Dominican Rebels Claim Marines Dead, Captured

US Lofts Launch Pad In Space

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—A Titan 3A rocket carrying two satellites flung its third stage into orbit as a flying launch platform today to trigger a series of intended orbit-shifting space acrobatics.

The 124 - foot - tall booster blazed away from Cape Kennedy. The satellites were to be released at 2:24 p.m. after the third stage, called a transtage, fired its engines for a third time, each time changing orbit.

The Air Force reported 13 minutes after the 10 a.m. (EST) launching that the transtage had fired successfully the first time and propelled itself into a circular orbit 115 miles high. Packed in its nose were an 80-pound experimental communications satellite and a 75-pound sphere designed to help calibrate radars and radio systems in America's worldwide satellite tracking network.

After one 90-minute circuit of the globe in the initial orbit, the transtage was to re-start its engines and swing into an elliptical path ranging from 115 to 1,725 miles high.

When the transtage reached the high point of the egg-shaped orbit the second time, planned for 4 hours 24 minutes after launching, a third ignition was to circularize the course at 1,725 miles and the two satellites were to be kicked free.

The communications satellite carried a small motor which was to ignite to push it into a course reaching out to more than 11,000 miles. The satellite was to check long-life materials and techniques for future military communications satellites.

After 6 hours 54 minutes of flight, the transtage was to attempt an unprecedented fourth origin to again shift its orbit to one ranging from 1,725 miles to 2,300 miles. The Air Force gave this experiment a 50-50 chance of success.

On Feb. 11, another Titan 3A transtage achieved the first triple firing in space.

The launching was the fourth and last planned for Titan 3A, which will serve as the upper three stages for a powerful Titan 3C rocket being developed by the Air Force for a variety of manned and unmanned military missions. The first test firing of the 3C is scheduled here in June.

Bank Robber Escapes

HOUSTON (AP)—A thug held up the South Main State Bank today and escaped with $8,000, police said.

The gunman fled in a flat bed truck with sheet rock piled on the back.

Funds Appeal OK Expected

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate moves today toward sweeping passage of a $700-million arms fund bill that in President Johnson's view will constitute a vote of confidence in his Viet Nam policies.

The measure whizzed through the House Wednesday. Passage on a 408-7 vote came after less than two hours' debate.

In a special message to Capitol Hill on Tuesday, Johnson asked Congress "to appropriate at the earliest possible moment an additional $700 million to meet mounting military requirements in Viet Nam."

He told the Senate and House he was asking "for prompt support of our basic course: Resistance to aggression, moderation in the use of power and a constant search for peace.

"Nothing will do more to strengthen your country in the world than the proof of national unity which an overwhelming vote for this appropriation will clearly show. To deny and delay this means to deny and to delay the fullest support of the American people and the American Congress to those brave men who are risking their lives for freedom in Viet Nam."

Wednesday, Speaker John W. McCormack said House passage of the military money bill "is an indication to the whole world that the people are behind our President, not a Democratic or Republican President, but our President."

Seven House Democrats voted against the bill. They were Reps. George E. Brown Jr., Philip Burton and Don Edwards of California; John Conyers Jr. of Michigan; John G. Dow and William F. Ryan of New York; and Edith Green of Oregon.

In requesting the $700 million, Johnson told Congress, "I cannot guarantee this will be the last request." The Defense Department budget already is running around $50 billion a year. The additional money will be used for ammunition, replacement of lost aircraft, maintenance of planes and construction of warehouses and oil storage facilities.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—A U.S. Marine was killed today, two were wounded and two reported captured in a fight with rebel forces in Santo Domingo.

A U.S. military spokesman confirmed the death of the Marine and the two wounded, but said he knew nothing of any Americans being captured.

The spokesman said the Marines were in a patrol that took a wrong turn and headed into insurgent territory instead of back to its own base.

A rebel spokesman said two captured Marines were being questioned. There was no immediate information on what happened to the two wounded Americans.

Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, leader of the rebels, had warned Wednesday that any U.S. troops entering the insurgent zone would be fired upon as violators of the new cease-fire agreement negotiated by the peace commission of the Organization of American States.

Caamano made his statement after a U.S. jeep blundered into the rebel sector of Santo Domingo and heavy firing broke out. Caamano said three American servicemen in the jeep fled on foot and one was wounded.

In Washington, however, a U.S. official said there were only two men on the patrol and both returned safely. A U.S. official in Santo Domingo said the patrol entered the rebel zone by mistake.

The situation appeared to be rapidly deteriorating. The action took place roughly seven blocks from the rebel command headquarters.

Ratification of the cease-fire pact by both sides Wednesday called for maintenance of existing military lines. A U.S. spokesman had said that while the United States did not sign the cease-fire pact it agreed to abide by it.

A U.S. official said the patrol took a wrong turn and entered the rebel zone by mistake.

American officials announced that four U.S. servicemen were wounded Wednesday in other firing in Santo Domingo. This brought the total of American casualties in the Dominican crisis to 6 dead, 1 missing and 56 wounded.

Caamano warned earlier that the U.S. forces could bring on "a massacre" by moving into the insurgents' zone.

A U.S. spokesman replied: "We have sent word to Caamano that we reserve the right to effect any moves necessary in the implementation of our mission in the Dominican Republic."

The spokesman added that "U.S. soldiers have received strict orders not to leave the international security zone." But he said that occasionally a patrol may go one or two blocks beyond the zone "because of snipers operating nearby who might be difficult to get at."

In Washington, the OAS approved a compromise version of a U.S. proposal for establishment of an inter-American military force to help restore peace.

There was no indication when or how many additional forces would be sent here, but the American troops will become part of the force. Paraguay and Venezuela expressed willingness to contribute troops. The United States said as other nations send men, part of its contingent would be withdrawn.

Mexico, Chile, Peru, Ecuador and Uruguay voted against the resolution. Venezuela abstained and 14 nations voted approval.

Four members of the five - man peace commission from the OAS flew back to Washington early today after the rebels and the opposing military junta signed an amplified cease-fire agreement. The fifth member of the commission, Panamanian Ambassador Frank Morrice, remained to continue working for a permanent peace.

Sporadic sniping and exchanges of gunfire continued Wednesday, although the city was relatively quiet Wednesday night.

Caamano, sworn in as "provisional president" by the rebels on Tuesday, sent requests to foreign governments for diplomatic recognition. The United States announced, however, that it believed "there is no effective Dominican government at the present time."

A U. S. spokesman here charged Wednesday night that Caamano is "moving closer to the Communists." The official said the "evaluation as of today is that the rebel movement is Communist - controlled."

STEVE CROWELL

Top Seniors At SHS Announced

Steve Crowell and Carol Cavender have been named top scholars in the Snyder High School graduating class of 1965.

Ben Brock, high school principal, announced this morning that Crowell is the valedictorian and Miss Cavender is the salutatorian. They will appear on the program at the annual commencement exercises May 27.

Crowell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Crowell, 3720 Austin Avenue, has a grade average of 97.11 in his high school scholastic work. He also has been a leader in school activities, serving as vice president of the senior class, is immediate past president of the SHS National Honor Society, was a member of the basketball team and of the Letterman's Club.

At the conclusion of his junior year in 1964, Crowell was awarded a National Science Foundation scholarship and spent six weeks at the University of Nevada at the Desert Research Institute in a study of field ecology.

Miss Cavender is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Cavender, 322 Twenty - ninth Street. Her grade average during her high school career is 96.69.

Miss Cavender last week received word that she had earned a National Merit Scholarship. She has been active in Snyder High School in the science club and the National Honor Society. She won the regional University Interscholastic League science contest at Odessa and this weekend will compete in the state UIL science contest at Austin.

Crowell plans to attend the University of Texas, while Miss Cavender will attend the University of Houston as a National Merit Scholar. Both plan to major in science.

