Boyd And Connor On Atlantic Hop

"COLUMBIA" IS OFF AGAIN ON CROSSING

VETERAN MONOPLANE USED BY CANADIAN FOR JOURNEY

(By The Associated Press) HARBOR GRACE, N. F., Oct. 9.—Captain Errol Boyd, and Lieut. Harry Connor hopped off at 11:20 a. m. est. in the airplane "Columbia" for England.

The two fliers had been found at the local airport for more than two weeks. They were prepared to take advantage of the first break in the weather.

It came during the forenoon when the clouds broke away and the fliers decided to take the leap immediately.

On Second Crossing The veteran monoplane "Columbia" essayed her second trans-Atlantic crossing when she put out over the Atlantic ocean today from Harbor Grace, N. F., with Captain Errol Boyd at the controls and Lieutenant Harry E. Connor as navigator.

The old ship, which belongs to Charles A. Levine, is the vessel in which Clarence Chamberlin and Levine flew across the Atlantic from Roosevelt field to Kottbus, Germany, in June, 1927.

Cracked Up Once Since then it has carried Mabel Boll to Havana, it cracked up at the takeoff of a projected flight to Rome and was damaged in a flight which Levine made in over Roosevelt field.

No other plane still in rigorous service has, perhaps, the sturdy record of the "Columbia."

Captain Boyd in command of today's flight, began last spring to prepare for the trip.

First Canadian to enlist in the Royal Air force during the World war, Boyd had flown the mails for several years. He selected Connor, who navigated the plane in which Roger G. Williams recently flew to Bermuda, as his navigator.

TEXAN NAMED CO-OP MAN

HENRY G. SAFFORD TO JOIN STAFF SOON; TO RULE SALES

(By The Associated Press)
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 9.—An announcement today that Henry G. Safford, member of the cotton firm of McCas and Safford of Houston, Texas, would join the staff of the American Cotton Cooperative association at New Orleans, was described by E. F. Crekmore, general manager of the association, as the "greatest single step in organization since the cotton co-operative was established."
"Mr. Safford, a recognized factor in the cotton world, will become manager of the sales department in charge of cotton," said Mr. Crekmore. "He will liquidate his business in Houston and devote his entire time to interests of the cotton cooperative association."

Is Important Man

The new staff member is a past president of the Texas Cotton association and also of the American Cotton Shippers' association.

As to progress of the association, Mr. Crekmore remarked: "We are in the business buying and selling cotton, just the same as any cotton commission house. Mr. Safford's decision to enter the organization has strengthened our connections and he has decided to come with us after several months of persuasion."

"OLD TIMERS" OF OIL INDUSTRY ARE HONORED IN PETROLEUM EXPOSITION

(By The Associated Press)

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 9.—The "old timers" of the oil industry held sway at the International Petroleum Exposition and congress today. Nearly 200 of them, including many from the scene of the industry's early development in Pennsylvania, took part in the day's activities.

E. H. Sloan, 85-year-old veteran of the Titusville, Pa., field, now living in Pittsburgh, Pa., was selected as the "grand old man of the industry" and J. J. Larkin, 68, of Tulsa, who started his oil career in the Bradford, Pa., field was named the "grand old man of Tulsa" in the feature event of the day's program.

Gold medals were presented to Sloan and Larkin after a luncheon for the pioneers. Sloan has a record of 65 years in the oil industry while Larkin, one of the directors of the Exchange National Bank of Tulsa, has 52 years' service to his credit. Barney Horrigan, Tulsa, one of the best known of the pioneers, was chairman of the old timer program.

Selection of the two "grand old men" is an annual event of the old timers organization, membership in which requires a minimum of 40 years' service in the oil industry.

The petroleum division, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, concluded a three-day meeting with a session at which technical papers on refining subjects were presented.

Colonel Bob, a mountain in the Olympic range of the Pacific northwest, was named after Colonel Robert Ingersoll in 1896.

SIXTY-SIX YEARS OF SEARCHING IS ENDED AS CAPTURED GIRL IS FOUND LIVING AS INDIAN IN SOONER TRIBE

(By The Associated Press)

LAWTON, Okla., Oct. 9.—The sixty-six year search for Millie Durpan, taken captive by Indians when an 18 months' old child has ended, Harry A. Stroud, secretary of the historical society of Comanche county, writes in a special dispatch for the Daily Oklahoman.

Millie Durpan was abducted by Kiowa and Comanche Indians when they raided a settlement on the Brazos river in Texas in 1864. A search has been under way since that time.

She was discovered recently living among the Kiowa Indians, at Mountain Park, Oklahoma, in southern Kiowa county, bearing an Indian name, unable to speak English and married into one of the leading families of the tribe.

Known to the Indians as Mrs. Sain-Toh-Oodie-Goombi, the woman who was Millie Durpan, lists as her direct descendants nine children, 32 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

CIRCUS AND POLITICAL RALLY ARE MIXED IN NEVADA TOWN; GOVERNOR RIDES ELEPHANT

(By The Associated Press)
 RENO, Nev., Oct. 9.—In competition with a circus in a small town, a political meeting is about as attractive to the proletarian as an epidemic of measles but it is possible to mix the two together and have a big time.
 This was demonstrated at Yearnington, Nev., by the Republican candidates now on a vote seeking tour of Nevada, who landed in the town with their speeches all wrapped up just as the two elephants and one camel and the steam caliope were occupying the center of the main street.
 The rally was called off. With United States Senator Tasker L. Odie in the lead the candidates headed for the circus and were immediately given star spots in the performance. The senator and Governor F. B. Balzar were honored with enviable positions on top of the elephants' heads and Lieutenant Governor Morley Griswold was given the services of the camel to ride in the grand opening number.
 The senator and the governor managed to stick on top of the swaying heads of the elephants but the lieutenant governor came to grief directly in front of the high priced seats. The camel stopped suddenly and Griswold lost his grip on

Thought For Today
Anger rests in the bosom of fools.—Ecclesiastes 7:9.

An angry man is again angry with himself when he returns to reason.—Publius Syrus.

