Directors Accept Amon G. Carter Gift

Publisher Gives Tech Will Rogers Statue

GIFT of a life size equestrian statue of Will Rogers to be placed on the campus of Texas Technological college was announced Monday afternoon following a meeting of the college board of directors.

The statue was given to the college by Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, through the Amon G. Carter Foundation. Interest of the donor in Texas Tech dates back to the founding of the school and to the organization of the first board of directors, of which he was chairman for four years.

Statue To Face West

The bronze statue will be placed at the west end of the esplanade of the Broadway entrance to the college at a site now occupied by the school flagpole. It will face west, as the name of the statue is "Riding Into The Sunset."

The statue is the work of Electra Waggoner Biggs of Vernon and New York and is of Rogers, the cowboy-humorist,philosopher, who was killed in an airplane crash with Wiley Post, Aug. 15, 1935.

Standing nine feet, 11 inches high, the statue weighs 3,200 pounds and is valued at $25,000.

A similar statue, also the work of the same sculptor, was dedicated in Fort Worth by Gen. Ike Eisenhower last November 4, the birthday of Rogers. It stands at the entrance of the Will Rogers Memorial coliseum grounds in Fort Worth.

Rogers Worked Near Amherst

Carter and Rogers were close personal friends. Rogers himself had a great fondness for Lubbock and the South Plains area, as he punched cattle for several years on the Ewing Halsell ranch near Amherst even before the town was founded.

The striking likeness to the subject and the general excellence of the statue were commented upon by Gen. Eisenhower at the time of the dedication in Fort Worth in his tribute to Rogers.

Placing of the statue on the Tech campus was approved by the Tech board in its meeting Monday, and the site was also approved.

It is planned to have appropriate ceremonies dedicating the statue when it is placed in its place of honor. Rogers is riding his favorite horse, "Soapsuds."

Mrs. Maxine Dickinson, 1905 Thirty-fourth street, is a niece of the late humorist and Rogers had visited here several times.

Part Of Loot Taken In Lamesa Is Found

LAMESA, June 7 (Special)—Approximately one-third of the loot stolen from the law office of Bob Huff, Lamesa attorney, on the night of May 6, was found in a bar ditch on the Lamesa-Seminole highway yesterday, according to Gaines County Sheriff H. S. Birdwell. He said the location was a short distance west of th Dawson-Gaines county line.

Gilbert Menix, a farmer, discovered 51 U.S. government bonds amounting to $8,095 in denominations ranging from $20 to $100, Birdwell reported. The sheriff said the bonds were dirty and water soaked. Presumably they had been washed out from under a near-by culvert during the recent heavy rains.

He said Dawson County heriff A. M. Bennett and Texas Ranger J. L. Rogers were returning the bonds to Lamesa.

Huff, who recently posted a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the burglars, has announced the amount stolen at about $25,400, including $8,900 in bonds and $16,500 in cash.

Authorities had been furnished with numbers of the missing bonds, and 'stop orders' were issued several days ago to prevent them being cashed, Huff said.

Local, state and federal officers have been conducting a joint investigation of the case.

Commission Studies New City Budget

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

EXPENDITURES totaling $1,936,552, an increase of $344,194 over last year, were listed in the first tentative draft of a proposed city budget submitted to a special meeting of the city commission Monday afternoon by City Manager Marlin R. Smith, jr.

Receipts during the year, which began last April 1, are estimated at $2,176,480, an increase of $470,867 over last year.

The figures anticipate a tax rate of $1.25 on the $100 of assessed valuation, the same as this year.

Tax Rates Tentative

The city manager and commissioners emphasized, however, that all the figures are subject to any revision the commission might want to make. The tax rate, for example, probably won't be set officially until late in the summer.

Officials were late getting started on the proposed budget for the fiscal year which began more than two months ago. One of the chief reasons for the delay was the fact that Smith did not take over the city managerial reins until last March 1. Time did not allow completion of a tentative budget sooner, it was explained.

Of the $470,867 in expenditures listed in the proposed budget, $152,138 is in funds which must be set aside for the payments on bonds secured by electric plant revenues and sold earlier this year.

Increases Given

In addition to this sum, the other principal items making up the $1,936,552 in proposed disbursements during the year included the following, with the comparative figures last year:

	1948	1947
General Depts.	$1,008,945	779,536
Waterworks	168,567	140,575
Electric Dept.	370,002	312,466
Capital Outlay	236,900	362,781

Principal estimated sources of revenue were shown as follows:

	1948	1947
Electric Dept.	$825,000	762,644
Waterworks	580,000	522,191
Taxes	342,000	282,156
Miscellaneous	266,725	248,723

On the basis of the figures listed, the city would have a balance of $239,928 at the end of the year. Officials said a balance of that kind would help to improve

Lewis Hints Of New Coal Strike

(By The Associated Press)

John L. Lewis and his mine workers opened negotiations Monday for a new national soft coal contract and hinted at a new strike.

After referring to the producers as "fat cats" and declaring he came to the bargaining table only "through duress," Lewis declared the UMW had no wage demand. But he said the union insists upon payment of nearly $20,000,000 of welfare benefits to distressed miners "as a condition precedent to a new contract."

The money should come, he said, from the 1947 tonnage royalty welfare fund of 1947. The fund amounts to about $50,000,000 but is tied up in a legal fight. The operators have charged the union with attempting illegal use of the money.

Progress Stopped

The present wage contract expires June 30. Lewis told the operators, "we assume that you would deplore any impairment of your abnormal income after July 1."

Charles A. O'Neill, speaking for the operators, told reporters that Lewis' demand "stopped any progress in the conference." Another meeting of negotiators was set for Tuesday afternoon.

RUSSIAN OPPOSITION EXPECTED

Six Nations Approve Federal Government For West Germany

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, June 7—The United States, Britain, France and the Benelux countries recommended officially today a separate government for western Germany, and agreed to keep their occupation troops there until Europe's peace is secured.

Opposition from Russia was considered certain.

Britain's cabinet approved the recommendation as its part in meeting conditions that all three major western powers must ratify the project as a whole before it can begin.

Approval from the U. S. was taken for granted. Formal congressional action is not required. U. S. State department officials said in Washington that Secretary of State George C. Marshall would soon approve it.

In France, always security-minded, a storm arose over some of the provisions of the agreement—chiefly concessions made in plans to rebuild the industrial might of the Ruhr.

Government officials, however, expressed confidence these protests will be weathered by French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, and that the program will be en-

Largest Class In History Of College Gets Degrees

Tech Graduates Told Chances For Progress Are Plentiful

By OPAL DIXON
Avalanche Staff Writer

"IT is not likely that, with the knowledge available today and with the development of our resources, we will suffer for want in the future to any degree that mankind has suffered in the past," Sterling C. Evans, president of the Federal Land Bank of Houston, told Texas Technological college's largest graduating class at the 22nd annual commencement exercises Monday night in Jones stadium.

Approximately 7,000 persons saw the class receive degrees and heard the outstanding banker tell of opportunities awaiting graduates and give an encouraging view of the future.

"We worry a lot. Everyone worries about the future," he said. "Much of it, however, is about money, and medium of exchange is only important in the use of which we make of it bringing about greater accomplishments of mankind through achievements."

Science Aiding Mankind

Expressing his belief mankind will not suffer for want in the degree it has suffered in the past, he said "we have knowledge of health not known to the people of other civilization;" that an entirely new field may be opened up in the production and in use of foods by by-products from the Plutonian ovens; that radioactive isotopes from the ovens are in use in agricultural research and are being tried in cancer research laboratories and in the tubercular hospitals.

"No graduating class in all history," he said, "has approached a new day with such promising opportunities for achievement as lie ahead.

"Progress is being made at such a rapid rate today that perhaps few of us appreciate it. When the chemist can take coal, air and water and make a silklike product comparable to the fleece of the lamb that Jason slew, and when others can take nitrogen from the air and reinvigorate worn soils, and when others can extract solid metal compounds from the waters of the sea, we have indeed accomplished the 'wonders to perform.'"

Stating that, "A revolution in almost every field is taking place around you," he pointed to development on the South Plains. "Within a radius of 50 miles of this campus agriculture has been completely revamped since you were born," he said. "The production per man has increased, the speed with which work has been accomplished is now measured in minutes instead of hours, and the plain enjoyment of living has kept pace in this mechanical age. The same advancement has been made in almost every industry and in trade."

Expressing belief in the opportunities those achievements offer, he told graduates, "You shall achieve, however, not without effort and, after all, those accomplishments in the face of difficulties

Scattered Showers Reported In Area

Scattered showers and heavy cloudiness halted the temperature one degree short of the 100 mark Monday and pushed it from 93 at 2:30 down to 83 an hour later, according to the Weather Bureau station.

Most of the showers fell in the Panhandle, the station said, but more scattered thundershowers were expected in the Lubbock and South Plains areas today.

Light to heavy showers were reported at several South Plains towns yesterday. At the weather station five miles north of Lubbock, a total of .08 of an inch was recorded from two light showers during the afternoon.

Plainview received about half an inch shower with somewhat heavier fall at Hale Center. Heavy showers were reported from Floydada to Plainview. The Santa Fe dispatcher at Slaton received reports of .25 fall at Abernathy, light showers at Tulia, Kress and Happy. Ralls reported about .28 of an inch, while Matador had only a light shower. Littlefield and Brownfield also reported light sprinkles.

Amarillo reported a heavy thunderstorm with two inches of rain falling in little more than an hour.

Tech Board Names Committee To Study Men For Presidency

By C. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche Staff Writer

APPOINTMENT of a committee of four directors of Texas Technological college to serve as a presidential selection committee to name a successor for Dr. W. M. Whyburn, who has resigned, effective Aug. 31, came in the closing minutes of a board meeting at the college Monday afternoon.

The committee members, Chas. Wooldridge, Dallas; Robt. B. Price, El Paso; Leon Ince, Houston; and O. B. Ratliff, Lubbock, were appointed to visit, interview and investigate and invite to appear before the full board at a meeting in Fort Worth, July 10.

"We have some very capable and outstanding men under consideration now and we plan to investigate any and all others who are acceptable," a spokesman for the committee said. "We have not completed investigation of any possible candidate and are still deliberating on a list of approximately possibilities.

Field Still Open

"We are seeking the counsel of some 30 top administrators in the nation's leading colleges and universities in an attempt to ferret out the right man to fill the needs of Texas Tech," he continued. "In spite of the fact that some able men have already been interviewed by several members of the board, the field is still wide open."

Committee members said an attempt would be made at the Fort Worth meeting to "weed through the list" and try to reduce the candidates to at least six men before final selection of the man is made. They said every effort will be made to have a successor for Dr. Whyburn by Sept. 1.

It was revealed that one committee member, Price, would leave in a few days on a business trip throughout the Midwest and during his travel would contact several candidates. In the meantime, other committee members will be visiting other men in their offices and on their own campuses.

Room Rents Discussed

The board had previously planned to consider at length the list of men for the post in their meeting Monday, but extended discus-

Man Is Killed In Highway Mishap

LEVELLAND, June 7 (Special)—One man was killed and another seriously injured in a motorcycle accident on a curve one-half mile west of here about 12:45 p. m. today.

Henry F. Winder, 23, of Appleby, an oil field worker in this vicinity, was the death victim. E. A. Callahan, 17, was brought to a Levelland hospital where examination showed that he suffered a fractured skull, scalp lacerations requiring about 24 sutures, and multiple abrasions.

Probably Hit Car

Highway patrolmen Sam Fort and John McVean, of Lubbock, said that Winder and Callahan were riding a motorcycle toward Levelland. The driver, Winder, lost control of the machine when it struck gravel on the curve, they reported.

Mrs. Ethel May Albertson of Levelland, driver of a light coach, drove off the paved highway into the ditch to avoid collision.

As the motorcycle slipped on the gravel, the men apparently fell, striking the Albertson car, a patrolman said. There was no evidence that the car collided with the other machine. Members of the sheriff's department here also assisted in the investigation.

The body of Winder was taken to Plains Funeral home here. Funeral arrangements had not been made tonight.

New Mexico Demos To Choose Senatorial Nominee Today

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 7. (AP)—New Mexico Democrats choose tomorrow between former Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson and former Gov. John J. Dempsey, to be their senatorial nominee next November. Both are ex-congressmen.

The winner faces former Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, who is unopposed in the Republican primary election.

TRAIN JUMPS TRACK

COLUMBUS, O., June 7. (INS)—At least six persons were injured tonight when two cars of the Pennsylvania railroad's eastbound "Spirit of St. Louis" jumped the track near the Columbus depot and struck a standing train. The Columbus fire department said two persons might be trapped in the wreckage. None of the six was believed seriously hurt.

All Dikes Rated In Critical Condition

New Columbia Surge Is Seen; 60,000 Remain Homeless In Battered Areas

By HAROLD PATERSON
INS Staff Correspondent

PORTLAND, Ore., June 1—All dikes along the rampaging Columbia river were reported in "critical" condition by the Army engineers tonight as a third crest was forecast.

An estimated 60,000 people are homeless in the rubbish-littered Columbia basin, where 28 deaths have been attributed to the flood and property damage is estimated at more than $100 million.

The Army engineers said the dikes are so soggy from the long fight against the flood waters that they must be rated "critical" even though the lower river was falling slightly.

A high tide made several breaches in a dike on Puget Island, near the mouth of the Columbia, but crews standing by quickly repaired them.

Two-Week Fight Seen

The new surge was predicted by Elmer Fisher, river forecaster for the Weather bureau, who expressed hope that it will not be so high as the first or second crests.

At the same time Col. O. E. Walsh, Portland district Army engineer, forecast that the water will be high for "at least three more weeks" and said remaining dikes will be in danger for "two weeks or more."

Walsh said:

"We have a long, steady fight of two more weeks—or more—to hold the dikes, but we have hopes that they will be held. In many places seepage has lessened, and all boils are well controlled."

New Crest Due Friday

Fisher said the tributaries of the Snake river, one of the Columbia's most important tributaries are rising.

The extent of the third crest will depend on how hot the weather gets in the mountains and how high it drives the Snake, he said. Snow still on the ground in the mountains will cause the rise.

The weather official said the situation has not taken form yet but expressed belief that the Snake will show a rise of between .3 and .5 of a foot at Lewiston, Idaho, by tomorrow morning.

The Columbia downstrean will fall for the next two days, he said, but the new crest will reach Vancouver, Wash., Thursday night or Friday morning.

Fisher foresaw a drop of .3 of a

Solons Okay Poll Tax Ban

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 7 — The Senate voted tonight to outlaw the poll tax as a condition to voting in federal elections by members of the armed forces.

Southern Democrats, after several hours of talking against the proposal, abandoned the fight and permitted the amendment to the selective service bill to come to a vote.

It was adopted, 37 to 35.

Senator Langer (R-N.D.) sponsored the amendment along with six others based on President Truman's civil rights program. All the others were shelved or voted down without the senators' passing on the civil rights issue itself.

Filibuster Theatened

But the anti-poll tax amendment produced a bitter fight threatening at times to become a filibuster that could have blocked passage on draft and other legislation before Congress ends its present session on June 19.

Just before the vote, acting Democratic leader Lucas of Illinois accused the Republican leadership in effect of violating a "general agreement" that the whole series of civil rights amendments to the bill would be shelved.

Lucas said a number of Democrats "submerged their true convictions" to try to get the 19-through-25 draft bill through Congres without a filibuster.

GOP Leaders Split

Many backers of the President's program voted against the first six Langer amendments. Some held that such legislation had no place in a draft bill. Others voted as they did in the frank hope of avoiding a time-consuming fight, or a possible filibuster, which would jeopardise the passage of

Wheat Is Piled On Burkburnett Streets

BURKBURNETT, June 7. (AP)—Thousands of bushels of Texas and Oklahoma wheat, valued at an estimated $200,000, are lying on roped off streets here because the three grain elevators in the Red river town are already full.

John Brookman, editor and publisher of the Weekly Star here, said that trucks were lined up for a mile waiting to unload the wheat.

"Last year we had a good wheat harvest," he said, "but this year looks like a real one."

He said that elevator operators were having the wheat dumped along the sides of the streets because they had no other place to put it.

The editor said wheat was being bought at $1.98 to $2 a bushel. Brookman said that it was being sold and loaded on trucks, but that "it's coming in faster than it's going out."

Four city blocks are roped off. He said the trucks started dumping the wheat Saturday. "They're still coming in," he said.

Congress Charged With 'Penny Pinching' On Power Projects

By ROBERT G. NIXON
INS Staff Correspondent

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, June 7.—President Truman charged the Republican-led Congress today with serving the interests of "the few" by penny-pinching on reclamation and power projects.

Mr. Truman told a crowd at Pocatello, Idaho, that the destructive floods in the Columbia river valley could have been largely prevented had Congress acted more wisely.

The President, on a trans-continental tour, assailed followers of Daniel Webster, "who didn't think the west was any good," and of Samuel Insull, power tycoon of the twenties, who "put the welfare of the few promoters above the welfare of the people."

He said he has tried to use as much of the budget as could be used for that purpose for development of reclamation and power projects. The chief executive added:

"But we have some people in these United States who follow the lead of Daniel Webster who didn't think we should do anything with it (the west). We also

Arabs In Battle To Break Trap

(By The Associated Press)

CAIRO, June 7. — Egyptian commanders landed seaborne reinforcements in an attempt to break the noose Israeli troops have thrown around Egyptian infantry and armor at Isdud, a Tel Aviv dispatch said tonight.

Perhaps 1,000 of King Farouk's troops—a fifth of the Egyptian force which threatened Tel Aviv from the south—are caught in the trap.

The account quoted persons returning from the front as saying at least one and possibly several Egyptian ships took part in the amphibious operation. Isdud is 21 miles down the coast from Tel Aviv, the capital of Israel.

Jews Hold Line

Jewish leaders previously announced their troops had blunted an Arab threat to Tel Aviv from the northeast.

One informant in Tel Aviv said the Arabs had established still a third position threatening the capital.

Israeli units are exerting enough pressure to hold the Arabs along a 12-mile front reaching from Er Ramle to Ras Al Ein, the informant said. The closest Arab units were at Wilhelma, just inside the Jewish coastal strip.

While Israeli and Arab troops fought in widely scattered sectors of the Holy Land, Count Folke Bernadotte advised the United Nations Security Council at Lake Success, N. Y., that he hoped to

ON BICYCLE RIDING

WILL you plan investments in play and other equipment for your growing child, or will you just buy things for him? When he is old enough to own a bicycle, will you be thinking in terms of his personality growth and further social development, or will you tell your child that he or she is not old enough, or that you do not live in a suitable place and then put off buying the bike as long as possible?

According to Gelolo McHugh, assistant professor of psychology at Duke university, from the way in which the younger child is handled about crossing the street, it is possible to foretell certain parental attitudes toward later childhood. In the case of street crossing, some mothers and fathers anxiously, but idly, wait for the magical arrival of foresight and mature caution in their children. Such parents, Dr. McHugh points out, do not realize that the growth results more from their provision of suitable chances to learn than from passage of time and increasing size. You have to help your growing child learn how to take care of himself.

"Beginning with street crossing," advises the professor, "you can choose completely safe crossings in which to allow your small boy or girl to show you how she or he would cross if you were not there. By positive approaches such as 'that's right, always look both way to make sure no car is coming' or 'that's right, always walk with the green light and look for cars that may want to turn the corner,' you will soon be feeling sure that you have a child whose judgment you can trust. By the time he is of school age, he will have received from you the invaluable gift of mature and intelligent caution against real danger. You will have gone a long way toward building peace of mind for yourself; and will find valuable beyond measure your child's trust in judgment."

The same approaches would hold for your child's eventual ownership of and freedom to use a bicycle. Your buying a bicycle for him would indicate your faith in the effect of opportunities you have provided to help him learn how to take care of himself.

If the wheel is given in the right spirit, your child will want your assistance in learning traffic rules and safety measures.

When missionary societies met Monday, officers were installed, reports were made, programs and lessons were presented and luncheons and a breakfast were served. Both members and guests spoke.

Following a devotion by Mrs. Jack West and a program on "Publications" directed by Mrs. C. E. Fulgham, secretaries of St. John's Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service made reports.

Mrs. W. E. Moren reported children's work; Mrs. Coleman Hasie, student work; Mrs. Marvin McLarty, status of women; Mrs. Charles R. Hedges, organization and promotion; Mrs. John Pearce, missionary education; Mrs. J. J. Kendrick, spiritual life; Mrs. A. Holmes, supplies; and Mrs. Fulgham, literature and publications.

