Senate Hears Frantic Call For Balancing

Senator Reed Warns That Gold Supply Is Being Withdrawn From United States; Run On Supply Is Feared

Raid Is Checked

Attempt At Elimination Of An Auto Levy Fails; Increase Provided By Compromise Is Largely Approved

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Sponsors of the non-partisan compromise revenue bill checked a raid on its automobile tax schedule tonight after a frantic appeal for balancing the budget to meet a world run on American gold.

Calls for support by Republican and Democratic leaders were answered after the senate had sliced $14,000,000 from the compromise bill by refusing an increase from 3 to 4 per cent in the tax on passenger automobiles.

Auto Levy Upheld

An attempt to eliminate completely the auto levy, involving $44,000,000 revenue, then was overwhelmed, 52 to 18.

The senate then lined up for the first time to approve an increase in taxes provided by the compromise measure, accepting, 38 to 34, the two per cent tax on auto parts and accessories over the one per cent voted by the house.

Sales tax advocates, claiming 43 votes now, stubbornly refused the appeal of Senator Harrison of Mississippi, Democratic tax leader, for an immediate showdown on that issue which he said was being used to help wreck the excise rates.

Dangers Pictured

Dangers of a world run on American gold were pictured by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, an administration spokesman, in appealing for a balanced budget.

"The world is making a gold run on us because it is cynical of our pledge to balance the budget," Reed said, "but we will stop it the minute we here in this room have the courage to balance our budget and vote taxes."

Earlier the senate finally settled the beer-for-revenue issue, defeating a motion to substitute a levy on 2.75 per cent beer for the numerous excise rates in the bill after spirited debate.

Robbery Clear After Arrests

Red Giles Is Returned To Old Cell At Breckenridge; Two Others Held Here; Property In Car Identified

Arrest of three men here Tuesday, including L. R. (Red) Giles, wanted at Breckenridge, Wednesday cleared up a Slaton blacksmith shop burglary, the sheriff's department said. Giles, who is under three sentences totaling 11 years, was returned yesterday to the Stephens county jail at Breckenridge, from which he escaped two weeks ago today.

An eight-pound sledge hammer found in the large coupe which the three men were driving was stolen Monday night or early Tuesday morning from McKaughan's blacksmith shop at Slaton. McKaughan yesterday identifed the hammer and said that Giles was one of two men who carried the coupe to the blacksmith shop Monday for a minor repair. A lock was twisted from the shop door.

McKaughan appeared before a grand district court grand jury Wednesday. The other two men are being held without charge. Their fingerprints were taken yesterday in an attempt to solve recent burglaries and safe-breaks in Lubbock and nearby towns. Giles has been convicted of theft, armed robbery and liquor law violation.

The grand jury voted about ten indictments late Wednesday but the bills were not reported.

Murray Says Roosevelt's Supporters Are Back Of Burns In Oil Field Row

Gaunt Oklahoman To Fight Back; Says He Has Proof

(By The Associated Press).

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 25.—Governor W. H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray declared today that the price of oil would descend and it would take months to bring it back if he leaves in effect the order of Acting Governor Robert Burns lifting martial law from the Oklahoma oil fields.

At the same time is issued a statement attacking Burns and charging the lieutenant governor was "playing in the hands of the big oil companies."

Roosevelt Charged

The gaunt Oklahoma governor said he had received information from "a reliable source," that the New York headuarters of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for president, "through Pat Malloy of Tulsa, and others, was the cause of Burns' action" in lifting martial law and in halting work on the administration's prison project in Atoka county.

He did not say, however, whether he would rescind Burns' revocation order and clamp martial law back on 3,000 oil wells. The acting governor revoked Murray's martial law proclamation last week while the governor, a candidate for Democratic nomination for president, was speaking in Hudson, N. Y.

Construction Work Is Started Immediately; Structure To Be Built On Broadway At A Cost Of $13,000

Construction of a one-story brick and tile building at 1018 and 1020 Broadway replacing the structure which burned there early this year was begun Wednesday by W. G. McMillan, Lubbock contractor. As many as 25 individuals probably will be given full or part time employment during the estimated 60 days required to complete the building.

Cost of the 48 by 123 foot structure will approximate $13,000, said McMillan. A building permit, listing the estimated cost at $11,000 was issued Wednesday by Building Inspector D. J. Schlagg. Milton and Heard Jones are owners of the site.

Work Is Started

McMillan was granted the contract Wednesday morning by the Jones brothers, and began work immediately. Plans, to include spaces for eight business houses, were drawn by S. B. Haynes, also of Lubbock. Present foundation and the basement will be used and McMillan will erect the structure from the street level. A composition asphalt roof will be built.

The permit issued to McMillan Wednesday is the 48th for 1932 and brings this year's building developments to $39,477.50.

CLAREMORE, Okla., May 25.—Two well-dressed young men robbed the Bank of Commerce of $1,000 this afternoon and escaped northward in an automobile after locking the cashier in the vault.

H. O. McSpadden, the cashier, was alone when the robbers entered. He said they made him lie on the floor while they took what money was in sight and then kicked him because the loot was not larger.

McSpadden released himself from the vault and notified officers a few minutes after the pair had fled. A posse set out in pursuit.

Winona Bank Job Nets $873 Loot

TYLER, May 25. (AP)—The Winona State bank was robbed of $873 today by two unmasked men who forced President J. F. McClung to unlock the vault.

After obtaining the money, the robbers locked McClung in the vault, walked to a car parked in front of the bank and drove away. McClung was alone when the holdup took place. He said the men came to the bank yesterday and asked about having some money placed in escrow. He said he became suspicious of them and noted the license number of their car.

(By The Associated Press)

TRENTON, Neb., May 25— Three persons were killed, eight were injured seriously and several others were hurt less seriously late today in a tornado and heavy wind and rain storm which struck southwestern Nebraska.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. John Newport, both about 35, of near Cornell, an inland village, 15 miles southwest of here, and Mrs. Ward Carey, of near Hershey, 60 miles north of here.

The injured are the five Newport children, ranging in age from six to 15 years, a Mr. Feasel and two daughters, of near Hendley, about 50 miles east of here.

Building Crashes

Mrs. Carey was killed when she attempted to close a chicken house door during a heavy wind and rain storm. The building crashed upon her. The three younger Newport children were injured most. Feasel and his daughter drove their car into a train at a crossing near Arapahoe, unable to see through the driving rain.

Several members of the Mrs. Aimie Nealeigh family of near Cornell were injured, but physicians who rushed to Cornell from Trenton believed they were not hurt badly.

Scholastic Increase Revealed In Check Of Lubbock District For 1932; Total Now Is 5,447

Boys Of School Age Outnumber Girls; 254 Negroes Listed; Increase Shows 154 More In Local School Area

LUBBOCK independent school district has 154 more scholastics now than one year ago, it was said Wednesday at the office of A. C. Jackson, schools manager.

Recent reports made by three enumerators show that there are 5,447, children of public school age in the district this spring as compared with 5,293 at the time of the last check, Mr. Jackson said. The count was made by P. F. Brown, John T. Brown and Mrs. George Duval.

254 Are Negroes

Of the scholastics, 254 are negro children who will attend Dunbar school. Mexican children were included in the total of American pupils.

There are 79 more boys than girls eligible to attend Lubbock public schools, the reports show. In the original returns there are listed 2,619 white boys and 2,540 girls. There are 147 negro boys and exactly the same number of negro girls. In the rechecking by the school office, six names were dropped because of duplications.

Division Is Shown

Four hundred 81 of the scholastics are eleven years old, there being more of this age than of any other. Ranking second are the eight-year-

Hand-To-Hand Fighting Wrecks Legislative Hall; Violence Is Unprecedented In History Of German Empire

Police Are Absent

Every Available Weapon Used By Legislators; Deputy Is Carried Unconscious To A Berlin Hospital

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, May 25. — Smoldering political passions in the new Prussian diet broke out in hand-to-hand fighting between national socialists and communists today with a violence unprecedented in the parliamentary history of Germany.

The legislative hall was wrecked and at least half a dozen members, including neutrals, were injured. Deputy Juergensen, a leader of the social Democrats, who took no part in the fray, was carried unconscious to a hospital, one side of his face ripped open.

Everything Is Used

With fists, inkwells, chair legs and water bottles, the legislators fought their battle to the bitter end without police interference, General Karl Litzman, senior member of Adolfe Hitler's national socialist party, having declined the services of police several days ago.

The trouble started after Hans Kerre, a national socialist, had been elected president of the diet and Ernest Wittmaack, a social Democrat, had been elected first vice-president. The session had been in an uproar since it opened for the second day of parliamentary business.

