THE JUNCTION EAGLE

Volume XXXIX.

Junction, Kimble County, Texas, Friday, October 6, 1922.

Number 24.

WILLIAM G. McADOO IN TUG OF WAR

William G. McAdoo, captain of one of the tug of war teams at the Annual Indian Field Day celebration, held in Yosemite National Park, California. The tugging was lively at all times, but more especially after two Indians, near each other on the opposing sides, extended the argument to include their feet. A few seconds after this picture was taken the rope broke and the former Secretary went down, head over heels, only to come up smiling as he did in the troublesome days of the war.

Livestock Sales.

Jas. Prentice recently sold 29 head of registered nannies to Messrs. Holekamp and McBride, who ranch near Mountain Home. Seaton Prentice delivered the goats Saturday.

A. H. Bannowsky bought 21 head of mixed young cows from Jake Fritz of London, for $15 a head. They were driven to the Bannowsky ranch on Bear Creek Saturday.

Visitors From North Texas Catch Many Fine Fish.

Messrs. L. E. Fisher, sheet metal contractor, and J. M. Collins, confectioner, both of Vernon, Texas, left Sunday after spending about ten days fishing on South Llano at the W. M. McDonald ranch near the 700 Springs. This was the initial trip of these gentlemen, and they were more than well pleased with the country and their excellent luck at catching fish.

They caught many more fish than they could use and supplied several other campers along the river as well as some of the people living near where they camped.

Before they left, they requested that we send them some advertising circulars for distribution in their town, and assured us that next summer, many fishermen from that part of the State would come here.

Man Falls in Well Last Week.

Ernest Tumblinson, who had the sad misfortune of losing both eyes during the past year, and who lives in the north end of town, got up during the night last Wednesday, unknown to members of his family and wandered away from home. When he was missed, a search was made for him and he was found in a well near his home. Wandering around, unable to see, he had fallen into the well, but sustained only minor injuries.

Those who helped to get him out stated that they experienced some difficulty in doing so, as he refused to come out willingly.

JUNCTION EAGLE PROVEN ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

Patronage Accorded This Paper Is Sufficient Evidence of Its Superior Quality.

It is a source of much satisfaction to the Management to note the excellent advertising patronage that this paper is enjoying. It is doubtful if any paper published anywhere, in a town of this size, is as well patronized by both home and foreign advertising as is The Eagle. In the advertising parlance of C. W. Post, "There's a Reason." There are always in every community, those who feel that advertising is a sort of donation. Those people are usually at the bottom of the ladder. On the other hand, there are always a goodly number of well-savvy, progressive business men and individuals that know the value of advertising and use it to advantage to themselves and to the people who regularly read their ads. It is only a matter of observation to see whether it is the progressive or the nonprogressive, in any town or community, that advertises. We have no fault to find and no fight to make with any one who does not advertise. That's their business. Our business is to furnish the best advertising medium possible for those who do advertise, and the present excellent showing of advertising patronage in this paper, is evidence that we are doing just that.

The advertisers in this paper are of the most reliable in their line. It is the policy of this paper to refuse advertising of a questionable nature, and to refuse advertising from firms or individuals not known to us to be trustworthy. Thus our readers are assured of a square deal from our advertisers.

By placing the Eagle subscriptions on a cash basis, we give to our advertisers only the better class of readers, and give them the best possible return for their advertising. No advertiser cares to spend money on advertising that does not get into the hands of bona fide readers. Thus we furnish our readers and our advertisers a mutual service rarely found in the country newspaper.

In addition to the foreign advertising now running, and that of our regular advertisers, we wish to call attention to several new advertisers:

W. M. Allen recently re-entered the grocery business and has a sign-space that he will use regularly to tell the people about the things he has to sell in the grocery and feed line as well as of the things he wishes to buy from the farmers and ranchmen of the county.

Dan St. Clair has a coal advertising, his Truck Service, and those having any kind of hauling to do will find that he can do the work with one or more of his big trucks to your entire satisfaction.

Joe H. Ramsey, too well known as a carpenter and contractor, to need any recommendation, has his card before the people that read this paper, and is ready to furnish with you on any kind of a job you may want.

