, federal aid for school construction and a farm price support bill.

Sens. Murray (D-Mont) and Anderson (d-NM) said in a separate statement they intend to drive for congressional approval in the next session of five major water and power projects.

They listed these as the Upper Colorado, Ventura in California, the Hells Canyon dam in Idaho-Oregon, the Washita in Oklahoma and the Frying Pan-Arkansas in Colorado.

Giving credit to Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Johnson said that the "crowning achievement" of the session which just ended "was to unite the nation behind a policy designed to protect our freedoms and preserve peace."

"This session also ruled out the floor of the Senate as a partisan area for harassing a president just before he sets out to attend a conference with the heads of foreign states," Johnson said, adding: "This is a precedent which could well be studied by others."

President Eisenhower's attendance at the Geneva Big Four meeting was criticized in the Senate by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and defended by Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader. Democrats generally supported Eisenhower's position at Geneva.

Photographer To File Charge In Galveston 'Hotel Hassle'

GALVESTON, Tex., Aug. 6 (AP)—A hotel hassle between a Galveston club owner and a Life Magazine writer today appeared headed for the courts.

The magazine said Henry Suydam would file charges against Anthony Fertitta, owner of the Turf Athletic Club, Monday.

Fertitta and Mayor George Clough brushed the one (or two) punch affair off as being "greatly exaggerated."

Suydam and the magazine said it was more than that: A clean knockdown.

The two versions in brief:

Suydam: He and Life photographer Joe Scherschel were taking pictures for a story about "Sin City" Galveston inside the Turf Club about 3 a.m. yesterday. Fertitta and others came out, the Life men became alarmed, and drove to the Galvez Hotel.

There, Scherschel took the film upstairs: Suydam waited in the lobby. Fertitta came in and flattened him.

Fertitta: A couple of suspicious men, who "looked like bums," were reported outside his club. He went out to investigate, didn't know whether the men "were thieves," followed them to the hotel. When Suydam wouldn't give sensible answers to Fertitta's questions about what he had been doing outside the club, Fertitta "barely tapped" Suydam.

Andrew Heiskell, publisher of Life, wired Clough, District Atty. Marcene Johnson, City Atty. Jim Phipps and Gov. Allan Shivers demanding action about the interference with "the freedom of the press."

After a conference with Fertitta and two hotel officials, Clough said of the affair:

"I think it was greatly exaggerated. He (Fertitta) just slapped the man."

Today, the magazine said Suydam was going back to Galveston Monday to file the assault charges. It asked Clough to make sure he got "police protection."

The two men were here in this island resort for a picture story on Galveston the magazine terms the nation's "last surviving Sin City."

Clough this year was elected on a platform to continue free and easy entertainment he said tourists wanted. But his advocation of a regulated red light district to control prostitution ran into strong opposition from ministers and others.

Eighteen bawdy houses were recently closed because of protests.

At the time, Clough said he figured it was going to be a "hell of a job" keeping them closed.

Frisco To London In Two Hours Predicted

By NATE POLOWETZKY

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 6 (AP)—"All aboard for London, please."

The year is 1990. The place, San Francisco.

You board the craft. Settle down in your seat. Begin reading your newspaper.

"London, London. Watch your step getting off, please."

You fold your paper, put on your coat and step off.

The trip has taken just about two hours.

A dream?

Not at all, say some of the scientists who attended the week-long sixth annual congress of the International Astronautical Federation which ended today.

Said one scientist: "In 30 or 40 years a businessman will be able to eat breakfast in San Francisco, arrive in Europe, have lunch, complete his affairs and return to San Francisco in time for dinner.

"Transportation will be in rocket ships traveling at 100,000 feet at speeds from 3,000 to 4,000 miles an hour.

"A ticket may be pretty expensive though, because rocket ships will be costly items. So if the businessman wants to save some money he might take a ram-jet plane. That will take him to it. Spe an hour or so later."

For shorter trips — say from New York to Chicago — there will be all kinds of slowpoke craft, probably jet helicopters.

British scientists summed things up with typical reserve:

"Oh, there'll be landings on the moon and high altitude travel and all that. But everything won't change in our lifetime."

Ever dream of direct TV from Europe? Well it'll be better than that in 25 or 30 years.

"By then," said an engineer, "we will have TV relay stations set up on satellites whirling around the earth. That will mean we can transmit a TV program from any point in the world and beam it up to the satellite, which will relay it straight down. There will be virtually simultaneous reception anywhere in the world."

Will the satellites be manned?

"Not necessarily," the engineer said. "But don't forget the human being is the cheapest instrument we now have to do a multitude of jobs."

Weather forecasting should be more accurate by that time.

"You see," explained another scientist, "either through instruments or human beings on the satellites we will be able to observe weather conditions at all points of the earth. At the same time we will be able to watch the trends, not just from one or two places on earth but everywhere.

"This way we may finally conquer the weather. I mean things like bringing rain to arid areas such as Aden on the Persian Gulf.

"Lots of rain clouds form behind Aden, but the rain never falls. We can't do anything about it because we can't tell when the rain clouds will come over Aden. But with the satellite, we will be able to have that information in advance.

"So when we know rain clouds are going to form, say over Aden, we will be in a position to seed the clouds and bring rain. Who knows, we may make Aden self-sustaining, where now it has to import 90 per cent of its food."

Bank Robbery Suspect Shot

BROWNWOOD, Tex., Aug. 6 (AP)—An accused bank robber was cut down by bullets from a West Texas posse today as he fled across a pasture.

The man was James Troy Braswell, about 28, who escaped from the Brownwood jail July 5 by overpowering a jailer.

Today's gunfire wounded him in the shoulder, leg and side but his condition was not critical.

Braswell is charged with the robbery of a Blanket, Tex., bank last March.

A cab driver, not immediately identified, gave the tip which led to the chase. He told officers he drove a man answering Braswell's description from Sweetwater to Roby.

U. S. Expected To Study Korea Troop Withdrawal

Puerto Rica Digs In For Hard Storm

BULLETIN

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Weather Bureau said late tonight Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands no longer are in danger from hurricane Connie. The threat passed these U.S. islands an hour before midnight, the official report said.

The bureau bulletin said the eye of the hurricane, roaring across the open Atlantic north of here, had passed about 100 miles north of San Juan.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Aug. 6—Heavy rains preceding hurricane Connie drenched this Atlantic-Caribbean island early tonight.

Winds of 25 to 30 miles an hour were recorded as the islanders dug in for harder blows expected around midnight.

Weather Bureau officials said at 6:30 p.m. EST, they expected the center of the hurricane sweeping northwesterly over the Atlantic to pass about 100 miles north of San Juan after 11 p.m. Winds of 40 to 50 miles an hour were forecast with gusts up to 60 or 65 miles an hour.

At 6:45 p.m. EST the officials made an upward revision in their prediction of wind velocity. They said sustained winds would be 50 m.p.h. and gusts would be up to 75.

Bureau officials at the new Isla Verde Airport said they were cut off from communication with the Miami, Fla., Weather Bureau about 4:30 p.m. due to a local power failure that affected only the airport area.

Residents of the wooden-shack slum area along the coast were evacuated by the Civilian Defense Corps in anticipation of the big blow. Officials said the chief danger in the slum area was from high seas rather than the hurricane itself.

Civilian defense shelters were built along the sea coast some time ago to care for storm victims.

Weather Bureau officials said they did not anticipate dangerous weather tonight, but residents of the island have been urged to take all precautions to protect themselves in the event there is a change in the direction of the storm.

The Weather Bureau said the power failure had two results: 1. The Weather Bureau was out of communication with other points in the area and with Miami, and 2. The Isla Verdes Airport was closed to traffic and all air traffic was being routed to the old Isla Grande Airport.

Rain tonight followed the normal hurricane pattern, officials said. It would rain hard for three or four minutes with winds up to 30 miles an hour and then it would slow to a drizzle for about 15 minutes.

The American Virgin Islands and the Leewards were in the path of the hurricane's fringes, but reports from there were lacking due to communications failures.

Weather In Texas On Familiar Course

By The Associated Press

Texas weather followed a now-familiar pattern Saturday—moderately hot with scattered thundershowers.

In late afternoon, the Weather Bureau reported showers in or near Alice, Victoria and El Paso, and along the Gulf coast.

Forecast for Sunday was for little change in temperatures and widely scattered showers again.

Movietown Saddened By Death Of Two

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 6 (AP)—A saddened movietown prepared today to pay last homage to two of its more lustrous stars — Carmen Miranda and Suzan Ball — dimmed by death in a 12-hour period.

A Brazilian funeral in her beloved Rio de Janeiro will be the final tribute to Miss Miranda, who died unexpectedly of a heart attack early yesterday.

Her body will lie in state tomorrow afternoon at the Cunningham and O'Connor mortuary in Hollywood. Hundreds of her admirers are expected to view the "Brazilian Bombshell" for the last time.

Rosary will be recited at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the Church of the Good Shepherd. At 9 a.m. Monday requiem Mass will be celebrated in the same church.

Then, either late Monday or early Tuesday, her husband, producer David Sebastian, and her mother, Mrs. Maria Miranda da Cunha, will accompany the body on a Brazilian plane to Rio.

Sebastian said the Brazilian government had informed him it was dispatching a plane for the star's final homecoming.

The funeral will be held either Wednesday or Thursday in Rio's Sao Joao Baptista Cemetery.

Meanwhile, arrangements had not been completed for Miss Ball, the plucky young actress struck down by cancer almost at the outset of her career.

Her husband, actor Richard Long, was not available for comment. In fact, in the tradition of show business, he was reported finishing up his latest picture at a studio.

Forest Lawn Memorial Park indicated arrangements probably will not be made until tomorrow or Monday.

Issue Remains Controversial

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP) — Top United States policymakers are expected to take a new look soon at the possibility of withdrawing American forces from South Korea. If this is decided upon, they would be pulled back to Japan and other forward bases in the Pacific.

Several recent developments have combined to strengthen speculation within the Defense and State departments that withdrawal may prove possible in the months ahead. But the issue is controversial and is sure to be fully debated in the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the National Security Council when it is actively raised.

The developments bearing on the situation are these:

1. Increasing evidence — including the current American-Red Chinese talks at Geneva — that Red China is cooperating with Russia's policy of easing East-West tensions. The prospects of war in the Formosa area have declined steadily in recent months. The dangers of some new military aggression by the Reds in the Korean area are rated very low. The Far Eastern front from Indochina through Korea seems to be stabilizing.

2. The introduction of a new personality into the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, reportedly a vigorous advocate of redeployment of U. S. forces in the Korea-Japan area, replaced Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway recently. The idea of getting its troops out of Korea has long appealed to the Army command, though the Navy and Air Force have tended to favor retention of the bases forward of Japan.

Taylor may pursue the Army purpose, in changing world conditions, more actively than Ridgway felt able to do.

3. The growing strength and effectiveness of the Republic of Korea army. ROK forces total 20 divisions, with a 10-division reserve. This is a force of about 660,000 men and one of the four or five largest military forces in the world.

By contrast United States Army strength in Korea is said to be now under 100,000. Stationed there are the 7th and 24th Army divisions in under-strength condition. Marine and Air Force units are also assigned to the area.

The United States has been training and supplying the Allied South Korean force since the end of the Korean War two years ago. The present state of its development actually may be used as an argument both for and against the withdrawal of American forces.

On the one hand the existence of the strong Korean divisions can be said to provide South Korea with a high degree of security against future Communist attacks.

On the other hand some officials argue that it places a powerful weapon in the hands of South Korean President Syngman Rhee, whose basic conviction seems to be that he will never succeed in uniting his country except by force. The presence of American military units in South Korea is regarded by some well-informed officials here as a restraining and stabilizing influence.

However others point out that Rhee's army is dependent on the United States for its supplies, also that Rhee's frequently expressed desire for action against the Reds is not necessarily supported fully by the people and all the military leaders of his war-torn country.

Kefauver Suggests Bonneville Probe

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP) — Possible investigation of government power policies affecting the Bonneville and Hells Canyon areas of the Pacific Northwest was suggested today as a follow-up to a probe of the Dixon-Yates contract.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), who has headed a senatorial study of the Dixon-Yates plan for feeding private power into the Tennessee Valley Authority, suggested a look into Bonneville Power Administration policies.

Some critics have accused the administration of favoring private companies in disposing of Bonneville power. Government officials say their policies are fair to all.

Both Kefauver and Sen. Morse (D-Ore) criticized a Federal Power Commission decision announced Thursday, to permit private development of Hells Canyon. Public power advocates have sought to win approval of a huge multi-purpose federal dam there.

Morse said in a statement, "The Hells Canyon decision will prove to be the Dixon-Yates deal of the Pacific Northwest."

He termed it "a quickie decision" and "a give away" and suggested that FPC Chairman Jerome K. Kuykendall be summoned to testify about what Morse called "his demonstrated private utility bias."

Both Kefauver and Morse accused the administration of deceiving Congress in the Hells Canyon case. Morse said the FPC decision "is replete with misleading statements" and will not stand up under examination."

They said Kuykendall will be recalled in the Dixon-Yates probe to explain what Morse called "his suppression of legal memoranda critical of the private utility Dixon-Yates scheme."

Kefauver said Kuykendall would be given a chance to "present this rebuttal, if any, and explanation of his unusual conduct."

Rep. Ewing (D-Tenn) said last week a House Small Business subcommittee had learned that two FPC attorneys "criticized and condemned" the Dixon-Yates contract last December, but their opinions were suppressed from Congress and the public.

Kefauver heads a task force of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee which has been making a study of the Dixon-Yates power contract.

But he said he did not know whether this group would be able to make the Bonneville and Hells Canyon investigations, or whether any other committee would do so.

Sen. Kilgore (D-WVa) is chairman of the subcommittee and also of its parent group, the Judiciary Committee. He has been conducting hearings on alleged monopolistic tendencies in various industries, but so far has not got into the electric power field.

The Bonneville Power Administration markets electricity from several big federal dams in the Pacific Northwest.

Some Democratic legislators and public power advocates from the region have complained that the Eisenhower administration's Bonneville policies have been too favorable to private utilities. Officials reply that their policies are in the national interest.

The Hells Canyon decision, which came two days after Congress adjourned, produced an explosion of criticism from Democratic senators who said they would try to make it a national issue.

Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash) for example said it was "a complete sell-out of God-given resources to the private power lobby."

Under the decision, the Idaho Power Co. was authorized to build three power dams which would flood the site of a proposed federal dam project on the Snake River, between Idaho and Oregon. Public power advocates contend the three small, privately built dams would not make full use of the potential. The power commission ruled, however, that the private project would be more economical.

Kefauver said in a statement that the handling of this decision was "another flagrant example of this administration's policy of deception."

Equalization Hearing Set

The city tax equalization board will meet Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, to discuss changes made in the city tax rolls during a tax equalization program now being carried out.

Tuesday the board will hear persons whose names begin with the letters I through S inclusive, and Wednesday persons whose last names begin with the letters T through Z inclusive.

Wednesday the board will also hear individuals, corporations or partnerships pertaining to the equalization of personal property taxes.

Notices of city tax decreases have been sent to about 1,500 property owners, and increase notices have been sent to about 2,000 persons, L. E. Griffin, secretary to the board of equalization, said.

Sen. Kerr Urges Food For Peace

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Sen. Kerr (D-Okla) today urged President Eisenhower "to use our vast arm surpluses as a weapon to crack the Iron Curtain."

