THE NATIONAL RED CROSS has been asked to increase its 1952 goal fund $5,000,000 to meet the disaster relief expenditures in the history-making seven-state tornadoes occurring last week. A radio station in Illinois helping to raise the 1952 Red Cross fund goal, called a Red Cross nurse at Marked Tree, Ark. to tell the story of the disaster. She related the incident in about ten minutes and when she finished $514 had poured into the station in contributions and they were swelling by the minute.

THE FIVE SILVER IODIDE generators operating at various points in this part of West Texas last Wednesday, as a "try-out," led many to wonder if it were due to their operation, that some moisture fell Thursday in Stanton. Over in Abilene area the generators were at work, and an airplane pilot coming in to Abilene from Amarillo, reported seeing snow in the air, and the Abilene weatherman said trained observers could see ample rain and snow falling from heavy clouds over Abilene, but most of it evaporated before it reached the ground. A prayer-for-rain marathon was held in Stanton Wednesday and up to 7:30 Thursday morning, and at the time a mist was falling in town and heavy rain clouds were passing over the section.

THE WATER SUPPLY IN LAKE Norsworthy, the source from which the city of San Angelo, depends largely for its water supply, is at a low ebb, and in seeking a remedy to halt a further decrease, a meeting was held by the Board of City Development to discuss the matter. A. R. Rollins, of Austin, a member of the State Board of Engineers, sat in on the meeting. The matter of calling on the holders of water rights living on the watershed from which Lake Norsworthy gets its water supply, to refrain temporarily from using the water for irrigation purposes, was discussed, to which Mr. Rollins replied that in case the watershed users agree to the request, they should be compensated. Rollins spoke of the present drought conditions existing over West Texas has brought about the realization of the value of the water rights, just such realization of the almost priceless worth of their underground water rights that brought together a group of farmers living in the Martin County area where water was plentiful for irrigation and other purposes to map out and define the boundary lines to form a water district, and organize the district and adopt rules governing the amount of water each well could produce — a program set up to conserve the water in said district — that was the reason why the Martin County Underground Water Conservation District was organized.

Rollins stated that the shortage of water tends to create controversy, a fact that has been forcibly brought to the attention of the local water district by a court decision in Austin recently, dissolving the Martin County Underground Water Conservation District, despite the fact that the procedure of organizing the district followed the specifications of the State Board of Engineers. And as Rollins stated the controversy will result in a number of court decisions that will more definitely establish the rights and priorities to the water. Just why the State Board of Engineers haven't been armed with the proper authority to "establish rights and priorities to the water," is blamed on the Legislature doing nothing about the recommendations handed the law body by the State Board of Engineers to be enacted into law.

Mr. Rollins went on to say the picture is further confused by the absence of a clear demarcation between underground water and surface water and the right to both.

Commenting on the water rights picture in Texas, it is clouded by a paucity of court decisions which clearly defined the rights. Mr. Rollins said the recent court decision favoring the Colorado River Municipal Water District over the Martin County Underground Water Conservation District opened more questions than is answered. It opened, he said, a question whether Texas' underground

STANLEY LEWIS IS CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER

Stanley Lewis, Martin County resident since 1935, this week authorized the Stanton Reporter to announce his candidacy for the office of county commissioner, precinct two.

Since moving to Martin County from Snyder where he was born in 1915, he was engaged in farming and public works. He owns and operates a store six miles east of Lenora.

In a statement he said he had a high school education and understood the problems of the farmers and also the road situation in Martin County. He said if elected he would give the citizens a fair, honest, impartial and sober administration.

Thomas Explains Stand In Water Case

In a letter received this week by The Stanton Reporter, Clyde E. Thomas, Big Spring attorney, said, in part:

"The prevailing idea is common, mostly through the newspapers, that the issue between CRMWD and the Martin County District wells has been and is that Martin County was trying to prevent CRMWD from pumping water from the wells owned by the CRMWD.

"To issue existed or has even been suggested," Thomas stated.

"The purpose of the Martin County Water District is to prorate the water on an equal per acre basis so as to conserve the water pool, to some extent at least. This conservation is similar to the proration laws of the oil pools."

Enloe Rites Held In Big Spring

Funeral services for Jess Enloe were held in Big Spring, Tuesday, March 24. The service was conducted by Rev. T. R. Hawkins, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Stanton.

Farmers Contour To Prevent Runoff Of Needed Water

Supervisors of the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District report that Robert Brown, three miles south of Knott, plans to farm 320 acres on the contour, as a means of preventing all possible runoff and diverting more moisture to the soil.

Brown also plans to plant one acre of Buffel Grass, a new grass in this area, on some very sandy land. He will fence it to keep out stock until the grass gets a good growth.

Among other co-operators with the Martin-Howard District Sam Buchanan, seven miles north-east of the Luther postoffice, has 50 acres of stubble mulch. It will add crop-growing organic matter to the soil and at the same time protect the field from wind and water erosion. This is just a part of Buchanan's co-ordinated soil and water conservation plan.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 6, block 34, T-2-S, T&P survey.

That puts it eight miles southeast of Stanton and 16 miles northwest of Garden City. The prospect is to be 10 1/2 miles east of the Germania-Spraberry field of Northeast Midland County.

Union Sulphur & Oil Corporation No. 1 Snyder & Arnett, Central-South Martin County wildcat five miles southwest of Stanton, which was completed several months ago as a small pumping producer from the upper Spraberry, is at total depth of 8,100 feet and is flowing to test.

Location of No. 1 Snyder & Arnett is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 30, block 36, T-1-S, T&P survey. In Germania Pool.

When it was completed as a small pumper it was placed in the Germania-Spraberry field. It is three and one-half miles northwest of the nearest other completed producers in that field and it is almost on the north line of Midland County.

Shell Oil Company No. 1 Elma L. Slaughter, scheduled 13,000 - foot wildcat in Central-North Martin County, 10 1/2 miles north of Lenora, is drilling below 10,967 feet in chert and lime.

When cement sets, operator will drill plug and drill deeper.

Location is 1,320 feet from south and 7,000 feet from west lines of league 324, LaSalle County School Land survey and four and one-half miles north of the discovery well of the Glass-Spraberry field and four miles east of the shallow Mabey pool.