A report on Christian social relations and local church work was made by Maggie Atkins who discussed the Leader Training school held in Amarillo recently for Negroes. The speaker was introduced by Miss Lucile Smith, chairman of the social relations committee of the WSCS.

Officers elected at the meeting are as follows: Mrs. J. R. West, vice president; Mrs. George Davis, mission education secretary; Mrs. J. J. Kendrick, spiritual life chairman; and Mrs. Clifford B. Jones, pianist.

Clothing to be sent to the Methodist Mission home in San Antonio was packed at the meeting.

The WSCS will have a breakfast next Monday at 10 a.m. at the church with Mesdames Basil Reynolds, W. M. Slagle and J. W. Taylor as hostesses. A program will be presented by Mrs. C. A. Bickley of Asbury Methodist WSCS.

PROGRAM SERIES INITIATED BY WSCS

Approximately 50 members of First Methodist WSCS attended a program, the first of a series on "Women and the Family," given at the church chapel. Two speakers, Mrs. John Lee Smith and Mrs. Curtis Boyd, spoke on "The Importance of Woman's Role in the Family" and "Women and Children."

Mrs. A. L. Woodfin sang "End of a Perfect Day" and Mrs. E. F. Alford brought a devotion.

A Bible study on the Song of Solomon was led by Rev. C. Melvin Ratheal for Parksdale Baptist Women's Missionary society at the church. Ten members and one guest attended.

COUNCIL OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED

Mrs. O. P. Hankins, retiring president of First Christian Women's council, was presented a gift following a council initiation which she conducted at a luncheon held at the church. During the initiation ceremony, Mrs. Hankins read an original verse about each officer.

The new president is Mrs. E. A. McClure.

A devotion was brought by Mrs. L. O. Armstrong. Fifty persons attended the luncheon which was served by the executive council.

The song, "Jesus Paid It All," opened a meeting of College Avenue Baptist WMS. On program were Mrs. Garlin Murphy who led a devotion and Shirley Averett, Freddie Nelson and Pat Walker, intermediates, who sang "All on the Altar," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Errol Foote. Prayers were by Pat Walker, Mrs. D. D. Adams and Mrs. Abe Hester, jr.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Coy Roberts. Mrs. Hester and Mrs. Murphy are new members of the society.

ASBURY CIRCLES HAVE PROGRAMS

Members of Mary Martha and Kitty Bond circles of Asbury Methodist WSCS who attended a breakfast at Fellowship hall were hostesses to Rev. and Mrs. Pablo Calderon of Rio Grande City, formerly of Lubbock, and Rev. Antonio Guillen. Rev. Calderon, who received an M. A. degree from Tech Monday night, spoke on Mexican work at his home church and Rev. Guillen discussed work of the Lubbock Mexican Methodist church.

Thirty members and two other guests attended.

Mesdames M. L. Eagle, Dennis Murphy and R. E. Ellison presented a lesson from "The Methodist Woman" for Naomi Ruth circle of the WSCS in the home of Mrs. Leonard McGowan. Mrs. Russell Wimberly gave a devotion and she and Mrs. W. F. Bond led prayers.

Nine persons were present.

Suzanna Wesley circle met at the home of Mrs. W. W. Owen. A devotion was given by Mesdames Ora Goldwater and Owen, and Mrs. Lillian Steely was in charge of the program.

Pioneer Memorial Methodist church WSCS met at Arnett Benson Baptist church.

Mrs. F. L. Boyd brought the first of a series of programs, "We the People". The devotional was given by Mrs. J. S. Eddleman.

Plans For Picnic Are Made By Loyalty Club

Plans for a picnic supper were made when Loyalty club members met resently with Mrs. C. A. Rodgers, sr., 2123 Twenty-first. This will be held Friday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at Mackenzie State park. When the club meets June 18 with Mrs. Roy Privett, 615 Twenty-eighth, at 2:30 p. m., officers will be elected and blue bird gifts will be exchanged.

A devotion was led by Mrs. E. L Gabbard at the meeting. Others present were Mesdames Frances Rodgers, R. E. Blanton, I. E. Banks, C. B. McBride, Rex Anderson, Minnie Pullen, Helen Glover and C. H. Hudson.

Miss Reid Leaves For North Carolina

Miss Wistie Reid, who spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Reid, 2721 North Third, left Abilene Monday with 24 other students from Hardin-Simmons university, bound for the Baptist Students Union retreat at Ridgecrest, N. C. Miss Reid, who is a senior at Hardin-Simmons university, is state BSU secretary.

Women Entertain In Becton Home

A miscellaneous bridal shower honoring Miss Brooxie Smith was given recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Joiner in Becton. Hostesses were Mesdames Joiner and Ray Furgeson of Becton and Mesdames Leo Bullock and Charley Snodgrass of Idalou.

Garden flowers decorated the rooms, and the names of the couple were lettered in gold on a mirror over the registration table. Miss Betty Furgeson presided at the bride's book, and Mesdames Bullock and Snodgrass served at the refreshment table, which was centered with a miniature bride and bridegroom on a mound of white satin.

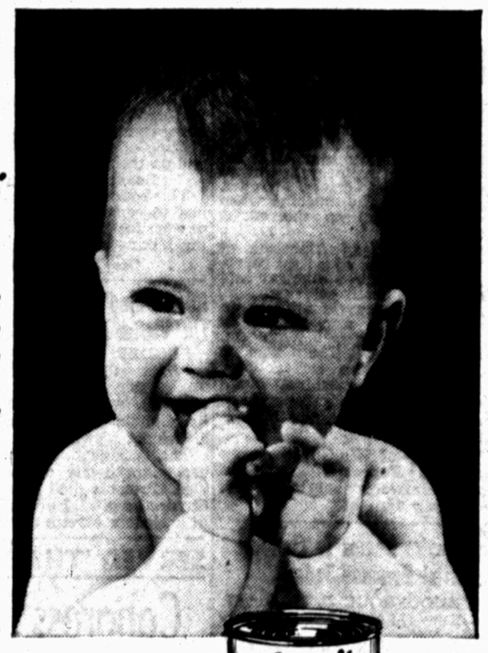

During the afternoon, 50 persons called, including the bride elect's grandfather, R. H. Tudor of Lubbock.

The wedding will take place in the Ralls First Methodist church on Saturday.

TOURIST SPOTS ARE GONE

Berlin Remains City Of Ruins Four Years After Surrender

By EARL J. JOHNSON
United Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, June 7 — Hitler left the master race a terrible heritage here. Without a personal visit, the pre-war American tourist can scarcely realize how terrible it is.

You see it first in the physical ruin that still litters Berlin in the fourth year since the surrender. Later you see it in the people themselves.

Ruins Are Everywhere

From an airplane, downtown Berlin must look like an empty honeycomb. The opera is in ruins. So is the Kaiser's place, and the Eden hotel. The long rounded roof of the central railroad station (the Friedrichstrasse) is a skeleton of black steel girders.

In the bombed-out shell of Hitler's ornate chancellory old men in rags sell pieces of mosaic they have chipped from the walls. The asking price is one cigaret, or even a butt. The Russians are carting away marble slabs from the walls to build a memorial.

The spot in the garden where Hitler's body is supposed to have been buried disappeared under a pile of sand recently when the Russians dynamited the bunker.

The Unter Den Linden once was the proudest tree-shaded boulevard in all Germany. Today the Unter Den Linden is bare, and dust from crumbling mortar swirls in the wind across its broad pavements. The avenue looks wider than ever because so many buildings are gone on either side.

U. S. Embassy Is Smashed

Walking east from the Brandenburg gate, you look on the right for the American embassy. Only the shell of the embassy is there. The windows are mere holes in masonry. Inside, bricks and twisted girders are piled two stories high.

Next on the right was Louis Adlon's famous hotel, once the last word in European luxury. Now upper floors are smashed down and walls and chimneys are jagged against the sky. The windows and doors which used to open on the Unter Den Linden are bricked up solid. A wooden sign with the word "Adlon" hangs over the former entrance, and you come in from the rear now through a dark passage which has been shored up like a tunnel in a coal mine. About 55 rooms are in use again.

Walk another 100 yards east and look for the Russian embassy and the big hotel Bristol. British bombers battered them down to their foundations in 1943. All that remains of the buildings is another wide gap in the skyline of the Unter Den Linden.

Tomb Stands Unguarded

Here and there along the boulevard a merchant has reclaimed the ground floor and is doing business there beneath the ruins of the upper stories.

Remember Grecian-type building on the north side of the avenue which housed the tomb of the unknown soldier? It is still there, but no black-booted guard of honor stands at attention outside any more. Through the rusty grilled door you can see a dry wreath on the tomb. A few people stop in the desolate street to peer in.

Sticking out of one ruin is a steel beam some airman's bomb bent into the shape of a question mark. Maybe the beam is asking what happened. But if the question is when all this mess will be cleaned up, the answer may take 40 years. Berlin wasn't built in a day. Army engineers doubt it can be rebuilt in less than half a century. Frankfurt, Munich and Nuernberg are as badly ruined as Berlin, if not worse. The work of clearance goes on slowly. One plan is to make a memorial mountain of Berlin's rubble by piling it up in the big public park called the Tiergarten. Another is to put it through rock crushers and remold it into building blocks.

Temporary narrow gauge tracks wind through some of the worst ruins. Over these the Germans are slowly hauling away bricks and broken masonry. When one collapsed building is cleared away the tracks are moved up beside another.

The steeple of Boston's Old North Church has a chime of eight bells, oldest in America. The bells were rung there in 1744.

Two Jap Officers Who Ordered Bataan March Go On Trial

YOKOHAMA, June 7. (INS)—Two Japanese officers, accused of ordering the Bataan death march, went on trial for their lives today.

The two officers, Maj. Gen. Yoshitaka Kawane and Col. Kuratoro Hirano, are charged with responsibility for the deaths of 1,200 Americans and 10,000 Filipinos during the infamous march.

They also are accused of responsibility for the deaths of 1,548 Americans and 25,000 Filipinos at Camp O'Donnell where the marchers were imprisoned in hovels after seven nightmarish nights and days during the march.

Prisoners Were Beaten

Kawane and Hirano pleaded not guilty before a U. S. military trial board.

Kawane was chief of the Japanese 14th army's transportation division which was responsible for all prisoners of war in the Philippines in 1942.

Hirano commanded the transportation unit directly charged with the task of moving the death marchers from Bataan to Camp O'Donnell.

During the seven-day foot march from Mariveles on Bataan peninsula to San Fernando—a distance of 70 miles—American and Filipino prisoners were killed or beaten if they lagged because of exhaustion or stopped to eat or drink.

The survivors of the march from Bataan to San Fernando were jammed into box cars at San Fernando for the final 30 miles of the death trip to Camp O'Donnell.

Cat Which Walked 420 Miles Finds Master Already Gone

LEOMINSTER, Mass., June 7. (AP)—"Fluffy," a one-year-old Angora, arrived home today after apparently walking 420 miles from Buffalo, N. Y., only to find her master gone.

Ben Hansberry sold his house here a month ago and set out by trailer with his family for Moses Lake, Washington.

"Fluffy" went sight-seeing during a one-night stopover in Buffalo. When she didn't return the next day, the Hansberrys went on their way.

The cat was weak when she reached here; her fine fur coat matted, her claws worn to the pad.

Neighbors took her to an animal hospital, where she is reported making a good recovery. She will be flown to the Hansberrys later.

Carburetor Too Rich Makes Motorist Too Poor

Car owners who are wasting money and not getting proper gas mileage due to over-rich mixtures will be pleased to learn of a Wisconsin inventor who has developed a very clever unit that helps save gasoline by "Vacumating." It is automatic and operates on the supercharge principle. Easily installed in a few minutes. Fits all cars, trucks, tractors. The manufacturers, the Vacu-matic Carburetor Co., 7617-685-C State St., Wauwatosa, Wis., are offering a Vacu-matic to anyone who will install it on his car and help introduce it to others. They will gladly send full free particulars if you write them or just send your name and address on a penny post card today. Adv.

Hubbers On Rampage; Down Oilers, 3-2

Ramsey Scatters Eight Oiler Hits

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche Sports Editor

The rain didn't come down soon enough to save Manager Grover Seitz and his Pampa Oilers last night, the visitors dropping their second straight game to the rampant Lubbock Hubbers, 3-2.

Robert "Red" Ramsey, the Dallas boy with so much promise, lived up to his original billing last night at Rosenthal Field, scattering eight Pampa hits and keeping the tense situation pretty well under control at all times.

Get Three Doubles

And the Hubbers exploded in two innings, which was just long enough to give them a close, exciting ball game. They only collected four hits off Foster White and Merlin Hubbard, but three of them were doubles and they came when they were needed the most.

Jackie Wilcox got things underway in the first inning, when he was safe on Earl Harriman's error. Chick Fowler crossed up the Oiler team by driving a double into the rightfield pasture and Wilcox went around to third. Manager Jackie Sullivan promptly lifted a fly to centerfield on which neither player could advance.

Walker Scores Runner

Seitz then went into conference with his pitcher and the dangerous Virgil Richardson was walked to load the sacks. Floyd "Jumbo" Walker, the dainty rookie from Dallas, then foiled Seitz by driving a long fly to center that scored Wilcox.

The Hubbers went down peacefully in the second, but won the game in the third, quickly and surely. Wilcox led off with a free trip to first and stole second.

Fowler grounded out, but Sullivan drilled a double into left centerfield to score Wilcox. Richardson grounded out to the first baseman and Walker, not one to lose an opportunity, sent a screamer into rightfield that went for two bases and drove in Sullivan with the winning run.

Pampa Scores Twice

After that the Hubbers never had men past second base, although runners reached that spot three times. As it turned out, those three early runs stood up.

Pampa scored a run in the first on a single by R. C. Otey, a two-base error and a long fly. They picked up their final run when Pinchhitter Roy Parker tripled in the seventh and scored on Otey's scoring fly to center.

Tonight the Hubbers will pitch Bob Clodfelter at Pampa and Seitz probably will counter with Howard Bass.

Browns And Braves Win

Garver's Pitching Sparks Brown Win

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP)—Rookie righthander Ned Garver pitched the St. Louis Browns to a 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees today to end a six game St. Louis losing streak.

Garver was tapped for 11 hits including homers by Johnny Lindell, Phil Rizzuto and three singles by Joe DiMaggio but he had it in the clutch.

The Brownies walloped Spec Shea and Joe Page for 12 bingles with Les Moss leading the way with a double and two singles.

After Lindell homered in the third to break a scoreless tie, the Brownies, aided by Bobby Brown's error, scored twice in the fourth to take the lead.

George Binks, recently obtained from Philadelphia, opened the Brownie fourth with a bunt single. He zipped to third as Paul Lehner's grounder went through Brown. After Chuck Stevens popped out, Moss rammed a single to center to score Binks and send Lehner to third. Garver flied to left and Lehner tallied after the catch to put the Browns ahead.

Slaton Tigers Down Seagraves Nine, 16-3

SLATON, June 7 (Special—The Slaton Tigers turned back the Seagraves baseball team here Sunday afternoon in an Oil Belt League game, 16-3, handing Denny Davidson his first defeat of the season.

Davidson, former Lubbock High school hurler, was reached for nine hits in the first eight innings and gave up most of the winner's runs. He was relieved during an eight-run Slaton eighth inning by Gentry, who finished.

Faulkner, the winning hurler, led his team with three hits in four trips, while Cope topped the Seagraves nine with the same total.

In other games over the Sabbath in the loop, Sundown was licked by Denver City, 9-4, and Littlefield beat Post 7-5.

The Slaton-Seagraves line score:

Sunbeamers Defeat Golden Light, 2-1

The Bluebonnet - Sunbeamers and Golden Light Coffee met here last night at Webster Field, and the battle was so close that the Sunbeamers barely eked out a 2 to 1 victory over their opponents.

The league-leading Bluebonnet-Sunbeamers squad scored in the third inning when Blackie Hilliard received a base on balls. Hilliard then stole second and came home on two successive sacrifice bunts by Neel and Spears. The Coffeemen tied the score in the fourth as Calahan drew a free pass to first base. He then stole second base and scored on Baker's single to right centerfield.

The Sunbeamers really gained the win in the last inning when Clark was safe at first on an infield hit. He then went to second on Hilliard's perfect bunt and scored on Neel's hit into right field and the ball game was won.

Dewey Carr pitched good ball for the Golden Lighters but his mates made three errors. Neel struck out ten for the Laundry men and gave up one hit. His teammates gave him errorless support.

Tonight, a double header will be unreeled as the Golden Lighters tangle with Thomas Jewelers at 8:30 and Baldridge Bakery will meet the Sunbeamers in the second game.

The Bluebonnet-Sunbeamer nine have won 19 consecutive games to lead the Texas Softball league play.

Methodists, Sanders Lead Softball Loops

The First Methodist church's softball team, with a record of six victories and no defeats, leads the City Softball League and the Sanders Motor company team, with four wins and one loss, tops the Industrial Softball League.

Standings released yesterday by Curtis Barrett, Recreation Department director, show both teams setting the pace, with Levine's and the Bennett Motor company teams in the cellar in the respective leagues.

The proposed girl's softball league will start on June 14, with two teams already entered, another promised and a fourth needed. Barrett said that the College Avenue Coeds will have one team and the Salvation Army will sponsor the other. The third team is expected to announce entry early this week.

Barrett said that the league needs a fourth team and every effort is being made to obtain a sponsor for this team. If any company or organization is interested in sponsoring a team, please call Barrett at 9346, or stop by Room 106 in the City Hall.

Brave Home Runs Russell Bats In

CHICAGO, June 7 (AP)—Jim Russell had himself a field day at the plate here today as the Boston Braves beat the Chicago Cubs 9 to 5. It was the Cubs' sixth straight loss.

The slender outfielder smashed out his sixth and seventh homers of the season and two doubles for four of Boston's seven hits. He drove in five tallies and scored another himself.

Russell's first homer followed walks to Tommy Holmes and Bob Elliott in the fifth inning and gave the Braves their winning tallies. They were trailing, 5-4, at the time. Phil Masi followed in the same round with his first circuit blow of the year to help deal "Dutch" McCall his fourth defeat.

Russell's final homer came off Ralph Hamner, fourth Cub pitcher, in the ninth. This one was stroked from the left side of the plate. The first one was from the right.

Bill Volselle was routed in the fourth by the Cubs. Red Barrett took over and slammed the door on the Cubs, yielding only one more hit the rest of the way to earn the verdict.

GIANTS EDGE PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, June 7 (AP)—The New York Giants battling to get back in first place, scored six runs in the last three innings tonight to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9 to 5.

Home runs produced four of the Giant tallies. Bobby Thomson homered with one aboard in the seventh and Wes Westrum did the same in the ninth.

The night contest attracted 23,243 fans.

National Open Play Set For Thursday

LOS ANGELES, June 7 (INS)—Leading golfers of the nation started official practice rounds today for Thursday's opening of the National Open over the tough Riviera golf course.

Top players Ben Hogan, Bobby Locke, Craig Wood, Vic Ghezzi, Frank Stranahan, Ed Furgol, Chick Harbert and national amateur champion Skee Riegel were out perfecting their shots for golfdom's most coveted prize.

A field of 171 golfers, 129 pros and 42 amateurs, are qualified or the three-day tournament. Twenty-five of the qualifiers are from the Los Angeles area—the best of 271 entrants in a sectional trial. Altogether 1418 players tried to qualify.

Officials estimate the open is worth $100,000 to the winner in testimonials and advertising alone.

Strangely enough, the man most favored over nine former titleholders is Hogan, the bantamweight from Hershey, Pa., who has never finished higher in the open than a tie for third.

All-Yank Links Play Is Richest

CHICAGO, June 7 (INS)—George Storr May, proprietor of the annual All-American golf tournaments, said today more than $55,000 in prize money will be offered during this year's All-American and a special "World's Championship" meet to follow.

The All-American professional, amateur and women's tourneys will be conducted simultaneously at May's famed Tam O'Shanter club in Chicago August 3 through 6. Directly thereafter, on August 7 and 8, four specially-selected groups will compete in 36 holes of medal play for the men professionals', women's profesionals', men amateurs' and women amateurs' "World Championships."

$31,000 In Prizes

The breakdown of the moneys to be awarded show that the major tourney, the All-American professional, remains the nation's richest. It will offer $31,000 in prizes this year.

