Salvation Army Drive Starts Here

The Rockport service unit of the Salvation Army started its annual campaign for funds Tuesday, Aug. 24, at 9:30 a.m. at the Chamber of Commerce building.

Chairman of this year's drive, which has a goal of $1,500.00, is Mrs. A. C. Shivers. Co-chairman is Mrs. Roy Lee Hart. D. H. Roberts is heading up the advance gifts division. John Ross, who headed it last year, is assisting Mr. Roberts.

The local Salvation Army can give immediate aid at the point of need without consulting distant headquarters. Aid to transients, food for a hungry family, shoes so a child may attend school, are but a few of the many services rendered by the unit. Three Rockport boys were sent for a week to the Salvation Army camp.

Assisting in the drive are: Shelley P. Roaten, Delmar Hiller, the newly elected chairman of the Rockport Salvation Army; Rev. Cecil Lang, J. D. Gray, Rev. B. H. Bohmfalk, Sheriff Joe Earl Hunt, J. W. Ingersoll, Ron Schultz, Ottie Mundine, Mrs. Thomas Petrilli, Lou Jackson, Alfred Pena, Mrs. Philip Baldwin, Mrs. Carl Gambil, James H. Sorenson, Jr., Allen Frye, Pat Greene, Mrs. John Mitchell, Jr., Ben Howard, B. T. Hardeman, and Mrs. W. D. Henderson.

Mrs. Shivers says that if anyone desires to help, she has some prospect cards at the courthouse.

1965 marks the Salvation Army's 100th year of service to God and man.

TWO MORE RYSCO BOATS LEAVE FOR SOUTH AMERICA

Two more 72-foot shrimpers, the Cayenne Witch and Cayenne Madcap left here this week, bound for South America, numbers 10 and 11 on a 15-boat contract between Rockport Yacht and Supply Co. and Henderson's Portion Pak, of Coral Gables, Fla.

Counting four boats built for a Japanese firm late last year, and others delivered to Henderson's, there are nearly a score of Rockport-built boats now engaged in the great new shrimping grounds off the mouths of the Orinoco and Amazon in the southern continent.

Also on the ways and making rapid progress are four all steel hulls to be used in Saudi Arabia, and two bigger boats to fish Texas and Caribbean waters.

DREDGE SINKS MONDAY MORNING

A small dredge belonging to Billy Ray Hudson sank Monday morning off Key Allegro. It was headed into the Blevins Marina to do some dredging and anchored offshore Sunday night.

Coach Bloomer Gives Possible Starting Lineup

Coach Ben Bloomer says that he will have six offensive and six defensive lettermen returning this year, which he expects to furnish backbone for the Pirate football squad, along with some of last year's junior varsity who have won possible starting berths.

In the starters back for this year are Eric Henderson, who, on occasion went both ways last year. He plays guard. Rocky Sanders, back for his third year, won honorable mention for All District tackle last year, and will be a starter at tackle this year.

Jerry Hill, back for his second year, played half on defense and has moved to an offensive place this year. Ray Brown, who lettered for two previous years and received the nomination for All-District linebacker last year, will be a backfield anchor man at halfback.

David Picton, playing for his third year, won honorable mention as all-district defensive tackle last year, and will fill the center position on the starting team.

Tom Lewis the 6-8, 300-pound all district defense tackle from last year will fill the same slot this year, and Joe Torres who was an offensive starter last year will be in the backfield this year; David Nava, Brian Barnard and Charles Roe will see service as ends.

Probably slated for starting guards are Theo Tippin and Jack Gwynn.

Up from junior varsity to support the varsity team this year are quarterbacks Bart

Texas Reciprocal Car License Law Expanded

Most new residents of Texas are required to buy new vehicle registration plates for their automobiles as soon as they establish residence in Texas. The same is true of those who accept gainful employment in the State.

Actually, Texas observes a reciprocal passenger car registration agreement with all other states. Fourteen states permit non-residents to obtain new license plates at varying periods after they establish residence or obtain gainful employment. All other states demand immediate purchase of new plates, and— in observance of the reciprocal agreement—so does Texas.

R. W. Townsley, Director of the Texas Highway Department, Motor Vehicle Division, has reminded all law enforcement agencies in the State of the reciprocal licensing agreements.

"Enforcement of out of state license plate agreements is very important to law enforcement since a current license plate, in addition to providing revenue to build and maintain roads, serves to identify a vehicle with its owner," Townsley said.

He pointed out that varying "grace periods" are allowed new residents moving to Texas from these states:

Thirty days—Alabama, Colorado, Georgia, Mississippi, Ohio, Tennessee, West Virginia, Wisconsin.

Sixty days — Virginia and Wyoming.

Six months—Connecticut and Minnesota.

