British Taking Control Of Oil Storage Depots

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The British Army took control of oil storage depots and some gasoline stations in Northern Ireland today as Protestant militants continued to paralyze the province with a 13-day-old general strike.

The Ulster Workers Council, sponsors of the strike, had warned earlier that any intervention by troops would lead to a walkout of all power plant workers and a total blackout in the province. It was not known immediately whether the council would carry out the threat or whether the troops would take over power stations.

'THUGS AND BULLIES'

In another development, army chiefs said security forces during the weekend detained the largest number of Protestant extremists in five years—taking 55 persons into custody in and around Belfast, including alleged leaders of the militant Protestant Ulster Defense Association and the Ulster Volunteer Force.

The military intervention was ordered by Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government, which has refused to negotiate with the strikers. In a Friday night broadcast, he called them "thugs and bullies."

An Army announcement said the troops moved into main storage depots in Belfast and Londonderry and took control of a number of gasoline stations and oil tanker trucks, all of which it said had been requisitioned for use by the Ulster Ministry of Commerce.

ESSENTIALS OF LIFE

Merlyn Rees, Britain's minister for Northern Ireland, said "the troops will be withdrawn immediately on the resumption of normal services." He also said he had instructed police and army chiefs to "take all measures they consider necessary to maintain law and order in the province."

"No parliamentary democracy . . . can accept that a group of men, self-appointed and answerable to no one, should decide when and where, and to whom the essentials of life shall be distributed," he said.

London has accused the Ulster Workers Council of trying to establish a virtual provisional government during the strike. The strikers have issued passes for people to buy gasoline and other essentials, ruled when shops can and cannot open and allowed just enough manpower to keep two power stations operating and feeding the province 25 to 27 per cent of its normal electricity supply.

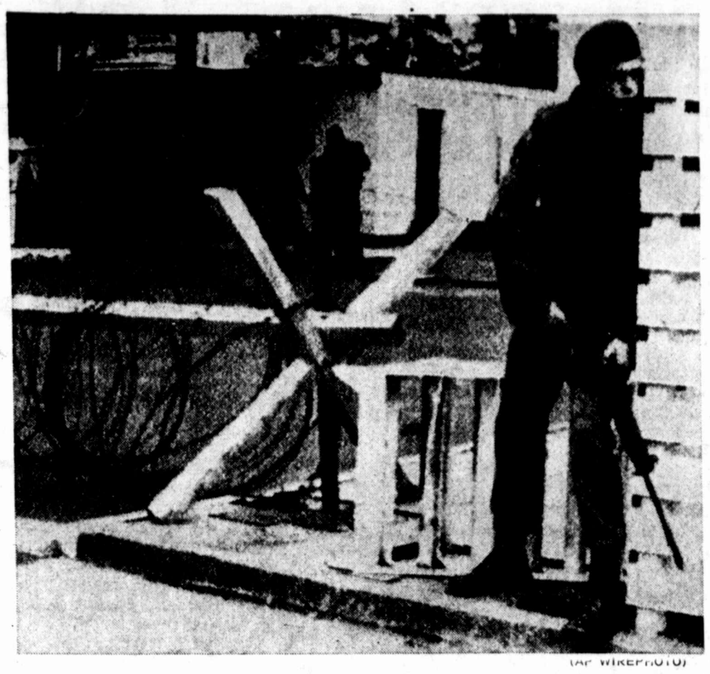

Many residents are living by candlelight and eating cold meals. The breakfast menu at a large Belfast hotel today was bread, jam and powdered milk.

Wilson broke his Scilly Isles holiday Sunday for talks on the strike.

HARDLINE

In London, high political sources said Sunday that Wilson's cabinet might take Britain's entire 50,000-man Rhine Army from Germany for duty in Ulster. But army chiefs reportedly advised against the move.

Behind the strike are hardline Protestant loyalists who want Ulster to remain part of the United Kingdom under Protestant control.

Syria Hints At New Negotiating Woes

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syria publicly criticized Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today and hinted at new negotiating troubles as Kissinger resumed talks with President Hafez Assad.

WASTE OF TIME

An official statement from the Syrian Arab News Agency charged Kissinger with injecting the issue of Palestinian guerrillas into the talks on an Israeli-Syrian disengagement on the Golan Heights.

"He who wants to discuss this subject must solve the Palestinian problem and discuss this issue with the Palestinian leadership," the statement said. "Any other attempt is only a waste of time."

The statement said the Palestinian matter was only one of several "difficult points" remaining in the negotiations, but did not elaborate. There were reports Sunday night of a new snag in the negotiations concerning the buffer zone between Israeli and Syrian forces.

Kissinger conferred with Assad in the presidential palace for 5½ hours until 2:30 a.m today. The talks started again after the two men had a few hours to rest.

Meanwhile, an announcement in Moscow that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was flying to Damascus today added another uncertain element to Kissinger's 30-day peace mission. The Soviet news agency Tass revealed the visit, saying he was coming "at the invitation of the leadership of the Syrian Arab Republic."

COMING BACK

Syrian sources, however, said he apparently was coming without an invitation and U.S. offi-

Indict 54 In South Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korean prosecutors issued indictments today against 54 persons for violating a presidential decree outlawing antigovernment demonstrations or for other laws punishable by long prison sentences or death.

The prosecutors said the 54, including two Japanese, are among 253 persons who have been charged under President Chung Hee Park's April 3 emergency decree outlawing anti-government student demonstrations and support for the demostrations. A total of 1,024 persons have been interrogated for possible violations of the decree, the government said.

In addition to violating the April 3 measure, the persons indicted today were charged with violating the anti-Communist law, the national security law and rebellion articles of criminal code.

The government claimed that the 54 were connected with the National Democratic Youth-Student Federation, a clandestine student group that prosecutors say is bent on overthrowing Park's government through violent mass uprising.

The prosecution claims the Youth-Student federation has collaborated with underground Communists in South Korea, with anti-government Christian groups and with the pro-North Korean "Chosoren" organization in Japan.

FREE-LANCE WRITER

Park issued the April 3 decree after a sudden outburst of anti-government demonstrations by University and a few other private schools. The maximum penalty for violators is death.

The Japanese indicted today were a free-lance writer and a Japanese language instructor at a Seoul college and a member of the Japanese Communist party.

Others indicted were Kim Chi Ha, 33, who a few years ago wrote a poem ridiculing alleged corruption among government officials and business typcoons; an editorial writer for the Joong Ang Ilbo newspaper; five Christian activits and 16 college students, mostly from Seoul National.

The prosecution said evidence it seized against the indictee persons included many volumes of Communist publications, six radios and empty bottles and chemical for making Molotov cocktail bombs.

200 Japanese Commemorate Imprisonment

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (AP) — It was years before Ben Takeshita would admit that he was once confined in a concentration camp in his own country. He was too ashamed.

Takeshita, 44, of Richland, Calif., was one of 110,000 Japanese Americans deemed security risks and evacuated from the West Coast in World War II after the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor.

He also was one of about 200 Japanese-Americans from California who gathered here this weekend to commemorate their imprisonment.

While the rest of the nation prepared to honor its war dead, the Japanese-Americans were conducting memorial services in Klamath Falls for those who died of natural causes at the nearby relocation camp outside Tulelake, Calif.

They also visited the camp, which since has become the site of an elementary school and an airport.

The 1,200 barracks that held up to 22,000 people btween 1942 and 1946 virtually have disappeared. Little remains of the camp except scattered lengths of barbed wire fence, an occasional dilapidated building and painful memories in the minds of those who lived there.

The pain for the 50 returning ex-inmates appears to have little to do with crowded living conditions, poor food and disruption of normal life. It has much to do with shame and disillusion.

FRUITLESS, TEARFUL PLEAS

Father Of SLA Member Labels Her 'Criminal'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The father of a Symbionese Liberation Army member has given up a week-long vigil to contact his daughter, leaving for home after saying he considered her and her comrades criminals.

Frederick Schwartz left for his suburban Chicago home Sunday after fruitless, tearful pleas to his daughter, Emily Harris, her husband Bill and Patricia Hearst to surrender. Schwartz said an intermediary claimed to have made direct contact with the three, but said two meetings arranged for him with his daughter failed to materialize.

'HAND IN HAND'

Schwartz, a consulting engineer, had said publicly he would walk "hand in hand" to a safe surrender with the Harrises and Miss Hearst if they would only contact him.

However, he told an airport news conference before leavbing: "Emily and Bill Harris and Patricia Hearst are in my view criminals, at least in the sense that they are fugitives."

The three, said by an FBI agent to be the last persons sought as members of the terrorist SLA, are wanted on state charges of robbery, assault with a deadly weapon and kidnaping. They also are accused of federal firearms violations.

Schwartz said a claim of direct contact with the trio was made in two telephone calls by someone he identified as an intermediary. He said he went to an appointed place in the Los Angeles area on Friday, but arrived an hour late because of freeway traffic.

NEVER AGAIN

No one met him that day or on Saturday, Schwartz said.

Then he reported the calls to authorities.

"I will never again work through intermediaries," he said. "And I will not work entirely on my own without advising the authorities. I am sure that if Emily says I am to meet her alone, the FBI will respect that."

Meanwhile, the search for the three continued. A yellow van was stopped Sunday near Santa Barbara, about 100 miles north of Los Angeles in connection with a possible sighting of Miss Hearst. Police released the male and female occupants after questioning.

The Los Angeles Times reported Sunday that Mrs. Harris, through a job as a clerk-typist at the University of California at Berkeley, had access to data showing when Miss Hearst attended classes and where and how she might spend her free time. Miss Hearst was a sophomore art student there when she was kidnaped nearly four months ago. She now claims to have joined her abductors.

'Conspiracy' In King Case Shot Down?

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The FBI agent who directed the investigation into the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. says the facts of the case don't lend themselves to "grandiose theories" of conspiracy.

"It was a relatively simple thing," Robert G. Jensen said in a telephone interview. "A man was killed. A man was caught. In many ways, it was like any other case, but the stature of King gave it a lot more publicity than the usual case."

Robert I. Livingston, attorney for James Earl Ray, said Friday that he has been in periodic contact since March with a representative of the "men who actually carried out the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr." Ray, the only person charged in the case, pleaded guilty to murdering King, and now is serving a 99-year prison sentence.

"If he (Livingston) has something, more power to him," said Jensen, now head of security for an international motel firm. He said he had not read Livingston's claims because there was "no particular reason for me to read them."

"The facts that were developed were made public," Jensen said. "Many people don't want to accept what the facts are because in many instances they don't lend themselves to grandiose theories. But we had to go with what facts we had. Theories and suppositions don't hold up in court."

Alleging a conspiracy behind the April 4, 1968, shooting of King in Memphis, Livingston said the intermediary he talked to is seeking immunity from prosecution for the slaying conspirators.

He said they want to testify "in revenge" against "four Southern gentlemen" who allegedly hired them, not Ray, to kill King.

American Airlines Strike Averted

NEW YORK (AP) — A strike by 17,000 American Airlines employes has been averted by a last-minute tentative agreement on new labor contracts.

The settlement came Sunday night, a few hours before a threatened midnight strike deadline. The deadline marked the expiration of a federally-mandated 30-day cooling-off period.