"We have something that Soviet Russia and Red China urgently need," Kerr said in an interview. "If these stocks of food, feed and fiber are handled properly they can end international tensions and make for peace."

Other senators, including Stennis (D-Miss), Russell (D-Ga) and Young (R-ND) have suggested that U. S. farm surpluses might be sold or traded to Iron Curtain countries if the Communist world demonstrates it is sincere about ending the cold war and expanding peaceful trade.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson said yesterday he will go to Western Europe this fall at the suggestion of President Eisenhower to discuss marketing problems and surplus disposal.

Spokesmen for farm organizations, including the National Grange and the Farm Bureau Federation, also have been urging sales to Russia and satellites. Officials have said they are weighing the idea.

Kerr, who has been blasting Benson's farm policies, said:

"I would not be adverse to Benson doing something worthwhile. He's been the symbol of futility for a long time.

"With a third of China now suffering from famine and with much of Russia threatened with it, our surpluses and our capacity to produce food may mean the difference between avoiding war and winning the peace."

Temple Ruins Found

ROME, Aug. 6 (AP) — Ruins of a temple to unknown gods have been found by workers digging a passage under a street near Argentine Square. No one knows yet whether to excavate the temple as a tourist attraction or let it rest. Rome is already well supplied with ancient monuments.

Heat Wave Endures In Northeast Area

By The Associated Press

Despite a welcome break in some areas this weekend, the heat wave which has dehydrated the nation's northeast quarter may be just in the warmup stage.

The U. S. Weather Bureau has predicted a "warmer than usual" August in most of the northern two-thirds of the country, with subnormal rainfall in the northeast quarter and the northern and central plains.

Temperatures in the high 90s and 100-plus have frayed nerves, parched crops and put communities on short water rations from the Rockies eastward for more than a month.

Telephone operators walked out of exchanges in Gary, Ind., and Cicero, Ill., last week simply because they found it too hot. It took assurances of more fans and ice tubs to get them back on the job in Cicero.

There have been sporadic heat walkouts in some industrial shops, too, notably in Detroit where auto workers walked out in hopes of cooling off. Many business offices and plants were closed temporarily on torrid days.

Midwest farmers are worrying about their ripening corn and soybean crops, but the situation is not serious yet. Prices of future contracts on the two crops have been edging up in the grain markets, bean harvests have been holding up fairly well.

But hot weather and drought in the east and northeast have done extensive damage to corn and truck crops. And this is the area of most severe water shortages for city dwellers.

The 900 summer dwellers on Monhegan Island off the Maine coast are on honor rationing of water because of well failure. A Coast Guard vessel brought them 30,000 gallons of water Friday, and they did get some rain after that.

Lawn sprinkling has been banned in many Maine communities. The corn crop is curtailed severely, but recent rains have left the Aroostock County potato-raising area in good shape.

New Jersey farmers, some of whom have had less than one quarter inch of rain since July 1, expect crop losses to run to several million dollars. A call for 23 plane loads of Puerto Rico workers to help harvest beans, sweet corn, cucumber and tomatoes was cancelled.

Six counties in western and central New York have asked Gov. Averell Harriman to declare them disaster areas so they may qualify for federal crop aid. Practically all crops have been hit hard by drought and heat. Many towns are enforcing minimum water usage by householders.

In the Great Plains, farmers fear another bad drought situation is building up. More than a week of 100-degree plus temperatures have hurt Iowa's corn crop prospects, but the crucial period is ahead. Sprinkling is banned in Des Moines from 2 to 9 p.m., and water restrictions apply in various other communities.

Kansas reports rapidly fading prospects for corn, hay and pastures as a result of scorching weather. Some farmers, mindful of last year's drastic dry-out, have already cut their corn for ensilage in the central and southern sections. There are some city water use restrictions, and some hauling of water, but a cheering note echoed in the southern plains, says the moisture situation is generally much better than a year ago.

In North Dakota, too, farmers reported that generally adequate rainfalls have prevented extensive heat damage to crops.

Schoolmaster Admits Killings

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP)—A quiet-spoken schoolmaster, son of the late chief of Scotland Yard's crack murder squad, was charged today with bludgeoning his wife and baby daughter to death. Police said he admitted the double killing.

The accused man is Frederick James Chapman, 32. His father, Chief Detective Supt. William Chapman, bossed all Britain's biggest murder hunts until his death two weeks ago.

Chapman stood impassive in the dock at a suburban Magistrates' Court as his father's closest friend, Detective Supt. Philip Burney, testified on his arrest. Burney and the accused man walked together as chief mourners at the elder Chapman's cremation.

Burney told of finding the mutilated bodies of 30-year-old Mrs. Irene Grace Chapman and her year-old daughter Corinne in a bathroom at the Chapman's new house in Orpington, a prosperous suburb.

He said Chapman admitted the killings with these words:

"I used the hammer. I hit the baby about three times. I think I hit Irene twice. Then I turned the water on in the bath."

Neither Chapman nor the police gave any hint of a motive.

Rape Suspect Hides Record

WACO, Aug. 6 (AP)—1st Lt. Albert Charles Balas Jr., charged with a series of rapes, received his commission under fraudulent conditions, Air Force officials said today.

Balas' records were revealed by the James Connally Air Force Base commander's office. Officials said on two official forms, the security clearance application and the application for commission, Balas failed to indicate previous arrests made prior to his application for commission.

Evidence since his arrest shows Balas to have concealed a lengthy juvenile record of burglary, purse snatching and housebreaking.

All of these should have been included on the official forms, Authorities said.

Balas has admitted he committed a series of rapes in the Waco area. He is being held in the McLennan County jail.

Freed Fliers Make First Calls Home

TOKYO, Sunday, Aug. 7 (AP) — The 11 U.S. fliers freed by Red China from 32 months imprisonment today began placing their first transpacific telephone calls to loved ones over free circuits provided by the Red Cross.

Last night they had a party. Today they will hold their first newspaper, radio and television conference. It is set for 1 a.m. Sunday, EST.

Some plan to go this morning to worship services.

But most of all, the 11 are looking forward to departure by plane either late Tuesday or Wednesday for a joyous reunion with relatives and loved ones at Travis Air Force Base, north of San Francisco.

One such reunion will be under strange circumstances. Mrs. Una Schmidt-Fine has said she will be on hand to greet Airman 2 C. Daniel C. Schmit, 22, of Redding, Calif., and talk over their "problem." The problem is that she has a 2½-year-old son by Schmidt. And she also has another husband, Alford Fine, a California logger, whom she wed in the belief Schmidt was dead.

Last night's party was one reuniting the fliers with old Air Force and other friends in the Tokyo area.

The Air Force yesterday started them through rigorous medical and dental examinations, a process expected to require three days.

Despite long months of captivity they were described as "all completely okay physically" by an Air Force medical source.

"All are in amazing condition, although one appears shaken mentally," he added.

The source wouldn't elaborate.

"They are a happy bunch of guys," he added.

There will be time to bring the men into Tokyo before their departure. Some want to buy gifts for their families.

The airmen also have conferred with Intelligence officials on their long captivity inside Red China.

When they were released last Thursday at Hong Kong, the airmen swiftly denied Red China's charges that they were shot down in a B-29 over Manchuria Jan. 12, 1953 while "spying." They said they were over North Korea and were dropping leaflets.

Medics Needed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The government now has an acute need for civilian medical officers and expects to pay higher salaries than the prevailing entrance rates.

The Defense Department alone needs 1,000 civilian medical officers.

Una Remains In Seclusion With Fine

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Aug. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Una Schmidt-Fine asked today that she be left alone with the man she says she married after her first husband was shot down over Korea "in order that our private lives may become private again."

The 20-year-old woman says she married Alford B. Fine, a 21-year-old logger, last September in the belief that Airman 1.C. Daniel C. Schmidt, the father of her 2½-year-old son, had been killed. Schmidt is one of 11 fliers coming home next week from China.

Mrs. Schmidt-Fine, in an interview at Nevada City, Calif., said she and Fine have retained a Nevada City lawyer, Harold A. Berliner.

Mrs. Schmidt-Fine, talking to Alvin S. Trivelpiece of the Sacramento Bee, declined to discuss her receipts of Air Force allotment checks, saying only, "I have discussed the matter with Mr. Berliner. I am certain I have done nothing improper or illegal."

Berliner said "this is a problem which concerns three adult people and only these people can work it out.

"The affairs of Al and Una Fine concern only themselves. It is no one's business but their own.

"That bright glare of publicity can do no possible good and can seriously damage the lives of all of them."

Trivelpiece said the couple talked to him yesterday in Nevada City on his promise not to reveal where they are staying.

Una and Fine said they still planned to meet Schmidt, when the former war prisoner arrives at Travis Air Force Base next week. They will bring with them Schmidt's son, Danny, whom he has never seen.

They said they would arrange their own transportation and have not discussed with the Air Force its offer to provide it.

Fine and the young woman refused to say when or where they were married, except that it was last September.

"The point of the problem," said Fine, "is he (the boy) calls me Daddy, and I am the only one he has known."

Fine said he has no intention of giving up Una without a fight. "When you love a woman," he declared, "you stick to her."

The couple, who left their house trailer at Cisco Grove last Wednesday and moved to a new hideaway, said they left because newsmen had been questioning them for two days.

Rhee Again Pledges No 'Force' Plan

By ROBERT EUNSON

SEOUL, Sunday, Aug. 7 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee again has promised the United Nations Command that his South Korean soldiers will avoid any incidents which might provoke a rekindling of the flames of war in Korea.

"I did not mean to use force when I said (last Monday) we would take over places the Communists hold south of the 38th Parallel," Rhee said in an interview today.

"Gen. Lemnitzer was here Thursday and I told him the same thing I am telling you. I do not say we will never use force, but for now we have no idea of using force."

The U. N. commander in chief, Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, rushed here from Tokyo to call on Rhee and find out what was behind his statement last week asserting the Communists would have to leave any ground they hold south of the 38th Parallel. The Reds occupy the city of Kaesong and the nearby Ongjin Peninsula.

"Lemnitzer told me my declaration was threatening," said 80-year-old Rhee, his bronzed face crinkling in a smile.

"I told him didn't mean for it to be threatening."

Rhee said Gen. Lemnitzer; Gen. Isaac D. White, U. S. 8th Army commander; and William S. B. Lacy, U. S. ambassador to Korea, told him he would be throwing a monkey wrench into the works.

"They are always telling me I will throw a monkey wrench into the works or rock the ship," Rhee said.

The Rio Grade River, which forms the international boundary between the United States and Mexico, is approximately 2,200 miles long.

U.S. railroads carried 17½ million fewer passengers in 1954 than in 1953.

Goodwill Is Threatened At Luncheon

FORT WORTH, Aug. 6 (AP)—Tranquility of Vladimir Matskevich's Texas trip was threatened at a luncheon in Waco today when Karl Marx's name was bandied about.

Frank Wilcox, president of the Waco Farm and Ranch Club, pointed out in a speech of welcome that all capitalists aren't on Wall Street.

You can find 'em behind every bush in Texas, Wilcox said.

"You can't have 200 acres, two cars and television unless you are a capitalist," he added.

"If Marx could have come to Texas, he would have torn up 'Das Kapital' and written about the fine system of economy that exists in the Southwest."

The acting minister of agriculture, when called on later, explained there wasn't time to delve into sociological and philosophical fields.

But, he mentioned Marx too.

"There seems to be no trouble between the two countries if Karl Marx could watch television now," he said through an interpreter, Tass correspondent George Belshakov.

"We noticed with great satisfaction television use for propergation of great achievements in agriculture."

Then he muttered something else to Belshakov, who announced:

"Mr. Matskevich said we would use showing of television programs in the extension field despite the fact that Karl Marx didn't say anything about that."

The luncheon ended on a sweet note.

Matskevich, in his closing remarks, said:

"The thing that most impressed me in the United States is the great friendship with which the people have met us here.

"I want to carry that good friendly spirit of the American people in my heart and in my mind to the Soviet people."

Matskevich visited a Fort Worth poultry farm and two shorthorn farms and a cotton farm near Ennis this morning. He toured the extension service's Bluebonnet farm at McGregor and the Flat Top Ranch near Walnut Springs in the afternoon.

The minister and his interpreter will emplane Sunday morning for Minneapolis, where they will rejoin the group of Soviet agriculturists touring the Midwest.

Oil Industry Seeks Import Reduction

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—With Congress in adjournment, the oil industry turned its watch on Washington to possible action by the administration to reduce the flow of oil imports.

Twenty-seven senators—14 Republicans and 13 Democrats—joined in a letter this week to Defense Mobilization Director Arthur S. Flemming asking if he plans any action, under authority of a new amendment to the Trade Agreements Act, to limit imports.

The amendment authorizes the President to take such action as he deems necessary to adjust imports of any commodity if such imports endanger the national security. Flemming presumably would initiate any recommendation for such action.

The letter said, "It is not an overstatement to point out that importations of foreign oil at the rates which have prevailed during the first half of 1955 constitute a threat to our security."

For the first six months of 1955, it said, the ratio of petroleum imports to domestic production was "substantially above that of 1954, the level recommended by the President's cabinet committee on energy supplies and resources policy."

Flemming served as chairman of that committee.

"As senators interested in national security and expanding production of domestic natural resources, we have observed with growing concern the increasing rates of imports of petroleum from foreign sources with relation to domestic production," the letter continued:

Signing the letter, a copy of which was made public by Sen. Murray (D-Mont), were Sens. Allott (R-Colo), Anderson (D-NM), Barrett (D-Wyo), Bender (R-Ohio), Bible (D-Nev, Capehart (R-Ind), Francis Case (R-SD), Chavez (D-NM), Curtis (D-Nev), Daniel (D-Tex), Dirksen (R-Ill), Goldwater (R-Ariz, Jenner (R-Ind), Kerr (D-Okla, Kilgore (D-WVa), Langer (R-ND), Long (D-La), Mansfield (D-Mont), Martin (R-Pa), Monroney (D-Okla, Murray, Neely (D-WVa), O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), Schoeppel (R-Kan), Scott (D-NC), Welker (R-Idaho) and Young (R-ND).

Sen. Carlson (R-Kan), in a separate letter, urged Flemming to make every effort to obtain full cooperation from importing companies so that "we may not be required to write restrictive legislation in the next session of Congress on oil imports."

Bargain Airfield

ILFORD, England, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Ilford Town Council got a bargain in the million-dollar purchase of an old airfield from the city of London for a housing site. Geologists found gravel deposits estimated to be worth $8,400,000 on the 900-acre site. The profits will go toward reducing taxes in Ilford.

Urges Postal Laws

BONN, Germany, Aug. 6 (AP)—West German Postal Minister Siegfried Balke has begun a campaign to establish uniform mailing charges in Western Europe. He said varying rates for local and long-distance letters should be abolished.

Every cadet of the U.S. Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn., must make four voyages in the bark Eagle, a square-rigged school for seamanship.

Tribes near Africa's Lake Kyoga just north of the Equator eat roasted locusts. Termites are another favorite food.

Stanolind Well Is Atkins Discovery

Stanolind Oil & Gas Co. No. 1 Monterey Cravey is an Atkins sand discovery in northwest Kent County.

The strike was finaled for a daily pumping potential of 118 barrels of oil with no water. Production is through perforations from 6,122-170 feet.

The well is 660 feet from south and 3,420 feet from west lines of 1-B-psl, 19 miles northwest of Clairemont and half a mile north of the SMS-Canyon field.