Larry O'Neill of Menard, with the "Don't Know How" is calling your attention to the fact that his fifteen years' experience and excellent equipment enable him to turn out a superior class of work. Those who have been over the road to Menard know what an advertiser Larry O'Neill is, and those who have had occasion to examine his work know of the quality. Mr. O'Neill is not only one of our advertisers, but one of our advertisers as well, and our readers will have most satisfactory dealings with him.

Phillip Lohringer, for several years past, has been employed by Patterson and Bundy at Roosevelt, to look after a string of wind mills for that large ranch. He is now in the wind mill and pump-fitting business, and by reason of his long experience and equipment, is well prepared to handle all your wind mill trouble cases. His ad. is in this paper and he can be reached by telephone through Roosevelt.

This week an advertisement of the Gunter Hotel at San Antonio appears, and is constructed to run three months or more. With the improved roads between here and the Alamo City, more and more people will go to that city regularly and when there will be looking for first class accommodations, such as the Gunter is noted, all over the United States, for giving its guests. When you go to San Antonio and get accommodations at the Gunter, kindly remember to tell them you saw their ad. in your home paper. It will help us and will insure you special courtesy while there.

Geo. E. Runk of Boston, with headquarters at San Angelo, has a card in this paper, soliciting your wool and mohair. Mr. Runk has been through here several times, and is especially interested in the wool and mohair produced in this county, recently stating to an Eagle reporter that the quality produced here was among the best produced in the country.

W. E. Nance has his card before you to solicit your taxidermy work. He has been doing this kind of work for a number of years, and the numerous specimens that he has found in Junction, are proofs of his skill in this line.

In this issue will be found the advertisement of the Junction Tire Shop, of which J. M. Stafford is proprietor. Mr. and Mrs. Stafford have traveled extensively since the war for his health, as he was wounded a number of times, as well as having during his service with the First Division Overseas, before going into the tire business for himself, he was with the Miller Tire Co. for six years.

MINERS WHO WERE ENTOMBED IN ARGONAUT MINE

First and exclusive photograph of the miners who were entombed in the Argonaut mine, at Jackson, California, when they were trapped in the drifts and tunnels on the 4,600-foot level by a fire they were furnishing as atmosphere for a motion picture company. Now the only known pictures of the trapped miners, one of which is shown here, were enlarged from little strips of motion picture film.

E. Hays, vice director of commodity organization of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation announced Tuesday.

"The pecan growers realize this valuable commodity must be merchandized in an orderly manner and in such a way that may receive returns commensurate with the value of this important crop," Mr. Hays said.

"It is the hope of the organization committee of the Pecan Growers' Exchange, that these conferences will be well attended in order that plans may be adopted that will be satisfactory to the pecan producers."

Members of the organization committee are H. G. Lucas, of Brownwood; N. A. Palmer, of Comanche; J. H. Burkett, of Clyde; O. P. Griffin, of Brownwood; John P. Lee, of San Angelo; W. F. Moore, of Bend, and Oscar Gray of Waxahachie.

Phillip Joseph Opens Dry Goods Store at London.

Our local dry goods merchant Phillip Joseph, who carries one of the largest and best assorted stocks of dry goods, clothing and ready-to-wear in this part of the State, has made arrangements to open a dry goods store at London. He will be ready for business Saturday, October 7th. The Eagle printed 1,500 large page circulars this week that will be distributed over that end of the county, announcing the opening of the largest stock of goods ever offered to the people trading at London.

The Adams Hall has been leased by Mr. Joseph for this new project.

London Ladies, Notice!

JUNCTION NOW HAS FINE RADIO PLANT.

One of the Best Receiving Sets In This Part of the State Installed This Week.

Numerous local radio fans have been working on receiving sets with more or less satisfactory results, but it remained for the Junction Amusement Co. to provide the people here with one of the latest and most up to date radio sets that is on the market.

Messrs. H. O. Denman and George Braley spent several days in San Antonio last week looking over the different makes of radio sets for sale, and after a rather thorough investigation, Mr. Denman decided on a Westinghouse set, which will be used with a Magnavox Amplifier, giving the Junction Amusement Co. a receiving plant that is capable of receiving messages from any broadcasting station in the United States. A temporary aerial was used until Tuesday, when a standard 100 aerial was suspended from a 20-foot pole on top of the Hankins drug store to the flag pole in the court house yard. So far they have been able to hear programs in Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Austin, Kansas City, Atlanta, and Des Moines. In addition to getting the evening programs broadcasted by the central stations over the country, they plan to get base ball and foot ball returns in the afternoons.

