Hospital Project Is 'On'

Friday update

Time To Change

Daylight Saving Time is scheduled to begin Sunday morning.

Officially, clocks and watches are to be rolled forward one hour at 2 a.m. Sunday. However, for practical purposes, most people usually adjust their time pieces Saturday night when they retire for the evening.

To adjust for Daylight Saving Time, time pieces should be moved forward an hour, which means that if it is 10 o'clock when the change is made, clocks and watches should be moved to 11 o'clock.

Under the present schedule, Daylight Saving Time is due to remain in effect until the last Sunday in October.

Tax Break Limited

WASHINGTON (AP)--President Carter said today that his proposed tax break for independent oil drillers would be limited to those who actually make their living in the oil business.

Carter was asked about the proposal he made Wednesday night to Congress that "independent drillers have the same intangible drilling rights as major oil companies."

Amin, Mobutu Meet

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP)--President Idi Amin of Uganda met with Zairean President Mobutu Sese Seko today and said afterward, "I am ready to send troops" to help Zaire in its war against Katangan rebels.

But Amin told a new conference after the four-hour meeting that he was "happy to report big progress on the battlefield."

SS, SSI Raised

WASHINGTON (AP)--If you're among the 35.5 million Americans who receive Social Security or Supplemental Security Income, there's a silver lining to the latest cloud over the consumer price index. You're going to get a cost of living increase.

The index, which measures inflation, soared at an 18 per cent annual rate during the first quarter of 1977, the biggest three-month leap in two years.

MR. AND MISS WTC—Randy Jackson of Wichita falls and Barbara Brooks of Snyder were named "Mr. and Miss WTC" at the annual spring formal for Western Texas College students held last night at the National Guard Armory. Miss Brooks, daughter of Mrs. Bonnie Brooks, is a graduate of Snyder High School and is a freshman at WTC. Jackson is a sophomore. There were five candidates for both Mr. and Miss WTC. Preliminary Plans Accepted By Board

The Scurry County Hospital Board last night committed itself to a proposal for a 50-bed addition to Cogdell Memorial hospital and took steps to take the project to county voters as soon as possible.

Plans for a possible addition to the county hospital have been under consideration for some seven years, and they were pushed forward the past winter when the hospital was filled to over-flowing several times.

And, appropriately, the hospital was filled beyond its normal capacity Thursday night as the board voted unanimously to proceed with the construction project. At present, the hospital has rooms for 85 beds.

"As we meet here tonight, there are 87 patients in the hospital," Administrator Cy Miller told the board.

Following the unanimous vote to proceed with the plans for a 50-bed addition, Board President John Jarrell instructed Miller to seek a joint meeting with the county commissioners court to present the proposal to them.

Meanshile, data needed for application to the State Health Facilities Commission will be prepared as rapidly as possible, and architects will proceed on the final plans.

The new addition, which is being planned by Page, Southerland and Page, architects of Austin, not only would provide 50 additional beds, but also facilities for essential support services. It was noted that office and storage facilities, originally built to take care of a 50-bed hospital, have never been enlarged. An addition in 1960 provided more beds only, with no provision for storage and various services required for routine operation of the hospital.

Miller said that the installation of inhalation therapy equipment in 1965 was possible only by taking space that had been allotted to beds and that the physical therapy installation which began operation in 1972 required space that had been allotted to a five-bed ward. The physical therapy service has had a steady increase in traffic and is expected to continue to grow.

The new addition also would provide improved emergency room facilities and sorely-needed storage

Briscoe Hints Of Texas Suit

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe says it may take a Texas lawsuit to get Washington's attention about President Carter's new energy plans.

"Twenty-two years of federal regulation of the interstate market has been a complete disaster," Briscoe told a news conference late Thursday after returning from Washington.

"Why is it not possible to recognize that price controls do not work for the benefit of this country? The President's proposals extend federal regulation instead of moving toward solutions in the market place. Adjustments such as switching from one basic fuel to another should be made in the market place.

"What bothers me most is substitution of more government regulation for the mechanics of the market place."

Briscoe said he is considering going to court to test the constitutionality of a proposal to extend federal jurisdication over intrastate natural gas.

The governor said he thought the Washington bureaucracy put one over Carter in selling him the energy recommendations detailed to Congress and the nation Wednesday night.

"I am very disappointed in these proposals," he said. "In the first encounter between the new President and the Washington bureaucracy, that bureaucracy has won and the public has lost.

"I'm just starting to fight for a sound national energy policy. The next step lies in the Texas congressional delegation. I do not think these proposals will pass. The people want less government intervention in their lives, not more."

School Runoff Election Is Set Here Tomorrow

Voters of the Snyder Independent School District will go back to the polls tomorrow to elect a trustee for Place 3 on the board.

Bill Voss, the incumbent, and Lawanna Vincent are candidates in a runoff after neither received a majority of votes in the April 2 election.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. at city hall.

In the April 2 election, Voss received 434 votes while Mrs. Vincent received 325 and Billye Robbins, the third candidate in the race, received 120 votes. Two other places on the board had only two candidates and were filled April 2. Jerry Rice was elected to Place 4 and Bill Clayton was re-elected to Place 5. Rice succeeds Bill Eiland who was not a candidate for re-election.

Mrs. Vincent said she was in the race "to convey the ideas and suggestions of the community for continued improvement of the outstanding educational system which is being provided for all children."

"My goal is a continuous search by the board for ways to improve and maintain the goal of providing our children with the best education and facilities possible," Mrs. Vincent said.

"Our most pressing problem is compliance, or rejection of state and federal regulations and court decisions relating to public education. As an individual, I do not have the solution, but I can see where better communication between the school system and the public would enhance the board's effort to arrive at a decision which would be representative of the community.

"I believe a school trustee should formulate policies within the existing

Carter Pledges Fight For Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter said today he will fight "to the last vote in Congress" for passage of his plan to impose a five-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline if U.S. consumption exceeds his energy conservation targets.

He said the money would be refunded, and a family that does conserve will get back more than it pays in higher gasoline prices.

At a nationally broadcast news conference dominated like Carter's entire week, by the energy issue, the President also said:

—He doesn't feel threatened by criticism of his administration by former President Gerald R. Ford, who drew Democratic protests by saying that he could have won a new strategic arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union by now. Carter said that historically, "the fraternity of presidents and former presidents" has kept its criticism private. But Carter said he doesn't feel that Ford has violated a promise to keep such comments private.

No decision has been made about sending tanks to Zaire, the African nation trying to beat off insurgent attackers. "It's highly unlikely I would advocate such a sale," he said.

—He is concerned about possible overexposure during a week that has seen two nationally televised addresses and the news conference, but it isn't likely to happen often. "Attendance at the press conference is voluntary,"

'Open House' Set By National Guard

Open house will be observed Saturday beginning at 11 a.m. at the National Guard Armory, said Sgt. Bill Barlow of the Texas National Guard.

At the open house, presentations of pictures depicting the history of the Texas National Guard will be made to officials representing Western Texas College, the city of Snyder, and the Snyder Independent School District.

Following the presentation, Sgt. Barlow said, a brief report on the history of the National Guard will be made.

The open house is being held in conjunction with Operation Lone Star, designed to focus attention on the Texas National Guard from April 15 to May 15.

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

Walter Buckel of the Lamesa Press-Reporter was over for our Chamber of Commerce banquet a week ago, and he had this to say in his column:

"The Snyder banquet was it's usual resplendent and gala affair with well over 1,000 in attendance at the Scurry County Coliseum. Snyder is booming with new construction—residential, shopping centers, new financial facilities and a growing school system and college.

"It's a shining example of what oil production money can mean to a city, county, school and college in the way of facilities and staffing. When you have the oil production Scurry does, you can do a lot of things you dare not even think about in other areas.

"Other than the Midland-Odessa area, we can think of no other city in West Texas (outside of Lubbock and Amarillo) where the impact of construction is having such a profound effect on the face of a community."

'gifted' aid plan

The United States government has a talent for carrying a good idea to extremes. Witness the food stamp program, which began as a convenient way to subsidize the grocery budget of the poor. By last winter it reached the point of grandiose overkill that bank presidents in Buffalo, N.Y., became eligible for food stamps if they missed a day at the office because of the deep snow.

