Louisiana Earthquake Tremors Shake New Orleans Sleepers From Their Beds

QUIVERS ROCK 13 TOWNS IN BROAD AREA

District Escapes Damage In First Recorded Quake

PANIC IN CHURCH

Frenzied Worshippers Maul Each Other In Flight

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 19. (AP)—Distinct earthquake tremors today shook 13 or more towns and cities of southeastern Louisiana, including New Orleans, but no serious damage was reported. It was the first recorded earthquake in southern Louisiana.

The only human injury reported from the earth quiver occurred in Morgan City, when worshippers in the Catholic church scratched and bruised one another in a panicky rush from the edifice. The congregation began a hurried exit from the church when they thought they saw the walls rock. Only a few were hurt and those only slightly.

The earthquake occurred about 6:15 a. m., literally shaking some residents of New Orleans and surrounding regions out of their beds. Thousands of telephone calls poured into newspaper offices from persons feeling the shocks and wishing information.

Doubt existed as to whether two tremors occurred or only one. Some narrators were positive there were two shocks, about five minutes apart. It was definite that the first tremble lasted 30 seconds.

In Plaquemines, La., about 85 miles northwest of New Orleans, the quake was severe enough to shake the glass from street lights.

No record of the vibrations was made at the Loyola university seismographical observatory, as the equipment was reported out of order.

Professor J. Adair Lyon, head of the physics department at Newcomb college, said the gradual fading out of the vibrations in northerly, easterly and westerly directions, probably indicated that the phenomenon occurred beneath the floor of the Gulf of Mexico several hundred miles from land.

QUAKE RECORDED AT GEORGETOWN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. (AP)—A faint earthquake of about five minutes duration was recorded on the Georgetown university seismograph today at 7:22 a. m. eastern standard time, observers at the instrument said the quake occurred on this continent, but it was impossible to ascertain its precise location.

Town Supports Mayor On 'Unwritten Law' Plea

VICKSBURG, Miss., Oct. 19. (US)—Body of Dr. C. W. Melton, millianaire Newellton, La., lumberman, was shipped to St. Joseph, Mo., his former home where he will be buried Tuesday.

Word received here from St. Joseph, La., where Mayor A. B. Ratcliffe shot and killed Doctor Melton late Saturday night, is to the effect that the people of St. Joseph are standing solidly behind Mayor Ratcliffe and that he may not be held for trial as he told Sheriff John Hughes that he killed Doctor Melton because Melton had broken up his home and that his defense would be the unwritten law.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. (AP)—A series of bulletins issued today at the Metropolitan hospital of Welfare Island gave assurance that the condition of Jack (Legs) Diamond, gangster who has four bullet holes in his body, was "satisfactory."

The racketeer, who was ejected from the Polyclinic hospital yesterday because the hospital disliked the publicity he brought, indicated he felt much better in body, but not so well in mind.

Seen Him?

Charles V. Bob, pictured here, capitalist, promoter and mining engineer who disappeared in Chicago on Thursday, Oct. 9, may face criminal charges if he is discovered. When Bob failed to return to New York by air, as scheduled, associates expressed alarm and it was found that he was missing but that his airplane had been stored. An investigation into the affairs of Metal and Min-Shares, Inc., an investment trust controlled by Bob, revealed alleged irregularities, as well as the fact that $6,000,000 in securities were missing from his safe. A business associate of the capitalist was believed to be sharing his confession.

BOB'S FUNDS IN CHICAGO BANK

$3,000,000 Held in Escrow, Officials Learn

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. (US)—A sum of $3,000,000, belonging to Charles V. Bob, missing capitalist, and his associates is being held in Chicago banks under escrow, authorities declared today as the financier's disappearance entered its third week.

This huge sum is held by the banks, according to Watson Washburn, deputy attorney general, as result of the complicated financing involved in Bob's attempt to gain control in his fight over the Neon Light interests.

At the same time it was revealed in Chicago that Bob and his associates have forfeited a $500,000 option when the transaction to buy a $7,000,000 interest in the Federal Electric company of that city failed.

This disclosure was made by John F. Gilchrist, president of the electric company and vice president of the Commonwealth Edison company. Gilchrist said that George L. Johnson of River Forest, Ill., former chairman of the board of the Outdoor Advertising company was engaged with Bob in the negotiations for the Federal Electric purchase.

Bob, Johnson and others wished to buy the sign business of the Federal company, and made overtures for the sale in the summer of 1929. A price of $7,000,000 was agreed on and the $500,000 was put up as option.

The stock market crash of last fall and Bob's battle over the Claude Neon lights, had a disastrous effect on his plans. In a final attempt to raise the $7,000,000 he appeared to the Chicago banking interests, Gilchrist said, and was rejected by the Continental Illinois bank and Trust company and the Paul H. Davis company. The option expired in December of last year and the $500,000 was forfeited.

Exactly what deals the $3,000,000 held in escrow represents, Washburn did not disclose.

10,000 WATCH DOUBLE CRASH AT AERO MEET

Contesting Planes Meet Over Field at Low Altitude

CRAFT TAKES FIRE

Tragedy Follows Brilliant Acrobats Before Throng

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 19. (UP)—Two pilots were killed today when their planes collided in the air during the all-eastern air races and plunged to earth as 10,000 spectators at Mercer Airport looked on.

The fliers were Robert W. Mackie of Valley Stream, N. Y., and George Zinn of Philadelphia. They were entered in a 30-mile race and the collision came as their planes were rounding a distance marker.

Field officials said Mackie swerved his Cessna monoplane in front of Zinn's Waco biplane just as the racers were cutting about the pylon. The tail of Mackie's craft grazed the left wing of the biplane and both ships were sent tottering downward.

Plane Takes Fire

Zinn was unable to right his plane and it crashed at once, bursting into flames when it reached the ground. Mackie kept aloft for a short time and flew several hundred feet toward a slight hilltop before his plane, too, went to earth and cracked up.

Both planes were flying perilously low at the time of the collision. Authorities estimated they were at an altitude of only 80 feet.

Mackie was a veteran flier and was former operations manager for the Colonial Airways in Boston. He was an instructor for the Curtiss-Wright Flying service in Valley Stream and was noted as one of the few pilots ever to loop a trimotored ship.

Spectacular Flying

Before the tragedy the crowd at the airport had seen some spectacular flying and had watched such celebrities of the air as Capt. Frank M. Hawks and Lieut. Al Williams, speed fliers; Amelia Earhart, woman pilot, and Robert Buck, who yesterday set a new junior transcontinental flight record.

Hawks and Williams stunted for almost an hour and shared honors with a demonstration in mass flying in which 79 planes took part. The planes, sent from Bolling, Anacostia and Quantico field, thrilled the onlookers with battle formations and upside down flying.

The air meet was held under the auspices of the American Legion to raise funds for a "cathedral of the air" to be erected at Lakehurst, N. J., in memory of fliers who lost their lives in the world war.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. (US)—Adolph Hitler's anti-semitic campaign in Germany was bitterly assailed today by Rabbi Louis I. Newman before the free synagogue in Carnegie hall. Portraying Hitler's policies as "folly akin to madness," he said:

Jouett Shouse Gazes at Political Stars and Finds Signs of Victory

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. (AP)—For the first time, Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, predicted today the Democrats would gain control of the house, the prize in the election two weeks hence.

In formal statement, Shouse said he based his revised estimate of the forthcoming congressional election "on a dispassionate summary of the facts, allowing full consideration to over-optimism in some of our reports."

An overturn of 54 seats now held by Republicans is necessary for the Democrats to win control of the house. Shouse predicted a minimum gain of 60 seats and said he believed the total would be nearer 70 seats.

Less hopeful of winning the senate, the Democratic executive asserted that if the Democrats won in three of five states now classes as doubtful they would have a majority of one in the next senate. He classed the states of Illinois, Minnesota, South Dakota, Colorado and Wyoming as doubtful in the senate contests.

Shouse said his figures showed the Democratic party would gain at least seven house members from New England, at least 15 in the group comprising New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia, together with all of the seats in the South lost in the last election.

"From the Middle West," he continued, "extending from Ohio to Kansas, our gains will be not far short of 30. This may seem exces-

'Baering' Down On The News

With ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Wet Republicans are deserting their party. Dry Democrats are quitting theirs.

Let us have moderation. Only violate one amendment at a time.

Dry Democrats have not made their stand clear. Did they never drink? Or are they sobering up?

In point of capacity four wet Republicans are equivalent to one dry Democrat.

We heard an amazing argument on the business end of a park bench yesterday. A dry orator said between hiccups:

"An amendment is like a banana, when you peel a banana it is peeled, and you cannot repeel it."

When the nation went dry your wet Republican was a man without a country.

It's patriotism with him. He wants his citizenship back.

But we want to say that bartenders are sticking strictly to the three-fourths majority ruling.

You've got to name 36 states before you can get a drink.

According to Mr. Warren's statement he swerved when the Clark boy appeared suddenly from between parked cars, in an effort to avoid hitting him. City Motorcycle Officers Earl Brooks and J. H. Pogue stated after their investigation of the accident that the child had been crushed between Mr. Warren's car and one standing at the curb.

Mrs. Clark, who was in a serious condition from shock following the crash, was released from the hospital Sunday morning and returned to the family home, it was stated.

HOLLIDAY MAN FATALLY HURT ON HIGHWAY

Fred K. Hill Succumbs At Hospital Here After Car Overturns

COMPANION INJURED

Automobile Slips From Pavement Into Muddy Side of Road

Fred K. Hill, 45, of Holliday, district gauger for the Continental Pipe Line company, was fatally injured about 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon when he was crushed beneath his overturned automobile on the Holliday road just east of Mankins. A man said to have accompanied him was reported to have suffered a broken collar bone, but declined to wait for treatment. His name was not learned.

Mr. Hill died in the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital at 7:45, succumbing to a fractured skull and a chest crushed by the weight of the car. He did not regain consciousness after the accident.

Relatives were told that one wheel of Mr. Hill's car slipped off the pavement onto the mud as he was driving through a light mist toward Wichita Falls. The car skidded across the road and overturned as he sought to right it. He was given emergency treatment at Holliday and later brought to the hospital here in a Hines mortuary ambulance.

Mr. Hill has made his home in Holliday for many years, having been in the employment of the Continental company since 1920. He is survived by his parents, his widow and seven children. A married daughter, Mrs. Louis Maloney, lives in Wichita Falls. The other children are Mrs. H. L. Culpepper, Holliday, Maurine, Mary Fay, Marjorie, Billie, and Frances Ann, all of Holliday. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hill live in Coleman.

Funeral arrangements were not complete Sunday night, but tentative plans were for services at Henrietta on Tuesday.

WICHITA BOYS INJURED IN CRASH

T. R. Boone Jr., young son of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Boone, 600 Pierce street, and a companion, Maurice Sirey, son of Mrs. Hal Shirey, 2406 Talunar lane, suffered cuts and bruises Sunday when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a machine driven by Horace Coker, 2215 Yale street.

Young Boone was taken in an Alberts Funeral home ambulance to the Clinic hospital, where he was given first aid and released. The Shirey boy was attended by a private physician. Mr. Coker was uninjured.

Both automobiles were heavily damaged and the occupants miraculously escaped serious injury, according to Howard Peters, city motorcycle officer who investigated the crash.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 19. (AP)—Police attempted unsuccessfully today to identify a neatly-dressed bandit who was shot to death last night after he robbed a theater box of $90.

Edward S. Williams, 22, United States army engineers' chauffeur, shot him when he leaped into an automobile occupied by the driver and Mrs. Williams. Five bullets killed him.

Laundry marks and a necktie bearing the address of an Oklahoma City firm were the main reliances for identification.

Air Mail Pilot Sets New Mark for Speed

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 19. (UP)—A new air mail record between Cleveland and New York was set today by Charles Haas, National Air transport pilot, who flew a Boeing plane between the two cities in two hours, 43 minutes. The distance is 420 miles.

Elinor Smith, Famous Pilot, Lands Here After Abandoning Speed Race

Elinor Smith, famous young aviatrix who came into national prominence a short time ago for her wizardry in handling an airplane, landed at the Wichita Falls Municipal airport Sunday morning while en route from Los Angeles to New York after postponing an attempt to better a West to East transcontinental mark set Saturday by Mrs. Laura Ingalls, according to C. P. Logan, manager of the airport here.

Miss Smith landed here at 10:10 a. m. in a chartered Southern Air Transport Fokker, piloted by James Ingram, after leaving Big Spring Sunday morning at 8:45 o'clock. Miss Smith and her pilot secured weather data here and after her plane was serviced with gas and oil took off at 11:05 for Tulsa, Okla., the next stop on the way to New York.

