VIOLATION BY FIFTEEN IS CHARGED

CASES FILED AFTER ANTI-TRUST LAWS PROBE IS MADE

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 12.—Ouster suits against 15 oil companies were filed in Travis county district court today by James V. Allred, Texas attorney general. The petition charged violation of the anti-trust laws.

Companies named were the Standard Oil company of New Jersey; the Standard Oil company of New York; the Standard Oil company of California; the Shell Union Oil corporation; Humble Oil and Refining company; the Texas company; Gulf Refining company; Pasotex Petroleum company; Continental Oil company; Sinclair Refining company; Magnolia Petroleum company; Simms Oil company; Shell Petroleum corporation; Cities Service Oil company; Texas Pacific Coal and Oil company; Texas Petroleum Marketers association; American Petroleum institute.

Conspiracy Claimed

Allred charged in the suit that "a nationwide conspiracy to control and dominate the business of marketing gasoline and petroleum products and to destroy independent filling station operators" existed.

The fifteen companies and two associations were charged with having been engaged since November 20, 1929, in a systematic program of acquiring all independent filling stations in Texas; fixing the price of gasoline and petroleum products; fixing the price of filling station equipment; lessening and eliminating competition among themselves and generally dominating the marketing branch of the oil industry.

This practice was carried out under the guise of complying with a so-called "code of practices" and with the purported approval of the federal trade commission, Allred charged.

WRONGED GIRL IS DEFENSE

YOUTH HELD WITHOUT BAIL FOR SLAYING MONDAY NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12—The recital of a wrong done his daughter by Francis A. Donaldson, 3rd, is Horace Allen's defense of his son, Edward H. B. Allen, who faces trial on a charge of first degree murder for shooting Donaldson last Monday night.

The recital was made late yesterday at the office of John R. K. Scott, Allen's attorney, while Edward Allen was held without bail in the Norristown jail.

The narration depicted Donaldson as a bully who had beaten both Edward and his younger brother for their remonstrances over his attentions to their sister, Miss Rose E. W. Allen, and painted Edward himself as a "gentle and delicate boy" aroused to desperation by Donaldson's blows and the knowledge of a wrong done his sister.

An aunt of the dead youth, Mrs. Wharton L. Donaldson, made the only comment:

"Any attempt to besmirch the character of this dead boy will reflect only on those who make it. But if anyone wishes to libel his daughter or sister it is no concern of ours."

GRANDI PLANS FIVE-POINT PROGRAM

ITALIAN MINISTER TO CONFER NEXT WEEK WITH HOOVER

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—Every page in the book of international problems in which Italian-American cooperation might offer solutions will be turned next week by Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy and President Hoover.

Like the talks between President Hoover and Premier Laval of France, however, the world's economic situation and the bearing which international relations have upon it will be constantly in the foreground.

Status Different

There will be a considerable difference between the status of the forthcoming conversations and those which closed a few days ago when the French premier returned home. Both Mr. Hoover and Premier Laval had to consider the influence of a congress and a parliament, realizing that any concrete steps growing out of the conversations would necessarily require legislative approval.

For President Hoover that problem still exists. The Italian statesman, however, will carry the full backing of Premier Mussolini which means support of the Italian government without reservations.

President Hoover is fully prepared to discuss all five of the points understood to be contained in the program which the foreign minister brings.

Three of the foreign minister's points will offer no difficulty. They are almost echoes of American policy, calling for world economic cooperation, disarmament by a fair method and maintenance of the gold standard.

On the other two, the president will seek an understanding of Italy's position. They center around war debts and reparations and peace treaty revision.

AUTO THEFT CASE UNDER WAY TODAY

Trial of Brewster Dillard for theft of an automobile belonging to C. C. Lindsey, manager of Lindsey Theaters, Inc., began before Judge Clark L. Mullican in 99th district court this morning and Dillard was undergoing Assistant District Attorney Burton S. Burk's cross-fire of queries when court was adjourned at noon. Court was to convene again at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Other cases docketed for today were those of Bill Burns, charged with burglary; B. H. Jones, driving an automobile while intoxicated; Tom Garcia, chicken theft, and George Mayberry, a negro, prohibition law violation and perjury.

Persons indicted by a grand jury at a previous term of court and not tried then probably will be tried this week also, court attaches indicated.

She spoke before the students at 10 o'clock, urging them to develop their original ideas now "as these will be limited later by customers." Mrs. Adams is chairman of fine arts in the Texas Federation of Women's clubs.

ALEXANDER MAGYAR, WHO POSTPONED DUEL IN HUNGARY TO HONEYMOON IN UNITED STATES, WILL RETAIN NAME

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—Alexander Magyar, who helped fly the "Justice for Hungary" across the Atlantic, will stick to the name Magyar although it isn't the one he was born with.

Magyar, who postponed a duel with his flight companion George Endres in order to get married and enjoy a honeymoon in the United States, arrives here today from Budapest.

Hungarian friends, planning a rousing reception, declared he would not go back to the name Wilchak, which he abandoned for the purposes of the flight. He and Endres undertook the flight to call attention to alleged wrongs suffered by Hungary under the post-war treaties.

Magyar means Hungarian, and the flier feels the name, under which he gained fame in aviation, will serve better than Wilchak to identify him as a pro-Hungarian upholding the ideals of his native land.

The chances are he may not go back to Hungary right away to cross rapiers with Endres with whom he quarreled bitter-

BISHOP OPENS CONFERENCE

MINISTERS URGED TO RETURN TO POSITIVE ATTITUDE OF FAITH

BY ROBERT WEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

VERNON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Bishop Hiram A. Boaz of Houston, in opening the Northwest Texas conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today adjured ministers to return to a positive attitude of faith and beware of assuming a questioning attitude in their preachments.

A similar plea for an attitude of confidence in the face of spiritual doubt and financial depression characterized the address of Dr. R. N. Allen of Nashville, Tenn., chairman of the board of church extension.

Dean E. D. Jennings of Southern Methodist university reported on scholastic and financial progress of the institution in the last 15 years, saying recent unfavorable publicity the university had received was not a true index to disagreements which would be ironed out by a "prayerful attitude" and a return to a "more truly religious atmosphere."

Bishop Boaz urged preachers to emulate the passion of St. Paul for service and avoid "passion for place and position."

ROBBER KILLED

NOTE PASSING IS CHARGED

MAN IN JAIL HERE ON CHARGE OF MAKING SPLIT BILL

Charged with making and possessing a split note, the face of which was of a $10 national bank note and the back of a $1 United States silver certificate, Dewitt D. Landers, about 32, of Bell county, is in city jail here. He appeared before United States Commissioner Victor H. Lindsey here Tuesday and bond was fixed at $2,000.

Landers was arrested by a federal agent Tuesday at Floydada after allegedly passing a split note Sunday to T. M. Law, a merchant, at Dugherty, near Floydada. The United States commissioner said Landers, who is not married, had been picking cotton in the Floydada vicinity.

The alleged system depended on carelessness of persons taking the split notes, as one had to be passed on its face and the other on its back so that Landers could collect $20 at a cost of $11, Commissioner Lindsey explained.

Greenville Man Is Killed By Cavein

GREENVILLE, Nov. 12 (AP)—A caving brick wall crushed to death R. C. Miller, 55, night superintendent of the Greenville cotton oil mill, early today.

His body was removed from the debris 30 minutes later. His skull had been fractured.

Miller had been employer by the cotton oil mill more than 25 years. He was survived by his widow and several children. One of his sons, Elbert Miller, was a prominent Corsicana business man.

BOYS WHO WOULD "DIE FOR DEAR OLD SING SING" WILL MAKE GRID DEBUT

BY LORENA A. HICKOK

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—The boys who would "die for dear old Sing Sing" are going to make their debut as a football team Sunday.

They are to meet the naval militia on Sing Sing's brand new football field and there will be a band on the sidelines and movie cameras up in the turrets where the sentries stand.

But let any of the spectators start thumbing their programs in search of the identity of "No. 32" who made that whale of a run for "good old jail," and all they'll find is just another number.

For here is one football team whose backfield stars won't be getting any personal publicity—not if they can help it. Warden Lewis E. Lawes agrees with them on this subject.

"Even if the prison rules permitted it, the men themselves wouldn't want it," he said today. "They don't want their pasts dug up."

So it will be just a set of numbers so far as the public is concerned, Sunday afternoon two numbers for each man, one on his jersey and one in

JAPANESE TAKE OVER COAL MINE, CHINA MINISTER SAYS

(By The Associated Press)

GENEVA, Nov. 12.—China informed the League of Nations today that the Japanese command in Manchuria had ordered General Mah Changshan to evacuate the city of Tsitsihar but that General Mah still held the city.

A Japanese detachment of fifty soldiers armed with machine guns seized the Fuchowan coal mine and colliery operated by the Northeast Mining corporation near Dairen, Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese representative on the league council, reported.

He requested that the council restore this property which, he said, the Japanese have coveted for a long time.

SERIOUS FIGHTING EXPECTED TONIGHT

TIENTSIN, Nov. 12. (AP)—More trouble and possibly serious fighting is expected tonight because an arrangement by which the Japenese agreed to permit a search of the neutral zone bordering their concession by Chinese police has broken down.

The Chinese were to search the area for rebels who participated in rioting early in the week, but when 100 police entered the neutral zone they were turned back by a Japanese patrol which charged that the Chinese had tried to extend their operations into the Japanese concession.

Now each side is accusing the other of having broken the agreement.

GYPSY "PRINCE" IS BEHIND BARS

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 12 (AP)—The domain of Ephriam Marks, 25-year-old gypsy "prince," was bounded by the four walls of a prison cell today while federal authorities tried to decide whether his 14-year-old bride had been kidnaped or purchased according to tribal custom.

Frank Ranco of Brooklyn, N. Y., father of the girl bride, Ruby, charged she had been kidnaped from a Brooklyn theater three months ago and forced to marry Marks. The gypsies replied Marks paid the father $2,250 for the girl according to gypsy law. Ranco, they charged, was working a "kidnap racket."

Ruby, who also said she was kidnaped, was found in the camp of "Queen" Amelia Marks, 48, yesterday by deputy sheriffs led by Ranco, who said he had followed the gypsy band through Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan. Mrs. Marks, her son and his bride were taken to jail.

Favorite Word Of Pessimists Routed

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12. (AP)—America's pessimists awoke today to find their favorite word, "depression," had been routed by the stiff arm of suppression.

As far as some of the 150 editors attending the American Newspaper Publishers' association convention are concerned, the word doesn't exist any more in reference to business.

They decided it was a high hat word intended to substitute for the words "hard times" and "panic," now considered too harsh for any ordinary use.

GOV. PARNELL WOULD NAME SUCCESSOR TO CARAWAY

(By The Associated Press)

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 12—Governor Harvey Parnell announced today he will appoint a temporary successor to Senator T. H. Caraway pending a special election if the state attorney general holds he has this power. The governor, expressed the opinion he has the authority and said he would ask Attorney General Hal L. Norwood for a ruling.

Only by such a temporary appointment can Arkansas have its quota of two senators in congress at the session opening next month.

Opinions Differ

A difference of opinion existed in legal circles over whether the governor may make a temporary appointment pending the special election which he must call in not less than 60 or more than 120 days from the time the vacancy occurred.

Had Senator Caraway died two days later the governor could have filled the vacancy for the unexpired term by appointment.

Mrs. Hattie Caraway has been mentioned as the probable choice of the committee to serve out the unexpired term ending in March, 1933. She has announced she would accept the Democratic nomination which is tantamount to election.

ADMITTED SLAYER OF FIVE REMOVED FROM PENITENTIARY

(By The Associated Press)

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 12—Under heavy guard, Harry F. Powers, indicted in the slaying of two women and three children, was brought here from the state penitentiary in Moundsville early today to enter his plea.

Life Threatened

Powers was rushed panic-stricken to the penitentiary when a midnight mob threatened his life in the Harrison county jail in September.

His attorney, J. Edward Law, has announced he will ask for a change of venue.

The prisoner was nervous as he was hustled from the penitentiary to a waiting automobile late last night but as the car roared through the mountains toward Clarksburg he regained his composure, officers said.

En route, Powers was told for the first time that the grand jury Tuesday had indicted him in the slaying of Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher and her three children of Park Ridge, Ill., and Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Northboro, Mass.

NEGRO SLAYER GETS DEATH SENTENCE

RICHARD BROWN HELD GUILTY IN NORDUFT CASE AT GRAHAM

(By The Associated Press)

GRAHAM, Nov. 12. — Richard Brown, negro, was given the death penalty in a verdict returned before Judge Allan Montgomery in the 30th district court here shortly before noon today after the jury had deliberated 43 hours on the defendant's fate on a charge of robbery with firearms.

Richard Johnson, negro co-defendant, was given the death penalty on a charge of murder at his trial in Wichita Falls several weeks ago.

Assault Charged

Both negroes were indicted on charges of murder, criminal assault and robbery with firearms in connection with the slaying of A. N. Noduft and the robbery and assault of his fiancee in Wichita Falls on Sept. 9.

Members of the Brown jury were recalled for questioning at the request of defense council after the verdict had been read. They testified that on the first ballot there were seven votes for death and five for life imprisonment. On the next to the last ballot three members of the jury were still voting for life imprisonment.

BAPTISTS TO BAR OPPOSING GROUPS

WACO, Nov. 12 (AP)—A constitutional amendment adopted today by the Baptist general convention of Texas paved the way to deny in the future representation to organizations not in harmony with the general body.

The amendment, unanimously adopted, would make it emphatic, by defining in specific terms, that all messengers entitled to seats in the convention were expected to be in harmonious cooperation with the main objects of the convention.