The All-American women's tourney will carry a total prize weight of $4,500, and the All-American amateur an aggregate merchandise retail value in the amount of $1,495.

The "World Championship" affairs, set up along winner-take-all lines, will offer $10,000 to the male pro winner, $1,000 to the woman pro, $100 each in prize values to the man and woman amateur victors.

Rudolph, Former Braves Hurler To Coach Girls Baseball League

NEW YORK, June 7 (INS)—Dick Rudolph, former star pitcher for the Boston Braves' "Miracle Team" of 1914, arranged today to coach the Bronx, N. Y. entry in the National Girls baseball league.

The league, in process of organization, will get underway next year.

Rudolph, aided by "Lefty" Tyler and Bill James, pitched the Braves from the National league cellar on July 4, 1914 to the pennant and a four-straight victory over the Philadelphia Athletics in the world series.

HILL NAMED REFEREE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 7 (INS)—Frank Hill, veteran track and field coach at Northwestern university, today was named referee for the 27th annual N. C. A. A championships, to be held June 18 and 19 at the University of Minnesota.

Selection of Hill was announced by Frank G. McCormick, Minnesota's director of athletics and chairman of the games committee for the N. C. A. A. meet.

Odds Against 15 Rounds

Graziano Is Favored To Kayo Tony Zale

NEW YORK, June 7. (AP)—Lean and tense at 157 pounds after his final workout, middleweight champ Rock Graziano today was a confident 5 to 12 favorite to whip 34-year-old Tony Zale Wednesday night in Newark's Ruppert Stadium.

An eight-year edge in youth and Graziano's knockout win in Chicago last July apparently dimmed memories of Zale's crushing right under the heart that flattened Rocky in 1946. It was possible that the odds might even lengthen before ring time.

Zale, perfectly conditioned after a long training grind, weighed 160 pounds. He did no actual sparring but worked eight rounds, shadow boxing, rope jumping and bag punching.

Graziano went four rounds against a pair of fast-moving welters in the steaming confines of Stillman's gym.

Although this figures to be a knockout fight and it's 8 to 1 that it won't go the scheduled 15 heats, Graziano's left hand may be surprisingly effective. So far he has been right hand crazy and may be again in the heat of battle, but trainer Whitey Bimstein has been working hard on that left hook to the body.

"I hope I'll catch him early," said Rocky, "I'm going to try to knock him out. But I don't predict any round."

It looked now as though a $350,000 house was about as much as could be expected although a weatherman gave hope that there is a good chance for fair weather.

Graziano is getting a $120,000 guarantee and Zale $60,000.

Use Six Referees

Commissioner Abe Greene of the New Jersey State athletic commission announced that six referees will be used on the card, almost one for each bout. The ref for the main event will not be announced until just before the main event but Paul Cavalier, chief referee of the state, is expected to be the man.

New York began to take on a big fight atmosphere with the arrival of a number of out-of-town boxing people who will remain for the heavyweight title bout between Joe Louis and Jersey Joe Walcott, June 23, The Queen Mary brought some British boxing experts as well as London promoter Jack Solomons.

Zale's four brothers arrived with a large contingent from the ex-champ's home town of Gary, Ind. Rockey's gang from the lower east side also was girding itself for the 'invasion" of New Jersey.

BROWNFIELD WINS 8-3

The Brownfield Bears came up with a double steal last night to down the Levelland Refiners, 8 to 3.

Brownfield was sparked by the pitching of Bish, who hurled the whole game, but the best play came when Graham stole second, and Anderson resting on third, stole home to make it a double steal.

The Line score:

Brownfield	110 201 000—	5	8 3
Levelland	100 000 101—	3	12 2

Bish; Williams, Estes and Trammel.

SANDERS MOTOR WINS

IDALOU, June 7. (Special) — Sanders Motor company softball team beat Idalou softball team here today 7 to 3 behind the capable hurling of Walter Bumpass, who also led the hitting attack. Bumpass slammed a two-run homer to aid his own cause and the entire Sanders team hit well.

Rawls Sparks Texas Women's Links Play

HOUSTON, June 7. (AP)—Betsy Rawls, University of Texas student from Austin, today took medalist honors in the qualifying round of the fifteenth annual tournament of the Texas Women's Public Links golf association.

Miss Rawls fired a 36-40—76 score on the 5527-yard, par 75 Memorial park municipal course to finish five strokes ahead of Mrs. H. W. Tyson, lefthanded Houston City champion last year.

Mrs. Tyson carded a 38-43—81.

Placing third with 85 was Mrs. Helen Brunner, Dallas, followed by Mrs. E. H. Wahlfahrt, Houston, and Mrs. Jack Watson, Harlingen, with 86, and Mrs. F. S. Turner, Baytown, and Mrs. C. M. Burns, Dallas, with 88.

Tigers, Ex. Club Win Kid Games

The Tigers edged the Dodgers 20-19 yesterday in the Pee Wee League, while in the American Legion's South League, the Exchange Club defeated the ABC's 9-6.

Two batters, C. Moore and Johnson helped the tigers gain their one point victory by knocking out three singles, a triple and a homer in five times up. Johnson scored a homer in the second inning, to start the Tigers on their winning way, but the Dodgers kept slamming them in and had three runs in the seventh when the Tigers made one more to give them the margin. The Tigers got 18 hits and the Dodgers 13.

For the Dodgers, William Sinclair got a triple and a single in as many times at bat, while C Thompson batted out a single and a homer in three times with two men on.

In the Junior League, the Exchange Club, sparked by the batting of three men, Brewer, Craig and Ramphy, edged the ABC nine, for a 9 to 6 win. The ABC's Bobby Tollison's three singles and a triple in four times at bat, was overshadowed by the Exchange Club players, who stayed out in front for the whole of the game.

Junior League games tomorrow will be between the Red Sox and the Cardinals at 3 p. m., and the JC's versus Methodist Men at 5:30 p. m. Both games will be played at the Lubbock Boy's Club.

Lubbock Barber College Nine Trips Levine Softballers, 13-6

The Barber College softball team won another victory in the City Softball League yesterday afternoon, turning in a 13-6 win over the Levine's nine.

The First Presbyterians beat the Asbury Methodist softball team 4 to 2 and the Salvation Army announced the forfeit of a game to them by the First Christians.

Vanderventer and Kirkham were the winning batteries for the Barber College team.

Lamesa Nine Beats Abilene For Fifth Win

ABILENE, June 7 (Special)—The Lamesa Loboes won their fifth straight victory here tonight at the expense of the Abilene Blue ox, who dropped their sixth straight game, 10-0.

Chris Haskins, who is turning into one of the better hurlers in the loop, hung up his first whitewash of the season and his fifth victory. He gave up two consecutive singles in the second and then not another hit until the eighth.

The Loboes lost no time in nicking Bernis Coapland for three runs in the first. Douthit was safe on an error, Palmer doubled to left and Fiarito doubled to right to score both runners. Sturdivant and Skidgel walked and Fiarito came in on Glica's error of Burke's grounder.

In the second, Douthit led off with a long homer and after Palmer had singled a double play erased him. Sturdivant then singled and came all the way around on Skrabacz's long double.

The Loboes kept pecking away at Coapland and easily won the game, their second shutout victory of the season.

Income Tax Estimate Deadline June 15 Will Affect Millions

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP) — By June 15 between 5,000,000 and 7,000,000 people must do something about their 1948 estimated income tax.

That deadline—because of the new 1948 tax cut—means:

1. Some won't have to pay any further estimated tax. But they must show why by filling out form 1040-ES and sending it to their internal revenue colector.

2. Some will pay less estimated tax than they figured they'd have to earlier in the year. They, too, must show why by revising their 1948 estimate downward on form 1040-ES.

Reasons Explained

Here is the story:

By last March 15 those 5,000,000 ot 7,000,000 people put the first of their four payments on their 1948 estimated tax. The payments are due June 15, Sept. 15 and Jan. 15, 1949.

You had to do this if:

1. No tax was to be withheld from your 1948 income. That applies to lawyers, doctors, and landlords for example. It meant paying in four equal installments the full tax you estimated you'd owe for 1948.

2. Some, but not all, of your 1948 tax was to be withheld from your income this year. This meant paying, in four equal installments, the difference between the tax withheld from you and the full tax you estimated you'd owe for 1948.

Tax Cut Passed

But since March 15 when the first estimated tax payment was made, the new 1948 tax cut has gone into effect.

So—the people who paid an estimated tax will have to make either no further payments, or reduced payments, depending on the size of their income.

If you want to find out whether you pay less tax or no more at all, look on the back of form 1040-ES.

For those making under 5,000, there's a table. You can find your tax there. For those making over $5,000, there's a step-by-step way of figuring your tax on the back of the form.

Here are some points to keep in mind:

The under-$5,000 people get a 10 percent deduction—such as for charitable contributions—but it's already figured in the table. You don't have to worry about it.

But for the over-$5,000 people—Under the old law anyone with income over $5,000 automatically could take a $500 deduction without itemizing any of it.

Now those over-$5,000 people automatically—and without itemizing—can take a 10 percent deduction on their income up to $10,000. For example.

A person with a gross $8,000 income, could take an $800 deduction. A person with a $10,000 income, automatically and without itemizing, can take off a $1,000 deduction.

But anyone who wants to take more than a $1,000 deduction, must itemize, no matter how big his income.

Under the old law, except in community property states, a husband or wife could not claim part of the other's income in making a tax return.

Now, under the new law, husbands and wives everywhere can do that. The purpose of this part of the new law is to help reduce married couples' taxes.

May Save Tax

So, if you have to do something about your estimated tax by June 15, you may reduce your tax or save yourself from any further tax by filing a joint, revised estimated tax return with your wife, letting her claim half your 1948 income.

(The way you do it is explained on the back of form 1040-ES).

But—in the regular community property states now husbands and wives can split their income—to reduce their total tax—by filing separate returns.

In the non-community property states husbands and wives cannot claim half of each other's income unless they file a joint return.

There are other points to remember:

Every taxpayer, no matter what his age, now gets a personal exemption of $600 for himself, $600 for his wife, and $600 for each dependent. It used to be an exemption of only $600 for each.

Exemptions Explained

If you're 65 or will be in 1948, you get an extra $600 exemption. So does your wife if she's that old. Example: A couple, both 65, get a total exemption of $2,400—$1,200 for him, $1,200 for her.

Every taxpayer who is blind gets an extra $600. If your wife is blind, you get an extra $600 for her. Example: You and your wife, both 30 years old and blind, get a total exemption of $2,400, which is $1,200 for you, $1,200 for her.

But if you're blind and 65 you get an $1,800 exemption: $600 regular, $600 for being 65, plus $600 being blind. The same goes for your wife.

But for a dependent, such as your mother, you may get only the regular $600 exemption, even though she is 65 and blind.

First Polio Death Of Year Is Reported At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, June 7 (AP)—Fort Worth's first polio death for the year, that of a nine-months-old child, was reported today. The victim was Sharon Elaine Pack. A seven-year-old girl was in the City-County hospital with what was diagnosed as bulbar polio. An eight-year-old boy was under observation as a suspected case.

Trainmen Fined For Blocking Traffic

DALLAS, June 7 (AP) — A Fort Worth & Denver passenger train was held at Irving, between Dallas and Fort Worth, for 15 minutes today while a justice of the peace fined the train crew $17.50 for blocking traffic.

Constable R. S. Cox said he climbed aboard the engine, told the engineer to hold the train while he went for the judge. Cox said "there were at least 100 cars blocked on North Brittain street."

Justice C. M. Cantrell held the court in the road after trainmen protested they did not have time to attend court.

Hours For Choral Singing Class At School Changed

The hours for the afternoon choral singing class in summer school have been changed for the convenience of students, Floyd Honey, senior high principal, announced today.

The class for junior and senior high school students which has been scheduled from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. will now meet from 1:30 until 3:30 p.m., it was announced.

Miss Imogene Webster, teacher of the choral class, pointed out that the non-credit course is especially beneficial to elementary school students who will enter junior high this fall and who are interested in taking choral work. Miss Webster said the course is "singing for fun".

J. H. Penn's choral class meets from 8 a.m. until 12 each day and this course also is open to all choral students. All classes are held in the senior high school music room.

Three Persons Injured In Collision North Of City

A Lubbock man, his wife and daughter were badly shaken up about 7:30 o'clock Sunday night in a collision one mile north of the city limits on the Plainview highway.

A car driven by Daniel E. VanNess, 47, of 604-A Ave. O., collided with a car driven by Charlie Matthews Johnson of Roswell, N. M., when VanNess, driving north, attempted to turn into a service station one the left side of the road to turn back into town. Johnson was driving south.

Evelyn VanNess, 39, his wife, and Linda, 14 months, a daughter, were treated and dismissed at Lubbock Memorial hospital. Mrs. VanNess, who did not regain consciousness until she reached the hospital, suffered severe bruises of the scalp and forehead, and Linda received minor bruises of the forehead. Johnson and VanNess received only minor injuries.

LUCKY DAY WHEN HIS WIFE BOUGHT FIRST BOTTLE OF RETONGA

Plagued By Gassy Stomach, Constipation For Many Years, Auto Mechanic Describes The Prompt Relief Ramous Herbal Medicine Brought Him.

"It was a lucky day for us when my wife got my first bottle of Retonga," happily declares Mr. Lester Wood of 1084 W. 4th Street, Pomona, Cal. Mr. Wood, who enjoys a wide circle of friends, has been an auto mechanic and welder for 25 years and owns his own home in Pomona.

"Over a period of about 10 years," continues Mr. Wood, "I spent nearly a thousand dollars trying all kinds of medicines. I was in misery most of the time. It seemed like everything I ate soured in my stomach and gave me severe gas pains. At times it was hard for me to keep food on my stomach, and I often lost my breakfast before getting to work. I didn't sleep well and felt tired and irritable most of the time. I battled with constipation, too, and was constantly taking strong laxatives.

"Then, one day my wife read a statement about Retonga in the paper, and persuaded me to try a bottle. How glad I am she did, for it brought me prompt relief after all those years of suffering. Today, I eat heartily without fear of unpleasant after effects, sleep soundly and feel stronger; work from morning till night without tiring. Even my disposition is improved, and my stubborn bowels have been relieved. It was a lucky day for me when my wife got my first bottle of Retonga."

MR. LESTER WOOD

Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, loss of appetite, borderline Vitamin B-1 deficiency, and constipation. If the first bottle fails to give you gratifying relief, your money will be refunded. You can get Retonga at all good drug stores, including Mark Halsey Drug Stores. Adv.

Degrees Are Awarded 1948 Tech Class In Ceremony Monday Night

are what make romance out of the story of success."

He said he is not one of those who would say the future today is not promising.

Mentioning accomplishments of Benjamin Franklin, those who developed the machine age, and Einstein, he said he realized he was talking about genius and few, if any, of those present could make similar contributions, but, "That does not mean, however, that you need to cry like Alexander because there are no worlds to conquer. There are worlds to conquer for everybody. The world to each one of us is the world in which we live, have our own being, build our dreams and make our dreams come true." It may be in ownership and development of a farm; maintaining a home and rearing a family; in conquering their particular world in field of engineering, in making contributions as chemists, each in his own field, he told graduates. "If you have the will to do it, you can conquer your world without crying as Alexander because there are none left to challenge your capacity."

Degrees Conferred Early

Degrees were conferred early in the program, because of possibility rain would halt the exercises. Candidates for degrees were presented by deans and degrees were conferred by President William M. Whyburn. The diplomas later were awarded, rain not developing during the exercises. In the class were 749 members, some of whom received degrees in absentia.

An honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon President Whyburn. Dr. W. C. Holden, dean of graduate studies, presented Dr. Whyburn for the degree. Charles C. Thompson of Colorado City, chairman of the board of directors, conferred the degree. Dr. Holden said Dr. Whyburn had made a signal contribution to this part of the nation, "to which by birth he belongs."

Presentation of the class gift of 13 markers for campus buildings was made by Floyd Read, president of the class. Acceptance was by the board chairman.

Fifty-one R. O. T. C. commissions were awarded by Lt. Col. L. C. Adams, head of military science and tactics at the college.

The wood-wind ensemble of the college band played processional and recessional music.

Invocation was by Rev. Carl Spain, associate minister of Broadway Church of Christ, and benediction by Rev. William F. Blakeslee, pastor of St. Elizabeth's Catholic church. The wood-wind ensemble played "Aria" (Tenaglia).

Oklahoma City Pastor Is Speaker For Tech Baccalaureate Ceremony; Warning Given

Baccalaureate services for the 1948 class at Texas Technological college inaugurated the graduation program Sunday night with Dr. William H. Alexander of the First Christian church of Oklahoma City delivering the address.

About 6,000 Attend

Approximately 6,000 persons, in addition to the graduates and faculty of the college, were in attendance.

Warning his listeners that he was going "to shoot straight from the shoulder . . . with some things that might be unpopular," Dr. Alexander delivered one of the more unusual and frankest commentaries on the so-called present confused attitude of world thinking that has been heard in Lubbock in recent months.

Discussing problems from the racial question and equal educational opportunities for the negro race to what he termed needed reforms in the church itself, Dr. Alexander made these points:

Will Make Or Break

1. "Civilization will be made or broken within the next 20 years."

2. "We of the church are missing the ball . . ." The church needs to be reformed. "We have cluttered it up with prejudiced thinking . . ." In this connection, he assailed certain church groups who had criticized "one of our great colleges for awarding the President of the United States an honorary degree."

"If we have no more important things to do than such pusillanimous thinking about whether the President plays poker or takes a drink, then we had better close the doors of our churches," he asserted.

Equal Opportunity Needed

3. Asking "How long has it been since you heard an honest to God sermon on the racial question in Texas?" the Oklahoma City pastor said: "We had better give the negro in Oklahoma and Texas equal educational opportunities within the next 10 years or we will rue the day."

Telling of a conversation with an official of Oklahoma's negro college, Dr. Alexander quoted his friend as saying: "Dr. Alexander, if you say I am not clean, then I can do something about that. If you say you do not like the color of my skin, then there is nothing I can do about that but become bitter within."

Want Vital Approach

4. "The young people of today want something of a vital approach on which to base a way of life . . . We have said don't do this, don't do that, and don't do this to young people for years. But we haven't given them any positive thing TO do."

He then related that his church in Oklahoma City has a youth center in which there are games and dancing allowed. "And I can tell you right now that there is more Christianity among those young people than there is in my entire board of elders, deacons and deaconeses combined!"

Continuing along this line, the red-headed, dynamic Oklahoman then leaned over the speaking stand and said:

"We will either help young people find a positive approach to life" according to the basic teachings of Jesus Christ, "or our world will not to be here 25 years from tonight."

All Brakes Out

Dr. Alexander started his address by telling his audience that the United States was like a train traveling 90 miles an hour and headed downhill toward a cliff "with all brakes out and loaded with dynamite."

The men at the throttle, he said, apparently do not know what to do. There are men in the engine pulling switches, he said, and there are some even burning money in the engine. In one part of the train, he said, labor was plotting against the rich in the club car, planning to "blow them up." In the club car there were men plotting to starve those in the rest of the train.

A scientist, a college president or a preacher even may come in to warn those in the coaches of impending disaster. "But no one hears," he asserted, "because they are all too busy listening to soap operas . . . or reading pulp magazines."

Dr. Alexander, one of the more widely known religious leaders of the Southwest, told his audience seated in the West stands that in all the darkest history of the world, man has depended not upon 98 per cent of the people to lead but upon 2 per cent; that there has been fostered in this country a belief that if people won't work the government will take care of them; that with such an idea this nation will lose the spirit which made it great; that it is wishful thinking to believe we can build a school system where we . . . pay teachers in starvation wages.

Repeats Basic Theme

In conclusion, Dr. Alexander, mentioning that he had made eight talks in eight states last week, repeated his basic theme for the Tech class, a quotation from Henry Van Dyke's "Four Things."

"Four things a man must learn to do
If he would make his record true:
To think without confusion clearly;
To love one's fellowman sincerely;
To act from honest motives purely;
To trust in God and Heaven securely."

Dr. Alexander was introduced by Dr. Wm. M. Whyburn, president of Texas Tech. The Rev. Dr. H. I. Robinson gave the invocation, Rev. C. Melvin Ratheal of the Parkdale Baptist church, the benediction.

Dean James G. Allen, dean of men of Texas Tech, presided.

