Powers Faces Lengthy Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP)—American U2 spy pilot Francis Gary Powers faces detailed grilling from U.S. intelligence agents when he completes a secret rendezvous with his wife.

Among questions awaiting the pilot, free after 21 months in a Soviet prison, are: What really happened the morning of May 1, 1960, when he was downed inside the Soviet Union? How much did he tell the Russians about his mission?

Preliminary questioning presumably began shortly after the 33-year-old pilot crossed a Berlin bridge into American hands Saturday in a two-for-one trade for Soviet spy Rudolf L. Abel.

Official sources are not saying Powers is in military or government custody, but ever since he crossed a white line where Communist East Germany ends and West Berlin begins, a carefully contrived secrecy has cloaked his movements.

All the White House would say in a brief announcement Sunday was that Powers was home again and that he had been reunited with members of his family.

In a far-flung game of hide-and-seek, dogged newsmen tried to find out for themselves where Powers and his wife, Barbara, were holding their reunion. Various leads pointed to Maryland's Eastern Shore, but the exact meeting place could not be pinned down.

The White House declined to say what family members Powers saw but presumably he met also with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver W. Powers, of Norton, Va. The Central Intelligence Agency was believed to be setting up a board of inquiry to look fully into the Powers case. CIA Director John A. McCone will determine the board's composition.

Another figure in the unprecedented exchange arrived home Sunday, James Britt Donovan, the New York lawyer who defended Abel in his 1957 espionage trial and then negotiated his deportation in a trade for Powers and student Frederick Pryor, brought west still another American imprisoned in the Soviet Union may win his freedom. Marvin W. Makinen, 22, a student from Ashburnham, Mass., is serving an eight-year sentence in Kiev on espionage charges.

Spence Optimistic After Hearings

E. V. Spence, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, expressed optimism that the case presented by the Colorado River Municipal Water District will merit state action in clearing up salt water pollution along the upper Colorado River.

The Texas Railroad Commission completed a hearing Friday afternoon in which the CRRWD had sought to obtain an order prohibiting the disposal of oilfield brines in pits in the Sharon Ridge and North Coleman Ranch fields of Scurry and Mitchell Counties.

"I feel confident that the detailed, technical information, based on exhaustive field studies, which we furnished to the commission will merit action to correct conditions which are resulting in the pollution of the Colorado River," he said.

"It is not our purpose to condemn anyone. We are asking the railroad commission to correct an oilfield operation which creates a condition, the results of which are destroying the fresh waters on the Colorado River. All of these supplies will be needed to meet the demands of our cities by 1970."

The hearing covered two days and was contested by the Sharon Ridge Operators Association, represented by Joe Carroll, of Snyder; James Rosser, Snyder, the CRRWD's counsel, represented the district and engaged Robert W. Spence, Austin attorney, to assist in the proceedings. Others from the Sharon Ridge area were present.

But he and his wife refused to let up in the pace they set in Japan. They visited a teeming resettlement area of Hong Kong Sunday and the attorney general skipped rope with children, helped pass out relief noodles to the needy, sampled free milk and cookies, fired off scores of questions and shook hundreds of hands.

Later he cruised around Hong Kong island in a U.S. Navy barge and wound up his day by putting on a pair of scotch plaid trunks and going for a swim with Mrs. Kennedy in Regatta Bay.

Rough Seas Cast Doubt On Glenn's Second Try

Red Air Corridor Bid Turned Down

By CARL HARTMAN
BERLIN (AP)—For the third time in less than a week, the Western Allies today turned down a Soviet bid to take over part of their air corridors to Berlin. The Soviets then canceled plans to send their planes through two of the vital corridors.

"All commercial planes scheduled to fly in these corridors this morning did so, without incident," an Allied spokesman said.

"A number of U.S., British and French military planes also flew these corridors without incident in the altitudes the Soviets had attempted to reserve."

The Soviets several times announced delays in the flights they had been planning. At 11:45 a.m. the Allied spokesman said, the Soviet controller at the Berlin Air Safety Center said the Soviet flights had been canceled.

The Soviets in the Berlin air safety center had asked for exclusive use of the Hamburg 15 Berlin and Hannover to Berlin corridors—up to 7,500 feet altitude for two hours and 23 minutes. The U.S., British and French commands considered this another attempt to weaken their access rights to Berlin, 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain.

Pilots for commercial air lines flying into Berlin reported conditions turbulent and uncomfortable at that level, with driving rains and gusts of nearly 60 miles an hour.

High Winds In Atlantic

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The worst sea conditions of the winter in the central Atlantic today cast doubt on whether astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. will make his scheduled orbital flight on Wednesday.

But National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials made no change in the date in hopes that the conditions might clear by launching time.

A weather advisory reported that winds of 35 knots were rolling up 10-foot waves today in an area between Bermuda and the central Atlantic—where Glenn's space capsule would land if the flight were terminated after one orbit.

