Sewer, water grant hearings scheduled

Colorado City will be conducting the first of two public meetings to discuss its plans to apply to the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs for Texas Community Development funds, on Tuesday, August 9 at 5:30 p.m. at City Hall, 180 W. Third Street.

The City will be applying for a $250 thousand dollar grant to help fund a project that is aimed at making improvements in the City's sewer and water system.

According to City Manager Steve Shutt the project would encompass a new water treatment plant, construction of a raw water source line, improvements in the quality and volume of water and replacement of some of the large sewage collection lines.

"This grant will take some of the costs out of the bigger project," he said.

The public is encouraged to attend the hearing and provide input to city officials.

The first public hearing will cover housing and community development needs, use of past TCDP funds, the amount of funding available and eligibility.

The second public hearing, which is scheduled for September 13 at 5:30 p.m. in City Hall, will discuss the application for sewer collection improvements in the City.

Interim city secretary to be announced soon

Since Glenna Garrett resigned her position as City Secretary, the question now is who will take her place?

City Manager Steve Shutt said it would be approximately 10 days before a decision would be made as to who would take over as interim City Secretary.

Shutt said the final decision would not be his alone and that the City Council would appoint someone with his recommendation.

"I am going to recommend that this be an internal promotion," he said.

Shutt said he met with staff members Monday morning and that the work was divided among them.

"Payroll and utility bills are coming due," he said. "Our first task is to attend to those things."

Shutt added that a new training program will be initiated with the help of Guy A. White, Jr., the

DARE golf tourney is Sunday

There's still time to sign up for the Colorado City Police Department's second annual benefit golf tournament to raise proceeds for the Colorado City Drug Abuse Resistance Education program.

The benefit is a four person scramble golf tournament, which will take place at the Wolf Creek Country Club, Sunday, August 7 beginning at 1:15 p.m.

According to officer Charles Rice, the DARE program was set up to help give children a choice in the direction their lives may take.

"If anything we want them to better themselves," he said. "We want to try to guide them away from drugs, alcohol and gangs."

Rice said the program works with all children in grades five and seven.

"We don't narrow out just the bad kids," he said. "We work with kids who come from good backgrounds to kids who don't have good home lives."

The officers involved with the DARE program help the youngsters to learn coping skills, Rice said.

"We teach them things like how to handle peer pressure, resist

Finnish student to visit Colorado City

Rotary International will be sponsoring a foreign exchange student from Finland, who will be joining the Senior class of Colorado High School this year.

Lauri Eskola, an 18-year-old from Finland's capitol city of Helsinki, said, "I think a year [in the U. S.] will provide useful experiences for me and I believe it will have a positive effect later in life."

Eskola will be spending his first four to six months in Colorado City with the family of police chief and local Rotary member, David Montgomery.

The last six months will be spent with a second host family.

Montgomery explained that Eskola will be staying with two different host families in order to obtain a wider view of American culture.

"I am curious to see how everyday life is spent in [American] families," Eskola said. "I hope to spend my free time with others, take part in their activities and perhaps learn new hobbies."

Aside from speaking his native Finnish language, Eskola has also studied nine years of English, five years of Swedish and four years of German.

Another benefit Eskola said he would obtain from coming to Colorado City is his increased knowledge of the English language.

"A year as a foreign exchange student would develop my ability as a public performer and it would give me more self-confidence," he said. "[Also] my knowledge of English would be better and I would gain foreign friends."

Eskola is not unlike American teen-agers in that he enjoys participating in sports activities, has a favorite pet, and has some of the same likes and dislikes.

Eskola said he has enjoyed participating in team sports such as soccer, ice hockey, and basketball. And in 1989, Eskola won the title of Finnish Junior Champion in the game of badminton.

"Badminton has given me a lot," he said. "It was a great experience."

Warbler habitat opposed

Approximately 1,000 Hill Country landowners opposed the designation of any or all of 33 Texas counties as critical habitat for the Golden Cheeked Warbler in an informational meeting last week.