No. 2 D. J. Barber Is Clear Fork Stepout

O. P. Leonard of Fort Worth No. 2 D. J. Barber is to be a stepout from the proven area in the recently opened Dockery-Clear Fork field of west Mitchell County.

It is two and one-half miles southwest of Westbrook and 990 feet from south and 1,650 feet from west lines of the northwest quarter of 16-28-T&P. Drilling to 3,500 feet is to begin immediately.

Flowing Discovery For Trice No. 1

A flowing discovery from the Canyon reef lime has been assured in southwest Scurry County at Trice Production Co. of Longview No. 1 Birdwell.

This wildcat, eight miles southwest of Snyder, flowed an estimated 15 to 20 barrels of oil per hour for nine hours of a drillstem test from 6,700-727 feet. The tool was open 30 minutes, with gas surfacing immediately. Mud came to the top in 20 minutes and oil flowed out at the surface in 21 minutes. The oil then was flowed to pits for nine hours. There were no signs of formation water.

After the tool had been closed a full string of oil was reversed below the circulating sub was 60 feet of oil and five feet of drilling mud. Gravity of the oil was 44.5 degrees. Flowing pressure was between 525-900 pounds, with shut-in bottomhole pressure after 15 minutes 2,500 pounds.

Top of the Canyon reef by logs was 6,710 feet, 4,388 feet below sea level. Operator has set five and a half-inch casing on bottom. The casing will be perforated opposite the reef pay so far cut and the well will be tested. It is anticipated that the project will be completed natural.

This prospective field opener is one mile southeast of the nearest production in the Diamond M-Canyon field and a mile and a half northwest of Forest Oil Corp. No. 1 H. H. Eiland, opener and lone producer in the Ride-Canyon field. It was drilled as the result of a deal worked up by William Moss and John W. Ruwwe, independent oil operators of Midland. They secured farmouts on a total of 480 acres from Forest, Stanolind and Ewel H. Stone of Midland and Denver. Moss and Ruwwe turned the acreage to Trice to drill, retaining an interest in the leases and the well.

Kent Well Unloads Oil From 6,800 Ft.

Discovery production has been indicated at a northwest Kent County wildcat and two Fisher County prospectors.

General Crude No. 1-118 J. W. Young, 10 miles west of Clairemont in Kent County, unloaded oil on a two-hour drillstem test from 6,768-800 feet. Gas surfaced in 16 minutes and oil in one and a half hours, unloading all the way out. No water was present. Flowing pressure was from 325-700 pounds, with one-hour shutin pressure 2,625 pounds. Electric logs were being run at last report.

General Crude Oil No. 6 Aiken, northeast stepout and possible third producer in the Berneckker-Strawn field of south Fisher County flowed oil on a drillstem test from 6,718-795 feet. The three-hour test had gas at the surface in seven minutes and oil in one and three-quarter hours with the flow estimated at 10 barrels per hour. Recovery was 90 feet of heavily oil and gas-cut mud. Logs were to be run.

A previous test at this well, 12½ miles west of Longworth, was run from 6,719-744 feet. It also surfaced gas and recovered oil.

Eight miles northwest of Hamlin, General Crude No. 3-A Pearce Holland has indicated possble discovery production from the Ellenburger.

It surfaced gas in seven minutes and recovered 3,740 feet of free oil and 40 feet of heavily oil and gas-cut drilling mud with no water on a drillstem test between 5,951-963 feet. That formation has been tentatively identified as being in the Ellenburger. The test tool was open 90 minutes. Flowing pressure was from 1,245-695 pounds, with one-hour shutin bottomhole pressure 2,460 pounds. Electric logs were being run.

Ira Project Staked; Hole Abandoned

A wildcat location has been abandoned in Scurry County and a new Clear Fork project staked.

M. G. Piercy No. 1 W. A. Johnston was the location abandoned. It was 330 feet from north and west lines of 136-3-H&GN, and in the south part of the county.

W. C. Russell of Lubbock is to drill the new well, the No. 6 West Texas National Bank, in the Sharon Ridge-Clear Fork field. Drillsite is 330 feet from north and 990 feet from west lines of the southeast quarter of 139-97-H&TC four miles west of Ira. Rotary contract is to 3,100 feet.

COUNTY DRILLING

Phillips No. 1-A Dan Whatley, seven miles west of Dermott, is drilling below 3,519 feet in lime, after a drillstem test from 2,997-3,295 feet. The tool was open one hour. Recovery was 150 feet of fresh water with no shows of oil or gas. Flowing pressure was zero with 15-minute shutin pressure 925 pounds.

Lomax No. 1 M. A. Fuller is drilling in lime and shale below 2,095 feet. Kewanee No. 1 Rogers is fishing at toal depth of 6,384 feet.

Sun Oil To Drill In West Scurry County

Sun Oil Co. has announced plans to drill another well in the Arah-Ellenburger field of West Scurry County where several projects have been staked in recent days.

Sun's new well will be the No. 1 Hugh Taylor, located 467 feet from north and east lines of 303-97-H&TC. That is about 11 miles northwest of Snyder and one location southwest of the field opener, Sun No. 1-D Shannon. Contract depth is 8,500 feet for a test of the Ellenburger, with operations to begin at once.

New Locations Announced In Three Areas

New wildcat locations have been announced for Fisher, Kent and Mitchell Counties.

One of the deepest of the prospectors will be General Crude No. 164-1 D. R. Coleman in Kent County. Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of the southeast quarter of 164-G-W&NW, nine miles northwest of Clairemont. Contract depth is 7,200 feet, planned to allow a test of the Pennsylvanian.

Miami Operating Co., Inc., of Abilene will drill the No. 1-A J. C. Stripling eight miles southwest of Roby and three miles northeast of the Claytonville 5200 Pennsylvanian field in Fisher County. Drillsite has been set 660 feet from south and 1,982 feet from east lines of section 13, El Paso County school land survey No. 307. Projected depth is 6,800 feet, calculated to allow a test of the Ellenburger.

Four miles northeast of Loraine in Mitchell County, Texas Crude Oil will drill the No. 1 Pitzer to 7,200 feet for a test of the Mississippian lime. Wellsite is 660 feet from south and west lines of 20-24-T&P.

T. J. Sivley of Midland will drill his No. 1 Brennand as a 3,400-foot Clear Fork test 10 miles northwest of Westbrook. Location has been made 330 feet from south and east lines of 4-28-tln-T&P.

Sun Wildcat Drill Test Shows No Oil

Sun Oil Co. No. 1 H. A. Flournoy, west Scurry County wildcat 12 miles west and slightly north of Snyder, drillstem tested the Ellenburger at 8,414-522 feet.

The tool was open one hour. Recovery was 35 feet of very slightly gas-cut drilling mud. There were no signs of oil or water. The prospector is making hole below 8,534 feet in lime and chert.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of 329-97-H&TC. It is one and one-half miles northwest of Sun's No. 1-D Shannon, the discovery and lone producer

Nearly every member of the Chalkmas tribe of southeastern East Pakistan smokes tobacco. The native leaf is used by children as young as four years.

Anderson Requests Permission to Drill

R. S. Anderson of Midland has requested permission to drill the No. 1 K&J Kirkpatrick in the Rocker A-Glorieta field of southeast Garza County.

Drillsite is 330 feet from south and east lines of the northwest quarter of 944-97-H&TC, four and a half miles northwest of Justiceburg on a 160-acre lease. Projected depth is 3,250 feet, with rotary tools to be used in drilling.

The Geophysical Year

The Soviet government has announced its own project to throw an instrument-bearing object into the heavens, hard on the heels of Washington's sensational revelation of a space ball that would travel around the earth at 18,000 miles per hour.

But of course the Russian model would have to be larger than the U.S. model, as Moscow was careful to point out. It would have to be ready for the experiment before ours, of course, so not only would its size exceed the basketball dimensions of the U.S. model, but it would be launched in 1957, a year ahead of ours.

We do not know if the Russian space-object will travel faster than the U.S. variety, or swing farther into space, but those details would be pretty difficult to falsify, since they are governed by the laws of physics and not by Communist imagination. The U.S. space-ball would settle down somewhere between 200 and 300 miles from the earth, at the point where the pull of gravity and centrifugal force came into balance, and there it would travel "around" the earth every 90 minutes.

The project is just one of many which will feature the "International Geophysical Year," which will run from July of 1957 to December of 1958, with forty nations participating in an intensive study of the earth. The U.S. and the U.S.S.R are among the nations cooperating in this enterprise, which is being run by an international committee, in which studies in meteorology, geomagnetism, gravity measurements, glaciology, oceanography and rocket exploration of the upper atmosphere will be carried out.

Our space-ball operation is a part of this country's agreed-upon participation, but whether Russia was also assigned this role or just popped up with its separate project just to show that she can do anything we can do, although better, we do not know.

In any case it's an ambitious project, and quite possibly a great deal may be learned as a result of these studies. As for keeping the results of our space-ball enterprise secret, it seems the program was set up on the basis of share-the-information, so secrecy is out.

The Dominant Three

The AP's Washington news analyst, James Marlow, notes that while each session of Congress usually produces one dominant figure, in the sense of being effective or being in the spotlight, the session just concluded produced three—count them, three.

Two were Texans, one by birth, one by adoption. Lyndon Johnson is the native who by virtue of unexampled leadership—oldtimers say nothing like it had ever been seen in the Senate before—astonished the Senate itself, to quote Marlow, "with the amount of work it got done with a minimum of argument." There was no sign of a filibuster in the 84th.

Sam Rayburn, speaker of the House, was born in Tennessee but came to Texas as a child and became as much of a Texan as if he had helped dig the rivers and set out the mesquites. "Mr. Sam" could be called "Mr. Democrat" without doing violence to the facts, but that does not complicate the esteem and respect in which he is held by both parties.

The third 'dominant" figure in the 84th was Georgia's 77-year-old Walter George, a Democrat whose voice to all intents and purposes became the voice of the Republican White House in foreign affairs.

"Mr. Sam" is a bounding 73, while Lyndon Johnson at 47 is the youngest leader of the Senate, either minority or majority, in history. So well had he done his job that when he suffered a heart attack and had to immobilize himself, the work of the Senate went right on without a bobble.

Nobody will quarrel with Marlow's assessment of this trio's dominant role in the 84th Congress.

New Atom Smasher Is In Model Stage

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—They are trying something new in atom smashing at the University of Michigan. Eight midwest universities—Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Purdue, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa State, are sending scientists to work on a model atom smasher combining two old principles which never have been used together.

The model will use a fixed magnetic field through which the atomic particles will move. Then oddly-shaped magnets will be stationed along their path to keep them on the track. They hope to produce more particles and move them faster than in present machines.

If the small 300-kilowatt machine works, they plan to build a machine of 20 billion electron volts. They hope to increase the amount of atomic work done in Midwest universities. Most such work is now done on the East or West Coasts.

Eisenhower Likely To Make Arms Control Proposal Far Different From Past Plans

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The Russians, rejecting President Eisenhower's arms control plan, say they like their own better. Eisenhower will come up with another. What are the differences between the two countries on disarmament?

They can be explained in terms of three ideas:

1. For years the United States had insisted there could be no disarmament without complete inspection, meaning, in the case of the United States and Russia, that each would agree to teams of international inspectors.

In both countries these inspectors would have complete freedom to go where they wished and check as they pleased to be sure neither side was cheating after agreeing to disarm and particularly after agreeing on abolishing atomic weapons.

In that way only, the United States felt, could any country be sure it wasn't being kidded into disarming itself while another got ready to attack it.

The Russians wouldn't buy that idea. They wanted no foreign inspectors poking around in Russia. There the matter stood for years, neither side yielding.

2. Last May 10 the Russians yielded a bit — but not as far as the United States wanted. They said they would agree to teams of international inspectors being stationed in Russia, but their movements would be limited. They could not have full freedom to check anywhere in Russia. They'd be stationed at strategic points, like rail centers and airfields.

This was the reasoning behind their offer: No great power nowadays could prepare for war against another without vast movements of troops, planes and materials, all of which could be spotted by the inspectors at the airfields and rail centers. They could sound a warning.

The Western Powers are suspicious of this idea. A similar system was set up in Korea after the armistice there but in North Korea the Reds got around the agreement by building new transportation centers away from those under inspection.

Nevertheless, since May 10 Eisenhower has indicated that perhaps the United States would settle for something less than the 100 per cent foolproof system previously insisted upon by this country.

Why? Perhaps because in the atomic age no inspection might be 100 per cent effective in detecting sneak manufacture of atomic weapons.

3. At his Geneva meeting with Russian Premier Bulganin and the Premiers of Britain and France, Eisenhower proposed on July 21 a twofold plan as an example of this country's desire for disarmament: the United States and Russia would (A) exchange complete blueprints on their military establishments and (B) agree to let each other's planes take aerial photographs inside their territories to check on military strength.

Yesterday Bulganin rejected Eisenhower's proposal on the grounds that the areas of the United States and Russia are so huge either side could conceal anything it wished. He said the Russians regard their May 10 idea as more realistic.

Shortly afterwards at his news conference Eisenhower, apparently not disturbed by the Russian turndown, said the United States intends to make some new proposals late this month.

He has had Harold E. Stassen studying the whole disarmament problem to bring it up to date and make new recommendations which probably will be different from those this country had insisted upon for years.

Earle Can Brew Best Bean Soup in World

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kentucky's Earle Clements, who will pilot Senate Democrats during the illness of Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson, boasts he can brew a bean soup better than that for which the Senate restaurant is so widely famed.

"He cooks by the taste process," Mrs. Clements told me when I asked for the recipe. "I have heard about those beans he used to cook as a boy. Each time they're super better. I don't think he has a set rule. He cooks them with a ham hock, mabe two or three days."

The senator also likes hominy grits and sausage for breakfasts, but I gather it's Mrs. Clements who dishes them up. As a matter of fact, the attractive Senate wife has quite a reputation for her Kentucky cooking. Before her marriage she didn't know how to cook, she said, but the senator egged her on.

"Those Hughes girls — two with experience, one without," he used to say when referring to the cooking ability of his young wife and her two older sisters. "I was the one 'without' ", Mrs. Clements admitted.

Really "super better" are the country hams served up at the Clements' dinners. "Some people don't like hams, so I only have them when I'm sure," Mrs. Clements said. They used to put up hams on the place they had in Kentucky before they went to live in the governor's mansion at Frankfort in 1947. A couple of these are hanging in reserve in the senator's locker room in the attic of the Senate Office Building.

Mrs. Clements says she soaks her hams in plain water for 24 hours before she ever starts to cook them. Then she puts them in a big kettle of water with a touch of vinegar, or sweet pickle juice, and a small amount of brown sugar and steams them, 15 to 20 minutes per pound. Then she skins them, bones them, and spreads a mixture of brown sugar and cracker crumbs, moistened with a tiny bit of vinegar and ham fat, over them.

Just before serving I run them back in the oven," she said, "sometimes I stick cloves into them to dress them up. I never use a ham until it's a year old."

With the ham Mrs. Clements usually serves corn pudding, butter beans and tossed salad. For dessert? "Whatever happens," she said, "maybe meringues with strawberries and ice cream, maybe a sherbet. It depends on the guests I've invited." Homemaking is Mrs. Clements' only hobby and she says she doesn't see how anybody could be interested in hearing about that.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

OFF THE BOOK BEAT — It took a U.S. battleship to get a music book published last winter.

The book is "America's Music: From the Pilgrims to the Present" (McGraw-Hill)—and incidentally a valuable and inclusive history. The author is Gilbert Chase, a bespectacled, bemustached man with a couple of languages at his command and also, even at a lunch table, a couple of the expansive gestures good public speakers develop. He is, and was, cultural attache at the American embassy in Buenos Aires.