An official said acceptable conditions are seas of no more than five feet and winds of 15 to 18 knots.

The advisory said that the storm which led to these "very disturbed" conditions was moving northward and was expected to moderate today.

"With the storm track in the Atlantic quite active for the first time this winter," the advisory continued, "periods of light winds and sea conditions will be relatively short but it may be possible to have conditions sufficiently quiet by the planned launch time."

Another less intense storm system was predicted for the same area Tuesday, but it should move out by Wednesday, NASA said.

Weather was reported better in the second and third orbit recovery areas—500 miles south of Bermuda and 800 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral, near Grand Turk Island. Moderate seas and wind conditions were forecast for second area and gentle winds and light seas for the third zone for Wednesday.

The outlook for the Cape Canaveral area on Wednesday was for clear to partly cloudy skies, with light winds and sea conditions.

The gloomy weather forecast came as Glenn planned to do his space suit for what he hopes will be his last make-believe trip around the world before the real thing. He was to run through a full 4-hour, 50-minute simulated flight in the capsule.

With the lowering Atlas missile and its complex Mercury spacecraft reported in go-condition for the flight, clouds and waves appear to be the only thing that could stand between Glenn and his off-postponed rendezvous with the stars.

Clouds over Cape Canaveral could force another postponement, as they did on Jan. 27 just 20 minutes before takeoff. Heavy seas in the key recovery areas off Bermuda also could cause a scrub.

This time, however, weather forecasters are in a position to get the inside dope on worldwide weather conditions from outer space. Times IV, the weather satellite that went into orbit just a week after Glenn's last-minute postponement, is busy sending back televised accounts of cloud formations around the world.

"We regard Times IV as an important new addition to the Powers, spokesman for the Astronauts, who as usual was optimistic about getting the shot off as planned at 7:30 a.m. (EST) Wednesday."

Friendly and unfrustrated as always, Glenn showed no signs of strain from the long delays when he attended Sunday services at the Riverside Presbyterian church in nearby Cocoa Beach.

Relentless Floods Plague California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's sixth day of saturation started spectacularly today as cloudbursts opened up on parts of the Los Angeles area, creating lakes up to seven feet deep.

There were flash floods in the Hollywood Hills and a house at 2934 Beachwood Dr. was torn loose from its foundation and pushed into the street.

Storm drain covers were popping open from excessive pressure in many parts of the city.

A woman at 636 Deep Dell Place in the Hollywood Hills reported water was rushing through her living room.

At the intersection of Sunset Boulevard and Pacific Coast Highway early this morning the water was seven feet deep.

It was four feet deep on Vermont Avenue between 48th and 50th streets in Los Angeles. It was over the rooftops of automobiles at some other points.

A police flood control office said all major streets in the Hollywood area were awash.

More than 20 deaths had been attributed to the storm—one of the heaviest in the area's history—before today's violent downpours.

Nearly eight inches of rain had fallen in Los Angeles since the storm started last Wednesday.

Two children died Sunday under tons of mud. An elderly man fell into a 55-foot well shaft and was believed dead. Three other persons were presumed drowned.

Earlier in the storm a boy drowned in a flood-control channel and a woman was crushed to death by a tree that had been undermined by rain.

Police blamed 15 traffic deaths on the storm.

Dams overflowed over the weekend sending water into some homes and improvising other residents on isolated knolls. Scores of major intersections were closed.

Residents of Fontana, east of Los Angeles, reported a damaging twister kicked up by winds accompanying the rain.

The weatherman said the storm should break today as he said it was supposed to do both Saturday and Sunday.

More than seven inches of rain had fallen in Los Angeles. More than 20 inches fell at Juncal Dam in Santa Barbara County and several mountain areas reported 14 inches.

Season rainfall totals were running five inches above normal in the Los Angeles area, the first time they have been above normal in several years.

West Is Unlikely To Accept Summit Plea

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev has proposed an 18-nation summit conference on disarmament to meet in Geneva in little more than a month. The West, seemed certain to turn down the proposal, though a later summit session seems a definite possibility.

The Soviet news agency Tass announced Khrushchev's plan today. The proposal was contained in a letter to President Kennedy delivered at the State Department Sunday morning.

In the letter Khrushchev proposed that the 18-nation disarmament conference—scheduled to begin March 14 in Geneva—start work at the summit level.

It was understood that the session would be confined to the single subject of disarmament, based on a set of principles agreed to by the United States and the Soviet Union at the United Nations last September.

What stand the United States and its allies, and perhaps a number of non-aligned countries, will take in response to the Khrushchev proposal will be determined in urgent consultations expected to begin immediately.

The White House and State Department declined any immediate comment as word of the reported new Khrushchev maneuver quickly circled through the capital.

There appeared to be no likelihood whatever that Kennedy would agree to a meeting with Khrushchev and other government chiefs at the outset of the March 14 talks.