This plant cost approximately $600.00 and is a very valuable addition to the towns attractions.

LAST RAID OF THE COMANCHE INDIANS IN KIMBLE COUNTY.

Jeff Meredith Tells of The Death of Two Boys When The Comanches Made Farewell Visit to County.

(The following article is taken from a hand bill printed in the interest of Jeff Meredith, who is making the race for Justice of the Peace in a district in South San Antonio. It will no doubt, prove interesting to all our readers, and especially to those who knew Mr. Meredith during his many years residence in Kimble County.—Editor's Note.)

The dead boy lay on the floor inside the house. His clothes were bloody from gunshot wounds. By his side knelt his mother and sister, weeping. A few minutes before the father had left the house hurriedly to find help to trail the Comanche Indians who had killed the boy.

This begins a tale told by T. J. Meredith, who moved to Kimble County in 1876, and witnessed the raid. Mr. Meredith moved to San Antonio eighteen months ago and now lives at San Jose.

Being an eye witness to this raid, Mr. Meredith tells his story in realistic style. He says there are many people now living in Junction, who will recall the coming of this late raid. In fact, one sister and two brothers of the murdered Kountz boy now live at Junction.

This band of Comanches had come upon two boys of the family they herded a small bunch of sheep near home. They shot Isaac Kountz dead at once and tried to capture his younger brother, Isaac, who was 16 when killed, while his younger brother with him was 10. They may have wanted the younger boy to hold for ransom, or, possibly, to rear up as a member of their tribe. Anyway, one warrior made determined efforts to capture him. He ran his horse into a rail fence and snatched off the boy's hat as he went over the fence. This boy, Sebastian Kountz, is now living at Junction.

Directly after killing Isaac and chasing Sebastian over the field fence, the Indians drove their herd of stolen horses off northward at a rapid rate. As already stated, the father had gone away hastily to notify his neighbors.

After leaving the Kountz home on the South Llano, the Indians made a wide detour of Junction. They traveled north and crossed the North Llano. Continuing north up Elm "draw," they came to Gentry creek where they turned east toward main Llano, which they forded at Beef-Trail crossing. From this point, they turned south. They route then passed up Spicewood creek, around the head of Johnson's Fork of the Llano, 25 miles east of Junction, and took a forty mile passage over the Divide and down into the "bovals" of the Comanches.

On leaving his ranch on the South Llano the father of the murdered boy secured aid from his few neighbors and set out to keep on the trail of the Indians. In following, thus, the posse came on the dead body of a son of the Siver family who lived three miles from the Kountz ranch. He had been cut to bring in his father's horses when he was killed and his horses driven off.

A few miles beyond the Siver ranch, the pursuers sent a messenger on the run to notify the ranches at Bear Creek, on the road to Fort McKavitt. Meanwhile the settlers kept on the trail of the Comanches.

The ranchers came from about 15 miles away and intercepted the track of the settlers on the Junction-McKavitt road.

It was found by the ranchers, who were experts on this kind of work, that signs left behind indicated there were about 20 warriors who had some 40 stolen horses with them. Some of the settlers recognized their own horse tracks by the way the horses were shot.

In this race to overtake the Indians, the ranchers were at a disadvantage. The Indians could travel both day and night while the ranchers could travel only in the daytime and make sure of being on the trail. Again, the savages had enough horses to take a fresh mount at any time; the pursuers had but a single mount to each man.

Handicapped as they were, the whites sought to use strategy. Seeing the Redskins were going in a circle, ten men were sent by Captain Roberts, under Lieutenant Dorman to cut across the circle and head off the fugitives. At one time they found a trail of horses, but soon gave it up since only unbroken tracks were found. For three days these ten rode strenuously but to no avail. They then returned home. It was with these ten that T. J. Meredith went.

Captain Roberts and his men held on the direct route taken by the Indians and rode steadily and persistently forward. In order to save time they did not send a courier ahead of the main body, as is usually done, to avoid ambush. They knew this plan was a challenge with death.

