Hurricane Belle brushing tip of Carolina's islands

(AP WIREPHOTO)

WHERE HURRICANE EXPECTED — Maps shows approximate position of Hurricane Belle Monday with hurricane warnings along the East Coast from Cape Hatteras, N.C., to southern New England.

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (AP) — The western edge of Hurricane Belle's 110-mile-perhour fury brushed the southern tip of North Carolina's Outer Banks islands at 11 a.m. today with gusts up to 74 miles per hour.

The center of the storm was 50 miles out to sea, picking up speed on a northerly course that could sweep its full force into Long Island and southern New England.

"We got plenty of wind — 55 miles per hour gusting to 74," said Mrs. U.L. Womach, whose family chose to remain in their home, three-fourths of a mile from the beach at Ocracoke, south of Cape Hatteras.

"They're probably getting some pretty strong squalls and hurricane force winds in gusts," said Joe Pelissier of the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

Pelissier said the strongest winds were on the eastern or seaward side of the storm because of its northward movement and counter-clockwise rotation.

Advance preparation was at full speed well into New England and, as the hurricane advanced to the north, the Coast Guard was at work.

Police in Suffolk County, N.Y., on Long Island, told residents within 500 feet of the ocean and adjoining bays to be ready to leave their homes at a moment's notice.

The area, normally heavily populated, was jammed with tens of thousands of vacationers. It includes some famous summer resorts — Fire Island, the Hamptons, Montauck, Sag Harbor, Orient Point.

Similar precautions were ordered into coastal Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts — including Cape Cod, which like Long Island is crowded with vacationers this time of year.

The Coast Guard in Portsmouth, Va., said the empty tanker Amoco Virginia, headed for Yorktown, Va., was reported disabled off Chincoteague Island, Va., in the path of the advancing storm.

A commercial tug was sent to assist the ship, but was not expected to arrive until midafternoon.

The Danish supertanker Kirsten Maersk, the largest ever to call at an East Coast port, was ordered to deep sea anchorage 50 miles off the Virginia Capes. The Coast Guard said she had been headed for Hampton Roads, and it was feared strong winds would blow the ship aground.

Larry Palmer, 34, of Arlington, Va., whose family sought refuge in the Kitty Hawk Elementary School, said he heard a policeman saying that the beach highway is flooding in areas.

"There are at least 1,000 persons in the school. Most are vacationers," he said. "It's really gone smooth. Nobody panicked. Everybody seems to be enjoying themselves. The kids have been fantastic."

Palmer, who was with his wife and two children, estimated there were 250 to 400 children in the school building.

"I'm hoping we can get back to our (beach-front) cabin by 5 or 6 o'clock tonight," he said.

Defense spending measure slashed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearing passage of a $104-billion defense spending bill, the Senate defeated an amendment today to delete $75 million for procurement of non-nuclear Lance missile warheads.

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., sponsor of the amendment, argued that the surface-to-surface Lance missiles, at $205,000 each, are not so cost-effective as alternatives such as bombing of surface targets from the air.

The amendment to deny $75 million for the first 360 nonnuclear warheads was defeated 61 to 15.

As the Senate worked on the defense spending measure, the House prepared to consider a postcard registration bill.

Both branches of Congress plan to recess in midweek — the House Tuesday night and the Senate Wednesday — until after the Republican National Convention.

Hart's amendment was opposed by Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., and other members of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

They said that providing the Lance with a conventional war capability could reduce the possibility of a nuclear exchange in Europe.

The House leads off the week with legislation to authorize postcard registration to vote in federal elections, a proposal on which Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter personally requested early congressional action. Quick approval is expected today.

Debate will be started on a $56.6-billion appropriation bill for the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare departments.

On Tuesday, the House is to act on a compromise bill extending the Federal Energy Administration until Dec. 31, 1977, and authorizing loans, grants and other aid to the states to encourage home owners, business proprietors, and public bodies to install insulation, weather stripping, storm windows, solar heat and other energy saving devices. The Senate passed the bill last Thursday.

The House Commerce Committee is expected to act Tuesday morning, with full House consideration to follow, on legislation requested by President Ford to insure the national swine-flu vaccination program against injury lawsuits.

Meanwhile, plans were being made for a House-Senate conference committee to meet after Congress comes back Aug. 23 and to work out a compromise between the different tax bills passed by the respective chambers. The bills extend tax cuts for individuals and provide a variety of business tax breaks.

Nude bathers protest ban

TRURO, Mass. (AP) — A day of protest against a ban on nude sunbathing has been rescheduled for next Saturday, after gloomy, rainy weather washed it out over the weekend.

"We believe in nudity, but we also believe in sanity," Lee Baxandall, spokesman for the Free the Free Beach Committee, said Sunday. "It would be crazy for us to go out there today."

The National Park Service has banned nudity on beaches of the Cape Cod National Seashore. The ban was upheld late last month by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston.

The protest demonstration, expected to attract several hundred participants and many spectators, is scheduled for the remote Head of the Meadow Beach.

The ban on nudity was imposed last summer when the Park Service became concerned that throngs of persons—onlookers as well as nude bathers—were damaging the area's environment.

Two couples are donors

Early contributors to the Howard County Ministerial Alliance Bible Fund, proceeds from which will be used to underwrite the expense in a Bible course to be offered in area schools this year, include Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Beam, $10; and Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Shaw, $25.

Donations for the fund can be forwarded either to Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of the First Baptist Church, or to The Herald.

The Bible-teaching program must be sustained by private donations, since tax money cannot be used to pay instructors in the course.

If the drive is successful, courses in Bible will be offered at Coahoma and Forsan high schools, as well as Big Spring.

Objective in this year's campaign is $6,500.

Ford wants one-ballot showdown

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — President Ford wants a one-ballot, candidate-to-candidate showdown with Ronald Reagan at the Republican National Convention, but the challenger may seek preliminary tests on issues or rules before the delegates vote on a presidential nominee.

The convention vanguard set to work today to draft a platform and consider a rules dispute that could affect the presidential nomination itself.

Although the opening gavel was still a week away, Republican wrangling was quick to begin.

There were signals that the Reagan camp will seek preliminary votes, in committees and probably at the convention, in hopes of demonstrating strength that might be persuasive with wavering delegates on the roll call that really counts — the one that will choose a nominee for the White House.

In a closely divided convention, with uncommitted Republicans holding the balance of nominating power, preliminary victories could provide momentum and bargaining points to be used in dickering for delegates.

He said he would "change the style of the campaigning" for a race against Carter and "add to personnel" at his campaign committee.

But Ford refused to say precisely how he'd alter his often-criticized campaign style and didn't indicate whether he'd put new leaders in charge of his campaign organization.

"I don't rule it out," he said about debating Carter.

Ford said he has not asked the former Watergate special prosecutor to fill him in on Connally's role in milk industry campaign funds that were linked to the Watergate scandal that put Ford in office.

Ford speaks out

Republicans who criticize Connally harming GOP unity

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Ford says Republicans who publicly criticize John B. Connally as his potential running mate are harming party unity.

He said complaints about the former Nixon administration Treasury secretary or any other possible vice presidential pick ought to be confined to "the procedure I set up" for privately receiving recommendations on the No. 2 position.

Ford, in an interview, also said he believes challenger Ronald Reagan hurt himself by picking liberal Sen. Richard S. Schweiker as a running mate in advance of the Republican National Convention. Ford said that if he made his own selection known in advance, he would probably lose more support than he gained no matter who he tapped.

He claimed that more than a dozen candidates he is considering "are all dead even at this point" as a process of checking their finances and other background information begins.

Ford wouldn't say who was being asked for data, and he repeated his intention not to announce his choice until presidential balloting at the GOP convention is completed Aug. 18. However, Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., and Commerce Secretary Elliot L. Richardson said Sunday they have been asked for data.

The interview with Ford at the mountaintop presidential retreat in Maryland marked the end of his second year as president, but principally covered three periods of the future: the two weeks climaxing his bid to win the GOP nomination; the three months of the campaign he anticipates against Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter; and the four years he hopes to serve as an elected president.

Ford said he felt certain of winning the nomination, but he said the fight had been tougher than expected because "I do not believe we have sold our accomplishments as well as we should have."

THE VICE PRESIDENCY — Former Secretary of Treasury John Connally, left, and Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson, right, appear on separate television interviews in Washington Sunday. Both were asked about the possibility that one of them may be the Republican vice presidential nominee. Connally was interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers," and Richardson on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Sex-for-sale peddlers add new twist in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — The burgeoning Dallas prostitution problem has taken on a new twist as the sex-for-sale peddlers apparently are now offering more than one choice.

Residents of an area on the northern fringe of downtown have been complaining to city councilmen the past two weeks about parading female prostitutes.

Now another group of residents from a neghborhood only a few hundred yards away is complaining about male homsexual prostitutes.

Vice squad director D.L. Burgess said Sunday the police department has only recently become aware of the male homsexual prostitute problem.

Burgess said his staff is investigating to see if the department's crackdown on female streetwalkers can be expanded to include their male counterparts.

One homeowner said the problems with the gays began when vice officers started policing homosexual acivities in two nearby parks.

"The guys just got in their cars and started cruising our neighborhood," one resident said. "Before long that drew the male prostitutes and now we have so much traffic it is almot impossible to sleep at night."

Councilmen are in the process of examining steps to be taken about the female prostitution complaints, and a residents' meeting was held Saturday at the Dallas Action Center to discuss possible solutions to the male prostitute problem.

Stanton pilot claims new world endurance record

OSHDOSH, Wis. — Leeon Davis, 46, fought a stuck fuel gauge and a gasoline leak for 22 hours and one minute, but claimed a new world endurance record Saturday for a home-built airplane.

Davis, of Stanton, landed at 4:27:50 a.m. Saturday at Whittman Airport in Oshkosh, after 15 laps of a course between found-du-Lac and Burlington, both in Wisconsin.

He estimated that he had roughly 20 gallons of gasoline left from the 84 he had put in his all-metal DA-5 before takeoff at 6:46 a.m. Friday.

The new record, if verified, would beat the one set by Burt Rutan, also of Texas, in a Veri-Eze, in last year's Experimental Aircraft Association Convention in Oshkosh.

Davis said that his fuel gauge became stuck on takeoff, leaving him solely dependant upon computations to figure his gasoline consumption.

"To complicate the fuel problem, I had gas leaking periodically on my right leg in the cockpit the whole flight," Davis said.

David had hoped to fly in excess of 30 hours.

County budget, pay raise okayed

County Commissioners Court today approved a $1.9-million budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, 1976.

The tax rate was set at 95 cents, the same as the nine-month fiscal year of 1976 and lower than the $1.04 rate for 1975.

Included in the budget was a 5-percent pay raise to go into effect October 1.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Common courtesy

Q. "The other day I went into a local store to call a taxi cab and asked for a place to sit down. The man told me there weren't any chairs for me to use, I would just have to stand.

Does the new generation have any courtesy or has Women's Lib taken it from them?"

A. There is still common courtesy in the new generation of today. Women's Lib hasn't changed everyone. Some people are just plain rude.

Calendar: Trustees to meet

TODAY

Trustees of Big Spring Independent School District meet in regular session in administrative offices, 5:15 p.m.

TUESDAY

The Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center will offer a special class for expectant mothers which will begin at the center at 1 p.m. Tuesday and the second session will be held the following Tuesday. An evening class will also be offered beginning at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 10.

Colorado City city council meets in regular session, 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Awards ceremony for the Summer Reading Program at Pioneer Gas Room, 501 Runnels, between 7:00 and 8:00 p.m. Tuesday. Children who have read 12 or more books during the summer will be awarded certificates.

WEDNESDAY

Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission board of directors meets at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in Air Terminal office building.

Offbeat: Political persecution?

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican Railroad Commission candidate Walter Wendlandt said today he "wholeheartedly" endorses John Connally for vice president.

Wendlandt said he rejects the suggestion that President Ford should talk to (former special prosecutor) Leon Jaworski about Connally before putting Connally on the ticket.

"The political persecution trial of Gov. Connally based on the uncorroborated testimony of an admitted perjurer is evidence of Mr. Jaworski's prejudice and bias," Wendlandt said. "The rivalry between Gov. Connally's law firm and Mr. Jaworski's in Houston is well known to most Texans."

