Texas Governor Calls For New Deal

Three Killed, Four Wounded As Possemen Battle Bandits

Sheriff, Bank President And Robber Expire

Lead Flies In Three Brushes With Desperate Quartet In Illinois Following Foiled Attempt On Bank

Raiders Captured

Aroused La Salle Citizenry Quickly Masses And Mowing Bullets Force Remnants Of Gang To Give Up

(By The Associated Press)

LA SALLE, Ill., Jan. 16.—A gallant sheriff, a brave bank cashier and a bank robber died and three men and a boy were wounded today in a series of gun fights that raged through three counties.

Three engagements, fought with guerilla savagery by 65 participants, took place along a 30-mile line as a quartet of gangsters sought to blast their way to freedom after they had been beaten back in an attempt to loot the Leonore (Ill.) State bank.

Outlaw Suicides

Charles Bundy, 54, the bank official, and Sheriff Glenn Axline of Marshall county were killed by the gunmen's bullets.

Melvin Leis, alias David Leech of Rockford, committed suicide a moment before his confederates were captured by a sharp shooting posse on a blood stained farm near McNabb, Ill.

Deputy Sheriff Reinis Brown of Marshall county; Charles Seipp, member of the La Salle county board of supervisors, Norbert Maas, 13-year old Leonore lad, and one of the thugs, Arthur Thielen of Rockford, were wounded.

Two Yeggs Captured

The other two raiders were caught after coming unscathed through a hail of more than 100 slugs.

Three of the gunmen slipped into the bank through a coal chute last night while the La Salle county hamlet of Leonore slumbered peacefully. The fourth sat in a car near the Bundy home. James Adamson, a bank guard, became suspicious. With Bundy and another guard, Leonce Smith, he went to the bank about 8:45 a. m. They saw that the car had been driven to the rear of the bank. Bundy opened the door and cried, "There's somebody inside."

Hostages Grabbed

The three would-be looters fled empty handed to the George Yusco garage. They waved their weapons, forced young Maas and a salesman into a machine and roared out of town. The lockout sped away in his Automobile. A posse took after him.

The fugitive was overtaken after a short chase. He was being marched

Additional Credit Here Is Unlikely

Lubbock will not receive an additional 15 per cent good fire record credit on its insurance premiums this year, but likely will retain the 15 per cent credit given last year, Fire Marshall D. A. Forbess said yesterday.

"It appears that the insuring public is under the mistaken impression that the premiums on fire policies will receive an additional 15 per cent reduction for good fire record credit this next year," the fire marshal said.

"On March 1, last year, Lubbock received the maximum credit of 15 per cent for the year ending Feb. 28, 1935, and as the fire losses for the current year have been comparatively low, Lubbock will, more than likely, have this 15 per cent credit continued for a year. This credit is not cumulative, but applies from year to year when granted.

"However," continued Mr. Forbess, "any person who purchased a fire insurance policy prior to March 1, 1934, to expire during the ensuing year, will receive the reduction of the 15 per cent fire credit on the renewal policy."

Opposition To Hitler Over And Nazis Take Full Charge

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin Territory, Jan. 16 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's Saar opposition crumbled completely today and the Saar, in effect, passed into Nazi hands.

The League of Nations government was still in nominal authority, but it was evident the league commissioners, bowing to the will of the people expressed in the Sunday plesbiscite's 90 per cent pro-Germas vote, meant to stand to one side.

Chattering Guns End Barker Pair

Slip Made When Undies Snitched

For the confessed theft of a woman's slip from Montgomery Ward and Co., Clarence Marquart was fined $100 and costs of $12.15 by Peace Justice J. T. Trigg Wednesday afternoon.

"We have to break up petty thieving here," the peace justice said. "A dollar fine and costs means a man will stay in jail only about ten days. That's just a little rest.

"I can't give a jail sentence, so I have been giving some large fines."

Mr. Trigg recently fined a negro $200 for theft of a stove and a white youth $100 for theft of feed. Police arrested Marquart.

"Ma," 55, Holds Sub-Machine Rifle In Nerveless Hand

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAWAHA, Fla., Jan. 16.—Federal agents trailed "Ma" Barker and her son Fred, to their Florida hideout today and killed the long-sought Bremer kidnaping suspects with machine gun fire after a furious six-hour battle.

"Ma" Barker, mentioned as the brains of the Barker-Karpis gang held responsible for the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul, Minn., banker, died with a machine gun in her hand.

"War" Is Fought

As the gun fight raged, described by residents of the little village of Oklawaha as "like a war," reports of a greater death list spread. One was that Alvin Karpis, co-leader of the gang, also was slain. After the gunfire had ceased, however, and federal agents had entered the house, it was established that only Barker and his mother were killed. Barker was 28 and his mother 55.

The battle started shortly after daylight when department of justice agents, led by E. J. Connelley of Cincinnati, surrounded the house on Lake Weir. Connelley approached and called to the occupants to surrender.

Machine Gun Chatters

Machine gun fire was the answer and the battle was on. Augmenting their weapons with tear gas, the government men kept up firing and it was met in kind.

When the shooting ceased from the house around 11 o'clock, the government men sent a negro cook, who had been working there, into the building. He returned saying "they are all dead."

"Ma" Struck Once

"Ma" Barker fell holding a machine gun in her hand and a portion of the drum of ammunition had been exhausted. She had been struck only once.

Fred Barker's body was sprawled on the floor with 11 machine gun slugs in his shoulder and three in his head.

Court Message Of FDR Meets With Criticism

California Senator Points To Eventual Trend And Warning Is Sounded; President Says Move Toward Peace

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—A burst of opposition oratory, asserting that the United States was moving toward entry into the League of Nations, today greeted in the senate a special message from President Roosevelt urging American adherence to the world court.

In a 22-line message, one of the briefest by a chief executive on a major subject, Mr. Roosevelt joined his predecessor presidents—Harding, Coolidge and Hoover—in advocating adherence of the three protocols now pending "in such a form as not to defeat or to delay the objective of adherence."

Opposition Is Immediate

Almost immediately a bristling opposition drive began. Senator Hiram Johnson of California, ordinarily the president's strongest supporter in minority ranks, took the floor to flay the ratification resolution as "the first step" toward America entering the League of Nations.

With a biting sarcasm that kept the well-filled floor and galleries in rapt attention, the fighting Californian ripped into the court resolution as an effort to "meddle and muddle in the hysterical internationalism that Europe has had and that Europe never will get rid of."

In his message, read just before, the president had asserted the "movement to make international

Thieves Narrowly Escape When Dynamite Detonated

FRIONA, Parmer county, Jan. 16 (AP)—Grain thieves who apparently did not believe in signs narrowly escaped death early yesterday morning when their operations exploded a dynamite mine at a wheat granary near here.

Because his granary had been entered previously, Marvin Whaley planted dynamite near it and erected signs on a nearby fence warning of the explosives. The fence had been cut and pulled back far enough to permit passageway for a truck. The force of the explosion tore a deep crater in the ground and reduced a post directly over the mine to splinters.

John Garners Entertain In Swanky Hotel For President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—The wise-cracks of Will Rogers, the latest flower-fad from Hollywood, Gene Buck's choice of music, and a master magician were marshalled by the Vice President and Mrs. Garner tonight for their formal dinner to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

They hold just one such party a year, and it's a good one. The whole top floor of the downtown hotel where the Garners live, with its roof garden and its rose room, was given over to them and their guests.

Amazing Break Pulled At San Quentin Prison

Four Prisoners Who Take Six Hostages And Flee In Car Of Official Recaptured In Withering Battle

Warden Is Injured

Thousands Of Officers Take Up Trail, Army Planes Are Enlisted And Governor Of California Commands

(By The Associated Press)

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., Jan. 16.—Four San Quentin prison convicts slugged Warden James B. Holohan and kidnaped six men to escape today, only to meet recapture.

Two tense hours of pursuit and battle ended in the serious wounding of one convict, the surrender of three others, the wounding of two hostages.

The break—most amazing in the history of crowded San Quentin—came as members of the state prison terms and paroles gathered for luncheon in Warden Holohan's residence.

Warden Badly Hurt

The four convicts strode in, brandishing guns.

"Stand up, all of you!" their leader commanded.

Holonhan refused to surrender and was promptly slugged unconscious by swinging guns. He was left lying in a pool of blood.

Quickly the prisoners seized Frank C. Sykes, San Francisco contractor and board chairman, later shot; Warren Atherton, Stockton attorney; Joseph Stephens, Sacramento banker, wounded slightly, and Mark E. Noon, the board's secretary.

State Cars Taken

Guard Lieutenant Harry Jones and Sergeant C. L. Doose fell into the convict-made cul-de-sac, surrendering at pistol point.

Two state automobiles in front of the warden's residence served for the getaway. Holding the board officials in one car and forcing the guards to ride on the running boards, the convicts sped toward the back gate.

Noon was forced to give the signal to guards to allow them to pass.

Officialdom Takes Trail

The cars sped westward through San Rafael to the Redwood highway and then to the north—the

More Than 60 Measures Are In Proposals

Texas Measures Range From Sales Tax On Luxuries To State Bureau Of Criminal Identification

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 16.—Bills calling for a sales tax on luxuries, a five-man elective highway commission to replace the present appointive body and a state bureau of criminal identification were among the more than 60 proposals introduced today in the Texas legislature.

The luxury tax would tax purchasers of chewing gum, candy, cosmetics, tobaccos, cold drinks, amusement tickets, playing cards, jewelry, malt, sporting goods and firearms. The levy would be one cent on each 10 cent purchase or fraction thereof except that purchasers of chewing gum and candy would be taxed one cent on each five cent purchase or fraction thereof.

The levy would be a substitute for part or all the state ad valorem tax for school purposes.

Representative Harry Graves of Georgetown introduced a bill to reorganize the state government. It was similar to the proposal recommended two years ago by the joint legislative committee which studied the governmental machinery with a view to suggesting consolidations of departments and abolition of useless bureaus.

Raid On Cafe Here Results In Arrest Of Two Persons

Four and a half pints of whisky was confiscated and two women were arrested in a raid on a small cafe at Thirteenth street and Avenue C last night.

Raiders were members of the sheriff's department, the constabulary, and the police department. One of the women probably will be charged with drunkenness, the other with liquor law violation. Two bottles of beer also were found. Justice of the Peace J. T. Trigg issued the searchwarrant.

"Zero Hour" Arrives But Square Dealers Hesitant

(By The Associated Press)

BATON ROUGE, Jan. 16.—Anticipating refusal of their demand that Governor O. K. Allen assemble the legislature to repeal Huey Long's dictatorship, the Square Deal association of Louisiana announced tonight that it would oppose the dictator with a home guard army it was seeking to organize in a military way in every Louisiana parish.

"It is not our purpose to assassinate or murder anyone," declared a pronouncement issued by Ernest J. Bourgeois, president of the Square Deal association, on behalf of the executive committee.

"But it is our purpose to have this state so thoroughly organized that when the time arrives for action, which will come in the very near future, we will be prepared to give the people of this state a square deal as we have promised.