The President often has said there must be adequate advance preparations for a summit conference. He held a recent news conference, did not think meeting with Khrushchev would be advisable under present conditions.

However, if the Geneva disarmament group can make progress toward translating general principles of disarmament into concrete programs of action, there is reason to believe Kennedy might be willing to go to a summit meeting at a late stage of the negotiations. The Geneva group is to report to the United Nations June 1.

The new Soviet proposition reportedly was delivered when Mikhail N. Smirnovsky, ranking official at the Soviet Embassy, met Sunday morning with Secretary of State Dean Rusk at the State Department. Smirnovsky reportedly gave Rusk a seven-page letter from Khrushchev addressed to Kennedy.

Rusk immediately got in touch with the President, who was spending the weekend at Middlebury, Vt., in the afternoon. Rusk called in the ambassadors of Britain, France, Italy and Canada.

The Khrushchev letter is said to have been sent in reply to a proposal which Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan made to him last Thursday. It called for the Geneva meeting to be opened by foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.

In effect, Khrushchev raised the bid by suggesting that the 18-nation session be opened not by foreign ministers but by heads of government.

The Soviet leader is reported to have told Kennedy that the issues involved in disarmament were far too serious to be left to "bureaucrats"—by which he meant the foreign ministers.

Robert Kennedy Arrives In Indonesia For 6-Day Visit

By PETER ARNETT
JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy arrived in Indonesia today for a six-day visit. Before his arrival soldiers scratched off anti-American slogans crudely painted along his route to the capital.

The airplane that brought Kennedy and his wife, Ethel, touched down at the Jakarta airport three hours late. Indonesian Atty. Gen. Gunawan, who had invited Kennedy to visit the Socialist island republic, led the welcoming party.

Kennedy and his wife had flown from Hong Kong to Singapore, and they used their unexpected stopover there for a fast sight-seeing drive about the British Commonwealth island.

Indonesians were annoyed because the United States permitted chartered Dutch airlines with uniformed troops aboard to refuel on U.S. territory en route to West New Guinea. Last week students stoned the U.S. embassy here in protest.

The United States has banned such flights but commercial Dutch airlines carrying troops in civilian clothes can still land on U.S. territory.

Kennedy will have several meetings with President Sukarno—whom he has met before—and other government officials, including anti-Communist Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, the national security minister.

On the eve of Kennedy's arrival the Indonesian army sent 10,000 jungle fighters to eastern Indonesia, apparently to start infiltration of West New Guinea.

The United States favors negotiations between Indonesia and the Netherlands in hopes of reaching a settlement.

Kennedy was carrying a letter from his brother, the President, to Sukarno but the contents were not made public.

This is Kennedy's fourth major stop on his trip. After Japan, he had an unexpectedly prolonged stay in Formosa before continuing on to Hong Kong where he had planned a weekend rest.

But he and his wife refused to let up in the pace they set in Japan. They visited a teeming resettlement area of Hong Kong Sunday and the attorney general skipped rope with children, helped pass out relief noodles to the needy, sampled free milk and cookies, fired off scores of questions and shook hundreds of hands.

Later he cruised around Hong Kong island in a U.S. Navy barge and wound up his day by putting on a pair of scotch plaid trunks and going for a swim with Mrs. Kennedy in Regatta Bay.

Millions Of Teen-Agers Subsist On Sub-Par Diets

Millions of teen-age boys and girls today are subsisting on diets which are below par, according to an article in the December issue of Today's Health, a publication of the American Medical Association.

About six out of every ten girls and about four out of every ten boys in the 13-19 age group are now on diets which should be improved. They need to increase their daily intake of calcium, iron and vitamin C, the article states.

Careful studies of the eating habits of American teen-agers have shown that millions of them are "teggings their 'act when 't comes 'sting for better health, stamina, and over-all physical competence.

These nation-wide nutritional surveys have shown that large numbers of teen-agers fail to achieve the daily dietary allowances for vitamins, minerals, protein and other essential nutrients, recommended by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council.

In addition to the nutritional deficiencies reported in this article, other surveys have indicated that teen-age

Three More County Girls Are Named

Three more Scurry County girls have been announced as winners in their schools for the 1962 Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow. They are: Anna Louise McDaniell of Fluvanna High School; Ronda Kay Glass of Hermleigh High School; and Brenda Darlene Sorrells of the Ira High School.

Having received the highest score in their schools in the knowledge and attitude test on homemaking given senior girls Dec. 5, the winners now will have their papers entered in competition with the scores of winners in other high schools of the state for state honorees.

The State Homemaker of Tomorrow to be named in the spring will receive a $1,500 scholarship from General Mills, sponsor of the program. A $500 award will go to the second highest ranking state Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Later, State Homemakers of Tomorrow with their advisors will enjoy an expense-free educational tour of New York City, Washington, D. C., and Colonial Williamsburg, Va., to culminate with the naming of the 1962 All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow May 3 at a banquet in Williamsburg.