Murder Is Charged

Wilhelm Pieck, a communist deputy, rose to a point of order and at the top of his voice shouted that there were murderers on the nazi benches. The nazis jumped up and made a mass attack on the communist members, whom they outnumbered 162 to 57, meanwhile singing their battle song, in which their sympathizers in the gallery joined.

Tops were broken off desks, drawers were pulled out and upholstering was ripped. Piles of books, card indexes and fragments of furniture blocked the entrances from the lobbies after the air cleared over the communist sector, where most

John Gilbert Picks 'Em Fast; He Has A Fourth Ready Now

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—A slip of a blonde girl may become the fourth wife of John Gilbert, screen lover, when his divorce from Ina Claire, film and stage beauty, is made final next August 15.

JOHN GILBERT

The engagement of the veteran actor and Virginia Bruce, his leading lady, was learned in the film colony today. The couple tentatively set the wedding date for immediately after the recording of the Gilbert-Claire divorce.

Miss Bruce, a new comer to films, and Gilbert fell in love while working on a recent picture. They began a new picture today. "Down Stairs," an original story by Gilbert and upon it completion, the actor hopes to become a film director.

The announcement was somewhat of a surprise. Hollywood had believed Lupe Velez, Mexican actress, with whom he was seen frequently in New York during a recent visit there, was the favorite in Gilbert's heart.

The actor, besides Miss Claire, has had two other wives, Olive Burwell, an extra girl, was his first wife and Leatrice Joy, former film star, his second.

Methodist Women Entertain With Silver Tea In W. O. Stevens Home

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

FOR those who are interested in what people in other cities are wearing to their social functions, where they are going and what they are doing, here is a trip through the Sunday society pages of some larger papers.

While club women of Dallas, as told in the Dallas Morning News, are closing their activities for the year, those who are interested primarily in society are dancing, commenting brides and brides to be, giving parties for rushees. And what the younger set is wearing, one gathers, is cotton.

Organdies maintained the summacy attained several weeks ago in fashionable circles," the fashion writer, Clara Hood Rugel, says in writing of the opening of Baker's hotel's Peacock terrace. Embroideries are dainty, delicate designs, dotted Swiss, white pique and other cotton fabrics were used in many of the dance frocks that she described.

IN OTHER TOWNS

IN ALMOST every paper there is talk of cottons for summer, even though those from the East have little to say of these cool styles.

Ann Waters, fashion writer for the Daily Oklahoman, sketches a black pique street costume and an afternoon frock of pink Swiss organdy in her article "Consider the Cotton for Summer Comfort." And among dresses shown in the New York Herald Tribune and suggested as graduation models, there are white net and organdie gowns ruffled, tucked and elaborately trimmed in laces and embroideries, along with smart simple designs.

WHEN THEY GO

WHILE much society gossip and news of the Southern papers are of seashore visits, trips into the mountains and some visits abroad, New York paragraphs are of doings at Hot Springs, Va., Newport, R. I., and Washington. Chicago talk of summer vacations turns to the Canadian Rockies and other resorts across the border in Canada.

Horse shows, charity affairs and Washington Bicentennial celebrations are among the prominent events in Kansas City, Washington and New York.

Writing under the title of Cousin Eve, a Chicago Tribune reporter tells of the charms that Michigan has for summer visitors into that section. New York and New Jersey society people's interests, one judges from the society pages, are in flower shows, opening gardens to the public on specific days, annual charity card parties, brides and engagement announcements, affairs at Annapolis, Atlantic City, Long Island and other points.

IS IMPORTANT

A MESSAGE that Miss Antonie Strassmann, young German aviator and an enlisted member of the LZ-X crew, took from the president of the New York Federation of Women's clubs to the women of Germany through the German Women Citizens' association, was regarded as important. Miss Strassmann has been in the United States for the past several months making a study of conditions, especially as they touch women's interests.

Society writers in New York are commenting on the unusual number of people who are to spend the summer in New York instead of going abroad or to resorts in this country and anticipating a gayer time than usual for these stay-at-homes.

FOR CLUB WOMEN

THE Kansas City Journal-Post tells of plans that Missouri club women have for attending the twenty-first biennial session of the General Federation of Women's clubs in Seattle June 9 to 15. Starting at St. Louis, the special train will pick up Missouri women as it crosses the state, Kansas and Oklahoma women are to join the delegation which stops in Denver for an automobile trip and tea as guests of the Women's City club. From Livingston, Mont., these women, joined by those from Colorado will go through Yellowstone National park. Other courtesies are planned, according to the Journal-Post.

To a larger or smaller degree, depending upon the locality of the place, women in cities have interests not so different from those in Lubbock. Club women here are closing their seasons with luncheons, programs and other gatherings. Many people accustomed to long summer tours are going to have an opportunity to see what Lubbock can offer for entertainment.

Many Attracted By Flower Garden At Millard Swart Residence; Different Varieties Of Plants Offer Blossoms

With more than 50 people calling some days with requests to see their gardens, Mr. and Mrs. Millard F. Swart, 2022 16th street, are discovering the interest that many people have in beauty.

From a few plants, the Swarts have developed one of the most attractive gardens in town within the last six years and are demonstrating that blossoms may be had almost the entire year in Lubbock. In front, at the side and in the back of their home, which is located on corner lots, there are flowers, trees and vines forming a background.

One of the most attractive features is a Japanese tea garden situated immediately back of their house. In this there are two small pools in which gold fish and lilies grow and about which fern is banked. Japanese bridges and lights complete the effect in the garden. A small space is reserved at the back for chairs but most of the garden is in flowers with rock paths leading through.

Choice Dahlias Grown

It is in this space that the choice dahlia bulbs are planted, although these flowers have been placed in other parts of the yard. Johnny-jump-ups have been allowed to grow at random between the rocks and paths. Mrs. Swart received some tropical pond lilies this week to plant in her garden and is going to try these during the summer.

Next to the street but inclosed with a fence, is the rose garden. This plot is connected with the other by arches over which roses and honeysuckle climb. Sweetpeas, poppies, violets, chrysanthemums and many other plants are in this plot, although it is devoted chiefly to roses. Most of the bushes have been grown from cuttings. Hardy varieties of roses, particularly the radiance roses, have been chosen.

In the side yard, which is planted in clover, there is a rustic well that was built this spring by Mrs. Swart, with some assistance. A bird bath, sun dial and other garden ornaments are used to complete the beauty of these plots. Grass is used as a background for small beds of flowers on the lawn.

Try Primroses

Many varieties of flowers have been tried in the garden in determining what is best adapted to this climate. This spring primroses have been tried out with considerable success although Mrs. Swart does not know how they will do during the winter.

Mrs. Swart and her father, Cage Jennings, have developed most of the garden. Dr. Swart has assisted them during his hours away from the office. Little outside help has ever been employed, Mrs. Swart says, as members of the family use the garden work as a hobby and find such pleasure working there.

Only 2 Men In 5
Say They Get Better Coffee At Home

Due to One Simple Fact Few Women Know About Coffee, Domestic Science Experts Say

Why Changing The Brand You Use Does Not Make The Coffee You Serve Any Better

HOW long since your husband has said, "This is wonderful Coffee?" According to domestic science experts, 3 women in 5 have trouble with coffee—and all for one reason. This is why.

In spite of all the different "brands" you have tried, you have probably been getting the same kind of coffee all along! Almost 70 per cent of all the coffee sold is this one common kind, grown in one producing country. It's just put up in different packages, that's all.

If you want a different coffee—a richer, more flavory coffee—try one that comes from a different producing country.

Mountain Coffees

The world's choicest-flavored coffees, as any expert will tell you, come from a few tiny districts. They are grown chiefly along the West Coast of Central America. From this famous region we procure coffees with a rare tang and rich mellow body, utterly unlike any coffee you have ever used before.

This is the coffee that Folger brings you today packed in vacuum. It's not only delicious, but thrifty. Its extra richness and quality makes it go much further. And its rare flavor is kept fresh from the roaster right to your coffee pot by the latest type of key-opening vacuum sealed tins. If you want a real change—in coffee—and not merely in name, try it.

A 3-Day Test Of Flavor

Just go to your grocer and buy a pound of Folger's. Drink it tomorrow morning.

Next morning serve the coffee you have been using. The third morning serve Folger's again. Then choose between them.

If, for any reason, you decide against Folger's, your grocer will refund your money. We'll pay him. That's fair, isn't it? 138

Safe Way To Lose Fat

Take the case of Miss Madelone Crowley, for instance, who lives in Little Rock, Ark. Just read her letter:

"I have used Kruschen Salts for one year—when I started I weighed 140 pounds—now I weigh 110 pounds and never felt better in my life."