(Yes, I asked about the revolution, but it broke out after he left on leave and he hoped it would be over by the time of his return. While it might matter to him if it changed the groups of people with whom he deals, it was otherwise outside his operational field.)

He had his big book finished, in effect, before he went to his Argentine post in 1953; he had begun it in 1947. But there was the matter of delivering thick stacks of galleys and correcting them. Diplomatic pouches carry nothing as bulky as this, no matter how impatient author and published are.

"If I had tried to think up the most difficult possible way for an author and his editor to communicate," said Chase, "I couldn't have done better. There was customs, and there was finally the battleship in which one set of galleys came down to me marked 'Correct and return in 24 hours,' or something equally drastic."

Chase says the job of cultural attache can keep him busy eight days a week, what with lecturing, and arranging for Argentinians to visit us, and in turn preparing to entertain our own visiting firemen who write, paint, sculpt or compose—or who play baseball, box or wrestle.

Okinawa Most Vulnerable Major Target For Communists In Event Of War In Asia

By MURRAY FROMSON

KADENA AIR BASE, Okinawa (AP)—Ask the name of the most likely—and most vulnerable—target for the Communists in any all-out war in Asia and the answer probably will be Okinawa.

Its importance speaks for itself.

Only 380 air miles east of Shanghai, it's the nearest U. S. base to Communist China's industrial complexes spread along the central mainland coast.

This is one reason Okinawa has been developed as the forward base for the Strategic Air Command's big B36 superbombers and B47 jet medium bombers.

It also is home base for two jet wings of the 5th Air Force and the central link in a huge air defense radar network arching across the Pacific.

The Army governs the island, but militarily speaking, it's an Air Force show.

Its proximity to China probably serves as the best existent deterrent at this time to any warlike ideas Peiping might entertain. Conversely, the Communists by overt aggression could use Okinawa as a base from which to launch attacks on U. S. bases guarding the western approaches of the United States.

The Army keeps a regimental combat team on the island. There are also two antiaircraft battalions and a regiment of Marines which just moved here from Japan.

Present plans call for the movement here of the rest of the 3rd Marine Division—less one regimental combat team now in Honolulu.

The Army could also use Okinawa to stage troops for movement elsewhere. It could accommodate at least seven divisions.

How do Americans on Okinawa feel, being so close to the front lines?

They're not worried.

"If they bomb us here, they're going to have to bomb us in Chicago, Detroit or Los Angeles too," says M. Sgt. William MacMillan, who flew in B26s in the Korean War.

His is the stock answer on Okinawa when airmen and soldiers are asked about the safety of their more than 9,000 dependent wives and children who live here.

"We feel a man is going to be a better soldier if he has his family with him and his morale is good," says Maj. Gen. James Moore, the Army's deputy governor for the Ryukyus command.

Americans here have good reason to feel safe.

Day and night, the roar of the swift, all-weather F86 Sabre Jets rumble across the Ryukyuan skies guarding the approaches to this strategic outpost.

On the ground at Naha, the Okinawa Air Defense Command keeps a close eye to the west. Radar stations are tactically set throughout this archipelago which stretches from the southern reaches of Japan to the waters above the Nationalist stronghold on Formosa.

Sabre Jets of the 51st Fighter Interceptor Wing, can be scrambled within five minutes to investigate any unidentified aircraft which shows up on the air defense radar screen.

There can be no delays, says Col. Hilmer Nelson, deputy commander for air defense on Okinawa.

"High-performance enemy jets, flying with the jet stream which moves south during the winter months, could be over Okinawa in 25 or 30 minutes," he says.

"That doesn't give you much time to get your planes alerted and at the target before he can hit you."

Nelson's nerve center can trigger air defense warnings for U. S. bases in the Philippines, Formosa, Southern Japan and the mid-Pacific.

Despite the emphasis on air here, Okinawa—once called the "junkyard of the Pacific"—wears several other faces too.

For the men who serve here, life can get boring. The men with families find the living conditions much better. For the bachelors it is not very exciting duty.

The glittering night life afforded GIs in Tokyo is nonexistent here. There are few outside recreational diversions although the men can visit Okinawan women in the villages. They are not allowed to bring them on the base.

The post exchanges are about the best stocked in the Far East, however. By comparison with any other military base in the Far East, material life on Okinawa is plush.

The United States has poured about a billion dollars into the rehabilitation and improvement of the island. Roads are the standout feature. Without them, the military would have no links between the two key air bases here and the harbors and supply areas.

The prospect of a return of the Ryukyus doesn't look good for Japan, which would like the United States to give back the entire island chain.

This onetime stepchild of the East military picture is rapidly coming of age as America's most important Pacific bastion—and it looks more permanent every day.

With the shift in important military and political developments to Southeast Asia, there are those here who look for eventual transfer of Far East Command headquarters from Tokyo to Okinawa.

Banking Leaders Move To Forestall Credit Inflation

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK, (AP)—In a business boom it's hard to spot the point where soundness ends and excess begins. The ordinary man never notes inflation in its wind-up stage. He becomes aware of it only after it beans him with a rise in his cost of living.

But the nation's monetary leaders think they've spotted inflation warming up and are moving today to forestall its hurling a bean ball.

That's why they are boosting interest rates, tightening the supply of credit, taking some of the extreme ease out of mortgages, and frowning on any tendency to runaway speculation in the stock market.

What the administration and banking leaders seem to fear isn't price inflation, now showing up in industrial materials, but credit inflation. Times are good and if business doesn't cross the line where soundness ends and excess begins, times will stay that way.

The Federal Reserve banks are raising the rates at which they'll lend money to member banks, and at the same time are keeping a tight rein on the supply of money available for banks to lend to business.

The commercial banks are raising the interest rates on their loans to business — and just at the time when the volume of such loans is starting to rise toward its usual fall peak.

Government agencies are curbing no-down-payment, long-term mortgages. Banking leaders caution against laxity in extending consumer credit.

The Federal Reserve frankly says its aims are to "discourage excess borrowing and protect the buying power of the dollar."

Businessmen these days are concentrating attention on all the proofs that times are good.

The nation's output of goods and services is at a record high. So are the totals of personal income and consumer spending — and consumer borrowing.

Business is expanding its plans to build more plants and buy more equipment. The total volume of personal savings continues to rise — although the rate of saving has dropped. The traditional Summer slump in business is unusually mild this year.

All this adds up, in the minds of most businessmen, to a sound economic situation. They leave it to the bankers to worry about the point where soundness ends and excess begins.

'Taking It Easy" Is Hard Task For Lyndon Johnson

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Friends of Lyndon Johnson know the Democratic Senate leader now is tackling, for him, a hard assignment —taking it easy.

The "do nothing" chore of recuperation from his heart attack will likely not sit well with the 46-year-old Johnson who has maintained a driving pace ever since he came to Washington as a freshman congressman in 1937.

In recent years, of course, the pressure and demand increased tremendously when he took over the Senate reins—regarded by many as the physically toughest job in the capital.

Despite the grind, Johnson maintained youth and vigor. Because of this, his doctors say, he may resume his full duties when the new session convenes next January. But, they warn he shouldn't drive himself so hard in the future.

That is the view of Johnson's personal friend, Dr. James C. Cain, formerly of Groesbeck and now on the Mayo Clinic staff in Rochester, Minn. He emphasizes no one should drive himself like Johnson has done.

Nearly always under pressure, Johnson surrounded himself with able and young staff members who keep going at the same pace—or else they fall by the wayside and take other jobs. He'll undoubtedly rely on them more than ever when he returns.

Johnson's top staff members are Walter Jenkins, Arthur Perry, George Reedy and Booth Mooney. Jenkins, from Wichita Falls, has been with Johnson since he was in the House and usually knows immediately how the senator would decide on any issue that arises. Perry, from Austin, was with former Sen. Tom Connally for years. This gives him the necessary background to handle Texas problems before various federal agencies.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By BOB MYERS
(For BOB THOMAS)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Boxing, the dead end kid of sports, may as well brace itself for another going-over, from Hollywood.

"The Harder They Fall," a book that was a striking indictment of at least one phase of boxing, is going to be put on the screen.

"I don't think boxing is a sport in any sense of the term."

So said Philip Yordan, who is producing the picture and writing the screen play.

Yordan's sentiments erased any thought that the movie version will soften the blows punched out by the author of the book, Budd Schulberg.

"The Harder They Fall" is supposedly fiction but it is a story that not uncuriously parallels the boxing career of Primo Carnera.

The huge Italian occupied the world heavyweight throne for one year until he was battered into a dreadful mess in 1934 by Max Baer.

The era of Carnera—the fantastic and phoney buildup of a hulking giant who was anything but a champion fighter, and the gangster atmosphere that dominated the spectacle from its origin to its finish—is indeed a vulnerable one for boxing.

Yordan obviously does not intend to miss any chances to jab and gouge where it will hurt.

Nodding in agreement to the producer-writer's observation was Mark Robson, who will direct the film. He, too, has no illusions about the glamor of the business.

Robson directed the powerful, realistic picture, "Champion," another story of the prizefight game that attracted wide attention several years ago.

Mr. Yordan said he doesn't anticipate the warmest cooperation from the fight people when actual filming gets underway, with Humphrey Bogart as the star.

He hopes to shoot scenes in New York's Madison Square Garden, and Stillman's gym, rusty-musty training site for the fighters, as well as some of the pubs along Eighth Avenue where the Gotham boxing crowd gathers.

He indicated he will not be floored with surprise if the International Boxing Club, which owns the Garden, proves to be reluctant in granting use of the big arena.

Thus far, he said, he has had difficulty acquiring old movies of some of Carnera's fights. Once they were easy to obtain.

The character to play the giant boxer has not been selected.

"We want a type who really is big, naive and innocent," Yordan noted.

25 YEARS AGO

(Taken from the files of THE SCURRY COUNTY TIMES for Aug. 7, 1930.)

Sunday papers carried the glad news that the Dal Paso Cavern Highway (No. 83) would be added to the United States systems, since the state highway department is now attempting to have two east-west highways through West Texas to be designated as federal highways. The news was turned loose by W. R. Ely, Albine, a member of the highway commission. . .

Editor's Note: the federal government taking over No. 83 would hasten the hard-surfacing of this famous route which is a brother to the now famous Bankhead Highway. Folks going west on their vacation could go one route and return over the opposite road. Hasten the day that this matter will be full realized.

W. J. Higgins brought a sample of cane to the Times-Signal office Friday that was found infected with smut. According to agricultural heads, as well as Editor Frank Briggs of Farm & Ranch who was a visitor in the ofice Saturday, any feed infected with smut that is fed to cattle is deadly in its action. As quickly as this information was forthcoming the Times, through the Associated Press and United Press broadcast the information to all West Texas for an immediate inspection for all feed crops. Smut has only been found in cane and kaffir thus far, but it would be wise to make an inspection now.

Miss Elinor German, daughter of Mrs. Mabel Y. German, and John E. Irwin, son of Mrs. J. W. Irwin of Midland, were quitely married Sunday morning at 6:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother with the Rev. Cal C. Wright of the First Methodist Church officiating. Only immediate members of the bride's family were present.

The bride wore a gown of blue chiffon and carried a bouquet of pink rose buds and gladioli. Her traveling costume was a green and white ensemble with accessories to harmonize.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left on a motor trip to Austin, San Antonio and Corpus Christi. On their return they will occupy their new home at 1203 Twenty-sixth Street.

The bride, graduated from Snyder High School, is an attractive young lady, loved by all who know her. She is a descendant of two well-known pioneer families of Scurry County, being the granddaughter of the late F. M. German and Arthur Yonge. The groom is a registered pharmacist and a promising young business man and has been associated with Stinson Bros. since coming to Snyder four years ago, and he is now manager and part owner of Stinson No. 2 Drug Store.

Aussie Cup Team Halts Japan Entry

GLEN COVE, N. Y., Aug. 6 (AP)—Australia ined the Davis Cup inter-zone finals today when its new and powerful doubles team of Lewis Hoad and Rex Hartwig crushed Japan's Kosei Kamo and Atsushi Miyagi 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

The victory gave the Australians a 3-0 lead in the series at the Nassau Country Club and made a formality of the final two singles tomorrow. In a reversal of the opening day's schedule, Ken Rosewall, the Australian champion, is slated to face Kamo and Hartwig to oppose Miyagi, the Japanese titleholder.

However, Captain Harry Hopman of the Aussies probably will ask permission to substitute Hoad for Hartwig in singles.

Hoad, once the No. 1 star of the Down Under team, has been benched in both the Canadian and Japanese matches because he is off form and reportedly sulking over the fact his bride wasn't permitted to accompany him to America.

The Australians next meet Italy's European Zone champions next weekend at Germantown, Pa. The winner of that series will challenge the United States for the coveted cup at Forest Hills Aug. 26-28.

The blonde, hard-hitting Hoad was the weaker of the two today as he and Hartwig won virtually under wraps, never losing a service and winning most of their deliveries at love.

Vanderhey Holds Lead

By The Associated Press

Texas City outfielder Lynn Vanderhey maintained a 15-point lead over his nearest competitor for the Big State League batting crown last week, posting a .378 average.

The Gulf Coast slugger also sets the pace in hits with 146.

Corpus Christi hogged most of the batting honors, however. The Clippers had players on top in total bases, home runs, and triples.

Clipper outfielder Dean Stafford and teammate Keith Little kept their homer derby going with 32 each. Corpus Christi second baseman Ray Charles led the way in triples with 12 and total bases with 225.

Harlingen infielder Ethier held a slim lead in doubles with 32—one better than Port Arthur third sacker Lucadello.

In pitching, Corpus Christi's Cuban genius, Rene Vega, stayed in a class by himself with 25 victories and two defeats. Jim Nicolosi of Port Arthur remained the busiest hurler with 221 innings pitched. Diez of Texas City held the strikeout edge with 176.

Tigers Block Yankees' Bid

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—Detroit blocked the New York Yankees from regaining the American League lead today by scoring four runs in the seventh inning for a 7-5 victory after the other first division clubs had lost.

Losing scores for Chicago, Cleveland and Boston were posted on the Yankee Stadium scoreboard as the Yanks went down to defeat, despite a three-run pinch homer by Yogi Berra in the eighth.

As a result of the combination of events in the race, the White Sox held first place by one percentage point with the Indians and Yanks tied for second and the Red Sox only two games back. The Tigers are 5½ games off the pace.

Kansas City Again Cools Off Red Sox

BOSTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Jim Finigan's infield single capped Kansas City's three-run, ninth-inning rally today as the Athletics cooled off the Boston Red Sox 6-5 for the second straight day.

Boston had taken a 5-3 lead in the seventh but the A's went to work on three Sox hurlers in the ninth.

Finigan's slow roller fielded by Tom Hurd went for a hit as Elmer Valo brought home the deciding run.

Hermleigh Takes Duel Over CL Tigers, 13-5

Hermleigh maintained its place at the top of the City League standings Friday night by passing over the Tigers 13-5, in a hard-hitting duel in which both teams laid out 11 hits each.

The league leader was slated to play a makeup game with Tri-Service last night, then the regular schedule pits the same two teams against each other again Monday night.

Though the Tigers got just as many hits as the winners, and though they did not make any more errors, they were not able to bunch their hits enough to tally the necessary runs.

Their one burst came in the fourth inning when they scored all five of their runs on five hits. Jack Spikes and Joe Reaves started it with singles, and Spikes scored the first Tiger run when Jimmy Allen beat out an attempted sacrifice.