The national winner's scholarship will be increased to $5,000, with second, third and fourth place winners receiving $4,000, $3,000 and 2,000 scholarships, respectively.

The 1962 search reached another all-time high in enrollment, with 406,132 girls in 12,874 schools participating. In the eight years since the program started, more than two and a half million girls have enrolled, and, including this year, scholarship awards will total more than three quarters of a million dollars.

Buttered Dilly Beans

1 pound snap beans
1 cup boiling water
Salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 teaspoon dill seed

Cut ends from beans; scrub in cold water. Cook rapidly in a covered saucepan with the water and 1/4 teaspoon salt just until tender-crisp — 10 minutes or longer; lift cover a few times to help beans stay green; drain. Slowly heat butter with dill seeds just until butter begins to brown; mix with beans. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Know how to remove ice cream that has been packed into a large mold and frozen? Loosen the sides of the ice cream with a cold knife, then dip the mold quickly into lukewarm water. Wipe the outside of the mold with a dry cloth and unmold.

Krush's Daughter In Mink Coat Worthy Of Analysis

BY INEZ ROBB

Never before in the history of the world have the auguries, no matter how slight, been examined with such minute care for their political significance as in our day. It is an old gag that if and when Khrushchev sneezes, the satellites as rush for Kleenex. But in the West we call in the chest and bronchial specialists, not to mention the witch doctors, to parse the meaning and wring the last drop of significance from that sneeze as it might affect the destiny of the world.

Was the sneeze real? A fake? Did he get a little pepper up his nose? Rose fever? Hay fever? An allergy? What do the demagogues say? Not even at Delphi or among the high priests in the Roman Forum were the tea leaves read with such avidity as they are today for any slightest change in the Communist moves. So it amazes me that the comic columnists, all tea leaf specialists, have failed to diagnose an immensely significant portent that passed right under their respective noses in Washington, D. C. I have been waiting patiently for their expert diagnosis of the political significance of the White House appearance of Rada Khrushchev Adzhubel, own daughter of Nikita, in a magnificent full-length, darkly beautiful mink coat. That the daughter of the king of the proletariat should own and wear the chief status symbol of capitalist-imperialist society is surely fraught with significance.

If the comic columnists were really on their toes, you and I would know by this time what impact Rada's mink will have on the Berlin situation, the Laotian impasse, the Congolese mess, disarmament and future atomic testing.

Can Rada's mink coat be interpreted as her father's pledge that, come the real consumer's revolution in the U.S.S.R., all women shall wear mink and like it? Or did Rada's hankering for a mink coat simply wear down Daddy and her husband, Alexei Adzhubel, editor of Izvestia, as many a better man in the West has been worn down before a womanly campaign for a mink wrap?

Which of these two explanations is correct? It is vitally important to know. It is one thing if all Russian women are eventually to be wrapped in mink and another entirely if Nikita can't hold out or stand up to a woman's iron will. If the latter is the case, the political significance is obvious: Send in a team of mink-minded American women to deal with Khrushchev in the Kremlin and in the United Nations. Within six months Khrushchev will be yelling "aunt!" and the world breathing easily once more.

If the oracles are looking for additional explanations of Rada's mink coat, let them remember the Communist motto: "From each according to his ability; to each according to his need." Who among us has ever known a daughter of Eve who didn't need a mink coat, and never mind all that jazz about "ability"?

There was something else significant about Rada, too. The press photographs all showed her with a new and chic hairdo—not quite "Jackie," but almost. She bore approximately the same resemblance to the Russian women I saw in the U.S.S.R. 30 months ago, as say, a Vogue model. How do the savants dice that one?

But now let us consider the effect of Rada's mink coat on the American scene. I shudder to think what may happen to all the American women who have slaved and saved and bullied their men for mink coats if the John Birch Society should suddenly decide that mink coats are subversive. Or maybe I should shudder to think of what would happen to the Birchers.

Now it is time for me to make my own simple diagnosis of the true meaning of Rada's mink coat. It reinforces George Orwell's brilliant observation that in the Communist world all are equal: "only some are more equal than others." Who could be more equal than Rada, daughter of the boss? Columnist's Mail Reports

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Three U.S. presidents have been killed in office, and only one man is known to have been at the scene of all three assassinations. This grim and unwanted distinction belonged to Robert Todd Lincoln, Abraham Lincoln's oldest son. He was present when his father was mortally wounded in 1865, and by a strange double quirk of fate also arrived on the scene shortly after James Garfield was shot in 1881 and William McKinley in 1901.

Here's another irony: A headquarters building for training rookie firemen now stands at the site where Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over a lantern, reportedly starting Chicago's most disastrous fire in 1871. Remember the Good Samaritan of Biblical fame? He hasn't done so well in terms of posterity. Only 345 Samaritans now live in the Holy Land.

