$8.3 Billion Urban Plan Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) President Carter today announced an $8.3-billion urban strategy designed to assist distressed cities and aid healthier communities manage sturdy and efficient growth.

The urban plan involves efforts to stimulate investment and create jobs in economically troubled areas, programs to revitalize urban neighborhoods and a commitment to improve 40 existing programs.

In a policy message prepared for delivery to state and local leaders, Carter asked Congress to create a National Development Bank to provide investment subsidies for companies that build or expand in distressed areas.

He also seeks tax credits to reward businesses that hire the hard-core unemployed and firms that locate or expand in decaying areas.

The urban plan, if approved by Congress, would include $2.7 billion in additional spending for urban programs; $1 billion over 30 years for interest subsidies, and $2.2 billion for loan guarantees - not a budget item. In addition, three tax proposals would cost the Treasury about $2.4 billion.

Carter's plan involves most of his Cabinet departments along with independent agencies such as the Environmental Protection Agency and ACTION, the federal organization handling volunteer programs.

Much of Carter's urban blueprint is designed to cost no new money. An estimated $8.3 billion already goes from the federal Treasury to state and local governments, administration officials say.

An attempt to improve existing programs is a large element in the Carter plan, said Stuart Eizenstat, the president's chief domestic adviser.

"We turned the government upside down to find everything that is having an adverse impact on urban areas," he said, pointing to 160 changes in 40 federal programs.

One example he cited was a commitment to double government purchasing from minority-owned businesses.

In the past, many federal programs have hurt the cities by subsidizing sprawl. To put a stop to this, Carter is requiring that agencies prepare an urban impact analysis of major proposals.

Gas Ruling Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) The Supreme Court today postponed until sometime in its next term a decision on an important issue for the natural gas industry.

The justices said they want lawyers in a case involving removal of natural gas supplies from interstate markets to reargue the case.

Such an order apparently indicates that the justices are having trouble deciding the issue, although it provided no elaboration.

Carter Leaves Tuesday

CARACAS Venezuela (AP)-President Carlos Andres Perez says that pressing issues between the United States and Latin America as well as oil will dominate his talks Tuesday with President Carter.

In his first Latin-American visit since taking office, Carter is scheduled to spend 22 hours in Caracas, the first stop in a four-nation tour that also includes Brazil, Nigeria and Liberia.

Mozambique Flooded

MALPUTO, Mozambique (AP)-Vast flooding along the Zambezi River in central Mozambique has left at least 40 dead and more than 200,000 homeless, the official Mozambican news agency AIM reported today.

The agency described the flooding as "the worst in living memory" along the river, one of the largest in Africa. After forming the border between Rhodesia and Zambia, the Zambezi bisects Mozambique on its way to the sea.

Thousands of square miles of crops have been washed away, thousands of cattle drowned the agency reported.

Japs Protest Airport

TOKYO (AP)-Riot police stormed a blockhouse on private land near the runway of Japan's new airport today to try to remove a steel tower built on it by protesters to block the flight path. It was the third day of rioting by thousands of Japanese who oppose the new airport.

Demonstrators occupied and wrecked the airport's control tower in bloody fighting Sunday and vowed to continue their attacks on the $1 billion field, which had been scheduled to open Thursday. Airport authorities say the opening of the field at Narita 41 miles northeast of Tokyo probably will have to be delayed again.

Oil Spill Costly

BREST, France (AP)-French officials said they expect the cost of the cleanup and damage claims from the Amoco Cadiz oil spill to far exceed $30 million, the maximum insurance companies are required to pay for such a pollution disaster.

Amoco, the American oil company that owned the super-tanker, insured the ship for $12 million. The oil, owned by Shell, is insured for $20 million. Experts say there are no legal steps France can take to claim damages above $30 million, the limit set by an international agreement which France ratified.

Empain Released

PARIS (AP)-The kidnappers of Edouard-Jean Empain kept the Belgian industrialist hooded, ill-fed and chained to a bed during nine weeks in capitivity and cut off the tip of his little finger to send to authorities as proof he was being held, French police said today.

Empain, chairman of one of the Empain-Schneider industrial group, one of Europe's largest, was released on the outskirts of Paris Sunday night. He was in seclusion at his Paris apartment today.

Selecting Jury

AUSTIN (AP)-Jury selection began today for the federal firearms violation trial of Robert Kleasen, freed from Death Row in the slaying of a young Mormon missionary.

Kleasen is charged under a six-count indictment accusing him of federal firearms violations. He could go to prison for five years on each count.

Bell Hearing Set

AUSTIN (AP)-The Texas Public Utility Commission today set May 22 as the date it will begin its hearing on Southwestern Bell Telephone's request for rates that would increase its annual revenue by $214.3 million.

The commission also gave its staff until May 15 to submit independent findings on Bell's revenue requirements.

The staff typically recommends rates that are considerably below those requested by utility companies.

Referendum To Remain On Ballot

AUSTIN (AP)-A state district judge today refused to take a non-binding referendum question off the Texas Democratic Party's May 6 primary ballot that asks voters whether they favor higher interests on small loans.

Opponents of the straw vote said they may appeal the decision to the Texas Supreme Court.

A small loan industry spokesman testified today it would be a "waste of time" for them to ask the 1979 Legislature for an interest rate increase if voters approve the referendum on the May 6 ballot.

"There is no way we could get a fair hearing before the next Legislature," said Hawkings, a registered lobbyist for Beneficial Finance Companies in Texas. "We would suffer immediate harm if it even goes on the ballot."

Hawkins is a plaintiff in a suit filed against the state Democratic party by the Texas Consumer Finance Association alledging the referendum approved by the party is illegal. All county chairmen had been restrained by court order from printing the May 6 ballots until after today's hearing.

Another witness, Robert Mansker of Greenville, Hunt County Democratic chairman and a member of the state committee, said he opposed the referendum when it was first presented to a legal affairs subcommittee at the March 13 meeting of the state party committee.

"I objected to the wording of the referendum because I considered it lopsided and unfairly presented," he said.

On cross examination Mansker admitted he was a principal proponent of the horse race betting referendum that also was placed on the Democratic ballot.

Most Miners Back On Job

By The Associated Press

Most of the nation's soft coal miners put on hard hats, switched on headlamps and headed back down into the pits and shafts for the midnight and 8 a.m. shifts today for the first time in 3½ months.

Most mines reopened peacefully after settlement of the strike by 160,000 United Mine Workers members, but not all of the mines could operate. Some remained shut while 10,000 mine construction workers sought a separate agreement with coal operators. Union bargainers urged their members not to picket.

Mines in Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia remained struck as mine construction workers set up picket lines that miners refused to cross.

A spokesman for the Westmoreland Coal Co. in Virginia said the turnout for the 8 a.m. shift was "very much better than usual." He said absenteeism on Monday normally ran about 8 percent, but all but 1 percent of the workers showed up today.

Bethlehem Steel reported a good showing at its 28 mines; three mines owned by Helvita Coal in western Pennsylvania were shut; three mines in Indiana failed to open and a like number in Alabama.

In Homer City, Pa., several hundred miners were halted by four grim-faced pickets carrying small cardboard signs at the Helvetia Coal Co.'s Lucerne No. 6 portal.

Angry at losing a day's pay and the $100 return-to-work bonus, groups of miners stomped their boots on the asphalt roadway at the mine gate and shouted at the pickets.

"We went out on strike at the same time as they did and we've got the same rights to a contract as them," said James Lyon, president of the 800-member construction Local 1600, based in Ebensburg, Pa.

"We supported them and I'm sure they'll support us," Lyon said.

Two pickets outside a Island Creek Coal Co. mine in Kentucky made miners "turn around," a company spokesman said.

"We don't have a contract and that's the way it's got to be," said John Simpson, president of construction Local 1830.

Court To Rule On Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) The Supreme Court agreed today to decide whether states are free to pay unemployment benefits to striking workers.

The justices said they will hear an appeal from the New York Telephone Co. aimed at overturning a New York state law allowing payment of such benefits in strikes lasting longer than eight weeks.

Their eventual decision could have a major national impact on labor-management relations. Many states have similar laws.

