MacLeod asks for new trial

ODESSA (AP) — A Lubbock man was sentenced to 50 years in prison after he admitted killing his wife, a former Playboy bunny, and sawing off her head and hands. But now he wants a new trial because, he says, the prosecution failed to divulge that MacLeod had a broken toe when they arrested him.

Had the prosecution not withheld that information, the outcome of his trial might have gone differently, former sixth-grade teacher Arthur Lee MacLeod, 37, said in his motion filed with State District Judge Tryon Lewis.

The retrial motion, drafted by Lubbock lawyer Carlton McLarty, said medical records showing MacLeod had a fractured left toe could have supported his claim that he strangled his wife after she attacked him with a hand mirror and stomped on his foot.

U.S. vessels are still in gulf

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House today reported no new incidents involving U.S. or Libyan forces as the United States continued air and sea operations in the disputed Gulf of Sidra following the Navy's pounding of Libyan ships and an anti-aircraft base Monday and Tuesday.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said elements of the fleet were still inside the gulf but staying "clear of Libyan territorial waters," which the United States acknowledges extend only 12 miles off the Libyan coast. Libya claims sovereignty over the entire gulf.

Speakes said U.S. ships and warplanes "continue to operate in the Gulf of Sidra in the same general area they have been for the past two days" in an exercise designed to challenge Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy's claim over the gulf on Libya's north coast. Speakes said no decision had been made when to halt the exercise and return to normal operations in the Mediterranean.

Earlier, a Pentagon spokesman, Col. Arnold Williams, said there were no U.S. ships in the disputed waters, but later denied saying that.

The more than 24 hours of peace followed an 11-hour battering of Libyan naval forces and an on-shore missile battery that the United States said fired at U.S. planes over the gulf.

Four Libyan ships were hit during the confrontations Monday and early Tuesday; three reportedly were sunk.

Navy planes also struck a Soviet-built SA-5 anti-aircraft missile site Monday, then attacked it again less than four hours later after reports that at least one of the radar units used to aim its missiles was back in operation.

U.S. officials said there was another "event" Tuesday involving a Libyan patrol ship, but no further details were immediately forthcoming. They said the boat may have slipped away.

In the wake of the U.S. attacks, Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy said it is "a time of war" over his claim to the Gulf of Sidra, and the U.S. government, fearing terrorist reprisals by the Libyans, tightened security at government buildings.

Reward amounts increase

The total reward monies being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killer of Jack Huddleston of Snyder was raised to $4,000 by the Town and Country Food Store chain Wednesday morning.

The 53-year-old Huddleston was shot once in the back of the neck during an apparent robbery of the Allsup's Convenience Store at 3911 College Ave. sometime between 4:15 and 4:40 a.m. Sunday.

Town and Country regional manager Carlton Tanner of Lubbock called Snyder police Wednesday morning and announced that his firm had decided to offer a $1,000 reward in the case.

Town and Country now joins Snyder Crimestoppers, C&W Food Stores and Allsup's Inc. in offering rewards of $1,000 each for information in the case.

Police said Wednesday morning that they still had no good leads in the slaying.

Anyone with information about the incident should call the Snyder Police Department at 573-2611.

Services for Huddleston were scheduled for 2 p.m. Thursday in Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home Chapel.

Initial work done for basin repairs

The single settling basin which serves the city's water treatment plant was drained Wednesday morning to allow for measurements related to equipment repairs there.

In order to drain the basin, the water supply from Lake J.B. Thomas had to be closed off — leaving the city dependent on stored reserves.

The measuring process was expected to be completed Wednesday and the valves controling lake water were to be reopened by nightfall. The city has gone in excess of two days on stored reserves previously.

To be repaired is a large "paddle wheel" device located at the center of the basin. The wheel — called a floculator — is used to stir the water as chemicals are added to it for treatment.

An inspection of the wheel during a recent semi-annual basin cleaning process indicated the bushing which held its center pivot is now completely eroded away.

In addition, the bottom portion of this center shaft is also gone and the wheel now turns from above minus any center pivot-point.

During the annual inspection, treatment plant workers also noted a significant collection of mollusk shells and rocks ap-

AS OIL PRODUCER — Edith Whatley McKanna is shown during the early 1950's at a Scurry County oil rig. At the time, she was the only woman operator with leases in the Canyon Reef area. Fluvanna pioneer dies Wednesday

Edith Whatley McKanna, a member of a pioneer Scurry County and Fluvanna family who was known for many "firsts" during her lifetime, died Wednesday morning. She was 86.

Services for her are set for 3 p.m. Friday at the First Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Steve Smith, pastor, officiating. Burial will follow at Fluvanna Cemetery under the direction of Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home. She died at 7 a.m. Wednesday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

During her life, she was both an active woman pilot and an independent oil producer — two fields reserved mostly for the men of her time.

She married James Everett McKanna and simultaneously took up her husband's interests in both flying and the oil business.

As a flyer, she first soloed in 1929 and became the first woman pilot in Texas to own her own plane.

During her flying career she had well over 3,000 flying hours. She was a charter member of the Ninety-Nine Club, composed of the first 99 women pilots in America.

During World War II, she volunteered for the Civil Air Patrol, donating her plane to the U.S.

Murder link in arrest here

A 16-year-old juvenile was arrested here Monday afternoon, a suspect now linked to a shooting death in Big Spring Saturday.

The juvenile was taken into custody by Big Spring authorities during his normal reporting session with local juvenile probation authorities.

The youth was originally from Big Spring but had been probated to Scurry County in connection with another shooting incident involving a Big Spring man last fall.

He reportedly was living with relatives in Snyder.

He now stands charged with

The feller on Deep Creek says, "It's good for everyone to be petted a little, praised a little and appreciated a little."

A few months ago, we told you about a hotel in San Antonio which offered guests a special weekend in crime solving.

Amateur detectives stay in luxury hotels and roam the grounds trying to untangle a web of murder and intrigue.

Now comes the Corporate kill, a $325 weekend offered by a resort in Buck Hill Falls, Pa.

It allows guests to spend the weekend pretending to be multimillionaire shareholders caught in the middle of an unfriendly corporate takeover.

To win, players must figure out the takeover victor and solve a murder mystery as well.

There was a woman's golf tournament at Lake Granbury recently, and the turnout was so great the women had to use the men's locker room as well as their own. Naturally, on that day, the room was off limits to men.

But eight-year-old Tommy didn't realize that and went walking nonchantly into the men's locker room. He was greeted with shrieks as the women grabbed for cover.

"What's the matter," the youngster asked, "haven't you ever seen a little boy before?"

A feller was telling David Hines why he didn't want to play in last weekend's Heart Association benefit golf scramble.

"I never liked the game of golf. I've found that it's a game where the ball always lies poorly...and my opponents always lie well."

Colorguard winners local

Four Snyder High School students — normally seen performing with the SHS Pride of the West Marching Band — will be performing with the Big Spring-based Mariah Colorguard in the preliminaries of the National Colorguard Championships in Dayton, Ohio April 4.

Brian Gruben, Donny Cook, Jonathan Garrett and Andy Ramirez comprise half of Mariah's eight-man rifle squad.

The rifle squad is joined by a 16-member flag corps to make up a 24-member guard unit.

The group won the right to advance to nationals by scoring 73.7

Local

Maundy rites

Maundy Thursday — the Thursday before Easter — will be observed with four church-related services in Snyder.

Among these will be the last noon service scheduled each day during Holy Week by Snyder's Ministerial Alliance.

The noon address — which will be followed by a lunch — will be at First Presbyterian Church. Tom Holcomb, minister of the Eastside Church of Christ, will offer the message Thursday.

Three other local churches have planned Maundy Thursday events during the evening.

At 6 p.m., members of Grace Lutheran Church will have a pot luck supper at the church. It will be followed by a service at 7 p.m.

Other 7 p.m. communion services are scheduled Thursday at First Presbyterian Church and Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

The public is invited.

Rotary switch

Snyder Rotary Club members will meet at the Willow Park Inn for their regular weekly session Thursday.

The change is prompted by renovation work underway at the meeting room of The Shack.