Poll Tax Ban Voted

other legislation.

Then came the seventh amendment, which would forbid any state to collect a poll tax from a member of the armed forces before allowing him to vote.

Republican leaders, who had stood firm against the first tax amendments on tactical grounds divided on the anti-poll tax proposal.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) endorsed it and called for a roll call. Chairman Gurney (R-S.D.) of the armed services committee said he thought the Senate should have a chance to vote on it. Later he changed his decision.

Solon Issues Challenge

Southern senators already were on their feet. Senator Russell (D-Ga.) shouted that the amendment "goes to the very heart of the constitution of the United States and for that reason it should not be adopted."

Senator Stennis (D-Miss.) said he challenged the right of Congress to legislate on state voting. He declared that state suffrage, taxation and police powers are not subject to congressional "interference."

Langer's amendment kept the Senate, now on an overtime schedule in the drive for adjournment by June 19, in session well into the night. After three amendments were shelved, he refused to let the others be considered all at once.

His amendment to ban race segregation in the armed forces was tabled, on a roll call vote of 67 to 7.

Final Action Seen

Another amendment, to forbid discrimination against any member of the armed forces traveling on a common carrier, was tabled by a voice vote.

Indications were that the Senate would take final action on the draft bill this week. The House is waiting for the Senate to act before taking up a draft bill of its own.

SAN ANTONIO DOWNS OILERS

SAN ANTONIO, June 7 (AP)—The San Antonio Missions notched their second straight victory Monday night as they took the series opener from the Tulsa Oilers, 9 to 4.

Ken Jungles received credit for the victory though he had to have help from John Pavlick in the sixth. They combined to limit the Oilers to seven hits.

sion on routine business matters of the college prevented such action. The entire afternoon session was "executive" and newspapermen were excluded, but it was revealed after the meeting that the topic of increased room rent charges for dormitories was among those discussed. Bill Nugent, Amarillo, student council president, appeared before the board in the rent discussion.

Although no change was made in charges, which increased rents in the dormitories from $50 to $60 where two students are in a room and from $47.50 to $57.50 where three students are in a room, board members said the "dormitory budget would be kept under close scrutiny."

Statue Accepted

The board also accepted a life-size bronze statue of Will Rogers, donated by Amon G. Carter, Fort Worth Star-Telegram publiser who served as first chairman of the Tech board, to be placed at the west end of the esplanade near the entrance to the campus, where the flagpole is now located.

Approval of a flight training program for veterans as a regular catalog course was another highlight of the day's meeting.

The board meeting also saw the approval of various routine matters pertaining to college business and the passage of a resolution commending the regime of Dr. Whyburn as president of the school. Dr. Whyburn has resigned effective Aug. 31 to accept a position as a member of the staff of the University of North Carolina.

Tribute Paid Root

In addition to the Whyburn resolution, the board also called in T. C. Root, administrative assistant, who resigned last week to accept a post as assistant to Dr. Umphrey Lee, president of Southern Methodist university at Dallas, as assistant in finance administration. With A. G. (Pat) Mayse of Paris as spokesman, the board paid tribute to Root, expressing "appreciation for the splendid work you have done here at Texas Tech. We want you to know that you go with our best wishes for your continued success."

In a brief response, Root declared, "I hate to leave Texas Tech at a time when its future looks so bright."

Chairman Chas. C. Thompson also read a resolution from the faculty commending Dr. Whyburn's regime at Tech.

Contributions Reported

Chanslor Weymouth, board member from Amarillo, reported "contributions" by five West Texas cattlemen in the purchase of cattle for the wheat poisoning research program at Tech's Pantex Farm near Amarillo and the board voted to send a letter of thanks. The cattlemen were: J.. C. Bridwell, Wichita Falls; the W. T. Waggoner estate, Vernon; Malcolm Shelton, Amarillo; Albert Mitchell, Albert, N. M., and Newton Harrell, Claude.

The board recommended by resolution that Tech join Texas A. and M. college in an appropriations request for research in bindweed to be conducted at Pantex.

The flight training program will be listed in the catalog as "Economics (Aviation) 233-2 and will include 50 hours of ground school instruction, 19 hours of dual flight instruction and 26 hours of solo flight time. Fees worked out with a local fixed base operator and the Veterans administration in conference with deans and the coordinator of veterans' affairs include 70 cents per hour for ground school instruction; $11 an hour for dual flight instruction and $8 per hour for solo flight training.

The board also approved three leaves of absence for Miss Margaret Henderson, instructor in secretarial administration, to do graduate study at the University of Denver; Prof. Casey Fine, animal husbandry professor, to study at the University of Minnesota; and A. S. Gaylord, jr., librarian, to study at the University of California.

Besides Thompson, Weymouth and Mayse, other attending Monday's meeting included: Mark McGee, Fort Worth; Leon Ince, Houston; Charles Wooldridge, Dallas; and O. B. Ratliff, Lubbock. Kyle Spiller, Jacksboro, was unable to attend because of illness.

Mesdames Wooldridge, Thompson, Mayse and Price accompanied their husbands here for the commencement program.

Coal Talks Resumed

the last of the nationwide meat strike fizzled out. About 8,000 CIO Packinghouse Workers called off an 82-day-old strike against Wilson and company and reported for work.

The UPWA said the return of Wilson employes was made under the same conditions as those ending of the strike against other packers May 21, including acceptance of a nine-cent hourly wage boost. The company said that strikers would be re-hired only "as work is available," and that strikers who engaged in unlawful acts would not be taken back.

At Warren, O., AFL printers left their jobs at the Warren Tribune-Chronicle to back up a 45-cent wage increase demand over the present $1.67½ cent hourly scale.

And at Oak Ridge, Tenn., a hopeful note of settling a months-long labor dispute in an atomic energy plant without a strike was sounded today as contract negotiations were renewed.

SHREVEPORT GAINS WIN

SHRREVEPORT, La., June 7. (AP)—Shreveport broke the Fort Worth jinx here tonight as Garth Mann hurled the Sports to a 7-6 victory over the league-leaders. The triumph also preserved Mann's perfect record, giving him six wins against no losses.

In registering their first win over the Cats this year, the Sports were helped by the wildness of George Brown, the Cats' starting pitcher, and some timely hitting.

Bus Line To Pay Workers Bonus

A 5 per cent cost of living bonus, retroactive to May 16 "and to continue for the balance of this year or until further instruction from me," was ordered Thursday by Jess . Levens, vice president of Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches, Inc., it was learned Monday.

A driver's strike has been in progress there since May 21.

Levens, in instructions to H. D. Collings, auditor, authorized that the cost of living bonus should be added to checks of all employes of TNM&O "who were actually working for the company on June 1," and administrative officers.

Following Levens' announcement Monday night, C. H. Smith, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, issued a statement.

Checks Issued Saturday

First checks, issued Saturday, went to a total personnel of 133, including 57 drivers, Levens said.

There are about 65 drivers now in employ of the organization, Levens said.

"I am in position to put 10 of the striking drivers back into employment," Levens said Monday, "at their former pay, plus the 5 per cent cost of living bonus—such drivers to retain their seniority."

Levens said "normalcy in business had been achieved the last six or seven days, with the approximately 90 schedules being run as usual."

Striking Drivers Paid

It was explained that the auditor and the cashier had set up across the street westward from the bus station Saturday so that checks owing striking bus drivers for service May 16 to 21, inclusive could be paid striking drivers without necessity of those drivers having to cross picket lines.

Other than the picketing, all was "quiet," Levens said. Several recent conferences were held between him and a grievance committee representing the striking drivers, who were accompanied by their attorneys. A "status quo" condition exists in regard to negotiations, he said.

Walkout Still On

"The strike of bus operators against Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches, Inc., is still in effect and do not be misled by reports to the contrary," Smith declared.

"The management of the TNM&O has continued to refuse arbitration with a three panel board, a union representative, a management representative and a neutral arbitrator, with Gov. Beauford Jester, Sen. Tom Connally, or Coke Stevenson to appoint the neutral party, Davis said. If they desire to be fair and are sincere in their statements on this question, Davis declared, it certainly seems they could not consistently decline this proposition.

The BRT official said the company refused to agree to restore all bus operators on strike to their jobs on any given date, that is to restore a certain number of drivers immediately, and the balance on a given date. "This did not include any operator under charge of violence," he said.

Investigation Requested

Davis said management had refused to agree that if five operators charged with violence are found not guilty by the courts, to restore them to service, or to name other operators the company alleges to have been guilty of some misconduct or to file charges against those drivers or agree to provide a hearing or an investigation for them by mutual agreement under a provision in the 1947 contract.

"In the final analysis," Davis declared, "the management insists it must be the judge, jury and prosecutor to determine the guilt and innocence of the bus operators, even though they decline to name some of the operators, or state what charges are against them."

"We cannot understand why the company will not permit the courts to determine the issue on the five charged operators as to their guilt or innocence, and are not willing to file charges against drivers that they allege are guilty of misconduct," Davis declared.

"It is, in our opinion, against the democratic principles of our government to convict a bus operator, or anyone else, without a trial. To do so would, in our judgment, at least border on dictatorship," the BRT official said.

Many Drivers Live Here

Davis pointed out that of the 72 men on strike all but five or six lived in Lubbock and 58 of the total were operators. He said 18 were war veterans and many were home owners or were buying homes in Lubbock.

He said a bus operator at five cents a mile would have to drive 7,240 miles a month to make as much as $362 a month as the company has claimed some drivers were paid.

Davis pointed out that while the drivers here were paid from 3 to 5 cents a mile, Continental Bus lines had a top rate of 5.25 cents a mile, Dixie Sunshine a rate of 5.25 cents a mile, Southwestern Greyhound and Santa Fe Trailways a rate of 5.85 or better. Davis said he understood Continental had granted a quarter cent a mile wage hike and had brought their rate to 5.50.

"Is there any reason why drivers living in Lubbock should not have at least the same rates of pay as those operating on the majority of other lines?" Davis asked.

"The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, of which the striking operators presently on strike are members, is opposed to violence of any character in strikes or elsewhere. We believe we have offered fair proposals for settlement. We would welcome a fair settlement in this matter but we cannot accede to what we believe unjust demands made by management," Davis concluded.

All hospitals of importance employ air conditioning in their operating rooms.

News Briefs

Ten members of a 98th district grand jury had been selected yesterday afternoon and investigation had commenced in approximately 45 formally-filed cases, according to the district attorney's department. A quorum was not obtained until late yesterday morning.

The regular meeting of the boy's club, at 2323 Ave. K, has been set for 7:30 o'clock tonight instead of Wednesday night. The change was made to avoid conflict with the rodeo. A movie entitled 'Panamint's Badman' will be shown together with a comedy and the last chapter of a serial, 'The Clutching Hand.' Refreshments will be served.

After a major stomach operation on May 24 in West Texas hospital, Calvin Eoff, 61, of Shallowater route 1, was dismissed from the hospital Thursday, June 3, and went home to his farm to find his 160 acres completely planted in cotton and grain. Mrs. Eoff credited the work to neighbors Paul Isbell, Louis Akins, Paul Watkins, Murrell Galbraith, R. D. Randolph, Walter Lee Randolph, Burt Devers, Joe Doyle, L. W. Utely, James Utley and W. H. Bell.

Judge Walter Davies Monday morning levied a fine of $1 and county court costs totalling $22.40 against T. D. Diffey, who pleaded guilty of violating state check laws.

IOOF And Rebeccas Slate Division Meet

Several hundred members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and the Rebecca lodge, IOOF auxiliary, are expected here for a one-day meeting of Division 5 of the organizations Thursday, it was announced yesterday by C. C. Jones, secretary of Lubbock Lodge No. 609.

Joining the lodge as host for the occasion will be Rebecca Lodge No. 321 of Lubbock. The meeting is to open at 10 a. m. at Fellowshpi hall of First Methodist church, and luncheon is to be served at noon at the LOOF hall, 1913 Ave. K.

Visitors Are Expected

Notable visitors expected include Frank R. Rundell, of Austin, grand master of the Grand Lodge of Texas; and Mrs. Gene Lawless, of El Paso, president of the Rebecca Assembly of Texas.

Schools of instruction are planned for Odd Fellows and Rebeccas beginning at 1:30 p. m. For this, Odd Fellows are to meet at the LOOF hall, and Rebeccas at Fellowship hall at the church.

Initiatory degree for the subordinate lodge will be conferred at 6:30 p. m. by Andrews lodge No. 91 of Andrews. For Odd Fellows this is to be at the hall, and for Rebeccas at the church annex.

A joint night session is to be held at the church annex, featuring talks by Rundell and Mrs. Lawless, the announcement said. The division covers much of West Texas, and an invitation was extended to all Odd Fellows and Rebeccas to attend.

have some people in the United States who would like to restore the Insull era, when they put the welfare of the few promoters above the welfare of the people.

"That situation we have to meet right now. We are faced with it in the Congress. At the last meeting of this Congress they cut the budget for the development of these reclamation and power projects. They are trying to do the same thing right now and I hope that we may be able to save some of the funds that are necessary for the developments set out in this Columbia river basin report."

Mr. Truman went on:

"Had we had some of these projects which have been pending for several years, we might to some extent have alleviated the flood on the Columbia river which caused so much damage."

Mr. Truman will spend the night in Sun Valley before continuing his trip into Montana and the Pacific northwest.

foot in the Columbia at Vancouver —across the river from Portland— before the new crest arrives.

Through train service to Portland across the Columbia river was restored today when a Spokane & Seattle passenger train arrived from Spokane.

The train crept over a trestle driven into the flood-covered lowlands to replace a fill that burst May 30 and permitted the rampant Columbia to flood Vanport on Portland's northern outskirts.

The S.P.&S. plans to begin shuttle passenger train service between Portland and Seattle tomorrow. Highway connections, washed out a day after the Vanport disaster, have not been restored.

Meanwhile, the second flood crest rolled down the Columbia. It registered 29.7 feet in the Williamette at Portland and about 30 feet at Vancouver, where the river gauge can be seen only from a distance. Within a few hours the Williamette had fallen a tenth of a foot.

The first crest last Tuesday was 29.95 feet at Portland and 30.2 at Vancouver.

SPELLMAN IN TOKYO

TOKYO, June 7 (INS)—Francis Cardinal Spellman arrived in Tokyo today to meet Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Emperor Hirohito during his three-day visit in Japan. Gen. MacArthur's aide, Col. S. L. Huff, and a number of Catholic Army chaplains stationed in Japan, greeted the New York cardinal at Haneda airport.

Benes Quits As Czech President

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 7. (AP)—Eduard Benes, Czechoslovakia's last strong link with the west, resigned as president today rather than approve a new constitution drawn up by the Communists. Communist Premier Klement Gottwald was regarded as the leading choice to succeed him.

Benes, 64, had held the post for 11 years in two terms.

His resignation was accepted at a speca emlie lhel5n _NNN-76_ a special meeting of the cabinet and was announced by Gottwald. In a short letter made public by the government, Benes said he decided May 4 to resign and had so informed Gottwald. The letter said:

Health Said Poor

"At this time we discussed my decision and all the problems of the whole political situation and I told you also that my doctors had advised me to heed my present condition of health."

Benes expressed the wish that the people and their government "shall live together and work together in tolerance, love and forgiveness, and that they should vouchsafe for everyone liberty and use that liberty conscientiously."

The phrasing gave the Communist-dominated government the excuse, spread abroad during the last two weeks, that the president was resigning because of his health which has been bad during the last year.

Was Elected For Life

The wording carried the implication that Benes disapproved of the constitution and of the recent Communist-dominated single ticket election. An unopposed handpicked slate for parliament was elected May 30 by voters in a flat yes-or-no election. Every difficulty was set up for those who voted no.

Benes was the second president in Czechoslovakia's history. In 1946 he was elected to serve for life.

He first became president in December, 1935, after Thomas G. Masaryk resigned because of age and illness. Benes had been Masaryk's foreign minister 17 years and helped him found the Czechoslovak republic.

Benes resigned once before—in 1938 after the Munich conference brought the German invasion — but reassumed the presidency in London, July 21, 1940.

W. B. Jones, 88, Of Hale Center, Dies

HALE CENTER, June 7 (Spl.)—Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. here Wednesday for W. B. (Will) Jones, who died at 8:15 p. m. today. The pioneer South Plains resident was 88 today.

Services will be conducted at the First Methodist church with Rev. Woodrow Adcock, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Hale Center under direction of Roy G. Wood Funeral Home of Plainview.

Mr. Jones, farmer and rancher who came to this section in 1891, is survived by one daughter, Mrs. I. E. Flake of Lubbock; six sons, Claude, Charlie of Olton, Earnest of Dimmitt, Sam of Springlake; Orville and Virgil of Hale Center. Mr. Jones died at the home of Orville with whom he resided.

Investigation Continues In Death Of Lubbock Woman

An inquest verdict in the death of Mrs. Robbie Wortman, 32, of Forty-second near the Tahoka highway, was pending further investigation, Justice of Peace C. E. Lynn said last night.

Mrs. Wortman was killed about 10:45 p. m. Saturday when struck by a car six miles south of Lubbock in what was called an unavoidable mishap. The car was driven by Roy G. Chisum, of South of Lubbock.

The woman, officials were told, apparently had tried to step in front of another car a few minutes earlier. She was the mother of an eight-months-old son.

The body was sent to Beaumont Sunday night for burial.

Fourth Victim Of Hotel Fire In Kilgore Still Unidentified

KILGORE, June 7. (AP) — The identity of the fourth victim of the Tulsa hotel fire here yesterday remained undetermined tonight, but the number of guests unaccounted for narrowed to five.

They are William Hinds and Jim Moore of Longview, O. B. Musick of Jacksonville, E. H. Edwards, address unknown, and Glenn Gilman of Jacksonville.

Police said Gilman did not register, but that he was reported missing.

Slight improvement in the condition of Mrs. Clyde Spencer, 29, of Houston, and B. P. Dillahunty, 56, Kilgore, were noted today.

report Wednesday on the success or failure of a cease-fire in Palestine.

Bernadotte gave Jewish and Arab authorities his proposal for getting the projected four-week truce in operation. The Jews agreed to a series of suggestions by the UN mediator on immigration controls—one of the points holding up agreement.

The Israeli government said it would segregate immigrants of military age entering Palestine during the armistice.

The other major point in dispute has to do with the Arab blockade of the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv road—the supply line of 90,000 Jews besieged in the Holy City. The Jews demand that this highway be opened.

Inconclusive fighting broke out along that road again today at Latrun, 14 miles west of Jerusalem.

dorsed by the French National Assembly later this week.

The proposals were made during a six-week conference in London of representatives of the three major western powers and the Benelux nations — Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The recommendations amounted to a big blueprint for western Germany's economic and political future. The communique which summed up the action said the agreements "in no way preclude, and on the contrary should facilitate, eventual four-power agreement on the German problem."

Two Sisters From Wellington Feared Victims Of Foul Play

HILLSBORO, June 7. (AP)—Relatives of two sisters who left Wellington June 3 and have not been heard from since told officers today they feared foul play.

The sisters are Mrs. Juanita Wauer, 22, and Miss Janey E. Pruitt, 16. They left their home in Wellington in a 1941 grey Plymouth sedan to visit their parents in Woodbury community near here. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Pruitt.

Mrs. J. R. May Of Near Lubbock Suffers Serious Injuries

Mrs. J. R. May, 28, of Lubbock route 3, was seriously injured about 5 p. m. yesterday when a motor of a hydraulic pump fell on her hands and wrists at her home.

She was taken to Lubbock Memorial hospital in a private car, and examination showed that she suffered fractures of both arms and compound fractures of two fingers on the left hand. She was admitted to the hospital.

City Studies Budget

the city's credit position in the nation's bond markets.

Police Outlay Studied

The $1,008,945 item of expenditures proposed for "general departments" covers the estimated operating expenses of the city government, and is $229,409 more than for the same purpose last year.

The tentative proposals for individual departments included these, with the comparative figures for last year:

	1948	1947
Police	$237,045	200,985
Fire	175,065	111,155
Health-sanitation	252,035	214,790
Parks-recreation	108,160	92,179
Streets-highway	38,805	27,141

The budget, as submitted, would provide the police department with approximately the same personnel, about 70 individuals, as at present. The indications were, however, that the budget for the department may be revised sharply before its final adoption so as to provide increased personnel and motorized equipment to be used in the actual mechanics of maintaining law enforcement.