New York Telephone sued the state in 1973, contending that the law allowing strikers to collect unemployment benefits was in conflict with federal laws ordering governmental neutrality in labor disputes.

Because New York's unemployment compensation payments came exclusively from employers, the phone company's suit said, the law was forcing employers to finance their own strikers.

Some $49 million in unemployment benefits were paid to some 33,000 striking members of the Communications Workers of America during a seven-month strike against New York Telephone in 1971-72.

A federal trial judge struck down the state law's provision allowing benefits for strikers. He ruled that the supremacy clause giving preference to federal laws rendered the state law unconstitutional.

The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned that ruling last November, deciding that Congress had given states the freedom to pass their own laws on such matters.

In seeking Supreme Court review, lawyers for the telephone company said the New York law represents state intervention on behalf of striking workers and "tips the economic scales in their favor."

Carpet Bids Are Sought By County

Scurry County plans to take bids for the purchase of carpeting for the offices in the new jail building.

County commissioners this morning set April 10 as the date for the bids to be opened.

Visiting Accreditation Team On WTC Campus

Members of a visiting committee representing the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools are scheduled to arrive in Snyder today for a three-day visit on the Western Texas College Campus.

The committee will observe the local college in operation in connection with reaffirmation of accreditation.

A faculty committee headed by Harry Krenek completed a self-study of WTC several weeks ago and submitted its report to the board of trustees of the college district. The visit by the committee this week is the final phase of the accreditation procedure.

The committee will hold its first meeting at a dinner session this evening in the WTC cafeteria.

Chairman of the visiting committee is Dr. John W. Teel, president of Brunswick Junior College, Ga., others are Wendell Armstrong, professor of management at Central Virginal Community College, Lynchburg, Va.; David H. Fields, assistant professor of chemistry and mathematics at Dabney S. Lancaster Community College, Clifton Forge, Va.; Dr. Merle Morgan, director, division of health at St. Petersburg Community College, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Hoyt McClure, Southern Institute of Technology, Marietta, Ga.; Winton Oldham, business manager of Lenoir Community College, Kenston, N.C.; Carolyn Pulley, coordinator of counseling, Tidewater Community College, Virginia Beach, Va.; and Clyde H. Stephens, director of learning resources, New River Community College, Dublin, Va.

Arab Diplomats Meet In Cairo

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)- Arab diplomats gathered in Cairo today to try to reunify Arab ranks now that President Anwar Sadat's peace talks with Israel have stalled.

But the five nations taking the toughest line against Egypt's peace overtures boycotted the Arab League meeting.

In Israel, the Cabinet closed ranks behind Prime Minister Menachem Begin and again unanimously endorsed his proposals for peace with the Arabs, despite U.S. pressure to soften that stand in order to revive the Egyptian-Israeli talks.

Firing continued in southern Lebanon, meanwhile, and a Swedish U.N. reconnaissance patrol was caught in a crossfire. But no injuries were reported.

In Jerusalem Sunday, Israeli Cabinet spokesman Arieh Naor said after the weekly cabinet meeting the ministers still believe Begin's proposal for Palestinian autonomy on the West Bank of the Jordan River and a continuation of Israeli control until some future time is a fair basis on which to continue peace talks with Egypt.

The spokesman said the cabinet unanimously endorsed Begin's handling of his recent talks with President Carter, in which the prime minister insisted Israel will not withdraw from the West Bank of the Jordan River and that Jewish settlements established by Israel in the occupied territories must remain.

Reward Offered In Oilfield Fire Case

Arson is suspected in a Borden County oilfield fire in which a Pool-Universal servicing unit was destroyed, reported a company official.

A $5,000 reward is being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the culprits, said W.D. Birdwell, district manager of Pool-Universal.

The $150,000 unit was discovered burning Saturday morning by employees reporting to work. Birdwell said. The unit was located approximately eight miles north of Vealmoor.

Persons having information concerning the incident, said Birdwell, should contact Pool-Universal or the Texas Rangers.

crime isn't news

The high price of coffee is no longer news to American readers, but the rarified height it has reached elsewhere did rate a recent item.

Unavailable for a time, coffee has reappeared in Soviet stores at a price equivalent to $12.73 per pound. That is more than four times what it cost before it disappeared from the shelves last year.

In the West, this would be taken as a classic case of explosive inflation. But not in the Soviet Union, since it's a matter of Marxist dogma that inflation is not supposed to happen in a Communist society.

But then, a lot of other things are not supposed to happen in a Communist society - such as crime.

Which must make numbers of Soviet citizens who are victims of muggings, beatings and worse wonder exactly what it is then that is happening to them.

Street crime is reported on the increase in the Soviet Union, to the concern of authorities unsure as to how to prevent its spread and to deal with its causes.

As detailed at length in a New York Times report, much of the violence is committed by young people, under 18, many of them school dropouts and unemployed. They operate in street gangs led by older youths and prey on old people, women and children. The gangs make their own weapons, knives and zip guns, and prowl parks and lonely nighttime streets for likely victims.

Urbanization and the rapid growth of industrial centers, turning much of a onetime rural population into city dwellers with both parents often working and a consequent weakening of traditional strong family bonds, is considered a primary cause of rising youth crime.

It sounds much like what the United States and other Western nations have experienced.

But there is one major difference in the Soviet situation. Crime or even the existence of a crime problem is not news as far as the Soviet press is concerned.

In the United States in particular, media publicizing of crime is often blamed for inciting others to criminal acts and compounding the problem.

The opposite is the Soviet case. It is official policy to keep all unsolved crime out of newspapers and broadcasts to avoid alarming the public. As a consequence, however, an uninformed public is easier to victimize. Unaware of danger, many potential victims venture into areas the prudently informed would avoid.

It appears that what some Soviet citizens don't know can indeed hurt them.

It has been just about a year since President Carter told Congress the nation's energy situation had deteriorated to the point where it had become the moral equivalent of war. This dramatic characterization of the problem has not been matched with action.

Opinions differ concerning the explanation. One view is that the petroleum industry's lobby has sold influential Senators on the validity of its claim that the Administration program is based on the concept that the end of dependence on oil and natural gas as a major source of energy is in sight and rationing scarcity is in order.

Another view is that the Administration loaded its program with tax legislation, social change and expansion of government regulation at the expense of seeking increased production and development of alternate sources of energy.

In any case there has been universal disregard of need of the urgency implied in the President's message to Congress. If we were in a war situation and went about the job of winning it with as much confusion as we have approached the energy problem the enemy would have won long ago. So the declaration that the nation's energy crisis is the moral equivalent of war must have been no more than a figure of speech.

You know why I'm frustrated today?

I just figured out I've gone through life frying square bacon in a round skillet. When I finally found a square skillet, I was still stuck with four round burner units. It's the story of my life.

In 28 years of keeping house I have never had a "standard" window. Never had a "standard" ironing board. Never had a chair that would fit into a "standard" slipcover.

In trying to match the white paint on my dining room walls, I discovered it was especially mixed by a man who got out of the paint business and is sitting cross-legged in the mountains of the Himalayas trying to find out what is life. He took the formula for my dining room paint with him.

The square butter keeper in my refrigerator does not accommodate my little round tubs of butter. Celery has to be folded to fit into the vegetable crisper.

They were having a wonderful sale on those carpet kits that contain enough carpet to cover a standard 6 by 9 bathroom. My bathroom measures 6-3¾ by 9-4½.

I have the kind of sweeper bags that can only be gotten from the wholesale distributors of the sweeper, who are closed at 3 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and closed all day Saturday, Sunday, and Monday.

With regularity, I throw away the top of the coffee unit in my percolator. With regularity, I send off to a company behind the Iron Curtain to have it replaced.

I always have the washer and dryer where the first thing they ask me is the serial number. I own the last models off the assembly line to have the serial number on the bottom.

My open stock dishes were closed out for lack of interest and I don't think I've ever owned a car where anything on it was standard and didn't have to be ordered during a truck strike.

My latest swimming upstream adventure involved a bag of white pebbles for my flower beds. The bag said, "These pebbles will cover an area 8 by 10 feet." My area measured 7¼ by 9¾. I was in business.