So it is with a worthwhile government program to assure that coal miners receive disability benefits if they incur black lung disease. It went on the books in 1969 as part of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act. It now is on the verge of becoming a program to pay benefits to coal miners even if they have no symptoms of the condition which can arise from breathing coal dust.

Rep. Carl D. Perkins, the Kentucky Democrat who heads the House Education and Labor Committee, is cutting corners with hearing procedures in order to get quick action on a bill which would create an automatic presumption of disability for veteran coal miners and make them eligible for disability benefits.

Such a bill passed the House last year, but died when the Senate balked at its generous provisions. There is no lack of sympathy for victims of black lung disease, but enough members of the Senate were able to see the implications of the bill. What about all the other occupations which expose workers to a potential medical problem?

The National Academy of Sciences looked at the question and concluded that if the theory of the black lung bill were applied to other industries the cost would range upward of $100 billion a year.

Coal miners who do incur black lung disease should be covered by a compensation program. They already are. The cost of it should be reflected in the price of coal. Congress can see that it is by adopting an amendment to the 1969 mine safety act which shifts the cost of black lung disability from the federal government to a trust fund supported by a new tax on coal.

That amendment is a feature of the House bill which should be retained.

The automatic presumption of disability, however, is a precedent that Congress should resist. If not we will see the government going off the deep end once again - turning a disability program into an extra $400 a month pension for coal miners.

This is another matter Congress should consider carefully, for the good of all.

hess and the soviets

The British Foreign Office is going to ask the Soviet government, for about the umpteenth time, to agree to the release of Rudolph Hess.

The one-time deputy fuehrer to Adolf Hitler has been in prison since May, 1941, when he flew to Scotland on a bizarre mission to persuade Winston Churchill to negotiate for peace with the Nazis. Since the end of World War II, he has been confined in Spandau prison in Berlin where, at 83, he is the only prisoner left.

Under the postwar four-power agreement governing the administration of Berlin, Hess is elaborately guarded by American, British, French and Russian troops in rotation at an annual cost of around $300,000.

For years, the three western governments have been trying to get the Soviets to allow Hess to be committed to a sanitarium at least. His mental health, questionable 36 years ago, has seriously deteriorated, as has his physical health. He recently attempted suicide.

But the Russians have insisted that Hess must remain in Spandau to serve out the life sentence he received at the 1946 Nuremburg war-crime trials.

If this latest request by the British is turned down, it might be time for the allies to wash their hands of the whole thing. If Rudolph Hess is that important to the Russians, let them take over full responsibility for guarding him, and let them bear the full costs.

inventions are produced

NEW YORK (AP) — "A discovery is more or less in the nature of an accident," said Thomas A. Edison as he prepared to go into the "invention business."

Edison thus clearly defined one of the differences. Discoveries could be as accidental as an apple falling on one's head, but inventions were produced. America, he felt, couldn't wait for discoveries.

A spur to the invention business could well be one of the consequences of President Carter's war on waste and his effort to mobilize the American creative effort toward resolving the problem of insufficient energy.

New sources and mechanisms of power, new building designs, better insultating materials, more efficient transportation all could be among the results obtained from a concerted effort to meet the challenge.

Says author Daniel Boorstin, now librarian of Congress: "Edison believed that the right men, properly organized, could turn out inventions just as regularly and as intentionally as a factory could turn out any product."

Soon after he set up his invention business at Menlo Park, N.J., Edison produced an incandescent light bulb that soon replaced gas as a source of illumination, eventually transforming every hamlet, both physically and socially.

Ironically, so effective was he in simultaneously marketing his product that some misanthropes might blame him for training Americans in overuse. But more appreciative beneficiaries recognize that were he alive today he'd be systematically seeking an answer to the challenge.

Edison's concept of invention as an organized business was the seed of today's great invention factories, the research and development units of the nation's largest corporations.

Some critics maintain, Edison's view and accomplishments notwithstanding, that such factories dull the innovative spirit. They look back to the 1800s, when Eli Whitney, Elias Howe, Samuel F. B. Morse, George Eastman, Alexander Graham Bell and others conducted their work almost privately.

Even in this century, they observe, some of the pioneer industrialists began alone, building automobiles and planes in bicycle factories, or developing Xerography, as did Chester Carlson, in their spare time,

But the modern R&D labs have something going for them too. They are more systematic, and they can respond quickly to the challenges of the market place, if only to keep their companies from being submerged by social and technological change.

In wartime they effectively mobilize and organize the talents of the many to concentrate on specific needs, accounting in large part for the practical and theoretical accomplishments that now enrichen civilian life. Even when the challenge is a "moral equivalent" rather than war itself, they can focus the efforts of thousands on producing submicroscopic innovations or producing gigantic space vehicles.

The exploration of space, in fact, is a direct result of the nation and its R&D labs responding to a moral equivalent of war, the fear that the Soviet Union would dominate this new realm and therefore the old one too.

As Boorstin observes in his book "The Americans - The Democratic Experience," Willis Whitney, the first head of General Electric's research laboratory, once commented: "The grand goal of good gadgets is gradual obsolescence, or, expressed differently, we may get better every day."

President Carter's challenge is that we had better get better fast, and that's a challenge Americans seem to understand - peacetime, wartime, or during the moral equivalent of war.

To the great inventors, past and present, newness is to be desired, not feared, because newness means a better day.

your chamber in action

IT'S OVER

For those 1200 of you who were present, we thank you for participating and hope the 1977 Chamber of Commerce Banquet lived up to your expectations.

We, at the Chamber, want to pass along Lady Bird Johnson's and Edward Clark's apologies for not being able to make the banquet. We know both of them were very instrumental in pre-event publicity and we hope you were not totally disappointed.

Hopefully, the rest of the banquet made it worthwhile and you will join us again next year.

Last Minute Changes

Because of very inclement weather in Austin, Lady Bird and Mr. Clark could not fly back to Snyder in time for the banquet. At 5 p.m., Delbert Downing was called to serve as master of ceremonies and at 5:30 p.m., former Gov. Preston Smith was asked to pinch

Her seven-page prepared speech was transcribed over the phone, typed and polished for Gov. Smith just before banquet time.

I personally thank both of these individuals for helping out in a very difficult situation.

More Thanks

As in any undertaking of this kind, there are many special people whose help and guidance must be volunteered to make it successful. We were very lucky to have the unselfish participation of many who need to be publicly thanked.

Those people are general chairmen Ike Dolen and Roger Mize; Mrs. Herb Reed and Mrs. Tommy Davis, women's committee; Mrs. Edith McKanna, Mrs. Elizabeth Connell, Mrs. Bill Seale, Perry Turnbow, Karen Sears and Mrs. Ernest Sears, decorations; Mrs. M. L. Duke and Charles Ketchum, food; Joe Williamson and Dr. Jim Tully, ticket sales; Roy McQueen and Mel Gilbert, plublicity; Ray Englehardt and Buzz Woolsey, table arrangements; Mrs. Travis Hatter, Mrs. David Holt and Rev. David Robertson, program preparation; Dean Floyd, David Ponikvar, Dubb Tubb and Ray Courtney, Diamond M backdrop construction; Mrs. Tom Scannicchio and Mrs. Fred Mosley, Texas Cowboy Artists Show; Ted McMillan, Mrs. Jane Womack, Phi Theta Kappa, Snyder High School Stage Band and Mr. Don Eiring.

I also want to thank my staff at the chamber--LaVerta Lovell, Claudia Melton and Judy Wall--for their untiring efforts in getting everything put together in masterful style.

Last, Not Least

Last but not least, the Snyder Chamber of Commerce thanks you, the attendees, for joining with us to salute Claire and C. T. McLaughlin. Without you, there would have been no banquet.

This was, b far, the largest chamber banquet turnout for our size town in America, that I know of. It was the largest of this town in this part of the state including Lubbock, which drew about 900, Abilene, Midland, Odessa or San Angelo.

We thank you for taking part in this and all other chambered sponsored events. We are very fortunate to have the type of citizentry which supports all worthwhile activities in this community and maintains its progressive spirit.

It's You

A community isn't made great by the chamber, Lions Club, schools, business or industry, it's made great by the people who live there. You make Snyder the great place it is. Don't stop now, though, continue to make Snyder even greater, we've still got a long way to go.