Up-And-Coming Stanton

(An Editorial From The Midland Reporter-Telegram)
Things are happening in a big way over in Stanton, our up-and-coming neighbor to the East.

Scores of new homes have been erected there in recent months, and only a few weeks ago plans were announced for erecting another hundred or more additional dwelling units to meet an ever-increasing demand.

Humble Oil & Refining Company personnel now are in the process of occupying the attractive and modern homes in the new HO&R district camp there. The firm previously had moved into its new district office located on the camp site.

A new and completely modern motel opened recently on the Lamesa highway. Several new businesses have opened, while other established firms have erected new buildings or remodeled present structures. One downtown theater and two drive-in theaters now offer entertainment for the residents of Martin County.

Several community betterment projects are underway or are in the talking stage.

The population continues to increase as the oil play develops in the Stanton vicinity.

And now the Stanton Independent School District has purchased a 20-acre tract of land as the site for a future high school plant. School officials say they hope to start construction on the new building within several months. The Stanton schools this year have a record-breaking enrollment and reports are that present facilities are inadequate to handle the increased student load.

Yes, Stanton is feeling the pleasant effect of oil prosperity and apparently is keeping pace with the progress of the city and section.

CAP ROCK CO-OP SHOWS BIG GAIN DURING 1951

A year of record achievement was reviewed here Saturday at the annual membership meeting of the Cap Rock Electric Cooperative. More than 350 members and several hundred guests attended the program and viewed the exhibits.

Report of Manager O. B. Bryan, showed the cooperative built 205 miles of new lines serving 236 members in 1951. Since the first of January this year, the cooperative has completed approximately 150 miles of line serving 85 members. The irrigation district around Courtney has been rephased and connected 30 irrigation wells.

Capitol Credit
The cooperative netted $28,450.40 in 1951 which is set up as capital credit to all members. Bryan said. This represents approximately 10 per cent, meaning that 10 cents out of every dollar paid for electric service by each member will be set up as a capital credit, Bryan explained.

During 1951, the cooperative paid back money borrowed from the REA in the amount of $50,421.54. This was divided between $28,314.68 for principal and $22,106.86 in interest. To date, the cooperative has borrowed $1,890,000 from the REA for construction of the system, Bryan said.

The Cap Rock organization now has almost 1,400 miles of rural lines in the 10 counties of Martin, Howard, Midland, Glasscock, Reagan, Borden, Dawson, Andrews, and Ector, serving 2,585 members. The average use during 1951 was approximately 185 kwh with an average bill of $6.25.

Directors Re-elected
All three district directors were re-elected Saturday. They are Mrs. Lee Castle of Valley View, District 4; Paul Adams of Knott, District 5; and D. W. McDonald of Midland, District 9.

Hundreds of members and their families attended the day-long session which featured the business session, special entertainment and an electrical equipment show.

The Rev. J. E. Harrell gave the invocation with Glenn Cantrell calling the meeting to order. Arrah Phillips read the minutes of the last meeting.

Entertainment included Western songs by Buster Haggard, a tap dance by Barbara Bowen, a reading by Mrs. Hila Weathers, and tap dance routines by Nancy Smith, Mary Alice Ruthford, Kenda McGibbon, Eunice Freeman, Julia Rainwater, Pat Tidwell, Barbara Bowen, and Sally Cooper.

Stanton school trustees had before them this week a proposal of one of their members that a public meeting be called for a discussion of the school program.

The meeting can be called at an early date if there is sufficient interest, members said.

The forum proposal was advanced by Edmund Tom, one of the trustees, at a board meeting Tuesday night. It was his thought, he said, that school administrators would at the meeting explain the provisions of the Gilmer-Aiken Bill (for schools) and report on the policies and progress of the Stanton school.

School Patrons
This report was requested by a delegation of school patrons in a brief visit with the board during the meeting.

Sought by the group along with other improvements was an expanded school curriculum and guidance program (career planning) for the students.

J. C. Mott appeared as spokesman for the patrons.

The district recently purchased twenty acres of land immediately northwest of the city as the site for a future high school building and campus.

With the increased valuation of the district this year it will be possible with the voter's approval to increase the bonded indebtedness of the district to start the construction during the next few months, officials said.

GROUND BREAKING SCHEDULED NEXT

Directed by Woodford Sale, mayor elect, work is progressing on the slated improvement of the Stanton City Park.

The city council recently agreed to bear the costs for limited improvements at the city owned facility and FFA and Homemaking classes at the school agreed to adopt the improvement as a project.

As head of the Park Commission of the council Sale accepted the direction of the project and has since seen that the grounds got a thorough wetting down. Water has been applied daily during the last several days.

Planting of Grounds
He said plowing of the grounds would be started possibly this weekend.

Planting of flowers and shrubbery will be done by the homemaking class at the school under the supervision of Mary Frances Wilson, instructor.

FFA Instructor E. D. Steele and the members of his classes will be in charge of the seeding of the park area to grass.

Other slated improvements include the repair and establishment of croquet and tennis courts (with proper backstop) and a thorough cleansing and modernizing of the rest rooms on the park grounds.

PATRONS ELECT SCHOOL TRUSTEES SATURDAY

Martin County school patrons will name trustees for their respective districts and for the county board in the balloting to be held Saturday. Polling places in the various communities will be opened from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m.

Three will be elected in the Stanton district.

The six candidates appearing on the ballot include S. W. Wheeler, H. O. (Hub) Phillips, Elma Nichols, Elmer Mashburn, Roy Martin and Lewis Carlile. Mashburn and Carlile are present members of the board.

Holdover Members
Holdover members include Ed Robnett, Elmer Long, Edmund Tom and Les Weatherall.

Nominees in the Grady district include Grover Springer and Roy Wheelless, both candidates for reelection.

In the Flower Grove district the candidates are Murry Cook and F. W. Barkowsky; and for the county board running for reelection are O. B. Bryan, precinct one, and G. B. Shelburne, precinct two. Homer Howard is the precinct three holdover.

Open are the positions of trustees from precinct four and for member at large.

Names of the nominees in the Courtney Independent School District were not immediately available.

Rainmakers Receive State Charter

Permanent office of the West Texas Weather Improvement Association is being established in Lamesa following the receipt of its charter from the state. The association has a membership of 11 counties in this area including Martin County.