"We are confident that we will break the tyrannical power of the dictator of this state within the near future.

"We appeal to the people of Louisiana with all sincerity, not to take it upon themselves, acting secretly, to launch movements of reprisals, intimida-

Arrested Wasn't Stewed—Will Be

A half-grown 'possum which wandered into Lubbock Tuesday night was shown the way to City hall by police.

The sly little animal was strolling without concern in an alley between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, near Avenue Q, when Night Chief J. W. Robinson and Patrolman Don Reeder met him.

It wasn't the first animal "arrest" made by the coppers. Once they captured a grown jackrabbit near the courthouse.

The 'possum eventually will find his way to a cage in Shannon park, unless a negro persuades officers that a bed of sweet "taters" in a stew-pan is a better place. Luther Bundrant, City hall caretaker, accepted custody of the 'possum.

Robbers Sack Buffalo Bank

Raymond Hamilton Suspected As Leader Of Gang; $5,000 Taken And Bandits Escape Through Car Ruse

(By The Associated Press)

BUFFALO, Texas, Jan. 16.—A carefully-planned raid today on the Citizens State bank of Buffalo netted a gang of robbers—perhaps led by Raymond Hamilton—more than $5,000 in cash.

Two young men entered the bank at 7:30 a.m. while two others waited outside. Because of the time lock, they did not get into the vault until 9 a. m. meanwhile, they held bank employes and customers captive in a back room.

Transfer To Stolen Car

Sacking their loot, the robbers dashed out to the car, which bore Louisiana license plates, and sped away to the east. They turned off on a country road and, five miles from town, abandoned the car and transferred to another, which officers believe they stole about 1 a. m. in Tyler. In the second car they disappeared to the south.

Investigating officers learned shortly after the robbery that Raymond Hamilton, condemned slayer and bank robber, was seen last

Testimony In Bruno's Trial Will Be Grim

Prosecution Draws Nearer To Vivid Word Picture Which Will Describe Baby's Grave In Bleak Woodland

BY JOHN FERRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 16.—Bruno Hauptmann's murder trial was pushed tonight toward a grim word picture of Baby Lindbergh's hidden grave as prosecutors, with the positive opinions of eight experts, capped their accusation of Bruno as the ransom writer.

Thus the state, intent on sending the glum carpenter to the electric chair, is ready to show how Col. Charles A. Lindberg's first born son lay buried in a thicket while Hauptmann allegedly wrote 14 lying letters and snatched the $50,000 ransom in a Bronx cemetery.

Negro To Testify

A negro laborer, William Allen, stumbled across the baby's shallow grave on May 12, 1932, more than two months after he was stolen from his Hopewell home a few miles away.

He will testify and then the body, found face down, its skull horribly fractured, will be identified.

The state says Bruno stole the baby from his nursery, fell from a ladder with him and killed him in the fall.

Crime Reconstructed

Then, it claims, he callously stripped the sleeping suit from the body to use in bargaining for the ransom and buried his ghastly burden in the thicket, across the Hunterdon county line near Mount Rose, N. J.

Only a little of the tedious handwriting testimony remained at the trial's adjournment today after four more experts had called Bruno the author of all 14 notes.

Positive in their identification, they were just as sure in refuting defense insinuation that Haupt-

Custom Broken As He Appears At Joint Meet

Wasting No Time, Executive Plunges Into Request For Recovery Measures, Relief For Population

Reception Cordial

Planning Board Recommended As Basis Of Recovery, And Close Study Of Many Other Problems Asked

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 16. — Governor James V. Allred today recommended his "New Deal" program to the Texas legislature in a personal appearance.

Discarding custom, Governor Allred read his first message to the legislature at a joint session of the house and senate, asking immediate establishment of a state planning board to direct a recovery program and prompt issuance of $3,500,000 in relief bonds to care for the destitute until benefits of organized action become available.

Reception Cordial

Governor Allred received a cordial reception as he entered the house hall and at the conclusion of his message, with scattering applause as he touched on specific points of his plan. He appeared refreshed and rested from the strenuous inaugural ceremonies of yesterday and last night. Dressed in a grey suit, he delivered his message in a calm, steady voice.

The planning board was recommended by Governor Allred as the basis of his recovery program, although he commended the legislature to a close study of other problems, including prohibition, taxation, old age pensions, revision of oil proration laws to strengthen enforcement, crime control and regulation of public utilities.

Ten Emergency Bills

Accompanying the message were ten bills to amend banking and insurance laws so Texas can participate fully in the national housing construction program. They were submitted as emergency measures and will be considered at a special meeting of the senate state affairs committee tomorrow.

Reception of the governor's message was the principal business of the house. Active consideration of his proposals is expected to begin tomorrow in both branches with appointment of house standing committees by Speaker Coke Stevenson.

Hopper Tipped

Another flood of bills was introduced. They provided for establishment of an elective highway commission, a luxury tax of 20 per cent on chewing gum and candy and ten

Great Dust Storm Hits Four States

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 16. (AP) — A dust storm, accompanied by summerlike weather, came out of the Texas Panhandle today, spreading across most of Oklahoma and Kansas and into western Missouri.

Kansas skies were darkened by the dust film as warmest January weather in years forced overcoats into discard and pushed the mercury into the lower 70's.

The storm affected virtually all of Kansas, much of Oklahoma and northern Texas.

Temperatures here at three o'clock today had reached 67 degrees above, equaling a mid-January figure recorded in 1884, A. M. Hamrick, federal government weather observer, reported.

Widely scattered points in Kansas reported summer-like weather, with the temperature rising to 73 degrees at Coffeyville, 70 degrees at Welling; 76 at Neodesha, and 72 at Parsons.

The Woman's Angle

BY MARGARET TURNER
Woman's Editor

AFTER such a day as Wednesday, perhaps the visitor from the East will understand why housewives keep clothespins on their mail boxes.

If Mrs. Ferguson had prepared a well-appointed luncheon for her successor, young Jimmy Allred, and his family, she would have left a better feeling than the story of her refusal, "because it isn't traditional." Suppose it isn't! People, who do not have any traditions, eat.

IT HAS BEEN DONE

It may not have been traditional, but in 1931, when Ross Sterling assumed the governor's duties and went to the mansion he found a meal "steaming and waiting" that Governor Moody had had his servants to prepare as their last job.

AND IT HASN'T!

IN 1927, when young Dan Moody was installed he either went hungry at lunch time or went to a hotel. Mrs. Ferguson sat on the platform with him in tight lipped silence and finally admitted that "he wasn't her choice."

The red-haired governor's temper flamed but his statement isn't amiss today: "The people of Texas commission us to place their government upon a plane which will restore public confidence in existing forms and reserve them the respect of all men."

SPELLING NAMES

SPELLING of names continues to fascinate us. Some time when you are waiting a curtain to arise before a dance program or occasion where there is a long list of names glance down the line and note how many names are misspelled. It is too bad that we cannot be numbered.

It's M. H. Duncan and J. C. Dunkin. Johnie Pierce spells his name that way and Joni Bundy's mother chose that spelling. Miss Jonnie McCrery at Tech college uses that choice and Mrs. George Langford's first name is Johnnye and my dad spells his name Jno.

* * *

J. E. Caruth is seldom spelled correctly. There are two men in Lubbock named C. W. Ratliff and there is a C. W. Ratcliff. The town Wolfforth is spelled with an "o" and the George and Eastin spell their name with an "a." J. W. Reid teaches school, Dr. E. L. Reed is an instructor at Tech college, Wesley Read is with the loan company and Dr. R. P. Reeds is an osteopath.

There are Fred Reas, Stanton Rheas, Elmer Rays and Brodie Wrays. There are almost as many ways of spelling the name "Katherine" as there are girls in Lubbock with that name.

GRACEFUL POSTURE

THE woman who slumps forward in her seat, leans on the table or sprawls awkwardly in a chair is violating all of the rules of good posture. Unfortunate as it may seem at times, appearances really do count a great deal. The first impression of you people get often is the one they remember longest—regardless of what you do later. Therefore, it's up to you to see how favorably you can impress newly-met acquaintances.

You should sit back in a chair with the base of your spine and the rest of your backbone placed against the cushion. Your shoulders should not touch the chair. When they do, the backbone curves in the middle and makes you look stiff and uncomfortable.

Cross your legs if you like—always above the knee however, never below. If you aren't eating or making natural gestures, keep your hands folded in your lap. Don't pick at your clothing, fuss with the upholstery on the arms of the chair or make any similar movements that stamp you as nervous and lacking in poise.

Levine's Is Conducting Its Annual "Mistakes" Sale Here

Levine's is conducting its annual "mistakes" sale, offering merchandise which admittedly was difficult to sell during 1934.

"Department stores, like individuals," said the store in an advertisement, "are human. They are subject to error. And during the operation of 1934, Levine's made some mistakes. They were honest mistakes in buying things we thought you would want on sight."

Here are some examples of the way items are advertised:

"Wool vests, for dark nights only."

"Originally they were white, now semi-white and soiled."

"They're fleece lined, and we got fleeced—so we're passing the fleecing along."

"If these boys' pajamas fade, just buy another pair . . . what a mistake we made! Now you make a mistake and buy them."

"You may not recognize them, but we'll put a big sign up."

Bandits Run Blocade

Forewarned of the outrage, Sheriff Axline and his deputies met the fugitives near Varna in Marshall county. The officers laid down a barrage. The criminals loosed a counter fusillade. Deputy Brown was struck in the right arm. A bullet hit the Maas boy's right hand.

Running the blockade, the bandits sped north and west. Near Magnolia in Putnam county, they encountered their pursuers and stopped. One of the felons got out and raised his hands above his head. The officials' auto halted. Sheriff Axline got out. The gangsters shot him down in cold blood.

Bullets Rake Wood

Pushing the salesman from their machine but with young Maas holding his torn hand in the tonneau, the robbers sped to the Jacob Yaeger farm near McNabb. Two of the men took the youth into the house. The other pair, Leis and Thielen, sought safety in a nearby copse, taking shelter behind trees. They pumped their weapons as the slain Axline's party drove up.

Fifty state policemen, deputies from Putnam, La Salle and Marshall counties and officers from Peru, Peoria and La Salle hurried to the scene. The officers surrounded the desperate gunners. They raked the woodland with bullets. One found a mark in Thielen. Leis, cornered like a rat, put his own piston to his head and ended his life.

Thielen was captured. His confederates, Fred Gerner, 30, Rockford and John Houff, 25, Chicago, who had hidden in the beleaguered house, came out with Maas and surrendered.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Lubbock High Cagers Play Plainview Here Tonight; Matsura Fixes Watkins

Westerners To Open District One Cage Race

Panhandle League Season Gets Off To Start Tonight When Bulldogs Play Single Stand At Westerner Gymnasium

Coach Berl Huffman's Lubbock High school Westerners and Coach Froggie Lovvorn's Plainview Bulldogs provide the basketball entertainment for local fans tonight when they clash in a Panhandle League game at the Westerner gymnasium.

The opening tip-off is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock.