Marriage down, divorce up in '85

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans were about twice as likely to marry as to divorce last year, but new government statistics show the divorce rate was rising while marriage was on the decline.

There were 10.2 marriages per 1,000 Americans in 1985, down 3 percent from 1984 and the lowest rate since 1977, according to the annual statistical summary from the National Center for Health Statistics.

At the same time, the divorce rate climbed 2 percent to 5 divorces per 1,000 people to match the rate of 1983.

The Center reported 2,425,000 marriages in 1985, down from 2,487,000 in 1984. And there were 1,187,000 divorces, up from 1,155,000.

Overall 1,665,000 people were added to the United States population last year as a result of natural increase — the excess of births over deaths. The rate of increase was 7 per 1,000 people, the same as a year earlier.

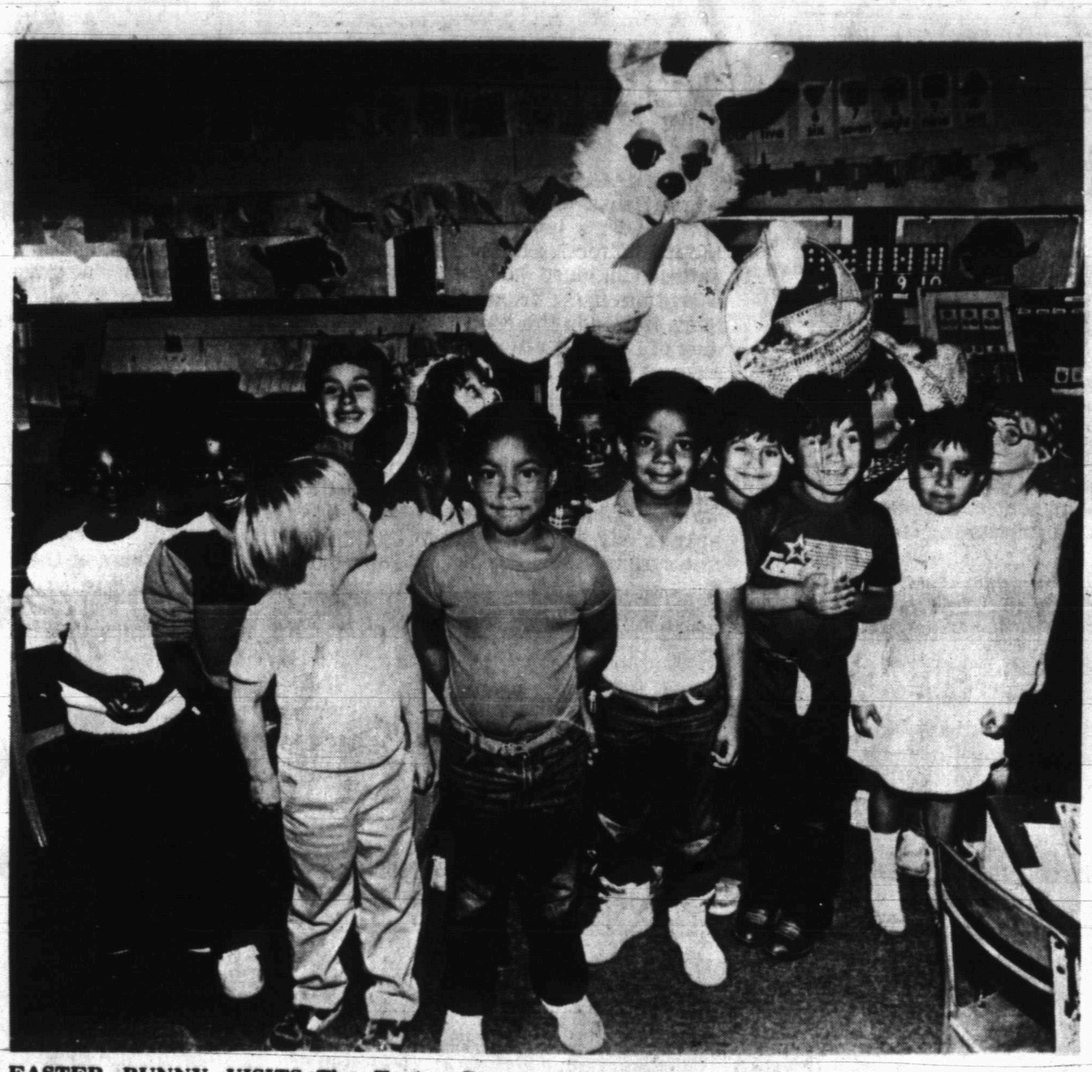

The Center said there were 3,749,000 births during the year, the most since 1965.

But the increase in births is not another Baby Boom, since the rate remained constant, due to the larger overall population. The birth rate was 15.7 per 1,000.

Population experts refer to the current increase in births as an echo of the post-World War II baby boom, since it stems primarily from the large number of Americans born after the war who now are in their prime childbearing years.

After 1987, the total number of births will likely decline — unless the birth rate rises — as the Baby Boom women grow older and leave fewer people in the usual childbearing years.

The report showed 2,084,000 deaths in the United States last year.

Half of town accepts offer

PHILLIPS, Texas (AP) — More than half the homeowners in this Panhandle town have signed up for Phillips Petroleum's $3 million relocation offer, and those wanting to stay are asking where their attorney is.

Phillips Petroleum said Tuesday that 226 homeowners have signed up to participate in the moving assistance plan being offered to some 430 homeowners near the company's refining and chemicals operations here.

Of those, 145 have indicated they want to settle on land the company is developing nearby. Phillips has offered to pay a major portion of the development costs, and the homeowners' portion will be $1,500 per lot.

Stress and sleepwalking

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — We have a grandson, 12, who walks in his sleep. Is there anything we or his parents can do to overcome this problem?

DEAR READER — Although sleepwalking can be caused by seizure disorders, infection and head injury, it is most commonly seen in boys who are fearful, nervous and under stress. Are there unusual tensions in your grandson's family? If so, they might be addressed. Perhaps a pediatrician, who is more familiar than you are with your grandson's health, could give you some concrete suggestions.

DEAR DR. GOTT — You and other doctors keep saying that hypoglycemia is a rare disease. My symptoms are blackouts with my eyes open, terrible mood changes, always being sleepy and down. When I had a five-hour glucose tolerance test, I literally went crazy, vomited and my legs were jerking. I had to get IVs and two shots to bring me around, and my blood sugar was 37. I was put on a hypoglycemic diet, and now I feel great. I see the evidence in my own body, but you "professionals" tell me my problem doesn't exist. Who do I believe?

DEAR READER — Hypoglycemia certainly does exist and, from the sound of your letter, you seem to have the disease. I am glad that your doctor was able to establish the diagnosis and is giving you proper treatment.

Most experts contend that true hypoglycemic illness is far less common than many people believe. Getting dizzy or nervous between meals is not sufficient documentation to substantiate the diagnosis.

I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report on Hypoglycemia. Others readers who would like a copy should send 75 cents plus a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to ask for the Health Report on HYPOGLYCEMIA.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is a parathyroid and what is its function in the body?

DEAR READER — The parathyroid glands — usually four in number — are small structures that lie close to the thyroid gland in the neck. Parathyroid hormone is secreted by the glands; it helps maintain a normal level of blood calcium. Parathyroid deficiency is serious and causes excess muscle contractions (tetany), seizures and death. Bovine parathyroid hormone can be injected to correct deficiency; it is a potent drug and can cause allergic reactions.

Parathyroid excess is a rare condition that results from overactivity of one or more parathyroid glands. It causes loss of calcium from bones and usually requires surgical treatment. This type of calcium loss is not related to the osteoporosis of aging, in which the blood calcium level is usually normal.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott in care of this newspaper at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

'Color Purple' loss bemoaned by group

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Motion Picture Academy's failure to bestow any Oscars on "The Color Purple" is "a slap in the faces" of producer-composer Quincy Jones and director Steven Spielberg, the NAACP says in a complaint.

The NAACP's Hollywood-Beverly Hills branch sent a letter of protest Tuesday to the academy, complaining about what pblicist Connie Watson called a "black-out" — an industry effort to suppress black film projects.

