COMMISSION TO ORDER SUBWAYS IN TWO PLACES

CITY DADS WILL SERVE NOTICES ON SANTA FE FOR UNDERPASSES

Two subways under the Santa railroad tracks, one at the east end of Broadway and the other at the north end of Avenue H, were ordered constructed by unanimous action of the City Commission in regular session here Thursday afternoon.

The action followed considerable discussion of the situation, with the commission as a whole agreeing that both are needed, but the question as to whether or not the railroad company would be forced to build the two in one year, was brought up.

Two Favor One—Commissioners W. S. Posey and J. O. Jones originally favored the ordering of an underpass on Broadway "because this project already has been submitted to a vote of the people, and the matter has been on the table without action since the vote." They said they favored one because they thought it impracticable to ask for both at the same time.

A proposal to submit the proposition to a vote of the people as to whether they would be willing to vote a bond issue to finance a part of the work, considered as probable, was tabled under the order the Santa Fe is expected to pay the larger amount of the expenditure.

The commission also ordered installation of bracket lights on Avenue H south of 18th to the end of the paving upon petition of property owners of the street. Work is to start at once.

Contracts on the storm sewer and paving work recently contracted for with the Panhandle Construction company also were finally approved, and work of installation of the storm sewer will begin probably tomorrow.

DICKINSON SIDE LAUNCHES DRIVE IN BIG MEETING

JOHN JARROTT SAYS HIS ROAD IS ONLY ONE TO BE DESIGNATED

Members of a meeting of Lubbock people last night in the interest of the Broadway route to Idalou as sponsored by W. K. Dickinson, Sr., and others, were incorrectly reported in Thursday morning Avalanche, according to John W. Jarrott.

H. T. Kimbro and Tom Garrard were quoted as favoring the highway as "officially designated." Mr. Jarrott maintains that the only highway ever officially designated is the one leaving the city by the Avenue H route, which was designated by the state highway commission after consideration of both proposed routes because of the fact the northern route is one half mile shorter, and because of the saving to be effected in construction.

The meeting held last night favors leaving the city by the Broadway route, which has never been "officially designated," Mr. Jarrott maintains.

State highway No. 53, east from Lubbock to Idalou and points beyond will lead east out of Lubbock from Broadway, instead of north over Avenue H, as recently designated by the State Highway Commission, if plans launched at a meeting of approximately 75 citizens of the county Wednesday night are successful.

The plans provide in part for the circulation of a petition to property owners in the county and business men in the city, for submission to both the County Commissioners court and to the State Highway Commission, if such is deemed necessary, and a committee will be appointed in the next day or two to circulate the petition.

W. K. Dickinson is chairman of the meeting and in answer to charges of proponents of the north route that he has a selfish motive in routing the highway east out of the city, said that

The "Uncrowned Queen of England"—that title well might have been claimed by Ellen Terry, 71, for half a century great Britain's foremost Shakespearean actress, now reported critically ill.
Celebrities of all kinds united to honor her. The king of England made her a dame of the British empire. When falling eyesight forced her from the stage the whole world mourned. She was born in Glasgow, one of eleven children of actor-parents. From the time she could walk and talk her father and mother acted her for the stage. Her earliest recollection she used to say, was of being locked with her brothers and sisters in the family home at Glasgow while the parents were at the theater.
She was eight when she made her debut, playing in "A Winter's Tale" in London. With the king and queen in the audience, little Miss Ellen covered herself with humiliation by stumbling over a box as she made her first entrance. It was not an auspicious beginning, but she survived it to play hundreds of times before royally.
Of real schooling she had none, but her father forever was drilling her in stage lore. She was hardly in her teens when with her elder sister, Kate, she went into a stock company and played in most of the smaller cities of England. Then, just as she was beginning to make a name for herself she married Watts, the famous

She was now the idol of London. Man like Browning, Disraeli, Gladstone, Tennyson and Rossetti were callers at her home.
In 1857 she began playing opposite Sir Henry Irving, in this alliance both she and Sir Henry did the best work of their careers. Then, after a time, she retired from the stage, moved to the country, and devoted herself to raising her two children. Financial reverses compelled Sir Henry Irving to the stage however. In 1878 she married again—once Charles Wardell.
Her third marriage was to an American, James Carew, in 1907. During her long career Miss Terry made eight tours of America.
Her most famous role was as Beatrice in "Much Ado About Nothing."

Satin Is The Style God's Pet

It's Satin For Evening Wear in White or Pastel; It's Satin For Afternoon in Biege or Gray, And It's Satin Even For Sport.

BY HENRI BENDEL
FOR NEA Service
NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Palm Beach creations inevitably brighten up the winter mood even for women in colder black, of course, are varied by dark reds and greens. Even the newest sport clothes are made up in this shiny faced material. Quite frequently the only trimming is a dull material of the same color. Stitching and embroidery in metal threads is also appropriate.