A Genius
A pen and ink sketch of Virginia Clemm, the girl who became the wife of Edgar Allan Poe, shared misery and hardship with him and finally died of cold, hunger and general impoverishment, has been discovered in the east, and it is said a strange, romantic interest exists in the belief that it was drawn by Poe himself.

There are other sketches with it, all supposedly drawn by Poe; but it is this one that draws people's attention. It shows a face that is calm, peaceful and happy; if Poe himself actually drew it he must have done it before privation came to wreck Virginia Clemm's life—or perhaps, like the genius he was, he looked beyond those things and sketched not the girl that really existed, but the girl that might have existed if the fates had been a bit kinder.

If this portrait, was really the work of Poe, it is an extremely valuable discovery; and this is true, not merely because Poe was a great poet, but also because Virginia Clemm is such a pathetic and appealing figure. How we would like to know more about her! How we would like to see, not a portrait of her drawn by Poe, but a portrait of her drawn by her!

For Virginia Clemm suffered that strangest of fates that can befall a woman; she married an authentic genius.

Such marriages—genuses being extremely rare—are not common;
and the girl who gets into one of them is apt to find that the world is a place filled with wonder and terror, unpredictable and un-comprehensible. But it may be, after all, that Virginia Clemm's life—or
perhaps, like the genius he was, he did not need quite as much sympathy as the world has given her.

To be sure, she suffered the physical torments of cold and hunger. She was oppressed by poverty throughout her short married life.
She died very young. But it may be that it was worth it.

For, after all, she lived with a man who had eyes that could see and a voice that could sing. Gazing into the circumscribed world that was America a century ago, he was able to find beauty and mystery and passion so freely that his songs and his stories are still alive today, and will live for many more generations. What girl would not be willing to go hungry now and then if the man of her heart could create, from the light in her own eyes, a thing like "Annabel Lee"?

Marrying a poet, even a poor one, even a poet who does not know that he is a poet, is risky business.
Marrying a genuinely great poet is a sure road to disaster. But it is not the worst fate conceivable. It may mean sorrow and misery and heartbreak—but it will also, now and then, mean ecstasy.

One good thing about horsehoe picking is that you can throw the pants and still be on the level.

One of the saddest things a dry country like ours has to bring itself to is to mention each year
"The first nip of Jack Frost."

A college president declares the American colleges are turning out morons wholesale. That is, illiterately speaking.

The English writer who wrote after a visit to this country that American cooking was full surprisingly apparently lived on a diet of hash.

A new cook book suggests that pies be baked hereafter without an undercrust. But how will our peevish-purchasing movie comedians message it?

Italy, we learn with surprise, has highways on which it is no violation to speed 90 miles an hour. And the office will advance the explanation that this country's highways are so full of traffic that it is impossible to go faster.

THE PLAINSMAN

Says:
That Girl on Broadway says most people feel intellectual when they talk solemnly about subjects they don't care anything about.

Some married women must wonder why any flapper would want to steal a husband.

THE Plainsman's idea of the last word in intelligence is being able to figure up an income tax return that will suit the efficient gentlemen who draw their dough from dear, old Uncle Sam. I don't believe at all—or else the ways and means of figuring out the returns are too damned intricate. Here's one poor devil who never has satisfied the lads in Washington.

I got a letter from Uncle Sam this morning and I am amazed to discover I made one item of $3,750 in 1929 that I didn't know about. Uncle Sam found it now if I can find it everything will be hundred. I'll just give Uncle Sam half of it to square our accounts—then I'll be $1,875 ahead of the game!

I did just like everybody else does on the income tax business. I subtracted everything I could think of from the total profits, added the date and divided by 17. I thought that would be the whole business up, but it apparently did not. Now I'm going to have to do it all over again and I don't even remember whether I got paid anything in 1929 or not—and whether I made or lost anything on the side other than in crap.

JUST stopped to look over the income tax puzzle I got from Andy Mellon's helpers and I have decided to have a lot of duplicates printed, copyright them and start a new game similar to—but a lot harder to figure out than crossword puzzles, contract bridge and backgammon. Then I'll get so rich I'll buy the government and do away with the income tax.

How would this sound: "Here it is, folks, a brand new game! Figure out your income, if any! Come ovah, come ovah!"

Still, it's a long lane that has no parked automobiles and every cloud has its queer appearance. Mr. Hoover's administration has been given a lot of knobs but it will eliminate a flock of us from having to pay income tax along about next March!

I'm not any good at figures—that is, mathematical figures. I never was because my first arithmetic teacher was bow-legged, therefore, according to Freud, I got the wrong psychology. Anyway, I am an undecided about this income tax query. I would like to see a man in a crowded restaurant—I don't know what's mine and what's the other fellow's.

HOWEVER, I have got one break.
I've got a Dad up in the En-dian country who is as good on mathematical figures as Pio Ziegler is on the other kind. He can answer questions like "What's 763 times 886, divided by 22-1-2" in the twinking of an eye—and answer them right, without using a pencil.
I'm just going to send all the data up to him and let him figure out how much I owe Uncle Sam or too low and hours are much too long." Mrs. Robins explained, "But proper organization is requisite before we
can undertake to put the southern
textile workers on an equal basis with labor elsewhere in the country."

"Mill owners, refusing to recognize the right of workers to belong to a union, are discharging those who engage in any union activity.
In Danville, Va., workers who have been employed as long as 40 years have been thrown out of their jobs for no other reason. In Greensboro, 38 families were put out of their houses and into the streets."

"There is thus far no textile city in the south where the union is formally recognized by the employers and where workers cannot be discharged for union membership.
We are making every effort to conciliate disputes and to obtain recognition by persuasion. Strikes will not be called unless it has been definitely proved that there is no other way. But whenever a strike does become necessary, labor intends to win it. Any future strikes will be scientifically organized, with relief well planned in advance and with the support of organized labor throughout the country."

Warfare Discontinued
Mrs. Robins has had considerable association with the southern mountain folk from whom most of the workers have been drawn into the mills of Tennessee, Georgia, the Carolinians and Virginia. They left their mountain homes thinking $10 a week was all the money in the world, she says, falling to anticipate.