New residents from all other states must obtain license plates as soon as they move to Texas, or as soon as they accept a job in the Lone Star State. The only exception are daily commuters from bordering States, who need not relicense their vehicles though they may work in Texas.

Non residents in Texas as visitors or students and not engaged in gainful employment may operate on Texas highways with their current home state license plates, However, such plates must be renewed prior to the non resident's home state enforcement date or Texas plates must be purchased.

Electronic Score Board Donated by Local Firms

Dept. of the Interior Eases Fishery Loan Requirements

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall said today regulations governing fishery loans have been revised and no longer require that an applicant replace an existing vessel if the loan is to finance the purchase of a new or used vessel.

Secretary Udall said Public Law 89-85, signed by President Johnson last month, also expands the purposes for which fishery loan funds may be used and extends the authority to make such loans to June 30, 1970.

The fisheries loan fund, established by a section of the Fish and Wildlife Act of 1956, initially had an authorization of $10 million, and was increased to $20 million in 1958.

The loan program authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to make loans for financing and refinancing the operations of commercial fishing vessels and the maintenance, repair, purchase or construction of such vessels and their gear.

Donald L. McKernan, director of Interior's Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, which administers the loan program, said the revised regulations contain the provision that purchase of a new vessel must not cause economic injury to efficient vessel operators working in the area where the new vessel will operate.

PRE-GAME SALE OF INGLESIDE FOOTBALL TICKETS

There will be a pre-game sale of tickets for the Ingleside football game to be held here Friday, Sept. 3.

Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Athletic director Dave Segler said that if this pre-game sale of tickets is successful, it may be repeated for other home games.

A breakdown of the general fund for the two years show that in 1965 the salary of the tax assessor - collector was $6,000, next year it will be $6,300. The city secretary's salary was $4,500 and this

TAX RATE WILL REMAIN AT $1.76
SUPT. GRAY REPORTS AT MEETING

Although teachers salaries in the Aransas County Independent School System are nearly $55,000 higher than they were last year, and although the budget approved Tuesday night was $89,174 higher than it was a year ago, no tax raise will be necessary for the 1965-1966, according to Supt. J. D. Gray.

Increased state moneys to care for the teacher's salaries, and careful administration that left a record-breaking year end balance, are responsible for the fact that although this year's budget calls for overall expenditures of $806,179 as opposed to last year's budget of $717,005, the tax rate will remain at $1.76 per hundred dollars in assessed valuations, the same as it was last year.

First Day of School Sept. 1

Aransas County High School will open for a full day of school on Wednesday, Sept. 1, 1965, at 8:10 a.m. Students should report to the main entrance of the Aransas County High School, where they will receive a class list that will direct them to their first period class rooms.

All students should be registered at this time as there will be a full day of school from 8:10 a.m. until the noon period at 11:40 a.m. The afternoon session will start at 12:25 p.m. and will continue until the dismissal time of 3:30 p.m.

JUNIOR HIGH OPENS SEPT. 1

All junior high school students of Aransas County should report for the first day of school on Wednesday, Sept. 1, at 8:10 a.m.

It is important that all students who did not attend the public schools of Aransas County last school year be registered before next Wednesday as there will be a full day of school the first day with all classes meeting a regular schedule.

All seventh grade students will report to the east end of the first wing of the Junior High. A schedule will be posted instructing students as to their first period class.

All eighth grade students are to report to the east end of the second wing for their instructions.

Cheerleaders Attend SMU School

The Aransas County High School cheerleaders, Mary Lou Atchley, Roylynn Harris, Kathy Johnson, Doralyn Wright and Denise Picton attended the SMU Cheerleading school sponsored by the National Cheerleading Association in Dallas last week. They were accompanied to Dallas by Mrs. Joe Earl Hunt. They left early Sunday morning, Aug. 15, and returned Saturday morning, Aug. 21.

The schedule was heavy but they learned a great deal. There were three classes from 8:00 to 12:00. One of these was "competition," in which each group performed two yells on which they were judged. ACHS cheerleaders received honorable mention, which was good considering the competition they were up against.

VET. MAY PURCHASE LESS THAN $10,000 of INSURANCE OFFERINGS

Eligible veterans do not have to purchase the full $10,000 coverage to take advantage of the re-opening of GI life insurance, P. J. Mims, manager of the Veterans Arministration regional office in San Antonio, said.

They may purchase as little as $1,000 worth of coverage if they find it a financial hardship to do more.

They may do this before May 3, 1966, when the enabling legislation expires. Policies will be issued for $1,000 and up in $500 steps such as $1,500, $2,000, $2,500 and on.

ROTARIANS HEAR L. D. NUCKLES

National Drivers' Test Day Named

Texas drivers will have an opportunity to test their driving skills before driving in the heavy Labor Day holiday traffic.