Miss Smith's postponement of her plan to better Mrs. Ingalls' mark of 25 hours and 35 seconds was caused by unfavorable flying conditions and an appointment in New York Monday, according to Associated Press dispatches. Miss Smith plans to make the try for the West to East woman's record the latter part of this week, it was said.

Decline of Income Tax Payments Brings Big Slump in U. S. Receipts

Government's Total Revenue During Last Quarter Drops $62,471,000; Tobacco Levy Gains

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. (AP)—A decrease of $62,471,504 in government tax receipts in the first quarter of the present fiscal year as compared with the same period last year was announced today by the internal revenue bureau.

From July 1 to Sept. 30 the government income from all tax sources was $708,363,707 as compared with $770,835,212 in the first three months of the last fiscal year.

The major part of the decrease occurred last month when the tax collections dropped $48,847,552 from $593,983,224 for September, 1929.

Only six of the 36 classes of taxes showed increases and they were minor items. Income taxes registered the greatest drop being $58,740,192 less than collections in the first three months last year.

Corporation tax collections declined $14,055,350 while individual income tax receipts decreased $41,684,842. The total income tax receipts from July 1 to Sept. 30 was $553,725,824, composed of $302,675,618 corporation taxes and $251,050,205 individual.

The six classes that showed increases included taxes on rectifiers, retail and wholesale liquor dealers, manufacturers of stills, etc., case stamps for distilled spirits bottled in bond and brewers, retail and wholesale dealers in malt liquors. The increases in these divisions totaled only $274.

The tobacco tax was the only general subdivision that showed an increase and this was due to a jump in the manufacture of cigarets and cigaret papers. Cigarets paid $97,881,500 for the first quarter compared with $96,020,214 last year while cigaret papers paid $413,373 this quarter as against $376,096 a year ago. The total tobacco tax, however, was only $9,450 more in the first quarter of this year due to decreases in large and small cigars, large cigarets, snuff and chewing and smoking tobacco.

SNOW COVERS LAKE REGION

Freak Storm Tightens Grip As Mercury Falls

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 19. (AP)—With heavy snow still falling, the freak blizzard that struck western New York Saturday, blanketing some communities and missing others in the same general area, tonight was tightening its grip on the south shore of Lake Erie. Traffic was blocked on highways, leading south and west out of Buffalo, but only a few scattering flakes fell in the downtown section of the city. South Buffalo was blanketed with six inches.

The heaviest fall of snow was reported at Angola, where it was four feet on the level. The situation was acute tonight in that vicinity. More than 200 cars from various states were stalled on the main road within a mile of the village and the occupants of the machines were cared for by residents. It was estimated at least 1,000 motorists were stalled between Wanakah and Dunkirk.

LIGHT RAIN HERE

Slow, drizzling rains and mists falling in Wichita Falls and over the surrounding territory, put a damp chill in the air of an otherwise mild day Sunday. The rain here measured only .13 of an inch, and similar slight precipitations were reported all along the Denver road between Childress and Fort Worth.

At its lowest point during the 24-hour period ending at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, the thermometer recorded 51 degrees. The maximum was 67. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon, under the influence of the chilly mists, the mercury stood at 53 degrees.

Power Lines Down

To add to the hardships, the village waterworks at Wanakah was out of commission, due to power wires being torn down. This afternoon the roof of the Angola hotel caved under the weight of snow. Twenty-five persons fled from the place to safety when a bulging wall gave warning.

Twenty girls in a Y. W. C. A. camp at Brant, on the lake shore, were marooned with little food and no lights or heat. The camp is on a road off the main highway. Snow

Kingsford-Smith Adds New Record To Long List of Air Achievements

PORT DARWIN, Australia, Oct. 19 (UP)—Wing Commander Charles E. Kingsford-Smith set his little monoplane, Southern Cross Jr., down at Port Darwin at 2 p. m., today and thereby established another record in the long list of his aerial achivements.

Kingsford-Smith, winging his way down the South Seas from England to his native Australia, beat Bert Hinkler's record for the England to Australia flight by nearly five days. He left England on Oct. 7, making it here in 11 days, Hinkler's time was 15 days, 12 hours.

The flier, home after flying the north Atlantic, said he would have arrived sooner but that he stopped at Timor island, in the Dutch East Indies, to help flight Lieut. C. Q. Hill, who crashed while attempting to take off there.

Kingsford-Smith said he saw Hill's wrecked machine over Timor and that he turned back and landed. Hill told him the runaway had not been long enough and that his plane was so badly damaged it could not be repaired on the spot.

The Australian suggested that Hill go to Singapore to arrange with the Royal air force there to repair the machine or to return the plane to England and abandon his flight. Hill was on an England to Australia flight also, having left Croydon Oct. 3.

Hill gave Kingsford-Smith his collapsible boat.

The famous flier's fiancee, Miss Mary Powell, was waiting for him to complete the flight. They are to be married soon after he reaches Melbourne.

GROUND GLASS DISCOVERED IN BODY OF GIRL

Hysterical Woman Denies Information About Disappearance

FATHER IS 'POISONED'

Parent Seriously Ill After Strange Attack Of 'Ptomaine'

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 19. (UP)—Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin was arrested here tonight in connection with the death of her 10-year-old stepdaughter, Leona, after physicians reported that ground glass had been found in the girl's stomach. Her battered body was found in Berkeley park late Friday.

Mrs. O'Loughlin was questioned by detectives for three hours. She denied any knowledge of how the child had partaken of any ground glass. She also was questioned regarding a bloody towel found in the family automobile. Her husband is a Denver detective.

Captain of Detectives Albert Clark announced after the conference that a tire iron, stained with blood, and strands of a green tam o' shanter, worn by the girl when she disappeared from her home either Tuesday night or early Wednesday also had been discovered in the family car.

The body, when taken from the lake, bore two deep wounds on the back of the head. Captain Clark said fingerprints were found on the handle of the tire iron. He believed the wounds were inflicted with the instrument.

Father Ill

The child's father, Leo O'Loughlin, city detective, is in a serious condition in a hospital suffering from what is believed to be ptomaine poisoning. He was taken to the hospital a few hours before his daughter's body was found.

Authorities said an examination would be made of O'Loughlin's stomach in an effort to determine the exact cause of his illness. Physicians said he exhibited the same symptoms as indicated in the analysis of the child's viscera.

Mrs. O'Loughlin was confined to her home the earlier part of the week suffering, she said, apparently from the same illness as her husband. Physicians, after an examination of the woman, could find no evidence of poison.

The blood on the towel, she told police, was a result of a nose bleed suffered by her son by a former marriage, Douglas Millican, 8, when she was taking him to school. The blood is being examined by chemists.

Mrs. O'Loughlin was held in the matron's quarters of the jail tonight. She was taken into custody this afternoon, hysterical, weeping and near collapse.

plows were at work trying to make the Brant road passable.

Saranac lake, in the heart of the cold North country, reported today a typical winter day, with snow flurries, a temperature below freezing and high winds. The surrounding mountains were mantled in white.

Mountains Stop Storm

Plattsburgh reported somewhat warmer weather, but with snow in the Dannemora neighborhood. The Adirondacks appeared to have been a good barrier for the wintry blasts for Glens Falls, seated on their southeastern rim, reported the temperature did not go below 39 degrees.

The central part of the state shivered, with the temperature in many places around the 36 mark, with snow flurries and high winds. Syracuse reported a light snow falling tonight after flurries during the day. The lowest temperature there was 36, Albany's lowest too.

The outposts of winter reached to the southern border, where Binghampton had high, cold winds. Poughkeepsie, down the Hudson valley, reported similar weather.

SNOW FALLS IN MIDDLE WEST

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 19. (AP)—The advance guard of winter neared the Mason-Dixon line today on a foray that began in the Northwest last week.

Snow filtered through the leaden clouds over much of the Middle West. Flurries reached the central section of Missouri before the sun broke through in a belated rear guard action for summer's cause.

Temperatures continued below freezing in Illinois and adjacent states. Generally fair weather was reported in the Rocky mountain area. Autumnal showers fell in Oklahoma. Rains were general in North Texas.

Clear, cool weather prevailed in Utah, southern Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Colorado. Western Wyoming reported lower temperatures.

The maximum today in Dallas was 65, slightly warmer than yesterday. Temperatures in Kansas City remained near the freezing point until noon. The low in Salt Lake City last night was 39, the temperature rising today to 60.

Wheat farmers of Missouri and Kansas welcomed the moisture as part of winter's contribution to the stand of grain next spring.

The snow was one of the earliest of the season in this section. Ice rimmed the farm ponds. The flakes stenciled designs on shocks of fodder and nestled on the backs of livestock. Persimmons and paw paws along the creek beds mellowed with the cold.

tired. She is 30 years old and attractive. She was married to O'Loughlin two years ago, several months after the death of his first wife.

She told police she looked into Leona's room at midnight Tuesday and saw her sleeping. The next morning the pretty blue-eyed child had disappeared.

Mrs. O'Loughlin, it was learned, used the family car twice Tuesday night to visit a hairdresser in North Denver, the same section of the city where the lake is located.

Mrs. Ethel Sparr, the hairdresser, told police Mrs. O'Loughlin seemed strangely depressed on the first visit to her shop. The second time, however, she said the woman was jolly and talked in a humorous vein, as was her custom. Mrs. Sparr asked her what was troubling her.

"I asked her how she was getting along with her husband," she said.

Expresses Fear

"Oh, just fair," the beauty operator quoted Mrs. O'Loughlin as saying.

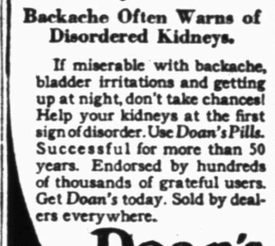

During the course of the conversation, according to Mrs. Sparr, Leona was mentioned.

"She said she was afraid Leona was queerly morbid," Mrs. Sparr asserted. "She said that every day Leona had surprised her by saying 'after all, there isn't much in this old world to live for, is there, mother?'"

The girl's father has not yet been told of Leona's tragic death. Physicians said his condition was serious. He has asked to read newspapers, but doctors refused.

QUANAH TO GET SEED WHEAT

Farmers Mass Meeting Hears Plans

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 19.—Offices have been established at the city hall, and scores of applications have been received for the seed wheat secured by the business men through the Oklahoma Wheat Growers' association, following a mass meeting held earlier in the week. G. M. Cassity of the association will be in charge.

Friday afternoon a second mass meeting of farmers and business men was held, at which time John Manley, general manager of the association, and director of the National Grain corporation, discussed the marketing of grain and handling of the distribution through their organizations. It was through Mr. Manley and the federal farm board that the business men of Quanah were enabled to secure the seed wheat which is to be shipped in here and resold to the farmers at cost, plus shipping charges.

Liberal terms have been granted the farmers, by permitting them to sign notes for the seed wheat, and these notes find their way to the federal farm board in Washington. Six per cent interest is charged.

Approximately $3,500 has been raised here this week to be placed in a guarantee fund to equal one-fifth of the cost of the seed wheat necessary to supply the farmers of this trade territory. Nearly 20,000 bushels will be made available, enough to plant nearly 25,000 acres of land.

The local organization is composed of A. B. Wey, president; Gus Jones, secretary and Tom Simmons, treasurer. These men, and the following: C. T. Watkins, W. O. Wallace, C. G. Conley, Mason Harwell and Harry Koch, formed the soliciting committee to raise the $3,500 fund.

sive, but when it is realized that at present we have only three seats in Indiana, three in Ohio, six in Illinois, three in Kentucky, and six in Missouri, whereas we will have a majority of the delegations in most of these states this time, it will be seen that there is no exaggeration."

Regarding the senate, Shouse said there were too many states in which the issue is close to justify prediction of a Democratic majority. He expressed confidence, however, that "we will make many gains in the senate."

"The present complexion of the senate," he continued, "is 39 Democrats, 56 Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite. The most conseravtive estimate for the senate after March 4, 1931, according to our reports, give us 45 Democrats, 50 Republicans, including all their factions, and the one Farmer-Labor man, Shipstead. (Minnesota).

"This takes no account of such states as Illinois, Minnesota, South Dakota, Colorado and Wyoming, in all of which states the outcome is doubtful and in several of which the non-partisan observers such as the corerspondents of the great newspapers give the Democrats the best of the situation. If we win in three more of these doubtful states we will have one more senator than the Republicans."

Miss Lois Crouch Honoree At Lovely Afternoon Tea

Golden cosmos filled the home of Mrs. Joe Crouch on Monroe street when she entertained at tea Saturday afternoon honoring Miss Lois Crouch, Latin teacher in Zundelowitz Junior high. Special guests of the afternoon were Latin teachers of the city, the teachers from Miss Crouch's home school and close friends of the honoree.