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Considering the paucity of first-class political talent in this country, it seems a shame to see a U.S. Senate race looming next year that could pit incumbent Democrat Dick Clark of Iowa against that state's Republican Gov. Robert Ray.

The inescapable problem with such a contest is that someone has to lose, and neither the citizens of Iowa nor the rest of us should find any pleasure in that prospect.

Dick Clark is an unusually intelligent and effective senator. Bob Ray is an exceptionally decent and able governor. Good government buffs in Washington and Iowa alike are already cringing at the thought of choosing between the two if Ray decides to challenge Clark next year.

Admittedly, it's not the sort of problem that arises very often. Far more frequently, voters are compelled to choose the lesser of two evils. (The 1970 Indiana Senate contest between Democrat Vance Hartke and Republican Richard Roudebush comes readily to mind.)

Clark and Ray are obviously not interchangeable. The Democratic senator is an unabashed liberal, a legislative innovator who frequently operates well out in front of the pack in the Senate. The GOP governor is a progressive , skillful administrator whose views place him squarely in the center of the political spectrum.

Now serving an unprecedented fourth term as governor, Ray has never in the past displayed much interest in moving to Washington, although he could have easily captured a Senate seat in 1974 when Democrat Harold Hughes retired.

Like a dozen or so other successful Republican officeholders, however, he is now eyeing a possible presidential bid either in 1980 or 1984. And some of his closest advisers are urging him to seek the Senate seat as a stepping stone, arguing it would provide greater national visibility than he can hope to command from the Iowa statehouse.

On the other hand, Ray enjoys being governor. "When he makes a decision now, things happen. It might be kind of frustrating in the Senate, especially as part of the minority," said one Iowa Republican who is close to the governor.

Ray is considering a third option, our sources tell us. He could emulate Jimmy Carter, retire at the end of his current term and spend the two years between 1978 and 1980 campaigning full time for president.

Ray can afford to wait awhile before making up his mind, but Clark has already launched his re-election campaign. Just last week, Vice President Walter F. Mondale served as the drawing card at an Iowa fund-raising dinner that was expected to give Clark an initial war chest of some 50,000 for next year's campaign.

Under normal circumstances, Clark could probably win with a $5 kitty. Polls by the Des Moines Register show his approval rating has climbed from 4[illegible] percent in January 1973, his first month in office, to 70 percent last month - the highest ever achieved by an Iowa senator.

There's only one hitch: Ray, in the same March survey, racked up a phenomenal 81 percent approval rating and an earlier Register poll which paired the two men in a head-to-head test showed Ray holding a 50-33 lead over Clark, with 17 percent undecided.

That gap would undoubtedly close when and if Ray declares for the Senate. Clark is a formidable campaigner, and he's not about to relinquish his seat without a fight.

It just seems a pity to force Iowans to choose between two such exceptional politicians. The Senate won't suffer, no matter who emerges the winner. But the state, and the country, really can't afford to lose either man from public service.

indians claim valid

"Red power" is on the march. Passamaquoddy and Penobscot Indians, assisted by a powerful ally, the Great White Father in Washington, are claiming five million acres of land in northern Maine that was wrongfully taken from their ancestors.

The Interior and Justice Departments say the claim is a valid one and have announced that unless an out-of-court settlement is reached by June 1, the federal government, as the Indians' guardian will sue the state.

As Maine goes, so goes Ohio?

Could be. Inspired by their fellow Indians in Maine, the Iroquois are considering suing the federal government for damages over the loss of a vast tract of land in what is now northeastern Ohio.

"We have a historian studying the history of the area around Cleveland and Akron," says Beeman Logan, a Seneca chief in North Tonawanda, N.Y. "We will decide when that is complete whether to take it to court."

He adds that, unlike the Maine tribes, the Iroquois will probably ask for a monetary settlement rather than trying to repossess the land, although one Indian historian has suggested that part of a settlement might include turning over the Cuyahoga Valley National Park to the Indians for their use.

Also, unlike the Maine situation, however, any claim by the Iroquois to land in Ohio may have a fatal defect. Their historians will not have to look very far to find that the area in question once belonged to the Erie nation, which the Iroquois were in the process of wiping out at the time the first French explorers arrived in the Great Lakes region.

What tribe the Eries took it from before that, nobody knows. The Iroquois conquest was so thorough that there aren't any Eries left today to tell us. But the whole history of America before European colonization was one of constantly changing tribal jurisdictions, with one tribe taking over land previously occupied by another, sometimes peacefully, mostly through war. The tribes the first white settlers encountered just happened to be the most recent winners.

Thus if the Iroquois or any other Indian nation has a valid claim to land they took from somebody else by virtue of conquest, it would seem that the same should apply to the latest conqueror, the white man.

West's double of South's one-spade opening bid was one of those doubtful doubles that lots of players make. We have seen worse ones, but seldom one that backfired so strongly against the doubler.

It took exactly two bids for South to arrive at six spades. West made his natural lead of the jack of hearts and South had time to study the dummy.

The slam was a good one in spite of the duplication in clubs. At the worst, South could discard one of his clubs on a high heart, lead a club from dummy and guess whether to play the jack or the king. Then South reviewed the bidding and saw that it was likely that West would hold both high clubs.

Then South worked out a squeeze end play against West. He trumped his queen and small diamond and ran out his trumps. South finally led his ace of diamonds, leaving himself with four cards — the seven of hearts and king-jack-three of clubs. Dummy held three hearts and two clubs in back of West and poor West had to throw the queen of clubs in order to hold on to the heart. South just discarded the low heart from dummy, led a club and claimed.

Atheneum's Have Museum Program

Atheneum Study Club met Tuesday with 16 persons present. The meeting was held at the Scurry County Museum and the program was presented by Sharon Sutton, museum director. She gave information on museums in general and also discussed some areas of the local museum.

The four major areas of museum work are: exhibits, educational programs, research programs and care of the collection.

Exhibits are apparent to the visitor. The museum is an environmental exhibit type museum. One of a kind item is displayed and shown as to its use. Some museums have collections of items on display.

She said it is difficult to interest people in museums who were not interested in them as children, therefore the deducational program is working with local teachers on programs for the museum. A pilot program is underway at an East Elementary kindergarten class. This is a classroom museum where students bring objects and label them as a museum would. Their classroom museum will be put on display at the museum building.

Some other areas of educational programs at the museum are tours, plans for a suitcase exhibits, and summer youth classes.

The program said the Scurry County Museum does not conduct a specific research program, but does work with the Historical Committee on local history research.

The fourth area of work is care of the collection and this consumes many hours of care, cataloging, research and storage of items contained in the museum.

May is Museum Appreciation Month and there will be a special program at the museum each Sunday during the month. The main purpose of the month will be to make people aware of the museum and the facilities.

During the business meeting, a representative from the Jaycee-ettes presented information on the children's park which the Jaycees are sponsoring and the need for funds for the project.

The following new officers were elected for the coming year: Lois Page, president; Wilma Dillard, vice president; Kaye Cypert, second vice president; Johnnie Harber, recording secretary; Anne von Roeder, corresponding secretary, and Libby Wilson, treasurer.

Cook frozen baby green lima beans and drain. Heat canned stewed tomatoes and add the lima beans to them. Serve in sauce dishes. Adding stewed tomatoes to succotash also makes a good vegetable dish.

Food Affects Behavior

"Food can very definitely affect your child's personality," says Dr. Alan C. Levin, Medical Director of the New York Institute for Child Development.

"Allergies, food sensitivities and the inability to properly metabolize carbohydrates could lead to certain behavior in their children which may cause parents worry and concern," adds the pediatrician, who has been in private practice for nearly 40 years.

He suggests trying to pinpoint the offending foods by keeping a diet record.

Tracksters Bound For 3-AAA Meet

Coach Winfred Shipp takes his boys varsity track team to Brownfield this weekend for the District 3-AAA runoffs.

Field events are to begin Saturday at 10:30 a.m. and finals will start at 2 p.m. A number of district schools will be involved in the meet--including San Angelo Lake View, Lubbock Dunbar, Sweetwater, Lamesa, Lubbock Estacado, Brownfield and Snyder.

Estacado has been listed as the probable favorite, with Lake View and Dunbar also picking up a large share of the winnings.