Bernie Hagins singled to drive in Reaves, and Jerry Vice slammed a one-bagger to advance Allen to third. Ronnie Baker then took a walk to load the bases, and Allen and Vice came in when Don McNew singled. Baker came in with the final run on an error.

McNew had a perfect night with the bat, hitting three singles and a double in four turns at the plate.

Hermleigh gained her first lead in the third inning when Berman Corbell, Grady Gafford and R. D. Green all crossed the plate.

Their biggest inning came in the fifth when Gafford and Clarence Minton singled and Green walked to load the bases. Bill Houston proceeded to unload them with a triple, driving in the run which regained the lead for them and which eventually proved to be the game winner.

But the inning was not over. Bill Voss was hit by a pitched ball and Rex Robinson got on by fielder's choicen making it possible for Houston to make it home. Denzil Kight helped put the game on ice when he singled to drive in Voss and Robinson.

Hermleigh cashed in for four more runs in the sixth when Gafford doubled, Minton walked and Green connected for another double to score Gafford. Houston then struck out but beat out the catcher's throw to first which went wild enough to allow Green and Minton to come in. Voss ended the scoring for the night with a triple which drove in Houston.

Gafford was named the winning pitcher, after giving up 11 hits and striking out eight while walking two.

Baker started the game and threw the first four innings for the Tigers before giving up the mound to Allan Snead who was charged with the loss. He pitched two innings to allow seven hits and walk two while striking out four.

Tom Jordan Is Tops In Longhorn League

By The Associated Press

You name it, and chances are Tom Jordan's leading in it in this year's Longhorn League batting race.

The veteran manager of the league's Artesia Club leads the way in no less than four of the circuit's 10 batting categories.

Latest league averages credit him with pace-setting marks of .412 in percentage, 156 hits, 44 doubles and 115 runs batted in.

Last year's home run king of organized baseball, Joe Bauman of Roswell, leads in home runs with 34 and walks with 96.

Other leaders include Carlsbad's Pedro Osorio with 117 runs, San Angelo's Elias Osorio with 281 total bases, Carlsbad's Carroll Gholson with 15 triples and Carlsbad's Duke Henderson with 35 stolen bases.

Roswell's Dean Franks dominates the pitching lists with 20 victories, 204 innings pitched and 16 complete games. Ed Locke of Artesia carried the best percentage with a 13-4, .765 mark. Art Dicesare of Big Spring leads in strikeouts with 166.

Redlegs Maul Giants 13-4 In Homer Fest

CINCINNATI, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs' three leading home run hitters—Ted Kluszewski, Wally Post and Gus Bell—all hit homers today as the Reds' mauled New York Giant pitching for a 13-4 victory.

The Redlegs blasted Reuben Gomez and Hoyt Wilhelm for 17 hits which included the three homers, four doubles and a triple.

Behind that kind of hitting, Art Fowler had an easy time and had the Giants shut out until the ninth.

Pittsburgh's Friend Shuts Out Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 6 (AP)—Pittsburgh's Bob Friend threw a five-hit, 2-0 shutout—and the fourth straight Milwaukee loss—at the Braves today before 16,337 fans at County Stadium.

Rookie Ray Crone also pitched a fine game for the losers, allowing just seven hits but one of them was Dale Long's 14th homer in the fourth inning.

Babe Zaharias Rests In Bout With Cancer

GALVESTON, Tex., Aug. 6 (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias rested under sedatives today in her "greatest battle"—the fight to overcome a second cancer.

The great woman athlete, ailing for months, didn't flinch a bit when she was told that she had developed another cancer.

"This is my greatest battle," her husband George, quoted her as saying. He said she had resolved firmly to return to competitive golf some day.

Mrs. Zaharias, named Woman Athlete of the Half-Century by The Associated Press in 1950, apparently had the disease licked in 1953 when she underwent an operation for rectal cancer. She came back to win again on golf's professional tournament trail.

But a nagging hip pain sidelined her in May. It was discovered she had a ruptured spinal disc and she underwent surgery.

The pain didn't stop after the operation and doctors probed for the cause. The new cancer — a small lesion in the posterior of the pelvic girdle—was announced last night.

Doctors said X-ray treatment was expected to stop the pain in her right hip and leg in about 10 days.

Her condition was unchanged today. It is not listed as critical.

Zaharias today said his wife was "not giving up."

The Babe has been a female counterpart of fiction's Frank Merriwell.

A track and field star in the 1932 Olympic Games, the 42-year-old Texan set two records there, was an All-America basketball player and a star in swimming, billiards, diving, lacrosse and baseball. She dropped all of these activities to concentrate on golf and rose to dominate both the amateur and professional field in this sport. From 1935 to 1953, she had won 82 tournaments.

Hitting Race In Deadlock

By The Associated Press

Outfielders Eddie Knoblauch of Dallas and Dick Williams of Fort Worth continued their even-stephen battle for the Texas League batting title last week as each notched a .337 average.

The race looked more like a 2-man contest than ever after Dallas catcher Ray Murray was sidelined with a fractured thumb. Murray holds a .329 average in the official listings and leads in home runs with 25.

The nearest regular behind Murray is Houston's Russell Rac, carrying a .320 average.

Knoblauch retained his league leads in hits and doubles with 156 safeties and 38 two-baggers.

San Antonio outfielder Jim Pisoni continued to set the pace in two other columns with eight triples and 104 runs batted in—the loop's only player with more than 100 RBI's.

Top scorers in the Class AA circuit are Shreveport's Joe Koppe and Houston's Sherwin Dixon with 93 runs each. Dixon also leads in stolen bases with 34.

Among the hurlers, Dallas' Red Murff continued to be the loop's only 20-game winner, boasting 24 triumphs. Right on the threshold, though, was San Antonio's Mel Held with 19 victories.

Murff also remained the busiest pitcher in the league, with 244 innings worked. Dallas' Pete Burnside held his lead in the strikeout column with 201 to his credit.

The University of Richmond has no field house. The Spiders play all of their home basketball games in the new Richmond arena.

OLDEST AND YOUNGEST IN ALL-AMERICAN TOURNEY Chick Evans, 65, of Chicago is the oldest competitor in the All-American Golf Tournament at Tam O'Shanter Country Club in Chicago. Here he shows a trick to Lana Kaye Roberts, 10, of Largo, Fla., the youngest entry in the tourney. Golfers from all over the country are gathered there for the play.

Wee League Lions Splatter Bears 9-5

The Bears stayed with the Lions in Friday night's Wee League ball game until the last inning when the cats exerted a sudden burst to win 9-5. It was the second time the Lions had beat the Bears as compared with the three defeats they have taken from them.

Steve Hodges, 7, was the winning pitcher, and Durwood Brunson handled the heaving chores for the losers.

The game was sponsored by the Scurry County Boys Club as another of its many activities. Guy Sullivan, director, said that they plan to have two more games before the summer is over, one each for the next two Friday nights.

Other new games and activities added regularly to the Boys Club program have kept up the interest, even through the expected vacation slump, Sullivan, reported yesterday.

He said that between 45 and 65 boys come to the club's headquarters every day and that new members are enrolling even at this late date.

Among the more popular additions to the club's activities is the "band ball," a game described as similar to hand ball, except that paddles are used and the ball is achored by a long rubber band which cause it to rebound quickly after being hit.

Sullivan also reported that the interest is always high in the boxing gloves which are kept going most of the day. He added that the boxers are all paired according to weight and size and that they use the large well-padded 16-ounce gloves and padded head protectors.

The supply of sports and comic magazines in the club library is also in need of replenishing, he said, and added that contributions of old magazines would be accepted.

Three Umpires Fined In Longhorn League

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 6 (AP)—Fines totaling $250 were leveled against three Longhorn League umpires by President W. J. Green here today.

Green did not release the names of the men because he said two of them were school teachers and it might harm their other professional reputations.

Two were fined $100 for using profanity and the other man was fined $25 for mishandling a game, Green said.

New York Records Hottest August 6

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—Today was the city's hottest Aug. 6 on record. It also was the 16th day this summer and the fifth day this month with plus-90 temperature.

It was 95.2 degrees at 2.25 p.m.

The hottest day this summer was Aug. 2, when the official thermometer read 97.5. The hottest Aug. 6 in the record book until today, was back in 1918, when it was 93.3.

The longest scoring run in Cotton Bowl history was Dickey Moegle's 95-yard dash for a touchdown against Alabama on Jan. 1, 1954. That was the play in which Moegle was tackled by an overzealous Alabama bench warmer.

W. J. Hartsfield Named Coach In Junior High

The newest addition to the Snyder coaching staff is William J. Hartsfield, Jr., 26, of Pasadena, who has been elected to fill the vacancy as seventh grade coach of the Snyder Junior High School.

He succeeds Roy Carter who held the job for one year before moving on to become head coach at Daihart.

Hartsfield will work with James Amos, newly elected eighth grade coach, in tutoring the junior high teams.

He is a 1951 graduate from Howard Payne College, Brownwood, where he lettered four years in both track and football. After his graduation, he worked as assistant coach in Eddison Junior High, San Angelo, and served as head basketball coach and assistant football coach at Magnolia.

He was then drafted into the Army where he was attached to the athletic section to serve as the backfield coach of the regiment football team.

He and his wife are expected to arrive here sometime before Sept. 1, when school is scheduled to open.

Senators Continue Hex On Cleveland

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Washington continued its hex on Cleveland today, spurting into an early 6-2 lead and hanging on grimly to defeat the Indians, 6-5, as Spec Shea staked the Senators to effective relief pitching.

Shea, replacing Chuck Stobbs in the sixth inning, allowed only two singles to thwart the Indians and post his second win. The victory gives Washington a 9-7 edge over Cleveland this season.

POISONING for insects has been underway here for several weeks in this area's cotton crop. Most of the farmers in this area are using this type equipment mounted on tractor, being used here by F. L. Eicke, who farms east of Snyder. So far, prospects are still looking good for the cotton crop in this area. Grain sorghums are in need of immediate moisture. (Lee Watson photograph)

Scurry County Cotton Crop Continues To Show Promise

Scurry County's potential cotton crop is looking better all the time, and, provided nothing goes wrong, the county will have plenty of cotton this season.

Cotton is one of the most-discussed subjects in the county now, and many observers are already guessing at what the crop will be. The county has planted more than 73,000 acres of cotton, and many persons believe the county will average half a bale per acre, or somewhere between 35,000 and 40,000 bales.

Most guessing on the crop always, however, include several conditions, such as "if another good rain falls within 15 days" or "if the insects don't get out of control.

If the county does have that much production, it will make more cotton than it has had during the past three years combined. During the drought years, cotton production figures for the county looked like this: 1951, 10,000 bales; 1952, 1,500 bales; 1953, 14,000 bales; and 1954, 17,082. Total for the four years was 42,582, or an average of 10,645 a year.

Most of the cotton here is now in the fruiting stage, according to Oscar Fowler, county agent, who said much of the cotton is either putting on bolls or being taken by insects.

The insect problem is still serious in parts of the county, the agent said, adding that farmers in some areas have not had to poison yet. The boll worms are slightly worse in many parts. Reports are that in parts of the county the boll worms are working on early feed which is now heading out. While there is another worm which works on feed quite a bit in this area, the boll worm is the most prevalent on feed as well as cotton.

Numerous farmers are now poisoning insects in their cotton crops. By poisoning, the insects can be controlled, Fowler said. Otherwise, the insects could in a short length of time take over a crop.

Cotton is growing fairly high in areas of the county which have had quite a bit of rainfall, the agent said, explaining that many places east of Snyder and some northwest have had good rains and that on some stalks cotton bolls are now one-half to three-fourths grown. Cotton is still small in areas where rainfall has been limited.

The cotton could stand rain now but could also stand to wait in many parts of the county, while much of the grain sorghums need moisture right away, Fowler said. Much of the feed crops are now burning. Most of the cotton acreage will still respond to a good rain.

Some persons are even beginning to discuss when the first bale of Scurry County cotton will be produced. Last year it was on Aug. 18 that John Roemisch, Jr., of Hermleigh brought in the first bale. That was about the earliest first bale ever brought here, however. The Chamber of Commerce agriculture committee will announce in a few days plans for its annual special program in connection with the first bale.

GRAZING on a lush growth of grasses around a cedar tree which was pushed in 1952 is this cow on the Martin Parks Ranch seven miles northwest of Fluvanna. Grasses such as sideoats grama, hairy grama, silver bluestem, and buffalo were found to be increasing on this site, where pushing cedars out of the ground and leaving them on the site has helped reduce runoff of moisture and furnished protection for native grasses. (Staff photograph)

Cedars Moved To Make Way For Grasses

Pushing cedars out of the ground has been somewhat an annual operation for Martin Parks, rancher seven miles northwest of Fluvanna.

Parks pushes the cedars with a dozer which tears the trees out of the ground. He leaves the trees lying on the site, and the dead trees help reduce runoff of moisture as well as furnish protection for the native grasses.

The grasses mature and produce seed under the protecting branches of the dead cedars. Growing cedars naturally use their share of the moisture, and Parks figures he will have more moisture for the grass if the cedars are pushed and left lying on the land.

"The uprooted cedars plus the holes left in the soil, make a wonderful setup for the reseeding of native grasses," says Jake Hodges, work unit conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service here.

The stored water accumulates in the holes formed by removal of the cedar, Hodges said, and the protection furnished by the cedars gives the grasses a good chance to survive and produce a new seed crop for range reseeding.

Cooperating with the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District, Parks, defers a portion of his rangeland each year. This deferring program, used with the cedar pushing program, has brought about a marked improvement in condition of the range, SCS technicians state.

Many grasses are found increasing around the dead cedars, including hairy grama, sideoats grama, buffalo grass, and silver bluestem.

Cotton Check To End Soon

Cotton acreage measuring is almost complete in the county, according to Henry Burchett, county office manager for the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Burchett said about 40 per cent of the farms in the county so far have been found overplanted. This is due mostly to farmers planting enough that they will be sure they have their allotted acreage, since they would rather plow up some cotton than have too little planted.

The county's entire cotton allotment of 73,842 acres was planted, Burchett said.

The ASC manager said measuring and checking of plowups will be completed by Sept. 1.

Farmers Plant Bermuda In Milam County

By SAM WHITLOW
Texas Editor,
Farmer-Stockman Magazine

Written for The Associated Press

CAMERON, Tex., Aug. 6 (AP) — Coastal bermuda grass is making big gains here in Milam County where some 30 farmers have plantings of the grass this year.

J. D. Moore, Milam County agent, believes the plantings will continue to expand next year.

"We have been trying the grass in demonstration plots for the past few years," Moore said. "But weather conditions have been unfavorable. This year we have better moisture conditions and the grass is off to a good start." Coastal bermuda is set out by the sprigging method, and is usually planted about the same time as cotton.

"We used a sprigging machine to put out the grass," Moore said. "We obtained the machine from the Central Texas Soil Conservation District at Temple."

Milam County farmers report that the coastal bermuda is well adapted to the soils of the area. Of course, the better the soil, the better grass it will produce.

Coastal bermuda makes fast growth, and is used successfully for waterways. It also provides good grazing because of its rapid growth.

Because of its luxuriant and upright growth, the grass can also be used for a hay crop.

"The coastal bermuda makes about 50 per cent more growth than common bermuda, and the roots of the grass feed deeper," Moore observed.