Labor Troubles In Southern Textile Mills Have Subsided
But Unions Still Wage Fight To Better Conditions There

By ROONEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The last hasn't been heard of the labor situation in the southern textile mills.

Although there have been no strikes and no shootings of mill workers for many months, organized labor has been burrowing its headquarters from unorganized territory and since January has established 40 new local unions of the United Textile Workers of America.

There are about 367,000 textile workers in the south, and labor's present task is to get them into unions and to make their employers and the other people of the south recognize their rights to organize, according to Mrs. Raymond Robins, the social economist, who is president of the National Women's Trade Union League.

The league has been devoting most of its attention to the south since it decided two years ago to move its headquarters from Chicago to Washington in order to be more closely in touch with the situation.
At the annual meeting of its executive board here recently, little else was considered than its southern work, in which it is co-operating with the United Textile Workers and the American Federation of Labor.

Need Organization
"Wages in those mills are far too low and hours are much too long," Mrs. Robins explained, "but proper
organization is requisite before we
can undertake to put the southern
textile workers on an equal basis

try."

Diet and Health
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

SPINACH PREScribes
SPINACH AFTER ILLNESS
SPINACH IS one of the oldest of vegetables from the standpoint of its general use. As I have often noted before, we moderns would hardly know the foods served by our remote ancestors. Certainly we would not consider anything at their tables fit to eat.

The long process
of cultivation of
fruits, berries,
vegetables, cereals, and even milk and animal
flesh, has given us a table un-
ampled in variety and appetiz-
ingness if there
is any such word.

Spinach probably originated in Europe from Persia. During the expansive period of the great navigators, many thin strange food stuffs were introduced into Europe. Thus during the fifteenth century and early sixteenth century, spinach, potatoes, beans, and egg yolk, first appeared on English tables. Catherine of Aragon, wife of Henry VIII, first prepared green salads for her adopted countrymen.

Spinach grows well nearly everywhere in temperate climates. Most of the American spinach comes from Texas and Virginia.
Like the tomato, it does not have a high nutritive value, only 109 calories per pound, as compared to 1586 for beans. But it contains a great deal of pigment, and more iron than any other common food except peas and egg yolk. Thus it is an excellent food for blood building after debilitating diseases or operations, and for growing infants and children. The only difficulty, as everyone knows, is to get children to eat spinach. It is possible, however, by promising him an air rifle, a Shetland pony and a gold watch to get a five-year-old boy to eat enough spinach to do him as much good as the yolk of one egg would.

Beans are among the most making of foods. I spoke of lima beans yesterday. Today I hymn the praise of the ordinary, common bean. It is more nutritious than wheat, containing very large amounts of nitrogenous matter in the form of legumin. Dried beans contain 22 per cent of protein, 2 per cent of fat and 80 per cent of carbohydrate. Their nutritive value is the same as the lima bean—1586 calories per pound.

String beans in the fresh state are less concentrated, but have a good deal of vegetable protein, and partly the expense of life in comparatively civilized communities. After learning the cost of living they were introduced to the speedup and stretch-out systems.

"We have always tried to interpret the working groups to the public," Mrs. Robins says, "and this is especially true in the south where mill workers have never been looked upon as part of their towns but as a class outside the pale. We want the south to realize that mill workers are folks just like the rest of us and that they aren't just dumb and contented creatures satisfied with whatever crumbs they are given.
We want co-operation when we can get that idea across."

"We have a tremendous job before us, but it is worth the effort because we are trying to raise the standard of living for the most exploited group in America."

Americans are believed to have spent nearly $20,000,000 in Germany this year.

In New York
With Swan
Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Eddie Cantor, the owl-eyed comic, is back from the Hollywoods with an appealing parade of gags about its inhabitants.

On the other hand, he has set up his home there and moved in his family. He is one of the few of the returning New York natives to leap to the defense of the town that makes pictures you see and hear.
By the way—they call it "scene and herd"—in these parts. He says he is through with the theater and will have movies only for a meal-ticket, with an occasional double in vaudeville, mayhap.

Be all this as it may, he talks of the recent "bouncing check" episode in the life of Clara Bow. You recall that Clara dropped quite a few plasters in and about a western gaming hall and that the check she presented had some family resemblance to a tennis ball. She defended herself by stating she had misunderstood the value of the chips, believing them to be of 50-cent denomination.

"Clara says she didn't know the difference between 50 cents and a hundred dollars," gags Cantor.
"Imagine anyone playing around with Harry Richman for six months and not knowing four bits from a century!"

"When I played in 'Kid Boots,' I had the sweet job of kissing Clara and getting paid for it. Her kisses are just like her checks—they come bouncing back."

"Hollywood gossip is priceless.
You hear it everywhere. When I had been in town but one week, I was firmly convinced that Gloria Swanson was married to Ronald Colman secretly and that Wallace Beery was their child.

"Another thing about Hollywood is the show they put on when a picture premiere is being staged. Arrivals and flood lights from the hills, sirens blow and mob pack the streets. We got in the habit of going to all of them."

"One night, from our hilltop, we saw a beacon flashing across the sky. We hopped in our car fearing we were missing an opening. We found nothing in Hollywood and raced into Los Angeles. There we found spotted the great light. Finally, after chasing all over, we saw a crowd and heard a band and beheld a tremendous flood of brilliant lights. As we approached, we could see wagons coming up with flowers."

My wife remarked that we had at last found the place. When we got there, it was the opening of a new meat market."

The afternoon papers bring tragic news Jack Donaghy is dead—dead at the age of 38, the greatest tap dancer of them all—a fellow who could, with infinite art and skill, manipulate the most rhythmic feet in the theater.

Oddly enough Jack had been haunted by an unquenchable fear of getting old. It amounted almost to the Freudian fixation, or phobia.
It was age that bothered him so much as the idea that with the passing years his nimble feet would fall to respond to his bidding.

He had been around the theater and he had seen what the years will do. Whenever he was a bit weary and the mechanical perfection of his step missed by so much as a trifle, he would sigh and wonder if that day wasn't just around the corner. It was from all appearances, still a long way off.

