

PROCESS TAX AGAIN URGED BY WALLACE

Means To Finance Subsidies To Growers
Stressed After Cotton Forecast Shows
Big Increase In Indicated Outturn

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Secretary Wallace reiterated tonight, in a letter made public after the federal crop reporting board had forecast an unexpectedly large increase in this year's cotton crop, new processing taxes should be enacted to finance subsidy payments to cotton growers.

His letter, addressed to Senator Smith (D-SC), replied to demands of a group of southern senators and representatives for an additional federal subsidy of three cents a pound on this year cotton or an increase in the rate of federal loans on the crop.

Wallace reiterated he preferred subsidy payments to increased loans, which he said would tend to block exports, pile up additional government cotton holdings and tend to bring about complete government operation of the cotton handling, selling and exporting industry.

Pump Priming Reaches Peak Next Spring

Most Work Projects
Due To Be Under Way By Jan. 1

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Federal statisticians charted a spring peak today for the business stimulation efforts of the current spending program.

By January 1, they said, most of the work-producing projects should be under way and by April 1 the maximum payrolls on federal and federally-financed projects should be attained.

Not counting the multi-million lending activities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the government proposes to spend $9,000,000,000 this fiscal year—the largest peace-time budget in history.

Actual disbursements so far since July 1, the beginning of the fiscal year, amount to $2,398,511,000, which was $806,926,000 in excess of income.

Aside from the ordinary activities of the government the bulk of the huge budget this year is going into WPA payrolls, PWA projects and naval construction.

WPA, by spending $588,495,000 in three months, has built its rolls from 2,806,000 to a record high of 5,120,036.

The WPA roll is expected by some authorities to rise to about 5,300,000 during the winter and slacken off in the spring when, they say, the combined influence of better business and seasonal jobs should provide private employment for many now on work relief.

REVIEWING THE BIG SPRING WEEK

—BY JOE PICKLE—

The faithful were all ready Friday night to pen Pat Murphy and his high school gradsters a welcome note, to wit: "Come on home, all is forgiven." It didn't matter that the boys were edged out by a couple of points, for it was a different team from that which had taken three previous beatings. The boys were hustling, blocking and tackling hard and really trying. Next time there will be many, many more people in the stands.

Starting us in the face is Fire Prevention Week. Once again we will hear of the dangers of maintaining fire hazards, and perhaps once again be careful for a while. Fire prevention is paying in Texas, for in the past six years the loss has been cut in half. Big Spring saves in reduced property loss and premium credits. Still it costs policy holders and taxpayers in the town something like $80,000 plus annually because of fire threats. Because of the omnipresent danger, we have to maintain a fire department costing about $20,000—and at that it is the cheapest insurance against heavy losses.

It's a pretty good sign when children develop admiration and

AFL IS SCHEDULED TO ACT MONDAY ON FUTURE POLICY TOWARD RIVAL UNION

Here, Ladies, Are A Few Things
That A Man Just Won't Stand For

By ELIZABETH PLUMMER

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—What are the things about women that irritate a man beyond endurance? Margaret Devereux, author, lists as an example this sort of thing:

"Where shall we dine tonight, dear?" (Husband.)

"Where would you like to go?" (Wife.)

"I don't know dear. Wherever you prefer."

"Well, you decide."

"But I asked you, dear."

"I know, but what would you like to do?"

This gets men down, says Mrs. Devereux, in a book, "Your Life As A Woman and How to Make the Most of It," to be published next Tuesday.

Among other things that annoy men acutely are:

Making him or yourself conspicuous in a public place.

"If you are not seemly and modest in your looks and conduct, he goes to pieces."

Criticizing him and his personal appearance.

Criticizing his friends.

Picking your own friends to pieces behind their backs and then greeting them with an air of warm admiration.

Indulging in gossip. ("A gossip invariably talks too much, which is another trait men detest.")

Prefacing every remark with "well honestly," or "you know," or "I mean." (It drives him wild.)

A man loathes hearing you say "marvelous" or "horrid" all the time.

"Their dignity and their status must always be maintained."

"Men won't stand for being interrupted. They are not given to idle remarks. When they speak they intend to have the floor."

Men loathe lack of system and plan—wasted effort, wasted time, wasted money, wasted energy.

Men resist change in their home life. "They wish their daily routine, their personal circle to remain fixed and familiar."

She asks women, "could you be your husband's second wife?"

May Let CIO Make Move

Some Leaders, However, Want More
Definite Stand

HOUSTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—American Federation of Labor leaders, apparently realizing strong pressure within their ranks for immediate renewal of peace talks with CIO, were reported ready tonight to ask the A.F. of L. convention Monday to uphold a policy of waiting for John L. Lewis to make the next peace move.

Standing between the leadership and a ratification vote, however, was Daniel J. Tobin, one of the federation's vice presidents, who wants the A.F. of L. to do something more than merely hold open the door to labor peace.

After a meeting of the executive council earlier in the day which debated Tobin's urgent peace plea to the convention Friday and President Roosevelt's expressed hope that labor leaders would "make and keep the peace," Tobin told reporters:

"My interpretation is that the president is extremely anxious as a friend of labor, to bring about unity in the family of labor in the interests, not only of the workers, but of the public."

The possibility that Mr. Roosevelt might be drawn into the situation as a mediator or arbitrator was considerably dimmed, however, after A.F. of L. president William Green and the council finished their extraordinary session.

Green told reporters the council interpreted the White House message of peace in the labor movement to mean the president did not want the convention to close the door to peace and that labor leaders should avoid jurisdictional disputes which result in a stoppage of work.

"We are unwilling," Green said, "to submit fundamental and vital questions of administrative control to someone else for final adjustment."

Green added:

"The council's own report on the CIO situation, he said, would be delivered to the convention by the resolutions committee."

"The convention will take official action. The convention is the supreme authority."

$100,000 DAMAGE IN TEXAS COTTON BLAZE

BRENNHAM, Oct. 8 (AP)—Damage estimated at $100,000 occurred at Chapel Hill, ten miles east of here, late today from a fire originating in Jack Routt's warehouse where 1,500 bales of cotton were destroyed.

Both warehouse and cotton were a total loss and the fire spread to the Tom Stolarski and Albert Gutworski grocery stores which were also destroyed together with three small warehouses.

Origin of the fire was unknown.

Dawson Fair Opens Thurs.

Lamesa In Ready-
ness For Three-Day Affair

LAMESA, Oct. 8.—This city is ready for three big days here Thursday, Friday and Saturday when the second annual Dawson County Fair will be staged.

A new building, 60x100 feet, has been added to the fair ground equipment and will house a new division, the livestock exhibits. A prize list of $248.50 has been posted for this new and already popular class.

Committee chairmen have been named and exhibits are being arranged over the county on a large scale. Those in charge anticipated the attendance figures of last year would be shattered. While this is the second year of the fair under its current set-up, it is by no means the second fair ever held in Dawson county.

Years ago the county had a fine fair, then after it lapsed during depression years, club boys revived it, and last year Lamesa business men got behind the move and put it on a large scale. The event was an unqualified success.

Chairmen and their divisions follow: R. E. Echols, livestock; F. A. Youngblood, Hereford; O. E. Witte, short-horns; C. W. Stubbfield, Jersey; F. O. Hogg, horse and mules; N. B. Cox, community booths; Joe M. Peterson, general agriculture; Arlee Gowen, poultry; and R. B. Wilkerson, 4-H clubs.

LITTLEFIELD MAN KILLED IN CRASH

BRISTOW, Okla., Oct. 8 (AP)—E. B. Hewitt, 50-year-old Littlefield, Tex., automobile dealer, was killed late today when his automobile collided with a gasoline truck near here.

Sheriff Lew Wilder said Hewitt apparently fell asleep. He said papers in Hewitt's pocket indicated he was returning to Littlefield from Detroit, Mich., where he had gone to obtain four cars. He said Hewitt's three companions probably were driving ahead and were unaware of the accident.

The truck driver, John Hayes, 23, Sapulpa, Okla., was unhurt.

British Sovereigns
Plan Trip To Canada
Next Summer

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP)—King George VI and Queen Elizabeth will become the first reigning British sovereigns ever to set foot in "the new world" by a visit to Canada next summer which may take them to the United States.

A brief official announcement today from Balmoral castle in Scotland said the British rulers would make the precedent-shattering trip "in the early summer" and spend "about three weeks" in Canada.

No mention was made of the United States, but many believed it was possible their majesties might go there as a gesture of Anglo-American solidarity for international reasons and increasing pressure here for closer ties between the United States and Great Britain.

Some sections of the British press have urged the king and queen to visit New York's world's fair next year. If they do not enter the United States, there was the possibility they might meet President Roosevelt on the international boundary.

Club Prepares For Conclave

American Business
Group Meets Here
Next Weekend

Membership of the Big Spring American Business club will convene at 8 p. m. Tuesday for completion of plans for the Texas-Oklahoma district convention opening here a week from today.

Pete Newman, Danville, Ill., national secretary, is due to arrive here Tuesday afternoon to participate in the planning session. He will remain through the convention the following Tuesday.

Club leaders, including District Governor W. D. Carnett and District Secretary Hugh Duncan, both of the local unit, anticipated a total registration of around 150 persons. Delegates are due from San Angelo, Lubbock, Amarillo, Enid, Okla., Tulsa, Okla., and Bartlesville, Okla.

R. B. Roeder is general convention chairman and Mrs. C. O. Nalley is heading the women's activities to entertain the auxiliary of the club.

Among speakers to appear on the program is Rev. Dick O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist church in Stamford, O'Brien is recognized as one of the leading after dinner speakers in this section. He will address a model luncheon on Oct. 17.

After a round of business sessions the following day, the convention will be climaxed with a dinner-dance at the Settles hotel on Oct. 18.

SALESMAN FATALITY HURT IN MISHAP

Origin of the fire was unknown.

GOP's Think They'll Have Enough Votes To Block New Deal Schemes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Two republican senators predicted today that their party would muster a minority in the next congress capable, with some democratic help, of preventing the passage of "objectionable" new deal legislation.

Chairman Townsend (R-De), of the republican campaign committee, expressed the opinion that the G.O.P. could count on four or five additional seats in the senate and about 60 more in the lower house. Others forecast "substantial" republican gains.

"We ought to have enough strength in the senate, combined with some democratic opposition, to stop such proposals as the reorganization bill, if it is offered again in the same form," Townsend said.

White said he believed the success of three republicans who won congressional seats in Maine, after having pledged they would try to increase old age pensions, had pushed the pension issue to the fore in the national campaign.

The republican campaign group is understood to have concentrated its efforts thus far toward electing senatorial candidates in five states—New Jersey, New Hampshire, South Dakota, Kansas and Oregon. It also has given attention to the campaigns in Ohio, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Nevada.

ITALY TO TAKE SOME TROOPS FROM SPAIN

Wav Cleared For Settling Differences
With Britain And France; Rome-Berlin
Axis, However, Reaffirmed By Council

ROME, Oct. 9 (Sunday)—(AP)—The fascist grand council early today reaffirmed solidarity of the Rome-Berlin axis and voted "full approval" of Premier Mussolini's participation in the Munich conference which partitioned Czechoslovakia.

The grand council sent "greetings of comradeship to legionnaires about to be returned home from Spain after 18 months of hard campaigning."

Italy made known Saturday that Italian troops, estimated privately to number 10,000, would be withdrawn soon from the Spanish insurgent forces.

The council said also it "categorically reaffirms necessity of the battle for economic independence of the nation" ordering the battle accelerated and conducted "with extreme energy."

Fascism's supreme policy-making body then adjourned until Oct. 18.

10,000 Men Recalled

Premier Mussolini had cleared the way for settlement of Italy's differences with Great Britain and France by arranging for withdrawal of part of his troops from Insurgent Spain.

An official announcement said Franco was "preparing immediate repatriation of Italian legionnaires who have more than 18 months' uninterrupted campaigning in Spain."

Private sources estimated 10,000 soldiers thus would be withdrawn from the force which the Italian government on Oct. 18, 1937, asserted never reached more than 40,000 men.