Refreshed with a night's rest, the ranchers over increased speed the second day out. The trail now showed more plainly than before. One of the stolen horses, exhausted and foot-sore, stood by the side of the trail. Soon after passing the shattered horse, the ranchers came upon the remains of a colt killed and eaten by the Comanches. The blood of the colt showed it had been slaughtered but a few hours before. The thought of soon coming upon the mercenaries gave stimulus to the chase. The ranchers now galloped ahead faster than ever before. An hour after passing the colt the Indian sentry left behind to cover their trail was seen riding up a knoll about a mile straight ahead. The ranchers stopped till the sentry passed behind the crest of the knoll, then put on a burst of speed to come up to him before he should be aware of their presence. On reaching the top of the hill, the ranchers were discovered by the sentry who made his fresher horse leave them farther and farther behind. Re-lying the Indians would outrun them, Captain Rogers ordered his men to shoot.

However, the distance was too great to kill the sentry and he got away out of sight. Then, in turning around a cedar knoll, the ranchers saw the sentry again just as he dashed into the hand and herd of stolen horses. Like a flash, the band scattered, each Indian going in a separate direction. Immediately canyons and forests had swallowed them up. Most of the stolen horses were then recovered by the ranchers. It was reported a few weeks later that these same Indians had come together again in Bandera County and that they had stolen another bunch of horses and driven them off to Mexico.

Mr. Meredith is one of the few men living who took part in the chase. He is well known in Kimble County, having been Justice of the Peace for Precinct No. 1, for 26 or 27 years, and during that time serving as County Commissioner for 14 years. He also was a county trustee for two years. He came to San Antonio for his health and is now living at San Jose.

WHAT IT COSTS A BUSINESS TO STOP ITS ADVERTISING.

You remember James Pyle's Pearline. It had been advertised regularly from 1873 to 1907. Then the trustees of the estate saw a brilliant chance to save money. They cut out advertising.

Sales dropped like a clan hammer—Profits went when men, sick and hobble go. In 1914 Pearline, like Jesse Willard, tried to come back, but it was too late. Other washing powders, Gold Dust, Old Dutch Cleanser, etc., had commenced advertising when Pear-line quit and clenched the trade. The business was sold at a price which is said to have covered barely the value of the machinery and inventory.

Moral—A business will grow as long as it advertises.

A sales force will thrive as long as it tries.

You can't make progress against the current unless you keep rowing. But the harder you row the faster you go.

How much will the readers of this paper spend in your store?

Doesn't the answer to that question depend on you?

To advertise means to sell.

Not to advertise means disaster.—Ex.

WHAT A PITY IT WOULD BE—

With 30 to 50 per cent bigger mileage in a cord tire—now delivered to you for nearly the price of a fabric—

What a pity it would be to lose a thousand or two of those extra miles by having the rubber tread wear out, exposing the cords to the bruising jabs of every stone in the road.

That's why a wider and thicker tread is especially important in cord tires—and that's why Gates Super-Tread Cords have trebled in sales the past sixty days.

WHAT IS CHARM?

What constitutes charm in a woman? Is it beauty? Is it grace? Is it vivacity? Or intelligence? Surely the answer is that charm, like beauty, is in the eye of the beholder. In a particular case it may be beauty or grace, it may be vivacity or intelligence. Perhaps it is a pair of brown eyes or a dimpled cheek; perhaps it is a soft voice, or a gesture that seems the quintessence of grace.

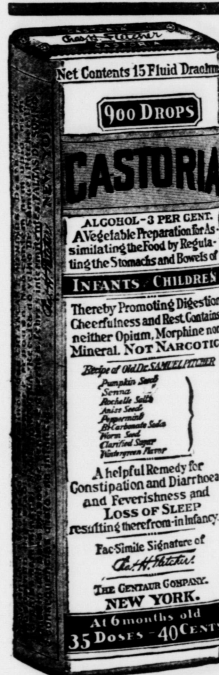

More than likely, however, it is a subtle something that the charmed himself cannot analyze, does not recognize, but merely calls by some such name as "personality."

Bringing Banks to the People

Banking has too long been misunderstood! Through the tendency of banks to look upon advertising as unethical, the public was, until recent years, uninformed or misinformed on many phases of banking practice.

