What Is the New Guaranty Fund In W. F. All About?

Ten Years Ago Another City Tried a Similar Plan, And Now Look at Easton, Pa.

YEARS ago some sage said, "If a thing be not worth striving for, then it is not worth having." Wichita Falls wants more smokestacks, more manufacturing concerns and more business. Wichita Falls wants these things badly, not because she is greedy, but because they are rightfully hers. And Wichita Falls is going out to get her share of all that is hers. Read on.

TEN YEARS AGO.

Ten years ago, Easton, Penn., had a number of factories because Easton is in the east where labor is plentiful, machinery is available, marketing conditions are good and because—well, because every town in the east has factories if it makes the slightest effort to get them.

But Easton was not satisfied with the few factories that were heaped upon her. She wanted more factories—bigger factories—and a greater variety of factories. At this time, Easton started work on a plan that has brought the city untold wealth—a plan that has not cost anybody a penny and a plan that has made Easton one of the big industrial cities of the east. In a word, Easton began ten years ago what Wichita Falls is beginning now.

THEY "GUARANTEED."

Citizens of Easton got together and decided to guarantee to give help to worthwhile industries which were willing to come there. The leading business and professional men of the town indorsed an industrial development program. On the strength of these indorsements, banks of Easton advanced money to aid in financing new industries for the city.

A new departure in industrial development in the southwest, but one that has been used successfully in two cities where it has been attempted, Easton, Pa., and Wilmington, Del., is being made by Wichita Falls.

If one hundred men in Wichita Falls could sign a guaranty fund agreement up to two thousand dollars each, a fund of two million dollars would be created. These one hundred guarantors would select a committee from their number to have charge of the guarantee.

COMES A PROSPECT.

When the need for a new factory activity here was developed, or when a sound prospect was found in some other section of the country, the proposition would be laid before the directors of the chamber of commerce, who would indorse or reject it, according to its merits.

It is planned to have a fund to start with of a half million dollars. Then when two or three prospective industries are "spotted" by the industrial committee of the chamber of commerce, they could say:

"If you have good collateral, if your record is clear, and if your proposition is safe and sound, we can give you aid."

SAY VET-FORGER INSANE

Seek To Have World War Soldier In Prison Declared Unsound

HUNTSVILLE, Nov. 6—(AP)—A mother's long struggle to secure release from the penitentiary here of her son, former army aviator, entered another phase today when W. J. Johnson, Houston attorney and commander of the American Legion post there, filed a petition in the district court at Huntsville to have W. H. Harkins declared of unsound mind. The court fixed a hearing for next Tuesday.

Harkins, a respected citizen of Las cgas, N. Mex., prior to the World war developed an erratic streak after being injured in battle in France. Upon his return to the United States he became widely known for forgeries which authorities say netted approximately $500,000.

BULLETIN.

TEMPLE, Tex., Nov. 6—(AP)—The bridge over Little river between Temple and Taylor was closed early tonight. The Baylor Bears passing through Temple at 8 p. m. tonight en route to Austin in two big trucks for the game tomorrow with Texas university, detoured by the way of Belton and Salado but it was feared flood waters in the Lampasas river might block their passage. The Leon river is on a 20 foot rise.

Several automobiles carrying Baylor fans to Austin stopped here tonight awaiting reports from streams to the south on both highways to that city.

A golden horde from Baylor university swarmed down upon the Lone Start capital Friday where today the Orange and White battalions of Texas university make a last stand for conference honors before driving on the fortress Thanksgiving day of Texas A. and M. in final quest of a championship which seems on the verge of oozing from their grasps.

With ranks depleted by injuries and ineligibilities the Bears of Baylor and Longhorns of Texas clash on the Memorial Stadium grid this afternoon in the battle of the hour for Southwest conference football. Baylor, coming away from an Aggie 13-0 defeat the past week-end, storms the varsity stronghold weakened in array, nevertheless confident of atoning for that Farmer victory by turning back the varied attack of the versatile Orange jersied backs. Doc Stewart's Longhorns, however, rank as the favorites.

Victory for the Bears or a tie score means a loss of all titular chances for the Orange and White, providing the Farmers overcome Texas Christian university this afternoon at Fort Worth and turn back the Rice Owls next Saturday. Pre-game odds back the Maroon of Aggieland to triumph in both encounters with ease.

S. M. U. and Arkansas tangle at Dallas. The Razorbacks have displayed a sudden reversal of form and if holding true to the gait, may prove tough sledding for the Mustang brigade.

Second Dayton Business Man Becomes Bandit to Recoup Financial Losses

President of Engineering Company Gets $10,000 In Bank Hold-up

DAYTON, Ohio, Nov. 6—(AP)—Faced with a term in prison either way he turned, Elliott Gabler, 30, president of the Gem City Engineering company, today attempted to emulate another Dayton business man and fight his way out of financial difficulties by staging a robbery.

Gabler staged a daylight, downtown robbery of H. J. Kloos, manager of a branch bank in East Dayton, obtaining possession for four hours of $10,000 in currency of small denomination.

Caught in Hour

Within one hour after the robbery Gabler was in custody and identified by his victim. He maintained his innocence until officers searching a garage across the alley from Gabler's place of business, came upon the money in a sack buried under a pile of cans. Then he confessed.

"I had to go to prison anyway," he said, "and it was just a question of which one. Federal officers were pressing me for a $1,000 fine and $200 income tax payment, I had failed to make. I thought I could get away with this and pay them off."

"Phantom Bandit"

The entire case closely parallels that of the "phantom bandit," Fred Nickol, president of his own manufacturing concern.

Nickol staged a daylight robbery of another branch bank and escaped with $22,800, but was captured a week later and also confessed. Here again pressure of business troubles and overpowering debts were given as the primary motives in the case. Both robberies were deliberately planned.

Nickol pleaded guilty and now is serving a ten-year septence in the penitentiary.

Following his detailed confession to police, Gabler was taken to a cell where he is awaiting his arraignment before municipal court authorities tomorrow.

THE WEATHER

"The reason dinner was late was because there was a dandy fire on Main Street an' I forgot about the bakin' powder."

LYRICS OF LIFE.
By Douglas Malloch.
The Steeple

Long, long ago the steeple was the tallest thing in town;
Oh, I remember as a boy the steeple looking down
On stores where people came to trade, on streets on which they strolled—
By day and night with faithful eyes it watched its little fold.
And I remember men who paused, who hushed their words of ire,
Because they saw above the trees a white and slender spire;
And even in the market place I think that other men
Felt in their hearts the presence of the steeple now and then.
Beside the square the steeple stands, looks down as calm and kind,
But now the church is hard to see, the steeple hard to find.
The bank is seven stories now, the stores steeple hard to find.
And folks can't seen the spire so well, who come to sell and buy.
New buildings rise around the church and shut in from our sight.
We gaze upon a gilded dome and not a spire of white;
And there is something missing here, it's really hard to say,
But something that we used to know that now has passed away.
And to our hearts a change has come, a change to you and me;
We're piling up our wealth so high the church is hard to see.
We're building gilded palaces, for pleasure men desire,
But ev'ry time we build a thing we seem to hide a spire;
However much we seem to gain, perhaps our gain is loss
When men erect their roofs so high they cannot see the cross.
I sometimes long for other days, for days of less renown,
When in our hearts the steeple was the tallest thing in town.

HISTORIC TIBER BRIDGE SCENE OF CONSPIRACY

Police, Trailing Would-be Assassin, Watches Him At Target Practice

ROMANS AROUSED

Government Knows Planned Killing Only Part of Big Conspiracy

ROME, Nov. 6.—(AP).—Already aroused by the thwarted plans to assassinate their premier, the people of Rome were further stirred today when it became known through a detailed report published by the usually well-informed Epoca that the assassination was only a detail of general conspiracy.

The source of the Epoca's statements is not made public but there is not even a hint that it came from governmental sources.

Plot Is Learned.

According to the paper, Roberto Farinacci, secretary of the Facist party, was the first to learn of the existence of the plot. He gave all the information he had to the minister of interior, Luigi Federzoni, who assumed personal direction of the plans to detect its origin and follow its developments.

From the moment the minister became aware of the plot some time ago he ordered that all those suspected of being implicated be shadowed by detectives. On Saturday, says the report, the former unitarian socialst deputy, Zaniboni, who, the police assert, was to have fired at the premier, left Mantua in the company of three men. The automobile, driven by Zaniboni himself, proceeded in the direction of Rome, followed by another car occupied by detectives.

Watch Him Practice.

Zaniboni and his friends, who were not named but who are said to have been identified by the police, stopped along the road a few miles from Rome. They disappeared into a thicket pine grove where Zaniboni practiced for a long time shooting at a target with a specially equipped rifle, the target being placed about 100 yards away.

The practice succeeded so well, the report goes on, that the others congratulated Zaniboni on his marksmanship. Then he drove the car into Rome and took lodgings in an obscure rooming house near St. Peters. He remained here for a few days, changing his appearance by various disguises.

Later it was noticed by detectives that an accomplice of Zaniboni had the habit of meeting General Capello, who has been arrested, charged with having a part in the plot. The meeting place usually was on the Cavour bridge, over the Tiber, where Capello always arrived in a public cab.

Scene of Conspiracy.

They usually strolled about for a few minutes, and the Epoca says, it is supposed that General Capello handed over money to the accomplice who returned to Zaniboni. The last time that General Capello met this man was Tuesday, after which the general left immediately for Turin.

It was only on the eve of the armistice day celebration that Zaniboni claimed his room in the hotel Dragoni which had been previously engaged by an accomplice and in which he was arrested. Later it was learned that a room had been engaged notonl y in this but in two other hotels near by because there was no certainty as to which balcony Premier Mussolini was to use to review the victory parade. After it was learned the premier would appear on the balcony facing the Corso, instead of the one facing the piazza Colonna, then Zaniboni decided to occupy the Dragoni hotel room.

The semi-official stefani agency announced that some additional persons suspected of complicity were arrested today, but does not state how many. Epoca denies the report that two plotters were arrested in Milan. The documents and papers which were seized from Zaniboni's valises as well as his apartment in Rome, and the room he occupied in a hotel at Turin have been examined by police judges. Nothing, however, has been made known concerning the contents.

Since Zaniboni was taken into custody by the authorities, events have followed in quick succession. Five persons have been arrested thus far on the charge of complicity in the attempted assassination, the Unitarian socialist party has been dissolved, the socialist organ Giustizia and the anti-fascist newspaper La Voce Republicana, have been suspended and all Masonic lodges, both in Italy and the colonies, have been occupied by the military.

The fascist authorities are keeping guards at the plants of all the opposition newspapers to prevent sporadic attempts at vandalism.

PUBLICITY FOR INCOMES GETS THUMBS DOWN

Ways and Means Committee Would Repeal Curiosity Section

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The effect of the proposed new income tax schedules approved today by the house ways and means committee is shown in the following table prepared by Joseph I. McCoy, the government actuary. The figures are based on the income of a married man with two dependents:

Gross income	Present Tax	Proposed Tax
$3,500	$ 3.00	$
4,00	10.50
4,000	10.50	2.25
5,000	25.00	7.87
6,000	40.50	19.12
7,000	55.50	30.39
8,000	81.00	41.62
9,000	111.00	60.75
10,000	141.00	85.75

This takes into consideration the increased exemptions as well as the reduced rates.

It is impossible to estimate the reduction on incomes over $10,000 until the new surtax schedules have been prepared.

Plunging ahead with conservation of the vital parts of the new revenue bill it is preparing, the house ways and means committee today decided, among other things, to recommend repeal of the provision of the present act allowing publication of income tax returns.

Other decisions reached by the committee included:

Reduction of the inheritance tax rates from a maximum of 40 to 20 per cent.

Repeal of the gift tax.

Retention of the present corporation and capital stock taxes.

Increase from $10,000 to $20,000 the maximum amount of income on which the 25 per cent deduction for "earned income" may be applied.

The proposal that small corporations be allowed to file returns as partners, with consent of all stockholders, and that partnerships be permitted to file as corporations, was turned over to a subcommittee for study.

Feed Products to Market Gradually Urges Dallas Staple Man

DALLAS, Nov. 6.—(AP) Five hundred thousand bales of cotton in Texas Oklahoma and Arkansas will be destroyed by frosts freezes, rainstorms and insects before the 1925 season is over, Mike H. Thomas president of the M. H. Thomas and company, Dallas cotton merchants, estimated today.

Mr. Thomas declared that in view of this impending reduction of the government's last estimate of 15,000,000 bales, planters will get a price of twenty cents a pound for cotton if they will market the bales on hand slowly.

AGRICULTURAL AGENT AGREES WITH THOMAS.

Guy R. Jones, Wichita county agricultural agent, when called for his opinion last night on Mike Thomas estimate of cotton reduction under the recent government estimate, declared that he believed Mr. Thomas was not far from correct.

"Poor grade of cotton, if anything, however," said Mr. Jones, "is going to keep the price down."

Mr. Jones said that weather conditions, the probable freezes and insect pests would very likely do 500,000 bale damage in the states named by Mr. Thomas before the market season was well on its way.

Refined Market Strength Becomes More Pronounced

By PAUL HEDRICK

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 6.—All over the Mid-Continent district, refiners report that the strength shown by gasoline and burning oils is increasing steadily. The advance in values is very noticeable of fuel oils.

Industrial users of fuel oil are coming into the market and the price of spot fuel has advanced from a minimum of $1.10 early in the week to one of $1.12½ to $1.20, and the end is not in sight. One large consumer of fuel oil, the Dickey Clay Manufacturing company of Kansas City, Mo., is reported to have purchased 55,000 barrels during the week, and is still in the market for more.

North Texas is fairly cleaned up of available fuel, and at Smackover the purchase of the heavy oil there for fuel is increasing.

Continue Demand

The oil economist for Francis, Brothers and company, advises:

"Gasoline stocks are undoubtedly excessive, considering improved methods of cracking with resultant greater yields of motor fuel form crude oil of all grades ,fuel oil and etc.

"These stocks, however, are in strong hands and will not be forced on the market. Meanwhile the industry is preparing for a record business in fuel oil, kerosene, lubricating oils and other manufactured products. The demand for which is expected to increase from this time on, due to greater industrial activity throughout the United States."

Part of the above comment was based on the bureau of mines, September report, which among other things indicated that withdrawals from gasoline stocks in September were 26,566,000 gallons, or less than a single days' average domestic consumption in that month, or 28,300,000 gallons. In September, 1924, the quantity withdrawn approximated three and one-half days domestic consumption, or an average of 23,835,632 gallons. In september, 1923, the withdrawals were approximately four days domestic consumption, or 21,859,908 gallons.

Inquiry shows that United States motor, 437, prices are not out of line in any of the Mid-Continent areas. Kansas and Oklahoma prices are almost identical; in North Texas 9½ cents is asked, while at Shreveport and El Dorado the price is 9¼ to 9½ cents. Chicago price, based on group 3, is 9⅛ to 9¼ cents.