Details of the settlement — involving separate contracts — were withheld pending a ratification vote by union members. Current salaries were not disclosed either.

The agreement covers flight attendants, stewards and stewardesses, maintenance personnel, dispatchers, meteorologists and communications employes.

American has 35,000 employes and 237 aircraft operating 900 daily flights on United States, Canadian, Mexican and Caribbean routes.

Brief Rite Marks Day At VA Hospital

The flag at the Veterans Administration hospital was flown at half mast until noon today, in silent tribute to the nation's war dead. After that, it was raised to full mast.

The Memorial Day ritual was highlighted by a prayer offered by Chaplain A.C. Hicks. That was followed by a moment of silence.

Members of the hospital staff, volunteer workers and patients of the hospital attended the brief ceremony.

Of the 42 million who have fought in all America's wars, 29 million are still alive.

On any given day, there are more than 83,000 veterans being treated in VA hospitals like the one here.

The nation observed its first Memorial Day 106 years ago. The observance came shortly after America had emerged from the terrible tragedy of the Civil War.

Nixon's Refusal To Comply Shocks President Of ABA

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key Senate Democrat and the president of the American Bar Association have expressed dismay over President Nixon's refusal to comply with subpoenas for Watergate evidence.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., the Democratic whip, said Sunday that Nixon's rejection of subpoenas has bolstered the prospect that the Senate will convict him in an impeachment trial.

'I AM NOT A KING'

And Chesterfield Smith, president of the ABA, said, "I have been shocked and annoyed that the White House doesn't clearly state that, 'Yes, I am subject to the rule of law. I am not a king. I am only a man elected by the people and when the Supreme Court decides that I have to do something certainly I am going to do it.'"

Smith, interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press," said he would prefer if Nixon could find a way to "withdraw from public power" until Watergate-related charges against him are disposed of.

But, Smith said, he does not know of any way the President could do this. He said he is not certain that the 25th Amendment could be used for this purpose, as has been suggested by some lawyers.

Byrd, interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation," said, "I think what we're seeing here is defiance up and down the line.

"We've seen defiance of the House committee as it carries out a constitutional duty. We've seen defiance of the special prosecutor who was appointed by the administration, and who was given complete independence," he continued.

Nixon has refused to turn over tapes and documents subpoenaed for the Watergate cover-up trial. The White House also says it will not produce notes and memos of former presidential aides subpoenaed for the Ellsberg break-in trial.

Fair, Warmer

Fair and warmer with a high today in the mid 90s, low tonight in the upper 60s and high Tuesday in the upper 90s. Cloudy to partly cloudy with no rain predicted.

Storm Lashes San Angelo

Rainfall at the Lake J. B. Thomas dam Saturday evening amounted to .9 of an inch while .5 of an inch fell at Lake E. V. Spence downstream on the Colorado River but the runoff at both reservoirs was neligible, CRMWD officials said this morning.

In Big Spring, the rainfall measured from .3 to .5 of an inch. The downfall at Webb AFB was reported at .4.

Although some hail accompanied the storm, little damage was reported. The rain dropped off sharply about 10 miles northwest of town.

San Angelo caught the most damage from wind and hail as the storm moved on to the southeast.

Damage in that city was still being calculated this morning. Insurance concerns expect to pay out more than that reported following a vicious storm which hit the San Angelo area 14 years ago. The damage estimated approached $6 million.

Damage to automobiles, especially windshields, was especially heavy in San Angelo.

Winds gusted at 70 miles per hour in the San Angelo area.

Central High School in San Angelo was hit particularly hard. The wind blew off parts of the school's gymnasium roof. The official rainfall in the city was reported at 1.09 inches. Roof damage and broken windows were reported by homeowners in many sections of the city.

Many Think Nixon Linked To Cover-Up

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Nearly three-fourths of the country believes President Nixon was involved in the Watergate bugging or cover-up, according to the latest Gallup Poll. However, the percentage has increased only slightly in three months.

Seventy-three per cent of the 1,543 adults interviewed May 10-13 said they believed the President had been involved to some extent in the scandal. The survey was taken after the White House transcripts were released April 30.

Similar surveys showed 71 per cent held the same opinion last February and 67 per cent held it last June.

In all three surveys, those polled were asked to select one of the following statements to match their views:

—Nixon planned the Watergate bugging from the beginning;

—Nixon did not plan the bugging but knew about it before it took place;

—Nixon found out about the bugging after it occurred, but tried to cover it up;

—Nixon had no knowledge of the bugging and spoke up as soon as he learned about it.

Three Jailed On Attempted Murder Raps

OAK GROVE, La. (AP) — Three men are being held here under $50,000 bond each on charges of attempted murder, said West Carroll Parish Sheriff W.E. Capers.

Dennis Ledbetter, 22, and his brother Gary Ledbetter, 24, both of Maywood, Ill., and a cousin, Alan Ledbetter, 27, of Alexandria, Ark., are charged in the shooting of Sheriff's Deputy Bobby Capers—the sheriff's brother.

The men were captured Saturday afternoon in a wooded area near the Bayou Macon River after a 12-hour manhunt involving about 90 Louisiana and Arkansas officers who used dogs, airplanes and a helicopter.

"They were spotted from the air," Sheriff Capers said. "One warning shot was fired but they offered no resistance. No weapon was recovered."

They are also suspects in the firebombing Saturday of a Macon bar but no charges have been filed.

The operator of the bar managed to put out the flames, grabbed a pistol and fired several shots at men who fled on foot.

A few hours later the deputy sheriff stopped a car on Louisiana 17 about four miles north of Oak Grove for a routine check. While he was examining a license he was shot three times. He managed to crawl to his car and call for help.

The wounded officer was reported in fair condition at a Monroe hospital.

Gary and Dennis Ledbetter are being held in the parish jail at Oak Grove. Alan Ledbetter is being held in the Morehouse Parish jail.

Heavier Than Usual Toll In Texas Traffic Mishaps

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents, taking lives at a swifter rate than most weekends since gasoline shortages developed, sent the holiday weekend death toll edging higher in Texas today.

The grim count stood at 32 fatalities with the Memorial Day period, running from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday, past its midpoint. Seventeen had died in auto accidents, seven drowned, three perished in fires and there were five homicides.

QUIZ WOMAN

These were among the victims:

Arthur O. Soltwedel, 51, of Northridge, Calif. was killed Sunday in a three car accident on Texas 183 in Irving. Four other persons were injured.

Warren Charles Jr., 30, was shot and killed Sunday in Houston. Police held a woman for questioning.

The body of Dan Ferguson, 48, of Houston was recovered from the Kemah Channel about 500 yards from shore Sunday. He was lost from a shrimp boat Saturday.

Benny M. Rust, 44, of Fort Worth was killed in a one-car accident there Sunday.

HIT BY TRAIN

Louis Arden Carter, 19, was shot to death at his Houston home Sunday. Police said the shooting followed a quarrel with another man.

The body of Cindy Lee Eisemann, 18, of Grande Prairie was recovered Sunday off Galveston's West Beach. Sheriff's officers said she drowned Saturday when she was carried under by a wave while swimming.

James W. Brown, 55, was killed in Dallas Sunday when his car was struck by a train, police said.

Marshall Aucutt, 62, of Arlington was killed Sunday when his car ran off the Dallas-Fort Worth Turnpike.

James L. Davis, 49, of Pasadena, Tex., died when the motorcycle he was riding hit a bull early Saturday.

Lester E. Jennison, 61, of Dallas was shot to death early saturday while he stood at a bus stop on a Dallas street. A 15-year-old youth and a 17-year-old woman were questioned .

An 84-year-old Kaufman man, William E. Small, was killed Saturday when the car he was driving crashed into the bed room wall of a Dallas residence. The family dining inside the house escaped injury.

SHOTGUN WOUNDS

An Austin boy, Danny Carlile, 11, drowned Saturday in the Gulf of Mexico near Bay City.

Nancy Jean Hood, 17, of Houston was killed in a two-car collision near Carmine, Tex., Saturday.

Cousins Charles R. Anderson, 16, of Fort Worth and Walter Anderson Jr., 18, of Lubbock drowned Saturday when they tried to retrieve a ball thrown into Benbrook Lake.

Jesus Rodriguez, 63, died in a shooting at a west side San Antonio bar late Saturday and his son, Gilbert, 41, was seriously injured when he came to the older man's aid. Investigators said both men suffered shotgun wounds.

NEAR LUBBOCK

Shirley C. Goodenow, 27, of Dallas and Frankie Lee Rinehart, 21, of Mesquite were killed while traveling on U.S. 90 seven miles east of Del Rio Saturday when the trailer hitch of a tractor-trailer going the opposite direction broke. The trailer shot into the passenger car's lane, causing a collision.

Flavilla Powers White, 66, of Pampa was killed Friday night in a head-on collision on U.S. 87 north of Lubbock. Troopers blamed rain from a storm which made the highway slick.

Columnist Alsop Leukemia Victim

WASHINGTON (AP) — Columnist and author Stewart Alsop, a leukemia victim who once wrote that resisting death is both futile and wrong, is dead of pneumonia. He was 60.

Alsop, who with his brother Joseph was syndicated in nearly 200 of the nation's newspapers in the 1960s, died Sunday in a hospital at the National Institutes of Health in nearby Bethesda, Md. He was admitted there two weeks ago for his latest round of treatments for acute myeloblastic leukemia, a rare cancer of the blood-producing bone marrow.

The pneumonia was described as a byproduct of the cancer, which the veteran writer of the Washington political scene had suffered from for three years.

STAY OF EXECUTION

Writing about his fight with the disease last year in his book, "A Stay of Execution: A Sort of Memoir," Alsop said, "A dying man needs to die, as a sleepy man needs to sleep, and there comes a time when it is wrong, as well as useless, to resist."

Despite the illness, Alsop continued writing until his death a weekly column in Newsweek magazine.

In a March column, he told his readers he had made a "decision not to die" during a hallucination in the hospital, and added:

"I hope to put back some (but not all) of the 43 pounds I have lost, to get a bit of rest, to get rid of the tail end of that second infection, and then again to examine in this space the more mundane mysteries of political Washington."

VALIANT STRUGGLE

In Key Biscayne, President Nixon said Alsop's "hard, valiant struggle against cancer has ended at last, but his life and his writings will remain a standard for his profession for years to come."

A native of Avon, Conn., who traced his lineage back almost to the Mayflower, Alsop went to Groton School and Yale University, graduating with a Bachelor of Arts degree.

He first was an editor for Doubleday & Doran Co., now Doubleday & Co., a New York book publishing firm.

In World War II he served as a platoon commander in the British Army, rising to captain. Transferring to the U.S. Army's Office of Strategic Services, he won the French Croix de Guerre with palm for joining the French underground after D-Day.

After the war he began a 13-year collaboration with his brother Joseph, now a columnist for the Los Angeles Times Syndicate.

They produced a Washington column, "Matter of Fact," and wrote two books: "We Accuse" in 1955, about the J. Robert Oppenheimer national security case, and "The Reporter's Trade," in 1958, an anthology of their columns.

Other books Stewart Alsop authored included "The Center," a study of power in Washington, and "Sub Rosa: The O.S.S. and American Espionage."