In colors one must take into consideration the rising importance of black and the sudden come-back of blue, in all shades, particularly the lighter and grayed tints. The blue evening gown has been featured all winter—blue chiffon is quite as lovely the blue silk and the V motif of the collar line is pleasingly repeated in the long point of the blouse. This frock could be worn unbelted, but it is much smarter with the tailored belt.

Another interesting frock is the black crepe with the pointed yoke and sleeves made of embroidered flowers in green and gold that have tiny glittering mirrors for centers. The skirt is box pleated at the sides, another concession to the dancing age, and a band of crepe across the back forms the cash and ties at the sides.

This dress is typically French in feeling and has the elegance and imagination that is a bit underplayed in these days when the elimination of every superfluous bit of trimming is considered the height of sophisticated costume.

A glorified sport costume that is really meant for the afternoon is the crepe-frook that is in a lovely salmon pink with a deep pointed yoke and skirt trimmed with self-colored embroidered yoke, and sleeves make this an individual afternoon frock. climates and color and flowers make their influence felt among the black and neutrals.

The transition from winter to spring modes is going to be a gradual and painless one this year with no sudden changes of feeling or revolutionary policies so that the two seasons will blend easily.

Clothes have become too easily available. Too practical and too suited to our present day existence to be discarded for no better reason than a change of season.

The short, pleated skirt and over blouse have become classics and are more in evidence this year than ever before. Just now the fancy silk and wool sweaters in bright and pastel colors worn with flannel or pleated crepe skirts are the regulation and form all our winter resorts as well as on the Riviera.

As a matter of fact, satin is of the greatest importance. For evening the simple white satin frock is the mode of the moment with pastel shade also very popular.

Black Crepe Is Choice
Photographed today are three gowns that meet the late winter requirements of such social functions as a bride party, tea dances and matinees. Each is easy to wear, easy to get into, and easy to complement in millinery, which consideration should never be overlooked.

First in importance in the short sleeved model, for Paris is again sponsoring the abbreviated sleeve. This one is one of the popular two-piece affairs, the skirt being made of a Japanese embroidered scarf in which blue is the predominating color, and a skirt of navy blue crepe pleated at the sides to give ease in dancing.

The neck finish is only a lapel of buttons and a self-colored flower on the shoulder.

The tendency to use such a frock for dancing instead of the more feminine and frilly type of frock grows. For the slender, girlish, "flapper" type there can be no happier choice.

Embroidered yoke, and sleeves make this an individual afternoon frock.

NEW BROOKLYN TEAM WILL OPEN SEASON

JOHNNY BUTLER ONLY OLD STAR TO START YEAR

ROBBIE MAKES GOOD HIS PROMISE OF NEW AND YOUNGER TEAM

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Only one of the players who began last year's campaign in the supporting cast of a veteran Brooklyn pitching corps has been given a place in the tentative first string Robin line-up for the 1927 National League race.

The line survivor of Manager Wilbert Robinson's drastic shake-up aside from his flinging staff, is Shortstop Johnny Butler, of the other tossers who began the 1926 hunt as regulars—Cox, Wheat and Felix, outfielders; Fournier, Maranville and Marjott, infielders; Hargreaves, O'Neill and Deberry, catchers, four have passed from the fold and the remainder are slated for reserve roles.

New Faces Coming
The names of Wheat, Jacques Fournier, Burtleigh Grimes, Rabbit Maranville, Sammy Bohne, Bill Cox and Whitney Witt have been cut from the Brooklyn payroll since the inauguration of the last coach, indicating that Robby has made good his promise to give Brooklyn a "new and younger team."

"Butch" Henline, former Philadelphia maskman obtained by Brooklyn in a four-cornered deal, will take over the first string catching assignment; Babe Herman, who succeeded Fournier in mid season, is expected to guard the initial sack, while Jimmy Partidge of Nashville and Bobby Barrett of Memphis appear to have first call at second and third base, respectively.

Carey Is Captain
The prospective outfield has Arnold Staz, slugging Los Angeles acquisition, and Harvey Hendrick, of New Orleans, flanking the veteran former Pirate, Max Carey. Max will captain the team in the field.

Although Brooklyn's pruning bee has cut deeply into the ranks of veterans, there are still a few hold overs to contest recruits for several positions. Chick Fawcett again will aim at the keystone bag berth, Marjott will be available for third, while Gus Felix and Mervin Jacobson will bid for outfield posts.

With the exception of Grimes, who has been traded to the Giants, Brooklyn will retain its 1926 twirling department virtually intact. Robby also has back Dick Dunn after a two year retirement from major league baseball. Norman Pitz, a former hurling star who has been playing independent ball for several seasons, also has been reinstated.

Bristling Battles of Bare Fist Days
MY LIFE STORY
By Jack McAuliffe

It was the tenth round of my famous fight with Jack Carney, champion of England, that I began to fade, after having made a sucker out of him in the earlier rounds.

