UNITED WAY PROGRAM — Scurry County employees of Chevron U.S.A. attended a Pacesetter Division meeting for the Scurry County United Way Wednesday morning. Dr. Don Newbury, chairman of the division, presented a program on local United Way activities. Chevron U.S.A. has already presented the local fund drive with a corporate donation of $4,000 for the 1984 drive. The Pacesetter Division is a pre-drive effort. The main campaign is set to begin Sept. 24. (SDN Staff Photo)

Ask Us

Q. — What's the indication regarding Scurry County cotton production this year and cotton production across the state?

A. — Some estimates for bales to be produced here are running as low as 5,000 bales. This compares to more than 24,000 bales last year, a year when the PIK program reduced planted acres. As for the state — again using the PIK year as a comparison — Texas cotton production is forecast at 3.5 million bales, up 47 percent.

Discovery : picture-perfect landing

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Space shuttle Discovery glided to a picture-perfect dawn landing on a desert lakebed today, returning from a 2.5 million-mile maiden voyage that restored confidence in America's space transportation system.

Commander Henry Hartsfield and pilot Michael Coats guided the 102-ton space plane through sparkling clear skies to a touchdown at 10 minutes after sunrise, 6:38 a.m. PDT.

"Welcome home," Mission Control told the crew as the shuttle rolled to a stop on the hard-packed sand.

The sun glistened brilliantly off the craft as it completed final maneuvers and zeroed in on the landing strip.

Discovery and its crew of five men and one woman were back home after a six-day mission marked by extraordinary success despite bouts with a stubborn chunk of ice anda inal-hours oxygen leak. Theirs was the 12th flight of a space shuttle, the 10th to land here.

The astronauts emerged from the cabin after 40 minutes and were smiling and buoyant as they did a walk-around inspection of their ship. After a medical examination, they were to meet with their familes, who viewed the landing, then fly back to their training base in Houston.

Discovery landed at Edwards because NASA has dictated that any shuttle on its first mission must land on the wide-open lakebed, which provides a large margin of safety in case of error. Starting with the next flight in October, most shuttles will return to a runwaynear the launch pad at Cape Canaveral in Florida, to avoid the cross-country trip back there for the next takeoff.

The third and newest shuttle was over the Indian Ocean on its 97th orbit when Hartsfield and Coats triggered its big jets for 2½ minutes to drop the spaceship out of orbit and into an hour-long dive through the atmosphere into this Mojave Desert air base.

Mission Control wakened the astronauts 90 minutes early today when it detected a leak in a set of tanks that supply oxygen for the cabin pressure and power-producing fuel cells.

Suspect indicted in hammer death

An indictment for murder was handed down Tuesday in connection with the Aug. 22 slaying of Snyder man Roland Davis.

In addition, the bond amount for the suspect in the case — Steven Williams, 23, of Fort Worth — was reduced to $20,000. He has been held in lieu of a $100,000 bond set at the time of his arrest by Scurry County sheriff's office personnel and Texas Rangers in Fort Worth Aug. 24.

The victim was found lying in his bed, apparently beaten to death with a hammer, on the morning of Aug. 22. He had been killed at his residence just west of Snyder on U.S. Highway 180.

Investigators had indicated at the time of Williams' arrest that they might seek a capital murder indictment against him — a charge that could have resulted in a death penalty.

District Attorney Pete Greene said Tuesday that consideration of all evidence in the case led him to seek only the simple murder indictment for the defendant.

The Scurry County grand jury, meeting in its regular September session, returned a total of 14 other felony indictments against 11 individuals.

Two Snyder men had bonds set at $5,000 each after grand jurors returned indictments against them for burglary of a habitation.

John Robert Burton of 1918 Coleman Ave. and John Curtis Franks of Midland were indicted for the July 31 burglary of the Ronnie Smart residence north of Snyder.

Burton is currently free on bond while Franks remains in the Scurry County jail in lieu of a $5,000 bond.

Also indicted on charges of burglary of a residence were Elijah Eugene Jeffery of 808 31st St. and Ronnie Hale Farmer of 605 35th St.

Jeffery is accused of burglarizing the Richard Dupree residence on Aug. 9 and Farmer is charged with the Aug. 24 burglary of the Harold H. Britton Jr. residence.

Both remained in county jail Wednesday morning — Jeffery in lieu of a $2,500 bond and Farmer in lieu of a $5,000 bond.

Named in four indictments for forgery by passing was Barbara Jane Baxter.

Baxter is accused of passing four checks, each in excess of

TEC figures show more are working

Unemployment estimates for Scurry County continue to run lower than those reported for the same period last year.

The latest figures from Texas Employment Commission personnel indicate a 3.7 percent level during July.

By comparison, the 1983 estimate for July placed it at 4.6 percent.

The latest report also estimated a larger civilian labor force, figuring 11,258 as compared to 10,532 last year.

The number of out-of-work laborers is estimated at 412 this year as compared to 480 last.

The July report indicated a slight monthly percentage increase. During June, the county's unemployment fell to its lowest mark of 1984 with 3.1 percent.

The highest figure reported during the first seven months of the year was noted during January with a 4.8 percent estimate.

According to the latest figures, 10,846 individuals in the civilian labor force are employed in Scurry County.

In addition to local figures, the latest report indicated other unemployment estimates for the five counties served through the Sweetwater-based TEC office. For counties of comparable size, Scurry continued to have the lowest rate of unemployment. Others listed include:

—Nolan County: 7.2 percent unemployment with a labor force of 8,572; employment at 7,956; and unemployment at 616.

—Mitchell County: 5.5 percent unemployment with a labor force of 5,046; employment at 4,768; and unemployment at 278.

—Fisher County: 6.7 percent unemployment with a labor force of 2,337; employment at 2,180; and unemployment at 157.

—Stonewall County: 3.6 percent unemployment with a labor force of 1,327; employment at 1,298; and unemployment at 49.

—Kent County: 5.3 percent unemployment with a labor force of 493; employment at 467; and unemployment at 26.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "You are so young as you feel after trying to prove it."

When it comes to getting rainfall, we'll try anything. Some have tried to blame the drought on officials of the Scurry County Rodeo for moving the event indoors.

Last week we blamed Alvin Orr for failing to keep current on his rain dancing. The column appeared on the weekend edition, and on Saturday night Scurry County got its best rainfall of 1984.

Orr is taking all the credit, although no one in the neighborhood witnessed the ritual. It was rain however, and if Orr wants to take credit, it's okay with us.

Someone was interested about Orr's style. They asked, "When he does the rain dance, does he chant or just pant."

A fellow in another part of a state remembers when he was young and a group of farmers would gather to pray for rain.

One year they camped out under a post oak tree for a long time, talking of this and that. "Directly," one of the brethern said, "we had better get into the church house and start praying for rain.."

"Yep, guess we better," one old brother replied, "But I don't think it's going to do any good. Wind is from the wrong direction."

Before summer gets away, one observation seems necessary. Swim suits have never been more revealing. It's hard to realize that the gal wearing that bikini is the same one who would be embarrassed if her slip showed.

In Brief

Sales tax up

AUSTIN (AP) — Sales tax collections for the 990 Texas cities which impose the one-cent levy are up nearly 14 percent this year over last, according to a report from state Comptroller Bob Bullock.

For the year to date, payments have totaled $606.8 million, a 13.82 percent increase over the $533.1 million paid through the same period in 1983, Bullock said Tuesday.

Bullock also said $52.4 million was distributed to the cities Tuesday, reflecting taxes collected on sales made in July. That was up from the $41.2 million paid out in September 1983.

Lubbock people remember Buddy Holly

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — For years, Charles Hardin "Buddy" Holly was remembered by many Lubbockites as simply another good old boy who danced to the beat of a different drummer back in the '50s, a theory which stunned both his fans and those laboring within the wide parameters of the contemporary music industry. For Buddy Holly was more, much more.

An innovator in the world of rock 'n' roll, his arrangements and compositions played an active role in the re-shaping of the genre. Bands ranging from The Beatles to The Rolling Stones have cited Holly as a moving influence, and entertainers too numerous to cite have expanded their profit margins by re-recording his songs.