Donaghy's mother had not waned him to be a dancer. It was her wish that he become an architect.
Once he dropped his dancing for several years to enter a draughts-man's office. But he couldn't make it stick.

He came from Boston—over by the yards and docks—and started out with a medicine show. He was only a kid and while still a youngster graduated to Broadway.

When he died he was working on the musical adaptation to a piece to be called "Prince Charming."

The professor of an eastern college says that the art of conversation has been lost. This is due, perhaps, to our predilection for whispering campaigns.

THE THYMIES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

For 'bout an hour the soldiers stood and put stunts that were real good. The Thymies were amazed to see how easily things were done.
One soldier grabbed another by his hands and lifted him up high. Instead of making it hard work they made it look like fun.

And then they took up wrestling. To one was Clowdy shouted, "You can't beat the other on his back. No, sir! I'll bet so that." The wrestler smiled and snapped, "We'll see!" And then, as quick as quick could, he grabbed his strong opponent and soon had him spread out flat.

"Let's try that stunt," brave Scouty cried. And Cappy walked up to his side and said, "All right, I'll wrestle you. Look out, you'll soon be loosed." But Scouty acted much too quick. He pulled a very clever trick that caught poor Cappy unawares, so Cappy promptly lost.

The athletes then cried out "Good day," and they were on their merry way. The Thymies tried to do some more of stunts that they had seen. But soon they all began to puff. The Travel Man said, "That's enough! Please follow me. I'll take you to another pretty scene."

They hiked out to the edge of town and saw a man come walking down the roadside. Soon the Travel Man yelled loudly, "Howdy do!
You'll wonder what we're out here
for. Well, I have just you once before. I merely brought the Thymies
out to say hello to you."

The man shook hands with everyone and said, "Well, this is lots of fun. I'm glad to have some visitors. You see, I work all day. But now I'll just what we're out here
for. Well, I have just you once before. I merely brought the Thymies
out to say hello to you."

THE PLAINSMAN GETS SOME MAIL LAMESA MAN WRITES ON THE CRIME WAVE

The most terrible thing we have in our country is the crime wave.
It is the most expensive thing of all industries, and costing this country more than any other, industry in the land. It costs this country more money than steel, clothing, and theatres combined.
It is causing slavery, debauchery and a gambling hall here in this world. It is causing poverty and oppression in our land. It would be a welcome move if our preachers would work out some system by which some of this could be abolished. Get the leaders of society, and the officers of our land to assist them in this move.

The crime wave is causing people to drop low in the slough of dependency. Now take a peep through the key-hole at our little city and see the crimes that could be stopped if there was a system they could work to, although our city is richer better than great many other places in our country. We are only a middle town class of people we are not able to go into high society. We have some people that go the route of "go getters" and paying no attention to the church, society, or anything else. Then we have another class that is going the "meek and blessed" route, and think that everything ought to be done through the church, and not practical in any sense at all, so you see our city is divided up into three classes: the middle town class, go getters, and the meek and blessed." But say the least of it we are hearing heaven or hell, every day that we live, and the crime wave still goes on. In my day when I was a boy, people would go to church and shout, but now days the church pulpit are empty.
Preachers step up and talk and the congregation is not concerned at all.

In the evening they go to baseball, and football and shoot. Ever Sunday we see the preacher going to church with their potential tools and able to preach if all the people would follow, but they will not.
Although as they pass by, they will use the personal greeting, but no good. And it is counted an intelligent expression to ask any one to come and go to church. Now isn't this remarkable and a great satisfaction to look at these in this light.
And any far seeing man or woman can do things worth while if they want to as we are creators of the imitation of God, and ought to help out in this great crime wave.

Fort Worth Lady Eagerly Praises New Medicine That Brought Quick Relief—Others Failed

MRS. LOUISE LEE

"My health was in a bad condition for over a year," said Mrs. Louise Lee, 2922 South Main Street, Fort Worth. "I was very nervous and the least noise upset me. I did not sleep well at night—I had neuritis in my shoulders and arms and often found my housework more than I could do. My stomach was weak and food fermented causing heartburn and headaches. My kidneys were affected and my back was stiff and sore all the time. Konjola certainly gave me the surprise of my life. By the time I had finished the third bottle, my nervous condition had been righted. Neuritis pains and soreness have vanished and there is not a trace of that ailment now. My food digests perfectly and I can eat anything I wish. My kidneys are again normal!"

It is of just such endorsements as this that the record of Konjola is made up. It is recommended for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is sold in Lubbock, Texas at Bowen's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section—adv.

ATHLETICS HAVE RIGHT TODAY TO BE CALLED "A GREAT TEAM"

CONNIE MACK HIMSELF IS THE JUDGE

AMERICAN LEAGUERS ON TOP OF HEAP AGAIN FOR 2ND TIME

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9. (AP)—The Athletics of Philadelphia, World's champions for the second time in two years, had a right today to consider themselves "a great team." The accolade was bestowed by no less a judge of baseball teams than Connie Mack himself. The 67-year-old manager of the Athletics refused to stamp his team as "great" after it had won the American league championship. First, he said, the A's must repeat as world's champions.

The American leaguers won the series in impressive fashion by capturing the sixth game, 7 to 1, from the southerners but impotent St. Louis Cardinals. The deciding game never was in doubt for the World's champions made two runs, enough to win, in the first inning, which the Misourians did not offer a serious threat to score until the ninth when they were seven runs behind.

Against the effective pitching of Big George Earnshaw, the Cards were almost helpless, failing to get a man to third base until two batsmen had been retired in the final inning. When the visitors counted their lone run they broke a streak of scoreless pitching against them by Earnshaw which had extended over a stretch of 22 innings. Not a world's series record but nevertheless impressive.

The big moose of the A's blanked the opposition in the last seven innings of the second game of the series, permitting six hits and winning 6 to 1. In the fifth game at St. Louis he went the first seven innings without being nicked for a pinch hitter. In this game he had allowed only two hits in the final game he turned the opposition back without a run and with only three hits until the ninth when a single and double with a pass in between was good for a run.