"Mr. Jaworski, a former director of Coastal States Gas Corp. and close personal friend and adviser of (Coastal chairman) Oscar Wyatt, could better spend his time explaining to his fellow Texans why Coastal States should not be required to fulfill contract obligations at the same time Coastal has record high earnings...," Wendlandt said.

Best bet on TV: Murder mystery

Independent channel 11 offers a murder mystery at 9 o'clock, "Detour To Nowhere" (1972) George Peppard, Christine Belford. An insurance investigator unravels a case involving four murders and a theft of over a million dollars in gold.

WAITING OUT HURRICANE BELLE — About 200 people, most of them tourists, sought refuge today at the Kill Devil Hills, N.C., Volunteer Fire Department and waited for the storm to hit. Firemen provided food and a place to rest. The station is about 300 yards from the ocean.

Viking ready to plow below Martian surface

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Viking 1's robot arm is repaired and ready to plow below the Martian surface for another handful of the red dust that continues to hint that it may hold life.

Viking scientists announced Sunday that the vital miniature shovel arm was once more in working order. The arm had stopped functioning last week while delivering soil to one of Viking's miniature laboratories.

New data from one of Viking's biology experiment renewed a cautious belief that living systems may exist in the rocky, desert-like region of Mars where Viking 1 touched down July 20.

The latest data came from what is called a "pyrolytic release experiment" designed to determine whether any process resembling photosynthesis is taking place on Mars.

Photosynthesis is the process by which plants on earth take in carbon gases and use the carbon for growth or for food.

On Saturday, the pyrolitic release experiment found information that Dr. Harold Klein, head of the mission's biology team, called "tantalizing."

What the experiment hoped to find was some indication that a plantlike creature consumed carbon gases, as plants do on earth.

The pyrolytic experiment tries to make that determination by creating in a test tube a microcosm of Mars. A bit of soil was placed in the tube and was incubated for several days under simulated Martian sunlight, produced by a xenon lamp in the test chamber9

In this "miniature Mars," it was hoped that the supposed plantlike Martians would feel at home, absorb gases in the test tube's atmosphere, and use the carbon from those gases for food.

The gases in the tube's atmosphere, carbon dioxide and carbon monoxide, were tagged with radioactive material, carbon 14. If the gases were taken in by photosynthesis, the tracer carbon 14 could later be spotted.

After the tube got its soil, the sample was allowed to incubate for five days in the simulated Martian sunlight, enough time for whatever plant life might be there to take in the gases — and radioactive carbon 14.

Fire ants continue to spread in Texas

COLLEGE STATION — Imported fire ants are now common in virtually all of the eastern half of Texas and are continuing their trek westward.

"Although records on the distribution of fire ants are somewhat behind actual field observations, it seems the fire ant has infested counties extending from Cooke County in North Texas all the way down to Kleberg County at the southern end of the state," points out John Jackman, an entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Fire ant infestation also extends as far west as Kerr and Bandera counties in the Texas Hill Country."

Jackman says that 74 of the counties that have a fire ant problem are under partial or complete federal quarantine or are labeled suppression areas. This means that soil and earth-moving equipment must be checked when being transported from a quarantined county to one not under quarantine. This is an attempt to prevent transporting the fire ant.

Fire ants have been classed as eradicated in Williamson, McLennan, Erath and Henderson counties, says the Texas A&M University System entomologist.

Mirex, a chemical used to control the imported fire ant, continues to undergo careful evaluation by the Environmental Protection Agency. Allied Chemical Corporation discontinued production of the chemical in February, and Mirex is now being produced by the state of Mississippi and is available through the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Jackman says farmers and ranchers can obtain the chemical free of charge by requesting it through their County Commissioners Court. Since supplies are limited, distribution will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

Comments solicited

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has called for comments on its proposed determinations for the 1977 upland and extra long staple cotton programs.

The Secretary of Agriculture proposes to make determinations relative to:

— The national production goal and the national base acreage allotment for upland cotton and appointment of the national allotment to states and counties.

— The target price for upland cotton.

— Whether there should be a set aside requirement for upland cotton and, if so, the extent of such a requirement.

— Whether there should be a provision for additional diversion and, if so, the extent of such diversions and their payments rates.

— The national marketing quota and the national average allotment for extra long staple cotton and apportionment of the national allotment.

— The loan level for 1977-crop upland lint cotton and the oan level and payment rate for 1977-crop extra long staple lint cotton.

— Whether a seed cotton loan program should be offered for 1977 and, if so, what the loan levels should be.

— Other related provisions necessary to carry out the upland and extra long staple cotton programs.

Prior to making determinations, consideration will be given to any written comments received by the Director, Grains, Oilseeds and Ctton Divisions, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250 not later than Aug. 31, 1976.

All written submissions will be made available for public inspection at the office of the Director, Room 3741, Agriculture Department's South Building, during regular business hours, 8:15 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.

Deaths

J. M. Anderson

LAMESA — Memorial services for James Mason Anderson, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas Anderson of Rt. A, Lamesa, will be at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday in First Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Dick Schmidt, pastor officiating.

Private graveside service for the family will be held today.

Branon Funeral Home is handling arrangements.

Born in Lubbock, the child drowned about noon Saturday four miles north of Breckenridge. Authorities think he fell in a lake there after chasing ducks.

A justice of the peace ruled the death accidental.

Surviving, in addition to his parents, are his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jarrett of Lockney; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Evelyn Anderson of Lamesa, and a brother, Charles Jarrett of the home.

Frank Martin

William Frank Martin, 63, died early this morning in a local hospital after a long illness.

Services will be held at 4 p.m. Tuesday at Ellis Chapel in Midland with minister Rev. R. E. Womble officiating.

Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park.

Mr. Martin was born October 3, 1912 in Big Spring. He married Verna Kinard in 1935, and lived in Big Spring until 1957, when he moved to Midland. He has owned and operated Martin Dispensary Co., since 1935, and was a member of the Terminal Lions Club and Midessa Heights Baptist Church.

The family requests that all memorials be sent to the Cancer Society.

Survivors include the widow, of Midland; two sons William F. Martin of Clarksville Ind., James R. (Buddy) Martin of Odessa; a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Gillespie, of New York; and 10 grandchildren.

Harvey Muns

SWEETWATER — One of the area's best known sandlot baseball players half a century ago, Harvey D. Muns, 86, died at 8 p.m., Sunday in the Rolling Plains Memorial Hospital here.

Arrangements for services are being completed at McCoy Funeral Home in Sweetwater.

Born Dec. 18, 1891, in Freestone County, he was a retired Sweetwater grocer. He married Ola Brashear Nov. 14, 1942, in Sweetwater. He taught school in Her-He taught school in Hermleigh, Moran and Mertzon water in 1943.

He played professional minor league baseball for several years. He was a graduate of North Texas State University. He was a member of First United Methodist Church and was a World War I veteran.

Survivors include his widow; and a sister, Mrs. Horace (Lula) Newton of Midland.

A sister and two brothers preceded him in death.

Police beat

Automobile is fired upon, man reports

Officers Ron Newby and Gene Denton took an aggravated assault report from Wesley Yater, Rt. 2, Box 7, over the weekend in connection with shots being fired.

As Yater was driving in the 500 block of N. Gregg, an unknown person fired a weapon at his car, striking the vehicle in the upper right hand corner at the front windshield. A piece of lead was found at the scene by lawmen, and a nearby alley was searched for a shell casing.

Detectives are investigating the incident.

A burglary was thwarted early Sunday morning by Detective Leroy Spires and Sgt. Alvis Jeffcoat. As they were on patrol, they observed a man trying to kick in the door to R. J.'s Club. They arrested the man at the scene, and he was charged with attempted burglary.

Officer J. S. Edwards responded to an auto burglary call from Dr. John Key, 538 Westover. Thieves had used an unknown tool to open a car door and steal two CB radios and a scanner. Total value of the stolen property was listed at $933.40.

A burglary at the Ramada Inn was reported to Officer Robert Sims. Four girls here from Waco for a baseball tournament had cash, clothes and a travel bag taken from them, totaling $74.50.

Lewis S. Chester, 3308 Auburn, advised Officer Jerry Pruitt of a burglary at his residence. Thugs had entered his house by the bathroom window, and had taken $25 in cash and $9.40 in silver collector's coins. Face value of the stolen money was $37.40.

Cheryl Renee Bridges, Rt. 3, Box 134, reported to Officer James Coyle that while she was staying at the Holiday Inn, someone entered the door of her vehicle and had taken a CB radio worth $100.

Chief Stanley Bogard announced today that he has placed a reserve officer on a 30 days off status for conduct unbecoming a police officer.

A battery worth $35 was taken from a car owned by Miss Secundina Bucasas, 205 E. 5th, as it was parked in front of her house. Officer Robert Sims took the original report.

Officer George Quintero received an auto burglary and criminal mischief call from Jeannie Nix, staying at the Ramada Inn. Persons unknown had taken $20 cash from her vehicle and had broken eggs inside it. Total damage and loss was placed at $40.

In another of the criminal mischief complaints over the weekend, Officer Robert Sims received a call from Raymond Lopez, 606 N. San Antonio. Someone had entered his house and had broken seven windows valued at $100. One of the subjects apparently cut himself in the process, as there was a large amount of blood on the kitchen floor. Police reports indicate that three alien subjects from Mexico were involved.

Officer Gary Porter responded to a call from David Davenport, 4101 Connally. Thugs there had poured a sweet sticky substance into the engine, and when the car was started, a strong acrid smell entered the car, and caused the driver to become ill.

In another case of criminal mischief, Porter was advised by Jack Turney, 1000 E. 12th, that someone had destroyed a windmill scene in his front yard, and had broken two trees. Total damage was placed at $170.

Juanita Madewell, 505 E. 17th, advised Officer James Coyle that someone had knifed two tires on her car, bent the door and wiper, slashed a water hose and had removed wires and the coil from the engine. Total loss and damage was placed at $200.

Frank Norman Aken, 205 E. 23rd, advised police that someone had apparently tried unsuccessfully to hot-wire his car. In the process, they burned up the coil, valued at $12.

In a hot-rodding report, Officers Gary Porter and James Hensley arrested one man and charged him with disorderly conduct, driving without an inspection sticker and public intoxication. Another man was arrested for disorderly conduct as well, and was given four traffic citations. The driver had been warned the day before by police not to drive the vehicle.

In other arrests by local lawmen over the past 24 hours, Trooper Bill Priest arrested a man for driving while intoxicated, Trooper Bill Jennings arrested three juveniles for consuming alcohol, and local police responded to seven disturbance calls, resulting criminal trespassing.

A major accident on the north service road of IS 20 Sunday, between cars driven by William H. Morgan Jr., P.O. 4319, Webb, and Lot Van Ngugen, 2503 Ann Dr., resulted in injuries to two persons.

Toan Van Trah and Anhn Vo were taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital where Vo was treated and released, and Toan is listed in stable condition, according to a hospital spokesman.

Only three minor accidents were reported Sunday:

—300 block of E. 4th, between cars driven by Perry Leon Bradford, 815 W. 17th, and Theodore Otto Pachall, 506 Nolan.

—A minor hit-and-run accident on the Gibson's parking lot between a car owned by Hijino C. Moreno Jr., 100 NE 10th, and a vehicle that left the scene.

—And a minor collision at the corner of Parkway and Wasson Rd. involving cars driven by Mohammad R. Karami, Webb, and Steven A. Rose, Webb.

New types of mortgages costing consumers more

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Traditional home mortgages with fixed monthly payments are giving way in scattered areas of the country to experimental plans designed to make it easier for would-be buyers to get loans. And the new types of mortgages usually wind up costing consumers more money.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported that at the end of the first quarter of this year there was $456 billion in outstanding mortgage debt on one-to four-family, nonfarm residential properties. About half the debt was owed to savings and loan associations.

Most of the mortgages were written in traditional form. The average annual interest rate, as of June, was just under 9 per cent.