In the receiving line were Mrs. John Kinsey, Mrs. Joe Crouch, Misses Lois Crouch and Mabel Cannon, Mesdames Joe Tyson, B. D. Sartin, Paul G. Putty, R. E. Shepherd, W. R. Duke, Phil Hesler and Harley Snyder.

In the dining rooms, Misses Marguerite Wise and Phyllis Creighton with Mrs. Frank Creighton and Mrs. P. B. Curd assisted the hostess.

The vivid golden cosmos made the entire home bright and the decorative scheme in the dining room was particularly unique and attractive. The table was spread with a handsome filet lace cloth over gold and in the center, a halloween garden was built. A pond filled the center and around it miniature forest animals peered in at the gold fish; pine cones and feathery green completed the pretty little woodland scene and tall golden candles in crystal holders threw a pretty light over it.

Special musical numbers given in the afternoon were as follows: Violin numbers by Ruth Lucile Crouch and Ruth Lucile Snyder, accompanied by Mrs. Joe Crouch; a group of vocal numbers by Miss Minnie T. Baker, accompanied by Miss Annette Walsh; two violin numbers by Paul Gowan Putty Jr., with Mrs. Paul G. Putty at the piano and two lovely violin and piano numbers by Miss Katherine Kilander.

All afternoon as the guests came and went, there was a background of subdued violin music in intervals between the special numbers given by Misses Ruth Lucile Crouch and Ruth Lucile Snyder. About 50 guests called during the afternoon.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

There's a little split bottom chair in the home of Mrs. Homer C. Jasper that she refuses to part with or to make into one of the fancy ruffled affairs of the 20th century. Its hickory posts are braced with strong twisted wire, put in place by its maker, and the splits woven into the seat are almost as perfect as when her grandfather made it for his bride when he furnished a home for her in 1834.

From such furniture there seems to come a spirit of the past. Without being sentimental, one can fancy the times through which it has lived; what it saw before and during the civil war; the children who perched on the edge of it and the old women who sat on it with their knitting. But it would not be at home except with one of its family.

And so we feel about another smaller treasure Mrs. Jasper owns. It came to her from her mother, Mrs. M. L. Cunningham, in whose family it has been at least since the first dim record of a birth in 1762. A little prayer book in old English with its curlicue "f's" and its words that are now obsolete. The psalms in the back of the book are what they evidently argued over before they allowed the use of singing psalms."

The date of its edition is not on the flyleaf; in fact the flyleaf is gone. The worn leather cover is loose from the back and the leaves are yellow with age. In the center of the book, a faded sheet tells that its use is ratified by Elizabeth, queen and defender of the faith of England, Ireland, etc.

Some 100 years later—in 1696, the "king's most excellent majesty in council," approved the use of the singing psalms. And in 1698, the bishop of London announced "I am persuaded it (the king's approval) make take off that unhappy objection which has hitherto been lien against the Singing Psalms," and "I do hereto recommend the use of this version to all brethren within my diocese." H. London.

Mr. J. H. Denison, in "The Enlargement of the Personality," says "In former days, each man regarded those who had different standards from his own as essentially wicked."

We thought of that when we read good Queen Elizabeth's endorsement. In that day, the hard John Knox was preaching gainst Mary of Scots. And when William of Orange, who was the king who approved the use of the singing psalms, was in power, it was woe to any but the Protestant religion.

But Mr. Denison says also, "Today we have become tolerant of the standards of others and each man no longer feels that his standard is the only one."

Remembering the year 1928, we doubt all Mr. Denison's assertions.

'Clinging Vine' Woman Extinct, Says Dorothy Dix

A famous woman lawyer says that if she had a daughter she would bring her up to be a clinging vine.

Oh, no, she wouldn't. And for several good reasons. First, because there is no longer any such an animal as the clinging-vine woman. The species is extinct, and you could no more develop a modern girl baby into one than you could into a megatherium or pterodactyl or any one of the prehistoric creatures that once roamed the earth.

How would you go about teaching a girl who can play 18 holes of golf without turning a hair and who is begging her father for her own airplane, how to swoon at the sight of a mouse? How would a flapper who has seen it all, and heard all there is to tell, conjure up a blush? And of what avail would it be under her seven coats of tan and make-up? How would a girl who has played with boys and been educated with boys and worked side by side with them summon into her eyes a reverential, worshiping, awe-inspired expression as she looked at a man?

The thing can't be done. You can assemble the bones of the megatherium and pterodactyl and wire them together and so reproduce their skeletons, but you can't breathe the breath of life into them again. No more can you turn a modern girl into a mid-Victorian model by hanging lace ruffles on her and dropping her petticoats to her shins. She is not the real thing. She is merely a museum specimen. The spirit is lacking.

Whether women's progress has been backward or forward, time alone can tell, but one thing is certain. She has moved. She has changed. She has developed a backbone and the ability to stand on her own feet, and in doing this she has lost a lot of her adhesive qualities.

So I should say the girl of today is poor clinging-vine stuff. Moreover, about the last thing in the world that she aspires to be is a clinging vine. Helplessness is not her ideal. Dependence is not her goal. She demands her rights rather than her privileges.

You can see this in the modern young woman's attitude toward love and marriage. The girl of today is just as sentimental and romantic as her grandmother was, and she longs just as much for love and marriage and children and home as grandma did, but she wants them on a little fairer terms than grandmother accepted. She wants them on a 50-50 basis.

Grandmother, being a clinging vine, festooned herself about the nearest support that was handy because she had to have something to hang on to. She married almost the first man that asked her, because a girl had no way of making her own living and nothing interesting to do and no real object in life unless she had a husband and children, and so there was no career open to her except marriage.

And she humbly put up with any kind of treatment her husband accorded her because divorce was a disgrace and there was no means whereby she could feed and clothe herself and her children if she left her meal ticket. There is nothing more forlorn and piteous than a clinging vine torn from its moorings and left bedraggled and helpless on the ground.

But the modern woman doesn't want to be a clinging-vine wife. She doesn't want to be a parasite upon her husband. No matter how much she loves him nor how generous he is to her, she hates being dependent upon him, and the fly in the amber of every business girl who gets married is that she has to give up her pay envelope. Nor is the modern woman content for her husband to treat her as a doll to be played with and dressed up, or a slave to serve him. Her ideal is palship, comradeship, perfect equality in every way.

Still another reason why the clinging-vine woman can never come back is because men will not have her. In the past the woman who was utterly helpless may have appealed to men's chivalry. Now she merely makes them very, very tired. In the past men may have been flattered by women who never had an idea or an opinion of their own and who appeal to them as if they were oracles to settle every question. Now they regard such women as Dumb Doras and are bored to tears by them.

Why, all of the old-clinging-vine charms have gone into the discard and a man would no more get all wrought up over them than he would over a four-minute trotting horse when he is used to driving 50 miles in his automobile. Fancy a man falling in love with a girl because she was delicate and always reclined on a sofa! He would call her sickly and pass her up. Fancy a man thinking it sweetly feminine for a girl not to know who is president, or who is making world records, or doing endurance tests, or anything that is in the papers! He would avoid the little nit-wit as he would the plague.

No, any woman who gets by in these days has to look and act and talk like an adult human being and be able to play the game off her own bat. When a man holds her hand he wants to do it for fun and not because she has to have somebody lead her about.

Furthermore, the sturdy oaks don't propose to make themselves a prop for every wandering vine any more. They have seen too many trees that have been smothered to death under parasitic growths.

Brothers and sons and uncles and cousins see no reason why they should toil to support able-bodied female relatives, and they refuse to do it. For when women achieved financial independence they also set men free.

So, taking it by and large, it seems as if the clinging-vine type of woman had gone. And to stay.

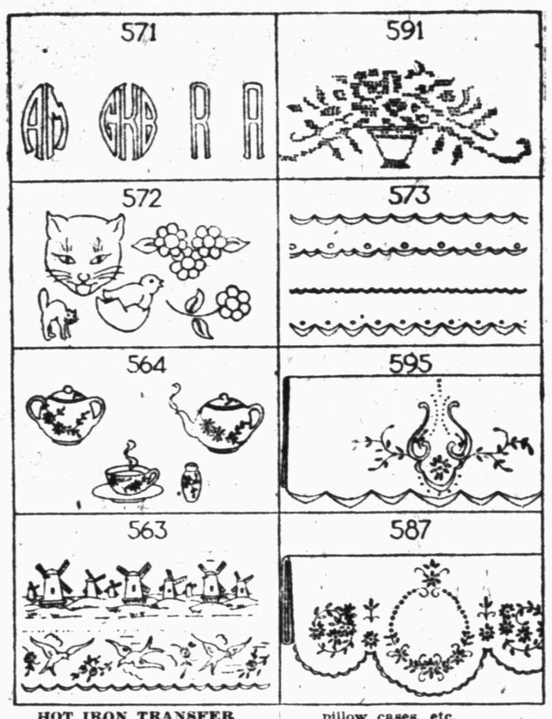

—DOROTHY DIX.

Hall County Sets Institute Dates

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Oct. 19.—November 6 and 7 were the dates set for the Hall County Teacher's institute in a meeting of the superintendents held here last week, according to County Superintendent Theodore Swift. There will be approximately 170 teachers in attendance at the two-day session.

During the meeting it was voted by the superintendents to employ three instructors to have charge of the institute, one for the high school division, one for the intermediate and one for the primary. It was recommended that Dr. W. A. Jackson, head of the department of government at Texas Technological college, be secured for the high school division and Dr. Albert Barnett, rural school specialist of the West Texas State Teachers' college for the intermediate. A teacher from the Simmons university will instruct in the primary department, but her name was not available.

Superintendent Swift says the program that shall be worked out for this two-day institute will eclipse all former efforts, and that Memphis will endeavor to make it as pleasant as possible for the teachers during the two days they shall be in our midst.

It was also decided in the meeting that the superintendents and principals would have luncheons at stated intervals during the school year a the various schools, and to continue the baseball league in the rural schools, which has heretofore been very successful.

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 19.—Hardeman county Red Cross roll call and drouth relief campaign will start Oct. 21 under the chairmanship of Frank Kennerly.

Mr. Kennerly appointed the following committees for the communities of the county to conduct the campaign:

Quanah—C. E. Davis, chairman; R. R. Gilliland, T. B. Simmons, A. P. Pierce, Mason Harwell, L. H. Maloy, Mrs. W. O. Neal, Mrs. Frank Hook, Mrs. A. T. Chaney, and Mrs. W. C. Howard.

Chillicothe—C. E. Carlock, chairman; Mrs. J. M. Rutherford.

Goodlett—French Wrinkle, chairman; George Stephenson.

Medicine Mound—Mrs. Henry Cole, chairman.

Acme—Mrs. H. F. Barnard, chairman.

Quotas for the county have been assigned as follows: Goodlett, $100; Acme, $150; Medicine Mound, $75; Chillicothe, $300; and Quanah, $875.

It is believed the quotas will be greatly exceeded, however, as all sections of the county appreciate the assistance of the Red Cross in furnishing a total of $2,250 in this county for purchase of seed wheat.

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Oct. 19.—The Wilbarger County Red Cross roll call for 1930 will be held at the usual time, starting Nov. 11, Chairman J. B. Lawson announces. Plans for the drive are being discussed at present and an extensive campaign is expected.

Several cities are holding the roll call drive early this year due to added pressure placed on the Red Cross due to drouth conditions, but the drive will be held as scheduled here, although demands are unusually heavy, Mr. Lawson said.

Cotton Ginnings At Altus Reach 10,197

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Oct. 19.—Ten thousand one hundred and ninety-seven bales of cotton were ginned in Jackson county prior to Oct. 1 this year in comparison with 14,778 bales ginned to the same date one year ago, making a loss of 4,582 bales in ginnings this year.

Dial Used For Long Distance

New York - Chicago Call Made Satisfactorily

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. (AP)—The first dialed long distance telephone call from Chicago to New York was set up today.

It was made as a demonstration of the "next grand step" in speeding up the transmission of long distance calls.

The call came from the speakers' platform just before a meeting of the Illinois Manufacturers' association at the Hotel Stevens in Chicago to the Associated Press in New York. It was the first use of a dial for a regular call for more than very short distances.

Without human hand or voice intervening anywhere along the 900 miles of wire, the call was put through solely by mechanical means. Sergius P. Grace, assistant vice president of the Bell Telephone laboratories of New York, picked up an ordinary phone on the platform and dialed in the Chicago long distance office with the New York Associated Press number, Eldorado 1200. This gave him directly the Associated Press switchboard and he asked for Howard W. Blakeslee, Associated Press science editor.

Grace described what he had done and Blakeslee asked:

"How long did it take?"