Alsop is survived by his widow and six children; a sister, Corrinne Chubb, and brothers Joseph and John.

cials declined to indicate why Gromyko was coming back on the stage.

Observers speculated that Gromyko, who last met with Kissinger May 7 on the island of Cyprus, either wanted to share the spotlight if a settlement was at hand or to block a settlement the Soviets consider contrary to their interests.

But some observers were skeptical that Kissinger would abide by his own timetable since on previous occasions he has ignored his own deadlines when it appeared an agreement was near.

On the military front, the Syrian command reported fresh fighting with Israeli forces on Mt. Hermon and the Golan Heights for the 77th straight day Monday.

Informed sources said Sunday night that the snag developed over a Syrian demand that a buffer zone to separate the two armies be narrowed. The sources said that under an earlier understanding, the strip dividing the opposing forces was to vary in width from 1½ to 3½ miles.

THINNING OUT

Narrowing the zone would give Syria a bigger defensive area in front of Damascus for deployment of SAM6 missiles. Syria says this will help keep its capital militarily secure.

But Israel contends that a smaller demilitarized zone could put Syrian missiles uncomfortably close to Israeli settlements and populated centers in the Jordan Valley.

The zone is to be manned by a United Nations force but will be under Syrian civilian authority.

Informed sources in Jerusalem said agreement was close on the thinning out of Syrian and Israeli forces on both sides of the cease-fire line. The sources said only sidearms will be permitted within the first six miles of the line, and within the next 10 miles Israel and Syria would be allowed only medium-size military equipment.

Disadvantaged Can Get Work

The summer program for economically disadvantaged youth, sponsored by the Permiam Basin Regional Manpower Commission, is scheduled to begin June 3.

This program is designed to provide work experience for the the communities' economically disadvantaged youth between the ages of 14 and 21.

Work sites will be provided by local public agencies in a variety of job training situations.

If a person is between the ages of 14 and 21, and can meet a certain income level, he or she may be eligible for this program. Contact the Big Spring office of the Texas Employment Commission for details.

'Rush To Amazon' Endangers Forest

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil AP — The huge forests of Brazil are in danger because of a "rush to the Amazon," a Rio newspaper said. It claimed the new Transamazon Highway lures people "whose only concern is to make as much money as possible in the shortest period of time, no matter what ecological destruction they may cause." Tractors, fires, mechanical saws and defoliation herbicides have destroyed 250 acres of trees for each forest acre put to use, the newspaper said.

Speakers Lined Up For Workshop

ABILENE — Four featured evening speakers have been lined up for the 20th annual Bible Teachers Workshop, July 22-25, at Abilene Christian College, according to Dr. Carl Brecheen, ACC professor of Bible and workshop director.

The speakers include Dr. Paul Faulkner of Abilene, Tex.; Darrel G. Rickard of Fort Worth, Tex.; Dr. Ira North of Madison, Tenn.; and Joe Barnett of Lubbock, Tex.

"This year's workshop is designed to be workshops within a workshop," said Dr. Brechen. "With a few exceptions, each person should be able to attend a class during each class period focusing on his special interest."

Workshop registration will begin Monday, July 22 at 2 p.m. in the foyer at the main entrance of the College Church of Christ and at ACC dormitory entrances. Registration fee is $6 per person or $100 for all teachers from one congregation.

Dr. Brecheen said rooms and meals are available on campus, baby sitting services will be provided and programs for young people are also being planned.

Evening addresses are scheduled for 8:15 p.m. in Moody Coliseum on the ACC campus.

DEATHS

Albert L. Grant, Larry Robinson

Funeral for Albert Lee Grant, 29, and Larry Robinson, 27, who were killed in a motorcycle accident east of town at approximately 9:57 p.m., Friday, was scheduled for 10 a.m., today in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. Burial will follow in the Coahoma Cemetery.

Pallbearers for Mr. Grant were Larry Broughton, Sam Kirby, Ronnie Covert, Dub Grigg, Terry Smith and Wayne Burchett.

Pallbearers for Mr. Robinson were Lester Duffer, Harvey Mansfield, Travis Hart, Mike Butler, Ronnie Enger and Jimmie Hollingsworth.

Flying Doctors May Be Grounded

NAIROBI, Kenya AP — East Africa's flying doctors may be grounded unless the medical organization solves its money crisis. An official of the Flying Doctor Service said donations in 1974 were running only 70 per cent of normal. Most contributions come from the United States and Europe.

Rio-Tex Citrus Manager Jailed

PHARR, Tex. (AP) — The FBI said today it had arrested a 44-year-old businessman here on a 1972 federal bench warrant issued in Kansas City.

FBI agent Howard McCook said Claude Thomas Carter, business manager for the Rio-Tex Citrus Association in Edinburg, was arrested at his home.

The FBI said Carter was named in a February 1972 indictment by a Kansas City grand jury alleging interstate transportation of stolen property.

Carter was to be taken before a U.S. magistrate in Brownsville Tuesday.

SUBMACHINE-GUNS
Doctor, Wife, Chauffeur Die

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — A doctor and coconut plantation owner, his wife and their chauffeur were killed by five men with submachine-guns who fled by car into rugged country north of here, authorities said.

The attack occurred late Saturday in the village of San Luis De la Loma, about 80 miles north of Acapulco, in an apparent kidnap attempt on Dr. Guillermo de la Pena, San Luis Mayor Manuel de la O said on Sunday night.

KNOCKED ON DOOR

He said the five men surrounded the house of the doctor, who also operated a large coconut plantation, and killed the chauffeur, Juan Sanchez.

Later they knocked on the door of the house. The doctor came out, the assailants tried to drag him away, his wife Aurora intervened and they shot both, the mayor said.

Meanwhile Acapulco alderman Filiberto Vigueras Sr. said Sunday he had raised $12,000 to pay part of the ransom for his kidnaped son.

Filiberto Vigueras Jr., 20, a student, was abducted in Acapulco eight days ago by five armed men. In a first ransom note the abductors demanded $520,000 ransom.

SECOND NOTE

In a second note, signed by the youth and accompanied by his shirt, the kidnapers, identified as Lucio Cabanas commandos, asked $280,000.

Vigueras Sr. said that from his savings and contributions from friends he has been able to collect only $12,000 but he is willing to sell his house for $20,000.

Lucio Cabanas is a guerrilla leader who has been operating in the mountains around Acapulco the past six years.

In Monterrey, 200 miles south of the U.S. border, police said Sunday night they captured three alleged members of the 23rd of September Communist League.

Police said the three men were arrested in a boarding house there by federal agents acting on a tip.

The league, linked to several kidnapings earlier, takes its name from a shootout between students and police at Guadalajara in 1971.

Russian Cellist Arrives In London

LONDON (AP) — Cellist Mstislav Rostropovich, a friend of exiled Russian author Alexander Solzhenitsyn, arrived in London from Moscow Sunday for a concert tour.

Because of his outspoken defense of Solzhenitsyn, there has been speculation that Rostropovich's passport might be revoked by Soviet authorities during the tour.

Rostropovich said he and his family "remain Soviet citizens and I love very deeply my country and my people."

THE NATIONAL ORGANIZATION OF WOMEN — Seventh Annual Meeting — Armed with her camera it seems quite fitting this member of (NOW) organization be dressed as an oil person in Houston; one who thinks of Houston always seems to associate oil with the city.

Map Policies, Pick Officers

HOUSTON (AP) — Delegates to the seventh conference of the National Organization for Women (NOW) consider resolutions today and discuss policies and priorities for the organization today.

They also will hear an address by Karen DeCrow of Chicago, new president of the feminist group which claims about 40,000 members.

AUTHOR ELECTED

Ms. DeCrow, a lawyer and author, was elected late Sunday night after three ballots. She received 512 votes to defeat Mary Jean Collins-Robson of Chicago, a fulltime NOW volunteer, who received 448. Also receiving votes were Ann Lang of East Hills, Pa., and Marceline Donaldson of Wayzata, Minn.

The three votes were necessary because no candidate had a clear majority after the first two.

Ms. DeCrow will succeed Wilma Scott Heide of Hartford, Conn. Ms. Heide was elected to the Chair-One position on the national advisory committee.

Judith Lightfoot of Decatur, Ga., was elected Chair-One of the national board of directors, the second highest office in the organization.

STRATEGY

Others elected included Charlene Suneson of Los Angeles, secretary; Bonnie Howard Marblehead, Mass., treasurer; Mary Lynn Meyers of Pierre, S.D., vice president for finance; Judith Lonnquist of Chicago, legal vice president; Ann Scott of Baltimore, vice president for legislation, and Cathy Irwin of Washington, D.C., vice president for public relations.

In addition to electing officers, delegates held workshops during the second day of the conventions. Many of the workshops were informal and some were closed to news media.

One workshop adopted a resolution calling for the resignation of Dr. James C. Fletcher as administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Gayla Salinas, who headed a workshop on strategy for compliance with fair labor practices regulations, charged NASA with unfair practices in hiring and promotion of women and minorities.

The resolution was not presented to the entire NOW convention for approval or disapproval.

Linda Beistle On Honor List

Linda Beistle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Beistle of Box 92 in Coahoma, has been placed on the Dean's Honor Roll at Lubbock Christian College (LCC) for the spring semester 1974. Miss Beistle, a sophomore who has a grade point average of 3.57, is one of 84 students receiving this honor. A grade point average of 3.5 or better on the 4.0 scale is necessary to be placed on the Dean's Honor Roll.

LCC is now a fully accredited senior college offering liberal arts and pre-professional programs.

Showers Dot South Plains

By The Associated Press

Temperatures headed upward today as Texans celebrated Memorial Day under mostly cloudless skies.

The few exceptions were areas from around Lubbock to Lamesa and Floydala on the South Plains, where scattered showers fell early in the day, and near the south tip of the state, where a few showers lingered in the wake of occasional showers and thunderstorms late Sunday.

Temperatures went as high Sunday afternoon as 99 degrees at Alice in deep South Texas, and another hot day was promised all sections.

Early morning marks ranged from 59 at Dalhart and 60 at Wichita Falls up to 75 at Galveston and 76 at McAllen.

West Point Women Next?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says it is preparing for the remote possibility that women may be admitted to West Point or the other military academies.

Officials are evaluating the results of a special endurance and physical fitness test given more than 1,000 female soldiers.

FOUR DRILLS

Although the test was requested by officials at West Point, the Army insists it has no plans to begin admitting women to the Academy.

In response to questions, the Army acknowledged that in March and April, a group of 1,062 basic trainees at Fort McClellan, Ala., went through four separate drills.

Each young woman performed the bent arm hang (like a pullup), bent leg situps, a standing broad jump and 600-yard run and walk. In a statement, the Army said, "The reason for the request (that the test be conducted) is that West Point has no data base on women's physical fitness standards."

REMISS

Academy officials "would have been remiss had they not planned for even the most remote contingency that females might eventually be admitted to the service academies," the Army said.

Over the last few years, several congressmen have attempted to nominate women for admission to West Point and the Air Force and Naval academies.

Officially, the Army says it bars women from West Point because all applicants must be capable of combat assignments even if they serve out full military careers in noncombat jobs.