Off to a fast local start in an exciting game with Levelland last week, the Westerners hope to open their Panhandle league campaign, which is to basketball what District 1 competition is to the Class A football teams, with a victory. They follow tonight's game with a league contest in Borger tomorrow night against the Borger High Bulldogs.

"Optimistic Froggie"

Froggie Lovvorn, known in this section for his gloomy pessimism, stated to a Lubbock reporter last week that he doubted if his 1935 club scored a basket during the entire season. Which means that the Plainview quintet must be pretty strong again this year.

Despite all his pre-season calculations, Lovvorn's clubs generally turn out to be tough competition for one and all. The old Lubbock-Plainview athletic rivalry has thrived during basketball seasons, with the Bulldogs always a tough customer. Even if the Bulldogs are not equipped with unusual altitude or veteran experience this year, a Lovvorn-coached quintet may be depended upon always to give a fair account of itself.

Lubbock is by no means favorite to beat the Bulldogs, since they can not boast exceptional height and experience this year, either. At least, until the season gets underway. After next week, when two or three promising candidates become eligible to represent Lubbock High in athletics, the Westerners promise to be more dangerous.

Have Shown Promise

That Coach Huffman and his assistant, Ross Ayers, has built the foundation for a fair team this year, a team that will fight to the last whistle, hustle all the time, a team that can pass the ball from one to the other with smooth handling, was demonstrated last week in the Levelland game. Fighting all the way to overcome a lead, Lubbock lost by the narrow margin of one point, 20 to 19.

In the Panhandle league race, which has no bearing on the state interscholastic league pennant chase, but which has been organized to keep competition alive between the Class A teams of the district, each team plays the other twice, on a home-and-home basis. Plainview is here tonight, Lubbock goes to Plainview later.

Sandies Here Next

The next league game at home is with Amarillo, on January 26, by which time the Westerners are figured to be ready. After tonight, Lubbock plays Borger at Borger and Lamesa at Lamesa before appearing before the home folks.

Coach Huffman plans to start Loftis and Jones at forwards, Gammill at center, McWhorter and Upton at guards tonight, thereby presenting what appears to be his most powerful lineup. Loftis, a letter man hold over from last year, missed the first home game on account of illness and Letsinger and Mast occupied his forward position. Loftis, fast on the floor and an accurate goal shooter, is due to play tonight.

Bernie Bierman Signed As Instructor In Fifth Tech Coaching Classes

School Dates Are Set August 5 To 16 By Cawthon

Bernie Bierman, whose unbeaten University of Minnesota eleven was held by most critics as the national collegiate football champion of 1934, has been signed as one of the head instructors on the fifth annual Texas Tech coaching school staff.

In announcing the agreement of Bierman to come here again, Pete Cawthon, Texas Tech athletic director, said that the 1935 school would open August 5 and extend through August 16.

Bible Signs Contract

Bierman is the second football master mind to accept the invitation to distribute his knowledge among the 1935 students. While attending the American Football Coaches association convention last month in New York, Cawthon signed Dana X. Bible, University of Nebraska's successful mentor, as one of the headline attractions. At the same time he contracted Nat Holman, City College of New York basketball coach and one of the country's most promising cage mentors, regarding a position on the staff here this year. Holman's definite answer has not been received.

Will Add Others

Cawthon said that two more outstanding football coaches, a basketball coach, a physical education expert and a track and field tactician would be added to the staff.

Since it made its debut in the summer of 1931, the Texas Tech coaching school has surpassed all others in point of attendance, an average of more than 300 "students" having enrolled in each of the four preceding schools.

Bierman proved popular at the 1933 coaching school, although he appeared on the lecture schedule only twice.

Moody Opposes Baseball Rule

Major-Minor Draft Rule Most Unfair; Salary Limit Ought To Be Set, Thinks Wealthy Owner Of Galveston Club

GALVESTON, Jan. 15. (AP)—Shearn Moody, millionaire owner of the Galveston baseball club that captured the Texas League flag last season, views baseball from the bank roll angle and thinks there's a lot wrong with the game's business end.

Although he loves baseball as a game, Moody wouldn't give a nickel for his club if it didn't roll in the cash, and he said he would make the league a present of the franchise if it reached the non-profit point.

Made It Back

Moody dropped $60,000 in two years with the Galveston club, but took a shot with business principles that made him successful in insurance, cotton, shipping and newspaper ownership, recouped the loss and is looking for more business.

Now he holds the four-year record of having made more money and developed and sold a greater number of players than any two Texas league organizations.

Elimination of the major-minor draft and a players' salary scale are Moody's chief proposed methods of doctoring baseball's business ailments.

Sell 'Em Like Cars

"Major leagues have no more right to draft my baseball property than I have to draft another fellow's insurance business," Moody said. "Players should be bought and sold like automobiles. Minors spend money developing a player and then sell him at a low price before the draft grabs him. The rule is silly and hurts the game.

"Another thing, baseball needs a set salary scale. Present high salaries which Babe Ruth created may be good publicity for players but it means financial ruin for owners. Ruth brought thousands to the game, but players, not owners, got the money.

Unfair To Connie

"I have a set salary scale in my club, and players can accept or go elsewhere. Since I put the club on a business and not baseball basis, I have reaped a profit, won a pennant and developed and sold plenty of players.

"I understand Connie Mack sold Lefty Grove because he could not pay Lefty but $11,000 when he knew he could get $20,000 with another team. That isn't fair. A set salary scale would abolish such things.

"But baseball as run by a majority of club owners is a silly business because of rules that owners should never have allowed."

Big Zeke Returns Unsigned Contract To Sox; Threatens To Quit If Not Given Raise

CHICAGO, Jan. 16. (AP) — Zeke Bonura, who drove out 27 home runs and led the American League first basemen in fielding last season, today threatened to quit baseball unless the White Sox offer him a better contract for 1934.

From New Orleans, where he has been spending most of the winter working for his father in a commission house, Bonura returned his contract unsigned. He didn't divulge the salary offered by the White Sox, but said it was "unfair."

Oklahoma Gridders To Open With Colorado Next Season

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 16. (AP) — The University of Oklahoma will open its 1935 football season against the University of Colorado here Sept. 28.

The Sooners will play the five other members of the Big Six, Texas and the Oklahoma Aggies and are considering Rice Institute, New Mexico and Oklahoma City university for a ninth game.

COWBOYS LOSE

ABILENE, Jan. 16. (AP)—Hitting the basket from all angles with regularity, the East Texas State Teachers college of Commerce outclassed the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys here tonight, 44 to 28.

The Lions got off to a fast start and led the Cowboys 27 to 7 at the half. Bow and Russell of the East Texas five tied for high point honors with 12 each.

Fightin' Aggie Cagers Defeat Steers, 41-40

Texas Longhorns' Win Record Is Shattered By Farmers In Rough Game; See-Saw Battle Changes Leads

(By The Associated Press)

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 16.—The 15-game winning streak of the University of Texas was shattered here tonight by a scrapping Texas Aggie quintet that snatched a 41 to 40 victory in a thrill-soaked Southwest conference game.

Ten times the lead changed hands and five times the score was knotted. A spurt by the Farmers in the last nine minutes of play provided the slim victory margin.

It was the Aggies' first victory in two starts while the Longhorns copped three Southwest conference games.

Tommy Hutto, dazzling Aggie forward, led the scoring iwth 14 points and was instrumental in pacing the Cadets into a winning lead with the score tied at 33-all and nine minutes to play.

Great guarding by Monte Carmichael held Jack Gray, Steer ace, to their field goals but his running mate, Jean Francis, broke loose for five field shots.

Two Players Banished

The game was rough throughout, Tohline being banished on fouls late in the first half and Clifton, Longhorn guard, in the second period.

After the lead see-sawed, Francis paced the Steers to a six point lead but Hutto started firing and cut the Longhorn advantage to 23 to 22 at the half. The Cadets then took an early second half lead but again had to spurt to knot the score at 33-all.

The Farmers spurted again and built up a seven point lead, but quick baskets by Wittman, Francis and Gray tore it down again—except for the one point that won the ball game.

Les Cranfill Resigns As Hardin-Simmons Mentor; Successor Is Not Named

Cowboy Coach Quits After 7 Years At Abilene School

(By The Associated Press)

ABILENE, Jan. 16.—Resignation of Les Cranfill as head coach of Hardin-Simmons university was announced here today by the school's athletic board. Athletic Manager O. B. Sandefer said that although the board is considering a number of applications, a successor to Cranfill has not been named.

Cranfill became affiliated with the Abilene school in 1926 when he was signed as assistant to Vic Payne. He was elevated to head coach in 1927 when Payne went from Hardin-Simmons to Texas Technological college at Lubbock. Cranfill resigned in 1928 to go to Fort Worth where he served as athletic director of Stribling high school until he returned to Hardin-Simmons on Jan. 1, 1930.

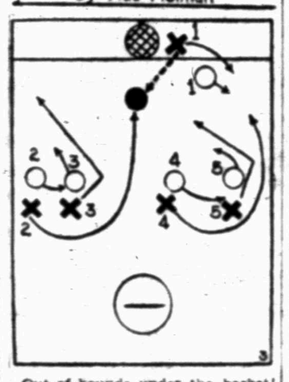

Since that time Cranfill's basketball teams have won four Texas conference titles and finished in second place last year. The 1931 football team tied for the conference championship.

During the war Cranfill was selected as fullback on Walter Camp's 1918, all-AEF team. He later starred at Hardin-Simmons, Abilene Christian college and Bethany.

WINNING BASKETBALL
By Nat Holman

Out-of-bounds under the basket! Here's a play with great possibilities.

As the ball goes out, the offensive team quickly lines up across the court, some five feet beyond the foul circle. X-3 and X-5 start to cut and feint toward X-1 for the pass; after a step or two, they cut to the left, carrying their guards with them.

X-2 cuts around X-3, timing his movements so that O-2 will find O-3 in his path as he turns to follow. X-4 uses same cut and timing as X-2.

Lott And Stoefen Wonder How Long This Has Been Going On

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—George Martin Lott, jr., and Lester Rollo Stoefen, latest recruits to professional tennis, earned slightly more than $6,000 each in their first week as play-for-pay racquet wielders.

While Lott and Stoefen and their barnstorming partners, Bill Tilden and Ellsworth Vines, took things easy today in New Haven before appearing there in an exhibition tomorrow night, Promoter Bill O'Brien announced that the gross receipts thus far of the three months tour which opened in Madison Square Garden here a week ago amounted to $49,069.52.

Lott and Stoefen quit the amateur ranks last fall, signing contracts with O'Brien for "cuts" in the gross receipts amounting to 12 1-2 per cent each.

Vines' share is reported to be 20 per cent, while O'Brien and Tilden, partners in a promotion concern, split the remainder.

Henry Frnka May Be Invited As Northwestern Coach Aide

GREENVILLE, Jan. 16. (AP)—Henry Frnka, football coach of the Greenville High school Lions, 1933 Texas schoolboy champions and semi-finalists in the 1934 race, said tonight he had conferred with Lynn Waldorf, newly elected head coach of Northwestern university, relative to accepting a post on the Northwestern coaching staff.