Interpreting the amendment, Dr. L. R. Scarborough, president of the convention, said it "completely disavows the few small groups of irregular organizations which appropriate the Baptist bame and claim membership, btu are in open opposition to the convention's main objects and adopted measures and policies."

ROBBING THE UNEMPLOYED IS NEWEST RACKET WORKED AGAINST JOBLESS

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—It isn't the other important matter of keeping out of numerous traps set by conscienceless racketeers.

Imagine a man without a job, a family to feed, winter coming on; his shoes are worn from disappointing tramping, employment agency to employment agency.

There appears an attractive advertisement: Men wanted in his line immediately. He rushes to fill out the application. An impressive-looking individual tells him he has been selected as one of the few for the jobs.

But—

There's the matter of a bond. The company wants its employes to have an interest in the firm. So instead of the usual surety bond there is a more attractive plan by which the employe buys a share of stock, for maybe $100 or maybe $500 in a year, the whole thing back with interest, and, of course, a handsome salary in the meantime.

The unemployed man is a bit taken back. It's going to be hard to borrow another $500. But there's the necessity for work, the necessity to feed his

CONVENTION TO COME TO CLOSE TODAY IN LUBBOCK

Following one of the closest races in the history of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, Mrs. J. W. Fincher, Houston, becomes president of the organization and will be installed this afternoon by the retiring head, Mrs. R. F. Lindsay, Mt. Pleasant.

Mrs. R. Q. Lee, Cisco, was Mrs. Fincher's opponent. An announcement at the thirty-fourth annual convention this morning gave to Mrs. Fincher 135 votes against 76 for Mrs. Lee.

Election Exciting

This election which stirred the convention Wednesday, was one of the most exciting in the history of the organization, according to veterans at the convention. Of the 229 delegates who qualified, 214 voted. Three ballots were thrown out because they were improperly marked. This report by Mrs. W. R. Reports Show That Club Women Will At Last Realize Permanent Headquarters

Final Draft Submitted And Beginning Construction Is Under Way At Austin

Reports made before the Texas Federation of Women's clubs Wednesday brought to club women of the state a realization that the permanent headquarters toward which they have been looking for thirty-four years will soon become a reality. Dirt has been broken for the project, construction is actually under way and it is probable that the January board meeting of the organization can be held within the building.

This $162,000 building is to be complete in five units and is planned to care for the needs of the federation during the next fifty years. The building has become a reality only recently. It was one of the major projects and accomplishments of the administration of Mrs. R. F. Lindsay, Mt. Pleasant, which is drawing to a close today.

Financing of the project was completed less than two weeks ago when the Praetorian Life Insurance company of Dallas loaned the federation the $162,000 for 10 years at a low rate of interest. The transaction was made without a commission charge.

In addition to the building, the federation purchased a lot in Austin where the house is to stand. This lot, costing something like $30,000, is paid for.

Dreamed For Years

A vision of the future needs of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs was felt by the founder, the late Mrs. Edward Rotan of Waco, who wrote into the orginnal constitution that the permanent headquarters of the organization should be in Austin. This was thirty-four years ago. Until two years ago when Mrs. Lindsay became president of the Texas unit, there was little tangible evidence of a club house. It became one of the aims of her administration.

Mrs. James F. Welder of Victoria was appointed chairman of a committee at the federation board meeting in January 1930 and this group of women was empowered to work out plans for erecting the house. Mrs. Lindsay served as an ex officio member of the committee until this week when members of the board of directors of the organization gave her the power to vote. Other members of the original committee are yet serving. These include Mrs. Sam J. Smith of Austin and the seven district presidents who are retiring today. These latter are Mrs. J. T. Whitmore of Snyder, Mrs. Greenleaf Fisk of Abilene, Mrs. Volney Taylor of Brownsville, Mrs. J. W. Fincher of Houston, Mrs. Sam Cox of Mexia, Mrs. F. R. Pettengell of Cleburne and Mrs. Ben G. O'Neal of Wichita Falls.

This group of women was given all authority for the erection of the building.

Choose Dallas Architect

After architects had been sought from over the state, Henry Coke Knight of Dallas was chosen. Almost two years ago he submitted the first plans. Until the final ones were accepted, he conferred with women from over the state. At the Wednesday session of the federation at First Methodist church here, he presented the final draft and gave a detailed talk on the building.

Contracts for the plumbing, heating, electricity, wiring and such were divided between San Antonio and Austin firms.

The building is of Georgian colonial design and is to be of brick with a tile roof. It is constructed in the form of the letter "H". An auditorium that will seat more than 700 people is to be at the back of the building. General offices will be along a central hall. One wing will be devoted to an art gallery. In the other there will be a library and tea room. In the second story, there will be eight rooms and private baths for entertaining visitors—on the plans of a hotel—and a room for the housekeeper.

The building which was started this month is to be ready for occupancy at the end of 140 working days, according to present plans.

Through a system of patrons, founders and memorials, the building is being financed by the club women of Texas. A treasurer's report Wednesday showed $14,833.58 paid to date with a total of $36,473.08 pledged. Since the pledge are made in four annual payments, all are due at the end of four years.

Reporting by districts Wednesday the totals were as follows: First district—patrons, founders and memorials, 52, with the total pledge of over $5,000 paid; second district—patrons, founders and memorials, 42, with $1,239 paid from total pledges of $4,420; third district—patrons, founders and memorials, 50, with a total pledge of $1,226.50; fourth district—patrons, memorials and founders, 96, with $3,593.25 collected out of a pledge of $10,207; fifth district—patrons, founders and memorials, 83, with $2,315.58 paid out of pledges of $10,307; sixth district—patrons, founders and memorials, 34, with $1,003 paid out of pledges totalling $4,535; seventh district—founders, patrons and memorials, 24, with $2,400 pledged.

Three Lubbock clubs are among those pledging in seventh district. These are the Twentieth Century, Junior Twentieth Century and Athenaeum.

Totals from district reports will not tally with those of the treasurer as all pledges and payments had not been recorded at the Wednesday meeting, it was announced.

DR. MYERS

Doctor Myers' Daily Column On Child Welfare

BY GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D. Head Division Parental Education Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

TOYS FOR CHILDREN

In any home, the child just beginning to creep, finds his most attractive toys in the kitchen. The pots and pans and lids hardly have an equal in allurement. The child can manipulate them, make noises with them, and turn them into all sorts of combinations. He also can put smaller things into them and dump these smaller things from one container to another. Such toys cost nothing: they easily can be thrown into boiling water to be sterilized. You cannot buy better toys for the baby under three or four.

Fasten a string to a pan that has a handle, and see the child delight to drag the thing around. Many a home has spools. Put a good number of them on a string for the baby, and have plenty of wrapping cord and rope saved from packages, where the child can use them. Long before he can tie a knot he will fasten toys together in his own crude way. A few blunt sticks or pieces of board tied together make for the toddler an attractive train.

Coffee cans, oatmeal boxes, shoe boxes, wooden boxes large and small, all sorts of containers which are not dangerous to the child, prove to be good toys. As the child grows older he, with scissors, paste, glue and brads will learn to make a variety of toys from such things.

Never throw away a magazine. The little child of one or two likes to leaf through it looking at the pictures. At three or four he likes to cut pictures from it and paste them in a scrap book. At this age the child should have blunt-nosed scissors of his own.

He should have some paste. You can make it out of flour and water Put away the plain wrapping paper which comes on packages for your child to draw and scribble on. For a few cents you can buy for him large sheets of news print paper.

Give him colored crayon. A wooden pencil is dangerous to the child under four or five. When he first uses such a pencil show him how to carry it with safety. If you have no low table for him, put a newspaper or magazine on the floor and let him write there.

From scantling or odd pieces of lumber, saw off a number of blocks with several to a size and plane off the splinters. Older children might well be induced to make such playthings for the baby. Let the toddler have a pan or two in which to carry blocks and other things about the house. When he can be out of doors, give him the fire shovel and a small hoe, to dig or shovel snow or sand or dirt.

As early as the age of two or three the child can learn to drive a nail into soft wood. Let him have soft boards or boxes and let him pound to his heart's content. A coping saw can be obtained for a few cents, as well as a vise which can be fastened to the kitchen table. Either make your tools available or get him tools which he can use. At four or five he can use a saw, a plane, a gimlet, even a brace and bit. Don't get him cheap tools; get him good ones, very few if necessary. Then allow him to go ahead.

When provisions are brought home, there are many packages such as soap and cereals and canned goods. Leave them on the kitchen floor for the toddler to play with. You will not need to show him what to do. He will invent and be engaged in real education.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Two pamphlets by Dr. Myers may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Garry C. A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Women Surgeons Find Prejudice Against Sex Is Losing

By NEA Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—To be a surgeon a woman must have endurance, steady hands, calm nerves, singleness of purpose. She must be willing to devote at least ten years to study and practice without remuneration.

This formula for success is surgery, a field of medicine where, as yet, comparatively few women have made their mark, was offered by three women members of the American College of Surgeons—among the half dozen of their sex who attended the Clinical Congress of the College here.

"Women still must face considerable sex prejudice in the surgical field," admitted Dr. Emma K. Willetts of San Francisco who has practiced for thirty years at the Hospital for Women and Children there and is now chief of the surgical staff. "Surgery, being a more dramatic event in the life of the layman, has been one of the last departments of medicine to yield to women an equal standing with their male colleagues. This is entirely natural and women, by their distinguished performance, are rapidly winning confidence in every field of surgery."

Capable In Emergencies

"Women's small hands and delicate touch give them advantages for the practice of surgery," added Dr. Louisa Paine Tingley, Chief of Opthalmic Surgery at the New England Deaconess Hospital and the Massachusetts Women's Hospital in Boston.

"And women can rise to emergencies," interposed Dr. Florence Duckering, veteran Boston surgeon. "People who say that women fail in this respect, speak from ignorance."

As prejudice against women in business has gradually disappeared, so has the intolerance toward women in medicine vanished, the women surgeons agreed. They stressed the need for concentration and singleness of purpose in the approach to medicine. While several instances were cited of women surgeons who had married and raised children and continued their practice, for the most part they find that women have to choose between a surgical career and home making—both full-time jobs.

Dr. Tingley, who is married, warned young women who looked toward surgery as a profession that they would have to sacrifice much social life that they might otherwise participate in. She has successfully combined matrimony and her career — but from the start ruled pots, pans and such domestic pre-occupations from her daily schedule.

Individual Ability Counts

It is no longer a question of sex but a question of individual ability and temperament that determines whether a woman is fitted to be a doctor or a surgeon, the women surgeons agreed. Although they were in the third generation of women physicians in America, they hued a pioneer path. Now they see equal opportunity for women who are willing to make the sacrifices that the profession of surgery requires.

Trimly dressed, kindly faced, calm of manner, these women surgeons demonstrated that 30 years of exacting practice had not taken toll from their zest for life, their health and nerves.

How Doctors Treat Colds and Coughs

Medical writers agree that the important point in the treatment of a cold, or cough due to a cold, is to relieve the congestion in the nose and throat, thereby preventing serious complications which may follow a neglected cold. To stop this congestion calomel was the accepted and standard remedy until Calotabs, the improved calomel compound tablet was introduced.

Now that science has robbed calomel of its nausea and danger, making it pleasant to take and perfectly safe for general use, over forty million Calotabs are consumed in the U. S. yearly with only the most pleasant and satisfactory results. In millions of homes Calotabs have proven their superiority in the prompt relief of colds and coughs due to colds.

One or two Calotabs at bed-time with a glass of sweet milk or water. No salts necessary. No nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning the congestion has subsided, your cold or cough is relieved, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish—no danger.

Get a family package of Calotabs, containing full directions, only thirty-five cents. Trial size, ten cents. At any drug store.—Adv.

It's Legal Now

MANCHESTER, N. J.—It's ok to go to the movies or a football game on Sunday now. The voters made it legal last week and put it into effect yesterday.

Extra Xmas Gifts

NEW YORK—Let America give ten million extra Christmas gifts this year and unemployment will get a jolt on the chin. The suggestion comes from Kathleen Norris, novelist. The extra gifts would mean much extra work.

Toss Decides It

BOSTON—Thomas Ward, 18, and Joseph Regele, 14 tossed a coin to decide whether to be good or bad. It came good and they marched to the police station and handed in their two pistols. "We'd have come anyway," Ward said. "I wasn't going to let Joe get mixed up in any wrong. He's too young."

Drink Less Milk

BUFFALO, N. Y.—People aren't drinking as much milk as they used to, so one of the largest distributors in town has reduced the price from twelve to ten cents a quart.

Apes Coolidge

S S CONTE GRANDE AT SEA—Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy rides the same kind of horse former President Coolidge used to ride—the electric one. He exercised that way as the ship ploughed toward America Sunday.

"Yes" Adopted

BERNE, Switzerland—"Yes" is being adopted by the Swiss for use when they mean the opposite of "no."

The German-Swiss word for "Yes" is "Ja." But the English word is finding its way in, and now is used even in the highest society. They do not, however, say "Oh, yeah?"

Gives Ten Rules

NEW YORK—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, New York state's first lady, writing in the Pictorial Review says married people must expect to disagree. But she tells how to meet the situation in ten rules for a successful marriage. "Let neither husband nor wife strive to dominate," she says, and "talk things over, meet every situation in the open."

Pro Held Workman

PATERSON, N. J.—A golf professional is a workman under the ruling of Judge Joseph A. Delaney. He decided that a pro who suffered sunstroke while instructing a club member was entitled to payment under the state workman's compensation law.