The triumph of the Athletics marked the fourth straight year in which the American league champion had won the highest prize baseball has to offer and 16 out of 19 won. The Cardinals of 1930, however, may take with the loser's share of the series receipts the satisfaction of carrying the autumn struggle a game longer than did the Chicago Cubs last year and two games farther along the trail than the Pirates of 1927 or the Cardinals of 1928, when the New York Yankees disposed of the National league opposition in the minimum time of four games.

DRAFT QUESTION TO BE UP BEFORE LEAGUES SESSION

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9. (AP)—Minor league officials assembled here today to organize their ranks for battle with the major leagues on the draft problem, but as far as the public was concerned the venerable Connie Mack stole the show.

Mack, jubilant over the triumph of his World's Champion Athletics, was due here today with the advance guard of the major leaguers and it was understood arrangements were being made for him to talk over a local radio station.

Representatives of three Class AA leagues, the American Association, the Pacific and International leagues, by tomorrow will prepare their answer to the boycott threatened by the majors unless they submit to some form of universal draft. They will confer with the major league officials tomorrow.

The three Class AA leagues at Chicago recently declared themselves firmly entrenched against any manner of draft.

The meetings also are expected to produce numerous promoters of minor league stars to the big time.

THE REALM OF SPOREX

With Collier Parris
Journal Sports Editor

The Westerners entrain at 7:30 this evening for Childress. They will play the Bobcats Saturday afternoon.

Fans at the Childress game Saturday will most likely see a somewhat unusual atmosphere above the playing field, clouded with pigskin. Both the Westerners and the Bobcats employ the aerial game, and for good gains, too.

Football in the Oil Belt district would not be half so interesting were it not for the continual warfare that goes on between the various sports writers. There's Boyce House of the Ranger Times, for instance, self-styled dean of West Texas sports scribes, called the big-fella "act" with Grove in the Oil Belt, who keeps up a perpetual wagging with Blondy Cross of the San Angelo papers. Pick up one of the papers on almost any day and you'll see more derisive comments directed at sports critics than you will find in news or comments on the various teams.

One paper there are four or five district and state championship teams in the loop next door south. If the coaches of the various teams would turn the gridirers over to the sports writers of the Oil Belt district, West Texas would always be represented by a state high school football champion, or two or three. As a matter of fact, the Oil Belt does produce some good teams, one of them nearly always going into the state semi-finals or finals. But if you notice, you will find that Breckenridge or Cisco and sometimes Abilene always figures high at the close of the season and the final game he turned the opposition back without a run and with only three hits until the ninth when a single and double with a pass in between was good for a run.

Ranger and San Angelo meet this week and one of the most important games of the Oil Belt loop. Ranger has figured prominently in pre-season dope, and is held to be one of the strongest teams in district 2. San Angelo is embarking on one of the teams most promising years, and the game is sure to be interesting over there this fall. Cisco is right at the top and going strong. It would not surprise us if the Lobos won the title in the loop this year. San Angelo's showing last week against a class B team, was not so impressive. The Falcons won, 7 to 6, in a hard fought contest, but those things will happen in the best of circles. We pick San Angelo to beat Ranger, by a narrow margin.

The Abilene High Eagles, managed by Prexy Anderson, who has three college teams to look after, besides all of the other teams in the Oil Belt, are still carrying a 1000 per cent average, though by no sensational level. The Elephants play El Paso High Saturday at the border town.

Former team mates will be at each other's throats Saturday when Lubbock and Childress play at Childress. Coach Henry Frnka of the Lubbock Westerners and Coach Jay Ballard of the Childress Bobcats were in school together and on the same teams at Austin College before taking up coaching as a profession. The assistant coach at Childress and the assistant coach at Lubbock, W. H. Keeling, also attended Austin College, were team mates, and roommates. Maybe the quartet of coaches will sit together in the stands and turn the game over to the gridirers, but we think not.

We watched the Westerners in their workout yesterday and came away with mingled feelings of satisfaction and regret. It was pleasing to see the Westerner offense at work. The boys have been taught some new plays, one of them consisting of a combination of runs and passes, called "Katie, Bar the Door", or at any rate that was the cry when the play started going. It is good, and if it works, will be a sure thing for short gains. But on the defense, the Westerners still showed a need for practice. Against passes, and there will be plenty of them Saturday, the locals were far from hot, and the Pioneers, who worked the Childrens play against them, got away to great gains. We wouldn't give 13 points and stake much on Saturday's conflict with the Bobcats.

MATADORS WORK OVERTIME

EARNSHAW BIG SERIES HERO ON MOUND

RIGHTHANDER WORKS IN 25 INNINGS AND LETS IN 2 RUNS

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Oct. 9. (AP)—There was only one nomination today for the players most entitled to enter the ranks of world's series heroes. He is George Livingston Earnshaw, New Yorker by birth, Philadelphia by adoption and achievement, alumnus of Swarthmore college and right-handed "iron man" pitcher, ace of the World's Championship Athletics.

Earnshaw is 30 years old now, long past the day when he used to hear the old college cheers, but he still parts his hair in the middle and looks the part of an undergraduate. He was a great football player as well as a star pitcher in college. He is the greatest right-handed "iron man" in baseball now and entitled to rank with such famous old-time stars as Joe McGinnity, Colby Jack Coombs, and Big Ed Walsh.

Finishes in Glory
After sharing the pitching "big act" with his team-mate and co-star, Robert Moses Grove, most of the week, Earnshaw wound up in a blaze of pitching glory by hurling 16 of the last 18 innings for the A's. Earnshaw broke up what was expected to be a repetition of the fifth game "act" with Grove by sticking until the last man was out, even though it was a struggle, while Grove continued to make gestures in the bullpen.

Earnshaw, altogether, pitched 25 innings against the Cardinals in three games, beat them twice and held the Indians for the first seven innings of the game, which Grove finished in St. Louis, and received official credit for winning. The "Big Moose" of the A's held his rivals scoreless for 22 innings in a row, which is a day and age featured by the so-called "Jack Rabbit" ball, stands comparison with the remarkable record of Christy Mathewson in pitching 27 successive shutouts innings against the Athletics in 1905.