Lewis Carlile, representing Martin County, attended a meeting of the group Monday night in Lamesa.

Carlile said the county lacked the funds to pay the second installment on its quota of $8,000 and that those not yet contacted should mail their checks to the association in care of the Martin County Chamber of Commerce.

More than $3,500 have been raised so far, he said, through the assessment of three cents an acre for cultivated land and one cent an acre for rangeland.

"Uncle" Dick Arnett 85 Years Old Today

Word from the editor's old friend, and a friend of a host of folks living in Martin County, "Uncle" Dick Arnett, living with his daughter, Mrs. Lou Jordan in Lubbock, states he is doing nicely, despite the fact he has been bedridden for the past several years. He also made his home in Stanton several years with another daughter, Mrs. Dee Rogers.

"Uncle" Dick was sheriff of Martin County in 1908, holding the position eight years. For many years he was a representative of a cattle commission company, and for 25 years he was with the State Sanitary Board, headquarters in Marfa. The duties of this job required "Uncle" Dick to make many trips into the interior of Old Mexico.

This Thursday (today), "Uncle" Dick Arnett is 85 years old, and all the time up until a few years ago when he was compelled to retire on account of illness, he has been connected with the cattle industry.

"Uncle" Dick, this editor and your legion of friends, send our heartfelt congratulations on this year 85th birthday.

Midland Attorney Named District Cancer Director

AUSTIN (Special) — Emil C. Rassman, Midland attorney and civic leader, has been named a lay director for District 2 of the American Cancer Society, Texas Division, which includes 21 West Texas Counties.

His selection was announced by Frank C. Smith of Houston, president of the Texas Division of the Society.

In accepting the appointment, which entails a year-round responsibility for men's activity of the Cancer Society in this area, as well as for the conduct of the district's April Cancer Crusade, Mr. Rassman emphasized the pressing need for public acceptance of cancer education as a positive means of controlling the disease.

One Person in Five "Latest statistics show that one person in every five now living will develop cancer. But if the public learns the facts and acts quickly when a symptom occurs, many of those stricken can be saved," Rassman said.

Rassman is one of three members of the Society's District 2 "triangle of leadership", consisting of a layman, a lay woman and a doctor. Mrs. Paxton Howard of Midland is the woman member. Her activity is especially concerned with cancer educational and service programs. Dr. Roscoe B. G. Cowper of Big Spring, acts as the medical and professional director.

21 Counties The district includes the following counties: Andrews, Borden, Dawson, Dickens, Ector, Fisher, Gaines, Garza, Glasscock,

DAILY MAXIMUM POTENTIAL 13 MILLION GALLONS A DAY FROM THIS COUNTY'S WELLS

The latest newspaper report from the Colorado Municipal Water District, as published in Sunday's Big Spring Daily Herald is that: "Work is to start Monday on laying collecting lines in the Martin County well fields where the CRMWD will develop its initial supplies. There are in all 13 wells on District leases with a daily maximum potential of 13 million gallons per day. Average production is supposed to be around 6 1/2 million gallons per day."

Howard, Kent, King, Lynn, Martin, Midland, Mitchell, Nolan, Scurry, Stonewall, Terry, and Yoakum.

Rassman will enlist Cancer Crusade Chairmen in each of those counties.

He is a member of the law firm of Whitaker, Turpin, Kerr, Smith and Brooks; a 32nd Degree Mason, and a member of several fraternal and legal organizations. In 1951 he was selected as the outstanding young man of Midland and as one of five outstanding men in Texas by the State Junior Chamber of Commerce. He is married to Annie De Montel Rassman.

WE COULDN'T IMAGINE ANYTHING WORSE

At a recent meeting of superintendents and board members of the Permian Basin Schoolmasters' Association, held in Andrews, the principal topic for discussion was teacher's salaries. It was brought out in the meeting that the roughneck in the oil fields gets more pay than the school teacher. That statement can be answered that the death or injury risk involved is not near so great with a teacher filling her position as the roughneck climbing a 50-foot tower and working around heavy pipe. But the proposition to raise the evaluation on property to raise the funds to increase the teacher's salary, instantly brought for opposition by Supt. E. W. Smith, Fort Stockton, who said:

"We'd like to go along with the resolution. Surely the teachers are underpaid. But we simply don't have the money. The only way we could get it would be to raise the evaluation. Can you imagine going to a farmer or rancher and raising his evaluation when it hasn't rained for nine months?"

A State On Wheels

Keeping highways up to date is of concern to every Texan. Our economy depends on roads. Every day more and more vehicles are on the highways, carrying passengers and goods.

At the same time the roads are becoming less capable of carrying the constantly increasing volume of traffic. We are getting behind with the highway job in Texas.

Maintenance is a great problem because of wartime damage and neglect, and because many miles of roads have passed their normal life expectancy and should be rebuilt.

New construction is desperately needed to relieve congestion which makes highway travel dangerous. Accidents are increasing as the roads become even more crowded.

Here in Texas we now have 3,400,000 vehicles registered. Our traffic death rate is more than 2,000 per year. Economic loss is in the neighborhood of $100 million.

What are we going to do about it?

Well, not long ago the highway department estimated that additional revenue of at least $100 million per year for the next five years would be required to modernize our roads so as to carry the traffic adequately.

If all the road user taxes you pay went to the highway department, the revenue would be sufficient to build and maintain all the roads we need.

Part of the money is diverted, however, to the public schools, to the counties, to agricultural users in refunds, and so on. (About one dollar out of three that goes to the federal government in road user taxes comes back to the state in federal aid for roads.)

If we can stop road user tax diversion, the financing problem is solved. Otherwise it will be necessary to find new tax money for highways.

There is a third alternative — that of letting our roads go to ruin. This does not seem to be a very desirable way out of the dilemma.

Texas Good Roads Association, with headquarters in Austin, has launched a campaign to inform the people about the highway emergency. You can, if interested, get more details about the road situation by writing that association.

Every Texan should be interested. We are a state — and a nation — on wheels.