Snyder will be well represented, however, and several Tigers are expected to make a strong bid towards the regional berth. Competing for Snyder in Saturday's events are:

120 HH--Tim Falls, Ernest Duncan and Jeff Terry or Karl Humble.

330IH--Tim Falls, Ernest Duncan and Karl Humble.

Mile--Steve Fisher, Dennis Boone and Del Vickers.

100 dash--Clay Peterson, Ronnie Collins and Doyle Browning.

440 dash--Johnny Velasquez, Lloyd Benson and Brent Terry or Tom Luera.

880 dash--Ricky Fritz, Joe Garza and Brent Terry or Tom Luera.

Broad jump-- Doyle Browning, Richard Crayton and Randy Courtney.

Shot put--Herbert Thompson, Robert Early and Carey Welsh.

220 dash--Clay Peterson, Ronnie Hines and Ronnie Collins.

880-Sy Tabor and David Hill.

440-John Erwin and Eddie Yruegas.

220-Corby Barrett, Darrell Collins, Eddie Yruegas and Dale Jenkins.

Broad jump-Thomas Selmon, Keigh McClain and Corby Barrett.

High jump-Kyle Herrley.

Pole vault-Dale Jenkins.

Discus-Morris Anderson and Tony Degrate.

Shot put-Morris Anderson and Tony Degrate.

High hurdles-Brent Duncan, John Hanson and Ricky Gamble.

Intermediate hurdles-Ricky Gamble, John Hanson and Keith McClain.

440 relay-Corby Barrett, Darrell Collins, Keigh McClain and Kyle Herrley.

Mile relay-Kyle Herrley, Eddie Yruegas, Corby Barrett and John Hanson.

HURDLES—Hopping the hurdles has become an art in track circles across the state. Above, an Ira junior high member struggles to achieve the proper timing. Perhaps when he gets to the varsity ranks he'll even threaten the best...like Mike Mosley of Humble who eclipses the 120 high hurdles in 13.6...so far the best in the state this year. Box Leads Roscoe To District Top

Jim Ned took the junior high and junior varsity divisions at the District 8-A track meet held here Thursday, but it was Roscoe who took the varsity competition--by the narrowest of margins.

Roscoe's Marcus Box proved to be the clutch contender for the Plowboys, winning in three single events and both team relays for an individual tally of 50 points.

While Box paced the long jump, high jump and 220 dash, Steve Freeman did like-wise in the 100 dash, and another teammate, David Drake, countered in the 880 run.

Roscoe's 440 relay team of Joel Jackson, Freeman, Drake and Box took first in that event, as did the mile relay team of Joel Kerby, Freeman, Drake and Box.

Despite running away with most of the footraces, Roscoe faced keen competition, especially from the field, in Baird. When the final event was completed, the results were announced---Roscoe 128¼ and Baird 128½.

Former Ranger Key To Dallas 11-4 Loss

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Texas Rangers did Mike Cubbage a favor when they traded him to the Minnesota Twins last year.

But he didn't do any favors for them Thursday night.

Given a chance to start with the Twins after warming the Texas bench, Cubbage is making the most of his opportunity - and in his latest outing knocked in four runs to lead Minnesota to an 11-4 victory over his former teammates.

"I don't play any harder against Texas," said Cubbage, denying any revenge motive for his trade. "The season is just too long for that."

However, Cubbage did admit to some satisfaction in one-upmanship.

"I got a lot of pleasure out of Minnesota finishing 12 games ahead of Texas last year," said Cubbage, who was involved in a big trade last June that sent pitcher Bert Blyleven to Texas.

Incidentally, Cubbage's batting average is one of the main reasons that Minnesota is running ahead of Texas again the year in the American League West. He's hitting close to .400.

In the other American League games Thursday, the New York Yankees beat the Toronto Blue Jays 8-6 and the Detroit Tigers blanked the Boston Red Sox 8-0. The game between Chicago and California at Anaheim Stadium was postponed because of a power failure. There were no games scheduled in the national League.

Cubbage had a two-run double and a sacrifice fly and knocked in a fouth run with a fielder's-choice grounder. Lyman Bostock also drove in four runs to share some of the glory. Geoff Zahn notched his third straight victory of the season despite being roughed up for nine hits and four runs in 6 2-3 innings.

Yankees 8, Blue Jays 6

Chris Chambliss drove in five runs with a pair of doubles and towering three-run home run, leading New York over Toronto. Chambliss smashed run-scoring doubles in the fourth and sixth innings before pounding his homer in the seventh, when the Yankees scored four times to put the game away.

It was only the Yankees' fifth home run in 12 games this season and the first with anyone on base. Graig Nettles, the American League's 1976 home run champion, hit his first of the season, a solo shot in the bottom of the eighth.

Tigers 8, Red Sox 0

Rookie Dave Rozema pitched a four-hitter for his first major league victory and Jason Thompson knocked in four runs as Detroit beat Boston. Rozema, a 20-year-old right-hander, struck out four and didn't walk a batter in his third start of the season. Thompson, Mickey Stanley and Aurelio Rodriguez hit home runs in support of the rookie pitcher.

Bass Club Standings

The Snyder Bass Club held its monthly tournament April 16 and 17 on Lake Stamford with 22 members competing for prizes. The club awarded prizes for six places each day.

Saturday's winners, in order, were Red Pinkerton, Steve McMahan, A.C. Floyd Jr., Cecil Jordan, Earl Perser and Max Hildebrand. Sunday's results showed James Liner first. Second through sixth were A.C. Floyd Jr., Dean Floyd, Cy Higgins, Cecil Jordan and Mark Stephens.

Red weighed in the heaviest string of the weekend, three bass at 11 pounds-nine ounces, and was awarded the trophy for the largest bass, five pounds-three ounces. Competition was based on a three fish string and a 12 inch minimum length.

After three tournaments, the top ten anglers are Red Pinkerton, A.C. Floyd Jr., Steve McMahan, Mark Stephens, Don Warren, Cloyce Scarberry, James Liner, Dean Floyd, Larry House and Jim Lightfoot.

Yanks Regain 1957 Pennant

MILLBURN, N.J. (AP)—despite a dismal start, the New York Yankees have regained the American League pennant.

The Yankees did not earn the flag on the field, though. Some college pranksters who swiped the banner from the roof of a local department store have returned it, Millburn police Lt. Leo Wallace said Wednesday.

"Where and how we got it back is confidential," Wallace said, adding that no one would be charged with the theft.

Super Kids Scheduled

The 'Super Kids' competition begins at 9 a.m. tomorrow with opening ceremonies at Snyder Football Field.

Dallas Cowboy wide receiver Golden Richards will be on hand at the awards ceremonies following the final events.

Snyder Jaycees are sponsoring the competition.

EFFORTS PAY OFF—Though Eddie Woozy of Ira looks as if he's been running 30 laps, the varsity trackster actually only ran short distances in the 8-B meet here Wednesday. He put a lot of effort into the 100 and 220 dash though, winning first place in both. (SDN Staff Photo)

Orton Signs To Play With Old Dominion

Larry Orton, a 6-8 center from Portsmouth,Va. who helped to lead Western Texas to the National Junior College Tournament, has signed a basketball grant-in-aid with Old Dominion University.

"Larry was the key to our recruiting. He was the big man we felt we had to have help replace Wilson Washington," ODU head coach Paul Webb said. "He is a fine player; one of the best junior college players in the nation this year."

Orton, who intends to coach and will major in health and physical education at ODU, set two school records while at Western Texas.

In his first year here, he averaged 10 rebounds and 12 points per game, and set a record with his shooting percentage of 57 from the floor. This year he broke his own record, averaging 15 rebounds and 24 points, and shooting 62 per cent.