"No longer than making a local call in New York. I got your number inside of a minute."

"What is the significance of dial long distance calls?"

"It is the next grand step in dial telephony. It will speed up and simplify the making of long distance calls."

Sudden Death Claims Famous U. S. Sculptor

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 19. (AP)—Edward Virginus Valentine, famous sculptor, who was known principally for his recumbent statue of Robert E. Lee, in the Lee chapel at Lexington, Va., died at his home here today. He would have observed his 92nd birthday Nov. 12.

Mr. Valentine had been in failing health several months, but his death came unexpectedly.

Although he was best known for his statue of Lee, some critics have pronounced his "Andromache and Astyanax," now in the Valentine museum at Richmond, his masterpiece.

Could Write a Book About It

"Nine years ago after my little girl was born dead, I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for about four months. The next year I became the mother of a fine 11 pound baby boy. After he was born, I kept on with the medicine to build me up. Four months ago I was nervous and rundown and suffered from other troubles which I knew Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would relieve so I started taking it and now I feel fine again. Many of my friends could write a book on the good the Vegetable Compound has done them."—Mrs. W. Bricklaying Emperor
African Impressions
A Czar of Music
Millionaire in Overalls

By EMILE GAUVREAU

The emperor of Abyssinia, who is one of the very few absolute monarchs left on the earth, turns into a bricklayer whenever a public structure is being erected. In his palace, he is unapproachable and sacred. On the building lot he is a laborer, bearing burdens and rubbing shoulders with the lowliest.

On Nov. 2, the new sovereigns of Abyssinia are to be crowned. The curious thing about the festivities which will attend the coronation is that American gambling devices have been set up in the capital "for the amusement of the representatives of western powers."

This notion on the part of the African potentates of the most popular form of the white man's recreation is no more erroneous than our own notion of how Africans spend their time. When we think of these "savages" at all, we picture them as arrayed in nothing but lion clothes, uttering hideous screeches, and cutting up the maddest capers in their dances. They, on their parts, believe us to be addle-pated idlers, reeking with money, who do nothing but smoke, gamble, and make illicit love. They may be closer to the truth about us than we are about them.

The music interests, following the example set for them by the movie interests, have nominated a czar. He is to represent them in national and international problems that arise in what has become an industry as well as an art and profession.

Baseball has its Landis. Moving pictures its Will Hays. Music has its Milton Diamond. Each is entrusted with dictatorial powers in his own field. There is no appeal to their decisions. And this "despotic" power has been voluntarily given them by the organizations they dominate.

Czars designated by the constituency over which they have absolute power are eminently desirable. Nations might learn from the three czaristic industries in America how to make a success of government.

Almost all of us have speculated, some time or other, on how we'd spend a million dollars. If it was suddenly left to us by an accommodating uncle. We are such that we'd put half the amount in a good bank, and with the other half proceed to go in for all the glamorous joys whose temptations we could never before yield to.

Lee F. Phillips Jr., of Kansas City, is today heir to millions. We do not find him in Monte Carlo at the roulette wheel, with a marchesa on one side of him and the Dolly sisters on the other. Nor do we find him at Auteuil, betting on the races. Nor at some night club, cheek by jowl with gangsters and applauding nudity.

Mr. Phillips Jr., has more sense. Donned in overalls, he is working as an attendant at a filling station, learning the sales end of the oil business. He wants to get to the top through knowledge, not by an inheritance.

A number of seniors of Princeton university confess, in answer to a questionnaire, that seven Broadway plays had the effect of injuring their morals.

If literature of the highest order is able to corrupt or impair the morals of our younger generation of intellectuals, what hope is there for a future in authentic drama? By making such a confession the seniors at Princeton reveal the paucity of their mental equipment and narrowness of outlook.

The fine thing about the late home brew beer decision is that we kin now fire a maid without bein' afraid she'll tip us off., "I don't want to be pessimistic, but I won't be surprised to see people walkin' to work before November," declares Tell Binkley, speakin' o' times.

"It's all in the breaks of the game," said the football player as he limped off the field.

Flogging the Gangster

MR. WICKERSHAM'S suggestion that the whipping post be revived for use in the war against gangsters and racketeers may have its points, but it reminds one of the old recipe for making rabbit pie. That recipe, as you probably remember, began with the admonition, "First catch your rabbit." Before you can whip a gangster you have to catch him; and catching gangsters is not exactly our long suit in America.

Indeed, Mr. Wickersham's proposal is somehow very discouraging. It seems to represent a harking back to the belief that savage severity to convicted criminals represents society's best hope in its war on the underworld.

At the present moment two cities stand out as gang-ruled communities. One is New York and the other is Chicago. Each city has a large and energetic police force whose members are able and willing to get rough with underworldlings whenever they get a chance. In each city the penalty for first degree murder is electrocution. New York, in addition, has the Baumes law, which makes a life term in prison mandatory for any fourth offender.

Yet each city seems to be literally helpless in dealing with its gang problem.

This helplessness does not come because the laws providing for the punishment of convicted criminals are too lax. It does not come because gangsters are not afraid of the consequences that will come if they are found guilty of crimes. It comes because the gangsters in each city are justifiably confident that they will not be caught at all, no matter what they do—and because, in addition, they know that if they are caught they can probably beat the rap.

Suppose this flogging business were adopted; what would happen? Would the gangsters—the really dangerous, murderous representatives of organized crime—be the ones to suffer? They would not. They would go their way as freely as they do now, and the whipping post would claim the unimportant crooks, the desperate wanderers driven to a sudden venture in crime by poverty and hunger. The Capones and Diamonds would go on about their business without a qualm.

It would be pleasant to think that the whole thing could be settled just by being more savage. But it can't. Before large American cities can handle their gangs decently there will have to be a drastic revision of courts, of politics and of civic morality. Setting up a whipping post will not break the alliance between politics and crime. It will not put the crooked police court attache out of business. It will not stop the practice of selling judgeships. It will not drive the unscrupulous lawyer out of business.

The whole thing, in short, is a problem far too deep and fundamental to be solved in any off-hand manner. It is rather disappointing to find a man of Mr. Wickersham's intelligence offering such a solution.

They Who Get Slapped, but Like It

EVEN in the matter of conduct in high political office, it appears that the public really likes to be shocked more or less by departures from established convention.

Word now comes of another sensational gesture on the part of Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana in the appointment of his private secretary, Miss Alice Lea Grosjean, as secretary of state. Not only is Miss Grosjean the first woman to hold that office in Louisiana, but she is "attractive of face and figure," is 24 years of age, and has been Mr. Long's secretary for the past six years. All of which facts, normally, would serve to forbid such an appointment.

But Mr. Long has fed the people of Louisiana constantly during the past six years upon a diet of public acts which their best traditions normally would forbid. His two terms as governor have been among the most stormy in the history of the state, with an attempted impeachment included in the spicy record. Yet he was given a second term, and is now the Democratic nominee for the United States senate despite ferish fight waged against him.

Defying most of the rules that supposedly have marked the straight and narrow path which political officeholders must appear to follow to hold public support, Huey P. Long apparently has learned how to slap his constituents and still make them like it.

McAdoo in the Air

WILLIAM GIBBS McADOO, after a transcontinental flight from Los Angeles to New York, deserted the air for the picture and the newspaper kodakers made the most of it. He gave his reason for the big hop that he wished to determine the speed with which the average business man could cross the continent in comfort and safety. He made the journey from Los Angeles to the capital of the nation in 16 hours and 25 minutes. Now the former secretary of the treasury is convinced that a plane furnished all the comfort and the safety of a rail pullman close to the ground.

In the good old days of the oxcart civilization the hardy pioneer made the journey from the midwest to the California shores of the Pacific in six months. He started in early springtime and if good luck attended him he made the Pacific landing in fall time. This is the sky-flying age and the civilization of today calls for rapid travel and men who do not sleep at the switch.

On the Road to the Pen

PROHIBITION laws prohibit when the juries convict violators of the laws. A decision by the supreme court of the United States sustains the constitutionality of the Wesley Jones five and ten measure and those convicted of violating it are on the road to the federal penitentiary. Now the Jones act provides a penalty of five years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine for a higher up.

Springfield is a very enterprising Missouri city. Thomas B. Love of Texas hails from Green county and Springfield is its metropolis. Dry agents threw the net and landed the mayor of the city and four pals. They were convicted of conspiracy to violate the Volstead act and the maximum penalty is two years imprisonment and $10,000 fine for violation of the act. Those who are caught and convicted are convinced that prohibition prohibits when jurors return a verdict of guilty on the law and the evidence.

-Experience-

The thought of you keeps beating in my brain,
The lure of you keeps racing in my mind;
And I am weary, time and time again
I've done my best to leave your ghost behind.

What spark have you that all the others lack?
What hold have you that I have failed to shake?
I know that I am sick of looking back
On memories that leave a sullen ache.

I've filled my nights with every lure I know,
But morning finds your ghost within my room;
If I had known that you would matter so,
How differently the future now would loom.

To one who not so many months ago
Thought you a toy—and love a stupid show.

Add Sillies

Sammy Finn, who knows more girls than any two columnists, would have you believe that he actually experienced this in a Greek restaurant. He asked the Greek waiter what kind of pie he had. The waiter used his fingers to enumerate the various kinds in this dialect: "We got opple pie (using the index finger of the right hand to designate opple pie)—we got stromberry pie, kokanots pie, and Bustom crimm pie."

"What," queried Sammy as he pointed to the Greek's thumb, "is that?"

"Dot's cake!" was the reply.

Capsule Criticism

Added to our Crisp Cracks from Caustic Critics is Charles Darnton's blackball on a new flop—"They treated it like a distant relative."

Overheard

Jules Ziegler, a Times Square-shooter, met a friend yesterday. "I'm going to Europe on the second," said Jules.

"The second of November?"

"No, the second Goldman-Sachs hits fifty."

Izzy Elinsons

We're all dancing with racketeers before our eyes . . . The trouble with prize fights is that the fighters seem to be developing their swing on the kitten golf courses . . . I know a booking agent and is he low? Everything about him is small. When he dies they'll probably have an Austin funeral . . . The recent fire at Texas Guinan's was just a new stunt. People were getting tired of merely one "hot seat" . . . These days when a judge tells the wife he is off to court, she doesn't know whether to say: "Don't be too hard on him," or "Hope you're acquitted."

Heart-Throb

The "lobster shift," you know, is that crew of lads on newspapers who work from midnight to dawning. The other day a likeable copy boy on the New York Evening Journal, which has the largest eve'circ in the country (Ah, there—Mr. Curley!), passed on. The following is now on the newspaper's bulletin board:

Here lies a boy, a copy boy,
Now he'll do as the angels bid.
He'll not miss the Copy Desk
But the Desk will miss the Kid.

Observation

Joe Lewis, who was Chicaguned and lived to tell it, resumed activities as night club star at the Chateau-Madrid the other night where he was enthusiastically welcomed. It was an exciting premiere and he rated it. But more interesting to us was observing some of the rude audience.

While Lewis was trying to deliver his specialty the management permitted its lackeys to detract attention from the talent by juggling extra tables on the floor for one party. The tables were for Gene Geiger, who, when he owned night clubs starring Vincent Lopez, wouldn't permit such a thing. If he had, Lopez probably would have stopped playing "Nola."

When a lass was up to here with nervousness trying to make good on her first local appearance most of the audience (actors, yet!) talked boisterously and otherwise conducted themselves like actors. They would have squawked their heads off were they entertaining, and spectators gabbed.

And when Janet Reade sang a song, three songwriters and music publishers filled their glasses with cracked ice, jingling it so noisily, you wondered if they would have if Miss Reade had been crooning one of their ditties.

Phillips My Column

"Whatever became of Coste and Bellonte?" asks Walter Winchell. —H. I. Phillips in the N. Y. Sun, who adds: "Well, Coste lost to Bobby Jones in the final at Merion, but nothing has been heard of Bellcrite since he struck out in St. Louis with the bases full."

The Morning Mail

"Last night," writes Hugh Wedlock, Jr., "I had an argument with a friend of mine who said that you and Mark Hellinger were the two most sarcastic guys writing. I admitted you both were sarcastic, but I thought you both were justified, and so asserted. However, my friend won the argument when, referring to you and Mark, he niftied: 'There's gall in them thar quills!' What could I have used for answer to that one?"

The same line your friend used, substituting the word "gold" for "gall."

Add Broadwaycse

"It's a good thing he isn't wearing a celluloid collar" is Broadway code for "he's burning up!"

"Always Bellittin' "

"Did you see what your critic pal wrote?" they asked Marc, after "That's the Woman" opened. "He didn't overlook anybody, did he? He panned everything."