Indeed, Don McLean went so far as to refer to the day Holly lost his life in the crash of a private plane as "the day the music died."

The number of what must be termed musical tourists spending their holidays flying from England or Germany or points even further away to visit not the Grand Canyon or Broadway or Universal Studios, but instead an isolated West Texas city called Lubbock — simply to see where a young man named Buddy Holly was born and raised — seems to mushroom each year. The president of the Buddy Holly Memorial Society even relocated to Lubbock. And no doubt all of these Holly fans continue to regard 1979 as the year Lubbock came of age, the first year a Buddy Holly Memorial Concert (featuring Waylon Jennings and The Crickets) was held and the year artist Grant Speed was commissioned to sculpt a lifesize bronze statue of Holly to be erected near the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

The statue was unveiled the following year, with Roy Orbison and Bo Diddley filling the Civic Center exhibition hall for another Holly Memorial Concert.

But this was not to be the end of the Holly celebration. Yes, there have been occasional problems in keeping the concert alive; one year found it taking place at a local nightclub, 1983 found Marshall Crenshaw performing before too many empty seats, and this year reported demands by Holly's widow kept the nonprofit West Texas Music Association from keeping the concert tradition alive.

Nevertheless, the first week of September — including Holly's birthday on Sept. 7 — continues to be treated as Buddy Holly Week by the city. Last year found the city keeping its promise to transform the area around the Holly statue into a Walk Of Fame honoring musicians hailing from Lubbock and the West Texas area. Amidst the wild revelry of '50s Dance Contests and Buddy Holly Look-Alike contests and fans heading for the Hilton Inn to catch sight of musical celebrities (some of whom arrived and some of whom did not) and '50s automobiles parading to the statue site, a formal ceremony was held by city officials.

Bronze plaques commemorating not only Holly, but Lubbock-born musician Mac Davis and Littlefield-born country star Waylon Jennings, were installed in the brick sea surrounding the elevated statue's island. And at 4 p.m. Sept. 8, three more West Texas musical artists — vocalists Jimmy Dean, of Plainview, and Ralna English, of Lubbock; and saxophonist Bobby Keys, of Slaton and Lubbock — will be inducted into the West Texas Hall Of Fame.

Tough times ahead

HOUSTON (AP) — Minority-owned oil industry suppliers were hit especially hard by the depressed petroleum industry because they lacked the necessary connections or experience needed to survive, industry experts say.

About 400 minority-owned businesses in southeast Texas failed during the past two years, more than half of them direct suppliers to the beleaguered oil industry, according to Trudy W. Berger, managing director of the Houston Business Council.

The council serves as a referral agency for minority vendors. Many of the other firms now out of business had indirect ties to the oil patch, she says.

Minorities in the oil industry have a more difficult time breaking in because many firms are formed by people who have worked in the industry, Beverly Grisby, director of the Association of Minority Contractors in Houston, says.

In addition, she says few blacks and Hispanics have experience as supervisors on rigs and predominantly black colleges have few programs in petroleum engineering.

And when times get tough, companies trim their vendors, keeping those with whom they have the oldest and strongest ties, according to one unidentified small business specialist quoted Tuesday by the Houston Chronicle.

"They take care of their buddies — it's cold-blooded but reality is not what you would have it be," the specialist, who requested anonymity, said. "The (oil) patch is somewhat chauvinistic."

George Smith says he watched sales at his company, Smith Pipe, fall from $48 million in 1980 to less than $4 million last year.

But despite the tumble, Smith's firm — ranked No. 7 in the nation among black-owned businesses in 1980 — has struggled and survived.

"Larger firms had financial strength — we didn't," Smith says.

Smith says minority firms in the oil fields don't always have the contacts enjoyed by older, more established firms.

White Weddings Are Sin And Salvation for Two Readers

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I was disappointed in your answer to "Perplexed," who refused to be her best friend's maid of honor because she didn't approve of her friend's lifestyle. (The friend was living with her fiance and getting married in a church in a white gown like a pure and innocent bride.)

Why did you have to go and say, "Church weddings are not for virgins only"?

I think it's terrible the way some girls sleep with every Tom, Dick and Harry, then get married in white wedding gowns and veils. Now along comes Dear Abby, who absolves them of their sins and gives them permission to have a church wedding regardless of what they have done.

I don't expect to see this in your column, but I had to get it off my chest.

AN INDIANA CHRISTIAN

DEAR CHRISTIAN: I'm sure there are many who would agree with you, but here's a Christian who does not:

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from "Perplexed." She didn't want to be maid of honor at her best friend's wedding because the friend wanted a church wedding with all the trimmings and she was presently living with her fiance.

Let me share my story. I am a Christian, went to church all of my life and have tried to live a good life. I became pregnant when I was 17. Christians are human, too, and make mistakes like everyone else.

Two months after our daughter was born, my fiance and I had a big church wedding with all the trimmings. It was the first marriage for both of us. We wanted to be married in church and start our marriage in the best possible way by asking God to become a part of our marriage and our life.

We've been married for seven years, have a wonderful marriage and two lovely children. We attend church regularly as a family. You were right, Abby: Church weddings are not for virgins only!

I hope "Perplexed" will change her mind and be her friend's maid of honor. She shouldn't judge her friend's past. I'm sure her own past is not spotless.

DEAR ABBY: Do you know who is forcing those gross swimsuits on the women of today?

The fashion designers, that's who! They are making fools of women! Do something, Abby!

DISGUSTED IN SAN JOSE

DEAR DISGUSTED: Fashion designers can design from now until eternity, but without buyers, their wares would go the way of the Nehru jacket. (Remember?) No one can force anyone to buy anything; the success or failure of the "gross" new swimsuits will depend upon how many women are willing to grin and bare it.

DEAR ABBY: If you know where one can buy a modest bathing suit, please let me know. I am a senior citizen whose doctor has recommended swimming as a healthful exercise, but I am no Venus in a bathing suit.

I've searched all the mail-order catalogs, and the stores here and elsewhere for over a year, and have yet to find that modest one-piece suit.

Sew smart 'sweats' now

Sloppy sweats are out, spirited exercise wear is in! For the body conscious, it's brightly striped leotards, colorful tights, stylish vests, in plenty of color-combinations.

Str-r-r-r-etch your budget as well as your body and sew your own exercise wear. There are plenty of polyester and Lycra spandex blends available, according to Viking Sewing Machine Co. designers, and the pattern companies offer loads of patterns. In addition, today's sewing machines have a variety of utility stitches, to sew everything from slippery spandex to heavy cotton sweatshirt knits.

Viking's top-of-the-line Husqvarna 980 even has a computerized sewing guide that automatically selects the proper stitch for a particular fabric, after the sewer touches a button to program fabric and sewing selections.

To sew stretch cotton or polyester fabrics, use a size 11 ballpoint needle and regular sewing thread. Lighten the pressure and select a three-step zigzag stitch or a multi-stitch zigzag.

For the decorative lettuce-leaf edging, use a simple zigzag stitch on the cross grain of the fabric. This gives a pretty, fluted edge for a diagonal ruffle on a leotard or bathing suit.

In sewing exercise wear, be especially careful to follow pattern layout instructions. Double check direction of stretch in the fabric, so you don't end up with a too-short pair of tights. Remember, too, to pre-shrink fabric, elastic and trims, to eliminate shrinkage and fading.

Getting help with the chores often difficult

By REDBOOK
A Hearst Magazine

Working wives are burning out, blowing up and battling away in a largely unsuccessful attempt to convince their husbands to help with domestic chores.

Today, 66 percent of all women with chidren work outside the home, according to an article on getting husbands to help in the September issue of Redbook. But most of these women also are stuck with the same household responsibilities that kept their non-working mothers busy.

"Everyone's in favor of equality, but not too many men are doing anything about it," says Dr. Robert E. Gould, professor of psychiatry at New York Medical College. "If Supermom has to keep on doing everything, she's going to burn out."

Husbands come equipped with a standard list of excuses. The favorites are:

"There's something else I reallyhave to do."

"In a minute."

"I don't know where it is."

"I don't know how."