The first bag, when distributed, looked like the trail of Hansel and Gretel. The second bag looked like Pigeon droppings. The third bag helped.

Six bags later, the area began to fill in. For the money I could have bought Mt. Rushmore. I was so depressed I put six round cookies into my round mouth. Some things were meant to be.

in washington

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) - All too often, a philosophically desirable objective is deemed pragmatically unattainable by the powers that be in the country.

It is a pleasant change, therefore, to see a marriage of moral and practical imperatives in the Pentagon's recent decision to seek congressional repeal of existing legal restrictions on the role of women in the military.

Women's groups and their allies on Capitol Hill have long sought an end to prohibitions against the assignment of women to combat jobs, a ban which has sharply limited both the quantity and quality of military positions open to women.

Until this year, the military establishment itself had stubbornly resisted such pressures despite repeated studies showing women could assume far more jobs than they are presently permitted to perform.

But Pentagon planners have now done an about-face on the issue as a result of the rising costs and dwindling recruitment pool of the all-volunteer military. The reasons for the decision to expand the number of women in the service and the career opportunities open to them were outlined most clearly in a Brookings Institution study published last year.

As the study demonstrated, there simply won't be enough qualified young men available in the future to sustain the enlistment levels required by the military. Between now and 1985, the number of 18-year-old males is expected to decline by 15 percent. By 1992, the fall-off will reach 25 percent.

The military could, of course, lower its standards to meet enlistment quotas. Or it could raise, still further, the pay and fringe benefits which help lure recruits into the service.

The first course, however, raises serious questions about the effectiveness of the armed services, while the second would result in staggering cost increases at a time when military pay and fringes are already viewed as excessive by many in Congress and the public.

The simplest way to keep the armed services a male preserve at a cost the country can afford is a return to the draft. But that is politically repugnant, and has been ruled out at least under present peacetime conditions.

Repealing prohibitions against combat roles for women will not put females in the foxholes. What it will do, if approved by Congress, is open up hundreds of jobs - and career advancement opportunities - now closed to women, especially in the Air Air Force and Navy.

At present, the Brookings study found, only 25 percent of all enlisted positions in the military are open to women. Nearly half, 48 percent, are closed to women because of legal restrictions or a particular service's interpretation of the law, and 27 percent are reserved exclusively for men to insure career development, assignment rotation or other managerial purposes.

Yet the Brookings analysis showed that women, who now constitute five percent of the armed forces, could potentially fill one-third of all enlisted slots without any radical changes in current Pentagon practices and policies.

Would more women sign up if military career opportunities were broadened? The answer is almost certainly yes. For one thing, a woman in the service earns far more, on the average, than her civilian counterpart, and the gap widens the longer she stays in uniform.

In addition, while the services are already experiencing difficulty filling enlistment quotas with what they regard as highly qualified males, they have barely tapped the recruitment pool of well-qualified women.

It won't be easy to persuade Congress to lift the ban on combat-related roles for women. It wasn't easy for the Pentagon to decide such a move is needed. But the future of the all-volunteer military is riding on the outcome.

carter gets bad marks

NEW YORK (AP)-The economic record of the Carter administration so far has been a lot better than the performance of some other recent administrations. But the public doesn't see it that way.

Worried about inflation, they are giving Carter some of the worst marks of any president in recent years. The Michigan survey of consumer attitudes, released today, sums it up in these words:

"In February 1978, just 12 percent rated the government as doing a good job, and 26 percent rated the government as doing a poor job.

These figures, the surveyers said, represented a complete erasing of confidence gains in government economic policy recorded in early 1977.

The deterioration is remarkable for at least two reasons: first, it suggests people are disillusioned regarding Carter's promises: second, it comes amidst a fairly strong economic performance.

The job picture in particular has improved sharply, with the unemployment rate of 6.1 percent last month representing an almost spectacular decline from the 7.7 percent rate just a year earlier.

The public is aware of this too, as the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center shows. Though low, the public's confidence that the job market will continue to improve is rising.

For some reason, though, the public doesn't credit Carter. Otherwise, how does one explain the lowered confidence in his overall economic performance?

Fear of inflation is one explanation. The American public has little faith that the administration has the price spiral under control - and perhaps even feels the administration is fueling it by its actions.

The mean expected price increase for the next 12 months, as measured in February, was 7.8 percent, "the highest expected rate of inflation recorded among consumers since the recession years of 1974-1975."

The Michigan surveyers also matched the fear of unemployment with fear of inflation, and found an increasing emphasis on the latter. Sixty-two percent named inflation as the worse of the two fears.

One can hardly notice what appears to be a very curious public tendency - a failure to credit the administration for its accomplishment on jobs, and a tendency to blame it for expected higher prices.

The real problem of the administration, therefore, might be its inability to convince the public that it has a coherent, aggressive plan for dealing with the economy. A matter of packaging, perhaps.

The president had said he would publicly address himself to that mood last week by announcing positive steps to combat price rises. And then he didn't presumably because of high level disagreements.

The likely consequence of that failure is to reinforce the image of an administration without an anti-inflation program - without a program to deal with what the surveys show is a big and growing fear.

Alan: "On many occasions we have criticized declarers for playing too fast. That doesn't mean that a winner must make a production number of every hand."

Oswald: "West opened the king of clubs and continued with the ace and queen. South ruffed and asked himself that key question: How can I make this hand? He had lost two clubs. He had to lose a diamond sometime. He couldn't afford to let the king of trumps score against him."

Alan: "Then South played out the ace-king and trey of spades. He ruffed the third spade in dummy and led the eight of trumps. East false carded with the five. South thought for one second: said 'nice try,' rose with his ace, dropped West's singleton king and was home with the rubber."

Oswald: "South didn't know that West held that singleton king, but West had bid both minor suits and followed to three spade leads. He could not hold more than one heart. Hence, South's only chance was to find the singleton king."

Lake Amistad Area May Be Haven For Gamblers

CIUDAD ACUNA, Mexico (AP)-A Mexican government official says the resort area near Lake Amistad on the border near Del Rio, Texas, could ride a combination of relaxed religious views and a sagging economy into status as a haven for gamblers.

Jesus Ramon, a spokesman for the governor of the Mexican state of Coahuila, said horse and dog betting could be followed by Las Vegas-style casinos before the year is out.

The Lake Amistad area is one of those being considered for such a venture, Ramon said.

He told the San Antonio Express and News horse and dog betting would probably be the first step.

"Top officials are beginning to consider it," Ramon said. "The top people in government have commented it is not impossible to open more dog tracks.

"I think it would be done in stages," Ramon said. "I think we would have horse racing and dog racing first. The results would then be analyzed and then the possibility of casino gambling would be considered."

Elias Cardenas, director of tourism for Coahuila, said legalized gambling is also being considered by other Mexican cities.

"I think they may be making studies in Acapulco," Cardenas said. Ramon said Canoun and Baja California were also looking at the idea.

"The government would be most likely to look for resort places which are already functioning, which have rooms and hotels, but need some economic help," he said.

Pari-mutual betting is currently legal in some Mexican cities, but Juarez, across the Rio Grande from El Paso, Texas, is the only one located along the Texas border.

"Things have become more relaxed as far as the Catholic Church is concerned," Ramon said. "The Mexican public is open to the idea of expanded gambling. There is a need for work. I think that is the key to the question."

Bess Truman Is Hospitalized

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) Bess Truman, the 93-year-old widow of former President Harry S. Truman, is reported in satisfactory condition at the Research Medical Center.

She entered the hospital Saturday for a routine checkup. Last June, Mrs. Truman was in the hospital for two weeks of tests after suffering a fall at her Independence home.

Womack Supports Hike-Bike

Once again, Bob Womack, owner of Western Auto, has pledged his support to the Hike-Bike for Retarded Citizens, reported organizers of the event.

A three-speed bicycle has been purchased from Womack by the Youth Association for Retarded Citizens and will be presented to the elementary student (5th and 6th grade only) raising the most money in the 25-mile hike-bike.

