Wildcat Oiler For Mitchell Is Brought In

Sun No. 1 McCabe in the extreme southeast corner of Mitchell County has been completed as a wildcat discovery from the Pennsylvanian sand.

On 24 hour potential test it made 265 barrels of 45.2-gravity oil with no water. Flow was through a quarter inch choke.

Tubing pressure was 475, casing pressure was 500, and gas-oil ratio was 1,200-1.

Production came from only one set of perforations in the casing at 5,928-946 feet, which were fractured with 2,000 gallons of acid. Perforations at 5,890-916 feet, where it also showed some gas and oil, are shut off and not being produced.

It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 225-1-A-H&TC.

BORDEN COUNTY

Green No. 1 Wolf, Southeast Borden wildcat, had a drillstem test in the Lower Wolfcamp at 6,497-567 feet with tool open 45 minutes and recovered 6,000 feet salt water with no shows.

It is now drilling ahead below 6,777 feet in lime and shale, and it is going on down to test the Wolfcamp. It had previously shown for possible production when it flowed from a higher zone in the Wolfcamp.

DRILLING REPORT

Humble No. 1 Nachlinger in East Scurry near Hermleigh plugged back to 7,750 feet in the top of the Ellenburger, where it set and cemented five and one-half inch casing. It is preparing to perforate and test in the top of that formation, where it had some slight shows.

Humble No. 1-B Coleman in North Mitchell pumped 24 hours and made two barrels of oil and 18 barrels of water. It is still testing.

McFarland & Texas Crude No. 1-35 Jones in Howard County had drilled to 3,398 feet in lime. It set and cemented eight and five-eighths inch casing at 3,393 feet and will drill the plug and drill deeper.

Texaco No. 2 Fuller, North Scurry wildcat, pumped 24 hours and made 14 barrels of fluid, which was 60 per cent oil and 40 per cent water. It is still pumping to test.

Texaco No. 3 Fuller in North Scurry drilled out cement inside the casing a 7,574 feet and is preparing to perforate and test in the Strawn.

Woodward No. 1 Mahaney in Sawson drillstem tested at 7,920-8,003 feet with tool open an hour and 10 munites and recovered 60 feet slightly gas cut mud with no shows. It is now drilling at 8,064 in lime and shale.

In Scurry, Blount No. 1 Cary is drilling at 4,814 feet in lime, Louisiana Land No. 1 Howell is at 6,837 feet in lime and shale, and Southern Minerals No. 1 Huddleston is at 4,784 feet in lime and shale.

In Howard, Sun No. 3-A Jones is at 401 feet in red beds, Stanolind No. 1 Anderson is at 3,730 feet in lime and Delhi No. 1 Hamlin is drilling at 7,102 feet in lime, shale, and sand.

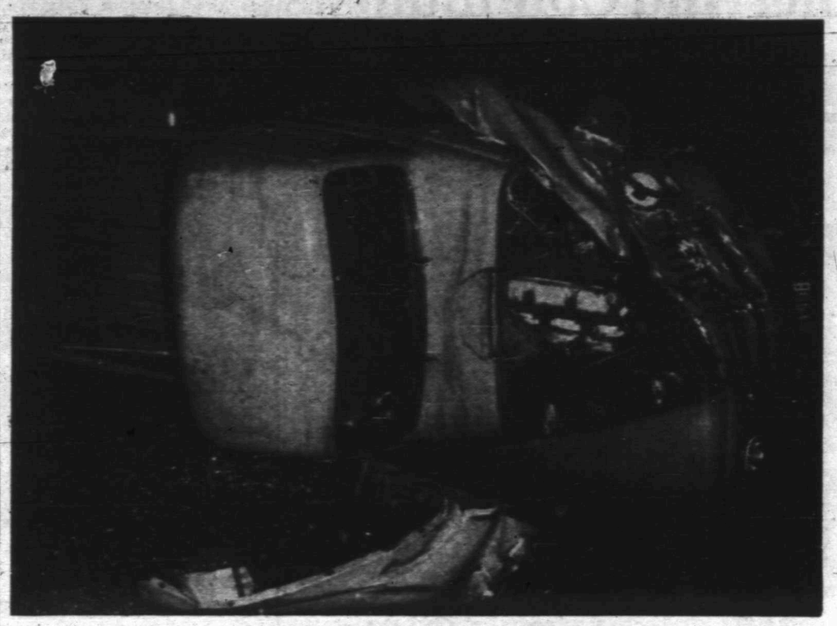

In Dawson, Vega & Universal No. 1 Fowler is at 4,682 feet in lime and shale, and Sun No. 1 Dean is at 8,522 feet in lime and shale.

In Mitchell, Humble No. 1 Cooper is at 1,634 feet, where it set and cemented nine and five-eights inch casing, El Capitan No. 1 Dixon is at 5,925 feet in lime and shale, and Sun No. 2 McCabe is drilling at 516 feet in red beds.

Fire Hits Union Hall In Town Where Trouble Causing Film Was Made

BAYARD, N. M. (AP)—Local officials today discounted suspicions of union members that a $500 fire in their union hall might have been set deliberately.

The blaze early yesterday damaged the roof and inside ceiling of the headquarters of Local 890, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers which last week was embroiled with a group of citizens over its controversial movie "Salt Of The Earth."

WRECK NEAR HERE YESTERDAY

Three persons suffered minor injuries late yesterday afternoon when the 1952 International pickup shown above and another pickup collided eight miles east of here. Another accident occurred on the same highway earlier. Driver of the vehicle pictured was O. A. Alston of California, and the driver of the other vehicle was B. F. Kimbrough of Breckenridge. Sex Maniac Sought In Deaths Of Two Little Girls, 5 And 8

SPRING VALLEY, N. Y. (AP)—Searching parties combed the 150-acre wooded grounds of a children's school here today hunting clues in the sex killing of two little girls, 5 and 8 years old.

The youngsters' bodies were found late yesterday in the snow-blanketed woodland area behind the huge institution for underprivileged children.

"The situation looks very bad," said Ramapo Police Chief Abe Stern. "We haven't found anything yet. This was definitely the deed of a sex maniac."

The older girl, Marjorie Boudreau, has been struck savagely on the head. The other, Esther Nagy, had been stabbed to death. A doctor also said there was evidence of a sexual attack.

Stern said the killer apparently had undressed his victims, assaulted them, then carefully put their clothing back on them. Both were wearing snowsuits. Only the shoes of the younger girl were missing.

RESIDENTS QUESTIONED

Police squads began a slow, arduous search of the big woods stretching out back of the two, large brick dormitories that house 144 children—looking for the stabbing weapon, the shoes or other clues.

Residents of summer homes around the woods also were being questioned.

Stern said the killer apparently enticed the two little girls into the edge of the woods, bashed the older one on the head with a rock, then assaulted the younger one.

Afterward, he stabbed the younger girl fatally, hid her body under a log, and then carried the older girl 300 yards deeper into the woods where he attacked her, Stern theorized.

INSTITUTION CHECKED

Authorities checked a number of state mental institutions in the general area, but there was no report that any inmate had escaped.

The older girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boudreau, of Staten Island, New York City, and the other was the daughter of Brown Nagy, a Bronx plumber and widower.

Nagey, at his home, was overcome by grief. Neighbors told newsmen he had sent Esther to the school—The Lakeside School, maintained and operated by The Edwin Gould Foundation for Children—because he feared she would be injured while playing in the city's streets.

Staten Island police notified Boudreau, a bulldozer operator, and his wife. Police said the Boudreaus had several children and that Boudreau currently is free in $1,000 bail on a charge of threatening his wife with a rifle last Feb. 25.

Marjorie and Esther were reported last seen alive by another small playmate, not identified, who said she was playing with the two girls on the school's playground at about 3 p.m., EST, yesterday. This third girl said she left Marjorie and Esther for a moment, then returned and saw them walking off the playground together.

When Marjorie and Esther failed to return after a half hour, teachers and the elder boys at the school organized a searching party and started into the woods around the institution.

Ramapo Township police, state police, and firemen, aided by bloodhounds, later joined the hunt.

About 5:30 p.m. Marjorie's body was found by students in the woods just off a side road. The spot is about a half mile from the school.

Marjorie's skull was fractured. Police said she apparently had been struck with a rock.

Six hours later, volunteer firemen came upon Esther's body about 300 yards in the woods from the spot where Marjorie was found. Esther had been stabbed in the back. No weapon was found.

Dr. M. J. Moses, Rockland County coroner, who examined the two bodies, said early today he found evidence of sodomy in both cases.

Ramapo Township Police Chief Abe Stern said an autopsy would be performed today at Rockland State Hospital.

Esquire Magazine Rapped By Angry Solon In House Today

AUSTIN (AP) — A representative rose up in the House today to decry "the most slanderous, vicious and wicked story ever written about Texas."

The indignation came from Rep. Marshall O. Bell, San Antonio, who took the floor on personal privilege to talk about a story on Texas in the current issue of a national magazine (Esquire).

Members listened intently, twice interrupted with laughter at excerpts Bell read from the story, and applauded when he finished.

Bell's speech came at the beginning of today's session.

Legislators came back from a week end respite to a Senate hearing on two anti-Communist bills.

Another anti-Red bill, one to force state employes to testify about their Communism, was introduced in the House.

Bell told the House that he thought they might ask the state attorney general to see what proper action might be taken concerning the Texas story.

Its author, Bernard Dorrity, wrote that Texas soil is poor, grazing lands are worthless, cattle are scrawny, oil and gas are almost gone, the children suffer from malnutrition and the state is running out of water.

"It reflects on the honor and integrity of every Texas citizen," Bell said. "Texans like to rib and can take ribbing, but I have failed to find one bit of humor in this story."

Bell is author of the Red control bills that have been passed by the House. They are designed to make the present law easier to enforce and take some pressure off persons who may have unwittingly become linked with a Communist front organization.

The new measure is by Rep. Charles Hancock of Nacogdoches.

Hancock's bill would forbid payment of a state salary, or any form of state compensation, to a person who refuses to testify before any court, grand jury or legislative investigating committee on his Communist connections or affiliations.

Malenkov Sounds Note For Future At Stalin's Funeral

MOSCOW (AP)—The body of Joseph V. Stalin was entombed today in Lenin's mausoleum on Red Square after his successor, Soviet Premier Georgi M. Malenkov, in a funeral oration said his new government's foreign policy is one of peace.