Wise Voices From the Past

In the year 1920, the Edinburgh Review published an article by Sydney Smith. The Freeman magazine recently exhumed a paragraph of it from the dust of antiquity and reprinted it under the apt title, "Worth Hearing Again." Here is what Smith wrote, nearly a century-and-a-half ago: "... the habit of dealing with large sums will make the Government avaricious and profuse; and the system itself will infallibly generate the base vermin of spies and informers, and a still more pestilent race of political tools and retainers of the meanest and most odious description; while the prodigious patronage which the collecting of this splendid revenue will throw into the hands of Government will invest it with so vast an influence, and hold out such means and temptations for corruption, as all the virtue and public spirit... will be unable to resist."

The style is that of a dead age, but the thought is as fresh as this morning. It is almost a law of nature that the bigger government becomes, the more corrupt and conscienceless it becomes. The influence-peddler, the flatterer, the man whose cynical eye is always on the main chance, the plain crook — these and other unsavory characters force themselves into positions of power. The rats find the cheese! And the many honest and able men in government are helpless in the face of the onslaught.

Lord Acton, another wise voice from the past, said, "power corrupts, and absolute power corrupts absolutely." That has been true ever since the institution of government began. It is true today. This country grew to greatness under a government of strictly limited powers — the kind of government envisioned and framed by the men who wrote the Constitution. Our guide for the future must be found in our magnificent heritage.

Ticklers

Bible Comment:

David Gives Lesson With His Humility And Reverent Acts

WHEN news reached England of the Battle of Saratoga in the American Revolutionary War with the defeat and surrender of General Burgoyne, someone remarked to the economist, Adam Smith, "The nation is doomed," and the eminent author of the "Wealth of Nations" replied, "There is a great deal of doom in a nation."

The remark is amply illustrated in the history of nations, but perhaps nowhere more pointedly than in the history of Israel. When one considers all that happened between the journeyings from the bondage in Egypt and the dispersion of the Jews from their Palestinian homeland the marvel is that there should have been survival at all.

Palestine seemed doomed almost in the very beginning when the armies of Israel went down to defeat with Saul, who had begun his rule so auspiciously, a suicide on the field of battle.

But David, a man of the sword rather than the harp, soon made his prowess felt, consolidating and greatly enlarging the kingdom.

The strength of David was in his magnanimity. When the prophet Nathan brought his sin home to him in plain terms, David humbly acknowledged his wrong-doing. When he expressed a longing for a drink from the well of Bethlehem, without any thought of getting it, three warriors went through the enemy's lines, risking their lives to bring it to him. But it was too sacred for him to drink. It was, he said, the blood of men who had put their lives in jeopardy. So he poured it out on the ground as a sacred offering. It was a humble and reverent act of religion.

How many of us have that spirit toward the many who are risking and giving their lives so that we may have "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness?" Truly we may learn from these stories of ancient times.

New Notes in Cooking

Have you heard? Garlic butter toasted on hard or soft rolls is a taste treat.

When preparing French dressing, add 1/4 teaspoon Accent (pure monosodium glutamate) per cup. Your salads will taste better than ever and your reputation as hostess will skyrocket.

Creamed chipped beef, in a casserole, topped with fluffy mashed potatoes and grated cheese is a Casserole Supreme!

As little as half a cup of left-over cooked rice works wonders in pancake, waffle, or muffin batter. If there is a cupful so much the better. Try this as a Sunday breakfast surprise!

The rice ring you prepare to hold a creamed mixture will be prettier and tastier if you blend in finely minced parsley along with the Accent (pure monosodium glutamate), butter and seasonings. Save out a little parsley to sprinkle on top of the filling.

In America a carpenter works only 15 hours to buy an overcoat. In Russia it takes 340 hours. Communism takes a back seat in providing the needed things of life.

HORMONE SPRAY NOW AVAILABLE FOR FARM USE

Ranchers now can use hormone sprays to clear pastures of mesquite and other brush as well as weeds.

Dr. George Sherman Avery, Jr., Brooklyn, N. Y., Botanic Garden director and famed plant scientist, recently told the uses to which Hormones are being put. He is a special lecturer at the University of Texas.

"Such hormones, or chemical substances which are growth factors, won't harm pasture grasses," Dr. Avery said. "Two effective hormones for improving pastures are 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T, which will kill cactus, elm, black brush, blue brush, sand sage, hulsache, and yaupon, as well as mesquite."

Hormone Effectiveness
He also described how hormones can be used to control weeds in wheat, rice, and strawberry fields; keep citrus fruits from dropping off trees prematurely; and prevent rosebud growth in stored nursery stocks.

"Ranchers, farmers and gardeners can find the correct hormone spray for their needs by contacting agricultural agents, hardwaremen, feed dealers or nurserymen," Dr. Avery said.

He predicted scientists will perfect hormone sprays for killing weeds in most field crops, preventing freeze damage to fruits, speeding peach and pear growth, and producing seedless apples and pears.

Due to the advent of the Diesel engines, laying aside the old steam locomotive, to haul long freight trains and speedy passenger trains, the T&P railroad found the services of the old locomotive whistle on a stationary steam boiler at the roundhouse in Baird, used to toot the time for shifts of railroad crewmen, were ended. The city officials of Baird made an appeal to the railroad company that it make Baird a gift of it, for sentimental reasons. The sentimental part came through the fact that over 20 years the whistle was removed from a locomotive and placed on the stationary boiler at the roundhouse and until a fire station was built in Baird and siren put in place, the roundhouse whistle was used to peal forth in short blasts to wake up the natives. In those days the six shooters were fired into the air by the citizen who had one, to aid the whistle in its noise making. And too, the whistle's blast signalling the time for crews to change shifts, was used by the Baird housewives to set their clocks by, according to the Baird Star. Suffice it to say the T&P gave the whistle to Baird with fitting ceremonies by the superintendent of the Western division; master mechanic for the railway company, and the editor of T&P Topics, Dallas. The whistle will be placed at the Baird city hall and used as a signal for an approaching storm, and for other purposes which will be made public at a later date in an announcement published in the Baird Star.

March 1, the Coahoma Independent School District voted $22,000 bonds for improvements to be made on the old school building and build a new elementary school building. April 7 bids will be received from contractors. The architect has been given the go ahead sign to proceed with the final plans. The vote on the bond issue carried by a 3 to 1 vote, testifying that Coahomans have their hearts set on providing their school children with comfortable and modern educational headquarters.