Ford Makes It Perfectly Clear To President Nixon

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford has made clear he plans to stand by his disapproval of President Nixon's decision to bar further Watergate evidence to the House impeachment inquiry.

'QUITE CANDIDLY'

Ford told a news conference here Sunday night that their differences were laid out "quite candidly" at his meeting with Nixon last Thursday and that "I haven't backed off from it since."

He refused to say what Nixon's reaction to his position was but said, "there was an understanding that my position had been, is and will be what it has been in the past.

"Only the President, at this point, through his attorneys, has taken a different view," said Ford, who repeatedly has urged the White House to cooperate with the House Judiciary Committee as much as possible.

The vice president made it plain he intends to keep pushing for moderation, compromise and cooperation with the committee.

SEVERAL POINTS

Ford sounded that theme at several points Sunday as he spoke at a hospital building dedication in New York and campaigned in Connecticut for freshman Republican Rep. Ronald A. Sarasin, who faces a difficult re-election fight in his normally Democratic district.

In New York, Ford helped dedicate a $152 million Mt. Sinai Medical Center building named for the mother of U.S. Ambassador to England Walter Annenberg.

Ford said he would do his best to assure enactment of compromise health insurance legislation, adding that "cooperation and compromise are the only means by which our form of government —in this field and others—can move ahead successfully."

Where People Know Them Best

MIKE EZZELL
Comes out Ahead!

Before you go to the polls and vote in the runoff Democratic primary June 1 for your state representative, consider the facts:
Mike Ezzell received 53.96 per cent of the vote in his home (Scurry) county in the first primary over two opponents, although this was his first political race.

In Borden County, where his runoff opponent serves as county judge, Mike Ezzell received 58 per cent of the vote and carried every box.

In the Fluvanna box, where his opponent grew up, Mike Ezzell received 57.90 per cent of the vote.

Despite a late start in campaigning due to his job responsibilities, Mike Ezzell carried Howard County.

Yes, Mike Ezzell comes out ahead where people know the candidates best. You know where he stands.

Please Vote Saturday, June 1 For
MIKE EZZELL
STATE REPRESENTATIVE, 63rd DISTRICT

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Regarding "Normal girl" who wanted to know why you replied "Lovely" to the 16-year-old girl who was saving her virginity for her husband, may I comment!

I am a male, 55, who has been a social worker for 18 years. I don't know how mature "Normal girl" considers herself to be, but if (as she claims) all that is necessary for a beautiful and guilt-free sexual relationship between a guy and a girl is that they "love" each other, it's a wonder we are not all in bed by the time we are 13.

Children, by their own immature standards, start "falling in love" very early in their lives. What keeps most young girls from going all the way is respect for the standards of their parents, teachers, and community.

CLEVELANDER

DEAR CLEVELANDER: As I view it, of equal importance to respect for the standards of one's parents, teachers and community is respect for one's self. But according to my mail, what keeps most young girls from going all the way is fear of pregnancy, fear of V.D., and fear that the boy might tell a few dozen of his closest friends — and in that order.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Norton's wife, who complained that Norton never opened his mouth in company, and consequently everybody thought he was unfriendly or mad, reminded me of a cousin of mine. Her husband also was a very quiet man, but it was beautiful to watch her draw him into the conversation by saying, "Larry, why don't you tell the folks about the night watchman who found the cat locked in the office?"

That gave Larry a chance to talk without making him feel self-conscious. I've always admired my cousin for the consideration she showed for her quiet husband.

KISSIN' COUSIN

DEAR COUSIN: She deserves to be kissed. The world could use more wives like her, and fewer wives who make a practice of interupting their husbands to finish a story he's telling.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: The mother who labeled her son and his wife "selfish" because they were denying her the pleasure of being a grandparent should have applied that label to herself. She apparently wants them to add to an already overcrowded world, regardless of their feelings, simply for her own selfish pleasure.

While the Bible does say, "Go forth and multiply," a more timely quotation is, "Thou hast multiplied the nation and not increased the joy" (Isaiah 9:3).

The last thing the world needs is children whose parents were high-pressured into such a serious and permanent decision. There should be a national organization to assist parents who are being pressured to have children, and to inform those well-intentioned but misguided people who try to make couples feel guilty or abnormal for remaining childless.

FOR POPULATION CONTROL

DEAR FOR: Would you believe there is such an organization. It's the National Organizaton for Non-Parents: 515 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022

Convention Delegation Selected

Mrs. C. B. O'Neal, state committee woman, and Mrs. Ollie Bransom, delegate, were selected to carry the unit votes to the state convention at El Paso when the Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary met last week in the home of Mrs. M. H. Spivey, 4014 Parkway.

Local officers elected for the 1974-75 year were Mrs. Bransom, commander; Mrs. Spivey, senior vice commander; Mrs. Joe Caldwell, junior vice commander; Mrs. Fred Scott, chaplain; Mrs. Don McCray, adjutant-treasurer; and Mrs. O'Neal, state committee woman.

Mrs. Bransom presented a gift of unit and American flags to the unit, and Miss Lee Rogers led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance. Mrs. Scott led prayer. Mrs. McCray read minutes from the recent Region I convention here.

It was announced that Mrs. John Watson, Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Spivey served refreshments at the Veterans Administration Hospital during May. In other business, the women planned a garage sale at the home of Mrs. McCray.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, and the next meeting was slated June 17 in the Bransom Home, 422 Ryan.

Garden Club Council Gives Civic Citations

Straw hats filled with wild flowers, and arranged with work gloves and small garden tools, formed table decorations for the Big Spring Garden Club Council installation luncheon held Wednesday at Big Spring Country Club. The invocation was by Mrs. Paul Guy, Planters Garden Club, the incoming president.

Taking office with Mrs. Guy were Mrs. J. C. Pickle, Big Spring Garden Club, vice president; Mrs. Roy Webb, How to Grow Club, secretary; Mrs. A. C. Moore, Texas Star African Violet Club, treasurer; and Mrs. L. B. Edwards, Texas Bouquet African Violet Club, parliamentarian. The project chairman will be selected from the Rosebud Garden Club.

Mrs. C. Y. Clinkscales, retiring president, introduced guests including Harry Nagel, city manager; Ron Mercer, Chamber of Commerce manager; Dr. Paul Koshi, U.S. Experiment Station; Ed Cruz, president of the Men's Garden Club; Johnny Johansen, Garland Morris, cochairman of the city clean-up campaign; Mrs. Floyd Mays, chairman of the clean-up campaign; Mrs. Daryl Hohertz and Mrs. E. C. Shive, local garden club members; and Mrs. Elaine Barber and Mrs. Rae Nell Griggs, both of Lubbock.

Following the installation service by Mrs. D. S. Riley, Mrs. Guy spoke briefly concerning the council's future plans, which include a garage and bake sale, flower show to be held during the Howard County Fair, and continuation of the clean-up and beautification of the city. Mrs. Clinkscales was presented a silver dish for "outstanding civic work."

Also receiving awards for outstanding civic work were Nagel, Mercer, Johansen, Dr. Koshi, Cruz, Morrison, Mrs. Mays and Doug Mays. The presentation was by Mrs. Odell Womack, litterbug chairman for District 1.

Mrs. Mays spoke on what has been accomplished and what is to be done at the 'big spring' area. Pipe will be installed to circulate water, making a mock spring at the site of the original one, and hike and bike trails will be completed. Some cacti will be replaced, and each one in the Cactus Garden will be identified. Trash cans will be placed at vantage points. Also, an "unsightly" area near Birdwell Lane and the stockyards is to be cleared and leveled, then beautified by the garden clubs.

According to Mrs. Clinkscales, trees and plants have been provided for the Community House, where residents care for the plants in a garden therapy operation. She said there is a need for furniture at the Community House which is trying to be self-sufficient.

Mrs. A. C. Moore reported on the project at Big Spring Nursing Inn. Garden club members supply plants for the greenhouse and they are cared for by residents, with the help and direction of a committee from the council. There is also a vegetable garden.

Complimentary Shower Held For Karen Coffee

Formal attire was worn by hostesses Wednesday when a gift shower honoring Miss Karen Coffee was held in the home of Mrs. Bill Estes, 1609 Osage.

Miss Coffee and Marvin L. Standefer Jr., will be married June 21 in First Baptist Church.

Receiving guests with Miss Coffee was her mother, Mrs. John Richard Coffee; her fiance's mother, Mrs. Marvin L. Standefer Sr., Stanton; and her grandmother, Mrs. John A. Coffee. Included in the house party were her sisters, Miss Michelle Coffee and Miss Lynette Coffee, and Standefer's sister, Mrs. Dusty Dillard of Midland. An out-of-town guest was Mrs. Fletcher Anderson of McKinney.

Yellow daisy corsages were presented to the honorees.

Cohostesses were Mrs. J. W. Tipton, Mrs. Don Baker, Mrs. Donald Lester, Mrs. Ray Thomas, Mrs. Pete Cook, Mrs. Ernest Boyd, Mrs. Charles Sweeney and Mrs. Louis Stallings.

Floral arrangements were placed throughout the home, and the refreshment table was centered with a crystal epergne, elevated with gold cupids, which held yellow columbines, roses, statice and greenery. The cloth was scalloped, embroidered linen, and appointments were cyrstal and silver.

Area Residents Take Trips, Have Guests

WESTBROOK (SC) — Eddie Ranne, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ranne, received a music education degree at the spring commencement exercises held at North Texas State University and attended by his parents. Ranne, who qualified for his degree in December, 1973, is serving as music director at First Baptist Church in Krum where he and his wife reside. He plans to enter the teaching profession, but is currently employed by Harpool's Inc.

The annual Westbrook Cemetary Association meeting was held Saturday, and a business session was conducted by Aubrey Oglesby, president; and Mrs. Rex McKinney, secretary. Participants brought basket lunches for the meal at the Golden Age Club.

Guests of Mrs. A. C. Moody have been the Herman Moodys of Hico and Fred Carstensen and Sian Carstensen, both of Lamesa.

The Ray Moores and H. H. Crenshaws of Austin were recent guests of the Arlie Moores.

Mrs. T. A. Rees was hospitalized in Lubbock.

Harold Gainey, son-in-law of the D. J. Barbers, underwent surgery last week in Midland.

Weekend guests of Mrs. G. L. Anderson and the Curtis Clemmers were the Dale Anderson family, Fort Worth; and he Phil Andersons, Plainview. Also, they visited the Ed Putnams and Bob Motleys.

The Larry Bells, Midland, and Mrs. A. K. McCarley of Colorado City Route, were recent guests of the W. A. Bells.

Bride-Elect Honored At Shower

Miss Karen Tindol who will be married June 15 to Tony Goeke, Corpus Christi, was honored at a gift shower last week in the home of Mrs. Don Hale, Midway. Cohostesses were Mrs. Marvin Callahan, Mrs. Wayne Nail, Mrs. E. W. Nail, Mrs. Steve Coleman, Mrs. Buddy Andrews, Mrs. Duke Baker, Mrs. B. N. Boroughs and Mrs. Vaughn Martin.

Attired in a pink dress with white trim, the honoree was presented a corsage of pink carnations, and her mother, Mrs. R. D. Tindol; and grandmother, Mrs. Bill Norwood; were given white carnation corsages.