Speaking beside the bier of the dead leader of world communism, Malenkov declared in ringing tones that the Soviet Union desires international co-operation and business ties with all countries, and that the chief task of his government is to prevent a new world war.

Malenkov called on the Soviet people, also for an "uncompromising struggle against external and internal enemies." It is their "sacred duty," he told the Russians, to "strengthen the Soviet armed forces and maintain their readiness against enemy attacks."

His words were echoed by his chief deputy premier, Lavrenti P. Beria, who said the Soviet soldiers "have modern equipment and are able to ward off any aggression."

"Our enemies think our loss will bring disarray to our ranks. They will be disappointed," he declared.

The No. 3 man in the new government, V. M. Molotov, was the third funeral speaker.

Stalin's coffin was moved on a gun carriage to the flower-banked Red Square just before 10 a.m. today, Moscow time (2 a.m., EST) from the Hall of Columns of the House of Trade Unions, where it had lain in state since Friday, the day after his death.

There millions of sorrowing Soviet citizens—men, women and children—had filed past the bier to say farewell to the man who in 29 years at the head of the Soviet government had become a god to them.

A vast throng stood silent as military bands played Chopin's Funeral March and the cortege made its slow way to the rostrum at the mausoleum. On the rostrum were party and government leaders, top Communists from Russia's allies—including Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai, and diplomatic representatives.

The top leaders of the Soviet Communist party and the government carried the coffin to the rostrum. After the orations, they slowly descended from the platform, bearing the coffin to the mausoleum, as the Soviet anthem was played.

At noon, the hour of interment, every steam whistle in the Soviet Union blew for five minutes and the big cities across the country rocked with artillery salutes in Stalin's memory.

Then, as the nation's leaders returned to the platform troops of the Moscow garrison and of the funeral cortege marched past the mausoleum, paying last honors.

The bodies of Lenin and Stalin will lie in the mausoleum until construction of a vast new pantheon — a shrine of Communist "immortals"—is built for them and for other dead Soviet leaders.

Malenkov's oration was his first pronouncement of his new government's program. He said he supports the doctrine of Lenin and Stalin that capitalist and Socialist countries can long live in peaceful "coexistence and competition" with one another.

He called also for the further strengthening of the Soviet state and its armed forces, and of friendship between the Soviet nationalities, with Communist China, and with the "peoples' democracies" allied with the Soviet Union.

His government and the Communist party, he continued, must and will develop Soviet industry and agriculture and improve the material, cultural and living standards of the people.

The new Premier demanded party unity on the home front and an "implacable" struggle against internal and foreign enemies.

"The Soviet Union protects peace, is against war and is for friendly relations with peoples," he asserted. "The peoples want peace. We must avert bloodshed and secure peace. We must avert war and live in peace with all countries. We consider the policy of peace among all nations is correct and proper."

Malenkov concluded:

"We have everything needed to build a Communist society.

"No force exists in the world to arrest our advance to communism.

"Farewell—our dear leader.

"Glory to Stalin!"

Beria described the Soviet Communist party as "united and unshaken" and said the Soviet people "approve our internal and foreign policy." The head of the state's new Interior Ministry and of its internal security forces promised co-operation with Communist China, and the peoples' democracies, and said the government "will strengthen friendly relations with workers in the capitalist and colonial countries."

"We are friends of the heroic Korean people," he added.

Of Russia's armed might, he declared: "Let no one think our enemies can rout us. Our soldiers have modern equipment and are able to ward off any aggression."

Molotov, the third member of the top government triumvirate, repeated Malenkov's call for vigilance against possible attack and "against spies and agents of the imperialist power."

Good Rains Cover West Texas' Stricken Areas

Snyder Gets 1.05 Inch Of Needed Rain

Rains, which appeared to be general throughout Scurry and Borden Counties, began to fall slowly yesterday and continued intermittently until this morning.

Skies were overcast and mist was still falling this morning, indicating that more moisture could fall. Up to 7:30 o'clock this morning, a total of 1.05 inches had fallen in Snyder.

The rain yesterday and last night, the largest one rain since last September 22, when 1.5 inches fell, brought the year's total to 1.71, much more than the total for the same period during the last two years.

Up to this time in 1952, a total of 1.1 inches had fallen, while only .74 of an inch had fallen by this time in 1951.

The March total rainfall rose to 1.08 inches, compared to the March average of .94. Last March .8 of an inch fell, and the 1951 March total was .3 of an inch.

Although there was no report on the watershed into Lake Thomas, there was little hope that much water went into the lake because of the slowness of the moisture, most of which soaked into the dry ground.

Two highway accidents were reported as occurring during last night's rain, the cause of neither was directly attributed to the rain.

Unofficial reports of rainfall showed that about 1.01 inches had fallen at Ira, 1.5 near the county line west of Snyder, .7 of an inch at Gail in Borden County, .6 of an inch near the North Scurry line, and more than an inch at Pyron and at the Lion Oil Camp southwest of town.

Temperatures were high, with a high reading of 53 yesterday and a low of only 40, which was the reading at 7:30 o'clock this morning, according to Mrs. D. P. Strayhorn, official weather observer.

NO RELIGIOUS RITES FOR JOSEPH STALIN

LONDON (AP)—The funeral of Joseph Stalin today included no spoken prayers or religious rites.

Leaders of all religions in Moscow had said public prayers for the Soviet dictator. Priests of the Russian Orthodox Church, headed by Alexei, patriarch of Moscow and all Russia, had been among those filing past his bier in the Hall of Columns.

But in keeping with Communist doctrine that "religion is the opium of the masses," the church took no part in the burial rites today.

New Resolution On Agreements Seen By Taft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said today Congress may try to solve the impasse on an anti-ensalvement resolution by Democratic Presidents.

Instead, the Senate floor leader told newsmen, a substitute resolution may be drafted which would condemn Russia for enslaving peoples.

Taft spoke with newsmen after he and congressional leaders met at the White House with President Eisenhower. He did not report Eisenhower's views on the matter but said a new approach to the resolution was discussed.

He said members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee are "exploring the possibility" of taking up a resolution differing considerably from the one originally submitted by Eisenhower but amended by the committee.

The original resolution condemned Russia's perversion of World War II secret agreements so as to destroy the liberties of free peoples.

Republicans, with Taft playing a leading role, tacked on a committee amendment declaring the resolution does not mean Congress is passing on the validity of the Yalta and other wartime agreements themselves.

Democrats, balking against GOP proposals to change the resolution, claimed to have flatly rejected two compromise offers and said they would stand pat against any others.

Rather than risk sharp division on the issue, GOP leaders said privately they would prefer to let the matter die.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee tomorrow will officially recall its version of the resolution, recommended for Senate passage last week by an 8-6 vote.

Atomic Gun To Be Fired Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army and Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) will make military and scientific history with the test-firing of the world's first atomic artillery sometime during the next few weeks.

A joint AEC-Pentagon announcement over the week end said "a projectile with an atomic warhead" will be shot from one of the Army's new 280-millimeter, mobile cannons during the forthcoming series of nuclear tests at the Nevada proving grounds.

The guns themselves have been in existence for at least two years. They were given public demonstrations, firing conventional ammunition, last year. But until now there has been no atomic ammunition to pass to the artillerymen.

Scientists from the AEC's Los Alamos laboratory and Army ordnance experts apparently have succeeded in packing an atomic explosive into a shell about 11 inches in diameter—the approximate bore of the big guns.

The announcement said the Nevada test would not be public.

GREATEST LOVE STORY EVER TOLD

LUENEBURG, Germany (AP)—A nine-foot python in the local zoo was fed a live pigeon for his dinner recently. The python refused the offer and the pigeon made no attempt to flee. Now they have become fast friends and sleep with the python coiled gently about the bird.

Red Guerrilla Is Given Life

IPOH, Perak, Malaya (AP) — The Sultan of Perak today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed by a British judge on Lee Meng, the Chinese woman guerrilla whom Communist Hungary recently tried to save by bargaining with the British government.

The tiny, sullen 25-year-old ringleader of Red terrorism in Malaya had been sentenced to hang on a charge of carrying a grenade, a capital offense under the state of emergency here.

Her case was taken up by world communism several weeks ago when Hungary offered to release an imprisoned British businessman, Edgar Sanders, in return for her freedom.

British Prime Minister Winston Churchill tentatively turned down the offer, saying, "There can be no question of bartering a human life." He added, however, that this did not rule out further consideration once the question of clemency appeals had been decided by the Malayan authorities.

Sanders, serving a 13-year prison term in Hungary on espionage charges, was convicted along with an American, Robert Vogeler, whose release was negotiated by the U. S. government two years ago.

San Angelo Gets Almost 5 Inches

(By The Associated Press)

Healing rains bathed drought-scarred Texas Monday, and the sickest sections—where cracks ran deep in the rangeland—got most of the medicine.

The rains began Sunday night in thirsty West Texas. The Sunday punch continued brewing and spread eastward Monday.

Only the Rio Grande Valley and extreme East Texas had received no rain. "They'll get some, a forecaster said.

In some sections of West Texas, the rain gave ranchers their first hopes for green spring pastures in more than three years.

Nearly five inches fell at San Angelo, and flooded streets looked like rivers of gold to people who hadn't seen anything like it in 29 months of drought.

San Angelo's two city lakes—one of them a mere dustbed Sunday, the other only a pond—filled to the brim, and the city opened up the taps and threw away its laws restricting use of water. At Coleman, Hord's Creek Lake caught 75 million gallons of water.

But the rain didn't help the state's biggest city water shortage—at Dallas. Light rains did little more than dampen the watershed of shunken Lake Dallas, main source for the city's half million or more water users.

Across West Texas—from the border town of Del Rio to Lubbock in the South Plains—there was a varying amount of rain but a similar story: Prospects for pasture and planting the best in long, desolate months.

The dripping weather front hung from El Paso east beyond Dallas and from the Rio Grande to the Panhandle. The weather bureau said the rains were beginning to play out in West Texas but would continue intermittently through the day. East Texas, where rain wasn't so badly needed, got lighter showers, most of them measuring less than an inch.

Only Friday the Soil Conservation Service had said the "worst drought in Southwestern history" still gripped the Western half of Texas.

Louis P. Merrill, regional director of the Soil Conservation Service, said in Fort Worth the rains would help farmers as well as stockmen, providing moisture for spring planting in many places. The only thing that could spoil the effects of the moisture, he said, would be high west or southwest winds which would dry out the land and caused unprotected soil to blow.