Saturday is the Annual Cattleman's Field Day and Barbecue, to be held at Balmorhea Experiment Station. One hundred and seventy-five head of cattle have been in the feedlot since November, and the results will be presented at the Field Day program, so reported the Fort Stockton Pioneer.

Dr. George Hoffman, has been appointed health officer for the city of Fort Stockton. The city has purchased a bulldozer for general use, more especially to bury garbage at the disposal grounds, according to the Pioneer.

G. M. Brown, 81-year-old justice of the peace at McCamey, died one day last week. He was one of the first oil lease brokers in West Texas. His first big deal was the purchase of 100,000 acres of land in Winkler County at 10c an acre bonus, and 10c annual delay bonus. Land he leased in 1918, later was the site of rich oil strikes, the Fort Stockton Pioneer said in its last week's issue.

Our friend Editor Aaron Edgar of the Munday Times is all het-up over the government tax collecting business. He goes into a store to purchase an item of merchandise and sees the price tag on the item and when he comes to pay for it he pays more than the price tag calls for. In Dallas one time Edgar was caught without a clean shirt to take place of the one he was wearing. He found he had left the shirt and cuff links back home. He visited an exclusive men's furnishing store in Dallas, purchased a shirt, cuff links, adding a pair of socks. When he came to pay for the items, the clerk handed him the register slip, and there Edgar's blood pressure rose. He told the clerk "Whoa, there, just a minute. Those cuff links were plainly marked $1.50 and you're trying to stick me with $1.80 for the things." The clerk answered, "Uncle Sam has to have 20 per cent luxury tax." With that Edgar said: "We made our exit with a greater desire for that kind of a tax."

The crime wave that hit Anton last week caused Editor Afton Richard to haul down the pencil from off his ear, grab a ream of copy paper and fill the top half of the front page of his Anton News, big black streamer and all, with the crime news. He capped his crime stories with the killing of a negro, and a negro was in jail charged with the killing. Next he told of the robbery of a local merchandise store getting off with several hundred dollars worth of farm equipment and supplies. Then vandals struck the home of a local citizen smashing the furniture, hauling clothing out of a closet and piling them up in the middle of the floor, and the only things missing from the home were two cans partially filled with lard.

Hardly know which one of the two words, "sorry" or "regret" to use in this case. "Sorry," I figure is a word that borders on shedding of tears. In this case we will use the word "regret" to express our feelings. Picked up last week's Morton Tribune and on the first page we read where Max Daley, recently of Beverly Hills, Calif., had purchased the Tribune from Forrest Weimhold of Levelland. The Tribune has been published by Mr. and Mrs. Carl England, ever since Weimhold purchased the newspaper in 1946, and here's where our preference of using the word "regret" comes in. We regret to hear of the Englands relinquishing their hold on steering the Tribune, the fact they are going to remain with the Tribune is not so hard to take, and can be taken without the thot of shedding a tear. Had we read that because of the sale of the Tribune the Englands were out of the shop entirely and were leaving for other climes, we'd have used the word "sorry" and permitted the big tear drops to flow profusely. The Englands are too valuable to their community to allow to stray off to graze in other pastures.

The England know the newspaper business from "a" to "z", Carl the all-round master mechanic of the print shop, and the wife, Ann, the creator of the interesting column, "anagrams," as master, or mistress, which, at news gathering, planning and soliciting advertising.

Daley is a native Texan, born at Dublin, where his father, Jim Daley established the Dublin Progress in 1888. The column welcomes Mr. Daley as a settler among the hustle, bustle, progressive newspapers of West Texas.

Don't know of a more fitting place to give space to this humorous item the "pen" of Franklin Reynolds, appearing in his column, "The Grub Line," in Sunday's Big Spring Daily Herald. And what's more, the person Reynolds quotes in his story, is well known among the ranchers of the Stanton sector, or his father is.

Here is what Lorin McDowell gives out to Reynolds, relative to the drouth:

"According to Lorin McDowell, while Russia has her 'iron curtain,' West Texas has its 'Wall of Sand and Dust,' and he says this wall is effective in keeping out Communists and other undesirables such as those who 'can't take it.'

"He says the drouth is so bad in Glasscock County that the spray of the skunk has been condensed to a point where it is effective as a poison gas, and that the venom of the rattlesnake has evaporated down to a concentration so powerful that one drop will destroy an army. He says that red-eyed, sand-blasted

Glasscock cattle are ready to attack humans if not caked and fed hay, and that even the Glasscock sheep, jack rabbits and tontails, have become so annoyed they're aggressive and are likely to bite an unprotected cowboy, even without being provoked.

"Lorin warns that nobody should shoot into the 'Wall of Sand' nor drive a car towards a sandstorm at a high rate of speed as it might cause a hole which would let in the undesirables or enough wind to cause a tornado.

"He says this drouth is the supreme test for the survival of the fittest, and that we will have a great country and a great people by the time we really get through it."

HEALTH DEPARTMENT GIVES ADVICE TO INDIVIDUALS PAST FORTY

From a literary point of view life may begin at forty, but from a health standpoint, life after forty begins to be more complicated for the average individual than it was in his earlier years. According to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, the principal health foes confronting people in middle life are heart disease, cancer, kidney disease, and arthritis.

Middle aged people of today are healthier than were those of preceding generations, and the present generation, when they reach middle age, should enjoy even better health than their parents today.

Medical care in middle life has two important phases. The first is going to the doctor at regular intervals for a complete physical checkup, whether or not there have been symptoms that suggest the need for medical attention. The second is prompt attention to any illness which may mean the difference between prompt recovery and continued good health and prolonged invalidism. It is difficult to say which of these phases is the more important.

It has been found that men and women who faithfully pursue the habit of regular health examination and who follow the advice arising from them tend to live longer, more satisfactorily, and freer from disease than those who simply take a chance and go to the doctor only when pain or disability forces them to give up their normal activities.

It is also a fact that many diseases of middle age respond to treatment in early stages whereas if neglected until later stages they often cause permanent invalidism and even death.

Good advice for persons over forty is that they have regular physical examinations and obtain prompt medical attention for any and all illnesses.

May Draft Call Is For 1,394 Men

The May draft call for Texas is 1,394 men, Brigadier General Paul L. Wakefield, state Selective Service director, has announced. Quotas to local boards will be figured "sometime during the early part of April," the state director said.