Tank Wagon Changes

Standard Oil company of New York reduced the gasoline tank wagon two cents a gallon in Maine and New Hampshire, leaving the price elsewhere in New England unchanged. The Tidewated Oil corporation countered with a similar cut in Maine, New Hampshire and New York, outside of Greater New York.

Gulf Coast Shipments

Export movement from Gulf Coast ports of crude and refined oils for September totalled 16,864,261 barrels, according to word received by W. J. Wollman and company. This was a 9.25 per cent gain over September, 1924, when 15,436,571 barrels were shipped. For the nine months of the year shipments reached a total of 158,336,496 barrels, a 25 per cent increase over the previous nine months.

The Oil Situation

Crude—Strong to stronger. Many changes occurring as purchasers jockey around for better position.

Financial — Very promising. Strength that industrial stocks manifested weeks ago now accruing to oil securities.

Refined—Firm and steady. Gasoline active; fuel oils very much in demand, and other products moving freely. Price structure strong.

General—Opinion grows that Mid-Continent production will not reveal any pronounced increase, and until Garber's phenomenal development is slowed up, the future looms very bright for the producer.

THE MOST INTIMATE OF ALL RELATIONS.

The two lines with which the pope begins the second epistle of his essay on man provide a foundation for a whole system of learning:

Know then thyself, presume not God to scan,
The proper study of mankind is man.

The relation of the individual person to the species he belongs to is, as Havelock Ellis sets forth, the most intimate of all relations.

It is a relation which almost amounts to identity.

Yet it somehow seems so vague, so abstract, as scarcely to concern us at all.

It is only lately that there has been formulated even so much as a science to discuss this relation ship, and the duties of which, when properly understood, it throws upon the individual.

The word "eugenics," the name of this science, and this art, sometimes arouses a smile, sometimes foments an expression of contempt.

It seems to stand for a fad.

The word was chosen less than 50 years ago to express "the effort of man to improve his own breed."

But the thing the term stands for is, in reality, ancient and may be nearly as old as man himself.

Consciously or unconsciously, sometimes under pretexts that have disguised his motives even from himself, Havelock Ellis points out, man has always been attempting to improve his own quality or at least to maintain it.

And we know that when he slackens that effort, when he allows his attention to be drawn too exclusively to other ends, he suffers, he becomes decadent, he even tends to die out.

Learned men in this science of which Havelock Ellis is one, tell us we do not need, and it would be undesirable, to emulate in human breedings the achievements of a Luther Burbank.

We have no right to impose on any human creature an exaggerated and one-sided development.

But "it is only our right, it is our duty, or rather one may say, the natural impulse of every rational and humane person, to seek that only such children may be born as will be able to go through life with a reasonable prospect that they will not be handicapped by inborn defect or special liability to some incapacitating disease."

What is called "positive" eugenics—the attempt, that is, to breed special qualities—may well be viewed with hesitation, the best authorities admit.

But so-called "negative" eugenics—the effort to clear all inborn obstacles out of the path of the coming generation—demands sympathy and co-operation, for as Galton, founder of modern eugenics, wrote of this new science: "Its first object is to check the birthrate of the unfit, instead of allowing them to come into being, though doomed in large numbers to perish prematurely."

That's all there is to this "birth control" which so many persons look upon with alarm.

DON'T BLAME THE FARMER.

In our grandfathers' time, the farmer "lived off the farm." Nearly all that he ate and much of what he wore and used otherwise, he produced himself, by his own labor, on his own land. He bought little and sold little, and his annual money turnover was insignificant.

Now, complains former Secretary of Agriculture Meredith, the farmer buys his food from the city. He is one of the chief consumers of tin cans and their contents.

After all, is this not a symptom of the graduation of the farm from the status of labor to that of business? It is the subdivision of labor. The farmer, like everybody else, specializes.

He can eat only a small part of his specialized crop, even if that little, as it comes from the field, is ready for him or anybody to consume. The rest he sells for money, and with the money, he buys everything else.

The old system counted everything cheap that cost only labor, and everything dear that cost money. Now, labor is the costliest thing there is. Don't blame the farmer if he merely follows the example of all the rest of us.

SOME FACTS ABOUT TEXAS.

George MacQuaid has a mission. It is to tell the people facts about Texas. His latest contribution is interesting. Texas, he says, has almost 5,000,000 population, but there are only about 19 persons to the square mile. If Texas had as dense a population as Massachusetts, it would have more population than the present population of the United States, which is something like 110,000,000.

Again we are told there are approximately 600,000 telephones in use in Texas, and about 4,000,000 telephone conversations are held in Texas every day. George MacQuaid is not a farmer, but he is familiar with farm statistics. Hence, he volunteers the information that farm crops in Texas are worth about $1,000,000,000 a year, which is about double the figures of any other state.

He neglected to tell the people that the drouth of 1925 cost the farmers of the devastated district $150,000,000 in crops alone. However, these districts which were ravaged will come up smiling next year and bumper crops will be the reward of those who tickle the soil and make it blossom.

There are lean years and fat years in the lives of all. There are more fat years in Texas than the people of any other state enjoy.

Uncommon Sense

TOMORROW'S JOB.

Sufficient unto the day may be the evil thereof, but it is different with tomorrow's job.

It was working with an eye to tomorrow that gave the world the airplane, the telephone, the radio, the motion picture—all the man made miracles which make life easier and more enjoyable than it used to be.

It is working with an eye to tomorrow that builds up industries and fortunes, and governments.

No matter how commonplace may seem the work you have to do, it will be to your interest to think about the next day's work while you are doing today's—to lend to tomorrow instead of borrowing from it.

Most of them who are building the great industries of the country are building for tomorrow.

We read every day of ninety-nine year leases, contracts for the use of land or buildings which cannot posibly be carried out in the life times of those who make them.

Why are they negotiated?

Because forward thinking men have not only their own interests in mind, but those of their children, and of the children of the clients whom they serve.

The men who built the great national railroads knew that they would never live to see the benefits that rapid transportation would confer on the population.

But they worked, not as coral insects work to build up an island of which they know nothing, but intelligently, and with a fixed purpose in their minds.

One life time is too short to do any empire building.

But a man can start a great work for others to carry out, and he can get great enjoyment out of the knowledge that he is not working for today, but for all times.

Our ideas of the Creator who put us into the world to carry out His purposes are confused and varying.

But we know, from reading and thinking, that through the ages "one increasing purpose runs" and that we are all a part of a plan that is being gradually brought nearer to fulfillment.

There is something in that thought that ought to inspire every worker—and that ought to set every man to considering himself as a part of a big scheme which he can do an important bit toward carrying out.

We have spoken before of the vast Cathedrals in Europe which were built year by year by men who had no expectation of seeing them completed, but who could visualize the completed work just the same, and feel glad that they were helping along toward its fulfillment.

It is tomorrow's job that is really important. But tomorrow's job must be done for the most part today, and that is the reason why every hour of your working time must be spent in real thinking effort, so as to carry the world along as far, and to do it as well as it is possible.

Great dreamers have been the world's greatest benefactors. But only when they worked as well as dreamed.

LINING UP FOR 1926.

The fairy book and next year's political campaign will come close together.

The surprising antics of Little Bo Peep's sheep, and the still more startling gambols of their immortalized tails, will both have their parallels in the next races.

The search for fairyland splendors will be imitated in the eager chase for the rather meagre magnificence of minor office.

For affairs have so shaped themselves that all major campaign sheep will drag a long tail of lesser candidates behind them.

The governor's race and its issues will so completely dominate the entire political horizon that it will profoundly influence the line-up, the personnel and the outcome of virtually every other state race. Except of course, the elected judges of state courts.

Just as last year, the issues of the governor's race will cleave many of the contests for other offices, from lieutenant governor to the smallest elected state official, and on its outcome will hang the victory of the trailers.

There are many prospejctive candidates who already realize the fact their line-up will be based on the pros and cons of the governor's race, and who will gladly climb on and contently make a last-ditch fight.

Already, the heavy shadow of the governor's race has set its lines upon one other important campaign, and shown that it will at least largely affect the personnel in that race. This is particularly significant, because of the close connection of the present treasurer in the past with Ferguson campaigns.

Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher has made it known he will run for re-election "on his own."

It is of course recalled that Mr. Hatcher was supported by Ferguson and received his nomination before the state executive committee in Houston, after C. V. Terrell resigned the primary nomination.

Treasurer Hatcher's split with the Ferguson forces came early in the administration. He announced that he was going to be treasurer according to his own notions, and would seek re-election on the merits of his present term.

That is taken to assure a straight-out Ferguson and anti-Ferguson fight for treasurer, with some approved follower of "Farmer Jim" challenging Mr. Hatcher's re-election.

The dominant influence of the governor's race over that of lieutenant governor was clearly shown last year, when the landslide swept into office Barry Miller of Dallas, and defeated a man who was heavily odds-on favorite for the election, Will C. Edwards of Denton.

The power of the division over the governor's office seems peculiarly strong in the nomination of state senators and almost as strong in the more local races for the legislature. There are a number of solons who were swept into office by the triumphant swing of the Fergusons back to victory.

That's the story. With the Fergusons in the race, there will be candidates for many other offices eager to be known as aligned with the Ferguson forces and in tune with the Ferguson spirit. There will be others equally clear that they are pro-somebody else. The aligning of one side will force the other into similar position.

Whichever of the big sheep come home on election day, they'll be dragging their tails behind them.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE

Scorpio

Today's planetary aspects are very good, except for a brief period between noon and 2 p. m., when they become overacst and dubious. This, however, is simply transitory, so that it does not very seriously affect the day as a whole. Anything that savors of intelligent effort, or concentration, is bound to conduce to success, whether it be in the line of business or recreation. In the afternoon, there will be sensed vibrations that must necessarily stimulate, and every advantage should be taken of these influences to press forward to your goal—no matter what it is or where it may lead.

Children born today will not be altogether immune to the vicissitudes of infancy, but their recuperative powers will enable them to outride any storm or stress, and attain healthy maturity. The signs denote that there is, in the case of these children, more to fear from accident than from sickness. In disposition, they will be affectionate, although self-willed; they will develop strong personalities, and possess great magnetism. In their studies, they will be assiduous, and they will always excel, prefering their lessons to outside pastimes or recreations. Their desires or proclivities will be clearly defined, and they should be encouraged to work along those lines for which they profess a preference.

If today is your birthday, you are faithful and loyal, without having either ambition, or marked intellectuality, and are rarely, if ever, sure of yourself. You have limitations, but exaggerate them, and are more willing to run along in a well defined groove, than risk experimenting in other paths, no matter how alluring the prospect may be.

You are devoid of imagination, and are an ardent disciple of the creed that a bird, no matter how ungainly it may be, in the hand, is worth two, regardless of their plumage, in the bush. You are satisfied to subordinate yourself to others, and never feel that you are fated to lead or to command.

Your home life is happy, as your affectionate and loyal disposition begets love, and radiates contentement.

To Sigh, Yet Feel No Pain

To sigh, yet feel no pain;
To weep, yet scarce know why;
To sport an hour with beauty's chain,
Then throw it idly by;
To kneel at many a shrine,
Yet lay thy heart on none;
To think all other charms divine,
But those we just have won;
This is love, faithless love,
Such as kindleth hearts that rove.

To keep one sacred flame,
Through life unchill'd, unmoved,
To love in wintry age the same
As first in youth we loved;
To feel that we adore,
Ev'n to such fond excess,
That, though the heart would break with more,
It could not live with less;
This is love, faithful love,
Such as saints might feel above.

She Tries to Shoot Negro in Court Room

DALLAS, Nov. 6—(AP)—An attempt to shoot Jim Kimbro, negro, was made by a woman spectator in the court room here late yesterday immediately after the jury's verdict assessing him a five year term in the penitentiary for the laying of J. P. Robinson, Deputy Sheriff O. S. Hines, seated near the negro, pushed the pistol toward the floor as the woman attempted to place it against the negro's body. As he did so the gun clicked and the sharmp hammer of the pistol pierced the fleshy part of his arm.

COMMON SENSE

If you'd avoid the church and show
Where folks with "flu" attend;
You'd save your nose an awful blow,
Lose nothing in the end.

If we'd fill our lungs with fresh air there'd be no occasion for filling our stomach with cough syrup.

Concealing the presence of a contagious disease defeats preventing its spread. Honesty is the best policy—even in smallpox.

A rat, a flea,
The germ of plague—
A man to be infected;
And then we'll dread
The deadly spread—
But that's to be expected.

Crowd 50 or 60 children into an overheated school room and you create an environment entirely suitable for the growth and development of germs that attack the respiratory organs.

When prickling flannel stings the skin we should grin and bare it.

There's danger ahead when a keen scalpel gets into the hands of a dull surgeon.

Don't let flannels get your goat—
Wear the wool in your overcoat;
Put on cotton underwear—
For healthy skins need light and air.

Every fatal cancer could have been removed and permanently cured sometime during its early growth.

It's a poor policy to pour medicines of which we know little into our bodies of which we know even less.

HOW IT STARTED

THE HATBAND

Hatbands are growing narrower each year, and in the light of their absence, they have suddenly become a conspicious thing. We now find that they have to tell a most interesting story of a curious fashion of bygone days.

During the Plantagent period in England the head covering for men was a hood from which was suspended the liripipe or long tippet. Picture our men with sashes on their hats. But though they may not know it, in their hatbands they wear, the next thing to it.

In the reign of Henry VIII, the hat superseded the hood, and the long tip pet took the form of the hatband. The bands which men in mourning sometimes wear on their hats today are identical with these first hatbands.

Stage Set for Next League Banquet Here

Plans are all made and the stage is set for the second quarterly district Epworth league banquet to be held in this city today and Sunday. The session will get under way officially at 7 o'clock Saturday night when a big banquet will be held in the basement of the First Methodist church, south, with the Ansil Lynn league of that church acting as host.

Sunday will be a busy day, devoted to a morning watch service, special classes and sermons in the morning and the business meeting and program in the afternoon. Over 175 visitors from this section of the state are expected to be in the city for some portion of the meetings, at least.

$34,130 Is Total Of Friday Permits

Eleven building permits with a combined valuation of $34,130 were issued Friday by the city clerk after plans for the new structures had been approved by Building Inspector Fred A. Smith. This is an unusually large number of individual permits for one day, although the sum represented by their combined valuation is not especially large.

None of the projects authorized were for more than $5,000, these being for moderately priced residences.

SUB ROSA BY MIMI

Just Keep on Dancing.

A social worker has brought to my attention the rsther amazing fact that there are still lots of young people, both boys and girls, who are anxious to learn to dance but—either because of parental prejudice or some undefined scruples of their own—fear to take the plunge lest they be doing wrong.

It's a fact, of course, that some religious creeds prohibit dancing and their followers will have to decide for themselves whether it's worth while for them to disobey the tenets of their faith for the sake of enjoyment.

However for the majority of doubting Thomases who desire to enter the Kingdom of Dancing but have read somewhere that it is the chief reason for the present degeneration of our nation's young—I would say prescribe 10 lessons by a good teacher and an instantaneous healing.