Crowell and Miss Cavender lead the largest senior class in the history of Snyder High School. There are 214 in the class, and Brock said it has been noted for its scholastic achievements, with an 89.24 grade average required to rank in the top 25 per cent.

R. L. Rollins Dies; Rites Set Saturday

Funeral services have been set for Mr. Robert Lee Rollins, 47, who died at his home at 1311 Twentieth Street at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Born Mar. 29, 1918 in Henrietta, Okla., Mr. Rollins had been a resident of Snyder since he was two years of age. He was a veteran of World War II, and was an oilfield worker.

Death was apparently caused by a heart attack.

Dr. A. B. Lightfoot, pastor of the First Baptist Church of which Mr. Rollins was a member, will officiate at the services. Burial will be in Snyder Cemetery following military graveside rites.

Mr. Rollins is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jonce Rollins of Snyder; one daughter, Betty Kaye Rollins of Lubbock; five sisters, Mrs. Katy Phipps, Mrs. Christine Hoyle, Mrs. Annie Bell Goss, Mrs. Floyd Leatherwood, all of Snyder, and Mrs. Arletta Lovelady of Colorado City; and one brother, Leldon Rollins of Arizona.

UN Crisis Talk Ends In Deadlock

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council neared the end of its debate on the Dominican crisis today with its members so split that no formal action seemed likely.

As the 11-nation council began its fourth day of discussion, the delegates had lined up in at least three camps.

The Soviet Union was demanding condemnation of the U.S. military intervention. Uruguay and France wanted immediate U.S. withdrawal. Britain, Bolivia and the United States wanted to leave the problem in the hands of the Organization of American States.

With seven votes required for affirmative action, the council appeared hopelessly deadlocked. Failure to act would in effect be a victory for the U.S. view that the OAS should continue to handle the problem.

The debate developed into a vituperative diplomatic exchange between U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko.

Fedorenko said the U.S. behavior reminded him of a reptile that had done its dark deeds and then tried to find a hole to hide in.

Stevenson retorted that this was just another addition to Fedorenko's "rich inventory of discourtesies."

"I won't even react in the manner of reptiles by striking back," he said.

The Soviet delegate said he had not called Stevenson a reptile, but if he found the image to his liking "that is entirely a matter of his personal initiative."

Fedorenko asked Stevenson to tell the council how many U.S. troops were in the Dominican Republic. Stevenson said he had been told by Washington that the number was 17,134 — somewhat lower than the 19,363 announced earlier in the day by the Defense Department.

Stevenson asked Fedorenko and the Cuban delegate, "How many agents of international communism are intervening, arms in hand in that unfortunate country?"

Fedorenko said the question was absurd.

LATIN AMERICAN

Students Lead Violent Protest

By DOMINGO ZEGARRA

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Six thousand students denouncing U.S. action in the Dominican Republic hurled fire bombs at police outside the Argentine Congress Wednesday night in an hour-long battle that left at least 13 injured.

Demonstrations also flared in Venezuela, Colombia, Peru and Chile.

Most of the Argentine demonstrators were leftist students, but police said Communists joined in and touched off the violence.

Chanting anti-Yankee slogans, the mob hurled incendiary bombs and rocks at mounted police, smashed shop windows and set chairs and tables ablaze in sidewalk cafes.

One report said the rioters wrecked 10 cars including the limousine of Vice President Carlos Perette, en route from the Senate to his residence in the Savoy Hotel. Demonstrators also smashed in the Savoy's glass front.

Federal Police Chief Nicolas Rodriguez said the students had been given permission to demonstrate, but that Communists set off the violence.

Police moved in with pressure hoses and blanketed the area outside the Congress with tear gas.

A group of congressmen from the pro-Peron Justicialist party condemned the visit of W. Averill Harriman, President Johnson's envoy touring Latin America to explain the U.S. action in the Dominican Republic.

Harriman went on to Uruguay Wednesday night. He told newsmen that Communists are trying to touch off a hemisphere war through strife in six Latin-American countries—Venezuela, Colombia, Haiti, Paraguay, Honduras and Guatemala.

In Caracas, Venezuela, terrorists sprayed the U.S. Embassy with machine-gun fire, narrowly missing several staff members. The bullets broke 17 windows but no one was injured.

An embassy spokesman said two men and a woman opened fire from about a block away, then fled in a taxi before embassy guards had a chance to return the fire.

In Santiago, Chile hundreds of university students demonstrated in front of the U.S. Consulate. Three policemen were injured by rocks, and four youths were arrested.

Suspect Is Declared A Juvenile

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — John Angles, 16, charged in the shooting deaths of three Corpus Christi fishermen, was declared a juvenile delinquent Wednesday.

County Judge Bolar Brown remanded the California youth to custody of the Texas State Youth Development Council until he is 21.

Grand jurors met today for possible action on Paul Krueuger 17, also charged in the slayings.

Bodies of the men were found in a channel near Riviera early last month.

Angles was arrested at Kerrville for carrying a pistol and told police there about the slayings Krueger, from San Clemente Calif., was arrested in Mexico several days later.

Brown said Angles will be committed to the state school for boys at Gatesville. The youth development council will determine the length of his stay.

Midland Negro Will Make Appeal

LUBBOCK (AP) — Lawyers for condemned slayer James Marion, 23, say he will appeal in a bid for a writ of habeas corpus.

U.S. Dist. Judge Joseph Dooley denied the petition Wednesday after hearing testimony for two days. The lawyers assert Marion's rights were violated.

He was sentenced to die for killing wealthy Mrs. Fred Turner at her Midland home in 1963.

Vote-Rights Bill Showdown Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — A showdown loomed in the Senate today on a Southern effort to pull some teeth from the voting rights bill.

Scheduled for a vote is a move by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., to strike provisions that would automatically authorize federal registration of voters in much of the South.

Instead, federal courts would authorize appointment of federal registrars — but only in a specific area and only after the government proved Negroes were encountering discrimination in trying to vote.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen had announced plans to try to end debate on the bill when the Senate agreed unanimously Wednesday to vote on Ervin's key amendment.

Another test of the measure is scheduled Monday — a vote on an effort to include an outright ban on state poll taxes.

All this indicates the senators may have read the Mansfield-Dirksen cloture tactic as a warning to stop talking and start voting.

Over on the House side, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said his Judiciary Committee hopes to complete its consideration of the bill Friday.

Ervin, a former judge, and other Southern senators characterize as unconstitutional the automatic federal registration and automatic suspension of state literacy tests.

His amendment would continue state authority over voter qualifications.

The ban on poll taxes has the backing of 39 senators, five of them Republicans. But Mansfield and Dirksen are not among them. Instead they have proposed a plan that points to a Supreme Court ruling on state poll taxes.

The 39 senators would outlaw the poll tax — it now exists in Virginia, Mississippi, Alabama and Texas — have Congress declare the action necessary to safeguard constitutional rights and provide for an early court test.

Poll taxes for federal elections have been banned by the 24th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The Supreme Court already has agreed to review next fall Virginia's poll tax for state and local elections.

SHS Sends Big Group To Austin

Snyder High School will have its biggest delegation in history at the University Interscholastic League state meet in Austin this weekend.

Local students will compete in a variety of events, ranging from public speaking to track and field. The total delegation of 18 contestants, plus their faculty sponsors and coaches, included 9 in literary events and nine in the athletic division of the state meet, with some of them competing in more than one event.

In the literary events, Jay Don Rogers, regional champion in extemporaneous speaking, and Carol Cavender, regional champion in the science contest were leaving for Austin today with their faculty sponsors, Bobby Taylor and Bob Cole, respectively.

Leaving tomorrow will be the cast of the regional winning one-act play, along with the faculty sponsor, Gerald Gafford. Students in that group are Powers Boothe, Robbie Wesson, Rose Ann Lemons, Fredrica Josephson, Cindy Hale, Millijon Smyth and Gary Walton, along with Jay Don Rogers.

