Senate Bogged Down In Tax Slice Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite mounting pressure for quick action on a tax cut bill, the Senate refused today to shut off debate and bring the measure to a vote.

A motion to limit debate on the $29.2 billion tax cut bill recommended by the Senate Finance Committee failed on a 59-38 vote. The margin, in the first test of the Senate's new antifilibuster rule, was one short of the 60 votes required.

THIS WEEK

Despite the vote, Senate leaders still hoped to complete action on the tax cut this week and send it to a Senate-House conference which would work out final details of the bill.

Reviewing the Senate's work over the preceding two days, Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., floor manager of the bill, said Wednesday: "We have yet to vote on the first tax cut for anybody."

Instead, the net effect of the Senate action thus far has been to increase some corporate taxes by:

—Eliminating the oil depletion allowance for major companies but retaining it for independent producers under certain conditions. This could raise the taxes of the oil companies by some $1.2 billion a year.

—Repealing the foreign tax credit for oil companies, meaning a tax increase of at least $1 billion.

—Repealing the foreign income deferral, thus raising taxes on U.S. corporations by a minimum $600 million.

LONG FIGHTING
Long is fighting every effort to add amendments that could transform the legislation into something beyond a tax-cut measure. Meanwhile, the White House, in almost daily pronouncements, is calling for quick passage of a bill that cuts taxes and does nothing else.

Still another factor was

Assassination Attempt Flops

NEW DELHI (India) (AP) — A man hurled two hand grenades today into a car carrying India's chief justice, A.N. Ray, but they failed to explode and the would-be assassin fled, police said.

An official spokesman said the assailant had removed the firing pins from the two highly explosive 33mm army grenades. Investigators said the grenades failed to explode because they might have been too old.

In January, an assassin killed Railway Minister L. N. Mishra with a bomb.

added Wednesday night when Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., offered a $2.4-billion amendment to raise Social Security benefits an average 8.7 per cent, retroactive to Jan. 1.

Under present law, benefits for the 31 million Social Security recipients are due to go up by that amount on July 1. Congress has shown no inclination to follow President Ford's urging that the hike be held to 5.5 per cent in an effort to reduce federal spending.

VOICE VOTE

On a surprisingly quick voice vote, the Senate adopted an amendment by Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., to repeal the foreign tax credit for the major oil companies. This would result in a $1-billion increase in the companies' tax liability.

This amendment still allows the oil companies to subtract foreign taxes from their taxable income, and it reduces the standard 48-per cent corporate tax rate on such earnings to 24 per cent.

POWER VACUUM — You probably think of motor vehicles as gasoline-powered and vacuum cleaners as electric, right? Well, John Hoke, technical adviser for the National Capitol Parks, demonstrates a switcheroo; an electric cart, designed to cut down on air pollution, equipped with a gas-powered vacuum cleaner which will be used to remove trash from the parks.

100,000 FLEEING Provinces Abandoned

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A 20-mile-long column of more than 100,000 fleeing civilians and soldiers reached the safety of a coastal province today as the Saigon government yielded more territory to the North Vietnamese, including the old imperial capital of Hue.

Officials said still more of South Vietnam may be given up beyond the one-fifth already conceded.

NIGHTMARE

The refugee column was led by heavy South Vietnamese tanks that rolled over stalled cars and shoved broken down trucks off the road. "It was a nightmare, nothing but a nightmare," one officer said, describing the five-day trek from three abandoned central highlands provinces to the coastal Province of Phu Yen.

In Phnom Penh, sources said the British Embassy is closing because of the deteriorating military situation in Cambodia.

The Saigon government's plans to give up more territory — three provinces — were made on the contingency that the North Vietnamese offensive would continue to snowball, government officials said.

This would bring to 10 the number of provinces lost or abandoned to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong. There are 44 provinces in South Vietnam and the government has already abandoned or lost seven of them, representing one-fifth of the country's territory and one-tenth of its population.

For the first time since the big North Vietnamese Easter offensive three years ago, the government today extended the curfew in the Saigon region two hours because of the emergency situation. But some South Vietnamese officers saw no threat of an immediate attack on the capital.

Terrified Hostages

HOUSTON (AP) — Terrified, exhausted and driven by three determined gunmen, the Huntsville prison seige hostages started their last journey together—a frightening trip from shelter into the uncertainty of a dark August night.

Ronald W. Robinson, one of the hostages, described the climactic moments of last summer's 11-day prison seige in testimony Wednesday at the capital murder trial of Ignacio Cuevas, the sole surviving convict-gunner.

Cuevas is on trial in the death of Mrs. Julia Standley, a librarian-hostage, who never survived that last journey. She was one of four, including another hostage and convict-gunner Fred Gomez Carrasco and Rodolfo Dominguez, who were killed in the shootout that ended the siege.

Rise In Consumer Price Index Noted

By The Associated Press

The government reported today that consumer prices rose six-tenths of a per cent in February, despite the smallest rise in food prices in seven months.

The increase was the same as January and came despite three months of steadily falling prices at the wholesale level.

The latest Consumer Price Index figures show that consumers are still being hit by sharply higher costs for services, such as medical fees, utility bills and rent. Finished goods other than food also continue to increase sharply.

EARNINGS UP
The Labor Department also said that hourly earnings increased slightly last month, although inflation and taxes pushed the purchasing power of the average American paycheck down by a half of 1 per cent for the month.

Elsewhere, how well the economy is doing deemed to depend on whose economy you are talking about.

On Wednesday, for example, some 3,750 workers struck General Motors'

Fisher Body Fleetwood plant, idling it and a nearby Cadillac assembly plant. At the same time more than 200,000 auto workers remain on indefinite layoff in one of the auto industry's worst sales slumps.

And while the stock market took its sharpest drop in almost a month, a top business research organization said consumer confidence early this year was up for the first time in 10 months.

BALANCE OF PAYMENT
The day also saw announcements that the nation's balance of payments for the last quarter of 1974 hit a new low and that the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., which provides most of the nation's telephones, had its first quarterly profit drop in three years.

And the government said that personal income continued rising last month, but only because increased government benefits — including a jump in unemployment payments, offset jobs lost in the recession.

Congress, meanwhile, continued work on the tax-cut and energy legislation designed to help the nation out of its economic woes.

The Senate voted Wednesday night to tax away an additional $1.6 billion of profits earned by U.S. firms abroad.

Big Spring Gets Okay To Apply For HUD Funds

By MARI CARPENTER

"Big Spring is the only one of nine cities requesting permission to apply for federal Housing and Community Development discretionary funds that has been approved to apply for the funds," Ernie Crawford, executive director of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, told the board of directors at their monthly meeting at Terminal Wednesday.

"A telephone call just came to the office stating that Big Spring may apply for $300,000 in funds for water and sewer lines in designated blight areas, along with other items," Crawford added.

The PBRPC board was in the process of discussing the nine pre-applications for these funds from Ector County, Fort Stockton, Goldsmith, Grand Falls, Lamesa, McCamey, Midland County, Pecos, Seagraves, Seminole and Stanton.

FIGURES QUESTIONED

Dr. James Pearce, Fort Stockton councilman on the board, was questioning Big Spring's application which showed 46 percent of Big Spring residents are of a low income level. "How can that be with that refinery and all those schools and hospitals?" Pearce asked.

Crawford told the board members that the figure is obtained by taking the average annual income within a community. "In Big Spring, the average is somewhere around $10,000 and there are 46 percent who make below that. The phrase is low income, not poverty."

When the announcement came that Big Spring's pre-application had been approved for half the $616,000 they requested, the entire nine pre-applications were approved.

CHANCES SLIM

"The chances of any of the rest of us getting any may be slim and none," one county judge lamented, "but let's approve the pre-applications."

Requesting the largest amount of the group was Lamesa, who asked for $928,525 and Fort Stockton, requesting $708,600.

Midland, Odessa and Wink get to make their applications under Housing and Community Development Entitlement Funds which are awarded ahead of the discretionary funds.

Midland and Odessa are listed under communities over 50,000 and Wink is included because they were under the old Urban Renewal program.

The World At-A-Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's letter carriers are postponing a strike threatened for this month over a proposed new delivery system designed to increase efficiency. The 200,000-member National Association of Letter Carriers postponed the walkout indefinitely because it said the U.S. Postal Service has delayed putting into effect the controversial system, known as the Kokomo plan.

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam's current offensive was launched in the belief that the United States is unwilling or unable to give South Vietnam the military aid necessary to survive, according to an authoritative Hanoi journal. This assessment in Hoc Tap magazine supports Ford administration contentions that a congressional cutback in U.S. aid has encouraged Hanoi to intensify its attack.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The father of sports activist Jack Scott is to testify today before a federal grand jury investigating the flight of Patricia Hearst and two Symbionese Liberation Army companions. The FBI has been seeking John J. Scott's son to determine if he knows the whereabouts of Miss Hearst, SLA members Emily and William Harris and Wendy Yoshimura, who is sought on 1972 bomb possession charges. No charges have been placed against young Scott in the Hearst case.

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — The challenge for a small savings bank here was to find a way to compete with the big, multiservice banks that had the sole legal right to offer checking accounts. Slowly, the solution took shape at Consumers Savings Bank. It was the NOW account, in which depositors can write checks on their savings accounts, which still earn interest. The idea caused a court fight, but NOW accounts won. Other banks in Massachusetts and New Hampshire took up the concept, and now the Ford administration is proposing that banks in other states be allowed to offer NOW accounts. NOW stands for negotiable order of withdrawal.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional committees investigating the Central Intelligence Agency show little interest in opening full-scale inquiries into the partial recovery of a Soviet submarine from the bottom of the Pacific Ocean. Public disclosure of last summer's highly classified operation raised few questions about the legality of the CIA's attempts to raise the diesel-powered sub.

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger resumes his shuttle today between Israel and Egypt with U.S. officials acknowledging that the next few days could be critical for his peace mission.

'COPTER CRASH VIEWED — Tammi Schafer, 16, and Duke, the family dog, look over a crashed helicopter. Laroy Schafer, her father, said he and his son, Terry, 20, were watching the aircraft hover over this pasture four and one-half miles northwest of Vincent at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. The 'copter being used to help shotgun coyotes plunged 50 to 60 feet to earth and the two investigated. Neither C.C. (Con) Thomas, the gunner from Lubbock and principal district field assistant for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, nor the pilot for Slaton Flying Service, Slaton, was said to be seriously injured. A spokesman for the flight company said a reporter would have to get the pilot's name from the pilot who could not be located because the reporter didn't have his name.

WACO — The president of the Texas Farm Bureau has asked Texas congressmen to support target price levels "which will provide insurance against major financial loss, but which will also allow the market system to function realistically."

Carroll Chaloupka, Dalhart, said target prices in a pending emergency one-year farm bill would

"stimulate over-production, result in a loss of markets, assure a build-up of surplus stocks, and guarantee depressed prices over the long run for producers of affected agricultural commodities."

Welfare Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. Jim Collins, R-Tex., has predicted that a piece of welfare reform legislation co-sponsored by 62 House members would save at least $1.5 billion annually and redirect the funds "to those who really need them."

"We are long overdue in attempting to end the abuses of the current welfare program," Collins said.

The sponsoring group of 55 Republicans and seven Democrats includes several members of the House Ways and Means Committee which will consider the proposal. U.S. Rep. Bill Archer, R-Tex., a co-sponsor, is on the committee.

The measure deals with the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program and would remove from welfare lists persons or families earning high incomes or incomes well above the subsistence level; establish more stringent identification programs to control and prevent fraud; establish criminal sanctions for willful misuse of funds from the program; and provide incentives for welfare recipients to find employment and remove themselves from welfare programs.

Not The 'Economic Man' But Totality Of Being

OMAR BURLESON, M.C.
17th District, Texas

WASHINGTON, D.C. — From a statement entered into the Congressional Record, March 10, 1975:

"Our system of free enterprise has brought to the people of this nation economic and social gains unparalleled in history. The opportunity to fulfill one's own dream through participation in the system has been an integral part of what America has always stood for. While the opportunity to test one's own ideas and resources and courage in the marketplace does not guarantee success, the denial of such an opportunity guarantees a loss of faith in the ultimate justice of our economic system."

"When an American reaches the conclusion that our economic system is inequitable, he is making a philosophical as well as an economic judgment. He is criticizing ultimately basic principles rather than economic techniques. Such criticism cannot be answered by references to the gross national product. It must be answered in the terms in which the criticism is framed. The member of a minority group who feels he has been left out of the American dream says: Show me. It is not enough to provide statistical data or inspirational rhetoric demonstrating the abstract fact of progress. He must be shown the worth of the American system in the only way that demonstrates that worth — by making sure that he has fair access to it. A piece of the action is not just a catch phrase; it is a shrewd and precise summing up of what is necessary

Gifts Bill Draws Fire

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A spokesman for Common Cause of Texas says a bill by Rep. Dewitt Hale changing the law on gifts to legislators would "destroy the integrity of the legislature."

John Hannah told the House State Affairs Committee Wednesday that the "Hale bill allows you (legislators) to put $100 in your pockets and not tell anyone about it."