Why even the parents of the much run down younger generation admit that an evening of hopping about on the old dance floor never does their offspring any harm.

The grave moralists who visit our present day dances, and, come away shaking their heads and writing articles against the intoxication and debaughery witnessed by their very eyes, aren't playing fair in laying it all to dancing.

The young people who are found intoxicated at modern dances don't get that way on account of dancing—or because of it.

They drink because they think it's rather smart—and no amount of waltzes and fox-trots have anything to do with their moral attitude.

And the modern dances aren't vulgar or wicked . . . though some of them are comic.

The spectacle of our nation's young manhood whirling about with hunched up shoulders and elbows extended at right angles to the body may partly be an aspiring one—but rather is it trance.

Some of the very boys and girls you see today contorting themselves into the most uncomfortable postures will grow up to be sane, happy men and women.

No one has ever heard yet of the man who attributes his downfall in life to the evening he took his first fox-trot. You can take several fox-trots straight in one evening, and live to be a useful citizen.

Absolutely the only danger of the indoor sport lies in over doing it.

If you get a mania so strong that you dance through one night after the other week after week—then you're in a bad way and it's time to call a halt.

But if you go about this form of relaxation in a sane fashion there will be no black marks set down in the Book of Judgment because of dancing.

(Mimi will be glad to answer any inquiries directed to this paper provided a stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Also she will be glad to send food for conversation and how to overcome self-consciousness.

Stork Wins Fight Against the Reaper

The stork had all the best of the argument with the grim reaper here last month, the October health report issued yesterday by Dr. J. M. Whitworth, city physician, indicates. A total of 99 births were recorded during the month while 41 deaths occurred in the same period of time.

Contagious diseases were held to comparatively low figures with only 19 such cases of all kinds being reported. Only one death from a contagious disease was listed, this being for diphtheria of which trere were 12 cases reported during the month. Three new typhoid fever cases were listed, three of scarlet fever and one of chicken pox.

SYNOPSIS

Connemara Moore is aboard a mysterious yacht. It is past midnight and she is in the company of David Lacy, Pooch, McTish, Doc and Sweetie, none of whom she ever saw before tonight. Connemara and Sweetie have been drenched in the storm but have fashioned makeshift costumes to replace the dampened garments. Connemara had stolen away from her aunt's Connecticut home, disguised as a nun, rather than announce her engagement, as Aunt Celimena had expected her to do.

CHAPTER X—Continued

"So, that's it!" he exclaimed. "McTish must have installed it, and on my own boat; he has his nerve—" Then to Doc, "What have you been trying to do? Come, now, hand it out straight and cut out the trimmings."

"Do?" in a tone of puzzled innocence. "Nawthin'—just rolled over to keep me wings from goin' to sleep."

"And purely by accident found this button, I suppose."

"That's it, Cap," returned Doc airily. "I found it there and tried it to see what would happen."

"Of course, you couldn't by any chance have been signaling?"

"Signalin'! Far be it from me," the big man declared. "I did see some little flashes like, comin' from that there stick" (indicating the mast with a jerk of his head sidewise) "but I didn't think they meant nothin'. Who'd I be signalin' to round here, hey?"

"Well, see you don't try to find some one," Lacy said grimly. "And get back to where you were before. Quick, now!"

"Come now hand it out straight!"

Under the prod of an impatient foot Doc was forced back to his old position forward, and Lacy, scowling, made his way aft.

"I didn't see the flashes," he explained to McTish, "but he must have been sending off something. Have you any idea of our bearings?"

"We're aff Sea Cliff noo," McTish replied, pointing abaft; "yon's Execution Light. An' this is the mou' o' Hempstead Harbor."

"We're not far from Bayville then," Lacy commented. "Now I'd suggest that we pull up anchor and head north, hugging the shore. I don't like the idea of your Swedish friend catching those signals."

The Scotchman's jaw fell in disgust. "Why, mon, that's what we want!" he exclaimed.

"Mac," the other returned, "I've a wholesome admiration for your canniness and fighting ability, but you told me yourself that 'The Swede' had a half-dozen bruisers aboard. We can't tackle them all. I hope Bob will succeed in locating them first."

"Weel, lad, I'm sorry if ye are afeared, but if ye'll just pick oot one o' them—ye can pick on the saftest—I'll tak' care o' the ither sax." In moments of excitement McTish became very Scotch indeed. He added, as if in mollification of his charge of cowardice, "But I see what's fashin' ye. It's the lassie."

"I suppose she's one of them," assented David gloomily. "But why should she have told me about the light in that case?"

"Because she's a smar-rt lassie an' able to pu' the wool ower your eyes fine if ye gie her half a chance," McTish declared with conviction.

"No," David insisted. "She was surprised. As surprised as I was. She wasn't acting."

"Maybe," the little Scot said dryly. "But I'd not put it past her."

"We're losing time," Lacy reminded him, ignoring this thrust, "which is what you're playing for, of course. You do what I say and head north or I take back the boat. You've bagged enough now with two birds and Sweetie, to say nothing of the fifty thousand——"

"Which I see that ye keep in yer pants," broke in McTish, grinning, "an' a fine crook ye are yersel'. I'll start her up, laddie, on one condeetion—that ye warn the gir-r-l as far awa' frae that button as ye do the rest. I'm trustin' nane o' them the nicht."

To these terms Lacy consented with suspicious readiness, and after they had got under way hurried aft to Connemara.

The latter greeted him with a little smile, the gayety of which was slightly forced.

"Look here," she said, "I've been thinking. I believe I've guessed the riddle. Only you'll have to tell me when it's to be released. I'm horribly curious."

"If by 'it' you mean your friend Pooch, I should say in about twenty years—though sometimes they do get off for good behavior."

He was suddenly quite sure she was making a tremendous effort to keep her lips from trembling, but she continued to smile unconcernedly.

"This is a movie, isn't it—in thirty, seven reels? That's why I wanted to know when it was to be released, so that I could see the results. I've never taken part in one before. And here we all are, Pooch and Doc, two perfect duckies of villains, and Sweetie, the soubrette—isn't that what you'd call her, or am I going back to Aunt Celimena's days? Then there are cars being stolen and spilled all over the landscape, and messages in cipher, and flashes from mastheads and motorboats popping up out of nowhere. I'm properly thrilled, and, besides, I'm the star, I suppose. And the salaries are true, too—I never believed 'em—but whew! fifty thousand a night!"

"As long as you're casting us, would you mind telling me my role?"

A moment she studied him, slightly to his discomfiture. Then, "Let's see your profile—h'm——"

"Is it as bad as that?"

"Yes, every bit—and you're the handsome juvenile"—he bowed—"or else one of those ridiculous sheiks." Here he did not bow, but instead answered, "And I'll play opposite you—on the other side of the bars."

"You mean?"

"I'll give you one guess. It ought to be easy, for you've been awfully lucky if you haven't looked through them before."

"Something actually thrilling then; how much more thrilling, when all the time I've been looking for the camera man!" She paused dramatically. "Oh, I get it: you're not the handsome juvenile—you're the director, and trying to put me in the spirit of my role" (she looked down). "But where are the puttees?"

"You are clever!" he returned, perhaps with not as much aplomb as he would have liked, "but you're too good for this game. Why don't you try something less desperate? With your talent you could go far on the stage."

"Farther than fifty thousand?" Connemara challenged him with a laugh. "Aren't you optimistic?"

"Say," remarked a voice just behind them, its tones a trifle shrill. "I guess I wouldn't harp too much on that fifty thousand if I were you, Sister. Not in present company, anyhow."

With a queer sense of shock, Connemara and Lacy spun about to behold the pert little figure of Sweetie, seated nonchalantly on the prostrate Pooch, her hands in her pockets, swaying to and fro, entirely unmoved by his protesting grunts and writhings.

"To think Sister'd tie the double cross on Poochie," she informed the night about them with an air of commiseration that made her unwilling cushion writhe afresh. "An' him lying here all nicely roped up like he was doin' some Lon Chaney stunt. An' you gotta nerve too, Mr. Klassy Klothes" (this to Lacy) "tryin' to steal poor Poochie's skirt away from him, when he can't look out for himself." She paused a moment to illustrate her pity by digging her exaggerated French heels deep in the paunch of the prostrate Pooch, then addressed him, directly this time.

Speaker Thinks Court Route Will Mean Endless Delay to State

AMARILLO, Texas, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Lee Satterwhite, speaker of the house of the 39th legislature, in a telegram to a downtown news agency, today, declared that if he were governor that he would call a special session of the legislature for an investigation of the charges against the highway department as shown in a suit filed by the attorney general yesterday.

He regards it good policy to spend a hundred thousand dollars, is necessary, to defray cost of a special session of the legislature of millions may be saved the people.

He believes the suit fully justified but that the case will drag through the courts whereas, "the legislature can 'clean out' the whole affair in less than 30 days."

Texas College Man Is Believed Slain

HOUSTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—A telegram was received here late today by Mrs. Raymond Bradley from her husband, Dr. Bradley, stating that the body found in Beaumont was that of his brother, and that the circumstances indicated that he had been the victim of foul play. The members of the family in Houston said that no reason so far as they knew, existed for him to take his own life. He was the president of his class at Tulane university.

The young man was a son of the late C. L. Bradley, a well known Houston attorney, and is survived by three brothers, Dr. Raymond Bradley, Rolland Bradley and Earl Bradley. He was about 24 years old.

U. S. Man to Go To Texas Labor Bank

DALLAS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—C. L. Killingsworth, manager of the loan and discount department of the federal reserve bank of Dallas, has been elected active vice president and cashier of the New Labor Bank & Trust company at Houston, at guaranty fund bank with a capital stock of $100,000. Mr. Killingsworth plans to accept the position and resign his present incumbency in the next few days.

The Houston bank will open for business Nov. 16. Mr. Killingsworth's successor in the federal reserve bank has not been designated.

GUARANTY FUND

They would not have to say:

"We will try to get some of our business men to help you, but, well you know money is hard to raise."

The present plan calls for the raising of no money. It calls for the signature of a group of citizens on which local banks would be happy to advance money. If you were a banker and an organized committee came to you with the signature of 200 leading Wichitans on a guaranty fund and said, "We want to borrow one hundred thousand dollars on this," what would you do? If you were a good banker you would tell the wheelbarrow boy to bring on the cash.

OVER AND OVER.

The guaranty fund plan will make it easy for Wichita Falls to get a number of factories. It will eliminate a canvass of the entire city for every worthwhile industrial proposition presented. It would afford local industries an opportunity to grow. And it is then repaid gradually and used over and over again for more factories.

A signature on the guaranty fund requires no cash deposit; it places a definite limit on the liability of each man; it avoids stock campaign solicitation; it expedites the bringing into this city of more industries; it makes this city more attractive as a site for industrial development; it affords industries financial aid for a longer time at a lower rate of interest than the law allows banks to give. It means a greater Wichita Falls. This city, truly, is one built on FAITH.

WASH POISON FROM KIDNEYS

Dring Water All Day Long And Take Salts if Your Back Hurts

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again there is difficulty in voiding. Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination while it is extremely annoying sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get from [illegible] ounces of Jad Salts [illegible] your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieve your bladder irritation.—Adv.

Entire State of Texas Is Flooded As Result of Heavy Rainfall

SOUTH TEXAS HIGHWAY SYSTEM CEASES TO FUNCTION; BRIDGES ARE OUT AND ROADS INUNDATED

Great Damage Is Done To Crops Here, Declares Guy Jones

Rainfall aggregating more than an inch in Wichita Falls and varying from smaller amounts in spots to considerably more in other portions fell over north Texas all day yesterday and last night, doing great damage to crops still in the field and making roads over this section of the state impossable. Associated Presse reports from San Antonio, Houston, Waco, and Austin indicated a general precipitation over the larger portion of the state with the Houston getting possibly the worst of it, that city reporting nearly six inches in 15 hours, the rainfall cutting every avenue of traffic via highway out of the city with the exception of the southerly road to Galveston.

Temperature 50 Degrees.

Railways out of Wichita Falls reported a heavy downpour over their districts, the Katy showing rainfall as far north as Elk City in Oklahoma, and roads to the west showing rainfall clear to the border of the state. Seymour reported a heavy rain all day, Amarillo all day, Childress and Memphis reported heavy rains. Reports from Archer, Young, Clay and Montague counties indicated a general precipitation averaging an inch there. Temperatures averaging slightly better than 50 degrees were reported from most of the affected area in north Texas. A minimum temeprature of 40 degrees is reported, the expected freeze having failed to materialize.

Cotton Damaged.

A large cut in the grade and yield of north Texas cotton is expected as a result of the rain, according to Guy R. Jones, demonstration agent, who said last night that while it would be impossible to place an accurate estimate on the damage that the quality of the cotton in the fields would be lowered considerably and the work of picking and getting the cotton in delayed to a great extent. He pointed out that the recent freeze had robbed the stalks of their foliage and that the open bolls had no protection at all from the rain. It was his belief that the rain would be of advantage in no particular. The ground was already moist enough for next year's crops, Mr. Jones said last night. Homer Wade, assistant manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce, speaking in Houston last night estimated the total cotton crop damage over West Texas from the past week's rainfall at 35 per cent, expressing doubt that the state would raise 3,000,000 of its predicted 4,500,000 bales this year.

South Texas Hit.

South Texas is possibly the hardest hit by the rain o fany section of the state. There is practically no highway left open, the Houston to north Texas road being out with a bridge gone south of Hempstead; high water in the Brazos river has cut off traffic between Houston and San Antonio; danger to the bridge over the Little river between Waco and Austin has cut off traffic there. Flood waters have spread over all the lowlands and a vast damage is reported to have been done. Practically every stream and inlet in south and central Texas was reported out of banks, and flood warnings were out over the entire section of the state.

At Houston there was nearly six inches of rain reported. The normal average for the entire month of November is three inches, at that city.

FOOTBALL

ponent in Louisiana State at Baton Rouge. The Owls should win handily.

Tinges of red, signs of football conflagrations, flared at two great battlefields of the eastern front last night as invaders approached—the crimson of Cambridge and the carnelian of Cornell.

Micks Scrap Penn State.

In this sectional strife, east pitted against east in traditional struggles, the advance of the western attackers has almost been forgotten. For the first time in this gridiron campaign the Atlantic seaboard is aglow with its own combat.

That Notre Dame comes east to face Penn State and Ohio Wesleyan advances on Syracuse is of interest, but of little importance.

Both Penn State and Notre Dame have been and Syracuse is expected to have little trouble with the Ohioans. These are the only intersectional meetings of the day.

Cornell and Dartmouth, two undefeated and high scoring machines, facing each other at Hanover, N. H., will command the attention of football students, for one of the greatest contests of the season is expected there. Enthusiasm over Harvard and Princeton, both conquered in earlier games, is largely confined to the followers of both elevens.

The red of Ithaca and the green of Hanover should be blended in a colorful spectacle, with about every regular in perfect condition for the fray. A damp field, caused by repeated frosts will give neither squad an advantage, for both lines are powerful and fast charging and the backfields are of the plunging, tackle-splitting type. There should be an exceptional duel between Oberlander of Dartmouth and Gassner of Cornell.