"Yeah, he did everything," replied Marc, dejectedly, "but put a match to the theater."

Capsule Opinion

The closing of Arthur Hammerstein's costly musical show, "Luana," prompted Bugs Bear to chirp: "The trouble with 'Luana' is that they didn't make the cast smaller and the volcano in the last act bigger!"

HEARTBREAK GIRL

By ROB EDEN . . .

Nick Walther, wealthy young Hollywood real estate man, impressed by the earnestness of Gail Stuart, beautiful young hiker he has picked up on the road, arranges with Tod Janson, press agent, to get her a film test. Gail meets Ross Hardy, handsome movie extra. They agree to help each other if one of them gets a "break." Gail's test fails, and she fortunately gets a job as secretary to Carla Cross, famous actress, from her home town. Gail is much impressed at living in the star's home, but soon sees signs of Carla's bad temper. Gail meets Walther who comes to take Carla to an opening, and tells him she will repay his loan. Carla's mother confesses she is lonely and longs to go back to Kansas. She hopes Carla will marry Walther because she needs money. Gail is astounded as she knows the actress gets a salary of $3,000 a week.

CHAPTER XI

Gail was the first to break away. She hadn't meant to lose control of herself. Let Ross kiss her—

"Don't honey," Ross was whispering in her ear. His arms were around her again. "I came to tell you how awfully sorry I am about your test. Please understand."

"I do—" She had known Ross would understand how she felt. But when he had kissed her, everything grew dizzy, her heart pounded frantically, her face became hot.

"Then kiss me!" Ross begged and Gail lifted trembling lips to his. She thought their kiss would never end. Hoped it never would. Did she love Ross? Was that why she was shaking so, why the blood beat so furiously in her temples. To have him near her. Feel his arms around her. Know he was sorry for her. That someone was sorry.

"You like me a little, don't you?" he was asking. His arms fell away from her, and he took her hand and they started down the tree shaded street.

"You know I do."

"I'm crazy about you, Gail. I don't know what's the matter with me. Seeing you the few times that I have, and loving you so soon. For I do love you, dear. You believe me?"

The Thrill of First Love

"Yes." He loved her, too! Love was new to Gail. To be sure there had been a few boys in Fairview, while she was at school and while she was working. Boys she had grown up with. One of them told her he loved her, just before she had left the city. Begged her to marry him. She was gentle in her refusal, for the boy meant nothing to her. She hadn't even listened properly while he was making his awkward proposal.

Now she wanted Ross to go on, forever, telling her he loved her. Wanted to know more of what he thought. How did he know he loved her? How did she know, for that matter, that she loved him?

I do, I do, she said fiercely to herself—

Even if I've only seen him a few times. Even if I don't know him—

"I've been thinking of you all day," Ross went on. "Colonial studios wanted extras, two hundred of them, and of course I wasn't one chosen, because they wanted types. Beards and workman types, mostly. I've been there all day hanging around, hoping I'd get something. Hanging around and thinking of you. Funny how you fall in love, isn't it? I didn't really know I was in love until I saw you running toward me. Then I knew. I suppose it's kind of silly, falling in love like this—when we can't possibly get married."

"Maybe we can some day," Ross' last words had been so hopeless, that the girl felt she should cheer him up.

"I wish we could get married tonight, Gail. Now. I never wanted to marry anyone before. I've been in love, of course, or at least I thought I was in love. Crushes I guess they were, now that I know. But I've never thought of marrying before. I want you. And I'm going to get you—"

He kissed her again.

"If only I wasn't so damnably poor, dear. It seems so cruel, wanting to marry you and knowing I haven't any money. Not even a job. No prospects."

"But you'll get a job—"

"Looks kind of hopeless now. Maybe I ought to try to get a regular job. Give up any ambition to get into the movies—"

"No! You mustn't do that, Ross. Promise me you won't. No matter how poor you get. One of us—one of us has to succeed. Last night it looked as if I had the best chance. Tonight it looks as if you had. The difference one night makes—"

"You really want me to stick to the movies?"

"I do. You have to!"

"I can't afford to buy a ring for you," Ross said hesitantly. "It won't matter, will it?"

So when Gail stole through Carla's garden an hour later she was engaged to Ross Hardy. Her en-

Q.—What is meant by the Universe?—G. P. G.

A.—The term universe is generally used in reference to the entire world of stars and nebulae, not only visible to the naked eye but hundreds of thousands besides so distant that their existence is revealed only by the greatest telescopes and the most sensitive photographic plates. The term actually includes also our own solar system.

Q.—What was the feat which caused Foch to say that Sergeant York's was the greatest achievement accomplished by a private soldier in any of the armies in Europe?—C. D. W.

A.—While in the Argonne, Oct. 8, 1918, armed with a Springfield rifle and automatic revolver, Sergeant York killed 20 Germans, captured Hill 233, compelled the surrender of 132 enemies, including a major and three lieutenants, and 38 machine guns.

Q.—Can you give me an idea of the number of men and women working their way through college?—R. L.

A.—A recent survey of records of 763 colleges and universities in the United States made by the National Student federation revealed that 46 per cent of the men and 23 per cent of the women enrolled in American institutions of higher learning were earning all or part of their expenses in more than 200 different types of employment. It was found that only two per cent of college women are entirely self-supporting, however, while the number of men who earn all of their college expenses is about three time as great as the number of women.

Q.—What accounts for the direction in which the gulf stream flows?—F. A. B.

A.—The course of the gulf stream is influenced to a large extent by the coast line. After leaving the Gulf of Mexico it encounters the Bahama islands and is turned northeastward, following the trend of the American coast. On issuing into the ocean it is met by the so-called "cold wall," which crowds in towards the New England coast, forcing the gulf stream water off toward the east. Being forced out farther and farther from the coast it is spread into a fan-shaped drift of continually diminishing depth.

Q.—Is Alice Brady still on the stage or has she gone into the talkies?—E. B.

A.—She is appearing in stock at Atlanta, Ga.

Q.—Why are large thumb tacks placed in some of the streets in cities?—E. L.

A.—In approaching a hospital, or other quiet zone, careless motorists sometimes fail to observe the warning signs. These tacks jolt the car to a certain extent and act as a reminder of the entrance to such zones.

Q.—Is Selma a Spanish name? What does it mean?—J. C. E.

A.—Selma is of Celtic derivation and means fair.

Q.—When were the first people tattooed in the United States?—D. C.

A.—Tattooing fashion in this country was set by Captain Constantinus or Constantenus, who in the early '70s of the last century traveled with Barnum as the first tattooed man to be shown in the United States, and whose skin markings were regarded in his day as the most elaborate exhibited in Europe or America.

Q.—Who is the new governor of the federal reserve board?—M. R.

A.—Eugene Meyer.

Q.—How many dead letters are received at the postoffice? Are many of these returned to the senders?—J. C. W.

A.—The dead letter office of the postoffice department received 23,000,000 letters last year. Of these, it was able to return to the senders 3,800,000, with a collection fee of three cents.

Q.—Please tell me just what the Scapa Flow is.—R. E. W.

A.—Scapa Flow is an expanse of sea in the south of the Orkneys, bounded by Momona on the north, Burray and South Ronaldshay on the east and southeast, and Hoy on the west and southwest. The area contains seven small islands and is about 15 miles in length from north to south and about eight miles in mean breadth.

Q.—Can a mirage be photographed?—T. B.

A.—It is possible and has been done several times.

The Record News Offers A Booklet on Modern Manners

Do you know that when calling you should not apologize for staying longer that you had intended? Remarks such as, "I must be going," or "I really did not intend to stay so long," and the like are frequently possible of misinterpretation. Do not talk about leaving and then remain because your hostess says, "Oh, don't go." Above all, do not linger after you have risen to leave. Go promptly, and if you have some last minute thoughts, save them for another time. It is bad form to keep your hostess standing while you delay your leave taking.

This may seem a little thing, but it is the little things that make for good manners in all social relations.

In sending for a copy of Modern Manners use this coupon and enclose 10 cents for handling and postage:

When Your Back Goes Back on You

A surprisingly large number of people go to doctors for treatment of backache and are unaware of any other trouble, but all too aware of that distressing pain in the back.

The cure of backache would undoubtedly be simple if only the back was involved, but the back is intimately connected with most of the vital organs. Any trouble with the back may effect the heart, lungs, stomach, kidneys, nervous system, or any of the pelvic organs, such as the colon or uterus, or, trouble in these organs may affect the back by reflex pains.

The usual form of backache in the lower back is caused by a displacement or a congestion of some of the pelvic organs. This displacement will cause a persistent dragging down pain in the lower back because the sagging organs are pulling on ligaments which are attached to the spine. The congestion causes a pressure on delicate nerve centers which produce a referred pain to the back.

Bladder inflammation causes a large percentage of backaches in the small of the back. Inflammation in the uterus or prostate will often cause a reflex pain in the lower back resembling lumbago. Then there are strains from heavy lifting also producing an ache in the lower back, as with long-continued stooping, such as working in the garden. Sudden strains may cause an injury to the muscles or nerves of the back. Any aching in the back may be relieved by application of heat from hot towels wrung out of hot water, or through the use of a high candle-power therapeutic lamp, the electric pad, hot sitz baths, or hot shower. Kidney plaster or liniment may be used as a counter-irritant in addition to the heat. Massage may be employed, as the regular stroking relaxes the muscles and eases the pain.

If spinal lesions exist it is advisable to take osteopathic or chiropractic treatments and supplement these with graduated exercise for strengthening the back muscles.

If the backache is caused by a referred pain, it is necessary to correct the congestion or inflammation which is causing the pain.

Whenever backache occurs frequently, a toxic blood stream and enervation are conditions which must be considered contributing causes. When these are corrected, the backache often disappears with no specific treatment. The most effective method of overcoming toxemia is the fast with the drinking of sufficient water to wash out the toxins. This should be followed by a diet which gives the blood plenty of material for building new cells. To overcome the enervation the patient needs to take plenty of rest and he should avoid weakening habits, such as too much excitement, worry, fear or nervous tension. People often have backaches only when they are tired, thus their backaches appear only after a strenuous day of shopping. They should make every effort to build up their nerves to normal and they will find that in many cases this alone will prevent their backaches.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Swollen Gland in Neck

Question.—S. J. writes: "I have a swollen gland in my neck and would like to know what treatment to use for it. I have had it lanced a couple of times, but after a while it seems to come back. It doesn't hurt, and I'm strong and healthy, and some people say I will out grow it, but I don't think so."

Answer.—Your only hope of curing the swollen gland is to take a careful diet which will not overload your lympatic circulation. It is best, for a short time, to eliminate all of the heavy foods such as starches, sugars, meats, etc., living on fruits and green vegetables for a month or two to give your glands a chance to empty themselves of any accumulated wastes. Lancing only injures the glands still further, and extends the trouble to other glands nearby. Hot applications or electrical treatments are sometimes helpful in emptying out the swollen glands.

How Much Water

Question.—H. C. L. asks: "How much water should a person drink during the day?"

Answer.—The quantity of water used depends upon your bodily necessities and these vary in each individual case. A good rule to use is to take as much water as necessary to keep the urine a light color. If the urine ever becomes dark during the day it is a sign you are not using enough water. The additional water should be taken between meals and not with food.

Chest Always Red

Question.—K. D. asks: "What would cause one's chest to be always red, even though not exposed to the sun? Could it be from nervousness or indigestion?"

Answer.—When the skin is very red on the chest it is sometimes an indication of the systemic acidosis caused by an over-acidity of the stomach, but, of course, sometimes it is only due to exposure of that part of the skin, which is thin and sensitive.

STEPHENS BOY WINS AWARD

Club Member Takes State Fair Prize

Special to The Record News.

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Oct. 19.—Frank Lochridge, Stephens county farm agent, and six 4-H club boys have returned home from Dallas where they attended the annual state fair 4-H club boys' encampment. Approximately 300 other Texas farm youths were in attendance at the encampment also, according to Mr. Lochridge.

The youths attending the encampment with Mr. Lochridge were Ray Taylor, John Lauderdale, Garth Guye, Buel Whiteside, Durward Head and Edgar Corbett. These club boys earned the right to attend the encampment by winning county awards given here at a 4-H club show held earlier this month. The local chamber of commerce paid the expenses of the trip.

Ray Taylor, Necessity 4-H club boy, returned home richer by one fat, feeder calf, a prize offered each year by the Texas and Pacific railroad to one boy in every county through which the T. & P. passes for the best record made in the respective counties for growing grain, sorghum or corn. Young Taylor had best record for Stephens county. The calf will be sent to Taylor in the near future by the railroad company. The youth is asked to feed his prize calf on home-grown grain and show him at the next Fort Worth Livestock exposition, according to Mr. Lochridge.