Those attending the meeting lashed out at Sam Hamilton, the state administrator for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, as he attempted to outline the proposal's designated area from north of Waco south to San Antonio and into the Hill Country.

Hamilton said his agency's goal is to have a proposal ready for consideration by late fall or winter.

The state administrator drew the howls of the irate audience when he explained that critical habitat for the endangered bird will affect only those citizens who need federal authorization or funding to pursue activities on their land.

Many incensed ag producers expressed their disenchantment with the federal plan.

One man pointed out that 97 percent of all lands in Texas are in private lands, stating that the federal plan would cause property values to plummet.

Another man urged the audience to contact their state legislator and U.S. congressman to stop the federal agency's plan.

The 33 counties affected by the proposed plan include Bandera, Bell, Bexar, Blanco, Bosque, Burnet, Comal, Coryell, Edwards, Erath, Falls, Gillespie, Hays, Hill, Hood, Johnson, Kendall, Kerr, Kimble, Lampasas, Llano, Mason, McLennan, Medina, Mills, Palo Pinto, Parker, Real, San Saba, Somervell, Travis, Uvalde and Williamson.

"I intend to run an aggressive campaign for reelection and I am pleased to have someone with Jim Arnold's political and government experience heading up my campaign," Perry said.

Arnold, 38, worked as research director in Gov. Bill Clements' 1986 campaign and managed Chief Justice Tom Phillips' successful 1988 campaign for the Supreme Court.

ON THE JOB. Colorado High School students (l to r): Natalia Mays, Shante Boger and Rose Vasquez spent the summer working at New Discovery Day Care as a part of "Project Catch-up."

"Project Catch Up" gives students high school credit

By Sandra Vlasin

When summer vacation is mentioned, most students probably conjure images of sleeping late, laying around the pool and just taking it easy, but 24 Mitchell County students took advantage of a special program this summer, spending their days at school and work.

The program, called "Project Catch-up" gave high school age students an opportunity to begin their work experience while earning high school credit in math or English. Classes were held each morning at Colorado High School, and the afternoons were spent at various workplaces around the county.

CHS English teacher Cliff Vlasin served as administrator of the program and high school counselor Dewey Shepard and Mr. Vlasin handled the teaching duties. Of the 24 participants, 15 were from Colorado City while five were from Lorraine and four made the trip from Westbrook.

Marlen Rincones of Westbrook felt the program was an advantage to her. "I have learned a lot," she said, "especially in math and English. My writing skills have gotten better. Also, I know that your job is not always going to be easy, so get an education so you can get a good job."

CHS senior Yolanda Bastardo, who spend her summer working at the Colorado City Police Department, agreed. "This program is very good. It allows students to go to school and then earn some money," she said. "You also learn valuable work experience and, to top it off, you can earn half a credit for school."

Although the work was sometimes hard, the experience was worth it, recalls John Rodriguez of Lorraine. "I got some hands-on training at work," he said. "I learned it ain't easy doing manual labor."

Mr. Vlasin felt the program was a complete success. "The kids were great," he said. "Although the work was sometimes difficult, especially in this West Texas heat, they stuck with it and did a great job. All of the comments I got from the employers were positive and I'm extremely proud of what these young people have done, not only for themselves, but for their community."

The program ended July 29, so now these 24 hard-working students have a few weeks to enjoy the traditional summer vacation, with a little money in their pockets to help them enjoy it.

Pesticide, food safety laws are being reformed

The nation's pesticide and related food safety laws are due for a reform.

Congressman Charles Stenholm, chairman of the House Agriculture Subcommittee on Department Operations and Nutrition, announced that the Subcommittee approved legislation for the reform.

"Since our hearings on this legislation back in early August of 1993, I have been working patiently with all interested parties in an effort to take the best of all the proposals...and fashion a comprehensive package [to improve the] current food safety and regulatory system," said Stenholm.

H.R. 1627, as amended and approved by the Subcommittee, would revise the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act. It would also amend the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act.

Among other provisions in the Subcommittee-approved version of H.R. 1627, research would be promoted on Integrated Pest Management techniques to reduce the use of pesticides.