This coastal bermuda grass has gained wide acclaim in many parts of Texas, and plantings have expanded over wide regions of the state where there is sufficient moisture to grow the grass.

Two Major Tools Are Used By FHA

The Farmers Home Administration, which was established to help farmers live better by farming better, has two tools to accomplish its job — credit and supervision, according to Joseph Box, county FHA supervisor.

The farm adjustment loan, started at the beginning of FHA, was the backbone of the program and is still one of the main lifelines to farmers who have farmed with FHA aid, Box said.

Better farming practices being carried on by farmers here with FHA adjustment loans include livestock improvement through good management practices, such as improved selection, breeding, feeding, and marketing. Crop improvement is also being achieved and is expected to continue through use of improved and adapted varieties, fertilization, weed and insect control, and proper land preparation. Many farm plans also call for use of more adequate equipment and machinery through replacement and repair.

Families can make fuller use of land and available labor with more efficient farming, and improvements in farm efficiency and the resultant higher income are reflected in various ways, including higher living standards for many of the families and greater contribution to community services.

Farm families receiving farm adjustment loans are also expected to carry out a "live-at-home" program, which consists of raising food at home for the table and for canning or storage. Gardens and stock for meat are recommended. This part of the farm family program has been hampered greatly in the past few years because of drought, but greater strides are being made in this direction this year. Many more farm families have planted their gardens near wells so they could be irrigated, while most areas have received more rainfall.

Only farmers unable to obtain from banks or other local lenders credit needed to make necessary adjustments and improvements in farming operations are eligible for FHA loans, Box explained, adding that a large proportion of the families are young and just starting in farming. After an average of about five years most families improve their situations to the point that they can go to banks or other lending institutions for credit.

FHA loans, Box said, supplement rather than compete with other credit. The aim of the entire program is to aid worthy farmers in becoming eligible for bank credit, and from that time they can work on their own. The average family with an operating or adjustment loan here is showing a good increase annually in net income, net worth, farm inventory, and amount of working capital.

Many farmers who repaid their loans in full last year had unsatisfactory leases prior to obtaining the loans but now have good tenure arrangements and know where and how they will farm next year. This, Box said, is because of adjustments and improvements they were able to make with FHA help. Several former tenants have bought farms or are preparing to do so.

In addition to making loans for farm operating purposes, the FHA also extends credit for buying, enlarging, or improving farms; for soil and water conservation practices, and for meeting emergency needs.

Every agricultural county has a three-member county FHA committee. At least two members must be farmers. The panel considers all loan applications and sees that every farmer who gets a loan has reasonable prospects for conducting a sound farming operation with assistance provided with the loan. Members of the Scurry committee are Rea Falls, Buford Browning, and Jake Greene.

Benson Employing More Controls

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson has stated repeatedly that he dislikes federal crop controls. But circumstances are requiring that he employ them more than any of his predecessors.

He has invoked rigid marketing quotas this year on wheat, cotton, rice, peanuts and major types of tobacco.

Before the year is over, he will have to impose them on the same crops for next year.

Although farmers themselves may or may not like the controls, they have been writing a pretty good record of approving them.

The farm law of 1938, authorizing marketing restrictions, requires that they be approved by at least two-thirds of the farmers voting in a referendum.

Since then, the department has held 68 such referenda. In 50 of them, growers approved quotas while in 18 they disapproved.

The circumstances that require Benson to use quota restrictions are the accumulation of surplus crops and a requirement of farm law that the limitations be invoked —subject to grower approval— when oversupplies develop.

By the time this year's harvesting has been completed, upwards of 12 billion dollars worth of farm surpluses are likely to harm programs.

Farmers themselves are under great economic pressure to approve quotas, whether they like them or not. If the quotas are approved, the government will support grower prices of the affected crop at a relatively favorable level. But if they are rejected, the support levels are cut to a very low level. In the case of tobacco, price supports are withdrawn completely if controls are voted down.

Inasmuch as market prices follow closely the support level, many farmers hesitate to vote against controls lest prices drop to depression levels.

In most cases where Benson has invoked controls, he has in effect apologized, explaining his dislike of the idea that farmers be controlled from Washington. Yet, he has never once suggested that the law be changed to eliminate the controls. He has said that he realizes they are needed until war-expanded farm production has been adjusted to peacetime demands.

Benson feels that once this adjustment has been achieved, farm production can be guided simply by varying the level of government price supports. Under the administration sponsored flexible price support system, price guarantees are high in times of shortages to encourage production and are low in times of surplus supplies to discourage production and to encourage consumption.

The department has conducted three referenda this year on quotas. Referenda for other crops produced under controls this season were held last year.

One this year was for quotas on the 1956 wheat crop. It was approved by 77.5 per cent of the growers voting. Another was on a proposed reduction in previously announced quotas for this year's crop of burley tobacco. It won by a majority of 96 per cent.

The third was on the question of authorizing quotas for the 1956, 1957 and 1958 crops of flue-cured tobacco. It gave an overwhelming majority of 97.3 per cent for controls until the 1959 crop.

Before the year is out, Benson will hold referenda on quotas for next year's crops of cotton and rice as well as on future crops of such types of tobacco as burley, Virginia sun-cured, Maryland and two cigar varieties.

Replacing Morgan as electrification advisor was Jerry Robertson of Hermleigh, employe of the co-op since April.

Committee For ASC Will Be Elected

Preparations are now being made by the county Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee for election of new committeemen for 1956.

Nominations for community committeemen have been made by community election boards, and ballots will be mailed out by next Thursday. They must back in to the county ASC office, postmarked not later than midnight Aug. 22, and the votes will be tabulated on Aug. 23.

Each community, or each quarter of the county, will elect one community chairman, vice-chairman, regular member, and first and second alternates. Any names of farmers or ranchers may be submitted to nomination committees to add names to the ballots by petition signed by 10 or more eligible voters. These petitions must be sent to community election chairmen. These chairmen are Charlie Bley of Fluvanna for Community A, Frank Wilson of route 3 for Community B, Rea Falls, route 1, for Community C, and Martin Murphy, route 1, Hermleigh, for Community D.

After election of community committees, these committees will serve as delegates to a county convention to elect county committeemen. The present county committee is composed of Judson McGaha, chairman; J. C. Massingill, vice-chairman; and Charles Eastman, member.

Nominees for the various community committees are:

Community A, northwest quarter of county — Alfred Beavers, James Bellamy, Henry Flournoy, Alton Greenfield, Cliff Kellum, Hurston B. Lemons, Ray Lunsford, Tommy Pate, J. B. Patterson, and Welch Scrivner.

Russia Is Potential Farm Market

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government farm officials said Friday recent developments raise the prospect of a "new exploration" of the possibility of selling surplus American farm products to Soviet Russia and other Iron Curtain countries.

Russia is a potential market for considerable quantities of grain, butter, lard and other food fats — commodities which this country holds in excessive supply.

Among the developments which these officials — who asked that they not be quoted directly — said undoubtedly will lead to reconsideration of the present non-trading policy in food are these:

1. Advocacy by president Charles B. Shuman of the powerful American Farm Bureau Federation of reopening trade relations with Russia.

2. Easing of tensions between the East and West as a result of the recent Geneva conference and the visits by Russian farmers to this country and by American farmers to Russia.

3. Recent action of Canada in selling surplus butter and wheat to Iron Curtain countries.

Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse said action of Shuman in urging Russian trade was "significant" because it came from the head of an organization representing "an influential cross-section of the country."

In a speech at East Lansing, Mich., Shuman said last night that trade with Russia would "contribute to world peace and would be a major step in expanding markets or the current big supply of U.S. farm products."

Herschell Newsom, master of the National Grange, another major farm organization, has been urging such trade for months.

No definite plans have been made yet, officials said, for a policy review as to Russian trade. But because of the pressure to reduce farm surpluses and the apparent improvement in relations with Russia, the question is certain to come up before long, these officials said.

One thing that has held the government back in reopening trade relations is the fact that this country would have to offer its farm products at prices competitive with those in world markets. Most American farm products are being held above world levels by price support programs.

Officials have said in the past that they did not believe American officials would approve sale of American farm products to Russians at prices less than those at which they are sold in American markets.

Newsom said Americans must abandon such an "emotional attitude." He said this country must operate on the premise that there are two markets for farm products — the domestic market and the world market. He said farm products must be offered on the world markets — whether they be Russian or not —at competitive world prices.

LET'S TALK HOMES!

It's an interesting subject; we enjoy showing you a good buy—such as the three-bedroom home on paved corner lot, with air conditioning and central heating . . . it just isn't big enough for the large family that owns it . . . so they say sell — It can be handled for less than $1200.00 down.

Down payments are going UP — Loans are harder to get — It will pay you to buy an equity — such as the two bedroom home we have in Kittrell Hgts. It's a good house —and it's priced to SELL.

Now if you are interested in a finer home — say brick with two baths, etc. . . . we have 'em . . . Not built yet — but plans are here. Further, they are 100% GI—Closing costs only, but closing must be paid at date of purchase.

Washingtonians Happy To See Congressmen Head For Home

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—It's a good thing congressmen aren't thin-skinned — they would have been hurt to see how glad people were when they left town this week.

The same thing goes for the "oh, no!" reaction that greeted evep the mention of a possibility they might be called back for a special session this fall.

The session just ended was, on the whole, a pretty dull grind. More sensations should come out of the one opening next January, with the hot politics of a presidential election year.

Highways and federal aid to schools are likely to be among the hottest leftover measures, with the questions of a tax cut and how to support farm prices reappearing as familiar problems.

Eisenhower said he thought the first session of the 84th Congress had a commendable record on foreign affairs, but he complained it failed to act on four domestic measures he regards as vital: Highways, school aid, health insurance and water resources.

This past week in Washington was livelier than most.

Eleven American airmen got out of Red Chinese prison cells. Secretary of the Air Force Talbott resigned lest he embarrass President Eisenhower, he said; the government tightened up credit against the threat of inflation, private power advocates won an important battle on the Hells Canyon Dams, and Eisenhower listed his health and age as factors in whether he'll run again.

FREED AIRMEN — Eisenhower expressed, for the country, a sense of relief and joy that these 11 are coming home to freedom at last.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) said the Chinese Reds' decision to free them "seems to indicate that the Eisenhower-Dulles policy is working." However, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) charged that a sell-out in Asia is in the making. A charge denied by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif).

TALBOTT — The Air Force secretary, whose outside business activities had raised a question of ethics, resigned.

Democrats made plain they intend to use the Talbott case. Chairman Paul M. Butler of the Democratic National Committee said the rule of the administration seems to be: "Don't get caught. If you do get caught, we'll let you resign."

Sen. Mundt (R-SD) fired back that if this had happened under Roosevelt or Truman, there wouldn't even have been a resignation.

INFLATION — The government moved to tighten up on credit. By raising the interest rate the Federal Reserve Banks charge to members on the money they borrow in order to make loans to the public.

Only last Saturday the government tightened up on home loans.

One high official explained: "The businenss boom is getting pretty exuberant . . . The government should exert some effort to keep it orderly."

POWER DAMS — The private power school of politics won an important victory in a Federal Power Commission decision approving a privately financed series of dams in the Hells Canyon area, to be built by Idaho Power Co.

Public power advocates have been trying for years to get Congress to authorize a single, high-level dam there as a federal project. It is an issue that will be kept alive, especially in the Pacific Northwest.

IKE IN 1956?—Eisenhower told his news conference Thursday he could probably make up his mind now—if he could foresee 1956 world and domestic conditions, "and my own situation, including the way I felt . . . the health and everything else." But, he said, "I have not the gift of prophecy."

Earlier in the week he told a delegation from Ohio that an erosion takes place in the presidency and no President has lived to be 70 in the White House. (Ike would be three months past 70 when his second term expired, assuming he had one.)

The President also accepted membership in a Colorado group that is pledged to support him for reelection. But as to whether he'll run, Sen. Millikin (R-Colo) reported: "He didn't say he would and he didn't say he wouldn't."

RUSSIANS—Eisenhower refused to accept, as a closing of the door, objections raised by Russian Premier Bulganin to the President's proposal for an exchange of military information and mutual aerial inspection.

Eisenhower said the United States will have some new disarmament proposals to put before the U.N. before long, and will sympathetically consider Russian proposals, to try to find something fair to both sides.

Bulganin thereupon said he hadn't closed the door, that the Russians would continue to study the Eisenhower proposal, although they preferred their own.

ROUNDING THINGS OUT—With the "new attitude" toward Russia there was talk of perhaps selling the Soviet some of America's mountainous supplies of surplus food . . . The Public Health Service announced that private physicians and public health agencies will start getting Salk polio vaccine this month for children aged 5-9 . . . Sen. George (D-Ga) got a hearty sendoff from fellow senators as he left for home and a possible political fight with Gov. Herman Talmadge . . . The Dixon-Yates hearings were suspended five or six weeks . . . The Atomic Energy Commission reported the Russians have undertaken some new nuclear weapons tests . . . The Eisenhowers arranged to spend most of next week at Gettysburg, then fly to Denver for a stay "longer than several weeks." Either place should be far cooler than Washington.

Helium Plant To Be Built At Exell, Texas

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Interior Department announced today that bids will be asked soon for construction of a six million dollar helium plant at Exell, Tex.

Undersecretary Clarence A. Davis said Exell, already the site of one of the helium plants of the bureau of mines, was chosen for the new plant after consideration of a location near Keyes, Okla.

Helium is found in small quantities in certain natural gases in this country. Davis expressed hope that another plant ultimately can be built at Keyes to take advantage of the helium-bearing natural gas available in that area.

The new plant is to have rated capacity of 100 million cubic feet of helium a year. This is expected to increase the production of the lightweight, nonflammable gas by about 50 per cent.

The government is the only large-scale producer of helium in the world.

The existing plant at Exell has a capacity of 85 million cubic feet a year. There are other helium plants at Amarillo, Tex., Otis, Kan., and near Shiprock, N. M.

Completion of the new plant will boost capacity to about 300 million cubic feet annually. This is expected to enable the Bureau of Mines to meet demands to 1959 or 1960 and after that still another plant may be required.

Demand for helium has continued to soar, Davis said, and the bureau has been forced to curtail some uses. For example, the supply for toy balloons and for advertising purposes has been cut off. The supply by operating existing plants above their rated capacity has about met all needs of government working on government contracts, together with most medical and essential industrial requirements.

Output in the year ended June 30 reached a record of 212 million cubic feet, about 12 million above the rated capacity and 42 million above the 1953-54 output.

The bureau said demand for the year ending next June 30 is expected to reach 236 million cubic feet.

The new plant will be built on land the government already owns near the present Exell plant. Davis said it should be ready in about a year.

Until the new plant goes into production the bureau will endavor to meet essential needs for helium by continuing operation of existing plants above their rated capacity.

Helium production was started by the bureau in 1917 to provide a nonflammable lifting gas for air ships and balloons. The gas is also used in helium-shielded arc welding, in a helium furnace for production of the new metals titanium and zirconium, and for a number of medical purposes.

"Other uses of helium," Davis said, "include filling the space between the lenses of certain optical instruments where only minimum distortion can be tolerated, degassing molten metals, tracing the movements of gases and fluids, detecting minute leaks in pipelines and vessels (Helium will pass through an opening too tiny to prevent passage of air) and serving various purposes in atomic energy research.

Blinded Veterans Honor Houston Man

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Blinded Veterans Assn. tonight presented its 1955 achievement award to Criss Cole, of Houston.

Cole, 37, a former Marine, totally blinded by a Japanese hand grenade at Tarawa in World War II, went on to obtain a college education and won election to the Texas House of Representatives.