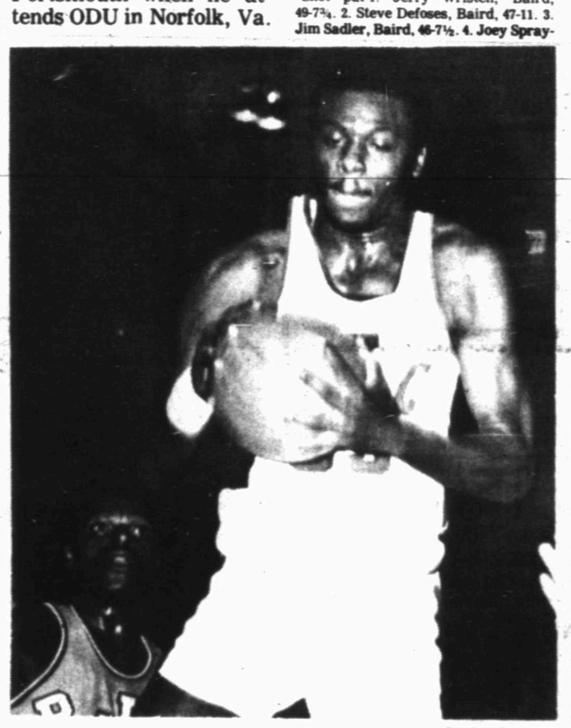

Old Dominion University, widely known and respected on the basketball court, advanced from-Division II to Division I following the 1976 year. a contender in Division II, ODU was national champion in 1975, and finished fourth in 1976 and second in 1971. Last year, with a 24-5 record, ODU hosted a regional NIT Tournament in which they lost to Villinova by three points in overtime.

ODU coach Paul Webb is the winningest active coach in Virginia with 359 career victories. Orton will be with good company at Old Dominion, including some top Virginia talent, as well as Ronnie Valentine, the 27th highest scorer in the Nation (Div. I).

ODU's upcoming schedule will include Boston University, Tuland, Navy Richmond, Virginia and William and Mary, among others. ODU has played several South West Conference teams, and will meet SMU in the 1977-78 year.

"Larry will be a tremendous asset to our center and a strong forward. He has excellent moves to the basket, is an aggressive rebounder and a very good medium range shooter."

Orton will be returning near his home town of Portsmouth when he attends ODU in Norfolk, Va.

RETURNS HOME—Larry Orton, WTC star, has signed with Old Dominion University. A native of Portsmouth, Va., Orton will be returning to the area to play for ODU next year. (SDN Staff Photo)

UNHARNESSED POWER

No matter how hard you try to justify it, nothing is as expensive as unused capacity. An ad on television says, "A mind is a terrible thing to waste." But no one seems to have more unused capacity than the churches of America.

Great armies of laymen who are excellent salesmen, captains of industry, business genuises, are seldom—if ever—challenged by the churches to do great things for God. Unharnessed, they are like great rivers flowing to the sea—unused!

Women who have succeeded in every area of American life are left uncalled on by their churches. Why? No one seems to know. Yet this great expense goes on. But not everywhere!

I know some churches, many in fact, who see the potential of their church members. They are broadening the pattern of their services to the community in almost exact ratio to the capacity of their membership. The value of these churches to their community and the world is tremendous!

Does it cost to do this? Oh yes—it costs a lot! But, it's not expensive! Nothing is expensive if it pays off in the long run. Ask any farmer, "Is fertilizer expensive?" He most likely will answer, "Not if it doubles my yield." When a pastor successfully couples the manpower of his church to the tasks of the Kingdom, no matter what it costs, it's not expensive.

Capacity plus Christ equals fulfillment and joy in the Lord.

Dog Picks His Owner

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Forced to choose between two men who claimed the same dog, Judge James Cavanaugh let the dog decide.
So when Bingo responded to one man's "Give me five" by holding up his left paw and shaking hands, the judge said, "Bingo is yours."
But he also promised to buy the other man another dog.
Bingo, a 4½-year-old black and white Alaskan malamute, was given to the Lewis Rubin family 11 months ago. Six months later he disappeared from the back yard.
Three weeks ago, David Baez saw Bingo fight with another dog on the street. He took Bingo home.
On April 9, Rubin spotted Baez with the dog, but Baez refused to hand over his new pet without proof of ownership. Rubin took Baez to court.
After his ruling, the judge promised to raise $100 from "private resources" to buy Baez his own dog.

No Funds For Moose Facility

DENVER (AP) — There will be no moose in Colorado, at least until the next fiscal year.
A caucus of Republicans in the state House Wednesday went on record as opposing a $12,000 appropriation sought by the Division of Wildlife for a "moose holding facility" in a remote winter range area. The money was to help build an eight-foot fence for animals brought in from other states.
There are no moose in Colorado.
Several rural lawmakers said they didn't want the division to bring the beasts into the state because they "tear up the range."
But Rep. A.J. "Mick" Spano said he had a simpler reason for opposing the import of moose.
"If moose wanted to come here, they'd come here by themselves," he said.

TESCO Already Changing To Coal

Increasing the use of coal and nuclear fuel is the "essential part" of President Carter's energy plan, Texas Electric Service Company President W. G. Marquardt said today.
Marquardt's statement came in response to Carter's energy message delivered to Congress Wednesday night.
"The most important thing about President Carter's energy plan is the recognition that the United States faces a serious energy problem and something must be done about it," Marquardt said.
The thing to do, he said, is switch from oil and gas to coal and nuclear fuel. Texas Electric began such a program 10 years ago.
"We...are already producing nearly a third of our electricty with lignite coal," he said.
Marquardt warned that changing fuels is a very expensive process, requiring hundreds of millions of dollars to build new power plants.
"We can't raise these tremendous sums unless we can get rate increases when they are needed, in the amount needed," he said. "Without rate increases, the fuel changing process will come to a halt."
He stressed the need for increased conservation, and said that the company plans to expand its efforts to help people to properly insulate their homes.
He cited some specifics in the Carter proposal that deserve close study because they might not be feasible or economic at this time. Among those proposals is the suggested tax on the use of natural gas as a boiler fuel, conversion of existing gas plants to burn coal, and time-of-day electric rates.

Moonie 'Recruit' Recalls Weekend At Camp

By DANA GOSNEY
Written for The Associated Press

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — A chilled and nearly sleepless night was brought to an abrupt end as a boot thundered onto the wooden plank floor.

It was 6:30 Saturday morning, and the children of the International Ideal City Ranch were squirming to life in the freezing coastal air.

Moonies and their new recruits were scattered about on the floor of a converted chicken coop as I made my way to one of three tiny doorways.

What had been billed by my hosts as "The Best Weekend of Your Life," was beginning to unfold.

Johan Shahi, the man whose invitation led me here, slipped up behind me. He was to be my "spiritual partner" and would not leave my side for as long as I remained on the 700-acre ranch.

Guitar strings strummed a greeting as nearly 400 young Moonies and their 40 new recruits averaging about 23 years in age began to sing and sway, arm in arm, to "You Are My Sunshine."

Then came exercises, held in two gigantic circles, one within the other. There were the standard high school gym class warmups with a taste of yoga thrown in.

Ranch rules seemed easy enough to follow. There was to be no smoking, no drugs, and no alcoholic beverages.

A fourth rule seemed at first to be as innocent as the other three. We were asked to leave our "negativity" at the main gate, with the understanding that if we decided to leave, w could pick it up on the way out.

"Negativitiy," as described to us, is a vague concept that encompasses hate, fear, anger, anxiety and skepticism. It also is used to discourage any critical questioning by recruits.

When our group went to a breakfast of granola, fruit and orange juice, I was introduced to an often-emotional little game called "sharing." It required that we "share" personal religious, economic, educational and family backgrounds with other members.

After the sharing and singing at breakfast, one of the childlike Moonies called for a "Chooch" chant, which seems to hold a mystical power that pulses through the Moon community.

"Choo Choo Choo, Choo Choo Choo, Yeah, Yea-Pow," the Moonies thundered.

On to lecture - an introduction to the series of five lectures that are the framework for the Unification Church. "The Divine Principles," repeated with scientific regularity, are the basis for all discussion and the justification for any activity.

Jeremiah, my group leader, was on stage to relate the community's goals.

Each new round of ideas brought howls and screeches from those around me. Some had the presentation memorized and were mouthing the words along with the speaker. Others were muttering, "Yes, father," over and over again.

The principles made unnerving sense.

I was 150 miles from home, on a ranch isolated from the outside world, faced with a threatening new definition of truth and without a way to check my bearings.

I wanted to be alone for a few minutes to collect my thoughts but it was explained that self-reflection could have no value. Even as we went to the bathroom, there was someone there asking and discussing.