Have Own Method

BERLIN—Unwelcome guests in a cafe here get a dose of their own medicine. There is no bouncer, but an ill-favored, unmannered individual is seated at their table with a flourish. He proceeds to make himself so disagreeable that the unwanted ones depart. He spots pickpockets, imposters and swindlers and does his stuff on them.

Hunt Car, Baby

PATERSON, N. J.—Police are trying to help Mrs. William Lempe find her 18 months' old son and incidentally the family car. She left the baby in the automobile parked in front of a store. Someone drove off with the car, baby and all.

HAGERSTOWN, Md.—Benjamin Gifta, been sentenced to two years imprisonment as a "common criminal nuisance." In a fit of pique at being discharged by the gas company, he turned off all the gas, and the town went gasless for 12 hours.

They Stay Built

HARRISBURG, Pa.—When United States army engineers build bridges, they stay built. A tubular type span of cast iron was built over Dunlap's creek to carry stage coaches and wagons more than 100 years ago. Now it supports a heavy traffic of automobiles and trucks.

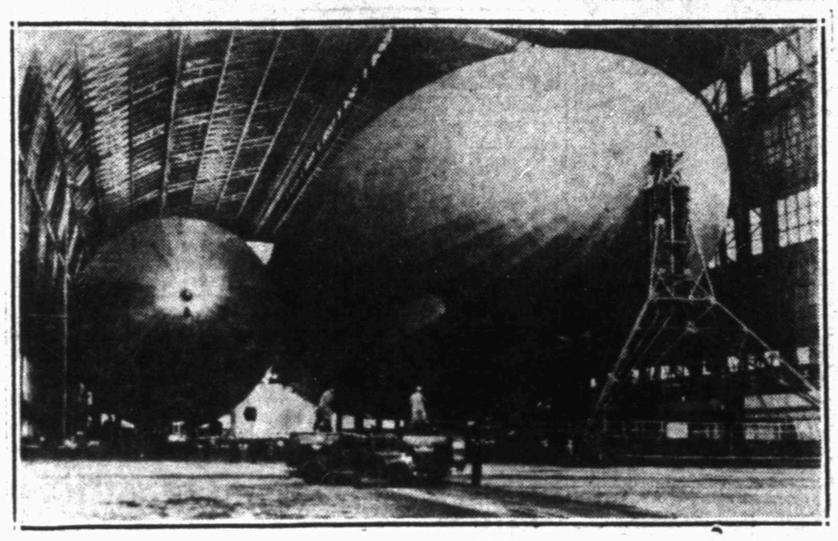

Wages Not Cut

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—The Rochester Gas and Electric corporation needed money but it did not want to cut wages. So now all employes earning more than $1,200 are investing 10 per cent of their salaries in eight per cent bonds of the company.

Paid In Dimes

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—The first motorist to cross the new bridge which carries the Bronx parkway extension over Croton reservoir paid a toll of eighty cents. He gave five dimes to one workman and three to another. It was John D. Rockefeller.

Here's How Akron and Los Angeles Look Side by Side!

There's a whole hangar full of lighter-than-air ships at the Lakehurst, N. J., Naval Air Station now. And in this picture you see how the giant dirigible Akron, greatest of the world's flying crafts, looks in its berth beside the smaller, veteran Los Angeles. The Akron, seen here at the end of its first long flight from its factory at Akron, Ohio, fills one side of the hangar to within fifteen feet of the end. The new mobile mooring mast, shown in the foreground, was reported to have functioned perfectly in landing the air Goliath.

OFFICER ROPES ANIMALS TO END TRAFFIC JAM

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Out on the far south side of Chicago the guardians of the law are unruffled policemen, undisturbed by a little thing like a report that three wild animals are roving about the neighborhood.

Consequently Desk Sergeant John Barrett stiffled a yawn when he called Policeman Daniel Platt.

"They tell me," said the sergeant, "that there are three wild animals tying traffic in a knot at One Hundred and Eleventh and Green Bay avenue. I don't remember a circus being in town, but you better unwind your lasso and go get them."

Policeman Platt, who has maintained from time to time that he was a cowboy before he was a policeman, went to the scene and promptly roped with one swing the three wild animals, which proved to be goats that had butted into the traffic.

They were locked up in one cell at the police station.

Two New Picking Records Are Made

CROSBYTON, Nov. 12 (Special)—Two unusual cotton picking records were believed made in the same field near town.

J. C. Elam, 13 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elam, in one day, picked 908 pounds of cotton. So far no boy of that age has reported more.

Reverend Wallace, 69, who walked five miles to the field and back, picked 900 pounds in one day.

It is not known if the two were racing to see who could gather the largest amount of cotton.

Forty-eight Indians live in Cleveland, O., the census report shows.

Crosbyton School Enrollment Lower

CROSBYTON, Nov. 12 (Special)—Enrollment in the Crosbyton schools at the opening was 421, or 102 less than at the opening in 1930. The difference was credited to cotton picking.

D. A. Edwards, superintendent, announced there were 37 seniors, 23 juniors and 28 freshmen.

Will She Wed Rich Subject?

Did the Baroness Violet Beatrice Wenner, standing beside the second painting she made of Harold F. McCormick, harvester king, in Chicago, paint in strokes of admiration for the millionaire who recently divorced Ganna Walska, operatic diva? Some are wont to see not only admiration, but love, in the work of the Baroness, and rumor has it that the artist will be the magnate's next bride.

Have you what is commonly called that Tired Feeling?

"I just can't go on"—how often you hear this. So often the reason is simple—that good body of ours has "run-down" under the strain of our way of living . . . pressure of work and worry.

Those important precious red-blood-cells that mean so much to vitality become lowered in count . . . the hemoglobin percentage begins to fall and we wonder "what is the matter."

If this is your trouble, why not take steps to overcome it—remembering that a "tired feeling" may be a warning * * * so are pimples, boils and paleness. A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

Why not start taking S.S.S. today?—the larger size represents a price saving.

NOBLESVILLE, Ind., Nov. 12 (AP)—Richard Denney, who gave his age as 95 and said he had been married seven times, walked into the office of the county clerk yesterday and asked for a license to wed Mrs. America Moody, 85. He got it.

NEW BOOK on
SALAD DRESSINGS
TO SUIT THE SALADS

"THERE is a right kind of salad for each occasion, and a right kind of dressing for each different kind of salad."

That is nothing new! It is simply that some things go together and some do not. It is as old as flowers in spring, overcoats in winter, going to bed at night and getting up in the morning.

So mix a dressing appropriate to the salad. For the right dressing, mixed to suit the particular flavors of the salad, really decides the success of the salad.

Each different kind of salad has a different flavor. That is why we like them. Then why smother all their flavors under a blanket of thick dressing like mayonnaise? Mix a dressing appropriate to the salad.

In my little booklet I suggest a few salads appropriate for each occasion and the dressings that go best with them. I feel sure you will enjoy it because I have written it just for you. I hope it will help you make all your dinners and parties the charming successful occasions you want them to be. I will send you the booklet with my compliments if you will write me in care of the Wesson Oil People, 210 Baronne St., New Orleans, La.

GRANDI TO BE UNDER GUARD

ITALIAN MINISTER TO BE PROTECTED ON VISIT TO U. S.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Foreign Minister Dino Grandi will be rushed through New York in a closed car under heavy police guard when he arrives from Italy next Monday for conferences with President Hoover.

State department officials conferred today with Major William F. Deegan, chairman of the mayor's committee for reception of distinguished guests, and it was learned the prepared city reception was definitely abandoned.

The present plan calls for Grandi to be brought to his liner's Hudson river pier on the liner, not being taken off at quarantine as is usual for officials of such high rank. A closed car will be waiting at the pier and with heavy police guard the Italian foreign minister, against whose presence here anti-fascist organizations have threatened to stage demonstrations, will be rushed directly to the Pennsylvania station to entrain for Washington.

MAYOR HARRY A. MACKEY OF PHILADELPHIA AND LAD WHO "ADOPTED" HIM GET ALONG FINE IN FATHER, SON ROLES

By NEA Service

PHILADELPHIA—Eugene Victor McGeorge, 12, hands thrust deep in the pockets of his first "long pants," gazed proudly about the home of Mayor Harry A. Mackey in West Philadelphia.

"What this place really needed," he exclaimed, "was a boy!"

And Eugene is the boy who gets the job of supplying the need around the Mackey home, cluttered up as it is in his boyish view, with two young grand-daughters.

The son of a Scranton coal-miner, this bright-faced, gray-eyed lad, one of a family of eleven youngsters, had suddenly decided that if he was to get anywhere in this grim world Harry Mackey was the man to help him.

Mayor Visited Boy's Home

Seven years ago, Mayor Mackey, then City Treasurer, and his daughter, Lorna Mackey Haines, visited relatives in Montrose, Pa. On the outskirts of this village in Northeastern Pennsylvania, they dropped into the McGeorge home.

Mackey's daughter took an immediate liking to the grimy-faced youngster, then only 5, and Gene proved equally responsive to this unusual interest.

Mrs. Haines persuaded her father to take the lad home. The parents agreed, and Gene, cleaned, brushed, and freshly-clothed, came to Philadelphia. He was given a year's schooling and a glorious summer vacation in Atlantic City. Then back to the coal fields.

Gene's mother, a former school teacher, died, and his father remarried. The boy was hired out to a neighboring farmer.

Funds for His Trip

"I said to myself," said McGeorge, in telling how he decided to 'adopt' a new father. "'If I'm ever going to amount to anything, now is the time to start.' I only had some change, but I had a bicycle and I sold it for $5. A woman in Montrose who knew my mother lent me $5 more. I took a bus and came to Philadelphia."

Eugene Victor McGeorge the 12-year-old boy who "adopted" Mayor Harry A. Mackay of Philadelphia, is shown at top in his new home with Barbara Haines, 6, a granddaughter of the Mayor. Shown below is the city executive himself with two other wards, Walter Kane and Jane Shull, whom he is maintaining in an orphans' home.

It was Sunday and of course when Gene reached City Hall he found the Mayor's office closed.

A kindly guard directed him to the Mayor's city apartment. But there again, the Mayor was out. Before a gold-braided attendant in the sumptuous lobby of the Rittenhouse Plaza apartments could eject the lad in tattered clothes the Mayor's negro butler, Sam Hill, heard about the youthful caller.

Sam remembered the boy. He gave Gene a bath, food and put him to bed. When the Mayor came home he listened to the boy's story, told between gulps that were on the verge of being sobs. But Gene didn't cry.

Installed in Home

Next day, the Mayor sent the boy to the Mackey residence in West Philadelphia where Mrs. Haines lives with two daughters. Barbara, 6, and Lorna, 2.

How does this new life appeal to the Mayor's volunteer ward? And what is he going to do with the opportunity he sought out for himself?

"I think the Mayor is a swell guy, was the first emphatic observation made to the accompaniment of a nodding blonde head and an infectious grin.

"I think this is a great place," he added. "I don't know many people here yet, but I'm starting to get around. I've been up to the park a couple of times, and I've walked around a lot. I'll soon know the whole place as well as Montrose.

"I want to be a mechanic and I'll be glad to go to trade school. I don't know what kind of a mechanic I'll be but I want to fool around with machinery."

Such is ambition. The Mayor is pleased, too.

"Yes, I'm going to keep him. I have talked to his father, who has agreed," said the city's chief executive. "He's a fine by. He has spirit and I know I'll be proud of him. He will be sent to school as soon as arrangements can be made to have him enrolled."

Gene is not the first child to come under the protection of the Mayor. For the past two years he has been providing for the maintenance at the Northeastern Hebrew Orphan Home here of Jane Shull, 2, and 4-year-old Walter Kane.

City Geography Held Essential

DALLAS, Nov. 12 (AP)—Municipal geography, two bootleggers decided, is as essential as readin' and writin' and rithmetic.

By mistake they attempted to deliver a half gallon of gin at the home of Sergeant A. C. Cantrell of the Dallas police department.

As a result the men lost their freedom, two half gallons of gin and their automobile.

Marriage Licenses At Roswell Hiked

ROSWELL, Nov. 12 (Special)—Twenty-nine marriage licenses were issued in October by the county clerk of Chaves county. This was one more than in the previous month. In August 38 couples obtained licenses.

More than half of those obtaining licenses last month were married immediately after the ceremony. Eight of the couples being married were from Roswell, the others being from out of town.

Mississippi had eight retail stores for every 1,000 population during 1930 with a per capita sale of $206.92.

BAILEY ISSUE IS REVIVED

RE-ROUTING OF U. S. HIGHWAY STARTS TALK OF BONDS

MULESHOE, Nov. 12 (Special)—With the re-routing of U. S. highway No. 366 through Plainview and Muleshoe into Clovis, N. M., instead of by way of Amarillo, discussion of a proposed road bond issue for Bailey is being revived.

Following announcement of the change, the Clovis Chamber of Commerce and other organizations began discussions with other towns between that city and Plainview and also to Lubbock to pave the highway 28 and 7. No. 28 is paved for eight miles east of Plainview and for 22 miles west, or entirely across Hale county. It is also paved in Cottle, Wilbarger and Foard counties to connect with No. 5 at Vernon In Motley county the grading work has been finished and bridges completed.

Lubbock county plans to pave No. 7 northwest to the Hockley county line this winter. That will leave only Hockley and Lamb counties unpaved between Muleshoe and Lubbock county's south line.

Use of caliche and asphalt in paving by the state high way department has revived the talk here. There is a large amount of caliche along the highways in this county, making a short haul. The route probably would be changed south of Muleshoe in Bailey county, shortening the distance about eight miles.