In regional competition at Odessa two weeks ago, Powers Boothe was named best actor, while Rogers and Miss Hale were named to the all - star cast selected at the regional meet.

Rogers is scheduled to compete in extemporaneous speaking on Friday afternoon and Miss Cavender will be in the state science contest on Saturday.

The one act - play cast will present "The Importance of Being Earnest" on Saturday afternoon. The Snyder High players will rehearse Saturday morning. The competition will begin at 4:15 p.m. Saturday, with Snyder fourth in line. The plays will be presented in the Hogg Auditorium on the University of Texas campus.

Sheppard's Lawyer Ponders Next Move

CLEVELAND (AP) — Boston attorney F. Lee Bailey came to Cleveland today and immediately huddled with Sam Sheppard to decide the next legal move to keep the former osteopath from returning to prison.

Bailey told a newsman he plans to study the court decision further before taking action. He had said earlier he thought the case would end up in the U.S. Supreme Court.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We live on a farm, and every summer we are bombarded with the kids of our city relatives. Summers are important to a farmer, because if he doesn't get his crops harvested then, it can cost him hundreds of dollars. Yet every summer, as soon as school is out, we have an endless stream of kids getting in the way, taking up our time and slowing up our work.

Don't say "Put them to work" because some of those city kids are so lazy they won't even pick up their own clothes. They would rather walk around them.

If the situation were reversed, and we sent our kids to our city relatives, would their husbands take the kids to the office and watch them all day so they wouldn't get into trouble, hurt themselves, or break something? And I wonder how many city wives would like to give up their bridge parties and make extra meals and do extra laundry for the kids. What do you suggest?

FARMER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I suggest you tell your city relatives exactly what you have told me. People who permit others to impose on them because they lack the nerve to say "NO" have to put up with the consequences.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My best friend from sorority (we are both graduated from college now) asked me to be her maid of honor. She's being married soon. I accepted. Then she called me long distance and said the best man was 6'4", and since I am only 5'1" we would look silly together. So how would I like to be one of the six bridesmaids? I said all right. Then she called again and said she hoped I wouldn't feel bad but all the other bridesmaids were tall girls, and I was too short to be a bridesmaid. She made me promise I'd come to her wedding anyway. My mother says if I go I am a sap. Abby, I have never heard of cutting a girl out of a wedding party because she was too short, have you?

TOO SHORT

DEAR SHORT: NO! Your friend, the bride, is also short on common sense and courtesy. I agree with your mother.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me what you think of a mother who lets her four-year-old child kick her, hit her and slam her over the head with his toys or anything he happens to have in his hand at the moment? This little monster is so spoiled it is pathetic, and he has a very ugly temper. My friend just laughs and says it doesn't hurt, and she makes no effort to correct or punish him. I feel so sorry for her.

AIRPORT ROAD

DEAR ROAD: Don't waste your sympathy on the mother. The "little monster" will need it when he goes to school and tries to use those tactics on his teacher and playmates. When a mother neglects to teach her child how to control his emotions, he learns the hard way. And pays dearly for the lesson.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO FASHION-MINDED: Yes, the skirts are getting shorter, and the necklines are plunging deeper. And I don't like it, either, but as long as the two don't eventually meet, we are lucky.

Prompt Call Saves House From Fire

The Snyder fire department extinguished a blaze in a house at 2811 Avenue D early this morning.

The house, which was unoccupied, was undergoing repair. The fire apparently started in a hot water heater closet.

A passing motorist saw the fire, and reported it to a cruising police patrol car, which relayed the call. Firemen said that had the call come just a few minutes later, the entire house probably would have been destroyed. As it was, damage was limited to the closet and one room.

Demand For Water Off During April

Water demands continued off during April for the Colorado River Municipal Water District, but there were signs that May will see a sharp revival of consumption.

During April the district delivered 965,757,394 gallons to its customers, or 2.87 per cent less than the same month a year ago. Deliveries for the first four months of the year have aggregated 3,115,205,384 gallons, a decline of 3.51 per cent.

April demands by the member cities showed 685,452,900 gallons, or down 8.40 per cent. Odessa took 385,690,000 gallons, down 9.20 per cent, Big Spring 234,668,000 and down 5.67 per cent, and Snyder 65,094,900 per cent and down 12.61 per cent. The oil companies required a total of 280,304,494 gallons, an increase of 10.96 per cent, principally due to the addition of the Perkins - Prothro unit to the Sun Oil contract.

The first four days of May have seen Odessa averaging better than 17,000,000 gallons a day, said W. P. Odom, engineer, and Big Spring is up to 9,000,000 per day. At this rate, May demands likely will top a billion gallons.

Episcopal Council Meeting Begins

The Seventh Annual Council of the Episcopal Church in Northwest Texas will meet in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Abilene, today through Sunday.

Attending the Council from St. John's Church here in Snyder will be the Rev. Truman E. Bennett, vicar, Gerald G. Pullig, Warden of the Bishop's Committee, Charles G. McCaleb, Jr., Robert R. Patterson, W. C. Hart and Toby Lammert.

The Council opens this evening with a service of Evening Prayer at 8 p.m. at which time the Right Rev. George H. Quarterman, Bishop of the Diocese, will deliver his annual address to the delegates and visitors.

On Saturday the Sacrament of Holy Communion will be celebrated at 7 a.m. with the Rt. Rev. George H. Quarterman as the celebrant and preacher. The first session of the Council will convene at 9 a.m., and the second session will convene at 2 p.m.

The main concern of the council is to further the understanding and application of Mutual Responsibility and Interdependence in the Body of Chrst in the whole Anglican Communion.

Also to be considered is the proposition of joining in ownership of the Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest in Austin with the Dioceses of Texas and West Texas.

Coincident with the meeting of the Council the Churchwomen of the Diocese will be in session. Representing St. John's will be Mmes. Gerald G. Pullig, Robert R. Patterson and Charles G. McCaleb, Jr.

Saturday evening at 8 there will be a Service of Ordination to the Priesthood in the Church of the Heavenly Rest. The Rev. Lawrence L. Brown, D. D., Assistant Dean and Professor of Church History and Liturgics at the Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest, will be the preacher at the ordination service.

The Council will close Sunday morning following the celebration of Holy Communion at which time the Churchwomen will present their United Thank Offering, and the installation of all new Churchwomen officers.

Midwest REA Group At Capital Fete

Local representatives of the Midwest Electric Cooperative attended the dinner honoring members of Congress from Texas held in Washington Tuesday evening, when President Lydon B. Johnson took time from an extremely busy schedule to visit with the group.

President Johnson told the 200 cooperative officials and their guests that he had hoped to get in on a free meal since he and his family had paid a bill at the Pedernales cooperative every month since its organization, but that the press of business at the White House kept him busy until about 10 o'clock when he appeared at the banquet. His 10 minute talk was covered by the national press and television.

Rep. and Mrs. Omar Burleson were guests of the local and 17th. Congressional District officials. Nineteen members of the House and Sen. Ralph Yarborough were present at the meeting. Norman Clapp, Administrator of the REA, and Clyde Ellis, General Manager of the NRECA, were also guests.

Local representatives attending were Glen Tate, Hermleigh, President of the Board of Directors, Hoyle Carey, Ira, Director, Ted McArthur, Stonewall County, Director, Johnnie Ammons, Manager, and Robert Patterson, Attorney.

Surfboards were introduced to California from Hawaii about 1907.

No Prizes For Plays

ABILENE — The $250 prize offered by the Junior League of Abilene, Inc. in its playwriting competition will not be awarded this year. The judges were unable to select a winner suitable to the needs of the Abilene group.

The contest was announced through all newspapers, colleges and universities in Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and New Mexico in October, 1963. During the contest period, which ended January 15, 1965, 18 plays were submitted. The Junior League is very gratified at the response and the creative imagination demonstrated by many of the authors.

