Moments OF Meditation

REV. T.H. TAYLOR

A map of the Atlantic ocean is not really very much like the Atlantic ocean with its constantly moving waves.

No one can look at the map and then go away and accurately describe the ocean. Yet the map is accurate in the sense that it is a drawing of depths, sandbars, islands and other symbols, all of which try to paint a kind of picture of the ocean.

Many people have found themselves unable to describe what God is really like, because any "earthbound" word is inadequate to properly describe something eternal. The theological statements which we push around are not really God; they are but human attempts to describe something which cannot be described. Does this inadequacy make God less real? Certainly not. Does this make it more difficult for us to know him? It need not!

Rufus Jones, the great Quaker preacher, tells the story of a missionary who went to an island in the Atlantic and confronted a group of children who had bathed in those waters, breathed its salty air and caught fish from its storehouse. They knew the Atlantic ocean like they knew themselves.

So the missionary asked the question: "How many of you have ever seen the Atlantic ocean?" Not one hand was raised. No one had named the ocean to them before. They had enjoyed it, but it had always remained nameless.

So it is with a lot of people today. They have received most all the benefits which God can bestow on his children. They take these for granted never realizing how dependent they are on Him for their very lives!!

Jesus taught that the relationship between God and man is supposed to be like a loving Father to a thankful son. We think of God as a heavenly Father, that He is the God of creation. But too often we fail to get into the picture as thankful sons.

How do you picture yourself? Are you one who is grateful to God? Are you one who adds his small ounce of moral strength and good judgement to the moral struggle of the universe?

Or are you the kind who sits back, as though in a rocking chair, and mistakes that activity for something kind and constructive.

You do not need to describe God in adequate terms. However, you do need an adequate experience of Him in your life.

Financial Facts

By Willis A. Hawkins, Jr.

Did you know the Morgan type silver dollar contains the initial of its designer twice?

A capital M appears at the truncation of the neck, at the last tress, of the liberty head on the obverse. It's found the second time on the reverse on the left hand loop of the ribbon. In both cases the skillfully interwoven initial is very difficult to detect.

George T. Morgan was a pupil of Wyon in the Royal Mint in London before he came to America. He designed the new liberty head type silver dollar in 1878.

The Morgan type dollar was used until 1904 when silver dollar minting was suspended. When re-authorized in 1921, the silver dollar bore Morgan's work for about six months. At this time the peace dollar was introduced.

LCC 'Master Follies' To Be Presented Friday

Eddy Nicholson, Lubbock singer and television personality, will M. C. the annual "Master Follies" musical competition, Friday, March 26, between the Lubbock Christian College Social Clubs.

Master Follies is a full blown musical with costumes, props, singers, and musical combos. Each club picks a song to act out and will be judged on originality, costumes, and prop utilization. A limit of $25.00 is put on each club for set and costume expenses. The judges consider how efficiently they use the limited amount.

The show starts at 7:30 p. m. in the Moody Auditorium and adult tickets are $1.50 and students $1.00. Music Masters Club sponsors the annual event and uses the proceeds to help upgrade the Musical Department in some manner-either instruments or uniforms or landscaping the Music Building as they did last year.

The following program this year promises to be exciting and humorous: Koinonia, "Ahab the Arab"; Metah Moes, "Where Are the Simple Joys of Maidenhood?"; Kyodia, "The Biggest Whatever That Anybody Ever Saw"; AEX, "Yankee Doodle Dandy"; Adelphoi, "Aquarius" and Kappa, "Put on Your Sunday Clothes".

Other numbers include the Aggie Club, "Cowboy Convention"; Theta Rho, "In the Good 'Ole Summer time"; Sub-T, "Green, Green Grass of Home"; LOA, "The Man In My Little Girls Life"; Alpha Chi Delta, "Amos Moses"; Ko Jo Kia, "Young Ladies From LCC Finishing School"; TomoDachi, "The Monster Mash" and CD, "Ministrel Show".

Accent On Health

A quick and simple laboratory technique, called "thin layer chromatography", may soon open doors to effective control of many drug abuse problems.

As a screening aid, thin layer chromatography -- or TLC--tests can provide information revealing all the components present in a sample of blood or urine. In the clinical lab, TLC is now being used for the rapid analysis of poisons in blood or urine samples. But now scientists have been able to adapt the test to detect more than 1,000 different drugs, ranging from pep pills to heroin.

TLC can be useful in screening for possible presence or absence of certain classes of drugs. Amphetamines, barbiturates and the opiates can be determined in a TLC test.

What that means to drug abuse control in Texas, and across the nation, is very clear. A doctor treating a patient whom he suspects of abusing some drug could send a urine sample to a central laboratory equipped to handle such tests in mass quantities. After receiving the results within three days, the doctor would be better able to deal with his patient's problem.

The Texas State Department of Health may soon be able to offer such a resource to doctors across the state. Methods of funding such a program with federal grants are now being studied.

The proposal is unique because of statewide laboratory service of this type, administered by a public health agency as an aid to all physicians treating drug abusers, does not now exist in this country.