What is the world's largest church? St. Peter's basilica in Rome. It is 460 feet wide, 632 feet long, covers an area of nearly six acres.

Our quotable notables: "The more things a man is ashamed of the more respectable he is,"—George Bernard Shaw. How's your sweet tooth? Americans now eat about 17 pounds of candy each year. One big chain reports 41 per cent of its annual candy sales are made in a total of 29 days before six holiday periods—Easter, Christmas, Valentine's Day, Mothers Day, Thanksgiving and Halloween.

The ancient Chinese regarded licorice as a medicine helpful in the treatment of coughs, colds, old age—and ugliness.

Education isn't easy: It's as difficult to stay in college as it is to get in. Only three out of five college freshmen remain to win their sheepskins.

Overheard in a Hotel Elevator: "My daughter bought a really modern home. Everything is controlled by switches—except the children."

The U.S. Labor Department predicts that by 1970 at least one out of three jobs will be held by women.

Few realize the true epidemic of 1918-19 was among the most disastrous in history. It afflicted half a billion people, took some 25 million lives.

Life in La Belle France: The typical French housewife spends 23 per cent of her household budget on wine. Some two million Frenchmen drink two or more bottles of wine daily. In the peak year of 1956 too much tipping brought death to 20,289 persons.

Security: The ambition of most people today seems to be to find a safe niche with a big corporation. Only one-third of the workforce is hired by firms having fewer than 50 employees.

Wisecrack of the week: "You're getting over the hill when you no longer learn history—but remember it."

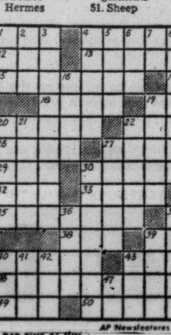

One price of a civilization on wheels: Automobiles kill and cripple more U.S. children than any disease.

It was E.W. Howe who observed, "I had women on my bell with a good man while a good woman raises hell with only one."

The 200-year-old paintings of Dresden by Bernardo Bellotto are used today as a guide in its reconstruction. The East German city was severely damaged by air raids in World War II.

Junior Editors Quiz on VISION

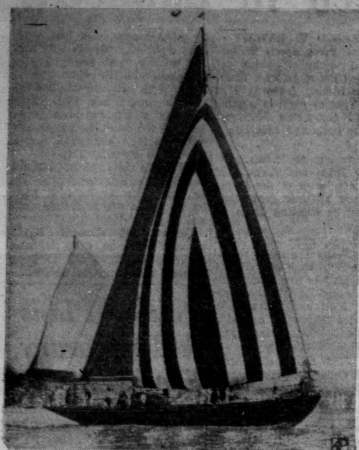

QUESTION: What is an optical illusion?

ANSWER: If a person is nearsighted, he looks as tall as he really is, but as he walks away he seems to grow smaller and smaller until he is only a speck on the distant horizon. Yet we know the person has not really grown smaller. Distance has given us that "illusion," or false impression. The road on which he walks seems to grow smaller as he walks away, too. The trees along the way seem shorter, the houses meant for dolls. There are many forms of optical illusion. White objects at a distance appear larger than black ones at the same distance, and up and down stripes on an object make it look narrow, while stripes across make it seem wide. When we are drawing a group of objects we make those in the foreground larger and those in the distance smaller, even though we know that the objects we are drawing are actually the same size. Thus we use optical illusion to give our drawings "perspective."

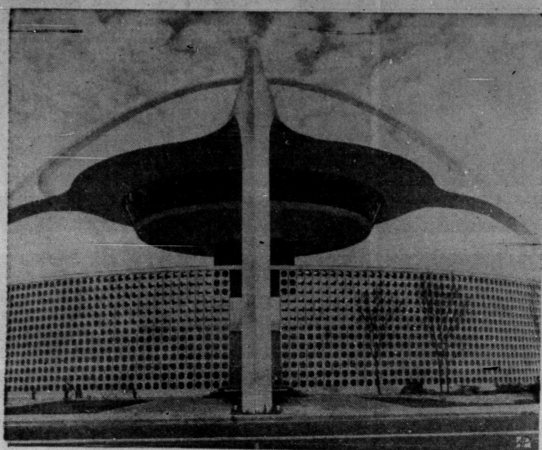

FOR YOU TO DO: Look about you closely and you will find many optical illusions. Try to draw some of your own.

(Ellen Lanese of Ridgeland Park, N. J., wins $10 for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors, in care of this newspaper. If duplicate questions are received, we will select the winner.)

Khrushchev Has Too Much Twist

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP)—Premier Khrushchev is like a watchmaker mending a dance. He has excellent timing but too much twist. The latest twist is in the report of his newest proposal: an 18-nation summit meeting on disarmament next month.

He'd probably be more surprised than anyone if President Kennedy accepted. But, from his view, this is a good time to suggest it.

That's because he can handle foreign affairs like a TV Western where everyone is either a good guy or a bad one. Sometimes he acts like a bad guy. Then he tries to make up for it.