On Monday, Aug. 30, the National Drivers' Test, which was originally broadcast nationwide just before Memorial Day, will be presented again on CBS Television. On most Texas stations the broadcast is scheduled between 9 and 10 p.m.

J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association, said the repeat of the Test is in response to the many demands from viewers who missed the program and those who want to take it again.

An estimated 26 million viewed the first broadcast which was presented by CBS in cooperation with the National Safety Council and Shell Oil Co.

Purpose of the test is to alert drivers to the necessity of developing new and sharpening old driving skills to cope with today's complex system of transportation.

Forms for taking the test may be obtained from Shell Oil Co. service stations, or by writing the Texas Safety Association, 830 Littlefield Bldg., Austin, Texas 78701.

Estimated 13,000 Seek Teal Permits

A surprising number of Texans have applied for a permit to participate in the experimental teal season Sept. 4 through 12, according to Al Springs, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

In fact, the closing rush to meet the August 2 deadline swamped the staff set up for the paper work.

The total will not be known until the lists have been checked and duplications eliminated it might reach 13,000.

The season, with a four-per-day and eight in possession limit, was authorized by waterfowl authorities to determine if the pre-season shoot on the early-migrating game birds is feasible.

Views From Hewes

By Chief of Police Bob Hewes

Now that the summer tourist season is drawing to a close we of the Rockport Police Department would like to give a great big thanks to all citizens of Rockport in addition to all of the people that have visited oue area this year.

It has been a quiet summer in the City Police business, accidents have been at a minimum, burglaries and thefts almost at a standstill and only a slight increase in the handling of juveniles, mostly under the age of 12 years old.

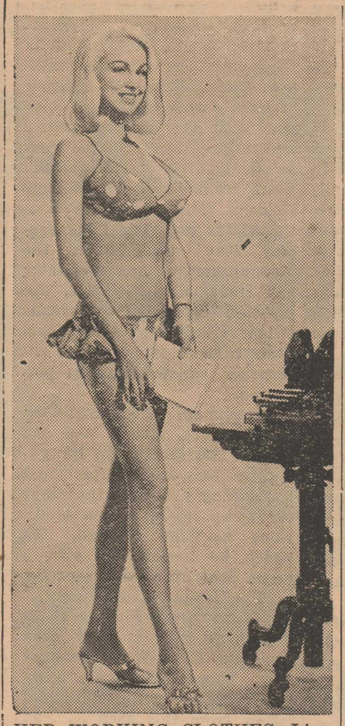

A lot of this we attribute to the fact that the City Council saw fit to furnish another patrolman and another police car during the year. Now we can give almost 24 hour protection to the entire city. We have had no serious accidents reported and very few injuries were reported.

I hope that the coming holiday which is expected to be the worst of the season will hold in line with the rest of the year. With the cooperation of all the citizens and visitors we will be able to do this.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Smith and baby of Houston will leave today after visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Smith.

Harvard Professor Writes of Early Texas Ship Lines

Use of water ballast to navigate the shallow Texas coast was pioneered by Charles Morgan in the 19th century, long before the modern Alcoa ore carrier Ballagen tried it on it first trip through the almost - completed Matagorda ship channel, according to Dr. James P. Baughman, maritime historian of the Texas coast.

Baughman, assistant professor of Business History at Harvard University, and managing editor of the Harvard Business History Review, has just completed a book on Morgan and his little red steamers — once a familiar sight on the Texas coast.

However, there was a difference in the methods used by Morgan and Alcoa, just as there is a difference between the cargoes carried by the two steamship lines.

Morgan's steamers were built to cross the shallow bars at Galveston, Indianola, Aransas Pass and Brazos Santiago, and to navigate the shallow bays. To do this, they entered the ports without ballast, loaded their cargo and, once they had recrossed into deeper water their tanks were filled to increase their draft and give them stability in the open sea.

This was done with a system of closed tanks, much like those used to submerge a modern submarine, with a pumping system by which the tanks could be filled or exhausted. When in deep water the tanks were flooded; entering port they were emptied.

A similar system was used by the Ballagen, at least on its pioneer trip to Point Comfort, but for a different purpose. Uncertain as to the amount of shoaling to be encountered in the now Matagorda Ship Channel, and anxious to test the ruling depth for subsequent voyages, the Ballagen discharged approximately half its 27,500-ton cargo at Port Aransas, then filled its ballast tanks with water until its draft was the same as before the ore was unloaded. This was so, if the channel had not shoaled the voyage would proceed unimpeded; if shoaling had occurred in the new channel, then the water could be pumped overboard, lightening the ship and allowing it to proceed without grounding.

Baughman's book, which is to be published soon, is the result of long years of research on pioneer steamship operations by Morgan, whose steamers once furnished the principal means of transporting freight, passengers and mail along the Texas coast, from ports on the eastern coasts to the U. S., and across the Gulf of Mexico and Caribbean Sea.