After lunch came the every-afternoon dodgeball game that provides physical activity between the second and third lectures.

During the last meal of the day - vegetables and a "New Age Big Mac" soyburgers - there was more discussion of the day's activities.

Sunday proved a repetition of Saturday - lectures, discussions and games, all in the same order as the day before.

I was pulled away from the afternoon dodgeball game by Johan, who led me off into the trees to plead with me to stay for another five days to "learn the true meaning of life and the universe."

There was more talk of leadership, but still in very vague terms - no mention of Moon - just of a father image and no reference to the Unification Church.

So I asked Johan to cut through the jungle of vagueness.

Johan hesitated, but after a long silence he said the group believes in the teaching of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon.

He was quick in following up with the same sort of logic that had been used over and over in the lectures - the world is afraid of a new leader; Moon is not a bad person as the press would have you believe, he is simply another Jesus Christ, a new messiah.

It was now 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and I was sure of only one thing - I wanted out.

There was nothing physically to restrict me from leaving camp, but I sheepishly asked permission to leave. Permission was denied.

After threading through a maze of young faces, each pleading I reached my sleeping gear and turned to ask Johan for the use of the phone, as we had agreed earlier. I then was told that the telephone didn't work.

It is several hundred yards from the "Chicken Palace" to the main gate, and Jeremiah suggested that the whole congregation walk with me on my journey from the ranch. As it turned out only Jonah trailed along to unlock the gate and give me my freedom.

It was 6:30 p.m., 3½ hours after I had first asked to be released.

Two steps beyond the gate, I experienced the sensation of falling and reached out to steady myself. My stomach, after churning for several hours, forced its contents from my mouth.

Then I began to weep uncontrollably. I was crying for those I had left behind.

PROCLAMATION SIGNED—The week of April 24-30 has been designated as Bike Safety Week in Snyder. Mayor John Fagin, seated, is shown as he signed the proclamation with John McMaster, left, and Dick Norris looking on. KRUEGER BY-PASSED

5 Texans Named To Energy Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill named five Texans to the House's new ad hoc energy committee, but he by-passed U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, who has led the fight for natural gas deregulation.

Krueger, of New Braunfels, came within a vote last year of getting a deregulation bill through the house and had lobbied hard to get on this year's energy committee. When the selections were announced, Krueger was not among the 25 Democrats on the committee.

The select committee will put President Carter's energy package into final shape after its components are worked over by the various regular committees which deal with energy. O'Neill said that more than 150 Democrats asked for spots on it.

"It looks like it will be a very sympathetic committee for Carter," said Rep. James Collins, R-Tex., as he surveyed the list. Collins and Rep. William Archer, R-Tex., were both among the 12 Republicans chosen by House Minority Leader John Rhodes.

O'Neill selected three Texas Democrats for the committee. They were Reps. John Young of Corpus Christi, Charles Wilson of Lufkin, and Bob Eckhardt of Houston.

Young and Wilson, like Collins and Archer, are proponents of deregulation, while Eckhardt has said he favors Carter's proposal to cap the price of both interstate and intrastate gas at $1.75.

None of them, however, has become an expert in gas legislation as Krueger has. Krueger could not be reached for immediate comment Thursday.

O'Neill simply said he wanted to pick a balanced committee. One surce said there was opposition to Krueger's selection because he had proven himself "too effective" in campaigning for deregulation.

Rep. Thomas Ashley, D-Ohio, whom O'Neill described as a neutral on energy issues, was selected as committee chairman.

Brummett Gets Life Sentence

KERRVILLE (AP) — State District Court Judge Robert Barton has sentenced Lyle Brummett to life in prison after Brummett pleaded guilty to a murder charge in the 1975 rape-slaying of a Kerrville teenager.

Brummett pleaded guilty to a charge of murder in the death of Carol Ann London, who was reported missing in 1975 with another Kerrville teenager.

Alan Ladd Woody, 20, of Kerrville, was convicted recently at Ft. Stockton and was sentenced to 99 years in prison in the death of Mrs. Beth Pearson, 15.

Brummett led police to the bodies of Miss London and Mrs. Pearson last August near Kerrville.

Brummett is scheduled to go on trial at Austin next week on a murder charge in the rape-slaying of Diane Roberts, 20, an Autin secretary.

Jackie, Other Celebrities Lead Rally

NEW YORK (AP)--Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis and several other celebrities led thousands of New Yorkers at a rally voicing support for the endangered Grand Central Station.

Mrs. Onassis mingled with the crowd Thursday, shaking hands, exchanging greetings and posing for photographs.

The Penn Central Transportation Corp., owner of the terminal, has brought suit to remove the terminal's designation as a landmark. That designation prevents the demolition of the historic structure.

Penn Central wants to replace the ornate building with a skyscraper.

Also among the celebrities were Mayor Abraham Beame, commentator Alistair Cooke and performers Jerry Ohrbach, Bobby Short and Tammy Grimes.

DROPS OIL FROM NAME

Sun Company Is Diversifying

DALLAS (AP)-- Sun Company is preparing for the day when oil and gas run out by diversifying its operations to non-petroleum energy areas.

Officials have announced the dropping of "Oil" from the company name and a switch from an integrated oil company to a corporate set up with 14 independent companies.

Vice chairman Robert W. Donahue said at a stockholders meeting in Dallas Thursday that Sun has entered a partnership with U.S. Steel and Union Miniere, a Belgian industrial firm, to determine the feasibility of recovering small lumps of mineral from the ocean floor.

Donahue said the project will also attempt to develop a commercial process for refining the mineral modules into metals such as manganese, nickel, cobalt and copper.

Sun has also gone into coal mining.

Sunoco Energy Development Co., one of the 14 new Sun companies, recently made its first coal shipment from a mine near Gillette, Wyo., Donahue said.

Regarding President Carter's energy speech, H. Robert Sharbaugh, Sun Board chairman and chief executive officer, told the group it is too early to tell what effect the Carter energy package might have on Sun and other oil company operations.

Sharbaugh called the program "an excellent start" towards strengthening the country's energy position.

"The country has gone too long without an energy plan," he said. "Now that we have one presented to us, we must not allow ourselves to kill it by harsh and strident criticism. Unyielding positions by special and narrow interests have done in proposals in the past. We must keep this one alive through calm, reasoned discussion, held in a spirit of compromise and dedicated commitment to the nation's interests."

Sharbaugh said Sun supports the concept of a national leadership conference on energy to bring together the leaders of different opinion groups for idea exchange and public debate. He said such a conference would go a long way in fostering the trust necessary to gain broad agreement on steps to be taken.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Menopause and pregnancy

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 51 years old and still menstruating, although at age 45 I started missing a period now and then. The last one was seven months ago and now another one.

I have read that a woman can still get pregnant for as long as two years after the last menstrual period. Wouldn't this apply to a woman younger than 51 years old? My doctor has me on Premarin. Would this act as a birth control pill?

DEAR READER — Many of those mid-life babies are in women who thought they could not get pregnant and threw caution to the wind. A good rule of thumb is to assume you can get pregnant until two years after your last period after your menopause unless your doctor specifically tells you otherwise.

I usually say that the oldest woman on record to have a child is 56 years of age. A few of my readers have called my attention to some women who were past 57 so I may have to raise that a couple of notches but it is exceptionally rare for a woman to ever get pregnant after her mid 50s.

Female hormones such as contained in Premarin may act as a birth control pill and birth control pills may act as a source of female hormones — delaying or obscuring menopause.

I have learned from readers that many women on birth control pills or hormones, that are stopped once a month to induce an artificial menstruation, have the mistaken idea that they can still get pregnant. Such withdrawal artificial menstruations are unrelated to ovulation. The lining of the uterus still grows from hormone stimulation — but the stimulation comes from the pills. When the pills are stopped once a month the lining of the uterus sheds because there is not enough female hormones in the body to maintain those overgrown cells. An artificial menstruation occurs even though the ovaries may have been inactive for 10 years or more.

Incidentally this is an important point about the hot debate over the role of female hormones in causing cancer of the lining of the uterus. In most of the reports available the female hormones have been given continuously. That means the overgrown cells lining the uterus are maintained and there is never a shedding of these cells. Gynecologists have known for years that these overgrown cells could be a nest for cancer changes. That is why they have always followed their patients on female hormones who still have a uterus with great care.