The serving table was covered with a white felt cloth, caught at the corners with nosegays and blue and lavender ribbons. The centerpiece was a bride doll. Accenting the registry was a pink rose and a plaque depicting the wedding.

Scholarship Goes To Dana Jones

Dana Jones, 1974 Big Spring High School graduate, has been notified by the music department of Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, that as a result of an earlier audition, he will be awarded a four-year music scholarship in the amount of $800. Dana, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clemont Jones, 1900 Goliad, will attend H-SU in the fall as a biological sciences major.

Art Association Has Dinner With Guests

A dinner was held Tuesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Grant, 1605 Osage, for members of the Big Spring Art Association and their guests.

A social hour followed the dinner, and out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Haskell Grant of Ropesville.

During a brief business session, members were reminded that the club will continue meeting during the summer months.

The June 8 meeting will be in the art studio of Mrs. J. H. Holloway, 502 Gregg, with Mrs. W. H. Crenshaw as cohostess. Each club member will bring one of his or her paintings for discussion and critique.

Hobby Club Gains New Member

Mrs. Nancy Doolin was welcomed as a member of the Busy Bee Hobby Club during a Thursday meeting over which Mrs. J. H. Duke presided. Guests were Mrs. Opal Jones, Mrs. Ada Sullivan, Mrs. Celina Eurbin, Mrs. Cathy Williams and Mrs. Gladys Gruff. The group painted decorative items. The next meeting will be held at 9 a.m., May 30 at the Kentwood Center.

Trees Are Best Home Bargain

COLLEGE STATION — "Trees are our biggest environmental improvement bargain and offer homeowners many benefits," says Dr. William Welch, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Trees furnish protection from extreme heat, cold, wind, drought and floods. At the same time, they reduce air and noise pollution while providing shelter and food for birds, animals and man."

A source of year-round beauty, trees also increase property value and indicate community pride, points out the Texas A&M University System specialist.

In general, planting a tree demonstrates a feeling of continuity with the past — and anticipation for the future, notes the horticulturist. When cared for properly, a well-placed, carefully-selected tree provides pleasure for many generations.

Careful selection involves choosing trees adapted to the area — and which meet specific needs, adds Welch. And now — late winter and early spring — is a good time to set out trees for most of Texas.

Buyers From Far And Near Shell Out For Antique Cars

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Many of the world's classic old cars and motorcycles are in new hands today, exchanged Sunday in a $1 million-plus auction conducted here by Christie's of London.

OKIE FROM MUSKOGEE

Buyers from 19 states and six foreign nations gathered at the Wings and Wheels museum, spending $1,118,000 for 59 cars and 10 motorcycles owned by James C. Leake of Muskogee, Okla. and five cars owned by Gerald A. Rolph of Arlington.

A 1929 Minerva cabriolet once owned by famed stripper Gypsy Rose Lee went for $35,000 but bidders quietly declined to bid on a limousine once owned by Winston Churchill.

PAYS $65,000

"It will require a pretty good bid because it should be preserved in some museum," said auction conductor the Hon. Patrick Lindsay.

A Reno, Nev. man, Ralph Dunwoody, bought the late Miss Lee's car then paid out $65,000 for a 1929 Isotta Fraschini.

Joe Spranza of Dallas purchased a royal-crested 1955 Daimler limousine owned by Britain's Queen Mother Elizabeth for $18,000.

The crowd of about 3,000 burst into spontaneous applause at midafternoon when a classic 1933 Isotta Fraschini sport phaeton was driven into the show ring. The car was a show model at the Paris Salon in 1933.

Lindsay opened bidding for the car at $60,000. The price jumped quickly to $100,000 bid by a West Coast businessman.

Jeff Browning of Dallas topped it off with the winning $110,000 bid. "I just wanted to get the wife a nice present," said Browning who owns no other antique cars.

Husband Doesn't Mind Her Dating

NEW YORK (AP) — Marion Javits, wife of Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., says her husband doesn't mind her dating in New York while he is attending to the nation's business in Washington.

"If it's in a column that I'm with so-and-so, it has never meant that one has to be horizontal immediately—or that it is going to threaten our marriage because I'm seen with other people.

NATO Is In Disarray

The 15-member North Atlantic Treaty Organization this year observes it 25th anniversary — it would be too much to say that the birthday is being "celebrated" in view of the disarray in its ranks.

The origins of NATO can be found in the immediate post-World War II years. It arose from the fear of westward expansion of the Soviet Union. The sentiment for a Western coalition was solidified by the blockade of Berlin in 1948.

In the earlier years each member more or less observed the general agreement to contribute ships and men to NATO force. But when France, the keystone of the coalition, withdrew its forces from NATO control and forced the transfer of the military headquarters from Paris to Brussels, the walls of the edifice began to crumble. Then the concept of a nuclear force supposedly with the finger of more than one nation on the trigger, ran aground on the unwillingness of the U.S. Congress to share control of US nuclear weapons.

At the same time, domestic troubles, as in Greece and Portugal in particular, turned attention away from NATO.

The permanent members of the NATO Council still met from time ti time. But the resolve and the unified purpose of earlier years had departed, as the European Community arose and the fear met from time to time. But the resolve and the to permanent members of the NATO Council still of Soviet aggression diminished.

The framework of NATO survives, but it has lost its mission.

Full Of Paradoxes

The economic situation in which we find ourselves is chock full of paradoxes. One is that business, big business, is finding inflation an inducement to expand — and push inflation still highter as a consequence.

Proof of this is found in the figures for capital expenditures, which rose 12.8 per cent in 1973 and 8.9 per cent in 1972. For 1974, the Business Council — composed of executives of about 100 major corporations — has predicted an increase of 13 to 19 per cent in capital expenditures for 1974.

This means expansion of high magnitude is in order. That's good news, of course, since capital expenditures contribute to the underlying health of the economy, increasing its base. But what does it portend for the average American.

For one thing, business can pass along its increased costs in the form of increased prices. That means added fuel to the inflationary fires; any hopes inflation can be curbed this year must be regarded as wishful if such expansion continues.

But inflation itself feeds expansion, or a least seems to be in the present situation. Evidently those willing to invest in capital expenditures now regard continuing inflation as inevitable. Therefore, if they postpone expansion for a year or two — by building now, they can build at less cost than and pay for the investment in cheaper dollars over the term of capital expeniture loans. For the wage earner, it all means a harder time making ends meet.

'Go Not Gentle . .'

Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

The aging process is resisted by practically all of us. The phrase 'growing old gracefully' is an invention of the poets and they take broad license in it.

THE PEOPLE who live the longest invariably are the crochety, cantankerous types — those who remain pre-occupied with what they are doing. They don't work at being loved. Those who devote themselves exclusively at that pursuit usually die prematurely — and more often than not are embittered at the treatment they have received from a society that acts as if it is too busy to bother with them.

People face major crises throughout their lives and the gentle, benign and courteous are the kind not likely to live longest.

A UNIVERSITY of Chicago psychiatrist named Morton A. Lieberman says that perceiving one's self as the center of the universe, combined with a pugnacious stance toward the world, even a highly-suspicious stance, seems more likely to insure survival.

Prof. Lieberman says that oldsters perhaps should follow the advice of Dylan Thomas (who never attained his golden years), offered to his aged and dying father, Said Thomas:

"Do not go gentle into that good night. Rage, rage against the dying of the light."

AS A MEMBER of the university's human relations committee, Lieberman has long been interested in how people die, under what circumstances death occurs and what role death plays in the psychology of life.

Lieberman says that the nearness of death seldom presents an ancient with a crisis.

"It is a rare case for an individual to have lived into the seventh or eighth decade of life without having come to grips with his own death and developed some personal philosophical system for dealing with it," Lieberman says.

MORE OLD people than not are quite willing to discuss at some length their feelings and thoughts about death, Lieberman states.

In one study of 80 elderly persons (40 of whom died within a year of discussing this issue with them), only three found such discussion difficult.

NEXT TIME you visit with a patriarch and find him irrascible, appreciate him for what he is and respect his resistance to Citizen Death. He's merely journeyed down the road a little farther than you.

A Political Act

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski's blistering letter to the Senate Judiciary Committee is a political act, calculated and combative, which exposes the extreme danger of President Nixon's continuing fight against turning over subpoenaed evidence.

Neither asking nor desiring Senate action, Jaworski was firing a long-contemplated signal. By publicly revealing that the President broke his promises not to interfere with the special prosecutor, Jaworski has made himself more fireproof than ever. Yet, if Mr. Nixon eventually loses in the Supreme Court, his only sensible alternative to the self-destructive sacking of Jaworski would be to obey the court and surrender the tape recordings.

HOWEVER, there is universal suspicion (Jaworski's included) that those tapes contain information at least as damaging to the President as the revelations on nine tapes he surrendered after the Saturday night massacre last October. Thus, while attention is now glued to impeachment proceedings on Capitol Hill, Jaworski's office in downtown Washington is an actively dangerous second front where the President's prospects are bleak.

Jaworski remains perhaps the worst of all the blatant White House miscalculations about Watergate. The President was wrong from the start that the 68 year-old Houston corporation lawyer would prove a welcome relief from the deposed Prof. Archibald Cox as special prosecutor. After seven long months, the White House will not admit that error.

Continuing to misinterpret Jaworski's character, ..Nixon aides insist he really wants to clean up the Watergate case without causing more trouble and go home to the good life in Texas. It's just that poor old Leon, they say, is the captive of ferocious young anti-Nixon liberal lawyers he inherited from Cox.

THIS CONFLICT with evidence that Jaworski is totally in control — as in the recent decision on how to handle former Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst's admitted deception before a Senate committee. Although these young prosecutors wanted a perjury indictment, Jaworski insisted that Kleindienst — more sinned against than sinning — should be let off with a one-count misdemeanor.

But the White House has talked so much about the captive-Jaworski theory that Mr. Nixon's lawyers actually broached it to Jaworski himself, crudely attempting to alienate him from the Cox holdovers. Jaworski responded dith some heat that he runs his own show.

That heat displayed a combativeness by trial lawyer Jaworski far more intense than appellate lawyer Cox's. As the White House remained adamantly uncooperative, Jaworski long ago decided he would return — at the proper time — to the Senate to complain about the President. When Nixon defense lawyer James St. Clair argued in closed session before Judge John Sirica that Jaworski was subordinate to the President's wishes, Jaworski knew the proper time had come.

HIS INTENT IS certainly not to further the basic Nixon strategy of delay by getting Congress to establish a statutory special prosecutor's office. Rather, the letter to the Senate was a means of getting his case in the open without breaching the court's semi-gage rule (imposed upon Jaworski but not St. Clair).

The letter further undercut Mr. Nixon with many remaining Republican supporters in Congress. Realizing Mr. Nixon can neither fire Jaworski nor seem to be impeding his investigation, they view this struggle with the special prosecutor as deflating the President's hopes for survival.

The unsinkable Jaworski deepens problems Mr. Nixon faces in his lawsuit against the subpoenas. Just as last October, the White House inner circle—in this case, the President, Sr. Clair and chief of staff Alexander Haig — has talked itself into believing it will win in the Supreme Court.