Some foreign observers estimated that as many as 80,000 Italian troops were fighting with Franco at one time.

Stefani, official Italian news agency, carried the withdrawal announcement in the form of a communique from Franco's headquarters in Salamanca, Spain. It said, in part:

"Nationalist Spain, in effecting this substantial withdrawal of volunteers, is contributing in an effective manner to the reestablishment of international confidence and at the same time satisfying in this manner the desire manifested by the non-intervention committee."

(Premier Juan Negrin of Government Spain announced Sept. 21 his government had decided on immediate total withdrawal of all foreign volunteers fighting with the government armies.)

Diplomatic quarters expected British recognition of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia eventually would follow Mussolini's withdrawal gesture.

Diplomatic circles indicated application of the Anglo-Italian

BLAZE OPENS FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Fire prevention week was 33 minutes old here Sunday morning when the fire department made a run.

A stack of tires in the Detrick Tire company, 1000 block on E. 3rd street, had become ignited, producing intense heat and billowing, dark clouds of smoke. However, firemen brought the fire under control with comparatively small damage resulting.

Big Spring has always observed Fire Prevention Week with a series of fires as well as in the conventional manner.

JUDGES CALL FOR MORE FUNDS FOR PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS

NEW BRAUNFELS, Oct. 8 (AP)—The State County Judges and Commissioners association today voted resolutions asking for more federal appropriations for public improvements, sterilization of hopelessly insane, feeble-minded, habitual and sex criminals, and "adequate appropriations" for the state health department's war on venereal and contagious diseases.

Fort Worth was awarded the next convention and J. Jake Loy of Sherman, Grayson county judge, was elected president. Hugo Neuse of New Braunfels, Comal county commissioner, was chosen vice president, and Karl Lovelady of Meridian, Bosque county judge, was elected secretary.

Speakers at the final sessions were Judge Floyd Ziegler of Coryell county, who gave the history and operation of the state juvenile institution in that county, and Judge Paul Snyder of Nueces county, who discussed the achievements of the Nueces board of equalization.

Other resolutions adopted by the convention included:

Consolidation of existing welfare agencies under one department to avoid duplication.

Appointment of a committee to study county reorganization.

An appropriation of $50,000 annually for rehabilitation of the Texas blind.

An appropriation to aid dependent children, in accordance with the constitutional amendment voted Aug. 23, 1937.

Appointment of a committee to cooperate with the legislature to obtain tax relief.

Petitioning the United States department of agriculture to eliminate the present commodity loan differential "discriminating against irrigated cotton."

Adequate appropriations for funds to purchase the proposed Big Bend national park area.

Improvements To Suit The Owner
Aim Of Buick

FLINT, Mich., Oct. 8.—Speaking before more than 250 newspaper and magazine writers, radio commentators and publishers of the nation's leading journals, assembled here for a preview of the 1939 models, Harlow H. Cutrice, president of the Buick division of General Motors, declared recently:

"Our contribution to economics is pretty much a matter of taking off our coats, pulling up our sleeves and going to work."

"That is what we have been doing in preparation for the introduction of our 1939 models and that is why we feel we have a great car for next year."

"We believe that the new Buick is the kind and calibre of car that the public wants. It has style of a new and refreshing kind—style based on utility, as, for example, the radiator grilles being placed low. That is the point of greatest air pressure. Part of the satisfying balance and proportion of the new body lines likewise springs from an equally practical source. Vision is in demand—car owners want more chance to see. So in this new car vision is greatly expanded."

"All through the new car, from nose to rear emblem, inside and out, are improvements and betterments. The frame, clutch, steering, gear-shifting, carburetion, shock absorption, gear ratios—mention only a few things—are new. No change has been made that doesn't represent an advance in function or in value from the owner's standpoint. No change has been made that isn't aimed at making the Buick a better car."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES
Room 1, Settles Hotel

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Oct. 9.

The Golden Text is: "I will restore health unto thee, and I will heal thee of thy wounds, saith the Lord" (Jeremiah 30:17).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings, saying, Alleluia: for the Word God omnipotent reigneth" (Revelation 19:6).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "To break this earthly spell mortals must get the true idea and divine Principle of all that really exists and governs the universe harmoniously" (page 39).

PLYMOUTH HAS NEW FEATURES IN '39 MODELS

Here's one of the new 1939 automobiles, presenting an impressive array of added features for greater comfort and luxury in the lowest price field. The latest models now on display at Plymouth showrooms here confirm the forecasts that stronger "eye appeal" would highlight new auto designs for 1939. Inside and out, this newest Plymouth is completely restyled. Headlamps and tail lights are streamlined into the fenders, and a new Vee-type windshield adds more than six inches to body length above the belt. Built on a longer wheelbase—now 111 inches—brand new features include soft-riding coil springs of Amola steel; new high-torque engine performance; remote control gear shift up on the steering post, and a new "safety-signal" speedometer that flashes traffic lights right under a driver's eyes.

Lower Prices On
'39 Plymouth Line

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—Predictions that new engineering developments increases in car size and extensive alterations in the appearance of 1939 cars might mean an upward trend in prices have been upset by announcement of 1939 Plymouth prices.

The lower prices reflect reductions as compared with 1938 models as great as $15.00 on some body styles, and are taken to mean that the Chrysler corporation is anticipating increased volume of sales for the Plymouth line great enough to warrant the pricing of the cars closer to cost, as indicated by the reductions.

In commenting on the new prices, D. S. Eddins, Plymouth president, said: "It is our conviction that these lower prices, coupled with the greater value and new appearance attractiveness that have been engineered into the 1939 Plymouth, will result in stimulating car sales." In line with usual Plymouth policy, the following prices "delivered in Detroit," already include federal excise taxes, safety glass, spare tire and the usual accessories. Only state or local taxes, if any, and transportation are to be added. On Deluxe models, the list price also includes special remote-control gear shift and automatic transmission.

Balloon Barrage
Proves Costly
To Britain

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Britain sent her famed balloon barrage aloft today—dozens of sausage-like bags tied to 7,000 feet of steel cable intended to snare enemy aircraft—and tonight tried to count up the damage.

Five balloons broke away from their moorings and trailed lines which lashed roofs, tore down wires and fences and generally gave trouble to their busiest afternoon since the European crisis ended.

Extra police, included mounted officers, tried to keep the curious crowds from harm as the balloons with their trailing lines swung a destructive way around the countryside.

The idea is that the balloons can be let into the air to form a "fence," high in the sky in which enemy aircraft would become entangled if they penetrated Britain's defending line of aircraft.

U.S. Will Be Competition For Hitler In Effort To Retain Central Europe Trade

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Hitler's economic drive into central and southeastern Europe will run into an effort by the United States to retain her $170,000,000 stake in the commerce of that region.

Officials here are working out an American defense against Hitler's commercial legions. His absorption of the Sudetenland of Czechoslovakia is just the beginning, they are understood to believe, of a gigantic German trade offensive in central Europe and the Balkans.

The German minister of economics, Walther Funk, is now touring the Balkans. He has just concluded a commercial agreement with Yugoslavia considerably extending the present one under which 30 per cent of Yugoslavian trade is with Germany. He is going on to other Balkan countries, and to Ankara, Turkey, where a Turkish-German trade agreement was concluded yesterday.

Experts here say a determined effort to retain trade must be made not only by this country but also by Britain and France to prevent the whole Balkans from becoming a commercial appendage of Berlin.

The nations to which United States experts are turning their attention are Czechoslovakia, Turkey, Hungary, Poland, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Greece, Bulgaria and Albania. Imports of those countries from the United States in the eight months of 1938 amounted to $1,935,000. At the same rate, they should total about $33,000,000 for the whole of 1938.

Exports to the United States in the same period of eight months amounted to $30,597,000, and for the year will probably amount to $60,000,000. This is a total trade of about $170,000,000.

United States trade with the Balkans and central Europe is in at cases only a fraction of Germany's. Nevertheless, experts here say the fractions, added together, are worth a contest.

100-Year-Old Home Of The Founder Of Galveston May Be Converted Into Civic Center, Memorial

GALVESTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The "Oaks," erected more than 100 years ago as the home of Galveston's founder, Col. Michael B. Menard, and marked by the Texas Centennial commission with a centennial monument, may soon become a civic center and memorial.

Civic groups banded together quickly when the historic mansion was offered for sale and the fund being gathered is climbing toward the amount required to close the deal.

When Col. Menard formed the Galveston City Co., more than a century ago, he reserved for his homestead a 10-acre tract of land in the southwestern part of the city. It was bare of trees at the time, but under his care a grove of some of the island's largest oaks was developed and furnished the home with its historic name.

Tradition says the two central rooms of the mansion were framed in Maine and brought to Galveston on sailing vessels—as were all building supplies in those early days. The massive columns supporting the lofty front roof, and the frame, were also brought over on the sailing craft.

The entire building was morticed together and joists were set with white lead.

During the 15 years Col. Menard lived after building the home, "The Oaks" became the scene of many brilliant social events.

A feature held within the grounds of "The Oaks" was the annual meeting of the Shawnee Indians. Col. Menard, then the Indian commissioner, was also a member of the tribe from his youth, having lived with them for many years, and was at one time chief of one of the principal Shawnee tribes.

respect for officers. Recently when Fire Marshal E. B. Bethell addressed one class at the new College Heights school, he had to give autographs to all the class. Another group heard about it and the speech and rush for autographs was repeated.

Looks like Big Spring business hasn't been so bad off after all. Bank statements Friday reflected a substantial gain in deposits over a year ago, and a half million dollars gain in loans and discounts. Not bad, not bad, considering all the blue talk.

News that two communities—Lomas and Vincent—organized one cotton variety association doesn't sound like a lot of headway for producing quality lint in the county. But it's better than it sounds for the 49 farmers had 5,739 acres—approximately 1-12 of the cotton acreage of the county. If such a program had been started six years ago, Howard county cotton would be drawing a premium today.

For a long time school officials have sought to interest adults in the schools. The vocational or night school courses in the past two years have done much to make adults realize that the schools have a service for them too. Last week 18 turned out for a business Spanish course and more are expected. That's putting a practical side to schooling.

Big Spring welcomes news that Empire Southern Service and Empire Southern Gas Co. general offices would be moved here by James A. Davis, formerly district manager here. It means addition of two families and a certain amount of prestige for the city.

Plans for institution of a traffic safety course in schools here shows how times change. A few years ago the idea would have been unthought of, but then so was a traffic problem. Knowledge always has been a powerful weapon and there is no better means at command to curb appalling traffic losses than to educate children against it. Looks like older folks won't learn.

Maybe city officials have something in a suggestion that federal aid be given to an experiment to recharge underground water supplies. Because the Trinity sands near here dip into sinks, or underground lakes, this water might easily be funneled into the sinks and there keep without loss through evaporation.

Which, incidentally, brings up the subject of the half million dollar water development program here. Right now thorough studies are being made of possible dam sites. There is no hurry since the project can be undertaken by stages, leaving the dam and pipeline to the last. Commissioners want to be sure before they spend.

Italy

agreement signed April 16 probably would be arranged in later negotiations.

This agreement, for settling long-standing Anglo-Italian differences in the Mediterranean, Africa and Spain which had brought the two countries to the verge of war, was made dependent upon a Spanish "settlement." France already has decided to accredit an ambassador to Rome to Vittorio Emanuele as king and emperor, recognizing Italy's Ethiopian conquest.

Thus there was a feeling here that a general settlement among Italy, Britain and France was well under way.

ROAD DECISIONS DUE THIS WEEK

Two important decisions on road matters are in the offing in this section during the week. Monday Reagan county commissioners court will decide whether they will elect to furnish right-of-way on a road from Big Lake to the Glascock county line or whether they will refer the matter to voters of the county for final decision. The county already has ample funds to finance the project.

Saturday Martin county proprietors will vote on the polls to write a verdict on a $50,000 bond issue with which to finance road-way purchase on the Stanton-Lenora-Andrews road project. Included also in the proposal will be road-way from Lenora to E. Knott in Howard county and for fencing of all the right-of-way.