That's the big reason a host of men and women take Kruschen to lose weight—as the fat goes you gain in health—skin clears—eyes grow bright—activity replaces indolence.

Take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—cut down on fatty meats, potatoes and sweets—a jar of Kruschen that costs but a trifle lasts 4 weeks—get it at Mark Halsey Drug, City Drug, or any drugstore in the world—but for your health's sake demand and get Kruschen Salts. HOT BATH

What a nuisance it is to have to trot up and downstairs to start a fire every time some one wants a hot bath. It's the same old story all summer long, and it takes half the joy out of bathing. In winter, the old furnace coil clanks until your nerves are on edge.

Install a Self-Action Gas Water Heater and bring your water heating system up to date! Assure yourself a never-failing hot water supply the year 'round. The cost is absurdly low—a few pennies per day per person. And this thrifty heater requires no attention whatever.

Auto Racer's Mechanic Is Killed In Practice Round

INDIANAPOLIS, May 25. (AP) — Harry Cox, 28, Indianapolis, mechanic riding with Benny Benefield, 25, Indianapolis, was killed late today when the car in which they were practicing for the 500-mile race here Monday, lost a wheel in the first turn, plunged over the outer wall and struck a tree.

Both men were thrown clear of the racer. Cox apparently was killed immediately. Benefield was said at a hospital to have suffered lacerations, but not to have been seriously hurt.

The race car was the same one in which Joe Caccia and his mechanic were killed while practicing for the race here last year. It had been rebuilt for Benefield to drive. Benefield and Cox just were starting a circuit of the motor speedway track when the accident occurred. They were not traveling at high speed.

Jimmy Doesn't Wait For The Two-Three Count

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 25. (AP)—Jimmy Foxx, glowing with health and enthusiasm and relishing a two-dollar breakfast, did his best today to explain the phenomenal batting streak that has established him the undisputed king of American League swatsmiths.

"Seems like I'm just standing up there and shutting my eyes and swinging like I always have," he declared over the egg course. "About the only change I'm conscious of is that I'm taking my cut at everything that looks good instead of trynig to wait the pitchers out and letting them get in the hole.

"Maybe that's why I'm doing better. I used to let the first ball go past, no matter if it was right down my alley. Then I'd get mad at myself for not hitting it and the pitcher would give me a working over. I'm cracking that 'fat' one now."

There is little doubt the big infielder has done something toward doctoring his batting form. He hit only .291 last season, with 30 home runs. Up to today he was hitting .445 and had 14 homers with the campaign in its infancy. In addition, he is leading the league in total hits, runs scored and runs batted in.

"All I hope is that this talk won't jinx me," Jimmy grinned.

A. C. C. Relay Team Wins 17 Straight Races Over Country During 3 Years

John Simmons | Bill Weems | Elmer Gray | Jim Lawrence

(By NEA Service)

ABILENE, May 25. — They live right—and run fast. The result is a record of 17 consecutive relay victories for the Abilene Christian College quartet, made from mid-season of 1930 to the present time. The streak was almost stopped in its infancy when the Christians ran a dead heat with University of Texas in 1930.

This year's quartet of baton carriers climaxed its unbeaten campaign, which includes conference, dual and triangular meets with leading colleges and universities in Texas, besides the Kansas, Drake, Southern Methodist and Texas relay carnivals, with a double victory in the Drake games. Gray, Lawrence, Weems and Simmons, running in that order, galloped off with the college sprint medley in 3:31. Shifting the lineup a trifle, Simmons, Lawrence, Weems and Gray then carried away the college mile relay title in 3:19.

Golf as the STARS play it

by ART KRENZ

A point to remember in making the golf swing is to keep the head down and eyes on the ball.

Many experts have tried to explode this theory by saying they do not look at any particular spot on the ball or the ball itself. This may be all right for them, for the duffer it is better to fix the eyes at a certain spot through which the club will travel.

If the head is lifted, it will mean a lift of the shoulders and the shoulders will lift the arms.

Keep your head down and eyes on the ball until you have acquired a natural and grooved swing.

In 18 games the Nashville baseball team scored 114 runs and opponents scored 114, but Nashville won only six of the games.

Billy Evans Turns Detective; Wants To Discover Trouble With Cleveland

CHICAGO, May 25. (AP) — Billy Evans came to Chicago today in the role of a baseball detective.

Wearing a puzzled look and armed with records, he was out to solve one of the deepest mysteries of his long baseball career — the losing streak habits of his Cleveland Indians. He even offered a reward for a solution.

"I've been studying baseball most of my life, but I'll be darned if I can find out why the Indians break out into the open every year with a great winning streak and then fold up like a suitcase.' Billy sighed as he came to Chicago for a huddle with Manager Roger Peckinpaugh.

"If I can only put my finger on the cause I'll be the world's greatest baseball manager.

"Look at us this year, will you? We stepped out and copped nine straight games, starting against Detroit—and ending with St. Louis and Chicago. But now we have the heeby jeebies again. We've lost eight out of the last nine and may hang up a string of defeats far worse than that."

Heinie Weir Is Named Coach At Vernon High Fifth Term

VERNON, May 25. (AP) — W. C. "Heinie" Weir, one of the brightest athletic luminaries ever graduated from Texas A and M. College, has been re-elected for his fifth term as athletic director of Vernon High school. Ralph Binnion, former Trinity University basketball and football star, was also returned for his fifth year as head basketball and assistant football mentor. E. W. Shepherd was retained for his ninth year as tennis coach. The coaching staff was reduced by two this year.

Weir, while attending A. and M. lettered four years in football and three in track, captaining each team one year.

American Golfers Eliminated From British Amateur

MUIRFIELD, Scotland, May 25 (AP)—Another American quest for the British Amateur golf championship failed today as the three survivors of an original delegation of eleven went down to defeat in the third round.

David Martin, stocky young California champion on whom the greatest hopes were based, was the first to fall and he was followed shortly by the Sweeney brothers of Oxford, Charles and Robert.

Martin played two rounds today, defeating Bernard Drawin, the English golf writer, two and one in the morning, but lost his touch in the afternoon and fell before H. Shaw, a 25-year-old Manchester player who hasn't even a local reputation, two up.

He had a medal score of 82. Shaw 81.

Charles Sweeney, golf partner of the Prince of Wales and Captain of the Oxford team, lost to T. A. Bourn, well known English player, one up. His brother was eliminated by A. J. Peech, also one up.

T. A. Torrance, captain of the English team, was overwhelmed by 21-year-old Jack MacLean, of Bankhead, and Lister Hartley, another of the British standby, was eliminated by Sam McKinlay, young player.

Only two native-born Americans have won the title, Jess Sweetser in 1926 and Bobby Jones in 1930. Walter Travis won the title in 1904 but he was born in Australia, and was only a naturalized citizen of the United States.

Harlingen Golfer Scores Two Dodos In Less Than A Month

HARLINGEN, May 25. (AP)—E. W. "Bus" Stuart of Harlingen has the distinction of making two holes-in-one on the local golf course in a period of less than a month.

Stuart's first act came on No. 5 hole, 155 yards, when he was playing with Dr. E. A. Davis and Archie Harwood. His second came on No. 15, about the same length. He is the only golfer to have a record of two aces on the local course.

Olympic Weight Lifters Strong For This Game

Not a bad "weigh" to get in trim for the heavy work that comes in the Olympic games, is it? Fact is, this Los Angeles Athletic Club team of weight lifters is enjoying it, and so is the "fair weight." She is Beulah Hendrix. The catchers are, left to right, Sam Ormont, Maurice Aroff and Sam Turmine, light heavyweights; Leonard Welte, middleweight; Milton McAleece, feather weight, and Captain Jerry Kingsbury, captain of the team, pitching.

LANGUAGE WAR IN MALTA

Whether English or Italian should be the ruling language is a question which has started a war of tongues in Malta. "Ignorance of the English language is a fatal social drawback in Malta, but ignorance of Italian is unnoticed because one has no occasion to display one's ignorance," declared one newspaper. Champions of Italian say it is necessary to those wishing culture and refinement.

Dallas Ace Is Two Under Par In Qualifying

Louis Nowlin, Who Shot 69 On First Day, Is Second With Par Figure; Match Play To Begin This Morning

(By The Associated Press)

TEXARKANA, May 25.—It was the old story of Gus Moreland in the qualifying round today in the 26th annual Texas Golf Association state championship.

Moreland was medalist over the 36-hole route with a two under par card of 73-71—144.

Moreland left the starting tee on the final eighteen holes today shooting for a 69, but the best he could get was a 34 on the front nine and a 37 on the back, two under par.