Richard Marcis of the board's Office of Economic Research said the use of nontraditional mortgage forms, including variable rate loans where the amount of interest is allowed to fluctuate, is still "relatively limited."

At the same time, he said, the variable rate loan has been adopted by 10 state-chartered savings and loan associations in California. These institutions have loaned $2 billion on variable rate mortgages in 16 months, he said. (Note: federally chartered savings and loan assocations are prohibited from offering variable rate mortgages; the situation at state-charted institutions differs from state to state.)

Another alternative, called the graduated payment mortgage, has been proposed by Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass. Under this plan, the rate of interest would remain constant, but the size of the monthly payment would fluctuate. It would be relatively low at the beginning — making things easier for young people just starting out — and would increase over the years as inflation and experience push up earning power.

David Strachan of the American Bankers Association said the interest rate on the traditional mortgage is based the cost of money to the bank now and over the life of the loan. With a variable rate mortgage, Strachan said, "the bank can operate a lot closer to the actual cost of money."

Carter admits unaccounted election funds story hurts

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter says his campaign cannot provide documentation to say how it has spent about $150,000.

He made the statement Sunday after the Los Angeles Times published a story in which Carter's national administrator, Paul Hemmann, was quoted as saying the Carter campaign may have to return $150,000 of the $3 million in federal matching funds it has received because of financial reporting irregularities.

Carter also said he was not personally aware of an incident cited by the Times, in which an Oakland, Calif., minister said the Carter campaign had given a total of $5,000 to four black ministers in the Oakland-San Francisco Bay area for their support of Carter.

But Carter said he believes some persons who had received campaign funds for legitimate purposes had occasionally pocketed the money.

"I don't have any doubts that somewhere in a massive campaign that's nationwide in scope, there are those who keep part of the money, both black and white people," Carter said. "That's something that's almost impossible to prevent.

"Obviously, it hurts me politically.

"We've tried to minimize this kind of campaign abuse in every way possible. All our leaders, both black and white, are thoroughly indoctrinated on the question of avoiding any source of abuse."

Carter said he has asked campaign treasurer Robert Lipshutz to investigate the allegations, and he promised he would release Lipshutz's findings to the press.

Actor Steiger undergoes open heart surgery

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Actor Rod Steiger is doing well after delicate open heart surgery, doctors at Daniel Freeman Hospital said.

The 51-year-old star of such movies as "In The Heat of the Night," "No Way to Treat a Lady," and "The Pawnbroker," was listed "in very good condition and progressing as expected" Sunday, a day after he underwent a cardiac bypass operation.

A hospital spokesman said Steiger was transferred from intensive care to a private room on Sunday.

Mexican fishing agreement

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Mexico and the United States have agreed to a complete pullout of American shrimp fishermen from waters within 200 miles of the Mexican Coast by January 1980, a Florida official said today.

The agreement, which must be signed by President Ford, calls for a gradual withdrawal of American shrimp fishermen over the next 3½ years plus hefty fees for those allowed to remain during the period, said Florida Natural Resources Director Harmon Shields.

Shields was a member of the American negotiating team which reached the treaty agreement in Mexico city late Saturday morning.

He said the number of shrimp fishermen would be cut about 40 per cent, a total of 318 boats, the first year after the pact goes into effect.

"I think we got the best treaty we could," Shields said. "There were some dark days at first, and we were worried that we couldn't get a treaty at all."

Williams is new leader

LUBBOCK — Dr. Judson F. Williams, El Paso business leader and three-term mayor of that city, has been elected to succeed Clint Formby of Hereford as chairman of the Board of Regents of Texas Tech University and the Texas Tech University School of Medicine.

Robert L. Pfluger, San Angelo area rancher, was named vice chairman.

Williams, who is serving his second six-year term on the Texas Tech board, spent 15 years in higher education before leaving for a career in business. He is president of Uptrends, Inc., a real estate corporation, and an investment and management consultant.

He served from 1963 to 1969 as mayor of El Paso and from 1967 to 1969 as president of the Texas Municipal League. He is a member now of the boards of directors of Mountain Bell Telephone Co., Arkansas Western Gas Co., Southern Union Co., Southern Union Production Co., State National Bank, First Savings and Loan Assoc., Business Products & Services, Inc., New Mexico Gas Co., and Lee Moor Children's Home.

Williams earned the bachelor of arts degree at Hardin-Simmons University, the bachelor and master's degrees in journalism at the University of Missouri and his doctoral degree at the University of Texas.

In 1956 he joined the White House Department Stores in El Paso as executive vice president.

Voters seeking action on supe

MERTZON — A petition calling for the resignation of Irion County ISD School Supt. Hardin Ray will be presented to the board of trustees at their regular meeting here at 7 o'clock this evening.

An undetermined number of voters, said to represent a majority in the district, signed the petition.

Body found in chain-wrapped oil drum

CIA plot linked to murder?

MIAMI (AP) — Authorities were trying today to determine if there is any connection between the murder of John Roselli and the slaying a year ago of Sam "Momo" Giancana — two mobsters reportedly recruited in a CIA plot to assassinate Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Roselli's decomposing body was identified Sunday after it was found in a chain-wrapped oil drum floating in Biscayne Bay off Miami. He died of asphyxiation, the Dade County medical examiner said.

Giancana, a Chicago underworld chieftain, was shot to death in his mansion there June 19, 1975.

Both murders were what investigators called "ganglandstyle" hits.

Dade County detectives Julio Ojeda and Charles Zatrepalek said they would check records of a Senate Intelligence Committee appearance by Roselli, who testified five days after Giancana's murder that the two had been offered $100,000 by the CIA to join a plot to poison Castro in 1961. He said he agreed to help for free.

Sen. Howard H. Baker, the Tennessee Republican who was vice chairman of the Senate panel which heard Roselli's testimony, said he would ask FBI Director Clarence Kelley "to be fully briefed" on the case.

"I think they (the FBI) should take jurisdiction on the basis of what's happened now," Baker said from his home in Huntsville, Tenn.

FBI spokesmen in Miami and in Washington said the agency would not become involved unless a violation of federal law turns up.

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, the Hawaii Democrat who heads the Senate's new permanent intelligence committee, said in Washington that it was too early to decide on a congressional probe of the case.

Roselli and Giancana were also reported to have been linked with Judith Campbell Exner, who said last year she had "a relationship" with the late President John F. Kennedy. The names of Roselli and Giancana appear in FBI reports released at Mrs. Exner's request for help in writing her memoirs.

The reports describe numerous meetings between Roselli and Mrs. Exner, now the wife of a golf professional in San Diego. One was in 1962 at a Los Angeles hotel, where Mrs. Exner turned over $600 in cash to pay a bill.

Dr. Ronald Wright, the chief deputy medical examiner, said Roselli, 70, had probably been dead since July 28, the day he left his sister's home in Plantation, north of Miami, for a round of golf. It was his sister, with whom had been living recently, who reported Roselli missing Friday.

Three fishermen sighted the 55-gallon drum Saturday. It was bobbing in an arm of Biscayne Bay.

Police said holes had been cut in the side of the barrel to make it sink, and Wright said the drum probably had broken loose from anchors after gases from the decomposing body made the drum buoyant.

ENVOY ACCUSED — Laurence Silberman, above, U.S. ambassador to Yugoslavia, has been accused by President Tito of Yugoslavia of starting an anti-Yugoslav campaign and of meddling in Yugoslav affairs. Silberman angered both Yugoslav officials and the State Department's East European desk by making public his feelings about the imprisonment of a Yugoslav-American, Laszlo Toth, on charges of economic espionage.

Getting to know United States

Allied students are at Webb Air Force Base to learn to pilot jet airplanes.

We all know that, but Capt. Ernie Perrow, foreign training officer at Webb, briefed members of the Century Club last week on another objective of the program.

Captain Ernie Perrow

THE ALLIED governments want their students to become pilots, but they also want their students to come to understand the U.S. and its people.

To make that second goal possible, the allied governments spend quite a bit of money for trips to Washington, D.C., and the like.

Capt. Perrow told Century Club members that the government of Iran spent $18,000 on one recent trip alone.

Capt. Perrow said the Security Assistance Training Program (STAP) has had a real impact, both on the U.S. balance of trade and on cementing friendlier relations with other nations in the Mideast.

He noted that 69 countries spent $9.5 billion on U.S. military aid in a year, and 70 to 80 per cent of this comes out of the Mideast.

Not all is spent for weapons. Two per cent is expended helping allied students learn about the U.S. Their governments feel this is so important that they are willing to chunk out large sums of money for the program.

It does have an impact, Capt. Perrow said. Some 2,900 Iranian students were trained in the U.S. last year.

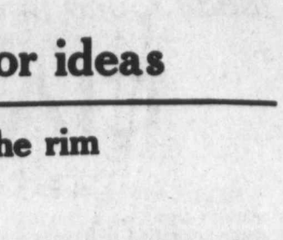
Capt. Perrow said that the program attempts to expose Iranian students to the American way of life, to its governmental institutions, its political parties, its press, its agriculture and small businesses, its labor concepts, its education and hospitals, and to how American families live.

HE EMPHASIZED the term "expose," for there is no attempt to indoctrinate. The Iranians have a culture that goes back 6,000 years, and they are hard put to understand the big celebration over only 200 years.

Capt. Perrow said he needed the help of Century Club members who are willing to be host families for allied students and give them exposure to American living.

These students will be the leaders of their countries in 10 to 15 years, and nothing we could do would contribute more to the cause of international peace and understanding than to make certain they go back with a deep knowledge of how Americans live and think.

—J. TOM GRAHAM



Groping for ideas

Around the rim

Danny Reagan

There was really nothing to write about. Here it was almost deadline, and I hadn't thought of a rim subject.

I sat at my desk for almost an hour, intermittently looking through my "Finding Fish Facts" booklet, and asking various staff members if they had an idea I could use and pay them back on Tuesday.

BUT NO LUCK. So I got up to get a drink at the fountain. I was gulping down a cool draft of water when John Edwards came shooting through the door like A. J. Foyt. (That's the door that connects the back shop with the editorial room, that happens to be right by the water fountain.)

Well, the door knob hit me square in the temple region, and I bounced onto the photo file, knocking over a half dead plant belonging to Werrell that was resting there which we were supposed to be caring for while he was away. (Someone had set a headline above the miserable looking green and brown thing that said, "Somebody help me!!"

But the ringing sensation in my ears helped me think better, and a number of ideas coursed their high-pitched way through my yellow-brick head.

What about an editorial? Some guy had written in recently that he would like to see more editorials. But what about? J. Tom had already covered the wheat yield in Venezuela or someplace else like that in Africa, and that was my major in college. There was still the goose fat crop in outer Mongolia. I had a few courses in that. No, too risky. Don't want to alienate any Tibetan tribesmen with fat geese.

Then how about the recent news of continuingly increasing car insurance, that has gone up so much already in the last few years I feel like Nelson Rockefeller should be driving my car. I should let the guy with the "good hands" drive it. Or maybe I should give it to him and sell insurance myself. No, the insurance people already hate my guts.

OR I COULD write about the new Big Spring "SWAT" team that Jimmy Wallace told me about. No, they haven't got the bugs out yet. Someone keeps playing the theme music too soon, and all the guys jump out of the back of the dogcatcher's truck while it's still moving. Anyway, they can't find that many pair of black pajamas.

No, none of those. So I spent another 15 minutes swatting flies with my pica pole . . .

". . . and the myriad skeletons of the decaying insects washed down the gutted street, mingling with other shadows and bumps that were indiscernible in the dark . . ." No, no, already tried that.

And then the phone rang. It was the third lady of the day wanting to know why she hadn't received her paper. I didn't have the heart to tell her it was Saturday, so I switched the call to the press room shower stall, knowing no one would be there.

I thought and thought, and yet nothing would come to mind. I was giving serious thought to going back a few years in the old copies and plagiarizing a young Walt Finley rim. Then all of a sudden, the staff broke into a chorus of "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Bob Rogers had just walked in, and everyone was automatically reacting to his new beard.

Well it was hopeless, I just couldn't think of a rim idea.