He was very much the bad guy outside Russia last September when he suddenly resumed nuclear testing. He got bad notices around the world and has been playing "nice" most of the time since.

Over the weekend he put on the good guy's hat again by releasing the American spy, U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers. Moscow did not announce it was just swapping him for a Soviet spy caught here, Col. Rudolf Abel.

Abel, jailed here since 1957, was under 30-year sentence. Powers, brought down over Russia May 1, 1960, got 10 years.

Neither man, after the initial publicity in each case, was worth anything to the country holding him. The 12 flights are ended and Abel is washed up as a spy. But Khrushchev got worldwide publicity out of it and doubled his good guy bet by proposing the summit meeting, knowing beforehand that Kennedy, having taken the position there should be no summit meeting unless the two sides show more evidence of agreeing than they have so far, would almost certainly say no. If Kennedy should then resume nuclear testing, unless he feels Khrushchev has now maneuvered him into a bad spot for resuming, the Russian can hope some of the bad public reaction would rub off on the President.

All of this twist to show the Khrushchev twist, which has been something to watch. The disarmament talks since World War II have gotten nowhere—as have talks on nuclear testing between the United States, Britain and Russia. They began negotiations on testing 30 months ago in Geneva. From then until last September no one tested.

Kennedy was under pressure from some of his advisers, since the talks accomplished nothing to resume testing. He said that Khrushchev was practicing one of his twists. The Russians for months had been secretly preparing to test.

When they were ready, on Aug. 1, 1961, Khrushchev suddenly announced in the midst of the talks that the tests would start. They did the next day. The talks collapsed Sept. 8.

There had been two big stumbling blocks: the West wanted an inspection system—the Russians called spying—to prevent cheating and the Russians kept insisting test ban talks should be part of general disarmament talks.

Khrushchev then tried something he knew the West wouldn't buy at all. He said if he agreed to an inspection system, the West must agree to letting Russia inspect a veto. In other words: no inspection. After Russia resumed testing, the United States and Britain called on him to agree to a non-inspected test ban. The answer: no. He said the main thing is general disarmament, not just a test ban.

After the Russian tests last fall, the three powers resumed their test ban talks. Now the West offered to go along with Khrushchev and let the test ban talks become part of general disarmament talks.

Khrushchev twisted again. Now he said he didn't want the test ban talks thrown in with the disarmament talks, even though that is what he had said he wanted and an 18-nation disarmament summit had been arranged for March 14 in Geneva.

The United States and Britain then broke off the test ban talks Jan. 29. Pressure at home on Kennedy to resume testing increased. Last week he seemed on the verge of a go-ahead.

Then, hoping for something to come out of the disarmament talks next month, the President suggested to Khrushchev that the foreign ministers of the 18 nations, not just their specialists, should do the negotiating.

Now Khrushchev, doubling his bet on the publicity he got from releasing Powers, practically called and suggests that only the top men meeting at the summit can do anything.

Two Texans Are Winners

EL PASO (AP)—Two Texas cowboys were among the money winners in the Southwest World Championship Rodeo which ended Sunday. Jack Riggs of Sanderson, Tex., roped and tied two calves in 23.6 seconds and collected $502.90 for first in that event. Jim Bob Altizer of Del Rio, Tex., placed fourth with 35 seconds and won $148.70.

Pete Crump of Green Acres, Wash., claimed the all-around cowboy title and $758.70 with second place in bareback bronc riding and sixth in bull riding.

First in other events were Jack Buschorn of Moberg, S.D., bareback bronc riding, $242.80; Jim Wise of Wheatland, Wyo., saddle bronc riding, $252.80; Sonny Oliphant of Okema, Okla., bulldogging, with 11.2 seconds on two animals, $408.40; and Larry Condon of Omak, Wash., bull riding, $668.64.

22 Violent Deaths Are Reported

By The Associated Press

Texas counted 22 violent deaths during the weekend, including 11 traffic fatalities.

The tally covered the period between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday. Among the latest victims were:

Frank Tobice, 70, was struck and killed by a car Sunday as he walked along U.S. 69 near Lufkin. Officers said the driver was blinded by approaching headlights.

Don Graham, 28, was shot in a Houston apartment Sunday. Police sought a man seen as he left the building.

Cathy Smith, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, was killed Sunday when she ran across State 350 in front of her home 5 miles northeast of Big Spring and a car struck her.

Jerry French, 8, son of M.Sgt. and Mrs. Thelma French of Perrin Air Force Base, died Sunday of injuries suffered while playing at his home in Sherman. He was injured Saturday when a playmate tossed an automobile radio aerial, which entered the boy's eye and pierced his brain. He died at the Carswell Air Force Base Hospital in Fort Worth.

Ray Richard, 40, of Lake Charles, La., was killed Sunday when a car and a train crashed on FM 2246 near Evadale, 30 miles north of Beaumont. Four others in the car were injured.