"But I already helped yesterday."

"Don't waste time trying to change your husband," says Laurie J. Bilik of Bilik Associates, a behavorial science consultant firm. "Change something you know you can change, yourself and the way you communicate."

Bilik's strategy starts with the wife giving up control of the house.

"This is the first step, and the most important," Bilik says. "It may sound easy, but it's not."

Giving up control means abandoning your own standards of cleanliness for your husband's. If he wants to do the dishes only once a week, let him.

Don't play martyr. When help is offered, accept it.

Try a new vocabulary — neither so aggressive it arouses hostility nor so timid it gets ignored. Warren Farrell, author of "The Liberated Man," advises, "Sit down with your husband. Be calm. Pull out all the old humanistic buzz words. Say, 'I feel bad about the housework. My problem is, I don't have enough time.'"

Praise your husband when he helps, don't criticize him. Don't treat him as if he were dumb, but give him the information he needs. Minnesota housewife Lynn Neson says you can't just tell a husband to clean the kitchen floor when it gets dirty.

"His shoes will be sticking to the linoleum," she says, "and he'll still be wondering if it's time. You have to say to him, 'I find I have to mop the floor every two days to keep it clean.'"

"There are lots of ways to get people to do things they don't want to do," says Kenneth Kaye, author of "Family Rules." "You can pay them, threaten them, cajole them, trick them. But you don't want the short-term benefits to harm your long-term relationship."

There are other ways a working wife can make life easier for herself. She can use part of her salary to pay for help. She can reassess her own standards, eliminate some of the duties she has assumed, and tell her family they will have to expect less of her.

Then there are the children. Letty Cottin Pogrebin reports in "Family Politics" that "on average, wives do 70 percent of the housework, while husbands and children each do about 15 percent."

For the wife who has reached the desperation stage there is one final alternative — strike.

"Don't do things that will punish you," Farrell advises. "If dirty dishes in the sink drive you crazy, wash them. But before you do the laundry, separate his things from the rest. Leave his clothes, unwashed, where they lie. Don't empty his trash basket. Don't give him clean bath towels.

"Most men have a high tolerance for mess, but if you stick with it, you'll succeed."

No overruff if you sluff

By James Jacoby

Although South had only 15 high-card points, his hand took on luster when North supported his hearts. Bidding game was fully justified. But declarer's play left a little bit to be desired. The king of diamonds was allowed to hold the first trick, East playing the jack. South won the diamond continuation, led to dummy's ace of hearts, came back to his hand with the king of hearts and then tried to ruff the third diamond. East overtrumped and eventually declarer had to lose two spade tricks for down one.

Since it is apparent that East will be able to trump the third diamond, a different approach should be taken for 10 tricks. Rather than ruffing the third round of diamonds, South should transfer his ruffing trick to the spade suit. Let him discard a spade from dummy on the third diamond. He can now make his tenth trick by trumping a losing spade in dummy.

Although the play of transferring the ruff from one suit to another occurs infrequently, it's a good play to know. Whenever declarer cannot gain by ruffing in dummy because of an impending overruff, he should determine which opponent he prefers on lead, and play accordingly.

Alan Crittenden, editor of "The Almanac of Investments," says that while Olympic commemorative coins help the U.S. Olympic teams, they are a poor investment. He says 1984 Olympic silver coins have a face value of $1 but sell for $38, while 1984 Olympic gold coins have a $10 face value but sell for $376. Even their value as collector's coins is low because the large number that will be minted insures that rarity will not come overnight, if at all, says Crittenden.

Prosecutor has resigned

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas County prosecutors are conducting an investigation into the arrest of a high-ranking assistant district attorney for allegedly soliciting a prostitute, officials say.

Kenneth Dean Carden, 36, chief felony prosecutor, resigned after he was jailed Friday night for allegedly offering an undercover police officer posing as a prostitute $100 for a sex act, said police Sgt. T.E. Williams of the Vice Control Division.

Carden, a wheelchair-bound attorney, gained national attention as chief prosecutor in the initial trial of Lenell Geter, an E-Sytems engineer who was wrongly convicted of armed robbery in Greenville.

Carden did not deny Tuesday he offered the woman money but said he was working on an investigation of the murder of a pimp. He said he planned to tell the woman he was a prosecutor once she was with him and then elicit information from her in exchange for not pressing charges.

He was arrested at the scene. Police say they confiscated a loaded .45-caliber handgun and sex devices from his car. Police said he only had $2.20 with him and had the case file on the murder of the pimp with him.

Although Dallas District Attorney Henry Wade accepted Carden's resignation, Carden could be reinstated depending on the investigation, Wade said.

"The case is being investigated. He (Carden) may be reinstated pending the outcome of the case," said Wade in a statement released from Colorado, where he is vacationing.

A top assistant to Wade, Norman Kinne, told the Dallas Times Herald Wade's office is considering giving Carden a polygraph examination.

Carden had been working on a murder case when he was arrested, said Assistant District Attorney Ryder Scott.

"I can assure you there is another side to the story," Scott said.

Carden told the Herald he was investigating a case. He said investigators sometimes get information from prostitutes by pretending to offer them money for sex, and then identifying themselves as prosecutors.

But Carden said he may have erred by not telling police or other officials about his intentions.

"I think I've overstepped my bounds on investigating this case," he said.

Carden said he did not know what job he would seek if Wade did not reinstate him but said a job as a defense attorney was out of the question.

"I won't represent criminals," he said.

Carden was arrested on a class B misdemeanor on the solicitation charge and was released on bail Saturday, officials said.

Scott said Carden was paralyzed from the waist down from a motorcycle accident while he was serving in the U.S. Army. He went to law school after his accident, practiced private law briefly, then joined the district attorney's office about five years ago, Scott said.

"The Almanac of Investments" reports that during World War II, General Motors curtailed its production of automobiles in order to manufacture 500,000 M-3 machine guns, 500,000 propeller blades for military aircraft, 31,010 tanks, tank destroyers and armored cars, and 740,000 military trucks.

Change of venue is requested

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A federal judge will decide whether moving the trial of a Sanctuary Movement leader out of South Texas will enable him to get a fair trial.

U.S. District Judge Hayden Head Jr. Tuesday said he would take a change of venue request under advisement in the case of Jack Elder, who is charged in a three count federal indictment of transporting illegal aliens.

Meanwhile, Head postponed jury selection in Elder's trial, which was scheduled to begin next Monday.

Elder, 40, is accused of transporting undocumented Salvadorans from the Casa Oscar Romero halfway house in San Benito, where he is director, to a bus station in Harlingen five miles away. If convicted, he faces up to 15 years in prison and a $6,000 fine.

One witness testified Tuesday that a survey indicated it would be difficult for Elder to get a fair trial in the Southern District of Texas.

Defense witness Diane Wiley of the Minnesota-based National Jury Project told the federal judge that she and her staff had surveyed 100 Corpus Christi residents selected from a list of past jurors.

Ms. Wiley said survey results showed that 92 percent of those polled already had an opinion on Elder's guilt or innocence. Less than 65 percent of those surveyed said they felt they could be fair and 87 percent expressed negative attitudes toward the movement, she said.

Elder has been a leader in a nationwide sanctuary effort that offers assistance to Salvadoran immigrants fleeing violence in their homeland. He has also been an outspoken critic of U.S. policy in that region.

Last year he quit his teaching job in San Antonio and became director of Casa Oscar Romero, a church-sponsored refugee halfway house.

The telephone survey, with a 4 to 10 percent margin of error, cost $1,500 and was funded by the Rio Grande Valley Defense Fund, set up to pay Elder's court costs and legal fees.

Ms. Wiley said survey questions were designed to determine juror attitudes in four areas: Opinions on illegal aliens, knowledge of and contact with the Border Patrol and the Immigration and Naturalization Service, awareness of and attitudes toward the sanctuary movement and predisposition toward Elder.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Berg questioned the objectivity of the defense-funded survey.

He charged Ms. Wiley with wording the questions to prejudice those sampled. Under cross-examination, Ms. Wiley said she had not conducted a similar survey in any other community and did not know if attitudes and opinions would be any different.