By stopping the medicine once a month and allowing these cells to be shed the increased danger of cancer — small as it may turn out to be — is greatly diminished or may even be completely obviated. The stories you have read and the reports available do not take into account the effects of the artificial menstruation that may protect women and the role of the level of the dosage. Different estrogens, different dosages and inducing artificial menstruation may result in women not having any real problems from taking female hormones after the menopause. It is too early to jump to conclusions yet.

You will need to talk to your doctor about your status. I don't know from your letter if your period was induced by stopping Premarin or if it occurred naturally. If you have not completed the menopause you are certainly not too old to get pregnant.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-12, Menopause, for more information. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

14 Cases Heard In County Court

Fourteen guilty pleas were entered Thursday in county court.

Seven of the guilty pleas were entered to charges of misdemeanor possession of marijuana. Entering pleas in that category were Billy Norris Cobb, David Jee James, Curtis Daniel Jones, Julie L. Jones, Freddie Gandar, James Marshall Miller, and Arturo Jones.

Cobb and James were each fined $200 and assessed a 30-day jail term. Curtis Jones, Julie Jones, Arturo Jones, Miller, and Candar each received a fine of $200 and a 90-day jail term, probated for 180 days.

Entering guilty pleas to charges of driving while intoxicated were Oscar Rodriguez, Frank Alvarado, Sandra Kay Shannon, Gilbert Chapoy, and Douglas Carroll Sawyer.

Rodriguez, Alvarado, Chapoy, and Sawyer were each assesed a 30-day jail term, probated for six months, and fined $100 apiece. Sandra Shannon was fined $50 and received a 30-day jail sentence, probated for six months.

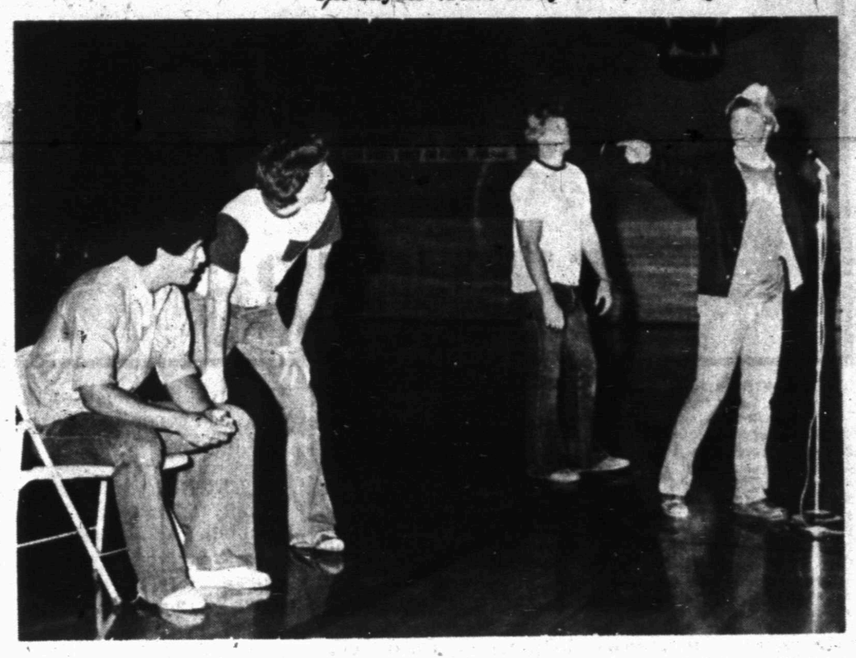

Billy Norris Cobb pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawfully carrrying a weapon and was fined $100. The offense is alleged to have occurred April 8.

Also in courtroom activity, the probation of Willie Winston Menges was revoked.

Menges, on probation for an alleged Jan. 24 DWI offense, had his probation revoked yesterday on a subsequent charge of resisting arrest that reportedly occurred April 3. He was fined $100 and assessed a 30-day jail term.

Rueben Gausnell, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of less than two ounces of marijuana earlier this week, had his original sentence changed Thursday.

His sentence was reduced from a $200 fine and 30 days in jail to a $200 fine and 90 days in jail, probated for 180 days.

Hospital Project

and other facilities for the hospital's housekeeping service, Miller said.

In discussing the proposed addition, board members expressed belief that a continued steady increase in demands for medical service is likely here for several years and that construction costs are expected to continue to rise.

Miller said that every room in the hospital "is full of something today."

As soon as firm cost estimates can be obtained, the hospital board plans to request the commissioners court to call a bond election to finance the project. Preliminary estimates had run in the neighborhood of $3¼ million. However, this could vary some in either direction when the final plans are completed, it was indicated. Several board members said they already had received inquiries from persons expressing interest in furnishing rooms in the new addition.

The preliminary plans which the board approved Thursday night call for an addition extending north from the present emergency entrance. It would have a full basement, plus three floors above ground and could support additional floors in the future if the need should arise.

Attending the session were Jarrell, Sam Cross, Martin Brooks, Henry Clark, Rex Robinson, A.Z. Glover and County Judge Preston Wilson, members of the board; Miller, and assistant administrator Don Sealy.

In other business, the board approved a two-year contract with the administrator. The terms of the contract had been agreed upon at the March meeting.

Miller's report to the board showed that the hospital is operating "in the black" and that the patient census for the first quarter of the year averaged 75.2.

CARTER

he said with a smile.

—The energy program he proposed to Congress Wednesday night would, if fully implemented, cost the federal government $4 billion between now and 1985. He said that would be the over-all expense counting expenditures and tax revenues from all features of the program. Carter said that with net spending of $4 billion, the nation will purchase and store one billion barrels of oil, worth $13 billion, as insurance against future embargo or emergency.

—Carter will meet in Geneva next month with Syrian President Hafez Assad as he seeks "some common ground" for Middle East settlement.

—The administration has information that Katangan insurgents fighting in Zaire were trained by Cubans. "I have no direct evidence at all that there are Cubans in Zaire," he said.

His formal news conference finished, Carter insisted in conversation with newsmen that his figures on gasoline and crude-oil tax rebates were accurate, and that his program would mean refunds of $188 for an average family to offset higher oil prices, and $100 in refunds for each five-cent gas tax boost if that tax is triggered.

The gasoline tax proposal, already stirring strong opposition in Congress, is to add gasoline taxes in five-cent increments up to a maximum of 50 cents for each year in which consumption exceeds government-set target levels.

Minimum Income Weighed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Carter Administration is giving serious consideration to a welfare reform proposal guaranteeing a national minimum yearly income of $4,300 for a family of four, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

The newspaper, in a story from Washington, quoted unidentified administration sources working on the project. It said the proposal calls for establishment of a national income floor of $4,300 for a married couple with two children, $3,300 for childless married couples and $2,200 for single persons who are aged, blind or disabled.

President Carter will receive the proposal May 1, make a final decision by early summer and submit proposed legislation to Congress in late July, the Times said.

The proposal also would make $2.7 billion available for public service jobs, the sources said. They added that the final welfare reform plan would simplify the current system by abolishing such existing programs as aid to families with dependent children, food and stamps and supplemental security income.

Concrete Canoe Races Set Saturday

PRINCETON (AP) — Hundreds of engineering students from more than 20 colleges will set sail Saturday from the shores of Lake Carnegie here in canoes made of concrete.

The students, from more than 20 colleges, will compete in the first Princeton Eastern Invitational Concrete Canoe race, sponsored by the School of Engineering and Applied Science and the undergraduate chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

William Hazel, a Princeton junior who organized the event, said there's nothing weighty about the contest's purpose. "The reason we're doing this is because it's fun and frivolous," he said Thursday.

Hazel said a finished canoe will weigh approximately 180 pounds and should be able to race across a 400-meter course in about two minutes.

He said prizes will include beer mugs, Princeton T-shirts and engraved canoe paddles.

Gummo Marx Dies Thursday

PALM SPRINGS (AP)—Gummo Marx, 84, the second youngest of the five Marx brothers who gained fame for their comedy classics, died Thursday at a hospital here, a spokesman said.

Gummo, who never appeared before the cameras, had been hospitalized at Eisenhower Medical Center for about a month. He died of natural causes, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The death of Gummo leaves only Groucho, 86, and Zeppo, 74, surviving from the comedy team.