THIS HAS BEEN A TRUE STORY

In praise of violence

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting has issued a survey of violence on TV. The committee, headed by Nicols Johnson, the former FCC Commissioner, monitored television for six weeks and came to the conclusion the most violent shows they saw were S.W.A.T., The Rookies, Sara, The ABC Sunday Movie, The CBS Friday Movie, The Rockford Files, Starsky and Hutch, McMillian-Columbo, NBC Saturday Night Movie and Joe Forrester. How they missed Kojak, Hawaii Five-O and The Streets of San Francisco I'll never know.

BUT THEY came up with another interesting bit of research. Using the definition of TV violence modeled on a system devised by Dr. George Gerbner of the University of Pennsylvania they discovered the most frequent sponsors of this type of show were Colgate-Palmolive products, Gillette hair products, Breck shampoo, Ford Motor Co., Johnson and Johnson, American Motors and Lysol.

It seems to me that those of us who enjoy violence on television should thank the people who make it all possible.

Too often we sit back in our chairs after seeing a girl raped or a policeman shot down in cold blood on TV and fail to say I think I'll write the sponsor of that show a letter and tell him how much it pleased me. After all sponsors are people, too, and when they bring us blood and gore they want to know how much the audience appreciated it.

SINCE I know you're all busy people I have typed up some form letters that you can clip out and send to a few of the companies who make all these violence-prone shows possible.

"President, Colgate-Palmolive:

"Dear Sir,

"I just wanted to tell you how much our entire family enjoyed the program you sponsored the other night where the man was buried in sand and the villain poured honey on his head so the ants would eat him. We also enjoyed the film the other night which showed this psycholpathic killer who got his jollies from blowing up people's cars. My son Fred duplicated the bomb the killer made with the stuff he found in our kitchen. Not only are the shows you sponsor exciting but they are also educational, and we assure you as long as you stick with violence we'll stick with Colgate toothpaste."

"Chairman of the Board, Gillette hair products:

"Dear Sir,

"You probably don't hear from too many satisfied viewers, but I want you to know that every time we see a Gillette commercial interspersed in a program where someone is kidnaped, mugged or killed, we make a mental note to buy your product. I realize you don't make these shows yourselves, but the fact that you have the good taste to advertise on them is enough to us. Keep up the good work."

"President, Breck shampoo:

"Dear Sir,

"I saw a movie Sunday night on ABC where 14 cowboys were killed in four minutes. There was blood all over the place and it was a real turn-on. I asked my wife how ABC could afford to pay for that kind of entertainment and she said, 'Don't thank ABC, thank Breck. They paid for it.' So that's what we're doing. Stay with violence. If you change to comedy we'll stop using your shampoo."

'Stein-Leventhal' syndrome

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My sister, who is 27, has been told she has what is called 'Stein-Leventhal" syndrome. Can you explain what this is? Also, if she will ever be able to have a child? — T.B.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter tells me she has Stein-Leventhal sickness. It sounds ominous. What is it? What can be done? — Mrs. E.Q.

Stein-Leventhal syndrome is a somewhat rare condition where the ovaries (both of them) have numerous tiny cysts. Another name for it is "polycystic ovary syndrome."

Why this happens is not entirely clear. It seems to involve an interruption in the natural relationship between the ovaries and the pituitary gland (an important but tiny gland under the brain). The pituitary controls the timing of ovulation (releasing of the egg by an ovary). It is also thought that an excess of male hormones in the woman's body might be a cause.

It's called a "syndrome" because a certain set of symptoms are found together, usually menstruation abnormality, hirsutism (excessive hairiness) and enlargement of the ovaries. Acne and obesity are found in some women with the problem.

Surgical treatment consists of removing a section of the ovaries to reduce their size. It brings a resumption of ovulation in about 60 per cent of the cases.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 15-year-old boy who plans to go out for the cross-country team in the fall. I weigh 115 pounds and am 5 feet, 5 inches tall. My problem is that all my weight is in my legs. By losing some weight in my thighs and calves I'm hoping to increase my speed.

My mother says it is not good for a growing boy to diet. Is this true? Are there any exercises that tend to trim the legs down? — E.H.

I agree with your mother. From the weight and height statistics you give me, I find it hard to imagine too much of your 115 pounds being "all" in your thighs and legs. That wouldn't leave much else to be distributed on your 5 feet, 5 inches.

In any event, dieting wouldn't work. You lose weight all over your body when you diet. Your mother is right when she discourages dieting in a boy your age. It is just not desirable in adolescence. Besides, sports such as cross-country running require stamina, and you wouldn't be helping that by denying yourself needed nourishment. Building up your wind may be more important for your success. The process of doing that should take care of any weight problem you might have.

Exercise won't make much of a difference in the size of your legs, except as it might cause the muscles to enlarge.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have high blood pressure and the doctor gives me pills and the problem goes away. Then all of a sudden it comes back. Should I take the pills all the time? I don't understand all this. Could I buy the pills without a prescription? I am 75. — Mr. E. M.

Blood pressure medicine can have many side effects. Water pills, for example, can cause loss of too much potassium (in urination), which your muscles need. Some BP pills can lower pressure too much. This can interfere with the body's excretory machinery and cause blood sugar or uric acid build-up.

In short, I'm not too keen on your apparently hit-and-miss method of medicine-taking. There should be a continuous dosage to suit your individual need rather than a prescription which you "run out of," leaving you wondering what to do.

Your doctor is the only one who can authorize your buying of any medicine of this type.

You can lose weight if you really want to! Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his volumn whenever possible.

Labor controlled?

Robert Novak

NEW YORK — A telephone call from the podium to the Ohio delegation at Madison Square Garden last Thursday afternoon suggested that the outwardly regimented 1976 Democratic convention was controlled less by national chairman Robert S. Strauss or presidential nominee Jimmy Carter than by left-of-center labor leaders.

The call was placed by a puzzled Strauss aide on the podium to Lt. Gov. Richard Celeste, Carter's whip on the Ohio delegation. That heavily Carterite delegation had just phoned in a 2-to-1 vote on a rules question opposing the position favored by Carter and Strauss. Surely, the Strauss aide said hopefully, the vote had been recorded in reverse. No mistake, Celeste replied, explaining that agents of the Lobaor Coalition (LC) had rouned up Carter's Ohio delegates to vote against the party's new leader and its continuing national chairman.

THE COALITION, consisting of nine highly politicized left-leaning unions, opposed the Carter-Strauss position on all rules votes at the convention and won the big ones. What's more, when it became clear that the coalition was wading into the rules fight, Carter's organization faded away in judicious haste.

That raises questions of whether the labor tail was wagging the Carter dog last week and whether this might continue into the fall campaign and perhaps a Carter administration. At the least, the supposedly conservative Georgia peanut farmer, though still distrusted by reflexively liberal suburbanites, is the partner of labor's toughest liberal practitioners. Carter often seemed the junior partner as the convention ended.

WHILE THE AFL-CIO and its Committee on Political Education (COPE) has been withdrawing from Democratic politics, the rival Labor Coalition has filled the vacuum. Some 425 of 550 labor delegates here last week belong to the coaliton's nine unions — The United Auto Workers (UAW), the National Education Assn. (NEA) plus seven AFL-CIO unions (including the Machinists and Communications Workers) estranged from COPE.

Carter long ago displayed a rare appreciation of organized labor's internal politics, telling one union operative early this year that he understood this was one place where he must choose sides — the coalition or COPE. Though perceived as a moderate, Carter chose the far more liberal coalition. It paid off in invaluable early help (especially from Leonard Woodcock, prestigious president of the UAW).

THUS, UNLIKE the absent COPE, the coalition entered last week's convention with delegates on the floor and a chiar in Carter's hotel suite. They used both assets to quietly urge on Carter the selection as Vice President of liberal Sen. Walter Mondale.

The full prowess of the coalition became clear Thursday afternoon when several complicated rules proposals roughly divided the party into the old regulars vs. reformers confrontation. Since the regulars were backed by Carter's eleaborate whip system and Strauss's convention machinery, the result seemed a foregone conclusion.

New leaks

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — One Watergate secret never leaked out during all the investigations that brought down ex-President Richard Nixon. It's the story of how Nixon used the notorious White House plumbers to try to discredit his detractors on Capitol Hill.

THE INTENT was to prove that Nixon's congressional critics were violating national security. The plumbers enlisted the Pentagon's top sleuth, W. Donald Stewart, to investigate security leaks on Capitol Hill.

He found alleged security breaches in the offices of Sens. Frank Church, D.-Ida., William Fulbright, D.-Ark., Henry Jackson, D.-Wash., and William Proxmire, D.-Wis. But the investigation also caught he venerable Sen. John Stennis, D.-Miss., in an incident of political blackmail.

The stern, stately Stennis not only is a symbol of Senate rectitude, but he is a staunch defender of existing establishments.

He was ready, therefore, to defend the presidency against the ravages of Watergate. Nixon was so sure of Stennis' loyalty that he later sought an agreement, permitting the Mississippi senator to listen to the damning White House tapes and to rule whether they were incriminating.

After Stennis became implicated in the plumbers' probe, Nixon suddenly seemed to lose interest in it. The story of the abortive investigation is told by Stewart himself, now head of Stewart Security Services, in his unpublished memoirs.

It's a story that began in May, 1969, with the publication in the Washington Post of a report about scuttling atomic submarines. The sensitive information apparently came from a document that had been slipped to the Senate Armed Services Committee, which Stennis heads.

Stewart isolated seven military officers who had access to the document. Six of them offered to take lie detector tests. The seventh refused and hired a lawyer.

As Stewart zeroed in on the seventh officer, Stennis' office brought pressure on the Pentagon to halt the investigation. Stewart reported this backstage development in a memo for the White House plumbers.

HE WROTE that Stennis "became quite irritated because the Pentagon undertood (the) investigation." The angry senator threatened to investigate the Pentagon in retaliation. He would drop his investigation of the Pentagon, however, if the Pentagon dropped its investigation of his committee, it was suggested.

As Stewart put it in his memo for the plumbers: "Sen. Stennis indicated that he intended to initiate an investigation of the Pentagon because of its investigation in this matter. Informally, we were advised by the Stennis Committee that if we dropped the investigation within the Pentagon that the Stennis Committee would drop its investigation."

Added Stewart curtly: "Our investigation was terminated."

Whether Nixon was intimidated by Stennis' tactics or merely wanted him for a friend, the White House didn't push the investigation of the Stennis committee. There was more enthusiasm for investigating Nixon's critics.

Orders for this investigation were relayed by David Young, chief of the White House plumbers, to the Pentagon's chief counsel, Fred Buzhardt. The gumshoe work was directed by Stewart, who reported his findings in a Feb. 13, 1973, memo which is still hidden in Pentagon files.

THE MEMO was sharply critical of Sen. Church, an outspoken Nixon critic, who heads a subcommittee on terminating emergency executive edicts. Stewart reported that some of the subcommittee's documents "did not bear proper classification covers and were . . . stored in an ordinary cabinet. Others were transmitted without the proper double envelopes and special markings."

Employes without security clearance handled classified documents, the memo charged. Stewart also found that several classified documents on herbicide use in Southeast Asia were provided to Church. The last delivery was made on Aug. 3, 1972. Within a few days, the Washington Post carried a major story based on the classified herbicide data.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: When you love someone very much, what can you do to help them be what they ought to be? I have a wonderful husband, but he is lacking in so many ways. I know no one is perfect, but I just want him to live up to his potential. — G.D.

DEAR G. D.: There are more than three billion people in the world, and no two of them are alike. Loving someone means you love them "warts and all." It is strange but true that love contains an element of sympathy; we sometimes love because of our lover's faults, and not in spite of them. You may not realize it, but you might not love your husband as much if he changed radically. He would no longer be the same man you fell in love with. We are also told to love as Christ loved (Ephesians 5:2).

Hopefully, we all mature and improve through the years. But in your letter I didn't notice any mention of your own improvement. Have you grown more patient, more understanding and more affectionate? It is unfair to demand of others what you do not require of yourself.

What can you do to help your husband? Keep on loving him. No one ever grew or improved in an atmosphere of criticism, carping or complaining. And above all, I hope you will seek to grow spiritually together. As you do, the Holy Spirit will be at work in both of you to make you more like the persons God wants you to be as you continue to grow and mature in your Christian lives (II Corinthians 5:17).