Revenues Outlined

The proposed increase for the fire department was explained as being due to the staffing and maintenance of the newly opened Texas avenue substation.

On the basis of the figures submitted, the estimated $825,000 revenues from the electric plant are expected to pay all the operating expenses of that department, provide $152,138 to apply on electric revenue bonds and yield a profit of approximately $257,000. This money will go into the general fund for application on routine city expenses.

Net profits of about $370,000 are anticipated from the water department.

Biggest contributors to the revenue anticipated from "miscellaneous" sources include the following, with comparable figures last year.

	1948	1947
City court fines	$67,500	$65,975
Parking meters	60,000	53,746
Gross receipts tax	40,000	35,995
Permit fees	38,050	34,232
Airport-rentals	22,000	18,261
Swimming pool	11,000	10,882

Copies of the tentative budget were supplied members of the commission for further study and recommendations.

Present at the special meeting for first discussions of budget proposals were Mayor W. H. Rodgers and Commissioners W. B. Price, John Spikes, Clarence Whiteside and E. K. Hufstedler, jr.

Lamesa Minister Improving After Severe Heart Attack

LAMESA, June 7 (Special)—Dr. Julian Atwood, pastor of the First Baptist church here, who suffered a severe heart attack Saturday morning, was reported greatly improved by his physician today.

Dr. Atwood has been pastor here only a short time, coming to Lamesa from Dallas to succeed Dr. Clarence A. Morton. He was rushed to a local hospital and remained under an oxygen tent for several hours.

Many Americans Want To Learn To Speak French, Spanish, Latest Survey Indicates

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., June 7—Although the United States yearly becomes more involved with other nations whose people do not speak English, Americans today are definitely not a bi-lingual people. But the desire to speak another tongue is widespread, with French and Spanish the most popular.

A survey just completed by the Institute which shows that seven out of ten American voters can not speak a second language well enough to be understood. Only slightly more can understand a person speaking to them in another language.

GALLUP

A sizeable demand for language instruction courses exists, however, with six out of ten people expressing a wish to learn another language.

German is spoken by more Americans than any other foreign language, followed by French, Spanish and Italian. Of those who wish to acquire fluency in another language the overwhelming majority mention either Spanish, French or German.

Thousands of representative men and women throughout the country were asked this question:

"What other languages, if any, can you speak well enough to make others understand you?"

The answers:

None	71%
German	9
French	6
Spanish	5
Italian	4
Yiddish	2
Polish	2
Finnish	1
Swedish	1
Russian	1
Others	5
	107%*

The same people were then asked:

"Would you like to be able to speak another language?" If "yes," "which one?"

Here the answers were:

No	47%
French	21
Spanish	21
German	11
Russian	2
Others	9
	116%*

*Tables add to more than one hundred per cent as some respondents gave more than one answer.

Foreign language abilities according to the amount of education people have received is shown by the following table giving percentages in each group able to speak another language:

College	41%
High School	25
Grammar School	29

Four out of five with a college education feel that they want to learn another language, compared to three out of five high school trained people and two out of five with only grade schooling.

Language schools report that courses in French and Spanish are the most popular today, which re-establishes a pre-war balance between the two. During the war the demand for Spanish instruction spurted ahead.

Results of surveys in European countries reveal the naturally strong contrast between the language abilities and ours. A poll by the Norweigan Gallup Poll found that 85 per cent of Norwegians have no difficulty in understanding spoken Swedish and that 42 per cent could understand spoken Danish as well.

In a survey conducted last fall the Czechoslovakian Institute of Puplic Opinion, a government agency, reported that half the people could speak another tongue, the largest number mentioning German.

Houston Man Enters Race For Lieutenant Governor

AUSTIN, June 7 (AP)—Turner Walker of Houston today paid his $100 filing fee for a place on the ballot as candidate for lieutenant governor in the July 24 Democratic primary.

Lt. Gov. Allan Shivers will stand for re-election to the post.

Midnight tonight is the deadline for filing for state offices and for the U. S. Senate.

Both Lyndon Johnson and George Peddy, candidates for the Senate, will make statewide radio speeches tonight. Coke Stevenson wound up an East Texas tour and headed for his Kimble county ranch. Tomorrow he goes to Lubbock.

$8,000 Mexico City Mural Is Defaced For Second Time

MEXICO CITY, June 7 (U.P.) — An uneasy calm fell today over Mexico City's "battle of the mural."

The mural, $8,000 work of Diego Rivera, was defaced for the second time yesterday by unidentified persons.

Police were seeking to identify the persons who removed the words "no existe" from the objectionable phrase "Dios no existe" (God does not exist) in the mural and carved scratches in a boyhood likeness of the painter.

A crowbar with paint chips on one sharp end was apparently the only clue, police said.

The dining room in the Hotel Prado, where the mural "Sunday in the Alameda" occupies an entire wall, was closed indefinitely. Its glass doors were boarded up.

Police suspected one of the carpenters who helped board up the doors so nobody could enter to deface the mural actually damaged the painting before he left the building Saturday night.

RADIO SHOT UP

DANVERS, Mass. (U.P.)—A target-practicing policeman shot the Danvers police radio system off the air for several hours. One of his pistol shots in the basement range at headquarters went wild and severed a power line that fed broadcasting equipment.

Auditor Praises Big Spring State Hospital Administration

AUSTIN, June 7 (AP)—State auditor C. H. Cavness today gave the administration of the Big Spring State hospital considerable praise and some minor criticism.

This came in his report of an audit covering the period Sept. 1, 1945 to March 1, 1948.

Cavness found accounting records "well and accurately kept," inventory records "in much better condition than in any such institution" examined recently.

The auditor noted that state-employed barbers at the institution serve patients free but make small charges for services rendered state employes. Cavness recommended that this practice be discontinued since state time and facilities are used. He also recommended that employes make personal long distance telephone calls from pay stations, rather than on state phones. The auditor noted that while the state was reimbursed for these calls, it took too much time to collect the items.

Ex-Paratrooper Goes Back To Army As Most Celebrated Recruit In Two Years

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

Servicemen and vets will get a kick out of what happened to Jack Vinson of Coolidge, Tex.

Jack, a lean, brown-eyed, 23-year-old ex-paratrooper, became fed up with civilian life the other day and decided to get back into the army.

Memories of his first enlistment, during wartime, crowded his mind as he entered the North Texas recruiting office at Dallas. That first enlistment was a whirl of tough sergeants, long lines of half-frightened men, and no nonsense.

But now when he walked into the recruiting office door he was treated as a celebrity.

Army Never Like This

Capt. Howard W. Bowden, acting commander of the station, sprang to greet him as did Staff Sgt. Rufus B. Shelton.

Here's why:

Vinson happened to be the 34,000 recruit in the past two years. The station had never celebrated any other recruit—the 25,000th or the 30,000th, for instance. It had been waiting for the 34,000th man—and Vinson was it.

"We all were pretty excited, waiting to see what sort of fellow the 34,000th man would be," Bowden told us.

While Bowden and Shelton congratulated him, Vinson stared in shocked surprise. The army had never been like this.

"I didn't know what to make of it," he said.

There was some apprehension as he took his medical examination. Would he make it? No long examination line this time—the former combat paratrooper received individual attention.

Capt. Bowden and Sergeant Shelton again congratulated him when the doctors pronounced him physically sound.

Vet's Record Given

There was more handshaking at the swearing-in ceremony, too. No long line for this ceremony, either—just the 34,000th man looking somewhat abashed by all the fuss. Old Glory was brought out and Master Sgt. Chester Powell took pictures as Vinson raised his right hand for the oath.

Former member of the 82nd Airborne division, Vinson first joined the army in June 1942. He fought in Italy, jumped into France in the southern invasion and fought into Germany. He had his narrowest escape northeast of Aachen, Germany. His company was ordered to infiltrate the enemy lines. They crossed a mine field, found themselves surrounded and trapped.

The Germans poured mortar and machine-gun fire into their ranks. Of the company's 60 men, only 20 managed to fight their way out and recross the mine field to safety. Vinson was one of the 20.

But he figures the army offers a good life.

"I've been working as a shipping clerk," he said. "I was bored—I've been wanting to travel."

Under the peacetime system, Vinson was allowed to choose his own branch of the service and theater of operations. He picked the 11th Airborne division in Japan.

"I know I'll like it," he said with a grin, "but I don't expect to get the fine treatment I received on this second enlistment."

New Proof Offered By Kingsville Woman Jesse James Is Dead

KINGSVILLE, June 7 (AP) — Further proof that Jesse James is dead was offered today by the granddaughter of the undertaker who handled the outlaw's body.

She is Mrs. Ellen Elliott who lived all her life in St. Joseph, Mo., until she moved here recently with her husband, a member of the music faculty at Texas A. & I. college.

In refuting the claim of an aged man at Lawton, Okla., that he is Jesse James, Mrs. Elliott related this story:

Outlaw Brought In

William Sidenfaden (spelled Seidenfadden at the time) operated a furniture and understaking business at Fort Nessanie in St. Joseph, after coming to America from Germany. One day he was going about his business as usual, when they brought James in with a bullet hole in his back.

News traveled quickly in those days, and it wasn't long until the news was all over town that Jesse James was dead and was lying on a slab in Sidenfaden's funeral parlor. A crowd gathered quickly, and many St. Joseph townspeople who had known James positively identified him as the real Jesse James.

Sidenfaden was not the type of man that ordinarily kept records or to be easily impressed by a death, but he realized in the death of Jesse James something should be kept for proof that he was dead.

Picture Taken Of Body

He had a picture taken of James from his head to his waist either in his casket or on the morgue slab. (Mrs. Elliott couldn't remember which) and kept it for future reference. At the present time the photograph is in possession of Herman Sidenfaden, a cousin of Mrs. Elliott and operator of the funeral home in St. Joseph originally founded by her grandfather.

Sidenfaden did not actually bury James. He shipped his body to a little village where the James family lived, but Mrs. Elliott believes that he was around her grandfather's funeral home long enough for everyone in and around St. Joseph to establish the fact that Jesse James was actually dead.

Mrs. Elliott herself was not yet born when all this took place, but she said her father spoke of it quite often, and that he saw James after he was dead.

Drouth Broken In West Texas

AUSTIN, June 7 (U.P.)—The West Texas drouth has been relieved and Texas headed into June after a month of nearly normal rainfall in May, the State Board of Water Engineers reported today.

Rainfall in a section of northeast Texas and the coastal region was above normal. West Texas remained dry. However, rains during the first few days of June has "brought relief from the intense drouth covering the area."

Pecos River Rises

A four-foot rise passed the water engineer's gage on the Pecos river, near Pecos, and the water level in Red Bluff reservoir, which rose four feet during May, had risen another 14 feet by June 3.

The water stored back of Red Bluff dam, the board reported, is "considerably more than was available a year ago."

However, in other parts of the state water conditions were not so favorable. The report said the Medina reservoir near San Antonio was still dry at the end of May. The flow on the Guadalupe river was "definitely low."

San Angelo Lake Filled

But Lake Nasworthy, near San Angelo, was filled during the month. Flood waters passed down the north Concho river and the main Colorado river, marking the first flood runoff of consequence in the San Angelo area in more than six months.

Buchanan reservoir level rose nearly three feet. However, Marshall Ford fell about one foot. Lake Dallas showed a four-foot rise, but there was no change in water levels at Bridgeport reservoir or Eagle Mountain lake. Possom Kingdom reservoir on the Brazos rose one foot.

Rail Board Fails To Act On Gas Waste

AUSTIN, June 7. (AP)—An order reducing permissive oil production in the big Seeligson field, to cut down popping of casinghead gas, is not in prospect, a Railroad commission source said today.

Last week, Commissioner Olin Culberson told the commission he had been informed that the Tennessee Pipe Line company was not accepting the full volume of stripped casinghead gas from the Magnolia Seeligson plant on the claim that contracts for dry gas used all available pipe line space.

This, he said, resulted in the popping of three and one-half million cubic feet of gas daily at the plant. Culberson called this a "flagrant violation" of the Seeligson field order, and called for a reduction in allowable if necessary.

Chairman Ernest O. Thompson said later that the matter had been adjusted. The commission took no action on Seeligson allowables at today's oil and gas conference.

The principal plant nutrients in the soil are nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium and calcium.

Forty-Four Candidates Filed For State Offices

Final List To Be Named June 14 By State Demo Executive Group

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 7—Last-minute men jumping into the U. S. Senate and state office races today promised Texas Democratic voters a field of at least 44 candidates in the July 24 primary.

It looks like a ballot of about the usual length. The final list will not be determined until the state Democratic executive committee meets June 14 to certify candidates to the secretary of state.

From a practical standpoint, anyone who wants to withdraw has until then to have his name deleted. Candidates may actually withdraw from the printed ballot by notifying county chairmen before June 21, although this is seldom done.

Two Added To Race

There were two additions to the list of candidates for U. S. Senate up to mid-afternoon. They were Terrell Sledge, 42, of Kyle, farmer, who ran against Sen. Tom Connally two years ago, and James F. Alford, 40, of Houston, who identified himself as an oil man.

Martin Dies' name was still on the list, although he had announced he would not run. He had not asked the executive committee to delete his name as a candidate for the Senate.

Turner Walker, 43, a journeyman steamfitter from Houston, filed as an opponent for Lt. Gov. Allan Shivers, who is seeking re-election.

Still without opponents a few hours before the midnight deadline were Attorney General Price Daniel, State School Superintendent L. A. Woods, and W. St. John Garwood, for associate justice of the state supreme court, place 3.

List Not Final

Vann M Kennedy, secretary of the Democratic executive committee, said applications postmarked before midnight tonight would be accepted. That means the final list may not be known for several days.

Here is the nearly-ocmplete list of candidates:

U. S. Senate—George Peddy of Houston, Coke R. Stevenson of Junction, Roscoe H. Collier of Dallas, Otis C. Myers of Dallas, F. B. Clark of College Station, Lyndon Johnson of Johnson City, Cyclone Davis of Dallas, Frank C. Cortez of San Antonio, Martin Dies of Lufkin, Jesse C. Saunders of Orange, Terrell Sledge of Kyle, James F. Alford of Houston.

Governor—Sumpter W. Stockton of Breckenridge, Roger Q. Evans of Denison and Austin, Charles B. Hutchinson of Dallas, Caso March of Waco, W. J. Minson of Sherman, Holmes A. May of Houston, Beauford H. Jester, (incumbent) of Corsicana and Austin.

Lieutenant governor — Allan Shivers (incumbent) of Port Arthur, Turner Walker of Houston.

Railroad commissioner — (expired term) Tom Blakey of Houston, Ernest O. Thompson (incum-

Johnson Resumes Senate Race

HOUSTON, June 7. (AP)—Lyndon Johnson tonight called Coke Stevenson a "calculating, do-nothing, fence-straddling" senatorial opponent and challenged him to say where he stands on many federal aid programs and other issues.

In a speech prepared for radio delivery, Johnson resumed active campaigning after a recent illness, centering his attack on the former governor. He did not call his name, but the references were obvious. One of Stevenson's political nicknames is "calculating Coke."

"I challenge my calculating opponent to tell Texans tomorrow if he favors withdrawing federal aid from 500 thousand World War II veterans, men who didnt sit it out at home when Old Glory had to be carried to every corner of the globe," Johnson said.

He noted that the federal government takes $45 billion in taxes and Texas gets some of it back in federal aid.

"While I was sick at Mayo's, a calculating, do-nothing, fence-straddling opponent of mine, who three months ago said he had no platform, got off the fence for the first time to oppose the teacher salary increase," Johnson said. The candidate referred to the Taft bill which he said would give Texas teachers $400 more per year "without federal control."

"A man who would oppose federal aid would hamstring our great colleges like A. and M., which has received federal aid for 50 years; Texas Tech, A. and I. at Kingsville, our leading universities and most of our fine religious institutions, all of which, for years have participated in cooperative federal aid programs. He would stop agricultural and home-making and industrial education in our high schools.

Johnson asked Stevenson to say

Burglary Suspect Held At Tahoka

A man allegedly discharged from a state penitentiary May 28, has been charged with the burglary early Saturday of Keltner hotel at Tahoka, Sheriff Sam Floyd reported last night.

The suspect, identified as W. W. Hoffman, about 30, was arrested at Big Spring. He had in his possession a suit case and other items believed to be the property of a Tech student, H. H. Sampson, of Bridgeport, the sheriff said. Sampon reported theft from his car in Lubbock last Wednesday of property valued at $170.

The Tahoka charge was filed in the justice court of P. D. Server, according to Sheriff Floyd. He said that Hoffman had penitentiary discharge papers indicating that he had completed a five-year sentence commenced in 1945.

Prisoners Sent To Pen

Three federal prisoners were removed yesterday from Lubbock county jail by C. E. Luce, deputy U. S. marshal, for delivery to federal penitentiaries.

They were George Emory Clark, 22, of Orange, Mass.; Thomas Louis Koestner, 26, of Bakersfield, Calif.; and Robert Phillips, 19, of McAlester, Okla.

Face Dyer Act Charge

Clark had been arrested April 6 by Curtis L. Perryman, a resident FBI agent, on a Dyer act charge. Koestner was arrested 12 days later and similarly charged. He was detained by Sam Fort and John McVean of the state highway patrol. Phillips was arrested April 22 in Amarillo by Luce and charged with violation of conditions of federal probation.

Sheriff Grady Harrist advised Sheriff D. W. Roberts of McKinley county, N. M., that bond of $1,000 had been set in the justice court of D. W. Robertson of Lubbock for appearance here July 5 on a fugitive warrant naming Wendell M. Birdwell, 28, of Lubbock route 1. Harrist swore out the complaint after learning that Birdwell was charged at Gallup, N. M., with removal of a mortgaged car from New Mexico. The warrant was telegraphed here. Gallup authorities had informed Harrist they would extradite the suspect.

Company Renews Request On Disputed Area

Action On Railroad Spur Is Rejected

By JOE HITCHCOCK
Avalanche Staff Writer

Representatives of the Fort Worth & Denver City railroad company appeared at a special meeting of the City Planning commission yesterday afternoon with regard to extension of railroad trackage south from Thirtieth and Ave. L to Thirty-fourth on the company's right-of-way property.

Chairman K. N. Klapp, on behalf of the Planning commission, stated that the commission had no desire to make recommendations on the proposal as long as it was an issue before the courts.

Company Under Injunction

The company is at present under an injunction issued in 99th district court last October prohibiting construction of the tracks in that area of the city. The injunction was based on a zoning ordinance limiting construction in that area to residential building, and resulted from a suit brought by 19 residents of the addition. Appeal of the decision has been made to the Court of Civil appeals at Amarillo.

The Planning commission was asked to recommend to the Board of Adjustment that the railroad company be allowed to proceed with the proposed track extension within the city limits. Amendment of the zone 'C' regulations would be necessary, since the present regulations do not include provision for the construction of railroad tracks, according to E. L. Klett, counsel for the railroad.

He asserted that a map adopted by the city in 1927, when the railroad came to Lubbock, designated specifically a strip 50 feet wide from Thirtieth to Thirty-four as the company's right-of-way property. Additional recognition by the city of that property right was given when an easement on a trip of that land, 30 feet wide, was granted to the city in 1940, he stated. The city used the property on the east side of the railroad right-of-way for building streets. The proposed trackage would be near the rear of residential buildings in the area.

Settlement Said Wanted

Klett further claimed that the zoning ordinance applied to building and not to railroad trackage. He said that the company was unable to obtain a building permit because the application forms did not provide for that type of construction.

R. Wright Armstrong, of Fort Worth, vice-president of the railroad, expressed the company's desire to settle the issue out of court if possible. He said that the proposed track extension would not only serve an industrial property at Thirtieth and Ave L but also others which might develop beyond Thirty-fourth and outside the city limits.

Clapp stated that the city desired to co-operate in every way with the company for the benefit of the firm and the city. But, he added, the commission did not see fit to act upon the matter as long as the issue was before the courts.

Others attending the meeting were J. H Murdough and W. K. Bradshaw of the commission, and John P. Ruhmann, city engineer.

Other representatives of the railroad present were Seth Berwise, general counsel, and M. G. Mohaghan, assistant general manager, both of Amarillo, and Guy C. Victory, Lubbock general agent for the railroad.

Andrews Well Is New Discovery

Humble Oil & Refining Company is taking potential test gauge and will complete its No. 1 J. E. Parker, Central-Southwest Andrews county wildcat as an oil well and a new discovery for flowing petroleum from the Devonian.