Frnka, who returned here tonight from Oklahoma City, said he met Waldorf there and conferred with him about the matter. He met Waldorf at the latter's request. It was reported Waldorf would recommend Frnka to the Northwestern Athletic council.

SAM HOUSTON WINS

HUNTSVILLE, Jan. 16. (AP)—In a listless game, the Sam Houston State Teachers college smothered the Texas Womens college of Fort Worth here tonight, 50 to 13.

The Bearkat regulars piled up a 20 to 3 lead and numerous substitutes were sent into the game. Gratehouse led the winners with 11 points, followed by Cochran with 10. Paddock played nice ball for the losers.

Young Jap Flashes Form When Needed To Tame Wild Sailor; Detton And Burns In Feature

Watkins Meets His Master In Exciting Contest Before Record Smashing Crowd; Dory And Bobby Break Even

Starting out like a disappointment but winding up as a sure-fire hit, young Matsuda Matsura from Oregon flashed amazing wrestling form for a couple of minutes last night to pin the "just whipped" sign to the seat of Sailor Watkins' pants and seal it there with a thwack that struck keen admiration for the wily Japanese from the hearts of about 2,000 fans.

An official count was not reported last night, but it was estimated that the huge crowd which had gathered to see the undesirable sailor man "get his" was the largest ever to assemble for a wrestling show here. Estimates from 1,800 to 2,700 were made by Auditorium attaches.

When the proper times arrived, Matsura turned on the stuff to live up to advance billing, although at other times he looked about as slow and ineffective as most grapplers do when they meet the wild and woolly Watkins.

Jap Is Accommodating

At that, Matsura was kind to the bragging, strutting Watkins. The ex-navy champ can always boast that he won the first fall he ever wrestled with this latest sensation in the nation's middleweight ranks. Evidently Matsura had not been forewarned; at least he did not appear to be forearmed. He gave every indication of wanting to wrestle, but Watkins turned a deaf ear to wrestling, and made a brawl out of it. It was getting along in the second fall before Matsura decided to accommodate the tough guy.

Watkins bit, choked, gouged, kicked, hair-pulled and rabbit-punched himself to the first fall in 26 minutes. He was putting on one of his best exhibitions. He was feeling his oats, and he was doing right well by himself against such a prominent foe. He punched and throttled Matsura into submission, then grabbed a perfect Japanese crab, his only legitimate hold of the evening, to win.

The 21-year-old Jap, never changing his expression, waitsing around, waiting for an opening, appeared to be biding his time for a break. When the break wasn't coming, he made it, flashing into fast action for the first time in the second fall. He needed only a minute after he started chasing Watkins all over the ring. So quick that his movements could not be followed with the naked eye, Matsura had Watkins on his stomach, pasted down with a reverse Indian stake hold and a surfboard. Watkins couldn't nod his head too quickly, and he was a most unhappy person when he finally arose to the thundering jeers of the crowd. The fall lasted 11 minutes.

Matty Gets Rough

So suddenly did the Jap apply the death-lock that he was the established favorite when he came back for the third fall, leisurely removed his silken Japanese robe and tucked it behind the ropes. He was slow again, at the start, and took a lot of eye-gouging, hair-pulling and garroting. Then he did a little rough stuff of his own; not exceptionally rough. He punished Watkins with a head-lock, the only one he took all evening, and chucked him one time on the button to spin the fat sailor across the mat.

The Jap didn't burst out with an abundance of tricks, but he had little opportunity to use them. He could have broken any hold Watkins fixed with a little bit of jujitsu, a little muscle twitching. But for the most part he permitted Watkins to have his fling, always leaving the fans impressed he could take care of the situation when he so desired.

Drop-Kicks Do It

Then, with the same suddenness that marked his second fall attack, Matsura went to work with a series of perfectly-placed flying kicks, catching Watkins under the chin three times in beautiful footwork. Watkins caved in, and the Jap fastened him with a queer shoulder smother to win the deciding fall in 13 minutes.

The Jap, a beautifully-built specimen, short but thick and with plenty of fortitude, never backed away one pace from Watkins, always chased him around the ring and through the ropes. He kept his part of it strictly clean except for the one uppercut. He used his elbows with about the same force Watkins used fists. He waited a long time to get going, but he went over in a handsome way with the folks.

Those who went to see wrestling last night were most graciously entertained by a 30-minute interlude featuring those young show-stealers, Cyclone Bobby Burns and Dory Detton. Good enough for a main event on anybody's card anywhere, and rarely reduced to semi-windup shows, Detton and Burns staged a sizzling exhibition of scientific grappling, enough of it to give the fans their 40 cents worth even if the main event had been left off the card.

Fancy Blocking

After five minutes of slithery footwork, dodging and feinting, Detton and Burns got together, and for the next 26 minutes there was plenty of excitement.

They stayed on the clean side of the game, and while they pleased the customers most highly, they must have been very much embarrassed during the setto. For every hold that one would fix, the other had an effective block, and it was that way for the duration of the round.

The Memphis mauler and the Utah Mormon used nearly every hold in the books, and many not on the books, in vain efforts to stop each other, but no sooner would one grab what looked like the winning hold than the other would come out of it in extraordinary fashion. They exchanged hammerlocks, new kinds of toe-holds, nelsons, spread-eagles, spins, splits, cradles and twice Detton almost fixed the forward Indian death lock. He did get it once, but Burns came out with a block never seen here before.

Britain Beats Luttrel

It looked like curtains for Dory when Burns caught him in his favorite victory clasp, the turn-over scissors. He slam-banged Detton all over the mat with it, but always Detton would turn over and save his shoulders. Then it looked like Detton had him with his favorite winner, the airplane spin which the Mormon executes so vigorously. But Burns came out of that, and also out of a flying dutchman, and a reverse nelson spin. They were a pair of worn-out lads when it was over.

O. H. Britain, local ex-high school gridder, defeated Dave Luttrel of Panhandle in 12 minutes of the preliminary with a crotch-hold and body slam after a fair little exhibition.

Rice Coach Thinks Texas Teams Will Take Arkansas; 'Porkers Not Strong'

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Jan. 16.—Coach Jimmy Kitts doesn't believe the highly-favored University of Arkansas Razorbacks will win the 1935 Southwest conference basketball championship.

Discussing the conference basketball situation here Tuesday night, Kitts said:

"I don't want to startle you but I don't believe Arkansas has a really strong quintet even though the Razorbacks whipped Rice a pair of games. The first game was close and well-played. Roughness was called and officials kept playing contact under control. The second Arkansas and Rice game quickly developed into a rough and tumble affair in which neither team resembled anything like a strong conference team.

"I can't see Arkansas winning the title. When the Razorbacks take to the road watch their current basketball prestige tumble. Frankly, I believe Southern Methodist and Texas University can easily take Arkansas. Texas A. & M. would have a real chance to win. I don't believe Texas Christian and Baylor has the strength to whip Arkansas.

"Because my Rice boys lost three games a few critics claim the Owls are washed out of the conference race. That's wrong. The titular chase should continue to the last games. Look at the way Southern Methodist beat back to defeat Rice after the Mustangs had played a miserable game and lost to Baylor. That's why I say Rice certainly isn't out of the race just because of three defeats. From what I have seen of the teams, Texas and Rice should stage a neck and neck finish. Rice plays four crucial games at home and should win them.

"But mark what I tell you, the wise boys who figure Arkansas has the conference crown polished and ready to wear are wrong, because the Razorbacks are far from being the conference's strongest team. I'm not trying to detract from Arkansas but just giving an honest opinion of what I think of the teams and the race."

British Net Fathers Figure To Keep Stars In Amateur Class By Allowing Remuneration For 'Educational Films'

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Making no secret of the fact that the move is designed to keep Fred Perry and Bunny Austin in the amateur fold, Herbert Roper Barnett, captain of the British Davis Cup team, today defended the British Lawn Tennis association's efforts to make life simpler for court stars by permitting them to be paid for "educational" motion picture action films.

Simultaneously Barrett expressed keen disappointment over the failure of Walter Merrill Hall, president of the United States Lawn Tennis association, to "mount the band wagon" and join England and Czechoslovakia in a move to abrogate the International Lawn Tennis federation rule prohibiting amateurs from receiving pecuniary gain for appearing in action films.

Would Hurt Pros

Whereas it always has been customary for amateur officials to profess nothing but rare good will toward professional barnstormers like William (Big Bill) Tilden and Ellsworth Vines, Barrett not only admitted he doesn't like them, but predicted that the move he fostered at last Monday's meeting of the B. L. T. A. would "cut the ground from under them."

Admitting that the objective of endorsing the movement started by the Czechoslovakian association was to keep Perry and Austin, England's Davis Cup stars, amateurs, Barrett said:

"Everyone should realize that if they turned professional it would open the flood-gates and leave the amateur game in a precarious position. We must remember we are living in 1935 and not 1908 and be prepared to make concessions to progress.

Terms For Money

"We are not in the least opposed to the regular professional who earns his living teaching but we are positive measures must be taken to halt this rush to join the barnstormers.

"They are only playing tennis to put money in their own pockets and are not doing anything toward imparting skill to youngsters. It is a terrific temptation when a player is offered 10,000 pounds, (the amount Perry was once offered to turn professional by Bill O'Brien of New York) or some such fabulous sum to turn professional. That is the temptation we should remove."

MENARD, Jan. 16. (AP)—A change of venue was granted today in the cases of H. B. Opp and L. E. Trimble, charged with the slaying of County Commissioner Wylie Tomlinson.

Tech Press Club To Pass Judgment On Newsmen Handling Kidnap Case

The amusing, while not arresting, word comes from Texas Technological college that its press club today will "decide" whether America's top-notch newsmen and freelance writers, from Arthur Brisbane and John Ferris to Walter Winchell and Kathleen Norris, know what time it is.

A straw vote was taken yesterday to determine whether the majority of students, from evidence read in newspapers, believed Bruno Richard Hauptmann would be convicted or acquitted of murder. The press club sponsored the balloting. Today the votes will be counted and then the solemn decision will be reached.

Or perhaps—this was not made clear — the jury's verdict will be awaited, and then, if it disagrees with the majority student vote, newsmen will be accused for the 'steenth time of using sensational elements to distort a picture.

"We are making a survey to get reactions of newspaper readers concerning the Hauptmann trial," said Forrest Weimhold, press club president.

"We believe that in this way we may be able to tell whether or not newspapers are ethical, fair, and impartial in handling news of the Hauptmann trial."

The Hauptmann trial has drawn to little Flemington perhaps the most distinguished array of newspaper talent in our criminal court history. Singularly, neither the bar nor the bench has criticised newspaper treatment of the case.

Metropolitan papers have had columns of stenographic question-and-answer testimony in unadulterated form day after day, and general stories in the large and small dailies alike have been shaped with especial attention chronology, routine as well as surprise evidence, and an almost unprecedented amount of direct quotation.

The press club, anyhow, has given itself a prodigious job, and the campus newspaper, The Toreador, supposedly will report the outcome Friday.—B. McC.