Also, states would be allowed to regulate the sale or use of any pesticide, but local governments would be prohibited from imposing requirements or regulations regarding pesticides.

"The package of reforms adopted by the Subcommittee...is an important first step in preparing our nation's food safety regulatory system for the 21st century," said Stenholm.

"The training and reorganization of the operation will help it run smoother," Shutt said.

White said the training he would be conducting would help City staff members to acquire and maintain a system of checks and balances.

"They'll be able to understand their internal control processes, how they work, and what they are," he said.

According to White, he will help with the development of the proper segregation of duties.

making sure items are posted correctly and that the purchase order system is followed correctly.

"They're already doing it now," he said. "They're just not doing it correctly."

White said the training will take about a day or two out of the month, for the next few months.

EXCHANGE

According to Montgomery, Eskola will be allowed to integrate into a sports program at CHS if he wants to.

Montgomery said he feels that he and his family will benefit from Eskola's stay with them.

"My wife and I will enjoy being able to possibly influence his life in some way," he said. "My children will especially benefit from gaining a larger outlook on the world."

Montgomery added that the benefits will work both ways. "Overall the family will benefit from him and he'll benefit from being here," he said.

Montgomery said that as his children grow older he would like to encourage them to take part in a foreign exchange program.

"I would definitely encourage them to look at a year abroad as a year worthwhile," he said.

Montgomery said he would like to see more local students get involved with the exchange program.

"Our [local] kids need to take full advantage of programs like this," he said.

Eskola will be arriving in Colorado City, Sunday, August 7.

Stenholm receives award

Congressman Charles Stenholm has received the food distribution industry's Thomas Jefferson Award.

The award is presented to members of Congress whose voting record consistently supports sound fiscal policy, minimal government regulation, free trade and other Jeffersonian principles of government.

The biennial program is sponsored by National-American Wholesale Grocers' Association (NAWGA)/International Food-service Distributors Association (IFDA).

"As our industry has looked to Capitol Hill over the past two years for leadership on important economic and regulatory issues, Charlie Stenholm has been a visible, effective presence," said John Block, president of NAWGA/IFDA.

Stenholm said, "I am honored to be recognized for my efforts on behalf of American agriculture and fiscal responsibility."

"As a representative and a producer, I will continue to work for the good of the agriculture industry and all those involved."

Act challenges Texas newspapers to recycle

Texas newspapers are using significant amounts of recycled newsprint, according to the 1993 Newsprint Survey.

The survey was conducted by the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC) in cooperation with the Texas Daily Newspaper Association (TDNA) and the Texas Press Association (TPA).

At least 22 percent of all newsprint bought in Texas contained a minimum amount of recycled material.

Texas newspaper publishers have more than doubled the amount necessary to meet the goal of 10 percent set by the state legislature in the 1991 Omnibus Recycling Act.

The law challenged newspaper publishers to ensure that at least 10 percent of all newsprint contain at least 25 percent post-consumer materials by the end of 1993.

The Act further stipulates that publishers use at least 20 percent recycled content newsprint by the end of 1997 and 30 percent by the end of the year 2000.

TNRCC Chairman John Hall said, "This is a great example of how business—in this case newspaper publishing—can help reduce our dependence on virgin materials...[and] in turn helps create markets for recycled products."

The recovery rate for old newsprint in Texas has increased from 19 percent in 1993 to 35 percent, the equivalent of 330,000 metric tons of newsprint that is being kept out of Texas landfills.

LORAINE NEWS ABOUT TOWN

BY BESSIE ANN VAUGHN

In Texas it matters little or none at all if our surnames be Smith or Garcia when it comes to eating Mexican food. We like it so much we crave it often.

Now that the health food detectives and gurus have zapped Mexican food with a fatty frontal attack, what must we do?

Should we just ignore the recent data or save up our fat grams and pig out on Saturday night?

On the day we are born we enter the world bawling, not because the doctor gave us a spank but because we want a tiny bit of milk blended with guacamole in a baby bottle.