Children's Theatre has been a major product of the Abilene League for 15 years. The organization produces two plays annually which are presented free to third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

Shall We Dance?

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Will spring proms turn into discotheques? Will the boys hold out for an orchestra? This is the problem posed by a girl who asks "Who wants to go to a prom and dance to records?"

Believe it or not, she says, it's the girls who want to dispense with all the formalities —orchestra, long dresses, corsages.

Her point is that it's her first prom, and she wants the chance to feel she's at something great.

"Every place you go, girls are clowning around in short dresses or dress-up pants, cavorting to the frug or the watusi or something. Why do they need to dance it at a prom? A prom dress and a bridal dress should stay status quo. But their point is you can't watusi in a long formal," she says.

This point won't pose too big a problem if it's the girl who's doing the inviting. But if the boy is inviting her, especially to a prom away from home, he'll need to keep her up on what's being worn.

Some of the shorter dresses are flattering and as feminine looking as the long dresses.

Girls can be feminine in lots of other ways — such as giving the boys the tickets before they arrive at the dance. If she is doing the inviting; not acting peeved if he doesn't produce a corsage, if it's the going thing at that particular prom, and making sure her date gets first and last dance.

There is less formality all around in teen dating. So it is possible that your date will ask for a loan to make the whole thing possible, if you are better-heeled at the moment. If you are invited to his school town for the prom, you foot bills for transportation and hotel reservation. If he lives in the town, it is possible his family will put you up, if your family agrees to the arrangement. It makes sense these days, although formerly it was frowned upon unless the two were engaged.

It doesn't follow that you'll pay for any entertainment your date dreams up while you are there, even if other customs change. Hold on to your wallet. But it's a nice idea to send his mother a flower arrangement if you do spend a weekend with his family.

One custom that probably won't change:

Parents will want to know what time you'll be home, unless they've given you a deadline. There was more leeway on this score years ago before the era of souped-up cars and other worrisome things.

You'll probably catch up with a crowd after the prom. This is more important to some young people that the prom itself. There's something great about staying out late on that first big date.

It is difficult for parents to understand this, unless they remember. It's a night when you can spend hours at a night spot after the dance and never feel the time slipping away. But that's how it is. Time speeds along when you are happiest. After the dance, when all the tensions have eased about your dress, your hair, your date, you can really relax.

It is then that you and the boy can sit and chat with a group and really play hearts.

Summarizes New View

THE ERA OF RECONSTRUCTION 1865-77. By Kenneth M. Stampp.

One of the fascinating aspects of the study of history is its fluidity, as expressed in the changing concepts wrought in time. A popular picture of events may be demonstrated to have been incomplete or distorted, as historians bring to bear the evidences of fresh research or viewpoints detached from passions of the moment.

We are seeing such a transition in the tragic Reconstruction period after the Civil War. The conviction is emerging that the Radical Republicans — the accepted villains — were not truly as black as they have been painted, that the Southern States were not entirely innocent victims of military oppression and tyranny.

The so-called "revisionist" concept began to take form about 30 years ago. It is brought into brilliant focus in this book, an admittedly brief but masterly summary of the evidence.

Author Stampp, profession of history at the University of California, freely concedes "the shabby aspects" of the era: the corruption was real, the failures obvious, the tragedy undeniable." But he stoutly maintains that the Reconstruction period was not without its good fruit and that the story merits further study.

President Andrew Johnson does not come from Stampp's hands as a martyr unjustly condemned by the vindictive Radicals. His personal reconstruction program was a failure, because he had not the tact or the talent to make it effective, and because he was outmaneuvered by Southern political leaders. As for the Southerners, they played into the Radicals' hands when their state governments denied the Negroes the right to vote or to be educated, attempted to place them "in a kind of twilight zone between slavery and freedom."

There is ground for reflection in the wording of the Civil Rights Act of 1875. It guaranteed "full and actual enjoyment of the accomodations . . . of inns, public conveyances . . . theatres and other places of public amusement." Education was not mentioned and the Supreme Court invalidated the act in 1883 on the ground that Congress did not have jurisdiction over social relationships of the races. But what a difference that act would have made in our current history!

Music Is Topic For Altrurian Club Program

The Altrurian Club met at the Martha Ann Woman's Club with Mrs. A. C. Preuitt hostess.

The club president, Mrs. John W. Leftwich, assumed her duties for the second time since suffering an injury in December.

"With the Mediator of Music" was the title of the program on music, with Mrs. Ross Blanchard director.

Mrs. Hugh Boren gave a history of early American music, beginning with the mention of Indian music. A flute made of a hollow tube of wood, and played as the modern flute with holes for noting was an Indian instrument. Chanting had a significance in the religion of the Indians.

Many folk ballads came to America as a heritage from the nations that claimed the settlers. Negro spirituals were as peculiar to the Negro race as any American folk music. Fortunately the distinct spontaniety, plaintiveness and at times, fun, has been kept for posterity. Steven Foster was a prolific composer of songs of the South and his songs still live today.

The poem "Whistling Boy" was the climax of the discussion. Early settlers' minds were put at ease when whistling was heard in the dreaded approach of strangers. Indians did not whistle. So, the Boy was commemorated in the poem.

Mrs. Giles Bowers had a chart naming great composers from Bach to Gershwin. Some of the names and nationalities included Bach, German; Rossinni, Italian; Wagner, German; McDowell, American; DeBussey, French; Rochmaninod, Russian; Sibelius, Finland, and Gershwin American.

Mrs. Bowers, in a lighter vein, told of the "capture" of America by the British invasion of the Beatles, with Americans "surrendering" millions of dollars. Not just one, but several similar groups have come and conquered, she noted.

Mrs. Blanchard told of the life of Mahalia Jackson, a Cinderella story of a girl reared in poverty, but in possession of such a naturally glorious voice that she merited and received recognition. The first recognition came from band groups that assured her that she had a talent for jazz singing. True to a promise to her mother, she has never departed from gospel singing, and true to her own convictions that this was God's plan for her.

Acclaim for her has come from crowned heads and others have given her an unchallenged place in her field.

Governors Freed Of Contempt Charge

By BEN THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Former Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett — and his successor, Paul B. Johnson, the current chief executive of the Deep South state — have been freed of criminal contempt stemming from their attempts to keep a Negro from enrolling at the University of Mississippi.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, in a 4-3 decision announced Wednesday, dropped the charges, which grew out of the 1962 integration of Ole Miss by James H. Meredith.

"No sufficient reasons exist for further prosecution of the proceedings," said the 3½-page majority opinion of Judges Richard Rives of Montgomery, Ala.; Warren Jones of Jacksonville, Fla.; Walter P. Gewin of Tuscaloosa, Ala.; and Griffin B. Bell of Atlanta, Ga.

"We are doubtful, to say the least, whether we and the other judges may not have formed a fixed opinion that" Johnson and Barnett are guilty, the majority said.

Barnett was governor at the time; Johnson was lieutenant governor.

They asked for a jury trial. The appeals court, divided 4-4, asked the U.S. Supreme Court to decide the issue. The Supreme Courh said no jury, and told the appellate judges to proceed.

The three dissenting judges took 19½ pages to say why they opposed dropping the contempt action.

Judge John Minor Wisdom of New Orleans, in his dissent, called Barnett "the man in high office who defied the nation" and "struck a blow against American federalism."

Barnett, now practicing law at Jackson, Miss., declined to comment on the ruling.

Johnson's office said he was out of the state.

When Meredith arrived at Ole Miss on Sunday, Sept. 30, 1962, a riot broke out. By dawn the next day, two men were dead and several hundred injured. The Army—23,000 strong—moved in and Meredith was officially enrolled.

Before Meredith's admission, the appeals court held Barnett and Johnson guilty of civil contempt. The civil contempt case was also ordered formally terminated Wednesday.