An Enterprising Young Merchant--

NEWSPAPERS are an important factor in the progress of the world, supplying all of the news from at home and abroad to every interested person at a negligible cost. The service which they render has come to be taken more or less for granted, but there is one factor that is deserving of your attention and consideration.

The carrier boy who delivers your newspaper daily, regardless of weather or other interfering forces, is the principal link between the publisher and the reader. It is through his enterprise and industry that you are able to enjoy the convenient service that characterizes newspaper delivery.

This young man in most cases is not a newspaper employee. He is an independent young merchant, buying and paying for his papers by the week and selling them on a weekly credit basis to his customers. His profits for the service that he renders are small, yet many of these boys, by thrifty management, are paying their way through school with their earnings and at the same time putting something away for the future.

Encourage your carrier boy in the thrifty habit which he is forming by paying him regularly for the service that he is rendering you.

Jurisdiction Battle Looms

California Judge Orders Mrs. Cusack To Return Children But Texas Injunction Lies Between Execution

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16. (AP)—The battle of Mrs. Ann Hamilton Cusack, now in Cuero, Tex., and her estranged husband, Charles E. Cusack, wealthy Chicago advertising man, for custody of their three small sons reached a new stage today with Superior Judge Isaac Pacht ordering the boys to the custody of their father.

From Texas, however, Mrs. Cusack telegraphed Judge Pacht she was unable to bring the boys to California to give them to their father since the courts of Dewitt county, Texas, had issued an order forbidding removal of the children from their jurisdiction. Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Hamilton of Cuero, parents of Mrs. Cusack, have filed a custody action in Texas.

Jurisdiction Moot

Judge Pacht issued the order giving custody to their father after Cusack filed a new suit for divorce yesterday, alleging she associated with other men, drank to excess, and, in defiance of a court order, took the children from the jurisdiction of Los Angeles courts.

Judge Pacht told Cusack it might be that the federal courts will have to be called upon to decide rival claims of California and Texas courts to jurisdiction in the matter of custody of the children.

TO ACCREDIT SCHOOL

MORTON, (Special) — Morton High school teachers are working hard to accredit the local school during the 1934-35 year, J. B. Nicewarmer, superintendent, reports. G. D. Holbrook, Lubbock, deputy state school superintendent, approved and recommended credits for English III and civics, bringing the total to 14 1-2 credits. Seventy five books were added recently to the library.

France's national anthem, the Marseillaise, was once a forbidden song in that country. It was sung so enthusiastically by French revolutionists and employed as accompaniment to so many horrible deeds that it was considered dangerous and forbidden.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul; skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

Lauds Spy Heroine

Belated honors are being showered by France on its foremost woman spy of the World War — Martha Richer Compton, shown here addressing an American Legion meeting in Paris. Sacrificing herself as the mistress of a German spy chief, she won his secrets and foiled many foe plans, receiving the Legion of Honor 15 years after the war.

Claims Allowed By Floyd Court

FLOYDADA, Jan. 16. (Special)—Damages were awarded by the condemnation commission to R. L. Ardy, jr., and R. W. Moore, owners of property along the proposed route of the Ralls-Floydada highway, in Floyd county. Awards amounted to $650, including $25 per acre for about six acres each and $500 actual damages.

The commissioners, W. S. Poole, Antelope, O. E. Svenson, Lockney; and G. C. Collins, Sand Hill, meet February 23 to pass on other claims.

It is understood J. J. Day and the commissioners' court have an understanding on the value of the Day land.

There were eight generations of musicians in the Bach family. Twenty-nine members of the family, beginning with Wert Bach in 1550, attained eminence in this field. Johann Sebastian reached the greatest fame of all.

Flush Poisons From Kidneys and Stop Getting Up Nights

When you can get for 35 cents a supremely efficient and harmless stimulant and diuretic that will flush from your kidneys the waste matter, poisons and acid that are now doing you harm, why continue to break your restful sleep by getting up thru the night. Just ask your druggist for Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules—but be sure and get GOLD MEDAL—right from Haarlem in Holland. Other symptoms of weak kidneys and irritated bladder are backache, puffy eyes, leg cramps, moist palms, burning or scanty passage. adv.

Gabe Smith Death Sentence Affirmed

AUSTIN, Jan. 16. (AP)—The Texas court of criminal appeals today affirmed the death sentence of Gabe Smith for the murder of Alvin G. Legate of Houston. Legate, proprietor of a small grocery store, was shot while resisting a holdup last February 17.

The 99-year sentence of Isaac Byrd in Bexar county was affirmed. Byrd was convicted of shooting Virgil Camper to death last February 24.

The court upheld the constitutionality of the statute requiring a motorist to drive on the right side of the road. The decision was in a case appealed from El Paso county.

L. A. Williams, fined for alleged violation of the law, contended in his appeal that the statute was unconstitutional because it was indefinite.

It's Your Debt!

YOU owe $385.

You don't? Oh, yes, you do!

That's your share of the $48,000,000,000 debt of the federal, state, and local governments of the country.

You may think you're square with the world and owe no man anything, but you're not—so long as these public debts continue to mount. It's a claim against everything you own or ever hope to own.

The federal government debt is now about $28,000,000,000 (it will soon be $34,000,000,000) and local governments owe some $20,000,000,000. Nobody else is ever going to pay it but you.

But it isn't so bad. If you were a Britisher, you'd owe $991 in the same way. If the World war had gone on another year, you'd probably owe more than you do now.

TREASURY figures reducing these debts to terms of the individual citizen are fortunate, because they bring home a thing that people are apt to forget about public debts.

Really, there isn't any such thing as a public debt. A public debt is simply a collective debt of all of us, and as long as it exists, no man is debt-free.

Do you own a home? It isn't debt-free, even though you've paid for it in full. Have you money in the bank? It isn't solely yours—the public treasury has a potential claim for $385 against it.

Do you draw wages or a salary? It isn't all yours for certain until these public debts are paid.

We're too apt to think of the public treasury as some sort of inexhaustible fountain pouring out gold from a mysterious source. There's nothing mysterious about it. It all comes out of your pocket, and the pockets of your neighbors.

AND that's true quite regardless of what kind of taxes is used to raise the money. Income taxes, tariff levies, production taxes, sales taxes, gas taxes, cigaret taxes, amusement taxes, liquor taxes—they all come from one source in the long run, the only source there is—the pockets of the people who work to produce either goods or services.

All that is not saying the money shouldn't be spent. The best authorities agree that the country collectively can carry a far heavier debt than we are now carrying. Probably it must.

But every man, woman and child has a direct interest in seeing that the money is well spent and that we get something of permanent value for the money.

That is one of the principal thoughts behind the president's plan to spend it for productive work rather than just dishing it out. It's not how much you spend—it's what you get for your money.

So the next time you hear of a billion-dollar appropriation, think to yourself, "That's $8 out of my trousers pocket. Is it worth it?"

WITH OUR CONTEMPORARIES

"Matt Howell came in recently and brought a shoat which he turned loose in our front yard and for which he will be burdened with the reading of the Texas Spur continuously six long years," the Texas Spur records in its "23 years ago" column.

"President Roosevelt has said so many startling and uplifting things in recent months that this column will be dedicated today to quotations from him," J. W. Smyth of the Scurry County Times says of his "Weekly Dozen" comments.

"You can learn to dive without dabbling in the market," Frank Fletcher observes in the Southland Sun.

"Don't try to do a 1935 business with 1934 ideas," says H. H. Weimbold in the Sudan News. "And, there are some people who try to do a 1935 business with ideas of 1915 or earlier."

"And now we will hear from C. E. Cooper," Morley Drake "thinks" in the Lamb County Leader. "Here's how Mr. Cooper terminated a discussion relative to irrigation for this section. "I don't know a d—n thing about irrigation, but I do know that it takes water to grow crops."

Today's One-Minute Sermon

But I say unto you, Swear not at all; neither by heaven; for it is God's throne:

Nor by the earth; for it is his footstool: neither by Jerusalem; for it is the city of the Great King.

Neither shalt thou swear by the head, because thou canst not make one hair white or black.

But let your communication be, Yea, yea; Nay, nay: for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil. St. Matthew 5: 34-37.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

SHARP-NOSED Wall Street speculators—forgetting their noses have been ground to a blunt pug in the past—jumped the gun momentarily last week and began converting their holdings into government gold securities. This was on the basis of newspaper interpretations of questions put to federal counsel by Chief Justice Hughes and others.

The "smart boys" started betting the high court will rule that any federal obligation contracted on a gold basis must be paid in gold. It may be they are right—but being right doesn't always mean you cash your bet.

New Deal officials are waiting for the decision with a bit more interest than the next ones. But they don't appear to be unduly disturbed about the outcome.

COMPLEX: Even though the Supreme court should rule, in effect, that a $1 debt becomes $1.69 at existing currency valuation, able New Dealers are arguing President Roosevelt still has a trick up his sleeve.

Their theory is that the administration still would retain the power to call in and impound all gold. They point out that the Supreme court inferentially at least upheld this power when it threw out the question in the hoarding case.

If this be true, and the court should rule adversely to the government in the gold payment case pending, gold could be issued to each debtor to pay his creditor—while a Treasury agent stood at the side of the creditor and took the gold back again. Obviously, this would be an involved process that would give all the unemployed bookkeepers in the country work for months. The idea is that once the word got around that gold settlement could only be on this basis the creditors would lose their taste for the yellow metal.

Plenty of lawyers who followed the arguments closely, including some members of Congress, were not overly impressed with the manner in which the Department of Justice presented its case.

BOUNDS: The question now arises—"How can the President be given blanket authority to start enterprises hiring millions of men without running afoul of the Supreme court's barrier against undue delegation of legislative power?"

Some committeemen dealing with relief legislation are disposed to insist that specific directions shall be given for expenditure of the $4,000,000,000 lump sum—not too minute directions, but sufficiently definite to avert another Supreme court knockout.

Republicans and a sprinkling of Democrats object to any lump sum grant at all. The leaders have settled that. But they are not so sure that it wouldn't be wise to put in a few boundary lines.

SINCLAIR: Pessimists here who see the country going to the demnition bow-wows by 1936 are mortally afraid of Huey Long. Optimists give him a few months more in which to split the ears of the groundlings. Meanwhile Upton Sinclair is licking his sores and nursing strength for another bout with poverty. "End Poverty" clubs are organizing in the west, on a plan somewhat modified, but grimly determined to substitute public for private enterprise. Sinclair bosses the Democratic party in California—a springboard for a bigger leap.

Students of Long, Sinclair and other depression freaks say that Sinclair is more to be feared than Long.

DECISION: House appropriation committeemen would like to cut down the ambitions of Joseph P. Kennedy, Securities commission chairman. They suggested that instead of putting on 300 or more sleuths to ferret out stock exchange wrongs the commission should get warm in its chair, consolidate its position, get acquainted with its duties, and thus prepare for bigger things.

It was all up to FDR. He thinks the commission is ready to clean up crookedness in security dealings, and so he got the appropriations asked for in the budget.