It was only after far-seeing banks began to use advertising to show the full scope of their constructive service that the mass of people ceased to regard these institutions merely as depositories in which surplus wealth was stored.

As a result of this publicity, the general public has come to look upon us as an institution feeling its responsibility to our large number of customers and to the community in general, and our complete banking facilities are well known and hundreds of people are taking advantage of this complete service, that otherwise would not have known about the various ways we can assist them.

It is the object of this bank to advertise constructively and to back up this advertising with a service that meets the needs of the community.

Read our advertisements every week.

STATE CAPITAL NEWS

From The Austin Statesman:

Search For New Site For Penitentiary to Start.

Inspection of proposed relocation sites for the state Penitentiary will be started probably next Thursday by Governor Neff, Attorney General Keeling, Land Commissioner Robison and the prison board, it was stated here today.

Sites in Burnett, Bell, Williamson and Hays counties are among those to be inspected.

Katy Officials Regard Strike As Practically Ended.

"The strike is over with as far as we are concerned," said W. M. Whittenton, Dallas, assistant chief operating officer of the M.-K.-T. in Texas, who was here Wednesday in conference with Adjutant General Thomas D. Barton.

Mr. Whittenton, who was accompanied by Judge M. E. Spell of Waco, said that his company had no intention of receding from its position in the situation. "We are filling positions with old employees where there are vacancies, but we are taking care of the men now employed," added Mr. Whittenton.

Child Desertions Too Numerous, Says Dr. Harrington.

Returning today from a visit to the State Orphanage at Corsicana, Dr. H. H. Harrington, member of the state board of control, said he was strongly in favor of amending the laws so as to adequately reach the man who deserts his children and fails to give them proper support. Dr. Harrington said that of the 503 children in the orphanage only 85 are real orphans, the others having been deserted by their parents.

During the last six months requests have been received for the admission of 500 children to the home, this number exceeding the capacity of the institution.

Lack of Stock Cars is Reported by Railroads.

Shortage of stock cars to transport cattle from the drought-stricken portion of the Panhandle section of Texas has been reported to the Railroad Commission.

Clarence E. Gilmore, member of the commission, is now making an effort to obtain a sufficient number of stock cars from the National Car Service Association to meet the emergency.

It will require upward of 800 cars to meet the needs of stockmen. The Orient railroad reported that there is a shortage of about 500 cars on its line, according to Commissioner Gilmore.

Election Proclamation is Now Ready for Issuance

Governor Neff has executed and signed his proclamation calling the general state election to be held on November 7. The proclamation, it was learned in the secretary of state's department, will not be sent to the various counties until the controversy over the placing of Geo. E. B. Peddy's name on the official ballot has been determined. The proclamation will be mailed at the same time the official ballot is mailed.

One feature of the proclamation authorizes the election of a congressman at large from Texas, although his office has not been authorized by congress. E. W. Cole of Austin is a candidate for congressman-at-large and declares that in the event he is elected he will take his chances of being seated.

"Feeling Fine!"

"I was pale and thin, hardly able to go," says Mrs. Bessie Bearden, of Central, S. C. "I would suffer, when I stood on my feet, with bearing-down pains in my sides and the lower part of my body. I did not rest well and didn't want anything to eat. My color was bad and I felt miserable. A friend of mine told me of

CARDUI

and I then remembered my mother used to take it. After the first bottle I was better. I began to freshen up and I regained my strength and good, healthy color. I am feeling fine. If you suffer from female ailments, take Cardui. It is a woman's medicine. It may be just what you need. I took twelve bottles (of Cardui) and haven't had a bit of trouble since."

Thousands of other women have had similar experiences in the use of Cardui, which has brought relief where other medicines had failed. At your druggist's or dealer's.

CLUB AND SOCIETY NOTES.

(Edited by Mrs. A. W. Loeffler)

The Merry Wives Club
Was Merrily Entertained.

The Merry Wives Club was very delightfully entertained by Mrs. Conrad T. Holekamp at her home on September 28th.