"We can be mighty thankful" for the rains, Merrill said.

It was too early Monday to tell whether the rain was a complete cure in any section. But—

The Del Rio section, gasping in its 38th month of drought, received rains ranging from one inch to three inches. Normal rainfall for March is .93 inch. Ranchers said they thought "every bit" of the rain soaked slowly into the ground overnight. They were leery of calling in a drought-breaker. But "it's certainly a dinger, " said one.

San Angelo received 4.62 inches of rain—the heaviest blow so far at the West Texas drought.

Big Spring has been in a state of drought for 30 months. That section received 1.74 inches of rain in the Sunday-Monday splashing.

It was the Midland area's first general rain in two years, amounting to more than an inch out in the country. Midland's people hadn't seen rain in so long the slow, steady fall seemed like a downpour.

Other rainfall measurements: Snyder 1.05 inch, Junction 1.18 Hillsboro 1.22, Waco 1.04, Corsicana .92, Midland .58, Fort Worth .38, Dallas .41, Marfa .20, Abilene .37, Mineral Wells .32, Presidio .35, and Dalhart .16, Cotulla .05, Tyler .03, Wichita Falls .06, Laredo .05, Victoria .01, Houston .01, El Paso .02, San Antonio .04, Amarillo .13, and Austin .05.

Childress, College Station and Galveston got a trace.

Rain was still falling at Bryan, Waco, Dallas, San Antonio, Victoria, Amarillo, Childress, Wichita Falls, Big Spring, Abilene, San Angelo, Mineral Wells, Fort Worth, Wink, Austin, Cotulla, and Del Rio.

Lubbock, a drought area of 34½ months standing, got .68 inch, just about enough to plaster down the dust.

As the rain spread eastward, it continued to fall lightly in West Texas.

Fog and drizzle drew a gray veil over areas where the rain was rading away.

The forecast called for occasional rain through Monday night in both West and East Texas.

San Angelo had been one of the hardest hit areas. Its present water supply, Lake Nasworthy, dwindled to a a pond and a new reservoir, North Concho Lake, hadn't been able to catch enough water to settle the dust in the lake bottom. Emergency water wells pitted the grassless lawns of hundreds of homes in the city. Bottle water distributors did a booming business.

Early Monday both city lakes were rising as flood waters poured into them from tributary creeks and streams.

Streets filled curb to curb and motorists were forced to detour low places. Water flowed over the approach to 12 mile bridge over Spring Creek southwest of San Angelo and the road to Lake Nasworthy was under water.

Spring Creek, which feeds Lake Nasworthy, rose five feet shortly after 3.30 inches of rain about 27 miles southwest of San Angelo.

Temperatures dropped slightly as the wind shifted to the north behind the slow moving front. The high temperature Sunday was 80 degrees at El Paso and Presidio.

Investigation Of Shortages In Korea May Include Whole War

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional investigation into reported ammunition shortages appeared today to be expanded to take in other phases of the war in Korea—but not the whole war.

Democratic senators made it plain they will fight any effort to expose what they regard as military secrets to public view in a broad-scale inquiry such as that suggested by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio).

And Sen. Knowland of California, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee in the Senate, said yesterday, "It would not be profitable at this time to have a general invesigation of the Korean War."

His statement, on an NBC television program, brought to light a difference between two of the top GOP figures in the Senate. Taft is Republican floor leader.

"We should concentrate on ammunition," Knowland said, "and not expose our hand with a general investigation."

Senators Sparkman (D-Ala) and Green (D-RI) deplored in separate interviews any possible effort by Congress to influence military decisions or, as they put it, "to run the war."

Taft said he thinks it might be well for the lawmakers to investigate not only the ammunition situation—as the Senate Armed Services Committee already is doing—but also the circumstances surrounding truce talks and the handling of Communist prisoners.

Corpus Mayor Goes On Trial

CUERO, Tex. (AP)—Mayor Leslie Wasserman of Corpus Christi went on trial in district court today charged with taking a $20,000 bribe from A. W. Gregg, Houston businessman.

The trial opened with arguments by defense attorneys to quash the indictment. A 50-man jury panel was dismissed during arguments until this afternoon by Dist. Judge Howard P. Green.

Attorneys for Wasserman argued the indictments are defective.

Wasserman was indicted on two counts on a charge that he accepted $20,000 from Gregg to use his influence in gaining city of Corpus Christi lake leases for Gregg. Land covered by the leases is in Jim Wells, Live Oak and San Patricio Counties.

Wasserman was originally indicted on two other counts; both of which have been dismissed.

Dulles Sees Increased Chance For Peace With Stalin Dead

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the death of Stalin had increased the world's chance for peace.

Dulles, in his first news conference at the U. N. since becoming secretary of state, said Stalin's death, however, would not bring any changes in U. S. policy.

He said the U. S. would continue to follow the course it has in the cold war, but that, with Stalin dead, that course would have more chance of success.

He told a group of correspondents representing countries from all over the world that Stalin had put a damper on man's aspirations for peace and the enjoyment of human rights, and said he doubted any successor to the Red dictator would have the prestige to do so as effectively.

Dulles said the death of Stalin had removed a very serious obstacle to the realization of the peaceful aims set forth in the U. N. charter and those countries supporting those aims could now achieve success and greater realization of U. N. aims. These views were given in response to questions.

"The Eisenhower era begins as the Stalin era ends," he said in a prepared statement.

"For ten years the world has been dominated by the malignant power of Stalin. He capitalized on the prestige which was won by the Red army defenders of Stalingrad, and when the Red armies moved into Eastern Europe, Stalin used them to establish his Communist satellite regimes. In Asia, Stalin's plans, laid 25 years ago, achieved a dramatic success through the Communist civil war which brought 450 million Chinese under Stalin's sway.

"Now Stalin is dead. He cannot bequeath to anyone his prestige.

"As Stalin dies, General Eisenhower, the man who liberated Western Europe, has become President of our great republic, with a prestige unmatched in history. A new era begins, one in which the guiding spirit is liberty, not enslavement, and when human relations will be those of fraternity, not one-man domination. Then, in the words of our charter preamble, the nations, large and small, may come to enjoy equal rights and dignity and peace."

STALIN LIES IN STATE

Soviet Premier Joseph V. Stalin lies in state in the Hall of Columns of Moscow's House of Trade Unions. Banked by flowers, the coffin rests on a high platform in the great hall during the second of the four days of official mourning. The body of the Soviet leader was on view for the public.

Big Six Of Charity Groups Opposed To Combined Drives

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—Americans have made charity a multi-million dollar busines.

Good times and high employment have created a fertile field for fund raising, but meantime a bitter indecisive battle is being waged over two sharply conflicting ideas on fund raising.

In 1952, Americans contributed $4,3000,000,000 to philanthropy, including hospitals, educational and religious institutions, according to a recent estimate by John Prince Jones and Company, a funds raising organization.

Last year, joint community drives raised between 260 and 265 million dollars an estimate by the Community Chests and Councils of America based on reports from about 40 per cent of the communities. National Information Bureau statistics show that six of the largest national agencies raised over 170 million dollars more in separate fund drives.

In the organized competition for the charity dollar, one side violently champions single - contribution campaigns with many organizations sharing the proceeds. It argues that multiple overlapping appeals are a nuisance to the contributor and the volunteer solicitor alike and in addition are a waste of money.

This side sees the joint community drive, once a year, as the solution to money-raising problems of worthwhile agencies which may not have dramatic appeal. It points out that unified administration of fund raising protects the contributor by screening out the unworthy and by preventing wasted money in frivolous projects.

On the other side are the proponents of separate appeals, led by six large national organizations —National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, American Red Cross, American Heart Association, American Cancer Society, National Tuberculosis Association and the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults. They prefer to—and the polio foundation insists on —raising their own funds in separate drives.

The March of Dimes campaign last year raised 41 million dollars and expects this year's total to exceed that. It flatly refuses to get into what it calls "catch - all" drives. It wants to preserve its identity and to pinpoint objectives. It believes that contributors want to give money to specific projects and the public soon loses interest in a generalized appeal. It also wants complete responsibility and control in the spending of the money it raises.

The other five agencies of the Big Six agree generally with that position, but sometimes participate in joint appeals, to varying degress.

Meanwhile, there has been increasing discussion over the numbers of charity fund drives. Each of the Big Six and the community chests has appropriated a period of the year for its own fund raising. But other state and local and national drives are piled around and on top of these, even in communities where efforts have been made to make its major charities a single, once-a-year package.

Today some 1,600 communities ranging from populations of less than 10,000 to the largest cities have some sort of joint campaigns.

Since 1930 most community chests of the nation have reached their annual fund goals. Campaigns held in 1951 for 1952 spending resulted in 241 million dollars which represented 93.8 of their collective financial aims.

Big Six results also have been impressive. In addition to the March of Dimes' 41 million dollars, Red Cross raised $83,500,000; cancer, $16,500,000; tuberculosis, almost 22 millions; crippled children, $6,700,000, and heart, $6,-700,000.

Something new has been added to joint fund raising in the postwar years. Community chests originally were set up as local "give once" campaigns. Then the nationally promoted campaigns made it evident that survival of the chest idea depended upon broadening appeals. Five years ago the "united" fund emerged. The word was used when one or more of the Big Six joined in a local drive.

Taylor Given 3-Year Pact In Hobbs District

W. R. Taylor has been given a new three year contract as superintendent of the Hobbs Independent Consolidated Schools.

Taylor has taught 16 years in Fisher and Scurry County schools and is now completing his fifth year as superintendent of the district, of which part is in Scurry County.

During Taylor's time as superintendent, a new gym has been constructed, the softball and football fields were lighted, and the heating system was replaced by modern butane units.

Included in the Hobbs district's territory is the newly-developed Claytonville oil field, which will raise the school valuation from one and one-half million dollars to about three and one-half million. The district includes 240 square miles, served entirely by school buses. Twelve teachers are employed at the school.

Taylor holds BA and MA degrees from Texas Tech.

Three men have filed for election to the board of trustees. For re-election to two-year terms are David Williams, head of the board, and P. M. Burnett, vice-president. Ed Neves is the third candidate. Martin Burnett, whose term is expiring, has not yet filed for re-election.

The board re-elected six teachers and will name other teachers when it knows the exact number needed for next year.