The film about a rural black woman's struggle for self-worth went into Monday night's awards ceremony with 11 nominations.

FmHA official standing fast

CHILLICOTHE, Mo. (AP) — Twenty tractors, some with cabs towering 12 feet, ring the one-story storefront that's home to the Farmers Home Administration here, but the owners of the equipment don't want to keep the supervisor in.

They want David Stollings out, and several hundred signed petitions blaming him for impending bankruptcies in Livingston County.

Fields in the hills along U.S. 36 leading into Chillicothe are freshly plowed and ready for planting soybeans, milo and corn.

'Shopping for ABWA' was theme for Spring Tea

Deep Creek Chapter of American Business Women's Association held its Spring Tea on March 20 at Martha Ann Woman's Club.

President Mary Hall welcomed members and guest. Chairman for the tea, Mary Pownell, presented the actors in a skit entitled "Shopping for ABWA."

Each actor was dressed in the year they represented and carried purple shopping bags.

ABWA was incorporated in Sept. 1949 in Kansas City, Mo. after Hilary A. Bufton Jr. talked with business men and women in various occupations. At the end of the first year there were 21 active chapters. There are over 2000 chapters today.

The ABWA Company was formed in Dec. 1950 to assume responsibilites of selecting and training staff and providing continuous membership service.

ABWA offers its members a membership card, a membership pin, coverage by vehicular accident insurance, group rates on other insurances, the magazine, Women In Business, published six times a year.

The chapter sponsors scholarships and participates in the National Stephen Bufton Memorial Educational Fund.

Chapter meetings provide a setting in which members can gain poise, self-expression and develop lasting friendships.

ABWA is an educational association and should never be referred to as a club or sorority. It should be referred to as chapter or association.

Two regional meetings are held annually in each of the association's six districts. National conventions are held each October or November.

Membership is by invitation only. If anyone is interested contact any ABWA member.

Following the skit, punch and cookies were enjoyed by three guests and 11 members.

Snyder Nursing Center to raise funds for Arthritis

Snyder Nursing Center will be raising funds for the Arthritis Foundation. A garage sale will be held March 28, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the nursing center. A garage sale will be April 4 at the home. A rock-a-thon is scheduled for April 7.

The center is striving for a goal of top fund raiser for Beverly Enterprises in the Arthrits Foundation Drive. The top fund raising center will be visited by country singer, Mickey Gilley, to personally thank the residents and staff for their support and fund-raising efforts.

The Arthritis Foundation Telethon will be hosted by Gilley on April 27. Gilley has been the Telethon host since 1982. The nationally televised program is a success each year in bringing help to millions of Americans with arthritis.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG

Q. — A leak occurred in a cold water pipe in our basement. It was such a small leak that there was a drip only every few minutes. I wrapped some black electrical tape around it and the leak stopped. It has been that way now for several weeks. Is it all right to leave it that way or is a more permanent repair needed?

A. — Since the leak was so very tiny, it is likely the tape is sufficient to do the job. However, it may only be a question of time before the trouble starts again. Consider a better repair, perhaps with some rubber and a metal clamp. In the meantime, keep a close eye on the pipe.

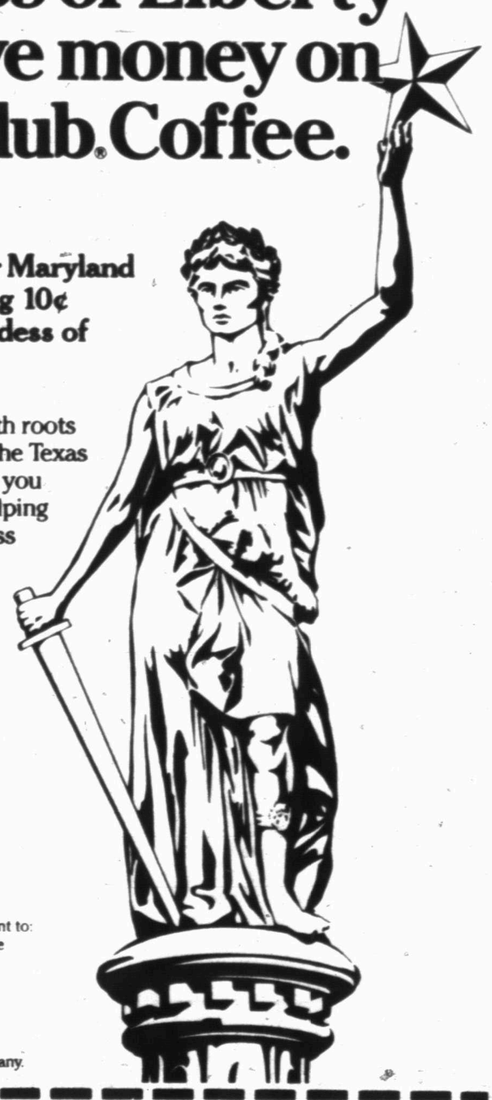

Q. — We have an old-fashioned toilet tank, with a float ball at the end of a horizontal rod. I think the float ball needs to be replaced. Is there any way to tell when this is necessary?

A. — When a float ball develops leaks, it begins to float too low in the water rather than on top of it. If the float ball is covered more than half way with water, the chances are it needs to be replaced.

Housing upsurge like Halley's comet event

By The Associated Press

Mortgage rates have tumbled below 10 percent, house sales are booming and homeowners are storming banks to refinance and cut their monthly payments. Bob Allen thinks the trend, while it lasts, is out of this world.

"It's like a Halley's comet event. It only happens once in a while — and it's here," exclaimed Allen, office manager for Winchester Mortgage Co. in Denver.

He's certainly not alone in his excitement.

"Oh, my God ... we're seeing tremendous activity," enthused Debbie Rumel, vice-president of Carolina Home Mortgage Corp. in Hendersonville, N.C. "We've been waiting a long time for this to happen. Now it's happening, we're understaffed and it's crazy."

Going crazy, too, are the nation's home-building industry, realty-agent licensing offices and ordinary people who finally see a chance to realize the dream of owning three bedrooms and a bath-and-a-half of their own.

The question now is: How long can it last? Some hard-sell consumers are holding out for even better deals, and opinion is divided on whether they'll be rewarded.

"I still get the feeling the real rush is yet to come," said David Walker, chief economist with People's Bank in Bridgeport, Conn. "If the consumer perceives that interest rates have bottomed out and are on the way up, (the market) will become even more fever-pitched."

"Sometime in the near future we could see a rate below 9 percent," said Greg Childers of the Paramount Bond & Mortgage Co. in St. Louis.

Countered Al Karlander of Inland Mortgage Co. in Indianapolis, "I can't see it getting much lower."

In the meantime, lenders are innovating in the scramble for customers.

Wauwatosa Savings & Loan in suburban Milwaukee has voluntarily lowered rates one percentage point on about 1,000 mortgages at 11.9 percent, and president Raymond Perry said he might lower the rate again. No fees were charged the borrowers.

"I've gotten calls from some competitors saying don't do this," he said.

"Free" refinancing is the pitch offered by a South Carolina company, First Carolina Mortgage Group.

"If they've got a loan that has a 12 percent mortgage or above, it will be switched out (down to 12 percent) with no cost at all — no origination, no points, no nothing — to the borrower," said president David Cannon.

He conceded 12 percent is well above the best rate nowadays, but said the exchange could save thousands of dollars for someone who lacked the cash to pay closing costs for refinancing at a better deal.

Among those better deals: 9⅜ percent with 1½ points for a 15-year fixed-rate mortgage at First Atlanta Mortgage Corp.; 9.875 percent with two points for a 30-year fixed-rate mortgage at U.S. Bancorp Mortgage Co. in Portland, Ore.; 9.625 plus two points for a 15-year fixed rate mortgage at First National Bank of Maryland. A point is 1 percent of the principal amount of the mortgage.

The frenzy for mortgages began after the Veterans Administration in Washington reduced the top interest rate for VA-guaranteed mortgages to 9.5 percent from 10 percent on March 3. VA loan rates peaked at 17.5 percent in 1981 and hadn't been below 10 percent in seven years.