The criminal contempt charges were filed at the request of the appeals court itself on Nov. 16, 1962, by the Justice Department.

Nun Starts Over At Age 65 With Dollar And A New Job

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Sister Francetta Barberis is beginning again — with a tarnished silver dollar and a new job at the age of 65.

Sister Francetta, now president of Webster College at St. Louis, becomes a full-time consultant and coordinator for Job Corps centers for women June 1. She will wear secular clothing while working instead of the black robes of the Roman Catholic Sisters of Loretta.

"Life is a series of beginnings," she says. "Beginnings make life exciting and the final great beginning is death."

When she became Webster College President in 1958, the school needed money and Sister Francetta started a fund drive. One day a student stopped her, handed her the silver dollar and said it was all she had to give.

"That silver dollar was part of my beginning here and I don't think I'll ever give it away," says the nun.

Sister Francetta thinks nothing of working in secular dress instead of the habit she has worn since 1928 as a Roman Catholic nun.

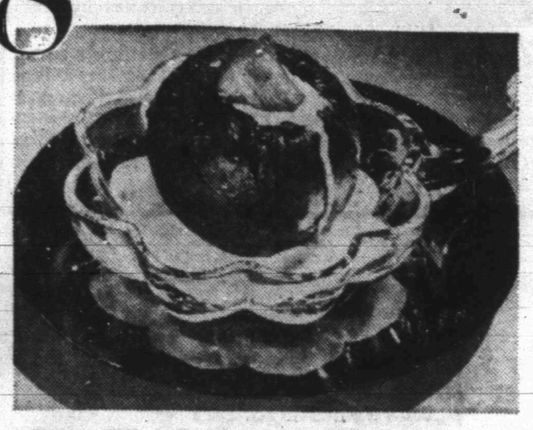

"People put too much emphasis on clothing," she says. "When I go swimming, I wear a swimming suit. When I work among the people, it would behoove me to wear the habit of the people."

Permission to wear the secular clothing was obtained from the head of her order, Sister Mary Luke, when Sister Francetta decided she wanted to keep working after retirement from Webster.

Jim Bunning Beats Spahn At Own Game

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Bunning of the Philadelphia Phils, who made his comeback last year, has temporarily sidetracked Warren Spahn's 1965 revival by beating the great southpaw at his own game.

Bunning, whose perfect game last June 21 against the New York Mets helped him capture National League comeback laurels, returned to Shea Stadium Wednesday night and personally outscored the Mets and Spahn 1-0 with an opposite-field home run.

The homer was Bunning's first in the league. Spahn has 36, the all-time record for NL pitchers.

Spahn, determined at 44 years of age to bounce baek from his 6-13 season with Milwaukee in 1964, pitched his best game as a Met, matching Bunning's four-hitter. But the pitch that Bunning hit over the right field fence in the sixth inning made Spahn a loser for the second time in four decisions.

Bunning's homer left him seven behind San Francisco's Willie Mays for the year. Mays hit No. 8, high in the majors, in the Giants' 10-5, 10-inning victory at St. Louis. Milwaukee nipped Houston 2-1 in 14 innings, the Los Angeles Dodgers topped Cincinnati 4-2 and the Chicago Cubs defeated Pittsburgh 3-1 in other NL games.

The Chicago White Sox, leading the American League, took a doubleheader from Detroit 4-0 and 4-1, Cleveland blanked the New York Yankees 4-0, Minnesota trimmed Baltimore 9-2 and the Los Angeles Angels subdued Boston 6-4.

Bunning yielded four singles while improving his current record to 2-3. He retired 20 of 21 Met batters during one stretch and wrapped up the victory by striking out the side in the ninth.

"I hit a high curve ball," he said of the home-run pitch. "Spahn should know better than to throw a high curve to a country boy — or a good-hitting pitcher."

The Giants exploded for five runs in the 10th inning after two errors by second baseman Phil Gagliano on the same play opened the gates. Jim Davenport led off the inning with a double, took third on a ground out and scored the go-ahead un when Gagliano bobbled Ed Bailey's grounder, then threw wildly to the plate.

A bases-loaded triple by Willie McCovey and a run-scoring double by Mays capped the rally. Mays' leadoff homer in the eight had tied the score 5-5.

Left-hander Wade Blasingame pitched the entire 14 innings for Milwaukee, yielding only five hits and striking out 12, while Eddie Mathews' two-out double in the 14th delivered Mack Jones with the winning run.

Dick Farrell, the Houston starter, was struck on the back of the head by Hank Aaron's line drive in the last of the ninth. He finished the inning but was removed for a pinch hitter in the 10th.

Home runs by Dick Tracewski and Ron Fairly helped Sandy Koufax, 3-1, top Cincinnati for the league-leading Dodgers. Fairly's inside-the-park homer and a two-run shot by Tracewski, both in the fifth inning, sent southpaw Jim O'Toole down to his fourth straight loss.

Chicago's Bob Buhl checked Pittsburgh on three hits for his third victory in four decisions. Jim Pagliaroni's eighth-inning homer ended his shutout bid.

Namath Is Working Out

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Joe Namath, the New York Jets' $400,000 bundle of football joy, was back at his old stomping grounds Wednesday to work out for Jets' Coach Weeb Ewbank, who came away well satisfied with what he saw.

"He has a strong enough arm," the coach said, "and that's all I really wanted to see."

Ewbank said what he wanted the former University of Alabama football star to study was calling signals, formations and other fundamentals of the New York Jets' operation in order to save time once season practice begins.

The team will start practice in mid-July with Namath scheduled to report July 12.

Asked about Namath's knee, Ewbank said, "It's coming along fine. It seems to be a matter of keeping him working on it."

Quiet Session In Prospect For Southwest Conference

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — What Southwest Conference officials claim will be one of their quietest meetings in years opened here today.

The reason: There won't be a single rules violation to be considered.

"The overall recruiting situation is reported to be better than it has for several years," said Howard Grubbs, executive secretary of the conference. "No reports into inquiries of alleged violations will be made to conference officials at this meeting."

The closest approach to action on a recruiting case will be to lift a probation against Texas.

Texas was penalized at the 1964 spring meeting in Lubbock but without sanctions, and thus played in a bowl game Jan. 1.

It was an indefinite probation with provision that it would be lifted within a year if the situation was corrected. Texas reported it had been handled.

Southern Methodist is starting the second half of a two-year probation handed out at Lubbock, when sanctions were administered. Thus SMU can't play in a bowl game until 1966.

Arkansas drew an indefinite probation in December and this can't be lifted until next December in a situation similar to Texas. No sanctions were voted against Arkansas either.

While little fire is expected at the meeting this weekend, it still could be lengthy since some rules changes must be implemented.

The conference adopted a limit of 50 athletic scholarships for freshmen in football and also voted a maximum of two years on scholarships, neither effective until 1966.

Minimum grade requirements in line with a rule of the NCAA also will be worked out. Athletes entering school this fall will not be affected.

There wasn't much going on today except the start of the golf and tennis tournaments.

A meeting of the athletic directors and head football coaches tonight may produce a little news. Sports publicity directors also will hold a session.

The faculty committee, governing body of the conference, does not start its semi-annual meeting until Friday morning. The session will last all day and continue into Saturday morning.

Track and field preliminaries, javelin and discus finals in the varsity division and finals in field events of the freshman class will be run off Friday afternoon. All other finals will come Saturday.

72 Stars Start Colonial Tourney

By JIM MANGAN

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Seventy-two of the top names in golf — here by invitation only — came to grips today with one of the toughest golf courses on the professional tour, the 7,132-yard Colonial Country Club layout. The winner takes home $20,000.

Julius Boros, the casual 46-year-old ex-accountant, carded a brilliant five-under-par 65 in a pro-amateur Wednesday and immediately moved up high on the favored list.