A short business session was held and new officers were elected for the coming term. Mrs. L. F. Boyle as president, and Mrs. Carl M. Wolf as secretary-treasurer. After the business session, Mrs. Holekamp placed dainty little hand painted score cards on the tables and each one was supposed to find their table number by the verse on the back of the cards, pertaining to them. All were seated after a few moments of "hunting" and the always popular game of "500" was enjoyed. Mrs. H. O. Patterson being the lucky one, was given first prize, two beautiful hand-made gingham handkerchiefs; Mesdames Mudge, Skaggs and Beddingfield were each given a dainty hand-made gingham handkerchief as table prizes.

Delicious refreshments of chicken salad with Mayonnaise, sandwiches, olives and hot tea, were served to the following:

Mesdames J. C. Beddingfield, L. L. Skaggs, L. F. Boyle, H. O. Denman, H. O. Patterson, W. H. Baker, U. D. Kendrick, C. M. Wolf, J. D. Motley, A. L. Mudge; Misses Dorothy Mudge, Elsie Buck, and the hostess.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. P. Joseph on October 12th.

Parent-Teachers' Association.

The Parent and Teachers' Association met Monday afternoon of last week, at 4 o'clock at the school house. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Oren C. Reid, Miss Nan Swayze, the first vice president, presided. The reading of the minutes was followed by reports from the various committees.

The Association voted to meet every fourth Monday at the school house. Motion was made and carried, to buy two large flags and assign one to each building, the flag is to be kept each month by the room whose pupils had the most parents present at the association. This is a splendid suggestion and should prove a great help in promoting attendance.

The members were urged by Prof. Cochran to attend the literary debating clubs organized by the pupils, which meet every two weeks on Friday afternoon.

A splendid program has been arranged for the next meeting and everyone is requested to attend.

This marked the close of the contest for new members, which was won by the side captained by Mrs. Roy Blackburn. Miss Gladys Leslie's side, which lost by a small minority, served refreshing iced tea and sandwiches.

Chicken Fry.

Friday evening of last week Class No. VI, of the Methodist Sunday School motored to Six Mile crossing on North Llano, where they spent a merry evening. The young men of the party fried and barbecued the chicken while the young ladies spread tempting sandwiches, fruit and potato salads, peaches stuffed eggs, olives, pickles, pie cake and coffee.

Quite a number of the young folks were present and were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Knetsch.

A PLEASANT CARD PARTY.

One of the most delightful parties of the season was given by Mrs. Mudge and her daughter, Miss Dorothy, at their attractive ranch home, when they complimented the Merry Wives Club with a "500" party.

The room was charming with picture, Japanese paper fans, umbrellas and Japanese sketches. The tables and score cards further carried out the Japanese scheme of decoration.

Mrs. J. C. Beddingfield won the Club prize which was a beautiful white and gold fan. A box of dainty Japanese stationery was presented to Mrs. Ben Denman for making next highest score among the club members. A fancy perfume went to Mrs. Louis Boyle as a consolation. The guests' prize, a lovely Japanese serving basket was won by Mrs. C. R. Stevenson; a running Japanese income burner went to Mrs. Frank Baker, while Mrs. Alex Hamer was con-solated by a fancy perfume.

Most delicious two-course refreshments of tomatoes and chicken salad, wafers, olives, salted almonds, tea, apricot whip and macaroni were served. Miniature Japanese umbrellas topped the salad as favors. The club members enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Mudge and Miss Dorothy, were:

Mesdames Louis Boyle, Ben Denman, J. C. Beddingfield, Lucene Skaggs, Conrad Holekamp, Carl Wolf, Douglas Motley, Turk Kendrick; the guests included Misses Lois and Rita Hankins, Elsie Buck, Doris Holm, Misses Mudge, Skaggs, C. R. Stevenson, James Patterson, Rick, Alex Hamer, Frank Baker, and mother, Mrs. Hall of Richland Springs, and Mrs. Douglas Nance.

LAF-A-LOT CLUB MEET.

The Laf-a-lot Club was beautifully entertained by Miss Gladys Van Ciel on September 29th.

Each member was presented with an attractive tally card and game of "500" were soon started. After several games, Miss Dorris Wright was declared winner and presented with a dainty package containing a box of Three Flowers powder. Miss Elsie Buck was given a bottle of Talcum as a consolation.

Delicious refreshments of ice cream with marshmallow and cake were served.

A business meeting was held and Miss Elsie Mathis was chosen as an honorary member. The club was glad to have Miss Anne Taylor as an honorary member with us again.