STATE LODGE MEET SOUGHT BY CITY

Branches of the I.O.O.F. order in Big Spring will seek to bring the state encampment, department council and L.A.P.M. meeting here in 1939, officials announced Saturday.

Four delegates are going Monday to Cozales where the grand encampment and department councils are holding joint session with the ladies auxiliary of patriarchy militant.

Wires have been sent by Big Spring institutions and service clubs, urging that the convention be awarded this city next year.

Making the trip are J. B. Neal, Jr., W. S. Morris, Mrs. L. L. Gully and W. E. Johnson.

Rail Wage Argument Grows More Bitter

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Temper flared at the rail wage hearing today in a dispute over the cost of living and pay data offered by opposing sides.

David Kaplan, statistical witness for the railroad workers' brotherhoods, and J. Carter Fort, railroad counsel engaged in a three-hour debate over differences in statistics offered by labor and management.

Railroads had presented a sheet of charts to show railroad pay was at a peak, living costs had gone down, and rail revenue had dropped as wages went up.

The data was offered in support of a proposal for a 15 per cent wage reduction—against which 1,000,000 workers have voted to strike.

Kaplan accused railroads of trying to compare "apples and pears," and offered his own exhibit to show the cost of living did not warrant a pay reduction.

KILLED BY TRAIN

SHERMAN, Oct. 8 (AP)—Matt Snyder, about 35, who lost his job with a carnival here last night, was found dead on a railroad track near Sherman today. He apparently had been run over by a train.

Liquor Argument Is Renewed In Okla.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 8 (AP)—The liquor question in dry Oklahoma popped up after a two-year armistice today when two initiative petition forms, one seeking repeal of state prohibition and the other calling for liquor control in Oklahoma, were filed with Secretary of State Frank Carter.

C. A. Lynch, manager for the Oklahoma Repeal association, filed the petition. The United Drys, an organization inactive since defeat of the Henshaw liquor bill in 1926, promised a fight to the finish against the repeals.

WHATLEYS, BARROWS ARE AT IT AGAIN

DALLAS, Oct. 8 (AP)—J. C. Whatley, an ex-convict, was head in the Dallas county jail today for questioning concerning a mysterious dynamite attempt upon the life of Henry Barrow, father of Black and Gold Barrow, Southwestern University football star.

Whatley, who began a feud with the Barrows several weeks ago when he allegedly wounded Mrs. Constance Barrow with a knife from a shotgun, was arrested a few hours after Barrow found four unexploded sticks of dynamite in front of his falling elevator.

A defective fuse caused Barrow's life by failing to set off the heavy charge just under the window of the room where he slept.

BIG CROWD PRESENT AS STATE FAIR OPENS

DALLAS, Oct. 8 (AP)—More than 90,000 persons poured through the Texas State Fair gates today and tonight to shelter all records for opening day.

The grand total was 92,500, leading officials to predict attendance would pass the one million mark long before the 16-day run is ended.

The first official act of the Golden Jubilee Fair was dedication of a monument to the men who founded it 50 years ago.

The ceremony was under auspices of the Texas Press association, and to it and the fair press of America, United States Senator Tom Connally of Maryland paid tribute.

VOTE WITH CZECHS

PRAGUE, Oct. 8 (AP)—Parliamentary representatives at Ruthenia today voted for their mountainous eastern district to remain within dwindling Czechoslovakia against the wishes of Poland and Hungary.

A conference of the Ruthenian representatives urged that autonomy be granted Ruthenia (subcarpathian Russia) similar to the self-government set up this week for the Slovaks.

HOOSIERS ARE BEATEN, 12-2

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 8 (AP)—Illinois smashed its way into the Big Ten title picture today with a 12 to 2 upset victory over Indiana's stubborn Hoosiers. A stirring 42-yard touchdown drive in the third period brought Illinois from behind after Indiana had picked up two points on a safety in the second quarter. Then in the final seconds Illinois scored another touchdown through a pass interception which ended the last of several desperate Indiana aerial bids to pull victory out of the fire.

LATVIAN MINISTER GETS TAX REFUND FROM LOUISIANA

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 8 (AP)—Dr. Alfred Beimanis, Latvian minister to the United States, will now be three cents to the good.

Governor Richard W. Leche today handed a local newspaperman a dollar bill and asked him to send it to Dr. Beimanis who is demanding 97 cents in sales and gasoline tax refunds from the state.

The 97 cents represents his claim, said the governor in parting with the dollar, "and the three cents is interest on the use of his money in the state."

BOMBS KILL 66

BARCELONA, Oct. 8 (AP)—Sixty persons were reported killed and more than 100 injured today when an insurgent warplane bombed a Barcelona-bound passenger train near San Vicente de Calders, 20 miles northeast of the port city of Tarragona.

Nelson Kicks Field Goal To Give Baylor 6 To 0 Victory

Patterson And Eakin Stage Great Duel

Witt Scores For Texas; Arkansas Rallies In Last Period

By ED L. CAMPBELL

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 8 (AP)—Robert Nelson, 210 pound sophomore center from Bryan, Tex., booted a perfect angle placement from the 19 yard line to give Baylor University a 30-second, 9 to 6 victory over the University of Arkansas here today.

The booming field goal in the closing seconds ended a nip-and-tuck aerial duel that dedicated Arkansas' new $300,000 "Bailey Stadium" before an estimated 10,000 fans.

Only the brilliant field goal marked the measure of Baylor's superiority as Arkansas' Ray Eakin matched forward passes with the best heaves of the Bears.

famed "Bullet Bill" Patterson. Baylor scored its lone touchdown before the first quarter was half over. Hamburg muffed a Baylor punt and the Bears opened their scoring drive from the Arkansas 44. Patterson completed two short passes to give the Bears a first down on the Arkansas 28, then rifled a heave down the middle to Witt who crossed the goal standing up. Merka's placement was wide.

Almost Standoff
From that point until early in the fourth period when a desperate Arkansas attack carried to a score the game was virtually a standoff. Arkansas got possession of the ball early in the fourth by a punt on its own 44. Eakin passed 14 yards to Freiburger and when line plays failed, sent a heave from the Baylor 42 to Freiburger who was reaching for it when Blvens, a substitute Baylor back, clambered over the Arkansas end. Off-limits ruled it illegal interference and gave Arkansas the ball on the Baylor six. A short pass, Eakin to Martin, gave Arkansas two yards. Two line plunges failed and on fourth down, Eakin passed to Bill Sutherland across the goal for the tying score.

An exchange of puns pushed Arkansas back against their goal as the game faded and the Bears, seeking a score, lost the ball on downs on their own 33. A pass, Patterson to Witt, advanced the ball to the Arkansas 24. Arkansas lost five yards more on a penalty and after two passes failed, Nelson pulled his hero act on third down.

Newark Loses, 8-4

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 8 (AP)—Kansas City, runner up in the American Association pennant race, concluded a brilliant series of back-to-the-wall comebacks tonight by defeating Newark, International league champion, 8 to 4, to wrest the Little World series title from the 1937 winner.

The score by innings:

Cotton Milnar Leads LSU To 3 To 0 Win

Rice Beaten When For Makes Good Last Minute Field Goal

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 8 (AP)—A sensational field goal with only seconds left to play gave Louisiana State a thrilling 3-0 victory over Rice tonight in a game that left more than 40,000 fans gasping.

Guy (Cotton) Milner, Bayou Bengal halfback, provided the story-book finish to a grand football game with a perfect placement from the Rice 25-yard line.

The kick came only 15 seconds ahead of the final whistle after Louisiana staged a dazzling 68-yard march from its own 20-yard stripe in which young Bussey and Charlie Erdman, Tiger substitute halfback, ran and completed forward passes in a breathless onslaught.

Milner came in to try the kick as a substitute for Erdman, entrusted with L.S.U.'s last, forlorn hope for winning the game. Once before the Alexandria, La., boy had won a football game by kicking a field goal, in last year's 9-7 victory over Auburn.

On a first attempt Milner got a bad pass from center and ran and was stopped at the line of scrimmage. But, on the second, he kicked the ball neatly.

L. S. U., dominating first period play, took the defensive in the second and third as Rice made its threat.

MEXICANS WIN

Youngsters representing the ABC playground defeated the Mexican Tigers, 18-14, in a grid game played on the Mexican Plaza Saturday morning.

The game was played as part of a program of the city recreation department.

Hermleigh And Bulldogs Tie

COAHOMA, Oct. 8—Coahoma's fighting Bulldogs and the Hermleigh eleven fought to a scoreless deadlock here Friday afternoon in Coahoma's first home game of the season.

The Bulldogs, paced by S. P. Echols and Jack Graham, went all the way down to the opponent's one yard line in the third quarter but could not score.

SUB LEADS VOLS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 8 (AP)—Red-thatched Buist Warren, a third-string sophomore halfback from Miami, Fla., came off the bench today to lead the Tennessee Volunteers to a thrill-packed 7 to 0 victory over the Auburn Plainsmen.

From the Auburn 25, Warren hit right tackle for five yards and then snapped a bullet pass to sophomore Bob Fox, who fought his way down the sideline to the 5. Joe Watten, Vol fullback, smashed over right guard to the glory stripe.

North Carolina Is Upset, 17-14

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 8 (AP)—Tulane university flashed a powerful, versatile attack on North Carolina today and won its first victory of the season with a 17 to 14 upset.

A homecoming crowd of 22,000 watched the Tar Heels battle from behind to forge into a 14-10 lead in the third quarter, but the Green Wave retaliated in the final period with a 67-yard winning touchdown march.

Pitt Smashes Dukes

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8 (AP)—Pitt's Golden Panthers licked an old wound today and smashed out a 27-0 triumph over Duquesne university.

As soon as the Panthers got the ball on a punt in the first period, Dick Cassiano and Harold Stebbins reeled off four and five yard gains that ended in Cassiano sweeping through right tackle 14 yards to a touchdown.

POWELL-GUITAR WILDCAT TEST IS ABANDONED

Sulphur Water Encountered At 3,375 Feet; Tests in Snyder Area Shot

Failure of the W. B. Powell No. 1 Guitar, wildcat test in western Howard county, was the spot in an otherwise comparatively quiet week in the oil fields of this area.

Encountering sulphur water at 3,375 feet after logging a light show of oil at 3,196 feet, the test had an increase in water at 3,394 feet and was abandoned at that depth. Location was in the center of the northeast quarter of section 17-A, B. & C. It was the second wildcat failure for the western territory this year, the Texas Co. No. 1 Wilkinson being abandoned after shows of free oil.

Only one test in that territory is now drilling, the T. G. Shaw No. 1 Wilkinson, in section 35-A, B. & C., just over the Martin county line. It was reported around 800 feet.

Easily the most active area was the Snyder pool where two tests were given shots. Moore Bros. 3-B O'Daniel, in the northeast quarter of section 34-30-1a, T&P, was shot with 600 quarts from 2,638-2,890 feet, and was cleaning out the making several strong heads. Shell No. 3 TXL flowed following a 600 quart shot, with three yards gravel tamp, from 2,580-2,833 feet. Location is in the northeast quarter of section 35-30-1a, T&P.

Shell staked location for its No. 1 Snyder, 2,310 feet from the west and north lines of section 28-30-1a T&P. A north offset to the Moore Bros. No. 4-A Snyder in the same section, the test is an important northern edge well.

Parten and Strickland, extension test on the southeast corner of the pool, was in salt at 1,310 feet. It is in the northeast corner of section 39-30-1a T&P.

Magnolia No. 4-M H. O'Daniel, on the fringe of production in the southeast portion of the area, cemented oil string at 2,550 feet and Magnolia No. 3 M. H. O'Daniel was at 2,525 feet and preparing to set oil casing 25 feet below that depth. Both are in the southeast quarter of section 34-30-1a, T&P. Magnolia No. 5 M. H. O'Daniel, in the same

Co-Op Stations For Refrigeration Are Proposed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — Plans for establishment of co-operative refrigerating stations in which farmers may store meats, vegetables and other perishable commodities were outlined here today by Representative Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) after a series of conferences with government officials.