A two-time winner of the Colonial Invitation, Boros bogeyed only one hole and sank putts up to 25 feet in a round that was only one stroke over the competitive course record set by Doug Ford in 1961.

Seeking a second straight tournament victory will be Arnold Palmer, fresh from taking top money in the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas, his first tour triumph in almost a year. He shot a 73 Wednesday as a prelude to the main event.

Dapper Chi Chi Rodriguez, who staged a terrific birdie drive to almost match Palmer at Las Vegas, withdrew from the pro-am after nine holes, complaining of a pulled tendon or muscle in his left shoulder.

After a shot of cortisone, administered by a prominent Fort Worth orthopedic surgeon, Chi Chi pronounced himself ready to go for the 72 holes.

Looming big in the select field — which includes a large number of youngsters hoping for a big upset — are the three big names from another era: Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and Byron Nelson.

Five-time winner of the Colonial Invitation, Hogan in his heyday caused it to be nicknamed "Hogan's Alley." If his putting touch is working, the Fort Worth master stands a good chance to add another triumph to his string.

Two big names are missing from the field — Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player. Nicklaus was forced to pass up the tournament to be with his wife, who gave birth to a daughter Wednesday. Player is vacationing.

Texas League Tightens Up

By The Associated Press

The Texas League tightened up some in both divisions Wednesday night when both of the leaders lost.

Front-runner Dallas-Fort Worth, which does everything with a flourish, including losing, took an 11-1 hammering from Amarillo and found its lead cut to two games when second place Tulsa whipped Albuquerque 5-1.

Tulsa's decision also permitted the lower clubs to move up on Albuquerque in the western division.

Austin and El Paso couldn't play because of rain and that helped both. Austin gained a half-game in the eastern division and Amarillo did the same in the west.

Ray Cordiero pitched an eight-hitter to notch his fourth decision of the season in the Amarillo victory over Dallas-Fort Worth. Amarillo sent five runs across in the third inning to win the game early. Jack McClure hit a three-run homer in the sixth.

Tulsa won its second straight over Albuquerque with right-hander Don Hagen giving up only six hits and fanning nine. Two Tulsa errors robbed him of a shutout.

Dallas-Fort Worth again is at Amarillo, Albuquerque at Tulsa and El Paso at Austin tonight.

4 Young Pitchers Sign With Houston

HOUSTON (AP)—Four young pitchers have signed contracts with the Houston Astros, general manager Paul Richards said today.

They are Gary Wallman, 23, of South Bend, Ind.; Roger Simpson, 19, of Pitman, N.J., Paul Lane, 19, of Beaumont and George Graef, 19, of Somerville, N.J.

Valley Loop Spring Meet Is Underway

DENTON (AP)—The basketball television committee of the Missouri Valley Conference meets this afternoon as the first activity of the Missouri Valley Conference spring meet.

Some fire may emanate from this session if attempts are made to split Tulsa's $150,000 cut from national television of a game in Houston's Domed Stadium Sept. 11.

Coach Glenn Dobbs of Tulsa has said he will protest such a split since the conference has no rule calling for it.

The faculty representatives, governing body of the conference, will hold their first meeting Friday night but Commissioner Norvall Neve says "The agenda is pretty much routine and league expansion, the item most often asked about, is not included."

He said, however, that the television session was a late addition to the schedule and he did not predict what it might hand the faculty representatives.

Athletic contests do not start until Friday. A 54-hole golf tournament, with North Texas State seeking its fifth championship in a row, will have its first two rounds. The final round will be Saturday.

Tennis also starts Friday and will run through Saturday with Wichita favored to repeat as champion.

Qualifying and a smattering of finals in track are scheduled Friday afternoon. All other finals will be Saturday. Drake, the defending champion, and Wichita are expected to fight it out for the title.

Howard Is Resting Following Surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — Elston Howard, the New York Yankees' All-Star catcher, was resting at Lenox Hill Hospital today following surgery for the removal of bone chips from his right elbow.

Dr. Sidney Gaynor, the Yankees' team physician who performed the operation, said he removed two small chips from the joint of Howard's elbow.

"The operation appears a success," Dr. Gaynor said. "If everything goes according to schedule, Howard should be able to start exercising in three weeks."

TIGERS, WOLVES PLAYING TODAY

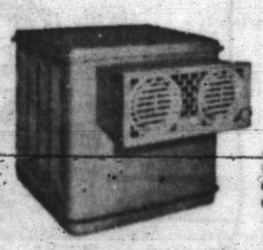

The Snyder Tigers and Colorado City Wolves, originally scheduled to play a non - conference baseball game Saturday at Colorado City, moved their date up to today to avoid conflict with a number of activities.

The locals were to face the Wolves at 4 p.m. and seek revenge for a 2-0 11-inning defeat suffered on the home diamond on April 20.

The Tigers, who are leading District 3-AAA, having already clinched a piece of the title, play their next conference game Tuesday when they will entertain the Levelland Lobos.

LBJ's New Tactics Point To Search For Approval

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Probably no man in the White House ever wished more for public approval, or was more conscious of critics, than President Johnson.

It does much to explain his switch in tactics. After ordering Marines into South Viet Nam and the bombing of North Viet Nam, he had to be prodded into talking. Since sending troops into the Dominican Republic he hasn't stopped talking.

When the bombing began last February, the White House simply issued a statement that it was in retaliation for a guerrilla attack on a U.S. air base in South Viet Nam.

As the weeks passed and the bombings continued and the Marines went in Johnson was pelted with criticism at home and abroad, although he got much approval. But he played so mum pressures piled on him to start explaining.

He finally did on April 7. But the criticism continued. Then he did the opposite in public relations last week when he decided to send troops into the Dominican Republic, splintered into chaos by revolution.

He went on the air to explain April 28, April 30, and again May 2. All these broadcasts were at night, the last one Sunday night. It meant breaking into programs. On the last broadcast, 30 minutes long, not all networks carried him.

But the way he built up to main emphasis on why he used troops in Asia and Latin America was almost identical in both cases.

In Viet Nam he first put the emphasis on saving the South Vietnamese people from communism but finally put it on American determination to stop the spread of communism.

In the Dominican Republic he first put the emphasis on saving American lives there and later said the goal was stopping the spread of communism in the Americas.

But, remembering the criticism he got for not talking sooner on Viet Nam, Johnson's timetable of public statements on the Dominican Republic can hardly be interpreted as anything but an anxious search for approval.

First, three broadcasts — April 28 and 30 and May 2 — and on the last day an off-the-record walk around the White House with reporters, explaining his problems.

A 30-minute broadcast May 2 and on May 3 an unexpected appearance before a labor conference to defend his actions in Latin America. But Tuesday, May 4, was truly a busy talking day.

He sent a message to Congress, asking it to vote $700 million for the Viet Nam fighting, but first he brought squads of senators and representatives for a briefing on what he was going to repeat in the message anyway.

He left no doubt here that what he wanted, more than the money, was approval. He explained he could get the money from other funds already approved by Congress. He explained his motive.

Nothing, he said, could do more to show national unity — which means support for him — than an "overwhelming vote" for what he asked.

"To deny and delay this," he went on, "means to deny and delay the fullest support of the American people and the American Congress to those brave men who are risking their lives for freedom in Viet Nam."

He said all those voting for his request would be telling the world Congress and the President stood united in frustrating communism.

While the House approved the money Wednesday, and the Senate will quickly, several senators expressed misgivings about having their votes interpreted as blanket approval for waging undeclared war anywhere.

After his Tuesday session with the members of Congress Johnson led reporters on an hour-long trek around the White House again, talking about Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic and his responsibilities, and defending his actions against criticism.

It was an extraordinary week and, for a President, an extraordinary performance.

American Girl Has Mission In Viet Nam

By HAL BOYLE

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — To airmen and Marines she's "the belle of Da Nang."