Panthers Seek Revenge.

Holy Cross and Fordham, both undefeated, come to grips at the Polo Grounds, with the New England eleven a slight favorite after conquering Harvard.

Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson meet in the new Pitt stadium and this should be a thrilling encounter, with the Panthers endeavoring to avenge a 10 to 0 defeat administered by the Presidents a year ago.

Other games of interest in the east zone are: Yale vs. Maryland; Wesleyan vs. Williams; Lafayette vs. Rutgers; Columbia vs. New York university; Coalgate vs. Providence, and Navy vs. West Maryland.

Illinois, the team which wrecked Pennsylvania's dream of a national football championship, and Chicago, undefeated in the western conference, meet at Champaign in the outstanding contest of the middle west.

A record breaking crowd of 669,000 to 70,000 spectators will pack the $2,000,000 Illinois memorial stadium to pay tribute to "Red" Grange, who plays his last conference game on the gridiron which three years ago gave him his start to fame. The famous red head will wind up his intercollegiate career against Ohio tomorrow.

Illini Powerful.

Illinois, beaten by Iowa and Michigan and also Nebraska, has one of the most formidable teams in the country, which it definitely proved last Saturday when it swamped Pennsylvania, the team which humbled the Maroons a week previous.

In addition to the Maroon-Illinois battle, the western conference has three other games up for decision, the results of which will figure in determining the 1925 championship.

Michigan, undefeated and with its goal uncrossed, comes to Chicago to play Northwestern on Soldiers' Field in Grant Park. Three conference victories have set the Wolverines on their way to the championship and Northwestern will be satisfied if able to score against Coach "Hurry Up" Yost's powerful warriors.

Iowa's championship aspirations will receive a severe test, meeting Wisconsin at Iowa City. The Hawkeyes are strong favorites and hold a decided edge over the Badgers, but the Wisconsin crew is given an outside chance of pulling an upset.

Indiana travels to Columbus to meet Ohio State in a game which has no bearing on the championship race, but one which should provide victory for the Buckeyes without serious opposition.

Purdue will play Franklin at Lafayette, while Minnesota will clash with Butler at Minneapolis. The Boilermakers and Gophers will enter the games favorites.

U. S. STEEL AT 138 HIGHEST IN STOCK HISTORY

Friday Another Day of Bullish Enthusiasm in New York Market

NEW ORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Bullish enthusiasm in the stock market was revived today by a remarkable buying demonstration in the common stock of the United States Steel Corporation, which soared 5 1-2 points to 138, the highest quotation ever recorded. 3 HEARTS GO IN REPAIR SHOP IN FILM ROMANCE

Morgan Plant, Millionaire, Claims Constance Bennett as Bride

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Three hearts are in need of repairs as Constance Bennett, beautiful fil mactress honeymoons with Philip Morgan Plant, youthful New York millionaire.

The hearts belong to Chester Moorehead, Helene Jesmer and Judith Smith.

Miss Bennett previously was married to a student, Chester Moorehead, but this marriage was later annulled when Miss Bennett claimed that she wed the student on "a dare."

Incidentally, the same justice of peace who officiated at this "dare wedding," Magistrate Fisk of Greenwich, Conn., married her to young Plant.

In April, 1924, young Plant was made defendant in an action for $500,000 damages brought by Miss Helene Jesmer, a former Greenwich Village Follies girl. The action was the result of an automobile accident [illegible] November, 1920 in which Miss Jesmer suffered injuries which, she charged, disfigured her.

The case was settled out of court for a sum said to have been $50,000.

In January this year the engagement of [illegible] to Miss Judith Smith of Chillicothe, O., was announced. [illegible] the wedding which was scheduled to take place in June was indefinitely postponed because of the illness of Plant. Now there is much speculation as to Miss Smith's feelings in the matter.

Plant is heir to a portion of the millions made in hotels and steamship lines by the late Commodore F. H. Plant. He is the son off Mrs. William Hayward, wife of Col. William Hayward of this city, by her first husband, Selden Waring of Waterford, Conn. He was adopted by her second husband, Commodore Plant, and given his name.

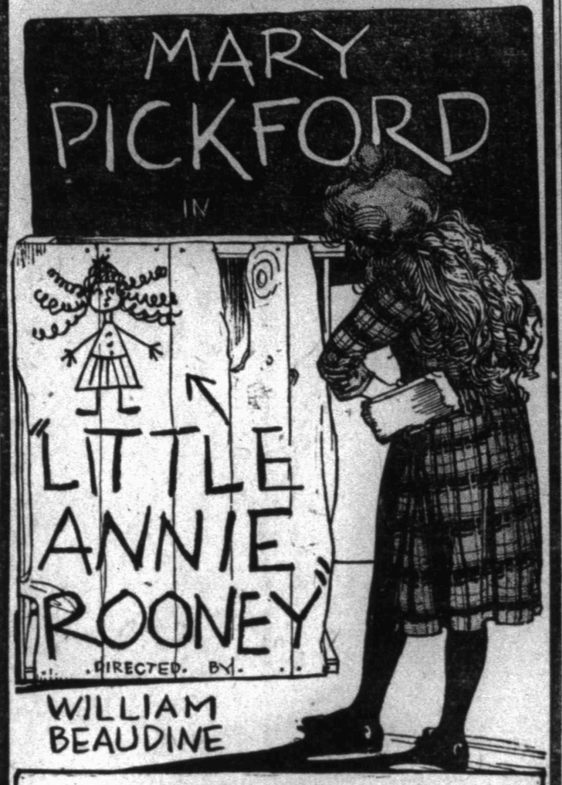

Miss Bennett, 22, comes of a family of stage stars. Her father is Richard Bennett, who is divorced from his wife, a noted actress. Barbara Bennett is the dancing partner of the noted Maurice.

BYSTANDER FATALLY SHOT.

TAYLOR, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Sam Camblin, innocent bystander, wounded on Sept. 17, when a shooting affray took place on the main street of Taylor, died today in a hospital in Palestine. The body will be brought to Taylor for burial.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The cotton market was at times feverishly active today and prices showed wider and more rapid fluctuations than has been the rule of late. Starting with a gain of 3 to 10 points due mainly to the bad weather in the belt, prices soon eased off on liquidation induced by rather large private crop estimates, losing 20 to 26 points from the early highs. Late in the session the market advanced 54 to 62 points from the lows on Secreary Hester's May showing of mill takings for the week, 320,000 bales. During the afternoon practically all of the gain was lost on realizing and liquidation in advance of the government report due next Monday. The close was steady at a net gain of 3 points on December, no change on January and at net declines of 8 to 15 points on later months.

At the start first trades showed losses of 1 to 7 points on some, and gains of 7 to 10 points on others, particularly the most active months. All months established small gains soon after the opening with December at 19.74 January at 20.83 and March at 19.69 or 3 to 10 points over yesterday's close. Prices soon eased off, however, on the issue of two crop estimates by private authorities and December declined to 19.54, January 19.58 and March 19.43 or 20 to 26 points under the early highs. These prices remained the lows of the day.

When Secretary Hester's total mill takings for the week were announced near noon the market advanced sharply, December trading as high as 20.16, January 20.18 and March 19.97 or 54 to 62 points above the lows and 35 to 45 points above yesterday's close. All th egain was lost in the afternoon on liquidation in advance of the bureau helped by a large estimate of 15,500,000 bales by a local authority.

Exports for the day totaled 44,074 bales and for the week 477,701 bales.

NEW YORK FUTURES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Cotton futures closed steady at net 5 points up to 15 down.

	High	Low	Close	Prev. Close
Jan.	20.19	19.61	19.88-89	19.83
March	20.40	19.85	20.03-08	20.05
May	20.36	19.90	20.00-02	20.13
July	19.90	19.36	19.42	19.55
Dec.	20.85	20.29	20.52-54	20.48

Opening: January 19.75; March 19.95; May 20.00; July 19.48; December 20.55.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—January cotton contracts sold up from 19.61 to 20.19, or 36 points net higher and more than two cents a pound above the recent low level. They later reacted to 19.75 but recovered several points of the loss, closing at 19.88, the general market closing steady, net five points higher to 20 poins lower.

The opening was barely steady at an advance of one point on December, but generally 8 to 20 points lower. Apparently some quarters believed pre-bureau covering had run its course at the close of the previous day and some selling was promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables. On the whole, however, offerings were restricted by continued wet weather in the south and as soon as the early pressure subsided, prices turned upward on numerous crop complaints from the southwest.

These reports seemed to increase uncertainty with reference to the showing of the approaching government report, although it will give crop prospects only on the first of November. Buying also was promoted by liberated reports of a better demand for the low grades. December contracts sold up to 20.85 and March to 20.40, net advances of about 23 to 37 points on the active positions.

Five more private reports were issued, with crop figures ranging from 14,859,000 up to 15,500,000 bales, but they appeared to be without particular effect.

Exports for the day were 50,704 bales, making 2,669,434 so far this season.

LIVERPOOL COTTON.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Cotton spot quiet; prices steady. NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Establishment of the highest quotation ever recorded by U. S. Steel common at 138, up 5½, featured the resumption of the upward movement of prices in today's stock market. Net gains of one to 12 points were spread over a broad list, but there was also a number of substantial declines in stocks which were heavily liquidated under the cover of the strength of the market leaders.

Speculators for the advance started to bid up prices at the opening, stressing as bullish factors, the drastic tax cuts proposed by the house ways and means committee, the growing number of increased and extra dividends, and the millions of dollars pouring into the stock market for investment and speculation from all parts of the world.

The weekly mercantile reviews again showed steady improvement in trade. "After the five big developments in October" states Dunn review a month has opened with a further acceleration of business activity. The forward movement has been steadily gaining momentum as reports and statistics have demonstrated, and the sustained and orderly advance has strengthened sentiment throughout the country."

Bradstreet's sets froth that the trade and industry remain good and active as November opens, this after a heavy month's business in October."

General Motors, which is expected to declare an extra dividend of $3 to $5 at the directors' meeting next week, jumped five points to a new record high at 149⅝, and then slipped back to 147⅜. Dupont, which owns a large block of General Motors stock, soared 22 points to a new peak at 279, or 52⅝ points above last week's close. Heavy profit taking was apparent in most of the other motors, but the net losses, as a rule, were small.

Further action of the coppers was based on the belief that the Anaconda dividend would be increased at the next meeting and that an enormous increase in copper consumption would take place next year as a result to the high hydro-electric power projects under way in all sections of the country. American Smelting crossed 125 to the highest price since 1907; Anaconda sold above 53 for the first time in two years and Kennecott, Utah and Cerro De Pasco sold at the highest prices in a year or longer.

General Electric soared nearly 13 points to 334⅝, or within three points of the record high established before the separation of the electric bond and share properties.

Call money renewed at 4½ per cent and then dropped to 4½. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Trading in foreign exchanges quited down considerably with French francs rallying nearly ten points from yesterday's low to around 4.00 cents. Demands sterling opened at $4.84½ and then eased slightly. Japanese yen advanced ⅛ of a cent to a new high record for the year at 42⅛ cents. Other rates moved within rather narrow and irregular limits.

WOOL.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

The demand for wool has been expanded and prices are slowly trending upward, but there is no runaway market. Some descriptions are a cent a pound dearer fo rthe week. Woolen mills are showing more interest, although the bulk of the business still is for worsted account. Some scattering western buying is reported at about eastern parity.

Foreign markets are very buoyant.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Beginning of the harvest in the southern hemisphere today was accompanied by a downward swing in wheat values here. Reports both from Argentine and from Australia said cutting of wheat in the more northern districts of each country was under way. Closing prices for wheat were unsettled, ⅛ to 1⅜ cents net lower, new style. December $1.49⅞ to $1.49¾, and May 1.45⅞ to $1.46, with corn ⅛ to ½ cent down, oats unchanged to ⅛ cent off and provisions unchanged to 25 cents up.

Corn and oats finally eased down in response to wheat weakness, notwithstanding that earlier both the feed grains were relatively firm owing to a forecast of unsettled weather in the corn belt.

Provisions displayed an upward tendency as a result of better cash demand.

Market Gossip

R. E. Flowerree and Co., Brokers, basement Staley Bldg., today received the following market comment from Penner and Beane of New York, New Orleans and Chicago:

COTTON.

Public interest in the market broadened considerably today owing to continued bad weather and record spinners taking, and lifted prices 45 points during the early trading to above 20 cents.

Values broke 50 points within a short period of time around noon when some large interests tried to cash their profits. This started considerable selling for both sides.

The market recovered its equilibrium as soon as the profit taking let up and ended the day with a few points net gain.

Demand for spot cotton is good.

The market acts like it has done its best for the time being and is likely to be called upon to absorb considerable profit taking between now and bureau day.

Prices may slip some during the process of absorption.

GRAINS.

The wheat market is pursuing its expected course, namely changing quickly from weak to strong, or the reverse. This is because of the tight position and strong premiums as opposed to the very poor foreign demand.

Periods of strength which occurred today were in sympathy with firmness in Liverpool and because of a report that Minneapolis mills were buying cash wheat from the Duluth market.

This domestic situation has prevailed so long that the general public not enthused, as a consequence, market don't have a ready buying power.

The only strength in coarse grains is borrowed from wheat for the reason that there is no outside interest, and sentiment locally is against the price because of an expected movement of the new crop in excess of a demand. Although we see nothing suggesting any immediate advance in prices, we feel that the indicated size of the crop and estimated movement have been fully discounted.

STOCKS.

High priced specialties continued to feature the market but what demanded most special attention was the action of U. S. Steel. During the last hour of trading buying orders in this issue appeared in large blocks from many sources, including urgent efforts to cover large lines of shorts. Steel new record, exceeding its level of May 1917.

High priced specialties like Dupont, General Electric and American can advanced sharply.

The motor groups were [illegible]on quiet.

Mercantiles were [illegible]t. Coppers strong with Anaconda unusually active, with increase noted in dividend rate to $4.

U. S. Rubber was another particularly strong issue, as was American [illegible] which stock will be placed on [illegible] basis at the next meeting, according to general belief.

Frost Wednesday night and the uncertainty of the extent of damage gave grapes at Fresno an uncertain tone and too few sales were listed to make a quotable market. Martin Takes Plea Under Advisement

A plea for a permanent injunction restraining Wichita Falls from enforcing provisions of its new abattoir ordinance was taken under advisement by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court, after a hearing on the matter had been held Friday morning. His decision will be announced at a later date.

In the case Mart Robinson, as plaintiff, contended that the new city law is discriminatory, in restraint of trade and therefore is unconstitutional.

Shepherd Sees No Tax Increase As Result Bond Issue November 1

$375,000 PROPOSALS DETAILED BUSINESS COUNCIL FRIDAY BY MAYOR WHO FAVORS ALL PLANS

Issues Will Still Leave City Owing Less Than 4 Million

A detailed explanation of the various items in the $375,000 bond issue to be submitted to taxpayers here by the city council next Tuesday was presented to the chamber of commerce business council Friday noon by Mayor R. E. Shepherd who spoke in hearty support of each of the five propositions.