Earnshaw Stung
Mathewson allowed 14 hits in the three shutout games he pitched against the Mackmen of 25 years ago. Earnshaw gave out only 13 hits and two runs in the 25 innings he worked against the Red Birds.

Grove, who scored two victories against one defeat, pitched a total of 19 innings, during which time the Cardinals collected 14 hits and five runs. Only three of these runs, however, were earned, the other two being due to an error by Dykes.

All Simmons was the most consistent of the hitters at bat during the series, in five of the six games. For the Cardinals, 22-year-old Charley Gelbert appearing in his first World's series, was a sensation at bat as well as in the field, reaching spectacular heights in the Red Birds to even the series at St. Louis. He led the Cardinal regulars at bat and handled 23 chances without a slipup in six games, making a number of sensational plays on ground balls.

Sunny Jim Bottomley, Cardinal first sacker, was the biggest disappointment for the Cardinals at bat, striking out nine times as he fell only one short of the record of ten made by George Kelly of the Giants in 1921. Bottomley probably has played his last game in a St. Louis uniform; the general expectation being that he will be traded before another season rolls around.

WESTERNERS TO LEAVE TONIGHT FOR GAME WITH CHILDRESS ON SATURDAY

Coaches Henry Frnka and Bill Keeling of Lubbock High School Westerners leave tonight for Childress where they meet the Childrens High School Bobcats in the pre-season game Saturday. Consistent practice this week, emphasized by daily scrimmage sessions with the Pioneers, second stringers, has whipped the Westerners into fighting shape again after their hard game with the Wichita Falls Coyotes last week.

The Pioneers, coached by Suede McMurry, will play their second game of the season tomorrow when they meet the Slaton High eleven at Slaton. They lost their first game by a decisive score to the Antlers High team in a game here during the Panhandle-South Plains fair but constant scrimmage against the Westerners has resulted in an improved Pioneer team, which should win over Slaton.

Most of the practice this week has been of the defensive type. The Bobcats are known to have an aerial attack that is one of the best in the district. With it they defeated two contenders for the district one title and scored twice against the strong Amarillo Sandstorm. The game, 19 of which were completed for a gain of 199 yards, Coach Frnka has been lining up his men against the Pioneers who were instructed to shower passes all over the field, and the Westerner line-backer feels that the locals will be able to defend themselves against such an onslaught.

Coach Frnka has not decided on a definite lineup for Saturday's game. Three of his aces will be out of the game. Co-Captain Dub Lawson, quarterback, and Bert Williams, star tackle, will be on the sidelines. Lawson has been ill with a severe cold this week, and Williams was injured in the Wichita Falls game. Payne, another tackle, has been out of town this week and will not be able to make the Childrens trip. Smith, Watkins, Johnson, and Teal may start in the backfield. Griggs and McGee are probable starters at guard and Brawley and Foster are being trimmed for the tackle posts. Crawford or Pace will start at center, with Martin and Watson at ends.

Even Judges Have A Love For Game

HASTINGS, Neb. (AP)—District Judge H. O. Blackledge demonstrated yesterday that even judges appreciate baseball. After hearing a case that concluded at noon, Judge Blackledge gave the jurors their choice.

They could either receive instructions and get their dinners at the expense of the county, or they could appreciate baseball. After hearing a case that concluded at noon, Judge Blackledge gave the jurors their choice.

There was an unanimous choice for the ball game.

PHIPPS BROTHERS DIVIDE FULLBACK POSITION ON KENTUCKY ELEVEN

STAGG DAY TO BE ON SATURDAY

CHICAGO, Oct. 9. (AP)—It will be "Stagg day" all around the University of Chicago football front Saturday.

Amos Alonzo Stagg, sr., himself will direct the Maroons against Wisconsin at Madison; his son, Paul, will act as captain in place of the injured captain Elmer Van Nice; Amos Alonzo Stagg, jr., will coach the reserve team in its game here against North Central college.

Coach Frnka has not decided on a definite lineup for Saturday's game. Three of his aces will be out of the game. Co-Captain Dub Lawson, quarterback, and Bert Williams, star tackle, will be on the sidelines. Lawson has been ill with a severe cold this week, and Williams was injured in the Wichita Falls game. Two Bachelors To Quit The Ranks

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 9. (AP)—Two bachelor bachelors are to be bridegrooms.

Joe Kuhel, first baseman for the Washington Senators, today obtained a license to marry Miss Willette West, Kansas City.

Kuhel, who gave his age as 24 and that of Miss West as 20, announced the ceremony will take place tomorrow at St. Francis Xavier church.

The Kuhels will defer their Ozarks honeymoon to be present at the wedding later of Lynn Nelson, of Chicago's Cubs, and Miss Anna Mae Galvin.

TECH COACHES KEEP SQUAD OUT LATE

IMPROVEMENT IS BEING SHOWN IN TEAM; TO MEET INDIANS

The October moon finds the Texas Tech Matadors on the gridiron each evening this week and if it could peek into the central room of Cheri Casa, the Matador dormitory, after 9 o'clock it would find them, nearly every night, in continued practice with charts, blackboards, and lectures describing tactics of the game. Coach Cawthon is spending all of the time available with his candidates, and there is no denying that the Matadors are showing a vast improvement.

The drills and practices this week are directed to the game Saturday with the McMurry College Indians of Abilene. The teams will meet at 3:15 on the Tech field in their fifth game, and the Matadors will be striving to prevent the team that has never defeated them from scoring. The Indians are one of the very few grid aggregations in this section who have failed to cross the Tech goal line in four games. Twice has Tech defeated them, 7 to 0, and twice the games have resulted in scoreless ties.