TLC is regarded by some as an ideal tool for mass screening tests. Drugs are absorbed from the urine on a piece of sensitized paper. The paper would then be mailed to the state laboratory. After treatment with a series of solvents, discolorations on the paper would tell an experienced lab technician whether drugs have been used and, if so, which drug.

The availability of thin layer chromatography services would be an inducement for more physicians to participate in the care of drug abusers. And, greater numbers of drug users could be reached before their misuse or abuse of drugs became a health problem or a concern to law enforcement agencies.

Irene Keating Writes

CASTRO CO. H.D. AGENT

This week it was my pleasure to attend the THDA annual luncheon. It is always fun and the Home Demonstration Club Woman of the Year is recognized. This year I was pleased to present the tray to Mrs. Sue Tischler, president of the Flagg Home Demonstration Club.

We have a new publication that may be of interest to you. It is "Your Housing Expresses Your Values". It has much food for thought. If any of you want a copy come by and pick one up.

Many men as well as women have mentioned that they like to see recipes occasionally. Edd McLeroy is one of the good chefs in our county and I want to share one of his favorites. Edd likes to bore holes in baking potatoes and stuff them with bacon and onion pieces before he bakes them. I bet this is extra yummy when he prepares it outdoors. Edd is quite a camper and you all can get good hints from him. Another good camper-advisor is C. D. Fitzgerald.

It is spring now so all of us need to begin planting as soon as danger of frost is over. I wonder just when that will be. Last year it was May before I finally got any planting done. Those fresh vegetables sure are good in the summer. You need to sow your flower seeds for all those pretty summer flowers. I can hardly wait. Last Tuesday was perfect for yard work and I've heard many people talking about how sore (but happy) they were after doing their yard work.

Homemakers Haven

By Mrs. Max Marble

There are so many different recipes for hot bread, pancakes, biscuits, and hot rolls, that it is always fun to try a new idea. An interesting recipe is for Banana French Toast given to me by Mrs. Alma Holmes of KFLD Radio Station in Floydada. She says she likes to serve this for special occasions or just a simple breakfast. For three sandwiches, dip 6 slices of bread into a mixture of 1 beaten egg and 1/3 cup evaporated milk. Brown on both sides in butter. Fill sandwiches with banana slices and top with maple syrup. Serve with bacon and lots of coffee.

HEAVENLY HOTCAKES

Measure into bowl, 2/3 cup warm water and sprinkle in 2 packages of dry yeast. Stir until dissolved and add 2 cups biscuit mix, 1 cup milk, and 1 egg. Beat with rotary beater until smooth.

Makes about 10 pancakes. Turn them only once when you bake on hot lightly greased griddle.

QUICK ROLLS

Scald 1 cup sweet milk. When lukewarm, add 1 yeast cake or dry yeast, 2 tablespoons sugar, 3/4 teaspoon salt. Beat in egg, 1 1/2 cups flour and let stand for 15 minutes. Then add 2 tablespoons melted butter and another 1 1/2 cups flour. Knead well and put in a greased bowl to rise. Let rise to double size, then make out in suitable rolls or use part for cinnamon rolls.

BANANA NUT BREAD

2 eggs
1 c. sugar
1 3/4 c. flour
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 c. chopped nuts
3 bananas, mashed

General Westmoreland To Speak At LCC Dedication

General William C. Westmoreland, Army Chief of Staff, will visit Lubbock Christian College April 2, to give an address at 2 p. m., dedicating the new Mabee Agriculture-Science Laboratory.

The permanent, masonry facility provides laboratories for agriculture, biology, micro-biology, chemistry and physics. The building is a result of an outright $350,000 grant from the Mabee Foundation of Tulsa, Okla.

Westmoreland, U. S. Commander in Vietnam until his 1968 appointment as Army Chief of Staff, was born in South Carolina, March 26, 1914, and graduated from Spartanburg High School in 1931. He attended the Citadel, the military college of South Carolina, for one year before entering the United States Military Academy at West Point. He was commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant in the Field Artillery upon graduation in June, 1936.

He was an Artillery Officer with the 9th Infantry Division during World War II and fought through the campaigns of Tunisia, Sicily, Normandy, Northern France, the Rhineland, the Ardennes and Central Europe.

Returning from Europe after WWII, Westmoreland completed airborne training and in July, 1951, went to the Far East. He commanded the 187th Regimental Combat Team in two campaigns of the Korean war.

Westmoreland went to Vietnam in January, 1964, as Deputy Commander of the U. S. Military Assistance Command and was made Commander in August of 1964. General Westmoreland became the Chief of Staff of the Army on July 3, 1968.

FRECKLED BANANAS

When bananas are covered with little brown spots, they are ready for mashing and mixing into puddings, breads and cakes. To hold ripened bananas a few days, refrigerate them, suggests Extension foods and nutrition specialists at Texas A&M University. But be sure to wrap them tightly in a plastic bag to prevent their odor from spreading. Their skins will turn brown but the inside will stay the same for a few days. Keep unripe bananas at room temperature until they ripen the way you like them.