Begun while he was a student at Rice University, the work was continued at Tulane in New Orleans, as he obtained his master's and doctor's degrees, and was recently completed at Harvard, after extensive research in the great marine libraries of the Mariner's Museum at Newport News, Va., in the National Archives at Washington, and in Mystic, Connecticut, where Mystic Seaport is an authentic restoration of a 19th Century shipbuilding community.

It details the extensive operations of Charles Morgan, founder of the original Morgan Line, which served all the Texas ports from New Orleans, and also builder of what became a large part of the Southern Pacific Lines in Texas.

In his resume of the Morgan activities in the Coastal Bond area of Texas after the Civil War, Baughman says:

"Speedy resumption of his Texas services (after the Civil War) dictated enlargement of Morgan's physical assets in that State—both in his traditional ports-of-call and in newer cities as well. In 1867, because of the demands of his increased service, he received exclusive four-year rights to the best wharves in Galveston (the 'Central' and 'Brick' wharves) and to one warehouse. Similar enlargements of Morgan facilities were soon apparent also at more southerly Texas ports. In particular the cattle shipping and packing centers along the shores of Matagorda and Aransas bays received increased attention."

Cargoes then were different than they are today. Where the giant Alcoa ships haul bauxite ore from South America and the West Indies, "manifests of Morgan vessels . . . indicate shipments of cattle from Indianola to New Orleans as early as 1849, and throughout the 1850's the New Yorker (Morgan) had kept pace with the growing livestock and hide industry of the Matagorda area. Indianola was uniquely fitted for livestock export, draining the vast plains of southern Texas and permitting the driving of cattle to her harbor's shore, unlike for example—Galveston's island port.

"In addition, preserved meat factories established in the 1850's swelled Indianola's exports of hides, tallow and processed beef and turtle meats. By 1870, Calhoun and Matagorda counties contained five meat packeries captalized at $61,000, and producing an annual output valued at $256,-306. For the fiscal year preceding Sept. 1, 1867, alone, Indianola has exported — foreign and coastwise—18,000 head of cattle, 50,140 hides, 55,000 goat skins, and 2100 bales of sheep skins, as opposed to 13,391 bales of cotton, 2544 bales and 5917 bags of wool. These shipments of 'sea lions', as the cattle were known, and their by products were carried almost exclusively by Morgan steamers."

Contrast this with today's aluminum, patroleum products and seafood!

Indianola was the site of another pioneer attempt by Morgan, Baughman says.

In February, 1869, the United States and West Indies Fresh Meat and Fruit Company was formed to utilize a newly-invented refrigeration process, to permit shipment of fresh meats from Indianola throughout the Gulf and Caribbean area. Morgan's steamer "Agnes" was started, equipped with the cooling device and in July, 1869, carried Texas' first cargo of refrigerated meat from Indianola to New Orleans. The shipments continued for two years; the process was satisfactory; the Morgan service was adequate; but financial difficulties, opposition from New Orleans butchers, and competition from eastern firms wrecked the enterprise which Morgan pioneered.

Baughman, who was raised in Rockport, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Baughman of this city, writes most interestingly of the great days of Rockport, in whose traditions he was steeped, and which he backed up with a great deal of solid research.

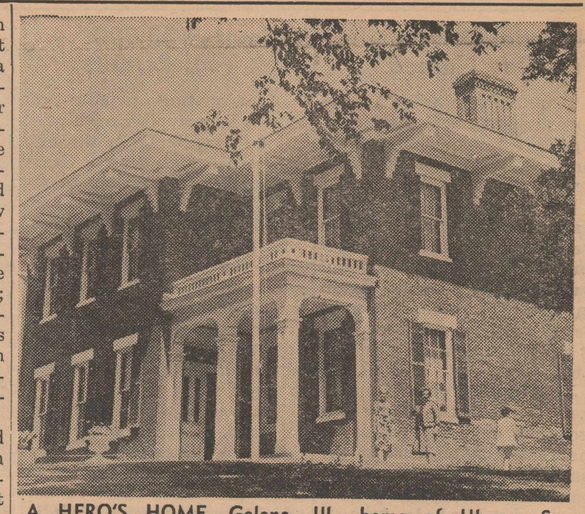

"The Texas cattle industry," he says, "drew Morgan's attention to still another area after the Civil War; Aransas Bay. There had been some shipments of cattle, hides and tallow from this area . . . as early as 1854, but no large scale packery was established before that of W. S. Hall about 1865. Fed by Hall's own herd, and that of Coleman, Mathis and Fulton, the packery processed over 40,000 head of stock in its first eight years of operation. Morgan extended service to this area in 1868, participating in the founding of Rockport as his shipping point.