SLIGHT BOOST IN OIL PRODUCTION

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 12 (AP)—Slight increases in virtually every oil field in the United States last week accounted for an advance of 34,446 barrels in the daily average production of the United States, Oil and Gas Journal estimates show.

Total production last week was 2,456,864 barrels daily as compared with 2,422,418 barrels daily the week-ended October 31.

Oklahoma production was 534,210 barrels daily while production the preceding week was 518,615 barrels daily.

East Texas fields flowed 419,378 barrels daily as compared with a previous estimate of 417,729.

Kansas production was up 3,390 barrels at 106,130 daily.

Eastern production was up 6,700 barrels at 122,700 daily.

The Rocky mountain area produced an average of 132 barrels daily less than the previous week for an average of 93,735 barrels.

California produced 1,800 barrels more daily last week, when the total daily reading was 495,800.

Maya Indians Are Object Of Study

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—What happens to primitive people in the process of being civilized is to be studied among the Maya Indians of Yucatan, Mexico, by scientists of the Carnegie institution of Washington.

Different stages of culture existing side by side among the Maya represent a "short outline of civilization," Dr. Robert Redfield of the University of Chicago, research associate of the Carnegie institution, said in explaining plans for the study. He asserted the complete range of social development from the primitive tribe to the modern city is represented in Yucatan.

Southland Pastor Accepts New Post

SOUTHLAND, Nov. 12 (Special)—Rev. C. B. Thompson, pastor of the Methodist church here for several years, has moved to Petty, Texas, in the East Texas conference, he having accepted a pastorate there. His successor is expected to be named at the annual conference in Vernon.

Meantime the other churches here, Church of Christ and Baptist, also are without pastors. This left the town for one Sunday without a regular pastor.

Part of Poland's molasses production is used in the manufacture of shoe blacking.

Mechanical Cotton Stripper Is Used

LEVELLAND, Nov. 12 (Special)—A mechanical cotton stripper has been in operation in the Pep community for several weeks and there is considerable interest in its results.

So far most of the cotton gathered by the stripper has been left sacked in the field. However, 11 bales have been ginned. The turnout of these 11 bales is reported to be some better than cotton stripped from the stalks by hand. Also the grade is reported better.

SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE TEAMS PREPARE FOR WEEK-END GAMES

FROGS ARE TO MEET TEXAS AT AUSTIN

MUSTANGS TRAIN FOR CLASH WITH BEARS NEXT SATURDAY

(By The Associated Press)

Fearing they will run into the same powerhouse plays that smothered Baylor 25 to 0 last week, the Texas Christian university Frogs worked overtime yesterday in preparation for their game against Texas next Saturday.

Stressing to his boys that they are in for their hardest game of the season, Coach Schmidt spent hours yesterday working on plays to use against Texas. The Frogs are undefeated in the conference race but a University of Texas victory would leave the Frogs with a tie as their only conference hope.

Offensive Stressed

Texas coaches continued to concentrate on development of an offensive. The varsity whipped through a long scrimmage against the freshmen.

The pace-setting Southern Methodist Mustangs, undefeated and untied this season, romped through a long scrimmage session in preparation for Baylor Saturday at Dallas. Howard Sprague, Emmet Jordan, Fritz Hawn and Weldon Mason did not take part in the scrimmage. Mason was allowed a day of rest. Injuries kept the others out.

Gloom settled over the Texas A. and M. Aggies yesterday when it was learned Captain Carl Mouldin, tackle, would not be able to play against Rice Saturday at Houston. Moulden was injured in the Southern Methodist game. The Aggies expect a hard fight from the Rice Owls who spent yesterday in scrimmage and on a defense to stop Charlie Malone from catching passes.

FISH TO PLAY YEARLINGS

PICADORS TO BE SEEN IN ACTION FRIDAY NIGHT HERE

Lubbock's football program for the week is not yet come to an end, though the feature game of the week was played yesterday. Friday night will find the Texas Tech Picadors, local college freshmen, in their first home stand of the season, a game with the West Texas Teachers College Yearlings. The game will start at 7.30 o'clock on the Tech field.

So far this season the Picadors have had tough luck in their games, losing all but one and tieing that. In their last game they gained a deadlock with the Canyon Frosh and outplayed the Yearlings in every department save scoring.

The week has been spent in earnest preparation for the game. Coaches Del Morgan and Weir Washam sending their charges through rigorous workouts as well as spending much time in working out technical plays and individual offensive duties. Little time heretofore has been available to the Picadors to work on their own game, much time having been occupied with scrimmage against the Matadors.

It is hoped by Tech officials that a large crowd of local fans will attend tomorrow night's game, the first opportunity to see Tech's future gridsters in action.

WHITE HOUSE TO HEAR GRID TALES OF 37 YEARS AGO

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Football glories of 37 years ago will be revived tonight across the White House dinner table.

Men now bankers, lawyers, doctors and engineers converging on the executive mansion today to talk over with President Hoover the days when they were the Leland Stanford football team and he its financial manager.

At the president's invitation, they are coming. A judge may sit next to a rancher. But once gathered in the state dining room, present day titles will be less favored than those of college days. It will be memory night at the White House.

There will be fond talk, probably, of the team's famous coach, the late Walter Camp. There will be recollections of the games that won them the championship of the west, of victories over California and the University of Chicago.

Football Will Pay Respects To Rockne

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Football will pay its respect to the memory of Knute Rockne on the college and high school field next Saturday.

In accordance with the suggestion of the National Coaches association, time will be taken out between halves of all games to honor his memory. Contributions to the Rockne field house fund also will be collected during the pause.

WESTERNERS WIN AS MATADORS LOSE

Brownfield, Lamesa And Floydada Take Armistice Contests

The shades of night probably will be drawn before the Tech Matadors get back to town tonight and we think they'd probably prefer it to be dark for what does it matter? What does matter is the spirit in which they are received back home, win or lose, and the spirit in which the Tech student body supports its team henceforth.

It is passing strange that a student body as large and as democratic as Texas Tech offers no more support to its athletic teams. It's an old story with us and if you think we get any kick out of griping about it you're mistaken. But it is to be lamented that Tech's own students do not turn out to its games and that the few who do appear to be suffering from laryngitis.

Yell-master Jay Timmons and his assistants have been faithful enough. They have at least been on hand at the home games and they have pleaded and begged for bigger and better yelling. But you can't have student yelling until you have student presence, and Tech does not go to see its games. Aside from the freshman football squad and a few other green-capped individuals and Harry's band the student body is ill represented; the stands are occupied by townspeople. And Tech cries for town support!

Lubbock citizens have supported the Tech team most faithfully this season. Attendance at games has been higher than ever before. The team has played better football, not having lost a home game yet and not likely to lose one this season. This isn't designated as the daily college column but the writer, as well as Tech's team and coaches and every dyed-in-the-wool fan would rejoice in seeing at least one fourth of the grandstand full of students at home games. And hearing 'em yell.

There are two ball games to see tomorrow, if you are so inclined. Coach John Swede McMurray sends his Lubbock High Cowhands against the Slaton Tigers at Tech Field in the afternoon and the Tech freshman club meets the West Texas Buffalo Yearlings tomorrow night. The Lubbock Cowhand team corresponds to the Tech Picador outfit in that both teams are made up of future first-string players. Ineligibles and first year men play on both teams and among their ranks are some gridsters who will bear watching. They are due to be seen many times before their careers are ended.

There's one candidate for 1931 all-American honors who doesn't get that way through the literary efforts of ballyhoo artists. His name is due to be pinned to the list of such great monikers as Bobby Jones, Helen Wills Moody and others. We are thinking of Barry Wood, who is no stranger to the reader already. Harvard's field general stands out as the greatest in his department this year, and is on a par with Frank Carideo of last year and Harry Stuhldreher of "Four Horseman" fame. He'll be all-American not only for such personal accomplishments as passing, drop and place-kicking and ball toting but for his shrewd manipulation of Harvard's attack, and he may succeed Bobby Jones as the possessor of amateur sports greatest honor, the Sullivan memorial award emblematic of the year's greatest amateur athlete, because of his wonderful ability in basketball, hockey, baseball, tennis and in the class room.

One of football's perennial anecdotes is the nifty about the sophomore quarterback who breaks into the "big game." In the huddle he calls a play but a brawny senior lineman or halfback or some other formidable and experienced character says, "check—call another play, you runt." Coldly the quarterback repeats the signal, adding, "Coach sent me in here to run this team, and I'm gonna run it, see." Very confident, he is competent.

Maybe the story originated from Knute Rockne's string of yarns. It has been applied to many outstanding quarterbacks in various forms and translations, even to Carideo and little Albie Booth. It has never been applied to our hero for the moment, Barry Wood. Probably because his word was never questioned even as sophomore. He rolls his own, but in such a way that the whole team and the school gets results. Just keep your eyes peeled for news of Wood. It sems to be his year, and there are lots of good quarterbacks.

CLASS B MARATHON IS NARROWED BY WINS ON WEDNESDAY

The Lamesa High school Golden Tornadoes and the Floydada High Whirlwinds leaped into further Class B prominence yesterday when they won a semi-final and quarter-final game toward the championship of District 2.

The Tornadoes, coached by P. T. McCollum, downed the Post Antelopes, 19 to 0, in a game that decided the championship of the southern half of the district. Each had previously won its quadrant in the much divided district.

Lockney Humbled

Floydada made a playhouse of its football field yesterday and humbled the Lockney High Steers, 63 to 0. It might have been 183 to 0 had Coach L. T. Barksdale kept his regulars in the game. As it was, the Whirlwinds had such easy sailing that every man in Whirlwind uniform was sent into the melee. The playing of Quarterback Heald, F. Murray and L. Murray, McLaughlin, Houghton, Welch and Bridges, the latter scoring four touchdowns, was outstanding.

The Whirldwind victory gave Floydada the championship of its sub-district. The team must meet and defeat Littlefield before being eligible to compete in the finals. Early in the season Floydada defeated Littlefield in a non-conference game, though the latter put up one of the hardest struggles of the season. It is thought that Littlefield has improved considerably and will furnish tougher opposition in the next game. The winner will meet Lamesa for the district 2 title.

In a game that had no bearing on the race, Brownfield's Cubs, coached by Marlin Hayhurst, defeated the Tahoka Bulldogs, 26 to 6, at Tahoka yesterday before a large holiday crowd. Brownfield had been eliminated from the race a week earlier by Lamesa after winning its quadrant.

STEEPLECHASE IS SCHEDULED TODAY

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 12 (AP)—The prince of Wales gold cup steeplechase was today's principal event on Lexington's fullest week of sports in years. Nine horses were entered in the chase over a three-mile course with nineteen jumps.

The National Fox Hunters association, sponsor of the event, will award a purse of $5,000 to the winner, and the American Turf association will give a gold cup. The Prince of Wales has authorized the use of his name in designating the steeplechase.

Hamburg Place, the estate of the late John E. Madden, is the site of the three-race program which includes the steeplechase. The trophy will be awarded by Gov. Flem D. Sampson.

Many of the fox hunters attended Col. E. R. Bradley's charity race meeting at Idle Hour farm yesterday, which netted approximately $30,000 to provide bountiful dinners and toys to Kentucky orphans at Christmas time.

SLATON REVEALS POWER IN CLASH WITH HARVESTERS

PAMPA, Nov. 12 (Special)—The Slaton High school Tigers displayed unexpected power of offense and defense here yesterday and the best that Pampa's Harvesters could do was to take a 13 to 7 victory in a slow game.

Line plunging by Fullback Hill enabled Pampa to take the Armistice Day victory. Hill, Chastain and Moore scored for Pampa, with Demp Cannon going across for Slaton's tally.

Fumbles by Pampa back gave Slaton repeated opportunities in the first half, which ended in a 7-7 tie. Pampa made 15 first downs to Slaton's four.

TO EXHIBIT ANTIQUES

Mrs. Clarence S. Mast, 2219 Thirteenth Street, is exhibiting an antique art display at her home this afternoon between 2 and 6 o'clock. Old oils, prints, semi-old paintings, old dishes, pewter and other articles will be shown.

Alfred, Walter and Charles Thomas, brothers, have served an aggregate of 139 years continuous service on Clobb Farm, Beaulieu, England.

LUBBOCK HIGH POINTING TO AMARILLO

BEGIN TRAINING FOR THANKSGIVING TILT WITH SANDSTORM

The Lubbock High Westerners, that band of enterprising young gridsters whose football work on District 1 gridirons this season has placed them in the position of favorites for the district title, arose today with the full knowledge of yet another barrier that stands between them and the coveted prize. They are not dwelling today upon their 41 to 0 victory over the Plainview High school Bulldogs yesterday, nor upon their 32 to 6 win over Pampa's Harvesters not so long ago, nor upon their 46 to 0 win over Slaton's Tigers.

The one remaining barrier that stands between them and the championship of District 1 is a northwest Texas storm, an Amarillo Sandstorm to be exact, and it was as if turning grains of sand were striking their faces that the Westerners prepared for practice this afternoon.

Cop Tenth Victory

Yesterday's victory at the Tech field was Lubbock's third District 1 championship and tenth consecutive win for the season. It ran their total number of points for the year to 440, against 12 for their opposition.

The story of yesterday's game is another story of a great line making the way for nimble backs. The line was featured by Captain Bob Crawford, Melvin Griggs and Bill Ed Watson. The backfield play centered around the long sprints of Bill Davidson and Mack Scoggin.