Miss Viola McKenzie, Stephens county home demonstration agent, will leave Monday morning with four Stephens county 4-H club girls to attend a similar encampment held for girl club members of Texas. Miss McKenzie and her group of girls will return home the following Friday. Those who will attend the encampment with Miss McKenzie are Vera Richardson, Parks; Gladys Moore, Necessity; Dahlia Deaton, Ivan; Ruby Lee Harrison, Breckenridge.

New Proposal Added to Bids For Furnishing Power at Frederick

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 19.—Frederick's council room will probably not be large enough to hold all those who want to be present next Tuesday night when the several different propositions submitted to furnish this city power and light will be discussed. The latest proposal is from the Fulton Iron Works of St. Louis, Mo., which was asked to submit a price on a plant sufficient for Frederick's present needs. John J. Zumwalt, superintendent of the light and power department, has gone over the matter and figured the cost of installation, depreciation and cost of operation, including help and fuel, and has compared this with the other proposals.

A. H. Krause and Grover Hope, Frederick citizens, offer to put in a plant and furnish electricity for 2 cents per k.w.h., the city to distribute it and collect for same, as is now being done with the electricity which is obtained from the Southwestern Light and Power company. At the end of 20 years Krause and Hope offer to turn the plant over to the city without cost.

Krause owns about a quarter of block on South Seventh street on which is located his commodious planing mill and material establishment. This will house the new plant in case he and Hope are given the contract.

The Southwestern Light and Power company has been furnishing Frederick electricity for more than three years. The contract expired several months ago and a cheaper rate has been offered. It is expected S. I. McElhoes of Oklahoma City, vice president of this company, will be present Tuesday night, together with Z. Z. Rogers, of Oklahoma City, and J. S. Boyett, manager of the Southwestern's plant at Lawton.

There are a number of citizens who favor a municipal plant. Should the city install a plant it would be necessary to vote bonds.

Tuesday night's meeting is open to the public.

QUANAH TRICKS WHIP COYOTES

Indians Register Their Only Conference Victory

It's Amarillo and Lubbock now. The football race in district No. 1 of the Interscholastic league has at last narrowed down to a scrap between these two teams. Amarillo Saturday smashed out its fourth straight conference victory at the expense of Plainview, 33 to 0, in a lop-sided game played at Amarillo, while Lubbock journeyed to Electra and conquered the Tigers, 19 to 6, thereby flinging the Cats from their exalted tie with Amarillo and lodging them in fourth place. Vernon and Pampa, neither of whom played league games last Saturday, may come through and upset the prediction, but only a miracle can keep Lubbock and Amarillo out of the finishing battle for the title, and that battle will be staged two weeks hence when the Sandies go to Lubbock. For the Sandies are sure to conquer Vernon and Wichita Falls, say the experts, while the Westerners should be able to do away with Quanah, Vernon and Plainview, their remaining opponents after the Amarillo game.

Quanah Wins One

So much for the news of last week as concerns the present and possibly future standings of the elevens in our particular section of the interscholastic league's universe. But an item of importance merely because of its unexpectedness was the story detailing how the lowly Quanah Indians at last won a conference game—their only conference victory in the school's history. But the rest of the news is what matters—they did it at the expense of the Wichita Falls Coyotes.

The Indians unleashed a bag of tricks to register a 19 to 13 victory over Coach Barry Holton's Pack—a bag of tricks that completely bewildered the Coyotes, and enabled the Tribe to come from behind a 13-point lead and win. The specific trick that spelled doom for the Pack was a "hide-out" play. The Coyotes, in the second quarter, scored the first counter of the game on a pass, Ray to Brandon. In the next quarter, two splendid passes, Ray to Brandon and Cox to Withrow accounted for another touchdown. Then the Indians got busy. A startling succession of spinner plays by Norman and Hall shoved over a touchdown, Hall carrying the ball over. And a few minutes later Quanah had the ball deep in Coyote territory again and Lovell squirmed through the line for another touchdown, tying the score at 13-all at the end of the third quarter. In the fourth came the disastrous "hide-out." Lovell of Quanah laid out on the west side of the field as the teams formed for a play. The ball was snapped, and Hall passed to Lovell, who had a clear field in front of him. He took the ball to the 15-yard line, and three more plays put over the winning touchdown.

Third Straight Loss

And so Quanah stepped up the ladder into fifth place and gave the Coyotes and the Plainview Bulldogs more stretching room in the cellar. It was the third straight conference defeat for the Pack.

This week the Coyotes will meet the Vernon Lions at Vernon. The game is scheduled to be played Friday. The Sandies will lay out of conference warfare to take on the Central Fort Worth High school team at Amarillo Sunday. Plainview will journey to Pampa to awaken the Harvesters, who took a rest last week. The Electra Tigers will journey to Childress. Both of the last named games will be played Saturday. Quanah will spend this week-end in further celebrations, it is presumed, of their one and only victory, no conference game being scheduled. Brownfield High has been matched against the powerful Westerners in a practice game at Lubbock Saturday.

It will be noticed that both Amarillo and Lubbock will play practice games this week. As if each team planned to get in final action for their meeting two weeks hence in a game that virtually will decide the championship.

The standings:

Alabama Looms As 'Giant Killer'

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 19. (AP)—Alabama, with a massive, fast-charging line clearing the way for its speedy backs, ranked tonight as the real giant killer of the South after handing Tennessee its first gridiron defeat since 1926, in their game Saturday. The score was 18 to 6.

Another prominent title-contender, North Carolina, was eliminated from the Dixie flag chase as Georgia won 26 to 0.

Duke university furnished the fireworks for the biggest upset of the day in trouncing the Navy 18 to 0.

Florida won its first tilt outside the South in 14 years by downing Chicago, 19 to 0. Oglethorpe beat Dayton 6 to 0, Furman battled Davis-Elkins to a 7-7 deadlock and Howard lost to Duquesne 14 to 9.

Auburn's great stand against Georgia Tech indicated that the gridiron drouth at Alabama Polytechnic is almost at an end. The more experienced Engineers won 14 to 12.

Kentucky received its first real competition from Washington and Lee and only a spirited last period offensive enabled it to break a 14-14 tie roll up a 33-14 win.

Red Cagle's Mississippi Aggies in their conference game, beat Louisiana State 8 to 6.

Megargel Boots Seymour From First Place Tie In Class B Race

BLUEBIRDS IN SECOND PLACE

Chillicothe, Olney And Archer City on Top

The unexpected is always the biggest news, and Megargel last week succeeded in providing one of the most sensational and unexpected victories of the season in the Interscholastic league's class B district No. 3.

A team whose opponents lead by 12 points in the last, weary quarter, when such a margin looks almost impregnable to a tired eleven is not usually known to buck up and come out of said scrap with a victory. But that is exactly what Megargel did Friday in upsetting the Seymour Panthers by the close score of 13 to 12. Furthermore, the game was played on the Megargel field, before the admiring eyes of the home folks. The home town crowd saw the Panthers lead overtaken in the fourth period by a dazzling air attack that ended with the crack of the gun stopping the battle. Higginbotham and E. Brown were the heroes of this attack. A long pass negotiated by these two early in the quarter accounted for the first touchdown, and Franklin kicked the goal for the extra point—which, in the long run, won the game. Then in the last seconds of play, the aerial stars threw another pass. The gun ending the game boomed forth soon after the ball had left Higginbotham's hand but the shot that stopped the game couldn't stop that ball, and it continued its 40-yard spin through the air to alight in Brown's arms. And a minute later Megargel was celebrating its second conference victory.

Panthers Drop Notch

Megargel's victory knocked the Panthers out of a tie with Chillicothe, Olney and Archer City for first place, and relegated them into a tie with Megargel for second place, although Megargel has a clearer title to the honor by virtue of two conference wins. The Bluebirds defeated Burkburnett two weeks ago. Defeats were administered them by Chillicothe and Henrietta, the latter winning a scoreless game by virtue of a greater number of first downs. Before its defeat Friday Seymour boasted a victory over Fairview to give the team title to a .500 percentage in the standings column.

With Seymour's plunge from the precarious top position tie, Chillicothe, Olney and Archer City remain undefeated and on top of the heap. Olney showed its usual strength Friday in trouncing the Bulldogs at Burkburnett, 38 to 6, while Archer City made an imposing showing in blanking Henrietta, 63 to 0. Fairview forfeited to Chillicothe and played the Iowa Park Hawks instead, defeating the latter, 12 to 6 in a non-conference affair at Thrift.

Olney's Goal Crossed

Both the Burkburnett-Olney affair and the Archer City-Henrietta game were full of interest. For one thing, Olney's goal line was crossed for the first time this season Friday by the Bulldogs. In the second quarter, Ragsdale, Burk quarter, took the Cub machine by surprise and sprinted around end for a 30-yard drive and a touchdown. The Cubs, however, scored six touchdowns against the barkers, and kicked two extra points to register an impressive victory and again serve warning that the Olney lads are out to repeat as champions. Graves, Duckworth and Elmore were outstanding stars for the Cubs, while Salyer, in addition to Ragsdale, featured the Bulldog attack. The victory was Olney's second in the conference race, Fairview having been the other victim.

Coach Bill Cooper's Archer City lads invaded Henrietta and showed the world they have plenty of endurance and strength, and gave rise to more rumors of a "dark horse" being in the race. Surely a score of 63 to 0 is enough to sustain such a rumor. Archer City's victory was the second conference win for the team, placing it on an even keel with Olney in the standings, while Henrietta, shared with Burkburnett the berth just one step above the cellar, which at this time is being snugly occupied by Fairview. Both Burkburnett and Henrietta have won only one conference game while dropping three.

One After Another

While the Henriettans were wondering what was coming next, nearly every Archer City player, it seemed, scooted around scoring touchdowns. Larkin, in the second quarter, made a 70-yard dash from kick-off for a score; Burnett made one; Horaney and Wright made three each; and Tom McCurdy made two.

Though the Archer county lads looked impressive, it must be remembered it was against a team wholly unable to cope with such weight and might, and next week the Archer team is not likely to look near so good. For next Friday the powerful Olney Cubs invade Archer City, and you know what that will mean. Archer City probably will have the honor of crossing the Cubs' goal, even as the Burk Bulldogs spoiled their untouched record, but the Cubs are heavy favorites to win by a large margin. Now it is up to Coach Bill Cooper's boys to see just how bad they can shatter that dope, and you can count on it that his crew will be doing their level best to cause havoc with the dope pail.

Meanwhile, Seymour will invade Chillicothe—and you know, also, what that will mean. It will mean almost certain defeat for the Panthers, no matter how hard they fight—and consequently a narrowing down of the race for the top position between Chillicothe and Olney.

We May Be Surprised

Provided, of course, the Panthers don't come back with a rebel yell and pull the biggest upset of the year in whipping Chillicothe. And the Panthers having learned a lesson last week, they might do it. They learned, for instance, never to relax after they have piled up a winning margin, no matter how big that margin might be.

Fairview's game this week with Henrietta was postponed Sunday at the request of the Henrietta coach, who said his team was slowed up with injuries. The game probably will be played the Friday following Thanksgiving, it was said. Burkburnett will play the Hawks at Iowa Park in a practice affair, and Megargel has an open date. Megargel, however, will play a game if a foe can be found. The Megargel coach said he would consider offers for a game from any team in this territory.

The standings:

Teams—	G.	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Chillicothe	4	4	0	0	1.000
Olney	2	2	0	0	1.000

Roy Golden's Zundy Team Brings Wichita Its First Football Victory

STEERS ASSERT CONFERENCE IMPORTANCE BY DOWNING SOONERS

And so it remained for Roy Golden's scrappy little crew of Zundelowitz Junior High school gridders to bring Wichita Falls' its first football victory of the season in any organized conference, whether in the interscholastic league or not.

The Coyotes have failed. The Reagan Junior High school has failed. But the Zundy boys didn't.

It happened, you remember, last Thursday, at Vernon. It was the first conference game in the new Northwest Texas Junior High school league—with Zundy pitted against the Vernon Junior High school. And Zundy won, 6 to 0.

Friday Reagan invaded Denton to meet its Junior High school team, and lost, 44 to 0.

Hard-Earned Victory

Perhaps the Zundy boys should have beaten Vernon by a larger score, for Golden's team has had a wealth of experience compared to Vernon's. The latter team was organized for the first time this year. But Zundy barely eked out a victory by scoring in the last few minutes of play, and that says a lot for the Vernon boys. Even at that, however, a victory is a victory, no matter how you look at it, and a victory—just a victory of any kind, so long as it's earned fairly—is what football fans of Wichita Falls have been crying for this season.