Individual compartments or lockers where constant, freezing temperatures would be maintained would be rented at approximately 50 to 75 cents per month. Several hundred lockers would be contained in a community station, which would be accessible at all times so the renter could withdraw from his own locker whenever he desired.

Johnson predicted that with the financial aid of various governmental agencies, at least four or five of the cooperatives would be put into operation in south Central Texas within the next twelve months.

RAIDERS SLAUGHTER GOLDBUGS, 60-0

LUBBOCK, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Texas Tech gridiron machine showed no mercy tonight and rolled relentlessly over the Goldbugs from Oklahoma City University, 60-0.

After the regulars had set the pace with two touchdowns in the opening chapter, the second, third and fourth teams, installed 11 at a time, kept up the firing after a letup in the second period.

Irish Hard Pressed

ATLANTA, Oct. 8 (AP) — Overcoming unexpected stubborn resistance, Notre Dame unloosed two offensive thrusts today to conquer an inspired "rambling wreck" of Georgia Tech, 14 to 6, in renewing an inter-sectional rivalry before 30,000.

The Irish backs, Lou Zontini, Neil Tonelli, Bob Aggan and one Edward Francis Simonich, spearheaded an attack that humbled the southerners.

Shackelford Gets A New Oil Pool

Well Near Moran Estimated At 20 To 30 Bbls. Daily

ABILENE, Oct. 8—Discoveries in Shackelford and Taylor counties held attention in the area this week, while interest was also centered on a new test south of the Hawley field in Jones county scheduled by Humble for 3,500 feet.

A new pool was indicated for southern Shackelford county in the R. H. Gordon and Frank E. Fyfe-bridge No. 1 C. B. Snyder, five miles west of Moran, which bailed free oil from the Caddo lime at 5,305 to 5,660 feet, total depth. It was estimated at about 20 to 30 barrels daily, 41 gravity oil, natural and was scheduled for treatment with 5,000 gallons of acid the first of next week after casing plugs are drilled out.

3,000-Acre Block

It is near the center of a 3,000-acre block in the northeast corner of section 38-LAL survey. Long & Wolfe, contractors, and Humble Oil & Refining company own the acreage besides Gordon & Fyfe-bridge inside the block. The test had been contracted to the Ordovician as a cable tool project following a northwest trend from the Van Parmer pool of Ellenburger production in Eastland county.

Taylor county was assured its largest producer when the Charter Oil & Gas company and A. R. Foster No. 2 J. C. Fredericksan opened a new pay horizon, upper Cook, to give a north extension to the View pool 12 miles southwest of Abilene. The well was estimated at 100 barrels daily natural, but increased after acid treatment with 1,000 gallons, flowing 6 to 10 barrels hourly by heads.

14-Barrel Head

It had 48 feet of solid lime saturation, the bottom 18 feet showing mostly porosity. Pay, at 2,332-80 feet, is above the Cook sand from which other wells in the nine-year-old pool have been producing. It filled and headed a 14-barrel flow overnight after plugs were drilled.

The test is 660 feet north of the No. 1 Fredericksan, completed in August as a small pumper from the sand pay, and is 960 feet from the south and 300 feet from the east line of the Fredericksan 178-acre tract in subdivisions 17 and 18, Guadalupe county school lands survey No. 129. On the south, production is owned by Dale Dorn and H. G. Daniels of Abilene, to the east a 3,000-acre block being shot by Amerasia is owned by Rowan & Nichols of Fort Worth.

Reeves County Wildcat Gets Flow Of Gas

Tubb Pool In Crane Extended Mile To The Southeast

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 8—Striking of an estimated three million cubic feet of gas and a small amount of oil in the Delaware sand by Frankley & Rice No. 1 W. A. Tunstall, northwestern Reeves county wildcat, recompletion as an oil well of Humble No. 1-B Tubb, formerly a gasser, to mark a one-mile southeast extension of the Tubb pool in western Crane county and promise of small production in two Plateau tests seven miles northwest of Junction in Kimble county were among this week's West Texas developments.

Frankley & Rice No. 1 Tunstall in Reeves county struck gas from 3,290-99 feet and showed a small amount of oil in deepening to 3,310. Shooting was likely. The Delaware sand was reached at 3,280 feet, 377 feet below sea level, and the gas was encountered from 3,290-99. Seven-inch casing set at 3,081 feet shut off water but none of the strings was cemented and drilling was halted to cement the 12 1/2 inch pipe at 357 feet. No. 1 Tunstall has run higher than General Crude No. 1 T&P Land Trust 1 1/4 miles to the southeast. It is in the northwest quarter of section 10-36-2-T&P, 3 1/2 miles northeast of Orla.

Completed late in May for 18,724,000 cubic feet of gas daily with only a spray of oil, Humble No. 1-B Tubb, one mile southeast outpost to the Tubb delta, Examin line production in western Crane county, began making more oil as the gas declined and was recompleted at 4,430 feet for a flow of 23,40 barrels the last four hours of a gauge to establish a daily potential of 140,40 barrels. Its gas-oil ratio was 3,600-1. The well is in the northwest corner of section 19-32-2-T&P.

Humble No. 20 Tubb, north offset to Humble No. 1-B Tubb, showed three-quarters of a million cubic feet of gas but no oil after retreatment with 10,000 gallons of acid and drilled ahead at 4,458 feet in time.

Standard of Texas staked No. 1-6 University half mile north, and slightly west of Magnolia No. 1-6 University, drilling north offset to the Texas Co.'s No. 1-G State, third and largest well in the eastern Crane county pool opened by Magnolia No. 1-14 U. It will be 2,310 feet from the north, 990 feet from the east line of section 6-30-U.

Plateau No. 1 Bolt in S. Jones survey 42, southeast of Plateau No. 1 J. M. Anderson, small discovery pumper from the Ellenberger, lower Ordovician, in Kimble county, was testing by swabbing a g-oil oil showing from 1,420-35 feet, having plugged back from 1,675 to 1,450 feet.

Three Oil Flows

In one 24-hour period Gulf No. 2 Mallett, 2 1/2 miles northeast extension to the Slaughter pool in Hockley county, made three flows totaling 105 barrels of oil. It was retreated last week with 10,000 gallons of acid at a plugged back depth of 5,070 feet. Texas No. 1-B Mallett, west outpost to the pool, cemented seven-inch casing after drilling to 4,880 feet. The Texas Co. No. 3 Slaughter, south offset to the most northerly producer, had reached 4,812 feet in time. Snowden & McSweeney No. 1 Slaughter in the south part of the area was drilling plugs from seven-inch pipe at 4,772 feet, total depth being 4,950 in time.

In the Denver pool in southwestern Yonkum county, Denver No. 3 Whitensurg was completed for 717 barrels daily. Murchison No. 3-B Elliott for 812 barrels. The Texas Co. No. 1 Randall for 140 barrels and Danvers No. 2 Lynn for 230 barrels. J. E. Mabey started No. 1 N. W. Willard off the southwest edge of the Bennett pool, 410 from the north, 2,200 from the west line of section 741-D-John H. Gibson.

Atlantic No. 1 Parker, 2 1/2 miles northwest of the Seminole pool in Gaines county and in the northeast quarter of section 254-G-WTRR, showed only a trace of dead oil on a drill stem test from 4,950 to 5,064 feet and drilled ahead. Devonian No. 1 King, on the trend between the Seminole and Wasson pools, in block 6, league 305, Dawson county school land, had passed 5,219 feet in time and anhydrite.

MUSSOLINI ASKED TO RECONSIDER DECREES AGAINST U. S. JEWS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — The United States government, noting that it accords Italians "the full protection of our laws with respect to their persons and property," has asked Premier Mussolini of Italy to reconsider his decrees against American Jews in Italy.

The Texas Co. No. 1 Wright, 1 1/2 miles northwest of Geo. P. Livermore No. 1 Wright, 17-barrel discovery well in eastern Cochran county, was abandoned at a plugged back depth of 4,910 feet after failing to respond to a shot and acid treatment. Warm, Dry Weather Continuing To Contribute To Upset Of Seasons

The crazy pattern of weather for 1938 continued through the first week of October with a prolonged late summer and early autumn drought still clinging on tenaciously.

After two wet months in June and July, the county received only 45 of an inch of precipitation in August, records at the U. S. Experiment Farm show. Then in September, when normally the second heaviest season of moisture sets in, there was only .11 of an inch to fall. It was the second lightest September on record here, being exceeded in despatch of moisture only by September in 1922 when only a trace was recorded. Over 37 years the September average has been 2.45 inches, second only to the 2.66 average for May.

In the past 20 years there have been only four August totals less than the .45 of an inch received this season in the first week of the month.

Belief that this has been one of the hottest Octobers is not borne out in weather records. Maximum this month has been 92 and minimum 61 degrees. In 1931 and in 1928 temperatures of 100 degrees were established. There have been eight years in the past 20 of higher mean temperatures for the first 10 days in October. Last year there was a 99 degree high. Nights, however, have been slightly warmer this year.

One odd factor is that of the 1931 season's total for precipitation, two-thirds of it, or 12.20 inches, fell in June and July. This is believed to account for the acute infestation of crop insects and for a short crop because plants were sappy and unable to resist drought.

Buffalo milk is used for making butter in India.

WHEAT EXPORTING THIRD FINISHED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Agricultural Adjustment Administration reported today that it was about one-third through its job of placing 100,000,000 bushels of surplus American wheat in foreign markets.

Exports of wheat, including flour, from July 1 through Sept. 30, totaled about 31,000,000 bushels, the AAA said.

DIES WANTS GOVT. EMPLOYEES PROBED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP) — Representative Dies (D-Tex) proposed today President Roosevelt order an investigation to determine whether government officials and employees have been members of communist or fascist organizations.

The Texan, chairman of the house committee on "un-American" activities, said proposed measures to thwart the activities of foreign spies would be futile unless the government service was rid of persons who were sympathetic to fascist and communist groups.

He said his committee had evidence of government officials' membership in groups he characterized as communist, and said investigation should be made of fascist organizations to determine if they also had government members.

"We must clean out the government service first," he said.

Dies intended to embody his suggestions in a letter to the president, who announced yesterday he was studying the problem of strengthening the country's defenses against spies.

Double Ring Ceremony This Evening To Unite Prominent Couple Club Opens

The twilight hour of this evening will be given unusual significance by the solemn beauty of a wedding ceremony at the St. Mary's Episcopal church, uniting one of Big Spring's most prominent couples, Minnie Belle Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williamson of Big Spring, to become the bride of Frederick W. H. Wehner, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Wehner of Del Rio, in a candle-light double ring ceremony at 8 o'clock.

Interchanging of marriage vows is to be witnessed by more than a hundred friends and relatives. The Rev. P. Walter Henckell, rector, is to officiate during the nuptial service and pre-nuptial music will be provided by the Episcopal choir, Mrs. R. M. Parks and Mrs. M. H. Bennett who will be at the organ.

Bridal Party
The bridal party is to enter the church to a organ rendition of the traditional processional Wagner's "Lohengrin" and Mrs. Parks is to sing "O Perfect Love." The recessional by Mendelssohn is to be played.

An arrangement of candles and smilax is to form an appropriate background for the occasion. Given in marriage by her father, Miss Williamson is to wear a princess styled gown of white lace over tulle. The frock features a heart-shaped neckline and sleeves which are full at the shoulder and fitted from the elbow to the waist. The extremely full skirt extends into a long train concealed by a misty veil of illusion. The veil is attached to a fluted coronet and outlined with a wide band of lace.

Carry Prayer Book
She is to carry a white prayer book showered with tiny blossoms and for "something old" will wear a ring of her great grandmother. Mrs. J. Y. Robb, who is to be matron of honor, will be attired in a grey net with full skirt and a bodice of sequin. Her costume will be completed by a violet hat and a muff fashioned from violets.

The maid of honor, Winifred Piner, will be wearing a gold tulle frock with a hoop skirt effect. The bodice is fitted and the sleeves are banded and puffed. A dubonnet headress of blossoms and ribbon completes the attire.