Davidson Injured

In his last great gesture of the game, just one play before the final gun sounded, Davidson sustained a knee injury that Coach Weldon Chapman considered as dangerous. When the game ended Davidson's knee was swollen considerably. Cecil Merrill's sore arm, thought bandaged to perfection for the game, was sorer than ever after the game, investigations disclosed, and fear was felt for him. The two were placed under a physician's care last night.

Mack Scoggin, backing up the line in place of Gene Barnett who was on crutches at the sideline, otherwise a halfback, played a scintillating game, carrying the ball for long gains, passing and punting over the heads of the Bulldogs and sometimes over his own men, and his defensive work was particularly outstanding. Bill Davidson, a youngster playing his first year of competitive football, played a close second on the offense and his goal kicking was a feature of the game. He converted five extra points.

Cap'n Bob Features Line

Captain Bob Crawford played his usual brilliant game in the pivot position, plowing into the opposing line with the fierceness and ability of three ordinary men. Melvin Griggs at guard and Bill Ed Watson at end furnished other line fireworks.

Plainview's passing machine, Wester to Quarterback Walker, accounted for most of the Bulldog yardage and Walker played a brilliant defensive game. Sherley at end and England at tackle were outstanding linemen in the Plainview machine.

Bulldogs Show Teeth

More than once the plucky Bulldogs displayed an offense that at times threatened the Lubbock goal line, but the Westerners came out of the dozes in time to prevent any such embarrassment. After scoring a couple of touchdowns before the game was five minutes old, the Westerners let down and never returned with the original fire. They experimented with various formations, using an open spread formation from which Scoggin fired passes all over the lot. The absence of Barnett was felt, though Coach Chapman's touchdown mechanism functioned pretty faithfully without him.

The fine blocking of Scoggin and Griggs, fullback and guard, paved the way for long gains, and only three times did the Westerners resort to punts. Louis Spears, Elmer Calhoun and Rosser Abbott were onto their business most of the time and there was little ground gained against them. Cecil Merrill, regular halfback who has been out of practice and out of lineup recently, was back yesterday with a bandaged arm and lots of intestinal fortitude. He was held up considerably due to lack of recent work but he did some nice work. Quarterback Britton carried the ball a minimum number of times but accounted for gains when he did run. His defensive work was well done.

COWHANDS ARE TO MEET SLATONITES

Coach John "Swede" McMurray will send his Lubbock High school Cowhands against Slaton second team on the local field tomorrow afternoon, it was announced yesterday. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

The Cowhands, like their older and more experienced brothers, the Westerners, have not lost a game this season, winning over many good Class B teams of the section.

DEMPSEY FAILS TO KNOCK OUT GIANT NEGRO

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 12 (AP)—The string of knockouts being compiled by Jack Dempsey, America's greatest fistic idol in the last decade, floundered here last night on the head of Bearcat Wright, giant Omaha negro heavyweight.

True, Dempsey smacked his way to a referee's decision but the Bearcat, a champion at defensive fighting, gave Jack nothing to shoot at but a shining bald head and that head absorbed everything that came its way without a quiver.

There was much clinching throughout the four round bout but Jack was never able to straighten Bearcat up out of his crab—like defensive stance. Now and then, Wright made a brief offensive flurry, but at no time was either fighter in danger of a count, short or long.

WIMBLEDON NO LONGER HIGH

ONE FAMOUS TENNIS MATCH LOSES ITS RANK IN SPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Wimbledon tennis championship, which once brought the unofficial world's title to the winner, no longer ranks high enough to provide the proper preparation for the Davis cup matches in the opinion of Samuel Hardy, New York business man who served as captain of the United States team which brought home the Wimbledon crown but left the Davis cup in France.

Discussing the prospects for the 1932 cup campaign in the current issue of "Tennis," official publication of the United States Lawn Tennis association, Hardy says:

"I am very much opposed to sending the men to Wimbledon—not because of the change from grass to clay, but for two other reasons. First, the completion at Wimbledon is no longer of sufficiently high order to be of great benefit as practice among the Davis cup squad. Second, because of the terrific strain to which the players are subjected for two entire weeks.

Hardy picks England as the country to beat in the coming Davis cup struggle and names Ellsworth Vines, sensational youngster from Pasadena, Calif., as the player around whom the American team should be built.

The different playing conditions in America and on the continent will serve as a handicap to America's young team, Hardy points out, while the slower ball and softer courts are well suited to the style of play of Fred Perry and H. W. "Bunny" Austin, British stars.

The consistency of Vines' play makes him the logical first choice and Frank Shields, Keith Gledhill and George Lott are the next best bets."

Schmeling Manager Returns Tomorrow

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, returns tomorrow from a visit to the heavyweight champion in Germany and with his arrival the conversational end of the boxing business is expected to boom again.

Several propositions are ready for him. One concerns a title defense against Mickey Walker at Los Angeles and probably will come up for quick decision. But the California law limiting championship matches to ten rounds may prove a serious drawback as Schmeling prefers the 15-round route.

Walker and Jack Sharkey both have dropped out of competition while waiting to hear of the champion's plans but if their proposed matches with him are turned down, they can be expected to get into action again.

TECH TEAM IS NOSED OUT IN GAME

OFFENSIVE FAILS TO CLICK IN CONTEST WITH MINERS

(Special To The Journal)

EL PASO, Nov. 12.—Considerably less vivacious and enthusiastic as when they hit this border town last Tuesday, the Texas Tech Matadors started the long trek back to Lubbock early this morning carrying with them the memories and the ill effects of a 14 to 12 defeat at the hands of Mack Saxon's Texas College of Mines eleven here yesterday.

It marked the third time this season the Matadors have left home for games and the third defeat of the season. The Technicians have won all their home games, losing to Haskell, Baylor and the Miners.

The Miners, led by J. B. Andrews, started early in the tilt to sew up honors for the local institution after Shorty Key, who is regarded as such a much as a gridster took the ball on the first line play and dodged Cawthon cohorts for a 35 yard gain, after trying both sides of the Tech line for short gains. Quarterback Andrews, who for the benefit of opposing clubs should be taken out of circulation then took the ball and cut through tackle for eight yards and a touchdown.

Tech Comes Back

Tech came back in the second quarter to show its best football, the first eleven having been substituted after 10 minutes of play, and drove down the field on four successive first downs. After an exchange of punts and an intercepted pass, the Lubbock lads drove within scoring distance and Quarterback Speed Moffett passed the assignment to Yancy Price. In the famous end around play, which landed him on the all-state high school team two years, Price circled the Miner's right end, making 11 yards and the coveted touchdown. The stands were breathless, but Close failed to convert with a place-kick.

The Miners took to the air with no success at all until late in the third quarter when Andrews flipped a toss to Meagher. The Miner halfback took the 20 yard pass in full run and galloped the intervening 30 yards for a touchdown. Key booted the goal in the same disconcerting manner that he added the extra El Paso point after the opening marker.

Both Try Air

Both teams tried passes and line bucks to no avail until late in the fourth frame when Close nabbed a pass from France and counted the second marker for the red and black. France's kick was wide and that was that.

To make a long story short, Tech did not display the offensive fury the Matadors showed against the Christians from Abilene or the Colorado Miners. During the fourth of the game that they played on the offense they clicked nicely until the shadows fell from the goal posts and all in all, looked like a 14-point better ball club than their opponents.

Army Team Winner Of More Honors

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—The United States Army team, which for years has had to stand by and see the soldiers of other nations capture the international military trophies today is the proud possessor of just about all the honor available at the national horse show.

Victorious Tuesday night in the team jumping event, the United States came through again last night when Lieut. C. W. Q. Raguse and his mount, Ugly, repeated their performance to win the individual international military trophy.

Tennessee's motor vehicle registration collections fell off $178,722 for the first seven months this year.

FOOTBALL GAMES ARE FEATURED ON ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAMS; SIMMONS UNIVERSITY FAVORED TO WIN TITLE

(By The Associated Press)

The collegiate chase after 1931 gridiron honors was made a focal part of Armistice Day celebrations in several Texas centers yesterday.

The great white way to a championship loomed clearer for Simmons university as a result of their crushing 46 to 0 victory over Trinity university at Waxahachie.

The North Texas Teachers likewise kept step in the eastern division of the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic association by winning from the East Texas Teachers 13 to 0.

Howard Payne unleashed a last minute victory march, and with Worley and Masur alternating, drove 74 yards for a touchdown and a 6 to 0 victory over St. Edwards university.

Daniel Baker found itself down in the lower tier of teams in the western division of the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic association as the result of a 7 to 6 defeat at the hands of McMurry college.

The School of Mines and Texas Tech tangled in El Paso, the former winning 14 to 12.

Yesterday's triumph placed Howard Payne up near the top and left it the only team between Simmons university and the Texas conference title. None of the three conference elevens met by Simmons was able to cross its goal line while the Cowboys gathered 112 points.

GRID SENSATION SENDS FANS TO RECORD BOOKS

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 12 (AP)—Cliff Battles, tall, fair-haired halfback sensation of the West Virginia Wesleyan football team, who last season hung up a national record for long runs, went on a rampage here yesterday that swamped Salem college and sent sport writers and fans thumbing through record books.

Battles carried the ball 463 yards before he was pulled out of the game near the end of the final quarter.

And he scored seven of his team's eight touchdowns. The final score was 51 to 6.

Battles made 378 yards from scrimmage and he added 85 yards on returned punts. Meanwhile, he was doing about everything the rules show a halfback can do.

A few minutes after he slid over for the first touchdown on a five yard plunge following a march down the field, Battles got away for an 85-yard run and the second touchdown. He went across four times in the third quarter, once on a 56-yard run and another time by returning a punt 62 yards. His seventh touchdown came when he grabbed a long pass near the goal posts.

ARMISTICE IS OBSERVED

ALL-DAY PROGRAM IS CARRIED OUT HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Projecting "reasonable preparedness" as the United States' best insurance against war, Dr. A. B. Cunningham, Texas Technological college faculty members and a former service man, Armistice morning told 1,500 persons assembled at the college gymnasium that "there isn't any use to indulge in cheap talk that there will be no more war."

Doctor Cunningham cited confused thinking in American contemporary life, pleaded that America be "a hospitable background for diverging views," and pointed to attempts in Lubbock and in an eastern college town to oust a faculty member because of differences of opinion. The case of Harry Elmer Barnes of Smith college was specified.

Lubbock generally celebrated the observance of the close of the World war by a suspension of ordinary activities. Business houses closed for the day and its several attractions. The program began with a Legion breakfast and closed with a dance in Legion hall that lasted until midnight.

Lubbock and South Plains people who observed Armistice Day here did so without the aid of either police or hospitals.

Local hospitals late last night reported they had received no emergency patients. The police reported the observance had been peaceful. No "drunks" had been placed in the city jail late Wednesday night.

Two ideas were discussed by Doctor Cunningham. "First," he said "the prevalent belief of Americans is the efficacy of law." He added "in America we think that the way to settle any problem that arises is to pass a law. Then when it is passed, we think the thing is settled." He cited laws against careless automobile driving as one sample.

The second was war and peace. "I believe that annually we ought to go into this, to try and solve the problem of war and peace," he stated. "Peace when there is peace—war when there is war—that is the way we talk. It does not do any good to talk peace when we have peace—it is there. Neither does it do any good to say there will be no war. Before the World war, he pointed out, there was heard many reasons for "no more war."

Preparedness Shown

Europe is one great place of war preparedness, the speaker pointed out. France has the greatest system of fortification the world has seen. Japan, Germany and England are doing likewise. "In fact, there is a pretty good war going on between China and Japan right now and the United States has sent troops into the scene of action," he commented.

In stating that he was "afraid if Europe gets into another great conflict, we will also," Dr. Cunningham said he favored a reasonable preparedness and added anything else would be a short sighted policy."

The program started on time following the singing of America by the audience led by Prof. W. R. Waghorne. Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Tech, called upon Dean James M. Gordon to give the invocation. Dr. Horn then introduced the honored guests on the platform, five Gold Star mothers, Mesdames O. P. Peek, G. R. Scott, Barbara Challacct, Margaret Everheart and L. L. Brooks, Mrs. Sue McMurry, a C. D. C. and W. D. Mahon, a confederate veteran and Mrs. Mahon.

Day Of Memory

Commander Ben Kucera in introducing the speaker of the day, said that Armistice day "is a day of memory and a day of happiness because on this day we got peace."

Following the program the former service men gathered in Legion hall for a "chow line." Alex McDonald was the mess sergeant and prepared the son-of-a-gun and the trimmings. Members of the post acted as K P and mess sergeants. Following the feed a 45 minute happy program was enjoyed with Alfred M. Scott as toastmaster.

Group singing of war time songs led by J. A. Raley, jr. and Vaughn Wilson opened the program. Dr. V. E. Clark presided at the piano. W. "Bill" Jackson, of Tech, in a short talk on "Liberty" defined as "growing out of restraint." The fathers of the republic, he declared, fought for and discussed liberty. "By Liberty and your liberty does not consist of unlimited action," the speaker said. "Liberty is based upon the consent of the governed."

Singing Features

Music by the post's quartet, composed of George Meiser, Dan Blair, V. V. Clark and Vaughn Wilson, featured a number of old army songs. Prof. J. H. Murdough of Tech led three stories and the program closed with group singing.

When Magyar and Endres landed near Budapest after a non-stop flight from Newfoundland, Magyar said he was glad to be home but that Endres was luckier because he had a wife and children waiting to welcome him. Shortly afterward Magyar fell in love with Georgia Santelli, former wife of an Italian diplomat.