SAVED: Senator Rush Holt of West Virginia—should he be dubbed "Schoolboy Holt?"—is not being forgotten by his Democratic colleagues.

While the young man sits patiently by, drawing his pay and waiting for his 30th birthday to arrive next June so he can take the oath, he has received assurances there will be work waiting for him.

Four committee assignments have been saved for the Henry Clay of West Virginia.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

NEW YORK in general is agitated about the prospects for "monetary chaos" but the best-posted sources remain unruffled. They figure one of four things will happen—in the following order of probability.

1. The court will rule in favor of the government on the basis that the requirements of public policy take precedence over purely legal considerations. Those who rate this the likeliest solution believe the purpose of Hughes' queries was to get assistance from the Department of Justice in framing such a decision. They add that Attorney-General Cummings and his aides were about as much help in this connection as a pair of skis in the Sahara Desert.

2. The court may reserve decision for several months—meanwhile conveying gentle hints to the proper quarters as to what the government can do to strengthen its legal position.

3. The court might decide against the government and the latter apply immediately for a rehearing. The status quo would be maintained in the interim. Then Congress could enact a law increasing the membership of the Supreme Court and the President could fill the new posts with men who could be counted on to back him up—enough of them to swing a reversal. This radical remedy is mentioned as a serious possibility in conservative circles.

4. Assuming an adverse decision is made — and stands — it doesn't have to mean a financial earthquake. The government could exercise its taxing power to neutralize the huge increase in the national debt and end up with things just where they are now. Intelligent cooperation between Congress (under White House guidance), the Treasury and the Federal Reserve could keep the situation well in hand.

Financial observers agree the New Deal has gone too far on its monetary road to allow itself to be detoured—and carries too many guns to be shoved aside by nine gentlemen in black. It's an odds-on bet that FDR and his advisers will find some way to stick to the course they have charted.

CONFIDENCE: The big banks have made a sharp but unpublicized change in their investment policy in the past month. They've lost their yen for liquidity as expressed in large holdings of short-term governments to the virtual exclusion of long-term bonds. Instead they're going in for the long-term federal stuff (five-year maturity or longer) in a big way.

Partly this is due to the urge to boost earnings. Instead of lending money at 1 1-2 per cent to others to reinvest at 3 per cent they've decided to forget the liquidity fetish and make the 3 per cent themselves. Partly also it's being done as a measure of cooperation between the banks and Washington. Active demand for long-terms brings Mr. Morgenthau's goal of still cheaper borrowing closer.

But above all this policy shift is as striking a mark of confidence in the soundness of federal credit and the future of government bonds as Sherlock Holmes could find. Note also that the demand continues unabated despite the gold clause excitement.

COMPROMISE: Financial conservatives are strongly behind Senator Glass' proposal for a law which would bar the Secretary of the Treasury from a seat on the Federal Reserve board.

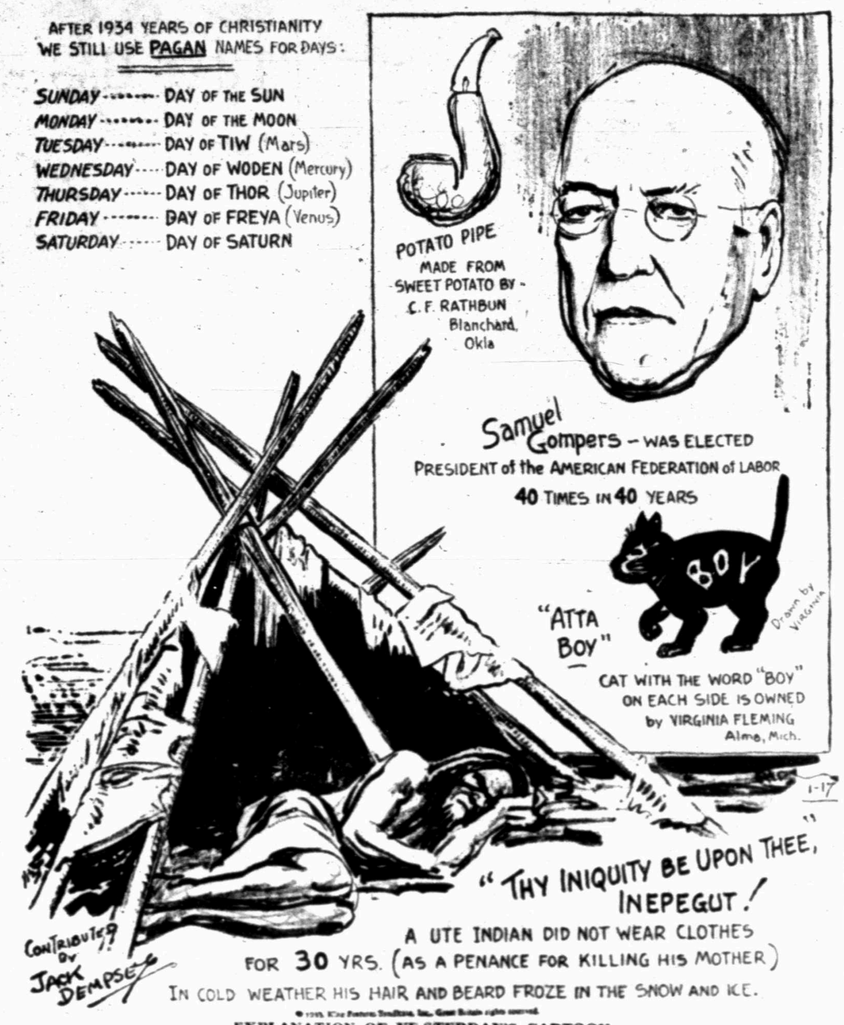

This move is being made purely on the theory that the best defense is a strong attack. There isn't a banker who expects Glass to get away with it. But they do hope it will force a compromise which will minimize the extension of government control over the Federal Reserve system.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

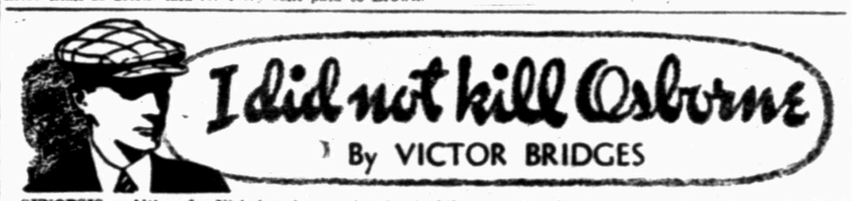

THE HOME TERRAPIN

On September 11, 1901, J. P. Johnson, a cattleman of Webster, Texas, carved a wine-glass brand and the date on a terrapin's back and released it. Thirty-three years passed and Johnson never saw the terrapin again, but late in November, 1934, he found it while gathering wood, picked it up and found his carvings of a third of a century before. The terrapin hadn't changed much in size, but his hard shell gave evidence of having survived several prarie fires and many hard knocks in general through the years.

BRICKLAYING CHAMP

Back in 1925 James Brown, former Carlisle Indian school football player had a job on a construction gang laying paving brick near Kansas City, Mo. As the construction of the highway progressed Brown became more and more proficient at his task, and finally layed claim to a world championship by laying 36,000 bricks in a single working day. That's almost 3 1-2 carloads of brick, and Brown kept five men supplying him with brick as he worked.

Considering the fact that he received only $16.00 a day, it was "cheap labor" for the company—who had more than 22 bricks laid for every cent paid to Brown.

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: Although Nicholas Trench has been acquitted of the charge that he murdered his former schoolfellow, Osborne, he is beginning to find that the general public does not agree with the verdict. His cousin, Sir Seymour, tells him his club plans to expel him, and then insults Nicholas by suggesting that the latter leave England and offering to pay his expenses. Nicholas calls Seymour a pompous ass.

CHAPTER SEVEN INSULT

Seymour jumped up from his chair, pale and furious. "How dare you!" he spluttered. "How . . . "

I took a step toward him. "Shut up!" I said savagely. "Shut up and listen to me. I've nothing to be ashamed of, and I don't care a hang what anyone says or thinks. I shall live my life exactly as I choose. You can keep your money in your dirty pocket, and as for changing my name or leaving the country, I shall certainly not do anything of the kind."

And with this exceedingly ungracious remark I turned round and walked out of the room.

Dusk had already fallen as I crossed the iron bridge spanning the railway and struck off along the deserted road which would bring me out at Chalk Farm.

It was a few minutes past nine o'clock, and the three hours that had elapsed since my leaving St. Jame's Street had at least afforded me plenty of time in which to recover my temper.

I had dined at a small Italian restaurant in the Euston Road. My only reason for turning in there had been the extreme unlikelihood that its clientele would include anyone with whom I was acquainted, and if there had not been much else to be said in its favor, in that particular respect it had justified my choice.

After my dinner I had sat on for some while smoking cigarets, meditating upon my troubles and finishing the bottle of indifferent Chianti which the proprietor had succeeded in foisting on me.

Then, moved by a sudden impulse, I had decided that, tired as I was, I would stroll home to the studio through Regent's Park, and across Primrose Hill. It was a walk I had always been fond of, and a little fresh air and mild exercise would, I had felt, assist me in getting off to sleep.

I was almost sorry now that I had been so unpleasant to Seymour. As far as he was capable of any personal emotion I had no idea that he rather liked me. He had certainly been pleased with my success, and on one or two occasions, notably in the case of the Royal United Arts, he had endeavored, in his own rather patronizing fashion, to do me what he doubtless considered to be a valuable service.

I had been stupid to fly out at him in that ferocious fashion. It was absurd to expect people to behave differently from the way in which they had been created, and in endeavoring to rid himself of an embarrassing connection, my cousin had merely acted as any intelligent person who knew him would naturally have predicted.

What my mind was chiefly concerned with at the moment, however, were the two significant pieces of news which I had brought away from our interview. If Seymour's statements were correct, and there seemed to be no reason for doubting it, my future outlook could hardly be described as encouraging.

Considering that I had been found not guilty, it was incredible that the club committee should ask for my resignation unless a large proportion of the members disagreed with the verdict. The same argument would apply to the select tribunal who had turned down my designs for a national memorial, and in that event it could be safely assumed that the prevalent feeling towards me amongst the general public must be one of skeptical hostility.

For all Mr. Cresswell's assurances to the contrary there was evidently a widespread suspicion that in escaping the gallows I had cheated justice.

As I trudged along in the gathering darkness I began to wonder how many, even amongst my more intimate friends, would be prepared to stick up boldly for my innocence.

The only one in whom I felt an entire and unhesitating confidence was Jerry Mordaunt. It was just my luck that he should be out of England at the time when I most needed him. A few days before my ar-

Students Taking Periodical Tests

Dead week is dull.

Lubbock public school students still take examinations, if they are classed above the fourth grade, but no special group of days has been set apart for the entire system, Supt. Kenneth E. Oberholtzer said.

High school students began Wednesday afternoon taking 1-hour examinations.

Students unlucky enough to have 10 1-2 demerits, however, will have the privilege of taking 18 week examinations, which will last considerably longer than one hour.