And so the new Junior High school conference is actually in operation—due to the tireless efforts of officials of the two local Junior high schools. The championship of this loop—composed of the four teams who played last week—will be decided by a round robin schedule, and already much interest in the race has been aroused. For one thing, Zundelowitz is now ranking as a heavy favorite to whip the Reagan boys in the annual grid classic between these two teams to decide the city championship. This battle is slated last on the list.

Vernon Plays Here

The next conference game in this division will be on Oct. 30, when the Vernon team invades Wichita Falls for a clash with Coach Beck's Reagan team.

WEST HALTS TEAMS OF EAST

Notre Dame Victory Heads List of Upsets

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 19—Another wild day of stunning upsets once more has established the Middle West as the spot where most of this country's football dynamite is concealed.

The East sent three powerful unbeaten and untied elevens West of the Alleghanies yesterday and all came home prepared to testify to the potency of the Middle Western brand of play.

Irish Beat Carnegie Tech

Carnegie Tech, generally rated as formidable a team as the Atlantic seaboard could boast, invaded South Bend and bowed to an alert and smart Notre Dame outfit, 21-6, in a battle which indicated that the team which can stop Knute Rockne's "fighting Irish" can have the national championship for the asking. Wisconsin unloosed a bewildering series of passes and line smashes to crash Penn, 27-0, a surprisingly heavy margin over a team so well regarded as the Red and Blue. Colgate, third of the eastern elevens to suffer a reverse, was outscored by Michigan State, 14-7, a 65-yard dash by Monnett in the fourth period giving the Middle Westerners their winning score. Chicago was the only major team in the Mid-West to lose an intersectional game, Florida easily winning, 19-0.

In the Big Ten, Northwestern crushed Illinois 32-0, and took another long step toward the conference title. Michigan again showed a deceptive attack and a rugged defense to whip Ohio State, 13-0. Indiana put up a scrappy exhibition against Minnesota, but went down 6-0. Purdue easily whipped Iowa, 20-0.

In the Big Six, Jim Bausch broke away for runs of 98 and 59 yards to give Kansas a 14-0 triumph over the Kansas Aggies. Nebraska nosed out Iowa State, 14-12.

Yale Beats Brown

In the East, Albie Booth gave Brown's defense a busy afternoon at New Haven and Yale won 21-0. A poor Crimson punt paved the way for a 6-0 Army triumph over Harvard in a battle of unbeaten elevens. Cornell rolled up two touchdowns on Princeton in the first half and then had to withstand a passing attack and some fine punting by Howson to win, 12-7. Duke upset Navy, 18-0 but New York University turned back Missouri, 38-0. Dartmouth enjoyed a field day at Columbia's expense, 52-0, taking full advantage of every break, while Pittsburgh snapped Syracuse's winning streak, 14-0. Western Maryland trounced Georgetown 10-0, while Lafayette, astonished the natives by holding Penn State to a scoreless tie.

Alabama Victorious

In the South, Alabama's pile-driving line plays turned back Tennessee 18-6, for the Volunteers' first defeat since 1926. Georgia swamped North Carolina, 26-0, scoring 20 points in the last quarter.

Utah continued its march to another Rocky Mountain conference title by swamping Brigham Young, 34-7, while Denver beat the jinx and nosed out Colorado College, 6-0. Montana State lost to a Pacific coast conference eleven, Montana, 13-6.

In the far West, Stanford, as expected, turned back Oregon State, 13-7, but only after the hardest kind of fighting. Johnny Kitzmiller's 47-yard run gave Oregon a hard-earned 7-0 triumph over Washington. Southern California mopped up the Utah Aggies of the Rocky Mountain conference, 65-0.

Cy Leland Holds Lead in Scoring

DALLAS, Oct. 19. (AP)—Although he has failed to score in his team's last two games, Cy Leland of Texas Christian university still leads individual scorers in the Southwest conference grid race with six touchdowns.

Albert Lewter, Baylor fullback, climbed into second place when he scored a touchdown and kicked the extra point in Saturday's game against Southern Methodist.

11 Teams to Play In Rocky Loop

DENVER, Oct. 19. (AP)—The heavy artillery has been moved up to the front lines for the first major offensive along the Rocky Mountain conference battle-front. Eleven of the 12 conference teams will go into action Saturday, marking the fourth week of play for the football championship of the Rockies. Only Colorado college's Tigers will be idle.

Five teams remain unbeaten in conference competition, but only one, the University of Utah, still is untied and undefeated, all games considered. Ike Armstrong's Utes have beaten Nevada, 20-7, Wyoming 72-0, and Brigham Young university 34-7.

The Indians get their most severe test Saturday in Salt Lake City when they go out to resist Denver university's Pioneers. Denver had hard work to down Colorado college last week, 6-0.

Colorado Aggies, tied with Utah in the percentage column, will take on their traditional rival, the University of Colorado, at Boulder. The Farmers lost a warm-up game to Regis college of Denver, early in the season, 14-7.

Utah Aggies, returned home for a 65-0 beating at the hands of Southern California in Los Angeles.

Brigham Young tried to stop Utah last week but after holding the two-time conference title holders to a 7-7 tie through the first half, went to pieces and lost, 34-7.

Montana State's Bobcats appear to be in for a sound trouncing at Lincoln, where they meet the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers. The Cats lost to their state rival, Montana university, 13-6, last week.

Methodists Only Rate Tie With Baylor

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS, Oct. 19.—The University of Texas Longhorns put their finger in the Southwest conference football pie Saturday when they crushed the highly touted University of Oklahoma Sooners, 17 to 7, in their intersectional fray here.

Something of an unknown quantity prior to the game, the big Orange eleven gave a powerful exhibition in turning back the Sooners, who just the previous week had humbled the Nebraska Cornhuskers. A heavy, fast charging line that swept the lighter Sooners off their feet and a set of hard-running backs enabled the Longhorns to pile up 21 first downs to four for the invaders. They scored all their points on two touchdowns and a field goal in the final period.

Mustangs Tied

What made the valorous showing of the Steers all the more important was the indifferent exhibitions put on by other supposedly stout conference elevens. Southern Methodist, rated a prime favorite, let up and was held to a 14-14 tie by the Baylor Bears in a loosely-played, flamboyant affair at Waco. The champion Texas Christian Horned Frogs had to resort to a field goal in the final period to nudge out the weak Texas Aggies, 3 to 0, at College Station. The Rice Owls, who had been regarded rather highly, turned out to be something of a false alarm in losing to the Arkansas Razorbacks, 7 to 6, at Fayetteville.

If its play against Oklahoma may be taken at face value, the Texas line is one of the most formidable units to represent the state school in years. Led by "Ox" Blanton, "Dutch" Baumgarten and Walter Howle, a trio of huskies, the Steer forwards kept their opponents off balance all afternoon and never gave the speedy Oklahoma backs a chance to get started.

Leland "Bottled Up

Lack of an effective scoring punch when within easy reach of their opponents' goal line prevented the Horned Frogs from making their second conference victory a decisive one. Captain Noble Atkins, Frog center, saved his team from a tie by sending a placement through the posts in the last chukker. Cy Leland was bottled up most of the afternoon.

Stout-hearted little Jake Wilson and his Baylor cohorts were forced to put on a regular story-book rally in the closing minutes to gain their deadlock with the Mustangs, who had led 14 to 0 at the three-quarter mark. Wilson made the Bruins' first touchdown possible with a squirming, twisting run to the Methodists' five-yard line, after which Lewter bashed it on over. The tying score came when, with only two minutes to play, Alford shot a short pass over the line of scrimmage to McElreath, who eluded a pair of tacklers and romped 65 yards.

Arkansas jumped on Rice quick in their engagement, scoring right off the bat on three long runs from scrimmage, with "Cowboy" Kyle going over. Dale then kicked the extra point that, in the end, decided the game. The Owls scored on a pass in the first period, but Hammett fizzled an all-important extra point.

This Week's Games

Two conference tilts are scheduled this week, Texas and Rice meeting at Houston and the Aggies engaging Arkansas at Little Rock. Texas Christian plays Texas Tech in a non-conference affair at Fort Worth; Southern Methodist goes intersectional again, meeting Indiana university at the Fair Park bowl here, and Baylor tackles the Centenary Gentlemen at Shreveport.

The standing:

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Texas Christian	2	0	0	1.000
University of Texas	0	0	0	1.000
Arkansas	1	1	0	.500
Southern Methodist	0	0	1	.500
Baylor	0	0	1	.500
Texas A. & M.	0	1	0	.000
Rice	0	1	0	.000

Kansas Joins Oklahoma in Joint Leadership of Big Six Conference

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 19. (AP)—Kansas has moved up with Oklahoma in joint leadership of the Big Six conference football race by virtue of the 14 to 0 defeat of its traditional rival, the Kansas Aggies.

Yesterday's victory was achieved by the more powerful, coordinated team which relied largely on a running attack from orthodox formations.

Oklahoma, with no conference standing at stake, lost to the University of Texas Longhorns before a 20,000 state fair crowd at Dallas, 7 to 17.

Nebraska, Big Six champions who were topped by Oklahoma a week ago, narrowly escaped again, beating Iowa State, 14 to 12.

Missouri lost again, this time to New York university, 38 to 0 in what perhaps is the end of relations between the two schools. The contract was for three years and each year the Tigers have gone to New York, and lost without scornig.

White Deer Bucks Defeat Canadian

Special to The Record News

WHITE DEER, Texas, Oct. 19.—The White Deer Bucks downed the Canadian Wildcats here Friday, 31 to 0.

The locals started like a whirlwind in the beginning of the tilt and overwhelmed the visitors during the entire game with fast line plays which netted them the major part of their score.

In the last half the teams were better matched with the first string of the Bucks on the bench and the second stringers on the gridiron.

The Bucks have played the conference games and have not been defeated in any of them. With this record they bid fair to take the conference.

The schedule is as follows: Friday Oct. 24, Wheeler at Wheeler; Oct. 31, Mobeetie at White Deer; Nov. 11, Price Memorial college at White Deer. This game will end the football season.

GRAHAM PLANS DROUTH RELIEF

Credit Fund Arranged By C.-C. Leaders

Special to The Record News

GRAHAM, Texas, Oct. 19.—The citizenship of Graham was requested to join other West Texas counties in appealing to the governor for a special session of legislature through which some provision could be made that would enable farmers to purchase seed for the planting of winter pastures in the drouth stricken area of West Texas.

The question was discussed Friday at a special meeting of business men of Graham, and after thoroughly analyzing the situation decided that Graham's citizenship could provide the necessary financial aid to the worthy farmers in Graham's trade territory.

A credit to the extent of $2,000 was arranged for with the two banks of Graham and made available to dependable farmers for the purchasing of seed with which to plant their winter pastures or fall grain. The business men of Graham endorsed the necessary notes with the banks, to make this fund possible, and placed it directly under the supervision of a credit committee composed of Graham Stewart, chairman; J. P. McKinley, R. V. Tidwell and J. S. Criswell. The committee circulating the petition for the signatures of the merchants was composed of J. E. Hightower, C. H. Atkinson, A. B. Eddleman and Fred T. Arnold. M. K. Graham agreed to underwrite 50 per cent of any deficit that might be developed through a failure to pay any of the loans when the crops are harvested.

The farmer desiring to purchase seed through the medium of this loan, will be requested to apply at the chamber of commerce and fill the application blank in which certain information will be requested pertaining to his financial needs and ability to pay. These applications will in turn be placed before the committee at their semi-weekly meetings and the farmers will be notified of the committee's action.

Collingsworth County Tax Valuations Hold Up

Special to The Record News.

WELLINGTON, Texas, Oct. 19.—Tax figures for 1930 in Collingsworth county remain approximately the same as a year ago, according to Mrs. Annie Bird, tax assessor, who points out the fact that renditions upon all cattle, all horses, some other livestock, farming tools and some real estate, were lower than was the case a year ago. The cattle valuations were $500,000 lower than last year, while other items mentioned, all of which were allowed lower valuations, account for an additional loss of approximately $500,000.

Even with the loss of approximately $1,000,000 on the county valuations from these sources, the 1930 figures for the county show the total valuations remaining at approximately the same figure established a year ago. The present total valuation of the county is shown at $7,435,346. This is only about $10,000 less than last year's total.

Heartbreak Girl

gagement seemed much more real than her job.

Tears of Love

When she finally reached her room, she looked at the finger Ross had kissed, the third finger of her left hand. Kissed and laughingly pretended to slip a ring over. A diamond he said it was, large, and set in a bed of platinum. Didn't she see it? Well, it was there, and she must never take it off. It was there even if she couldn't see it. Some day she would see it.