The state quota can be filled with men 21 years of age and older, according to current manpower inventories at state Selective Service headquarters.

"The picture may change, though," General Wakefield cautioned, "and we may be forced to dip into our 20-year-old age group. We are not authorized to go any lower than 20-year-olds."

One Exception
The state draft director pointed out one exception to this rule. "Delinquents and volunteers of a younger age can be inducted," he pointed out.

The May call of 1,394 compares with a call of 1,184 in April. The May quota in 1951 was 1,332.

A total of 830 4-Fs are being re-examined in April from 63 local boards. Around 150 conscientious objectors also are being examined in April, in compliance with recent regulations governing civilian work which these men will be required to perform.

Conscientious objectors who fail these examinations, the same as given to prospective inductees, will not be required to perform this civilian service.

Super Expressways Urged As Answer To Traffic Jams

AUSTIN — Super expressways built for speed—with safety—are the Texas Highway Department's answer to the metropolitan traffic jams.

Designed to get people where they want to go in the shortest time possible, these expressways, or throughways as they are sometimes called, have more than proved their worth in terms of safety and convenience.

They also represent the Highway Department's first extensive planning for the future. Heretofore, it has been too busy providing necessary facilities to cope with Texas' ever-growing traffic volume.

Rural Mileage
During its first 30 years, the Highway Department was concerned mainly with rural mileage. But with the post-war spurt in population and its accompanying increase in number of vehicles on Texas Highways, the state is compelled to offer relief for city traffic congestion.

Because cities continue to annex former rural areas street mileage suddenly rises. Persons living in suburban areas are spending hours daily getting to and from work or market. The average city street, varying from 40 to 80 feet in width, cannot carry the traffic.

And as engineers pointed out, a 200 foot street, as required for an expressway ruins practically the whole block.

Movement Started
The movement for expressways began with the study in 1944-45 by the Highway Department, which called in several nationally-known highway planners to study problems in Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio.

Sufficient widening of streets being impossible, these planners looked for possibilities along routes that would not entail too much property alteration. Usually a route was found between a residential area and an industrial section.

Since all right-of-way must be acquired by city or county, local participation is imperative to building an expressway. This is a double check, highway officials point out, because if the city does not want the construction it can simply refuse right-of-way. Several cities feeling they were not ready for an expressway, have taken alternatives in the form of street widening or building of an overpass or underpass. Today, in Texas' five biggest cities, a total of 40 miles of expressways have been completed at a cost of $45 million.

Controlled Access
Biggest safety feature in controlled access to expressway. This control of traffic entering the thoroughfare, at points usually about a half mile apart, prevents the common accident whereby the automobile entering from a side street is hit by a passing vehicle.

Divided lanes eliminate head-on collisions, while allowing regulated maximum speed. About half of present expressway mileage consists of six lanes.

Prior to 1951, a city could not demand right-of-way for an expressway, nor could it control points of entrance to a thoroughfare. Now, as a result of legislative enactment last year, it is possible to limit the number and location of cross-streets in the interest of safety.

Want a lot of mileage for your money?

WE'LL admit that the price tags of automobiles—all automobiles—are what they used to be.

But it's just as true today as ever before that some price tags are lower than others, and some cars cost less to own than others.

So let's see how a Buick SPECIAL fits into the picture.

Take first cost. If you put the price tag of this Buick against price tags of cars that have always been tagged as belonging in "the low-priced field"—you'll find that, in actual dollars, a Buick's surprisingly close to these cars of lesser size and horsepower.

But that's just the beginning.

What you're getting here is Buick quality—this SPECIAL comes down the same assembly line as SUPERS and ROADMASTERS.

Its heft tells you it has extra sturdiness in frame and structure.

Its Fireball Engine delivers extra power. It is an eight, a valve-in-head, with high compression, and the miles you can get from a gallon of gas make it a thrifty performer.

You get Buick's Million Dollar Ride, which protects you—and the car—from jars and jolts.

Even the tires are bigger—which, any tire man will tell you, lengthens their wear.

And if you pay a bit extra for Dynaflo Drive* you're easing the strain on the engine, the rear end, the tires—and eliminating clutch repair bills.

So when we talk about "mileage for your money" we're talking about the miles you'll get from your car—including the unused miles that are what you have to sell when you trade it in.

Maybe that's why Buick's doing so well in the present market. Why not come in and see what a great car this is for you?

*Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. Wheel Drive standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series. White sidewalls optional at extra cost when available. *Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series.

MRS. PRIDDY REVIEWS BOOK IN BETA SIGMA PHI MEETING IN JAMES EILAND HOME

Mrs. John Priddy reviewed, "The Mature Mind" at a recent meeting of Delta Omega and Xi Alpha Beta chapters of Beta Sigma Phi, held in the home of Mrs. James Eiland.

Officers for the year, to be installed in May, were elected at a business meeting of Delta Omega chapter.

They are Mrs. James Eiland, president; Mrs. J. C. Sale, vice president; Mrs. Houston Woody, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Tom Estes, treasurer; Mrs. Bob Whitaker, extension officer and Mrs. Bob Haislip, representative to city council.

Twenty-seven members were present.

FISHERMEN RETURN WITH BIG CATCH

Six Stanton and Midland men, who returned recently from a rugged fishing trip on the Rio Grande, have some tall tales of fish "that didn't get away" and evidence to support them.

Dan Edgmon and Earl McKaskel of Midland, and Floyd Morris, Deith Willey, Iris Whitehead and C. A. Gray, of Stanton, they described as "50 miles of the most rugged traveling you've have just returned from what ever seen."

The return was made after traveling 50 miles down the Rio Grande with several hundred pounds of fish and many sore muscles.

Early one Monday morning this group started the trip in a 12-man rubber raft and a 14-foot aluminum boat. They took provisions to last a week. If used normally, and hoped that fish would replace the canned meat.

Made First Camp
Monday night they made their first camp and set about trying to lure a few of the big fish in their hooks. That night they caught four fish totalling 31 pounds.

Tuesday and Wednesday nights and several miles below their first camp, they caught 204 pounds of fish, one of which was a 60-pound yellow catfish that looked like a "stuffed pig." That same night they caught a solid black "apaloochie" catfish that weighed 40 pounds.