Hale, D-Corpus Christi, said the current law concerning activities of lobbyists and gifts to legislators is not clear enough for "reasonable people" to know what to do.

Hale said two bills sponsored by him would remove some of the questions in the present law.

Under Hale's lobbyist measure, a person would be required to register as a lobbyist if he receives compensation to talk to a member of the legislative or executive branch to influence legislation.

Hale's other bill allows a public servant to accept up to $100 and not report it as long as there is "no substantial risk of undermining official impartiality."

Hannah said he thought $20 would be an adequate limit in order to permit legislators in some instances to accept such items as a free meal.

Both of Hale's bills were referred to subcommittee.

to prove that our system works for all Americans.

"The core of our national existence is the irrevocable and profound commitment to the individual. If an American is denied an equal opportunity to take his chances in the marketplace, he is, in effect, being denied not only as an 'economic man' but in his totality as a human being."

Books, lengthy papers and long speeches have been made on the subject of our free enterprise system but the above, in essence, just about tells the story of what it's all about. In fact it is what America is about. To see that these tenets were made applicable and workable for all citizens was one of the original goals of this free Nation. The freedom of choice — the right to take chances on success or failure without interference, is still central to our system.

The Congress is now in the process of enacting multi-billion dollar programs of "made-jobs" to counter recession and unemployment — it is doubtful that these "make-jobs" are what the Framers of our system had in mind when adopting it.

Run, Gun Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — Fans at the National Invitation Tournament tonight won't only see two basketball games, they'll get a textbook lesson in the process.

Oral Roberts, Oregon, South Carolina and Princeton present four widely contrasting styles.

In the first quarter-final game at Madison Square Garden, it's Oral Roberts' run-and-gun offense against Oregon's patterned team. In the second game, defense-oriented Princeton plays South Carolina, a high-powered offensive club with a muscled front line.

The winners advance to the Saturday semi-finals, joining St. John's and Providence in the Big Four of this 38th annual post-season tournament.

"The object of the game is to get the better shot," says Oregon Coach Dick Harter, explaining why his team likes to set up plays with ball-handler Ronnie Lee. "We hope to get the better shot from our pattern of offenses."

Oral Roberts, meanwhile, reverts to the schoolyard type of basketball with few patterns.

"Offensive-wise, we play pretty well at times, but sometimes our defense falls apart a little," notes Jerry Hale, the Oral Roberts coach.

Princeton and South Carolina will be meeting for the second time this season. The Gamecocks won earlier in the year, 65-48, but Coach Frank McGuire sees Princeton as a formidable opponent even though the Tigers will have trouble with his big front line.

"That victory was at our place, and at a different time," says McGuire. "Princeton is now a team constantly moving the ball. In a 40-minute game, they will try to control the ball at least half of the time."

"They are very disciplined. A lot of people think defense is just stopping a player one-on-one. That's not so. Princeton's careful handling is defense. When you see a team turning over the ball 19 or 20 times, that's a potential for at least 10 points. Princeton doesn't do things like that very often."

TENNIS
NEW YORK — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors defeated Dick Bohnstedt of Los Angeles 6-2, 6-3 in the second round of the Independent Players Association Tennis Tournament.

MEMPHIS — Unseeded Cliff Richey disposed of No. 3 seed Dick Stockton of Texas 6-3, 6-2 to advance to the quarterfinals of the World Championship of Tennis Memphis Classic.

DALLAS — Fifth-seeded Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union took an easy 6-2, 6-2 victory over Pam Teeguarden of Los Angeles in the first round of the Maureen Connally Brinker Foundation Women's Tennis Tournament.

CARACAS, Venezuela — Third-seeded Raul Ramirez of Mexico beat Brian Fairlie of New Zealand 7-6, 7-6 in the second round of the $60,000 World Championship Tennis Blue Group Tournament.

Henson Named Coach Of Year

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Lou Henson, New Mexico State's basketball coach, has been named coach of the year by the Missouri Valley Conference.

Henson outperformed first-year coach Bob Ortega of Drake and Louisville's Denny Crum for the honor. A panel of sports writers and sports broadcasters made the selection.

New Mexico State, which did not have a player taller than 6-foot-7, had been picked to finish second to last in the basketball race this season.

But the hustling Aggies finished second and their 11-3 record was just one loss behind Louisville, which won the title for the seventh time in nine years.

The Aggies' over-all record of 20-6 was good enough for them to be picked for an NCAA playoff spot.

"By using a blend of self-discipline and tight defense, the 'mini-mini-machine' was able to successfully outplay larger and quicker teams," the conference said of Henson's guidance.

Green Tries Hard

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — He talks about getting it in "Euell Gibbons country," the woods and weeds. He'll make a comment about his "Laurence of Arabia time on the wrong side of the gallery ropes."

He tries to keep it light and funny, as if it didn't matter. But Hubert Green is a deeply frustrated young man. "I'm hitting it sideways," he said. "I'm playing terrible."

There may be just the glimpse of a light at the end of the tunnel, however. "I think I've finally figured out what's wrong," Green said before teeing off today as the defending champion in the $150,000 Greater Jacksonville Open Golf Tournament.

"Now it's a matter of working on my mistakes, correcting them, getting my game back to where it was, to where it ought to be," he said in his rapid-fire, machine-gun style of speech. "At least I've got something to work on."

Green stamped himself one of the game's outstanding young players last season when he took this title and collected more than $200,000.

WIGWAM WISPS Robinson Believes Allen Will Report

The Cleveland Indians didn't play a game Wednesday. And slugger Dick Allen still hasn't shown up anywhere.

But Allen and the Indians—although not connected—were the talk around the grapefruit circuit.

Cleveland Manager Frank Robinson used the off day to take his Indians "over the fundamental mistakes we've been making." He also talked to George Hendrick about the center fielder's failure to run full speed on a double in Tuesday's 10-inning 5-4 loss.

"George's explanation satisfied me," the rookie manager said. "He said he thought the ball left the park for a home run."

Instead, the ball hit the fence and Hendrick barely made it to second when he possibly could have ended up with a triple.

"I told George he still should have been running hard," Robinson said. "Not only did it prove to be embarrassing to him, it also cost us the game."

"He knows now he was wrong. I'm sure he realized it when the ball hit the fence instead of going over. In a way, I'm glad it happened down here so I can say, 'Don't let these things happen during the season.'"

Robinson defended Hendrick and said at least two other players have failed to run hard after hitting pop flies.

"Just because it's Hendrick, everybody is watching every move he makes. George wasn't the first, and he wasn't the first I talked to."

In West Palm Beach, Fla., accumulated the instruction that we have been able to give.

'Catfish' Loss Opens Up West

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The California Angels open the 1975 baseball season with faith, hope and the "charity" provided by the world champion Oakland A's.

Dick Williams, who managed the A's to two world championships and then quit, leads the Angels, and he believes Oakland's loss of 25-game winner Jim "Catfish" Hunter to the New York Yankees will open up the American League's West Division.

No one is talking pennant at Anaheim this year, but Williams says, "We'll win more games than we lose and we will not finish sixth."

He works with an outstanding starting pitching staff, headed by strikeout king Nolan Ryan, and a supporting cast that's fast beyond compare.

Williams, who won pennants at Boston and Oakland, commented, "I've been delighted with what I've seen" so far of his team in spring training.

He wasn't delighted with what he saw when he took over the Angels last July 1 after the complicated deal which saw him sign a contract to manage the Yankees, then have Oakland owner Charles O. Finley get the deal nullified.

Last year, the Angels bobbled their way to a sixth-place finish in the American League West with a 68-94 record despite good pitching.

Gone are Frank Robinson, now the manager at Cleveland, Bob Oliver, Sandy Alomar and left-handed pitcher Rudy May—the latter three all ending up with the Yankees.

Williams is going with youth and an emphasis on fundamentals, saying, "You can win or lose games by execution and if you give the other team extra outs, you get beat."

"We weren't able to play intrasquad games because there has been so little time to follow through with our fundamentals. It will be interesting to see who has the speed department. Mickey Belts, Morris Nettles and Tommy Harper could total 150 stolen bases.

In the speed department, Williams believes outfielders Mickey Rivers, Morris Nettles and Tommy Harper could total 150 stolen bases.

Bill Singer, 7-4 last year following a 20-game winning season, has recovered from the shoulder problems that plagued him much of 1974.

Left-handers Frank Tanana, 14-19 in his rookie season, and Andy Hassler, 7-11, are the other starters.

Just ask Montana Coach Jud Heathcote, whose Grizzlies meet second-ranked UCLA, 24-3, tonight in the regional semifinals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament.

"Realistically, we stand a slim chance," Heathcote said.

All of the other coaches talk much more confidently, but only eight teams will be left after Thursday night's clashes. And that will be cut to just four by Saturday night, the four that will advance to the finals at San Diego next week.

Heathcote, a former assistant to Mary Harshman at Washington State, said he called his former boss after advancing to the Western Regionals by downing Utah State 69-63. Harshman, now head coach at Washington and one of the few coaches to defeat UCLA this season, gave Heathcote the secret.

The other West Regional game at Portland, Ore., will pit Arizona State, 24-3, against Nevada-Las Vegas, 23-4.

Kentucky, 23-4, plays Central Michigan, 21-5, and Indiana, 30-0, clashes with Oregon State, 19-10, in the Midwest Regional at Dayton, Ohio.

The East Regional will be played at Providence, R.I., where Syracuse, 21-7, plays North Carolina, 22-7, and Boston College, 21-7, meets Kansas State, 19-8.

Heathcote isn't the only coach who's spreading the word about how good their opponent is.

"If we don't play any better than we did in our first game, then Kentucky won't have to play very well to beat us," said Central Michigan's Dick Parfitt.

Tennis Meet Set

HOUSTON (AP) — This year's River Oaks Country Club Tennis Tournament will have a $60,000 purse.

The winner of the 41st annual tournament scheduled April 21-27 will receive $12,000.

Charles Swain, tournament chairman, said Wednesday the field of 32 will include the 28-member Red Group from World Championship Tennis and four winners of independent pro-am trials to be held here April 19-20.

Dick Stockton, former Trinity University of San Antonio star, heads the WCT Red Group. He holds a slim lead in points over John Alexander of Australia, Stan Smith and Marty Riessen of the United States and Mark Cox of England.

Champ No Gym Fighter

CLEVELAND (AP) — With their fight for the world heavyweight title drawing near, champion Muhammad Ali expressed boredom after a workout and challenger Chuck Wepner skipped training to go to the racetrack.

That's the way it was here Wednesday, six days before Ali meets Wepner at the Cleveland Coliseum.

"A fighter is like a race horse. You gotta pace yourself," said Ali, who sparred six rounds while Wepner was at nearby Thistledown watching race horses pace themselves.

"You don't train for every man the same way, or you'll burn yourself out," said Ali, who has trained lightly for his first title defense since he knocked out George Foreman in Africa, a fight for which Ali trained four months.

"I'm not satisfied with my condition," said the champion, who weighs between 225-230 and is carrying a slight paunch. "I'm not satisfied with the way I'm working."

But then he added, "I'm doing enough for this man."

Ali is an overwhelming favorite to beat Wepner, whose $100,000 purse is 10 times as much as his previous biggest payday in an 11-year pro career. Ali is getting $1.5 million.

Ali sparred six rounds with Willie Moore and Larry Holmes. The three rounds with Holmes were marked by a few lively exchanges.

"He would have won the decision if it had been a fight," said Ali of his workout with Holmes. "But he wouldn't win in a fight without head gear and he wouldn't win before 50,000 people with the cards on the table."

"I'm no gym fighter," the champion had to share the spotlight with his three daughters—6-year-old Maryum and 4-year-old twins Jamillah and Rashida—who were introduced in the ring before the sparring session watched by about 300 people at the Coliseum.

The girls smiled, and Rashida held up her arms and waved in much the same way Ali does.

"They know they're pretty," said the proud father.

Seven Rules Okayed

HONOLULU (AP) — Watch out you Fearsome Foursomes, Purple People Eaters, Domsday Defenses, No-Names and Mean Joe Greens. Waikiki Beach does you no good.

National Football League owners in their annual meeting on Oahu Island in the Pacific passed seven rule changes Wednesday and the majority help the offense.

The moves mark a continuation of the 1974 philosophy that the offense needs help to restore more balance in the pro game.

"In general, the new rule changes will benefit the offense," asserted NFL Commissioner Rozelle.

Two years ago there was wide criticism that defenses had moved far ahead of offenses and made the NFL games dull. So a year ago came a series of rule changes aimed at helping the team trying to move the ball.

This time the owners went further, although they did turn down a proposal that pass receivers need to have only one foot inbounds to make legal receptions.

Most important of the rule changes probably was one which provides that if any fourth down pass from inside the opponent's 20 yard line falls incomplete in the end zone, the ball will be returned to the line of scrimmage and not to the 20. So, a defensive team might get possession for its offense on the two or three instead of the 20.

"The previous rule discouraged passing, but now teams will have the option of either running or passing on short yardage situations near the goal line," Rozelle explained.