"Believe me, this is no time to step down from the highest office in the land."

Finds Dialogue 'Titsie-Poo'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Oh, no, not another crazy actress!" said Gloria Swanson when she was asked to end a 22-year absence from the screen and appear in "Airport 1974."

"AS SOON as I heard they wanted me to play an actress, I figured it was another wierdo," said Miss Swanson, who is 75 but ageless. "Producers always think of me in terms of Sunset Boulevard."

"But I'm not Norma Desmond. I'm not a recluse, and I don't live in the past. I travel so much that when I wake up in the morning I sometimes don't know which side of the bed to get out of. I have an insatiable curiosity about everything, and I like young people."

Fortunately, producer Bill Frye and director Jack Smight did not want her to play a psycho star in the sequel to Universal's biggest moneymaker. Even so, she found the dialogue "titsie-poo."

SHE CAME up with a solution: instead of portraying some mythical movie star, why not call the character Gloria Swanson?

"Then I could talk the way I do normally, and I could bring my own food aboard the airplane — everybody knows I'm somewhat of a nut about food," she said.

The film makers were delighted with her suggestion, and she is now playing herself in the multistar case of jet travelers in jeopardy. After 60 years in films, the magic is still there. When she swept out of her dressing room, traimloads of tourists on the Universal Studio Tours gawked in awe.

She is indeed a phenomenon, linking the film industry to its very beginnings yet refusing to bury herself in memories.

"I think I should get a medal for simply breathing," she remarked, "especially when I look through my telephone book and see how many of my contemporaries are either dead or too decrepit to get around."

MISS SWANSON fits neither category. Her skin is smooth, her eyes clear and alert, her mind ever-active. She is a walking — and talking — testimonial for proper eating.

It is a hazard to eat lunch in front of her, even a diet plate ("too much protein.) Take a sip of skim milk and she comments, "No adult should drink milk, especially pasteurized milk; it is simply a repository of dead germs."

Miss Swanson started in movies in 1914 at the Essenay studios in her native Chicago. She has never made a secret of her age and boasts that she has three children, seven grandchildren and a great-grandchild on the way — "That's one up on Marlene Dietrich."

"THE PAST never intrigued me," she reflected. "I'm interested in the 'now.' Life is a constant surprise to me, and each morning I wake up and say, 'What now, God.'

"People grow old because they get bored — first with themselves, then with the world around them. They start getting ailments and they take something for the pain. So they're not all here much of the time. That's not my idea of living."

Executive Branch 'Nastier'

John Cunniff

By DAVID C. MARTIN
(Substituting for John Cunniff)

WASHINGTON (AP) — The executive branch of government is "just a nastier place to be these days," according to Donald Santarelli, head of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

Because of Watergate, "you can't accomplish nearly as much" as before and "you can't use the President's name like you used to be able to do," he said.

The White House staff has been so decimated by the revelations of Watergate that the 36-year-old Santarelli says he is running his $900 million agency almost completely on his own. "There is nobody to tell me no, and there is nobody to can me," Santarelli said in an interview.

Later, after the interview had been published, Santarelli said he had misunderstood the ground rules of the interview and that his remarks were "not meant to be published." He did not challenge the accuracy of any of the statements attributed to him, but claimed they were "taken out of context from a casual conversation."

"It is foolish for me to say that the President can't fire me since I serve at the pleasure of the President," Santarelli said. "What I am saying is that I see no reason for him to fire me since I am carrying out his policies at LEAA."

Earlier, Santarelli said that because of Watergate he is "suspect at every turn in the road of being part of a crippled and lame administration ... everywhere I go, people say, 'what's the story about this stuff,' and you end up responding to questions and charges which are truly peripheral to your mission and which further compromise your mission."

Santarelli said that Watergate has been deeply felt throughout the Justice Department, of which his agency is a semi-independent branch. The rapid succession of attorneys general "has really undermined, ennervated, demoralized the department," he said.

Liability For Heroes?

Three days before concert time, a rock singer informed the promoter that he had changed his mind about doing the show. The promoter hastened into a local courtroom for help.

"I WANT A court order commanding him to perform," he said. "That is what he agreed to do when he signed his contract."

But the court denied the promoter's request. The court said it had no authority to force an unwilling man to sing.

THIS IS THE law's usual attitude with regard to contracts that call for personal service of one kind or another. Although the courts may award dollar damages for breach of contract, they generally won't force a singer to sing, a painter to paint, or a baseball player to play baseball.

Why? Because, say the courts, it would be too hard to tell whether the performer — acting under compulsion — was really doing a good job or was only going through the motions.

FURTHERMORE, a forced performance is considered too close to involuntary servitude. Courts are reluctant, said one judge, to "turn contracts of services into contracts of slavery." (In that case, he refused to force a dancer to dance.)

Sometimes, however, a court will put indirect pressure on the performer by at least forbidding him to "do his thing" Thus, a basketball star who broke his contract was ordered by a court not to play for another team.

BUT EVEN this lesser form of pressure is used only if the performer's services are unique — that is, if his employer cannot find a reasonably satisfactory substitute. For example:

A piano company went to court to prevent a disgruntled salesman from going to work for another firm. But the court decided that the circumstances did not justify such a drastic order. The court said the company was not facing any "irreparable harm," since it could hire another salesman to do pretty much the same job.

MY ANSWER

Billy Graham

A relative of mine was a serviceman lost in action. I get despondent when I think that wars have accomplished nothing, and that ny nephew died in vain. Don't you think, knowing the condition of the world today, that to celebrate Memorial Day is almost to make a mockery of it? A.G.P.

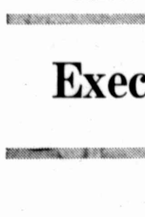

Bravery and patriotism are qualities of life that we always mark with profit and remember with gratitude.

Now, at a time of comparative peace, it's easy to ask why men and women died for their country. If we could somehow reconstruct the mood of international tension, however, that existed in war time, you'd know why the defense of the nation was a very justifiable priority. Memorial Day is not only a time to recall what our boys did, but when and why they did it.

The condition of the world today is exactly as the Bible prophesied. Men's hearts fail them for fear (Luke 21:26); there are wars and rumors of wars (Mark 13:7), and selfishness prevails (2 Timothy 3:2). But we are never without a spiritual remedy, and that eliminates the element of mockery.

How great it would be if the "remembering" of this Memorial Day would only serve to convince us that the world never can really be made "safe"; that the lesson of history is that hope is found through faith in Christ alone.

Transferable Infections

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can a male transfer vaginitis from an infected female to a noninfected female? If so is there a certain amount of time between sexual partners that would be considered "safe"? Please answer as soon as possible. -- L.B.

Can't tell from your initials whether you are male or female, but if you're in such a hurry, the quick answer is no, there's no "safe" interval between partners.

And now to explain why not.

Vaginitis is an inclusive term which can mean any sort of infection or inflammation of the vagina. That includes venereal diseases. The venereal diseases are transmitted primarily through sexual contact; there are other forms of vaginitis which can be acquired without sexual contact. Or may be transmitted either with or without it.

The commonest vaginitis that is not usually considered V.D. is trichomonas, an infection from a micro-organism known as a protozoon. Although this causes a discharge and irritation in the female, the male can carry the same infection yet have no symptoms — be totally unaware that he has it.

A wife may, for example, be treated and have the trichomonas entirely cured. But if her husband (or other sexual partner) unknowingly has the infection, he will promptly give it back to her. Or to some other sexual partner.

That, in fact, is a continuing problem among doctors treating trichomonas. Too often the husband insists that there's nothing wrong with him and he refuses to be treated when the wife is being cured.

In gonorrhea, the male usually (although not always) will develop a discharge in about three to five days after catching gonorrhea, and knows he needs to be treated. Unfortunately, many (but not all, of course) females can have gonorrhea without having any symptoms. Such ladies can be a hidden source of infection for their gentlemen partners.

In the case of syphilis, a man (same is true for women) may not be aware of the infection until the chancre (sore) appears, and that may not occur for several weeks.

To sum it up, if one is going to play the field, the only reliable protection against passing disease organisms in either direction is the condom, properly used.

Letter To Editor

DEAR EDITOR:

This morning when I went to Wackers on 11th. Place for stamps, I noticed two signs: This Post Office Will Permanently Be Closed June 15.

I for one, will hate to see it close. It is good walking distance to buy stamps and mail packages. I wish the ones who use the Post Office in Wackers would join with me and tell the manager of Wackers, that he will be losing some customers. This post office is very convenient for a lot of people.

Yours truly,

Super Shot Rips Jenkins

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — After eight successful seasons in the National League, Texas' pitcher Ferguson Jenkins surrendered his longest home run Sunday in his first year of pitching to American League batters.

"Mack Jones hit one out with a strong wind behind it in Chicago that bounced on top of a roof across the street from Wrigley Field," Jenkins recalled. "But 515 feet. That's quite a poke."

Minnesota's Bobby Darwin slammed a slow curve from Jenkins into the left field upper deck and joined teammate Harmon Killebrew as the only player to reach that sector of the Minnesota stadium.

"I'm going to give the ball to my little boy," said Darwin. "He (Jenkins) had been throwing me slow breaking pitches all day. I knew it was a hit."

Darwin's home run—his eighth of the year—scored the singling Steve Braun and topped off Minnesota's 6-1 victory. It also stopped any talk in Minnesota's dugout of Rod Carew's new-found power. Carew led off the seventh inning with his first home run of the season and 30th of his career and was barely seated when Darwin's clout settled in the first row of the second deck.

Darwin, a converted outfielder after spending eight seasons in the minor leagues as a pitcher, said he once hit a 500-foot home run during winter ball in South America.

"It's great to have a teammate hit the ball up there," said Killebrew, who tagged a 522-foot home run into the second deck off California's Lew Burdette on June 3, 1967.

Carew added a pair of singles and upper his batting average to .409 despite being weakened by a flu bug which kept him out of Saturday's game.

"I didn't feel too well before I came to the park," said the three time American League batting champion. "But I started feeling better in batting practice and decided to play."

In the other American League games, the New York Yankees swept a doubleheader from the Baltimore Orioles 6-5 and 7-5; the Oakland A's stopped the California Angels 6-5; the Detroit Tigers nudged the Cleveland Indians 2-1; the Kansas City Royals beat the Chicago White Sox 4-1 and the Boston Red Sox turned back the Milwaukee Brewers 4-1.

National League scores: Montreal 5, Philadelphia 1; New York 5, Pittsburgh 3; St.Louis 7, Chicago 1; Cincinnati 4, San Diego 1 and Los Angeles 9, San Francisco 5. Rain washed out the game between Atlanta and Houston.

Tors Win Bi-District

LAMESA — The Lamesa Golden Tors rallied for five runs in the bottom of the seventh inning Saturday for a 12-11 triumph over Iowa Park Hawks and a berth opposite Pecos in the regional playoffs this week.

The Tors, losers of Tuesday's opener in the best-ofthree series, won the first game Saturday 8-2 with Layne Heald's home run leading the way. In the second game, Melvin Robinson's double with two outs brought home the winning run as the Tors came back from a four-run deficit.