Thursday while they were traveling downstream and making several portages over falls that averaged about 10 feet, rubber raft was buckled when it rammed into an unexpected rock and all of their perishable provisions were ruined, cigarettes were water-soaked and tempers grew short.

But Thursday night when they camped by one of these falls at a "boiling hole of water" they caught catfish by the dozens.

Used Rod and Reel
They fished with rod and reel and the fish ranged from 21 pounds down. As Edgmon said, "it was like fishing for 'perch in a barrel'."

Friday morning until midnight Sunday was spent "getting out of the Rio Grande." Hemmed in by tall canyon walls, and unable to see where they were, they traveled for the next three days until Edgmon climbed out and started looking for a way to get back to Regan's Canyon where they had left their cars.

After Edgmon had walked about a mile and a half, he found and "borrowed" a complete riding gear. Then they found a group of four or five horses, one of which they hemmed up, saddled and bridled. Edgmon rode him to the Wallace Hinshaw Ranch, where he obtained transportation back to their cars.

Pretty Lonesome Trip
"It was a pretty lonesome trip," said Edgmon, "because we only saw two Mexican cowboys and two Mexican goat camps and they were on the Old Mexico side. And besides they didn't speak English."

"But," he continued, "it was some of the prettiest country you see anywhere, and the fishing was something to talk about."

And to further back their story, they have motion pictures of the entire trip and several photographs of the giant 60-pound catfish they caught.

Edgmon may have the catfish mounted.

Inventory Due On Estimated 800 Air Force Reservists

An inventory of an estimated 800 Air Force reservists in Martin and 12 nearby counties will begin April 7, Col. Edgar E. Glenn commanding officer of the 3rd Air Reserve District, announced today.

The reservists will receive appointment cards asking them to report for a personnel interview with the Air Force at Building T-215, Midland Air Park. Purpose of the inventory is to afford reservists an opportunity to learn their current reserve status.

At the same time, the Air Force may record accurate and current information on each reservist.

New Information Needed
"In many cases, Air Force records do not reflect accurately the current status of reservists as to dependents, physical condition, education, and occupation," Col. Glenn said.

He emphasized that the inventory is not connected in any way with recall to active duty.

Appointments for interviews being scheduled from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. Mondays through Fridays and from 8:30 a. m. to noon on Saturdays. Reservists are being scheduled at their own convenience.

Counties included in the Midland inventory are Andrews, Martin, Howard, Loving, Winkler, Ector, Glasscock, Sterling, Ward, Crane, Upton, and Reagan.

water law is practical and whether it can be enforced.

These facts incorporated in this editorial, were brought out by Rollins during the meeting of the San Angelo Board of City Development to work out a plan with holders of water right on the watershed that guides water into Lake Norworthy, in the hope of increasing the supply of water that is now at a low ebb in the lake.

The president of the Texas Water Conservation Association, Guy C. Jackson, Jr., urges that a state-wide conference of all groups interested in solving the Texas water problem, be called. "If the water problem now plaguing Texas and the Southwest as the result of the prolonged drouth are to be solved, there must be a meeting of the minds," Jackson said. He also stated the drouth and water in general constitutes the state's No. 1 economic problem. "I firmly believe that Texans have the ability and the state has the wherewithal to get the job done," Jackson continued. "It is simply a matter of getting together on a common objective and program."

Stuart McGregor, one of the editors of the Dallas News, writing a column under the head, "Drouth Stresses Water Problem" I quote in part: "The Texas Water Conservation Association, Austin, has worked out statewide codes, for both surface and underground waters in recent years and laid them before the Legislature. But they ran into snags," which makes it very clear to me that the Legislatures in the past have turned down the job of passing laws that any group seeking to conserve the water rights in their community can adopt a method that will guarantee said group's community immunity from intrusion by outsiders coming in and taking water without consideration to the amount, and applying it to its own use, or on the other hand, if outsiders have a right to make the intrusion, they adhere to a set rule established by the water district.

Since the Martin County Water Conservation District has been dissolved by a court decision in Austin, this column surmises it will be provided with much interesting reading as

Philosopher Amused By Nebulous Loans

Dear editor:

I was out here the other day watchin' the skies but not wonderin' when it was gonna rain. I have stopped wonderin', I catch on finally, doesn't take me over two years to know we got a drought on and it'll end when it ends and not before, I'm not like my neighbor who has just finished diggin' his fifth well in a row without findin' water, and is workin' on his sixth, some folks just don't catch on fast, as I say, I was out here watchin' the skies and a newspaper floated down right in front of me. I ain't seen the newspaper yet I wouldn't swap for an inch of rain, but I figured it was better than nothin' in and I took it to a comfortable tree and sat down and read when the matter came to light where a Senator in Washington, unexpectedly, admitted he had let another Senator have $10,000 to help get elected.

When asked if the financial transaction was a loan or a contribution, the Senator said he wasn't sure, the matter was in a "nebulous state."

As I understand this, he wasn't sure whether the $10,000 was a gift or a loan, and what I am wonderin' is why we can't have some nebulous loans down here. Why do all the nebulous loans have to be confined to Washington? Why don't the government make folks around here eligible to them kinds?

You borrow some money from Banker Jim Tom or Banker Edie Garland and there ain't nothin' nebulous about the transaction. When the note comes due, there ain't nothin' nebulous about that either.

But if these bankers would adopt the Washington method, it would certainly increase the peace of mind around here. Be better than a rain to be able to go into a bank and inquire about the money they let you have and be told it's in a nebulous state and the directors ain't made up their minds yet whether it was a loan or a gift.

I'm not complainin' about nebulous loans in Washington, what I'm complainin' about is the fact they're limited to that vicinity. Those loans have the makings of a new step forward in financin', and I'm in favor of settin' up a government bureau to give that type of loanin'.

I got dozens of bills I'm perfectly willin' to be hazy about if the store would let me. I'm a little hazy right now about whether my subscription is due, but keep the paper comin', in a nebulous sort of way.