Bart Starr, Green Bay's former All-Pro quarterback and new coach of the Packers, said: "I think it's a great rule. I only wish it had been in effect when I was playing. I think it'll be great for the game."

Quarterbacks used to stick to the ground for the most part on fourth-down plays inside maybe the 10 or 15-yard line. Now they'll be more willing to go either way, on the ground or in the air."

Vaughn will coach the Cyclones' running backs. He will assume his new duties April 1. Vaughn won three football letters at Iowa State and was a two-time All Big Eight Conference selection before graduating in 1964. He was a fifth round draft choice of the National Football League's Detroit Lions and played defensive safety for them for seven years.

He coached one year at Wayne University and was defensive backfield coach last season for the defunct Detroit Wheels of the World Football League.

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne State University's hopes of winning the NCAA fencing championship this year suffered a severe jolt this week when Steve Danosi underwent surgery for a torn left achilles tendon.

Danosi, a senior, injured his ankle Sunday while fencing in the sabre finals of the Michigan Invitational at Wayne State.

Danosi, a three-time All-American, is a prime contender for spots on the 1975 Pan-American Games Team and the 1976 Olympic Team. Last year Wayne State placed second in the NCAA meet.

SPINS 6-HITTER Vernon Blanks Snyder, 18-0

SNYDER — Right-hander Charles Vernon blanked Snyder's junior varsity on six-hits as Big Spring's JV's pounded out a 18-0 win.

The victory was Big Spring's third in a row. For the year, the JV's stand at 3-2.

Vernon, 1-0, issued no walks and fanned five Snyder batsmen.

Big Spring sent 10 batters to the plate in both the first and second frames for six runs each.

Tony Mann swung the big bat for Big Spring, collecting five hits in the same number of turns at the plate. He drove in seven RBI's and completed the cycle, two singles, double, triple and homer.

Mann blasted a three-run four-bagger in the first, clearing 360 feet in left center. This was his second homer in two days.

Mann cleared the base paths in the third, unloading for a three-run triple. Charles Palmer banged the ball twice in three times at the plate. He also drove in two RBI's.

Big Spring singles were smacked by Steve Evans, Bill Hays, Ricky Watkins, James Thompson, Kyle Pfeiffer and Vernon.

Big Spring's JV will take a breather until March 26. The locals host Midland and on the very next day, entertain Snyder. Both games are to start at 4:30 p.m.

'Sucker Punch'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — San Antonio's Coach Bob Bass called it a "sucker punch," but Don Adams had the moral support of an adversary.

"He did what anyone's expected to do, come to the aid of a teammate," observed Rich Jones after an Adams haymaker to the jaw of Swen Nater, enlivened an American Basketball Association game Wednesday night.

Jones and the rest of the Spurs, who demolished the Spirits of St. Louis by 128-115, witnessed the altercation in the third quarter.

But the towering Nater, who plunged to the floor with the force of the punch, later insisted he'd failed to see the swing that bloodied his swollen lip.

"I don't know what a sucker punch is, but I do know he blindsided me," maintained Nater, who may have erred in picking on the Spirits' Marvin Barnes.

"Through the whole game he just kept putting his elbows in my chest," explained the 6-foot-11 Nater, who until then had shackled the shorter Barnes.

Losses Of $2,425,356 In Tuition Reported

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Losses of at least $2,425,356 in tuition that should have been refunded to students by 19 proprietary schools have been reported in an internal audit of the Texas Education Agency.

The schools are required by law to refund within 30 days the unused portion of a student's tuition when the student quits for any reason other than completion of the course.

THE MAJORITY

"These schools were repeatedly surveyed, given lists of deficiencies, asked for replies and asked to comply with the law, but when the schools disregarded these measures, no firm action was taken," according to the audit report, which was released Wednesday.

The Proprietary Schools and Veterans Education Division of TEA replied to the criticism of its administration by saying "the majority" of the schools are in compliance with the law. It also said the losses would have been even greater if the 12 schools owned by Carl D. Wehling of San Antonio had been closed down in 1974, as the TEA auditors said they should have been.

A suit by Atty. Gen. John Hill is pending against Wehling.

Student tuition loans are guaranteed by federal funds, and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, according to Hill, has hounded the students for refunds when it should be proceeding against the schools at the same time.

GONE ASTRAY

Woodrow Bean, a new State Board of Education member from El Paso, told a news conference Wednesday a reliable source in TEA informed him the losses may total $8 million and that another $105 million "has gone astray somewhere over there" at TEA.

Bean called upon the governor and Hill for a complete investigation of all financial dealings of TEA.

The Wehling schools were listed in the audit as: Victoria Commercial College, San Angelo Business College, Academy of Nursing in San Antonio, Valley Central College of Brownsville, Valley Central College of Harlingen, Beaumont Chienier Business College, Parish-Draughon's Business College in San Antonio, South Texas Commercial College in Corpus Christi, Southwestern Business College in Houston, Draughon's Business College in Amarillo, Draughon's Business College in Lubbock and Draughon's Business College in Abilene.

SCHOOLS LISTED

Three schools owned by R.L. Willis were listed: San Antonio Commercial College, San Antonio Technical College (operated as Texas Vocational School) and City Medical College, Inc. (operated as Southwest School of Medical Assistants).

Two schools owned by Richard F. McGoon were listed: Community College in San Antonio and Durham College of the Valley in Harlingen.

The other two schools listed were: Central College of Personnel Training in Texarkana, owned by John F. McCray, and CBH Education Center of San Antonio, Inc., with the corporation listed as owner.

The Wehling schools owed $725,356 in tuition refunds, and the other seven schools owed $1.7 million, according to the audit report, but in several instances the estimates admittedly were approximate.

Present Bleak Picture Of Petroleum Industry

AUSTIN (AP) — The executive vice president of El Paso Natural Gas Co., predicted today that customers may be facing widespread gas shortages within the next four to five years.

"Anyt'ing short of all-out effort in developing oil and gas supplies could make this country totally dependent on foreign oil or cause a radical reduction in the standard of life in this country," said Travis Petty.

Petty was one of numerous executives of major oil and gas companies who presented a bleak picture of the industry to the Texas Railroad Commission.

It appeared certain that the commission would set the statewide oil allowable at 100 per cent of production for the 37th consecutive month.

Most of the blame for the nation's fuel shortage was placed by the executives on Congress and federal agencies.

When Z.D. Bonner, president of Gulf Oil Co., recommended eliminating the Federal Energy Administration, the audience applauded.

"This country's energy future is being sacrificed to short-range, politically-motivated policies at the national level," Bonner said. "Congress must sublimate its rancor toward the oil and gas industry long enough to take those actions necessary to commit greatly increased energy development."

Bonner also said tax credits for oil depletion must be retained, adding that the depletion allowance had "developed unnecessary evil connotation."

D. Lamar Smith, senior vice president of gas supply for the United Gas Pipeline Co., joined several others in criticizing congressmen from the Northeastern states. "Anyone can err in judgment, but no like people in the East who err in stupidity," he said.

Jim Langdon of the Railroad Commission complained that in recent Washington testimony before a Senate subcommittee Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., left the meeting and did not even listen to his remarks or those of Commissioner Ray Sutton of Louisiana, another major oil and gas producing state.

"If Congress would listen and learn, some of our problems could be solved," Langdon said.

LAMESA Plans Water, Sewer Bond Issue

LAMESA — After over a year of discussion, Lamesa's City Council has called for a bond election to be held April 15 in order to raise $610,000 to pay for water and sewer improvements termed "vital for the future of the city."

The election will be to authorize the sale of $555,000 in bonds for construction improvements and extensions to the city's waterworks sewer system.

Residents of the city will vote on each proposition separately. Councilmen have stated that the bond issue should not result in a tax increase but might result in an across-the-board hike in water bills of approximately 75 cents each.

Foremost among the water works improvements is the replacement of existing lateral water lines from N. 12 to N. 22 between the Lubbock Highway and Bryan Avenue. There is also proposal of replacement of a two-inch water line in Chiquita Drive with four-inch and six-inch water mains. This portion of the proposal is estimated at $365,585.

Also proposed are the installation of a 1,600 gallon per minute turbine pump, motor and controls in the N. 42 Pump Station estimated at $22,750; the installation of a 1,600 gallons per minute pump and controls at No. 4 at the same cost; a hydraulic cylinder on two existing turbine pumps, and other repairs.

Council Approves HC Nursing Degree Plan

By MARJ CARPENTER

The request for funds for an Associate Degree in Nursing Program at Howard College was given favorable comment and approval by the Permian Basin Regional Planning Council when they met at Terminal Wednesday for their monthly board meeting.

The request for veterans administration funds totals $240,400 and will finance the beginning of the nursing program at the College which should be switched over to state and local funds within four years.

The request for funding will now go on to state level and on to Washington for final approval.

Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery represented the finance department of the college and answered a number of questions concerning the proposed program, the need for it, the number of hospitals in Big Spring and presented other information.

OTHER PROJECTS

Other applications approved included a request from Midland for $259,000 under Community Development Entitlement and Odessa with a request for $375,000 under the same program.

The nine pre-applications for discretionary HUD funds were approved and a request from Fort Stockton under Pecos County Community Action of $26,848. The mayor of Fort Stockton, Gene Cummings, did not give approval to the project because he said it was "set up exclusively for Mexican Americans." The Fort Stockton council board representative voted against favorable comment and board approval, but it was passed over his objections.

The board approved a resolution accepting the state administration of the region's 701 program for 1975 rather than HUD control. They also passed a resolution recommending to the Governor of Texas that the health system agency be established in the Permian Basin Region with no other counties to be added to the 17 now included.

They named a Drug Abuse Advisory Committee. From this area, it includes four Big Spring members, including Judge Bill Tune, Dr. Wallace Hunter, Eva White RN, and Sgt. Bill Lindsey; F. O. Rhoads from Martin County; Robert Snell and Bob Capps, Dawson County and Mrs. Frances Burkett and Larry Smith from Borden County.

Both Judge Tune and Harold Hall, who is secretary of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Council, attended Wednesday's session.

Another Test In Mitchell

The Hurlbut (Sunflower sand) field in southern Mitchell County is to get another test.

This curious spot first produced oil from only 130 feet July 26, 1951 when W.J. Rasnick No. 2 Ellwood Estate rated 41 barrels of 18-gravity oil and 74 barrels of water a day from 130-132 feet on a ground elevation of 1972. At that, it was deeper than the celebrated Posthole field on the banks of the Colorado River near the old Col-Tex refinery. There oil was recovered by literally digging and pumping from a post hole, which some observers thought was fed by a pipe leak.

Clifton Thomas of San Angelo will drill No. 1 Ellwood et al 1,677 from the southeast and 467 from the northeast lines of section 4-16, H&TC.

In Sterling County C&K Collins tested the upper canyon at 6,752-954, returning 100 barrels of oil and 45 barrels of water. C&K Foster was bottomed at 8,260 to set 3 1/2-inch casing.

HMJ No. 1 Barber, Mitchell County, was erecting tank batteries and HMH No. 1-CF Dobbs drilled at 2,758.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FRIDAY, MAR. 21, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

The daytime is not good for forcing any issues. It is a time for calmly working out your problems the best way you can. The evening is fine for developing new ideas that could increase abundance.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19):

Take no risks during the day. Kin is not likely to agree with your ideas so get busy handling personal matters yourself.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20):

Morning is best spent at regular routines. Don't neglect important communication in the afternoon. Strive for happiness.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21):

Show that you know how to handle money wisely during the day and gain the support of bigwigs. Avoid arguments at home tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21):

You may feel frustrated during the day but conditions improve at night. Get rid of a bad habit you have. Be wise.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21):

Don't permit some private worry to disturb your day; carry through with an optimistic outlook. Take health treatments.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22):

Try to help a good friend who needs your help early in the day. Your intuition is not working accurately now. Keep active.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22):

The evening is the best time to make an important decision where a career matter is concerned. Think constructively.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21):

Forget a new appeal during the day and get busy on an important career matter. Don't take the advice a new contact gives.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21):

Make sure you keep promises you have made to others. Show mate you are a thoughtful person. Take it easy tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20):

An associate is acting strangely now so carry through with own work and all will soon straighten itself out. Be patient.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19):

Become more enthused about work you have to do and it will soon be behind you. Later join congenials for recreation.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20):

If you make good grades at school. . . .
YOU'RE THE ONE WE WANT.

We've noticed it. Our best carriers seem to be above-average students. Perhaps it's because in the daily management of their routes, they apply the lessons they learn in the classroom. Like arithmetic in making change and in keeping a record of their profits. Or, maybe it's because newspaper route management is just one of those things a good student can do well in. In any case, if your grades are A's and B's, we want to hear from you. We can show you how to build a savings account that can be a great help. Why not get started today . . . by calling us. There may be a route available in your neighborhood.

IF NOT FINANCIAL DEPENDENTS Students Can Deny Parents Access To School Records

By DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press Writer

Parents and students are not stampeding to see school records since a federal law gave them that right four months ago. But school authorities say they are having troubles with the law anyhow.

PRIVACY ACT
The law is called the Family Educational and Privacy Act. Congress has passed two clarifying amendments to it. The Department of Health Education and Welfare—HEW—has issued temporary guidelines for its implementation by the schools.