Pecos will host the first game of the regional playoff Tuesday at 4 p.m., and the decisive games will be played Friday at 2 p.m. in Lamesa.

Rutherford Rallies For Indy Triumph

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — They buried Johnny Rutherford, but he refused to die.

The square-jawed Texan, forced to start near the back of the 33-car starting grid, put his foot to the floor, barreled out of the pack right from the start and—with some help from A.J. Foyt's gearbox and Bobby Unser's empty gas tank—won an unusually placid Indianapolis 500-mile auto race Sunday.

"I always said if I ever finished this race I'd either win it or finish in the top three. This year I finished it and I won it," said Rutherford, who was in the top three almost before the field had a chance to stretch itself out over the 2½-mile asphalt course.

Rutherford was relegated to 25th place in the lineup—his worst start since his rookie try in 1963—because he didn't get a chance to qualify on the first day of the trials. Still, he wound up with the second-best qualifying time, next to Foyt.

It was Foyt and Rutherford for most of the race—Foyt starting from the pole position he'd won with his 191.632 miles per hour qualifying speed.

But an oil leak with about 40 laps to go black-flagged Foyt from the race and tossed it up for grabs between Rutherford, Bobby Unser, and, for a while Bobby's younger brother Al, who won here in 1970 and 1971.

Bobby, the 1968 Indy winner and victor at the California 500 and Trenton 200 earlier this year, said he lost the race because of a miscalculation and tire trouble.

"Rutherford just outran us at the end," Bobby Unser said. "As far as I'm concerned, we ran well. I'm not making any excuses.

"Of course," he added, "running out of fuel before the second pit stop didn't help. But that's the way things go."

His car owner and team manager, Dan Gurney, said, "We lost 47 seconds on that second pit stop and then we lost 25 seconds later when the air wrench for the right rear tire didn't work and we couldn't change the tires."

Fuel, decreased from 350 to 230 gallons of methanol for the race, was a key problem for many of the drivers, including Rutherford. His crew said he wound up with only a bit more than six gallons left.

However, only Lloyd Ruby, known as the hard luck guy at Indy, ran completely out of fuel. He coasted into the pits after completing 199 laps and wound up ninth.

Rutherford, 36, from Fort Worth, led 122 of the 200 laps on the famed race course. He averaged 158.589 miles an hour for the 3 hour, 9 minute race, well before Mark Donohue's 1972 record run at 162.962 m.p.h.

Despite his spot in the ninth row, Rutherford said he "never felt so confident.

"I worked my way up cautiously," he said. "I was surprised that I gained ground through the pack that quickly."

A crowd exceeding 300,000 watched the almost routine race, a distinct contrast from last year's death-and-rain-marred event in which Swede Savage and a pit crewman were killed. Salt Walther—who raced again Sunday—was critically burned along with several spectators and the race was delayed three days by constant showers last year. Another driver, Art Pollard, also was killed in practice that month.

That race and the ensuing uproar led to the fuel limit being cut, alterations on the race cars and several changes in the Speedway track.

Rutherford said he was both happy and sad to see Foyt drop out early.

"I hated to see him go out of the race with mechanical problems, but I was happy not to have to worry about him. If he had stayed in the race, it would have been tooth and nail because I was ready."

"I had my doubts when we started so far back, but everything worked out great. But that one lap was the only one I wanted to lead—the last one," said Rutherford.

He dedicated this race to his father. "He is 61 years old and has cancer. He has always been interested in my career, but this year he couldn't make it."

There were seven yellow caution light periods totaling 34 minutes and 21 seconds, but none was flashed because of a serious accident.

The only injury was to Jerry Karl, whose car slammed into the outside wall on turn No. 3 late in the race. He was treated for a puncture wound to his leg and released from the Speedway infield hospital.

Bill Vukovich finished third, followed by defending champion Gordon Johncock and Englishman David Hobbs, the only foreign driver in the race.

Powerful Texas Rolls By Bulldogs

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Longhorns own the NCAA record for appearances in the College Baseball World Series with 16 but the current team may possess more power and pitching than any since the 1950 NCAA champions.

The Longhorns received a severe challenge from unheralded Louisiana Tech in the NCAA Dist. 6 playoffs but survived. Tech, the Southland Conference champions, brought a team blessed with excellent defense and pitching to joust the Longhorns.

But after Texas recovered from a 5-4 surprise Saturday, the Longhorn pitching and power began to show. Rick Burley, a lanky lefty, blanked the Bulldogs 8-0 on three hits Saturday night to send the playoffs into a third and deciding game Sunday.

The Longhorns exploded for 14 hits in a 12-2 rout to punch a ticket for the June 7 NCAA playoffs in Omaha, Neb.

Burley and Keith Moreland led the assault. Burley crashed a towering 340-foot homer and Moreland stroked three hits as the Longhorns gave Martin Flores and reliever Frosty Moore the only cushion they needed.

"I hate to compare teams," said Coach Cliff Gustafson. "But I was pleased the way this team bounced back. A team with lesser character would have been in trouble."

Texas has been to Omaha eight of the last 10 years. The last three years the Longhorns have ran afoul of the Southern California Trojans.

Winning 'Easier' For Gary Player

MEMPHIS (AP) — Gary Player has won 18 tournaments on the American pro golf tour, and an eye-popping total of 98 in his globe-trotting career.

And it's getting easier all the time, says the man who won the Masters only last month.

"For 20 years I played golf fearing a hook," the little South African said Sunday after his five-under-par 67 in the final round had lifted him from five strokes off the pace to a two-shot victory in the Danny Thomas-Memphis Golf Classic.

"After my operation last year I changed to a more upright stance, which prohibits me from coming over the ball. I have much more confidence in my swing now than I ever did," Player said.

"I don't have the fear I once had. In that respect, winning now is easier than it was for the first 20 years I played golf."

Player capped his dramatic comeback with a birdie from a bunker on the 12th hole—he holed the sand shot from 40 feet for his third consecutive bird—and put together a 72-hole total of 273, a distant 15 under par on the 7,193-yard Colonial Country Club course.

Hubert Green, a two-time winner this season who had led through the second and third rounds and for 11 holes of the final 18, tied for second with Lou Graham at 275.

Tiger Cubs In 1st Win; Cards Lose

The Big Spring Tiger Cubs broke out of their early season slump Sunday and nudged the Lamesa Lobos 7-6 for a Big Spring split in a semipro baseball doubleheader at Steer Park.

Snyder's Redlegs trimmed the Big Spring Cardinals 7-1 in the nightcap.

John Thomas Smith and Willie Williams combined to stop the Lobos on six hits as the Tiger Cubs claimed their first win in five outings, and Smith also had a big day at the plate. He stroked a triple and a double to lead the Cubs' eight-hit attack.

Ernie Garcia managed a double and a single, Billy Diaz stroked a pair of singles, Ismael Hernandez managed a double and Mike Gonzales added a single in the triumph.

Snyder raced to a 4-0 lead over the Cards in the first two innings of the nightcap, and then tacked on three more in the sixth to pad the victory as the Cardinals fell to 3-4.

John Morelion suffered the loss, giving way to Orlando Olague in the late stages of the game.

Andy Gamboa had a double in the five-hit effort. Jimmy Fierro and Olague eached stroked singles in the defeat.

LITTLE LEAGUE

Cards Whip Rangers

The Pollard Chevrolet Cardinals won their third game of the week Saturday, a 13-9 triumph over the slumping Big Spring Herald Rangers, and moved into second place in the National Little League.

It was an NL make-up game played Saturday morning, and was one of only three major league games played because of a rainstorm Saturday night. The T-Birds topped the Starfighters 17-8 in the International League and the Pirates gained a 6-3 American league win in the only other action.

Monte Rogers went three-for-three to spark the Cards, now 7-3, while Scott More and Ben Watson collected two hits apiece. Dale Earnest was the winning pitcher for the Cardinals, who took a 7-2 lead after two innings and breezed to the win.

Mike Eggleston, Thompson and Valenzuela stroked two hits each for the Rangers, who fell to 6-4. Brad Pearson was the losing pitcher.

James Graham smacked four hits and Mel Schresbury, Chip Kooser and Steve Genoble had three apiece to lead the T-Birds, while Ron Hoggard belted a pair of doubles. Steve Husinginger managed the win, with relief help from Ed Eyre, as the team jumped to 7-2 on the year.

For the Starfighters, losing pitcher Sonny Gonzales rang up three hits and Dave Willadson had a pair. The Starfighters are 4-4.

In a National Minor League game Saturday, the Eagles trimmed the Colts 4-1. Dennis Perea was the winning pitcher, while Tommy Gutierrez offered relief help for the Eagles, who lifted their record to 5-5.

Bobby Thomas was tagged with the defeat as the Colts fell to 2-8.

In the American Pee Wee League, the Tigers rode the one-hit pitching of Scott Mayhall and a triple and a single by David Deal to a 4-3 triumph over the Panthers. Richard Blanchard also had a pair of hits and Ricky Wallace chipped in a triple, while Marty Rodriguez suffered the setback for the Tigers.

Eugene Boadle and Jimmy Marquez stroked back-to-back home runs in sparking the Pirates, who stayed near the top in the AL at 8-3. Boadle also managed a double and John Wilson came in with a pair of hits, while Kevin Hattenbach got his first decision of the year in hurling a four-hitter.

David Matlock doubled to top the Jets effort, and Ronnie Salmon took the loss. The Jets now stand 5-6.

FORD COURIER: THE GUTSY LITTLE ECONOMY PICKUP.

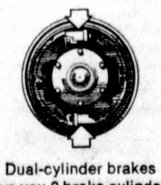

Courier shown with optional striping, wheel covers and mirrors.

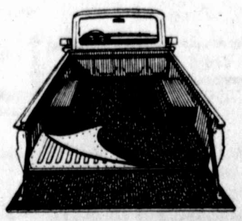

4-cylinder 1800-cc. overhead cam engine has 5 main bearings for rigidity and strength.

Rugged frame backbones a solid curb weight of 2,555 lbs.

Dual-cylinder brakes give you 2 brake cylinders at each wheel.

Snap-down bed liner option cushions Courier's roomy all-welded steel box.

Economical? Yes! But don't think Ford's hot-selling Courier isn't plenty gutsy, too. Courier's extra-husky frame, for example, features box-section side rails anchored by seven crossmembers. The roomy 74.5 in. x 62.2 in. box is all steel, all welded. Upfront, Courier rides on an independent suspension with big coil springs and a stabilizer bar. Rear springs are long, wide . . . with six leaves. There are double acting shocks, front and rear.

And Courier is as comfortable as it is rugged. A roomy cab has excellent visibility and insulated quiet. Courier's wheelbase is a long 104.3 inches to help smooth the ride. There's even an optional dress-up package . . . stripes, wheel covers, mirror, rear step, the works . . . for special sports appeal. And you get all this with an honest payload-and-people capacity of up to 1,400 pounds.

Party Obsessed With Obscenity

Somebody with a limited vocabulary left deleted expletives throughout the city Saturday night.

Cars at the Carlton House on Marcy and one in the 1100 block of Main were covered with obscene words.

By far the worst was $500 worth of damage to the city golf greens with obscene words cut into the greens.