By the time we celebrate our first birthday, many of us are cutting teeth on tacos and nachos with salsa that is made in San Antonio, not in New York or New Jersey.

By all accounts, Mexican food is an addiction. If we should get any type of health care passed this year, we want to make sure we are covered for M.F.W.S.A.S. (Mexican Food Withdrawal Symptoms And Sickness).

It does not seem humane or reasonable to expect any human being to quit this food cold turkey!

So, for health's sake, please write to your congressmen and women to let them know we folks with this addiction need money allocated for the study and production of a no-fat or low-fat Mexican dinner that will still taste the same.

Nina Meadows had her good friend Sally Compton as a houseguest over the weekend.

The two ladies visited friends and loved ones in the Loraine Nursing Home, then did some cooking for the Baptist Church's supper and music festival.

From Loraine Sally will go on to Alpine to visit with a sister.

Monday at noon we were glad to get to visit with her at the Senior Center.

She and Shep live near Weatherford.

Debbie and Robert Dale Finley had Charlsie, age three, stay with them a week recently. Charlsie is a daughter of David and Nina, from Lake Joly.

Debbie said they had a lot of active fun!

Mr. Kindall, school superintendent, now has his family settled here with him. Shirley is Mrs. Kendall's name and they have a son, Jason, who has graduated high school and will go on to school in Snyder this year. A daughter, Amanda, will be in seventh grade. We are glad to have them in our community. Welcome to Loraine, Kendalls all.

Alfred and Elaine McMichael will be going to Dallas this week to keep a doctor's appointment for Elaine, and while in Dallas they will visit with Elaine's sister.

Debbie Finley and Kerry Gonzales left for Austin August 1 for a TASBO workshop that will last through August 4. The workshop will be about book-keeping skills and things related to their work in the school superintendent's office.

Sunday night, July 31, members and guests of the Loraine Methodist Church visited the Baptist Church for an evening of Christian fellowship, good food and a special musical presentation that was enjoyed by everyone.

Congratulations to Sharon and Tommy Green on the birth of a baby daughter. Alisha reported that her new sister's name is Fynlan Crea and that she is very pretty.

There will now be three very pretty girls in the Green household, Alisha, Glenna and now, Fynlan Crea.

Wayne and Dot Oliver went to an Oliver family reunion at Valacetta Resort in Colorado recently, along with four Oliver descendants.

Dot's sisters and their husbands attended, too. They are Butch and Brenda Fortenberry from Farmington, N.M. and Jim and Wanda Taulbee from Rivertown, Wyo. Dot said everyone had a wonderful time.

Laroy and Dena Troutt from Roscoe and LaJuan Green from Colorado City were Sunday guests of Verlie Owens.

Bea Looney has had two sisters and their husbands visit with her recently. Mr. and Mrs. Steve Berry from Lubbock came last week and this week Mr. and Mrs. George Clark from Marshalltown, Ia. were here.

Make plans to come to the Lone Star Reunion and Loraine School Homecoming on Friday, October 14. It will be great to make both places. For more information you may call Dual Blair or Billie Powell.

Gerald and Sheila Oliver went to the Oliver reunion in Colorado, then came back to Loraine, where Sheila stayed and visited with both the Owens and the Olivers.

Gerald went on back to Corpus to work, but Sheila stayed to help with her niece Tammy Blair's wedding.

Gerald and Sheila's daughter, Dana, came from Texas Tech to go to the wedding, also.

Senior Center Highlights... Genna Price from West Texas Council of Governments came to speak about Medicare issues, supplemental insurance and to answer questions in general that one might have about Medicare.

She was not representing any one particular insurance group but did point out the need for a supplement.

Winnie Richburg had surgery and is doing well at this time.

This is good. The bad part is that she and O.W. will be moving to Lubbock as soon as she is stronger.

The Richburgs have a daughter and family that have recently moved to Lubbock. We will hate to say goodbye to these friends of many years, but want the best for them.

Lucille Cox has just returned from a two-week stay with a son, Jim Kalana, in Alamosa, Co. and a daughter, Pauloni Hedrick of Austin.