Despite all this, a nationwide survey of school administrators by The Associated Press shows them expressing these kind of concerns in connection with the law:

- The confidentiality of previously submitted school recommendations may be violated at the secondary school level.
- Letters of recommendation may be less candid in the future and of little value.
- The procedure for transferring records from one school district to another is not spelled out clearly.
- Honor societies are having trouble selecting members because they can't get grades of prospective nominees. Fraternities have trouble selecting officers for the same reason.
- Students are complaining that job recruiters are having trouble viewing school records for candidate evaluation.

STOP MISUSE
The act, an amendment to the 1974 Elementary and Secondary Education Bill, is known as the Buckley Amendment, named for Sen. James L. Buckley, R-C-N.Y., who sponsored the measure. It was designed to help stop misuse of cumulative school records.

The Buckley Amendment grants parents of public school students under age 18 the right to inspect and challenge their children's records and to deny public use of them. Students over 18 have the same right, and, if not financial dependents, can deny access to their parents. Federal funds are withheld from any school district or university failing to comply.

Soon after its enactment Nov. 19, Hutchinson, Kan., school officials refused to release the list of honor roll students because they said it violated the act. Bushton, Kan., officials refused to release basketball scoring totals on high school players because such information also was personally identifiable data stored in school records.

WANTS OUT OF NAVY WAVE Fighting Transfer To Texas

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A newlywed Navy woman is seeking presidential intervention in the orders that would send her to Texas for three years while her husband remains in Memphis.

Mrs. Dianna Farmer, 19, and her husband Jim, 26, were to meet in Washington today with Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., to arrange an audience with President Ford.

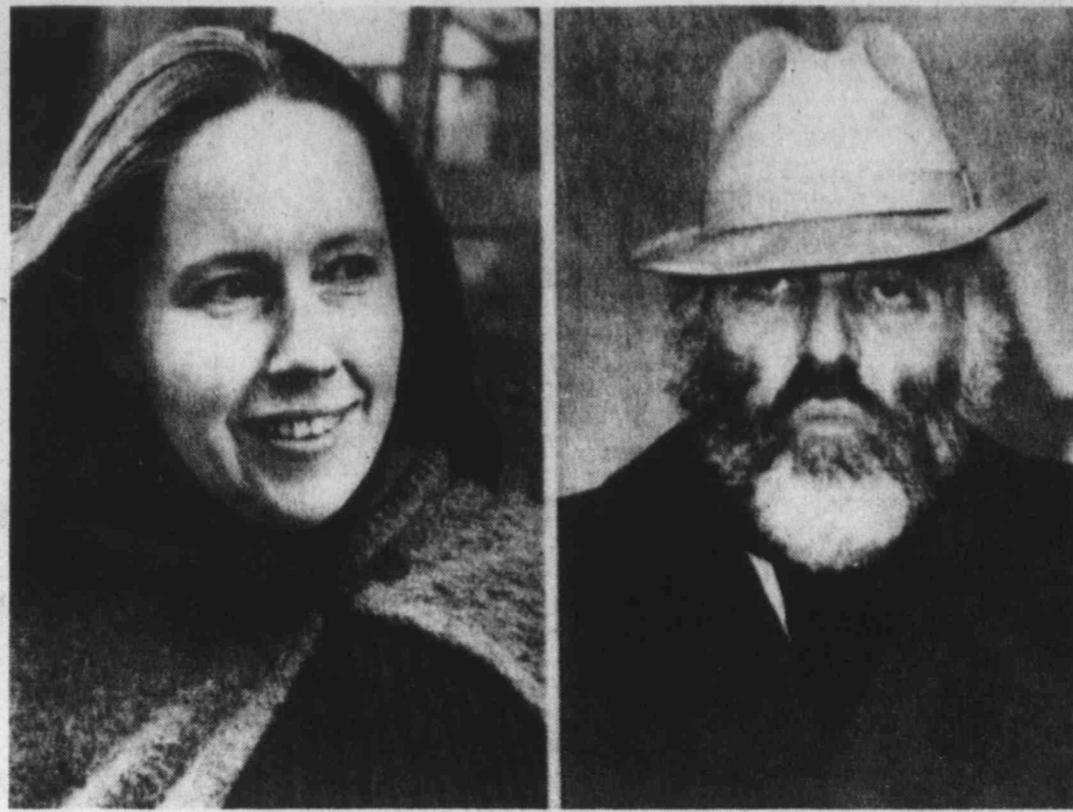

But earlier Mrs. Farmer decided she will not go to Kingsville, Tex., as ordered and leave her husband for little more than a month at Memphis Naval Air Station in Millington.

"All I want to do now is just get out," said Mrs. Farmer. "I just don't want any more part of it (the Navy). I am not going to leave my husband for three years."

Mrs. Farmer completed her eight months of training March 7 in the WAVES, the Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service.

The Farmers were married Feb. 14 with the understanding that Dianna would be assigned to the Millington base upon completion of her training. Instead, they said they learned of her transfer to Texas on Feb. 18.

Efforts to have the transfer orders changed or have Mrs. Farmer honorably discharged have failed.

'SEX THERAPY' SUIT — A civil court jury determined Tuesday in New York that Dr. Renatus Hartogs, a prominent psychiatrist, right, induced a patient, Julie Roy, left, to indulge in a 14-month bout of sex therapy with him. In a $1.25 million malpractice suit, Miss Roy, 36 charged that the sex therapy had worsened her mental condition. She was awarded $350,000 damages.

'First Gear' Shifts Here

The ultimate in a show-concert group, First Gear, who claims to "move from first gear to who knows where" will perform at 7:30 p.m. today in the high school auditorium.

Profits from the group of seven's performance will go to the speech and drama department activities at the high school. Tickets sell for $2 per person.

The group, with front singer, Larnelle Harris, performed at a school assembly today. Harris was described by the St. Louis Post Dispatch as a "young Sammy Davis who is a demon on the drums."

The other members of the group, Wally Gilmour, Bill Sanders, Russ Gregory, Jerry Idle, Don Perry and Terry Haschmann contribute vocally as well as providing the sound

School Money Plans Rehashed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A sponsor of one of the five rival school finance bills before the House pushed Gov. Dolph Briscoe's education advisor Wednesday for comparative cost estimates.

Rep. Dan Kubia, D-Rockdale, said the House Public Education Committee would base its decision largely on figures showing what the bills would cost local districts.

Briscoe's director of education research and planning, Dr. Richard Hooker, admitted that a decision on which estimates of taxable property values should be used is holding up the Texas Education Agency's computer printout on comparative costs.

It is generally agreed that taxable property values will be used in any school finance plan to determine a district's need for state aid.

"The governor is going to call together the principal parties and decide on a plan of action," Hooker said.

Hooker later said the Texas Education Agency had written the governor about 10 days ago requesting a decision.

"We have been charging ahead trying to get our study done so the governor can present it to these people and say, 'Here is an alternative, and one that I recommend to you.'"

The governor's office has a contract with Management Service Associates to make a study of market value of real estate in Texas school districts, but the study has not been completed.

An agreement on a set of market value data will have to be made jointly by Briscoe, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, House Speaker Bill Clayton and chairman of key legislative committees on education and finance, Hooker said.

"If we start hassling over what set of numbers to use for local fund assignment, we're dead," he said.

Hooker said he expects the governor to call the meeting "in the very near future."

Hooker's and Kubia's discussion took place at a public education committee hearing that focused chiefly on special education aspects of the five pending bills to revamp the Texas school finance system.

Preston Stephens, administrator of special education for San Antonio's Northeast Independent School District, said the governor's weighted pupil approach would "be ruinous" to the existing special education program.

PERILOUS CRUISE — Three young Sioux City adventurers float down the Missouri River on an ice floe which broke away from the shore here while they were standing on it. The 8-knot current carried the floe about a mile downstream before rescuers were able to reach it with a boat and pluck the young men off.

Ford Won't Be Candidate In 1976, Jordan Predicts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Tex., predicted today President Ford won't be a candidate in 1976 because the nation's economic situation will be so bad "that the Republican nomination for him will not be worth having."

She told reporters at a breakfast meeting at the National Press Club that her prediction was based on "nothing except a Barbara Jordan hunch."

She said she thinks the Republicans "are going to want the freshest face they can" in 1976 and said Democrats might follow a similar course. She said she sees the 1976 Democratic race as "so open and so up for grabs that it would be wrong to discount anybody." However, she added that she doubts Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace will be on the Democratic ticket.

Asked her view of Democratic prospects in 1976, she replied, "I happen to feel that the Democrats will have to work hard to lose in 1976. But we've worked hard before."

As for the effort by Georgia legislator Julian Bond and other black leaders to form a black bloc at next year's Democratic convention, she said it "does not seem to be realistic" to think that a black person could be nominated for president or vice president.

"Things would have to change rather dramatically or fast for that to be realistic," she said, adding that a black group may succeed in influencing other convention issues.

She said she thinks a black national nominee is possible "in my lifetime" but that, at the present, "a majority of the country would not be comfortable with a black."

She said she plans to continue to seek re-election from her House seat until "opportunity comes." She said she would only challenge Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., if she thought she had a chance to win.

Five Persons Fire Victims

CARROLLTON, Ga. (AP) — Five persons, four of them children, were killed early today in a fire at a tenant house, authorities said.

The five were trapped in an upstairs apartment, Mrs. Monzua Lovvorn, a spokeswoman for the Carrollton Police Department, said. She said at least five other persons escaped from the lower floor.

Mrs. Lovvorn said the house was located behind another house in a muddy field and fire trucks had difficulty reaching the scene.

The fire began about 2 a. m. and the last body was removed about 5:45 a. m., she said. The house was destroyed.

Police identified the victims as Linda Haney, 26; her children Buford, 1, and Jerry, 3, and her brothers Michael Johnson, 9, and John Johnson, 8.

Fire officials were trying to determine the cause of the fire.

Stringless Highway Funds

President Ford says that he will propose a $2 billion-a-year allocation to states for construction and maintenance as their highway departments see fit.

This would prove about as good a stimulus to the economy as anything he could do, plus creating something of lasting public benefit. Highway work historically has been one of the fastest and best ways to pump blood into economic veins.

We hope that the President sees fit to spell it out in such a way that the federal bureaucracy cannot muddy the waters by imposing a lot of formulae for distribution and use of the funds. To buck this money back (the President has in mind half-the present gasoline tax) in lump sums to the state is one thing that would make for fast action; to buck it back with a legion of restrictions and directions will only add to the frustration.

Aside from holding up money which should have been going to the states all along the federal government has been compounding the felony by hamstringing limitations in how funds can be disbursed. Contrary to the notion that interstate systems have been gobbling up all the money, the worst thing has been the preponderant urban orientation of the road building program. There seems to be a preoccupation with mass transportation, the development of systems to move peak loads in the shortest possible times; or to freeze out projects which do not have an urban bent.

Certainly the metropolitan centers have their problems, but they do not have a monopoly on need for good transportation. Getting goods and services to them are just as, if not more, important than shuffling people within them. Moreover, the traffic glut within metropolises wasn't created within a day, and trying to bail them out with peak-load designs is wasteful and unwise.

So, if the President can funnel back a substantial portion of the highway tax funds for the states to make their own decisions, there undoubtedly will be a more practical and equitable distribution of funds.

Hot-Stove League Stuff

One of the favorite indoor sports is to propose that Texas be divided into five states. Rep. Jim Collins, Dallas, is the latest to revive this sure-fire hot-stove-league conjecture.

When Texas was annexed in 1845, the Joint Congressional Resolution said that Texas had the option of dividing itself into five states (the original Texas and four others). This little gambit would give Texas 10 U.S. Senators instead of two, thus, presumably, more congressional strength.

There's not much use to speculate on whether the 10 senators would vote together any more often than they do now, because dividing the Lone Star State has about as much chance as selling off a piece of the Alamo to the Arabs.

"I'm more sociable than ever, but I don't feel very secure."

Backstage

Rowland Evans

WASHINGTON — Gov. George C. Wallace is working backstage for the reelection of Alabama state Democratic chairman Robert Vance, a Southern liberal and Wallace's longtime enemy, as chairman of the National Democratic State Chairmen's Assn. — an unexpected intervention causing wide-ranging ripples in the party's internal politics.

THE ELECTION today in Washington had been considered a test of strength for Democratic national chairman Robert Strauss, state chairman Donald Fowler of South Carolina was the moderate pro-Strauss challenger against Vance, the liberal, anti-Strauss incumbent.

But Wallace's decision to join Northern liberals, including Sen. George McGovern, in backing Vance makes his forthcoming presidential campaign a factor in Thursday's vote. If Vance is reelected, Wallace operatives would try to collect a due bill, exploiting him as their best friend in the national Democratic power structure for Wallace's fourth presidential campaign.

THE OLD Wallace-Vance feud began cooling last spring when Wallace lieutenants pulled their punches in a move to oust Vance as state chairman. Their relationship grew positively cozy last fall, in forming Alabama's delegation to the Kansas City convention. After Wallace moved to name Vance delegation chairman by acclamation, Vance privately promised to reciprocate.