Then the threatened duel, which followed a campaign of none too pleasant language between the two men, was postponed until after the honeymoon. If Magyar doesn't go back, it looks as though it might be for good.

DAILY MARKETS

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YOK, Nov. 12. (AP)—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 2 to 5 points on trade buying and a good demand from commission houses. January sold up to 6.69.

Offerings from the south were comparatively right. The buying may have been promoted by the relatively steady showing of Liverpool and prices held steady during the early trading with December advancing to 6.62 and March to 6.88 or about 7 to 10 points net higher by the end of the first half hour. Brokers supposed to be acting for the cooperative interests were sellers again this morning but otherwise there seemed to be very little pressure against the market.

Liverpool cables reported covering and some buying on firmness in Alexandria and said the demand for cotton cloth was sustained. Egyptian futures in Liverpool were 5 to 12 points higher and the quotation for Indian cotton in the Liverpool spot market was 6 points higher.

The steadiness of silver contributed to the early advance but buying seemed to be checked by the decline in wheat and the market eased off late in the morning. December worked down to 6.54 and March to 6.82, with prices generally ruling within a point or two either way of yesterday's closing quotations. According to the New York cotton exchange service, domestic consumption for October amounted to 460,000 bales compared with 464,000 in September and 443,000 last year.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12. (AP)—The cotton market opened fairly steady today although opening prices were 3 to 8 points down due largely to readjustment with yesterday's decline in New York while the market here was closed. Liverpool cables were better than due.

Considerable overnight selling orders developing right after the start caused December to ease off to 6.57, January to 6.67 and March to 6.83, or 7 to 8 points below yesterday's close.

Prices rallied near the end of the first hour with firmer stocks and recovered 1 to 4 points from the lows.

The market was rather easy most of the morning with liquidation and hedge selling.

But offerings were met with fair trade buying due to a sharp advance in silver both in London and in New York and steadiness in stocks although wheat showed some decline.

December traded down to 6.54, January to 6.63 and March to 6.79, or 11 points below yesterday's close. Near noon the market was quiet and steadier with prices one to two points above the lows.

The British board of trade returns for October were considered very bullish as they showed an increase in exports of yarns to 13,000,000 pounds against 9,000,000 in September, and cloth exports totalled 143,000,000 yards as against 128,000,000 in September.

NEW ORLEANS OPEN

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12. (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady: Dec. 6.57; Jan. 6.71; Mar. 6.85; May 7.04; July 7.22; Oct. 7.42.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (AP)—Grain prices underwent sharp new downturns early today, influenced by weakness of the Liverpool wheat market and by unexpectedly enlarged wheat shipments from Russia. Opening 3 4-2 1-8 cents lower, wheat afterward held near the initial limits. Corn started 5-8, 1 1-4 off and showed but little power to rally.

CLUB WOMEN

elaborate occasion of the convention, will be at 6 o'clock this evening at Hotel Hilton. The six stages of Texas history will be represented by costumed presiding officers. A pageant will show "Texas Under Six Flags." Miss Ruth Pirtle is director.

A plea from the colored women of Texas came before the convention this morning when Mrs. A. B. DeMent of Mineral Wells, president of the Texas Colored Women's Federation, talked on the needs of women in her race. She asked the convention to assist in securing for the colored woman a fair chance to make an honest living, the right to participate in civic and state affairs affecting her, a training school for delinquent negro girls, social rights, a higher respect for the negro mothers and hospitalization for negro tuberculars and nurseries for children whose mothers must help make a living.

She outlined the ideals and aims of the colored women's federation, which has been in existence for 25 years, and made a forceful plea for help, saying that the hope of the colored woman lies in the Christian white women.

Murray On Program

R. J. Murray, formerly of Lubbock, and now manager of the Texas Cotton Co-operative association, Dallas, told of the work of his organization, advocating fixed prices for farm products and legislation that will give to farmers the same protection that commercial enterprises enjoy.

The market for products of this nation is in America and not abroad and when the 60,000,000 farmers of the mid-west have the purchasing power they should enjoy, there will be more balance in the production and consumption of products, he said.

A committee was appointed this morning to confer with Miss Decca Lamar West, of Waco, in financing a federation history. This consists of Dr. Annie Webb Blanton, Mrs. Edgar E. Witt of Austin and Mrs. J. T. Whitmore of Snyder.

abroad.P-1 Folo Federated Club ...

Although the election was the important feature of Wednesday in the eyes of many women attending the annual convention of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs here, some of the best talks of the meeting were made and reports on significant work of the organization continued.

A talk on the mile stones of public health in America by H. W. Stanley of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce; one on health problems of the adolescent girl, given by Dr. Jessie Louise Herrick, resident physician at the College of Industrial Arts, Denton; a discussion by Dr. Annie Webb Blanton of Austin on the future of rural life, and a talk on adult education by Dr. H. W. Morelock, president of Sul Ross State Teachers' college, were among the important discussions before the convention during the day.

Herrick Speaks

Dr. Blanton and Dr. Herrick talked during the afternoon as the department of education in the state organization presented a program. Reports were marked by one on library extension given by Mrs. Henry Redmond of Corpus Christi. Following a discussion of child welfare and legislation concerning the subject, given by Mrs. Fred H. Minor of Denton, Dr. Herrick talked.

She gave health rules for adolescent girls and said that the needs of the average young woman between 16 and 20 years of age are bodily and mental strength, poise and vision. Developing these points, she plead for an adolescent health program that will serve as a foundation for later life and said that this adjustment lies in education and a balanced outlook. The college physician must educate young people as well as look after their ills during adolescence, according to this speaker.

Presents Problem

In her discussion of "Rural Life at the Crossroads," Dr. Blanton presented the problem faced by rural people today in securing an education and becoming adjusted to changing situations and suggested as remedies: diversification, group marketing, short term credit, tax revision. Closing her talk, she presented resolutions that were adopted by the convention, reaffirming the stand of the women on educational problems.

These resolutions seek the appointment of county superintendents by county boards of trustees, appointment of the state superintendent by the board of education, and requiring special training for rural teachers, employment of specially trained supervisors for country schools, public libraries in each county, a state illiteracy commission and the appointment of a committee from the federation to confer with a state board on tax revision matters.

At a breakfast honoring artists competing this year for the $500 prize offered for the best painting of a Texas scene, Mrs. Lindsay said her plan for a fine arts endowment would lead to the regular awarding of a prize to some Texas artist, writer or musician similar to the Pulitzer prize in literature.

Through Mrs. J. F. Welder of Victoria and Henry Coke Knight, architect, of Dallas, plans were presented for the permanent headquarters building the federation will have in Austin. Ground has been broken within the last few days for the building, which was financed two weeks ago. This $162,000 building has been one of the biggest aims of the present administration in the federation.

Washington bicentennial was celebrated at the general assembly last night. A salute to the flag was given by Mrs. L. A. Wells and Mrs. J. U. Fields read the American creed.

Miss Hattie Neatherby, chairman, reported on the division of law observance. Two talks featured the program last evening. Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Technological college, talked on "Washington the Citizen" and Judge Merton L. Harris, Smithville, talked on "The Statesmanship of Washington."

Mrs. Fred Morse of Austin, who is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Klett, 1502 Avenue M, while attending the convention of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs is to leave for her home Friday. Mrs. Morse is Mr. Klett's sister.

tions named as defendants, cancellation of the permits of foreign corporations operating in Texas, liens upon the property of all defendants, and fines under the anti-trust laws from November 20, 1929, to the date of the suits approximately 700 days.

The attorney general said the defendants each were liable for a minimum fine of $35,000 or a maximum fine of $1,050,000 or a total minimum of $595,000 and a total maximum of $17,850,000.

Investigation of the oil companies has been carried on by the attorney general for several months. In August a special session of the legislature appropriated an additional $30,000 to the attorney general to continue the inquiry.

Numerous secret courts of inquiry were held throughout the state and several trips made to investigate the books of companies in other states.

The petition contained 138 legal size pages. It was signed by Attorney General Allred and Assistant Attorneys General McKenzie, Bishop and Looney.

All except two of the defendants are chartered to operate a general oil business.

Scheme Charged

The petition charged the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, "in order to avoid jurisdiction of state courts and to escape tax law liabilities, resorted to the scheme of taking over a subsidiary, the Humble Oil and Refining company, in 1919, acquiring approximately 65 per cent of the stock."

The Humble Oil and Refining company, the petition alleged, has been assigned Texas and other sections of the south in which to operate for the benefit of the parent corporation and no other controlled or subsidiary organization of Standard of New Jersey competes with the Humble in this territory.

"Through the Humble company, the Standard of New Jersey has carried out conspiracies in restraint of trade and in violation of the anti-trust laws," Allred stated.

Under the same procedure, the Standard Oil company of New York set up the Magnolia Petroleum company, the petition alleged.

W. S. Warish of Houston, president of the Humble, and E. R. Brown of Dallas, president of the Magnolia, represent the subsidiaries of the boards of the parents companies, the petition states.

The Standard Oil company of California was alleged to have set up the Pasotex Petroleum company to operate in Texas. Its principal office is in San Francisco and Pasotex is a foreign corporation operating under a permit. Its Texas office is in El Paso.

Dirt Highways Are In Good Condition

Excepting strips cut by narrow rim wheels of cotton wagons, dirt highways in this district are in good condition, George L. Carver, maintenance superintendent of the state highway department, reported.

"I made a 259 mile trip over the area and found all of the roads in good condition except in one or two places," he stated. "Down near Lamesa the wagons used in hauling cotton have cut deep into the dirt. We are working these places over with a grader."

Mr. Carver stated that the roads are all in pretty good condition considering the heavy traffic. Hundreds of wagons are being used to haul cotton, as well as many trailers behind automobiles. "The narrow rims of the horse drawn wagons do the most damage to the highways," he explained.

FARM PANTRIES TO BE INSPECTED

Inspection of two farm home pantries is on the program arranged for the November meeting of the Lubbock County Farm Bureau federation a 8 o'clock Friday night at Becton, N. A. Payne, chairman, said. Miss Ruth Stockton, county home demonstrator, arranged the pantry inspections.

"We leave the court house at 7 o'clock and that will give us time to visit these pantries," Mr. Payne said. "They are at the homes of Mrs. R. L. Kelley and Mrs. A. L. Pitts."

Mrs. Kelley, according to Miss Stockton, has about 1,200 cans of fruit and vegetables besides her meats, while Mrs. Pitts has about 800 cans.

George C. Cooper, county president of the federation, will open the program. Community singing will be led by Dr. J. O. Ellsworth of Texas Tech and Miss Marjorie Taylor, camp fire girls' executive.

Mrs. T. E. Payne will be local chairman. There will be a school program, with reports of demonstrators of the clubs and also committee reports.

Following this the regular program will be held with D. F. Eaton, county agent, Dr. Ellsworth and Miss Stockton, making short talks.

The program is being held in connection with the monthly "achievement day" of the Becton girls' 4-H club. Miss Stockton will talk to the girls on their 1932 program of work, following their reports.

family, he's got to do something.

He borrows $10 from this relative, $10 from that one, pawns something, mortgages something else and turns all the cash he can raise over to the "company."

The "company" tells him to report for work in a few days, and fades from the picture. The appointed day comes, the unemployed man finds an empty office.

It's an old racket, N. J. Kenner, manager of the Better Business bureau of New York, said today, but it is worked over and over in many different lines, and the more the unemployment, the greater the number of racketeers to work it.

And there are many other ways of preying upon the unemployed.

Achievement Day Is Planned At Slaton

Girls of the Slaton 4-H club will present an achievement day program in the community club house at Slaton tonight as a part of the club's monthly meeting. Miss Ruth Stockton, county home demonstration agent, said.

"The girls will have some interesting demonstrations to report and we invite all persons interested, especially in the Slaton community to attend."

The meeting is one of a series for the month with each of the clubs being represented.

SCHOOL SURVEY BEGUN BY BOYS

Work preliminary to a school survey by the Boy Scouts of America began here today, D. T. Jennings, South Plains Area council executive, said. The survey will be to determine the number of non-scouts who will be 12 years old in the next year and of non-scouts now 12 and not older than 14.

The preliminary arrangements were to be made first at the junior high school. Executive Jennings said M. H. Duncan, superintendent of schools, had agreed to the survey, which also would be made in central, Dupre, and Sanders ward schools.

"Would you like to be a scout?" is a question on a blank which pupils will be asked to fill for the survey. Each boy will be asked, in addition to name, date of birth and address, what church and Sunday school he attends, whether he is a scout, a former scout, and if a former member where and in what troop. The father's name and occupation also will be asked.

the Sing Sing register.

The Sing Sing team is being picked this week from two teams, the "blacks" and the "whites", organized for scrimmage. It is being coached by some of the prisoners who have played football and by coaches lent by the New York Giants, Benny Friedman's professional football team.

Receipts from Sunday's game are to go to the unemployed, and after that the Sing Sing team will be open for engagements—including, Warden Lawes said today, the team of the Port Jervis, N. Y., police department which, he understands, is looking for a date.

Thefts Reported To Police Department

After a two-pound rock had been used to break a hole in a display window at a Montgomery Ward & Co. store here, two 12-gauge automatic shotguns were stolen from the window late Tuesday or early Wednesday.

A place in the plate glass, at the corner of the display, was smashed out large enough for the guns to be removed. The loss was estimated at $95 by Earl H. McKinney, manager. The burglary was discovered by R. D. Campbell, assistant manager of the store, at 9:30 a. m.

Another theft was reported Wednesday. E. E. Hendricks told police a gas analyzer and a gauging gadget were stolen from his automobile at 2003 Twenty-seventh street Tuesday night.