Miss Betty Olsen, 30, a medical missionary, takes the nickname as a pleasant joke.

"I think I'm the only single girl here," she said, "but there are a number of married women in our mission."

Many an American girl would think it a dream situation to be the only girl amid 10,000 men. But Betty, who is tall and slender and has auburn hair and green eyes, is more amused than thrilled.

Every Saturday morning she serves as a volunteer worker at the USO building in the heart of the city. Many of the men have asked for a date, but each has met with a refusal.

"They are all nice and polite," said Miss Olsen. "If they want to be friends, that's fine. But I don't date them. I am not interested in romance, and I have no idea of getting married."

She is a deeply religious woman whose goal since childhood has been to do medical missionary work abroad. She was born in Africa and both her parents are missionaries stationed there on the Ivory Coast.

Betty was educated at the New York Missionary College and studied nursing at the Methodist Hospital in Brooklyn. She was sent here last December by the Christian and Missionary Alliance which has 900 missionaries in 24 foreign countries.

"I spend most of my time learning the language — a new missionary always does that the first year," Betty said. But she also attends six religious meetings weekly and spends two nights a week teaching English to a group of 60 Vietnamese.

"Most of them are teen-agers but a few are older," she said. "They are very interested and eager to learn.

"They are particularly curious about America. I told them about the skyscrapers and the subways but I am afraid they didn't understand subways or why anyone would want them.

"The Vietnamese people I have met are very friendly to Americans and say they are glad our men are here."

Although she gets a little homesick, Betty plans on spending her life in Viet Nam. She hopes after further study to take a post in a leprosarium in the interior. At present, however, that area is still largely controlled by the Viet Cong enemy.

Asked if she ever felt uneasy at being in a war zone, Betty looked surprised, as if the thought of danger had never occurred to her.

"God called me to be a missionary," she said simply. "I have no fear, because I know I am in the center of God's will."

Junior Editors Quiz on MIGRATING BIRDS

QUESTION: When birds migrate, how do they find their way?

* * *

ANSWER: For a great many years, students of birds have been asking themselves this question. Such feats as that of the Greater Shearwater, migrating flocks of which fly straight to the tiny island of Tristan Da Cunha in the middle of the vast South Atlantic, seem impossible to explain. Yet scientists have recently come up with some new ideas. How do sailors find their way over the open ocean? By taking observations of the sun and stars. They don't have neat little sextants or use mathematical formulas. But many birds, according to these new theories, know that the sun should be in a certain relation to their line of flight (2.) At night, it is thought they may use star constellations for the same purpose (1.) You may ask, since the sun and stars appear to move to different parts of the sky at different times, why doesn't this throw the birds off? Some scientists think that birds may have a kind of built-in clock system, which permits them to allow for different positions of heavenly bodies at different times. Birds also follow mountain ranges, rivers and shore lines, say these experts.

* * *

FOR YOU TO DO: Study the birds around you and see if you can find bird habits which are connected with daily movements of the sun. Birds start singing at sunrise, for example. What other bird-sun relationship can you find? 5/6

(Carol Amore of Beverly, Mass., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper.)

Damages Almost Settled In Electrical Price-Fixing Suit

By PHILIP J. KEUPER

NEW YORK (AP) — The bulk of the nation's electrical equipment industry, caught in a price-fixing scandal in 1960, today is in the final stages of settling damages approaching $400 million.

But because of a controversial tax ruling, the companies stand to save almost half the cost through tax deductions.

The ruling has sparked a clash between the Internal Revenue Service and some congressmen who charge that General Electric, Westinghouse and the 27 other antitrust violators are getting soft treatment. In the background is the case itself, one the Justice Department said involved secret agreements over eight years to fix prices, rig bids and divide markets on electrical equipment valued at $1.75 billion annually.

The companies and 45 executives pleaded guilty or no contest to 20 antitrust indictments before a federal judge in Philadelphia who called the price-fixing "a shocking indictment" of a vast section of the economy. He sentenced seven executives to jail for 30 days in 1961 and gave 24 others suspended sentences. Fines totaled $1.9 million.

That was only the beginning. The price-fixing by companies supposed to be in competition covered products ranging from tiny $2 insulators to huge, multimillion-dollar turbine generators. Their customers sued for triple damages under the Clayton Antitrust Act, claiming they were overcharged.

The federal government, a big customer, settled for $8.8 million from 12 companies. More than 2,000 damage suits poured into the courts from private utilities and municipal power agencies. Most have been settled, almost all by negotiation.

An Associated Press poll of 14 of the 29 companies indicated the final settlement cost may total about $400 million. Almost all of this will come from the four top companies involved. They have paid or earmarked roughly $390 million.

The controversial tax ruling made last July by the Internal Revenue Service allows the companies to deduct the cost of damage settlements as "ordinary and necessary" business expense

Only settlements made with the federal government and federal agencies weren't deductible said the IRS.

Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., and House Judiciary Chairman Emmanuel Celler, D-N.Y., denounced the ruling as a "tax giveaway" and demanded an investigation.

The Internal Revenue Service said the antitrust laws on damage suits were meant to reimburse the victim, not to punish the violater. As remedial damages, said the IRS, they are tax-deductible.

A report on the ruling is expected to be submitted to the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation this month.

SOMEBODY SLIPPED—Mrs. Bernice Wyszynski, Pequabuck, Conn., claims her 1963 Pontiac sports model in exchange for 1,395 bananas from ruefully smiling Joe DeGonge, Bristol, Conn., dealer. She answered an ad in which the car was put up for 1,395 bananas, but somebody slipped and left out the dollar sign. United Fruit Co. provided the bananas; dealer went along with transaction; Mrs.; Wyszynski got the car, and Newington, Conn., crippled children's hospital got the fruit. (AP Wirephoto)

Texas Senate Handed Task Of Rearranging Districts

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN (AP)—The job of rearranging Texas' congressional districts moved to the Senate and a probable joint conference committee today.

House members passed on voice vote Wednesday a committee-drawn plan to redistribute the state's 23 seats in the House, giving populous Dallas and Harris counties one more congressman each.

Eighteen attempts to amend the bill failed by topheavy votes. House sentiment was reflected in a 118-24 record vote on tentative approval.

Leadership strategy reportedly was to send the measure to the Senate with a big vote to strengthen the House bargaining position in the expected conference committee talks.

The measure will go to conference if the Senate passes it in a different form and the House rejects the changes.

Texas faces an Aug. 1 deadline, set by a federal court in Houston, to draw new districts of substantially equal population. Districts of equal size would have 416,508 people.

Rep Gus Mutscher of Brenham, chairman of the House Redistricting Committee, said the biggest deviation in the bill from average population is 6 per cent.

Re - election campaigns between incumbent congressmen could be forced by the bill in two East Texas districts.

Congressmen John Dowdy of Athens and Lindley Beckworth, Gladewater would go in one district, Reps. Wright Patman of Texarkana and Ray Roberts of McKinney in another.

Major attempts to revise the bill were aimed at meeting objections to its treatment of Tarrant, Bexar, Ector and Midland counties. Other defeated amendments would have shifted counties in the Rio Grande Valley, parts of East Texas and the South Plains cotton counties.

Most bitter debate came when Rep. Frank Cahoon of Midland, the legislature's only Republican, tried to substitute a bill drawn by a GOP committee. The substitute met Cahoon's objection to separation of Midland and Ector (Odessa) counties.

"This entire hassle was brought on by a Republican-filed lawsuit. Now they demand we pass this bill and accuse us of gerrymandering if we don't take their bill hook line and sinker. Its sole purpose is to elect Republicans," asserted Rep. Gene Hendryx of Alpine.

Cahoon's amendment was tabled 124-18.

The bill gives a congressman to the major part of Tarrant County. A northern slice with 59,000 people is joined with a North Texas district including Wichita Falls, Denton and Sherman-Denison.