T. H. Campbell, 64, of Rt. 4, Cleburne, was killed Sunday when a car and a Santa Fe freight train collided at a crossing in Cleburne. Jimmy White, 30, driver of the car, was injured seriously.

Mexico's Teaching Methods Defended

MONTERREY, Mex. (AP)—A demonstration by about 50,000 persons was held Sunday in front of the government palace in support of government-sponsored teaching methods.

Residents earlier had protested peacefully that some teaching methods were "leftist tainted."

Among speakers Sunday was Gov. Eduardo Llavas Lilliarreal. The demonstration was organized and sponsored by several local labor unions and other groups.

The demonstrators carried posters and banners blaming the Catholic church for attacks on government-distributed textbooks and public schools.

All the speakers praised the educational methods used in public schools.

Twist Touches Off Scene In Theater

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Police were called to a downtown movie theatre Sunday when teenagers began twisting in the aisles during a showing of "Twist Around the Clock."

Two fights broke out and a man and a teen-age girl were slightly injured, police said.

Patrolmen escorted a few teenagers from the theater but no arrests were made.

DROUTH INSURANCE—Bernard Bartels, left, stands by as Lindy Clark, owner of Clark Well Service, and Erdist Rinehart prepare to lower a 10 horsepower Myers submersible pump into the 125 foot well on his farm. The pump will be used for irrigation use and will deliver 180 gallons per minute.

Clark Well Service Offers Complete Operation In Area

"Drought insurance" is the way Bernard Bartels looks on his two new 10 horsepower submersible Myers pumps.

Said Bartels, "With these pumps in addition to the one on my surface tank, it will allow me to pre-irrigate. Pre-irrigation is especially important in this area of West Texas, especially since it can be done when the evaporation rate is not so high."

Lindy Clark, owner of Clark Well Service, said that many farmers in the south plains were installing pumps for the same reason as Bartels. Drought and "rains at the wrong time" have always been a factor in Scurry County farming.

Grass Fires Take Big Toll In State

By The Associated Press

Flying embers set the roof alight and drove a minister and his flock from their temporary church Sunday at Bonham in North Texas.

Wind spread the coals from a grass fire onto the parsonage of the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Kenneth Snyder of Dallas led his 24-member congregation outside and finished preaching while men in the audience ripped off shingles to save the roof. They were holding a service in the parsonage because the church auditorium burned last April.

Skipping from block to block on the breeze, the flames destroyed a garage and damaged the roofs of three other homes on the west side of Bonham before firemen brought them in check.

Continued hot, dry weather contributed to still other grass and brush fires which have been breaking out daily over Texas.

In West Dallas, witnesses told that a fire chief, Ruben Shinn, a small boy playing with matches lit a patch of dry grass back of an A. L. Davis food store. The blaze spread into a storage room of the store and caused an estimated $25,000 damage.

A brush fire destroyed a home near Irving, between Dallas and Fort Worth.

At Victoria in South Texas, fire chief M. S. Shaw said his men were near exhaustion after battling flames which raced across more than 3,000 acres of grass land in two days.

Until there is rain, Shaw said a serious hazard exists because the countryside is tinder dry. Victoria received its last good rain Nov. 14 and has measured a mere half inch of rain this year.

One of the fires in the Victoria area charred 1,000 acres at Alco Field, a former Air Force base. A 14-hour fight to control a threatening blaze northeast of Victoria in Jackson County finally ended Sunday. It raged along a mile wide front in open country and pushed within 2 1/2 miles of Edna.

In Fort Worth, police said a mentally retarded Negro boy, 10, admitted touching off a grass fire which razed two warehouses and caused $100,000 loss Saturday. Officers found him at the scene Sunday. The blaze destroyed buildings of the Acme Paper Stock Co. and Worth Chemical Co.

Painting To Be Auctioned

LONDON (AP) — Senior members of Sotheby's auction house will go to Spain May 4 to sell Rubens' portrait of the Duke of Lerma.

Sotheby's expects it will be sold for at least $770,000, the price paid for Rubens' "Adoration of the Magi" in June 1959. If the buyer plans to take it out of Spain the price of the painting automatically increases 30 per cent.

Peter Wilson, chairman of Sotheby's, says Spanish law requires that the painting be sold in Spain.

"A foreign purchaser could get a license to export it if he pays to the Spanish government a tax amounting to 30 per cent of the purchase price," he explained.

Wilson said the portrait on canvas measuring 9 1/2 x 6 feet is the last great Rubens still in private hands. Painted in 1601 when Rubens was 24, it shows the duke on horseback with soldiers in the background. Its owner, a descendant of the duke, died recently and the portrait is part of his estate.

Woman Is Held In Husband's Slaying

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Police said a mother, apparently angry because her husband had stayed out most of the day, killed him with a shotgun blast Sunday night as some of their seven children watched.