Courthouse politicians in Wallace's Alabama organization warn that Bob Vance is a sharp pro-Birmingham not to be trusted. Nevertheless, Wallace insiders expect benevolent neutrality as a bare minimum. As a member of the powerful Compliance Review Commission, Vance will be expected to protect Wallace delegates from challenges. If reelected head of the state chairmen, Vance would be expected to serve a pro-Wallace counterforce to Strauss's soft-voiced hostility.

THE PARTY'S most liberal forces are pumping the telephones for Vance under command of tireless liberal activist Alan Baron, working out of McGovern's office. Left-of-center unions who finance Baron's Democratic Planning Group are applying pressure for Vance. Both McGovern and his 1972 running-mate, Sargent Shriver, have made calls for Vance.

Viewing Vance as an unadorned Southern liberal who will end up backing Duke University President Terry Sanford in 1976, Northern liberal friends know him as a courageous foe of Wallace on his homefront and cannot believe he has changed. "Hell, Vance thinks a lot less of Wallace than I do," says one such liberal.

PUBLICLY, Vance does not flaunt his new Wallace ties. When asked directly whether he would support Wallace, Vance sidesteps. "I'm not going to say what will happen two years from now," he told us. That's far short of what Wallace men are expecting.

Recession Over?

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — I have good news to report today. The recession is not going to last as long as everyone, including the President of the United States, predicts.

MY SOURCE for this information is Prof. Heinrich Applebaum of the Flatbush School of Economics.

Prof. Applebaum told me the reason he believed the economic downturn wouldn't last was that "Americans just don't have the stamina to go through a long recession."

"They did during the Thirties," I reminded him.

"All YES, but we're dealing with a different breed of American cat now. He's much softer; he's had it too good. No one wants to stand in soup lines anymore or sell apples on the street as we did when I was a boy. It takes tough moral fiber to have a long recession. Sure you hear a lot of talk about recessions, but how many people you know are willing to fight for one?"

"Not many," I admitted.

"SINCE TELEVISION, the attention span in this country on anything has been exactly 20 minutes. Right now we're in a recession because everyone says we're in it. People whisper to each other, 'Don't buy anything because things are bad.' But give it a few months and suddenly they'll get tired of the recession, just like they got tired of Watergate."

"Then they'll be whistling a different tune. They'll say to the media, 'We don't want to hear no more about a recession. Give us something else to talk about. If you don't stop talking about the bad economy, we'll turn off your news programs and stop buying your newspapers."

"Will the media bosses listen?"

"OF COURSE they will. They don't want to antagonize their viewers or their readers. The editors will say, 'Take all recession stories off the front page and put them back in the financial sections where they belong.' The broadcasters will stop sending out camera crews to depressed areas. Pretty soon everyone will say, 'Hey, the recession is over! It's okay to go out and spend money again.'

"THIS WILL mean that orders to the factories will start coming in, people will have to be hired, unemployment will go down, sales will go up, and the Avon lady will once again be ringing your doorbell."

"It sounds too good to be true," I said.

"It's going to happen," Applebaum assured me. "The best thing about it is that Congress and the Administration have been so slow in doing anything about the recession that it will be over before they get any bills passed. Once the American people get the message that Washington can't help them, they'll figure a recession isn't worth all the bother."

Applebaum continued: "This generation just doesn't have the 'Spirit of '32.' I asked my class the other day how many of them would be willing to go out and panhandle for a couple of years, and not one student raised his hand."

"It's not like the old days," I said.

U.S.-China Trade

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — The same emigration amendment to the U.S. Trade Act of 1974 that led to a rift with the Soviets might also be hampering the development of trade with the People's Republic of China.

Moreover, say some officials involved in U.S.-China trade, it might also delay settlement of a dispute involving U.S. assets of $200 million "frozen" by mainland China and more than $80 million of Chinese assets here.

Christopher Phillips, president of the National Council for U.S.-China Trade, said that in some respects an almost impossible situation is presented but that he remains hopeful.

The amendment stipulates, among other things, that certain nations cannot receive "most favored nation" status regarding tariffs or obtain U.S. government credits if they impede emigration rights of their citizens.

The Soviets viewed this amendment, sponsored by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., as an intrusion into their domestic affairs, and there are fears the mainland Chinese might make a similar interpretation.

"The Chinese are very sensitive of limitations on their freedom," said Phillips, whose organization includes more than 250 American companies and is supported by Washington as a focal point of U.S.-Sino trade.

Until the emigration issue is faced and resolved, the Chinese will continue to receive discriminatory tariff treatment of their exports to the United States. It means their goods will sell at a competitive disadvantage.

"It's a problem," Phillips said, "because the Chinese themselves are not begging for MFN status. Officially they say it is entirely an internal matter of the U.S. government."

But in private talks, said Phillips, who prior to taking his current position held ambassadorial rank as deputy representative of the United States to the United Nations, the Chinese make their displeasure clear.

The matter isn't entirely economic either, Phillips said. "They feel it is politics, too."

They resent discriminatory tariffs as not being in the context of mutually beneficial trade, a condition under which trade relations were reopened. Said Phillips in an interview: "They consider it an unfriendly act not consistent with the Shanghai Communiqué," a joint Sino-U.S. statement of Feb. 28, 1972, setting conditions and stating position on trade renewal.

Weight Losing Secret

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Why do some people have such a hard time losing weight? I am a female, 35 years old and 100 pounds overweight. I've been on a diet for six weeks and have lost only five pounds, all during the first week. I am eating between 700 and 900 calories a day.

I had my thyroid checked three years ago and it was fine. I work every day on my feet and I'm very active. I am getting very discouraged. — Mrs. P.H.

Don't be impatient. It took you a long while to put on the excess poundage, so unless you are going to endanger your health with a crash diet, it is going to take a while to remove it.

In the vast majority of cases, glands, especially the thyroid, have little to do with weight gain. I keep telling my readers that obesity is quite simply a matter of overeating. It's been shown that persons who have been fat since childhood have an increased number of fat cells, and these cells are larger than normal ones. Such are the facts of the matter.

The formula for losing weight is simple, also. If you do not consume excessive calories you won't gain weight. If you cut down on them, you lose weight.

So you are on a proper course with your restricted diet. One point, though. You don't mention salt restriction. Salt promotes water retention, and dieters do tend to consume more liquids than they normally would. This sounds pretty obvious, but I've known many to ignore this fact and then wonder why they weren't losing weight.

Eventually, water retention becomes less of a factor as dieting progresses, and the pounds begin slipping off. But you are right. Some people lose faster than others, and if we knew why, we'd have the answer to a sure-fire weight loss program. We don't.

But remember that weight loss is not a matter of steady decline, but of dips and plateaus. You lost five pounds your first week, then reached a plateau. I'll bet that by the time you read this you will have reached another plateau after your second decline. That is, if you have not given up in frustration in the meantime.

Keep at it. When you are at the weight you desire, you will find that after all the dips and declines, ups and downs, your average weight loss was something like two pounds a week.

If you can't do it alone, join one of the several weight-loss therapy groups around.

My booklet on reducing contains the elements for sensible weight loss. It's called "Lost Secrets of Reducing." For a copy, send 35 cents and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Memorable Hunt

Around The Rim

Marj Carpenter

Oh goodie, goodie, goodie. Next week it is time for the annual Easter egg hunts.

And the reason I'm saying goodie, goodie, goodie is that my children have outgrown them and I do not yet have to help with egg hunts for grandchildren.

PARENTS ARE not the only ones who go to play Easter bunny. This lot also falls to Sunday school teachers, scout parents, school teachers and room mothers. And I have at one time or another fallen into all of those categories. I've always had an exciting life and even my egg hunts were exciting.

My most memorable Easter egg hunt as a parent is the year that I rose early and went out into the dew and the damp to hide the eggs. There wasn't a cloud in the sky.

Then while I went inside and woke up the thundering herd, a spring shower struck and we were loping around the yard with umbrellas and raincoats trying to find all of the eggs before they floated off.

The mother-figure Easter bunny was squashing around the yard saying, "Look there's one," and thinking, "Hurry up and find the darn things before we all drown." Almost as much fun as the hunt was all of the mud that went back into the house along with dripping offspring and soggy Easter eggs.

My most memorable Easter egg hunt as a Sunday School teacher came the year that we had a Presbyterian nursery class that included around 45 children in one West Texas town; and at the end of it just as they all sat down in a circle on the grass to have refreshments, a little tyke named Todd broke out with chicken pox right before our eyes. You never saw such a scramble to get their little ones away from the terrible Todd.

AS A GIRL scout leader, the most memorable Easter egg hunt was an absolute catastrophe. We had one little Brownie whom we were supposed to watch closely to be sure the father didn't come and cart her off. The parents were involved in a divorce action.

In the middle of the hunt, all of the little Brownies came up screaming, "Her Daddy grabbed her and she was crying and he drove that away." We had to call the law, the mother, and had absolute havoc until the child was recovered at the edge of town. Somehow, all the joy went out of the occasion. But very few people have had a combined egg hunt and kidnapping.

As a school teacher, my most memorable egg hunt was one of the years I taught at Shelton Elementary in Odem. They sent a young teacher named Mrs. Green and I out to hide the eggs for all of the third and fourth graders. We came happily back and told them we were done. In describing the yard, we found out we had hidden the eggs in the wrong yard.

The eggs belonged next door, and the yard we had hidden them in belonged to a woman who did not even like for anybody to walk on her grass.

We raced back to the yard, found all the eggs and raced next door and hid them again in what turned out to be the fastest egg-hiding in the history of man. I'm sure half of them were cracked by the time we threw them all into the high grass, honeysuckle and irises.

As a room mother, I had one of the most memorable egg hunts of all. My children always volunteered me for everything. "Mama will bring the cookies. Mama will take a car. Mama will fry two chickens. Mama will play the piano. Mama will fix three dozen sandwiches. Mama will make the costumes. Mama will have the Easter egg hunt in our yard."

THIS HUNT was for the middle child and so all of the gaily colored eggs were happily delivered at our house. I had also boiled and dyed four dozen more because Carolyn had said, "Mama will fix some extra eggs." I had fixed the refreshments and put little brother (still at home) in bed for a nap.

He did not nap. He looked out the window. I hid all the eggs and went in to have a cup of coffee, waiting for the second graders to arrive. Little brother asked if he could get up. I said "yes" and paid no more attention.

In a moment, he came in the door with a basket stacked up with eggs. "Look what I found," he grinned.

I had to snatch the basket and rehide the eggs while he cried mournfully in the background and then I explained what was going on, hid some eggs in the back yard and sent him out on his own little hunt. It was confusion at its worst.

So next week, happy Easter egg, all of you happy Easter bunnies. Lots of luck. And goodie, goodie, goodie!

Nixonite Baiting

William F. Buckley, Jr.

LOS ANGELES — John Dean completed his lecture tour in these parts the other night, and the heckling was minimal. The student newspaper hailed it as a "Jail's Eye View of the Nixon Administration," which is okay — I mean, it is in the lusty tradition of student iconoclasm, though it would be nice if they would also do it to people who become famous for other reasons at least as disreputable as having participated in the Watergate coverup. If there were the will, I am certain student ingenuity would come up with a formula for greeting a lecture by, say, Angela Davis, or Daniel Ellsberg, or Free Wheel-shishame, whom we continue to free in between the times he mauls people.

JOHN DEAN COMPLAINED, after his lecture, that he is permitted to spend only one-half his time discussing his misadventures on the theme of what clean young men and women should look out for when they are tempted by federal power. The rest of the time he has to spend justifying his lecture fee. A single explanation would appear sufficient: secundum estimationem fori. It was way back in the Middle Ages they settled on this as the fair price: what can you fetch according to the reckoning of the marketplace.

In Dean's case it was three grand, which resulted in two dollars per ticket, which is less than the kids have to pay to see "Deep Throat", whose producer was presented as a distinguished lecturer under the auspices of the University of Boston — which lately cancelled the in-itation to Ron Ziegler. The faculty and the kids at B.U. are not offended by a man who makes a profession by training a telescopic lens on sodomites-for-hire; but they do not want, on their campus, a man who acted as liaison officer between the President of the United States and the press.

IT IS BY THE way a matter of passing interest that although we live in an age obsessed with the concept of effecting justice, I have not heard it said that Ron Ziegler ever committed a crime. When he told the press that the Watergate Break-in was a third-rate burglary, there is every reason to believe that that is exactly what he thought it to be. I know why they don't like Ron Ziegler, and in the expansiveness of my mood this morning I shall reveal that reason. They don't like Ziegler because he is a friend of Nixon. That's why they don't like Abplanalp, or Bebe Rebozo, Richard Nixon isn't supposed to have any friends. They haven't figured out a way of making it unconstitutional for him to have friends — perhaps the political science faculty at Boston University is researching the subject — but pending that discovery, the best way to treat a friend of Richard Nixon is as a pariah.

BECAUSE THE FACULTY and the dissenting students aren't quite prepared to say that Ziegler and Dean and Jeb Magruder should not be heard, they frame their objections on the fact that they are being paid to say what they say.