The survey also measured juror awareness of another sanctuary trial earlier this year, that of church worker Stacey Lynn Merkt, a volunteer at the Casa Oscar Romero halfway house.

Ms. Merkt, 29, was convicted of conspiring to transport Salvadoran illegal aliens. Ms. Merkt, 29, was sentenced in June to two years probation.

Hearings will be scheduled later this month on other motions in Elder's case.

Teen's rape shocks man's foster mother

DALLAS (AP) — Birdie Jackson plans to continue helping people, but the foster mother admits the rape of a 17-year-old handicapped girl by a man she helped raise "makes it hurt all the more."

Mrs. Jackson, who has raised 435 orphaned children in the past 40 years, said she witnessed the 3 a.m. attack Tuesday and spent the day talking with police investigators and state welfare officials.

"This doesn't change my opinion about helping people. I still have to do what I can and help them as far as I can go," she said in an interview with the Dallas Times Herald.

But officials at the Birdie Jackson Foundation said they will start collecting contributions to offer a reward for information leading to the intruder.

"There's no way to describe the lowness of what he did," said J.R. Edmonds, a South Dallas business owner and a foundation director. "I'm determined that by Sunday he'll be in jail or he'll be on his knees telling the Lord what he did."

Mrs. Jackson, 64, said she woke up early Tuesday to the screams of one of her girls, most of whom are placed with her by the Dallas County Department of Human Resources.

She said she ran to the teenager's bedroom and saw her 27-year-old daughter Cheryl struggling with a man who was assaulting a 17-year-old afflicted with Cerebral Palsy.

She said they tried holding the man until police came but could not do so.

Mrs. Jackson said she recognized the man as a foster child she had sheltered for less than a year when he was a teenager in the 1960s.

She said the man was removed from her house and sent to a juvenile detention home for stealing.

Japenese films on World War II

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — World War II was the subject of many Japanese films made during and after the war, but Japanese attitudes toward the conflict were portrayed quite differently during these two periods, says William B. Hauser.

He says wartime films lauded unquestioning service to the military, war production, or overseas expansion.

Paul Harvey

The book, "Prodigal Daughter," was written by a former member of Britain's Parliament, Jeffrey Archer — but it is about us.

It is supposed to be fiction, nothing more.

But the author is now claiming uncanny insight: "I told you so!" he says.

What he means is that in his book a President of the United States dies and his Vice President becomes our country's first female president.

President Reagan has said he expects to live to see a woman President.

Some women are helping us get used to the idea.

Liz Dole handles authority beautifully.

Kentucky has a phenomenally effective woman governor.

San Francisco has a woman mayor who has managed to embrace that polyglot population, balance the city budget and reduce taxes!

And Geraldine Ferraro, whether she wins or loses the office she seeks, is running interference for others of her gender.

Presently, when she shares a public platform with Mr. Mondale, it creates an awkard situation.

He cannot be deferential to her as he would be to any other woman in the world.

She cannot be subservient as any man in that position would have to be; she may be neither aggressive nor subordinate.

In any debate with George Bush he is constrained to be more polite than in a verbal joust with a male opponent.

And all this is requiring some accommodation, some adapting, by candidates and constitutents. They're allowed no hugging or kissing. They must walk side by side so that neither goes first.

Women in the future will have it easier — as Britain's Maggie Thatcher has come gradually to be accepted by her peers as a peer ... almost.

But the transition is difficult at best.

Geraldine Ferraro is going to have to be tough to prevail against two centuries of precendent.

Already, her presence on the Mondale ticket has had substantive political impact.

The unprecedented showcasing of women at the GOP convention in Dallas was no happenstance.

Forty-four percent of the delegates were women, compared to 30 percent four years ago.

The keynoter was a woman, Katherine Ortega.

Democrat U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick and HHS Secretary Margaret Heckler were chosen to run back the Mondale-Ferraro Kickoff — at least to midfield.

Inevitable evolution has been accelerated by the Ferraro nomination.

The odds are good that you won't be hospitalized this year, reports the Health Insurance Association of America. Only one in nine people is hospitalized each year, it says. Women are more likely to spend time in hospitals than men: about 194 out of 1,000 is hospitalized each year compared to 139 out of 1,000 men.

Texas shrimpers challenged

DALLAS (AP) — Texas shrimpers are rapidly losing their share of the U.S. marketplace to imports from South American fish farms, and the head of the state's shrimp association says the industry's survival is at stake.

In the last 10 years, foreign imports have grown from 50 percent of all shrimp eaten in the United States to 73 percent, said Ralph Rayburn, executive director of the Texas Shrimp Association in Austin.

"Probably the greatest challenge that we face in the next five years is from farms established in underdeveloped countries like Ecuador, Colombia, Costa Rica and Brazil," Rayburn told the Dallas Times Herald.

"It will be a challenge for domestic harvesters of shrimp to continue to exist."

About $1.4 billion worth of shrimp is consumed annually in the United States, more than any other seafood.

The price of Gulf Coast shrimp landed on Texas docks from Brownsville to Galveston currently is $3 a pound, $1.25 less than last year's prices, the Times Herald said.

The National Marine Fisheries Service predicts that in 1984, Texas shrimpers will harvest 50 million tons of shrimp. But the value of the catch will be approximately $15 million less than 1982's harvest. That year, 44.5 million tons of shrimp were harvested at a value of $175.6 million.

Armand Farley, statistical agent with the National Marine Fisheries Service in Galveston, said foreign imports are to blame. But he believes imports have a stabilizing influence on the market.

"Heavy imports have more to do with it than anything else," Farley said. "But if it were not for imports, shrimp would be $8 per pound and nobody could buy it."

Although the price of shrimp traditionally has fluctuated from year to year, shrimp prices have gone up more than 500 percent since 1967, twice the rate of inflation measured by the Consumer Price Index.

Restaurant owners differ in their opinions of foreign farm-bred shrimp.

"It's small, white and tasteless," said Jan Lovell, owner of seafood restaurant in Dallas. "The shrimp you get in natural waters tends to be pink and tends to be large. As a restaurant operator and owner, I feel lilke the best shrimp we can get for our purpose is the Gulf shrimp."

"We do not use imported shrimp," said Errol Ratcliffe, another Dallas restuarant owner. "For what we do, the quality is not there, so we do not buy it."

But Ratcliffe believes imports are beneficial to consumers.

"I'm very much against limiting the imports," he said. "The fishing industry is the most deregulated industry already, and the only strong arm we have on the shrimpers ... to keep from creating a monopoly situation, is imports."

Rayburn argues that because foreign governments subsidize their shrimp industries, foreign shrimp costs an average of $1 to $1.50 less when they are delivered to the United States than the same category of shrimp in Texas.

Rayburn said that Texas shrimpers would like the U.S. government to limit imports, allowing only the amount needed to come into the country.

Guard fired after knife incident

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A Texas Department of Corrections guard was fired for allegedly lending a knife to a convict who apparently used the weapon to threaten and rape a female guard, a prison spokesman said.

Gustav Kirschstein, who was suspended about two weeks ago, was told this weekend he was fired, prison spokesman Phil Guthrie confirmed Tuesday.

Kirschstein, 56, was a guard at TDC's Ramsey II Unit near Rosharon, about 30 miles south of Houston, prison officials said.

Kirschtein allegedly gave a knife to convicted rapist Richard "Ricky" Sisto, 35, who took a female guard hostage in a pill dispensing room at the unit and raped her, prison officials said.

The guard was locking the pill room and had the key in the unlocked door when Sisto entered, broke the key and pulled the knife, John Blankenship of the Brazoria County Sheriff's Department said last week.

Blankenship said investigators determined the woman was held against her will and was raped.

VOTER INFORMATION SHEET

1. Although a signature and address is required on each ballot, this information is confidential. Only the canvassing committee will have access to the ballots, and after counting they are placed in a closed container which may not be opened without a court order. How a person votes and the extent of his production is completely confidential!

2. Ballots will be counted by a committee consisting of a county judge, a representative of the Texas Extension Service, a repsentative of the Scurry County Producers Association, and a representative of the Texas Department of Agriculture. Results will then be certified to the Commissioner of Agriculture for verification.