Tears blinded her eyes as she thought of the goodby he had said. That he loved her, that he cared, seemed the most wonderful thing in the world to her. The dreams she had had, dreams she had lived by so long, had faded into second place. Ross Hardy was first.

Her eyebrow he had insisted on kissing because it quivered when she smiled. Her lashes that swept her cheeks—

Marvelous to be in love. More marvelous than she had imagined. Did Carla feel that way about Nick Walther? Did everyone feel that way about the men they loved?

Although she was tired, she did not undress, for Carla might want her when she came home.

Carla did. She rang for her immediately, and when Gail entered the gold and heliotrope bedroom, the actress was unpinning a wilted bunch of lilies from her green coat, and tossing them into a wastebasket.

Mary, dark rings around her eyes, was unfastening the white dress. Because Carla wished it, Gail stooped and took the frail slippers off Miss Cross' feet.

"Where did you meet Nick Walther?" Carla asked suddenly. She cast searching eyes at Gail.

Then he hadn't told Carla? Gail was glad, for she didn't want anyone to know how she had met Mr. Walther. She murmured some answer, the first thing that came into her mind, knowing she was lying, and blushing because she lied. Carla seemed satisfied.

There was a timid knock at the door, and Mrs. Cross entered, a kimono thrown over her night gown.

"Please, mother, I'm too tired to talk to you now," Carla protested.

Temperamental

"But I just wanted to say good night, dear." So Carla permitted the kiss her mother gave her, and sighed heavily when she finally left the room.

"Mother never realizes that when I come in at night I'm dead tired," Carla said, stifling a yawn.

"Perhaps I'd better go," Gail said solicitously.

"No, I want to talk to you." Carla was puzzled about this girl she had hired as a secretary. Nick Walther wasn't in the habit of noticing her secretaries. In fact he never knew one from the other. Yet tonight he had evinced interest in Gail. He would say nothing about her, except that he knew her. Carla disliked discussing anyone but herself. However, to humor Nick she had told him how she had come to hire Gail.

Had she made a mistake? Why should Nick be so interested in the girl?

"Be good to her," he had said in parting. As if she wasn't good to everyone who worked for her. She couldn't help it sometimes if people did things she didn't like. She was paying her servants, her people, to do things the way she liked.

This Rita Billings for instance. Hadn't she found Rita clerking in a department store in Hollywood? Hadn't she taken her away from there to be her secretary? When she had been a mere clerk. Rita had waited on her numerous times, and Carla had felt the admiration in the little clerk's eyes.

Rita was all right for awhile, until she got too smart. Was it only today that she had been insolent, had refused to do an errand? Carla felt she had done a lot for Rita, given her her chance. That the girl had fallen down was not her fault.

The actress glanced at the photograph of Nick in a silver frame on her dressing table. She wondered idly when he would propose. Embarrassing for her when practically everybody in Hollywood thought they were engaged. But Nick would propose. She was sure of that. She wouldn't hurry him. Nick Walther was a man you couldn't hurry.

She needed him anyway. Needed his money. He wouldn't interfere with her career, and he was one of the most eligible men in Hollywood.

He had seemed a little different tonight. Preoccupied. He hadn't been quite as attentive as usual.

Carla yawned again.

"On second thought, Gail, I won't need you any more tonight. You may go to bed. I'm too tired to talk." For she had intended questioning the girl further about Nick. When Gail left the room Carla was upbraiding Mary about some trivial detail she had forgotten. When Carla was angry her voice rose alarmingly. She seemed to be screaming.

Gail was nearly asleep when a soft tap sounded on her door, and Mary entered in tears.

"Miss Stuart, tell me, did I really do anything wrong? Nothing I ever do for Miss Cross is right—I'm going to quit tomorrow."

Gail got up, and tried to calm the maid, but Mary was adamant. She would stand Miss Cross' abuse no longer. She had taken everything from her that she would take.

"Just a selfish huzzy, crazy about herself, with not a thought for anyone else but Carla Cross," the girl went on bitterly.

"Mary, you shouldn't say that—"

"But I do. You haven't worked here long enough to know her. You'll find out quick enough. Nothing you do is right. Nothing."

"Miss Cross was tired tonight, Mary. You should excuse her—"

"She's the same when she's not tired. I know her. I've worked here for a month. I try to do things right—you'll find out."

Mary finally left, promising she wouldn't quit on the morrow, and that she would try to be more patient with Miss Cross.

Gail jumped back into bed. First Miss Billings, then Mrs. Cross, then Mary, telling her the same things about Carla—

Quanah Hunters Find Skimpy Duck Supply

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 19.—"Blinds" were drawn on Lake Pauline and other water spots Thursday morning early when local nimrods prepared to slaughter the ducks—but a dozen would have the sum total of all the ducks seen by any hunter since the beginning of the season here. Hunters say that later after weather is colder, ducks will come in off the North Plains, but not in time for the fair weather hunters. Baked duck is not on the bill-of-fare in Quanah homes as yet.

Man Does Not Have to Die to Know Fellowship With God, Says Martin

Glories of Heavenly Home Given Too Much Emphasis, Teacher Tells Floral Heights Class

Religious faith cannot mean very much to one's hereafter unless it has meant a great deal to him here, Judge P. A. Martin told members of the Men's Bible class of the Floral Heights Methodist church Sunday morning in his discussion of the weekly lesson.

"Too much time and teaching and preaching is given, I think," said the speaker, "to the glories of the heavenly home instead of emphasizing the opportunities for a thoroughly spiritual existence on earth every day. We need to remember that man does not have to die in order to attain fellowship with his God."

Judge Martin's address in part follows:

"In today's lesson we have the record of probably not more than 15 minutes in the lives of two very old people. But Luke, the Gentile writer of the gospel, thought it important enough to tell his Greek friends of it and he is the only gospel writer who mentions them. I am glad he did for there is a great lesson in the simple story of these two old folks whom the Virgin Mary and her husband, Joseph, met in the temple when they took the child Jesus up there to be christened, after the manner of the Jews.

Life a Burden

"The gospel writer says Simeon was a man 'just and devout, waiting for the consolation of Israel; and the Holy Ghost was upon him and it was revealed unto him that he should not see death until he had seen the Lord's Christ.' The other was Anna, a prophetess around a century of age 'which departed not from the temple, but served God with fastings and prayers, day and night.' To these two it was given to see and recognize the Son of God in the tiny babe of 40 days of age. This is the simple story as found in the second chapter of Luke.

"I imagine that old Simeon and the prophetess had spent many long years in and around the temple; worshipping, praying fasting, peering into the eyes of many and many a young infant brought there for the temple rites as prescribed by the law of Moses. I can easily imagine that life had become more or less a burden to Simeon, for as soon as he saw and recognized the divinity of the babe he said, 'Lord, now lettest thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word: for mine eyes have seen thy salvation.' And I can easily imagine that Anna, the prophetess, a widow for 84 years, was ready too to go to Him whom she served with fastings and prayers night and day. They both gave thanks and praises to God for what they saw and knew. There is just one explanation of the miracle and it lies in the words of the golden text: 'Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.'

"Simeon and Anna saw God in the flesh because they were pure in heart and those are the only kind of men and women who can ever see Him either here or hereafter according to the Scriptures.

"You know I sometimes think that we spend too much of our time and waste too much of our teaching and preaching talent telling of the glories of the heavenly home and talk, think, teach and preach too little about the earthly life. I would not for an instant decry or detract from a proper regard for the hereafter above or below, but I sometimes fear that in our thoughts of the 'sweet by and bye' we get too far away from the 'here and now' in our religious thinking and fail into the habit of thinking that religion is, after all, a thing we never can know anything about till we enter into the pearly gates and walk the golden streets of the New Jerusalem. I like to hear a good choir sing about the 'beautiful isle of somewhere' and I like to hear an eloquent preacher tell of the glories of that 'city which hath foundations whose builder and maker is God' and I get great consolation in the words of the Master 'I go to prepare a place for you, that where I am there ye may be also.' I believe all these things, these wonderful, beautiful things will come to the Christian who dies in the faith; but there is a more practical lesson I think to be taught and which should never be forgotten and that is that man does not have to die to attain fellowship with his God. He does not have to die to see God through the power of the spirit, as Simeon did, and to know that He pardons, forgives and saves from sin and its consequences both here and hereafter. It is pitifully true that many professing Christians utterly fail to get the rich blessings of the life here below and never catch the golden glow of the love of God on earth at all, but sadly, patiently wait for the resurrection morning to get the good things they are entitled to in their religion.

Cause of Unhappiness

"Most of the unhappiness we see in this life is directly attributable to our neglect to make use of the spiritual opportunities we have. We erect for ourselves an impenetrable barrier between us and the brighter spiritual world that we should be enjoying.

"It has been my duty to see much of what we call the 'seamy side' of life. The men and women and boys and girls whose troubles have come before me for adjudication and the human misery that I see and hear of in my every day work, come there almost invariably as the result of sin. The cupidity and selfishness of man, the dishonesty and covetousness of men, produce most of the litigation in the courts and all this trouble, crime and misery are the direct result of sin.

"Christianity furnishes a remedy for all of this and promises its faithful devotees a freedom from all these things.

"And it does more than this. It sees the best that is in even the worst of our fellowmen. The Salvation Army says 'A man may be down but he is never out until death puts him out.' I believe this is true. There is a spark of divinity in the worst of sinners which might be awakened and kindled into a saving flame, by the proper touch.

"We all have an instinctive dread of the coming of old age and its accompanying infirmities of mind and body. We have seen old age approaching the end in marvelous beauty and strength. When we see it thus it is an inspiration and a blessing to the world. On the other hand there is nothing more pitifuly repulsive than old age and sinfulness combined. With mouth and mind full of the foul things and the evil things of life, it is indeed an awful thing to approach the grave.

"God help us to so live in this world that we may come to the sunset of life with a faith and a life like that of old Simeon and the prophetess Anna. We may be sure, if we do that we shall see the salvation of the Lord and look into the face of His annointed, even before we reach the pearly gates of the new Jerusalem."

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 19.—A meeting of the Tillman County Interscholastic association was held at Frederick Saturday when at a business session these officers were elected: J. O. Curnutt, superintendent of Consolidated No. 1, president; J. I. Akin, superintendent of Consolidated No. 11, vice president; Mrs. Clara Harris, high school instructor Consolidated No. 1, secretary-treasurer.

An inspiring address was delivered by Dr. Howard Taylor, dean of arts and sciences at the Oklahoma College for Women, Chickasha.

The meeting was largely attended.

Rev. Henry S. Allen Opens Two-Weeks' Service

Rev. Harry S. Allen, evangelist of Dallas who has been in Wichita Falls for several weeks holding revivals in the various churches, opened a two weeks' service at the Floral Heights Presbyterian church Sunday evening.

The public is cordially invited to attend the meeting which will be held each evening at 7:30 o'clock and hear Rev. Mr. Allen.

'Check and Double Check' for Mr. Bailey and Mr. Haley

Amos 'n' Andy of radio and taxicab fame have a pair of imitators in Wichita Falls who might give the famous comedians a run for their money, according to those who went to Haskell last week to open the Haskell county fair. Joe Bailey and Frank Haley, the local team, are shown above in their "taxicab" and regalia. They were aided in preparing their skit and securing their equipment by the Strand theater, which will present the original Amos 'n' Andy in their full-length talkie "Check and Double Check," beginning Friday, Oct. 24.

MAJESTIC: "Love in the Rough" with Robert Montgomery. Short subjects and news.

GEM: Basil Rathbone and Leila Hyams in "The Bishop Murder Case." Comedy.

People who stay at home and read the newspaper and listen to the radio will have the opportunity of meeting the heroes both of the printed sheet and of the air in the talkies promised this week in Wichita Falls.

There is, for instance, Harry Richman, kept on the front page and in Walter Winchell's column rather consistently by Clara Bow. Harry plays at the State in "Puttin' on the Ritz;" Clara at the Strand in "Her Wedding Night."

A real headliner is Admiral E. Byrd, whose picture "With Byrd at the South Pole" is being shown its second time here at the State, beginning Wednesday. Radio listeners and newspaper listeners have already all but become acquainted with the polar explorer, and his South pole picture brings an audience in intimate touch with work which the printed or spoken word could never truly picture.

And then, those two philosophic blackface comedians who decide a nation's bedtime and remold a nation's language—Amos 'n' Andy—bring their first talkie, "Check and Double Check," to the Strand Friday. "Check and Double Check" is being shown in Wichita Falls one day ahead of release date, and considerably ahead of dozens of larger cities.

With the exception of the Byrd picture, none of those mentioned could have been highly popular as silent films. The desire of the public to see its heroes and notorious characters has resulted in the exploitation of the best known people of America by the talkies. Amos 'n' Andy's picture is the first long feature given to radio performers.