Before coming back to Loraine, she got to see 17 great grandchildren at different locations.

A True Story of a Good Deed Turned Bad

We have in our quiet small town two sweet-looking little grannie-type females, no bigger than a stunted popcorn stalk, who are making a questionable reputation for themselves.

They could be just inches away from the new Wallace prison in Colorado City.

It would be so sad to see them go, for one lady has a beautiful cat that needs her and the other one has a beautiful garden that needs her constant T.L.C.

Their latest escapade happened

1994 PROPERTY TAX RATES FOR THE CITY OF LORAIN.

THIS NOTICE CONCERNS 1994 PROPERTY TAX RATES FOR WESTBROOK ISD. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's EFFECTIVE tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's ROLLBACK tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case, these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:
Last year's operating taxes	$2,135,384.4250
Last year's debt taxes	$0.0000
Last year's total taxes	$2,135,384.4250

CHIEF LONE WOLF

BY JIM BAUM

Not too long ago, 68-year-old Floyd Cupp of Colorado City received a call from out of the past. In fact, he had not heard the caller's voice in almost 50 years.

Our story begins in August of 1944. After thousands of Allied troops stormed the more publicized beaches of Normandy on D-Day, Floyd Cupp and thousands of others, including the 103rd Infantry Division, were part of the invasion force at Marseilles, France.

He says the men met resistance on the beaches even before they left their landing barges. "There was fire flying everywhere," Cupp recalled. "They [U.S. commanders] told us the fire we would be facing wouldn't be friendly fire."

Cupp, a native of Louisiana and only 18 years old at the time, says, "we lost 198 [men] the first day we jumped off. That's not counting wounded."

Eventually, American forces would overwhelm the German defenders. Following the invasion of southern France, Cupp's division swept across the famed Maginot Line and then came to the Rhine River. The fleeing German soldiers had tried to blow up all the bridges and while U.S. troops were able to scramble across one structure before it collapsed, that wasn't in the same area Cupp was.

"We had to wait a day on the pontoon bridges that the engineers threw across [the Rhine]. And then we went across."

Even then the going was rough for the invading forces. "I lost a lot of buddies," Cupp told us. "You saw those old boys laying around [wounded] and you had to bypass them. That's the way we were trained; don't stop."

Cupp says litter bearers and medics would follow the advancing forces. He and other G.I.s would mark the place where their comrades fell by, sticking the wounded men's rifles in the ground, bayonet ends down, with their helmets sticking up in the air, on the butts of the rifles.

And that brings us to the voice from out of the past. Cupp says that he and another G.I., Jack Barker of Nebraska, had gone to get some wood which they planned to put over their foxhole.

"We went to get it and he and I were standing there and the artillery came in on us." A shell struck a nearby tree and fell straight down, spraying shrapnel that struck Barker in the head. Miraculously, Cupp was not wounded.

The action taken by Cupp in the next few minutes probably saved his buddy's life. "I had to take him back to the medics. I didn't know if he was going to live or die."

Cupp had to get Barker back to the Battalion medic and that was about a mile away. The two men talked as Cupp helped the bleeding soldier get back to safety.

"I tried to settle his nerves by telling him that he would make it," Cupp related. "I just kept telling him it wasn't that bad. He said, 'It's bad enough.' I told him, 'You're gonna make it.'"

Then Cupp added, "I hope you do." I said, "If you don't, it's been nice knowing you."

Those men who served together in the service formed a bond of friendship. "You kinda consider them as family," Cupp states. "You have to depend on the other guy and watch out after yourself. I think about it and sometimes I think about those old boys who didn't get to come back and they're in that cemetery over there."

Finally, Cupp was able to get Barker back to the aid station. "I took him back and dumped him off. I dropped him down and told them, 'Here he is. Y'all save him if you can.'"

That was 50 long years ago. A half century ago! Several months ago the telephone rang at the Cupps' residence in Colorado City.

"This is Jack Barker," the caller said. "I thought you were dead. I didn't know if you lived or not," Cupp replied. And then the two old buddies "talked about everyone in the squad and platoon who had gone over with us."