Grateful Veteran Wills Estate To US Government

David Hughes of Charles Town, W. Va., was so appreciative of his last 50 years of life that he has willed his entire fortune to the United States Government.

In his "last will and testament," Hughes directed his executor, after paying Hughes' debts, to give the balance of his estate "to the United States for the use and benefit so far as the law allows of the Veterans Administration."

Hughes received an honorable discharge as a seaman second class from the Navy in 1920, and spent the remainder of his life in VA hospitals.

In his will, dated May 22, 1958, Hughes accounted for his generosity to his country by saying he was "motivated by gratitude to the United States, and more particularly the Veterans Administration and the successive administrators and officers thereof, for the great consideration and kindness shown me and the care and assistance lent me by them ever since I was injured in the military service of this, my country, in World War I."

Hughes' last testament continued: "I make the said devise and bequest as a small acknowledgement, although the largest I can make, of my gratitude to my country and its Government and its public servants charged with the care so generously accorded me and other veterans of war."

A check for $3,990.64 was received by the U. S. Treasury which passed it along to the Veterans Administration last week.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson in Washington, D. C., said that Hughes' gift will be added to the VA Post Fund for the private needs of hospitalized veterans not covered by Congressional appropriations, such as for the purchase of television sets.

Pre-Irrigation Benefits Cited By Conservationist

Fertile Soil plus Adequate Water yields Good Crops.

Of course the basic ingredient of a crop is a fertile soil. All plants get the nutrients they need to make their food supply from the soil. Therefore these elements must be present in the soil whether they are there naturally or are supplied artificially as fertilizer. Agronomists and soil fertility specialists are now able to calculate the amount of plant nutrients necessary to produce a particular crop under a given set of conditions.

With this in mind, consider the one element, which if not supplied renders all other efforts useless. Water, the life blood of the plains, must be supplied in sufficient quantities to insure healthy, vigorous plant growth. Water wasted today shortens potential for future production.

One method proven to save and make better use of water on the plains is pre-irrigation. This process of filling the soil with as much water as it can hold before planting the crop saves water and cuts production costs.

Young plants are given a head start by having warm soil moisture available and not getting the shock of cold irrigation water at a tender age. These young plants can feed on this water supply for long periods of time before requiring additional moisture.

Costs are reduced and water is saved as plants develop sound root systems while following moisture to greater soil depths. Plants developing deep, healthy root systems at an early age are capable of standing longer periods of moisture stress without dying or thinning of plant population.

"Let's keep our soil fertile, our water pure and plentiful, and our future generations well fed," says Larry Starnes of the Soil Conservation Service.

BE SUBTLE WITH SPICE

Spices in cookery parallel cosmetics in grooming. Both should be subtle in order to achieve a particular effect without becoming too noticeable, says Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

OUT WITH THE OLD

Unless you use a spice often, buy small amounts and keep in tightly closed containers. Spices should be renewed at least once a year, says Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

SHELLED OR UNSHELLED

What is the best buy -- pecans shelled or unshelled? Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist, suggests a good general rule to follow in buying pecans: two pounds of nuts in the shell will yield one pound of nutmeats.

APPAREL MARKETS

A new specialized marketing service pioneered by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. identifies 117,000 retail and wholesale apparel establishments by line of merchandise and price range. The computerized service evolved as a fast marketing aid to makers of various lines of apparel and accessories in selected price categories.

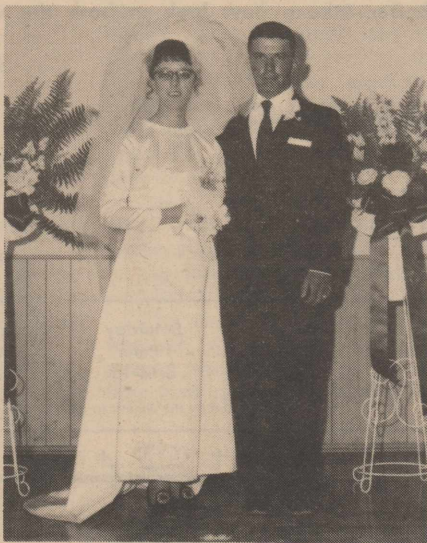

STOP ACCIDENTS -- Most home deaths from accidents are caused by falls, fires or poisons. Most could be prevented if family members would see that all hazards are removed and kept out of the home.

POULTRY is a low-calorie meat, say Extension foods specialists, but preparation can add many calories.

ELECTRIC

1921-1971

There are days when Jim feels "all geared up." Like many men today, he has the sense of being just a cog in a wheel—no real identity. This is wrong!

It takes a great many Jims, all kinds, to keep the wheels turning. But each is important, and each is an individual. God intended men to have not only a sense of identity, but a basic self-esteem.

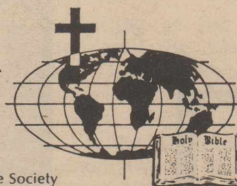

Maybe you've been underestimating yourself! Maybe you've been feeling that you are just one of the crowd! If so, during this Lenten season you'd better take a new look at both the world and yourself.

For a new perspective, maybe you'd better start going to church.