Gummo, whose real name was Milton, became the business manager and agent for the comedy team when the brothers arrived in Hollywood from New York.

Stolen Money Is Recovered

Police officers reported contacting a theft suspect and recovering most of the money reportedly taken in two separate thefts from Food Basket convenience stores.

The 26-year-old suspect, police said, agreed to make financial restitution in the matter.

The man is accused of taking approximately $571 from the Food Basket near U.S. 84 and Huffman Ave. last Dec. 30 and taking about $220 from the College Ave. Food Basket last week.

No charges have been filed.

A minor traffic mishap was investigated at 9:10 a.m. today at 1301 College Ave. Involved in the accident were a parked 1972 Ford owned by Mattie Shoemake and a 1970 GMC pickup truck driven by Lisa Claxton.

Two Vehicles Are In Mishap

Two vehicles were involved in a collision Wednesday at 10:50 a.m., approximately 3.2 miles west of Snyder on U.S. 180.

Involved in the mishap, according to accident reports filed by investigating highway patrolmen, were a 1970 Chevrolet driven by Charles Harding and a 1976 Chrysler driven by Alfrieda Moss.

No damage reports of the accident were immediately available.

system which represent the community's desire for the education of its children and to delegate authority to appointed administrators to carry out these policies. Outstanding school systems such as ours didn't just happen. Many years of hard work and fore-sighted planning made it possible. Changes had to be made even though many were probably controversial. I would like to be a part of the effort to fill the needs of education now, while building for the future," Mrs. Vincent concluded.

Voss said he believed that his service for one term on the board had prepared him to serve better in the future.

"I think the knowledge I have gained about the school system and its problems will permit me to serve the teachers, pupils and the community better during the next three years," he said.

"My objective is to see that the children in the Snyder Independent School District get the best possible education from the resources that we have," Voss continued. "I only wish that more people would familiarize themselves with the operations and the problems of our schools."

Voss also said that he did not, as an individual, have answers to a lot of school problems, but that he had always been interested in hearing the views of citizens, school personnel and teachers, such as the Classroom Teachers Association presentation at the last board meeting in requesting a cost-of-living pay increase. He said he was always willing to listen and that he appreciated all information that anyone could contribute toward solving school problems.

Louisiana Legislature Preparing

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards made it clear well in advance he didn't expect to like President Carter's energy program.

Now he's got his friends in the legislature preparing plans to counteract it - at least in Louisiana.

Rep. Billy Tauzin of Thibodaux said Thursday he will introduce a stack of bills on the subject.

Tauzin, a floor leader for Edwards, said the alternatives may include minimum prices on natural gas leaving the state, conservation in production and usage of natural resources, and legal or tax incentives to accomodate any transfer of new Natural resources into Louisiana.

He said Louisiana must look for new energy sources for its industries, and existing industries must convert from boiler fuel energy to other sources as soon and as easily as possible.

Tauzin said the most significent part of Carter's proposals is the continued regulation of interstate oil and gas and the proposed regulation of intrastate energy.

Opportunity For Outdoorsy Woman

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y.News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I know you aren't running a Lonely Hearts Club, but I've nothing to lose but a postage stamp, so here goes.

I'd like you to help me find a wife. I am 50 years old, I've never been married and I'm in excellent health. I'm a retired S/Sgt (U.S. Navy), get a lifetime pension, have money in the bank and some income property. I own a nice little cabin on 12 acres, deep in the woods near a mountain stream. I love to hunt and fish.

My wife must be the outdoor type. If she's never skinned a rabbit or filleted a fish, she should be willing to learn.

Don't send me any widows with kids or women under 40. I'm too old to start raising a family, and I don't care to finish raising somebody else's. She doesn't have to look like Sophia Loren as long as she's strong and healthy.

Enclosed is my picture. (I look short because I'm standing next to a redwood tree, but I am actually 5 ft. 9 and weigh 170.) I'd appreciate any leads you can give me. By the way, you don't happen to be single, do you?

WILLING TO GAMBLE

DEAR WILLING: Don't gamble on strangers—the risk is great enough when you marry someone you know.

No, I don't happen to be single, but I wouldn't qualify anyway because I've never skinned a rabbit, and I'm NOT willing to learn.

DEAR ABBY: I am 19 and Herbie is 22. We aren't engaged or anything like that, but we sort of have an understanding.

Herbie never lets me know when he's going to take me out. He just drops in and expects me to be sitting home waiting for him. And I always am.

I've even turned down other dates to wait for Herbie. How can I break him of this habit? When I ask him to please telephone in advance, he says he doesn't like to use the phone.

AVAILABLE ANNIE

DEAR ABAILABLE: If Herbie knows you're always available, why should he bother to call?

When he tells you he doesn't like to use the phone, tell him that YOU don't like to use the crystal ball! And the next time he drops in, manage to be "out." If you lose him, you lose him. Life with the likes of Herbie doesn't sound too peachy to me.

DEAR ABBY: My name is "Marjorie." Is that such a difficult name to pronounce? Why then do strangers as soon as they meet me insist on calling me "Marge"? When I tell them in a nice way that my name is "Marjorie," not "Marge," some proceed to call me "Marge-oree" in a most sarcastic and mocking manner.

What makes Americans behave this way? And how can I get them to call me "Marjorie" without all that ridicule and funny business?

FROM LIVERPOOL

DEAR MARJORIE: Nine out of 10 Americans are guilty as charged. A well-bred European addresses a new acquaintance as Mr., Mrs. or Miss.

Not Americans! Charles immediately becomes "Charlie," Robert is "Bob" and Marjorie is "Marge." It's a good-humored American bid for friendliness, not familiarity. Forgive them.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17, but have always been very mature for my age. I am in love with a 24-year-old guy, but I have to see him behind my parents' back because they hate him without even knowing him. You see, he was married to a no-good run-around, has two children by her, and his divorce is not quite final yet, and my folks don't want me going with a guy who has had that kind of record.

Abby, you've got to believe me, he is a wonderful guy, and the messed-up marriage wasn't his fault. It was hers. Please tell me how I can get my parents to at least meet him and judge him for what he is.

LOVES THE GUY

DEAR LOVES: Assuming that this fellow is guiltless, I am wondering what kind of a "wonderful" 24-year-old guy, not yet divorced, would see a 17-year-old girl behind her parent' back.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Concerned Boyfriend Is Fighting Abortion

MAPLEWOOD, N. J. (AP)--A 23-year-old man who is seeking to prevent a former girlfriend from having an abortion for a fetus she said he fathered said he's doing it because he doesn't want her "hurt."

"I care for her and she could be hurt by this," said John Rothenberger Jr. "I'm not doing this just for me. It's for her, too. She has a lot to lose--a family to lose, a college education. She has just me to gain."

Rothenberger, a jobless construction worker, obtained a temporary restraining order against the abortion that was scheduled for Thursday.

Rothenberger said he had been dating Wendy Chasalow, 19, for almost two years but that they had stopped seeing each other last week when she told him she was pregnant despite the use of contraception. He said she told him he was the father, a judgment he accepted.

"She wasn't mad," Rothenberger said. "She didn't seem so upset. She wasn't overjoyed about it, but it didn't make her angry." He said the couple had talked of marriage and that she wanted to elope on Saturday but had changed her mind by Monday, saying she wanted the abortion.

"I'm still very much in love with her," he said.

Rothenberger, who said he plans to enter bartending school next week, said his mother would care for the child while he worked.

A superior court judge and state appeals court rejected his arguments that he had an equal right to participate in an abortion decision and that the six-week-old fetus had rights in the matter.

Both courts said the U.S. Supreme Court had given women an absolute right to an abortion in the first 12 weeks of pregnancy. But Justice Robert L. Clifford in Morristown granted the restraining order until the full state Supreme Court hears the case on Monday.

Miss Chasalow, a freshman at Trenton State College, was not available for comment on Thursday, but some family members in Whippans said she had not had the abortion.

"She called me last night to tell me she was very angry," Rothenberger said Thursday. "She's very angry with what I'm doing."

Rothenberger said he thought Miss Chasalow was being pressured into the abortion by her family, adding that "her parents feel I wasn't exactly the best one for her."