Conventional home loan rates had been dropping gradually, but after the VA announcement "single-digit rates" — under 10 percent — seemed to be virtually everywhere.

Loan officers now find themselves the most popular people in town.

Careful Contact Prevents Spreading Genital Herpes

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I liked your answer to "Al-ice's Husband"—the guy who was considering telling his ex-wife's potential suitors that she has genital herpes. However, you wrote, "I assume that you, too, have herpes, and are aware that a person with herpes can live quite normally with it between occasional outbreaks."

Abby, I don't believe you can assume that because a married person has genital herpes, his or her spouse also has it.

I should know. I have had genital herpes for 10 years and have been married for eight years. I told my wife about it before we became intimate, and she has not contracted it because we have been careful. Herpes is contagious only during an outbreak. There are visible "signs" of an outbreak, and if one refrains from intimate contact during those times, there is no danger of infecting his or her partner. I get these outbreaks only two or three times a year, and they last for three to four days at the very most.

LONG ISLAND LOVER

DEAR LOVER: You are absolutely right. I was wrong to assume that because his ex-wife has genital herpes he also has it. He said that he thought it was his "duty" to warn all the men who wanted to date his ex-wife that she had genital herpes, so I assumed that he was motivated by anger because he had been infected by her.

Many readers wrote to say, "When you assume something, you put an 'ass' before 'u' and 'me.'" They were right.

DEAR ABBY: My husband was helping his mom clean out her attic when they came across some stuff his father had brought home from World War II. (His father died 20 years ago.) One of the things was a hand grenade, still intact. It had never been used. My husband wants to keep it as a souvenir.

You can probably guess what my problem is. I'm scared to death the thing is going to blow up, but my husband says it's been in the attic for nearly 40 years and nothing has happened yet, so there is no danger.

Can you ask your experts what might happen to it if it just sits around any longer?

My husband says maybe we should have it deactivated. That would be all right with me, but whom would we take it to?

I've been losing sleep over this. Sign me ...

SITTING ON A TIME BOMB

DEAR SITTING: Phone your local police department immediately and tell them what you've told me. They will send someone from the bomb squad over to deactivate it. Do not touch it. Just call the police immediately and let them handle it.

DEAR ABBY: You frequently counsel your readers to seek the sympathetic ear of their pastors. Though it's sound advice for the most part, I would caution them to ask first what the fee will be.

In deep unhappiness, I recently sought solace by talking with a "certified pastoral counselor," only to be handed a bill for $65 at the end of the session. I could ill afford that amount, and it was not covered by my insurance.

This man came recommended by our church, and I was too naive to consider that a pastoral counselor might expect me to pay for his closer affinity to God.

Needless to say, it was not an uplifting experience. So please advise your readers to always ask ahead of time, "How much?"

AIDS theory given

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — New research suggests that the AIDS virus may kill key immune system cells by making them commit suicide — an idea that could lead to ways to stave off the disease, a researcher says.

The AIDS virus may make the cells produce abnormally high amounts of a protein called lymphotoxin, which then kills the cells, Nancy Ruddle, associate professor of epidemiology and public health at the Yale University School of Medicine, said Tuesday.

"We are now convinced that lymphotoxin can kill the cells that produce it," Ruddle said at a science writers seminar sponsored by the American Cancer Society. But the theory that virus-induced lymphotoxin leads to the crippling of the immune system in AIDS is not yet proven, she said.

Other scientists agreed that more evidence is needed, but said the concept is worth investigating.

Acquired immune deficiency syndrome has struck 18,576 people in the United States and claimed 9,865 lives as of Monday. It has been linked to a virus that kills the "T" cells designated T4 of the immune system, crippling the body's defenses against disease.

T cells normally produce some lymphotoxin to help kill germs, but the AIDS virus may make T4 cells produce abnormally high amounts of the protein with no target cell around to absorb it, Ruddle said.

Central observes fun on Texas Day

Students and teachers at Central Elementary celebrated the Sesquicentennial with Texas Day Friday. Most of the students and teachers dressed like their favorite Texas hero.

The winners of the costume contest are as follows. Tory Garza, fifth grader, captured first place overall. He dressed as Sitting Bull and received a Sesquicentennial T-shirt. Second place went to Lee Ann Sellars, fifth grader, who dressed as a cowgirl. She received a book entitled "The Legend of the Bluebonnet."

Students receiving a cup were Israel Borrego, fifth grader, dressed as Davy Crockett; Adam Bond, fourth grader, dressed as a cowboy; Emily Savage, fifth grader, dressed as a school teacher; Mary Ann Rivera, third grader, dressed as an Indian girl; Katrina Lindsey, third grader, dressed as a pioneer girl.

Students receiving Texas plaques were Wade Moody, first grader, dressed as a cowboy; and Tiffany Garza, first grader, dressed as a pioneer girl.

Wendy Bond, third grader, received a stickler booklet. She dressed as a southern belle.

J. Denver writes song for victims

HOUSTON (AP) — Singer John Denver has penned a song in memory of the seven Challenger victims and says he hopes to perform it at a special benefit for the astronauts' children.

Denver said the song, called "Flying for Me," may make its debut at the sold-out Challenger Benefit performance scheduled for Thursday night in Houston.

"I would like very much to sing it there," Denver said in a telephone interview from Hawaii, where he was putting finishing touches on the song. The final decision must be made by the Houston sponsors of the benefit, he said.

"I will perform it for them when I arrive in Houston, and if they think it is appropriate, then we will include it Thursday night," he said.

The benefit is for the children of the seven Challenger astronauts who died when the space shuttle exploded shortly after takeoff.

Denver said he had a special attachment to the Challenger crew, especially New Hampshire teacher Christa McAuliffe, because her presence made the event seem so much more personal.

"It was one of us up there. It wasn't an astronaut or a politician; it was another person. That was the incredible thing," he said.

"I knew all of those folks personally but not closely," he told the Houston Chronicle. "Those people signified the very best of America and our achievements."

Thursday's performance is sponsored by the Houston Symphony Orchestra, Houston Ballet, Houston Grand Opera, Society for the Performing Arts and Theater Under the Stars' Humphreys School of Musical Theater.

Hatch: ban said not likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate sponsor of a new law requiring health warning labels on smokeless tobacco says a ban on snuff and chewing tobacco could not now be imposed, but he hopes a landmark surgeon general's report detailing the products' cancer risk will persuade people to avoid them.

Sen. Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, praised a surgeon general's report released Tuesday as providing evidence that snuff and chewing tobacco are not a safe alternative to cigarettes.

The study, described as analogous to the famous 1964 surgeon general's report on smoking, declared snuff and chewing tobacco to be "a significant health risk" that can lead to addiction, dependence, mouth disease and cancer.

But Hatch, chairman of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee, said he doubted the report would prompt Congress to take further action against the products.

Congress already has passed legislation to require health warnings on smokeless tobacco containers and to ban their broadcast advertising. President Reagan signed the bill into law last month.

"I think it's the best we could have done at the time," Hatch said. "We'll just have to watch it and see what happens. But I don't think Congress has the desire to tell anybody ... at this point that they have to go out of business."

"We are not in the business of trying to put people out of business," Hatch said. "What we want to do is give people the right to make the correct and proper choices."

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, where a jumbo jet crashed last year in heavy winds, is scheduled to get more wind shear sensors and Doppler radar, officials say.

Donald D. Engen, head of the Federal Aviation Administration, said Monday that the agency plans to install the radar in 1988 or 1989.

The sensors and radar would be designed to detect sudden changes in wind speed and direction. The phenomenon, known as wind shear, is suspected as causing the crash of Delta Air Lines Flight 191 at the airport Aug. 2. The accident killed 137 people.

Engen said installation of the additional sensors is one of the first legacies of that crash.

Clarence R. Melugin Jr., administrator of the FAA's Southwest region, said he did not know when the new wind shear sensors will be installed. He said the system probably will be placed along the airport's approach path.

The airport has five sensors on the airport grounds. Officials have said the sensors are of limited help to approaching planes.