Those re - elected were Mrs. Lolett Helms, primary principal and teacher; Mrs. Clarence Anderson and Mrs. Mackie Ware, elementary school teachers; W. C. Hodges, coach and high school principal; Bruce Williams, agriculture; and Joanne Logan, homemaking.

Changes For T-H Readied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said today after a White House conference the chances are good for House-Senate-Administration agreement on about 15 changes in the Taft-Hartley labor law, some of them "substantial."

Taft told reporters it was generally agreed at today's meeting that the best approach is for both Senate and House labor committees to complete hearings on proposed changes before any final bills are drafted.

Taft said the labor-management advisory committee set up by the administration in the hope of reaching agreement on amendments to the labor law apparently has given up any idea of getting both sides together.

He said Secretary of Labor Durkin now feels the problem is one to be handled by the labor committees of the Congress.

Baby Born On Bus In Arkansas Yesterday

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Thomas Fowler Sargent made his entrance into the world on a bus yesterday.

When a passenger told Robert Gartland, driver on the bus bound from Hot Springs to Little Rock, that a baby was being born on his bus he speeded up for a 25-mile dash to a Little Rock hospital.

During the trip Dr. E. Feldman, a retired physician from Millington, Tenn., unwound the umbilical cord which tangled around the baby's head and calmed the mother, Mrs. Linda Sargent, 44, mother of nine other children.

Feldman said, "Nothing new to me. I was a country doctor for 40 years—delivered 'em in barns, wagons and what have you."

Hospital attendants say mother and son are doing fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson, route No. 3, have had as guests their daughter, Mrs. Donald E. McGlaun and daughter, Cathy, of Wichita Falls.

Little To Contrast Regimes Of Huey Long And Communists

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—By the time he was shot to death in 1935 Huey Long had established perhaps the most complete dictatorship that ever existed in any of the 48 states.

While he lived he completely controlled the men around him. But it became clear, from what happened after his death, that some of the most important of them had seen in him only a gravy train and a free ride to power.

They had no discipline except his and little in common except the desire for money. They lacked the kind of cement of the spirit—of firm belief and cause—that might have held them together on a single track.

When his restraining hand was suddenly released they went berserk, so crudely that many landed in jail as common thieves. And the machine was smashed.

In the present wishful thinking that Stalin's heirs will also somehow go berserk—not in a grab for money, but for power—it seems to be forgotten that these cogs in the Soviet machine have been operating all their lives under:

1. A discipline which, while self-imposed, was also imposed by Stalin and the party. Although Stalin is gone, the party remains. A real kinship of the kind—Marx-Leninism—is a cement that has held, and probably will continue to hold, them together.

If Malenkov and the men closest to him, like Molotov and Beria, have a furious internal struggle—and there is absolutely nothing in sight to suggest such a thing—it probably will be over program and tactics, not over power just for power's sake.

Molotov, for instance, is 62, Malenkov 51. Stalin was 44 when he took the reins at Lenin's death. Under Stalin the Communists had an uninterrupted leadership for 29 years which gave them enormous stability and continuity.

At 62 Molotov has reached the point where a life expectancy is unreliable. True, he was Stalin's old and trusted friend, a real Bolshevik from the old days, not a comparative Johnny - come-lately like Malenkov or Beria.

While faithful Molotov might have seemed Stalin's likely choice to succeed him, his age alone may have ruled him out. Under Malenkov the party could expect a long leadership uninterrupted by death.

And while Beria himself may have wanted the job, there is no evidence for thinking so. Nor is there any evidence that he might try to grab the throne.

While Stalin's famous struggle with Trotsky is frequently spoken of as a contest of power, its roots were in a difference of opinion on internal and external tactics. Both men wanted world communism. They differed on how to obtain it.

The present men of the Kremlin may cut one another's throats in a contest over whose plan is the right one for guiding the party. But that's different from a struggle for power for power's sake.

Kent Election Goes To Trial

A panel of 36 men had been summoned for selection of a jury today to hear issues in the dispute of the Kent County seat election contest.

The contest arose out of one vote's difference in an election called on a petition to move the county seat from Clairemont to Jayton. The case has been pending since last April.

Vote in the election was 610 for moving the county seat to Jayton and 308 for keeping it at Clairemont. A two-thirds majority, or 611 votes, was required for the proposal to carry.

At a preliminary hearing in Clairemont last June, District Judge Ben Chapman appointed Joe A. Williams, court reporter, as commissioner to take depositions of Kent voters in regard to place of residence and balloting in the election. Some 115 depositions were taken at the request of counsel for both sides. All ballot boxes used in the election have been held intact and are stored in the vault in the district clerk's office at Haskell.

The petition was filed last March by Wilson, Wilson & Logan, San Angelo attorneys representing Jayton. Interested Clairemont parties retained the Abilene firm of Scarborough, Yates, Scarborough and Black as counsel representing Clairemont in upholding election results.

NUDE DANCE IN GRAVEYARD SEEN AT GUNPOINT

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Police were skeptical of Ray E. Reed's story that a woman held him at gunpoint, then danced in the nude among the tombstones of a graveyard in the moonlight.

But, checking on Reed's information, they found it was all true.

Reed saw a pretty brunette in a stalled car and went to her rescue, but she displayed a gun and advised him: "Be a good little boy and you won't be hurt." She marched him to the Loma Vista Cemetery and there did her dance. When she finished, she told the 24-year-old Reed he could leave.

"I was horrified, and I left hurriedly."

Officers traced the car's owner through license plates but Reed declined to prosecute. The woman said only that she was "celebrating."

Two Accidents East Of Here

A Carlsbad, N.M., woman suffered a serious knee injury late yesterday afternoon in one of two highway accidents near here in which five other persons suffered minor injuries.

Seriously hurt was Mrs. Velma Angie Skinner, 31, driver of a 1952 Plymouth sedan which overturned 16 miles east of here on the Roby highway after striking a culvert. Her husband, Chris G. Skinner, 52, and their daughter, Linda Jean, 9, suffered minor injuries. Their two other children were not injured.

E. W. Green, highway patrolman, said their car struck the culvert after Mrs. Skinner lost control of it when it ran off the highway on the north side. They were traveling west. The injured were brought to the hospital here in a passenger car driven by Cecil Lynch of Lamesa, Green said. The accident occurred at 5:15 o'clock.

Suffering minor injuries in another accident eight miles east of here on the Roby highway at 6:50 o'clock yesterday afternoon were Buford Hester Kimbrough, 28, Breckenridge, and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Astor Alston of Hawthorne, Cal.

Green said Kimbrough's 1952 Ford pickup apparently slipped off the pavement, then skidded sideways on the highway in the path of Alston's 1952 International pickup, which overturned after the collision. With Alstons were their two children, neither hurt. With Kimbrough was his three-year-old son, also uninjured.

LOST 50 POUNDS WITH THIS HOME RECIPE

Here is a sensible way to help take off ungainly weight, that is not based on the rigid diet and "vitamin" plan. You eat all you want, but you eat LESS. Sounds like double talk, but it isn't. It definitely stops you eating more than the body requires for the energy you spend. At the same time it dehydrates and eliminates.

Just get a four-ounce bottle of Barcentrate at your druggist. Pour contents into a pint bottle or jar and add grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. In the improved Barcentrate carton, in addition to the liquid, you will find a supply of appetite curb tablets which help lessen the taste buds which lie on the surface of the tongue. Dissolve tablets on tongue as per directions on labels. If the very first bottle of Barcentrate doesn't show you the simple, easy way to take off ungainly weight, return the empty bottle for your money back.

Mayonnaise Cake Offered By Visitor

Mrs. Mae Hempfling who recently came to stay with her daughter, Mrs. Dillard Pope of 3782 Avenue V, brought with her a recipe for mayonnaise cake.

The cake is especially suited for packed lunches since the mayonnaise ingredient assures it of keeping moist, Mrs. Hempfling said. She also pointed out that the substitution for eggs, milk and shortening would make it a little cheaper.

MAYONNAISE CAKE
1 cup mayonnaise
1 cup sugar
2 cups flour
1 cup warm water
2 teaspoons soda
2 teaspoons vanilla
¼ cup cocoa

Cream sugar and mayonnaise. Mix soda and water and add alternately with flour and cocoa. Stir in vanilla.

The icing may be either powdered or cooked. For the powdered one Mrs. Hempfling mixes amounts of cream, powdered sugar, butter, flavoring. The amount of sugar varies with the tastes of the baker, Mrs. Hempfling said. Either vanilla, chocolate or lemon flavoring may be used, she added.

I would like to know how to combine oysters with eggs into some kind of a main dish. G.

For an Oyster Souffle you will need 1 pint oysters, 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, dash nutmeg and 3 eggs, separated.

Drain and chop oysters. Melt butter, blend in flour, add milk and bring to boiling point, stirring constantly. Cook three minutes. Add oysters, seasonings and beaten egg yolks. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into oyster mixture. Pour into greased casserole and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 30 minutes or until brown, Serves. Six.

Several years ago several of the members of my club used to serve marlow on the refreshment plate. I don't know whether this dessert dish was a fad or not, but I am unable to find a recipe for any sort of marlow and have decided I want to make it. E. K.

The recipe below for Banana Apricot Marlow takes more time than some persons like to spend cooking, which may explain why you don't hear of the recipes so often. Use the following ingredients:
8 marshmallows
2 tablespoons apricot juice from stewed apricots
1 cup mashed ripe bananas
1 cup heavy cream
½ cup apricot puree
Dash of salt
1 tablespoon sugar

Combine marshmallows and apricot juice in sauce pan. Heat slowly, folding over and over, until marshmallows are half melted. Remove from heat and continue folding until mixture is smooth and fluffy. Fold in bananas, apricot puree, salt and sugar. Turn into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and chill, with indicator at coldest setting, until mixture begins to freeze. Turn into a chilled bowl and beat well. Whip cream until thick but not stiff. Fold into marshmallow - banana mixture. Return to freezing tray and freeze, with indicator at coldest setting. Serves 6 to 8.

Ambassador Luce Is Facing Big Problems At New Post

ROME (AP) - Clare Boothe Luce, erstwhile journalist, playwright and politician, has a big job as the new United States ambassador to Italy.

As such, she will be the boss of all U. S. government operations here—the embassy, the big Mutual Security Agency, the Military Advisory Group, eight consulates and nine U. S. information centers.