Discusses Proposals.

The mayor took up the sewage disposal plant, street improvements, sanitary sewer main extensions, fire department expansion and park site purchases in the order named, dwelling a while on the crying need of each. An issue of $300,000 is asked for construction of a sewage disposal plant; $100,000 for street improvements; $75,000 each for fire department expansion and sanitary sewer main construction, and $25,000 for purchase and beautification of eight lots in the junior college neighborhood. These are to be beautified as a part of the landscaping program of the college.

Mayor Shepherd pointed out to the council that the city has not asked for ratification of a bond issue since 1920 when a $1,625,000 issue was carried. He then gave a brief review of the municipal financial condition; reported on the retirement of $219,000 worth of outstanding bonds and the reduction of another large block from 6 to 4 3-4 per cent securities; and then said that with the $375,000 issue added on the total bonded debt of the city would still be under the $4,000,000 mark.

No Higher Rate.

He then declared that figures worked out by City Clerk McBroom indicated no increase in the tax rate would be necessary for the city to finance the issue. He stated that an assessed valuation of $45,000,000 was in prospect for Wichita Falls within a short time and that with this increase no trouble would be met at all in providing the interest and sinking fund requirements.

At the conclusion of his address the business council voted its unanimous support of the election and a committee consisting of H. J. Bruce, chairman, Dan Daniels and A. L. Huey appointed by Jack Barnard, chairman of the council, to work next Tuesday in the interests of a large and representative vote. Mayor Shepherd remarked that in 1920 when the $1,625,000 issue was presented, less than 300 votes were polled. He said the city commissioners were anxious that the election be carried not only by an overwhelming majority but by a large vote also.

IRRIGATION

How a Land Owner May Be Fore Warned of Water Logging.

As we have pointed out many times in previous articles one of the greatest dangers of this irrigation project is from waterlogging. Waterlogging is a menace that affects all irrigation projects to a greater or less degree.

It is not probable that this project will be the only one ever built to escape trouble from waterlogging.

Fore warned is fore armed and every land owner here can be fore warned of any danger from excess ground water if he will only take a little time and effort to secure the needed information.

Every tract of land on this project should have a few holes on it sunk to a depth of fifteen or twenty feet. These holes need not be wells dug by hand but rather small ones made with a post hole auger fitted with an extension handle made up of short joints of gas pipe.

These holes can be cased with thin sheet metal pipes or if the soil is firm they will stand open for a long time without any such protection.

Of course the top of the hole should be covered in some way to prevent it from being filled up with miscellaneous objects and also to keep stock from injuring themselves when stepping in them.

These test holes if observed at intervals will show just how the under ground water level stands and will give ample warning of impending danger from waterlogging.

It is not only easy to determine how fast the water table is rising from year to year but its fluctuations after rains or irrigations can be observed.

LIVESTOCK REVIEW.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 6.—Receipts at the Fort Worth stock yards were somewhat liberal for a Friday, 3,300 grown cattle and 1,000 calves arriving. Those numbers are greater than a week ago in cattle and 400 less than the number of calves a week ago, but 2,100 less in cattle and 400 less in calves than a year ago.

The market advanced on butcher cows and she stock generally, 25c being added to the rates on good butcher cows, canners and cutters selling with some strength. On the early rounds butcher cows sold in small lots up to $4.50 and loads were recorded as getting $3.00. Trading was not as active on canners and cutters at the start as on good cows, and record sales showed a slack movement.

The small assortment of beef cattle cleared at about steady prices three loads making $7.00 and one car taking $7.35. Scattering sales were made of rather common steers at $6 to $6.50.

The calf trade was not satisfactory to either buyers or salesmen. Buyers objected at the poor quality of the mass of the supply and salesmen grumbled at the lowered values coming at the close of the week, on the better portion of the supply, summing up to around a dollar for the week. Early sales brought out heavy calves at $8.50. Light weights were neglected.

A fair demand for stockers developed at steady prices. Bulls were steady.

The hog trade was a short affair—800 head arriving. Packers paid $11.75 for choice slaughter [illegible] trading strong for like hogs at [illegible] $11.30 to $11.50. Pigs and packing sows steady.

The sheep market was unchanged on sale of shorn wethers at $8 [illegible] and Louisiana feeder lambs and yearlings at $10.

RUTH TURNS TO GOLF

Swat King Believes That Is His Best Conditioner

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Preparations by Babe Ruth to spend the winter months on the links in Florida were explained today as due to a conviction on the part of the erstwhile homerun king that golf will better condition him for regaining his lost diamond laurels than any other form of exercise.

The illness which overtook Ruth last spring almost as soon as he reached the southern camp of the New York Yankees, after the big outfielder had put in the winter on his farm in Sudbury, Mass., convinced the American leaguer that he should do his off-season conditioning in a warmer climate.

Prima Donna Hit On Head With Beer Mug In "Student Prince"

CHICAGO, Nov. 6—(AP)—Being hit with a stone beer mug on the head isn't what it's cracked up to be, says Olga Cook, prima donna of "The Student Prince," who has reason to know.

Miss Cook, as the inn-keeper's daughter, in the first act, was making love to the prince while the chorus of students sang drinking songs and waved steins. One of the missed his aim and the mug crashed down on her head.

Dazed, Miss Cook was taken off the stage and an understudy continued the part. A reinforced wig designed to withstand shocks will be worn by Miss Cook hereafter.

ALL IRRIGATION PREFERENCES OF ARCHER IN

Olney Non-Resident Land Owners Not Yet in Accord With Plan

With the exception of a number of non-resident land owners in the territory scheduled for inclusion in a new district, practically all property holders in the proposed new irrigation district in Archer county and south of this city have signified complete accord in the matter and will put their land under the ditch.

J. W. Chatham Jr. of the chamber of commerce staff but who for the past month or so has been devoting his time to working up the Irrigation matter, stated yesterday that in a few more days he would have his task complete, he believed. A large amount of land in that section is held by non-residents, but all the local owners have fallen in readily with the irrigation plans.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Bradstreet's tomorrow wil lsay:

Trade and industry remain good and active as November opens, this after a heavy month's business in October. Some lines of trade hitherto among the most active have quieted a litle, but others have picked up and are at about their best for nearly a year past.

One notable feature so far this fall has been the absence of reports of warm weather holding back retail buying. The early advent of winter weather in northern areas is largely responsible for the steady run of trade in seasonable goods, which bringing out a good deal of reorder business in the cities. Cold weather and the anthracite miners' strike have pushed soft coal production above the 12,000,000 a week rate and caused a big expansion in coke production. A hardening of the later product's prices is naturally received. In iron and steel, output still is brisk, pig iron and scrap are firmer, and prices of bars, plates and sheets have advanced. Pig iron is now nearly $2 per ton above the bottom. Lumber production continues good, but buying has lagged a little on the Pacific coast, where prices are weaker. Weekly bank clearances $9,796,573,000.

END BUNION PAIN FOREVER

No Need to Suffer Another Day Those Agonizing Torturing Pains

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning and people who suffer from such enlargements would be wise to reduce them before they reach a more or less chronic stage.

Ask all druggists or any first class pharmist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and furthermore, if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches ar reduced to normal.—Adv.

STAGE SET FOR VANITY FAIR MONDAY NIGHT

Great Burlesque Event Is Rounding Out in Big Style

Vanity Fair, the musical comedy revue is rounding out under the direction of Director Torry T. McKinney; all dancers are letter perfect in their steps and ready to go Monday night. The entire show is more or less burlesque, with a few semi-serious numbers, songs really beautiful when rendered by voices like Rayhon Porter, the well liked Ian Murchison and Mrs. Hermoine Stewart Vaughn.

The play opens with a musical number with Chandler Crump as soloist and a chorus of silver bells who tinkle about merrily.

Male Chorus

There is then a rehearsal of the show, with a splendid line of comedy furnished by Jack Martin and his girls. Ina Merle Robinson and her boy friends bring on the next number which is both lively and beautiful. It is a man's chorus and is said to be great.

From here on all departments of Vanity Fair Magazine are closely or ridiculously represented, everything from lip sticks and Gollowog perfume to Fisk tires.

Mrs. Sidney Pitman provides the comedy songs in her own inimitable manenr. Pope Pool breaks even with Jack Martin on the male comedy roles.

"Lesson In Etiquette"

Forrest Williams, better known to his friends as "Skinny" Williams, has good parts and a uke solo you'll like. There will be a "Lesson in Etiquette" which is a scream with impersonations by Edward Kadane, Chandler Crump, Shumake Baber, Ray Simmons and Forrest Williams.

A thing of real beauty, cleevrness and representing real thought in the costumes is the "Mah Jong Chorus" introduced by a beautiful duet by Ivan Murchison and Hermoine Stewart Vaughn.

Stocking Ads!

One of the more beautiful effects will be "Stocking Advertisements." The costumes for this number are copies of those used by Coles Phillips in advertisements.

The Scarlet Widow is a farce, cleverly done.

"What the women will wear," is a real fashion show, which will be lightened by the comedians, Jack Martin and Shumake Baber.

The Rolls Royce number, in blue and silver, under a blue light, is very effective.

Rabbi Names Idealism As the Undercurrent of American Life

SYNAGOGUE'S IMMORTALITY IS RECOUNTED

Temple Congregation Told America Is a Country Of Ideals

"Idealism, not material-ism, is the undercurrent of American life; spiratual idealism, yet, we may say religious, idealism," Rabbi Samuel Phillips said in an address to the congregation of Temple Israel last night when he spoke on the Synagogue and the Community."

The late President Woodrow Wilson remarked that 'We are a Godfearing people; we agree to differ about the methods of worship, but we are united in believing in the Divine providence and in worshipping the God of the nation.' Ideals have made America great, and America demands the devotions to the ideals of its citizens," he said.

Community Duty.

"The synagogue presents the spiritual idealism of every Jewish community; it represents in collective form, in organized form, in active form to the manner best fitted to contribute to the spiritual welfare and progress of the whole community; and this is true of every community in relation to its synagogue, it behooves all of the congregation of Temple Israel to do his duty in the community."

Rabbi Phillips told how the synagogue was founded in the Babylonian exile when the Jewish people were for the firs ttime scattered in the foreign land and torn away from the temple and every other center of national life.

"It was at that time that Jewish men formed the habit of meeting together in some particular place for the sake of common worship and for religious instruction," he told his hearers. "Then it was there under the leadership of such a prophet as Ezekiel that the custom was started and the institution founded destined to become known as the synagogue.

Ezekiel the First.

"The first synagogue sermons ever preached were those now included in the book of Ezekiel. These assemblages save Israel in Babylon and when the Jawis people came to Palestine from exile they brought the synagogue with them and though the temple with its sacrifices was destroyed, the synagogue had grown so dear to the people they held on to it and gave it a place of increasing importance to the community."

The speaker showed how, when the temple was destroyed and the Jewish state was ruined by the Romans, the synagogue kept Israel from perishing.

"Although political life was destroyed, its spiritual life remained indestrctible, capable on new soils, under new conditions, of producing new blossoms and fruits," the rabbi asserted.

"There was never a time when the synagogue was more needed or had a higher function to perform than right here in America," he averred. "America is a country of ideals, although some critics depicit it as a country devoted to commercialism, as a land of the almighty dollar. European critics particularly did so before the World war and even now, but the lover and student of America will repudiate such characterizations as untrue and unjust.

"We should strive to make our temple a center of spirtual life and activity, a source of spirtual influence, a force for making good neighborliness and communal welfare. This we can do if we combine work with zeal and sacrifices for the cause that unites us together."

Boy Scouts! And More Power To Their Standards

Twenty-two men attended the scoutmasters' school which is being conducted each Thursday night at the First Christian church, when H. W. Stanley, adverrising expert of Dallas, made an inspiring talk. John Tevis briefly spoke on "Why I'm a Scout master." A lesson in knot tying was studied by the scoutmasters and 20 minutes was given over to games and to handiwork. Each member of the school is making a neckerchief slide and a napkin ring of bamboo.

Bill McClure's troop is ahead in number of points, ranking 30; John Tevis troop has eight points; J. C. Gallagher's six. Supper was served to the school by the members of the Wyandotte group of Camp Fire Girls.

30-YEAR HAIRCUT

SMITHCENTER, Kan., Nov. 6.—(AP)—More than 30 years ago W. S. Clark, 80, a civil war veteran and uncompromising democrat, made a vow that he would not have his hair cut until William Jennings Bryan was in the president's chair. The recent death of the Commoner, however, weakened his resolve and today a barber cut the hair that hung down about Mr. Clark's waist. From now on he will keep his hair in the prevailing style.

DOROTHY DIX ADVICE

Teacher or Stenographer, Which Shall She Be? How To Cure a Drunken Husband of Quarreling—The Business Girl Whose Middle-Aged Employer Is Developing a "Youth Jag."

Dear Dorothy Dix:

Which profession, teaching or stenography, offers a girl the greatest chance for a career, for making a success of life, for earning the most money and for meeting the so-called better class of people? In one way, teaching seems best. One quite often reads of a teacher who has just returned from spending her vacation abroad, but one seldom hears of a stenographer doing such a thing, and while I know lots of teachers who have their own cars, I know few stenographers who can boast of one. On the other hand, a teacher seldom seems to get the kick out of life that a stenographer gets. What do you think?

S. J. C.

Answer:

In choosing any career you should be guided by your talents and tastes, because ,they alone will determine whether you will find happiness and prosperity in following it. The very qualities that might make you a success as a business woman might make you a failure as a teacher, and vice versa.

The life of the teacher offers a more intellectual life than that of the stenographer. It offers also an opportunity of doing more good because a teacher molds the plastic minds of the children in her charge and her influence on the characters and destinies of the young who pass through her hands is never ending. The teacher likewise has more leisure than any other working woman because she has her Saturdays off and three months' vacation in summer time.

On the other hand, if a girl makes teaching a real career and not just a makeshift bridge between high school and matrimony, she has to take a long, hard expensive training for it. And a teacher who gets a decent salary has spent years of time in getting the degrees that qualify her for a high class professorship. But any bright girl can take a short and inexpensive course and qualify as a stenographer.

As for the opportunities that the two professions offer, the business girl has the chance to make the most money. If she has ability, industry, enthusiasm, a talent for her work and the ambition to climb, the sky is her limit. Also, she has many opportunities for going into business on her own account. Fine office women are in great demand and command salaries commensurate with their ability.

I should say also that the stenographer has a better chance to marry than the teacher has, because she is brought into daily contact with eligible men, whereas the school teacher's associations are mainly with children.

As to which gets the most kick out of life, that depends on one's taste in thrills and whether one prefers the studious life or jazz parties. The reason why more teachers go abroad on vacations than stenographers is because they spend their money for travel instead of raiment.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I am 21 and have one child. My husband is a drunkard, but he makes a good living. We have a comfortable home. He never complains over the bills and wants me always to be well dressed. He is more pleasant drunk than sober, but what worries me is that we are continually quarreling, each trying to say the meanest things we can to the other. Every time we have a quarrel he threatens to leave me. I cannot let him do this because I love him and because there is no way I could support myself and my baby. What must I do?