Shoots Four Birdies

The defending champion shot four birdies to come home today with his 71 that left him two strokes in front of husky Louis Nowlin of Dallas, who shot even par for the thirty-six holes, 69-77—146.

The long-hitting Nowlin finished first, and was at the 36th green when Moreland dropped a putt for medalist.

Despite his losing medalist honors, he had the consolation of knowing that his 69 of yesterday was a new amateur course record for the Texarkana club.

Byron Nelson, the par shooter from Fort Worth went out in 36 and took a 40 on the back nine. His 74-76 for the two rounds gave him third place with a total of 150.

Austin Man Is Fourth

W. R. Long of Austin shot consistent golf for a total of 78-75—153. He came home fourth.

A qualifying score of 169 was the limit in the championship flight. This figure was eight strokes higher than last year.

Thirty-two players comprised the first or championship flight, as many were placed in the second flight. The remainder of the qualifyers were in the third flight which was a smaller group than the other two.

Moreland will start defense of his crown tomorrow against Neil Smith of Dallas, who beat him in the play-off for medalist last year.

Nowlin in the lower brackett, will meet Dudley Golding of Dallas in his first match. Two matches will be played each day until Saturday when the 36-hole finals will be held.

Medalist Loses In Femme Joust At Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 25. (AP)—Two sliced tee shots on the nineteenth hole today cost Mrs. Ben Fitzhugh of Vicksburg, Miss., the tournament medalist, a chance at the women's Trans-Mississippi golf tournament quarter finals tomorrow in which two youngsters will meet veteran players in the four matches.

Mrs. Fitzhugh, scoring an 83 for 18 holes, lost to Miss Hilda Urmanke of Austin, Texas, on the nineteenth.

Miss Lucille Robinson, 20, Des Moines, sent a perfect 35 foot putt into the cup of the seventh green to defeat another youngster, Miss Aniela Gorczyca of Fort Worth, 2 and 1.

Members of the Kansas City club in the American association used to get $2.50 daily for meals. Now the management buys their room and board on the American plan.

Few Unpaved Sections To Be Left On Highway 137 By Fall; Work Underway

With surfacing on highway 137 starting between Lubbock and the Hockley county line shortly and with a section between Andrews and the Ector county line to be finished by mid-summer, there will be only a few unpaved sections of the road by fall, if present plans are carried out by the highway department.

Following is the present status of the proposed construction:

Paving to start soon between Lubbock and the county line.

Plans for grading and drainage in Terry county from Meadow to Brownfield ready to go when right of way is secured by the county.

Surfacing between Seagraves and Seminole, Gaines county, soon to begin: slight delay due to lack of proper equipment.

Grading Seminole to Andrews county line well under way.

Plans for grading and drainage, Andrews county line to Andrews sent to Austin for approval and checking.

Base between Andrews and Ector county line expected to be finished within two weeks. Surfacing expected to start shortly thereafter.

Virtually all of the paving work from Odessa south and also Odessa to the county line, has been finished.

This work is expected to be completed by fall. In the event right of way in Hockley county is secured at the time the right of way is secured in Terry county, it is probable the contract will be let for that job. This is only a short sector, about eight or nine miles and because of the policy of the state highway department to "close up gaps" it is probable the gap will be paved.

Only the Terry county section between Brownfield and the Gaines county line is not scheduled for work this year. It is probable that it will be included if the right of way is secured, for the late fall work. If not, then the spring will see it started.

FOOTBALL ONCE PROHIBITED

Records recently found in Scotland show that football playing was banned there in the fourteenth and fifteenth century because it interferred with the practice of archery. The Act of May, 1424, read: "That na man play at the fute-ball, under the paine of fiftie schillings to be raised to the lord of the land, oft as he be tainted, or to the Schirreffe of the land or his ministers gif the lordes will not punish sic trespassoures."

Where "The Times" Help

DEPRESSION, which has hit practically everything and everybody, has also hit campaign fund prospects, according to Treasurer McNutt, of the Republican party. There are slim pickings in sight for both Democratic and Republican solicitors in circles where here-to-fore response has been generous to appeals to fill party chests.

In the opinion of The Morning Avalanche, depression, in this case should get a credit mark. Campaign treasurers, used to the liberal standard of other times, may be appalled at the prospect of national funds of "not much more than a million" at the disposition of the major parties in a Presidential campaign. But the country at large, fed up in other years with charges and counter charges of huge "slush funds," raised or to be expended, may welcome the idea that expenditure this year is to be on a modest scale.

State laws have sought to limit expenditures both in primary and national campaigns and national legislation has sought to do the same in elections to federal office. But the economic conditions, which make men, who in the past have been liberal contributors, unwilling this year to loosen up, provide a curb on campaign expenditure more effective than any statutes. When the money isn't there it cannot be spent.

In a country of this size national funds of several millions could be legitimately and wisely spent. But as a matter of fact fat payrolls have contributed more to personal than to party advantage. The pinch of economic circumstances this year has itself conducted a campaign of education. The voter has pretty definite ideas as to what ought to be done about economy, budget balancing, and relief. He knows the record of the administration and of the party majorities in congress.

There never has been a campaign year in which big party funds were less needed. They have always been undesirable, as scandal breeding and largely wasted. Their reduction to a minimum this year is an actually beneficial effect of depression.

CHASING THE RAINBOW

The world hears a great deal of the few who make good in New York City. Of the fate of the rest not so much is heard or said unless a body is found in a gas-filled attic room or floating in the river.

In the course of a year thousands of young folk leave their homes in the country or some smaller city to seek fame, fortune and excitement in New York. A single person cannot live decently in the metropolis for less than $25 a week. Those who fail to land jobs paying as much as this soon find themselves in an environment so depressing and demoralizing as to permanently affect their lives and character.

New York has more inhabitants than it can house, feed and transport. Except for the relatively few who hit the stars, it is no longer the city of opportunity. New York is now big enough to say that of itself.

Aspiring youth should choose some other place in which to go broke. There is no place where the "broke" person is so dead broke as in a great city.

Success comes hardest in a large city, but the greatest successes are won there. So hopeful and adventurous youth will continue leaping into this bruising and breaking maelstrom. They are willing to take the desperate chance. Fortune smiles more frequently today upon the youth who hunts success in the smaller, rapidly growing cities.

THIS WOULD END WAR

A university head has made the revolutionary proposition that governments in the future protect youth by drafting only men past 50 for combatant troops in time of war.

In theory there is much to be said for his proposal. The idea of making cannon fodder of young men, upon whom the future of nations depends, is not altogether sensible, particularly when it is remembered that wars are always started by men over 50 years of age. Is not young blood more essential to national progress?

There would be no more wars if the nations of the world would enter into a pact making men under 50 exempt from military service. There will never be such a pact because all pacts, including those sending millions of young men to horrible deaths, are made by men over 50. But if such a pact were possible, the men over 50 would quickly declare permanent world peace. Persons who must fight their own battles prefer to talk peace.

Of course the proposal could not be put to practical use. Youth is better able to stand up under the rigors of war, it can fight better and it succumbs less readily to disease and fatigue. In time of war nations and their old men depend upon youth. While youth fights, suffers and dies, the men past 50 are claiming the honors and profiteering.

Practical Health Problems

KEEP YOUR TEETH IN!

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, And of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

THERE has been for years an argument as to whether or not a man with a beard should sleep with the beard inside or outside the covers. Patients with artificial teeth are constantly confronted with the question as to whether the teeth should be taken out or left in at night.

If the denture fits well, it may be worn at night because it will help to keep the face in normal shape and comfort. Of course, the plates should be thoroughly cleaned before retiring and again in the morning.

Doctor B. L. Hooper points out that it may seem necessary to remove the denture in order to rest the mouth. Under such circumstances, the teeth may be taken out, rinsed in cold water (the mouth may also be rinsed with cold water) and the dentures replaced.

If they are left out of the mouth, any irritated place on the ridges or tissues may swell, which may make it difficult or impossible to put the teeth back in the mouth.

The average mouth and gums may be difficult to keep clean because of tenderness. The person with artificial dentures may keep his teeth clean because he can take them out and clean them with a special tooth brush that is stiffer and stronger than the ordinary tooth brush. Tartar will gather on artificial teeth just as it does on natural teeth.

The average person should go to the dentist at least once every six months to have the tartar removed and the teeth cleaned and polished. The person with artificial dentures has the advantage of being able to leave his teeth at the dentist's office to have them cleaned and polished and ready for him on his return.

In second childhood, the teeth being gone, the stomach and digestive tract are provided with soft food such as is given to a child. Artificial dentures enable the elderly to eat food that is hard and more difficult to digest.