Experts believe the low-level alert system could warn planes taking off or landing of the presence of wind shear, which can force planes flying at low altitude into the ground.

Officials have said Flight 191 apparently encountered a microburst.

Nursing home officials disappointed at mistrial

DALLAS (AP) — The mistrial declared in the controversial Autumn Hills case is "dreadful" because of the wasted work put into the trial, but the case at least set new standards for accountability within the nursing home industry, officials say.

State District Judge Don Morgan ended the murder trial of the Autumn Hills Convalescent Centers Inc. and four people Tuesday after jurors said for the fourth time that they were deadlocked after 36 hours of deliberations.

The state had charged the five with murder by neglect in the death of 87-year-old Elnora Breed. Mrs. Breed died about six weeks after she was admitted to an Autumn Hills nursing home in Texas City.

The state argued Mrs. Breed died of starvation and infection, both the result of poor nursing care. The defense said Mrs. Breed died of cancer, a disease for which she had undergone surgery three times.

Pro-reform groups said the case should still have an impact in bringing about stronger enforcement of regulations, but nursing home organizations said the answer to problems in nursing home conditions will not be solved by writing more rules.

"It's just dreadful," Elma Holder, executive director of the Washington-based National Citizen's Coalition for Nursing Home Reform, said of the mistrial.

Ms. Holder said the mistrial is a disappointment because the case involved hundreds of hours of work and research.

"They've (prosecutors) really tried to tie all the pieces together," she said.

But Attorney General Jim Mattox said that despite the mistrial, "the Autumn Hills case has firmly established that you cannot mistreat our senior citizens without being called before the bar of justice.

"The case has set new standards for enforcement and accountability within the nursing home industry," he said.

Gary Marwitz, president of the board of the Texas Healthcare Association, said he was disappointed in the verdict but that it "reaffirms our confidence in the judicial process."

Ms. Holder said the mistrial does not answer the question of whether nursing home conditions are adequately regulated.

"It's a horrible thing for a society to face, to ask that question," she said. "That's what this case did. It called it murder. It's like we've backed off the decision as to what it really is."

Ms. Holder said the issue of providing good nursing home care will continue to be discussed.

"We expect to see a tremendous amount of action in Washington in the next couple of years," she said.

Dr. Richard Campbell, who organized a protest march in Galveston when prosecutors considered making a plea bargain agreement in the case, said he is not sure how the mistrial declaration will affect nursing homes.

Linda Keegan, director of public relations for the American Health Care Association in Washington, said she would have preferred a verdict that spelled out the rights or wrongs of the case.

Allegations brought during the case point to some important questions, Ms. Keegan said.

"I think it's going to force people to look very carefully at those questions," she said, adding, however, that the answer to problems in nursing home care is not more regulations.

Despite the verdict, the case did serve as a good public education forum, said Campbell, a gerontologist and a member of the board of Texans for Improvement of Nursing Homes.

"We just hope that the industry and the directors of nursing homes will become more accountable rather than more arrogant," he said. "It could go either way."

He said the Texas Department of Health, which regulates 1,100 nursing homes in Texas, has not taken a stern enough view on regulating nursing home conditions and called for department officials to revise enforcement procedures.

But State health commissioner Robert Bernstein said, "I think the message is out that the state is not going to tolerate poorly run homes."

Campbell said the real battle over nursing home conditions will be fought in the civil courts as cases seeking monetary damages go to trial.

The 52 Americans held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran were set free Jan. 20, 1981, after more than 14 months in captivity.

Snyder's Degrate involved...

UT boosters, agents admit to paying football players

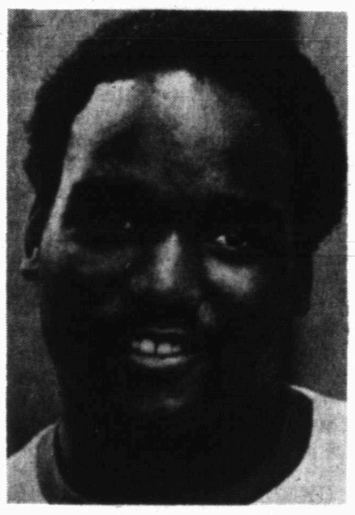

AUSTIN (AP) - Sports agents and University of Texas boosters gave Longhorn football players cash, liquor, meals, free dental and legal services and discounts at apartments, the Dallas Morning News reported today in a copyright story.

Such gift-giving would be violations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association extra-benefit rules.

In two months of interviews with 28 former Texas players, whose careers spanned 1978 to 1985, 11 told the News they accepted cash payments - in some cases amounting to more than $10,000 - while they played football at Texas.

Seven of the 11 former Longhorn players who admitted accepting money said they established long-term relationships with boosters - whom they called their "sugar daddies" or "sweet daddies."

Darryl Clark, a UT running back from 1980 to 1982 who went on to play two seasons with the Arizona Wranglers of the USFL, said "It's like a dream for a lot of players. They never knew they could live like this."

TONY DEGRATE

Head football coach Fred Akers, interviewed by the News in his Austin office on Friday, said he was unaware his players had received benefits beyond the tuition, room, board and books provided by their athletic scholarships.

"I am really, I am surprised," Akers said. "I am surprised, and I intend to turn this over to the NCAA."

Tony Degrate, who signed recently with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers of the National Football League, said his relationships with alumni didn't begin in earnest until his senior year, when he won the Vince Lombardi Award as the nation's outstanding college lineman.

"My senior year just got hotter and hotter," Degrate said. "From alumni walking up to me in the locker room, to my room, shaking my hand and giving me a bill (money)."

Degrate added, "I never pursued a sugar daddy. If I had wanted something, I could have had it. But my senior year I made up for all those years I lost."

In November of 1985, Degrate, who is from Snyder, had told The Snyder Daily News, "They made offers but I declined to take them. I never saw it (being accepted) at Texas. I'm sure some guys did. I know none of my friends were involved in anything like that and I wasn't involved in anything like that...I didn't accept anything because I knew it was against NCAA rules and I don't believe it's right to do it when the rules say don't."

However, Degrate told the Dallas Morning News his senior season in 1984 was full of free dinners, nights on the town, cash handshakes, free clothes and jewelry, and offers from agents.

"I had one agent come in and say, "Sign this contract - for $30,000 cash, and it also guarantees you a house and a car,' " Degrate said. "I turned it down."

But when Degrate did take money from boosters or agents, he said, he knew it was against NCAA rules. He said he was cautious when taking money because "... the guy offering me $1,000 could be an NCAA investigator."

For the most part, Degrate said, he came to rely on Houston agent and UT booster Tony Herry.

Degrate said he and Herry had an understanding during Degrate's senior season that Herry would represent him in the 1985 NFL draft - a violation of NCAA rules.

Herry and Degrate's relationship peaked in December 1984, Degrate said, when he won the Vince Lombardi award.

"During Lombardi week, the alumni spent $6,000 on me," Degrate said. "Me and my friends had a limo. We went everywhere. Bar bills were preset. They was a dinner for my friends that cost over $1,000."

Herry acknowledged paying the expenses for Degrate's family during Lombardi week, the News reported.

"That week was a real high for me, because it was worth the money I spent to entertain the Degrates," the newspaper quoted Herry as saying.

Degrate said there was a traditional cash handshake between him and Herry after every game. Degrate, asked if there was a $100 bill in those handshakes, replied, "I was worth more than that."

During the week of the Lombardi award presentation in Houston, Degrate said, he and several other UT players went to a strip bar.

"There were three or four alumni there, and they gave us a stack of 100 $1 bills to, you know, give to the girls. I'd never been to one of those places, and I never will again. It was kind of funny," Degrate said.

Texas booster Jon Teer, who also is a professional sports agent, also acknowledged that he gave players money, the Morning News said.

"Yeah, I violated NCAA rules, but please don't put that (in the newspaper). You don't understand how important football is to this town. It will ruin me in Austin, it really will."

Teer, who currently represents former UT players Mossy Cade and Fred Acorn in the pros, confirmed he helped former player Ray Hutchinson, a member of the 1983 and 1984 UT teams.