Cole practices law, is active in church and civil affairs, and, as hobbies, enjoys fishing and horseback riding with his sons, Dennis, 8, and Warren, 6.

He was married in 1945 to the former Joanne Spica, whom he met while convalescing at Philadelphia Naval Hospital from his wounds.

The association presented its award to him "for exemplifying the principles of initiative, independence, and self reliance to which the Blinded Veterans Assn. is devoted."

Grandmother Thinks Flying "Thrilling"

NAPLES, Maine, Aug. 6 (AP)—A 70-year-old grandmother rescued from a sinking plane amidst 6-foot Sebago Lake waves yesterday, described flying as "thrilling" today and said she is looking forward to her next trip.

While clinging to her pilot-grandson's plane, Mrs. Tena Day confided she couldn't swim but quipped, "At least I'm getting a bath and a good shampoo."

The craft flipped over when struck by the 60-mile-an-hour wind of a sudden storm after it was landed by James Build, 21.

Mrs. Day suffered only bruised knees when she was dragged aboard a rescue boat.

Tightening Of Credit Will Make Borrowing Money Harder

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — Aug. 6 (AP) — Business held to a scorching pace this week. The administration, scenting an inflationary threat, tightened the screws on credit.

The new squeeze on credit means that you'll find it harder — and more expensive — to borrow money. That's the case whether you plan to buy a car "on time," get a mortgage on a house, or borrow millions from the banks for inventory accumulation.

Announced intention of the credit move: To keep the boom from getting out of hand, and to forestall another postwar round of runaway price increases. One top administration official put it this way:

"The business boom is getting pretty exuberant. It's the consensus of the economic and financial side of the administration that the government should exert some effort to keep it orderly."

The exuberance of the boom was blatantly apparent almost anywhere you wanted to look. The steel industry, whose payroll hit the staggering record total of nearly 298½ million dollars in June, scheduled operations this week at 94.4 per cent of capacity. That should mean an outpouring of 2,278,000 tons of steel. That's particularly significant when you take into account the searing temperatures in the great steel centers, now baking in a record heat wave. Tonnage produced in the like week last year was only 1,527,000.

Electric power output at latest count was the highest for any week in history; automobile production, although down from the previous week, was still a good 40 per cent greater than a year ago.

Soft coal production in the latest week was up nearly 28 per cent from last year; freight carloadings were up 16 per cent. Dun & Bradstreet said retail trade smashed all midsummer records.

There were other boom signals. Chrysler reported record sales for the first half-year and a four-fold jump in profits. The nation's 126 biggest railroads disclosed that their combined earnings for the first six months were up 79 per cent from a year ago. Sears, Roebuck reported recent July business.

The textile industry, long in the throes of depression, came up with a batch of rosy earnings reports: M. Lowenstein & Sons had record first-half sales, Burlington industries more than doubled its net, Dan River Mills announced a 53 per cent rise in profits.

The First National City Bank of New York totted up the first-half profits of 734 major corporations. The tally showed a 31 per cent gain over their combined first-half earnings last year.

Construction boomed as never before. The Commerce and Labor departments reported that building activity in the first seven months this year rocketed to an all-time high of more than 23 billion dollars. Highways, homes, stores and office buildings set the pace.

Business expansion got another nudge when Reynolds Aluminum Co. announced plans for a 230-million-dollar construction and improvement program, including a 168-million-dollar primary aluminum plant in western Kentucky.

Pressures generated by the stepped-up pace of business made themselves felt in two familiar forms: shortages and rising prices. Price hikes were announced by producers of aluminum, steel scrap, auto tires, Canadian crude oil.

You could find plenty of exuberance among consumers — they were buying at a record clip, and going into hock to do it. The Federal Reserve Board reported that installment debt skyrocketed in June to an unprecedented high of nearly 25 billions. On-the-cuff buying of new automobiles accounted for most of the rise.

It was against this background of mounting raw material prices and consumer debt that the government's money and credit mechanics decided it was time to apply the brakes. First, the Veterans Administration and the FHA stiffened down-payment and pay-off terms on government-insured home loans. If you're a GI, you can't buy a house any more without putting up some of your own money, and the mortgage pay-off time is shortened from 30 to 25 years.

The Federal Reserve Board followed up by hiking the rediscount rate in most of its major banking districts. That's the interest it charges its member banks. New York banks promptly lifted their "prime rate" — the interest they charge their gilt-edge borrowers. This is the start of the peak season for business loans.

The hippopotamus of the upper Nile River, often though of as a harmless creature, can attack without apparent provocation.

Marlin Rector Awarded Top Church Place

HOUSTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Rev. F. Percy Goddard, Marlin, became the first bishop suffragan of the Episcopal Diocese of Texas today.

Over 1,200 people crowded into the downtown Christ Church Cathedral to witness colorful consecration ceremony in which 10 bishops took part.

Bishop Goddard, 51, was elected May 6 at a Waco meeting of the Diocesan Council. He will make his new headquarters in Tyler. The bishop has been rector at Marlin the past 27 years.

Bishop Clinton S. Quin of the Texas Diocese was the consecrator. The Rt. Rev. Thomas N. Carruthers, bishop of South Carolina, delivered the sermon.

Bishop Carruthers said a man must possess these prerequisites to become a great bishop: "He must make decisions in the light of the times and must be a leader of his people. He must be humble. He must be a true pastor and share our Lord's concern for individuals. . . ."

Bishop Carruthers added:

"Percy, my brother, I have watched your ministry with interest and admiration. You have walked with the grace and beauty of St. Francis of Assisi. With the backing of God and of the people, I think you will make a great bishop. I wish you godspeed."

Co-consecrators were the Rt. Rev. John E. Hines, bishop coadjutor of the Texas Diocese, and the Rt. Rev. Everett H. Jones, bishop of West Texas.

Other bishops participating were Bishop Suffragan John J. Harte, Dallas; Bishop Coadjutor Hamilton H. Kellogg, Minnesota; Bishop Charles A. Mason, Dallas; Bishop Girault M. Jones of Louisiana; Bishop Winslow R. C. Powell, Oklahoma, and Bishop Nelson M. Burroughs, Ohio.

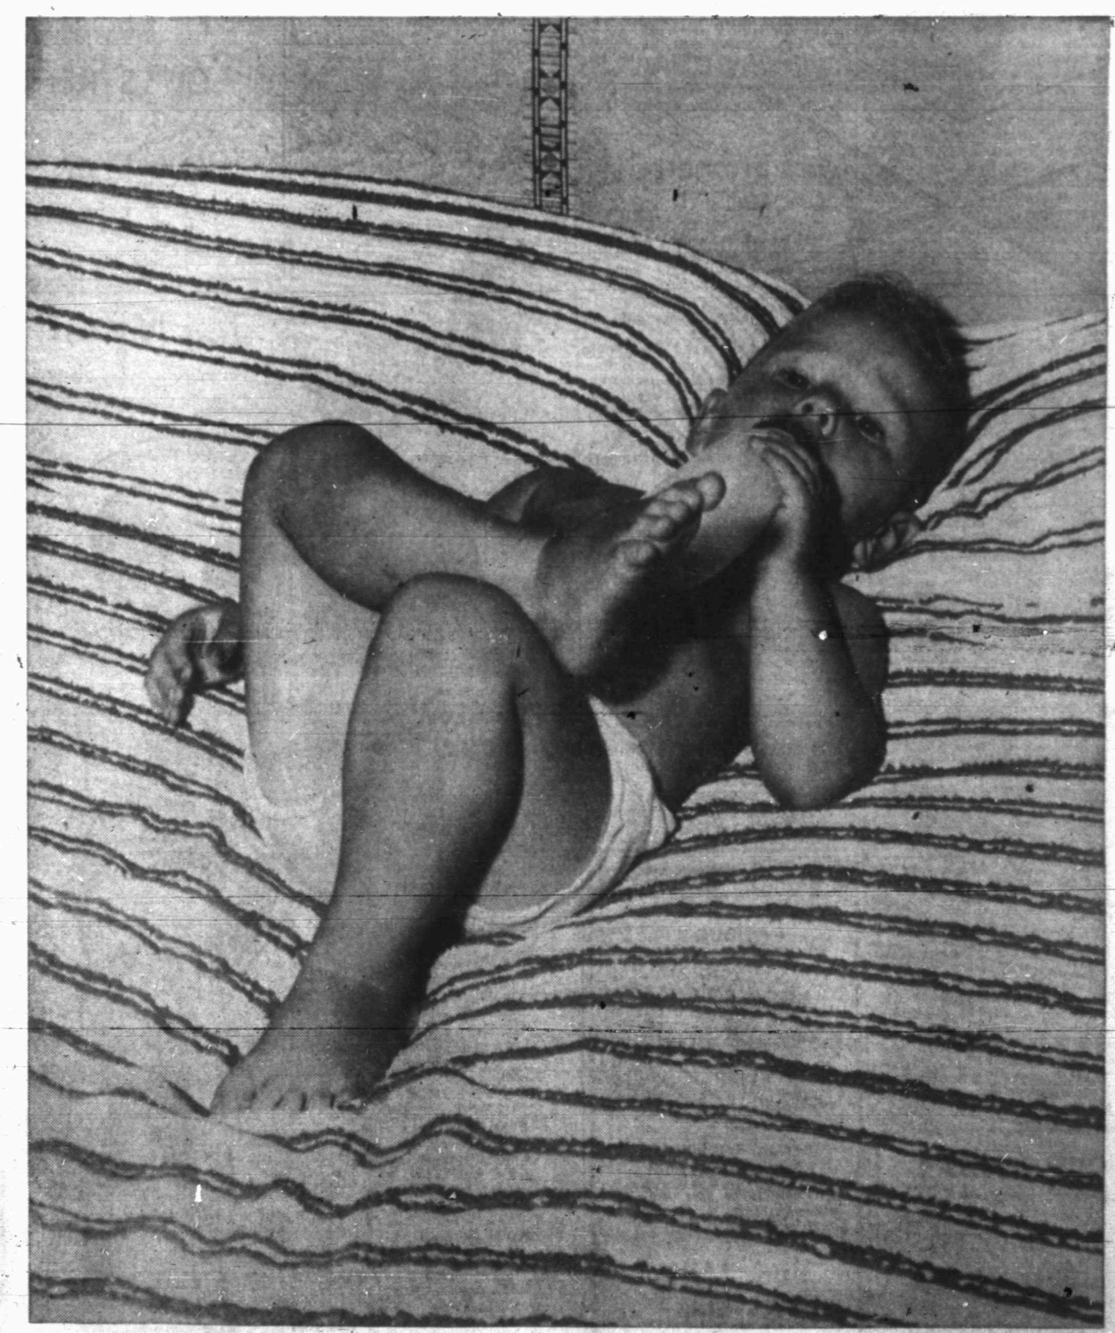
Deyaun Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brown, 3790 Sunset, helps keep her brother, Rayburn (Sonny) Brown, cool and water the lawn at the same time. Children often are more imaginative and practical with their methods of keeping cool than adults are. (Lee Watson photographs)

Keeping Cool In The Summer

One practical way for keeping cool during the hot summertime is demonstrated above. Towle Park swimming pool is probably one of the most popular cool spots in the county. Under the slide is Jack Holder, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Holder, San Diego, Calif., and Alma Nell Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Evans, 2006 Avenue L, while on the slide is Mary Denson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Denson, 2802 Thirty-seventh Street.



A tall cool drink, not many clothes, and relaxing under an air conditioner is a universal way for keeping cool and is practiced as much by adults as by children. Robert Warren Boyd, Jr., 22-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Boyd, 3750 Avenue V, agreeably posed for the above picture to illustrate the popular method of beating the heat.

INTERNATIONAL DESIGNER PATTERN

BIKI OF ITALY has turned out a truly couture creation in this feminine and urban design. Cut cool and narrow with precise proportion, this sheath is sure to make any woman appear slimmer and more sophisticated. The wide neckline curve is notched. Peg pockets, made to look like soft bows, are placed over the hipbone. The skirt, streamlined in front, is fitted to perfection in back with three slimming gores. Fabric suggestions for now and later are linen, novelty cottons, shantung, faille, plain or printed silks and wool crepe. Size 12 requires three and three-quarter yards of 39-inch material for the dress. To order the pattern, No. S-272, send $1 to International Designer Patterns, P.O. Box 993, G.P.O., Dept. Gartman-Sherrod Rites Repeated Friday Night

Mrs. Vertna Gartman, 3112 Avenue T, and R. D. Sherrod of Dunn were married in a doubel-ring ceremony read at 8 o'clock last night in the First Baptist Church. The Rev. G M. Cole, pastor, officiated at the rites.

The bride was given in marriage by her son, Randall Gartman, of Bay City, Tex. She wore a two-piece dress of teal blue crepe with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Randall Gartman attended her, wearing a dress of blue nylon with a corsage of pink carnations. George (Buck) Sherrod of Amarillo, son of the bridegroom, was best man. Randy Gartman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Gartman, was ringbearer.

A reception for the immediate families of the couple was held at 3112 Avenue T following the ceremony. For traveling, Mrs. Sherrod changed to a cotton dress of dark blue with navy accessories. Following the wedding trip to Amarillo and southern Colorado, the couple will be at home at 3112 Avenue T.

Mrs. Sherrod is field worker for the State Department of Public Welfare here, a position she has held for about 10 years. She formerly taught in Tom Green and Coke County schools. Mr. Sherrod is a retired farmer.

Miss Stinnett Honored At Tea

A bridal tea in the home of Mrs. E. R. Robberson, 311 Thirty-fifth Street, on Friday night honored Miss Patsy Stinnett, bride-elect of Dale Meynig.

Miss Stinnett is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ruel Stinett, 1411 Twenty-second Street. The couple is to be married on September 17 in the Greenhill Baptist Church.

Hostesses for the tea were Mrs. Robberson, Mrs. George Parks, Mrs. J. A. Dickerson, Mrs. C. K. McKissick, Mrs. Bill Roberts, Mrs. J. W. Corbell, Miss Jean Thomson, Mrs. B. J. Hart and Mrs. D. V. Merritt.

The honoree's colors, pink, blue and white, were used in decorations. The refreshment table, laid with a white cutwork cloth over blue, was centrred with an arrangement of hearts and wedding bells under a double arch. Miss Thomson and Miss Rita Johnston presided at the table, with Mrs. J. W. Corbell at the guest register. Mrs. B. J. Hart and Mrs. E. R. Bowden displayed gifts.

More than 30 guests called during the receiving hours.

"Dark Horse" Started Out As Race Slang

When we of today discuss a dark horse, it is in conversation over political candidates and our reference is to one likely to run for nomination but kept in the background until the very last. The expression is said to have originated out of a story concerning one Sam Flynn a Tennessee horsetrader and trackman. It was his habit to visit all country fairs generally astride Dusky Pete, a black stallion, with little appearance of a fast trotter. Flynn would enter his horse in the races, thinking, as he said, that his Pete was a "likely hoss". Under such appearances, Flynn had no trouble in placing good bets.

Judge McMinamee was judge of many of these races and had encountered Flynn and his black horse before. On one occasion, as he took his place in the stand, a friend told him how the betting stood and of the foolish bets made by the owner of the strange entry.

Recognizing Pete, the judge said, "Gentlemen, there's a dark horse in this race that will make some of you sick before supper." The judge was so absolutely right that his expression DARK HORSE sprang into use as indicative of an unheralded contestant.