" Under contract with Hall and other packers to ship $1,-000 worth of hides and tallow every ten days, as well as livestock, Morgan and his agents, J. M. and T. H. Mathis expended $5500 in 1869 in constructing wharves and loadfacilities and during this year carried the bulk of 1,198,254 pounds of dried hides; 1,183,-298 pounds of wet salted hides 1,726,507 pounds of wool; 395,135 pounds of tallow; 90,-109 pounds of salted beef; and 33,000 pounds of bones exported by the region. Sea turtles were also shipped extensively from this new Texas port."

Mr. and Mrs. Monte Rouquette, Jr., spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Monte Rouquette.

CHALLENGE FOR TV. If you're upset at the TV fare to which your children are exposed, you might want to get behind a businessman who hopes to take over the Columbia Broadcasting System. David W. Dye of Lubbock, Texas, who owns 200 shares of CBS stock, wants to get 1,000 people to buy 200 shares each, then have each person recruit another 20, so as to gain control over four million shares. Then, says Dye, he'd reduce the "crime, horror, brutality, sadism and sex" on TV.

SECOND COUSINS? According to English writer David Duff, in a biography of Britain's Queen Mother Elizabeth, left, she is one of the closest living relatives of George Washington. A relative of the Queen Mother's paternal grandmother fled to America to escape the wrath of Oliver Cromwell in the 17th century. He settled in Virginia and his granddaughter became Washington's grandmother, making the Queen Mother Washington's second cousin six times removed, Duff claims. — WFS Photo

Boom! Bang! Dove Season Opens Sept. 1

The opening salvo in the 1965 wildlife harvest season will be fired at noon Wednesday, Sept. 1, in 185 Texas counties.

That time marks the opening of the mourning dove season in the north zone, which covers about three-fifths of the state.

The opening mourning dove bombardment at noon Sept. 1 will be reinforced with one week by two distinctive shoots. One will be the traditional white-winged dove shoot in Rio Grande Valley counties, Sept. 4-5 and Sept. 11-12. The other will be an experimental season on teal ducks, Sept. 4-12. Special permits, already issued by deadline, are required for the teal hunt, for which there is a four per day and eight in possession limit after the first day.

P. B. Uzzell, wildlife coordinator for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department cautionad hunters that dove hunting will be permitted from noon to sunset, that the usual regulations involving plugged guns to three shots and such, will prevail, and that the south zone season will not open until noon Sept. 25.

The wildlife coordinator said the best time to hunt usually is late afternoon and that grain fields, wild seed areas and the stock tanks are favored shooting spots. He advised hunters to obtain land owners' permission and to avoid shooting on highways or from cars.

The dove limit is 12 a day or 24 in possession, after the first day. The white-winged dove area limit is - mourning doves and 10 whitewing, with double that in possession after the first day. Each dove must retain one fully feathered wing until finally processed.

VFW MEETING HELD TUESDAY NITE

At its regular meeting on Tuesday night the local VFW post acted on several items. 1966 membership cards are now available at $7.00 renewal fees and $8.00 for new members. It is the feeling of the entire post that all veterans should belong to the VFW or a similar veterans organization.

J. W. Hunt presented his monthly report as Veterans Service Officer and stated that over 100 veterans or dependents contacted him for assistance during the month. A discussion was held on the new building project and Chester Johnson was given the go-ahead on the planning stage.

Bob Hewes reported on the Bicycle Safety Program that is to be conducted by the Rockport Police Department and sponsored by the VFW and also gave a report of the Voice of Democracy program to be held in the high school and sponsored by the VFW.

A County Ciuncil meeting will be held at the VFW Hall Sept. 13, and a barbeque will be held before the meeting. Co-chairman on the project will be J. W. Hunt and Chester Johnson.

A long-playing record album was donated to the post for use at any patriotic meeting by Jack Smith. The record consists of several patriotic songs. The meeting was closed with a prayer by the post chaplain.

Coastal Fishing Changes Due

Coastal fishing regulation changes made by the last Texas Legislative session will become effective Aug. 30, reports Terry Leary, coastal fisheries coordinator for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Sponge crabs, or female crabs bearing eggs, will be protected from harvest on and after that date.

Also, it will become unlawful for any person to take oysters from polluted waters Leary said. Information on the location of sanitary harvest areas is available from the State Department of Health and coastal offices of the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Similarly, only those oysters certified by the state Department of Health may be sold in Texas or shipped out of state. The certification number stamped on each oyster container assures the purchaser of a sanitary produck.

Laws more local in effect include one closing the Gulf beach of Mustang Island one mile either side of the Horace Caldwell Pier and the Padre Island area in Nueces County to the use of all nets and seines over 20 feet in length.