Pledge sheets and information concerning the event to be held Saturday, April 8, may be obtained by calling Debra Watts, 573-8070, or Barbara Miller, 573-7271.

PREPARATIONS MADE — Pictured with Bob Womack is Shawna Stipe, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Stipe. They are displaying a bicycle that will be awarded to the winning elementary student in the Hike-Bike for Retarded Citizens.

Officials Warned Of Metergate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)-A grand jury foreman says he warned the mayor and police chief six years ago of possible criminal wrongdoing in the parking meter division where a $3 million scandal is brewing.

William Goetze said Sunday that he met with then-Mayor Joseph Alioto and Police Chief Donald Scott in 1972 to discuss a grand jury report critical of the meter setup.

Goetze said Scott ordered an investigation, but he never heard what came of it.

The former jury foreman's remarks came after 16 of the 17 employes of the parking meter department were arrested Friday. Ten of those arrested were accused of stealing at least $3 million in coins from the curbside machines over a six-year period. All 16 were accused of embezzlement by working four-hour days when they were paid for full-time work.

Goetze said the 6-year-old grand jury report, which was not made public, "was enough to curl your hair." He called it a "clearcut indictment of the parking meter collection process."

Goetze, a Bank of America official, said he was assured by Alioto that two persons went to jail as a result.

Neither Alioto nor Scott could be reached for comment.

Should Modest Teen Be Given Privacy?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for your understanding reply to that 13-year-old girl who said she nearly died of embarrassment when taking gang showers after gym. I hope her mother follows your advice and goes to the principal to demand some privacy for her daughter.

I was raised to be modest, and showering with other girls was a terrible ordeal for me. I'm married now and have a child, and I'm still modest.

FRESNO MOM

DEAR MOM: Thanks, but most of my mail on the shower problem said, "You're all wet!" Some samples:

DEAR ABBY: Instead of sympathizing with that shy girl, you should have encouraged her to examine her reasons for being ashamed of her body. Your answer was kind, but dumb. If she ever marries, she'll be the type who undresses in the closet and can't make love with the lights on.

NO HANG-UPS IN HOLYOKE

DEAR ABBY: I know exactly how that 13-year-old girl felt because I felt the same way, but it was worse for me because I was a boy!

Not only could I not gang shower, I couldn't even strip in front of other boys, so on gym days I wore my gym shorts under my pants.

I should have faced the fact that I had a problem and taken measures to overcome it in my youth. But I didn't, and it hung on for 15 years. You should have advised that shy girl to get counseling.

CHICKEN

DEAR ABBY: Good grief! Why did you give comfort to that young girl who was ashamed of her body? If she doesn't get over it, between her natural instincts and her inhibitions, she's sure to wind up on a psychiatrist's couch.

Our kids were brought up in a nudist park, and they all have healthy attitudes about nudity and sex.

BODIES ARE BEAUTIFUL

DEAR ABBY: I must disagree with your answer to the teenager who hated group showers. I, too, was terribly embarrassed when confronted with group showers in junior high. My mother wanted to go to school to defend my right to privacy, but I begged her not to because I was afraid the other kids would tease me if I got special treatment. Now I'm glad she didn't go, because by the end of high school I overcame my feeling of "shame" about my body.

NOT ASHAMED OF ME

DEAR NOT: Let's hear from a Miami reader who tells how the problem was solved at her school:

DEAR ABBY: There are always a few girls who are bashful about being seen naked in the shower, so our gym teacher lets us shower in our underwear. Then we change into dry underclothes in the toilet booth where there's complete privacy.

LILY

And one for the other side:

DEAR ABBY: Nobody, boys or girls, should be forced to go naked in front of others. That's the trouble with this modern world. Everybody has become so bold and brazen they are letting it all hang out. It's disgusting!

Tigers Win Local Baseball Meet! Five Named To All-Tourney Team

TOP PLAYER — Scott Crenwelge, Tiger first baseman, was one of five Snyder players named to the Snyder Baseball Tournament all-tourney squad. SHS Athletic Director Roy Carter also handed awards to Tracy Witherspoon, Mitch Mackey, Alvin Ollison and Richard Crayton from Snyder. See related story. (SDN Staff Photo)

Coach Albert Lewis' Tigers blasted Levelland 11-6, edged Lubbock Coronado 8-7, and drilled Kermit 13-5 over the weekend to grab the Snyder Baseball Tournament championship here.

The fiesty Cats, who upped their season record to 11-3 in the process, also named five players to the all-tournament field of ten.

Saturday's final, which got underway at Moffett Field nearly two hours late, was a question of how quick Snyder could dump a tough but weary Kermit crew. Having shot down two previous opponents earlier in the day, Kermit was unable to put together a ready defense, and the Tigers slammed 15 hits over, under and between the foe.

Kermit scored the first run of the evening as Nash, a designated hitter walked to first base. E Rivera also managed a stroll, and with two runners on, teammate Leo Baucom powered a run-scoring single.

Snyder countered with a trio of runs in the second innings, and never trailed after that point. Nine more runs in the second frame gave the Tigers a 12-1 lead, but the 10-run rule could not go into effect until five innings had been played.

Tracy Witherspoon, all-tournament, opened the bottom of the third with a single after Alvin Ollison, another all-tourney player, struck out. Scott Crenwelge, yet another all-tournament man for the Tigers, slammed into an error-aided double to put runners on second and third.

Then Mitch Mackey — still, another Snyder all-tournament player - slapped a single to drive in Witherspoon. Sid Everton, who is a pitcher picked up a save against Coronado earlier in the day, drilled a single to push in Crenwelge. David Zajicek knocked a double next, and Mackey and Everton both crossed the plate for Snyder. Zajicek, a designated hitter, reached third base on a couple of passed balls, and David Lee bunted him home for the eighth Snyder run seconds later.

Lee tried the trick of stealing home minutes later, but came up with the Tiger's second out of the frame when an alerted Baucom tagged him out.

Third inning action was not over yet, however. Dray Sikes was safe at first on an error and Richard Crayton—the fifth all-tournament player for Snyder—knocked an error-aided double. An overthrow to third base scored Sikes.

Snyder scored three more runs as Ollison singled in Crayton, followed by a Witherspoon single and a Crenwelge base hit, which drove in the two runners.

In the fourth set, Kermit managed four runs. Lewis pulled starting hurler Mike Hicks (0-0) and revitalized the Tiger infield with the addition of left-hander Mackey. Mackey, a junior, allowed the foursome of runs, but managed to put together a tougher performance in the final two innings to close out the Kermit scoring and net his fourth win of the season.

Snyder came back with two runs in the fourth inning, one by Sikes and the other by Lee. In the bottom of the sixth, Lee was thrown out a first, but Sikes got on an error and stole second to gain scoring position.

Crayton struck out, but a passed ball on the final strike shuffled Sikes to third base. Next-up Alvin Ollison slapped a shot through the second baseman, and with Sikes touching home the 10-run rule went into effect, ending the final game.

Saturday's other results include—at 10:30, Kermit edged Lamesa 4-2; in the 12:30 game Snyder scored six first-inning runs to nip Lubbock Coronado 8-7; in the 2:30 game Kermit eeked past Levelland 3-2; and in the scheduled-for-4:30 game Levelland downed Coronado 9-8.

In overall results, Snyder took the championship with an 3-0 mark, followed by Kermit 2-1, Levelland 1-2, Cornado 1-2, and Lamesa, 1-2.

In addition to Snyder's Crayton, Crenwelge, Mackey, Witherspoon and Ollison, five other players received all-tournament awards. Kermit placed Baucom and Montie Wren on the squad, while Levelland's Juan Martinez, Lamesa's Keith Lee and Cornado's Gene Segrest were also picked.

Kentucky Pride Needs Victory Over Duke

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Kentucky, with its stoical seniors and pressure-ridden coach, squares off with young, loosey-goosey Duke, paced by teenagers Mike Gminski and Gene Banks, tonight in the NCAA Basketball Championship game at the Checkerdome.

For Kentucky, victory is a must. "The only way we can succeed this year is to win the NCAA Championship," said Wildcats Coach Joe Hall. "This has been a season without celebration for us because so much was expected of this team. It's strange in an academic situation to have this pressure."