She will be the commander in chief of 600 Americans and 550 Italians. As a femininist, she will be pleased to learn eight of her officers are women.

She will run diplomatic relations between the U. S. and one of its most important allies. She will have no diplomatic relations with the Vatican. The Vatican has made it clear official representation is a must before there are diplomatic contacts and the U. S. has no official representation at the Vatican.

Mrs. Luce will be ambassador—not ambassadress. The embassy already has briefed newsmen on that.

Socially Mrs. Luce will take precedence over any other American in Italy. When her husband, Henry Luce, the publisher of Time and Life, visits here, he will find invitations are addressed:

"Ambassador and Mr. Luce."

Mrs. Luce will live in a government-owned house which cost $840-336 in 1948. Built at the end of the 17th Century by Cardinal Consalvi it has such extensive gardens, they once were used as a small farm.

The house—officially known as Villa Taverna—now requires some 14 servants. Retiring Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker reduced the staff to that number from about 21.

The embassy itself is Villa Margherita, purchased by the U. S. government in 1946 for $1,252,000 The many agencies and offices spill into the Palazzo Grande (now called the Piombino wing), the consulate and Boncampagni buildings (twin villas), and the new wing.

The offices are located off the smart Via Veneto, one of the oldest parts of Rome. The site was a famous meeting place of wealthy Romans in the first and second centuries.

Historically, the embassy buildings are so important the State Department's foreign buildings section put out a 40 page slick paper brochure to describe them and their works of art.

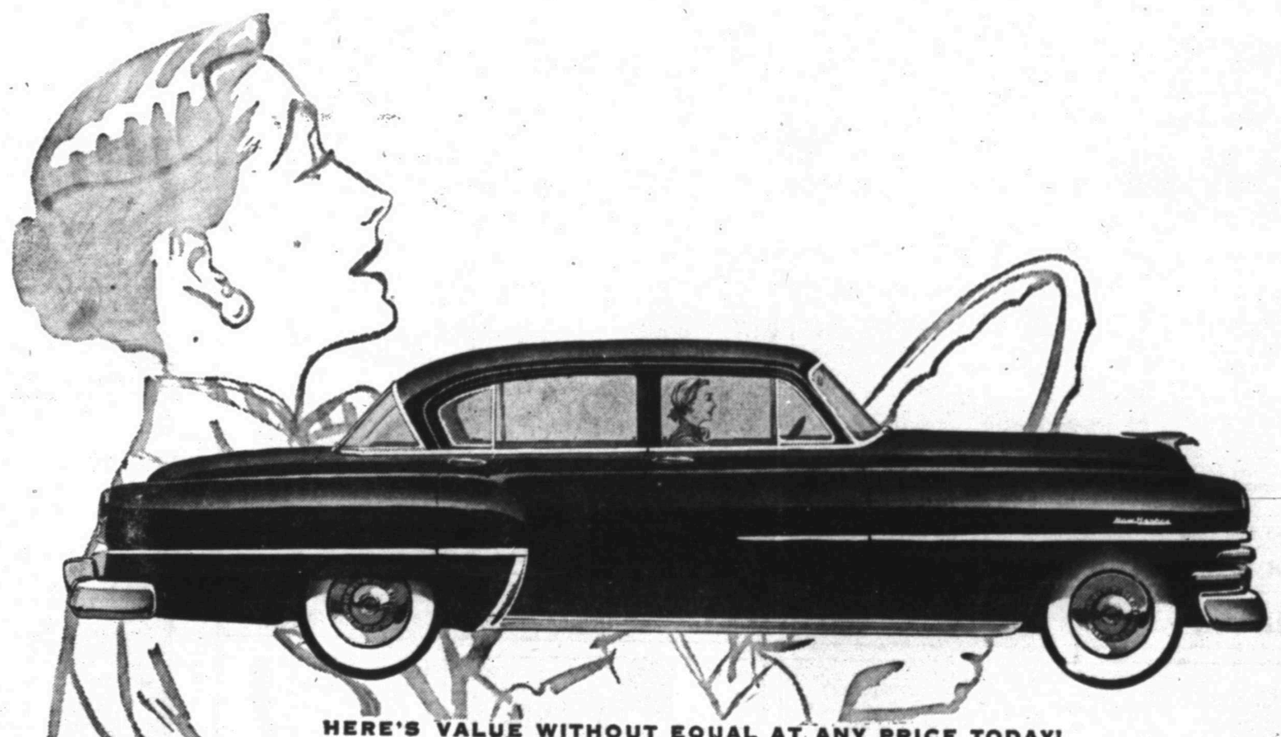

In fairness, the embassy emphasizes that the money used to purchase Villa Taverna and the embassy buildings was of the "wooden nickle" variety. Italy bought up large quantities of war surplus material on the condition the U. S. spend the funds in Italy and did not ask for dollars. It was part of this multimillion-dollar fund which was used to buy the diplomatic housing.

Mrs. Luce is no stranger to Italy. As congresswoman from Connecticut, she probably spent more time with the U. S. Fifth Army during the war than any other member of Congress. She was a frequent visitor to the front with an uncanny ability to drive for hours over dusty roads in a jeep and descend with her blonde hair still smooth and her specially tailored uniform immaculate.

As in most Latin countries, Italian women in practice do not have the full status of their American sisters. Despite official denials and public statements welcoming Mrs. Luce's appointment, it was not greeted with whole-hearted enthusiasm by many Italians. Now that Mrs. Luce's accomplishments are better known, the appointment is more popular.

THE ADVENTURES OF PATSY

STARS BOOST RICHARDS' HOPES

Manager Paul Richards (center) of the Chicago White Sox talks at the club's spring training camp in El Centro, Calif., with two of the American League's top stars obtained in winter trades, Ferris Fain (left) and Vern Stephens. Fain, a first baseman acquired from the Philadelphia Athletics, batted .327 to lead the league last year. Stephens, obtained from the Boston Red Sox, isnt as potent a hitter, but Richards hopes his skill as a third baseman, coupled with Fain's big bat, will convert the team into a pennant contender.

Saigh Says Goodby To Cards As Anheuser-Busch Takes Over

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Staff

Fred Saigh and the St. Louis Cardinals officially parted company today when the former owner of the Redbirds left their St. Petersburg camp for St. Louis to turn the club over to August Busch.

Saigh, who is scheduled to start a prison sentence for income tax evasion May 4, sold the club to Busch, head of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Company, two weeks ago.

He stayed with the team in St. Petersburg, Fla., until the very end and before leaving gave the players a short talk.

"This is the last time I'll see you as owner of the Cardinals," he said. "I regret very much having to leave you. My sentiments will always be with you and I want you to play as hard for the new owners as you would for me. The organization I am leaving is far better and stronger than the one I inherited.

"You are playing for one of the greatest managers in the business, Eddie Stanky is a players' manager, not a management manager. I hope he will always be that way. He is always for you. He is the kind who fights for his players."

Said Stanky:

"I'm terribly sorry to see him leave. He was wonderful to me. He was the best boss I ever worked for."

Thus ended the dapper little attorney's association with baseball, probably forever. Before he bought the Cards with Steve Hannagan in 1947, he had no experience in the game whatsoever. He bought out the former postmaster general in 1949.

Before Saigh talked to the players, the Cards dropped a 5-2 Grapefruit League decision to the New York Yankees, in the presence of Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick. Yank Manager Casey Stengel used most of his regulars. The New Yorkers scored all their runs off Harvey Haddix. Both Card tallies were unearned, coming as a result of an error by Billy Martin.

Pitchers showed best in the second day of the exhibition season, with Johnny Lindell, the former Yankee outfielder, making a comeback as a knuckleball specialist, going the distance for the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Buccos defeated the Cuban All-Stars in Havana, 8-2. Lindell yielded only five hits.

In Tampa, the Detroit Tigers whipped the Cincinnati Reds, 5-2, on Eddie Kazak's three-run homer. Lefty Hal Newhouser, a disappointment last year, looked very good, working the first three innings.

Satchel Paige, Harry Brecheen and Virgil Trucks, whose combined ages go over 100, pitched the St. Louis Browns to a 5-1 triumph over Los Angeles in the Pacific Coast League team's park.

On the other side of the fence were Boby Shantz, Warren Spahn, Ronnie Mrozinski and Bob Chakales.

Shantz, the most valuable player in the American League last season, lasted just one inning, as his Philadelphia A's took a 13-10 pasting from the Washington Senators in West Palm Beach, Fla. Bobby was clubbed for five runs in the first inning.

Spahn gave up all Brooklyn's runs in the second inning and the Dodgers went on to lick the Boston Braves, 4-1, in Miami. Russ Meyer made his pitching debut for Brooklyn and allowed one run and three hits in three innings.

Rookie Mrozinski gave up four runs to the Boston Red Sox in the eighth inning, and the Sox went on to stop the Philadelphia Phillies, 8-4, at Sarasota, Fla. Ex-GI Curt Simmons started for the Phils and was tabbed for two runs in the first and one in the third.

Chakales was the victim in the New York Giants' 5-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians in Phoenix. Leo Durocher's men sent three runs across the plate in the first inning, including a none-on home run by Bobby Thomas—off Chakales' deliveries.

In other exhibition games, the Chicago White Sox set back the Chicago Cubs, 11-6, in Tucson; the Cincinnati "B" team defeated the Philadelphia Phillies "B" outfit, 8-5, at Clearwater, Fla.; and Seattle of the Pacific Coast League stopped the St. Louis Browns' "B" team, 3-2, at Palm Springs, Calif.

Commissioner Frick said he would not approve a major league shift to Milwaukee for the 1953 season, ending speculation of the St. Louis Browns moving.

Tigers Ready For Meet Here Next Saturday

Tiger tindermen will go through rugged workouts this week in preparation for their own meet, the Snyder Relays, which will be held Saturday.

A total of 29 teams have already entered the meet to make it one of the larger events in West Texas.

The group returned from Southwestern Recreational Meet at Fort Worth Saturday night with one win but other encouraging times.

Keith Pitner, who took second at the meet in the half-mile run, clocked 2:04.5 in his run, already better than the best time clocked last year by John Gary of Snyder, who ran fourth in the state. Pitner ran second in the meet to Bob Buchanan of Stillwater, Okla., who was timed at 2:03.