Crab traps and trotlines as well as nets and seines over 20 feet long have been prohibited in a net free zone in Aransas Bay from the mouth of St Charles Bay extending westward and southward along the shore in front of Fulton and Rockport to Talley Island.

By proclamation the Parks and Wildlife Commission has set regulations on trotlines in Cameron and Aransas Counties to limit all lines to 500 feet and to provide that no line may be placed within 50 feet of another line. End stakes must be marked with burlap or flagging and each panel of the line must be marked with a clearly visible plastic or cloth streamer at least one inch wide and six inches long. No lines may be set within 200 feet of the Intracoastal Waterway.

In Aransas County, all crab traps must be marked with buoys of wood, metal or plastic not less than 10 inches in diameter or width or with plastic bottles of not more than one gallon size.

Reds Romp In Inland Rendezvous

San Antonio.—Redfish, the battling champs from saltwater, have again proved that they grow faster in fresh water than they do in their native habitat.

L. V. Guerra, aquatic biologist for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, cites a recent redfish catch in Canvas back Lake just south of San Antonio.

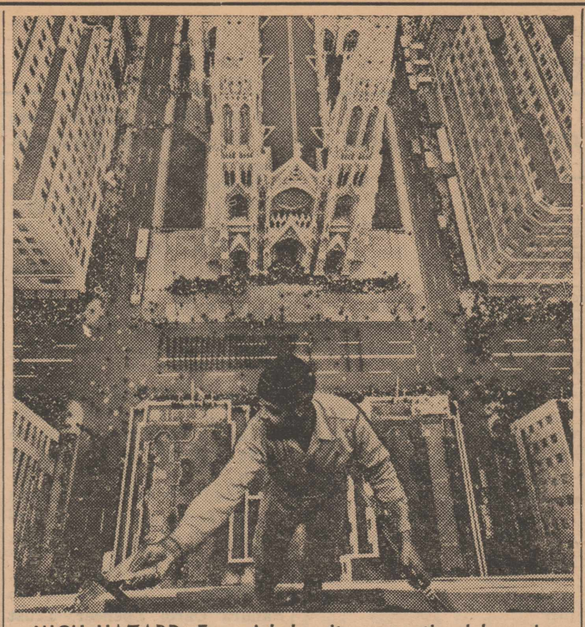

Travis Moursund and Jess Young were fishing in Canvasback when their boat drifted over some shallow water. Moursund was fishing with a yellow spinner-buck-tail- type lure when a tremendous strike and a 12 to 15 minute fight netted a four pound, 11 ounce redfish. The fish was 23 inches long. After stringing the redfish, Moursund went on fishing and caught several black bass in the same general area.

Guerra explained that in April, 1964, he made an experimental stocking of four inch redfish in Canvasback. The fish caught by Moursund had gained well over four pounds in weight and 19 inches in length in only 15 months.

Lonnie Simpson of Corpus Christi spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Mundine.

RE-MARRIES. New York Democratic mayor Robert F. Wagner, who has announced he will not seek re-election this fall, was married July 26 to Barbara Cavanagh, daughter of New York's deputy mayor. HIGH HAZARD. Every job has its occupational hazards, and Richard Green knows his job as a window washer in New York City is no exception. But like all work, it also has its compensations, since he often gets a spectacular view of the many parades marching along Fifth Avenue. — WFS Photo

RECORD OYSTER HARVEST IN 1965

Texas oyster production set a new record for the state during the last harvest season, according to Terry Leary, coastal fisheries coordinator for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The total for the period, ending last March, substantially exceeded that of the previous record high in the preceding harvest year.

The increase was 800,000 pounds to a total of 3,600,000 pounds, or a gain from 2,800,000 pounds for the 1963-64 season.

In both periods, the bulk of the oysters came from Galveston Bay.

Leary said Texas oysters are in demand over a wide area and that many are shipped to the eastern coast.

He said the retail price usually ranged from $8 to $10 per gallon.

Leary said the annual oyster harvest along the Texas coast will begin in the early fall.

Oyster harvesting, formerly handled mostly with the familiar tongs dating back to Chinese oyster farming 2,000 years ago, now is facilitated with more modern mechanical means, said Leary.

"Most oysters in Texas are harvested from public reefs, while some few are cultivated on private leases," he said.

Natural forces and climatic conditions influence the oyster growth and survival and, thus the production.

Droughts, accompanied by rising bay salinities, provide conditions which weaken the oyster. Oyster predators, such as the conch, and diseases then take a heavy toll.

Flooding of the rivers into the bays can drastically lower bay salinities and kill the oyster beds or bury them beneath a layer of river-transported silt.

During the 18-month period that it is required for a newly hatched oyster to reach the minimum market size of three inches, it is at the mercy of the elements.