3. Voter Eligibility. The law states all producers are eligible to vote in these elections - a producer is defined as anyone who produces or has a share in the production of cotton. In practice, anyone who would have to pay the proposed assessment in his own name is eligible. However,it is not the intent of the act to have two votes allowed on the same production.

4. The ballot includes both a referendum proposition and a commodity producers board election. An individual voter may vote for board members regardless of whether he votes "for" or "against" the referendum proposition. He may also vote for board members if he declines to indicate any preference at all on the referendum proposition.

5. Please verify your production in numbers of bales of cotton grown in 1983. Also do not vote for more than 12 board members, including write-in votes.

6. Each individual who votes must complete either section A or section B at the bottom of the ballot. If production in the case of any person was on a share basis, he should verify only that portion that represents his share. If anyone is unable to give his production in specific terms, he should estimate as closley as possible.

7. If voting absentee the ballot must be postmarked or returned to the county agents office before midnite, September 4,1984, to be a valid ballot.

8. Be sure to sign your ballot by normal signature and print your name and full address in the appropriate space at the bottom of the ballot. A ballot musthave your signature and verification of production to be a valid ballot.

9. Ballots will be canvassed and the results made known on September 12.

Be sure before stopping Pill

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 50 and resumed taking birth-control pills three years ago. They never bothered me before, but now my periods have been getting closer and closer and I get more migraine headaches at the end of each period.

My doctor says I could get pregnant, so I keep taking the Pill. This is a second marriage and I have never been pregnant. My first marriage was not sexually satisfying, but this one really is. I am not in a position to support a child and, at 50, do not wish to become pregnant anyway.

Is there much of a chance of getting pregnant now? I wish I didn't have to keep taking these birth-control pills.

DEAR READER — Unless a woman has definitely completed the menopause and has definitely quit ovulating, she certainly can get pregnant. That is why your doctor is being cautious. There is no rule that works all the time, but a general guideline is that if a woman is past 52 and has not menstruated for more than two years, she is unlikely to get pregnant. Of course, if you are taking birth-control pills and stop them with each cycle to induce menstruation, it might be difficult to know that you are no longer menstruating. So it is not time for you to throw caution to the winds.

Just because you have migraine headaches and take birth-control pills does not prove that the pills cause them. Of course, this can be the case — but migraines are frequent enough and the use of the Pill common enough that a woman may have both, even if they aren't related. But you may wish to stop birth-control pills long enough to find out. If you have migraines for another reason, you need to do more than just stop using birth-control pills.

You may want to use some other form of birth control. You may be able to use the temperature cycle as outlined in The Health Letter 17-2, Female Reproduction Function, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Several years ago I had a growth cut off my lower lip. Since then, I have occasionally had a little white spot an inch or so from there. It disappears in a few days. Lately it comes more often and doesn't go away for long. The doctor says it is leukoplakia and wants to remove it with surgery. I suggested burning it off, but he said, "Then we wouldn't know what it was." Do you think it would hurt to remove it by burning it off?

DEAR READER — Your doctor is right. A leukoplakia is a white spot that is precancerous. They are tricky. It is very important to establish the diagnosis in order to provide the proper treatment. What looks like a leukoplakia may already be a cancer. In that case, you need to be sure that all of the area is adequately removed. Your doctor could biopsy the area, but then you would still have to do something about removing the rest of it, and since it is small, surgery is probably wise.

You should ask why these are occurring. Irritation from ill-fitting dentures can be a factor. So can poor oral hygiene, hot, spicy foods and pipe smoking. If there is an identifiable factor, it should be eliminated, particularly with your history.

New laws, enforcement is suggested for child abuse

AUSTIN (AP) — The state should consider some new laws to fight an increase in child abuse in Texas, including a surcharge on marriage licenses and forcing spouses to testify against each other, legislators are being told.

Attorney General Jim Mattox, testifying Tuesday before the joint legislative Committee on Child Abuse and Pornography, said the immunity granted one spouse from testifying against another is "a major obstacle to the successful prosecution of child abusers."

However, Mattox said, "I am confident that no one who supported spousal immunity when it was first included in our legal code years and years ago ever anticipated that it would become a way to protect child murderers or wife beaters."

Gerald Hill, an aide to Gov. Mark White, told the committee that the number of child abuse cases is growing.

"It's amazing, but it's true, that the number of child abuse cases reported between 1976 and 1982 have more than doubled," he said.

Hill said legislation to combat child abuse and neglect "is an important part of the administration's program" which will be proposed to the Legislature next year.

Hill and Laura Tynes of Waco, state president of the Texas PTA, both recommended that the Legislature consider establishing a children's trust fund.

Mrs. Tynes said such a fund could be created from a marriage license surcharge "with the very specific purpose of improving the lives of our children through the prevention of child abuse and neglect."

Mattox said tht under current state law, one spouse may testify against the other only in cases of assault or violence against any child of either spouse.

"Prosecutors find that many cases of child abuse involve nieces, nephews, foster children or other youngsters who are not the child of either spouse. Under current law, spouses cannot testify against each other in these cases even when they want to," Mattox said.

Mattox proposed eliminating a spouse's immunity from testimony in cases of assault or violence against any member of a household.

Such a change, he said, "would allow the law to address any form of abuse within the home, be it abuse of a child, a spouse or an elderly parent."

He also suggested the law be changed which currently limits a spouse to testifying only about acts which he or she witnessed.

"They cannot testify about conversations. Thus, a spouse who was absent and who returned to find a child injured or dead, and the mate admitted that he or she had done it, cannot testify to this," he said.

Also testifying was Mike Weaver of Austin, representing the group Citizens Against Pornography, who said the easy availability of pornographic materials has contributed to the increase in child abuse cases.

"Seven out of 10 pornographic magazines end up in the hands of a child," Weaver said. "The adult community is simply overlooking a problem that exists at the convenience store level."

Weaver said cable television now frequently includes channels which carry pornographic films into the home.

He said his group believes laws currently on the books to prohibit exposure of harmful materials to minors would cover such situations if authorities would enforce the laws.

"What we want is for legislation that already exists to be enforced," he said.

Ohio student happy with his experiment

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A crystal growth experiment devised for space shuttle Discovery by an 18-year-old Newbury, Ohio, student worked well even though it shut down after blowing a series of electrical fuses.

Shawn Murphy, a freshman student at Hiram College in Hiram, Ohio, said the experiment that he created was "a tremendous success."

"I think we got exactly what we wanted," he said Tuesday, just before flying to Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., to witness Discovery's return from space today.

Murphy's experiment tested a method of creating a crystal in the weightlessness of orbit. The experiment caused a crystal material called indium to be melted and then cooled while suspended in a heat chamber. The crystal was coated, or doped, with thallium.

The idea of the test, said Murphy, was to develop a crystal that was more pure and more uniformly doped with thallium than it is possible to make on Earth. The space crystal will be compared with one that was made in an identical manner on the ground.

Rockwell International sponsored the student experiment and spent about $100,000 on the study, according to Mike Martin of Rockwell.

The experiment operated about 2½ hours, said Martin, before it blew a series of fuses and was shutdown. He said the fuses were set at a very sensitive level, as a safety measure, and it was expected that several of them would trip, shutting down power to the experiment.

Injuries plague pro ranks; Warner could miss season

by The Associated Press

The Seattle Seahawks, who with a 3-1 preseason and a 33-0 victory to open the regular season were on a run, will run henceforth without Curt Warner.

Exploratory arthroscopic surgery was performed Tuesday on the right knee of Warner, who led American Football Conference rushers with 1,449 yards in his rookie season last year.

The Seahawks didn't like what the surgeons saw - ligament damage requiring immediate surgery that will likely end Warner's season.

"The doctors expect a good recovery," said Seahawks spokesman Gary Wright. "However, we are taking a conservative approach. We expect him to be out for the season."

Warner injured the knee when he cut on the Kingdome's artificial turf in Monday's triumph over the Cleveland Browns.

The San Francisco 49ers head into Monday's game with the Washington Redskins with several defensive injuries.