If sour cream is available at your market, you'll find it makes a delightful topping for sliced fresh pears. Serve with a grant of nutmeg!

Those garden tomatoes will taste especially good if you slice them and sprinkle them with a dressing of wine vinegar, sugar, salt, pepper and basil. Use the fresh basil leaves, if they are available, and mince them; otherwise use crushed dried basil.

Use the scooped-out half of a watermelon for a summer punch bowl. Be sure to cut the watermelon lengthwise, of course.

TED McALISTER
. . . looks at a rare stamp from his collection

Stamp Collector Began During Measles Attack

Ted McAlister, son of Mr. O. A. McAlister of McAlister Transfer and Storage Company, has been collecting stamps since an attack of the measles when he was five years old. His cousin gave him an album to help while away the hours in bed, and this gift started a lifelong interest.

His collection was spectacularly augmented one winter in Childress, Texas, when a trash can containing a discarded collection was overturned, and thousands of stamps were blown over the neighborhood. For weeks afterwards, the neighborhood children were busy philatelists!

Ted started by collecting stamps of all nations, and he advises the young collector to do the same as it will give him an interest in geography and history which will be of value all his life. However, with millions of stamps being printed monthly, it is understandable why no serious collector attempts to maintain a complete world-wide collection. Most collectors choose a particular country, or subject. Ted has chosen Portugal and her 24 colonies, Liberia, Ethiopia and the Belgian Congo as his specialties.

Other collectors specialize in stamps of one subject, such as varieties of fish, or flowers, great men, automobiles, historical events or paintings. The tiny country of Leichtenstein is now issuing a series of stamps on the great paintings of the world. The Belgian Congo has printed a handsome series on the animals in Africa; the elephant, leopard, crocodile, zebra, wart hog, lion, hippopotamus, rhinoceros, as well as such little known animals as the gnu, sable antelope, eland, impala, sitatungo, gemsbok, gazelle and greater kudu. Another collector may choose to specialize in printing mistakes, or perforation marks.

Considering the billions of stamps that have been printed, it is surprising to hear that the first stamp, known as the Penny Black, was printed in England in 1840, only 109 years ago. Ted has the Penny Black. It's a black bordered stamp with a white silhouette of young Queen Victoria.

The United States was slow in getting into stamp printing. In 1847 the first two American stamps were issued: a 5 cent stamp bearing the head of Benjamin Franklin, and a 10 cent stamp of George Washington. Now, America not only has the government Bureau of Engraving and Printing office, but there are several private printing companies, such as the Continental Bank Note Company, which printed stamps (and money) for other nations.

Another bit of interesting information on United States stamps is that the first standard presidential series wasn't issued until the 1930s. The position of the president synchronizes with the number of cents on the stamp. For instance: George Washington is on the 1 cent green, John Adams is on the rose 2 cent stamp; Thomas Jefferson is on the 3 cent stamp; James Madison is on the 4 cent stamp, and so on up to Hoover. Mr. Hoover's is not included in the series, because it is the policy of our government to not print likenesses of living presidents on stamps. If you are ever asked who is on the 15 cent presidential series, all you have to know is that James Buchanan was the 15th president of the United States, and there's your answer!

Among the many interesting and colorful stamps in Ted's collection are some stamps from King Farouk's collection, a German stamp in bas-relief, some Monacan stamps with scenes from Jules Verne's novel, including 20,000 Leagues Under the Sea, and stamps of flowers, birds, fish and butterflies printed in brilliant and varied colors. In fact there is hardly an invention, famous man, work of art, or anniversary without its stamp.

For a beginning, Ted suggests not to spend over $10 on a book, and "duke's mixture" of stamps. Find out first if stamp collecting will "take" with you, before spending any money on it.

One of the fascinations of stamps is that it can be either a rich man's or a poor man's hobby. There is one stamp in the world which sells for $100,000; on the other hand, there are thousands of stamps free for the asking.

After seeing Ted McAlister's magnificent collection, and listening to his exciting tales of stamps and stamp collecting, it seems certain that this versatile hobby can be an absorbing and enriching pursuit of a lifetime.

There's no doubt about it, the heat does sap your energy, so don't feel guilty if the last thing you want to do is to spend much time cooking! Unfortunately, though, even in a 100 degree heat, a family goes right on eating, and that means you cook whether you like it or ot.

To ease the dessert problem, why not make a big cake, store it in a tight cake cover, and forget about desserts for a while?

Here is a Lemon Pecan Cake recipe of Mrs. Carl Herod's, camp Springs Road, that's been tested and admired right here in Snyder.

LEMON PECAN CAKE

¾ pound butter
2 cups sugar
6 eggs (well beaten)
3¾ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 pound white raisins
1 pound pecans
¼ pound candies cherries
1 2-ounce bottle of lemon extract.

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs. Alternate dry ingredients with lemon extract. Add raisins, pecans and cherries. (The cake can be made with no cherries, no raisins, and just a ½ pound of pecans) Pour cake into an angel food pan, or into loaf pans. Bake at 275 degrees. If you use large angel food pan, cook 1½ hours; if you use loaf pan, cook one hour. This cake needs no icing, and slices beautifully!

Did you know that eggs contain not only protein, but two of the B vitamins — thiamine and riboflavin — plus vitamins A and D, as well as iron, phosphorus and other essential minerals?

An egg every day for every member of your family, is a good rule to follow, especially now that eggs are plentiful and inexpensive.

Remember that eggs with clean shells keep best. Wipe off soiled eggs with a damp cloth, but don't wash eggs until just before you use them. When eggs are first laid, the shells have a film known as the "bloom" which seals the pores and helps keep out bacteria and odors. Washing removes this protective film.

Store eggs in a covered bowl or pan, away from strong-smelling foods. Without a cover, eggs lose moisture faster and are more likely to absorb odors.

Keep eggs in the refrigerator or other cold place. Stored at room temperature, eggs may lose as much in quality in 3 days as those kept 2 weeks in a good refrigerator.

To keep leftover egg yolks or separated whites until they can be used, place yolks in a dish or cup and add just enough cold water to cover. Put egg whites in a jar or dish and cover tightly. Be sure to keep them cold.

For some excellent ways to use eggs — see the U. S. Department of Agriculture Pamphlet — EGG DISHES FOR ANY MEAL, you can get a copy at the County Agriculture Agent's Office, 1913 27th Street.

Solution Is Given For Bridge Problem

Here is the solution to the bridge problem presented in the Daily News last Sunday:

Opening lead is the king of clubs by East.

South (Dummy), a diamond is discarded.

North takes in hand with the ace of clubs.

North then leads a heart, and takes on board.

The 5 of spades is led from the dummy, and north trumps in his hand.

North then leads a heart again, and takes on board.

Leads the queen of spades from board, and takes with a trump.

North leads a heart from hand, and takes on board.

Leads ace of trumps from board, and discards king of diamonds in hand.

North leads ace of spades from board and discards ace of diamonds.

The board is now good.

P.S. — In case you have lost the problem, here it is again:

(BID$ AND MAKES SEVEN HEARTS)

NORTH
10, 9, 8, 7, 6 of Hearts
ace, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6 of Clubs
ace, king of diamonds
Void in Spades

WEST
Void in Hearts
5, 4, 3, 2 of Clubs
6, 5, 4, 3, 2 of diamonds
6, 4, 3, 2 of spades

EAST
5, 4, 3, 2 of Hearts
king, queen, jack of clubs
king, jack, 10, 9, 8, 7 of spades
Void in Diamonds

SOUTH
(Dummy Hand)
ace, king, queen, jack of hearts
Void in Clubs
ace, queen, 5 of spades
queen, jack, 10, 9, 8, 7 of diamonds

Leftover cooked vegetables may be diced fine and added to a cheese omelet for a luncheon dish. To gild the lily, serve with tomato sauce.

NEW YORK, Aug. (AP)—A mosquito helped police catch a youth wanted in a Bronxn gas station holdup.

Canadian Dam Bond Election To Be Voted

PLAINVIEW, Tex., Aug. 6 (AP)—Canadian River Authority directors meet here Monday to pass a resolution setting an election on 76 million dollars in bonds to finance the Canadian River Dam.

The first two million dollars of the money would go for final engineering preliminaries to construction and for right-of-way.

Bulk of the money would be for actual building of the dam and the water distribution system to serve a vast expanse of the Panhandle and South Plains area.

If the bonds are approved, the dam would be built near Stamford. It would create a reservoir with about a half million acre feet of conservation storage, 450,000 acre feet of sediment storage, 11,000 acre feet of dead storage, and a dependable yield of some 1,440,000 acre feet of water annually.

The water distribution system would bring water within reach of Amarillo, Lubbock, Borger, Lamesa, Levelland, Pampa, Plainview, O'Donnell, Slaton, Brownfield and Tahoka.

Amarillo has served notice it will not submit the bond issue to its voters. It said the proposed consumer water cost is twice what it presently charges and hopes for even cheaper water if the dam were a joint federal-Canadian River Authority project.

The Canadian River has been studied for years as a potential dam site.

A state law enabling work on the dam to be pushed had to be amended to take out conflicts with federal laws.

The Canadian River Authority has decided to finance the project by the sale of bonds and without federal aid.

Wildcat Completions Continue To Lag

AUSTIN, Aug. 6 (AP)—Completion of wildcat oil wells continued to lag in Texas this week.

Operators brought in 20 new gas wells. The total of 652 for the year compared with 759 at this date last year.

Plugs went in 174 dry holes, three gas wells and 33 oil wells. There were five wildcat gas wells and 85 wildcat dry holes.

The average calendar day crude oil allowable dropped to 2,936,045 barrels as of today, 117,923 barrels per day below the week-ago figure as the August allowable went into effect.

Because Buick sales are soaring past all records—

We're declaring a profit-sharing bonus for you

THIS we've never seen before—a sales year that's shattering every record in the Buick book—a soaring success far greater than the one that moved Buick so solidly into the Big 3 of America's best sellers.

So we're going to share profits with you—by stretching our regular big trade-in allowances to practically our break-even point.

That means you can now buy the most wanted Buick ever built—for less than ever before.

That means you can have Buick style distinction and prestige—Buick room and comfort—Buick size and solidity—for plenty dollars less on the profit-sharing deals we're making now.

And that means you can have, at a terrific buy, the hottest-action Buick in history—with walloping V8 power raised to new highs, and with the spectacular performance of Variable Pitch Dynaflow*—world's first and only transmission using the switch-pitch principle of the modern plane's propeller.

Come in today—tomorrow, for sure—and see for yourself that you can now make the biggest buy of the year on the car that's far and away the thrill of the year.

*Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on ROADMASTER, optional at modest extra cost on other Series.

Thrill of the year is Buick—

Biggest-selling Buick in History! (So we're trading high, wide-and then some!)

Truck In A Hole Puts Policemen In Action

PHILADELPHIA, (AP) — Police really leaped into action when they received a telephone call from a motorist reporting "a truck in a hole."

Police cars rushed to the designated spot. The Water Bureau was alerted in case a main had been snapped. The fire rescue squad was told to stand ready for a call.

There was a hole in the street all right. And there was a truck—about eight inches long and four inches high.

The 8-year-old owner, Charles Tarutz, said he didn't know anything about a report to police. He was just playing with his toy truck around that hole in the street.

"Maybe the heat got one of the citizens," theorized a cop.

Gas And Oil Independents Meet Friday

AUSTIN, Aug. 6 (AP)—Texas oil and gas independents will meet in Corpus Christi next Friday to study how they can operate best under Federal Power Commission utility controls.

A. P. King Jr., president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Assn., said the study is necessary because of congressional failure to pass a bill exempting independent gas producers from FPC regulations. The House passed such a measure, but the Senate did not act.

King said TIPRO's executive committee will have a luncheon and afternoon business session Friday, preceding a directors' dinner that night.

He said the committee will consider recommendations that the association petition the FPC for immediate action to abolish pipeline company discrimination in prices paid smaller producers and royalty owners.

"We will also map our campaign to show consumers why federal regulations of independent gas producers is not the answer to their price problems, but instead will add to the cost of gas at the consumption level," King said.

"It may be we will want to press for an interim study by the House Commerce Committee and perhaps the FPC of the reason New York City consumers pay $2.43 per 1,000 cubic feet for gas which pipeline companies pay Texas producers only 8 cents."

Glamor Boy Of Soviets Likes Kisses

By TOM WHITNEY

BROOKINGS, S.D. (AP) — Alexander Tulupnikov, glamor boy of the Soviet farm delegation, didn't mind the least little bit getting kissed simultaneously by two beautiful skating stars.

He smiled and looked right at home with blonde Kay Servatius on one side and brunette Sonya Kaye on the other.

Tulupnikov did not say: "Russia was never like this."

But he could have very well indeed. Tulupnikov is a member of the collegium of the Soviet Ministry of Agriculture. In the Soviet Union, agricultural economists do not pose for cameramen being kissed by ice ballerinas or any other kind of ballerinas.

Tulupnikov and eight other Soviet Farm delegates were guests Thursday night in Huron, S.D., at the show Holliday on Ice of 1955.

The Russians were flown by special plane from Brookings, where they had arrived for the night, to Huron and back again.

Also at the show was South Dakota's war ace, Gov. Joe Foss. He had helped see that the Soviet guests got to the show. He met them in the intermission and later at a reception in his and their honor. He welcomed them to South Dakota.

But for Tulupnikov and his colleagues today was their last day in this state. They had been touring its farmlands and seeing some of its cities for four days. By days' end they were to enter Minnesota for a continuation of their tour of U.S. farming.

The Russians set out this morning to see the work of South Dakota State College at Brookings. The schedule for their tour provided for visits by them to see no-tail sheep at the college farm, progeny testing of beef breeding cattle at the cattle feeding station, a rammed earth poultry house, agronomy research, isotopes research and other advanced studies.

But as things were working out there was no longer any one simple group of the Soviet farm chiefs.

Alexander Yeshevsky, farm machinery expert, and Nikolai Bogach, chief of a machinery and tractor station — were in Minneapolis to see machinery factories.

The chief of the delegation, Valdimir Matskevich — was scheduled to arrive in Texas. Several other Russians, headed by Yuri Goulbash, were flying to Wyoming to see an Indian pow-wow at Sheridan and to get a glimpse of a roundup, branding and rodeo.

Publication Of Radiation Effects Urged

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States ..as proposed that the U. N. collect and publish information on the effects of atomic radiation on human health.

Presumably most of the data would come from the United States, Britain and Russia—the only nations known to have conducted atomic tests—and from Japanese scientists who studied the Lucky Dragon victims of the Bikini fallout last year.

In a letter and memorandum delivered Thursday to the office of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. urged that the next U. N. Assembly vote the study. Lodge had announced June 22 at the U. N.'s 10th anniversary meeting in San Francisco that his government would make such a proposal.

The American letter asked that the 60-nation Assembly include on its agenda for the session opening Sept. 20 this item: "Coordination of Information Relating to the Effects of Atomic Radiation Upon Human Health and Safety."

The letter said the U. S. government recognizes that "widespread concern" exists over the question. But it added that information available to Washington indicates properly conducted nuclear tests do not constitute a threat to the world's population.

For that midafternoon pickup beverage, mix three tablespoons of commercially - prepared chocolate syrup with a quarter cup of undiluted evaporated milk and two-thirds cup hot strong coffee. Add ice cubes, stir well and enjoy!

Quick dessert: fill peach halves (fresh or canned) with a little confectioner's sugar frosting flavored with grated lemon rind and vanilla; top with freshly-grated or moist canned coconut.