McMahon's Again Hit By Burglars

A break-in occurred during the night again Saturday at McMahon Concrete when somebody stole two adding machines and two typewriters.

The same thing occurred three weeks ago at the same location. Both break-ins occurred on a weekend. Both times entry was gained by breaking a window.

Holiday Traffic Deaths Recorded

By The Associated Press

The death toll on the nation's highways stood at 256 today as the 78-hour Memorial Day weekend neared an end.

The highest number of deaths was expected today as travelers return home.

The National Safety Council predicted that fuel shortages and lower speed limits would result in a lower death rate this year than in previous years. The highest death toll for a three-day Memorial Day weekend was 597, set in 1969.

Earthquake In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — An earthquake measuring 6 degrees on the Richter Scale shook Mexico City and Acapulco late Sunday but there was no immediate report of injuries or damage.

A few tourists ran into the streets under a fine drizzle as the mild 45-second quake shook the city, swaying downtown skyscrapers.

The shock was centered 222 miles southeast of Mexico City in Guerrero state, according to the local seismological center. The epicenter is deep in the rugged mountains north of Acapulco.

Red Cross employes in the jet set resort said it was felt sharply there but no injuries or damage occurred.

It was also felt in the Guerrero towns of Chilpancingo and Iguala, where authorities said hundreds of residents ran into the streets.

The quake hit at 11:01 p.m. CST as a fine rain fell in Mexico City.

The Richter Scale measures the ground's movement in an earthquake. One that measures 6 on the scale is considered severe and one that measures 7 can cause widespread damage. The San Francisco earthquake of 1906 registered 8.3 on the scale.

A 7-degree temblor last Aug. 28 spread death and destruction through Central Mexico, leaving more than 700 people dead in Puebla and Veracruz states east of Mexico City. Sunday night's tremor was not felt in those areas.

Reuters News Strike Ends

NEW YORK (AP) — An 11-day strike against the U.S. bureaus of the Reuters news agency has ended with union ratification of a new contract including a cost of living clause.

The 149 unionized employes, members of the Newspaper Guild of New York, returned to work Sunday after approving the three-year pact, which gives them a $43 pay boost over the life of the contract.

The cost-of-living clause takes effect in the second year of the contract and provides for a 1 per cent salary increase for each percentage point of the cost of living above 8 eight per cent.

The new contract provides for a dental plan, fully paid for by the company, and an improved medical plan with a major medical coverage maximum of $250,000.

Increases in weekly wages under the new contract will average $15 in the first year and $14 during each of the two remaining years.

Under the old contract, which expired last December, salaries ranged from an average of $330 a week for reporters with four years of experience to $404 for correspondents.

Bumpers Says Poll Shows Him In Front Of Fulbright

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright says his political poll shows him only sen. J. W. Fulbright says his political poll shows him only four-tenths of 1 per cent in front of Gov. Dale Bumpers in their race for the Arkansas Democratic senatorial nomination.

Bumpers, however, says his poll showed him substantially ahead going into the Tuesday primary.

SEEKS SIXTH TERM

The remarks came during a joint appearance by the two on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" program, telecast from Little Rock Sunday.

Bumpers, 48, a country lawyer, was a political unknown in Arkansas until four years ago when he ran a successful campaign for governor. Fulbright, 69, who is running for a sixth term, has been in the Senate since 1944 and is one of its most powerful members.

But he has been the underdog from the outset of this campaign against Bumpers, who has been a popular governor.

Their race highlights primary elections in three states Tuesday, including Kentucky and Oregon. In Kentucky, Democratic Gov. Wendell Ford and Republican Sen. Marlow Cook are expected to be easy victors in their respective Senate primaries.

POLITICAL UNKNOWNS

In Oregon, five major candidates—two Republicans and three Democrats—and numerous unknowns, are seeking to succeed popular Tom McCall, a Republican, barred by statute from seeking a third term.

In the Senate primary, Sen. Robert Packwood is unopposed for the Republican nomination. Former Sen. Wayne Morse, 73, unseated by Packwood in 1968, is seeking the Democratic nomination, along with Oregon Senate President Jason Boe and two political unknowns.

Arkansas interest also has focused on the race for the Democratic nominaton for governor. Seeking the nomination to replace Bumpers are David H. Pryor, 39, of Little Rock, who served three terms in the U.S. House of Representatives; Lt. Gov. Bob Riley, 49, a former state legislator, and Orval E. Faubus, 64, former six-term governor.

Press Club Jabs Texas Politicians

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Press Club's annual Gridiron Show had, as usual, some witty observations about current events in Texas.

The skit, which portrays public figures in roles they often would rather forget, brought loud guffaws Saturday night.

Imploring Gov. Dolph Briscoe to close down a bordello at La-Grange known as the "Chicken Ranch," a prim "Janey Briscoe" tells him, "Them aren't eggs that are laid there, Dolphie."

Dallas real estate woman Ebby Halliday handles sale of the bagnio, singing "Chick, chick here, and a senator there. Here a judge, there a dude . . ."

Disc jockey Bullshot Jack of station KBOP, a takeoff on real life rock and roll disc jockey Wolfman Jack, dedicates songs like "Are You Lonesome Tonight?" to "Gus, Preston and Ben down at the Sharpstown Drive-in".

Then a song, "It's My Party and I'll Cry If I Want to" was performed by "George Bush and the Unimpeachables."

"Mr. Democrat" Robert Strauss, the national party chairman, and "Mr. Opportunity" John Connally, in a musical exchange, sang "Who's Sorry Now?"

It Was Weekend For Brawling

Roberto Mendosa, owner of the Zodiac Club was charged with interferring with a police officer after he locked the door of the club Friday at 11:55 p.m. while a fight had been reported inside.

Police officers were forced to kick in the door to gain entrance. On Saturday night, fights were reported at the Blue Moon and the Bar-C Corral, according to police activity reports.

There was also a fight at the county barn at a dance with four persons arrested for affray and drunk in public and one man reported shot in the left leg.

LTV Exec Missing, No Clues

DALLAS (AP) — A search was being made today for Dan Burney, senior vice president of LTV Corp. who disappeared mysteriously last week. His wife and police said there are no clues.

Burney, 47, a top officer in one of the nation's leading aerospace industries firms, worked at his LTV Tower offices until 11 p.m. last Tuesday and, according to his wife, had important appointments the next day.

A parking attendant said he saw Burney drive away in his 1973 Chevrolet, according to his wife, headed for home.

Burney has not been heard from since.

A Missing Persons Bureau spokesman ruled out kidnaping. He said, "It's been four days since he disappeared. There would likely have been a ransom demand by now."

Mrs. Burney said her husband has no health problems that could account for his disappearance. She said he carried a minimum of cash and "almost no credit cards."

Burney was a Wall Street lawyer with the New York law firm of White and Case before joining LTV in 1962.

Parade Honors Franco's Victory

MADRID (AP) — Gen. Francisco Franco, 81, stood on the reviewing stand Sunday with his successor designate, Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, as a military parade honored his Spanish Civil War victory of 35 years ago.

An estimated 500,000 gathered to watch the thousands of troops march and jet fighters fly overhead.

DIES — Academy Award winning actor Donald Crisp, 93, shown here in 1958 in his role as the cardinal in "The Last Hurrah," died at a suburban Van Nuys hospital on Saturday. Cause of death was not announced.

Fisher Body Pact Okayed

DETROIT (AP) — Some 8,100 General Motors employes are due to return to work Tuesday after ratification of a contract by striking workers at GM's Fisher Body Fleetwood plant.

United Auto Workers officials declined to discuss the vote Sunday that ended a 13-day strike by 4,000 members of UAW Local 15. They said it passed by a "substantial margin."

Another 4,000 workers in the adjacent Cadillac plant and 100 on an Oldsmobile Toronado assembly line in Lansing had been laid off because of the strike.

GM spokesmen said all the workers would report for work Tuesday.

Negotiators reached a tentative settlement in the strike over local issues Saturday, but details of the contract have not been released.

'Unique' John Smith Bilks Bankers Out Of $150,000

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Police and bankers say an expert forger used unique methods and the name John A. Smith to swindle several Palm Beach County banks out of as much as $150,000.

"We have an account in that name and we think it's the same man" who flooded area banks with bogus checks, Robert Fogelman, president of Tri-City Bank of Palm Beach Gardens, said Sunday.

A police source said a search for criminals who may have used the common name as an alias was hampered because "with a name like Smith, you would tie up the computer for two days."

CON GAMES

Bogus checks written by the forger, described by police as a white male in his 20's, began turning up Thursday, and police and bankers said they are waiting for more checks Tuesday.

"The forger's method sounds a little unique," said George B. Preston, president of Fidelity Federal Savings and Loan and also president of the U.S. League of Savings and Loan Associations.

"There are all sorts of con games against businesses, banks and savings and loans around the country," said Preston. "But not this particular type of thing."

Bank reports gave this as one account of the flim-flam:

The man somehow gained access to businesses in the area, stealing blank checks from the backs of checkbooks so they would not be missed immediately.

Then he made out checks to himself, forging the signatures of business officials, and cashed them at the banks on which they were drawn. Tellers, familiar with the signatures, cashed them readily.

FORGER

One Palm Beach businessman, John B. Nora Jr., co-owner of Nora Construction Co., confirmed his signature had been forged on four checks and the forgeries were "perfect three out of four times."

Another version had the forger open a savings account at a savings and loan with a forged check. He then cashed bogus checks using the account as a reference. He closed out the account on the same banking day, thus making off with cash from both the checks and the account.

Opening lead: King of ♡

"All simple finesses are equal — each stands a 50% chance of success." Mathematically that is true, but practically there could be a reason for preferring one finesse over another. Witness today's hand.

The bidding had much to commend it—it was short and to the point. North had a perfect one no trump opening bid and South made the value bid when he leaped directly to game in spades, for his hand offered excellent prospects for game even opposite a minimum no trump opening.

West led the king of hearts, and declarer saw at once that he would make the hand if either black king was in the West hand. But what if both finesses were to fail? Declarer was in danger of losing two heart tricks in addition to the black kings. After considering the alternatives, declarer realized that he could succeed even then if he could get rid of one of his heart losers early. To manage that, trumps would have to wait. It was essential to set up an extra club trick as swiftly as possible.

As the first step in his campaign, declarer allowed the king of hearts to hold the first trick. That forced West to switch his attack, for if he led another heart, it would present declarer with a gift trick in the suit. West found the best continuation — he shifted to a low diamond.

Declarer won in hand with the ace of diamonds and immediately led the ten of clubs, running it to East's king. A heart was returned, but declarer was in command. He took the ace of hearts, cashed the ace of clubs and discarded a heart on the queen of clubs. After cashing the ace of diamonds, declarer ruffed a diamond and took a spade finesse for the overtrick, but East produced the king and declarer had to be satisfied with four-odd.

Note that, had declarer first taken the spade finesse, East would have won and returned a heart. Declarer would then have had no way of escaping the loss of two heart tricks in addition to the black kings.

Memorial Day

Would that we could place a wreath on the grave of each of those who has given his all for our great country.

The very least we can do is to pause and reflect, in thankful and reverent appreciation, on the supreme effort that was made for us and others.

Our store is closed all day today in observance of Memorial Day.