Torn knee ligaments have ended the year for defensive end Jeff Stover, who was starting in place of holdout Fred Dean. The 49ers were forced to waive third-string quarterback Bryan Clark in order to add veteran defensive lineman Greg Boyd to the roster.

San Francisco also said it would be without cornerback Eric Wright from three to five weeks because of a strained left knee. Their other starting cornerback, Ronnie Lott, will try to play with a sprained ankle.

The Dallas Cowboys reported that Tony Hill, their top wide receiver, suffered a shoulder separation in their 20-13 victory over the Los Angeles Rams and will be lost for from four to six weeks.

That leaves Dallas with only three wide receivers for Sunday's clash with the New York Giants - Doug Donley, Kirk Phillips and Mike Renfro.

Two backup quarterbacks will likely see action this week.

Pittsburgh quarterback David Woodley, who suffered a concussion in the Steelers' 37-20 loss to the Kansas City Chiefs, will miss Thursday night's game with the New York Jets. He will be replaced by Mark Malone.

Tigers top 'Dogs; ready for district

Coach Penny Bane's Tigers came up with a big win here last evening that hopefully will carry over into the District 2-4A campaign.

The Tigers trimmed Midland High in three games, winning 15-3, 9-15 and 15-5.

"It was an excellent match," said the coach. "Both Karlene Thompson and Donna Anderson had some key offensive plays and good blocks. Sabrina Sullivan did a good job as our setter. Hope Hernandez, Kima McLarty and Allison Adams had a good defensive match. Gina Vaughn saw action on the front line and scored a few points for us. It was a timely win right before the start of district."

The win gives Snyder a 5-7 record as they board the bus for Fort Stockton on Saturday. Match times are 2 for the junior varsity and 3 p.m. for the varsity.

Anderson and Sullivan had five points apiece in the first varsity game while Kima McLarty put across three in the second game and Anderson and Hernandez had four each in the third.

Snyder junior varsity stumbled in its bid to defeat the Lady Bulldogs, 15-6, 14-16, 11-15.

The Cats, 4-3, were led in serving by Monica Hinojos and Sharnette Thompson with four points in the first game; Shondra Robinson with eight in the second game and Hinojos with four again in the third game.

"They (Snyder girls) just let up, didn't play consistantly and let Midland come back and beat us," said Coach Bane.

Moerschell switched to tailback position

AUSTIN (AP) - Rob Moerschell, the Texas Longhorns' starting quarterback for nine games last season, on Tuesday was switched to tailback in a move to bolster the team's running back situation, Coach Fred Akers said.

Moerschell, a 5-foot-9, 183-pound senior from Dallas, had gained a reputation as a fine runner but average passer during his first three years at Texas. He had returned punts his first two seasons and started all but the Houston, Texas Christian and Cotton Bowl games as UT's quarterback last season.

"We put Rob at tailback today because we are getting really thin there. He's a great competitor and he's a fine runner," Akers said. "He wants to get to a position where he can play and we are to the point where we need to get our best football players on the field."

The Longhorns open against Auburn Sept. 15 in Austin.

Moerschell has battled for the starting quarterback role at Texas for two years with Port Arthur junior Todd Dodge. Akers' senior son, Danny, and Belton freshman redshirt Bret Stafford are also competing for the job this year.

At tailback, projected starter Edwin Simmons is out indefinitely with a knee injury while Michael Brown, Anthony Byerly and Norman Nunn, the three preseason depth chart hominees, are all out with various leg strains.

Teaff opts for Francis

WACO, Texas (AP) - Baylor Coach Grant Teaff announced Tuesday that sophomore Ron Francis, a former cornerback, will start at tailback Saturday against Brigham Young University.

Francis, a starting defensive back in 1982, beat out Ralph Stockemer, Robert Williams and Derrick McAdoo for the starting role.

Teaff also said both quarterbacks Tom Muecke and Cody Carlson would play in the first period against BYU but declined to name a starter.

BYU upset Pittsburgh 20-14 last week and Teaff said, "They will have the added advantage of already playing a game. I'm glad they beat Pittsburgh because I wouldn't want to play them after a loss."

Cowboys receiver out with separated shoulder

DALLAS (AP) - Wide receiver Tony Hill will be out of the Dallas Cowboys' lineup at least a month because of a separated right shoulder suffered in Monday night's 20-13 National Football League victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

"Tony will be out four to six weeks," said Doug Todd, the Cowboys' public relations director. "He got hurt in the first half while catching a pass."

The Cowboys will face the New York Giants Sunday with only three wide receivers, Doug Donley, Kirk Phillips and Mike Renfro, unless they can make a trade or pickup a free agent.

Dallas didn't arrive home until 4 a.m. Tuesday and will have to travel to New York Saturday.

The Cowboys are the only team in the NFL this season with a Monday night road game and another road contest the following Sunday.

"It's going to be tough," said Landry. "We won't be back to normal until Friday then we have to leave the next day."

The Cowboys cancelled Landry's weekly Tuesday press luncheon because of the late arrival from California.

Cubs extend lead to seven with help of Cey home run

by The Associated Press

The Chicago Cubs have passed their first test of the final month.

Ron Cey homered for the second straight day and Scott Sanderson managed to scatter 13 hits as the Cubs beat the Philadelphia Phillies 7-2 Tuesday night, extending their lead in the National League East to seven games over New York.

The Cubs did it by knocking out Philadelphia ace Steve Carlton, and the impressive victory may have knocked the Phillies out of the pennant chase.

"This is not the time to get cocky," warned Sanderson after Chicago had finished sweeping the two-game series at Veterans Stadium. "But if we had come in here and they won two in a row, it would have given them confidence to get the ball rolling for them."

Instead, Chicago ran its record in September to 4-0 and, coupled with the Mets' 12-2 defeat in St. Louis, helped the Cubs take their biggest lead of the season. Third-place Philadelphia is 10½ games behind.

The victory came on the same day Chicago received permission from the baseball commissioner's office to start printing playoff tickets, and although it may be early to start counting such things, the Cubs magic number to eliminate the Mets is now 18.

In other NL games, Los Angeles edged San Diego 2-1, Pittsburgh rallied past Montreal 5-3, Atlanta clubbed Houston 8-7 and Cincinnati rolled by San Francisco 8-3. Cardinals 12, Mets 2

In St. Louis, George Hendrick went 4-for-5 and drove in four runs, Tom Nieto belted a two-run homer and had a pair of singles, Tommy Herr doubled twice and singled, and Lonnie Smith had three singles.

It added to a 17-hit assault that powered St. Louis over New York.

The Mets enjoyed a brief 2-0 lead in the first inning on Darryl Strawberry's 20th homer before the Cardinals went to work against Sid Fernandez, now 4-4.

Danny Cox picked up the win. He's 7-10.

AL West race hot one; Royals prevent sweep

by The Associated Press

First it was the Minnesota Twins breathing a sigh of relief and then the Kansas City Royals took their turn as the hot American League West race continued to be the only real scramble left this season in major league baseball.

Twenty-four hours earlier, Minnesota Manager Billy Gardner was talking about the need for his Twins, who entered the important three-game series with five straight losses, to win one from the Royals. Round one went to the Twins, 4-1, and their lead grew to two games.

Now, it was Tuesday night, and Kansas City second baseman Frank White, whose sixth-inning single drove in the go-ahead run in a 4-1 victory by the Royals, was holding court.

"You just don't want to get swept," White was explaining, almost as if his script had been written by Gardner. "Now, if we win tomorrow, we're in a tie for first place, and that makes it that much more interesting.

"This is what baseball's all about," said White, who added that California, only a game behind the second-place Royals, also was not to be overlooked.

Kansas City's Mark Gubicza, 10-11, scattered seven hits over 8 2-3 innings and got last-out help from Dan Quisenberry, who collected his 37th save.

Minnesota starter Ken Schrom, 4-8, yielded only one hit through the first five innings before Darryl Motley singled to left with one out in the sixth.

Gambling can be dangerous

By John Cunniff
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Most people recognize the need for prudent risk in running a corporation, but what is seldom talked about and directly faced is the chief executive officer who is a gambler.