My Answer

Billy Graham

Would I be committing a sin to leave my husband? We have been married 49 years and raised seven fine children. The problem is my husband. He drinks heavily and has been mean to me. I just can't stand it any longer. I am 68 and he is 73. What do you suggest? C.L.

In your letter you did not mention any efforts to get help for his drinking problem. There are community organizations almost everywhere which exist for such situations, giving help which touches every member of the family — not just the problem drinker.

But how about having a family

"council", in which your children assist both of you to a solution. You speak of them as "fine", and one of them would be happy to take you in — if that was the wisest course to follow. You should not have to live indefinitely in fear of mental or physical cruelty.

The Bible does make provision for a separation between husband and wife when necessary. A temporary one for special reasons has been recognized from the earliest times (1 Corinthians 7).

It seems such a pity that after almost a half century of married life, you would fall now. As a Christian you can ask for and get God's help. No case is hopeless.

Lions Auxiliary Has Luncheon

The Downtown Lions Auxiliary held a luncheon at the Spanish Inn Wednesday. Mrs. John Quigley, president, introduced a guest, Mrs. Univa Smith.

The next meeting will be a noon luncheon April 16 in the home of Mrs. Schley Riley with Mrs. Dan Conley as hostess.

Bank Officer Speaks To Business Women

Doug Bankhead, installment loan manager at State National Bank, spoke on "Woman and Her Bank" when he addressed Cactus Chapter, American Business Women's Association, at a dinner meeting Monday in Furr's Cafeteria.

Mitchell 4-H Food Winners

Fifteen 4-H members participated in senior and junior divisions at the Mitchell County 4-H Food Show Saturday.

Focusing on typical foods in the Southwest, entrants prepared main dishes, side dishes, breads and desserts or snacks and beverages as they chose one of our entry classes for competition.

Because the 4-H foods program emphasizes nutrition, contestants were asked to demonstrate knowledge of nutrition, meal planning, food buying and meal service as well as the ability to prepare food.

In the senior division, Datha Byrne won with a main dish, "Tortillo Chip Casserole". The junior winners were Brad Fincher, blue ribbon; Dawn Lemons, Julie Craighead and Kim Feaster.

"There are many women who do not borrow in the same amounts as some men, however. This is partially due to a lower income in some cases."

Urging that women take a more active part in borrowing, Bankhead said statistics indicate, on a percentage basis, fewer delinquencies among women borrowers than men borrowers. He emphasized that one of the ways women can be more active and informed is to come to the financial institution with their spouses to discuss family-type loans such as auto, consumer goods, etc. Noting that women are most often the ones who pay the bills, he suggested they take a larger role in establishing loans. A question and answer period followed the talk.

Shower Honors Roylyn Welch

Miss Roylyn Welch, Coahoma, who will be married Saturday evening to Roy Lee Metcalf, was the honoree at a gift shower Tuesday in Midway Baptist Church.

The tea table was covered with an ecru lace cloth, and the centerpiece was an arrangement of red roses and white daisies. Crystal appointments were used.

Corsages of red and white carnations were presented to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Cecil Welch; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Jessie Lee Metcalf; and the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Dick

The next meeting will be on April 21.

Three new members were received into the chapter. Mrs. Cheryl Walker, president, Mrs. Lahoma Clark and Ms. Gloria McCombs conducted the ritual for Mrs. Dorothy Sheppard, Mrs. Mercy Glickman and Mrs. Loretta Scott.

Slides Show Historical Sites, Homes

A program on the heritage of Howard County was given for the National Retired Teachers Association at a luncheon Tuesday in the Downtown Tearoom.

Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper presented a slide program that included exterior and interior views of some of the first permanent homes in Big Spring. These included the Potton (Hayden), Bauer, Brennan, John Birdwell, Nat Shick and Dora Roberts homes in Big Spring and the Roberts ranch house. Particularly interesting at the ranch was a rock fence, for which Mrs. Roberts collected the rocks.

There were views of Signal Mountain (showing deep crevices) and the Moss Spring, with closeups of the moss that gave it its name, and other scenes of the area.

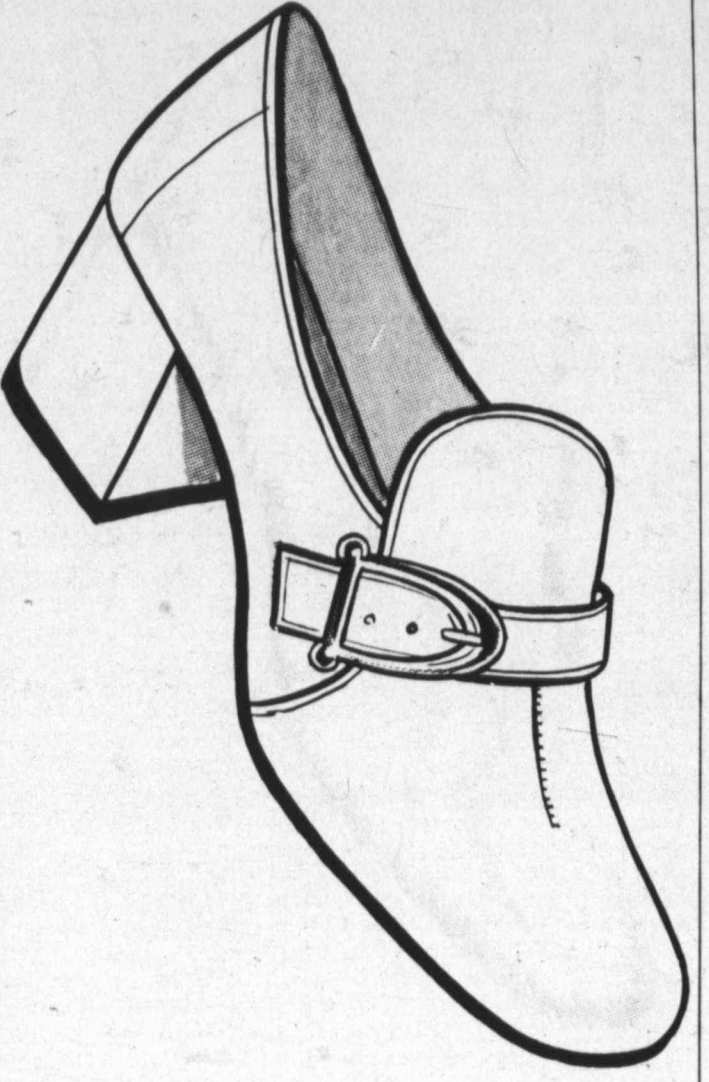

Officers elected were Martin Landers, president; Ms. Lois Singleton, first vice president; Mrs. Mary Newell, second vice president; Mrs. Thetus Dunagan, secretary; Ms. Mary Ruth Ingram, treasurer.

Plans were made to meet at College Park Shopping Center at 10 a.m., April 15, to go to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Skeets Porter, north of Vealmoor, who will host the meeting.

Terms Defined For Nutrition

Just what do the terms "adequate nutrition," "malnutrition" and "hunger" really mean? "Adequate nutrition" is the body's use of essential nutrients in the amounts and proportions necessary for optimum health throughout life. "Malnutrition" encompasses undernutrition, overnutrition and nutrient imbalance. Health and physiological functions are impaired by undernutrition or insufficient intake of one or more essential nutrients and overnutrition or excessive consumption of one or more essential nutrients. Nutrient imbalance can be result of either under- or over-nutrition. "Hunger" is synonymous with undernutrition.

Labor History, Laws Traced By Robison

"Labor law is ever changing, depending upon society's needs." From this opening statement Carlisle (Frosty) Robison, manager of employee relations for Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, proceeded to trace some of the early labor history for Desk & Derrick Club at a Monday evening meeting in the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

Centuries ago, slaves in Europe had no rights and no freedom. Serfdom was but slight improvement over slavery. Many elements figured into the gradual rise of appreciation for man's labor, among these the deadly black plague which killed so many people in Europe that an individual and his labor became more important. The real catalysts, however, were the Industrial Revolution which brought about the formation of shops, and the invention of the steam engine which brought power to industry. These gave man the option of remaining on the farms to toil or migrating to the city to work in the shops.

Robison explained that there are three basic types of labor law in the United States: legislative, which is passed by Congress; administrative, which is developed through administration of various Acts or the interpretations of legislative law; and common law, which evolves through judicial decisions. Efforts to organize workmen into unions in this country were exerted early in the 20th century. Powerful monopolies were being formed, and Congress passed the Sherman Act which was later reinforced by the Clayton Act. Neither of these helped labor, Robison explained, and strikes became one of the strongest tools of the union. Then, World War I spurred the federal government to move for peace between management and labor; and many mandatory work rules were established.

The National Labor Relations Act of 1947 was a landmark in labor law; this gave individuals the right either to organize or not to do so. It is administered by a Board through offices located throughout the country.

"Once a plant is organized," said Robison, "management can no longer deal with employees on an individual basis but must deal with the union." A working agreement is negotiated, and management and labor must bargain in good faith. Arbitration is a tool for settling disputes. The decision of an arbitrator is generally binding.

Robison is a graduate of Big Spring High School and, in 1959, earned a degree in business administration from Southern Methodist University where he was on the football team. He has been employed by Cosden since 1959.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. A.G. Perkins, vice president. Mrs. Nummy McDaniel, president, was elected delegate and Mrs. Perkins, alternate, to the Region V meeting to be held April 18-20 in Odessa. Miss Marguerite Cooper and Miss Jeanette Mansfield served refreshments to the group, which included the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Robison.

Art Association Exhibit In April

Announcement of the Big Spring Art Association's open exhibit, April 25-27, was made at a Tuesday meeting in the home of Mrs. Robert Barnes. Mrs. Walter Witte was cohostess.

Sherwood Suter of McMurry College, Abilene, will judge the exhibit. There will be shows in Snyder, Post and Brownfield. The Howard County Bicentennial Committee has asked the local association to sponsor a children's art show in November, for which the club will provide judges and awards.

"The Wyeth Family Artists" was the topic of a program given by Mrs. Barnes. She said that Andrew Wyeth who is descended from five generations of artists, is considered, perhaps, the most important artist of our time and one of the most significant painters in history.

"Through this family has come the belief that only when the artist becomes absorbed with the subject he is painting will the work come to life. This is ever-present in each Wyeth painting," said the speaker.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Frank Hartley, Bill Brooks will be the guest speaker.

The couples' game was held at Big Spring Country Club. Mr. and Mrs. Brownie Patterson took high score during the Couples' Duplicate Bridge Game held Tuesday evening at Big Spring Country Club. Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Jones tied for second and third place with Mrs. Sue Corson and R.M. Corson.

Advice Available For Love Affair Partners

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago, you had a letter in your column in the form of advice for a girl who was in love with a married man. It started with: "Never expect to see him on Sundays or holidays."

I remembered it because I had once been in love with a married man and you really hit the nail on the head.

Had I known that my own daughter would be in need of such advice, I would have saved it.

I hope you can locate it, because your column is the first thing my beautiful (but dumb) 27-year-old daughter goes for in the Chicago Tribune.

Thank you,
HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I located it. And here it is. "Dear Abby: May I give your readers the benefit of my very valuable experience? I address this to any woman who is in love with a married man: Never expect to see him on Sundays or holidays. Never call him at home.

Don't ever expect him to take you out in public, but be prepared to entertain him at your place. He may bring a bottle or the steaks occasionally, but in actual dollars and cents, you will spend more on him than he'll spend on you.

Never depend on him in times of personal crisis. Don't believe him when he tells you that his wife is a shrew, cold, homely, too fat (or too thin), and she hasn't slept with him in ten years. Don't ever expect his wife to divorce him if she ever catches him. She knows that you're not his first and won't be his last. Also, she is not about to give up her social status, financial security and retirement income because of you. However her discovery will probably terminate his affair with you, so be prepared to get some new clothes, circulate, and find another man whose wife is a shrew, cold, homely, too fat (or too thin), and hasn't slept with him for ten years. Sign me...

HIS WIFE

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column that a man had accidentally discovered in this friend's library some books which this friend had borrowed from him about 15 years before. It reminded me of a saying I picked up in Argentina.

"Hay dos clases de estupidos, los que prestan libros y los que los devuelven." — which means, "There are two kinds of fools. Those who lend books, and those who return them."

BOULDER, COLO.
DEAR BOULDER: You should have left that saying in Argentina. I don't agree that only a fool returns books he has borrowed. In English he would be called a "thief." And in Spanish, an "aprovechador."

Salmon Blintzes Are Special For Season

Easter is the theme — for this is a very special time of year. It's also a busy time of year and entertaining can be relaxed and casual. Easy, do-ahead recipes are the order of the day.

Salmon Blintzes are just the thing to serve because they can be prepared ahead of time. An interesting combination of salmon and cottage cheese is blended with egg, spiced with cinnamon-sugar, then rolled in the Blintzes and refrigerated until ready to use. Browned in butter just before serving and topped with sour cream and cherry or strawberry preserves for a sweet-sour taste, Salmon Blintzes will bring flavor perfection and the drama of the unusual to your entertaining.