Duval political figure

Lawyer acquitted of burglary count

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — Lawyer Nago Alaniz Sunday became the first Duval County political figure in the past two years to walk out of a courtroom at the end of his trial a free man.

A district court jury of seven men and five women found Alaniz innocent of a burglary charge after about 12 and a half hours of deliberations over a three-day period.

Alaniz, 63, of San Diego, Tex., had been tried on a charge of burglarizing the Duval County Conservation and Reclamation District office in 1972 and stealing records. The records were being sought for an investigation of Alaniz' close friend and political associate, George B. Parr, the late "Duke of Duval."

Parr, former Duval County Judge Archer Parr, former District Court Judge O.P. Carrillo, former bank president B.O. Goldthorn, former attorney Marvin Foster and now suspended Duval County commissioner Ramiro Carrillo were some of those who preceded Alaniz in being brought to trial as the result of a massive investigation into official corruption in the South Texas county. All have been convicted either in federal court, the Texas Senate or in state court.

Lawyers for both sides feared Sunday morning that the jurors might not be able to reach a verdict.

District Court Judge Darrell Hester had called the lawyers into the courtroom to discuss the possibilities. The judge told them he had heard shouting and table pounding from the jury room earlier in the morning. "There is some disagreement, to say the least," the judge said.

While Judge Heseter and the lawyers were discussing a possible note to the jury, it was announced that they had reached a verdict.

"Bless you," defense lawyer Dick DeGuerin told the jurors moments after the judge read the verdict.

Elvira Alaniz, the defendant's wife, shouted "God bless you" as the jurors filed from the courtroom.

Hobbling from the courtroom on crutches because of asked for a reaction. "Can't speak," he said, his voice filled with emotion.

"No comment," was the only reply Asst. Texas Atty. Gen. Neal Duvall would give when asked about the jury verdict.

The only lengthy comment came from DeGuerin, a law partner of Houston lawyer Percy Foreman and the first defense lawyer to secure an acquittal for a Duval County political figure in the recent long series of trials.

"Thank God for the people of Hidalgo County. They were fair and just despite overwhelming news coverage for the past six months that made just being from Duval County a crime," DeGuerin said.

Asked if he believes his role as co-defense lawyer in the trial of a Duval County political figure may hurt him politically, State Sen. Raul Longoria of Edinburg replied "I have no idea. I make my living in the courtroom. I hope the people will understand.

LISTENS TO THE MESSAGE — People who attended the final ceremony Sunday of the International Eucharistic Congress in Philadelphia and could not get a seat inside JFK Stadium stand outside and listen to the message and music via loudspeakers. A capacity crowd filled the stadium and several thousand were outside as the eight-day congress ended.

GOP platform truce threatened

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — An informal truce over the drafting of the Republican platform appeared threatened by some supporters of Ronald Reagan today as the party's Resolutions Committee set hearings on issues that could divide Republicans.

Some Reagan delegates arriving for the GOP convention did not like the arrangements in which representatives of Reagan and President Ford were to agree on platform-writing procedures. They showed it by winning a procedural skirmish and rewriting some of the rules Sunday.

An aide to Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., a strong and not always predictable Reagan supporter, accused the committee leadership of trying to railroad acceptance of the rules and of preparing a wishy-washy platform draft.

James P. Lucier, legislative assistant to Helms, said the platform draft avoids mention of the future of the Panama Canal, among other issues, and is soft in the matter of relations with the Soviet Union. The draft, described by committee spokesmen as mere working papers, has not been made public.

Reagan sent each of the 106 committee members a message outlining matters he said definitely should be included. It restates a number of his publicly avowed positions, but it does not specifically mention the canal, nor exlicitly call for a constitutional amendment on abortion. The Reagan message did condemn abortion in cases not involving the life of the mother and insisted the government should not finance abortions.

The abortion issue is one of the first to come before the full Resolutions (platform) Committee.

Ford, meanwhile, told Catholics at the Eucharistic Congress in Philadelphia on Sunday he shares concern about increased irreverence for life and believes in the supreme value of every person to whom life is given by God.

Republican National Chairman Mary Louise Smith told the committee today the platform must not be defined in terms of individuals and must be broad enough to be embraced by Republican candidates from all sections of the country.

She said the drafters must strike a sensitive balance to produce a meaningful platform.

Helms made a flying trip to Kansas City on Sunday, meeting with a number of Reagan delegates who made their move later at the committee's organization meeting.

Ford's denunciation of abortion pleases

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — President Ford's oblique denunciation of abortion apparently pleased most of 100,000 persons gathered for the closing ceremony of a worldwide Roman Catholic assembly.

Most of those assembled in John F. Kennedy Stadium stood to applaud and cheer when Ford told the International Eucharistic Congress on Sunday that he shared the church's concern about "increased irreverence for life."

Ford, an Episcopalian, said, "The supreme value of every person to whom life is given by God is a belief that comes to us from the Holy Scriptures confirmed by all the great leaders ot the church."

Some church members had been hoping the President would take a stronger position and perhaps support a constitutional amendment to forbid abortion — a step favored by the Catholic church's U.S. bishops.

Bishop Miguel Rodriguez of Arecibo, Puerto Rico, said the President was merely courting the Catholic vote. "It was opportunism, the same old thing," he said.

But in general, the reaction "obviously was very positive," said Bishop Walter Curtis of Bridgeport, Conn., a member of the U.S. bishops' prolife committee.

Msgr. John Busco of Philadelphia said the President's speech "endeared him to the bishops and people."

Pope Paul VI, speaking via satellite, also took part in the ceremonies Sunday, which included stately pageantry, processions and soaring music.

Pope Paul spoke from Bolsena, Italy, said to be the site of a 13th century miracle that restored a doubting priest's faith in Christ's real presence in the Eucharist, or Holy Communion — the focus of the congress.

The Pope said that sacrament "makes us one family, brothers and sisters, united in solidarity."

The congress, first such gathering in the United States in 50 years, centered on the Eucharist as sustenance for spiritual health and for work toward peace and justice in the world.

The closing of the eight-day spiritual asembly prompted leaders to predict that it would give new fervor to the church in serving God and humanity.

The majestic closing worship of the assembly here, a pontifical mass, was concelebrated by the papal legate, James Cardinal Knox of the Vatican, and 500 cardinals, bishops and priests from many lands.

Howard road project set

Highway improvement project in the Howard County area is included in the 1976 State Highway Safety and Betterment and Farm to Market Road Improvement Program, recently approved by the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission.

District Engineer Roger Welsch of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation said work in this area includes a seal coat on the north bound lane of U.S. 87 beginning approximately 14 miles north of Big Spring continuing northwest for 3.6 miles and a seal coat on the south bound lanes of U.S. 87, beginning at Big Spring north for 12 miles.

Similar programs had been conducted annually until last year. At that time there was no such program because of the financial crunch facing the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. Funds remain short for highway work in Texas and most other states in the nation because of soaring inflation and diminishing growth rates of available revenues.

Department officials, however, note that such programs cannot be deferred for long without serious effects. Types of work included in the program will provide extra measures of safety, increase traffic capacity and convenience, and rehabilitate old and obsolete sections. Programs such as this are necessary to prevent deterioration of the highway system and a resulting decline in mobility.

The program provides for improvement of a total of 3,164.8 miles of highways and FM roads with 58 per cent assigned to US and State numbered routes, 39 per cent for FM routes and 3 per cent reserved for later assignment.

In all, the program includes 552 projects in 190 counties of the state.

Key doper arrested

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican authorities said today they have captured the country's most important drug dealer, a man they say has been one of the major suppliers of heroin and cocaine to the United States.

The arrest of Jorge Favela Escobosa, 59, occurred Friday but announcement was delayed until five of the man's lieutenants could be arrested in other parts of Mexico, the federal attorney general's office said.

Alejandro Gerts Manero, chief of the drug control section of the attorney general's office, said Favela was closing a deal worth $1.6 million when he was arrested in a Mexico City suburb.

DECEPTION — FBI Director Clarence Kelley, appearing on CBS' "Face the Nation" in Washington Sunday, said that he was decieved about the end of burglaries committed by the agency. Kelley said that he has not found out who was responsible for the deception.

Kelley does not plan to submit resignation

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley says he does not plan to follow the practice of some heads of federal agencies and submit a routine resignation if a new president is elected in November.

On the contrary, Kelley said he plans to stay on the job as long as his health is good and he thinks he can serve.

Speaking Sunday on CBS's "Face the Nation," the chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said some subordinates "knowingly deceived" him when they told him that burglaries conducted by the agency had ended in 1966.

He has since acknowledged that such break-ins occurred as recently as 1973, the year he was appointed director.

Saying he does not condone the deception, Kelley vowed, "If I find those who have knowledgeably, knowingly deceived me, some action will be taken." But he observed that people are reluctant to confess to actions that might result in prosecution.

Since Kelley took over the agency, the FBI has been the focus of inquiries into burglaries by bureau agents and allegatio s of financial wrongdoing and other abuses by present and former bureau officials.

Asked about a recent burglary in Denver by an FBI informant, Kelley said such an action by an agent would be improper and therefore it was improper for an informant. Kelley said he didn't know if the agent concerned knew of the burglary plan in advance, but that the agent is no longer handling informants.

Kelley declined comment on the firing of former Assistant Director Nicholas P. Callahan, saying he is the subject of an investigation.

Kelley said that as many as three or four agents may be disciplined as a result of continuing inquiries into alleged FBI abuses.

Stanton site of reunion

STANTON — Descendents of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Hull, long-time residents of Howard County, gathered in the Stanton Recreational Hall here Aug. 1 for their annual reunion.

The family first started reassembling in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hull in 1932, when both were alive. Mr. Hull died in 1945, after having outlived his wife by ten years. Both are buried in the Salem Cemetery.

Four of the 11 children attended Sunday's reunion. They are L. D. Hull, Stamford, and three Big Spring-area residents, Earl Hull, Floyd Hull, and Leona Baugh.

Two others, Clyde Hull of Phoenix, Ari., and Henry Hull, Hobbs, N.M., were unable to be on hand. Five of the children are dead.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hull were present. Five generations of that family were in attendance.

Relatives from Deming, N.M., Monahans, San Angelo, Midland, Stamford, Stanton, Odessa and Big Spring took time out to attend. In all, 94 descendents were on hand.

The S. L. Hulls moved to Howard County in 1906.

In addition to the children present, 17 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren attended.

Brutal slaying in lover's lane

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A murder warrant has been issued for the arrest of a suspect in the brutal slaying of an 18-year-old San Antonio woman, police said today.

The mutilated body of Lorraine R. Guerra was found early Saturday in a lovers' lane area on the city's far north side, police said.

Investigators said the woman's throat was slashed and there were tire imprints on her nude body.

Ridin' fence

Truck driving blues

with Marj Carpenter

"Times have changed for the truck drivers, but a lot of things are still the same," Pat Dangerfield of Yuma, Arizona said here this week.

"We have bigger trucks. We usually have a partner to help drive. We have a place to rest. These things have all changed from the days in which my Dad was a truck driver."

The trucker continued, "Dad said, you used to crank up and drive as far as you could and then drive a little bit longer."

Dangerfield recalled that old-time truck drivers stopped wherever they could find a cheap motel. They ate where they saw other trucks.

Trucks still stop where there are other trucks, because for one thing, all cafe parking lots do not have room for the big rigs.

However, today there are truck stops all along the main routes. Two of these are in Big Spring, including Rip's at the intersection of IS 20 and Highway 87 and the Fina Truck Stop out near Cosden.

A lot of today's truck stops include cafes, sleeping quarters, service and gasoline for the rig, barber shops, and many other services. Big Spring's largest truck stop is no exception.

Every now and then, in spite of the many modern changes for truckers, you will still come up on an accident where a truck driver has apparently gone to sleep.

There was one here last winter when a driver apparently came all the way from Arizona by himself and was trying to get all the way into Dallas. He went to sleep, ran off the road and turned over, scattering oranges everywhere.