The trait can be disastrous. Gambling chief execs were partly responsible for calamities at Braniff Airlines, Penn Square and Continental Illinois banks, some savings and loans, and the disastrous foray of RCA into videodisc players.

"There are not many gambling chief executive officers, but more perhaps than the public is aware of," says Professor Eugene Jennings, whose business and research take him into close contact with chairmen and presidents.

Gambling, he stresses, is much different than prudent risk-taking.

The latter, he observes, involves planning, strategy and executive action to narrow the gap between certainty and risk, whereas the gambler relies on enthusiasm and desire.

Prudent risk-takers enjoy a challenge, which to their way of thinking is something that involves 10 percent or less possibility of failure. Challenge bores a gambler, who is driven by a desire to make spectacular breakthroughs.

The gambler believes that even a bad idea can be made to work if he and others believe in it with sufficient intensity. He believes he can coerce action from desire, rather than respond to opportunity by planning.

Ominously, he often cannot be spotted until he lands in the top job.

Jennings, a psychologist as well as professor of business administration at Michigan State University, says that early in the CEO's career the tendency is controlled by bureaucracy, policy and a desire to demonstrate prudence.

"He breaks out of those wrappings at the top," says Jennings. "There he has lots of discretionary authority and judgment."

At that point, few boards of directors know what to look for when a gambling instinct surfaces because, says the professor, it can be hidden by business jargon and planning mimicry.

Jennings, a confidential adviser to many corporate chairmen and boards, says "I have seen gamblers go through sophisticated planning procedures to hide from the board the true risks involved."

The gambler, he said, should not be confused with the ignorant person who is unaware of the true risks involved. Or with the CEO who becomes aware of the risks but who lacks the decisiveness to pull back in time.

If the gambler succeeds on one or two ventures, says Jennings, he will become confirmed in his addiction, just as certainly as people become addicted to Las Vegas or Atlantic City slot machines.

"High stakes and great uncertainty merely feed the gambler's desire to bowl over the forces that would dare to defy his ambition," he comments.

Thus, he explains, the gambler believes that if fortune does not shine on him it is because of the roll of the dice. He not only believes in fortune but relies on it to bring his dreams to pass.

In Jennings' opinion, there persists a vast fallacy in the belief that risk-addicted executives built America. Great executives, he suggests, don't need risk when they can far more effectively plan their way to success.

"There are far more opportunities that can be effectively plucked which require little risk," he says. These opportunities, he adds, can and regularly do help corporations renew themselves.

According to Jennings, what is needed to revitalize and renew companies isn't the risk instinct but chief executives of vision.

"IBM's PCjr required vision rather than risk," he says.

Tougher now to buy home

By The Associated Press

As the government attributed an increase in construction partly to the building boom, many people find it tougher to buy a home.

The industry group Tuesday unveiled its latest "affordability index," reporting that in July the typical family earning $25,583 had just 83.3 percent of the income needed to qualify for an 80 percent mortgage on a home costing $74,700, the median.

July was the third straight month housing has become less affordable, the realtors reported Tuesday. The index, at 83.3, had dropped 2.3 points from June.

The group calculates the index each month by comparing the maximum mortgage a median-income family could obtain with the cost of a median-priced home.

Half the nation's families earn more than the median income and half earn less; likewise, half the homes cost more than the median and half cost less.

The group said the typical family would have qualified if mortgage interest rates were 2.3 percentage points below July's average effective interest rate of 12.54 percent.

A family at the median income would have qualified for an 80 percent loan on a $62,000 home, under the standards established by the Federal National Mortgage Association.

The realtors said more than 33 percent of the homes sold in July went for prices below $60,000.

The Commerce Department reported Tuesday that new construction rose 0.7 percent in July and attributed the rise largely to the pace set by apartment and office buildings.

Total construction spending rose to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $311.4 billion, Commerce said. The slight rise followed a decline of 0.5 percent in June.

Construction activity has slowed in recent months following monthly increases early in the year of as much as 6.9 percent. Economists blame the slowdown on rising interest rates.

In other economic developments Tuesday:

—Nestle SA's acquisition of Carnation Co. for more than $3 billion in cash would be the largest acquisition ever of a food company, said W.T. Grimm & Co., a merger and acquisitions consultant in Chicago. Carnation, a Los Angeles dairy-products company, announced that its board of directors unanimously approved the offer and recommended that its shareholders accept the $83-a-share bid.

—Ford Motor Co. said it told its dealers to expect no increase in the base prices of its two smallest cars in 1985, and increases in the base prices of most other models ranging from less than 1 percent to 6.5 percent. General Motors Corp. has announced tentative price increases for its 1985 base models averaging 2.3 percent; Chrysler Corp., 1.7 percent; and American Motors Corp., 4.1 percent.

—The government sold $13.2 billion in new securities — half in three-month bills at an average discount rate of 10.63 percent, up from last week's 10.6 percent, and half in six-month bills at an average discount rate of 10.75 percent, up from 10.7 percent.

On Dec. 27, 1776, the Continental Congress granted George Washington dictatorial powers for six months, the same day that he had won the Battle of Trenton. He had been chosen commander-in-chief in 1775 when the War of Independence began.

Early release program probed

DALLAS (AP) — As an early-release program begins to empty some state mental hospital beds, several state officials and family members say they're worried that it's too much too soon, the Dallas Times Herald reported Tuesday.

Peggy Kickirillo, for instance, says she believes her daughter, Cynthia, almost died because she came home from Terrell State Hospital too early.

Cynthia Kickirillo, 29, was released in July after two months of treatment for drug use and depression. Three weeks later, she tried to kill herself by taking a full bottle of the pills doctors prescribed for her problem.

"I had no intentions of being straight nor any intentions of living when I got out," she said from her ward at Terrell last week. "I felt they should have known that."

Arrest follows report of theft

Snyder police arrested a 22-year-old Snyder man on a misdemeanor theft charge Tuesday evening after an apparent shoplifting incident.

City officers were called to Furr's Supermarket in the 1600 Block of 26th St. at 7:18 p.m. by store employees who reported having a juvenile shoplifter in custody.

A 12-year-old girl was taken into custody and later released to her grandparents.

The male suspect, who officers believe sent the juvenile into the business to commit the theft, was arrested on a charge of class C misdemeanor theft.

He was released from the city jail after paying a fine for the offense.

Man treated following fight

City police were called to assist sheriff's officers at a reported fight at the Cooper Apartments north of the city in the Greenhill addition at 6:50 p.m. Tuesday.

One subject was taken from the scene to Cogdell Memorial Hospital where he was treated for minor injuries and released while two other men were arrested at the scene on charges of public intoxication.

City officers also jailed one adult suspect for DWI and a 15-year-old male suspect for public intoxication late Tuesday night.

The juvenile PI suspect — who had passed out in a car at the intersection of 30th St. and College Ave. — was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital at 11:20 p.m.

Jury returns 15 indictments

$300, at Anthony's, Furr's, Everybody's and Kmart around Aug. 14.

All four checks were drawn on two Abilene businesses.

Bonds for Baxter were set at $1,500 on each count and she is reported to be in custody in the Nolan County Jail in Sweetwater on similar charges.

Ronald G. Harshbarger and Vickie Lynn Mills, both of Rt. 2, Snyder, were indicted on one count each of possession of marijuana in a quantity greater than four ounces.

Harshbarger and Mills were arrested Aug. 30 after a search of a residence northeast of Snyder on the Camp Springs Road.

Both are now free on bond with Harshbarger's bond set at $2,500 and bond for Mills set at $2,000.

Another indictment issued Tuesday named Elio R. Garza of 1600 Ave. G on a charge of tampering with a government document.

Garza, who was released after posting a $1,500 bond Tuesday afternoon, is accused of failing to report income on an application for state aide filed last January with the Texas Department of Human Resources.

Court officers sealed one of Tuesday's indictments pending the arrest of the suspect.

Other indictments issued for suspects not yet arrested included one for theft in an amount greater than $750 and less than $20,000 and one for theft in an amount greater than $200 and less than $10,000.

Both cases involved the use of worthless checks, one to pay off a bank note at the West Texas State Bank and the other to purchase a used car from Mal Donelson.