The elderly should keep this fact in mind and not overload a deficient digestive tract. There are artificial teeth but not, as yet, artificial stomachs.

Plan Seen As Blueprint

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Opposition alike by G. O. P. and Jeffersonian progressives to the unemployment relief program upon which President Hoover and Democratic Senate Leader Joseph T. Robinson now seem in virtual agreement, is based on the complaint, as expressed by Representative David J. Lewis of Maryland, that in place of bread to feed millions of jobless workers and their families, the plan appears to be to offer a blueprint.

Benjamin Marsh

"That this attractive design may take the form, some time in the indefinite future, of actual public improvements is, indeed, possible," concedes Executive Secretary Benjamin C. Marsh of the People's Lobby, who is just completing the most exhaustive investigation yet made into labor conditions throughout the country.

"Our national need, however," continued the lobby official, "emphatically is of the present. Today, at a season when unemployment normally should be increasing, it is declining instead. Indications are for a summer of unparalleled hardship. Next winter's prospects will hardly bear thinking about, if we drift into it with no more preparation than the ineffective steps taken last autumn."

THE HOOVER and Robinson proposals differ very little in their essential details. The Arkansas senator was 24 hours ahead of the White House in giving his concept publicity. Whether or not he thus furnished Mr. Hoover with the latter's inspiration, as implied by Speaker John N. Garner, in his declaration to the press that, "Whenever the president finds a sound suggestion not his own, he adopts it," is problematic.

In any case, the resemblance of the two ideas to one another is obvious.

The senatorial scheme contemplates a $300,000,000 federal allowance to states and municipalities for immediate relief, and a subsequent $2,000,000,000 tax-exempt bond issue to finance the pushing of a vast number of "self-liquidating or profit-making enterprises"—such as toll bridges and tunnels and model tenements to wipe out slum districts in industrial centers.

Under the presidential plan the task of rehabilitation would be turned over to the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The first $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 allowance would assume the shape of loans to states, or the underwriting of their bond issues, to promote "self-sustaining enterprises," and an additional $1,000,000,000 to $1,200,000,000 would be authorized for the encouragement of both public and private construction of a sort capable ultimately of repaying the sums invested in it. In lieu of a federal bond issue, debentures would be floated by the R. F. C. to raise these funds as required.

"TO BEGIN with," comments Secretary Marsh of the People's Lobby, "there is no certainty how promptly the various 'self-sustaining enterprises' referred to in both the programs of President Hoover and Senator Robinson will be launched by the states, municipalities and private concerns expected to undertake them.

"All appropriation bills thus far sponsored by progressive lawmakers for federal construction have aimed at a start, without further delay, upon work already authorized and planned, thus eliminating any risk of delay.

"Secondly, our states, counties and municipalities are largely under obligations now up to all reasonable expectation of ever being in a position to pay their indebtedness. Many have borrowed up to the limit of their constitutional power to float loans and some already are in default."

"AT BEST," the secretary went on, "the state or municipality which borrows more from the federal government will be adding to the load of debts which at present is depriving great numbers of its citizens of their property at every tax sale.

"It is all very well to say that the improvements outlined are to be self-liquidating, but what difference does it make to an overburdened farmer whether he remits to the county treasurer for a new bridge or hard road or short cut through a tunnel, or remits to a toll collector every time he passes that way?

"At worst the distressed state or municipality cannot legally increase its debts and the government consequently cannot loan to it with any binding guarantee that the loan will be repaid."

"CLEARLY," said Secretary Marsh, "the Reconstruction Finance corporation method of meeting the situation will accomplish little in the direction of insuring the return to the federal government of the money it advances in the existing emergency.

"If it gives outright, the cash will be gone for good.

"If it loans, the loans will be largely defaulted.

"The Reconstruction Finance corporation method does, it is true, promise to involve a vast amount of red tape, complications and waste of time, as a result of which it is quite likely that not much will be expended—which is what progressives are inclined to suspect is the exact intention.

"Unfortunately, assuming that that surmise is correct, the plan will be correspondingly a failure in the relief of unemployment."

A SINGLE FLOWER COST $25,000:
The $25,000 orchid was named in honor of J. Gurney Fowler, the president of the Royal Horticultural Society. It is a hybrid of Cypripedium and is a result of horticultural experimental efforts extending over a period of years. The achievement can only be appreciated by a horticulturist, and the record of $25,000 for a single flower is not considered extravagant in professional circles.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SUSAN CAREY, 19 and pretty, works in the office of ERNEST HEATH, architect. JACK WARING, assistant to Heath, tries to make love to her but is discouraged. Susan lives with her aunt who is unusually strict. RAY FLANNERY, employed in the next office, makes with Susan and confides her ambition in life—to marry a rich man whether she loves him or not. Susan is secretly in love with BOB DUNBAR, millionaire's son she met at business school. She hears rumors that he is to marry DENISE ACKROYD, debutante. Susan refuses an offer of marriage from BEN LAMPMAN, serious-minded young musician. At a week-end party given by Denise Ackroyd, Ben and Bob fight over Susan. She runs away from Bob and, meeting Ernest Heath, asks him to take her home. He escorts her back to the Ackroyd's thereby arousing his wife's jealousy. A few days later Heath informs Susan his wife intends to sue her for alenation of his affections.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVIII

Waring entered whistling. It was the morning after Susan's birthday. His ruddy face under the thatch of smoothly combed, sandy hair was aglow with the consciousness of a good deed done.

"I feel like a blooming Boy Scout," he chuckled to himself, throwing his heavy ulster over a chair and beginning to sort his papers.

Susan came in looking as though she had spent a bad night.

"Good morning."

She looked at him in surprise, astonished that anyone should feel cheerful enough to call this morning good!

"Don't be so woebegone," he advised, seating himself on her desk and watching as she removed the small hat and hung away her coat in the closet reserved for that purpose. Suddenly he remembered.

"Surely you've heard the storm is over?" he asked incredulously.

"I don't know what you mean."

He took her hands and gave her a little whirl. "I fixed everything," he announced. "Me, the Boy Scout!"

"You what?" Her face came alive.

"Just what I said," the man insisted. "The danger's over and there's nothing for you to worry about."

"I don't believe it," Susan told him but her eyes danced just the same. "How did you do it?"

Waring put up one hand and struck an attitude of mock modesty. "It's not a story for little girls' ears", he told her. "All you need to know is that you're safe. The alenation suit is off."

"Then they've made it up?" Susan asked.

"I wouldn't exactly say that. The fact of the matter is Mrs. Heath has decided to get a divorce instead. A very polite, restrained, dignified Reno divorce.

"You mean she's—she's not going to drag me into it?"

"No, not at all. Why should she?"

"Oh, thank God!"

"Well, you might also thank me a little," Waring said irreverently. "I was the little fixer, after all."

"I do! I think it was marvelous." She meant it. She thought she must have misunderstood this man. He seemed so kind now. He grinned, reading her thoughts.

"Do you think I can keep my job or will it be too awkward?" Susan asked.

"Awkward for whom? No one knows anything about it but the three of us. We like you here. Why should you trail around town answering want ads because a jealous woman has a brain storm?"

Put that way, it seemed the most simple and reasonable thing in the world. Susan drew a deep breath and held up her head again. Everything was all right. She was grateful for her escape from danger and she put that gratitude into her work. The three men in the office, so different in background and tastes, felt the magic of her presence. The gray day was brighter because a young girl smiled at them.

"You're a funny one," Ray said again and again. "You seem perfectly happy just to work and not have any fun."

Susan did not try to explain the glorious sense of freedom and release which had come to her that morning when Waring had brought her the good news. It was enough just to be safe and secure. She no longer seemed impatient for good times.

Ray rushed in one day at noon and said excitedly, "Have lunch with me, won't you?"

Susan began to explain that she had planned to meet Rose.

"Please break it. Honest, this is important." Ray urged. Her dandelion locks were ruffled and there was a streak of mascara under one eye. Could Ray have been crying? Susan dismissed the notion but something in the other girl's air of uppressed excitement made her decide to go with her.

Hollywood Love Scene

You've seen many love scenes in movies made in Hollywood. Here's one from real life. Zita Johann, who has been starring on Broadway, is shown above as she is greeted by her husband, John Haussmann, on her return to Los Angeles. Note the warmth of the handclasp.

"Meet you in the lobby in 10 minutes," Ray threw over her shoulder.

There was no real privacy to be had in any of the restaurants where they usually lunched, but Susan pulled a small table back near the kitchen in their pet "Sandwich Shoppe." Harried waitresses brushed their shoulders with dangerously laden trays and once or twice both girls escaped a deluge of hot coffee as they managed somehow among the clatter and steam and gabble of tongues to achieve a small oasis of calm.