This develapment is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 2, block A-54, psl survey, and about 25 miles southwest of the town of Andrews.

It treated the section in the top of the Vevonian at 8,390-8,420 feet, with 3,000 gallons of acid. The well kicked off after swabbing and flowed to the pits for a time to clean and was then turned to tanks.

Oil Test Shows

In the first hour it gauged 33.3 barrels of fluid, through a three quarter inch tubing choke, with a shakeout of 20 per cent sediment and acid water. In the next three and one half hours it flowed through a three-eighth inch choke and made 59.2 barrels of fluid, with a shakeout of 12 per cent sediment and acid water.

In a 30 minute flow through a one-quarter inch choke the wildcat made 10.8 barrels of fluid, with a shakeout of six per cent sediment and water.

The remainder of the fluid was new 36 gravity oil. Gas-oil ratio was 1,000-1.

Operator killed the well with water, installed a Christmas tree and then started taking the potential test to complete the new field opener.

This discovery is three miles north of the Three Bar field, the nearest proven area for Devonian production, and it is three and one half miles west of the multi-pay Martin field.

No. 12 Parker drilled to total depth of 10,398 feet in the Ellenburger and had no oil in that formation. That zone developed considerable salty, sulphur water.

Sun No. 1 Schattell, in Southwest Scurry County, about seven and one half miles southwest of Snyder, and 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 186, block 97, H&TC survey had cut a core at 5,341-49 feet in shale, and was coming out with that specimen. Up to now this project has not found any possibilities of the commercial production of petroleum.

FRONTIER WEEK IS OPENED

Final Plans Made For Parade, ABC-Boys Club Rodeo Program

Final preparations were to be made today for Wednesday's colorful parade and opening performance of the big ABC-Boys Club rodeo, which will be presented through Saturday night at Jones Stadium on the Tech campus.

At the same time, considerable response was reported Monday to the opening of Lubbock's Frontier Week observance as numerous citizens appeared with at least one piece of western regalia in keeping with the spirit of the celebration.

Tickets On Sale

Meanwhile, ABC club officials reported tickets were still on sale in booths in the lobby of the Hilton hotel and at booths operated by the ABC Dames at Dunlaps, Sears Roebuck, Wylie's drug store, Mark Halsey's No. 1 and the Citizens National bank. Box seats for the rodeo, which will feature movie star Gene Autry and his troupe of entertainers, are $3 with general admission seats selling at $2 for adults and $1 for children. All prices include taxes.

The parade, which will wind down Main street and back up Broadway, will start at 2 p. m. Wednesday and will include, Autry, rodeo performers and state dignitaries.

A proclamation has been issued by Mayor W. H. Rodgers to the effect that this week is official Frontier Week, and that everyone in Lubbock will wear at least one piece of western apparel as evidence that they are in the spirit of the thing. A court similar to that held by Judge Roy Bean has been set up on Broadway to enforce the proclamation, and Homer Roper, chairman of the Jaycee's Frontier Week committee says that court will be held every day this

Tech Makes Plans For Summer School

Activity on the Texas Technological college campus is at a seasonal low today with graduation ceremonies at an end and the dormitories not opening for the first term of summer school until Wednesday, when registration for summer school gets underway.

W. P. Clement, registrar, has announced that 200 students have already gotten permits for registration, and that many more are expected. Classes for summer school will begin at 7:30 Thursday, and all classes will last an hour and a half. Friday is the absolute deadline for registration for the first six-week term, and a late registration fee will be charged then. The first term of the summer session will end July 17, and registration for the second term will begin July 20, classes beginning the following day.

Americans Urged To Keep Well Informed On World Problems

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., June 7 (INS)—Secretary of State Marshall tonight warned that only a fully informed, determined approach by the people of America to international problems will keep this nation in the forefront of world affairs.

He told the graduating class of the University of North Carolina that "our international affairs regarding a number of matters are either in such a delicate state of negotiation or in complete stalemate."

Americans Called Extremists

He asserted it was inadvisable for him to discuss them publicly except so far as was necessary to keep the people "reasonably advised on the general situation."

Marshall regretted the emotional reactions to which Americans are sometimes inclined as possibly dangerous to U. S. international relationships. He declared:

"We are inclined, I think, to be extremists, blowing hot and cold, fluctuating between vigorous partisanship or complete indifference as regards the same situation.

"We are a young country of an energetic people conspicuous for individual action. In international affairs, however, we have to proceed in a careful and guarded manner—unspectacular, persistent, determined in furthering measures based on a long view of the future rather than on the short term effect."

The wartime Army chief of staff admitted that his duties in running the military establishment through the war period were simple compared to the difficulties in arousing the people to a proper understanding of the critical situation now facing this country and the world without resort to emotional appeals.

He urged particularly that the young people just emerging from academic halls should inform themselves very carefully regarding the position of the United States today before formulating opinions. He said:

"Ascertaining the facts cannot be done by mere superficial reading of a single newspaper or listening to your favorite radio broadcaster. There is so much confusion, and at times special pleading, that it is exceedingly difficult to get at the true facts.

"Also, we must contend with the recognized fact that a murder has much more of news value than the details of a peaceful settlement of a difficulty.

"Therefore, there is a strong tendency to accentuate, to exaggerate, those phases of incidents in our international dealings that will stimulate interest from the viewpoint of excitement rather than of factual understanding."

In summation, the secretary of state declared that in the struggle to consolidate the peace "it is essential that our people understand that the less spectacular, infinitely more subtle tasks of peace also call for personal sacrifice and unselfish service to the country."

Dr. and Mrs. A. V. Johnson, jr., returned Sunday from Oklahoma City where he attended the third annual Southwestern Chiropody congress and postgraduate course. At the meeting Dr. Johnson was elected first vice president of the Chiropody Society of Texas.

The six-day vacation Bible school of the First Baptist church held last week was attended by a total of 372 persons, with an average daily attendance of 336. The school ended with a joint worship program Friday night, with various departments presenting portions of the program.

Local firemen answered a call at 2 p.m. Sunday at 2110 Twenty-third to find an "over-done roast" in an oven. At 6:30 p.m. Sunday firemen answered a call at Purina mills, just off the Plainview road north of Lubbock, to find that pressure fluctuations had tipped the water alarm on the sprinkling system, but there was no fire, they said.

Last rites were conducted at 10 o'clock Monday morning in Bryan McDonald & Son Funeral home chapel for Mrs. Alice A. Forbes, 74, a resident of Lubbock for seven years, who died Saturday afternoon at the home of a daughter, Mrs. B. D. Stephens of 1712 Twenty-seventh. Officiating pastor was Rev. Hall of the Ralls Church of Christ. Burial was in Ralls cemetery.

Nebraska Demo Head Scores HST

OMAHA, Neb., June 7. (INS)—President Truman today lost the support of Nebraska's Democratic state chairman and appeared in danger of losing other backers in Montana.

William Ritchie, who will be a delegate-at-large at the Democratic national conclave in Philadelphia, said he and several other delegates "feel they were snubbed" during the President's visit to Omaha Saturday.

Ritchie said he had a telegram from the Montana State Democratic chairman in which the latter said he is getting "the same treatment." Lester H. Loble was quoted by Ritchie as saying:

May Vote For Eisenhower

Ritchie said it appeared the Nebraska delegation, which once was solidly for Truman, has been badly split. He added:

"There probably will be a number of us who will vote for Eisenhower on the first ballot if he runs."

Ritchie, bitter over his exclusion from the arrangements committee for Mr. Truman's visit, declared grimly:

"The arrangements were in the hands of Republicans. I saw the President at the reception, shook hands briefly with him, but when I returned later with some of the other delegates the President's secretary would not even see us."

The state party chairman admitted he was one of the many who did not hear the President's speech Saturday night. Only about 2,000 persons showed up in the auditorium which will seat 10,000. Ritchie claimed, however, that he didn't go for a personal, not a political reason. His wife died recently.

Nation's First Veteran To Draw GI Loan Sold Business, Now Runs A Night Club

WASHINGTON, June 7 (INS)—The nation's first veteran to draw a GI Bill of Rights business loan is out of business.

He is tending bar.

Three years ago, Jack Charles Breeden, fresh from the salt air of the Pacific, began life anew as a civilian. Ambitiously, he waded through a mass of government red tape to become the initial World War II veteran to negotiate a GI loan for the purpose of establishing an enterprise.

Bought A Truck

The 29-year-old ex-Navy torpedoman with four battle stars to his credit, had been at sea 20 months. There the lonely days and nights allow a man plenty of time to ponder his future.

Being an optimist, Jack purchased a refrigeration delivery truck with his $3000 loan and entered the wholesale meat trade in Fairfax county, Va.

The venture of being number one tape - hurdler gained cleancut appearing Breeden national recognition in newspapers and magazines.

Jack said "people from all over the country were writing me asking for advice and wishing me luck."

Many months, however, of price control, black market operations, gasoline rationing and "tie-ins" hog-tied the young meat delivery dealer. Seeking new channels, Jack sold his truck and paid off the loan.

Relating the obstacles he encountered in the meat business, Breeden described "tie-ins" as cheap grades of meat such as hot dogs, headcheese and luncheon meat. He said meatpackers forced wholesalers to buy tie-ins in order to obtain choice cuts.

Asked whether meatless days came into the picture, the ex-sailor smilingly replied:

"All the days were meatless."

On OPA, Jack with wrinkled forehead related: "I went there one day to report 85,000 meat ration tickets which my partner and I somehow or other accumulated. Funny, but they forced another 100,000 on me."

So Jack, now happily married with one child, is "designated manager" of the Log Cabin Inn, a large rustic-style nightclub owned by his brother.

It is located on the New York to Florida highway, Route One, immediately below Alexandria, Va.

While Jack is bartending, his pretty wife, a chic streamlined blonde, works as a waitress in the club. They live in a nearby cabin.

Although his business career was short-lived, the young bartender does not want to discourage other veterans contemplating loans. In his words:

"I just entered the wrong business at the wrong time. I overstepped myself."

But as he served a customer another ale and glanced at the contented crowd on the shining dance floor, the number one man grinned:

"I have no beef coming."

ROSE FINAL WINNER

INDIANAPOLIS, June 7 (INS)—The final tabulations on who won what in the 1948 500-mile auto classic at ndianopolis a month ago today had Mauri Rose, the victor, winning a total of $42,800.

Second-place Bill Holland gained $19,100 while fourth place Ted Horn, by virtue o leadin ga good stretch of the way and building up more lap prize money than at yone else, collected $16,175, $500 more than the sum that went to third-place Duke Nalon.

Polio Increase Noted In State

AUSTIN, June 7 (U.P.) — Poliomyelitis continued to increase in Texas today at a record-breaking pace.

Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, said 60 new cases were reported in the last week, equaling the all-time record for a one-week increase established just 14 days ago.

For the last five weeks, new cases have been reported at the rate of 25 the first week, 55 the second, 60 the third, 39 the fourth and 60 for the last week.

Total Is 294

The previous high for any seven-day period was established in 1943 when 16 cases were reported.

The total thus far this year is 294.

In addition to polio, measles, typhoid fever and undulant fever were all above the seven year average during the last week.

Shelby county, in East Texas, reported 25 cases of typhoid fever. The seven-year average for the whole state for the week is seven cases. In all, 37 cases were reported.

Measles Is General

While the major portion of the polio cases were confined to South Texas and coastal counties, the outbreak of measles appeared generally over the state. In all, there were 2,257 cases as compared with an average of 641.

Undulant fever cases totaled 26 as compared with an average of 14.

Copies Of New Tech Yearbook Received

Copies of the Texas Technological college annual, "La Ventana," have arrived at Tech and are available to the students in the basement of the Journalism building, R. A. Mills, faculty sponsor of the annual and professor of English at Tech, announced Monday.

The standard 9 by 12 inch annual may be secured from 8 a. m. to 12 noon, and from 1 to 5 p. m. every day this week, and from 8 to 10:30 a. m. and 2:30 to 5 p. m. after this week, Mills said. Jack Thompson, Lubbock, who is to be business manager-elect for the 1949 annual, is in charge of issuing the yearbooks.

Mills said that 4,550 copies of La Ventana were printed this year as compared to 4,125 published last year, and that a few copies may be bought by the public. Last year's annual had 418 pages, and it is believed that this year's book with 488 pages is the largest in the history of the college.

Horace Gearhart Is Elected Jaycee Head

Election of officers for the ensuing year, and balloting for the Jaycee man-of-the-year honor were the main items on the agenda Monday noon as Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce members met for luncheon at the Hilton hotel.

New Jaycee officers are Horace Gearhart, president; Rusell "Curly" Wilkinson, first vice-president; Weldon Gibbs, second vice-president; Clifton Haney, secretary and Linley Millsap, treasurer.

Members also balloted for fifteen members of serve on the board of directors with the five club officers; however, final tabulations have not been completed.

Jaycees heard organization plans of Homer Roper to "deal out swift, sure justice" to those not wearing western regalia in accord with Mayor Will Rodgers' proclamation regarding Frontier Week, held in connection with the ABC-sponsored Lubbock Boys' club rodeo June 9-12. Roper explained that a Judge Roy Bean court will be in session from 10 to 11 and 4 to 5 o'clock each day on the northeast corner of the Texas avenue-Broadway intersection for those found in violation of Frontier Week regulations.

Guests were John D. Smith and Charles Bay. Roy Forkner, president, presided.

Elected to the board of directors were Waggoner Carr, Asher Thompson, J. P. Watt, Barney Stagner, Bill Linn, Jim Morris, Joe Baldridge, J. C. Hughes, Harry Woody, Homer Hensley, A. C. White, Hugh Rowland, Harold Chapman, Jesse Gordon and LeRoy Land.

Most Texans Think Nation Faces Another War In Next Five Years

By JOE BELDEN
Director, The Texas Poll

AUSTIN, June 7 — The time table for war has been stepped up five years in the Texas public mind. Now a 60 per cent majority of the adult population thinks the United States will be involved in another World War within the next five years. Eight months ago only 55 per cent anticipated war within ten years.

In its latest statewide survey of opinion, The Texas Poll finds also that more people now feel war is inevitable. If war comes, an overwhelming majority wants the United States to use the atom bomb to end it as quickly as possible. Only 14 per cent are against using the atom bomb. Another 14 per cent would want the United States to use it "only as a last resort," "only if the enemy uses it" or "only after warning."

These findings are based on a cross-section of men and women in all parts of the state who were asked these questions:

"Do you think the United States will ever be in another World War?"

	Sept. 1947	NOW
Yes	81%	89%
No	6	3
No opinion	13	8
	100%	100%

"When do you expect that war to come?" (Asked of those who think the United States will be in another war.)

	Sept. 1947	NOW
Within two years	11%	29%
Within five years	32	60
Within ten years	55	74
Within 25 years	70	79
With 25 years or more	81	89

"If war comes, do you think the United States should use the atom bomb?" (Asked only in the last survey.)

Yes, use bomb	66%
Use bomb only as last resort	14
No, don't use bomb	14
No opinion	6
	100%

Analysis of the latest poll shows that people who have had some college education are more inclined to expect another war.

Here are the results broken down by (1) people who have had no formal schooling or attended grade school only, (2) people who have been to high school, and (3) people who have had some college education:

"Do you think the United States will be in another World War?"

	Grade or No School	High School	College
Yes	85%	88%	94%
No	1	5	3
No opinion	14	7	3

Four per cent of Texas adults are guessing that the United States will be in another war in less than six months, 13 per cent between six months and a year.

Real Estate Group Blasts Housing Bill

WASHINGTON, June 7. (U.P.)— The National Association of Real Estate Boards said today congressional approval of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill would lead to "a different economy and a different government from what we have known."

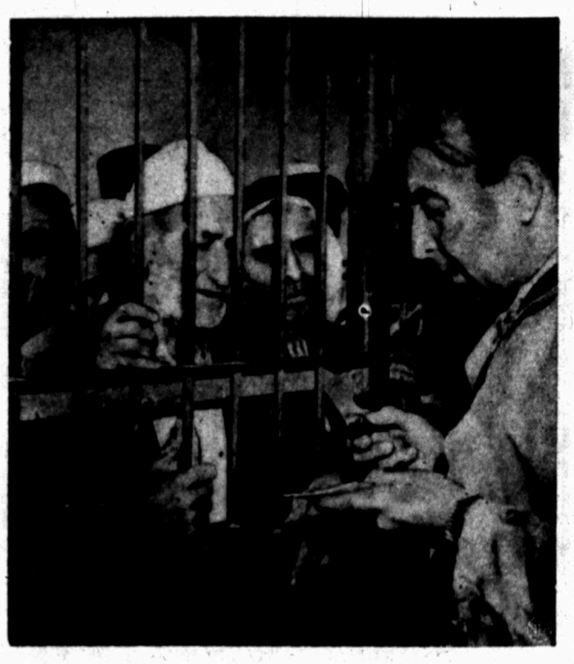

The association's views were presented to the House Banking committee by Calvin K. Snyder, secretary of the association's Washington committee. The committee is near the end of extensive hearings on the bill and expects to begin revising it Wednesday or Thursday.

Snyder Blasts Bill

Snyder told the committee that "in dealing with this bill you are looking down a long road.

"You are committing this government to immeasurable financial burdens and to an incalculable expansion of function," he said. "You are taking over to the central authority that obligation which in a free country rests on industry and on the effort and ingenuity of individual citizens.

The Senate-approved T-E-W bill calls for the construction of 15,000,000 homes over a 10-year period. Its most controversial feature provides for the construction in the next five years of 500,000 low-cost homes financed by the federal government.

Bank Installs 'Voice' To Give Telephone Caller Correct Time

Want to know the time?

An electronic voice, operated from an electronic eye, gives the time at Citizens National bank when telephone No. 7781 is dialed.

Speaking in gracious tones, the electronic voice informs the caller the time is given as a Lubbock community service by the Citizens National bank, then gives the time—all in 10 seconds or less.

About 99 times out of a hundred, said the engineer who installed the machine, the caller then will say, "Thank you." The words are wasted on the electronic voice, because it has performed its duty, hears no thanks and has nothing further to say.

Time Recorded On Film

The time is recorded on film by the machine, which operates 24 hours a day, and the sound is taken off the film by a photo electric cell.

J. W. Nasworthy, installing engineer of Atlanta, Ga., spent the week-end here to install the machine. He plans to leave Tuesday.

Lubbock is the farthest point west in which such a machine has been installed. The first such machine, forerunner of the present simplified device, came into use about 14 years ago. The machine is called the Audichron.

It has an emergency power supply and in event of power failure in the city would operate on its emergency supply, said Nasworthy.

War Dead Next Of Kin Urged To Return Interment Forms

AUSTIN, June 7 (AP)—Next of kin of World War II dead were urged today to return forms indicating where they wish the bodies interred.

Dixie Carmichael, American Red Cross state relations officer for Texas, said the forms are returnable to the quartermaster general's office which sent out the inquiries on disposition of war dead.

LOW-COST DETECTOR SOUGHT

Atomic Death Ray Spotter To Be Defense Need In Next War

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—If atomic war were to come, a prime civilian defense need would be for a large number of Geiger counters to spot the lingering death rays.

Hence the official hope is for the development of a low-cost, easily operated device to equip detector teams.

Current costs for Geiger counters range from about $210 to $1,000 each.

There are a number of different types of such instruments.

But, a spokesman for the civil defense planning unit of the National Defense department said today, only a few are suitable for spotting the area of a bombed city made unsafe by radioactivity. Most types are those used in laboratories and classrooms for specialized studies, the spokesman told a reporter.

Atomic Energy commission officials also said that the kind needed by their experts still remain scarce.

However, recently published testimony before a House Appropriations subcommittee disclosed that Geiger counters are being advertised for sale.

Rep. Scrivner (R-Kansas), a member of the committee considering military funds, expressed surprise. He asked Maj. Gen. S. B. Akin, Army Signal corps chief who was appearing before the committee, to investigate whether the counters are being sold commercially or being disposed of as surplus by the government.

Sales Are Investigated

"One would think normally that it (the Geiger counter) was not something for proper civilian use," Scrivner told the general. "In view of the known potential of radioactive materials it would seem that those instruments should have been kept by us. . . . We should have any information about that situation that we can get."

Akin promised to investigate.

Later his office told a reporter the Army is buying a small number of the detectors for use in research and development work. The Civil Defense unit, still only a planning agency, is making no purchases.