Woman lands plane with no pilot training

MIAMI (AP) — A woman whose "only thoughts" were to help her fatally stricken husband get to a hospital used radio instructions to safely land a light plane from a mile in the sky despite never having piloted before.

The Piper Cherokee with Elaine Yadwin, 61, at the controls thumped to the ground with the only damage a broken front landing gear more than an hour after her 66-year-old husband, Richard, slumped at the controls from an apparent heart attack.

The Coast Guard flew the couple to Palmetto Hospital, where Yadwin was pronounced dead on arrival, said hospital spokesman Ernie Domenech.

Another passenger, whose name was not released by authorities, at times had to hold back Yadwin's body while Mrs. Yadwin manipulated the controls.

"The only thoughts that went through my mind were, 'I've got to help him, I've got to help him.' We had to come down. He needed help," said a teary-eyed Mrs. Yadwin after her ordeal Tuesday.

Minutes before noon, Mrs. Yadwin took over the Piper Cherokee when Yadwin lost consciousness during a flight over the Everglades, said Jack Barker, a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration in Atlanta.

Sixty-three minutes later, the ordeal was over.

The Yadwins and their friend were en route to Fort Lauderdale from St. Petersburg when Yadwin collapsed.

"We're having a big problem," Mrs. Yadwin told the Miami Air Route Traffic Control Center over the radio. "I think my husband just had a stroke."

Steve Kalbaugh, 36, had just returned to the control center from lunch when he picked up Mrs. Yadwin's signal.

"Are you a pilot?" asked the controller.

"I'm not a pilot ... I've never flown before," she said from 5,500 feet.

After getting her to read him instrument positions, he determined she was on autopilot and told her to stay there.

The next problem was to determine the fuel situation.

"The left fuel tank was on zero and the right fuel tank was on 10," the controller said Mrs. Yadwin told him. "That meant that basically she would be out of gas very soon in the left tank."

Kalbaugh said he then asked controllers Wayne Roshaven and James Zeiler, both pilots experienced with Piper Cherokees, to help.

"Zeiler instructed her on how to change the fuel tank. Apparently the left tank emptied and she changed over, just as it ran out of gas," Kalbaugh said.

The friend had to hold Yadwin's body back from the controls so Mrs. Yadwin could reach the fuel tank switch.

The controllers instructed her to turn so as to stay over land, afraid that the sight of the open ocean would frighten her.

Other planes had picked up Mrs. Yadwin's frequency and offered assistance, the controllers said. But her aircraft kept disappearing in a pillow of clouds which made it difficult to pinpoint her.

Meanwhile, a close family friend, Ken Winter, was contacted and took off in his own plane to accompany and instruct Mrs. Yadwin.

Winter talked to her by radio and guided her to the Dade-Collier Jetport, chosen because of its wide runway and thin traffic.

"Just hang in there. We're going to help you, no problem," Winter said over his radio.

Under Winter's instructions, she banked toward the runway and descended. She hit the runway hard enough to break the front landing gear, then skidded off into a grass apron.

"When I told her to hit the brakes, she just pushed her foot down on everything until she found it," Winter said.

Square dance lessons offered

The Sparkle City Squares and Western Texas College will offer square dance lessons in classes meeting on Wednesday nights starting Sept. 12.

It is often difficult to pinpoint the cause of a particular case of cancer. Some cancers have multiple causes. However, certain risks are associated with specific types of cancers, according to findings by the U.S. Congress Office of Technology Assessment.

Republicans vow to keep fighting

By The Associated Press

Sen. Howell Heflin thanked Alabama Democrats for an "overwhelming" primary victory, but his Republican challenger, former Rep. Albert Lee Smith, vowed to give Alabama a second GOP senator with help from President Reagan.

"I know it's an uphill battle, but we will climb the hill," Smith declared Tuesday after defeating three other Republicans. He said the November election would present "a clear contrast between the Reagan-Smith ticket and the Mondale-Ferraro-Heflin ticket."

Also holding primaries Tuesday were Georgia, where substitute teacher John M. Hicks won the Republican senatorial primary; Florida, where the winner of a runoff between two Democrats will face Rep. Andy Ireland, who switched to the GOP party in July; and Nevada, where Republican Peggy Cavnar won the right to a rematch against Democratic incumbent Harry Reid.

And voters in Jackson, Miss., authorized a change in their city government designed to gain representation for blacks.

In Georgia, Hicks defeated pharmacist J.W. Tibbs by a 2-1 margin in a low-turnout Republican runoff for the right to face Democratic Sen. Sam Nunn. That's a dubious privilege since Nunn has the support of even the state's GOP leaders in his quest for a third term.

State Rep. Gerald Johnson won a Democratic runoff against airline pilot Bob Watson and will challenge Rep. Newt Gingrich, a leader of the young conservatives in the GOP and the only Republican in Georgia's congressional delegation.

And airline pilot Bill Bronson came out on top in a Republican runoff against marketing executive Ben Clay and will challenge Democratic Rep. Buddy Darden. Darden won a special election last year to fill the seat of Larry McDonald, one of 269 people killed when a Korean jetliner was shot down by Soviet fighter jets.

Rep. Don Fuqua of Florida won a 12th term by burying two Democratic opponents with more than 80 percent of the primary vote. He has no Republican opposition in November.

Also in Florida, Ricardo Nunez defeated fellow Cuban-American businessman Evelio Estrella in a Republican primary for a slot opposite Democratic House Chairman Claude Pepper, at 83 the nation's oldest congressman.

And an Oct. 2 runoff will determine who faces Ireland, who switched to the GOP after deciding the Democratic Party had become too liberal for him. The three-way Democratic field was topped by Manatee County Commissioner Patricia Glass and Jack Carter, a former Social Security Administration employee.

In Nevada's 1st District Mrs. Cavnar, a former state assemblywoman, swamped Richard Gilster to win the nomination to oppose Reid, who beat her in 1982.

Voters in Jackson, Miss., passed by nearly a 2-1 margin a referendum enlarging the council from two to seven members and electing them from wards instead of at-large. No black has been elected to city government since at least 1912.

In Alabama, with 3,457 of 4,407 precincts reporting, Heflin had 323,247 votes, or 83.5 percent, followed by Moulton dentist Charles Borden with 37,323 votes, or 9.6 percent, and Mrs. Frank Ross Stewart of Piedmont with 26,494 votes, or 6.8 percent.

Smith got 58 percent of the vote in the four-man Republican field.

"I am extremely gratified by the overwhelming vote I have received," said Heflin. "I am pleased and grateful for the confidence the people of Alabama have placed in me."

Republicans hope to oust Heflin, a former Alabama Supreme Court chief justice, in a repeat of 1980, when Reagan's coattails made Jeremiah Denton the state's first Republican senator this century.

Mislabeled cans proving popular

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Dr Pepper soft-drink officials are trying to recall cans of their soda marked with Arabic lettering, but a reluctant distributor says he's not about to give up "the best marketing tool" he's ever had.

At issue are cans of the soda that mistakenly have tops on which the ingredients are written in Arabic. When word of the cans with the mysterious markings got out they became a hot item among collectors and the just plain curious.

But officials of the Dallas-based firm have ordered that sales of all cans bearing Arabic markings be stopped and the irregular cans sent back to the Reserve, La., plant that made them.

"We're anxious to put an embargo on those cans. I guess you would call it an Arab embargo," said Charles T. Grier, senior vice president for research and quality control.

However, a Southern Mississippi Bottling Co. official responded defiantly, "I'll tell him to stick those cans where the sun don't shine. We're selling them."

Bill Brown, vice president of the Jackson bottling firm, said he got several truckloads of the cans through a mixup with MSB Manufacturing, a Reserve, La., company that makes the drinks for Mississippi and Louisiana. Officials at the Reserve plant used the Arabic tops on a small group of cans made last month when the company temporarily ran out of domestic lids.

Brown said he can't stop sales now because those Arabic squiggles, which describe the ingredients in each can, have turned out to be "the best marketing tool" the local company has ever had. "And I didn't even think of it," he said.