Southern Tarrant County, with 63,000, joins South Dallas County's 59,000 people in a mainly rural district extending southward to the northern boundary of Harris County.

Central Bexar County would receive one congressman. But North Bexar County's 125,000 people would be in a giant district running west and including Ector County. The rest of the county, 145,886 people, would be in a Southwest Texas district including Maverick County on the Rio Grande.

Rep. Jake Johnson of San Antonio failed to change the bill to preserve all but a thin eastern section of Bexar County intact in one district.

"All they've left San Antonio is the Alamo," mourned Johnson, who said all of its military installations except Ft. Sam Houston would be taken from Congressman Henry Gonzalez' Central San Antonio district.

Reps. Bud Sherman and George Richardson of Fort Worth each failed with amendments to put Fort Worth's excess population in more compact districts with which they said Tarrant County has a community of interest.

Senators haggled in committee, meanwhile, over their own personal redistricting problems. The legislature has an Aug. 2 deadline, set by the same federal court, to realign its own seats along population lines.

The biggest problem is the heavily rural 31-member Senate.

The Senate Redistricting Committee sent to the floor a bill by Sen. Louis Crump of San Saba, committee chairman. He introduced it as a vehicle for the Senate as a whole to work on. The measure provides merely that all 31 districts consist of the entire state.

Crump said keeping the writing of the bill—which the necessity will deprive perhaps six incumbent senators of their jobs—outside the committee would speed Senate reapportionment by avoiding a committee snarl.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

FORTYTWO, Mexico — I can see that look on everybody's faces and you are thinking, "Well, here goes Abney on the loco weed again." All right, Fortytwo IS the name of a town.

Population sixty. And there is a small general store, a small church, several houses, a river and coco palms. No post office. To get a letter to Fortytwo, you have to address it to Thirty which is larger and officially represented.

Truck and bus drivers are handed letters in Thirty and asked to kindly drop them off at the general store in Fortytwo.

Apparently some government people were driving along the road from Acapulco to Mexico City one day and they stopped and asked, "Hey, what's the name of this town?"

Nobody seemed to know. So the government agents said, Okay, you are forty two kilometers from Acapulco so we will put you on the map as Forty-two." This occurred in several villages.

All of which has obsolutely nothing to do with the subject at hand. What we will discuss today, children, is Mr. Manuel Lozano Gallo's star sapphires. And Fortytwo is the jumping-off place where you climb on a hoss and giddap over some mighty rugged mountains to reach his mine.

This started thirteen years ago when Senor Lozano and his bride went to Acapulco to spend their honeymoon. The sun cast molten gold across the blue Pacific and gentle breezes sifted through the swaying coco palms with a romantic sound.

So Mr. Lozano said, "Gee, I never saw such a gorgeous place and I never been so happy in all my life."

And Mrs. Lozano murmured it was all too true.

Then Mr. Lozano said, "How about let's go over to the Papagayo River and see what kind of stones we find in its sparkling waters?"

Now even if Mr. Lozano is one of the world's big jewelry gentlemen who makes brooches and rings for royalty, presidents and such, it is a wonder to me that Mrs. Lozano didn't pull out a shotgun and feed him some pellets.

However, being an extremely understanding lady she went along and sure enough they picked up some corundum crystals (that's the stuff you get sapphires and rubies from).

And over a span of thirteen years they looked further and further up the river until Mr. Lozano found the size crystals he figured had just come down from the mountains.

They he studied the rock formations and finally chartered himself a geologist with a magnifying glass and a shovel. In November, 1963, he found his mine. The first sapphire mine discovered in Mexico.

So in January Senor Lozano began shipping sapphire material to the U.S. of A. And he casually mentioned he had come across a couple of rubies while scratching around.

If you think it is fun to count money, you should get in a sapphire mine and hammer away at the stars. Chop it out with a geologist's hammer and a big chisel (you have to be official in this action) and never mind if you split a big crystal.

This is the way we idle rich live. Instead of having a glass of orange juice before breakfast, we get up and bust a star sapphire with a sledge hammer. It is an invigorating way to start the day.

Besides, there's plenty more where that came from.

INTER-AMERICAN FORCE

OAS Troops Will Join Americans In Dominican

By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Organization of American States made a historic break from tradition early today and voted to establish an inter-American military force in the Dominican Republic.

The force will include some of the approximately 20,000 U.S. Marines and paratroopers already patrolling the Dominican capital of Santo Domingo.

As other nations contribute to the joint force, part of the U.S. contingent will be withdrawn, Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to the OAS, told the American nations. He said he was speaking on the authorization of President Johnson, who had been urging since last week that an inter-American military force be set up in the riot-torn Caribbean republic.

Paraguay and Venezuela announced they were ready to contribute military units to the new force. Costa Rica, which has no regular army, offered police units. Argentina and Brazil, it was indicated, also are considering sending military forces.

There was no indication on the total forces the other hemisphere nations might contribute, nor the date of their probable arrival in the Dominican Republic.

The vote was a departure from the OAS tradition of non-intervention in the Western Hemisphere. Never before had such a joint force of American nations been created formally to go into a country beset by internal turmoil, although various nations contributed military assistance during the Cuban missile crisis in the fall of 1962.

The purpose of the joint force, the OAS declared, is to establish "a climate of peace and conciliation permitting the functioning of democratic institutions" in the Dominican Republic.

The OAS action came on the heels of these U.S.-Dominican developments:

—U.S. government sources made public a list of 58 alleged Communists and Castroites who it said were involved in the Communist bid to take control of the Dominican Republic.

—A State Department spokesman, commenting on the reported installation of rebel Col. Francisco Caamano Deno as president of the Dominican Republic, said the United States feels "there is no effective government at the present time" in the riot-torn Caribbean nation.

—President Johnson conferred at the White House with former Gov. Luis Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico. George E. Reedy, White House press secretary, said afterwards that Johnson and Munoz discussed the Dominican situation and Latin-American affairs in general.

—The number of U.S. troops in the Dominican Republic was put at 19,363 by the Defense Department. It said these included 12,439 Army men — mainly paratroopers from the 82nd Airborne Division — and 6,924 Marines. The total was 5,363 more than the 14,500 announced Sunday night by President Johnson.

Army Recruit To Serve In Abilene

Sergeant Joe Welch, local Army Recruiter has announced the enlistment of Gerald Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith, 1201 Twenth-Fourth Street.

Private Smith received an enlistment option of U.S. Army Air Defense Command with duty station at Abilene, and will report there after completing eight weeks of basic training at Fort Polk.

Sergeant Welch said that there are still numerous vacancies in U.S. Army Air Defense Command at missile bases in nearly all of the metropolitan areas throughout the United States, as well as a few at Abilene.

Vacancies will be filled on the first come - first served basis and will give young men an opportunity to be assigned near home or the city of their choice; be stabilized in one place; and continue their education while serving their military obligation.

Those wishing more information on ARADCOM may call Sergeant Welch at HI 3-9674 or HI 3-9934 collect, or see him at 1825 Twenty-fifth Street in Snyder.

Cuban Exiles Get Maps Of Camps

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A map of Cuba pinpointing 13 purported Communist training camps for subversives was distributed today by Revolutionary Unity, a Cuban exile organization.

Described as a training site for Dominican revolutionaries was the Minas de Frio camp in easternmost Oriente Province, nearest to the Dominican Republic.

The exile group said Dominicans also were reported to have trained at a camp near Trinidad, on the southern coast of central Cuba. It said Central Americans, Haitians and British Guianese also drilled there.

Mishap Is Fatal

ATHENS, Tex. (AP) — An overturning car killed Tony Pitts, 16, from near Malakoff on a farm road 4 miles north of Cayuga Wednesday. The driver, Thomas Alexander, 15, escaped serious injury.

Opossums are the fastest breeding mammal known. America's only pouched animal produces young about 13 days after mating.