But that's the way it is at Kentucky, particularly this season with a veteran ballclub that includes seniors Jack Givens, Rick Robey, Mike Phillips and James Lee. This quartet made it to the NCAA finals three years ago, won the National Invitation Tournament two years ago and got as far as the regional finals last year. But none of that matters in the eyes of the rabid Wildcat boosters.

"Sure, we've had a lot of pressure at Kentucky," admitted Robey. "It's been a hard grind. But we've dedicated ourselves to winning the big title this year. We've saved up our good times. We'll have them next week."

Hall, who knows he's under the gun and doesn't much like it, was asked Sunday if he was thinking about resigning after the playoffs.

"I couldn't possibly answer that now," he said. Pressed for a clarification Hall added: "I don't know. I just don't know."

Kentucky heads into the title game with a 29-2 record and a 12-game winning streak. A barometer of the Wildcats' overall talent is that they have not really put it all together lately and have been able to win anyway. Sophomore guard Kyle Macy got them through the regionals with his heady play, outside shooting and clutch foul shots. Givens and sixth man Lee took over Saturday in the 64-59 win over Arkansas.

To win tonight, Kentucky will have to get more production from their 6-foot-10 goal posts, Robey and Phillips, who had just 13 points between them against Arkansas. Kentucky also will have to shut down the Duke fast break, either by controlling the boards or by beating the Blue Devils down court.

Rangers Win Again!

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)-Jon Matlack and Ferguson Jenkins combined for a six-hitter Sunday and the Texas Rangers held on for a 3-2 exhibition baseball victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

The game was knotted in the seventh inning, but rookies Nelson Norman and Bobby Thompson singled and Claudell Washington lofted a sacrifice fly to score Norman from third base with the game winner.

The Rangers raised their Grapefruit League record to 11-5, while the Reds dropped to 8-8.

Texas jumped to a 2-0 lead in the third on a single by Mike Hargrove and doubles by Bert Campaneris and Al Oliver.

Cincinnati scored once in the fifth and once in the ninth.

It was the fourth one-run victory of the spring for Texas, which has yet to lose a single-run decision this year.

Owners May Aid Finley

OAKLAND (AP)-Major league baseball owners might be able to provide the key to unlock the snafu which has prevented the Oakland A's from moving to Denver, an official says.

Bob Kennedy, general manager of the Chicago Cubs, said Sunday there is a possibility the owners could kick in more than the $1 million they have agreed to pay to help the A's out of their lease.

"I would think we'll have a decision by tomorrow (Monday) afternoon," said Kennedy, a former manager of the Oakland club.

The Oakland Coliseum reportedly is demanding $3 million to allow the A's out of their lease. In addition to the owners' already committed $1 million, A's owner Charles Finley is to pay $1 million.

Kennedy's idea, which he said he has discussed with Buzzie Bavasi, general manager of the California Angels, is to have the 26 owners contribute about $7,000 each for seven years to make up the difference.

Lee Sparks East By West Cagers

ST. LOUIS (AP)-Butch Lee, after riding the bench for nearly half a period, knew what to do when he returned.

The irrepressible Marquette whiz, college basketball's player of the year, crammed 18 points into the final 11½ minutes and steered the East to a 93-87 victory in Sunday's 16th Coaches All-Star game.

Lee, who scored 11 points before intermission, bided his time early in the second half as the West, employing a full-court press, wiped out a 50-37 East lead.

But then, after Rickey Lee of Oregon State gave the West a 68-65 edge, Lee returned and took matters into his own hands.

"He (East Coach Frank McGuire) wanted me and Wayne Radford to have the ball," Lee said. "We were the guards, and he wanted us to have it as much as possible."

Proving an apt pupil, Lee marked his return with a 20-foot jumper a steal and a layup, restoring the upper hand for his team. The West battled back, but Lee's reverse layup with 4:49 left extinguished its last real threat.

Holmes Decisioned Over Ernie Shavers

LAS VEGA, Nev. (AP)-His trunks were split, but the decision was unanimous for Larry Holmes in his fight against Earnie Shavers.

"I didn't care," said Holmes of the fact that for three of the 12 rounds Saturday he was not a well-dressed fighter. "I would have fought without trunks."

That would have been a television first, but it wouldn't have helped Shavers. Holmes did everything but knock out the power puncher, and he almost did that in the closing seconds of the final round.

It was a masterful exhibition, and it probably earned the unbeaten Holmes a title shot at Ken Norton, the World Boxing Council heavyweight champion.

"Tomorrow," said Holmes, when asked when he would be ready to face Norton. "But that's not the point. How soon will Norton be ready?"

Terry Takes 2nd In Hurdles...

Cats 5th In ABC

BIG SPRING — Snyder tracksters took fifth place in a field of eight teams at the annual ABC Relays held here Saturday.

The Tigers, who nailed down two seconds and a couple of thirds, posted 68 points. Host Big Spring won the meet with 182, followed by Lubbock Estacado 149, Brownfield 137, Odessa High 127, Snyder, Lubbock High 63, Sweetwater 63 and Lamesa 40.

Jeff Terry managed a second-place time of 15.5 in the 120 high hurdles to pace the Tigers. Snyder's other second-place finish was garnered by the 880 relay team, which ran a mark of 1:32.7.

OVER THE TOP — Snyder's Randy Courtney shows his skill in the high jump during Saturday's ABC Relays in Big Spring. Courtney placed third with his final effort of 6-2, though the Tiger basketball star has jumped a 6-8 effort before. Snyder finished fifth in the competition. (SDN Staff Photo By Bill McClellan)

In other meet action, Randy Courtney fell far below his best of 6-8 to take third in the high jump with a 6-2 effort. Thomas Selmon leaped 27-7¼ to net third in the long jump. Also taking third was the 440 relay team, which ran a 44.1.

Carl Humble and Keith McClain placed fourth and fifth respectively in the 330 intermediate hurdles. Humble also noted a sixth place effort in the 120 highs.

The sophomore distance medley took a fifth place standing with their effort of 12:30.5. An effort of just over 9 minutes garnered the sophomore two-mile relay team fourth place in that event.

Next action for Snyder boys will be the Indian Relays held April 1 in Seminole. The Snyder Invitational, hosted by Coach Ken Housden's girls team, will also be held in Snyder on April 1.

Green Grabs Heritage

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP)-Hale Irwin, one of a number of self-destructing challengers, may have summed it up best in the wind-blown wreckage of the Heritage Golf Classic.

"I would like to thank my fellow competitors," Irwin said, striaght-faced as could be, "for falling on their butts and allowing me to finish second. I don't feel that I deserve it, but I'll accept it."

Winner Hubert Green was a little more diplomatic about one of the great mass collapses in recent golf history.

"Some fine, quality golfers had their troubles out there," Green said after he'd successfully bored his low, line-drive shots through a fickle, changing wind that destroyed the confidence and composure of some of golf's greatest names.

Hubert came from five shots off the pace Sunday with a solid, 4-under-par 67 and won by 3 strokes.

Miles apart

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR BLAKER: I have been involved in a long distance romance for two years. A few months ago, we decided to get married even though we have never really spent any time together. We have overcome the 2,000-mile separation by writing daily letters and talking on the phone every Christmas.

I met Bill when I was visiting my aunt in a small, mid-western town. He was the minister and I remember feeling interested when my aunt mentioned he was a bachelor.

We talked to him as we left the church and I asked my aunt to find out if he would like to begin a correspondence with me. Several months later we began writing. We became enthralled with each other as we discovered how much we had in common.

I suggested we meet last month but he was hospitalized with high blood pressure and is still recuperating. I would like to visit him but I am afraid of being too forward. Maybe I should just wait and go ahead with the marriage.

DEAR READER: If you marry him "sight unseen," you may discover you are miles apart — figuratively as well as literally — after it is too late. That is, of course, unless you plan to conduct a long-distance marriage.

Letters can reflect an individual's likes, dislikes, fears and dreams. But they can never reveal a person's style of relating to others. You must have wondered: What is Bill really like?