The Capitol Hill relay team, which won the mile relay at the meet, finished in 3:30.6. The Snyder team, which did not make the finals, clocked 3:43 in preliminaries. Naxie Davis, Jackie Grimmett, Reagan White, and Tommy Ivison were members of the team.

White ran sixth in the finals of the 440-yard dash with a time of 52.4. Winning time was 51.9.

Several ran high in their heats, but only first would have qualified them. Gary Harris was second in his heat in the low hurdles, and Bernie Hagin was third in his heat. In the 100-yard dash, Harris was third in his heat and Gerald Crawford was fifth.

EXERCISES INJURED KNEE

Vern Stephens, who played ball last year with Boston and is now picked to hold down third base for the Chicago White Sox, exercises his left knee which he injured slightly last year. Under the direction of "Mush" Esler (right) White Sox trainer at their El Centro, California, spring training camp, Stephens is exercising the knee several times a day with a twenty-pound weight strapped to the foot.

Aggies Will Duel In Border Olympics In Laredo This Week

LAREDO (AP)—A sterling duel between two of the top track teams of the Southwest—Texas A&M and Oklahoma A&M—shapes up for the twenty-first Border Olympics here Friday and Saturday.

These two schools head a field of eight universities that bids fair to virtually rewrite the record book for this cinder path carnival run under the stars just across the Rio Grande from Mexico.

The Oklahoma Aggies' Fredrik Eckhoff is expected to smash the Border Olympics mile record of 4:17.8 but most of the record rewriting is due to be done by Texas A&M with its great weightman, Darrow Hooper, runner-up in the shot put in the Olympic Games last summer, leading the way. Hooper holds the shot put record here of 53 feet 8⅝ inches but can shove the 16 pound ball over 57 feet.

Hooper also has done 170 feet with the discus and the Border Olympics record in this event is 165 feet 10½ inches.

1,000 ENTRIES EXPECTED

To date 72 universities, colleges, junior colleges and high schools have entered 852 individual athletes. Meet director M. R. Davis expects the 1,000 mark to be reached before competition opens.

There are 11 teams in the college division, 11 in the junior college freshman class and 42 high schools.

At least 16 records in the four classes appear likely as the biggest and finest field of all competes a week later than usual. The Border Olympics in the past have been held the first week in March but were changed this year. The result is that all the athletes coming here already have a meet under their belts, thus will be better.

Texas, with its always classy sprinters; Southern Methodist, Rice, University of Houston, Baylor and Texas Christian round out the university class field. Those in the college division are North Texas State, Hardin-Simmons, Southwest Texas State, Stephen F. Austin, Abilene Christian, East Texas State, Howard Payne, McMurry, Sul Ross, Texas A&I and University of Corpus Christi.

STILLWATER ENTRY

Stillwater, Okla., is expected to be in the high school division. The Oklahoma school has entered contingent upon the high school association in that state giving permission.

Among the overall Border Conference records expected to fall are the broad jump mark of 23 feet 6½ inches set by John Robertson of Texas in 1949 and the 220-yard low hurdles standard of 23.1 hung up by Bob Hale of Texas A&M in 1950. Bobby Ragsdale of Texas A&M already has leaped 23 feet 7 inches this year and Charles Thomas of Texas has done the hurdles in 23 flat. Texas' 440-yard relay team has run a 41.9 and that equals the Border Conference record.

Charles Holding of East Texas State could better the high jump record of 6 feet 7¼ inches set by Pete Watkins of Texas A&M in 1943. Holding already holds the record in the college class at 6-6⅛. He lapsed 6-7 in the Southwestern Recreation meet at Fort Worth last week.

440 DASH THREAT

Walt Lindsay of North Texas State is a threat to the 440-yard dash record in the college class. The record is 49.6 and one of the fellows who set it—Mike Mercada—returns after service in the Army. He is back at East Texas State. Lindsey did 49.5 last week.

At least five records could fall in the junior college-college freshman class. The broad jump mark is 21 feet 10 inches and Raymond Vickery of Baylor did 21-10¼ last week. Victoria already has bettered its 440-yard relay record of 44.6. Bills Curtis, Texas Christian freshman, should wipe out the high hurdles record of 15.4. He ran a 14.5 last week. Clyde Hart of Baylor, who skipped the 100 in 10 flat, might cut down the Border Olympics record of the same figure. The mile relay mark is 3:30.5. Victoria ran 3:30 last week.

Three high school records are in danger. Herman Johnson of Denison should beat the shot put mark of 51 feet 10 inches. He threw the weight 54 feet 10½ inches at Fort Worth. Ed Southern of Sunset (Dallas) has run the 180-yard low hurdles in 20.6 and the record here is 20.9. Bub Buchanan of Sullwater can do the half-mile in around two minutes. The record here is 2:01.1.

City League Games Tonight

National Guard will be defending its lead tonight as it goes into a city cage league game against Chuck Wagon.

Game time will be 7 o'clock for the two top teams in the league. National Guard, which has not lost a game, would be tied with Chuck Wagon for first place if Chuck Wagon were to win tonight's game.

In a match in the first round of the league, the Guard squad downed Chuck Wagon 57-53. Chuck Wagon has defeated C & S and Wade Pipkin Motors, the other two league teams.

Charlie White and Robert Minton lead the Guard five, while Joe Burney, Ned Underwood, and Shorty Burney pace Chuck Wagon.

Clashing at 8:30 o'clock tonight will be C & S and Wade Pipkin Motors. C & S has won only one game in the league, that one over the Pipkin squad. The Pipkin team is winless.

Bobby Shipley, Bill Boyd, and Jimmy Williams are offensive leaders of the C & S squad, and Bill Zimmerman and Norman Carter lead the Pipkin team.

After play tonight and tomororw night, the league will go into its championship tourney, of which Chuck Wagon is defending champion. The tourney schedule will be announced later this week.

Mayer, who was tied with Snead after two rounds, drove into the moss - studded trees twice and took a third-round 72 while Snead got a 67. Mayer never got the chance to recoup. However, he won $1,400 second money.

Tommy Morrow of Shreveport, La., a 19-year-old Louisiana State University sophomore, was top amateur with 286, finishing two strokes ahead of veteran Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O.

Freddie Haas Jr., a New Orleans driving range operator, shared third place among the pros with chunky Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., and Walter Burkemo of Franklin, Mich. Each finished five strokes behind Snead and netted $833.

Fred Wampler of Indianapolis and John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., received $560 for their 28ths.

Snead To Skip Next Tourney

BATON ROUGE, La (AP)—Sammy Snead will skip the St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament after winning $2,000 first-prize money in the Baton Rouge Open.

The touring professionals who chased Snead in the Baton Rouge event left today for the $10,000 Florida tourney. Snead told them he would meet them later at the Miami Open, which he has won five times.

Blonde Model On Money

STOCKHOLM, March 7 (AP)—"I'm in the money," says 25-year-old Swedish blonde Greta Hofstroem with a humorous twinkle in her blue eyes.

Then, shrugging a lovely shoulder: "I'm on it, at any rate."

She certainly is. So far she appears on one of the highest denominations of Swedish currency the 1,000-kroner bill, standing proudly erect with a coronet on her head and holding a sceptre and a shield with the three crowns of Sweden.

Her shapely form, reproduced by the Swedish artist Mark Sylwan, has swept the bearded and unbearded Swedish kings off Sweden's important folding money and brought the bills even closer to the heart of the male part of the country's population. Now bills of lower denominations also will carry her picture.

In real life Greta certainly is an eyeful. She combines her good looks with a charming personality, a keen sense of humor and a gift of repartee.

As a model she is in great demand by the big fashion houses of Stockholm. Back in 1947 she won a beauty contest and the title of "Queen of Lake Malar"—the poetical name of Stockholm. For five years she has been smiling at the Swedish public from magazine covers. Now she will be in their wallets and billfolds.

The artist chose her from among some 50 blonde beauties. She met all his demands for a purely Swedish type of girl.

Greta stands 5 feet 6 in her stocking feet, is slenderly built and carries herself with grace. Her skin is the envy of her coleagues. She can stand critical scrutiny in full daylight and loves open air life.

"I have received scores of marriage proposals from the United States," she says. "A Californian described his Hollywood home in detail and said I would just love his swimming pool.

"Another sent me a letter from St. Louis, Mo. He proposed marriage and enclosed a poem titled "The Convict Sprayer'—whatever he means by that.

She stroked the head of the big ice bear hide on the floor in her sitting room.

"Icy Joe is my best friend," she crooned softly: "He is the only male I can trust."

MORE AMMUNITION DETAILS

General James A. Van Fleet talks with Senator Harry Flood Byrd (D-Va.) as the retired commander of the U. S. 8th Army in Korea returned to tell the Senate Armed Services Committee in Washington more about ammunition supplies in that fighting area. Byrd said he was shocked by Van Fleet's testimony about ammunition shortages in Korea and wrote to demand that Secretary of Defense Wilson promptly punish what Byrd called "criminal inefficency."

Uncertainty Prevails In The Future Of Italians In Libya

TRIPOLI, Libya, March 2 (AP) — The future of 45,000 Italians living in Tripolitania, the western province of Libya, is full of question marks.

Most of them are old-timers of this former Italian colony. Many were born in Libya. Under Italian rule they were a prosperous, industrious community of traders, farmers, handicraftsmen and whitecollar workers.

Mussolini's entry in World War II changed their status completely. Now they are a minority in a sovereign foreign state. They have qualms about their jobs, their properties and whether they will be permitted to remain in a country which many of them consider their permanent home.

Future relations betwen Italian residents of Libya and the Libyans are one of the thorniest problems the new kingdom must solve.

Libyans carry no grudge against their former masters but there are economic necessities which the government of Libya cannot overlook.

Most of the Italians are now concentrated in Tripolitania. Practically none were left in Cyrenaica after the 1943 exodus when the British Eighth Army advanced into Libya after defeating Rommel. Italians account for a good deal of Tripoli's 120,000 population. Italian farmers are scattered throughout the province.

The Libyans' policy toward the Italians can be outlined as follows:

The Italians are welcome to stay in Libya so long as they are an asset for the country, but naturally priority in various activities goes to nationals. There is no room in Libya for Italians—or any other foreigners—who are unemployed.

This stand, although reassuring to some extent for some of the Italians, leaves the problem of the younger generations unsolved. Italian boys and girls now in schools hardly can expect to find jobs in a country where nationals are awakening and determined to enjoy the right of running their own affairs. Almost every Italian father in Libya is wondering what to do with his children. It is hard to see how Italy could absorb thousands of immigrants with its high unemployment rate.