There used to be a lot more of those accidents where truckers fell asleep. Nowadays, they stay awake listening to the citizen's band radio or chattering with each other as they head down the turnpike.

Truck drivers at one time earned the title 'knights of the road' because they would help a motorist in trouble.

They still help each other out a great deal and they relay messages to get help to other motorists. They help stranded motorists; but like everyone else, they have to choose the person they help with care. Everybody wandering along the highways and byways nowadays are not knights.

Most truck drivers are courteous drivers on the road. There are some who will race along side by side at identical speeds, blocking both lanes of traffic and some that will put the squeeze on a driver whom they may not approve of for some reason or another.

But thankfully, most truck drivers are the best drivers on the road. They should be. They spend the most time there. They are well-trained and concerned with both safety and efficiency.

There are still some knights of the road, although some motorists occasionally report running across one whose armor has become a little rusty.

Most truckers are close associates and they sort their own bad apples out rather quickly.

Or that's the way it looks to me. I meet a lot of them thar truck drivers rolling down the road — when I'm out ridin' fence.

Minister, his wife and child, six other children killed

Train smashes Sunday school bus

STRATTON, Neb. (AP) — A freight train roared into a dusty crossing, ripping into a bus on its way to Sunday school. Nine persons — seven of them children — died amid glass shards and penny lollipops scattered in the tall grass.

There were 17 persons on the bus, 15 of them children. All were from Stratton. The eight survivors were all injured.

"It was real bad listening to them cry and seeing them laying there," said town marshal Ron Longsine, the only policeman in this farming town of 480 people. "It's something a person never wants to see."

The Rev. Thomas B. Nerren, 44, pastor of the Stratton Church of Christ, was making his regular Sunday morning run with his wife to pick up children. Two stops remained before the bus would have returned to the one-story frame church.

Officials said a warning flasher was operating at the railroad crossing.

But the bus "just kept coming," said train engineer Floyd Wesch, 51, of McCook. "I thought for sure the bus was going to stop. But I don't think the driver ever saw me."

"Probably he (the minister) was talking to his wife ... or she was standing in the doorway and he didn't see it," Longsine said. "I think he just pulled right out across and the train hit him."

"It's just chaos, that's all," said Paul Carlson, conductor on the train. "There were just bodies all over, blankets being carried over, little kids crying. It was just hell, that's all."

The 67-car Burlington Northern freight was rolling at 50 to 60 miles an hour, railroad officials said. The Rev. Mr. Nerren was killed outright. His wife, Shirlene, 31, died on an airplane enroute to a Denver hospital.

One of their two sons, Thomas, 8, was also killed. So were Cindy Jo Minary, 3, and Debra Minary, 7, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Minary; Julianna Scarrow, 4, Steven Lloyd Scarrow, 3, and Jennifer Scarrow, 7, children of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Scarrow; and Holly Schoenberger, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Schoenberger.

The Nerrens' other son William, 3, was hospitalized in Denver. Doctors said he and the other seven injured are expected to live.

In addition to the swinging red flasher, the crossing is protected by a warning sign. Wesch said he blew the train's whistle as the lights flashed and bells rang at the crossing.

Wesch said the bus "was only going about 15 miles an hour.... He could have stopped. Then I thought he was going to go across all right. Another 10 feet and he would have made (it)....

"Then when I saw him head onto the tracks, I gave a hard, long blast and put on the emergency (brake). But there was no way we could stop. When you're going 60 miles an hour, there's not much you can do."

Investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board were due on the scene today.

Widow afraid first date may be last

DEAR ABBY: I'm afraid I blew it. I am a 47-year-old widow with three children, and I'm good-looking but not too smart about men.

I met this beautiful, eligible bachelor and we were attracted to each other instantly. He asked me out, and on the first date, in a weak moment, I went to bed with him.

Now I could kick myself because he promised to call me soon, but it's been three days and I haven't heard from him. He said he had to go out of town on business, so maybe that's where he is.

Should I call him? Do you think he lost respect for me? If he does call again, should I play hard to get? Or do you think he'll expect me to hop into bed with him because I was a pushover on the first date?

How should I handle this? He acted like he really liked me, and he is the kind of man I want to marry.

PUSHOVER

DEAR PUSHOVER: Don't call him. If he calls you, explain that you got "carried away" and now regret it. (It's true.) If you blew it with this man, take your lumps and learn from the experience. A man may want a pushover for a date, but not for a wife.

DEAR ABBY: My fiance said he wanted to present me with "a stone" that had been in his family for a long time, so naturally I was all excited when he handed me a small ring box.

Imagine how I felt when I opened it and found an ugly little gray stone which he laughingly identified as a "gallstone"—one of many that had been surgically removed from his mother!

What do you think about a clown like this?

NOT LAUGHING

DEAR NOT: His mother may have had the gallstones, but he's got the GALL.

DEAR ABBY: I am 10 years old, and I am dying to get my ears pierced, but my mother says I am too young.

Abby, I am NOT too young. All my friends have their ears pierced, and I have heard that some girls have theirs pierced when they are a year old.

I have some money of my own saved up, and I could pay for it myself, but my mother says I can't spend it that way.

Please help me, Abby. I am depending on you.

WANTS PIERCED EARS

DEAR WANTS: Sorry, but 10-year-olds must abide by their mothers' decisions. Meanwhile, be patient, dear, and when you come of age, have yourself an ear-piercing celebration.

Webb AFB summer program to end

The Webb Air Force Base Youth Center's summer program will end this week with a host of activities planned for Thursday and Friday, Aug. 12 and 13.

An Open House will highlight Thursday's activities. Starting at 10 a.m. and continuing through 4 p.m., the Open House will feature all the various arts and crafts, macrame, ceramics and sewing creatings made during the program.

On Aug. 13 the Open House continues with the same displays, again from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. In addition, all classes will participate in a recital at the John H. Lees recreation center at 7 p.m. Included in the evenings performance will be modern tap and ballet dancing, cheerleading, twirling, and a special presentation of "Cast Up By The Sea," a one act melodrama.

An awards recognition barbecue will be held at the recreation center on Aug. 14. The Youth Center will provide hamburgers and hot dogs. Families are asked to bring a dessert or salad.

During the Open House, registration will be taken for the fall program. Scheduled activities include bowling, arts and crafts, macrame and ceramics. One of the objectives of the fall program will be to provide the youngsters an opportunity to make suitable Christmas gifts for moms, dads, etc.

Politics no longer 'backroom talk'

DALLAS (AP) — Stating that politics is no longer "backroom talk for men," the chairperson of the Texas Women's Political Caucus says women are a greater political force in the state than ever before.

Martha Smiley, addressing the group's convention here Saturday, said her group's efforts in the future will be directed toward "refining, redefining, planning lobbying efforts and new strategies" to promote support of favored issues in the State Legislature.

Among the issues the women's caucus wants to promote are passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, establishment of state-funded child care centers, additional funding of public school education and establishment of equal insurance rates for women.

State Rep. Sarah Weddington, D-Austin, said the group must "lobby with vengeance and dedication." She added that women must not alienate male legislators. "We must make it known we don't like this position on a particular bill, but we shouldn't say 'we don't like you' because we may need his help on another bill," Ms. Weddington said.

State Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, said women must also recognize the power of the governor, lieutenant governor and Speaker of the House in lobbying efforts. "Their power must be appreciated," she said. "We must make them aware of our position on issues. Legislators will vote the way the speaker or governor votes to maintain their position in the 'in crowd,'" she said.

Caucus members reaffirmed their commitment to increase the number of women in the legislature through fund raising, recruitment of candidates and insuring the integrity of the ballot box.

George Foster MVP, Joe Morgan says

By The Associated Press

Joe Morgan knows a Most Vauable Player when he sees one, and he sees one in Cincinnati teammate George Foster.

"George is the catalyst," says last year's National League MVP. "The man is making everything happen. He's definitely the Most Valuable Player in the league — you can take it from me. He's doing it every day."

Exactly what Foster has been doing for the Reds is driving in runs and guiding them to a formidable lead in the National League West. Foster once more delivered a game-winning RBI as the Reds whipped Los Angeles 3-2 Sunday and improved their position to a comfortable 13 games over the Dodgers.

The Dodgers still had a fighting chance before being run over by the Big Red Machine four straight times at home over the weekend. Foster was in the driver's seat for Cincinnati, knocking in six runs in the series to boost his major league RBI lead to 98.

While Cincinnati was making hay in the West, the Philadelphia Phillies were doing the same in the National League East. The Phillies beat the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 and, coupled with Pittsburgh's 7-4 loss to New York, improved their first-place margin to 14 games.

Jack Billingham, 9-8, restricted the Dodgers to five hits, two of them home runs by Dusty Baker and Ron Cey, before getting relief help from Rawley Eastwick in the ninth. Billingham also doubled home a run in the fifth when the Reds scored twice off loser Burt Hooton, 7-12.

An inning later, Joe Morgan doubled and Foster singled him home for the eventual winning run.

Phillies 3, Cardinals 2

Pinch hitter Jerry Martin delivered a one-out sacrifice fly in the ninth inning, lifting Philadelphia over St. Louis. Martin's drive off Cardinal reliever Al Hrabosky came after Greg Luzinski singled and Jay Johnstone hammered a ground-rule double off St. Louis right-hander Bill Greif, 2-7.

Mets 7, Pirates 4

Leo Foster drove in three runs with a single and double and Mickey Lolich scattered eight hits as New York defeated Pittsburgh. Lolich survived several tough innings to improve his record to 7-10. Jim Rooker, 9-6, was the loser.

Padres 4, Astros 3

Hector Torres' two-out, bases-loaded single in the ninth inning sparked San Diego over Houston. Torres' single to right enabled rookie reliever Butch Metzger to improve his record to 10-0, while J.R. Richard absorbed the loss and fell to 13-12.

Cubs 7, Expos 1

Bill Madlock's two-run double and steve Swisher's two-run homer backed the five-hit pitching of Steve Renko as Chicago stopped Montreal. For Renko, traded to the Cubs by Montreal earlier this season, it was his fifth victory against six defeats.

Braves 2-1, Giants 1-4

Jerry Royster lined a run-scoring single with the bases loaded and one out in the ninth inning to give Atlanta its firstgame victory over San Francisco. Ken Reitz drove in three runs with two singles and John Montefusco recorded his 12th victory as the Giants won the second game.

NORMAN ROBERTS

Roberts new fem mentor

Norman Roberts has been hired as head girls coach for Forsan High School. Roberts has coached for 17 years, beginning at Wilson in 1959. During the 17 years, the girls' teams Roberts has coached or assisted have won 15 district championships.

Roberts attended Angelo Junior College and East Texas State where he was All-American all four year. He has coached several district football champions.

Roberts and his wife Hattie have three children; Sherri, married and living in Eldorado, Gary, 1976 graduate of Coahoma High, planning to attend Howard College this fall; and Terry, a junior at Coahoma this year. Mrs. Roberts is a teacher's aide in the Coahoma school district.

In addition to the high school girls sports, Roberts will assist with football and teach social studies.

Roberts coached at Wilson, Knox City, Rocksprings, Frenship, Eldorado, and Coahoma. His experience in schools of varying sizes in football and girls' basketball will make him a real asset to the athletic program at Forsan, according to Supt. J. F. Poynor.

In short, White Sox prevail

By The Associated Press

The Chicago White Sox have found a short-cut to success.

Bill Veeck unveiled his team's heralded short pants uniforms Sunday, and the White Sox walked away with a 5-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals in the first game of their doubleheader.

"I like them, they're very comfortable," said Chicago second baseman Jack Brohamer, whose two-run single in the sixth inning was the big hit of the White Sox attack. "Everybody seems to like them."

Especially the opposition.

"You guys are the sweetest team we've seen yet," crowed Kansas City first baseman John Mayberry. He then warned White Sox outfielder Ralph Garr, "You get over to first base and I'm going to give you a big kiss."

The White Sox abandoned their navy blue short pants between games of the doubleheader, going back to their regular uniforms for the second game. The change of dress may not have been a good idea, since Chicago came out of the nightcap on the short end of a 7-1 score.

Why did they switch?