Barker had recovered completely from his wounds. Cupp says he thinks his friend had a "plate put in his head" and "he's doing all right."

The 103rd Infantry Division holds periodic reunions in Michigan. Cupp was the only non-Yankee in the outfit. He says Barker apparently was able to get his name and address by contacting division headquarters.

"He sure was proud to talk to me," Cupp chuckled. "I told him we would stay in touch. That way we wouldn't get lost from each other again."

And if they do ever meet again in person, next time they won't have to worry about being interrupted by incoming rounds of artillery.

A visit back in time

Once a year, people pour into Wichita Falls to relive part of our western heritage at the two-day Texas Ranch Roundup.

The Texas Ranch Roundup began in 1980 and has grown into one of the most authentic western cultural events in Texas.

Rob Brown, owner of the R.A. Brown Ranch in Throckmorton, says, "What makes the Texas Ranch Roundup so unique is the fact that working cowboys are performing those tasks which are typical of everyday ranch work."

While rodeos are popular events, there is a big difference between them and the Texas Ranch Roundup. "Rodeo performers put on exhibitions designed specifically to entertain a crowd.

"Speed and style may bring success in the professional rodeo arena, but in actual ranch work, a smoother and slower pace of movement are more important," says Brown.

The ten Texas ranches that participate in the Texas Ranch Roundup bring their families and their cowboys to compete with each other.

The competition is not limited to the arena events of penning, wild cow milking, team roping, ranch bronc riding, wild horse racing and team branding. The cowboys and their families also compete in the cooking contest, conducted on an open fire beside the chuckwagons.

Acting, singing, photography, poetry, painting and crafts are also part of the competition.

"The everyday natural beauty that these people experience on the ranch and on the open land is reflected in their photography, their skits and their poetry," says Bonnie Jones, Vice President of Marketing and Development at North Texas Rehab.

After two days of competition, the cowboys meet on Sunday morning for a church service. The public is invited.

The Texas Ranch Roundup is co-sponsored by Budweiser/Falls Distributing and North Texas Rehabilitation Center, with all proceeds going to three Texas charities.

West Texas Rehabilitation Center in Abilene, West Texas Boys Ranch in San Angelo and North Texas Rehabilitation Center in Wichita Falls have received almost $1,000,000 during the past 13 years.

International Paper to construct new facility

International Paper has announced Jefferson, TX as the site for its new Oriented Strand Board (OSB) facility.

The new facility will more than double the company's current OSB capacity and help meet consumer demand for the product.

OSB is an engineered structural panel product designed for use in residential, commercial and industrial construction as well as for home repairs and remodeling.

Jefferson was chosen due to lower capital and operating costs as compared to other sites. The pine timber resource in the area is growing at a rate significantly greater than consumption.

Construction will begin immediately with a target date of December, 1995.

The new facility will create approximately 120 new jobs within the plant and approximately 200 more jobs among suppliers of timber to the facility.

An estimated 300 construction jobs will be generated over the next 18 months.

International Paper, headquartered in Purchase, NY, is a worldwide producer of a broad range of paper and forest products with manufacturing operations in 26 countries and exports to more than 130 countries.

Bullock selects committee

Lt. Governor Bob Bullock has named a special interim Senate committee to report to the next Legislature on the needs of Texas rural roads and bridges.

Bullock appointed Sen. Bill Haley of Center to chair the panel and Sens. Ken Armbrister of Victoria and Bill Sims of San Angelo as members.

"Safety, commerce and convenience are all at stake in our rural transportation system and the infrastructure that supports it," Bullock said. "This committee should focus on what is needed for preventive maintenance and safety."

He charged the committee to look into what the state should spend on rural roads and infrastructure, the needs of the counties and the equity of how the state money is distributed.

Bullock also called on the state Department of Transportation to cooperate fully with the committee.

The committee's jurisdiction includes both the 40 thousand miles of rural roads officially designated as state Farm-to-Market Roads and approximately 138 thousand miles of county-maintained roads.