DISSATISFIED.

Answer:

When a woman is situated as you are there are just two things for her to do. One is to leave the man. The other is to be a good enough sport to take him as he is, if she stays with him.

I think you are wise to stick to your husband because in spite of his faults he has many good qualities. Drunkenness in a husband is not half as hard to stand as meanness and stinginess. Besides there is always a chance that the drunkard will reform while meanness and stinginess go to the bone, and the man who is afflicted with them never changes.

Also, in your case, your husband gives you all the comforts of life and you are a million times better off than you would be slaving and starving trying to make a living for yourself and your baby.

Now, as to your quarreling. You can stop that by never answering back, because no man can monologue long by himself. He runs down. Every time you answer him back you throw fresh fuel on the flames and give him a new cue in abuse.

The next time your husband starts finding fault with you, instead of defending yourself, tell him that you are sorry and that you will try to do better next time and you will find that it punctures his sails and makes him fall flat. It is literally true that the soft answer turns away wrath. And you can't trust yourself not to talk back, get up and leave the room.

Then when your husband is in a good humor, tell him that you have determined never to quarrel with him again and that you are not going to bring up your baby in a household of strife. Beg him to try to be more reasonable and tell him that you are going to control your temper whether he does his or not.

Also I think that if instead of saying the meanest thing you can think of to him, you say the sweetest thing you can think of, you will discover that you have found the magic that will dissipate his wrath. His irritability when he is sober is just the protest of his shattered nerves so you may well pity him more than blame him.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix:

I have been secretary to a prominent business man for five years. Recently he has asked me two or three times to go riding with him in the evening. He is a married man, 20 years my senior and apparently very fond of his family. Everything heretofore has always been strictly business between us. What do you suppose his object is in wanting to see me outside of office hours?

INNOCENT.

Answer:

Oh, he has probably reached the years of indiscretion and feels that he wants to have a last fling before he settles down into being an old man. It is a common complaint among middle-aged men.

After going along leading a humdrum respectable existence and being model husbands and fathers they suddenly kick over the traces and get skittish and coltish and decide that their wives are too old for them. They take to running to cabarets and joy riding with girls young enough to be their daughters and they get into flirtations and generally make fools of themselves.

And only too often they select their secretaries as the partners in their little fling because they are about the only young women they know. Also they are handiest. And when a man gets in that frame of mind any woman who is on the spot can get him.

But if you want to save yourself trouble, say no good and hard to your employer. His attentions bode you no good, as they say in the movies. Because in a little while he will wake up from his jag and go back to his wife and family and he will fire you because he will be ashamed of what you know about him. And you will be left with a smirched reputation.

A married man's attentions always compromise a girl. This is one rule to which there is no exception.

MOODY'S ROAD SUIT DUE TO BE HEARD MONDAY

Attorney General, Ferguson And Lanham, Silent After Confab

AUSTIN, Nov. 6.—(AP).—When Judge George Calhoun of the fifty-third district court returns to Austin from Belton he will be asked to hear the injunction suit of Attorney General Dan Moody against the American Road company of Dallas, Monday, the attorney general announced tonight.

Judge Calhoun exchanged benches with Judge L. J. Jones of Bell county district court this week, and the hearing set when he filed it yesterday. He asked for recovery of $650,000 "excess profits," cancellation of the company's contracts with the state, cancellation of the company's permit to do business in Texas, and a temporary injunction restraining the defendants from disbursing funds and the state from further payments of funds to the defendants.

Silent After Conference.

Frank V. Lanham, chairman of the state highway commission, was in conference with Attorney General Moody and former Governor James E. Ferguson today. None of the three would divulge what transpired, and each declined to discuss the suit.

The Travis county grand jury which has been investigating state affairs for several weeks, with the attorney general and two of his assistants doing the questioning, will reconvene Monday. It is obvious that state officials look forward to the grand jury's report, and numerous contractors holding contracts with the state highway department, have appeared before the body.

Indications are, according to Eugene Smith, secretary to the highway commission, that nearly all contractors holding road contracts will be in Austin Monday at the semi-monthly meeting of the commission. Two lettings will be made, the bids of which were opened today. Smith Brothers of San Antonio were low bidders on a road construction job in Kaufman county. Brown and Root of Georgetown were low bidders on 10 miles of road work in Williamson county.

FIRM CONTINUES WORK IN TARRANT AND DALLAS

DALLAS, Nov. 6.—(AP).—Highway maintenance work in Dallas and Tarrant counties is being continued by the American Road company, J. A. Worsham, attorney for the concern, said today. No action looking to cessation of this work had been taken since the filing of a suit Thursday by the attorney general for cancellation of all contracts held by the company.

TAX MEN RAISE FEES

AUSTIN, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Despite Attorney General Dan Moody's ruling that tax assessors are not entitled to increased fees for 1925 assessments, 10 counties in Texas have allowed the increased fees, it was reported to the convention of tax assessors' association of Texas here today.

Mary Pickford Is Back On Screen This Time In A Ragamuffin's Role

The saucy, mischievious imp who is beloved by millions throughout the world is back on the silver screen.

Mary Pickford has forsaken the ruffled laces and bejeweled gowns of costume plays and has returned to the type of role that made her famous.

"The World's Sweetheart" is again the curly haired, prank playing, impetuous Irish lassie in "Little Annie Rooney" her latest United Artists corporation photoplay, which comes to the Olympic theater today.

"Little Annie Rooney" starts with a fight and ends with a fight. In between are laughs galore, a tear or two, much suspense and many heart throbs. It's an ideal story for Mary Pickford and her characterization of Little Annie is one of genuine artistry, played as no other actress could play it.

The story is one of the slums of New York, an epic of those crowded, musty thoroughfares on the East Side, where men, women and children in motley array swarm like ants in an ant hill.

Little Annie is one of a million there. She is the leader of a gang of boys which is continually getting into battles with a rival gang.

While still a child Annie is plunged into a maelstrom of dramatic incidents that first sober the impulsive girl, then bring out the heroic qualities so often found in children of the slums.

"Little Annie Rooney" is from an original story by Katherine Hennessey. The title is familiar through the old time song of that name, but there has never been a book nor a story of "Little Annie Rooney."

William Beaudine, who was a property boy at the old Biograph studio in the day when Miss Pickford was an extra there, directed the picture.

A notable cast, including William Haines, Spec O'Donnell, Vola Vale, Eugene Jackson, Carlo Schipa, Gordon Griffith, Walter James, Hugh Fay and many others are seen in support of Miss Pickford.

MARY PICKFORD in LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY
AT THE OLYMPIC TODAY

"Little Annie Rooney" is declared to be Miss Pickford's best picture in her eventful screen career. It is the type of picture which should please everyone, has been given a sumptuous production and the photography by Charles Rosher and Hal Mohr is beautiful throughout.

The coming of "Little Annie Rooney" is an event of magnitude in the present theatrical season.

Texas and Oklahoma Are Much Interested In $1000 Elephant Prize

Have you the elephant bug? If you haven't, it's a wonder for you've been exposed to it. What is the elephona bug? Just this. The Record-News has an elephant contest with $1,000 for its readers and friends and what's more this great contest will close positively on November 14 at 9 p. m. You've read the elephant ads and stories. You know what it's all about. Now sit down and add the elephant and if you're correct in your addition and follow the other rules, we guarantee you'll be agreeably surprised shortly after November 14.

Turn to the elephant ad which you will find in a part of this paper. You can see how fascinating the game of addition can be and how much richer it will make you. Be sure you read all of the rules. They are simple. If you need more elephants for your addition come into the Record-News office and we'll give them to you free of charge.

Many Inquiries

Everybody in Texas and Oklahoma seems to be interested in the elephant contest judging from the inquiries and the answers. One Wichita Falls lady came into the office yesterday with her solution and also with her tiny daughter. She told the contest manager that the little girl had seen her adding the elephant so much, that while riding down on the street car she saw the car ad with the elephant. "Oh, mama," she called excitedly, "there's another elephant to add."

The elephant game is a wonderful pastime for the evening only do not take too many evenings doing it. You have just exactly eight days left for the addition. Everyone has an equal chance. Papa can't add a bit better than Johnnie and though mama may know all about making biscuits, sister is not so dumb herself when it comes to adding.

Anybody Can Do It

Stone described the victim of Blazer's act as "a human being," who was fully developed above the waist, but who never [illegible]ed the limbs of a child.

He said that on the day of the slaying Dr. Blazer remained at home with Hazel, while Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shop, his son-in-law and daughter, went to Denver. When they returned he declared the house was locked and after forcing entrance through a window discovered the dead girl.

Dr. Blazer's first words he declared, were to ask if they had seen anything of a "can of chloroform." A wet towel, soaked with chloroform, was found in the house, Stone declared.

The defendant sat with downcast eyes and arms folded as he heard himself branded by prosecution attorneys as his daughter's murderer "with the malice aforethought." Dr. W. S. Dennis, who performed the autopsy, gave his opinion that the girl was either poisoned or chloroformed.

Coyote-Quanah, Pup-Olney Grid Games Postponed

John Tarleton-Wichita Falls Junior College Go Held Over Until Today

McCallum Invades League Headquarters With Ineligibility Claims Against Electra Eleven

Wichita Falls Junior college's game scheduled Friday at Stephenville with John Tarleton A. & M. gridsters was held over until this afternoon because of a heavy rainfall on the Plowboys' clay field yesterday morning. The Indians in tangling with the Junior Aggies are the only Wichita Falls moleskin entry which will perform over the week-end.

The Wichita Falls high school game scheduled with Quanah at Quanah this afternoon has been indefinitely postponed. The Wichita Falls Junior high school contest billed for this afternoon with Olney at Spudder park was called off yesterday because of wet grounds. There will be no game for fear of damaging the turf of what is expected to prove the best baseball field in Texas next fall when the Spudders resume their quest of a league pennant.

Coyote Coach Bud McCallum departed Wichita Falls Friday for Austin and interscholastic league headquarters where he will file charges with Roy B. Henderson, league head, to effect Electra high school has used ineligible players in league contests.

This move, said McCallum, came as result of protests made by Electra against both Vernon and Wichita Falls on similar charges. The league has ruled that all games played by the Lions and Coyotes are forfeited. The Electra-Wichita Falls game goes to Electra. The ernon-Electra game was awarded Electra, and the Vernon-Wichita Falls contest to the Coyotes.

Should McCallum make his charges stand this morning at Austin all games played with Electra will be thrown out.

The Plainview-Vernon game scheduled Wednesday afternoon is off, from all appearances. Plainview officials declared reluctance to play the contest unless it was absolutely necessary. Henderson declared they didn't have to stage the game unless they desired to do so. Therefore, it is more than likely the game will be called off when Vernon and Plainview officials get together today, said the Record News' Vernon correspondent over long distance telephone Friday night.

Tigers Drill of 1926 Foray

Electra's Tigers, tentatively speaking champions of district one, because Wichita Falls and Vernon games have been thrown out due to use of ineligible players, is still working away for that Amarillo game, a non-title bearing contest, billed on the Panhandle team's grid Wednesday.

Meanwhile, representatives of Wichita Falls and Vernon are in Austin at interscholastic league headquarters today endeavoring to show that Electra, also, should be placed under the ineligibility ban.

The club went through a very hard workout Thursday, indulging in a passing and signal practice and followed up with a mean scrimmage session which lasted until nightfall.

In the scrimmage, Reese used no one in the backfield except these who are eligible for next year. In the first team backfield, Carnahan was at full, Wright and Kent at halves and Lebus at quarter. For the second stringers, Gillum was at full, Melton and Osborne at halves and Bell at quarter.

Willis Carnahan made a very impressive debut in the backfield. He showed skill in plunging the line and circling the second string wingmen for numerous long gains. He also showed up well on the heaving end of a number of long passes. Carnahan is a passer extraordinary as he tosses the oval very accurately and for great distance. Kent also showed up well at half as did Lebus at quarter and Wright at half.

For the second stringers, Gerald Gillum was the most consistant ground gainer while his team was on the offense. He circled the first team ends and plunged the line almost at will for good gains. He also flashed on the defense. Trever Bell, at quarter continued to show well on the defense, breaking through the line to down his man for a loss on many occasions. Jesse Weaver at guard and Leroy Simms at center also made good showings, both on the defense and offense.

All of the injured were back in camp Thursday. Brewer Smith, husky lineman was out in uniform for the first time since the Quanah game but he failed to see much action. Captain Sanderlin donned the moleskins in the Thursday frolic but he, too, was kept on the sidelines during most of the afternoon.

Coyotes Work, But Pups Idle

Brown McCallum, brother to Coach Bud, is proving a great aid in coaching the Coyotes. He has had considerable experience at the grid game. Brown was tackle and end with Waynsburg college of Waynsburg, Pa., in 1923-24.

C. C. Frazee and Brown sent a small number of Coyotes through a sea of mud in short practice session Friday afternoon although the Quanah game of today has been called off. In fact, no games for the Coyotes will be matched until the eligibility squabble on in this section has been settled, it was said.

Signal practice, falling on the ball and punting just about constituted the total of practice yesterday. Ed Powell, Buck Steed and Raymond Mitchell flashed smooth form in the backfield. Tank Horton, also, looked slive when he relieved Powell at quarter.

Hunky Ray got off several good punts considering the condition of the soggy ball caused by mud and rain.

It is probable the Pack will take it easy during the next few days.

The Coyote Pups were idle Friday afternoon due to the rainy weather and the fact that they will not meet the Olney club this afternoon.

The club is in good shape save little Ray George who was injured in the Iowa Park game. The Pups should be ready to meet any team in this section of the country that is anywhere within their weight. In every game to date the club has been greatly outweighed and handicapped in this way.

In Clyde Fly, the Tennessee schoolboy, the club has one of its best men. Fly has developed into a nice triple threat man and has proved one of the outstanding lights of the Pups backfield. Fly at present working at quarterback, doing the passing, punting, and a big part of the field generalship.

Captain "Hunky" Farris has been playing a brilliant game at fullback all year and is one of the most consistant ground gainers. Hunky has been out of the scrimmage for some time, but returned Thursday and flashed in his old time form.