There will be no break between terms, since regular classes will not be discontinued. On Saturday special make-up examinations will be given.

Refreshing Relief

For refreshing relief from constipation, take purely vegetable Thedford's Black-Draught. The good it has done has made it the most popular laxative of its kind. And it costs less than others—only 1c a dose.

"I like Black-Draught because it is easy to take, not expensive and acts quickly," writes Mrs. Susie Sayles, of Belton, Texas. "I take it for headache; constipation; a tired, dull, aching feeling and to rid myself of excess bile. I have found it splendid."

Ship-Building Race Threatened

Action of the Japanese privy council in recommending the Washington naval treaty be abrogated brought the possibility the United States, Great Britain and Japan would embark on a ship-building program limited only by national resources. Ambassador Saito (right) of Japan is expected soon to present Secretary of State Cordell Hull (left) with the announcement of Japan's treaty abrogation. Below is shown the strength of the three leading naval powers. (Associated Press Photos)

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION, No. 22

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As the priestly Oparians watched the approaching party—now in plain view, they conversed in low gutturals. They spoke words and phrases of a strange tongue, doubtless forms of an ancient language handed down to them by that now extinct race whose cities and civilization lie buried deep beneath the tossing waves of the Atlantic. The strangers plodded laboriously beneath the now declining equatorial sun, across the rocky, barren valley. From amidst the giant tree foliage a solemn, sad-faced monkey listened to Cadj and his priests with keen curiosity.

hearing, he learned the cause of their excitement. For much that they had spoken was in the language of the great apes, which Manu, the little monkey, understood perfectly. He swung lightly from the tree to the pavement and hid behind one of the massive granite rocks. Here, he watched in comparative safety one of the youngest priests who was speaking. "It IS he, Cadj. The great Tarmangani, Tarzan of the Apes. I see him plainly. He is urging on his black men, prodding them with his spear."

The High Priest scowled in rage. "Come he shall not," he cried, "call forth a hundred fighting men. We will meet these intruders as they come through the outer wall and slay them one by one." "But LA," ventured a priest, "has promised the friendship of Opar to Tarzan of the Apes . . . That time many moons ago when the ape-man saved her from the tusks of infuriated Tantor." "Silence," screamed Cadj. "LA shall never know until it is too late. He shall die this time, not as a sacrifice but by my own hands." Jumping up and down in a sort of frenzy the hideous creature fairly frothed with anger.

Manu the monkey, hearing all this, almost burst with excitement. He knew Tarzan of the Apes; as all the migratory monkeys the length and breadth of Africa knew him—he knew him for a friend and protector. To Manu, the males of Opar were neither beast, man nor friend. He knew THEM as cruel and surly creatures who ate the flesh of his kind and he hated them accordingly. He was therefore greatly exercised at the plot he had heard discussed which was aimed at the life of the great Tarmangani—or "white ape," as Tarzan was called by the jungle animals.

Bandits Young Men

R. W. Burroughs, president of the bank, and G. E. Sowers, cashier, said the robbers were young men and roughly dressed. They carried pistols.

Five men in a car (Ford V-8) with Louisiana license plates were involved in the theft of a car at Tyler, belonging to Forrest Panther. The Panther car was a black sedan of the same make and model. Officers considered it probable four of the men drove into Buffalo to carry out the robbery while the fifth waited on the country road in the Panther car, the idea being to throw officers off their trail after the holdup.

On January 5 the Square Deal association issued an ultimatum to Governor Allen to act to repeal Long's "obnoxious laws" by midnight tonight, but at last reports the governor's answer was the posting of scores of armed guards of the plain-clothes state police force about the state capitol, the executive mansion and on the streets of Baton Rouge.

Thereupon the Square Deal association early tonight revealed its secret plan to return "constitutional government" to the state.

WALL STREET REPORT

BY FRANK MAC MILLEN
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—Wall street had a welcome breathing spell today as relative stability and quiet descended on foreign exchanges and the security markets, after yesterday's sudden upsurge in the dollar.

Trading favorites in the stock market gained major fractions to around 2 points, wheat and corn were 1 1-4 to 2 cents a bushel higher in Chicago, and the close in cotton ranged from advances of 35 cents to losses of 20 cents a bale.

Most bonds were steady, with a number of secondary classifications up around a point, although federal obligations were mildly reactionary.

Activity was curtailed, and the attitude of watchful waiting while the supreme court debated its gold decision had not abated. Turnover in the New York stock exchange aggregated 667,240 shares and movement of bonds totaled $10,400,000 par value.

Yesterday's losses in stocks and grains were only partly recovered. The Associated Press average for 60 stocks lifted .44 of a point to 39.10, with industrial shares the firmest group, up .73 of a point at 53.24.

The pound sterling was able to chalk up a gain of 3-4 of a cent against the dollar at $4.87 3-4, while the French franc dropped .01 of a cent to 6.57 cents.

A tasty batch of steel news failed to whet the appetite of traders to any great extent for this class of shares. The "Iron Age" compilation of the industry's operations, set the rate at 49 per cent of capacity compared with 44 1-2 per cent a week ago, and the United States Steel Corp. announced a restoration of salaries to whitecollar workers to the levels of last September, and the abolition of the Saturday layoff.

U. S. Steel common at 37 1-2 gained only 3-8 of a point.

Aviation issues gained a small following, with fractional gains general in the group.

Utilities were generally steady to a shade better.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—Cotton was fairly active today and fluctuated over a range of approximately $1 a bale with early declines were followed by a good rally, but prices eased near the close. The general market ended steady at net advances of 4 to 7 points on the old crop positions, while the new crop was 2 to 4 points net lower.

March sold off to 12.28 and July to 12.31 during the middle of the day making net losses of about 7 to 13 points, but offerings were absorbed by trade buying on the scale down, and later there was a spurt of commission house buying accompanied by unconfirmed rumors that the Bankhead quota for 1935 might be considerably under the figures suggested in some of the earlier reports.

March shot up to 12.48 and July to 12.54 making net gains of 8 to 13 points and recoveries of 20 to 24 points from the low levels of the morning.

Prices then dipped under renewed realizing or liquidation, and closing quotations showed reactions of 8 to 11 points from the best, with late months relatively easy.

Exports today 38,686 making 2,780,686 so far this season. Port receipts 35,109. U. S. port stocks 2,241,589.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 16. (AP)—The cotton market here wound up a fairly active day with rather broad price fluctuations that carried the quotations 20 to 23 points above the lows, but all of this advance was not sustained.

At first there was a decline of 8 to 11 points on easier outside markets and a bearish construction placed on the government's production plans for a 12,000,000 bale crop next year.

But later in the afternoon the market advanced 20 to 23 points from the lows upon favorable advices from Washington on the conference on international exports and on foreign news encouraging to inflation.

Toward the end of trading prices reacted 6 to 9 points on realizing and the close was steady with net advances of 5 to 7 points for the day on old crop months and 1 point on October.

March closed at 12.42, or 7 points up net for the day, May at 12.45 up 5 points net and October at 12.26, up 1 point net.

The men, one about 55 and small and the other young and about 5 feet 10 inches tall, are believed to have been the same two who attemped to pass a similar check to Lloyd's Dry Goods company here late Saturday. H. F. Lloyd said he had accepted such a check Christmas week.

Check On Soaring Dollar Is Believed To Have Been Made

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—Gold block monetary powers were believed in Wall Street today to have waged a successful battle to prevent the dollar from soaring to new heights since its revaluation in terms of gold a year ago.

The demoralized conditions of Tuesday's session in the world's exchange markets was replaced by relative calm today, and informed banking quarters believed they saw tangible evidence of official intervention from abroad to steady the French franc, and indirectly, other gold monies.

Grains

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Jan. 16. (AP) — Worst dust storms this season southwest and advices the Canadian government would continue upholding the Winnipeg wheat market gave renewed strength to grain values today.

Indications were plentiful that all cereals had become oversold here and desire to take the buying side was increased because the Liverpool wheat market today reflected but to a slight extent severe setbacks of prices yesterday this side of the Atlantic.

Wheat closed firm at about the day's top level, 1 1-4 to 2 cents above yesterday's finish, May 96 1-2@96 3-4, corn 1 3-8 to 1 7-8 up, May 86@86 1-8, oats 3-4 to 1 3-8 advanced, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to 17 cents gain.

Winds whirling dust over the Plains Southwest at the rate of almost a mile a minute were told of in late messages referring to a wide-spread area including parts of Kansas, Texas and New Mexico.

Corn and oats values were aided by reports that hay and other forage were now nearly exhausted.

Provisions averaged higher.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Jan. 16. (AP)—Demand for grain continued slow here Wednesday. Receipts were: Wheat 22 cars; corn 17 and sorghums 1.

only avenue of escape from the grim walls housing the largest prison population in the United States—6,000 men.

Most of northern California officialdom soon was on the trail.

Warden Holohan suffered a fractured skull. His physician said he might survive.

Sykes was shot in the hip and an operation at a Santa Rosa hospital disclosed that a 10 cent piece and saved his life by deflecting the bullet.

"Bad Boy" Is Leader

Stephens was wounded slightly in the abdomen.

The convicts were led by Rudolph Straight, 35, "bad boy" who previously had made two desperate attempts to escape. Unconfirmed reports said Straight was the fugitive who had been shot.

He apparently had three confederates.

They were named as Alex McKay, 28; Joe Cristy, 26, and Fred Alenders, 27.

Gun Fire Is Hot

The felons surrendered to county and state officers at Valley Ford, 54 miles from the prison.

Running through two barricades across the highway, they got to Novato, about ten miles north of the prison, where pursuing police overtook them.

The convicts then cut loose with withering gunfire that held the officers off while they fled northward again.

Army Planes Join Chase

Two airplanes from Hamilton field, the army's newest bombing base situated only a few miles from the prison, took off to help state and county officers in the pursuit.

Governor Frank F. Merriam took personal charge of the state's forces in the emergency. Alcatraz, the government's new prison in San Francisco bay for incorrigible outlaws, offered to send aid.

Thousands of officers were on the trail but they were doubly hampered by the use of the captive officials as hostages and by reports that the convicts had dressed in the clothing of their captives.

Dallas Man Placed Under Bond In Mail Threat Case

DALLAS, Jan. 16 (AP) — United States Commissioner Lee R. Smith today placed James Earl Brown under $1500 temporary bond after a hearing on charges that he threatened the life of Mrs. Clara Dunfield in a letter sent through the United States mails.

The complaint, signed by D. W. McCormack, department of justice agent, alleged that Brown wrote the letter threatening to kill Mrs. Dunfield unless she desisted from trying to collect a debt.

Trial Grows Grim

mann's handwriting was used as a disguise for somebody else.

Fisch To Be Named

The defense has made it plain that it expects to name Isador Fisch, Hauptmann's dead alibi man, as that somebody else.

Fisch, frail little furrier, went to Germany to die. Before he sailed Hauptmann says, he left a shoe-box in which Bruno allegedly found more than $14,000 in ransom bills.

That was the carpenter's story when officers found the money hidden in his house and garage in New York City's Bronx.