Long distance communication also encourages deception as each person strives to place himself or herself in the best possible light. Perhaps you both fear you have created idealized pictures of yourselves and are avoiding the moment when you meet and discover the truth.

Are you afraid of being too forward? Or is that merely a disguise for your apprehensions about really getting to know Bill? After all, you did visit your aunt two years ago. Why haven't you been back?

Bill's anxieties and doubts seem to be masquerading as high blood pressure. Was the timing of his attack merely a coincidence or was he experiencing a high level of stress in anticipation of your arrival?

My advice is NOT to visit him now while he is recuperating. (His doctor has probably advised him to avoid stressful situations.) Instead, use the medium that has worked so well for you in the past, the pen.

Tell him about your fears of actually meeting him after all this time. Include an example of something you think will surprise him when you meet. Suggest that he may have similar fears and end by concluding that these fears may be creating a barrier in your relationship.

If you never hear from him again — or if he experiences another attack of high blood pressure — you can bet you are engaged to a man who feels threatened in any relationship with a woman unless she is at least 2,000 miles away. At this point, you will probably want to re-evaluate your commitment.

If, however, you discover you are still interested in Bill, I would suggest you re-evaluate your own need for distance in relationships. Perhaps you should consider seeking professional counseling.

Jam Museum

DETROIT (AP)-Paper cutouts aren't just for kids.

When the Detroit Institute of Arts staged a six-week exhibition of paper cutouts recently, nearly 80,000 visitors - mostly adults - jammed the museum.

The exhibition of 58 colorful cutouts by the late French painter Henri Matisse drew rave notices from critics and the public alike.

Mine Owners Will Feel Effects Of Strike First

By DAVE TABOLT
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP)-The first red ink to tally the coal strike's billion dollar losses will show up in the books of the mine owners, from businessmen with a single mine to some of the nation's largest corporations.

The owners include oil and steel giants, utilities, chemical and fertilizer producers, aircraft manufacturers and insurance companies, and their losses will show up as early as the first quarter earnings report next month.

It will take longer for consumers to feel the effects of big company losses, but price increases from the United Mine Workers' longest strike can be expected for cars, farm products, petroleum-based goods and utilities in some areas.

"The fact is that anybody who derives the bulk of his earnings from coal is going to get butchered," said Joel Price, a stock analyst.

"Everybody who is a UMW company is going to lose money in the first quarter. That's a safe statement."

It's too early to tell what these losses will total, but the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, the industry bargaining arm, says that since the strike began Dec. 6, 120 million tons of coal production has been lost, representing revenues of up to $2.8 billion in direct sales.

The direct economic loss is boosted to $3.5 billion when railroads, which might have earned $660 million from hauling coal, are added to the list, according to the BCOA.

Top 10 Beauties Over 30

NEW YORK (AP)-After what it says took months of consideration, Harper's Bazaar has named its 10 most beautiful American women. Not one is younger than 30.

Those named have spent thousands of hours as performers or models, the magazine noted.

The 10 beauties: Candice Bergen, 31; Diahann Carroll, 42; Faye Dunaway, 37; Princess Grace of Monaco, 48; Lena Horne, 60; Lauren Hutton, 33; Farrah Fawcett-Majors, 31; Ali MacGraw, 39; Elizabeth Taylor, 46, and Cheryl Tiegs, 30.

RUSH HOUR TRAFFIC IN FLUVANNA — The 5 p.m. traffic, or lack of it, posed no problems for Christi Ballard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ballard, who was spotted rolling down the main street on her rather unusual vehicle.

Three Rotan Students On Honor Lists

ROTAN-Three local women have been recognized for superior academic achievement at their respective universities.

Lisa Hale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hale, is on the dean's list for the fall semester at the University of Texas in Austin where she had a 3.66 grade point average out of a possible 4.00.

Lynn Allen of 797 McArthur St. in Rotan was among those on the regular dean's list at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcus. To make this list she had to maintain an overall B average.

Brenda Hinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garvis Hinson, has been accepted by a nursing honor society at West Texas State University in Canyon.

Miss Hinson had to have a 3.0 grade point average out of a possible 4.0 and be in the top one-third of her class to qualify as a candidate for the society.

Meeting On Spray Plans At Fluvanna

Information on changes in the fall spray program for producers in the Fluvanna area will be discussed at a meeting in the Fluvanna Community Center at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Ed Dean, Plains Cotton Growers, and Jim Lesser, Area Extension Entomologist, will discuss the changes and other aspects of the fall diapause program for the Fluvanna area and others under the High Plains Cotton Growers spray area.

Producers in the Fluvanna area have been urged to attend since it will affect each cotton grower in the area.

Three Hurt In Mishap

A two-vehicle wreck Friday afternoon sent three people to Cogdell Memorial Hospital for treatment of what were thought to be minor injuries.

Lenvell Leonard Koening, 60, of rural Snyder, Sharla Sturdivant, 13, and Cindy Sturdivant, 16, both of Big Spring, were treated at Cogdell and released.

Investigating highway patrolmen reported that the Sturdivant girls were passengers in a 1974 Ford driven by Koening that was in collision with a 1973 International pickup driven by Leverett Love Lewis of Snyder.

The mishap took place about seven-tenths of a mile south of Union on Farm to Market Road 1609 Friday about 3:20 p.m.

C-City Council To Tour Projects

COLORADO CITY-A tour of completed water-works and sanitary sewer improvements will kick off the 5 p.m. City Council meeting tomorrow.

The meeting will then reconvene at City Hall and a workshop session will begin with proposed changes in the 1978-79 budget being discussed.

The council will then study the possibility of obtaining bids on group and health insurance and will award bids for Blocks 114 and 115.

OBITUARIES

Carl Voss Sr.

Funeral service was set for 2:30 p.m. today at the 37th Street Church of Christ for Carl Voss Sr., 75. He died at 7 p.m. Saturday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Pat Abbananto, minister of the church, was to officiate, and burial was to follow in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A native of Nolan County, he was a retired farmer. He married Laura Dear on Nov. 3, 1920, in Sweetwater. She survives.

Also surviving are a son, Carl Voss Jr. of Snyder, five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

M. Husted

Funeral service was set for 4 p.m. today in the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel for Mahlon Husted, 70, who died at 1 a.m. Sunday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital. Steve Peace was to officiate and burial was to be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

He was a native of Erath County. Surviving are his wife, Ruby, of the home; a step-daughter, Mrs. G.A. Bohanna of Snyder; a sister, Ethel Holder of Fort Worth, and two grandchildren.

Merritt Rites

Funeral service was held at 10 a.m. today in the Bell-Seale Funeral Home chapel for Lester Merritt, 71, who died Friday night.

Clarence Minton officiated at the funeral service, and burial was in Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A retired painter, he is survived by a sister, Alpha Watson of DeWitt, Ark., and several cousins.

Annie Smith

Graveside rites and burial have been set for 2 p.m. Tuesday in Hillside Memorial Gardens for Annie Smith, 56, former Snyder resident who died Saturday afternoon in Wichita Falls.

The Rev. Vernon Parnell, pastor of Morningside Baptist Church, will officiate at the rites here and burial will be directed by Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mrs. Smith, a native of Gary, Tex., lived most of her life in Snyder. She is survived by two daughters, Karen Virdell and Kathy Thorenson, both of Wichita Falls; her mother, Mrs. Annie Bea Thomas of Snyder, two sisters, Estelle Swan of Snyder and Evelyn Fields of Pittsburg; a brother, Clifton Thomas of Snyder and four grandchildren.

J. L. Lane

Word has been received here of the death of J.L. Lane, 84, on March 5 in Alto. He was a former Snyder resident. The funeral rites were held in alto.

Surviving are his wife, Belle, of the home; four daughters, Mettie Morris of Snyder, Fay Kruseturner of Alto, Mary Simmons of Mississippi and Jo Ann Stotel of Imperial Beach, Calif.; three sons, J.W. Lane of Kolenga, Calif., Robert Lane of Snyder and Calvin Lane of Bakersfield, Calif.; three sisters, Johnnie Lea Lamore of Abilene, Anna Compton of Herden and Ed Dunn of Wortham; 20 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Burglaries Keep Local Police Busy

City police were kept busy during the weekend investigating incidents ranging from the burglary of three coin-operated machines to minor traffic accidents.