Parker hospitalized...

Tigers schedule game Thursday with Merkel

Coach Albert Lewis had good news and bad news to report about his Tiger baseball team this morning.

The good news is that the Tigers have found an opponent and will play Merkel in Merkel at 4:30 p.m. Thursday. The bad news is that the team will apparently be without starting first baseman Steve Parker for some time.

Parker, who had missed the Snyder Baseball Tournament and was ill during the Tigers' game with Plainview this past Saturday, is in Methodist Hospital in Lubbock today after suffering a ruptured appendix.

It was not known exactly how long the hard-hitting senior would be out of the Tiger lineup. He was to undergo surgery this morning.

"We'll miss him. That is for sure," said Lewis. "We'll be hurting without his bat but we'll do our best to overcome it. Right now we just wish him the best."

Parker was batting near the .500 mark and was one of the team's leading hitters this season.

Thursday's game with Merkel will give Snyder a chance to tune up for the District 2-4A season which begins Tuesday when the Tigers entertain Lamesa.

"We're going to try to play everybody and treat this more like a workout than a game. We want to win, of course, but we're looking at this as a chance to get our timing back and get ready for district," said Lewis.

He said Ricky Hunter, 4-1, would probably start for the Tigers but several pitchers may see action. Jimmy Velasquez, pegged as the starter next Tuesday, could see "a half-inning or an inning" of work.

Lewis was not sure whether short stop Brad Holcomb would be in the lineup Thursday. Holcomb, and backup Reynaldo Gomez, missed two games last week due to illness.

Wyoming vs Ohio State..

NIT finals tonight

NEW YORK (AP) - Wyoming and Ohio State will be meeting on a basketball court for the first time in 41 years when they decide the championship of the 49th National Invitation Tournament.

Whether the Buckeyes win or lose tonight, it will cap the 10-year Ohio State coaching career of Eldon Miller, who was fired Feb. 3, effective at the end of the season. Miller already has been hired by Northern Iowa, while Gary Williams will be Miller's replacement at Ohio State.

"Winning would be a great way to end my career as a Buckeye," Miller said Tuesday. "Winning your last game of a season is a great feeling."

But Miller said he has thought little about the end of his Ohio State tenure.

"I have no special emotion about this being my last game other than wanting to win this tournament and knowing that my players want to win it," Miller said. "I recruited these kids and want them to get everything out of the game that they can."

In the first and only meeting between the two teams, on Jan. 5, 1945, Ohio State won 42-36. Based on Monday night's semifinals at Madison Square Garden, the two teams might have that many points by halftime in tonight's championship game.

Ohio State whipped Louisiana Tech 79-6[illegible] and Wyoming defeated Flo[illegible] 67-58 in games that saw both winners dominate the opposition inside.

Brad Sellers, who plays forward at 7-foot while shorter but heavier Keith Wesson and Clarence McGee share the center spot, had 23 points, 13 rebounds and nine blocked shots for Ohio State. Guard Dennis Hopson also had 23 points for the Buckeyes.

Broad-shouldered sophomore guard Fennis Dembo had 23 points on 10-for-15 shooting for Wyoming, with nearly all of his field goals coming inside against a Florida team with no player taller than 6-7. Eric Leckner, a 6-11 center, added 19 points and 12 rebounds for the Cowboys.

Wyoming Coach Jim Brandenburg calls Ohio State "a typical Big 10 team - big, strong and aggressive." Miller agrees that the game will be aggressively played, but he says the Big Ten's reputation for toughness is overblown.

Freak injury keeps Hough from starting for Rangers

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) - A freak injury has knocked veteran knuckleballer Charlie Hough out of his opening night pitching assignment for the Texas Rangers.

Hough broke the little finger on his right hand Monday night - during a fancy handshake with a friend. The severity of the injury wasn't discovered until Tuesday, and general manager Tom Grieve announced that Hough would be placed on the 21-day disabled list immediately.

Manager Bobby Valentine tabbed rookie Jose Guzman as Hough's replacement for the April 8 opener in Arlington Stadium against the Toronto Blue Jays.

Hough said the accident happened as he left a party just before 10 p.m. Monday. Hough had shaken hands with his friend, then the two locked fingers and continued the handshake in a semi high-five.

He put ice on it in his hotel room, but did not think it was serious until it began to hurt while he was riding an exercise bike Tuesday morning. X-rays showed a break in the bone - it is below the lower knuckles of the finger but does not affect the joints.

Hough is scheduled for surgery Thursday by hand specialist Dr. Jose Diaz of Fort Lauderdale, who will implant a steel pin into the finger to hold the bones together and facilitate recovery.

Hough will need another 10 days after Thursday's surgery before he can resume throwing, and he would not come off the disabled list until a week into the season.

"They say three weeks, but I'm saying less than that," Hough said. "I figure I'll miss a week of the regular season. I can't imagine it taking more time than that. That finger doesn't even touch the ball."

Guzman, 1-0 with a 2.45 earned-run average in "A" exhibition games this spring, was happy about being named to start in Hough's place. He is scheduled to pitch twice more before the Rangers break camp.

"I will be very excited," said the 22-year-old righthander, who was 3-2 for the Rangers last September. "But at the same time I feel sad for Charlie. I want him to get ready fast."

Hough was the one veteran assured of a place in the starting lineup. Valentine has been looking at the possibility of putting three rookies in the rotation with him - Guzman, Bobby Witt, and Edwin Correa. His injury may prolong the stay of another pitcher - possibly Burt Hooton or Dave Rozema.

Youth tourney planned

Flames II will sponsor a softball tournament for boys and girls ages 7 to 10 and 11 to 13 at North Park on April 12.

Entry fee will be $50 per team.

For more information, contact Ann Harrell at 573-1412 or call 573-8027.

Softball meeting April 1

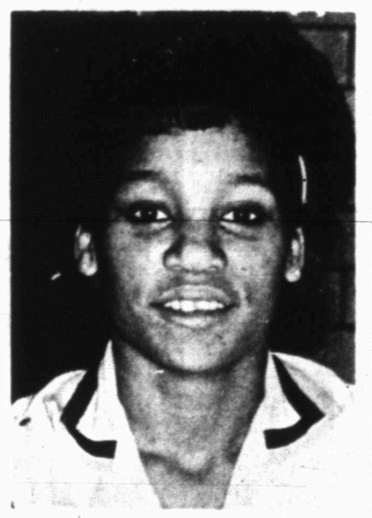

Snyder Men's Slowpitch Softball Association will hold a meeting for all team managers Tuesday, April 1, in the Texas Electric Ready Room at 7 p.m.

The meeting will be the deadline for turning in team fees of $350. Several items of business will also be discussed.

Thompson all-state on cage court, too

The honors list keeps growning for Snyder's Karlene Thompson, who has been named all-state for the second time as a senior.

Thompson, earlier named all-state in volleyball, has now been selected first team all-state in basketball by the Texas Girl's Coaches Association.

KARLENE THOMPSON

The 5-6 standout, who averaged 26 points and 11 rebounds a game, was also named third team all-region by the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches.

Thompson, a senior, had earlier been honored as 2-4A all-district and all-South Plains.

A three-sport standout, she was chosen all-district, all-state tournament and all-state in volleyball, and currently holds the state's fourth-best distance in the triple jump (38-¾) and eighth best in the long jump (18-7¼).

She has signed a volleyball scholarship with Texas Tech University.

Area cagers reap honors

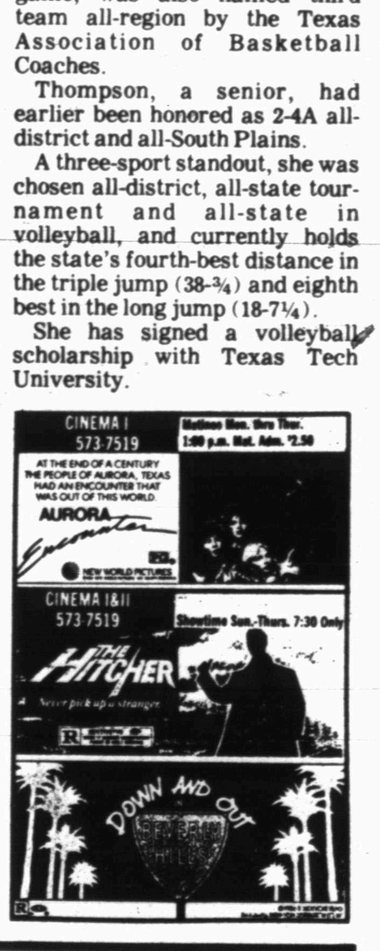

Area basketball players received special recognition from the Texas Girl's Coaches Association and Texas Association of Basketball Coaches this week.