Bridesmaids
The four bridesmaids are cousins of Miss Williamson including Mozelle Williamson of Fort Worth, Alma Williamson of Eastland, and Mary Nell and Anna Belle Edwards of Big Spring. Their dresses are fashioned out of tulle with bustle effects and the back of the skirts fall into graceful ripples. Each is to wear an old-fashioned hat of ribbon and flowers and will carry a tiny colonial bouquet.

Mary Nell Edwards and Alma Williamson are wearing pink tulle and Mozelle Williamson and Anna Belle Edwards will be in blue tulle.

Reception To Follow
Immediately following the ceremony a reception is to be held in the crystal ballroom of the Settles hotel with Mrs. J. Y. Robb, Mrs. L. Wehner and H. H. Wehner, Jr., of A. and M. Reuben Chouteau and Roy Bruce are to be ushers.

After the reception the couple will leave for a two weeks honeymoon to San Antonio, Houston and New Orleans.

Miss Williamson who was graduated from the Big Spring high school in 1936, has been reared in this city. One summer she danced with a troupe in Nebraska and for the past year has been employed in the business office of the Big Spring Herald.

Mr. Wehner is an electrical engineer with the Texas Electric Service company here and was graduated with the class of 1935 at A. and M. He was voted the most popular senior in college, is listed in Who's Who among college students

Best-Seller Is Slated For A Review Oct. 31

1930 Hyperion To Present Evelyn Oppenheimer

An event promising to be of wide interest in Big Spring literary circles was marked up for Monday, October 31, with announcement Saturday that on that date Miss Evelyn Oppenheimer of Dallas will be here for a book review presentation.

Miss Oppenheimer, a popular favorite here, is being brought to Big Spring again by the 1930 Hyperion club, which organization uses book review proceeds to finance purchase of children's books for the library.

The Dallas reviewer, heard several times in the past—and each time by larger crowds—will discuss the Howard Spring book, "My Son, My Son," currently the most popular novel with the public. A best-seller, "My Son, My Son" has been in wide demand with library patrons here as elsewhere. It is the story of two men, each of whom has a son, and their ideas on how these sons should be reared.

Miss Oppenheimer's engagement is scheduled for 4 o'clock in the afternoon on October 31, at the Settles hotel. Tickets for the review soon will be offered for sale by Hyperion club members.

Demonstration Agent Gives Pointers On Cooking Of Poultry

At a meeting of the Overton Home Demonstration club Friday with Mrs. Carl Flint, Lora Farnsworth, home demonstration agent pointed out to the members that thoroughly chilling the dressed poultry for several hours before cooking makes a tastier product.

A salad and dessert course was served to Mrs. G. F. Painter, Mrs. V. E. Phillips, Mrs. Jewell White, Mrs. Hart Phillips, Mrs. G. W. Overton, Mrs. C. H. Tippet, Mrs. J. M. Craig, Mrs. Ross Hill, Mrs. Duke Lipscomb and Mrs. Flint.

Club Entertains Husbands With A Dinner At Hotel

A Ticket Campaign

Season Tickets To Concerts To Be Sold

One week of intensified season ticket campaign for the five concerts being presented in Big Spring this winter by the Music Study club will get off to a good start Monday morning at 8 o'clock when all of the members assemble at the Settles hotel for a breakfast and pep meeting directed by Mrs. Ann Gibson Houser, chairman of the campaign.

At the breakfast Mrs. Houser is to outline plans for the week which will include three-minute radio talks every day over KSBT concerning the Musical Arts Series and similar talks before the various civic clubs by members.

Appoint Lieutenants
Mrs. Houser is to appoint six lieutenants, each of whom will have five helpers, and each group is to be assigned a section of the town. The helpers are to report to their respective lieutenants every day on their progress and the lieutenants in turn will report to the campaign chairman.

The campaign closes Saturday night and after that time season tickets cannot be purchased. Since tickets will be sold at the door of each concert but Big Spring music lovers are reminded by Mrs. Houser that a distinct saving can be made by purchasing tickets for all five attractions this week. Adult tickets are $2.50 and student tickets are $1.50.

The same Musical Art Series was presented here last winter and proved such a success that the club decided to bring five more concerts to the public this year which promise to be even better.

Concert Artists
Artists to be heard include the brilliant young baritone, William Hales, with Dorothy Ellen Ford, concert pianist, in November. The January concert brings Maryse Conde, soprano of the Opera Comique in Paris with Mae Gilbert Reese, pianist. The world-famous concert violinist, Josef Placer, assisted by Texas' own pianist, Virgean England Estes, will appear in February and March.

bringing the young Czechoslovakian mezzo-soprano, Rose Paldar and the young Boston pianist, Charles Gallagher.

The last attraction on the series is the Gladys Petch Travelogue, "Sunlit Norway—Cuba," with Gladys Petch in person assisted by Gloria Sornsen in costume songs with Charles Gallagher, pianist.

At the annual state convention of the Texas Federation of Music in Beaumont in April, Robert Hollinshead, director of the series of Hollywood, was officially endorsed. Doty of the University of Texas.

Drama, Comedy Blended In Ritz Feature For Today, 'A Letter Of Introduction'

Charlie McCarthy Top Funster In The Cast

A picture which advance notices declare combines fine dramatic situations with hilarious comedy moments is that offered at the Ritz theatre today and Monday—'A Letter of Introduction'—but the smart showmen who know who happens to be the top comic in radio, are plugging the fact that a smart-aleck dummy called Charlie McCarthy is the ace entertainer in the production.

You can select 'A Letter of Introduction' for one of your Movie Quiz contest entries.

Adolphe Menjou, Andrea Leeds and George Murphy provide the drama; and the comedy, of course, is taken care of by McCarthy, aided and abetted by Edgar Bergen.

There is a series of vividly contrasting emotional scenes contrived for the picture by the producer, John M. Stahl, to add to the dramatic sequences and to emphasize the comic interludes.

Andrea Leeds and Adolphe Menjou carry the story of an aging actor who discovers, through a letter of introduction, that he is the father of a grown daughter, the role played by Miss Leeds. The actor's ego, coupled with the fear of losing his screen-idol popularity, prompts him to conceal their true relationship from the world and to extract from his daughter a promise of secrecy.

Freddie Bartholomew and Warner Baxter merge their talents as the featured players in 'Kidnapped,' a film version of the famed Robert Louis Stevenson story which is at the Queen today and Monday.

Through this deception comes a succession of events, some tragic, some dramatic, some hilarious.

George Murphy appears as Miss Leeds' suspicious fiancé, Rita Johnson as George's dancing partner, Ann Sheridan as Menjou's society-fiancee, and Eve Arden as other players.

McCarthy, however, emerges as tops in the comedy line, although he has an unexpected rival in Mortimer Snerd, a rural dummy who makes his screen debut in 'Letter of Introduction.' Mortimer nearly steals the show from Charlie in spots.

Two Lovelies Provide New Film Delight

June Lang, Lynn Bari At The Lyric In 'Meet The Girls'

The Lyric theatre brings a new, first-run movie to town Sunday and Monday—one listed in the $250,000 Movie Quiz contest—that is designed to make the customers find delights in beholding two dazzling young misers. The production is called 'Meet the Girls,' and the girls are June Lang and Lynn Bari.

One would be delighted to know June Lang as Judy Davis—brave and ingenious and refreshing; and Lynn Bari as Terry Wilson, sophisticated and devil-may-care. The acquaintance might begin the moment the girls lost their night club jobs and found themselves stranded, cashless, in Honolulu—which is the opening sequence in the play.

Along comes handsome, accented Erik Rhodes, who arranges to meet the girls himself, and we don't blame him one bit. Erik obligingly takes the girls to dinner, lucky fellow, but when he reveals that he is an international jewel thief and wants their aid in his next job—hunting for they are, the girls give him the air.

After a night's rest on the postcard Hawaiian beach the attractive duo board the U. S.-bound liner 'Maori' in search of breakfast. They figure on getting by in the confusion of a bon voyage party and eating with the guests; of course they have no tickets.

Schedulers being what they are, the liner sails before Judy and Terry disembark. The scared stewards accidentally observe their erstwhile benefactor, Rhodes, filch a valuable diamond from a millionaire's suite and they report the theft at once to the captain, hoping thereby to mitigate their own punishment.

At once complications confront the poor darlings. Rhodes of course denies everything. The big surprise is the denial of the millionaire's wife Ruth Donnelly, that the diamond is missing! She is only shielding her own negligence and her boy friend, Robert Allen, but how are the girls to know about that?

Thus the excitement starts—and ends with the girls $5,000 richer, on California soil, and with further adventures to come.

Forestry Meetings Slated This Week

LUFKIN, Oct. 8 (AP)—Four organizations active in forestry and allied industries will hold their state conventions at Lufkin next week in connection with the first annual Texas forest festival opening Oct. 11 and continuing through Oct. 15.

The meetings, each of which will draw a large number of Texans prominent in timber and lumber circles, were announced by the festival management, and include the Texas Planning Board, the forestry committee of the East Texas chamber of commerce, the Texas Forestry association, and the Texas Mill Managers association.

The meeting in Lufkin is the latest of the four to be booked here during the festival. This session, as well as those of the Texas Forestry association and the East Texas chamber of commerce group, has been set for Wednesday, second day of the festival, the mill managers' meeting is scheduled for Saturday, last day, but it was said many representatives of Texas lumber mills would be present throughout the five-day exposition.

E. A. Wood of Austin is managing-director of the planning board and will handle details and arrangements for the meeting of the organization.

WOODEN STUFF

You probably know the fellow on the right. He's Charlie McCarthy, a sort of wooden character. Well, on the left is his best friend and severest critic, Edgar Bergen. The two furnish the comedy in 'A Letter of Introduction' offered at the Ritz today and Monday. Andrea Leeds and Adolphe Menjou are others in the cast. 'A Letter of Introduction' is listed in the $250,000 Movie Quiz contest.

NINE ACRES OF CORN STOLEN

MARLIN, Oct. 8 (AP)—Sheriff L. O. Hay was looking today for nine acres of corn.

"The most ambitious thief I ever heard of," said Sheriff Hay, stripped the crop from nine acres of land on the farm of Edmond Forney near Chilton.

The thief drove a truck into the field and made away with an estimated 200 bushels.

Americans Freed In Spain, Ask About Series

HENDAYE, France (AP)—Fourteen Americans who had been captured by the Spanish insurgents were freed today after months of imprisonment, given clean clothes, fed ham and eggs, and told that the New York Yankees were doing nicely.

"Who's winning the world series?" was one of the first questions asked as the group arrived in France from Iran, across the border in insurgent Spain.

The 14 were exchanged for 14 Italian aviators in a deal arranged by United States Ambassador Claude G. Bowers. They came from the San Pedro de Cardena prison camp, in an abandoned monastery, where 74 other Americans are reported still held.

The Americans had been imprisoned for an average of seven months each. Louis Ornitz, of New York City, was "dean" of the group, having been a captive for 14 months.

Arrangements were being made to send them to Paris en route to the United States.

LIFE MAGAZINE IS SUED FOR DAMAGES

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—A suit for $250,000 damages was filed in federal court today against Time, Inc., publishers of Life magazine, alleging that publication of an X-Ray photograph showing a pair of scissors that had been left inside a woman patient after an operation violated her right to privacy and impaired her health and social standing.

The action was filed by Attorney Roy F. Ford of Tulsa, Okla., in behalf of Mrs. Ina C. Banks of Catoula, Okla., in whose abdomen the instrument was left four years ago by a surgeon who removed her appendix. An X-Ray photograph disclosed the scissors after Mrs. Banks suffered pain, her counsel said.

Miss Anne Kelly of Lubbock is spending the weekend here, the guest of her friend, Miss Jewell Barton.

FAVORS WIDER BASIS FOR INSURANCE INVESTMENTS

AUSTIN, Oct. 8 (AP)—A broader scope of permissible investments for life insurance companies was recommended today by R. L. Daniel, state life insurance commissioner.