Included in the tentative plans considered by the civil defense group is the creation of mobile units in each state, trained and outfitted with instruments to detect radioactive poison left either by an A-bomb or perhaps some future atomic development.

Civil defense Atomic Energy commission officials suggest that the logical sources for drawing such volunteer spotters would be chemistry and physics teachers, X-ray technicians, doctors and similar specialists. The commission already has started a training program, working through various colleges, medical organizations and similar groups.

It would be unnecessary for each community to have a radiological team, planners say. A team located in one city could be moved quickly to another city under atomic attack, with all operations directed and coordinated by a state defense office.

Medical Advisory Committee Named By Legion Commander

AUSTIN, June 7 (AP)—Dr. James W. Long, mayor of Port Arthur, will be chairman of a six-member Medical Advisory committee for the American Legion, Department of Texas, Commander George S. Berry announced today.

Other members are Dr. G. A. Schenewerk, Dallas; Dr. M. W. Sherwood, Temple; Dr. Allen T. Stewart, Lubbock; and Drs. Victor C. Tucker and Albert Kass, both of San Antonio.

The Texas committee will attend a conference of similar state Legion committees in Chicago June 23 and 24, Berry said.

Slight Decrease Noted In Sunday School Attendance

Attendance at Sunday schools of 11 Lubbock churches was down 564 from that of 5,790 reported by 12 churches the previous Sunday, church records indicated Monday.

Attendance was reported as follows:

Wheat Car Situation Reported Favorable

FORT WORTH, June 7 (AP) — Fort Worth railroads originating wheat shipments from the southwest are, in the main, "in pretty good shape" to handle the 1948 crop, a survey disclosed today.

While conditions vary with individual lines, the crop movement to date is favorable by comparison with the 1947 traffic, and no particularly critical situation is foreseen at this time.

The Santa Fe has 3,100 cars stockpiled in the southwest area.

The Rock Island reported an estimated 60 percent of cars needed is on hand.

The Frisco lines had a backlog of 2,062 box cars at beginning of the season and reported wide distribution of the rolling stock to expedite grain movement.

The MKT line reported a serious car situation, due to the large amount of export wheat it is moving to gulf points, from which the cars are not being returned.

In the case of that line, it was said there was some relief in sight a little later.

On the other "on line" roads, the Texas and Pacific and the Cotton Belt reported little or no originating activity, although both lines said the connecting shipments are heavy and are about equal to 1947.

POLITICAL DODGES

Who's Being Fooled?

NEW legislative proposals to Congress at times like the present usually can be branded as the most obvious of vote-getting bait. Two recent proposals appear in this category.

One was the President's plan to extend social security protection to about 20,000,000 persons now without it. The other was the approval of a cut of nearly a billion dollars in foreign aid by the House Appropriations committee.

Both proposals were made just a few weeks before Congress plans to adjourn. There's practically no chance of congressional action on either proposition. When Congress does adjourn, all pending legislation dies with it. The next Congress, in January, starts from scratch in all matters.

But Mr. Truman can say to those for whom he proposed social security coverage: "I tried to help you, but Congress wouldn't allow it." Members of Congress seeking re-election may imagine they can play both ends against the middle in their vote-getting game. They will have "considered" a cut in foreign aid, which may mollify those who think that should be done. But they won't do any actual cutting, which may satisfy those who oppose any reduction in appropriations for that purpose.

Remaining unanswered almost certainly will be these questions: Why didn't Mr. Truman offer his social security proposals in time to allow Congress to act upon them? If a huge cut in the foreign aid program is practical, why are congressmen just discovering this possibility?

Possibly people are as stupid as the politicians seem to believe. Perhaps they won't see through this sort of scheming. We prefer to believe they will detect such frauds instantly and that this sort of funny business will cost many more votes than it ever will gain.

Safety In The Air

NO one could want to disparage in any way the splendid record of the 24 American airlines which operated during 1947 without a single passenger fatality. The report was given added interest locally because Pioneer Air Lines was on the select list.

But, in order that the record may be complete, it is proper to point out that 1947 was by far the worst year in history for airlines as a whole in the number of passengers killed. Fatalities exceeded 200. The worst previous record was 1945, when 76 fatalities were reported.

The record of the industry as a whole naturally emphasizes the achievements of the lines without fatalities. But the whole record suggested a looseness somewhere in enforcing or observing safety regulations. If this was so, it doubtless has already received remedial attention.

Despite the 1947 death list, the safety record for all airlines was amazingly good. As an average, only about one out of 65,000 passengers flown was killed, and the record for all lines serving Lubbock directly or by direct connections, was considerably better than that. It is a record which emphasized that hazard attached to airline flying is astonishingly close to the vanishing point.

(For the Files of The Lubbock Morning Avalanche of June 8, 1928)

Mrs. E. C. Young was leader at a meeting of the First Christian church W. M. S., and Mrs. R. A. Mills led a discussion on "Christian Homes Around the World." Mrs. J. E. Hartley reported on the recent state convention at Greenville and Mrs. Paul Barrier sang a solo. At an election of officers Mrs. Clyde F. Elkins was named president, Mrs. J. E. Hartley first vice president, and Mrs. R. L. Howell second vice president. Mrs. Paul Morgan was named pianist, Mrs. Homer L. Pharr secretary, Mrs W. R. Blake treasurer, and division leaders were Mesdames W. N. Lemmond, J. B. Rhoades, and F. D. Rupe.

Mrs. Ross McWhorter, assisted by several friends, gave a reception at her Ave. Q home, with a local orchestra playing throughout the afternoon. Assisting her were Mrs. D. K. Bondurant, Mrs. Carl Roberds, and Mrs. Herbert Lowery. Guests were met at the door by Mrs. F. R. Friend, and others in the house party were Mrs. W. B. Powell, Mrs. Owen McWhorter, Mrs. John Jarrott, Mrs. Lawrence Bacon, Mrs. Frank Jones, Miss Garguerite Bennett, and Miss Ella Norene O'Neal.

Boys and girls from all parts of the South Plains were attending the annual club encampment, and including those from this county a total of 350 to 400 were to attend. D. F. Eaton was Lubbock county farm agent in charge of plans for the encampment. Counties represented and the county agent in each included: Dawson, C. B. Martin; Garza, Knox Parr; Terry, R. B. Davis; Hockley, S. H. Debman; Hale, R. M. Milhollan; and Scurry, C. C. Willis. Miss Millie Halsey, home demonstration agent in Lynn county, Miss Bessie Jackson of Dawson county, and Miss Opal Wood of Hale county brought delegations of club girls, and were assisting with the project.

The Stretch

The Innocent Impostor

By RENEE SHANN
Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THE STORY: Patience Mond goes to London three times a week to attend dressmaking school. It is the only freedom allowed her by the two old-fashioned aunts who have brought her up and with whom she lives in the country. On the commuting train she meets Paul Taylor, who lives in a neighboring village and who finds himself attracted to the prim young girl. They date secretly, fall in love. The aunts find out, force Patience to promise not to see Paul again. Paul wants her to tell them she's going to marry him. But Patience can't do it. They quarrel. Sometime later on the train from London, Patience finds herself in the same compartment as Paul. A flashy blonde is with him.)

IX

"FUNNY how I look forward to this journey now," the blonde girl sitting next to Paul said. "And it used to bore me to death."

Patience opened her magazine. Oh dear, she didn't want to listen! Must they go on talking? Could she perhaps move to another carriage? But there wouldn't be any room. And, anyway, it would be so cowardly.

"Paul?"

'Well?"

"How about a cigaret in the corridor?"

"That's not a bad idea."

They stood out there talking together. Their heads quite close.

Patience tried to harden her heart against him. He couldn't really ever have been serious about her, she told herself. If he were he'd not have forgotten her so easily. He was shallow, and not worth bothering about. How lucky she'd been that her Aunt Helen had been so firm about refusing to allow her to have any more to do with him! And then at that moment he turned his head and looked back into their carriage. Their eyes met. Just for an instant she thought: "Oh no. I'm wrong! He's not shallow. He did really love me." And then his expression changed. It became cold and hard. He turned back again to the blonde girl and bent his head nearer to hers.

"Your magazine, Miss."

The soldier picked it up for her. A tear splashed down her cheek, followed quickly by another. He looked at her sympathetically.

"You not feeling too good, Miss?"

"I'm all right, thank you."

"Going far?" he asked in a friendly tone.

"To Oakley."

IT was a help to have him to talk to. It took her mind off those two in the corridor. But at Broxbourne, when the other passengers got out, they came back again. And now there were only the four of them in the carriage.

"Better with a bit more room," isn't it?" said the soldier, stretching his legs.

"Much better," said the blonde girl. "Paul darling, I think now it's turning a little chilly."

Up went the window. Did he always, thought Patience angrily, do everything she wanted? She opened her magazine again. She read the serial steadily until they reached Oakley.

"This your station?" asked the soldier.

"Yes."

He leaned forward and opened the door for her. And then got out after her.

"But you don't get off here, do you?"

"No," he grinned and cocked his head in the direction of the carriage, "I think I'll find somewhere else and leave them two lovebirds together."

He was bundling himself and his kit into another compartment in a jiffy. He waved to her from the window. But Paul hadn't noticed her going. Not one look had he given her as she'd risen from her seat and got out of the train. And the soldier had called them two lovebirds!

She'd never dreamed anything could hurt her so terribly.

SHE went slowly home, not wanting to reach the house, not wanting to have to go in and talk to her aunts.

She heard voices as she opened the front door. They were coming from the sitting room. Visitors, she thought in consternation, and was about to flee up the stairs when the door opened and her Aunt Alice stood there, looking flustered and excited.

"Ah, there you are, darling child! We've been hoping you'd be home soon. Come along in! There's someone here who's looking forward tremendously to seeing you."

Patience hesitated. She looked desperately at her aunt.

"Aunt Alice, must I? I'm so tired and so dirty. Couldn't I just go upstairs and tidy first? I—I don't feel like talking to anybody. I—" And then she stopped short, for there just behind her aunt was a girl of about her own age. A girl who had the same color hair and the same color eyes and was exactly the same build. Only this girl was smartly dressed and her lipstick was a vivid scarlet, as were her nails. Her lashes, too, were darkened with mascara, and her eyebrows a neat feathery line. She was—Patience stared at her—why, she was like herself as she might be if some fairy princess had come along and waved a magic wand over her!

"You don't know who I am, do you?" asked the girl.

Aunt Helen now was fluttering behind her. She, too, seemed in a state of great excitement.

"How could she know, Charlotte dear?"

"Charlotte!" Patience's heart shook. Charlotte! Her twin sister's name had been Charlotte.

"You're not—oh, you can't be—" she gasped.

"She is," said her Aunt Helen. "Patience dear, this is your twin sister, Charlotte. Isn't it wonderful to think that, after all these years, we have found her!"

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

IT IS perturbing to see the ever-increasing number of letters I receive from readers asking me to explain Communism to them.

Apparently most of the writers haven't the slightest idea what this much-discussed threat to our security is about. And, apparently, a great majority of the Communists in this country have no more of an idea what Communism is or what a Communist is.

BRANDEIS

To explain Communism in the space of a column is impossible. Karl Marx and Fredrich Engles wrote the Bible of Communism, "The Communist Manifesto", and I am willing to make any kind of wager that not one in a hundred American Communists has ever read that document.

Apparently the average Communist believes that a Communist state is a sort of Utopia-come-true.

Apparently he thinks that it is the end of hard work, the equal distribution of all wealth, the realization of Omar Khayyam's conception of the ideal life.

Communism is nothing of the sort.

In Karl Marx's own words, "The theory of Communism may be summed up in one sentence: Abolish all private property."

Under Communism you own nothing, not even your own soul.

Yugoslavia is a Communist state.

Its capital is Belgrade.

A couple of weeks ago the police walked into every Belgrade shop and store, closed it, took the keys and notified the owner that his establishment hereafter was owned by the government.

Government clerks were sent in the next day to take inventory and to set an arbitrary amount which was to be paid to the owner for his shop.

Payment was not to be made in cash, but in government bonds the value of which was determined by the government.

The former owner was then given the privilege of working in his place at a wage set by the government, provided he was in good grace with that government.

If he let out too much of a squawk or if the government officials didn't like his looks or his necktie, they had a perfect right to put him to work anywhere at any kind of wage.

And if he didn't like that, maybe he'd just disappear and never be heard of again.

AS A GOOD Communist he belongs to the state, and whatever the state does with him is final.

Perhaps, in his anxiety, he may pray to God and ask Him to show him the way out.

In a Communist state that alone is a crime.

Religion is Communism's deadliest enemy.

There you have an example of Communism at work.

By its very nature Communism could never become a real danger to our country if our Government would only do a simple thing.

Instead of crying wolf, let our Government tell our people what Communism really is.

Let our Govenrment distribute millions of pamplets telling the real story of Communism. Let it go on the radio and on the platform and tell our people what really happens when Communism reigns.

No sane American would be a Communist if he really knew the meaning of Communism.

"Have you anything good for persistent cold feet?"

LATEST COURT RULING

Threat To Economy

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The most unpredictable and unstable Supreme Court in modern times will soon have to reverse or redefine its recent "cement trust" decision, unless the jurists want to throw the American economic system back into the horse-and-buggy days of their great-great-grandfathers.

Not in years has any ruling caused so much confusion and consternation among lawyers, manufacturers, shippers, buyers and distributors. The sorriest suffers will be the millions of consumers if the present decision stands or means what it seems to.

TUCKER

As many of Washington's leading legalists interpret the edict, it will overthrow and break up at one stroke the productive and distributive system which has made the United States such a plentiful and powerful nation, enabled it to be the decisive factor in two world wars and which alone can support any attempt to restore Europe and combat Communism.

COMPETITION: Under this admittedly extreme view, U. S. Steel, General Motors and other Detroit automobile companies, General Electric, Westinghouse and General Foods, to mention only a few, might as well cut their present plants and their sales empire down to the size and pattern of the early 1900's.

Unless Chief Justice Vinson's impulsive associates recant or re-explain, consumers throughout the country will be left to the price and marketing whims of the nearest producer of light and heavy goods, ranging from cigarettes to cement, for there will be no outside competition from faraway mass producers. Local factories and their distributors can charge as much as their exclusive, geographical monopoly permits them to impose on the customers.

The average American will live in the same sort of economically dark and backward age as his colonial ancestors, who had to pay whatever the local cobbler, grocery man, feed dealer and hardware merchant demanded for his wares. For there will be no price or quality competition from distant places, where a more generous supply of raw materials, labor, better brains and mass manufacture enables a firm to sell its products at lower cost.

In short, if the decision stands or is not redefined and restricted, it will mean that the American people cannot enjoy the natural blessings and the human talents which God gave them in letting them open up and develop the western hemisphere.

SIGNIFICANCE: It is no easy task to explain a legal and economic problem which puzzles the best experts, but, insofar as it affects producers and customers, here is an A-B-C attempt to outline the revolutionary significance of the careless court's latest escapade:

Let us take the examples of such a light product as cigarets and such a heavy material as cement, although it could be steel, machinery, bulk shipments of food and clothing, wholesale coal etc.

Although manufactured in the Carolinas, say, a cigaret does not cost much more in Los Angeles than it does in Charlotte, save for the extra burden of state or local taxes. The comparative equality in retail price derives from the fact that the freight and handling charges are low.

With cement it is different, for sometimes the freight rate amounts to more than the actual cost of the product. A plant in New Jersey, for instance, or in California could not afford to ship a carload more than fifty or sixty miles—with increasing rail charges, the radius is diminishing to fifteen or twenty miles—to a customer.

Although he might prefer the Jersey product, the buyer would have to buy from the nearest mill. Knowing it had a monopoly, the latter could add the Jersey-to-delivery freight costs to his own bill and get away with it.

ARRANGEMENT: To overcome these geographical barriers, most heavy industries have established what is known as a "multiple basing system." It is this arrangement which the court, if it means what it says it means, appears to have outlawed.

Under the "multiple basing system" the New Jersey cement manufacturer does not have to quote a delivery rate to the distant customer that would include all his freight charges.

Instead, he includes in his overall charge only the freight charges from the cement mill which is nearest to the customer. The Jersey seller, under this system, is permitted to absorb the extra freight costs.

Without this kind of arrangement, there could be no large-scale competition. Without it, too, there is no reason why a corporation should engage in the mass production that permits mass sales in distant territory and which, in turn, results in lower prices and a choice of quality for the ultimate user.

It is an extremely delicate and complicated marketing arrangement which has been built up through the years. It would take many years to reorganize it. Yet that is what the Supreme Court has destroyed, if it means what it says.

DECISION: The Supreme Court, belatedly, seems to realize the explosive nature of its decision as it has been interpreted in interested circles. It has granted the cement companies involved a re-hearing. Whether the jurists will backtrack or merely clarify and water down their ruling may be determined before they quit for the summer late this month.

The decision has excited Capitol Hill. Representative Francis Walter, Pennsylvania Democrat, has suggested that legislation to invalidate the edict may be necessary. Senator Homer Capehart of Indiana has started hearings, with Federal Trade Commissioners as the first witnesses, to discover, as so many lawyers in Congress ask, "what in hell the court really does mean?"

CANNY: Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire is one of the most canny and cagey men on Capitol Hill. He will not be the Republican presidential nominee next time, but if the first-place nomination should go to a Middle Westerner, such as Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan or Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, the likable, blue-eyed Yankee might get the secondary nod.

At the moment, however, he is the most overworked member of Congress as Chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee. Everybody who wants a nickel from the government, as well as those who believe that Congress is too generous with the taxpayers' money, tries to belay or buttonhole him in his office, in Congressional corridors, in a taxicab, at his home and at cocktail and dinner parties.

But the shrewd Senator has a dodge to defeat or repulse these claimants. When he attends a Senate or committee session, he takes his hat with him. As soon as he reaches the door of the chamber or committee room, sometimes even before that point, he puts on his hat. So attired, and because of his youthful appearance, he is regarded as just another tourist or boy from the country.

You can tell when the nation has returned to normalcy. The bullet-proof vest will be on the must list of the innocent bystander.

Believe It Or Not-By Robert Ripley

'NEW' TRUMAN HITS THE ROAD

Politics 'Big Business' Now

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

ABOARD PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S SPECIAL TRAIN — Politics is big business these days.

It is also show business. Like big business, which is also show business, politics uses all the modern paraphernalia of publicity, advertising and special stunts to attract the customers. We have here, on this special train of sixteen cars, a man who apparently needs customers.

He has one stunt. He's had it a long time. But his promoters only recently waked up to it. This is his talent for the short, friendly, folksy impromptu speech, nicely spiced with humor, which brings out the innate sincerity of the man who now occupies the biggest job in the world. He is using that stunt on this trip.

Found Talent At Banquet

As is so often the case, his White House entourage had to be told by somebody else how good the stunt is. The hidden talent, the miracle they had overlooked, was revealed to them suddenly one night at a banquet of the American society of newspaper editors in Washington a few weeks back.

The President read a long, prepared speech about inflation — which was sound enough but hardly sparkling. The assembled editors were thrown into a doze on about the second or third price curve. The President's voice in such readings does have a peculiar soporific quality. When he had finished, his listeners bestirred themselves and gave him the appropriate polite applause that editors use for each other's speeches.

Then he tossed aside his prepared address with evident relief, as if to say, "Now, thank heaven, that's over," and began to talk to the editors informally and casually, but right straight from the shoulder.

He talked about many current problems, among them national defense. Here his audience quickly recognized that he spoke with authority—he had become an expert from his long experience as chairman of the Senate committee that had probed relentlessly into every angle of national defense. He talked also about foreign affairs generally, and about Russia—all in an informative appealingly frank and simple manner. He talked, too, about his earnest desire for peace in the world, and how anxious he is to achieve it, and here his deep hopes became very apparent.

When he finished this time, the editors literally leaped to their feet to give him a rousing ovation. He had enthralled them with his second speech, though it hardly could be called a speech in the usual sense. Why, they asked each other, does he not talk to the people this way? Some expressed the opinion that, if he would get out over the country and talk to the people that way, there possibly might be a different result in November than generally anticipated. It was quite an interesting spectacle to watch that night.

Fortunately, some of the White House entourage were there to see, too. Here was what they had been looking for—and it was right under their noses all the time. Thus was created the "new Truman", the direct, sincere man talking directly and sincerely to fellow citizens, taking them into partnership, as it were.