Italian farmers are worried by a bill now being debated in the Libyan Parliament restricting foreign ownership of land or buildings.

At government level, the problem is just as complicated. It has been agreed that Libya will take over all property formerly belonging to the Italian government, leaving private properties to their owners, but there are several properties whose ownership is hard to establish.

These are the "para-statal" properties, owned jointly by the Italian government and private individuals or groups. Long and elaborate negotiations will be necessary before disposition of these is decided.

Train Kills 2; Engineer Was Friend Of Victims

MOUNDVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Engineer H. Paul Hassell couldn't stop his freight train in time to save the lives of two youngsters who had won his heart.

His freight plowed into a pickup truck which pulled into its path at a crossing three miles south of here yesterday.

The shaken 50-year-old Birmingham engineer then learned that its occupants had been a brother and sister who had waved at his passing train for many years.

Both Jean O'Neal Perry 17, and Benjamin Douglas Perry, 15, were killed instantly.

Hassell first noticed the children eight years ago, when they began running from their trackside farm to wave as he passed.

He dropped Christmas presents with his name on them, and the children sent him presents too. He had hunted with Ben and other members of his family.

Wife Of Top Ace Wants Him To Be Careful

MCKINNEY, Tex. (AP)—The wife of the nation's top jet ace doesn't have any more advice for Col. Royal N. Baker of McKinney, Tex., who shot down his 11th Communist jet fighter yesterday.

"I just wish he would be careful and come on home," said Mrs. Sarah Baker.

Baker brought down the Red jet at 37,000 feet over Northwest Korea to equal the MIG-destroying record of Maj. George A. Davis Jr., the Lubbock, Tex., Sabre pilot who holds the over-all record of 11 MIGs and three Communist light bombers destroyed. Davis was shot down and believed killed Feb. 10, 1952, on his 59th combat mission. He is listed as missing in action.

Baker has only five Red stars painted beneath the cockpit of his Sabre because Sarah has warned him not to be a "hero."

"Oh, it's okay," Mrs. Baker said last night of her husband's record, and she indicated the victory string didn't carry too much weight with the couple's four children.

"They're more interested in playing cowboys and Indians."

Baker is commander of the 4th Fighter Interceptor Group. He has flown 125 combat missions and has about six more to fly before he is due for rotation home at the end of this month.

Dying Woman Divorces Husband To Legalize Property Settlement

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A dying woman, the mother of eight children, today will ask a divorce from her husband of 30 years.

Atty. Paul Gordon said Mrs. Eleanor Bonus, 53, seeks a divorce to legalize a property settlement in favor of her children.

Gordon said Superior Judge George A. Dockweiler has agreed to move his court to Mrs. Bonus' bedside for the hearing. Doctors say she is a victim of leukemia and hasn't many more weeks to live.

Charging cruelty, Mrs. Bonus seeks the divorce from Paul Bonus, 58, an appliance repairman. They separated in May, 1948. Under terms of a property settlement, the family home would go to the children and Bonus would be required to pay $30 a month for support of the youngest child, Barbara, 18.

Average annual wage and salary payments in U.S. private industry have been estimated at $3,281 in 1951 compared with $1,406 in 1929 and $1,019 in 1933.

Putting Stalin Above Party Will Strain New Red Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lenin and Stalin had in common the goal of world communism. It must be believed the men closest to Stalin—he had 29 years since Lenin's death to handpick them—shared his aim.

So the basic question raised by his death is not whether his heirs will quarrel among themselves but whether they will seek the goal he sought the same way or differently. Will they be reckless or, like Stalin, move cautiously?

It is possible that in an internal struggle for power the heirs will wreck their party and Russia and so eliminate the Soviets as a world threat. Until such an explosion occurs it must remain simply wishful thinking.

Stalin was neither an intellectual nor, so far as is known, neurotic. He was confronted with both in his first and greatest rival, Leon Trotsky, the brilliant but vain and flamboyant egocentric.

None of the men in Stalin's inner circle at the time of his death, like Malenkov, Beria or Molotiv, has been mentioned as blessed with high intellectuality nor cursed with neuroses.

If any of them is brilliant, it has not been revealed. They have acted as a team. None of them could be considered flamboyant. After his experience with Trotsky, Stalin probably warned those around him to be just the opposite.

They have acted as he acted: cunning. The very best tribute to their shrewdness is that they were able to survive in a slaughterhouse.

Nevertheless, alongside Stalin they appeared gray, almost shadowy men, either naturally or by Stalin's design. At any rate, he was the towering figure in Russia, the symbol of communism.

It is easier for masses of people to give their devotion to an individual than to a shapeless and invisible thing called "The Party."

"That may explain why the Russian Communists, who wanted obedience from the people above all else, and Stalin appear as a folk-hero and Soviet saint in his lifetime.

But in playing up Stalin they had to subordinate the party itself. Stalin may have represented the party but the party became less than Stalin. This might have been useful while he lived but very inconvenient when he died.

The party seemed aware of this, and amazingly uneasy about it, for in the announcement of Stalin's death last night there were a couple of paragraphs which seemed more indicated of hope than reality.

"In these sorrowful days all the peoples of our country are rallying even closer in a great fraternal family under the tested leadership of the Communist party created and reared by Lenin and Stalin....

"The Soviet people have boundless faith in and are permeated with a deep love for their Communist party for they know that the supreme law governing all the activity of the party is service in the interests of the people."

Lenin and Stalin both believed that in a revolution the main force must be a relatively small and dedicated corps of men, the members of the party. But the revolution is hardly a revolution now. It's 36 years old.

Since the situation therefore is comparatively stable, this special group of dedicated party members becomes an elite, like the Nazi party, and thus separate and remote from the people.

It's an exclusive set. Only few are permitted to join. In Russia perhaps no more than six million people are in the party which runs the lives of the other 204 million people.

Having thus been shut off from participation in making the decisions which affect their whole lives, the people cannot be expected to have a patience with the mistakes that are made—as might be expected of people who, in a democracy, share in successes and failures because they choose their own government.

For this reason the party in Russia now must be sure it has mass loyalty, which Stalin himself may have had, before it tries any wild adventures. This fact above any other should put a brake, if only temporarily, on any adventures Stalin's heirs have in mind.

Heavy Damages Suffered By Civilians In Indochina War

With French Union Forces in Northern Indochina (AP)—"There!" the sweaty Moroccan rifleman says in his clipped French, pointing. "See, in the middle of that paddy. Three more of them, crouching there. Better take a look."

Slowly, almost sullenly, four other men stoop down, pick up two litters, and head for the brown-green field a scant half-mile away. Through a whining mass of misery that an hour earlier was a village's unsuspecting population, they push, twist, stumble.

These men are hardly sissies. They came to Indochina to fight, and have found plenty of what they were looking for. But, today, all four have little stomach for the job at hand.

"More women, I think," growls one of them, trudging along. "Why did he have to pick on us to fetch them? There were lots of coolies back there that could have done it."

Yesterday, intelligence reports said 300 Vietminh troops had moved into the village. A flushing-out operation was ordered. As advance scouts closed in, they noticed some movement farther ahead of them in the village itself. Back went the word by walkie-talkie to their command post. A few minutes later, down came the artillery. And a dozen villagers—children, women and men — were dead. Two score others were maimed.

When the artillery barrage ended, the waiting infantrymen moved cautiously into the flaming village. They found no enemy.

As in Korea, the civilian is paying a steep price here for his privilege. His losses have run into the tens of thousands.

In this particular village, as has happened in countless others during six years of bitter war, the troops met no opposition. Only a few hundred terror-stricken villagers who told them: Yes, the Vietminh had come and gone; they stopped yesterday only long enough to grab some food.

Their church—this is a Catholic center—escaped with a few minor scratches and was serving as a first-aid station. The village will be repaired and rebuilt. Most of its people, however, will carry the memory of their 15-minute taste of hell.

Is there no way of forewarning the civilians of impending artillery bombardment? The unit commander answered the question this way:

"Sure. We could drop leaflets or tell them by radio. But this would tip off any enemy in the village as well. We have little choice, if we are to keep our own casualties down to a minimum."

The Moroccans have placed their charges on the church steps. Only the three heads show, blankets having been thrown over their bodies.

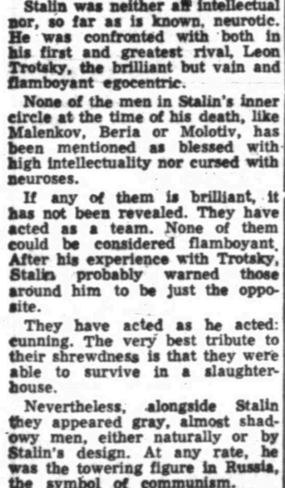

The French medical officer bends over each stretcher.

The first one is a boy of eight or nine, unconscious. As his blanket is pulled down, it reveals but one leg.

The other two are young women. One has had her forehead laid bare by a shell fragment. She has an ugly hole in the middle of her back. The other woman is barely alive.

The husky Moroccan who first sighted the three of them in the rice field is cursing, and crying unashamedly.

Meanwhile, orders have arrived for the unit to move out and on to the next village. Someone, it seems, has seen something moving behind a row of mud huts.

This Okinawa girl, wife of Cecil R. Bannister of Festus, Mo., is shown holding her newborn baby after they survived a rare abdominal pregnancy. The delivery was made through a surgical incision into the abdomen. Attending physicians said such pregnancies occur only once in 300,000 cases and only 10 such infants have reached full term and survived.

MACHINES AND TUBS IN WASHATERIA

More than the usual services are offered by Bagwell's Washateria, the spic-and-span interior of which is shown above. Eighteen Maytag washers, plenty of hot water, and one-day service on wet wash and rough dry laundry have made the firm a popular place to forget the washday blues. (Lee Watson Photograph)

No Dusty Clothes On Lines If Convenient Washateria Used

Sometimes man is able to improve upon nature. This has been attempted with a pleasing result in the garment industry.

Now it has been learned that in the allied industry of clothes laundering a gadget has been invented that is an improvement on the old method of drying clothes by nature.

"Here in West Texas there are only a very few days each month when a woman can hang her wash on the line and still have it clean when it is dry," Clyde Bagwell, owner of Bagwell's Washateria, 405 Thirty - first Street, said.