In his annual report to Governor James V. Allred, Daniel noted diminishing earnings on investments legally permitted insurance companies to make in part.

"The fact is that the large investments made by governmental agencies, as well as other agencies, at low interest rates have pretty well absorbed the market demand, and insurance companies are compelled to meet these rates and invest in low interest-bearing securities, in some instances lower than the interest rate required to maintain reserves."

He said the average annual earnings of American companies had dropped from 5.15 per cent in 1930 to 3.83 in 1937.

Assets of 35 legal reserve stock companies and nine legal reserve mutual companies operating in Texas were $239,232,921, Daniel's report disclosed.

CITRUS PRORATION TO BE FIXED TUES.

WESLACO, Oct. 8 (AP)—Proration of grapefruit shipments from the lower Rio Grande valley will be determined at a meeting of the growers industry and shippers marketing committees next Tuesday.

The groups, meeting here yesterday, decided to postpone action until that time though the tentative policy outlined at the joint session called for beginning of quantity control about Oct. 16.

Queen Offers Stevenson's 'Kidnaped'

Warner Baxter, Freddie Bartholomew Are Co-Starred

From one of the best stories of the great writer, Robert Louis Stevenson, has come a film version of "Kidnaped," which returns to Big Spring for showings today and Monday at the Queen theatre. With the lavish hand that marks most 20th Century-Fox productions, Darryl Zanuck made "Kidnaped" into a fine array of motion picture thrills against a romantic adventure story background.

Warner Baxter is a major star, being washbuckling and vigorous in the role of Alan Breck, fugitive clansman of the highlands. And young Freddie Bartholomew scores in the role of David Balfour, boy hero of the piece.

The movie—as movies do—takes liberty with the original script in introducing a "heart interest" to the life of Alan Breck. The girl in the film version is Arleen Whelan, and her appearance in the cast generally has been accepted with favor by the fans.

The story concerns Alan Breck's leading the clans in revolt against union of the North Country with George III's domain. David Balfour is the lad with the unscrupulous uncle who tries to keep the boy's rightful estate by having him kidnapped and shipped to America. The lives of Alan Breck and David Balfour cross at the point where the girl, fiancée of a lesser rebel, falls in love with Breck.

An impressive cast headed by C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Owen, John Carradine, Nigel Bruce, Miles Mander, Ralph Forbes and H. B. Warner appears in the film, which was directed by Alfred Werker.

Fire Prevention Programs Will Be Presented This Week

Smoking Draws The Blame As Cause Of The Greatest Number Of Fires

What are the major causes of fires in Texas?

Of known causes reported to the state fire insurance department by fire marshals of cities and towns, your habit of smoking heads the list.

Of approximately 3,000 fires reported in 1937 of known causes, all causes of smoking were responsible for 364 of the blazes and produced $231,000 in damage.

Defective chimneys, flues and fireplaces ranked second, causing 328 conflagrations. Exposure caused 292 blazes, and defective wiring or misuse of electricity brought on another 286. Other causes in order, were:

Sparks, 216; gas stoves too close to walls and curtains, 202; rubbish and litter, 175; improper care of matches or leaving them where children can play with them, 144; defective gas appliances and explosions, 142; and explosion of oil or gasoline stoves, 124.

All of these produced upwards to three million dollars in losses during the year. Many other kindred causes produced the remaining losses.

Mrs. Todd Crain, Mrs. J. R. Nall and Lillian Nall attended the Parents' Day program at Texas Tech in Lubbock Saturday.

Elimination Of Hazards Will Be The Goal

Safety Messages To Be Carried Before Schools, Clubs

Fire Prevention Week—Oct. 9-15—will be observed in varied methods here, a check of plans showed Saturday.

Several civic and service clubs will feature fire prevention programs during the week. School children will be encouraged to enter poster contests, and fire drills and inspections will be conducted in the schools.

Tuesday E. B. Bethell, city fire marshal, will appear before the high school assembly for a fire prevention talk. Fire Chief Ole Cordill will supervise inspection of school plants and check their efficiency in clearing buildings for fire drills.

Although there have been no arrangements, it is possible that some radio talks on the subject may be heard during the week ahead.

Throughout the observance, fire hazards will be pointed out, people encouraged to eliminate these risks and to stop fires before they ever start.

The public will be impressed with the fact that not only do fires cost in loss of property, but in loss of taxable values and operating businesses and occupied homes. People who pay the bill will be reminded again that the cost of fire is paid by the threat of fire, for every year people here pay out about $60,000 through justified fear of fire.

In so many words, fire will be unmasked for what it is—a useless, costly waste.

WIDEN CAMPAIGN ON VENEREAL DISEASE

AUSTIN, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Texas Social Hygiene association mapped plans today to spread its offensive against venereal disease into all cities.

R. F. Voyer, general director, said agents of the association and health officers would bring legal charges against employers, employees and others who "continue to ignore the law requiring that food handlers be given blood and other laboratory tests to determine the presence of syphilis and gonorrhea, designated by statute as communicable diseases."

"Seventeen years notice is sufficient warning," he said, citing a law adopted in 1921 requiring such tests.

He said voluntary action by food handlers was desired but steps would be taken against employers who declined to enter the program.

Texas Making Progress Each Year Toward Lower Mark In Fire Losses

Over the state an enviable fire record is in the making, and rapid strides have been made toward a goal of minimum losses through fire in the past 10 years.

In 1928 the insured losses in Texas amounted to $15,319,000. The next year they unfortunately rose to $200,000, and in 1931 jumped to $17,565,000. But a campaign was started to prevent fires, curb the unnecessary loss and by the following year losses were down $2,500,000. In 1933 there was a sharp decline to $9,200,000, and there was another million-dollar decline in 1934. By 1935 the losses had dropped to a new low of $6,000,000. The next year, however, they jumped to $7,724,000, but last year they were down by about $250,000.

During the years of 1931-37, when the most enviable part of the record was compiled, officials after fire bugs' with 700 indictments and 250 convictions being returned for arson.

Said Eugene Sanders, fire prevention chief: "If the incendiary fires in Texas can be kept to a reasonably low figure there is very little possibility of a high fire loss in Texas for the average year. The fire loss records in Texas very clearly indicate that incendiary fires were responsible for the high fire loss records during the years of 1925-32, inclusive."

Ruling out this cause, there is still an annual insured loss in excess of $5,000,000 to Texans and Texas property. It is responsibility of all to stop this needless waste, Sanders pointed out.

PRIZES OFFERED FOR POSTERS BY STUDENTS

School children in Big Spring will have a chance to compete with others in the state for poster prizes during Fire Prevention Week, October 9-15. E. B. Bethell, city fire marshal, announced Saturday.

Awards of $10, $7.50, $5 and $2.50 for next five places in three separate divisions have been posted by a Houston, Texas, concern. In addition, efforts are being made to stimulate interest here by offering local awards.

The posters, either from the high school, intermediate or primary division, must be original and may be on any phase of fire prevention. They must be individual work. Winning posters will become property of the State Fire Insurance division.

Information may be obtained from Bethell.

CRUISER DISABLED

SEATTLE, Oct. 8 (AP)—The coast guard patrol boat Cyane, at Ketchikan, wireless today it was speeding to the aid of the 38-foot motor cruiser Pandora, disabled and in distress in Tolmie channel, near Ocean Falls, B. C.

The Pandora, owned by Dr. Homer F. Kellens, Delaware county, Okla., was en route here from the dedication of the Wiley Post-Will Rogers memorial at Point Barrow.

Reported aboard the Pandora with Dr. Kellens were the Rev. Roy E. Curtis and William F. Sims, Hillsboro, Tex., and John Kayser, Chickasha, Okla.

Big Spring Usually Observes Fire Prevention Week The Corrigan Way

Will Big Spring observe Fire Prevention Week this year in traditional topsy-turvy fashion?

Fire department members are ready to make an undue number of calls if the city's record of several runs during the special week holds good.

Two years ago a string of perfect fire record weeks was broken by four runs during Fire Prevention week. Last year the first day of the week was marked by three fires.

City Fire Marshal E. B. Bethell thinks there is more than irony in the outbreak of fires at the season when Fire Prevention Week is observed. The week is always early in October, he pointed out, when weeds are dry, winds are high, people are burning off dead grass, trash, etc., and when gins start their seasonal operations. Too, it is a season when fires are often first used in the homes during the autumn season. These frequently develop small blazes.

HOW FIRES IN HOME SPREAD

Fires in the home, once started, spread rapidly because there are many combustible articles on which to feed. In most homes not only the contents, but the building itself, is combustible.

Wherever possible, fire-resistant material should be used in building construction. There are many fine types of construction being made available at lower and lower costs. Among these are brick, stone, concrete, gypsum, tile and similar materials used alone or in conjunction with steel beams, sheet steel, metal lath or other incombustible or fire-resistant materials.

Our existing wooden buildings can be made reasonably safe in most cases. Fires spread from floor to floor through hollow partitions and up stairways. In every dwelling the basement should be cut off from the first floor by a heavy door, and it desirable to plaster the entire basement ceiling with cement or gypsum plaster or metal lath. Hollow partitions should be "fire-stopped" at the basement level to retard the spread of a basement fire.

A desirable, and increasingly common practice is to pipe the cellar for automatic sprinklers.

If the garage is a part of the house it should be separated by masonry walls, or at least by metal lath and cement or gypsum plaster partitions. Any door in these walls should be a fire door, but access to the garage should be preferably from outside only.

HAY FEVER QUEEN TO BE SELECTED

GALVESTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Some pretty sneezers in Galveston's winter hay fever colony between the ages of 18 and 28 years will be crowned hay fever queen Oct. 22.

"How will she win?" asked the suffers of allergic pollinosis—if you want to get technical.

"By a nose, a pretty red nose," said the judges.

For many years wheezers and sneezers of many climes have sought Galveston's salty air and year-round sunshine for relief from their seasonal suffering but this is the first known time the matter has achieved any social distinction.

City Saves On Insurance By Curbing Fire

Big Spring Enjoys Full 25 Per Cent Credit On Key Rate

Good fire record of the city is proving that the proverbial ounce of prevention is worth a couple of pounds of cure.

Property owners have not only staved off needless loss by fire, but at the same time have been reaping financial benefits in the form of premium savings.

Records of the state fire insurance department show that Big Spring is now one of few cities in the state receiving the maximum 25 per cent credit on fire insurance premiums by virtue of five years of small losses.

Higher This Year

In 1935, when the city had a 12 per cent credit, premiums totaled $61,370.41 and losses ran to $7,827.88. In 1936, the credit rose to 15 per cent and the premium payments dropped to $59,209.03. So did the losses, totaling only $5,994.85.

Last year losses were little better than $5,000 and the good fire record credit jumped to the 25 per cent maximum. However, the loss record this year is pushing upward again and causing some concern. Through September, this amounted to $7,200. Two fires accounted for most of it. One was a cotton fire which resulted in a $5,000 loss and a residential fire in August for $1,150.

Although figures are not available, it is estimated that policy holders in Big Spring now save in the neighborhood of $19,000 in premiums because fire prevention has been practiced as well as preached.

APPEAL ON MEXICO OIL EXPROPRIATION IS DISMISSED

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Mexican supreme court today dismissed an appeal of American and British oil companies against expropriation of their properties by the Mexican government March 18. The court held the foreign companies had not exhausted other administrative recourses open to them and that the matter thus was not one for the supreme court to rule on.

A petition for revocation of the expropriation decree, the court ruling pointed out, still is under consideration by the department of national economy.

FALSE ALARMS ARE DANGEROUS, COSTLY

Recently city firemen took occasion to call attention to the danger of turning in false alarms. They rushed out of the station one night through comparatively heavy traffic to a fire in a dump heap. Although some person may have thought it sport, firemen pointed out that there is always danger of traffic accidents due to the speed with which they must answer alarms.

Mr. and Mrs. Enmon Lovelady are moving to Abilene soon to live until Jan. 1. Lovelady is to work for the Philpott Florist and Mrs. Lovelady plans to take a course in florist work.

Oct. 9 to 15 Is Fire Prevention Week

Guard Against FIRE!