Ray began. "Honest, Susan it gets my goat. I'm all in a lather about it."

Susan looked her surprise.

"Do you mean to say you haven't heard? Sky was married last night in Crown Point. Sent me a wire, cool as you please. 'Congratulate me' he says."

"I didn't know you cared any thing about him," said Susan.

Ray winked those preposterous lashes once or twice and her eyes were hard and bright as marbles.

"Sky was—well we were practically just like that," she said, holding up two fingers. "What burns me up is the way he did it. Not that I would have married him myself. Honestly, the kid hasn't good sense but we were out together Tuesday night dancing and he come up to the house afterward and he was just as sweet as could be."

Susan was mystified. If Ray thought Schuyler Webb hadn't good sense, why did she mind his having married someone else? Ray gabbled on.

"Course, I've heard him talk about this girl all winter but he always pretended he couldn't see her. She has scads of money. That's the answer."

"I thought Sky was rich," Susan murmured, feeling she ought to say something.

"Sky? He practically lost his shirt in the market last year. His banking account was all used up. I knew that last week."

"Well, then," said Susan, remembering Ray's oft-repeated remarks about the folly of becoming a poor man's wife. "Well, then, you would have wanted him anyway. You know what you've always said about wanting a mink coat and a duplex apartment and a roadster."

Ray tossed her head and Susan could see a tear glittering on her lashes.

"A person talks," Ray said thickly and unsteadily. "A person says a lot of things that turns out to be funny when a person finds out what it's all about."

Susan hated to look at her. She did not need to look to know that Ray was crying openly.

"I'm terribly, terribly sorry," she said. "I didn't know you cared at all." She was shocked beyond words at this exposure. To see Ray, so hard and bright and assured, thus shaken was a shattering experience. If this was love, thought Susan to herself half-humorously, half-pityingly—it's something to steer clear of.

Ray dried her eyes and began to talk quickly and irrelevantly about nothing at all. She renewed her makeup and before they went out on the street she seemed her own bright, slangy self. But Susan could not forget the glimpse of suffering she had seen. It made her fonder of Ray. This little dollfaced person was real. What a queer world, she mused! Ray had built herself a wall of philosophy and a stupid, vapid, ordinary young man had broken it down.

Of one thing Susan was certain. Ray would not be hurt in the same way again.

The incident awoke for a while the old pain Susan had felt about Bob. She had not heard from him since that eventful night at the Ackroyds'. Where was he and what was he doing? She tried not to think of him but in her heart knew that daily she dreaded the news of his marriage. Would she ever rid herself of this foolishness? It was like a fever, an ague. You thought you were over it completely and then some word—some phrase—a strain of music, perhaps, would start it all over again.

She shook her head impatiently. This was getting her nowhere. She would be like Ray, cool and determined and ruthless. She would put Bob out of her heart forever.

Susan bent over her work, trying to efface herself in its calm impersonality.

A voice said at her elbow. "May I see Mr. Heath. Oh, I beg your pardon. How do you do?"

She felt shaken. Her heart plunged frighteningly. She heard herself say calmly, "Mr. Dunbar. How do you do?"

Civic Work Given Impetus In Lamesa; City Improved

LAMESA, May 25. — Civic work in Lamesa has received quite a bit of attention during the past 4 years by the various civic organizations here, tree, shrubbery, and rose planting being featured. This spring, and during the month of May, Lamesa has turned into a veritable city of roses, almost every home is noted with a number of roses in full bloom. This has attracted attention of tourists and visitors to the city notably. It is reported that more than 15,000 trees were set during the tree planting campaign in Lamesa and Dawson County this year.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 26. (AP)—Cotton was only moderately active today and prices were rather erratic and fluctuating, closing at net declines for the day of 1 to 2 points.

The weekly weather and crop summary of the weather bureau issued at the end of the first hour was regarded as generally favorable.

The market rallied in the late trading owing to a sharp upturn in wheat and some improvement in stocks which caused shorts to cover. July advanced to 5.68 and Oct. to 5.88 new highs for the session and 8 points above the lows. The close was at or near the top with the October position showing a net loss of 1 point for the day and July a net loss of 2 points. The May option expired at noon.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 25. (AP)—A continuation of yesterday's selling movement promoted by a fairly favorable view of the weather news and early declines in the stock and grain markets, was followed by recoveries in cotton today on trade buying and covering.

July contracts rallied to 5.87 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing steady, net unchanged to 1 point higher.

December declined to 5.96 during the middle of the day, when active months showed net losses of about 7 to 9 points. Rallies in wheat were a contributing factor on the late bulge, which carried December up to 6.04, or back to yesterday's closing quotations. Last prices were the best of the day in most positions.

Two Featured On Rotary Program

Addresses on the automobile industry and on business conditions as a whole were given Wednesday at the Lubbock Rotary club luncheon at Hotel Lubbock. George P. Kuykendall outlined the automotive industry and the other speaker was Dr. J. O. Ellsworth. James L. Quicksall was chairman.

Dr. Ellsworth, professor of agricultural economics in Texas Tech, gave a comprehensive discussion of business cycles, conditions and remedies. He blamed inadequate gold in exchange for our production as the cause of the present conditions.

Analysis Aids Future

"An analysis of the past will aid us in the future," Dr. Ellsworth said in commenting on present conditions. "One thing can be noted," he said, "the prices of the producers' goods rise and fall more quickly than retail prices and retail prices in turn rise and drop more quickly than wholesale prices."

Exhibiting graphs of business cycles, price levels, etc., Dr. Ellsworth predicted that "if the future eats as it has in the past, every indication is that something is going to happen, there is likely to be an upturn shortly but it will be sickly and it may be down. If we know these thing, however, we can adjust ourselves accordingly and not suffer so much as if we look on things too brightly."

"We may go off the gold standard," Dr. Ellsworth said in outlining what can be done to better present conditions. "We may reduce the weight of gold in our dollar; we may revaluate everything except gold; we may monotize silver; we may completely deflate prices and we may reduce wastes in consumption.

"As to the individual," he continued, "he must first balance the budget and budget the balance. He must go back or learn the fundamentals of business principles. He must forecast possibilities and act accordingly. He must reduce costs and eliminate unprofitable items and lastly he must have the courage and sound thinking to carry him through".

Mr. Kuykendall presented charts in his talk, showing how the automotive industry has grown since 1900 and how it affects the entire nation as a whole. He predicted a shortage in automobile production within the next few years. Mr. Kuykendall cited instances in his own business which revealed that more cash is being paid for automobiles today.

E. P. Lawson, Dick Williams, Fort Worth; Tom Abel, Slaton, and Edd McLaughlin, Ralls, were out-of-town visitors at the luncheon.

Army Fliers Will Arrive On June 1

Each of 23 army observation planes which will arrive at municipal airport Wednesday morning, June 1, will refuel with 50 gallons of gasoline and two gallons of oil, airport attaches have been informed.

The student fliers will start taking off at 7 a. m. that morning from Fort Sill, Okla., and if weather conditions are favorable the first ships should arrive at 8:45 or 9 o'clock. The planes will leave Fort Sill at ten-minute intervals, and last of the group probably will not reach Lubbock until early afternoon. Coffee and sandwiches will be served to the pilots, Clint Breedlove, airport manager, said.

Two other flights of army ships are scheduled to visit the municipal port in June. A flight of 20 will arrive June 10 from Kelly Field at San Antonio, and the same number of planes will visit the field from Kelly June 17.

Securities Again Are Borne Down By Liquidation; Trading Is More Active

BY JOHN I. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, May 25. (AP)—Securities again were borne down by liquidation today, and trading became a bit more active in both stocks and bonds.

Share weakness continued to be of a rather selective nature in that utilities, tobaccos and foods were particularly depressed. Rail and second grade bonds suffered acutely, although highest rated issues did not escape pressure.

A spongey bond market atone might have accounted for the heavy stock market; but to this adverse influence were added such familiar factors as Washington uncertainties and disappointing trade statistics. Dollars weakened against European gold currencies. Wheat made fractional net gains but its rally failed to impress shares.

Man Is Shot To Death At Borger

BORGER, May 25. (AP) — Frank Akers was shot to death last night when Henry Neely dairyman, caught him and another man in the act of milking cows in the Neely dairy yard.

A murder charge was filed against Neely in connection with the killing. Neely claimed that numerous milk thefts had occurred recently at his dairy.

James Thompson told officers he and Akers went to the dairy yard to obtain milk. Akers was carrying a bucket as they went from cow to cow.