Witness "Tucked Away"

Out of court, the defense claimed today to have a witness "tucked away" who will testify that Fisch and two other men, in New York, tried to sell him the ransom bills—$50,000 in "good hot money" for 75 cents on the dollar.

The witness, said Edward J. Reilly, chief of the defense staff, is Gustav Lukatis of New York, who declared the offer was made in April or May of 1932, not long after Dr. John F. "Jafsie" Condon paid the $50,000 ransom to a man he has identified as Hauptmann.

Bruno Unconcerned

However, the state has brought three relatives and the nurse of Fisch from Germany to explode the "Fisch myth."

The four were taken secretly to a Trenton hotel today after one of them, Pincus Fisch, was quoted in New York as saying he will testify "only that my dead brother is not guilty."

Bruno showed little interest today in the four experts, Harry E. Cassidy of Virginia; William T. Souder of the federal bureau of standards at Washington, Albert D. Osborn of New York and T. Clark Sellers of Los Angeles.

Cross-examiners again pointed their questions toward the defense premise that the dead Fisch wrote the notes, but they got no support from the witnesses.

The executive pointed out both Republican and Democratic platforms for years have urged a "court of justice to which nations might voluntarily bring their disputes for judicial decision," and added:

"The sovereignty of the United States will be in no way diminished or jeopardized by such action. At this period in international relationships, when every act is of moment to the future of world peace, the United States has an opportunity once more to throw its weight into the scale in favor of peace."

Democrats Consider Caucus To Form Welded Bonus Vote

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—In an attempt to end differences over what kind of bonus legislation should be supported, a number of house members today were considering a call for a party caucus with the hope of binding all Democrats to vote for a particular bill.

A prty caucus on the bonus could be forced if 25 of the 321 Democrats signed a petition asking for one. If two-thirds of those attending such a meeting endorsed a specific bill, all other Democrats who had not made previous commitments would be bound to vote for it.

Extensive Reorganization Of Vatican City Is Planned

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 16 (AP) — The world's gentlest dictator, if Marquis Camillo Serafini, governor of Vatican City, may be called a dictator, is the civil head of this little papal state.

Pope Pius, in a sweeping decree, has just given him all legislative power in Vatican City for six months during which to make an extensive reorganization of the civil administration.

Bills Submitted

was proposed by Representative Ross Hardin of Prairie Hill, Limestone county. Similar proposals have been defeated several times in recent years.

Smokers Would Help

Representative J. W. Hunt, jr., of Como, asked for submission of a constitutional amendment to levy a cigar tax of one cent each to make up the deficit in the confederate pension fund. Other proposed constitutional amendments included an old age pension plan, taxation of University of Texas lands for county and school district purposes and one to authorize municipalities to make flat rate contracts with public utilities for any number of years not exceeding twenty.

The bill asking for establishment of a central bureau of criminal identification was sent up by Representative Robert H. Wood of Marshall. Peace officers have urged that such a step be taken as an aid to law enforcement.

Proposals Numerous

Another chain store tax bill was placed in the hopper, this one by Representative Jesse James of Cameron.

Other proposals included: To permit the adoption of textbooks written by public school superintendents or teachers; to prohibit light and gas companies from selling appliances; to empower counties, cities and towns to levy an occupation tax on gas, light and water companies equal to one-half of that levied by the state; to require contractors on all public works to install the eight-hour day; to provide that when a defendant is acquitted on the grounds of insanity and it appears to the court that he is permanently insane, he shall be committed to a state hospital.

Kennamer Trial Witnesses "Tampered With" Is Charge

Governor's Address

per cent on other non-essentials, reduction of government bureaus from 131 to 19, control of gas used in the Panhandle, creation of a criminal identification bureau, a chain store tax and a tax on cigars to aid the Confederate pension fund.

Governor Allred pledged his efforts toward harmony with the legislature, emphasizing an intention not to invade the legislative field. Throughout his message he was careful to avoid any suggestion that he was seeking to dictate legislative policies.

Pensions Are "Inevitable"

Governor Allred termed old age pensions "just and inevitable," asserted there was no threat of chaos in the oil industry but urged remedial legislation to give the Texas railroad commission more power and personnel; suggested that the resolution submitting repeal of prohibition be accompanied with enabling legislation and that thought be given to control of liquor under the state monopoly system and asked enactment of a law to regulate lobbyists.

Special messages will be submitted later on public utilities, taxation, and crime and law enforcement. In the meantime, Governor Allred requested that committees of the house and senate undertake a preliminary inquiry into these matters.

Recovery Plan Lacking

Lack of an organized recovery plan has robbed Texas of the full fruits of national government efforts to revive business, Governor Allred said.

"One of the principal causes of our difficulties in state government in the past is that we have rocked along in rather haphazard fashion without the long range vision and careful planning to which Texas is entitled. The federal government's efforts have meant much to Texas but not as much as it could have meant if we had been prepared to avail ourselves of all the New Deal offered."

Possibilities Cited

"Texas presents greater possibilities for development than any other state and establishment of the planning board will facilitate the recovery march and before the end of the regular session it will prove to have been invaluable."

Previous difficulties in the oil industry were laid by Governor Allred to misunderstandings, selfish motives and to hasty enactment of conservation legislation while the legislature was under pressure.

Laws Not Sufficient

While no chaos exists in the industry "There are those who, for selfish purposes or for power, would relish the state's failure to adequately handle this situation."

"I am inclined to believe that present laws are not sufficiently strong to adequately punish either those who outright steal oil or produce same in violation of valid orders of the state commission. . . It seems to me it would be well for us to sit down and sanely, dispassionately and temperately examine our present laws to determine their defects."

Oil Objectives Listed

Governor Allred stated he was committed to ratable taking of oil and favored reenactment of a section of the federal oil code, declared unconstitutional, to give the federal government control over interstate movement of oil.

Study of the oil industry should have four objectives, Governor Allred stated, sufficiency of the laws, adequacy of penalties and adequacy of appropriations for the railroad commission and attorney general to employ trained personnel.

Support Submission

Reiterating his pledge to support submission of repeal of prohibition, Governor Allred said the legislature would do a signal service by drafting an enabling act in advance so the people would be informed on the liquor control plan and to prevent any hiatus in enforcement and collection of revenues in event of repeal.

"I am sure it would enable the people more intelligently and seriously to cast their votes if they could know in what manner it is proposed to deal with this troublesome question. I suggest an immediate study . . . of the system of control in other states, such as the state monopoly system."

Aged Provisions Archaic

Existing provisions for the aged are "too antiquated and too inhumane for an enlightened state," he commented.

"The president has recommended social security legislation to Congress and, in all probability, a federal old age pension act will be passed. I suggest that proper committees of each house study this legislation, its cost and methods of financing. Old age pensions for the destitute are just, humane and inevitable."

Map Shows Accord Reached By France, Italy

An agreement reached at Rome by Pierce Laval (left), French foreign minister, and Premier Mussolini (right) of Italy, ceded to Italy approximately 50,000 square miles of territory added to Libya, an Italian colony, by pushing the frontier of that possession southward, and to the Italian colony of Eritrea along the mouth of the Red sea. The area added to Libya is about the size of New York state. The land ceded from French Somaliland is smaller but gives Italy a strategic frontage upon the Strait of Bab-el-mandeb opposite the British island of Perim.

I did not kill Osborne

rest he had gone off with a couple of pals on a yachting and shooting trip to the Adriatic coast, and being more or less out of touch with civilization he was still probably in complete ignorance as to what had been taking place at home.

Had it been otherwise I should have heard from him long before this. He must remember Osborne quite well—they had actually been at the same college—and no matter how much he might have been enjoying himself, I felt sure that the instant he had heard of the tragedy he would have come posting back to London as fast as the train could bring him.

In some subtle way the thought of Jerry had a cheering and stimulating effect. After all things were never so bad that they mightn't be worse. The world was not coming to an end merely because a certain number of people chose to make themselves offensive.

I should at least enjoy the privilege of learning exactly what anyone's friendship was worth, and if Society, with a big S, chose to slam its doors in my face, I could derive such consolation as I needed by throwing myself all the more wholeheartedly into my work.

Who could tell? Perhaps one day I might even come to look back on my present troubles as a blessing in disguise.

Fortified by this sudden and optimistic reflection, I emerged into the light and bustle of the main road. My studio was at the end of a narrow cul-de-sac, turning off to the left about two hundred yards up Haverstock Hill.

It was one of a pair, shut in behind a high wooden fence, and as the other had been empty ever since I had taken possession, the quietness and privacy of the situation could scarcely have been improved upon.

I had covered about half the distance and was just passing under a street lamp, when a hoarse voice from the roadway brought me to a standstill.

Engineers To Review Plans

River And Harbor Committee Asks Texas Projects To Be Looked Into By Officials Of War Department

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—The house river and harbor committee adopted a resolution today asking the war department engineers to review former reports and surveys of projects at Galveston, Houston, Texas City, and Corpus Christi with a view to determining whether further improvement is advisable at this time.

The committee also adopted resolutions calling for a reinvestigation of the intracoastal canal from the Mississippi river to Corpus Christi.

Representatives Appear

Galveston, Houston, and Texas City, now have a project depth of 32 feet for their channels but Corpus Christi has only 30. The 32 feet depth was given to Galveston under the river and harbor bill of 1927.

Representative Eagle appeared before the committee on behalf of Houston, Representative Kleberg on behalf of Corpus Chriati and the intracoastal canal and Mansfield represented Galveston's interest.

If no river and harbor bill should be passed at this session of Congress, these proposed improvements, if approved by the chief of engineers, would be eligible for consideration by the public works administration.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP). — Representative Rayburn (D-Tex.) told a delegation of Texans and Oklahomans today plans for a Red river development project between those two states could not be formulated definitely until details of the public works administration were made known.

He told the visitors they also should learn whether the president favored the creation of river authorities. As soon as his policy was determined the Red river proponents should meet again to consider definite action, he added.

Called To White House

Rayburn, chairman of the house interstate and foreign commerce committee, was called to the White House on an unannounced mission in the middle of the meeting and Senator Morris Sheppard (D-Tex.) was left to preside at the ensuing general discussion of the proposed flood control and power development work.

Sheppard, in answer to questions propounded during a power discussion said he believed the keynote for any Red River valley project would be "the cheapest power possible."

"I don't think the president would approve any other plan," the senator said.

Assault And Battery Action Brought Against Heir To Big Eastman Estate

CHICAGO, Jan. 16. (AP)—Charges of assault and battery against George Eastman Dryden, heir to the Eastman camera millions, were continued today in municipal court. Dryden appeared to answer the complaint that he threw a night club hostess into a tub of hot water and struck her sister.

The hearing was postponed to Jan. 30 because Judge Gibson E. Gorman was attending the funeral of a friend.

Neither of the complainants, Vera Reed, 21, the alleged tub victim, nor her sister, Hazel, 24, formerly of Tulsa, Okla., was present in court.

Vera told police that Dryden, as a climax to the party, threw her into a bathtub of scalding water, and her sister added that Dryden struck them both in a battle after the tubbing.