BECAUSE FIRE plays a dual role in the life of mankind, that of master and destroyer, National Fire Prevention Week has been created. During the week of Oct. 9-15, that week will be observed in Big Spring. Mayor R. V. Jones has issued a proclamation calling upon all citizens to observe the week by practicing safety in and out of home, office and factory.

The Watchword Is

"Be Careful And You'll Be Safe"

A HAZARD which takes thousands of lives annually in this country and destroys millions of dollars worth of property is a hazard which deserves the serious attention of every man, woman and child here and everywhere . . . A continuation of educational programs in fire prevention measures will go a long way in checking deaths by fire and reducing the enormous property losses incurred, which affects our insurance rates.

EVERYONE HELPS

THE housewife, the merchant, and the manufacturer can greatly aid the Big Spring Fire Department by the observance of common sense safety rules. Even though covered by fire insurance, remember that there is nothing that can pay for a lost life! To control fire and prevent devastation may cost a little time and perhaps some effort, but that little may save a life, a home, a city, and also retain our 25% good fire insurance record.

Mrs. Brooks—"We do not want our children to grow up without an opportunity of learning to appreciate some of the better things of life, and good music is certainly one of them."

Mary Burns—"Music appeals to all classes of people and all emotions of life. Therefore, music should be elevated more—appreciated more—used more. We welcome the opportunity to hear these outstanding artists."

J. H. Greene—"The efforts of the Music club in bringing to our city the better musical programs is indeed a worthy project. Our citizens should be behind them 100 per cent."

Dr. Malone—"The Music club is setting a standard for appreciation of good music. This series is a pioneering step in an exceedingly important phase of practical education."

NATIONAL FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

October 9 to 15

Do's and Don'ts to Prevent Fire

DON'T drop lighted matches. At home use deep ash trays and make sure the match is out!

DON'T let rags which have been used for oil or paint accumulate around the house. Throw them away.

DON'T use cheap electrical wiring. Make sure it is approved and safe . . . you'll benefit.

DON'T use explosive cleaning fluids. It isn't worth the risk. Explosions are dangerous.

DON'T use coins to replace "blown" fuses and remember to have all defective electrical appliances repaired.

DO make sure that your plumbing system has no gas leaks. Do this periodically. STOP FIRE!

DO the right thing when a fire starts: Call the fire department immediately. The phone number is 6.

DO your part to teach your family or employees the dangers of fire. Start immediately.

DO away with all old magazines, newspapers, etc. Such articles are potential fire hazards.

"Burned to the Ground"

How often have you heard that remark? Too, how many times have you inquired, "Have any insurance?" only to be informed: "None" . . . or "a little; not near enough to cover the loss."

We've all heard that conversation time and again — and we resolved right then that such a thing would never happen to us . . . BUT, would you be completely covered if fire, tornado or windstorm struck TODAY—would the insurance you are now carrying cover the loss? Make sure NOW that your insurance policy is planned to take care of any emergency which is liable to arise.

BE CAREFUL AND YOU'LL BE SAFE-BE INSURED and YOU'LL BE PROTECTED!

A MARGIN BETWEEN SAFETY AND TRAGEDY

The fact that Big Spring enjoys the full 25 per cent credit on its fire insurance rate by virtue of an excellent record of low fire losses should serve at all times to make the city not less vigilant against blazes, but all the more alert in a continuous fire prevention program to maintain this standing.

Prevention of fire loss is, basically, a dollars and cents proposition. A blaze is costly in more ways than one. It means loss not only to the owner of the property destroyed, but it affects insurance standings in the community and in the long run means greater expense to all payers of premiums.

Fire Prevention Week, which for 1938 opens today and runs through October 15, has been an admirable program which has achieved results. The special period each year has served to make all Texans keenly conscious of the ever-present danger of loss by fire and has encouraged such careful attention to the major causes of preventable fires that losses in the state have been materially lowered. The important fact has been impressed on the consciousness of every citizen that fire never occurs unless there is a cause for it; and it follows logically that the only practical means of reducing fire losses is to identify and remove the factors which cause fires.

This is a purpose of Fire Prevention Week, to identify the causes of fire hazards, to make the public platform or in the press, for it will be said: "We cannot allow the Nazi dictatorship to be criticized by common English politicians." Then, with the press under control, half direct, but more potent direct, with every cause of public opinion, direct or indirect, we shall be conducted on further stages of our journey.

In other words, the man who has been British Under Secretary of War, and in a quarter of a century has held half a dozen ministries, written volumes of history, and promised with unbreakable accuracy exactly what was going to happen, now says that the "peace" of Munich may mean not merely the end of Czechoslovakia and the conquest of all Europe east of the Rhine by Germany, but the end of British liberties and the conquest of British opinion by the Nazis.

Our own Administration, which has stood for the sanctity of treaties, for the non-recognition of territories acquired by force or the threat of it, for peaceful settlement by arbitration among all the interested parties, and the president, who, in Chicago even went so far as to suggest "quarantining aggressors," is now having either to explain or repudiate his own cables, so impulsively sent around the world, at the height of the "crisis," or add this country to those who tacitly accept the interpretation that what is happening in Czechoslovakia is not a military occupation, but a missionary expedition to spread peace and good will.

This would be too bad. For nothing more quickly demoralizes a nation than the lapse of public intelligence; than its servile acceptance of pious platitudes to mask ghastly realities; than its easy-going willingness to hope for the best, without even the solid foundation of an opinion as to what the best might be.

Both Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Daladier were quick to snap up the president's cables and to give President Roosevelt credit for his "persuasively phrased" and "generous contribution," and if Mr. Welles's expressed opinion is inspired—and otherwise I cannot understand why he spoke—the president is anxious to get his share of this credit.

It is now known that the British, without consulting Roosevelt, had appealed to Mussolini to intervene on the morning of September 28. The president's message was formally placed in Mussolini's hands at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of September 28, but Mr. Welles explains that its contents were known to the Italian government

On The Record

By Dorothy Thompson

(Miss Thompson's column is published as an informational and news feature. Her views are personal and are not to be construed as necessarily reflecting the editorial opinion of The Herald.—Editor's Note.)

THE PRESIDENT'S INTERVENTION

The intervention of the president in the European crisis and the intervention put upon it, apparently by the State Department, today through Mr. Sumner Welles, have entangled us in the most fateful move of generations.

Whether we had been so obviously entangled or not, the events which have occurred would drastically have affected our foreign policy and eventually—and I am sure rapidly—will affect our domestic life.

We are going to have to live in a quite different world from the one that existed prior to Munich, a world differently organized politically and economically.

But because of the intervention we have become—at least in the minds of the people of Britain and France—apologists for what has happened, and for what goes on happening with extreme velocity.

This column has said that what has happened is an international Fascist coup d'etat, and it is quite evident from the debate in the British House of Commons that the more intelligent leaders of the opposition have no illusions on this score. The coup d'etat has been carried out in the name of peace, whether it was plotted and planned, or whether it was only the inevitable denouement of a whole, long chain of events and circumstances, of past retreats, secret diplomacy, conflicting class interests, external and internal weaknesses of democracy, internationalness, and misjudgments of the nature of the opponent, is historically interesting, but not, at the moment, of prime importance.

Of prime importance is the fact that today all Europe stands approximately where Germany stood at the end of 1932, ripe and rotten for dictatorship.

What the events may mean in England was first clearly expressed on Wednesday by Winston Churchill in the House of Commons. I am glad that it was Mr. Churchill who said it, and for two reasons. I do not think it will be possible for anybody to call Mr. Churchill "Red" or a "tool of Moscow." And he has been the Cassandra of Britain for five years, and although Cassandra met a bad end, the important thing about her was that she was right. Mr. Churchill said:

"I foresee and foretell that a policy of submission will carry with it restrictions on the freedom of speech, on the freedom of debate in Parliament, on the public platform or in the press, for it will be said: 'We cannot allow the Nazi dictatorship to be criticized by common English politicians.' Then, with the press under control, half direct, but more potent direct, with every cause of public opinion, direct or indirect, we shall be conducted on further stages of our journey."

In other words, the man who has been British Under Secretary of War, and in a quarter of a century has held half a dozen ministries, written volumes of history, and promised with unbreakable accuracy exactly what was going to happen, now says that the "peace" of Munich may mean not merely the end of Czechoslovakia and the conquest of all Europe east of the Rhine by Germany, but the end of British liberties and the conquest of British opinion by the Nazis.

Manhattan by GEORGE TUCKER. NEW YORK—It develops that a body can't even go after a little local color without being hauled in by protective societies and having hot broth forced down one's throat. There was a girl about 22 years old living in an abandoned shack which was made out of piano boxes up on some off-shoot of the Bronx. It was obvious that anyone living there must be in trying circumstances. And when it became known that a young girl was attempting to wrest an existence under such conditions a wave of pity lapped against the front steps of one of the benevolent organizations of the city and forthwith a committee of well-meaning and kind ladies called on her. "But I don't want any help," protested the girl. "My dear," soothed the motherly spokeswoman, "of course you do. There,

STATE GASOLINE TAX TOTAL SETS RECORD

AUSTIN, Oct. 8 (AP)—Nomadic Texans, abetted by out-of-state tourists, paid $4,467,318 in gasoline taxes in September, a new record for that month. Comptroller George H. Sheppard said general economic conditions should indicate some decline in motor fuel tax payments and attributed increased receipts partly to efficient enforcement.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

by ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Mr. James S. Moran is leaving Hollywood but he will return, have no fear, he will return.

The two-Hollywoods and Moran—were made for each other. They are both in the amusement business, and they are equally adept at the manufacture of tall tales.

Moran is a slender young man with an overwhelming knack for dead-pan narration of astounding things. But he is also a man of action—preferably in the glare of headlines or spotlights. Born earlier, he might have rivaled Phineas T. Barnum, for whom he has "the greatest admiration." Still earlier, he could have dimmed the luster of fabulous Baron Munchausen.

Moran is the boy who recently decided it would be a fine thing to sell an icebox to an Eskimo. He did it, proving either that anything is possible or that even Eskimos can be lured into commercial traps. He came to Hollywood after that, naturally.

With him, he brought two important character actors, discovered on the hide of an Alaskan timber wolf slain in hand-to-hand combat of course—by our hero. Not only that, he sold the actors—trained felines—to Paramount to replace the famed Sam and Sadie. Sam and Sadie were those effete New Yorkers imported to bite Claudette Colbert for "Zaza." They bit but couldn't take it. Jim Moran heard of their passing, rushed down to the rescue. His own pets he claimed, were ideal for the roles. The troupeurs with artist souls undaunted by life-long snow blindness. That he sold his charges to the studio is only more remarkable because "Zaza" was already finished and they didn't NEED any felines. But that's Moran.

He first attracted crowd attention by his one-man expedition from home (Washington, D. C.) to hunt that famed "Seamaster" in San Francisco bay. He didn't catch it, but he did catch headlines.

"Live always be crazy," he says, without pausing as you expect him to, "about nutty ideas. Doing something different. Started when I was 11 years old and haven't stopped. It isn't true that I'm independently wealthy and can afford these things—I just do them anyway."

He works or used to—for a Washington recording company. But he exhibits now a wire (collected from his organization, a list: "So you want money, eh? Think we're Santa Claus? You're fired.")

That telegram, it seems, puts a sort of do-or-die aspect on Jim's newest enterprise. From the heart of a primeval Alaskan glacier, he declares, he has extracted 250 pounds of genuine glacial ice, centuries old. Preserved in dry ice, it will be transported across country to New York, there to be sold to the highest bidder among the night clubs which appreciate "the best and the rarest."

He is thinking, he says, of driving it across country himself. "And wouldn't it be awful," he says, "if I got caught in Death Valley and had to wait the nearest city to rush me more dry ice to keep my authentic glacial ice from melting?" Him—there now, Dear, don't cry. We intend to see that you have everything you need."

"But I have everything I want. I—I am all right here."