Oysters are generally harvested during the winter months when colder temperatures stop their spawning activities. The oysters then become firm and fat. The best quality Texas oysters are usually harvested late in the season in January and February.

'Pappy' Ray Duels Crew Along Coast

A Marine biologist is never sure what Gulf depths will produce, according to Ron Schultz, local coastal fisheries biologists for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Schultz was sampling juvenile fish populations with a drag seine which snagged a giant stingray that required three men to lift it to the deck of the work boat.

When finally subdued, the fish measured eight feet, six inches from the tip of its nose to the tip of its tail and four feet, six inches across his "wings". And had a deathly eight-inch barb near the base of its tail.

"A man wouldn't have to encounter many monsters like that one to make him decide to give up floundering or wade fishing," Schultz said.

EXPERT GIVES TIPS FOR DOVE HUNTERS

Tyler.—Daily habits of the amazing mourning dove, fair target for north zone Texas hunters at noon, Sept. 1, have been translated into tips for the nimrods by veteran Biologist Joe B. Davidson of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

He said doves consume about 99 per cent seeds and grains in their diet; like to feed in the mornings and late afternoons and rest through the mid-day. The fleet birds pick up gravel after feeding to aid digestion and then head for water. Thus, advised Davidson, hunters might well post themselves either at watering places or between feeding grounds and water.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Blackwell and children spent the weekend in McAllen and Reynosa.

KITTEN ON THE SCALES. 'How did I get here?' seems to be the attitude of Three-Ought, a 10-week old kitten, perched atop a 16-pound fish hooked in California's Salton Sea. Three-Ought, named after hook size, obviously belongs to an avid fisherman. — WFS Photo.

HemisFair 1968 Tower Looking For a Name

A tower that will soar more than one-eighth of a mile above HemisFair 1968 in San Antonio is looking for a name that will be as imaginative and enduring as the tower itself.

HemisFair officials are conducting a contest to seek an appropriate name for the tower which will appeal to human interest and continue to live on as a tribute to the community of nations in the Western Hemisphere. You could be the person who names it.

The winner will get to see the tower often, since a season pass for himself and members of his immediate family is one of the prizes that will be awarded by the executive committee of the Fair, which will make the final decision.

Also to be awarded the winner will be a three-day, expense paid stay in a San Antonio hotel, including traveling expenses for himself and immediate family, and a $100 U. S. Savings Bond. Nine runnersup will each receive $25 U. S. Savings Bonds.

A brief statement as to why the entrant feels his selection is appropriate should accompany the entry, which must be postmarked no later than Sept. 30, 1965, and received by Oct. 8, 1965.

All entries should be mailed to HemisFair 1968, 421 South Alamo Street, San Antonio, Texas.

Contestants, who may submit as many entries as they wish, should keep in mind that HemisFair is dedicated to the cultures of the Western Hemisphere and the achievements of the various nations in art, commerce, industry, history and economic development.

HARRY CARTER RETURNS FROM EUROPEAN TRIP

Harry Carter has just returned from his European trip, with his last contribution to the columns of the Pilot until he goes again.

In random recollections he says of London:

The world is on the move. After signing my name on the hotel register, I noticed that the five lines now complete on this page record the fact that the guests represented have come from Ghana, Ceylon, Belgium, Great Britain and the United States.

Seen from the Airport bus on the great West Road. Flocks of small cars with large license plates. Here is a man learning to drive. His car carries a card bearing a large red "L" on a white background.

We come to a "Roundabout" or as you would say, a cloverleaf crossing. In the airport we notice a section in the crowded waiting room for "unaccompanied minors". At the check-in counter are two for "last minute acceptances only!" No doubt for the man whose watch is always slow.

Belgium is having its coldest summer on record, but at least the sun was visible for four consecutive days.

My host is Dr. Hubert Peeters, whom I met in Mexico City years ago. He is a lecturer at the University of Louvain.

The dining room has French windows that disclose a broad terrace, backed by a lawn and trees. By 8:30 a.m. each morning, I see a hardy 'teenager who has spent the night in a tent on the lawn. He now sits at a table under the trees and apparently is studying. The temperature would be about 58 at the time.

The doctor and his wife are Flemish and speak both Flemish and French, for Belgium is a bi-lingual country. All official notices must be shown in the two languages.

The family has seven children, and the house is large, so there is an intercom system operating in every room. So when John is not in time for breakfast, someone presses a button and quietly tells John to get a move on. This system saves everyone from a lot of shouting.