A black telescope suitcase containing work clothes was lost from a truck Tuesday night on Sixteenth street near Broadway or Avenue M, Byron Hare reported to police.

CONTINUE DRILLING

The Penn No. 1 Slaughter in Cochran county, south and west of Lehman, is reported below 3,230 feet and drilling is continuing. The test is located on the Slaughter lands. There has been a delay, due to a cavein but this has been overcome, it is reported.

TWO DISMISSED

Mrs. Ruby Glover, 26, of Slaton, who said she had mistaken some carbolic acid she drank for mouth wash, was dismissed from West Texas hospital Wednesday morning. She drank the searing liquid Tuesday morning on a farm near Slaton.

O. B. Burgess, an Amherst gin employe who underwent amputation of a left finger, also has been dismissed from West Texas hospital.

LEADING AIR LINE

NEW YORK—The New York-Washington air service carried more passengers during the first six months of 1931 than any other line in the country, the U. S. Department of Commerce reports. The line carried 29,169 passengers, and flew a total of 895,539 passenger miles.

SUSPECTS ARE HELD HERE

THREE MEN HELD IN CONNECTION WITH BANK ROBBERY

Three young men were confined to city jail this morning waiting to have their fingerprints taken in an effort to connect them with the robbery of a bank at Optima, Okla. The three suspects, about 25 years old were arrested near the courthouse here late Wednesday by the sheriff's department. The peace officers confiscated 18 gallons of whisky and found a .38 caliber automatic pistol on one of the suspects.

To File Charges

In addition, charges of possession and transportation of intoxicating liquor probably will be filed against them today and a charge of carrying a concealed weapon against one of the group.

Arrest of the trio followed a tip from Guymon, Okla., officers to the Lubbock county sheriff's department, after the Optima bank, ten or twelve miles northeast of Guymon, was held up Saturday. Two bandits robbed the Optima bank, escaping with $95 in small change, of which $85 was in nickels and dimes. Optima is in the Oklahoma Panhandle.

Cash Discovered

More than $100 cash, in bills, was found on the suspects, but no appreciable amount of small change. Two of the men said their home was Pierre, South Dakota, and the other said he lived in Lubbock.

The liquor, they told officers, was purchased in Glen Rose, Texas. They denied any connection with the Optima robbery.

About 50 rounds of ammunition were found in the automobile, a four-door Pontiac sedan. The liquor was in 36 half-gallon jars, packed in card board cases. About a quart of whisky also was found in a jar. A large bottle of caramel coloring was confiscated, too.

The arrest was made on Avenue H, immediately north of the courthouse. The trio offered no resistance. They were riding in the front seat and the whisky cases were in the tonneau. The automobile was found by Sheriff Hardy after the men had stepped from the car.

They were well-dressed, and carried two suitcases of clothing and three top-coats.

A report also was received from Geneva saying the League of Nations might propose an international police patrol in Manchuria to permit Japanese evacuation but this was not taken seriously by authorities here.

ORDERS SENT

PARIS, Nov. 12. England

The thundering crash with which England's voters crushed the Labor party's strength in Parliament may mean a number of things, and will probably keep the wiseacres busy explaining and analyzing for a while.

A large part of it, undoubtedly, is simply due to the voter's traditional reaction against the party in power when times are hard. Those riots we read about in English cities during the weeks preceding the election spoke of a deep and abiding discontent; this discontent, expressing itself in the ballots, knocked the country's so-called Socialist government clear out of the window.

But the most interesting thing about it is the way in which this discontent expressed itself.

Usually a nation that finds the going unendurably rough speaks its mind by calling in the radicals and giving them a chance to try out some of their panaceas. England did just the reverse. Instead of hauling off and breaking up the available china, she called in the Tories. Instead of heading farther toward Socialism, she went completely conservative.

This, perhaps, represents something more than just the regular vote agin' the government. It might not be stretching things to say that old England is giving the ancient, established ruling class one more chance.

Although few man-made institutions possess more stamina than the British empire, there is no denying that things in England today are in an extremely bad way. Trade has fallen off, finances are amazingly wobbly, unemployment remains an unhealed wound, taxes are unbelievably high. But the English are not yet ready to call for a new form of government, or a new kind of economic and social set-up.

Instead, the class that built up the empire, made England the world's banker and made English merchants and ships the world's greatest traders is given the reins again. If it can fix things, well and good. And if not—

Well, it is possible to find grounds for believing that the world today stands at one of the turning points of history. England—if the Tories fail—may become one of the pivots on which the ranks of mankind turn to march in a new direction.

An Example

The fact that Al Capone is being obliged to stay in jail while his attorneys carry his appeal on its snail-like progress through the higher courts raises again a point upon which the layman often wonders. Why isn't that the regular procedure in all criminal cases?

One of the weakest points of American criminal law today is the fact that so long a time often intervenes between conviction and imprisonment. Of appeals there is, sometimes, almost literally no end; and while they are being settled the convicted man usually goes his way, on bond, as free as the air.

It is being handled differently in Capone's case; and it is a little hard for the ordinary citizen to understand why that wouldn't be a good course to follow in all such cases.

Spending

While steps to help along the return of prosperity are being considered, a recent suggestion made by the Magazine of Wall Street is worth bearing in mind. This magazine remarked that millions of men who hold jobs today are pinching their pennies through fear of dismissal; and it adds:

"It is to be doubted if there is any efficiency gain in having the bulk of employes afraid of their jobs. If so, it is more than offset by the aggregate restriction of buying. Extension of this movement (to guarantee employment) would go far toward speeding the revival."

EL PASO, Nov. 12—(Special)—The 'outs' are 'in' and the 'ins' are 'out' in Juarez, the topsy-turvy town in Mexico, just across the river from El Paso.

Due to a political earthquake, Andres Ortiz, who has been Chihuahua's governor for quite a spell, woke up one morning and found out that he wasn't governor any more.

In his place today sits the youthful Roberto Fierro, who has captured the hearts of all air-minded Mexicans with his feats in the clouds and El Pasoans who desire to see the best of relations between their city and Mexico, are happy.

Governor Fierro, who is also a colonel in the Mexican air corps, hasn't been in office long enough to do a great deal but he has already started a cleanup in Juarez.

There's a new mayor over there. There's a new chief-of-police and other changes are expected to be made momentarily.

Forgetting about politics—which is a big business in Mexico—Governor Fierro is appointing executives and workers to political posts and says he will continue to do so.

ALTHOUGH we of the South Plains rarely take much interest in Mexican affairs, we are indirectly affected by them. As citizens of a state which has much dealings with Mexico, both diplomatic and business, we must remember that the problems of those states immediately south of the Rio Grande can affect Texas greatly.

* * *

Take for instance the business of gambling.

The big bosses and governors of Mexican states are different from our political chieftains and governors in United States.

They say whether there will be open gambling.

They say who gets the gambling concessions; how much the 'take' is for the house and how the odds are set against the chumps who sluff off their hard earned dough at the tables.

The Mexican governor who can see beyond his nose realizes the danger of open gambling, particularly at border points such as Jaurez. Open gambling in Juarez has disrupted relations here and has caused no little trouble.

Governor Fierro is expected to stop the gambling racket—which will mean that El Paso slaves to the Goddess of Chance will start paying their honest debts again; will start buying more merchandise and will appease El Pasoans who have been fighting Juarez as the result of the operation of the Tivoli, the great gambling casino across the river.

THE Plainsman was in the Tivoli last night for the first time in six or eight months—for the first time since Governor Ortiz made it a mint.

It was crowded with people who couldn't afford to lose but who were losing, just the same.

It was crowded with saps—that's the word, saps—who didn't have sense enough to know that where one player socks a chuck-a-luck or faro game for a $20 winning, there were dozens who are losing twice that amount each.

Talk about a place needing a cleanup? Wow! The only way to clean up that joint is to shut it up and burn it down.

Strange though it may seem there were practically as many women gambling there as there were men. And more than half the women were 40 or older and a number of them were as old as 50 or 60! That's no exaggeration.

Another striking thing was that you could count the Mexicans on the fingers of your two hands, save those gathered about the dime limit dice and chuck-a-luck games!

Where is that money coming from that is split into graft in Mexico?

It's coming from the U. S. A. and you can believe that or not.

THE Plainsman has tried the tables in the Tivoli just for the experience—in years past.

But last night he appeared to be the only one of approximately 150 to 200 people who was not 'paying off' to the system. Though no paragon of virtue, he went to the Tivoli for the express purpose of writing about it and he'd rather kick dollars out into the street than pay off to such a racket.

There may be a lot of things wrong with Lubbock and the South Plains.

We could probably improve a lot.

But we're not troubled with the open gambling leach that sucks the blood money of the poor and dumps it into the moneybags of the wise guys who know human weakness.

If Col. Roberto Fierro is the hero his people think he is, he'll stop the Tivoli's whirring wheels and hush the drone of the croupier.

Personally, while he's neither won nor lost, The Plainsman hopes Col. Fierro does just that.

Hoover's Squabble With Navy Is Really Over Question Of Parity With Britain; Many Join In Statistics Row

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—President Hoover's war with the Navy League is really only a by-product of a battle of statistics over the question of getting our navy on a basis of treaty parity with Great Britain.

DUTCHER

William Howard Gardiner's pamphlet, although it contained certain nasty flings to which Hoover took violent exception, was primarily an analysis designed to prove in figures that this country was being let in for naval inferiority to Great Britain which would be made worse by the proposed one-year naval holiday.

Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and the peace societies have been hurling other statistics and interpretations into the fight and the factual bases for the various points in view are summarized herewith because they may be of interest as developments wax warmer.

The Navy League says:

The United States has only 69 per cent of her treaty quota of naval tonnage built or building, whereas Great Britain has 88.3 per cent and Japan 102 per cent. This applies not to capital ships, but to aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines. It makes the present American-British-Japanese ratio of naval tonage 3.8—5—3.8, with the Japanese built or building tonnage under treaty age within 65 tons of our own and the British ahead of us by 31 per cent. We are ahead of Japan only in aircraft carriers and cruisers and are led by Britain in each category except submarines. A naval holiday that would stop all building of aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines during 1932 would widen the gap and, placing American naval tonnage at a par of 10, give Britain and Japan comparative ratios of 17.1 and 13.4, respectively. Such a year, taking into account the naval treaty program which runs through 1936, would result in a gain of 15.5 per cent for the British fleet, 19.6 per cent for the Japanese fleet and no gain at all for the American fleet.

Peace societies, as in the case of the National Council for Prevention of War of which Frederick J. Libby is executive secretary, merely argue that:

We are now building 87,000 tons as compared with 72,000 being built by Great Britain, England is spending $20,000,000 a year for new construction and this country $70,000,000. President Hoover has approved of $65,000,000 in construction for next year in the new naval budget. The fact that we are allowed only 175,000 tons by treaty for replacement of cruisers, destroyers and submarines, as against England's allowance of 219,000 tons, shows that our fleet is more up-to-date than the British. Britain can't replace all her cruisers that become over-age, but we are permitted to replace 150,000 tons of destroyers, many of which are as good as new. We spend more money on our navy than does any other nation.

Secretary of the Navy Adams, using still another approach in a reply to the peace societies, says:

We spent $375,000,000 on our navy in 1930 and Britain only $350,000,000, but we must pay more for labor, materials and navy personnel and figures for Great Britain do not include expenses for naval forces. Per capita cost of our navy is $3.24 per year as against $6.21 for Great Britain. It costs us more than twice as much to build a ship as it costs in England and five times as much as in Japan.

* * *

Meantime congressional advocates of a strong fleet have taken the field in the battle to demand that the American navy be built up to a parity with Great Britain at once.

Representative Fred Britten, chairman last session of the House naval committee, and Senator David Reed, chairman of the military committee were leading these demands.

Representative Britten announced the full co-operation of Senator Frederick W. Hale, chairman of the Senate naval committee, and demanded a program of immediate construction of a $122,500,000 program of destroyers, submarines, a flying-deck cruiser, and an aircraft carrier, 22 ships in all.

He asked for a $750,000,000 authorization for the navy to build up to the treaty limit.

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets and six articles by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each pamphlet and 2 cents in coin for each article, with a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1439 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Reducing and Gaining." "Feminine Hygiene." "Indigestion and Constipation." "The Care of the Hair and Skin." "Infant Feeding" and "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes." The articles are: "Normal Diet," "List of Books for Mothers," "Bed Wetting," "Diet of the Expectant Mother," "Bar Troubles" and "Tuberculosis."

WELL BALANCED LUNCHES

Dr. Clendening

A correspondent writes: "We are going to feed the school children whose parents are unemployed. I would like very much to have some menus that can be served to children from 5 to 16 years old. They must be the same for all. The drink problem is solved—either milk or cocoa. The problem is to give them something hot, a well-balanced meal for very little expense."

Considering balance, nutrition and expense, the following have been suggested:

1. Spaghetti with tomato sauce. Celery. A baked apple. Whole wheat bread and butter. A glass of milk.

2. Cream of spinach soup. Whole wheat bread and butter. Baked custard. Glass of milk.

3. Cream of tomato soup. Peanut butter and lettuce sandwich. Chocolate pudding. A glass of milk.

A portion of meat added to any of these will not unbalance them and will be beneficial. It makes little difference what kind of meat, and depends on what is available in market at moderate prices.

A good substantial luncheon plate is a large baked potato, a serving of spinach and an egg scrambled. Bread and butter, milk and a sweet dessert can be added to this.

School lunches planned on the bases of the situation outlined in this letter should not cost more than 10 to 15 cents a child.