"The shorts were great, especially for warm weather," said Manager Paul Richards. "But I decided to switch for the second game because it was getting chilly out there."

Orioles 8, Yankees 5

Baltimore beat New York for the sixth time in a row and drew within nine games of the first-place Yankees in the AL East as Reggie Jackson belted a two-run homer and Tony Muser and Lee May cracked tworun singles.

Jackson tagged Catfish Hunter, 12-12, for his 19th home run of the season in the first inning and the Yankees never caught up. It was New York's 10th loss in the last 14 games.

Tigers 2-15, Indians 1-5

Bill Freehan belted a pair of two-run double to key a pair of seven-run innings as Detroit routed Cleveland in the nightcap after squeaking by in the opener on a ninth inning throwing error by Indians relief pitcher Dave LaRoche. Ron LeFlore romped home from second with the winning run when LaRoche threw away Dan Meyer's bunt.

A's 9-13, Angels 3-8

Oakland collected 27 hits in the doubleheader sweep over California.

Sal Bando had three hits, Billy Williams belted a home run and two doubles and Bert Campaneris scored two runs, drove in two and stole two bases in the opener, while Bando, Joe Rudi, Phil Garner and Gene Tenace hit home runs in the nightcap.

Rangers 5, Twins 4

Jeff Burroughs' run-scoring single in the ninth inning lifted the Rangers past Minnesota. Jim Sundberg drove in three runs with a pair of singles for Texas in a night game played in near-100 degree temperatures at Arlington, Tex.

5-4A committee to meet here

The executive committee of District 5-AAAA will convene here at 10 a.m., Wednesday to discuss routine matters relating to the upcoming school year.

Among other things, the committee will review plans for the annual spring meet. Dr. Emmett McKenzie, Big Spring superintendent, will preside.

Keller, Adams, Musso may win spurs in NFL

By The Associated Press

They are bittersweet memories: the Chicago Fire, the Birmingham Vulcans, the Southern California Sun and the rest — the World Football League teams which couldn't withstand empty stadiums and emptier bankbooks.

Most of the players are trivia questions now, but some survived and made interesting contributions to this weekend's National Football League preseason activity.

There was Mark Kellar, a Fire refugee whose one-yard scoring run produced Minnesota's only touchdown in a 13-10 triumph over the Kansas City Chiefs.

There was Tony Adams, the WFL's leading passer in 1974 for the Sun, who directed the Chiefs' only touchdown drive and set up a Jan Stenerud field goal at the close of the first half.

There was Johnny Musso, the former Vulcan who carried 23 times for 81 yards and caught six passes for 95 more for Chicago in leading the Bears' 27-16 triumph over the expansion Seattle Seahawks Saturday night. He caught a 22-yard pass from Bob Avellini, the former Fire signal caller, for the Bears' first score of the contest.

In other NFL weekend exhibitions Saturday, the Los Angeles Rams roughed the Dallas Cowboys 26-14; the Cleveland Browns blasted the Atlanta Falcons 31-7; the Cincinnati Bengals bombed the Buffalo Bills 31-10; the Green Bay Packers trimmed the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 10-6; the New Orleans Saints topped the Houston Oilers 13-10, and the Oakland Raiders bested the St. Louis Cardinals 20-9.

The Baltimore Colts beat the Washington Redskins 20-9 in the rain and the San Diego Chargers dropped the New England Patriots 26-17 in Friday night encounters. The New York Jets host the New York Giants and the Pittsburgh Steelers visit the Philadelphia Eagles in Monday night games.

Kellar once set a WFL record by scoring 36 points in a game against Hawaii: three touchdowns rushing, two on pass receptions and one "action point." You remember the action point, right?

Saturday night, Kellar and the Vikings settled for the one touchdown — but it's a point for the "rookie" who is trying to make the club.

Though he dropped a pass on one play, Kellar's chances of making the team weren't hurt any by 13 carries for 46 yards and the touchdown.

Three Garo Yepremian field goals and a second-quarter 43-yard scoring pass from Don Strock to Freddie Solomon helped the Dolphins overcome a 97-yard touchdown runback by Detroit rookie James Hunter on the opening kickoff and raise their preseason record to 2-0. The Lions, 1-1, came within 24-21 before Yepremian put the game away with 42-and 24-yard placements in the fourth quarter.

Wilbur Jackson and Bob Ferrell bulled for short-yardage touchdowns to lead San Francisco, 2-0, past Denver, 0-2. The Broncos were held scoreless until Craig Penrose — throwing his first professional pass — hit Bill Van Heusen on a 22-yard scoring play with 4:42 left.

NORTON READIES FOR ALI — Ken Norton gets ready to go a few rounds against a sparring partner at his training camp in Gilman Hot Springs, about 75 miles east of Los Angeles. The challenger is 31 years old today. He faces Muhammad Ali in New York Sept. 28.

Trevino makes run at crown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two weeks ago, Lee Trevino wasn't sure he'd play in the PGA national championship. He wasn't sure he'd ever play competitive golf again. There were indications that his flamboyant, rags-to-riches saga had reached an end.

"I didn't know what was wrong," he said. "But I can tell you this — I was scared. I was really scared. You know how it is. You get to thinking about it and all sorts of things go through your head.

"I hadn't ruled out bone cancer. I was pretty sure I had some kind of permanent damage."

But that's behind him now. The flashy fast-talker is healthy and his old humorous self for the last of the year's four major tests that gets underway Thursday at the famed Congressional Country Club.

It's only Trevino's second appearance in a major event this year. He had to skip both the United States and British Opens — perhaps his two favorite tournaments — due to the back ailment that threatened his career.

He missed eight weeks of competition. "My wife told me she didn't know what to do with me hanging around the house all the time," he said. "That's the longest I've ever gone without playing golf."

The back ailment first was diagnosed as a pulled ligament, Trevino said. "But it kept hanging on too long for that. I was really worried, really scared. I kept going to doctors. I saw doctors in El Paso and Dallas. I saw all kinds of doctors, witch doctors and voodoo doctors....

"Finally, a couple of weeks ago, my banker told me about this osteopath up in Denver. I went to see him. I was ready to try anything.

"He examined me and gave me a treatment and told me to go back to the hotel and come back again the next day. I went back, he gave me another treatment and we went out to lunch. He told me I could start hitting balls the next day. I couldn't believe it. I went home and the next day I was hitting balls and the pain is gone. Just like that.

Big Ten, NCAA probe Bucks

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Both the Big Ten Conference and the National Collegiate Athletic Association will investigate allegations of illegal football recruiting by Ohio State, athletic officials said today.

Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke said the conference "has an obligation to conduct an inquiry into any allegation of violations."

"I have advised Ohio State of my intention to do so, and likewise I know that Ohio State plans to do so as well. It already has set into motion the machinery to look into the matter," Duke said.

Wynn a winner in BC tourney

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Wynn offset Bob Gilder's birdie on the 17th hole with a pair of birdies on the last two greens today and won the rain-delayed B.C. Open golf tournament by one stroke with a 13-under-par 271.

Both players fired 69s in the fourth round, halted Sunday because of a late afternoon downpour and resumed this morning.

For Wynn, this was his first major victory and it qualified him for the PGA beginning Thursday. He was uncertain whether he would compete.

Terry Diehl, George Knudson, Jerry McGee and Ed Sneed tied for third, all with 274s.

Wynn knocked in a 20-foot birdie putt on the par-three 17th while Gilder needed only a twofooter.

At the 18th, Wynn drove to the left rough — where he had been in each of the previous three rounds — while Gilder landed in the left rough behind a string of trees.

Wynn made it to the green, then rolled a 30-foot putt to within 12 inches of the cup and tapped it in for the first prize of $40,000.

Gilder, a rookie who won the Phoenix Open earlier this year, played to the rough left of the green, chipped six feet short of the cup and then ringed the hole as he attempted to tie Wynn.

Collins named

Tommy Collins, an assistant coach at Northeast Louisiana College, has been named head baseball coach at Big Spring High School, Athletic Director Don Robbins announced this morning.

Collins is the brother of Dave Collins, who is with the California Angels. A younger brother is now playing baseball in college.

Collins has been coaching baseball for six years. In addition to his baseball duties, he will coach the offensive backfield in football.

He and Mrs. Collins have two daughters. He formerly coached in Arizona and Florida and is a native of Rapid City, S. Dakota.

Also added to the coaching staff here was Eddie Shell, a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin, who will be an assistant at Runnels Junior High. He will also teach Social Studies.

He and Mrs. Shell are parents of a son. Shell will be starting his coaching career here.

Golf tourneys open Sept. 4

The annual club golf championships will be determined at the Big Spring Country Club Sept. 4-5-6.

The women will play at 9 a.m., Sept. 4 and again at the same hour Monday, Sept. 6.

The men will confine their play to the afternoons all three days, with the finals scheduled to start at 2 p.m., Monday, Sept. 6.

Buck Drake will direct men's play while Helen Terry will supervise the women's tournament.

Tournaments are also scheduled in men's and women's gin, men's dominoes and women's bridge.

U.S. fems, homesick, take lumps

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — America's best available track and field team had to be wondering today just what is important: winning dual track meets against the Soviet Union or preserving a way of life.

The Soviet squad, counting heavily on its overwhelming dominance in the women's events, belted the U.S. squad 211-157 Friday and Saturday. The Russians now have beaten the Americans 11 times against two defeats and a tie.

It was obvious, however, that the Soviets took the meet more seriously and U.S. coach Bill Thomson said the loss by the women — by an embarrassing 104-42 score — was due to the women's homesickness.

"Our kids wanted to go back home," said Thomson. "Many have been away since the national championships in May and the Olympic trials in June. The Soviets train in a professional manner and we do things helter skelter."

The result was that 12 or more of America's best female athletes, including Olympic javelin bronze medalist Kate Schmidt and sprinter Chandra Cheeseborough, failed to show up here.

Title play is looming

The championship of the Church Slow-Pitch Softball League likely will be determined in an 8 p.m game Thursday, when the First Presbyterian team squares off with the 14th and Main Street Church of Christ.

Both teams are undefeated, having won their first four starts this year.

The Presbyterians tangle with Evangel Temple (2-3) in the 7 p.m., opener Tuesday night while the Church of Christ club squares off with College Baptist (0-4) in the 10 o'clock contest tomorrow evening.

Play winds up in the seven-team league Friday evening, with College Baptist opposing First Presbyterian at 8 p.m., and Church of Christ tangling Evangel Temple an hour later.

Playing a round with the pros

Bobby Howell
P.G.A. Professional
Comanche Trail Municipal Golf Course

Par four, 375-yard, number three is a difficult hole because there is a rise about 110 yards in front of the green which means most golfers will have a blind-shot to the green after their drive.

The third and fourth holes alternate as to which is toughest, depending on the prevailing wind. When the wind is with you on number three it makes it an easier hole to play, but it makes number four more difficult and vice versa.

With the wind on number three a good drive can get you past the rise, leaving you a wedge-shot to the green.

Against the wind most drives won't make it past the rise. Therefore, you not only need a four or five-iron to reach the green, but you're also left with a blind-shot.

TOP VIEW

HORIZONTAL VIEW

HOLE 3
375-YARDS FOR MEN
355-YARDS FOR WOMEN

This green, like most of the others on the course, is not build up, making it difficult to get your approach shots to hold. It is especially difficult when the wind is behind you. So that same wind that helps your drive can hurt your approach shot.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, AUGUST 31, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Daytime is excellent for you to look into ways to improve your surroundings . Also a time when updating your wardrobe and improving appearance would be beneficial.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to April 19) Good day to cultivate new acquaintances and to become interested in the novel and untried. Planning a trip you want to take soon is also wise. Study details and costs carefully.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Study your duties well and know how to handle them more efficiently so you have more free time. Take time to study ideas of associates.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be frank with associates about something that has been bothering you and get it cleared up. Any civic work you have to do must meet with the approval of bigwigs. Think.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get right at all that work you have to do and stop making excuses. Plan time to improve health. Forget wrong thinking, acting.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A change of plans comes up that gives you a chance to take in some form of recreation that you really enjoy. Being with loved one brings more happiness now. Show more devotion to this person.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Think about ways to have more contentment in your home and get wheels in motion early. Forget all that wishful thinking and do something constructive about plans, problems.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study how to produce more in your daily work and have more benefits. Cooperate more with partners. Talk to that expert you know who can be of help to you. Relax tonight and get needed rest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get the data you need so that you can improve your monetary position appreciably. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets and be safe.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have new plans that require the assistance of new associates or a new approach to them. Accept an invitation to a social affair that could prove to be beneficial to your career.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use more direct methods in the handling of any obligations you have and you get better results. An adviser will tell you confidentially what is best to do in some important matter.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can be your gregarious self today and get the right results. If you apply yourself more, you can gain those personal aims that mean so much to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be precise in the handling of any outside affairs, whether in business, with the public, etc. Make the collections that you can and pay outstanding bills.