Yours faithfully,

J. A.

JUDSONIA, ARK.—Their homes among more than 2,000 Arkansas and Missouri homes destroyed or damaged by March tornadoes, these men, like thousands of storm victims, turn to the Red Cross for help. After emergency needs for food, clothing, medical care and shelter are met, Red Cross workers will stay on the job until rehabilitation needs of more than 1,600 families registered for help in these two states are determined. Based on need, Red Cross will assist in repairing and rebuilding homes and providing furniture. Of the nearly 500 persons hospitalized by tornado injuries, many will need Red Cross help with medical bills. All this Red Cross help, expected to run into millions, is a gift given by the people through the Red Cross fund campaign.

Red Cross Starts Long-Range Aid To Tornado Victims

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—As the period of emergency mass care for victims of last week's southern tornadoes neared its close, the American Red Cross moved into high gear to rebuild the shattered lives and homes of the disaster sufferers.

For about three months, more than 150 trained disaster workers now in the stricken region will help the hurt and the homeless, the orphaned, the aged, the widowed, and the ill.

"Two categories of victims will receive special attention," James T. Nicholson, Red Cross Executive Vice President, said today. "One group will be survivors of the dead. Among these will be many dependent children for whose support and education we will make long-range plans where other resources are not available."

"The other category is the seriously injured. This disaster has caused an extremely large number of injuries—1,281 persons—of whom 731 are hospitalized. In spite of expert care, a number will be physically handicapped, needing medical treatment for months or years, and assistance not only for their injuries but for their livelihood as well. This we are prepared to give them where necessary."

In White County, Arkansas, thousands of dollars worth of strawberries for which the region is famous may be lost. The crop will be ready to harvest in two or three weeks, according to the growers, but many shelters for housing berry pickers and the transportation to bring them to the farms were destroyed.

Such is the case of 17-year-old

James Black, operating the family farm near Bald Knob while his father is in the hospital. He has nine acres of strawberries. The twister destroyed his home and the house built for berry pickers and ruined his truck. The Red Cross will do what it can to aid Black, as well as other farmers who are storm victims.

Earl Wilson is a barber in Judsonia, Arkansas. He lives with his wife and three small children at Bald Knob, five miles away. When the tornado ripped through both communities, Wilson was a two-time loser—both his home and the barber shop were destroyed. Wilson like many of his neighbors, has registered with the Red Cross for assistance.

For these and hundreds of other victims, the Red Cross has opened general relief headquarters in Little Rock, Ark., with additional offices in the stricken counties.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellmore Johnson spent last weekend in Amherst with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Azey Simpson. Mr. Johnson preached at the Church of Christ there Sunday.

FROM WHERE I SIT

By HILA WEATHERS

THE WHEELS GO ROUND AND ROUND! That is the activity goes on and on! We are really kept busy in trying to help the Big Spring Air Force men locate homes in Stanton. We have been fairly successful, so far, but our "supply" is almost exhausted at present. These men and their families are leaving their names here so that when we are able to help them we can satisfy them. That we shall do, as they are delighted with the prospects of living here.

ONE OF OUR NICE VISITORS this past week was Mrs. James H. (Sheila) Jones of Tarzan. She is very charming and I wish that more of you could know her. She is interested in the activities of the office, and has been of great help to us in locating some of the farms and ranches in Martin County, concerning the rain-making program. We're always glad to have Mrs. Jones come by.

IT WAS A PLEASURE to help with the Annual Stockholders meeting of the Cap Rock Electric Cooperative last Saturday afternoon, by appearing on their program. O. B. Bryan, manager of this enterprise, had a good program well lined up, and a large crowd was present. We enjoyed the hours thoroughly, as it's a pleasure to visit with folks who have a common interest. The whole afternoon was NICE!

THANKS TO THE STANTON REPORTER for supplying us with some much needed scratch pads. In giving local addresses and names to our new residents, we use words of these pads, and we are grateful for these "gadgets."

WE ARE GLAD TO PRESENT a new member to you. We present and introduce Merle's Flowers, owned and operated by Merle Steadham, who formerly had a successful flower shop in Big Spring. Merle comes to Martin County highly recommended as an outstanding designer of floral offerings for all occasions. Merle's Flowers is located in the Sheila Dress Shop building, and has recently installed a "flicker light" to tell the passing world, day and night, that she is "on the job!" Merle offers wire-service to all cities and towns in the United States and will be happy to serve you at all times. Our best wishes to this new business enterprise, and we hope that her "dreams of success" in our town will become a reality.

ANOTHER NEW MEMBER! If you remember a "few columns ago," I told you of a fine friend near Tarzan who had read our request for more housing. He came in, listed a house and it was promptly taken by a permanent citizen. So, again, we had a call from him, and THIS time he came in ONLY to line up with the organization as an active member. His name is C. W. Langley of Tarzan. Mr. Langley is one of our successful farmer-rancher residents of Martin County. Mr. and Mrs. Langley have been with us for about six years, coming here from near Big Spring. We have also learned that Mr. Langley is an active member of the Tarzan Marketing Association, which WE think is one of the outstanding organizations in the State. Therefore, we feel that we have a mighty fine new member who will be of great service to our progress. Thanks, Mr. Langley, for your belief in our future growth.

ANOTHER RECENT VISITOR was De Wayne Davis, manager of the Chamber of Commerce in Lamesa. We are always extremely happy to have a visit from De Wayne, as he has watched our growth since the beginning of our organization, and seems to take a personal interest in our activities. It gives us a great satisfaction when we have visitors with De Wayne's experience, to drop by and "say, nice words." It gives us a boost.

IN OUR CORRESPONDENCE during the past week we found a letter from Mrs. Charles W. Higgins of Independence, Iowa. It was a pleasure recently to have Mrs. Higgins and her two sisters visit with us in the office, during a trip to this part of the country. They own some real estate in the central part of Martin County and were here to look their place over. They were here during some of these bad sandstorms, and the letter states that they had been visiting in Corpus Christi before returning to their Iowa homes. These sisters were TOPS, and were having worlds of fun, and a sandstorm was a novelty to them — they had none in Corpus Christi. Mrs. Higgins asked if we had any rain — OH, how I hate to answer that letter — just must tell her the truth.

THANKS TO R. C. VEST, of the Farm Equipment & Supply Co., we have a miniature Allis-Chalmers tractor and trailer on our display table. Needless to say, we parked it up real close to the cotton bolls we have. Nice thought. Also, our display has caused several passers-by to stop for better looks — sure, most of them were cute little boys that admired the little yellow tractor.