"Either the sun dries the clothes into a stiff hard mass, or the wind whips them to death while depositing a new load of sand and dust," he said.

For his growing group of customers Bagwell offers an automatic gas - heated clothes dryer that takes in just a few minutes and dries clothes soft and fluffy so they are easy to iron.

"We even have a steady stream of customers who do their laundry at home but bring the wet clothes to us to be dried instead of taking a chance on having to do the washing over by hanging them on a clothes line," he said.

There are two steps used in drying clothes by Bagwell's Washateria. First the clothes are placed in a whirling machine which slings practically all the water from them by rotating at a high speed, then the almost dry garments are placed in the automatic heated dryer.

Temperature and time is controlled in the dryer automatically so that it does not scorch the clothes or make them turn yellow, Bagwell said.

"The dryer compartment in the machine turns so that the clothes are continually tumbled over and over, and they don't have a chance to scorch," he said.

A member of the firm is always on hand to unload clothes bundles out of cars and load them back in after the customer has finished washing, he said.

A unique feature of his rinse tubs, three of which are furnished with each of his 18 washing machines, is that they were all built together with the inside partitions lower than the outsides of the tubs. By building the inside partions between the tubs lower, there is practically never any water on the floors of Bagwell's Washateria.

"Occasionally someone will leave the water turned on too long and flood one tub, but the excess runs over into another tub instead of onto the floor, so the floors are always dry and clean, and provide a comfortable place for working around the machines, he said.

Places to sit while the machines are washing clothes are also provided in the washateria.

Bagwell and Mrs. Bagwell have operated their business here for about two years, but before that they had been in the laundry business for about 15 years. Most all the tricks of the trade they learned in their earlier experiences in the business have been incorporated into their business here to make it a comfortable and convenient place to do family laundry.

Reds Move In Close To Zone Of Neutrality

PATMUNJOM, Korea, Mar. 7 (AP)—The Communists have tightened a menacing ring of trenches, bunkers, barbed wire and guns around almost all the Panmunjom neutral truce area.

From this frozen patch of attack-free ground between the opposing armies you can see an intricate system of deep Communist trenches, at some places less than 30 yards from the neutral border line. There remains only a corridor on the Allied side, through which United Nations personnel may pass.

Truce talks broke down here last Oct. 8 after months of bitter wrangling. Now the U. N. Command and the Reds maintain only small security and service detachments within the 1,000-yard radis circle.

The Allied command, replying to a Red protest, admitted an accidental shelling of the armistice site, but protested in turn that the Communists invited such incidents by "setting up machine guns and other weapons immediately adjacent" to the circle and said "the United Nations is compelled, in self-defense, to direct artillery fire against these positions."

Associated Press photographer George Sweers and I received a cold, menacing welcome from the Reds inside the circle. We noted many changes in the surrounding area.

What once was farm land or small hills covered with scrub growth now teems with Chinese soldiers in green quilted winter uniforms.

Outside the neutral border a Chinese held a burp gun pointed toward the circle. Sweers was threatened and almost body-blocked by a North Korean Communist guard as he snapped pictures from the Communist edge of the borderline.

There are no restrictions forbidding the Reds to take positions outside the circle, but they must remain outside.

Bus Driver Arrested After Wreck Victim Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The driver of a Greyhound bus that crashed into a bridge overpass Saturday has been jailed on suspicion of manslaughter.

The crash injured 27 passengers, one of them so seriously that he died Saturday night. He was Army Pvt. Benjamin Hulbert, 26, Camp Roberts, Calif.

The driver of the Yuma-to-Los Angeles bus, Forrest L. Luther, 37, of nearby Rivera, still declined to make a statement on the smashup when arrested yesoerday.

Big Union Co-op Uses Every Promotion In Books To Sell

AKRON, O., March 7 (AP)—Good old American salesmanship is packing 'em in at Akron's new co-op supermarket, biggest labor-backed retail operation in the country.

Life at Co-operative Enterprises of Akron has been one continuous round of stunts and promotions ever since the huge CIO-supported food emporium opened its doors last May.

For the nine months the co-op has been in operation, business has averaged $50,000 a week. The 20,000 square feet of floor space, the 400-car parking lot, no longer can accommodate the crowds. Plans are afoot for expansion.

The Akron co - op is literally owned by CIO members and their unions. Biggest stockholders are the Goodyear, Firestone and Goodrich locals of the CIO United Rubber Workers. They hold about three-fourths of the preferred stock issued—$104,900. Some $186,850 of common stock is in the hands of 5,000 small shareholders, about half of whom buy most of their food in the co-op store while sharing in the profits.

Sparkplug of the operation is General Manager A. J. Choat, a veteran of 17 years in retail co-op work in the Midwest. His slogan is: "We'll meet the lowest prices."

Choat and Advertising Manager Ray Brown are agreed on one thing:

"Ideals alone won't put a co-op over."

The co - op has one promotion, sometimes two or three, going always.

Some are out-and - out press agentry—like giving a Christmas tree to any church that would come and get it.

Or like the display of a 2,000 pound hunk of cheese — the largest ever shipped into Akron" — and promotiong a newspaper photo of a tow truck lifting it. After being displayed for a week, the cheese was cut into small pieces and sold.

Or like the Christmas - in - July sale, with a Santa Claus and presents for the kids.

Or like driving a midget car through the store to illustrate the wide store aisles.

Or like being the first in town to sell New Zealand beef (6,400 pounds at 39 cents a pound.)

Or like offering a 21-inch kitchen sink as a door prize. The ads carried the message, "We have given you everything else. Now we give you the kitchen sink."

Every week, the co-op's newspaper ads feature a "loss leader" —one item it will sell below cost to entice buyers into the store. The same item is advertised on the co-op's radio show, which is a combination of store interviews and hill-billy records.

Although groceries, meat and produce account for 85 per cent of the shopping center's volume it also deals in gasoline station products, drugs, hardware, toys, appliances and clothing. And it has a restaurant, dry cleaning shop and a credit union, which gives customers the advantage of 9 A.M. to 9 P.M. banking hours.

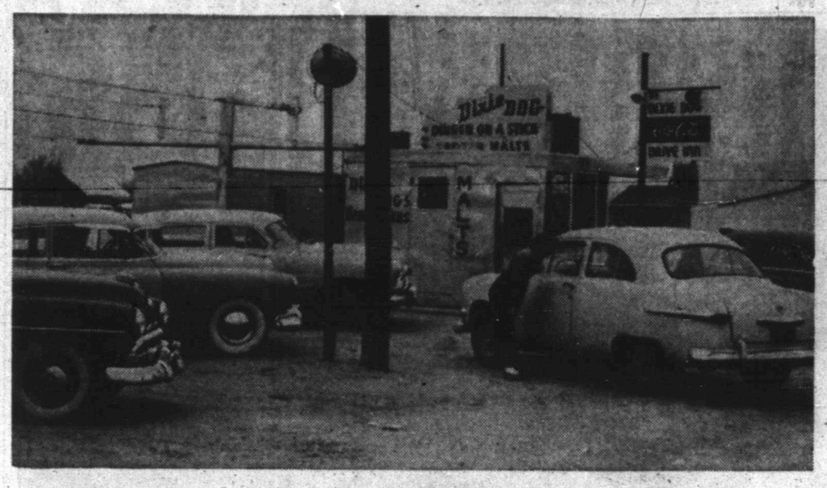

The shopping center is using two-fifths of its five-acre tract. Originally it was planned to use the rest for a warehouse but in view of the need for more room, in less than a year's operation, the original plans may be changed.

As Choat and Brown put it: "Looks like we promoted ourselves right out of our warehouse."

Petta St. John (above), a dancer and Hollywood film actress, thinks movie stars, models and other performers should be granted a tax write-off on the theory that they, like machinery, depreciate in value with time. Because they have a limited period of years in which to earn money, they shouldn't be taxed the same as doctors and businessmen, she contends.

Mrs. S. M. McCasland has returned to her home in Goldthwaite, Tex., following a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. McConnell, Post Highway. Guests in the McConnell home have also been his brother, O. D. McConnell and family of Kilgore.

RUSH HOUR AT DIXIE DOG

Popularity of the Dixie Dog Drive In, 400 East Highway, is demonstrated in the above picture shot at noon Saturday. Quick service can be given to more than 15 cars at one time. (Lee Watson Photograph)

Dixie Dog Builds Business On Better Hamburgers At Stand

"Build a better hamburger and the world will beat a path to your door," is a successful paraphrase of an old saying for Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Mims, owners and operators of the Dixie Dog Drive In, 400 East Highway.

Although Mims says the drought has caused a slacking of business all over West Texas, his business last year was as good as for either of the two previous years which were boom years here.

"About the only explanation I can give is that people like our hamburgers," he said.

Although almost anyone who bites into one of the Dixie Dog hamburgers would agree with Mims, there are also some other apparent reasons that cause customers to flock to the miniature restaurant.

One of the other reasons is quick service given by the two car hops who are on duty during the rush eating hours. Another could be the unique Dixie Dogs served exclusiely by the drive in. The Dixie Dog is a variation of the long popular "Hot Dog."

To make a Dixie Dog, the cook dips a wiener in a special batter, then dunks the coated wiener in a cooker of boiling grease.

In about four minutes the Dixie Dog rises to the surface of the grease, and with insertion of a pointed stick by which to hold the "dinner on a stick" it is ready to serve.

But back to the hamburgers. Mims says that he is not conscious of any special technique in making his hamburgers, but he does always make them of good hamburger meats, and he stays away from the hazard of putting too much lettuce on the hamburger.

"More lettuce makes the hamburger thicker, but I have found that most persons like the hamburger to be thin enough to bite into easily," he said.

One bad experience Mims had recently was with the purchase of some 29-cent hamburger meat.

"I only bought a few pounds one afternoon when we ran low on ground beef to give it a try," he said.

"The meat was so fat that there was nothing left when it was fried, so I went back and bought better meat which cost twice as much," he added.

"That was my first and my last time to ever try to save money by buying cheaper meat," he said.

Mrs. Mims echoed the sentiment by saying "we eat our own hamburgers so we try to fix them all like the ones we like to eat."

The Dixie Dog Drive In has parking space for about 15 cars, but there have been times when as many as 30 were counted around the cafe, Mims said.

Mrs. Tom Davis, 707 Twenty-sixth Street, returned yesterday from Mineral Wells. Her son-in-law, Amon Weaver, brought her here.