Mrs. Doyle Frary, 32, then telephoned police, detectives said. Police found her in shock and unable to talk when they arrived.

Her husband, 34, was shot once in the stomach, detectives said. Asst. Dist. Atty. Sidney Hewes said Mrs. Frary would be charged with murder.

The turnout of 51,000 pushed the three-day total past 100,000.

E. E. Voigt of San Antonio had the champion and reserve bulls and the reserve champion female in the polled Hereford classes. Kallison's Ranch of San Antonio exhibited the champion female sale animal.

The Hereford sale was set for today. The polled Hereford sale is scheduled Tuesday.

Also set for today was a quarter horse sale sponsored by the South Texas Cutting Horse Association.

The grand champion steer of the show likewise was to be chosen today.

Daniel Gets Endorsement

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Gov. Price Daniel and three other candidates won endorsements Sunday from the Political Association of Spanish-speaking Organizations.

Two dozen politicians went before the convention Saturday to outline platforms and answer questions.

The group claims to represent 200,000 Texas voters. It also endorsed El Paso County Judge Woodrow Bean for congressman-at-large, Sen. Jarrard Seaver of Temple for lieutenant governor and former Secretary of State Tom Reavley of Austin for attorney general.

The organization re-elected County Commissioner Albert Pena Jr. of San Antonio chairman.

County Judge Robert Benavides of Laredo was named first vice chairman and lawyer Chris Aldearte of Del Rio, second vice chairman.

Casino Executive's Body Sent To Texas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The body of Charles Costabile, 66, Las Vegas casino executive who died Friday after a brief illness, is being sent to Galveston, Tex., for burial.

Costabile was manager of the Balinese Room and Hollywood Club in Galveston for 20 years before coming here in 1957 as floor manager at the Sands Hotel Casino.

Survivors include the widow, and two sisters in Galveston. Mrs. Gertrude Casso and Theresa Killebrew.

From all indications this year will be the biggest year ever for the installation of pumps in this area, Clark said he is proud to offer the Myers pumps, which he considers to be the finest available, to his customers.

Nothing Special Is Planned Today

By ARTHUR RISTAU

MANCHESTER, Vt. (AP) — The mistress of "Hildene" planned "nothing special" today as millions of other Americans remembered the 153rd anniversary of the birth of her great-grandfather.

Mary Lincoln Beckwith, 63, says she is proud to be a member of the distinguished Lincoln family but thinks it illogical to "plan something for a relative who was dead before you were born."

Since 1938 she has operated the 1,000-acre dairy farm built by her grandfather, Robert Todd Lincoln, only son of the 16th president to reach maturity.

"We're making 20 head this year," Miss Beckwith said. "Profits? Well, I'm in danger of running out of the red but don't tell the tax collectors about it."

Her neighbors say Miss Beckwith doesn't much care about her distinguished ancestry.

"It always provokes me," she said, "when people stare and say 'There's Lincoln's great-granddaughter.' It's just my luck he was related to me."

Her farm was built at the turn of the century, 30-odd years after Robert Lincoln first visited this southwestern Vermont town with his mother, Mary Todd Lincoln, while he was a Harvard undergraduate.

Her cousin, Lincoln Isham, 68, lives in nearby Dorset where he works on his collection of Lincolniana, much of which has been donated to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

Her brother, Lincoln Beckwith, operates a farm in Virginia. None of the three Lincoln descendants has children.

Says Soviets May Release Student

By CHARLES L. WEST

NEW YORK (AP) — The only American known to be still behind bars in the Soviet Union may soon be released, says the Brooklyn lawyer who negotiated the U.S. Soviet spy swap.

But, he added, it is contingent upon an improvement in relations between the two countries.

The prospect of freedom for Marvin Makinen, 22, a Fulbright scholar serving eight years on spy charges, was expressed Sunday night by James Britt Donovan.

Donovan said the subject of Makinen's release came up during his talks with Ivan Shishkin, second secretary of the Soviet Embassy.

The negotiations resulted in the United States freeing Col. Rudolf Abel, a Soviet master spy serving 30 years in prison; the Soviet Union freeing Francis Gary Powers, the American U-2 pilot serving 10 years, and East Germany freeing Frederick L. Pryor, an American student who had been held without trial since Aug. 25.

Donovan, who was Abel's court-appointed American lawyer in the colonel's 1957 trial for espionage, said he viewed the Soviet and East German actions as "a genuine attempt to secure better relations."

He added: "I have what I believe to be assurance that if the better relations contemplated by this exchange should develop, the Soviet Union would contemplate extending clemency to Makinen."

This may be expected "in the near future," Donovan said. "I regard the negotiations as concluded."

Officials at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow said they had no information about the possibility of Makinen's release.

Makinen, who was studying at the Free University in West Berlin, was seized last July 27 and accused of photographing military installations in Hungary, Czechoslovakia and the Ukraine. He was convicted of espionage, and is in prison at Kiev.