Virgil Walton told officers that two soft drink machines and one candy dispensing machine at Cogdell Memorial Hospital were hit by someone who removed about $200 from them.

The incident was reported at 6:43 a.m. Sunday and is thought to have occurred either Saturday afternoon or Sunday morning, police said. Reports indicate that no signs of forced entry were found.

Police are also looking for two tires and rims that Benny Costillo said were taken from his 1404 Ave. K home. Value of the missing merchandise was set at $130.

A citizens band radio and the man who allegedly stole it are the quarry police are looking for in another investigation.

Sunday afternoon, police were told by Charles Harriger of 1106 26th St. that the CB radio was missing from his car. Reports list the value of the CB at $187.

The dogs at the city pound are all accounted for despite what may have been a weekend attempt to liberate them.

City Animal Warden Lloyd Merritt told officers the locks to the pound were cut, but that otherwise everything appeared to be in order.

A traffic accident about noon Sunday resulted in minor damage to two cars, reports show.

Involved in the mishap were a 1972 Ford driven by Roberto Martinez and a 1976 Chevrolet driven by Mary Hudgins Carlton of Odessa. The mishap occurred in the 3600 block of College Ave.

A somewhat more serious wreck took place in the 1200 block of 27th St. shortly after 7 p.m. Sunday.

The accident involved a 1972 Chevrolet driven by Danny Boulware of Fluvanna and a 1967 Chevrolet driven by Juan Hernandez. Moderate damages were reported to both vehicles.

At 9:05 a.m. today police investigated a minor two-vehicle wreck at the intersection of Ave. Q and 24th St. Reports show that a 1977 Datsun pickup driven by Delwin Vandle Murry was involved in a collision with a 1974 Chevrolet pickup driven by William A. Pearson.

Absentee Vote Pace Slow In C-City

COLORADO CITY-Absentee voting, which ends tomorrow at 5 p.m., has been slow in the school board and city council elections. Only six votes have been cast in the school board election and only three in the city council race.

Four candidates are seeking two places on the school board. They are Mac Morris and Tom Rees, incumbents, and Coleen Palmer and Bob Motley.

In the race for city council, three people will be elected to fill the places of Marion Bassham, Lee Jones and Larry Hammer. Mrs. Bassham is running for another term. Tom Goss, Jesse Munoz and Loyd Ledbetter are also seeking election.

Absentee ballots for the school board may be cast at the school tax office and ballots for the city election may be cast at City Hall.

Persons expecting to be absent for the April 1. election may vote absentee. Those with a physical ailment may also vote absentee if they have a doctor's written notice.

Life Sentence Is Assessed

COLORADO CITY-A Colorado City man has been assessed a life imprisonment sentence for the stabbing death of J.W. Graham of Sweetwater.

Bernardo Vasquez Del Real was sentenced Thursday by District Judge Weldon Kirk in 32nd District Court. Del Real had pleaded guilty earlier and waived his right to trial by jury and his right of appeal.

The life sentence will run consecutively with a 25-year sentence for distribution of heroin handed down by District Court in December.

Boise, Idaho, founded in 1863, takes its name from the French term "les boises," or the trees, a description for the area used by French fur trappers in 1811.

Preacher To Continue Resurrection Effort

REEDS SPRING, Mo. (AP) - An Arkansas preacher returned on Easter to the freezer holding his mother's body, praying as he has over the past two weeks for the miracle of her resurrection.

But the three hours of quiet prayer were unsuccessful, and Daniel Aaron Rogers returned home, pledging to continue his efforts until Wednesday. That's the day he's promised health official he'll proceed with plans to bury his mother.

Rogers and his wife conducted the private service Sunday at the funeral home in this tiny southwest Missouri village. In a telephone interview from Harrison Sunday night, Rogers, 41, said the Easter service was not discouraging.

"We feel, in fact, more encouraged than before," he said. "We sorted through everything and praying seemed to have lifted our spirits up and reassured us of God's love."

Nationwide attention was focused on this funeral home two weeks before when about 500 persons gathered to watch Rogers and three evangelist colleagues attempt to bring his mother, Gladys Rogers, back from the dead.

Mrs. Rogers died Feb. 2 in Harrison at the age of 81. Rogers packed her body in dry ice for six days, then had it placed in a freezer. State officials took the freezer and the body away, but after a month-long battle with courts and health officials Rogers was allowed to take it to Reeds Spring for the ceremony.

"We didn't think about it being Easter," Rogers said Sunday. "It's just a Sunday two weeks after last time. It seems the Lord has just worked things out to keep people interested."

He plans to continue praying until Wednesday to "raise mother up to give a testimony to the world of God's power and the reality of Christ.

"So many indications have come that it is God's will that it's just a matter of faith. We don't have any doubt that it's His will."

But Rogers said he has yet to see any signs of life, and he said he'll give up efforts Wednesday "unless an angel walks in and says, 'Yes, she'll be raised tomorrow.'"

If he fails, he said, it'll be because he didn't have sufficient faith.

"I wouldn't have anybody to blame but myself," he said.

"It would make me try harder to have perfect faith. I've seen too many miracles in answer to prayer."

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Is circumcision necessary?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am an expectant father who has been exposed to considerable difference of medical opinion on the subject of infant circumcision. My physician thinks that there is little if any benefit to having the operation. My wife's obstetrician (a woman) indicates it is a routine practice and gives the impression that she rarely even seeks the consent of the parents.

What is the current consensus of the medical profession about circumcision? I'm sure there are many parents who would like to read about current thinking on the subject.

DEAR READER - I'm not sure there is a consensus by the medical profession on this matter. It used to be routine and being born in the hospital meant that a male infant was not likely to get home intact. That is still the case in many hospitals.

The arguments for circumcision include the point that the uncircumcised penis is more likely to develop cancer of the penis - a particularly nasty cancer that leads to amputation and is often incurable by the time it is diagnosed. Cancer of the penis also occurs in the circumcised males and the important factor seems to be cleanliness. If you keep it clean cancer is less likely.

That brings forth the next point, improved cleanliness. Although it is easier to keep the circumcised organ clean, it requires little effort and just a little soap and water regularly to clean the uncircumcized organ. As one opponent of circumcision points out, the ear is a good place to collect dirt too, but no one recommends lopping it off.

An old idea was that uncircumcised males were more likely to cause cancer of the cervix in their mates. That has been disproved; the real factors in increased rates of cancer of the cervix in some ethnic groups are beginning sex life early in years and having multiple partners. Cancer of the cervix also occurs in women who do not have and have not had active sexual lives but it is far less common in such a group.

You are still left with the fact that older men who are uncircumcised tend to develop a tight foreskin that can cause problems in hygiene and even in urination. The dried shrunken skin however can be slit at that time if need be to free the glans. This is not a circumcision but simply slitting the skin so it can be moved freely.

It is true that the foreskin protects the glans and perhaps improves its sensitivity for sexual pleasure. The arguments for routine circumcision are not very strong, and in some cases it should not be done at all, as in premature infants. Noting that your wife's obstetrician is a woman, a comment of an opponent of circumcision may be of interest: "(circumcision) is one way an intensely matriarchal society can influence the physical characteristics of its males."

As to my own opinion, since there are so few reasons for it and hygiene is easily maintained with little effort, why not wait until the boy is grown enough to see if it is necessary for him. If in later life a male develops a tight, unretractable foreskin it can be dealt with then.

Flower Arranging Class Set

The Community Services department of Western Texas College will offer its first Flower Arranging course in classes starting Tuesday night.

Classes are to meet from 7:30-9:30 p.m. on Tuesdays through May 2. Students will receive instruction in basic arranging along with ideas for decorating containers, making corsages for baby showers, framing artificial arrangements under glass and making arrangements with silk materials, etc.

The final class will be a "Do Your Own Thing Workshop," with students asked to prepare an arrangement from fresh, dried or silk materials.

Mrs. Cynthia McAnally will be instructor for the course. She is a graduate of McMurry College and an employe of Hinshaw's House of Flowers.