They had been in the yard about thirty minutes when Neely appeared with a rifle in his hands, Thompson said. Neely ordered them to raise their hands. Thompson heard a shot and saw Akers fall to the ground.

Thompson said he fell flat for fear he too would be shot.

Akers formerly was employed by an oil company. His wife told officers that fresh milk was not used in their home. She said only can milk was used.

Three Included In Negro Trial

Two other negro women were convicted in joint cases with Ida Johnson, whose case was reversed and remanded Wednesday by the state court of criminal appeals at Austin, Max Coleman, defense lawyer, said. Only the Johnson woman appealed, from a fine of $200 and costs and a sentence of 20 days in county jail, for assisting in operation of a bawdy house.

Lola Simmons, another of the trio, is serving sentence in jail. The Johnson woman is free on appeal bond of $400. The third woman, Mary Lee Foster, was permitted to leave her bond as fine money, because of her physicial condition.

The charge against each woman was composed of four counts, and conviction was on the last count, Coleman explained. The appeal, the veteran defense counsel said, was based on insufficient evidence and the fact that County Attorney Vaughan E. Wilson pointed out in court that the Johnson woman had not taken the stand. E. L. Pitts is county judge.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, May 25. (AP)—Light receipts enabled salesmen to effect a steady to 25 higher market on fed steers and yearlings. Heifers and mixed yearlings bulked at 4.75@5.50, while a few scored 5.75@6.00. A limited supply of stockers and feeders held generally steady, most of them selling at 4.00@5.50. The past week or two a few loads of fleshy long yearlings and light weight steers have been taken by finishers for further feeding around 5.75@6.25. Bonus Brigade anxious to avoid any disorder such as occurred at Caseyville, Ill., where the bonus expedition recently captured a Baltimore & Ohio freight train and held it until local officials arranged for the motor trucks that brought the veterans to Indiana. They reached here early today after a tiresome trip across Illinois.

The men made camp in a grassy plot along the Baltimore & Ohio tracks, rolled up in their blankets and slept late. Shortly before 9 o'clock their commander, W. W. Waters, Portland, Ore., gave the order to "fall in."

Orders Are Given

The campaigners for the cash bonus shuffled into line and Waters issued the orders of the day.

"We don't want any cussing of the railroads," said Waters. "We don't want any disorder. Arrangements have been made for transportation across Indiana.

"Don't give up the idea of going to Washington and demanding the bonus. This fight has just begun."

German Fight

of the damage was done.

Forced From Hall

The communists were forced out of the hall during the battle, at the conclusion of which numerous deputies on each side were lying on the floor, bleeding profusely. Dr. Wester, Catholic centrist deputy from Cologne, who is a surgeon, bandaged the injured.

Three communist deputies, Kraemer, Kuntz and Gohlke, were seriously hurt. Sometime after the fight was over Herr Kraemer returned with bloody bandages about his head. Turning toward the nazi members grouped at one side of the hall, he shouted:

Renewal Threatened

"Twenty to one! You'll pay for this!"

A renewal of the fight was threatened when partisan spirit flared up in the public gallery. Spectators rushed down to the main floor, but were ejected by officials.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, May 25. (AP) — Good demand was reported Wednesday for the light receipts on the Fort Worth cash grain market.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis carloads, freight paid, delivered Texas Gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: Wheat, No. 1 ordinary hard milling 62@63; No. 1 hard 13 per cent protein 62 1-2@63 1-2; 14 per cent protein 64 1-2@65 1-2; 15 per cent 66 1-2@67 1-2; 16 per cent 68 1-2@69 1-2. Barley, No. 2 nominally 24@26. Sorghums, No. 2 yellow milo or white kaffir per 100 lb. 73 1-2@74 1-2.

Delivered Texas common points or group three: Corn, No. 2 mixed 41 1-2@42; No. 2 white 42@42 1-2; No. 2 white 48@49 1-2.

Delivered Texas common points: Oats, No. 2 red 24 1-2@25 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 25. (AP) — Confident buying, coupled with the presence of two widely known speculative leaders, gave a fresh upturn to wheat prices today. Belief apparently grew firmer that the bulk of damage to winter wheat was permanent.

Wheat closed firm at the day's top 1-2 to 7-8 above yesterday's finish, corn varying from 3-8 decline to 5-8 advance, oats 1-4 to 1-4 off to 1-4 up, and provisions at 10 cents setback to a rise of 2 cents.

NEWS BRIEFS

After a charge of threatening to kill his wife was filed against David Johnson, a Lubbock negro, the man was placed under $200 peace bond by Justice of the Peace H. K. Porter Wednesday. Police arrested Johnson.

Four Lubbock men, including Sam C. Arnett, president of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development, have returned from San Francisco where they attended the United States Chamber of Commerce convention. Other Lubbock men in the party were J. O. Jones, J. A. Hodges and C. E. Maedgen.

Four Lubbock people who attended the annual Texas Republican convention at Mineral Wells returned Wednesday. They were Post master and Mrs. John L. Vaughan, W. D. Girand, sr, and W. D. Girand, jr. Mr. Vaughan said yesterday that Wilbur C. Hawk, Amarillo publisher, and F. A. Blankenbeckler, receiver of the Plainview National bank, were named delegates from the 18th congressional district to the national convention.

M., is visiting relatives in Lubbock for several days. He has been elected for another year at Clovis. He has brought his vocational judging teams to the local school for training purposes for the past two seasons.

Toreador Seeking Freedom Of Press

More editorial liberty for The Toreador is one of the proposals of Marshall C. Formby, editor, in the final edition for this scholastic year of the college weekly newspaper. Formby also proposes purchases of printing presses to permit the paper to be issued semi-weekly and eventually daily.

The edition will be distributed Thursday. Summing up the year's activities of the paper, another editorial sets out, "We have worked only for those things which we thought were better for Texas Tech. Our personal interests have been laid aside for we have had 'no enemies to punish or friends to reward.'"

Under a heading of "There's Work To Be Done," the paper proposes 14 accomplishments, of which one is "More liberty allowed The Toreador in its editorial columns."

It is proposed that "social clubs get down to real work and do something constructive. There are numerous things to be done on the campus besides giving dances and 'tea sippings.'"

Other suggestions include: More interest in athletics, a better spirit among classes, interest in the artist course numbers, an auditorium and compulsory convocations, striving for higher scholastic standing in the college, improved support of the Matador band, shortened final exam periods, better working conditions among those making their way through college, graduation of seniors before underclassmen go home.

A banker, he stated, "at whose bank the high binders do business and often congregate to discuss their political maneuvers," advised him they did not want him to make speeches out of the state. Bank Robberies two weeks ago from a Longview oil company.

However, when the robbers came back today they were using another car. They entered the bank about 9:30 a. m. and covered McClung with pistols. They at first tried to open the safe themselves. Failing, they ordered McClung to open it or be shot. In all, they were in the bank not over five minutes, McClung said. They took about $14 in small change from cash drawers.

J. A. Shuttlesworth, a grocer whose establishment was across the street from the bank, saw the robbers enter the car and leave.

Five Captured By Posse After Chase

FREDERICKTOWN, Mo., May 25. (AP)—A few hours after six men had held up the Security bank here and fled with $500, five of the sextette were captured by a posse headed by State Highway Patrolman Howard Turnbull.

The robbers, who were captured gave their names and addresses as follows: Angelo Strazzo, 25, Kansas City; Pete Greto, 21, Kansas City; Joe Modo, 23, Kansas City; Sam Thomas, 27, Chicago, and Fred Conway, 28, Longview, Texas.

Alarm Sounded

Cecil Phillips a garage mechanic working across the street, saw the robbers enter the bank and gave the alarm. Several persons armed with weapons began shooting at the robbers' car and the driver called to his companions to come out.

During the shooting one of the tires of the robber car was punctured, but the men drove west on highway 70. A short distance out of Fredericktown they stopped an automobile, removed the driver, Clarence Honea and took his car, abandoning their own.

Patrolman Turnbull organized a posse and gave chase, finally catching up to the robbers and forcing their car into the ditch. The men took refuge in a wooded area. The posse surrounded the area and Turnbull lead a small group into the woods. Five of the robbers surrendered without resistance and a sixth was sought in the woods late today.

Officers found $200 of the money taken today on the five men, and $300 was still in the hands of the sixth bandit.

WASHINGTON, May 25. (AP) — Will Rogers, cowboy humorist, won't be able to umpire at the baseball game between house Democrats and Republicans.

He telegraphed Representative McMillan of South Carolina, captain of the Democratic nine:

"Say, I sure would like to see you fellows play ball. I have seen you playing there in the house but I never saw you play outdoors. I can't get anywhere under this Republican administration but I will be at next year's game."