FOUR OFFICIALS HANDLE AGGIE-FROG EMBROGLIO

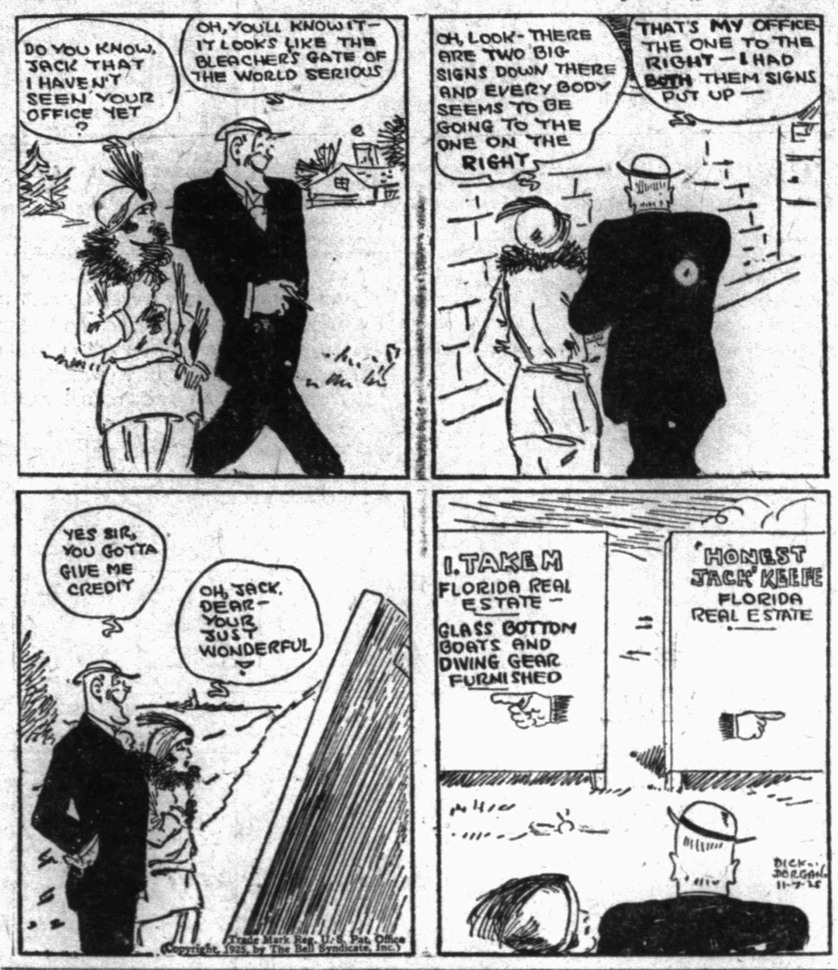

FORT WORTH, Nov. 6—Four officials will handle the T. C. U.-Texas A. & M. game here Saturday. H. C. Kinney (Missouri A. & M.) will referee; Harry Vinor (Missouri U.,) will umpire; Charles Braun (Sewanee,) will be the head lineman. The fourth arbiter will be Ziggy Sears, already well known as Cat left fielder and basketball official in the southwest. Sears is branching out as a football official.

It was the first T. I. A. A. victory out of four starts for Coach Oscar Strahan's mud hogs.

SIMMONS NIPS TEACHERS 10-0 TO GRAB FOURTH

ABILENE, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Simmons university defeated the North Texas State Teachers college on Paramoor field at Simmons Friday afternoon, 10 to 0, in slush and rain. Simmons scored in the second period when Wright place-kicked goal from the 26-yard line.

The Simmons touchdown came on the first play of the fourth quarter when Walker went off his right tackle for two yards. Dillingham place-kicked goal. The ball had been placed in scoring position by Walker's 40-yard gain on an intercepted pass from Slack, placing the ball on Denton's 35-yard line. Estes ripped off 20 through the line. Walker bucked to the two-yard line as the third quarter ended.

Slack and Sportsman were continual threats with their end running and pass receiving but were never able to get away for long gains. Denton opened up in the last period with a flock of passes, completing several for substantial gains.

The victory gave Simmons four "T. I. A. A." wins without a loss. The Cowboys meet Trinity, East Texas and Howard Payne before the season closes.

Cagers Wish For Basket Ball Court

Wichita Falls cagers have been simmering over the hot stove for the last few months, and are still wondering where they will be able to hold the annual league session. At present no court has been located for them to play on.

A town of the population that Wichita Falls has should have a public gym in which all indoor sports can be played, they say. Last year, the league was playing in the old American Legion hall on Ohio avenue. In this place the ceiling was so low that playing in the proper manner was almost impossible and both clubs were greatly handicapped in each game.

This year the league is without a place to play at all, and many young men of this city may be forced to remain athletically idle through the winter.

Grigsby Released To Kansas City

CHICAGO, Nov. 6—(AP)—Denver Grigsby, outfielder, today was released to Kansas City American association club, President William Veeck of the Chicago National League ball club announced.

Tommy Griffith, a veteran who came to the Cubs last year from Brooklyn in a trade, was unconditionally released. These are the first changes in the Cub roster since Joe McCarthy came from Louisville as manager.

Grigsby goes to Kansas City as part payment for Outfielder Scott, who reports next spring. He has played with the club two years, coming from Wichita Falls. Grigsby last spring broke a collar bone in an exhibition game on the Pacific coast, delaying him in getting into shape.

The Passing Hour

~ by Wm. B. Ruggles ~

THE GRID BUG

When in the bleacher rows I sit
And feel the pouring rain come down,
I meditate the while a bit
How happy I could be down town—
No water pouring down my neck—
A hand of bridge, a poker deck.

But when next week the skies are drear—
The outlook is a dripping sky—
Old hope eternal springs to smear
The fear that it will not be dry;
And so I hie me to the game—
With a cold rain swashing off my frame.

Week-end results in the Southwestern conference produced two positive effects. They increased materially the possibilities of the Texas Aggies winning this year's championship, clouded the Longhorn outlook, and definitely eliminated Baylor and S. M. U. from consideration.

The Aggies with an unbroken string of wins of course look best. The tie with S. M. U. left Texas in the predicament where only victories over both Baylor and A. and M. can win, Baylor and S. M. U. with both a defeat and a tie against them can see little chance of success.

From the point of view of decisive outcome, the game at Waco became the most important of the week-end battles and the Texas-S. M. U. tilt at Dallas of secondary value.

Aggie 13, Baylor 0.

AT Waco, Frank Bridges' Bears saw their hopes of duplicating the 1924 championship founder on two factors—their old weakness against overhead and the inability of the team this season to produce a capable punter. Any team that faces Fay Wilson without a kicker who can somewhere near match his distance is up against a starting handicap terrible to overcome—the the Bears were.

The Aggies scored their second touchdown near the close of the game on straightaway attacks, finding an unexpected weakness in Baylor's secondary. But the story of the game shows that the pass threat was largely responsible. They had scored their first marker on two successful passes. With time running as short as it was and the march starting from the 41-yard line, the Baylor team had always to figure the possibilities of the overhead. And they were desperately anxious to get the ball and play for their lone chance of victory.

The outcome appears to have been decisive and the game A. and M.'s most of the way.

Texas 0, S. M. U. 0.

THE Longhorns met in S. M. U. the opposition they expected, since the calculations of team and coaches were based not on their own previous scores or S. M. U. feats but on their scouts' report of the Mustang strength. The unexpected factors in the game however were the trend of the red and blue attack which never left the Longhorns in position to attempt their versatile offense and the remarkably good breaks Cortemeglia got on medicore kicks in the way of rolling punts. The Texas game was apparently largely based on the certainity that Wright and Thompson could outkick S. M. U.

Oddly enough, the two opportunities the Orange had to score came with time running so close to closing moments that in neither case could they unloose their surprise offense.

The outstanding feature of the game from the Longhorn viewpoint was the fine play of the line and the resisting power of the spirited defense that stopped S. M. U. after the Mustangs had made first down on the five-yard line. Offensive play of the backs was not especially startling and the pass defense faltered at times. Saxon and Pfannkuche were sensational in backing the line.

S. M. U. after two comparatively poor games could be expected to flash a good one since the power and skill are there—and did. Yet such is the queer doping of football, that the Mustangs, rated a strong line with mediocre backs, showed at best fair line play and excellent backfield work, while Texas, accorded a weak line strength and plenty of backs, reversed the situation.

This game probably wiped Cortemeglia conclusively out of consideration for all-conference honors and on the other hand for the first time this year showed Key at his best.

Non-Conference Clashes.

THE remaining three conference teams this week all played non-conference opposition and all three came through with flying colors.

T. C. U., booted out of the conference race by its luckless schedule with Oklahoma A. and M. in spite of the battling tie with Baylor, added a 21-9 victory over Abilene Christian in line with the program which is certain to satisfy Matty Bell's supporters as a successful season. The Horned Frogs gave an opponent they were expected to beat a sample of their open and plunging attack and at times shut up like a clam. The Frogs do not impress as concealing their stuff so much as being right at times and at others simply off.

Arkansas took the measure of L. S. U. in their annual battle. The most interesting feature of the game was concerned with the fact that Schmidt showed two field goal kickers and an improved defense. The Razorbacks have always been hard for S. M. U. and may even with a much lighter team and a green one surprise the dope next week.

Rice defeated Southwestern 19 to 0, but played on a muddy field and got little of value out of the contest in the way of preparation for the rest of the November campaign.

Quarterback Out of Frog Game Today

Three Texas Regulars Will Be Missing in Bear Battle

DALLAS, Nov. 6.—(AP) Saturday's southwestern conference schedule engages the conference leaders, Texas Aggies, with Texas Christian university Horned Frogs, Fort Worth, while Texas University Longohrns, runners-up play Baylor Bears at Austin. Arkansas Razorbacks, now in the cellar position, but believed to be a possible black horse in the conference race for supremacy, will meet Southern Methodist university, also on a lower rung of the scoring ladder.

The Rice Owls will be out of the state and conference schedule tomorrow, meeting Louisiana State university at Baton Rouge. The team, 25 strong, arrived in the Louisiana city Friday.

The Aggies and Longhorns both will play with mainstays missing from their line-ups. Three Texas regulars are ineligible and Berry, quarterback, will be out of the Aggie line-up.

The Razorback-Mustang contest at Dallas will be hard fought if indications do not fail. Both teams are determined to fight their way out of the cellar environment and their ability to do so is clearly shown by the recent string of Razorback victories, climaxed by a win over the strong Louisiana State university team and the Mustangs' brilliant tie game last week against the Longhorns.

BAYLOR IN [illegible]
BA[illegible]SHAPE

WACO, [illegible]—A cloud of illness and injuries [illegible] swept down upon the Baylor [illegible] camp Friday found its mark in a number of the first string players who more than likely will be forced out of the game with Texas at Austin Saturday.

Howard Hartzog, star tackle, will be out of the game with injuries; Jack Taylor, giant guard, is likely to be out with an infected leg; Jack Jones, ace quarterback and line-back, is ill and may not get to play more than part of the game; Boody Johnson will be out with an injured knee; Hill Foreman, veteran end, has injured his knee again and will be out.

These injuries will force Baylor to play a number of reserves on the team but it is thought that these reserves will be able to hold their own, although they will be handicapped by their inexperience.

There will be no alibis, however, was made plain by Coach Bridges. "We are going into that game fighting and with our best team available, and we do not want any alibis," declared the Baylor mentor.

Canter Wins By Muzzle, and We Don't Mean Maybe

PIMLICE RACE TRACK, BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Canter, winner of the Kentucky Jockey club $23,000 stake at Churchill Downs and the $15,000 eastern shore at Havre De Grace, toppled the Pimlico futurity miles for 2-year-olds $40,000 added, with an out-thrust muzzle this afternoon. The clattering hoofs of the Idle hour farm's Bubbling over were only inches behind when Clarence Turner pulled Canter's head down and shoved his nose first under the wire. Display, owned by Walter J. Salmon, was third and commander J. K. L. Ross' Fenestick, an added starter, fourth.

Canter paid $20.90 on a $2 part mutual ticket. His time was 1.40 3-5 on a heavy track. Ruling yesterday as the favorite, the J. Edwin Griffith colt was slighted the wagering today, apparently because of rumors before the race that he had suffered from a fever.

Today's victory brought Canter's owner a total of $59,340 by virtue of his Maryland breeding. The futurity was worth $65,880 with $54,340 to the winner, $5,000 added by the Maryland jockey club for a Maryland colt. Canter's reaching nose also brought his total winnings for the season to $104,474.

Shakeup Expected In Valley Standing As Leaders Tangle

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Missouri Valley conference fans are due for a shakeup in games tomorrow with Nebraska and Drake and Iowa State and Grinnell playing important contests. Anyway the games go, there will be changes in the standings of the four upper division teams. The conference leading Missouri Tigers, however, are in little danger of being shoved from the pinnacle in their game with Washington.

Drake seems likely to be toppled from its perch next to the top by the Nebraska Cornhuskers at Des Moines. Although the Bulldogs have a bright record this season, the Cornhuskers hold a preponderance of power and are favorites to win.

Iowa State and Grinnell go to battle at Ames on about equal terms, although the Iowa State record is the better.

The leaders and tail enders meet in the Missouri-Washington game at St. Louis. The Pikers have not won a game this season.

The Kansas Jayhawkers will be guests of Oklahoma at Norman, with the Sooners considered likely victors. The Jayhawkers have suffered four straight defeats this season while the Sooners have lost two and won one.

The Kansas Aggies meet Marquette at Milwaukee in their first inter-sectional game in years. The Oklahoma Aggies entertain Southwestern Teachers (Oklahoma at Stillwater

WORST BEATING IN 47 YEARS BY PRINCETON MUST BE WIPED OUT, SAYS HARVARD ELEVE

Crimson Scraps Tigers on New Jersey Gr iron This Afternoon in 48th Annual Clash

Harvard's football team and—yea, its adherents—h been living with but one hope and aim—that of sco a victory over Princeton this afternoon on the Pri ton grid and partially wiping out the most humilia defeat in the history of the annual clash of the two te

Never in the 47 years of their relations had the C son suffered such a defeat as the 34 to 0 handed them last year by the Tigers.

The teams, rivals back in the late 70's and through the early 90's, did not meet between 1897 and 1911.

In the 11 meetings following the modern renewal of their rivalry up to the last season, Harvard had led in total number of points scored as well as in the number of victories. The Crimson had triumphed six times to the Tigers' three. Harvard had scored 99 points and Princeton 70. Then came the 1924 debacle. The victory not only brought Princeton to within two games of tieing the list of victories Harvard had scored, but gave Princeton a margin of five points in total figures.

That 1924 Debacle.

Harvard had faced Princeton teams boasting of the Poes, Big Bill Edwards, Sammy White (oh, what a run that boy made), Sam Lourie and a long list of great gridiron fighters who made Princeton history. But though the Crimson colors were lowered at times Harvard students had held their heads high. There was always a measure of glory in the defeats.

But last year!

Slagle, Dignan, LeGendre!

One might well list the whole Princeton team in offensive and defensive strength.

Harvard Fought Hard.

The result seemed written in the first few plays of the day. However Harvard fought—fought as a team does with its back to the wall in full realization of what the end must be. [illegible] two periods the frantic efforts of [illegible] Crimson team halted the Princeton rush. Then the Crimson strength [illegible]bbed. Sam Ewing started the scoring with a field goal. I as if he had pulled the flood open.

Williams scored two touchd LeGendre and Beattie one each, booted three goals from touchdow added three more pointed to the total with a field goal.

Harvard was still stunned whe Yale hordes appeared and tra it 19 to 6.

So this year there is much atoned for.

Harvard has taken a new lea life, under the added impetus fu ed by Major Daly, Eddie Mahon Bob Fisher's other aides.