For more information containing especially valuable hints about expenses, I recommend a book called "Feeding the Family," by Rose.

Issues of the magazine Hygeia, which is probably in the library of your local county medical society or the public library, has had, at various times, many similar and sound pieces of advice.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

C. K.: "What is a blood sedimentation test, and why is it done?"

Answer: The test is not very valuable. It has been found that the blood cells tend to settle more rapidly in certain diseases than normally, tuberculosis and cancer. No nancy, tuberculosis and cancer. No reliable conclusions, however, can be drawn from such reports.

M. G. M.: "Not so long ago I had a child born dead with the cord wrapped around its neck. Is it likely the same thing will happen to me again? A few weeks before the baby was born I cried a good deal. Do you think that would have anything to do with it?"

Answer: No to both questions. The condition is the result of a very unfortunate accident—nobody's fault, not preventable and not likely to occur again.

G. H. B.: "Will you kindly tell me whether the use of olive oil in salad dressings is beneficial in overcoming a tendency to constipation? Can cottonseed oil be substituted for olive oil, and what are the advantages?"

Answer: A high fat diet in the treatment of constipation has been recommended by F. H. Smith of the Mayo Clinic. Olive oil is a part of this diet. The salad itself, with its large content of residue, or roughage, is good for constipation.

Cottonseed oil is extensively substituted for other oils, including olive oil, in cooking and serving. It has no especial advantages or disadvantages except its taste.

E. M. D.: "What is the cause and treatment of 'Paget's disease'?"

Answer: There were two diseases described by James Paget which go by his name. One is a disease of the breast, the other and one most commonly spoken of as Paget's disease is a disease of the bones in elderly persons. It begins with rheumatic pains and progresses slowly with increase in the thickness of the skull bones and leg bones with bowing of the legs and decrease in stature. Some good results in treatment have come from the use of parathyroid extract.

If things are going to keep on being tough until Thanksgiving, many a turkey will be saying, "Axe me another."

Anyway, when business will boom will depend upon the big shots.

IN NEW YORK with Gilbert Swan

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of three intimate sketches on the life of Eugene O'Neill, recognized as the world's greatest playwright, and creator of "Mourning Becomes Electra."

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Within a few months every sort of anecdote about Eugene O'Neill is likely to find its way into print, now that his "Mourning Becomes Electra" has been hailed as a masterpiece. Here are a few of the more intimate and little known tales about him:

Several years ago, "Beyond the Horizon" was presented. The title and the idea have an interesting history.

When O'Neill was recovering from his tubercular attack, he would lie for hours on the Provincetown sands in his bathing suit. A half-wit lad of seven to eight would join him; and O'Neill treated the boy with great kindness.

Just beyond the beach sands, a point of land runs out into the Cape. One day the lad inquired what lay beyond that point.

"That's the horizon—the skyline," O'Neill explained.

"And what?" inquired the boy, "is beyond the horizon?"

Years later, the question turned itself into the title of one of O'Neill's most poetic plays.

Having faced the possibility of fatal illness a couple of times, O'Neill has become a severe disciplinarian with his own health. As a seagoing lad, he drank heavily. He caroused with the sailors and drifted into the dives of many lands. But for years or more, has followed a rigid system of exercise.

Even then, his health has slipped on several occasions. He was in the Orient, with rumors of a critical condition floating back, bringing the Electra myth up to date. He lived in France and once it was said he had renounced America.

Several months ago in the course of a conversation, he told me that this was ridiculous.

He was going to try to make America his home so long as he could afford it; he was fascinated by New York and the cities, but his health demanded the country; he was going to try living in the south or west—yes, perhaps in the very New England country of which he has written so much.

And it's interesting that Nazimova should have done some of her best work in his latest play, and should have been one of the three stars. For years back, when he could get "free ducats" because of his fathers name, he used to haunt the theaters wherein Nazimova was appearing in Ibsen roles.

With Susan Glaspell, last year's Pulitzer prize winner, George Cham Cook, her husband; Wilbur Daniel Steele, the short story writer; Harry Kemp, the "vagabond poet"; Mary Vorse, the writer, and a number of others, O'Neill helped found the old Provincetown playhouse when it moved into Greenwich Village from "the cape."

Mrs. Vorse had owned the "barn" where the Provincetown Players began their career. O'Neill came to her one day and said: "I've got a trunk filled with plays I'd like to show you."

"Very interesting. But we don't need that many. I'd advise you to go through your trunk and pick out one—the best one!"

* * *

It was the "little theater" movement that gave O'Neill his "break" from the beginning. He was not of the Broadway brand, and he has steered clear of the Broadwayesque producers. His plays have reached Broadway, but by indirection! O'Neill has little reason to thank the "commercial theater" for anything. Today the producers would doubtless take anything he wrote—but he doesn't write for them.

Mayor Cermack is boosting Chicago for the capital of the Democratic party. With Monsieur Capone in durance vile, something just had to be done.

Iowa is having a cattle war. Which recalls that Chicago had an experience with Mrs. O'Leary's cow. And that was no bull.

A financial leader says this doing without money is a great lesson. Verily, lesson less.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Old Double Knot was queer to see. "I am a lanky man," said he. "But, really, I don't mind it, lads. My long legs help me run. And oftentimes, you see, I need to have a lot of real good speed. If you are chased and you are slow, it isn't any fun."

Then Scouty said, "Well, goodness me, why you are chased I cannot see. You say you are a friendly sort. What do folks chase you for?" "It isn't people," said the man, "but big dogs nip me when they can. Each time I see a dog, I run. I know what is in store."

The man then sat down on the ground and, as the Tinies gathered round, wee Clowny asked, "Why are your arms and legs tied in a knot? We won't believe you if you say that you were simply born that way." "I wouldn't tell you that," replied the man. "That's tommy-rot.

"One day, when I was sleeping sound, it seems I wiggled all around in trying to get real comfortable. Then something went amiss, I am so wiry that I guess I got myself into this mess. When I woke up I was surprised to find I looked like this."

Then Coppy cried, "I have a hunch that we can be a real kind bunch and untie all the crazy knots, if you'll just let us try. I do not think 'twill hurt one bit and then you will be feeling fit. Here is a chance to straighten out your limbs. Don't pass it by."

The man replied, "That's fair enough. I'll flop down. Then you do your stuff. Be careful, though. Don't hurt me, or I'll jump and run from sight." And so the Tinies started in to untie knots. It made them grin. "Be patient, now," said Carpy. "Everything will be all right."

(The Tinymites have some more fun with Double Knot in the next story.)

THE NEWS OF THE DAY — THROUGH THE CAMERA'S EYE

Flood—As Snapped By Lindy

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's ability as a flier appears to have been matched by his skill as an aerial photographer. This picture, made by the Flying Colonel from his powerful Lockhead monoplane, shows the inundated city of Hinghwa, China, as it appeared after the turbulent waters of the Yangtze River overflowed its banks. The aerial "shot" of the flooded city was taken on one of the survey flights made by the Lindberghs before they suffered an accident with their plane. An excellent closeup of Colonel Lindbergh (right) shows the broad smile he exhibited following the presentation to him of the first aviation medal ever given by China. This honor was bestowed upon Lindy at Nanking for his flights over the stricken area.

Lusty Singer

Evelyn Hagara, exponent of the art of controlled breathing, can hold a musical note three minutes without taking a breath. And by doing it has started the whole country talking. Miss Hagara, shown above, was photographed at Los Angeles where she stopped on a concert tour.

It was the completion of their round-the-world flight when Hugh Herndon, Jr. (left) and his co-pilot, Clyde Pangborn (right) landed, as pictured here, at the Floyd Bennett Airport, Brooklyn—the scene of their take-off 82 days before. Herndon, who was married shortly before starting on the globe-girdling flight, is seen standing beside his bride. At her left is Herndon's mother, Mrs. Dixon Boardman. The arrival of the two flyers, who were the first to make a non-stop hop from Japan to America, coincided with the Four Field Flying Show held for the benefit of New York's unemployed.

Rioters Give Bobbies Another Work-out

The calm peace of the British Museum was disturbed by the shouts of unemployment demonstrators until, as pictured here, London bobbies arrived on foot and horseback to disperse the rioters outside the famous building. The police are shown charging the crowds after they had refused to heed orders to break up. This demonstration followed another, protesting the cut in the dole, which was staged outside the Houses of Parliament recently

Field Kitchens Feed New Army

Not since the days of the World War has a field kitchen been established in expensive Hyde Park, London. In this case, however, instead of feeding the King's army, the make-shift commissary is used to dole out rations to the British capital's great army of unemployed. Note the men with their cups of meagre food or drink, crowding about the distributing point for their issue of soup.

TO GIVE PRIZE TO ARTIST

CLUB FEDERATION TO PRESENT AWARD TO DALLAS PAINTER

A prize of $500 will be awarded E. G. Eisenlohr of Dallas for his painting, "Waller Creek," which hung in an exhibition sponsored by the fine arts department of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs in annual convention here. The award will be made at a dinner tonight at the Hilton hotel.

Ten honorable mentions will receive blue ribbons. The prize picture is to become the property of the federation and will be placed in the art gallery of the proposed headquarters club house at Austin.

Mentions Given

Those receiving honorable mentions and the subject of their paintings are as follows:

Mrs. Fred W. Weisser, San Antonio, "Wimberly Hills"; Boyer Gonzales, Woodstock, N. Y., "Texas Prairie"; Esma Jacobs Reavis, Greenville, "Cotton Oil Mill"; Samuel E. Gideon, Austin, "Espada Mission;" Mrs. Emily Rutland, Robstown, "Idling;" Harold A. Roney, San Antonio, "Storm in the Hills;" Frank Klepper, Dallas, "Liendo, a Texas Shrine;" Paul Rhodda Cook, San Antonio, "Mission Conception;" Olin Travis, Houston.

Jury Is Secret

The jury which chose the winning pictures is to remain secret, according to an announcement made late Wednesday by Mrs. A. H. Bailey of Dallas, who will make the award this evening. Artists composed the judging team and their names will not be announced, she said.

This is the beginning of an endowment fostered by the fine arts department in the Texas Federation of Women's clubs and a recommendation made by the president, Mrs. R. F. Lindsay, during the convention urged stimulation of efforts of Texas artists, Texas musicians and Texas writers.

CONTINUE TURKEY DELIVERIES HERE

Although first deliveries Wednesday of birds in the third annual Lubbock county turkey pool was somewhat slow, deliveries would continue through today, George C. Cooper, chairman of the pool, said late Wednesday. Between 100 and 125 growers are in the pool, which was bought by Titman Egg corporation.

"We were given an advantage of a cent per pound raise," County Agent D. F. Eaton, said yesterday afternoon. "The market here had a little jump, going to 15 cents for No. 1. Mr. Johnston, manager of the plant, gave us the advantage of this increase in price."

The pool had expected to sell about 1,500 to 2,000 birds. The price quoted was 14 cents for No. 1, a two cent a pound increase over the general market when the bids were opened.

A by-law providing for street improvement in Burnaby, B. C., received the necessary number of votes at election but was defeated because an elector had written favorable comment on a ballot.

THOMAS A. EDISON, JR., DEFENDS "HUMAN SIDE" OF GREAT INVENTOR

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Thomas A. Edison, jr., eldest son of the late inventor, wrote the following about his father shortly after announcement was made that William Edison, a younger son, intended to contest a part of the Edison will. Thomas A. Edison, jr. announced at that time that he would not join his brother in the contest, saying he had loved his father too much to question any act of his. Two other sons, Charles and Theodore, were the chief beneficiaries under the will.)

BY THOMAS A. EDISON, JR.,
(Copyright, 1931 By The Associated Press.)

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 12 (AP)—Thomas Alva Edison was not the cold-blooded genius often portrayed in the public prints.

He was imbued with a human side that was known to us children as being as forceful and impressive as was his inventive mind.

To me, he was an ideal father; very sympathetic, loveable, dutiful and above all most considerate of the happiness and safety of his children.

The world knew him as a man who had devoted his life towards conceiving ideas which when worked out were of great benefit to the welfare and comfort of the universe and to populace.

Had Fixed Picture

Those who read and heard him had a fixed picture in their minds of an indefatigable worker, one who was so deeply engrossed in his formulas and experiments that he had little or no time for any diversions.

But only his immediate family and close acquaintances knew of his love and ardor for his children; the pleasure he took in conceiving original games and pastimes for his boys and our friends; his genuine delight for parchese, especially when he defeated one of us; the pleasure that a "small stakes" game of poker held for him; his extreme and deep interest in the physical as well as educational side of young men, and his boyish exuberance when around the Christmas tree with his children.

These are just a few of the intimacies of the other side of my father's life.

Originated Contest

While I was a stripling of six years at Menlo Park, father had erected on our grounds a fifteen foot pole. At the top was a coin.

The boy who "shinnied" to the top was given the coin. My friends were more successful than I, and father was a little disappointed. One day he rubbed something on the knees of my short pants to cause a friction on the pole. I reached the top easily after that, and was a regular winner.

The greatest thrill of my life was my first ride on an electric railroad train with father. He sat alongside of me and held me close so that I would not fall off. I will always remember the grip of his strong arms.

While father was interested in the physical well being of young folks he paid little attention to himself, as is well known. In fact, he abused himself physically. Nourishment and sleep were secondary. Many a morning I arrived at the laboratory and found him, after being up all night, eating a large pie and drinking milk for his breakfast.

Father always had a field day for his employes here. He never missed one that I can recall. He was interested in sports, although he seldom participated in any. But his principal duty on those days was to throw the first ball at the start of a baseball game.