Hunt for bodies waged, tourist industry hurt

DENVER (AP) — Big Thompson Canyon is still littered with debris from the flash flood nine days ago, but tourism officials say that should not prevent a Colorado Rockies vacation—or ruin their profitable industry.

Private organizations and the state and federal governments are busy spreading the word that the flood, which killed an estimated 100 residents and tourists and caused $50 million damage, did not extend beyond the canyon.

"The dollar loss in the disaster area is tremendous, but if people continue to stay away...the loss in revenue to the area could very well match that of losses in the flood area," said Corky Rogers of the Estes Park Area Chamber of Commerce. Estes Park is the eastern gateway to Rocky Mountain National Park, one of the biggest attractions in the state's $710 million tourist industry.

Meanwhile, the search for bodies continued. Two bodies were brought to the makeshift morgue Sunday, bringing the number recovered to 86. Other bodies have been seen, but not recovered.

Armed deputies carrying sidearms are patrolling the 30-mile canyon to discourage looters. Seven persons have been arrested on suspicion of looting since the July 31 flood and authorities are maintaining roadblocks at both ends of the canyon to restrict access to residents and members of cleanup crews.

Less than a week after the flood struck, the state travel office sent reassuring news releases to 700 newspapers and installed a telephone line that repeated, "All highways, accommodations and facilities in Colorado are open."

Gov. Richard Lamm, who was requesting that Larimer County be declared a disaster area a few days earlier, also said Colorado vacations need not be put off.

The U.S. Park Service made sure tourists planning a trip to Rocky Mountain National Park knew the popular area was unmarred.

And the chambers of commerce in Loveland and Estes Park launched nationwide publicity campaigns.

"I don't think it's helped us any," Chancellor said of the flood. "But we survived the flood in '65 (in Denver). We survived the gasoline shortage and we'll survive this."

Tomball tornado

By The Associated Press

Scorching heat—this season's worst—kept Texas on the griddle today.

Thermometers soared Sunday to 107 degrees at Mineral Wells and Wichita Falls, and it wasn't much cooler at many other points.

The day was capped by vicious thunderstorms which sent a tornado spinning across the sky near Tomball, in the Houston area, but the moisture brought little cooling.

During the night the only rainfall occurred near the southwest tip of the state. By this morning skies were generally clear except for isolated patches of clouds.

Top temperatures at other points included Waco 105, Dallas 103, Fort Worth 102, Presidio 101 and Alice, Austin, Cotulla and Houston 100. The coolest spots reporting were Texarkana in the northeast corner of the state 84 and Marfa in the West Texas mountains 85.

Readings near dawn today ranged from 80 at Galveston on the coast down to 65 at Texarkana.

Sunny and hot weather again was promised all sections. Forecasters looked for widely scattered showers in extreme West Texas and isolated thundershowers in East Texas by evening.

New officers are installed

On Thursday evening, Voiture 1529 the elite of the American Legion installed their officers for the year 1977.

Post Grand Chef De Gare A. F. Aaron of Voiture 1096 Midland was the installing officer and he installed the following local Voyagurs to their elected offices including:

Chef De Gare — Troy Melton, Chef De Train — Ernest Grubaugh, Correspondant — Ron Spalding, Commissaire Intendant — George Zachariah, Garde La Porte — Monroe Koenning.

Aumonier — L. W. Lincoln 217, Lampiste — Tommy Mills, Commis Voyageur — Neil Belate, Cheminot Locaux — Louis Casillas, Louis Brown & Carl Knappe, Medicin — Dr. Houston Zinn, Historien — R. S. Gonzales.

After installation ceremonies the respective officers assumed their respective offices and Chef De Gare Melton made his committee appointments for the upcoming year. Chef De Gare Melton also reminded all Voyagures that their dues for 1977 were due and in order for the Voiture to continue to grow and prosper they should pay early. The next meeting of Voiture 1529 will be Sept. 2 at 7 p.m. and all members are urged to attend.

Coal mines stay closed

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Appalachian coal mines remained closed today despite a prediction by United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller that miners would end their wildcat strike and return to work.

Miller said Sunday he thought some of the nearly 100,000 miners on strike would begin returning to their jobs on the early shifts today.

There were indications of a slight back-to-work movement in Illinois, but elsewhere operations in the soft coal region remained at a standstill.

All mines in West Virginia were shut down today, as were many in Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Kentucky. Miners in West Virginia did not return although few pickets were reported.

Forsan school board is honored in Region 8

During the annual joint meeting of the West Texas Education Center Board and the superintendents and board members of the independent school districts of Region 18, the Forsan Board of Trustees was recognized and awarded a plaque as the honor board of Region 18.

The Texas Association of School Administrators sponsors the selection of Honor Boards throughout Texas, "To recognize and focus attention upon the dedicated and ethical service rendered by school boards to the boys and girls of Texas."

Hamlin Elrod, president of the board at Forsan, accepted the plaque. Other members in attendance at the meeting were Oliver Bud Nichols, vice-president; Robert Roberson, secretary; Tom Evans and Leonard Posey. Members not in attendance were Elbert Strickland and Bill Mims.

As winners of the Honor Board Nomination for Region 18, the nomination will be forwarded to state competition with winners from the other 19 regions. From these 20, three winning boards and the Outstanding Board will be recognized at the state convention of the Texas Association of School Boards and Texas Association of School Administrators to be held in San Antonio September 25-27.

As part of the nomination, the superintendent must nominate and answer ten different items of criteria. Also included in the nominations are letters from news media, school employes, community leaders, etc.

Marj Carpenter, of the Big Spring Herald, in a recommendig letter, stated, "Their school district is the envy of the area, due to the type of programs approved for their school by a harmonious and progressive board of trustees."

R. N. McKenzie, tax agent for Continental Oil Company, stated, As the largest single taxpayer in the Forsan Independent School District, we have had occasion to be closely associated with the Board of Trustees, as we have with many other schools in the State of Texas. In our opinion, we have found that the Forsan Board of Trustees is the finest we have encountered."

From a first grade teacher, Miss Mary Pratt, came the following statement, "Their ability to work together in an affable manner, to discuss problems with open minds, and to cooperate in every way makes this group unusual and admirable."

BUFFALO RACE FEATURE ATTRACTION — Top attraction at the AJRA National Finals in Snyder each night this week. Four buffaloes will be turned out of chute at once and first one crossing line wins the race. Winners of the first four nights will all compete for the championship Saturday night. Each Buffalo is sponsored by Snyder Merchants. Pictured is Mickey Nunley, vice-president of RS&P Railway, who so cheerfully volunteered to be a contestant in the buffalo race. Mickey was not actually informed at the time he had to ride the buffalo. He thought this was a foot race and there was no doubt in his mind but what he would win.

Eight homicides recorded in state

By The Associated Press

Blistering heat apparently kept long-range driving to a minimum over the weekend, but traffic still accounted for the largest number of violent deaths.

The unusually small toll reached 14 fatalities between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday. That figure included eight homicides, five traffic victims and one fire death.

The count ended at midnight Sunday.

The dead included:

Francisco Vasquez, age unknown, who was stabbed to death at a Houston lounge Sunday morning.

Lawrence Tierner, 18, a Ft. Hood soldier, who died in a one-car accident Sunday in Bell County. That crash left four others hurt, one critically.

Officials said Mary Erwin, 81, died early Sunday morning when a fire roared through her Lancaster residence.

Police said Larry Jackson, 18, was stabbed to death in a Dallas apartment when he attempted to prevent the beating of a woman in the apartment.

The Department of Public Safety said Virginia Dorothy Link, 55, of Palmdale, Calif., was killed Saturday night in a traffic accident four miles east of Sonora in West Texas on Interstate 10. The DPS said two other persons were injured in the wreck caused by another car that swerved in the path of the Link vehicle.

Port Arthur police detective Lewis Steve Hall, 27, was wounded fatally by gunfire late Friday while investigating a marijuana case, police said. Hall, a five-year veteran of the force, died at a local hospital of a .38-caliber bullet wound in the chest.

Police arrested a man and a woman in connection with the shooting.

Two men were killed and another critically injured in a headon collision between a truck and a car Friday night north of Spearman in the Texas Panhandle, authorities said.

The dead men were identified as Marcus Conley, 28, and Dave Deer, 18, both of Spearman.

Two Houston residents were killed in separate shooting incidents Friday night in Houston. Police said Mark Battles, 37, was shoap,nb),g a scuffla during a party.

Officers said Edna Clementine Fields was shot by a member of a large group of persons in a road near Houston, who also kicked the car the woman was riding in and beat up two men in the car. No suspects have been found in connection with the shooting.

Leon Harmon, 28, of Beaumont was shot and killed during a family disturbance Friday night in Beaumont, police said.

Bell County authorities said William Russell Rosanky, 21, died in a one-car accident Friday night near Holland in Central Texas.

A shooting on a cafeteria parking lot Sunday in McAllen killed Octavio Alfredo Girado, 33, and left Oscar Paze Osuna critically wounded. Police held one man, 31, without immediate charge and sought another. William E. Shannon, 23, was shot and killed in an argument at his Arlington home before dawn Sunday. Police arrested a 14-year-old boy.

Notice required

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission must post notice of hearings at which it issues rulings interpreting commission rules, Atty. Gen. John Hill said today.

Commission chairman Ben Ramsey requested Hill's opinion.

The commission has the power to adopt a tariff rule permitting computation of mileage on longer routes when the shortest route is "not practicable."

Where the shortest route has a bridge that cannot safely support more than 21,000 pounds, the commission said, that qualifies as "not practicable."

Hill said the ruling containing that interpretation must be issued at a meeting for which notice has been posted.

1,000 defy sniper fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanese security sources today reported "frightful and ferocious" fighting all night along the southern part of the no man's land between Beirut's Christian and Moslem halves.

An estimated 3,000 Moslems and Christians were reported trading rocket and artillery fire. Some close-range combat also was reported.

The sources said at least 65 persons were killed and nearly 140 wounded in the clashes. They estimated total casualties during the night on all fronts at 138 killed and 176 wounded.

More than 1,000 Lebanese Moslems braved sniper fire to escape from the besieged Tal Zaatar refugee camp Sunday amid reports that Christian forces were preparing a knockout blow to end their sevenweek siege of the Palestinian holdouts.

About 400 families slipped out of the camp in small groups to the neighboring Dekwaneh Christian district, Christian sources said. They said the Palestinian guerrillas defending the camp tried to prevent the flight "but the escape continued unabated."

The Christians charged that the Palestinians "have been using Lebanese families inside the camp as human shields."

Since the Christian capture Friday of the Nabaa Moslem slum quarter, Tal Zaatar is the last enclave held by the Palestinians and leftist Lebanese Moslems in eastern Beirut.

A Red Cross convoy evacuating wounded from the camp was mobbed Friday by hundreds of panicky residents who tried to take over the ambulances and trucks.

Security forces reported "limited fighting" in Beirut and nearby mountain towns Sunday, with 58 persons killed and 79 wounded. There were street skirmishes in Beirut's commercial district and at main crossing points between the Moslem and Christian sectors of the city.

Pierre Gemayel, the leader of the Christian Phalange party, met with Saeb Salam, leader of a moderate Moslem faction, to discuss another peace effort. The Phalange radio said there would be more Moslem-Christian meetings.

However, Gemayel indicated he woul not talk with the Palestinians.

The last cease-fire broke down on Friday.