SALMON BLINTZES
1 can (7 1/2 oz.) salmon
1 cup cottage cheese
1 egg
2 tbsps. sugar
3/4 tsp. sugar
1/4 tsp. cinnamon
12 Blintzes
1 cup sour cream
1/2 cup cherry preserves (or strawberry preserves)
Drain and flake salmon. Add cottage cheese, egg, sugar, salt, and cinnamon. Mix thoroughly. Place about 2 tablespoonfuls of the salmon mixture on the browned side of each blintz. Spread the filling to within an inch of the edge. Fold the bottom edge of the blintz up about an inch over the filling. Fold the two sides of the blintz in about 3/4 of an inch over the filling. Then finish rolling the blintz from the bottom. The blintzes may be made to this point and refrigerated until ready to use.

Place blintzes in a single layer in melted butter in a 10 inch fry pan. Fry at a moderate heat for 5 to 6 minutes or until brown. Turn carefully. Fry 5 to 6 minutes longer or until blintzes are brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Place 2 blintzes on a small plate. Top with sour cream and cherry preserves. Makes 6 servings.

BLINTZES
3/4 cup all-purpose flour
1/4 tsp. salt

Puff Casseroles Aid The Budget

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copy News Service
Casseroles are one answer to high meat prices. But there comes a time when the homemaker reaches the end of her repertoire of ground meat casseroles. Then is the time to turn to seafood casseroles for interesting variety, as well as economy. Seafood, just as ground meat, can be "stretched" to make a little go a long way.

LEMONY FISH PUFF
(6 servings)
2 cups flaked cooked cod or haddock (white fish)
2 cups cooked rice
1 cup milk
1/4 cup fresh squeezed lemon juice
3 tbsps. melted butter or margarine
1 tsp. fresh grated lemon peel

1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
4 eggs, separated
2 tbsps. chopped pimiento
Combine fish, rice, milk, lemon juice, butter, lemon peel, salt and pepper. Beat egg yolks. Stir into fish mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into fish mixture along with the chopped pimiento. Pour into greased 1 1/2-quart casserole dish. Bake at 375 degrees F. for 30 minutes.

SHRIMP-CHEESE PUFF
6 to 8 slices firm-textured bread
5 eggs
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

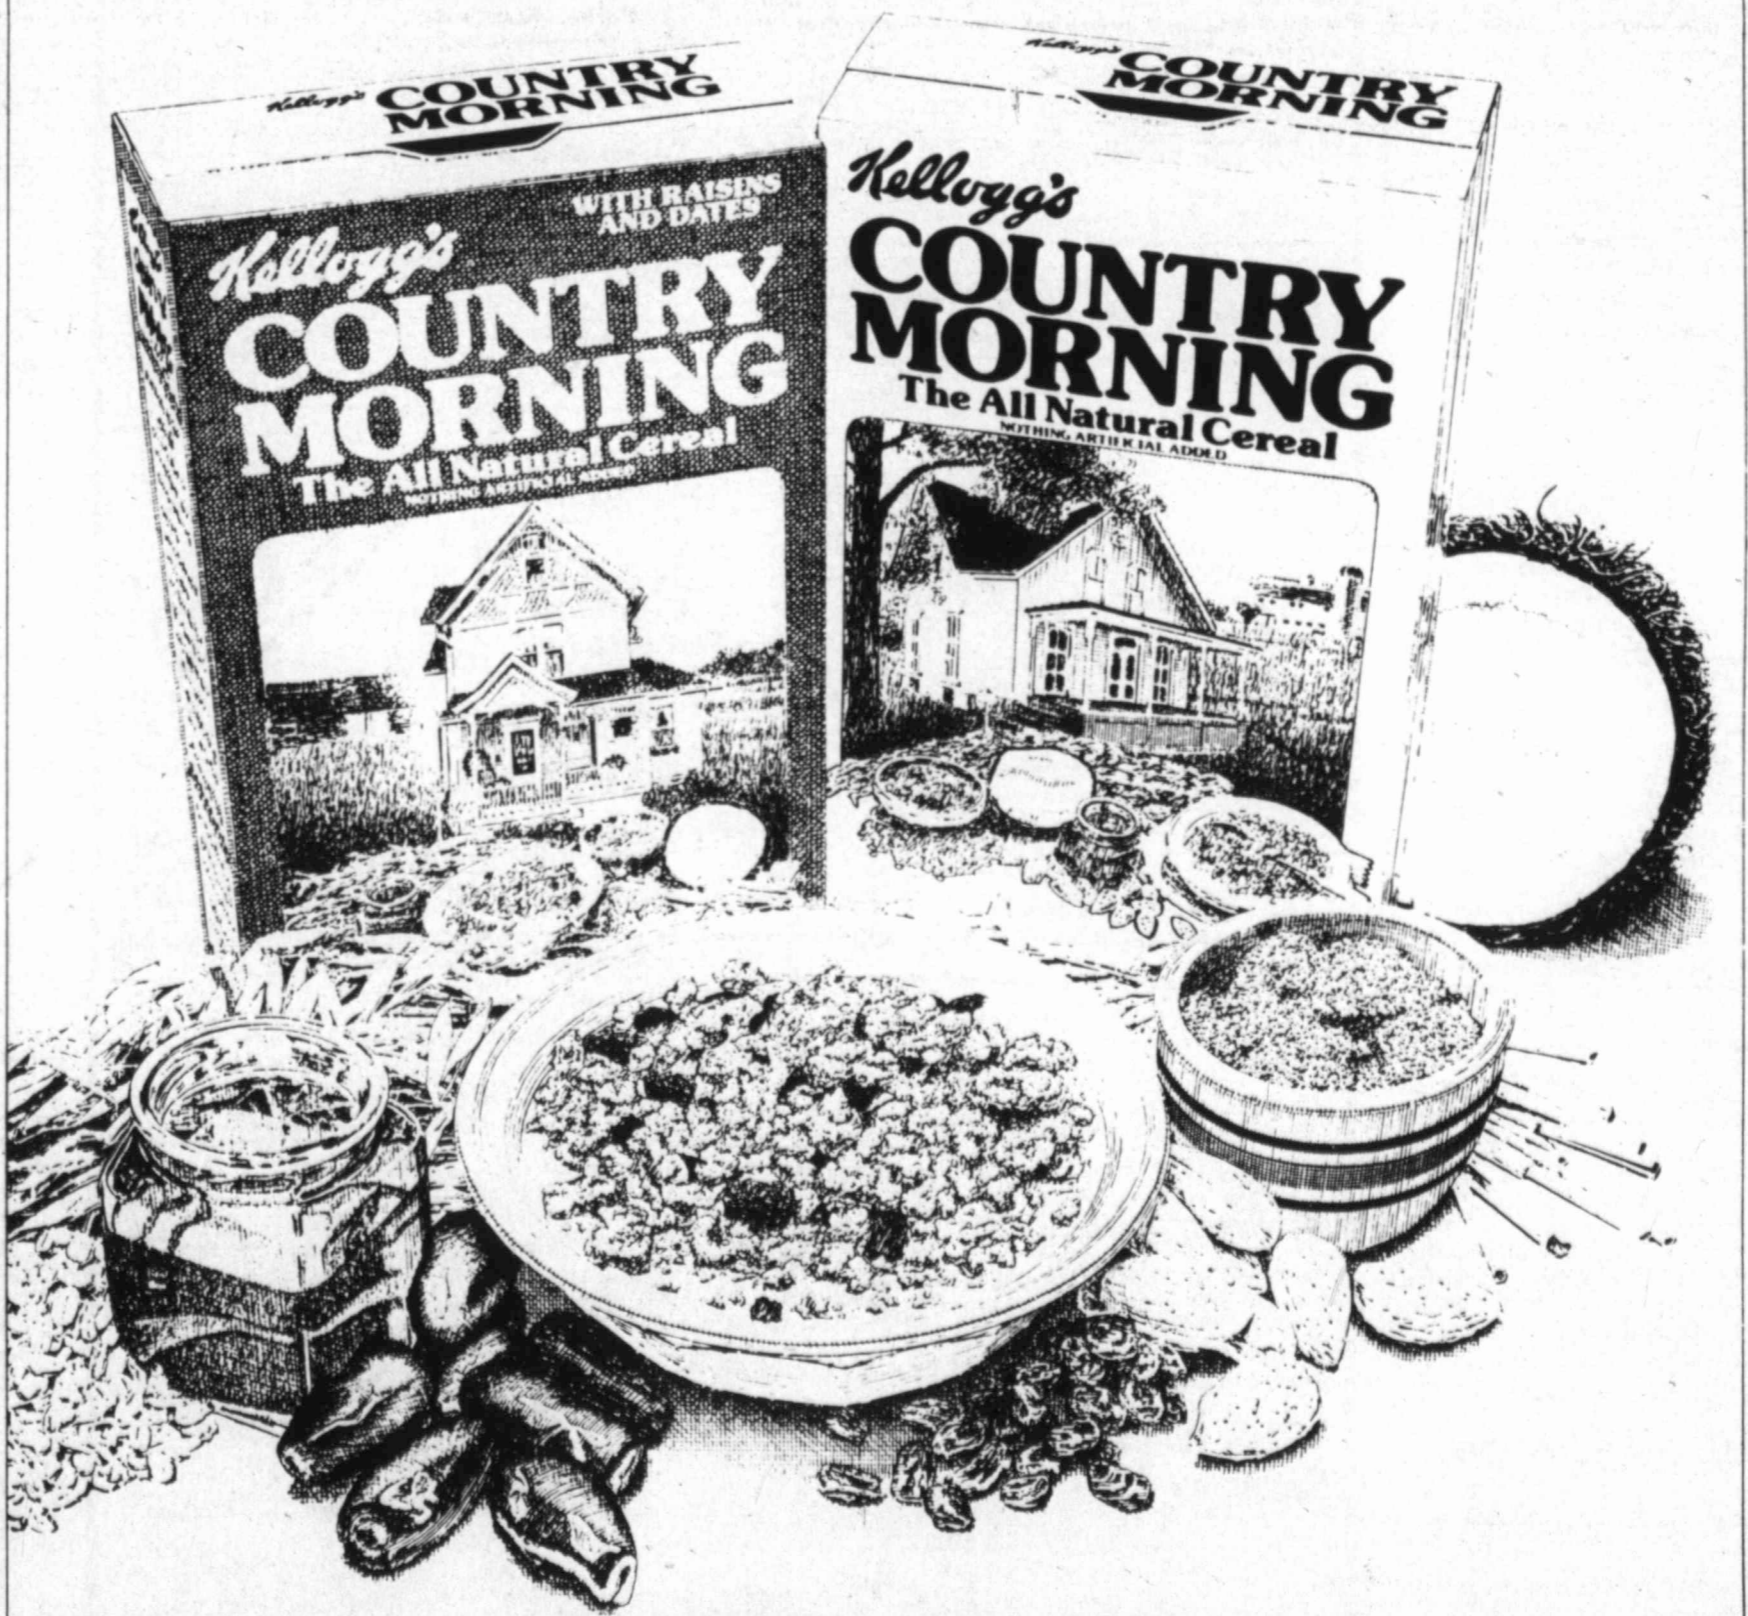

3/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
1/4 tsp. thyme
Onx-sixteenth teaspoon white pepper
1 1/2 cups homogenized milk
1 1/2 cups shredded sharp cheddar cheese
One-third cup chopped green onion
1 (4 1/2 oz.) can devedined shrimp, drained
Paprika

Cut bread in 3/4-inch cubes to measure 6 cups. Beat eggs with seasonings. Add milk and pour over bread. Let stand five minutes. Add cheese, onion and shrimp; mix lightly. Turn into a buttered 7 x 11 x 1 1/2 inch baking pan; sprinkle with paprika. Bake below oven center, in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) 35 minutes until set in center. Let stand five minutes then cut into squares (or spoon out) to serve. Makes six to eight servings.

Varation: Omit shrimp from "cheese puff" and serve the squares with Shrimp Sauce. To make sauce, melt 2 tablespoons butter and blend in 2 tablespoons flour. Stir in 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon each dry mustard and dill weed. Cook, stirring, until sauce boils and thickens. Stir in 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1 (4 1/2 oz.) can devedined shrimp, drained. Heat a few minutes longer. Makes two cups sauce.

Food Ads Help Smart Shoppers

Saving money while spending it may sound like a contradiction until the spender checks up her money after a shopping trip to the grocery store.

"Become an avid follower of newspaper food ads," says Frances M. Crawford, writing for a woman's magazine. She advises smart shoppers to check the ads of more than one market in order to take advantage of specials in each.

Grocery shoppers will also find that planning menus for the week that will be helpful but one is advised to be flexible as there may be some unadvertised special it would be more economical to substitute.

BUY DELIBERATELY
Don't buy impulsively. Know the stores and organize by departments in order to save store time—no backtracking that leads to impulse buying.
Be a selective and a comparison buyer by using unit pricing. Knowing the price by ounce or pounds of different brands and sizes can mean money to you.

Read the labels to know what you're buying. New labeling laws will show what the contents are as well as the nutrients and how much you'll get cupwise.