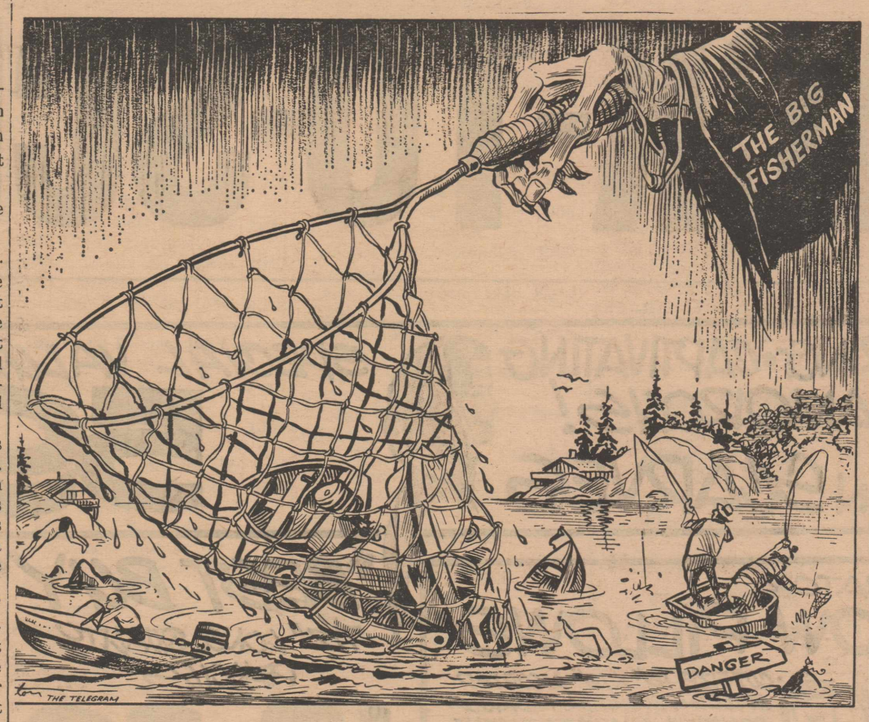

The doctor announces that a party will be held in honor of his mother, whose birthday it is, on August 8. It developes that I happen to have one on the 10th, moreover we also happen to have arrived at the same age, minus two days.

So it was an enjoyable joint celebration, the whole party concluding the day by going out to the City Art Gallery and then joining the crowds on the streets, admiring the fantastic beauty of flood-lit Flemish architecture and illuminated canals and bridges.

On a visit to a Bruges Supermarket, I was interested to find quite a few American products. In the book rack were volumes in English by Mark Twain, Alfred Hitchcock and Ian Fleming. There's variety for you. Or shall we say contrast?

FANCY FIGURES. The truth is out — the U.S. Public Health service has revealed that women are wider across the seat than men. The average "seat breadth" for women is 14.4 inches, compared to an even 14 inches for men. What's that got to do with actress Joey Heatherington, above? Nothing, except that probably any woman would be willing to trade figures with her. — WFS Photo.

'Cute' Coral Deals Fatal Poison Dose

Austin.—This week's snake story has its exciting angles, folks!

When Game Warden Ben Gaddy responded to a housewife's alarm and caught a coral snake in the hills of Austin, he fetched the pretty reptile to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department headquarters.

There it was turned over to Staff Artist Nancy McGowan, whose apartment resembles something less than the Bronx Zoo.

The fact that the lethal snake escaped from its carefully ventilated jar prison that night and until it was recaptured, threatened mass evacuation of the building's janitorial crew, wasn't any more hair-raising that the tale Warden Gaddy told about another day and another coral snake.

He was posted on a hill-top overlooking a popular outlaw deer range one sunny fall afternoon when a school bus disgorged two or three children, including a small boy. Gaddy swept the youngsters with his binoculars just as the boy animatedly grabbed a stick and dashed toward a ditch.

Gaddy immediately suspected snake research and dashed to the scene in the very nick of time. The boy was trying to force a coral snake into an empty soft drink bottle "to take home to Mommie."

And this was according to script because the official department snake guide states: "Generall less than two and a half feet long, this is our most colorful dangerous snake and at the same time least dangerour in appearance. Its small, narrow head, slender body and brightly colored pattern can be dangerously misleading. Children are especially inclined to pick it up because they are attracted by its colors and convinced that such beauty must be harmless.

The pattern consists of red, yellow and black rings which encircle the body in the following order: A broad, black ring, a much narrower yellow ring, a broad red ring, a narrow yellow ring, a broad black ring, and so on. Note that the red and yellow rings on the body touch one another. The snout is black and a broad yellow ring crosses the back of the head."

Mrs. Jack Smith, Ann, Nancy, Jackie Sue and Miss Kay Sparks spent the weekend in Riviera, where they visited Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. May, and attended the May family reunion Saturday.

ERHARD'S EDGE. West Germans go to the polls on Sept. 19, and if public opinion studies can be believed, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, above, has a wide edge in the federal election. Erhard's Christian Democrats are battling for ballots primarily against West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt's Socialists — WFS Photo