George Gordon Battle, Blackmer's attorney, said today he had received no intimation that the wealthy Colorado oil man would break his exile and come back from France.

Without a record vote, a motion by Senator Norbeck (R., S. D.) to increase the tariff on butter from 14 to 18 cents a pound was rejected.

A proposal by Senator Hull (D., Tenn.) to forestall any tariff increases for two years was overwhelmed on almost a straight party vote, 42 to 34.

It was at this juncture that Senator Reed entered his appeal calling attention to the withdrawal last week of $127,000,000 in gold from the United States.

"We can stand a run for a considerable time," he said, "thanks to the Glass-Steagall credit bill which we all supported. We can stand it much longer than our depositors think we can."

Immediately afterward, the senate voted by 52 to 18 to retain the three per cent levy on passenger automobiles.

Duties In Congress Keep Speaker Under Fire As Boom For Presidency Takes Big Strides To Fore

General Position On Current Issues Of State Are Shown

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, May 25—Speaked "Jack" Garner's presidential boom developed with a sudden rush, aided by a generally high opinion of his leadership in the House.

Then it seemed to collapse in a single day—that day on which the House revolted against both the Democratic and Republican leadership, refusing to impose a sales tax on the country as recommended by the leaders.

The Garner boom has revived somewhat since his unexpected victory in the California primaries over Governor Roosevelt and Al Smith. It doesn't look nearly as husky as it did before the sales tax vote. And the recent House rebellion against the omnibus economy bill hasn't helped it. But Garner is expected to have the third largest number of delegates on the first ballot at Chicago and it is too early to count him out.

Through these ups and downs Garner has not said a word or lifted a finger to indicate his unquestionable normal desire for the presidency. The support he has had has come without his seeking.

A true picture of Garner's career as speaker in the last five months indicates that his national prestige and his chances of nomination may have suffered more than they deserved. Garner, after all, has been constantly in the spotlight, right under the gun, while other Democratic presidential possibilities have been subject to no such dangers.

It is perhaps idle to guess whether another man could have done a better job than Garner, but the matter is open to argument.

THE theory that any leader could control a house of Congress at all times with a skimpy majority of five votes seems slightly fantastic. Minority Leader Bert Snell has had no more luck controlling his Republicans this year than Garner has had with his Democrats.

Republicans in former years have controlled the House only by virtue of large majorities and firm repressive rules. Garner unquestionably could have displayed greater political sagacity in handling the tax and economy bills, but this year congressmen are frightened about their jobs and unusually subject to outside pressure.

Garner's task has been delicate and he has usually avoided taking strong public positions.

It also is argued by his friends, in opposition to the theory that Garner has flopped miserably on the job, that he has been no more than a victim of his traditionally Democratic policy of liberalization of the House rules.

By use of a gag rule, the most able parliamentarians here feel, the Democratic leadership could have jammed both the sales tax and the economy bill through the House. That is what would have happened, presumably, if the old Republican machine had been in control.

But Garner and the Democrats always have stood for free expression of the will of the House and the first thing they did last December was to work out a plan of rules revision which made it much easier for the House to act against the wishes of its leaders.

So the bills were brought in under the most liberal possible rules, the opposition had time to form and the House, acting as an uncontrolled legislative body, built up a bad reputation for itself in conservative quarters. And Garner, from the standpoint of his boom, suffered worst of all. Partly because he had an impossible job and partly because he failed to display his qualities of leadership at a time when that was generally expected of him.

He may be properly accused of bad political judgment in espousing the sales tax and he was willing to let the House take its course instead of leaping into the fight until it was all over.

IT SEEMS unlikely that the Democrats will nominate him in Chicago, even if Roosevelt is pushed out of the picture. But he may yet regain some of his apparent former strength. His general record is excellent for a presidential nominee, despite his two main handicaps: the fact that he is the man who couldn't control the House and the fact that he is a southerner.

The speaker's name is not expected to figure in any more primaries. Most state primary laws insist on some declaration from anyone who enters and Garner has refused to consent to anything but a completely passive attitude. His friends say that he is strong in some states which are sending uninstructed delegations to the convention, so he may have more votes on the first ballot than the 90 pledged to him from Texas and California.

Ever since the 1930 election it had been common opinion that this session of the House would be chaotic. After Garner had jumped the preliminary hurdles and the House began to function smoothly, mostly on bi-partisan measures sponsored by the administration, loud cheers came from all sides and Garner was hailed as something of a super-man.

In organizing the Democratic House he avoided a bad internal fight which had been predicted and he persuaded the Democratic members as a solid group to answer roll calls. He handled his situation intelligently and firmly and evoked applause as he put through the rules liberalization and speeded the reconstruction measures.

He performed a difficult, delicate task when he lined up his party, with its narrow majority and divisions of opinion, behind a tariff measure which purported to keep party pledges and was directed at the general system of high protective duties without changing any specific rates.

Other measures have been accelerated under Garner leadership, creating a praiseworthy picture which accentuates the sad effect of the sales tax and economy blotches. Garner, of course, was unquestionably responsible for the Ways and Means Committee's decision to bring the sales tax proposal before the House.

AS THE House went short of breath after the sales tax fight and wondered what to do next Garner took the floor for a melodramatic, patriotic appeal which he climaxed by urging the House to arise and signify its intention of balancing the budget.

The House arose almost in its entirety. It was a clever bit of stage play, it helped pass the tax bill without much more trouble and restored confidence among many persons who appeared to be worrying lest the country collapse or something.

Lately Garner has been promoting a purely Democratic program the chief features of which, aside from the tariff measure and the Philippines independence bill which he shot through in a rush, are the Goldsborough price stabilization bill and the Seagall bill for guaranteeing bank deposits.

His general position on various current issues may be summarized as follows:

PROHIBITION: Voted against Eighteenth Amendment. Voted for all enforcement measures. Supposed to believe that prohibition should be handled by the states instead of federal government. Failed to vote, as speaker, on the Beck-Linthicum resolution, but probably would come out for re-submission if nominated.

TAXATION: Stresses paramount need of maintaining nation's financial integrity, believing the method of secondary importance. Has fought for maintenance of estate taxes and has favored higher taxes on high bracket incomes. Accepted sales tax idea "reluctantly."

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF: Opposed to "dole." Favors federal assistance, if any, through appropriations for highways and public works. Supported the voting of 40,000,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat for the unemployed.

WAR DEBTS: Opposes cancellation and caused House Democrats to tack onto the moratorium resolution the declaration that Congress opposed any cancellation, reduction or favorable consideration of such a policy at any time.

GOVERNMENT REGULATION AND OWNERSHIP: Favors regulating public utilities of all kinds. Inspired enmity of "power trust" by hard work for Muscle Shoals and Boulder Dam legislation. He is credited, however, with responsibility for recent passage of the House Muscle Shoals bill which is unsatisfactory to friends of the Norris measure.

FARM RELIEF: Voted for all such measures, including equalization fee and export debenture plans. Believes ultimate solution lies largely in co-operation.

TARIFF: Favors "reasonable protection" which will not be a burdent on poor people for benefit of large, profitable corporations.

Federal Building Offices To Open

Mrs. Olive Fluke, U. S. deputy clerk here, will be the first person to occupy a suite of offices in the new federal building. Mrs. Fluke is planning to move files and records of her office Thursday from the county court house.

The federal courtroom on the third floor of the new building will be ready for the spring term of U. S. district court here Monday, Postmaster John L. Vaughan said Wednesday. Judge William H. Atwell of Fort Worth will preside.

Mr. Vaughan said Wednesday he could not set a definite date for removal of the postoffice to the new location. Necessary furniture to equip the postoffice section has not arrived.

Assignment of boxes in the federal building, however, has been underway since Monday, when the postmaster sent out letters to patrons. The letters set out that, "It is my desire to assign in every instance possible the same postoffice box number to you that you now have. However, this will not be possible in many cases as we have a smaller number of boxes in the new equipment."

A deposit of 20 cents for each box key must be made. "Boxes cannot be opened without keys and mail will not be handed out of boxes by clerks under any circumstances," the letters said. "If you forget your key please do not request anyone to get your mail from your box."

The new office has 1,204 boxes.

The offices of the deputy clerk are on the southwest corner of the third floor and include two rooms and a filing closet, Mrs. Fluke said.

Two carloads of furniture already have arrived, in addition to a considerable number of drop shipments, Mr. Vaughan said. A third carload is to arrive Thursday.

The American-owned radio station in Mukden has reopened, giving direct service to the United States and to Europe by way of this country.