Enrollment in the class will be limited to 13 students and persons wishing to enroll may reserve space by calling the Community Service office at 573-8511, extension 240. Fees will be $30 per person and students will need to furnish some equipment, most of which can be purchased at wholesale cost.

Students attending the first class on Tuesday night are asked to bring scissors, diagonal wire cutters, a ball point pen and needle-nose pliers if possible.

Mayor Killed By Lightning

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP)-The mayor of Lexington, N.C., was killed and four persons were injured when lightning struck a campsite where 18 campers were sleeping.

Mayor Harry Vernon Anderson Jr., 45, was killed Friday night while he and most of the other campers from three family groups with him huddled under a tarpaulin seeking shelter from a rainstorm, according to the Burke County Sheriff's Department.

Those hospitalized were identified as Robert L. Grubb, a Lexington attorney; Katherine Team, 22, and her nephews, David, 17, and Adam, 12.

RSVP AT WORK — Lou Crowder, left, Aid for Dependent Children case worker, presented pins from the Texas Department of Human Resources to Millie Tutor, center, and Minnie Alexander recently. Mrs. Tutor and Mrs. Alexander, members of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), give volunteer time in the local food stamp office. Men and women 60 years of age or older who are interested in giving volunteer time to community activities are invited to contact the RSVP office at Western Texas College for information about volunteer opportunities. Mrs. Marsha Krenek is RSVP director.

Scuba Diving Course To Open Tonight

A compact Scuba Diving course will get underway at Western Texas College tonight, Lee Burke, instructor, said.

Classes are scheduled from 6:30-9:30 Monday through Sunday, April 2. Students will receive 21 hours of instruction in the WTC pool with an additional class meeting at Possum Kingdom Lake for the final check-out. That meeting will be scheduled as weather permits.

Burke will be assisted by Jerry Bell of Arlington in teaching the class. A minimum of 10 students will be required to form the class, and students will pay fees of $75 each. Students will be required to furnish personal gear and it may be purchased at the first class meeting Monday night.

The course is being offered through the Community Services department of WTC. Persons wishing further information may inquire at the CS office by calling 573-8511, extension 240.

Rig Count Is Same As '77

The number of Rotary drilling rigs making hole in the Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico last week stood at 294, the same as for the corresponding week in 1977.

The total two weeks ago was 288.

Lea County, N.M., held the lead among counties with 29 rigs running.

Scurry County had two rotary rigs in operation, compared to one the previous week. The totals for other area counties, with last week and the week before, in order: Borden 4 and 4; Dawson 7 and 8; Fisher 2 and 5; Garza 2 and 1; Howard 1 and 2; Kent 2 and 2; Mitchell 3 and 0; Nolan 3 and 3; Stonewall 3 and 3.

Doctors Are Kicking Habit

ATLANTA (AP)-Heeding their own advice, doctors are kicking the smoking habit, and apparently so are many other Americans, says a health offocial.

Dr. John Witte, medical director of the Bureau of Health Education at the Center for Disease Control, said the proportion of physicians, dentists and pharmacists who smoke has declined considerably and is well below smoking rates of the general population.

He said Sunday that about 33 percent of the adults in this country now smoke compared to 42 percent 10 years ago.

Urine Used In Cancer Treatment

HOUSTON (AP)-A chemical extracted from human urine is being used in the controversial treatment of a 17-year-old cancer victim for whom other forms of treatment have proved unsuccessful.

"It's the worst kind of cancer you can have," Cliff Taylor of Denver said Sunday from his hospital bed. "They call it Synogial Cell Sarooma. It started in the joint of my right arm. I was playing baseball when I was 12 and one day I tried to throw the ball and it felt like something was just blocking my arm."

Two months later, doctors amputated the arm, and conventional treatments held off the disease until 1976.

"He took the conventional treatments - amputation, radiation and chemotherapy," said Taylor's 41-year-old widowed mother, Linda Hudson. "He couldn't take chemotherapy any more because it made him too sick. He just felt he couldn't tolerate it. He just felt life wasn't worth living."

Dr. Stanielaw R. Bursinski, the youth's doctor, said he extracts chemicals called peptides from the urine. Those chemicals have no adverse effects on normal tissues but inhibit the growth of cancer cells, he said.

Taylor's condition means he must have about 40 gallons of human urine a day, and a Houston church is sponsoring a collection effort within its congregation.

"He's getting pretty massive doses," his mother said.

Burzinski admitted the urine treatment is controversial, but said that is because "what is new and simple is quite controversial."

"The theory behind the treatment is that each tissue has a specific chemical that protects it from cancer," he said. "If a person has a deficiency in that chemical, he may get cancer."

The doctor said he believes each tissue is protected by a different compound. Those compounds can be found in the tissue and in smaller quantities of the blood and urine, he said.

Burzinski said urine was chosen as the source for the compounds because it is readily available. He said he began testing the chemicals on humans last year after 10 years of animal tests.

Of 30 patients treated so far, he said, four are in complete remission, meaning the cancer has disappeared. Nine have had partial remissions, meaning the tumor is less than half the size before treatments began, and nine others have stabilized, meaning the tumors have not grown or have shrunk somewhat.

He said he has followed U.S. Food and Drug Administration rules for human experiments but has not asked for FDA approval. Such approval is not required because all the experiments are in one state, he said.

Cliff said doses of the compound sometimes tire him out.

"I feel pretty good now," he said.

Plant Jobs DecreaseAgain

ATLANTA (AP)-Textile plant employment in the Southeast decreased in January for the second consecutive month, the regional Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

In January, there were 659,300 textile employees in the region, down 3,600 from December with six of the eight states contributing to the decline.

Rain Dampens Celebrations In US, Rome

By The Associated Press

Rain and other bad weather on Easter Sunday dampened celebrations in much of the United States and in Rome, too, as Christians once again celebrated the Resurrection of Christ.

President and Mrs. Carter were forced to cancel plans to attend a sunrise service because of an ice storm which glazed the mountain roads around Camp David, Md.; the weather in Rome was chilly and windy and a drizzle fell on the 100,000 who gathered to hear Pope Paul VI say Easter mass; and the traditional Easter Parade on New York's Fifth Avenue was a march of umbrellas.

The traditional Easter egg roll at the White House, scheduled for today, was cancelled because weekend rains left the lawn of the executive mansion soggy. About three inches had fallen in the nation's capital since Saturday night. In place of the egg roll, the park service arranged special public tours of the White House. The executive mansion normally is closed to tourists on Monday.

Sunday's celebrations included a high Mass said by the Latin patriarch of Jerusalem, Monsignor G.G. Beltritti, in the 800-year-old Church of the Holy Sepulcher in Jerusalem.

An estimated 20,000 pilgrims from Western churches celebrated Easter week in the Holy Land. Eastern churches observe Easter on April 30.

Pope Paul, 80, was still hoarse from two weeks of influenza as he proclaimed: "Christ is risen." He stood outdoors under a roofed scaffolding before St. Peter's Basilica as he said the 50-minute Mass.

In the United States, President Carter's sister, evangelist Ruth Carter Stapleton, spoke to about 3,500 persons at a sunrise service atop Mt. Rubidoux, near Riverside, Calif. Some 18,000 persons attended a similar early-morning service at the Hollywood Bowl.

Outdoor services at the Cathedral of the Pines at Rindge, N.H., drew 1,500 worshippers who gathered in sub-freezing weather to greet the dawn - and the snow that fell at the end of the service.

Dole Eyeing Presidency

NEW YORK (AP)-Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, the Republican vice presidential candidate in 1976, admits he is considering a bid for the presidency in 1980.

But when asked Sunday about his political future, Dole said he would be inclined to step aside if either former president Gerald Ford or Ronald Reagan became active candidates for the nomination.

Dole told reporters on NBC's "Meet the Press" that it would be the "height of ingratitude" if he entered the race against Ford.

Dole also said he did not think the presidential aspirations of Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., suffered irreparable harm from Baker's support of the Panama Canal treaties.

"Howard Baker springs back fairly easily. But I think his treaty support is a minus right now," said Dole.