Indians Are Tough
Coach Crip Goughly, who does most of the scouting for Tech, returned to Lubbock yesterday after spending a few days in camp of the Indians. Since McMurry did not play last week, little is known of their type of attack, and the Matadors will go into the game rather blind. Coach Goughly comes back, however, with the announcement that the Indians will be pushed to the limit if they win. In a game with Abilene Christian College, which the Indians lost, 26 to 0, the Christians were able to register only three first downs against McMurry. The Indians, in the meantime, got away for 12, which means that although they were unable to score, their offensive power is not to be questioned. The Christians made their touchdowns when they got the breaks, intercepting a couple of passes and running long distances for the markers.

Two Departments Weak
In two departments, the Matadors show up rather weak. At either end there is a noticeable lack of pleasing material, though Coach Cawthon is gradually whipping the ends into better shape and more finished conditions. More than an hour is spent each day with special drills in this department.

The absence of Big George Langford from the lineup, due to intelligibility rules, has made the tackle posts rather weak. Yesterday Coach Cawthon spent some time with his tackles, taking them off to one side for individual workouts. Simmons and McWilliams or Jim Hill are the leading candidates for tackle positions while Langford is out. There is some hope held out for Langford's becoming eligible in the latter part of the season.

CHANGES ROLE

Pat Hanley Hurt In Grid Practice

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 9. (AP)—Coaching football at Northwestern getting to be a dangerous occupation.

Pat Hanley, Northwestern line coach, jumped into a scrimmage Tuesday and was battered badly by the charging backs. Today, an x-ray revealed two cracked ribs.

The University of Arizona at Houston will not be the first time the schools have met on the gridiron. The western eleven invaded Houston in 1922 and was beaten, 14 to 7, by a mediocre OU team. Coach Jack Meagher's new machine will be favored to tame the invaders without too much difficulty Saturday.

An important development in the state high school race was the defeat of the Fort Arthur Yellowjackets, last year's co-champions with Breckenridge, by Harlingen, a class B school. The score was 6 to 0, and it looks like for the first time in three years Coach Tom Denton will fail to attain the finals.

The Corsicans eleven continues to show up powerfully in the Central section, and the Cisco Lobos are the reigning sensation of the Oil Belt.

More than 33,000 tons of Russian antracite coal have been received in Montreal, Canada, this year.

RAZORBACKS NOT TO BE TAKEN TOO LIGHTLY BY FROGS; TRINITY MAY BE TOUGH FOR BEARS; MASON IS BEATEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
TULSA, Oct. 9. (AP)—Opening the defense for their conference football title Saturday in their new stadium at Fort Worth, the Texas Christian Frogs have been duly warned not to take the University of Arkansas eleven too lightly. The Razorbacks took a wallop from Tulsa University last week, but Raymond "Bear" Wolf, who scouted the melee for Coach Francis Schmidt, reported that the Porkers were much stronger than the score would indicate.

It was a case, Wolf said, of Tulsa having a powerful team and getting some very valuable breaks. The Razorbacks, moreover, played without the services of their regular quarterback, Holmes, who was kept on the sidelines by an injury. He will be ready to direct the big red machine against the Frogs Saturday.

Trinity Is Powerful
Indications are the Baylor Bears likewise will get a more severe test this week than had been anticipated. Trinity university, Tiger coach by Logan Stollenwerk, former S. M. U. idol, displayed a potent punch in trimming Daniel Baker, 20 to 2. The Tiger line is said to average 190 pounds.

The tilt will give Coach Morley Jennings an opportunity to see what the Baylor line can do in the way of advancing the ball. Parker received a broken nose in scrimmage and was unable to accompany the Bruins to Lafayette, Ind. last week. If Parker lives up to his name, the outlook down Waco way will be much brighter.

Unusual Feature
An unusual feature of the Southern Methodist-Notre Dame conflict was overlooked in the excitement. It marked the first time in Weldon Mason's five-year football career that he ever played on the losing side. The former Waco high school ace was not in the game, however, when Notre Dame scored the winning touchdown, having been carried from the field a few minutes before with an injured knee.

Neither Mason nor Malcolm Powell, Mustang center, will be ready for the game with Baylor at Waco next week. Their injured knees have been placed in casts.

Hise's inter-sectional host with the University of Oklahoma, which is the absence of Big George Langford from the lineup, due to intelligibility rules, has made the tackle posts rather weak. Yesterday Coach Cawthon spent some time with his tackles, taking them off to one side for individual workouts. Simmons and McWilliams or Jim Hill are the leading candidates for tackle positions while Langford is out. POULTRY RAISING BEING STRESSED

LAMESA, Oct. 9. (Special)—Poultry raising is one of Dawson county's most profitable industries. According to poultrymen over the county, now is the time to cull laying flocks for winter layers. Many farmers are having this done at this time, and beginning to feed balanced rations to their layers, in order to secure eggs through the winter months, and sell at a high price. Eggs on the local market are now bringing the farmer 30c per dozen, and many flocks over the county are paying their owners a nice dividend monthly. According to figures gathered by dealers and others, there was produced 1,700,000 eggs in Dawson county the past twelve months, and 350,000 chicks were raised, with a total possible production of $450,000. With this payroll from poultry, and an estimated yearly income of $750,000 from the sale of dairy products, farmers of Dawson county are not worrying greatly about the low price of cotton.

DAILY MARKETS

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT NEW YORK, Oct. 9. (AP)—Led by U. S. Steel, which broke to 149 1/2, the lowest since 1928, stocks made another broad decline in the earlier trading today before support became effective. The puncture of the 1928 resistance level of 150 for U. S. Steel, despite execution of a buying order for 25,000 shares at that quotation, led to fresh selling of representative rails and industrials, most of which touched new lows for the year. Losses ranged from 2 to 5 points, but support in steel, which rallied to 150 3/8, steadied the entire list and American Can, American Telephone, General Electric and Westinghouse, among others, likewise rose about a point from the bottom.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 9. (AP)—Cotton opened somewhat firmer in sympathy with better Liverpool cables and because of a bullish view of the September textile statistics which showed sales sixty percent in excess of current production. First trades showed gains of 9 to 12 points. The market continued to improve after the start the better feeling being helped by a conference on cotton prices to be held here Monday. December traded up to 10.45 and January to 10.55, or 12 to 15 points above yesterday's close. Toward the end of the first hour prices eased off 3 to 7 points from the top on realizing, but the undertone continued steady.