"Listen," cried the now exasperated lass, "I'm writing a book. I have a perfectly good home in Westchester. My father is a doctor. He was here this afternoon. Furthermore, I have a bank account of my own with $3,000 in it. I like it here, and you are distracting me. I appreciate your motives in coming here, but you will be doing me a greater favor if you will kindly go away and let me alone."

Meanwhile, two of our Kathleens have come cluck, cluck, clucking back to the avenue. They would be Miss Cornell and Miss Locke. Miss Locke is to play Ophelia opposite Maurice Evans in Hamlet. And Miss Cornell is to star in a new play with a Biblical setting. It's title is "Herod and Mariamne."

"The play requires a great deal of understanding of the lines," Miss Cornell believes, hence all this preparatory study. . . . And there's to be no lost time between rehearsals, because her husband is her director—Guthrie McClintic, to whom Miss Cornell has been wedded 17 years, directs all her plays. (Q) "Is he temperamental?" (A) "Miss Cornell?" (A) "Of course he is temperamental."

(Q) "Are you glad to be back?" (A) "Martha's Vineyard was wonderful, but I am glad to be back. I have so much work to do this year."

(Q) "Well what about Guthrie? Is he a considerate director?" (A) "My husband is a very wonderful director. He brings out the very best in me. I wouldn't want anyone in the theater to direct me but my husband."

Which seems to take care of that. . . .

Meanwhile Miss Locke is frantically trying to find a suitable apartment. She wants one not too far away from the theater, and one not too close to the midtown distractions. . . . She's the dark-headed little girl who gave such an amazing performance last season in "Having Wonderful Time." Now she's to have the dangerously difficult role of Ophelia against Maurice Evans' Hamlet. Evans is believed by many to be the finest Shakespearean actor on the English stage. New York went overboard on him last year, hence his reappearance on the Rialto this season.

DON'T MARRY THE MAN

By Jeanne Bowman

Chapter 11
A CONFESSION
Mentally, Kathleen began re-furnishing, decorating, modernizing the house. She confided her plans to Bridget.

Bridget waited a moment as though dreading to crush this first desire to create a home. "You'll have to let that go for a little while," she warned. "This is a rented house and you're a working girl on Sabbathical leave."

Bridget, investigating deep chests for the bedding and linen she'd been advised they held, looked up. "These are all the high heavens. They're enough moth preventative—Cleo, what are you worrying about?"

"I'm not worrying, I'm just wondering where Dad, coming from a home like this, gets his flair for color and rich fabrics. He's positively oriental in taste. Of course it could be psychological revolt—'Look!'" Bridget's arms had dipped into a chest. Now they came up dripping with cascades of colored lights, the gleam of scarlet satin, silk of peacock blue, sheen of golden velvet, brocades, tarnished metal cloth.

"Here's your answer," she told Kathleen. "These are ah-hen, and, my dear, there's a mystery in this house we have known existed."

Kathleen said nothing. She felt she was on the threshold of a new world and a word spoken, might shatter its fragile entity. Bedding was found and aired in the waning sun, then darkness. Kathleen and the girls dined before the living room hearth on bread, cheese and tea, refusing to snare the kitchen with the pack rats. Joey's contribution to the household, sprawled, jumped and roared on the hearth-stone. It wasn't too season for kittens, he explained, so he'd brought a mother cat with her latest litter now grown to formidable proportions.

"One mother cat, a cross between a tiger, and a calico, with a white vest and a few black spots thrown in for good measure, was promptly called Circe; the kittens collectively tabulated as the forty-nines."

That night Kathleen slept in the bed from which her grandparents had departed. She neither thought nor dreamed of them. Her mind was occupied with bitter truth, where she was, literally in the same building with Donald MacDonald. And he was coming into this side of the house, not to see Bridget, out to visit "daddy" Mr. Gregory. Curled into the one was a island on a vast, hard sea of icy sheets, she mapped her campaign. First on the list was control of her temper. Instead of retorting in kind, she would give that MacDonald person such sweet answers he'd be ashamed of himself.

By morning on the scene, she could turn on the charm which had reduced other men to subjection, then when she had him just where she wanted him, she'd bargain for the right-of-way.

She slept on that and awakened to a new day, a day filled with trials the first of which rested on her white bedspread and brought a shriek of terror from her. Circe was sitting there, her whiskers, spraying from her mouth with pride. Between her forepaws lay the corpulent remains of a rat. "Take it away," she screamed. "Take it away!"

Bridget hurried in yawning. "You sound like a radio announcer at an . . . eek!" She fled and Kathleen jumped from the bed, grabbed her clothing and fled after her. Circe, rat forgotten, bounding at their heels.

They took one look into the kitchen, slammed the door and breakfasted on bread, cheese and tea. The forty-nines had proven their efficiency. While Bridget swept and scrubbed, Kathleen tried washing windows. It was fun, she thought. It was like watching a photograph develop, the view outside becoming stronger, more detailed with each swipe of the cloth. And then, toes securely fastened about the rung of a chair, she sat on the sill, and frame pulled into her lap, polished the outside. Hills, the vivid colors softened by reflection, formed a gay background for her own reflection. One swipe of a cloth and her head, bound by a towel, appeared. Another swipe and brown eyes smiled back at her. A last swipe and she tipped her head back to laugh. There was a flaw in the glass and her mouth appeared like an up-turned gash reaching from ear to ear.

"I could learn to love you if you'd keep your hair tied out of sight like that—"

Kathleen nearly fell out of the window as she twisted to look down on Donald MacDonald. Three thoughts flashed through Kathleen's mind as she saw MacDonald below. An incoherent "there's something about his smile," then, "I must not lose my temper over that remark," and a final triumphant "here's my chance."

"Hello down there," she called. "Would you have me wear turbans the rest of my life?"

"Properly rowled, I might. We need a man in here. We're virtual prisoners in our own domain."

"What's wrong?" Kathleen slipped into the room to return, right side up. "Rats," she elucidated. "Dead ones. They're all over the kitchen floor. Joey brought us a brace of cats and they wanted to make a good impression."

MacDonald laughed. "Why don't you toss the remains into the garbage can?" "I wouldn't touch one with a ten foot pole," she cried. "We're nearly starved. We couldn't get in to prepare breakfast—"

She paused. MacDonald had gone into action. The sun flashed on his polished high boots as he started on the run. Up the front steps he came and when he reached the door, Kathleen was there to meet him. Both girls escorted him to the kitchen, then retreated as he disposed of the remains. They accompanied him to the second floor and Kathleen gave a vivid account of her ideas of a morning greeting. "What do you no appreciation?" child MacDonald, petting the cat who had followed them. "All she wanted was appreciation."

Spilled Petticoats
MacDonald looked around as though aware, for the first time, that he was in the Gregory house. "Why did you call this room?" he demanded of Kathleen.

Quickly MacDonald spoke. "Because Joey warned her against it. He said the spirit of the departed Gregorys might remain here and not approve of her presence."

MacDonald shook his head. "Miss Riley, were you born angry, or did it come on you gradually?" In guard, MacDonald's intervention, Kathleen swallowed and managed to smile. "It was a guess," she protested. "I merely wanted to find out what a Gregory was like."

With one look at the rat, their visitor turned on his heel. "You did," he answered. "You actually did." Kathleen gave a gasp.

Bridget gave Kathleen an agonized glance, then bowed an arm through MacDonald's and began chatting hurriedly. Wouldn't she have breakfast with them? . . . Kathleen said nothing. Yesterday, when could they visit? . . . Kathleen said nothing. That high peak to the north? . . . But . . . why stay for coffee, went you?" she concluded.

Kathleen followed with ominous calm. He'd pay for that remark. . . . Joan camped tightly behind her she planned the payment. It concluded with her pleasure in telling him it would take a snake to symbolize the MacDonalds.

Bridget was forced to leave them alone together when she went into the kitchen. Kathleen's feet, as were set in pleasant lines, but Angus Gregory's ex-secretary didn't like the way Angus Gregory's daughter was holding her hands.

MacDonald saw only the face. He smiled into it. "I've a confession to make," he conceded. "Until I saw you washing windows, I thought you were 'The Golden Girl,' incoherent."

"You're as bad as Mayme with a y. You mean incarnated," Kathleen's answer came swiftly. "I'm incoherent."

"But . . . well, but 'The Golden Girl' is a mine, how—"

"There's a girl who goes with the mine. When I first had a taste of your spirit, I thought it spoiled pettishness. She's like that."

"Oh!" Kathleen marveled at the "ignominy" of her voice. "Then you know her?"

"Not exactly, but I've read about her and heard about her until I'm sick of her. She's selfish, conceited, thinks she's a first-run vampire; in fact, she's a typical Gregory."

"And you thought I was a person like that?" exclaimed Kathleen indignantly. "I should slap you down. I suppose she has red hair. Kathleen told me the Gregorys would go for me because some old Angus had red hair. But why should my washing windows vindicate me?"

MacDonald smiled engagingly. "That girl wouldn't lift a finger to do anything worthwhile. She's utterly useless. I once met a girl who knew her and she said the only talent she had was for being and if she couldn't run the whole show she wouldn't play it at all. That's another Gregory trait. This town proves it."

WOLF, LAMB AND Slaughter Make Ripley's Page

Big Spring broke into "Believe it or Not" again Saturday when an oddity submitted six months ago by Sheriff Jess Slaughter was published in the Ripley's syndicated feature.

Under a sketch of Slaughter, Ripley had penned: OFFICER WOLF captured a LAMB and brought him to Sheriff SLAUGHTER at Big Spring, Texas.

The article referred to Deputy Sheriff Bob Wolf gaining custody of Alfred "Sonny" Lamb, gangster subsequently slain in Arkansas, and bringing him here where Sheriff Slaughter took charge.

CC DIRECTORS TO CONVENE MONDAY

Directors of the chamber of commerce will meet Monday noon at the Bettles hotel in their regular semi-monthly session.

In addition to reports on the completed Sales Crusade and routine business, directors may be called on to sanction a broad plan of Christmas promotional activities. The trade extension committee of the chamber requested this action so that it could work out the details of the plan many weeks in advance of the Yuletide.

ARKANSAS TRAVELERS MAKE A STOP HERE

Publicizing a series of things affecting Arkansas, a trio from that state stopped here briefly Saturday on a return trip from Hollywood, Calif., to Little Rock, Ark.

In the group were Miss Mildred Hines, the 1938 "Miss Arkansas Traveler," Lorena Pollard, representing the Arkansas Automobile club and chambers of commerce, and J. O. Stillington, associated with the Arkansas Democrat at Little Rock.

They advertised the Broadway of America and the new Bob Burns picture, "Arkansas Traveler."

WRITING AND READING

"STARS TO WINWARD," by Bruce and Sheridan Fahrenstock; (Harcourt, Brace: $3).

Most of the charm of "Stars to Winward" lies in the delight of its young authors, Bruce and Sheridan Fahrenstock. They were armchair sailors, like the rest of us, but by luck they were able to convert their dreams into reality.

They come, by their own account, from a gusty and rather free family. Almost from childhood they dreamed that one day they would sail to the South Seas on their own little ship. But, although by no means impoverished, the Fahrenstocks could not foot the bill for ship and expedition—and that was that.

Miracles do happen. One day the boys found a letter from a lawyer in the hall. It told them that an uncle had died and made them residuary legatees (this reads almost like a Victorian novel). The residue would not be a large fortune, but it would be enough for the South Seas trip, which was all the boys wanted anyway.

It would be a year before the money was available, and in that time the Fahrenstocks made a connection with a museum, learned lots about collecting and preserving specimens, and looked for a ship.

They found the "Director," and never regretted it, even when the ancient motor of the schooner passed out in the Panama Canal and almost foundered the expedition before it reached the Pacific. Indeed, the trip came before it got out of Long Island Sound, because the boys' father died unexpectedly a few weeks before the start.

From Panama the route led to the Galapagos, the Marquesas, Tahiti, Samoa, Fiji, the New Hebrides, Timor and up along the Asiatic coast to China. There the Fahrenstocks and their crew considerably changed, this last, from the group that started, mixed themselves up with the current war, and eventually had to leave for home. Now, however, they have another ship and quite likely