Borden County's Kelli Williams was named second team all-state by the TGCA and second team all-region by the TABC.

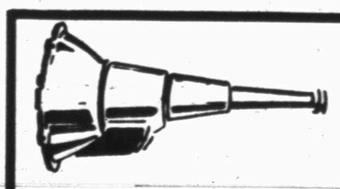

Williams, a 5-4 junior guard, averaged 17.1 points while hitting .470 from the field and .760 from the free throw line.

Also receiving honors was Ira's Stacy Forbes, who was named third team all-region by the TABC.

Lamesa's Jerry Mason was named all-state and all-region first team TABC while Andrews' Doodle Woods was named third team all-region TABC.

Rates in decline

DALLAS (AP) — Declining mortgage interest rates across the country have opened doors for Texas homebuyers, but realtors warn the rates could go up as quickly as they fell.

"We're in a buyer's market," said Jim Fite, president of the Greater Dallas Board of Realtors. "The rates are good. The rates have bottomed out. The buyer apathy is gone."

Interest rates in Texas are around 10 percent — down from as high as 15 percent in recent years — and the lowest since 1979, realtors said.

Many couples across the state are going to mortgage companies to re-negotiate more attractive rates.

"With the way interest rates are now, they have opened up a lot of opportunities for people," said Steve Roberts, president of InterFirst Mortgage of Dallas. "But there are individuals who are going to wait a little longer to see if they go down farther."

SCOOP hires couple as new houseparents

Ronnie and Denise McCarty have been hired as houseparents for SCOOP's Friendship Home, announced Melinda Drum, board president. "We are pleased the McCartys are joining our staff," she said. "Their experience and enthusiasm will be a great asset to our program."

Mrs. McCarty is a child care worker at Abilene Girl's Home and the couple have been houseparents there. McCarty works in the electronics field.

The McCartys and SCOOP director Olivia Rogers are now attending seminars to qualify Friendship Home as a licensed, theraputic foster home. The McCartys will move into Friendship Home on April 1.

Friendship Home is a long-term foster home for abused and neglected girls from the surrounding area and region. For more information about becoming a volunteer or member of SCOOP call 573-5323.

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND PARTIES:
You are hereby notified of the opportunity for written public comment concerning the Construction Permit Application No. 17033 by Mobil Producing Texas & New Mexico Inc. to construct a water injection plant in Kent County, Texas. The proposed location is approximately eight and one-half miles northwest of Clairemont, Texas or 3363 feet northwest of the southeast corner of Section 193, Block G, W. & N.W. RR. Co. Survey. This facility proposes to emit the following air contaminants: volatile organic compounds, carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxides. The Executive Director of the Texas Air Control Board has make the preliminary determination to issue this permit. Before a permit can be issued for this facility, all emission sources must demonstrate compliance with all Rules and Regulations of the Texas Air Control Board and all applicable Federal Regulations. This includes the application of "best available control technology" to each emission source and compliance with all ambient air quality standards.
A copy of all materials submitted by the applicant is available for public inspection at the Texas Air Control Board Abilene Regional Office at 1290 South Willis, Suite 205, Abilene, Texas 79605, telephone (915) 698-9674, and at the Texas Air Control Board, 6330 Highway 290 East, Austin, Texas 78723, telephone (512) 451-5711. All interested persons may inspect these materials and submit written comments to the Executive Director of the Texas Air Control Board. Any person who may be affected by emissions of air contaminants from the proposed facility may request a hearing from the Board. All comments received in writing by April 28, 1986 shall be considered by the Board in making its decision on the application. All comments will be made available for public inspeciton at the Texas Air Control Board Office in Austin.

Talks to continue

HOUSTON (AP) — Texaco Inc. and Pennzoil chiefs will continue talks in an attempt to settle their multibillion-dollar dispute out of court, Pennzoil attorney Joe Jamail says.

Pennzoil Chairman Hugh Liedtke and Texaco's chief executive officer John McKinley met Tuesday in New York, but the only agreement reached after two hours was to continue meeting, Jamail said.

"They have agreed to hold further meetings, but we haven't set any dates," he said from his Houston office after Tuesday's meeting.

Liedtke scheduled the meeting after McKinley wrote to him suggesting the two sit down and talk face-to-face, Jamail said.

returned to Scurry County to organize and manage the Imperial Oil Company and to secure early oil leases that played an important role in the development of the oil fields in Scurry County. Her discovery well was the Ossie Buffalo in the Fuller Field.

A picture of the time shows her at a lease site, framed between two rig hands. She is pictured wearing a white hat and white gloves, a trait she said she adopted "to let them know a lady was on the site."

She visited the rig sites often during the boom of the early 1950's, but said she never went onto the derrick floor, noting it was "man's work" there.

More recently, she has been know as a benefactor for Western Texas College, its related Scurry County Museum and historical projects to include the Dodson House.

She was interested in Japanese culture and donated the Japanese water garden which surrounds the campus museum.

She lived at Rock Ledge Farm near Fluvanna. It was the scene last June for events related to the Fluvanna Old Settler's Tea and High School Reunion, an event Mrs. McKanna was instrumental in planning.

She was born between McGregor and Waco to Daniel and Elizabeth Whatley. Her family has had interests in Scurry County since 1880 when her grandmother, Mary Whatley McGregor, came to the Fluvanna area.

Mrs. McKanna's uncle, Douglas McGregor, settled in the community of Light before 1900. He was instrumental in the development of Fluvanna and had the first post office.

She went to elementary and high school at Fluvanna, then attended the Sacred Heart Academy, Waco; the Academy of Mary Immaculate, Wichita Falls; and Columbia University.

She was a member of Ikebana International, having received her professorship in Ikebana at Saga School, Kyoto, Japan.

Her husband James died in 1932. They had one daughter who died in 1980.

In February, 1951, she received a scroll of Distinction in the Field of Petroleum from Vice President Barkely, as one of seven of the Southwest's Most Distinguished Women.

She was also active in various county organizations. She was a founder of the Martha Ann Woman's Club, a life member of the Garden Club, a National Garden Club member, a member of Scurry County Historical Commission and a past chairman; a director of Snyder Country Club and member of the Presbyterian church.

She organized the Woman's Golf Association and was furnishings chairman for the historic Dodson House.

She gave the furnishings for the McKanna Parlor at the Ranching Heritage complex at Texas Tech University in Lubbock. The parlor was given in memory of her mother and father. She was a charter member of the Ranching Heritage complex at Tech and served on its executive board and on the board of overseers.

She is survived by a granddaughter, Betty Massey of Houston; two grandsons, Bill Breem of Albuquerque, N.M. and Mike Breem of San Francisco; a great-great-granddaughter, Ann Fuentez of Fluvanna; two sisters, Happy Rendon of Albuquerque, N.M. and Tissie Silverburg of Dalhart; and one brother, Dan Ed Whatley of Dallas.

parently brought in with the lake water.

They say these shells and rocks are the apparent cause of the paddle wheel's disentigration.

Based upon the measurements taken Wednesday, a new paddle wheel and baffles — the area of the wheel closest to the outside concrete walls — are to be made. In addition, a new center bushing is to be installed.

On March 3, the city council authorized repairs at the settling basin on an "emergency" basis — a situation which allows the city to waive the bid process for repair items above $2,000.

The work to repair the basin wheel has been estimated at a $17,000 expense.

Once the paddle wheel and bushing are fabricated, city workers plan to drain the basin again to effect repairs.