The market turned easier late in the morning due mainly to weakness in stocks and a brokerage fall-off on the New York stock exchange. As a result December eased off to 10.30 and January to 10.41, or 13 to 15 points down from the highs which wiped out all the early advance bringing the prices back parallel with yesterday's close. At noon the market was easy and at the low.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 9. (AP)—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 7 to 12 points on buying which appeared to be influenced by the standard cloth statistics for September, relatively steady. Liverpool cables and the possibility that constructive developments might grow out of the meeting of the cotton trade called for on Monday in New Orleans to discuss measures for stabilizing the market. There was very little southern selling but the advance in cotton realizing around 10.44 for the new December and 10.74 for March. This checked the upturn but prices held steady and within a point or two of the best at the end of the first half hour. The standard cloth statistics for September showed a decrease of 11.4 per cent in stocks of cotton cloths on hand and an increase of 26.1 per cent in unfilled orders.

The market eased after the early buying which was supplied under selling which seemed to be influenced by weakness in the stock market. New December sold off from 10.44 to 10.32 or back to about yesterday's closing quotations but the decline brought in some additional buying and a rally in stocks was followed by a rally in cotton as the price up to 10.42, or about 10 points net higher. Later fluctuations were irregular with the market at midday comparatively quiet at net advances of 4 or 5 points.

For the oily skin with persistent eruptions, begin with an application of Anti-Brown Spot exactly according to directions.

Remove Anti-Brown Spot with Cleansing Cream and Tissues. Wipe thoroughly and gently. Press out surface gatherings. Pat on Acne Lotion. For daytime, powder directly over the Lotion; at night, follow with Healing Cream, which is left on. Given nightly, this treatment has successfully cleared many cases of acne.

There is not room to give more detailed instructions, but to any of you who are interested I will gladly send my booklet "The Quest of the Beautiful," describing my Preparations fully.

SAYS WOMEN NOT WORST DRIVERS

EVANSTON TRAFFIC CHIEF CHANGES WORDS ON FEMININE MOTORISTS TO CUT DOWN MAIL

(By The Associated Press)
EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 9.—Women are positively not the world's worst drivers of automobiles and Frank Kreml, traffic chief of the Evanston police department, wants this distinctly understood.

Mr. Kreml was quoted last week as making certain complimentary statements concerning the ability of women to direct an automobile in the way it should go. He was appalled, said the accounts at that time, at the number of traffic accidents in which women figured, and therefore he proposed to open a school for women motorists.

But today Mr. Kreml defended in loud, determined tones the ability, courage and native motor-driving ability of women. The amount of "fan" or "pan" mail he has received from all over the country criticizing—to use a mild word—his attitude, has been prodigious.

"Please tell the ladies," said Mr. Kreml today, "to let me alone. I didn't mean to imply that women are to blame for most of the automobile wrecks. Quite to the contrary. Sixty per cent of the drivers in Evanston are women; and only seven per cent of the accidents are caused by them. Just think of that! It means that 93 per cent of the accidents are caused by men! A staggering figure! The ladies are to be complimented, and I hereby compliment them.

The school for women drivers wasn't started because of any lack of feminine ability to drive. Rather, it was because of popular demand, the women being eager and anxious to

LINDBERGH HEIR TO HAVE WIDE WORLD TO PICK HIS WORK FROM WITHOUT PARENTAL INTERFERENCE, LINDY STATES

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—When Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., grows up he is going to have the whole wide world in which to find himself a career—without parental interference.

In an interview about the baby which appears in the forthcoming issue of the magazine Pictorial Review appearing Friday, Colonel Lindbergh is quoted as saying with a laugh he has given no serious thought to young Charles' career.

Isn't Old Enough
"Our son," he said, "has hardly reached the age to have his future determined for him, and in any case it is a question he can decide for himself when the time comes.

"Personally I don't want him to be anything or do anything that he himself has no taste or aptitude for. I believe that everybody should have complete freedom in the choice of his life's work."

Their Problem
The chief problem in connection with "our son" at present, the interview reveals is not what he is going to be when he grows up, but how in the world his father and mother are ever going to thank all the thousands of admirers who hovered him with presents when he was born.

Charles Jr., it appears, would have to remain a baby for the next ten years or so to wear out all the gifts sent him, and his parents received so many letters and telegrams it was a human impossibility to acknowledge them individually. Indirectly, through the interview, Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh ask the senders to forgive them.

Have Too Many
One rather embarrassing angle to the situation is what to do with all those baby clothes. They couldn't very well return them without appearing ungracious. Certainly any charitable organization would be glad to get them, but to give them away, Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh feel, would appear that they were unappreciated, so at present, apparently the Lindbergh heir still has them all.

The interview, apparently obtained before the present series of revolutions started, indicated that Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh were contemplating a tour of South America as their next long trip.

"We may visit Mexico again—probably shall—as both Mrs. Lindbergh and I have a great deal of affection for Mexico for many reasons."

learn how to drive better than they already do."

It was mighty nice of Mr. Kreml to say that—and doubtless it will greatly reduce his mail.

Chicago Crime Situation Is Rather Serious

CHICAGO, Oct. 9 (AP)—The police are having a rough time of it what with people robbing the detective bureau of confidential papers and even holding up the wife of Mayor Thompson, and now somebody has stolen Patrolman John Thornton's pistol.

It happened right at police headquarters. He laid it down for a minute and when he looked for it, it was gone. He has complained to the police.

American Play Is Attacked In Talk

OXFORD, England, Oct. 9 (AP)—Describing himself as "an utterly unrepentant early Victorian," the very Rev. William Ralph Inge, popularly known as "the gloomy dean" of St. Paul's, has attacked "luxury pending," especially in the United States.

He spoke to a meeting connected with the national savings movement and repeated his previous assertion that "two years of American play would suffice to pay the whole of our national debt."

He also asserted that part of England's present economic difficulties was due to the excessive sums spent by Englishmen in unproductive fields.