And scent the steam that rises from within.
We know not who was first to give thee birth,
Whose Heaven-directed hand it was that placed
The fairest fruits of this abundant earth,
With spices from some sunlit topic isle
Between those discs of golden flaky paste,
The senses of the gourmet to beguile,
Or light the rustic's visage with a smile—
And teach the very savage the true worth
Of a profoundly epicurean taste.

Perhaps some monarch's master of cuisine—
Inspired by love or wine, as poets are,
Beyond that realm I've dubbed "the pure serene"
To find some new confection searched afar;
Perhaps some housewife, on a dish of hash,
A pot of sizzling apples overturned,
Observed the scent that rose and in a flash
Envisioned that a little kick might give
A fillip that would make life good to live,
Poured in the contents of the brandy jar
And thus the thanks of generations earned.

Let France enjoy her piffling, petit four,
Such trifles may light up the Gallic eye
Let Englishmen, at meal times glum and dour,
Eat crusted stews of meat, and call them pie.
But even though the juices that instil
The savor that is yours and your alone,
Are hard to come by—though the cider mill
Is closed, unless you know its private door—
E'en on this arid and Saharan shore,
When chill November clouds the Autumn sky,
This will not be a strictly temperate zone,
For still you'll come to cheer us—O mince pie!

CLOSING DATE

The Great Elephant Puzzle Contest Will Close At Nine P. M. Saturday, November 14, 1925.

The earlier you send in your solution the longer time you will have to go over your figures, AND SEND IN ANOTHER SOLUTION, if you find you can do better. Additional charts may be secured at any time by calling at the address below or sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope for mailing them. No SOLUTION CAN BE CHANGED AFTER IT HAS BEEN ONCE REGISTERED.

Important Facts to Remember

While the amount you pay with a solution of the puzzle does not have any effect on your winning a prize, it does affect the amount you will receive, should you win one of the first nine prizes, as the value of these prizes is determined by what the winners pay. The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning a prize. Accuracy is what counts.
Not more than one prize will be awarded to any one person.
ADDRESS SOLUTIONS, INQUIRIES, ETC., TO CONTEST MANAGER, THE RECORD NEWS

General Rules of the Contest

This competition is open to all residents of the state of Texas and Oklahoma, except employes of The Record News and members of their families.

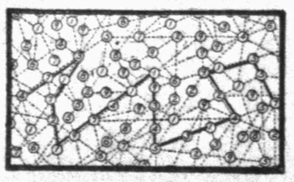

Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they desire provided a payment of one of the amounts designated in the prize list shall accompany each solution. NO SOLUTION UNACCOMPANIED BY A SUBSCRIPTION PAYMENT WILL BE REGISTERED.

The Record News offers these prizes for individual effort. While it is proper for members of one household to work together or several friends, it is not permissible for more than one of those working in unison to send a solution of the puzzle. When in the judgment of the contest manager more than one member of the same family, or more than one of any number of persons he believes have worked together send in a solution of the puzzle, he reserves the right to refund subscriptions and return the solutions he believes have been submitted contrary to the foregoing rule. The Record News reserves the right to reject any solutions it believes have not been submitted under proper conditions. The Record News also reserves the right to finally decide any other questions or points which may arise and those entering the contest agree to abide by such decisions.

In the event of ties on this puzzle, as many prizes will be reserved as there are contestants tied, before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution. For instance, if five people were tied on the best solution, the first five prizes will be reserved for them and they would be awarded the prizes in accordance with the standing of their solutions of the second puzzle. That is, the one submitting the best solution of the second puzzle would receive the first prize; the one submitting the next best, the second, and so on.

Subscriptions may be NEW or RENEWALS. Both count the same.

DECIDING TIES

In case of ties those tied for any prize will be presented with a second puzzle, which will consist of drawing a line across the face of the chart of figures, like the accompanying chart, only larger, so that the figures thus connected when added together will total the greatest sum. If necessary this chart will be used four times, after which, should any ties remain, each contestant will receive full value of any prize tied for.

In case there are no ties on counting the Elephant no other puzzle, of course, will be presented.

An ordinance providing for the holding of an election in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified voters of said city who are property taxpayers therein a proposition for the issuance of bonds of said city in the amount of seventy-five thousands ($75,000) dollars for the purpose of raising funds to pay the cost of construction of public buildings for housing fire apparatus in said city, and levying a tax on all taxable property in said city to pay the principal and interest of said bonds.

Whereas the board of aldermen of the city of Wichita Falls deems it necessary and expedient to borrow money on the credit of the city in the sum of seventy-five thousand ($75,000) dollars and to secure the payment thereof by the issuance of bonds of said city in that amount for the purpose of raising funds to pay the cost of constructing public buildings for housing fire apparatus in and for said city.

Now therefore, be it ordained by the board of aldermen of the city of Wichita Falls, Texas:

1—That an election be held in said city on the tenth day of November, 1925, at which election the following proposition shall be submitted:

Shall the board of aldermen of the city of Wichita Falls be authorized to issue the bonds of the city of Wichita Falls in the sum of seventy-five thousand ($75,000) dollars to mature serially in from one to thirty years from the date thereof, bearing interest at the rate of four and three-quarters per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, for the purpose of providing funds for the construction of public buildings for housing fire apparatus in and for said city and to levy a tax sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds as it accrues and the principal thereof at maturity?

5. Notice of said election shall be given by the mayor by publishing a copy of this ordinance with the words "Notice of Election" prefixed thereto ten days next preceding the date of said election in the Wichita Falls Record News, a newspaper published in said city.

6. That because of inadequate fire protection now existing in the city of Wichita Falls, due to not having sufficient number of buildings for housing fire apparatus endangering the property of the citizens of said city, creates an urgent necessity demanding and requiring that the provisions of the city charter providing for the reading of the ordinances three separate days, and providing that ordinances shall not go into effect until thirty days after passage be suspended, and this ordinance is passed as an emergency measure and shall take effect and be enforced from and after its passage. It Begins to Look Like Faith In Wichita Falls Is Increasingly Justified

REMARKABLE gains in buildings, bank clearings and deposits, postal receipts and oil production in Wichita Falls for the first nine months of 1925, as compared with the same period last year, is shown in the Community Builder, official organ of the chamber of commerce, which is just off the press.

Building permits for the first three quarters of this year were $4,606,791, a gain of $2,826,522; bank clearings were $125,734,924, a gain of $42,934,501; bank deposits were $24,820,609, a gain of $7,337,704; postal receipts were $198,033, a gain of $38,901; oil production was 28,563,329 barrels, a gain of 1,517,477 barrels.

Recent calculations of the census bureau place the population of Wichita Falls at 58,626, or sixth in Texas. In 1920 the city was eighth, since which time it has passed Galveston and Beaumont, the Builder says.

Reports on various activities of the chamber of commerce, a disclosure of the forthcoming bond issue, new industries and business, and other constructive data on this city are given in the Builder which business men say is one of the most complete magazines of its kind ever issued here.

TO GET THE BEST OUT OF YOUTH

Never Let a Young Life Waste Itself P. T. A. Is Told

A busy week has been observed by the Parent-Teacher associations over the city, when a number of them held regular monthly meetings. Especially have the members been interested in the talks by Mrs. C. R. Warren of Amarillo who has given information of her work with school children, how she, as a co-operative agent between the home and the school, kept in touch with the environment of the children, checked the scholastic census, watched after truants, and in many ways assisted girls and boys with their problems.

Speaks Friday.

Mrs. Warren was introduced to a mass meeting of women of the city Friday morning held in the First Baptist church, when Mrs. Homer McGregor, president of the Mother's council of Wichita Falls, presided.

The speaker gave an interesting account of her work and many of her illustrations are applicable to those in this city.

She told how she had made it possible for children who had to work to help support the family to do so without keeping them from school, how teachers would let children out to work between periods. Many boys of 14 years of age who would have been out of school because they had to work found it possible to be in school because positions out of school hours were found by Mrs. Warren.

Cites Girl's Case.

In one case, a young girl was taken away from her parents who would not keep her clean, would not furnish clothing for her, and allowed her to steal. The girl was placed in another home where she was given the treatment a daughter should have had and in that environment proved to be a normal girl, and made excellent grades in her class work.

Another case was that of a man who could not support his small family. He was a laborer and jobs would be found for him, but he always managed to lose them. He was arrested three times, and finally was sent to the county farm where he had to work out his fine, and when that was done he has been able to hold a job and support his family since, she said.

Program Observed.

Mrs. C. Y. Tully sang a solo with accompaniment by Mrs. Lucile Brooks Huff.

Teachers, children and patrons of Junior high school rejoiced yesterday morning when $80 was netted for the school library by the special program given at the school when admission was charged. This brings the fund up to nearly $300. Two hundred books have already been ordered, and they are expected to arrive next week. It was announced that the school will probably enlarge the book fund to $1,000 by the end of the school year.

"Selecting Books for Our Children," was the subject of the address given by Mrs. I. R. Sheldon to the Alamo Parent-Teacher association yesterday afternoon. Comparing the literary diet of the child with the food or clothing diet, she showed how many neglect the choosing or helping to choose the books the children read.

Lists Good Books.

Because children can buy cheap literature, they take it because they can obtain it. Mrs. Sheldon gave a list of books suitable for children. She urged that children not be allowed to read the synopsis or shortened forms of books in place of reading the whole book.

A group of original poems was read by Bertha Mae Krueger. Sadie McKinney gave the story of "Il Trovatore," as one of the music memory contest stories. Louise Nicholls the "Soldiers March' from the opera.

Reports were given by the following officers of the association: Mrs. C. O. Nicholls, Mrs. H. J. Streif, Mrs. L. L. Albritton, Mrs. Floyd Billingsly, Mrs. B. M. Hester, who reported that no one in the district was needy, Mrs. A. J. Newby, hygiene chairman, reported that inspection of the milk used at Alamo school showed that it was pure. Mrs. Abe Marcus told of the purchase of equipment for the playground and that all the bills were paid.

Devotional was led by Mrs. G. Clint Wood. In observing book week she read from on the "Sayings of the Wise Men." Mrs. George Thorburn and Mrs. Fred Sehman sang a duet with Miss Mary B. Adams playing the accompaniment.

Mrs. J. A. Alison presented to the association a book which is recommended by the state council of Parent-Teacher associations as a suitable publication of fairy stories for children. Mrs. C. H. Kemp, president, was in charge of the meeting.

W. W. Gardner, R. E. Shepherd, Judge Guy Rogers, Walter Caldwell, Horace Robbins, Sydney Gaines, Otto Stehlik and Albert Ellis were in Burkburnett Tuesday night, where they attended the Shrine club meeting there. They report an excellent program and an enjoyable time.

A called meeting of the Social Workers' club is announced for Saturday at 12 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. when Mrs. C. R. Warren of Amarillo, co-operative agent between the home and the school, will be the chief speaker. Mrs. Warren's work is along the line of that recently discussed by the local club in its meetings.

Plans for a rummage sale to be held next week by the Junior College High School Girl Reserve club were made in the meeting held at the college Friday morning. The remainder of the period was spent in practicing fo rthe recoguition service which will be held at the First Christian church at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening.

A joint meeting of the committees of the Evangelical churches of the city was held Thursday evening with J. C. Cook, chairman, presiding. Preparations were made for a program to be given Tuesday, November 24, at the Yale Avenue church. A song service was held and the group went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson, 1507 Twenty-fifth street, for a prayer service.

FLORIDA BOOM NOT STABLE AS WICHITA FALLS

Cleveland Business Man Visions Texas Full Steam Ahead in 1926

All territory south of the Mason and Dixon line is viewed by financiers, manufacturers and economists of the United States as the prosperity section of the country, because of the unprecedented development which is taking place in the south, G. M. Spacht of Cleveland, O., manager of retail stores for the United States, and R. N. Ballow of Dallas, manager of the Texas division of the Sherwin-Williams company, said yesterday. Both Mr. Spacht and Mr. Ballow were in Wichita Falls on business.

In Realty's Wake.

"Prosperity has always followed in the wake of real estate development. This has been proven in Wichita Falls, in Texas and in the south," Mr. Spacht said. "A few years ago Wichita Falls began the greatest building boom in its history. Business here now is excellent. Texas, generally, although hit in some sections by drouth, has seen much activity in building this year and conditions are good in nearly every section. Just now the attention of the nation is centered on the real estate boom in Florida.

"The south has had an unusually good year for crops. While there are isolated exceptions, the cotton crop has been good. Other crops have been good and general coditions are excellent. Birmingham's soft coal industry is unusually prosperous at this time, because of the anthractite coal strike. Its steel mills are busy. Textile mills of the east are moving to the south to get closer to the source of raw material. Everywhere one goes, he hears talk of the general development of the south and of the marked progress Texas is making in the agricultural and industrial fields.

Business on Upgrade.

"Reports from the great steel, automotive and industrial sections of the nation seem to indicate that business is on the upgrade. Railroads report greater car loadings, and the steel industry, always a good barometer of general conditions, is on the boom. More furnaces are being fired and production is being increased.

"It is my opinion that conditions in all lines of trade and industry bespeak of a period of prosperity. For a year at least the indications are good for a steady, normal business."

Mr. Ballow is especially optimistic over the growth Texas is experiencing. He, too, spoke of the Florida boom, but said, "Florida has not the natural resources to support a great population that Texas has.

"In Texas the progress is rapid but it is not of the 'boom' type. The state as a whole is advancing on a safe, sound basis. Land, weather and living conditions in Texas are attracting a great influx of good, substantial citizens from the north and east. Low land values and excellent weather conditions here make farming more profitable and living conditions more pleasant. Texas although on the advance now, still is the great undeveloped section of the country with unlimited natural resources."

Name New Manager.

At a banquet last night at the Kemp hotel announcement was made of the selection of Frank M. Favors of this city as local manager for the Sherwin-Williams company, paint dealers and decorators. Mr. Favors for three years has been assistant manager of the store, and succeeds L. B. Huffines, who recently severed his connections with the company to enter into business for himself.

Mr. Spacht and Mr. Ballow were among the speakers at the banquet. Roy F. Davis of Fort Worth, who has been transferred to this city, was introduced as city salesman, and E. M. Hudson, formerly of the Dallas store, as a member of the local sales force. W. H. Upton, cashier, also spoke.

The Sherwin-Williams company bought out the W. S. Robertson Paint company in 1919. The business in the local store has been excellent, Mr. Ballow says.

USE OF SHIPS IS REFUSED

American Legion and Southern Cross Not Considered Surplus

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—(AP)—Effort of the war department to obtain from the shipping board the steamers American Legion and Southern Cross of the Pan-American line for use as transports in the Pacific failed today when General Coordinator Smither, who had been appealed to by the department, declined to interfere.

Colonel Smither, who has supervision over the government's surplus materials under the budget bureau, declared the two ships could not be considered surplus.

Comparison of salaries and expenses for August, 1923, and the same month of this year has been completed by H. C. Michael, city auditor.

For August two years ago the city commission regime spent $117,124.65 as compared with $107,598.44 spent by the council manager regime this August.