Know your markets and figure out the best time to shop. It may be the weekend but it could also be other days. Some stores often have unadvertised sales to beef up normally slow days.

STORE WISELY
Store food properly as soon as you get it home. Good buys turn to losers if the food spoils. And don't buy when you're hungry. Temptation can lead to buying unneeded items.

Never hesitate to buy only the specials. It's your money and you are not required to make all purchases in any one store. Also don't be disdainful of marked down food. Day-old bread is just as nutritious as fresh, and fruit and vegetables are good buys when marked down to avoid spoilage in the bins. But don't buy more than you can use or freeze for future use or you have spent unwisely.

When buying eggs, if there is less than 7 cents between the price of two sizes of the same grade buy the larger size.

Non-fat dry milk is a good budget stretcher as it can be kept on the shelf.

As meat is the taker of most of the food budget it pays to have know-how in this department. Less tender cuts are as nutritious as the most expensive ones and will give more lean meat per pound. And don't overlook tongue, liver, heart and sweetbreads. There're economical because they are entirely edible.

When figuring the cost of meat, figure it by edible servings per pound, not by cost per pound.

Nutlike Flavor
Whole wheat flour has a nut-like flavor because it contains the bran and germ of the wheat kernels which white flour does not.

Get Vitamins

Vital vitamins — we all need vitamin C daily. Grapefruit and oranges (and their juices) as well as cantaloupe and strawberries are important sources. Vitamin A — which we need at least every other day — is found especially in apricots, avocados, cantaloupes, peaches, prunes and watermelons.

ONE DISH MEAL... WITH JOY APPEAL

Tangy Sauce Adds Zest

Extra flavor is added to tuna loaves when topped with this creamy mustard sauce.

TUPPECE TUNA LOAVES
Tuna Loaves
Two 7-oz. cans tuna, drained and flaked
1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/2 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. pepper
2 eggs, beaten
Mustard Sauce
3 tbsps. all-purpose flour
1/4 tsp. salt
3 tbsps. butter or margarine, melted
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 tbsps. prepared mustard
For tuna loaves, combine all ingredients thoroughly. Pack evenly into 6 greased 6-oz. custard cups. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 25 minutes; loosen and unmold.
For mustard sauce, stir flour and salt into melted butter in small saucepan. Gradually blend in milk, stirring constantly over medium heat, until thickened. Remove from heat and stir in mustard. Serve with tuna loaves. Makes six servings.

Sour Cream On Spinach

A different way to fix spinach that will entice all the family to have a second helping.

LEAH DEMBO'S SPINACH DISH
1 lb. fresh spinach
1/2 pint commercial sour cream
3 1/2-oz. can French-fried onion, coarsely crushed
Wash spinach thoroughly; boil, covered, in the water that clings to its leaves, turning over often, until wilted. Turn into a colander to drain well; with a kitchen scissors, cut into shorter lengths. Mix with sour cream and 1/2 of the onion (2-3rds cup). Turn into a 3-to-4 cup baking dish or 8-inch pie plate; cover tightly (with foil if necessary). May be refrigerated and brought to room temperature before baking. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until thoroughly hot — about 20 minutes. Uncover and sprinkle with the remaining onion. Continue to bake, uncovered, just until onion heats and crisps — about 5 minutes longer. Makes 4 servings.

Broil Tomato And Sausage

Attractive and easy to prepare.

SAUSAGE TOMATOES
2 large tomatoes, about 1 lb.
Prepared mustard
1/2 lb. pork sausage meat
Wash and dry tomatoes; cut off stem ends. Slice each tomato in half crosswise; lightly spread cut surfaces with mustard. Make 4 patties of the sausage so each is diameter of tomatoes; place a patty on each tomato half and pat down, molding slightly over edges so they are completely covered. This is because sausage will shrink. Place on rack of broiler pan with pan in place below or on a ridged foil broiling pan — so sausage fat can run down — and bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Remove with a wide spatula and serve at once. Makes 2 servings — 2 tomato halves per portion.

Consumer Index In Publication

The 1975 edition of the index of Spanish language consumer publications from the federal government has been released by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration.

The index, "Informacion para el Consumidor," lists 96 free or low-cost publications of value to Hispanic consumers. Many of the publications listed tell in easy to understand Spanish how to buy, use and care for consumer products; others discuss such consumer-oriented subjects as child care, health, housing, employment rights, and immigration and naturalization requirements.

Most of the publications are free or cost no more than 30 cents. The Spanish index represents the efforts of 16 different federal agencies. Free copies of "Informacion para el Consumidor" are available from Consumer Information, Dept. 9, Pueblo, Colorado 81009, and at Federal Information Centers located throughout the country.

PROSTITUTION LAW Buyers Of Sex Checked For VD

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The men looking for sex never thought they would end up spending the weekend quarantined in the county jail.

But there eight men sat from a Friday night until a Tuesday afternoon because of a judge's opinion that it was unconstitutional to treat prostitution customers differently from prostitutes.

VD QUARANTINE

It was the first time Oakland police, prompted by the Feb. 27 ruling, had subjected the buyers of sexual services to the same booking and VD quarantine that the vendors face when arrested.

"Our policy was to always book and quarantine the prostitute whether it was a woman or a drag queen selling his wares to men," said Lt. Elwood Strelow of the Oakland vice squad. "We have never, or rarely, quarantined a customer. Now we must."

The American Civil Liberties Union — ACLU, which brought the suit against Oakland's prostitution law, is critical of the changes because it wants prostitution to be decriminalized.

The judge's opinion only covered Oakland's disparate treatment of prostitutes and their customers. Arguments are yet to be heard on the ACLU's contention that the state prostitution law — which considers both parties equally guilty — is unconstitutional because it violates freedom of speech and privacy.

UNDERCOVER AGENT Strelow said Oakland police made 120 prostitution arrests so far this year and about 20 of those were customers. Previously, when a customer was arrested, usually by a female undercover agent, he received a citation to report in a week for booking. When he reported he was not tested for VD.

The prostitutes, on the other hand, were hauled downtown for immediate booking and quarantine. If the arrest was on a weekend, they had to sit in jail until the following Monday or Tuesday for the VD results.

Strelow said the department is interested in stepping up the number of customer arrests by the increased use of female decoys. There currently are two part-time female vice officers.

LITTLE FUN

"I just sort of stand on the street curbs and look for a car to drive by twice," decoy Pat Enarson said. "Usually he rolls down his window and I walk over, and he asks if I am a working girl and if I am looking for a little fun, then I'll bust him."

Mrs. Enarson helped arrest the eight men Feb. 28 in Oakland. Each was booked downtown for soliciting an act of prostitution. Then they were quarantined to await VD test results.

Rankin Student Will Get Trip

Sarah Barrett, student at Rankin High School, won an all expense-paid trip to the nation's capital city, leaving June 6.

While in the capital city she will have an opportunity to see her government-in-action, during the visit to the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives. Also, she will visit the Smithsonian Institute, the monuments, Arlington Cemetery, plus a visit to Mount Vernon, the home of the father of our country.

Miss Barrett was the winning contestant in an oratorical contest, last week, sponsored by Cap Rock Electric Cooperative, with offices located in Stanton. She spoke on the subject "How Do Members Benefit From the Ownership of Their Rural Electric Cooperative."

In the speech she pointed out how things have changed in the rural areas since rural electric lines have been extended to serve the rural communities and the hardships endured by the early settlers of the West Texas area. She spoke of new developments that had made her family life more pleasant living, even though she could not remember when her home did not have electricity.

'WHITE FLIGHT' IN CORPUS PREDICTED

Desegregation Battle

Editor's note: In the summer of 1968, a group of blacks and Mexicans filed suit seeking to end alleged discrimination in the Corpus Christi Independent School District. Here is a look at the situation today, after the possibility of busing has surfaced again as a solution.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — The court record has become lengthy. The words are familiar — "busing," "white flight," "racial-ethnic transfer."

This South Texas coastal city has for 4½ years been in a desegregation controversy involving not only blacks but Mexican-American pupils.

Now, after numerous hearings and a recent court order, proposed busing of school pupils has emerged again, with little, if any support.

U.S. District Court Judge Owen Cox ordered the school district to file by March 31 a plan for desegregation of elementary and secondary schools with particular attention to schools with less than 25 per cent or more than 75 per cent black and Mexican American pupils.

But the new court desegregation order has fanned new fears of busing, if citizen reaction to a reporter's questions is an indication. One school official predicted this week that "white flight" from Corpus Christi schools is inevitable.

Dana Williams, superintendent here, predicted the new order will mean fewer and fewer Anglo pupils in district classrooms. He added that there probably is no way to the district can avoid busing.

Williams said if the district is put under a "severe busing order," it probably will have a 25 per cent Anglo and 75 per cent Mexican-American and black pupil population by 1980.

He said a shift in the district from a nearly 50-50 ratio of Anglos and minorities to 61 per cent minorities in the years the case has been pending indicates to him that the case already has a significant effect on residential patterns.

"This is a pretty tough order," Williams said. "To meet 75-25 will require some pretty drastic movement of students."

Parents contacted in a random telephone sample by the Corpus Christi Times indicate they generally oppose busing to achieve ethnic balance.

"I don't like it," Elias De La Garza said. "This busing is going to mess up everybody. I'm against it all the way."

Mrs. Wayne Greer, mother of two elementary school children, said, "I think it's ridiculous. I think a child can get as good an education going to school two blocks as he can going miles. I just wish they'd leave the kids alone. They're doing just fine the way they are."

A Mexican-American mother said, "I think it's terrible. If you live in a certain district you should go to schools you belong to. We try to better ourselves by moving into a nice neighborhood because we want the best for our kids."

FREEDOM
"I don't think busing is the proper vehicle to achieve integration, said a Mexican-American father of two school-age children. He added that there should be some freedom of choice. He said it is obvious that some schools are better than others and transportation should be made available to those who want to use the school district's transfer policy.

There were a few comments which were not as negative.

Mrs. Vernon Kring, who has a child in elementary school and one in high school, said she doesn't believe there is segregation in the schools and wishes the case was over.

Buses cost $15,000 and more, Williams said. There is a minimum 13-month delivery time on buses.

"We don't know where we would get them," he said. But Williams and school trustees say they are prepared to respond to the new court order.

TOO FAR
Judge Cox's order was the most recent move in the conflict. After the filing of the suit in 1968, the trial began May 14, 1970.

Then:
—On June 4, 1970, the federal court said the school district was operating under a dual system. A 12-member panel was created to work on a desegregation plan.

—In July 1971, U.S. Dist. Court Judge Woodrow Seals fashioned his own plan which would bus 15,000 pupils.

—In August 1972, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said Seals may have gone too far. The plan was returned.

—In September 1972, the school district submitted a plan to reassign 10 per cent of the districts 45,000 pupils and close a junior high. U.S. District Court Judge Owen Cox rejected the plan as superficial. He ordered a new plan.

—Hearings on a new plan were postponed twice during the fall of 1973. Cox expanded in December the district's racial-ethnic transfer policy and it went into limited effect during 1974. Cox decided it wasn't working, a decision which led to the new order of this past week.

DISAPPOINTED
"If some judge wants them to be bused, I'll bus them. Mrs. Kring said. "It wouldn't bother me one bit."

Fed Cisneros Jr. said he favors busing if it means sending minority children to "higher class schools" where they will learn more.

Negative reaction came from a school trustee, Franklin Bass.

"I was disappointed that we got that kind of order," said Bass. "but I was glad he (Judge Cox) gave us some guidelines to work under."

"I can read busing into it. I don't think he mentioned that, but I suppose that there'll have to be some busing."

"At 75-25, there's no way we can do it without busing," said Jack McQueen, another trustee.

—During the controversy, the district was appealing to the U.S. Supreme Court but lost its argument that the district is not segregated.

CHISELING
Williams said that Corpus Christi and Denver are the only cities where the courts have ruled that Mexican-Americans are entitled to the same relief blacks received under the 1954 Supreme Court Brown decision. There have been no such rulings in other Texas cities which have significant Mexican-American populations.

A spokesman for the plaintiffs, Paul Montemayor, said he has doubts that the Corpus Christi school board will draft a satisfactory desegregation plan.

"The school board will concentrate on chiseling every time they can, at the expense of our children," Montemayor said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police Chief Ed Davis responded to a judge's gag order in the Skid Row Slasher murder case by putting a green handkerchief in his mouth, then saying "no comment."

The gesture, with a touch of Irish color for St. Patrick's Day, came at a news conference and Davis' "no comment" came instead of an expected announcement that a south Los Angeles man in jail on another case since Feb. 3 would be charged in the murders.

Just Sunday the chief had said in a televised interview that Vaughn Greenwood, 31, would be charged in connection with the slasher murders of nine men whose throats had been cut from ear to ear.

"You know I have great difficulty saying 'no comment' but no comment," Davis told newsmen Monday at a press gathering he had scheduled the day before.

Before the chief could hold the conference, Public Defender Charles Gessler went to court and obtained an order from Superior Court Judge Frank Baffa which prevents officials from commenting about the slasher case pending a hearing this Friday.