When this occurs, city residents will likely be asked to curtail water use while the work is underway.

Crimestopper murder case leads sought

On Sunday, March 23, at 4:40 a.m., Jack Huddleston, night employee of Allsup's Convenience Store located in the 4900 Block of College Ave., was found shot to death. Authorities believe a small caliber weapon was used.

A customer reported making a purchase at 4:15 a.m. and talking with Huddleston. At least two other individuals, described as blacks, were observed in the Allsup's store. An older model GM product was observed parked near the store.

Four rewards totaling $4,000 will be paid for information leading to the arrest of the person or persons responsibile. These rewards are being administered through the Snyder Crimestoppers program.

Persons with information should contact Lt. Steve Warren with the Snyder police department at 573-2611.

Try compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters and opponents of President Reagan's $100 million aid package to Nicaraguan rebels tried today to fashion a compromise that would win widespread Senate support.

As the Republican-controlled Senate met, Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said the reported incursion by Nicaraguan troops into neighboring Honduras improves chances for Senate approval of the president's plan.

Births

Randy and Lynn Courtney of Jayton, are the parents of a baby girl weighing seven pounds and four ounces. Britney Nicole was born March 20 in Methodist Hospital in Lubbock.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Courtney and Mr. and Mrs. Robby Robinson.

Stolen car is located here

Scurry County Sheriff's investigators recovered a car reported stolen Tuesday on the parking lot of a local construction company Wednesday morning.

A 1977 Pontiac, owned by Maria Aloia of Lindale and reported stolen Tuesday, was found parked at Tri-State Construction Co. on the Old Lubbock Highway around 9 a.m. Wednesday.

The vehicle is thought to have been taken from the Fluvanna area about a month ago according to investigators.

No suspect was found with the car Wednesday.

Grass fire is reported in city

Snyder firemen extinguished a small grass fire inside the city limits Tuesday.

The blaze was reported at the intersection of 17th St. and Ave. T at 3:06 p.m. and was put out with no other property damage reported.

Bicycle theft filed Tuesday

Snyder police officers are investigating a single misdemeanor theft report filed Tuesday.

Barbara Able of 417 29th St. called police at 6:36 p.m. and told investigators that her son's 20-inch BMX type bicycle had been stolen.

The bike is thought to have been taken from outside the Able residence sometime between 8 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

In other action, city officers jailed one Snyder man for failure to pay DPS traffic citations issued in Taylor County.

the death of Albert Gonzalez, 23, of 1205 Mulberry, Big Spring.

Gonzalez was killed by a gunshot wound to the face. Big Spring police found him beside a car at 610 NW 8th St. Saturday night.

Reports indicate the victim was shot as he was getting out of a private vehicle parked at a northside Big Spring residential neighborhood.

Municipal Judge Melvin Durapp ruled the case accidental death since Gonzalez may have been an unintended victim. Big Spring police speculated the shooting stemmed from a feud between two families.

Reports indicate also the suspect — who will turn 17 early in April — could be tried as an adult.

High court approves denial

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The Oklahoma Supreme Court has approved a state agency's denial of a pari-mutuel license for a Love County race track, saying "a nationally known organized crime figure" played a major role in arranging financing for the project.

In a 6-1 ruling Tuesday, the state high court said the Oklahoma Racing Commission acted properly in denying the application of Oklahoma Park Inc.

The court did not identify the alleged national crime figure, but said the person was a convicted felon who "had extensive contacts with the applicant" and "brought all the parties together" in the financing arrangement rejected by the commission.

The court's opinion threw out a ruling by Associate District Judge Charles A. Milor, who ruled in favor of Oklahoma Park, the corporation seeking to build the proposed $57 million race track at Thackerville, just north of the Texas state line and about 75 miles north of Dallas-Fort Worth.

The commission's decision to deny Oklahoma Park's application and to adopt competition-limiting guidelines on race tracks touched off a heated controversy.

State Rep. Kenneth Converse, a frequent commission critic, led a legislative investigation that resulted in unsuccessful efforts to strip the panel of some of its authority.

Converse, D-Tishomingo, held a series of committee hearings around the state where horsemen and others protested the commission's actions. Converse could not be reached for comment on the court's action Tuesday.

Another commission critic, Rep. Bill Brewster, D-Marietta, said he would have no comment until he reviewed the Supreme Court opinion.

At one hearing, Tom Russell, editor of a Texas racing magazine, implied that track applicant Edward J. DeBartolo had links to organized crime.

A DeBartolo spokesman in Youngstown, Ohio, said the accusations by Russell were unfounded. He described Russell as a disgruntled, minor stockholder of another race track owned by DeBartolo.

The commission subsequently awarded DeBartolo and his Oklahoma Racing Associates a pari-mutuel license for a $74 million race track in Oklahoma City. The action came after a report by commission staff, which said checks of law enforcement agencies across the country failed to substantiate Russell's charges.

Oklahoma Racing Associates agreed last week to accept a conditional license to build the race track.

In a related matter, the Oklahoma City Council approved an agreement Tuesday allowing Oklahoma Racing Associates to take core samples of city land and do other testing on the site.

The Love County judge last year overturned a Racing Commission order denying the license to Oklahoma Park. The judge instructed the commission to issue a license, if the applicant demonstrated to the court's satisfaction that it had arranged financing.

The Supreme Court upheld the commission's contention that the financial package of Oklahoma Park lacked "integrity."

The opinion said Oklahoma Park was a new corporation with "total paid-in capital" of $1,001. It said officers were John F. Wolcott Sr. of Shreveport, La., and Laurence W. Ritter and Gladys Ritter of Los Angeles. Efforts to reach Wolcott and the Ritters by telephone Tuesday were unsuccessful.

The court said the Oklahoma Park proposal called for 120 percent financing. It said a $46 million race track was to be financed by a $57 million loan which was to be obtained through the efforts of an employee of a foreign company — Arab International Trust Company, Ltd. — located in England. That company was to receive the actual funds from another foreign firm incorporated in the Cayman Islands.

Berry's World

"LOTS of things have fallen: gasoline prices, interest rates ..."

Administration: no oil import tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy secretary John Herrington told a Senate committee that an oil import tax would "damage the U.S. economy" by raising energy costs and would invite retaliation from other countries.

Herrington told the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee Tuesday that although the oil price plunge has had "serious and adverse consequences for our domestic energy producers," an import fee would reverse five years of free-market policies that have produced "more adequate (oil) supplies and cheaper energy."

The price of crude oil has dropped from about $27 a barrel in January to $12 to $15 a barrel now.

Some lawmakers have said an oil import fee is needed to insure companies continue producing and exploring for domestic oil and natural gas.

Herrington cited the Reagan administration's reliance on free-market policies and called for steps besides an import fee: continued tax breaks for petroleum companies; price decontrol for all natural gas; simpler licensing procedures for nuclear power plants; more coal production on federal lands; and increased oil exploration off the U.S. coast.

Members of the committee challenged the administration's approach.

Chairman James McClure, R-Idaho, said Saudi Arabia manipulates the world market by increasing production in a "strategy to force lower oil prices in the short-term in order to achieve higher prices in the long term."

State asked to probe use of bridge

WACO, Texas (AP) — McLennan County officials have asked the state to investigate whether John Trice is violating court orders by using a private bridge on the Brazos River that he has been ordered to dismantle.

But Trice, owner of J&J Sand and Gravel Co., said Tuesday he is not concerned with a probe by the attorney general's office and that he is operating within legal boundaries.

The saga of the controversial bridge between Patrick and Gholson is well-documented, capturing the attention of at least eight county, state and federal agencies concerned that the bridge was built illegally in March 1985.

The state and McLennan County sued Trice and his gravel company to prevent him from completing the structure. Officials said the bridge was built without authorization, impeded navigation, trespassed on the public right-of-way on the river bed and violated the county's 100-year floodplain ordinance.

State District Judge Derwood Johnson ordered Trice to dismantle the bridge after jurors ruled in favor of the state during a July trial.

Last spring, Johnson issued a temporary injunction prohibiting Trice from using the bridge, except to cross it to remove debris.