Show Now On Road

He had a "try-out" at a few local occasions in Washington and the experiment was so successful that the show is on the road, with the president talking from the back platform as his train moves toward the West and Pacific coast. Sandwiched among numerous such appearances are five scheduled major speeches for discussion of basic policies. So the ghost writers are getting enough exercise to keep their brain muscles in trim.

Much depends on this traveling show, for it represents a desperate attempt to revive the President's flagging fortunes. How important it is regarded may be seen from the fact that there are over four carloads of chroniclers—newspaper reporters, photographers, radio men—sixty altogether, along to record it.

The President lives in his own private car, the one used for years by Presidents. There is also a work car for the large staff which must necessarily accompany him, for the White House is now on wheels. In front of this is a parlor car to receive visitors and, despite the advertised "non-political" nature of this trip, there will be quite a few who will be recognized as "politicians" as they get on and off the train from time to time. At the front of the train, next to the engine, is a special communications car for constant and immediate telephone and radio connection with Washington.

Politics is big business these days.

D-DAY PLUS ONE IS RECALLED

General Eisenhower Takes Over Columbia University Presidency

NEW YORK, June 7. (AP)—General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower took over the presidency of Columbia university today, four years and a day after he directed the launching of the invasion of Europe by the allied armies.

Dressed in a conservative gray business suit and a gray hat witn upturned brim, the general walked briskly from his home to his office in the Low Memorial library. A tie splashed with orange and yellow broke the grayness of his dress.

D-Day Is Recalled

"I suppose you want a statement on D-Day," he remarked to reporters awaiting him at the door of his home.

"Well, four years ago today I was visiting (Gen. Omar) Bradley and (Gen. Bernard) Montgomery and the people along the beaches. I guess that's about all I could say."

Eisenhower said he found civilian life exacting.

"I've been in the Army all my life," he said. "After 36 years of one profession I'll have to do a little adjusting, but it will be a lot of fun to try it. At least there's one thing about it: If a fellow works hard, he can't go too far wrong."

Ceremonies Skipped

About his new job, Eisenhower said:

"They work me pretty hard every day."

He said today would be marked by no ceremonies.

University officials disclosed that Eisenhower insisted that students and faculty members have access to his office.

One reporter remarked to him: "We're not going to bother you with politics today, General."

"I'm glad you're not," Eisenhower replied. "I have said all I have to say on the matter."

Eisenhower became Columbia's 13th president.

TRAILER BONDMOBILE COMING TO CITY — Included in the mile-long parade heralding the opening of the annual ABC-Boys' club rodeo next Wednesday afternoon will be the trailer bondmobile pictured above, which will be in Lubbock throughout the day to stimulate Security Loan sales. Members of the Lubbock Jaycees' Security Bonds committee, headed by Bill Buck and Ed Smith, co-chairmen, will have charge of the bondmobile's visit here. After the parade it will be stationed on a downtown street and Security Bonds will be offered for sale by the Jaycees. Rolan Simpson and Asher Thompson are other members of the committee. Buck is county chairman of bond sales for Lubbock county.

Officers Asked To Hunt Two Missing Wellington Sisters

HILLSBORO, June 7 (AP)—Officers' help was asked today by relatives of two sisters of Wellington, Texas, who have not been heard from since they left their home June 3.

The sisters are Mrs. Juanita Wauer, 22, and Miss Janey E. Pruitt, 16. They left Wellington to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Pruitt, of the Woodbury community near here.

The sisters were driving a 1941 grey Plymouth sedan. Relatives told Sheriff Ralph Allen that they feared foul play.

Former New York Newspaper Woman Dies At Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 7 (AP)—One of the first newspaper women to work in editorial rooms, Mrs. Harriet Abbott Howe, 83, died here last night.

She was a poet and worked as a staff member of the old "Pictorial Review" in New York.

Mrs. Howe moved to Oklahoma City in 1946 after spending most of her life in New York and San Francisco.

Mexican Farm Families Leave Texas For Northern Fields

TEXARKANA, June 7 (AP)—Thousands of Mexican families were reported shaking the Texas dust this month and heading for the promised lands of "mucho dinero" in the north.

The annual trek from the lower Rio Grande valley of Texas to the northern states where the beets and tomatoes grow has begun.

"Meester," one migrant told Texarkana Gazette reporter Ernest Valochovic "we like to work for southern people, but we leave the valley for money an' the north got plenty to give."

In the past two weeks, Claude Caldwell, who operates a farm information booth for migrating workers near Mandeville, Ark., counted more than 2,000 Mexicans heading north on highway 67.

They jolt along, crammed into trucks sometimes 20 to 40 at a time. The workers usually range from 16 on up, but, as one Mexican said, "if the young ones are there and can work, one more pair of hands helps."

Services Conducted For R. H. Harlan

LITTLEFIELD, June 7 (Special)—Funeral services were conducter at 3 p. m. today for R. H. Harlan, 59, of Bula, who was crushed to death sometime Sunday afternoon beneath the lugs of a runaway tractor on the Harlan farm near Bula. Harlan, unaware the tractor was in gear, had attempted to crank it.

Services were held in the Harlan residence, with burial in Littlefield cemetery under direction of Hammond Funeral home.

Nolan, a son, discovered his father's body about 6 p. m. Sunday, according to funeral home officials at Littlefield. Officials estimated that Harlan was probably killed about 4 p. m.

Survivors include his wife and son and a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Corder of Newberg, Ore.

Sponges are a low form of animal life, with power to eat and digest.

Red Problem Lasting One, SMU Head Says

GEORGETOWN, Texas, June 7 (AP)—The Russian question will not be settled within the present generation's lifetime, Dr. Umphrey Lee, president of Southern Methodist university, told the 108th graduating class of Southwestern university here today.

"You are going to have the Russian question with you all your life," he told the 72 graduates, their relatives and friends in the university auditorium.

Honorary Degrees Conferred

Honorary degrees were conferred on seven men including Gov. Beauford Jester. Doctor of divinity degrees were received by Finis Alonzo Crutchfield, district superintendent of the Corsicana Methodist district; Dr. Homer T. Fort, pastor of the First Methodist church, Beaumont; Earle Melvin Rugg, principal of Raewind Christian institute, Lahore Pakistan, India.

Doctor of laws degrees went to Harold L. Egger, Dallas insurance man and former principal of Georgetown High school and to Governor Jester.

Doctor of science degrees were conferred on Craig Francis Cullinan, Houston oil man and Dr. C. P. Yeager, Corpus Christi physician and surgeon.

Rep. Sam Rayburn (D-Texas) was unable to leave Washington to receive his honorary doctor of laws degree. He is scheduled to receive it at the summer graduation exercises.

International Harvester Firm Increases Prices On Tractors

CHICAGO, June 7 (AP)—International Harvester company today advanced prices from 2.5 to 14.8 per cent on its wheel-type farm tractor. The average advance for the entire farm tractor line was placed at "less than 10 per cent."

"We had hoped that production costs might stabilize," the company said, "and we delayed these adjustments, therefore, until our margin of profit on the entire tractor line had declined below minimum levels, and we were actually in the red on several models."

Court Rules On Divorce Cases

By DARRELL GARWOOD
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 7 — The United States Supreme Court in two important decisions ruled today that a divorce granted by a competent court in any state is valid in any other state.

At the same time the court held that a Reno divorce, although it severs the marital bond, may not prevent the ex-wife from obtaining a judgement for alimony in another state.

Steel Sale is Okayed

In another important decision, the court approved U. S. Steel's purchase of Consolidated Steel Corp., at a price of $8,000,000. The decision said that the merger of Western State Steel interests would not eliminate competition in rolled steel products.

The high tribunal in one 7 to 2 decision overruled a Massachusetts court's action in refusing to recognize a Florida divorce. The case was brought by Edward C. Sherrer after his wife, Marguerite, had obtained a divorce at St. Petersburg, Fla.

The court also voted 7 to 2 to validate a Reno, Nev., divorce obtained by Joseph Estin, but it validated a judgment for arrears alimony which his ex-wife subsequently obtained under a separation agreement in New York.

The Sherrer case, Chief Justice Vinson wrote:

"We do not conceive it to be in accord with the full faith and credit requirement (of the constitution) to hold that a judgement rendered in one state may be required to run a gantlet of collateral attack in the courts of sister states.

"Where a decree of divorce is rendered by a competent court . . . the litigation should end in the courts of the state in which the judgement was rendered."

In a sharp dissent, Justice Frankfurter said:

"I cannot bring myself to believe that the full faith and credit clause gave to the few states which offer bargain-counter divorces constitutional power to control the social policy of the states which do not.

"We cannot close our eyes to the fact that certain states make an industry of their easy divorce laws."

Bandits Take Time In Robbing Tavern Of Over $3,000

CHICAGO, June 7, (INS)—A tavern run by ex-Chicago White Sox catching great Ray Schalk was robbed today by six unhurried masked bandits who stole $3,200 after imprisoning 30 persons in the basement under armed guard.

The bandits, who brandished a machine gun and revolvers, seized $1,200 from a cash register shortly after entering the combination drinking, dining and bowling establishment in suburban Evergreen park.

They herded Schalk's wife, Lavinia, several employes, and customers into the basement and locked them in five storerooms. Schalk was at home at the time.

Waited For Manager

Then the gunmen sat down to await the arrival of Manager Lou Barbour who knows the safe combination.

Each new customer who walked into the tavern was escorted by a gunman to the basement and turned over to the guard to be locked up.

One of the victims was a letter carrier, thereby bringing federal postal inspectors into the case. J. L. Marks, postal inspector in charge of the Chicago office, said seizure of the carrier delayed delivery of the mail.

Barbour, who is a former White Sox first baseman, arrived and was forced to open the safe containing $2,000. The bandits fled in two automobiles, one of them belonging to Schalk.

JOHNNY UNDER COVER

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (U.P.)—Eleven-year-old John St. John told his friends that he was in the Cotton Carnival parade but nobody saw him. Little John was concealed under the skirt of the rhumba dancer aboard the Rio De Janiero float. He was turning the crank to make the gigantic dancer's hips wiggle.

TONS OF DUST

Several surveys of city engineers show that in metropolitan areas from 15 to 1800 tons of dust fall on each square mile of territory every years.

said. Nothing was reported removed from the residence of J. W. Fowler of 116 Ave. U, nothing of value from the property of D. L. Beran of 2123 Seventeenth.

E. C. Feagan of Doak hall reported theft of a $120 camera from his room. G. D. Harral of Wolfforth said a robe, a jacket and a shirt, total value $30, were stolen from his parked car here.

A coat stolen from the car of J. A. Presley of 1812 Fourteenth had in it certificates of title to five automobiles, a deed of trust, a fountain pen and other papers, Presley told police.

Two fog lights valued at $15 were reported stolen from Coy Hamilton of 1905 Sixth.

Several other thefts were reported on records. A pair of women's shoes, two slips a dress, a suit case, and two blouses from the Thomas M. Garland residence at 1810 Ave. L; a one-horsepower pressure pump valued at $200 from T. A. Timmons of 2918 North Fifth; a water cooler valued at $20 from the car of Robert Castle; a purse containing $35 from Johnnie Mae Daac of 2500-block East Ave. G.

A car was reported stolen here over the weekend, a truck from Sundown. The sheriff's department said a 1946 Pontiac club coupe, license AP 4680, had been taken. Sheriff Guy Swain of Levelland said a 1948 Ford truck, license NL 2852, had been taken from Sundown. It was reported loaded with pipeline tools.

A 44-year-old negro was held by police for investigation into the rifling of cars. He allegedly had in his possession clothing taken from one of them.

Another negro, 26, was held for investigation into three traffic charges: speeding through an intersection, running two stop signs, and reckless driving.

Other Thefts Probed

Police said a 24-year-old negro man was arrested Monday and would be charged with operating an automobile while his driver's license was suspended.

Mrs. L. D. Lindley, of Ralls, reported theft of a dress and dress material, valued at $28, from her car at the city swimming pool Monday. The car was locked, but a left front vent glass had been broken, police were informed. Description of a suspect and his car license number were given to police.

A suspected swindling was reported to police by Tex G. Myrick, city fireman. He said that he placed an order for trousers with a 'salesman' May 6, and made a $6.50 deposit.

The Lubbock address given by the 'salesman' was found to be a vacant building. The order was allegedly to a Chicago firm, but no information had been received regarding it, police were told.

Morris Matthews, 40, jointly charged with a woman with adultery, pleaded innocent in county court and bond of $800 set by Judge Walter Davies was posted.

C. R. Oldham, about 30, pleaded innocent of liquor law violation and bond of $600 was posted.

A judgment of $100 and court costs was entered against C. C. Cooper, charged March 4 with liquor law violation, officials said.

In the 72nd district court of Judge Dan Blair temporary injunctions were issued, enjoining V. L. Haley and Arzelta Johnson, each about 35, from trafficking in alcoholics. A similar judgment is expected to be signed today, naming Willie Hardrick, a Slaton negro, it was said.

City police said they had fined William Larue, 44, $100 for theft of a pillow. He had been arrested after a report he was prowling through autmobiles.

MARKET AGAIN SLUMPS

NEW YORK, June 7. (AP)—The stock market carried through Friday's drop today and fell back to the lowest average level since May 13.

Trading was the slowest in more than two months.

Prices dribbled lower soon after the opening and then leveled off. Later demand perked up enough to trim the widest declines or in some cases to change them into advances. Nobody seemed very excited about it one way or the other, though, and most price variations were in fractions.

Steels and motors made a pretty good showing while metals and oils tended downward.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .2 of a point to 70.2, the lowest since 69.1 was registered on May 13.

An even 1,000 issues appeared on the ticker tape, of which 534 declined and 266 advanced Friday.

In the curb Consolidated Steel bounded 6½ points to 45½ following news the Supreme Court had turned down government efforts to block the sale of the company to Columbia Steel. A U. S. Steel Corp subsidiary. Volume of 280,000 compared with 200,000 Friday.

Lower prices were paid for U. S. Steel 78¾. U. S. Rubber 44½. J. I. Case 48⅝. Consolidated Edison 23¼. Kennecott Copper 56. American Smelting 64¼. U. S. Gypsum 111½. Santa Fe 111½. Union Pacific 184¼. Texas Co. 62¼. and Standard Oil (NJ) 84.

Chrysler moved up 1 to 64 and plus signs appeared in front of Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, Packard, Douglas Aircraft, National Distillers, N. Y. Central, Gulf Oil, and Paramount.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP) — Cotton futures were irregular in moderately active dealings today with a good deal of evening-up operations in nearby July and switching to later months, anticipating first notice day June 24. Scattered commission house and New Orleans liquidation was influenced by the continued confusion of the export situation. New crop months sold off on good crop reports.

Export circles reported that Japan is asking for offers of 5,000 bales of better quality cotton.

Late afternoon prices were 85 cents a bale lower to 5 cents higher than the previous close. July 36.64, Oct. 33.18 and Dec. 32.65.

Cotton futures rallied into new high ground for the day in the final hour of trading. Active short covering developed on the news that the house armed services committee had approved $150,000,000 revolving fund covering commodity purchases, including cotton for Japan. Nearby July showed the widest advance.

Futures closed 10 cents to $1.90 a bale higher than the previous close.

week from 10 to 11 in the morning and 4 to 5 in the afternoon to make sure that the proclamation is followed to the letter. Penalties will range from doing time in the stockade to buying rodeo tickets, and the trials will be short and decisive, Roper said. He said that he believes that if the thing is worth doing it is worth doing in a big way, and anyone who doesn't agree with him will have to pay the price.

The parade will proceed down Main street around the courthouse square and make its way west on Broadway to College avenue, as a preview to the gala opening of the rodeo Wednesday night. Headed by flagbearers, the Rodeo Queen, Miss Bonnie Jean George of Jacksboro, and Parade Marshal Harry Morris, the parade will include a car of honor for the old timers of Lubbock who have been here since the county was first settled.

POLITICIANS HERE FOR RODEO—AND VOTES

Several state candidates will be in Lubbock Wednesday to take part in the ABC-Boys Club rodeo program, one of them to launch his state campaign for governor.

Most of the visiting politicians are expected to appear in the parade throughout downtown Lubbock street. Also during the day they will be contacting potential voters.

Those scheduled to appear here include Rep. Roger Q. Evans of Denison, who will launch his state campaign for the governor's post; Caso March, another gubernatorial candidate; Attorney Gen. Price Daniel, former Gov. Coke Stevenson, who is a candidate for U. S. Senate; Geo. Peddy of Houston, also a candidate for senator.

March will arrive in the city today, he announced last night.

Johnson

how he stands on assistance to schools, soil conservation, REA loans, lights for our rural homes, farm to market roads, fighting hoof and mouth disease, hospitals for rural areas, socialized medicine, better housing, allocating steel to oil men who must have it to find the oil we need."

He challenged his opponent to say how he would vote on the Taft-Hartley act, the reciprocal trade agreements, federal support prices for farm products, and on $50 a month old age pensions.

Johnson said he opposed socialized medicine, favored federal aid for Texas hospitals, voted for defense and preparedness measures, voted to quarantine aggressors and for the Marshall plan and the reciprocal trade program. He said he would work for blacktop roads in every Texas county, lights in every rural home, soil and water conservation, "a roof over every family's head" through the FHA.

Johnson said he was for the Taft teacher salary raise bill, and for federal pensions of $50 a month for every aged person. He said he would work "to preserve the working man's right to strike, and collective bargaining," but he voted for bills to stop mass picketing, secondary boycotts "and abuse of power by the John L. Lewises and Petrillos."

Galen mentioned the drying properties of linseed oil in 230 A.D.

RIGHT SIDE OF SHIP

"Starboard" means "steerside," or the right side of a ship, because the steering oar on Norse and medieval vessels was placed on that side near the stern, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Soviets Not Believed Ready To Incorporate Eastern Nations

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

Many American observers are inclined to scout reports from Europe that Russia is about ready to begin incorporating her satellites directly into the Soviet Union.

Although well aware of the difficulty of trying to outguess the Kremlin, they think the obstacles, from Russia's standpoint, are greater than the possible benefits.

The absorption reports themselves have been more speculative than real. They probably trace, in large part, to the continuing Communist effort to eliminate all opposition in the countries which they control. There is a purge in Poland of members of the Socialist party who oppose its merger with the Communists, which is expected to take place within the next two or three months.

Reds Taking Over

The Yugoslav government has been eliminating, from party, Army and cabinet posts, men who do not adhere strictly to the line.

The campaign, already well underway in Bulgaria and Hungary, is getting along in Czechoslovakia, too.

Along with it goes extension of the Soviet system, particularly as it applies to socialization of the land which the Soviets distributed to the peasants in the early campaigns to win their co-operation in the captive countries.

But the people of these countries still are not sufficiently Communized to fit into the Soviet Union. Their incorporation would have to be by force. That is, through terror and rigged plebiscites. And their administration would have to be under even stronger and more direct Russian supervision than at present. Russia, already short of administrative men, would find this a serious burden.

There is, of course, reason to believe that the Kremlin always keeps in mind the possibilities of incorporation. That may have been one reason why Pravda repudiated cominform boss Georgi Dimitrov's idea of an eastern European federation last year. The states are under better control and more pliable as separate units.

The idea of liberty still flames brightly among large sections of the populations. The Communist hold in Romania, Bulgaria, Poland and Czechoslovakia, while tight, is by no means based on majorities. Russian annexation efforts could arouse sufficient opposition to fix up the whole business. It would seem to be useless as long as the satellites remain docile.

Funeral For Roaring Springs Woman Is Conducted Monday

ROARING SPRINGS, June 7. (Special)—Last rites were held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon in the Roaring Springs Methodist church for Mrs. Molly F. Turner, 82, a resident of Roaring Springs for the past 17 years who died here about 2 p. m. Sunday. Burial was in Roarings Springs cemetery under the direction of McDonald & Son Funeral home of Matador.

Survivors include four sons, Earl of Wichita Falls, George of Lockney, and Albert and John Turner of Roaring Springs; six daughters, Mrs. R. H. Rheudasil of Paris, Mrs. S. R. Latest Poll Shows People Favor Ike

NEW YORK, June 7. (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, new head of Columbia university, could be elected to the presidency on either the Republican or Democratic ticket if he chose to run, according to public opinion analyst Elmo Roper.

Eisenhower has said repeatedly that he does not want to be president, Roper said in a radio broadcast (CBS) yesterday.

Roper's nationwide survey showed Eisenhower could poll more votes than President Truman or any Republican candidate.

His closest contender on the poll was former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota.