I had boiled myself soft trying to make 132 pounds and that, added to my leg injury that prevented me doing any road work at all, was responsible for the trembled feeling that gripped my heart, making me believe I couldn't win.

I don't know yet what I was fighting on. It must have been sheer spirit, for we went 74 rounds before we both collapsed.

After the 10th round Carney began to get over anxious and fouled me repeatedly. Jack Dempsey, my second, decided if the referee was not going to take action he would.

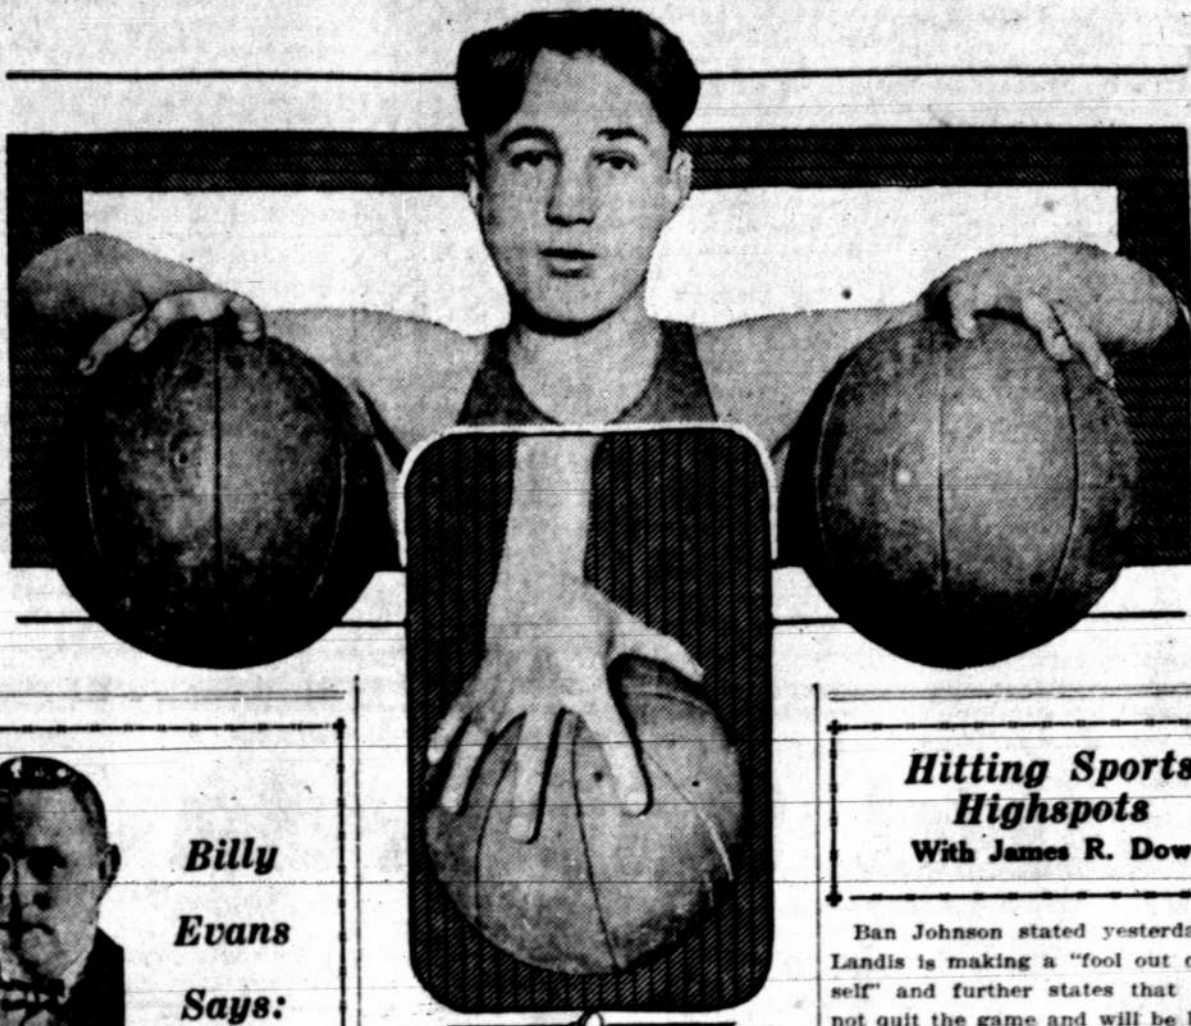

So a funny thing happened. At the 12th round he pulled a towel up over me and leaning down Dempsey bit me on the shoulder until the blood came.

I rushed right out of my corner at the whistle, pulled Carney's head over my shoulder, yelled bloody murder and claimed a foul.

The referee examined the teeth marks and then gravely opened Carney's mouth. Carney had front teeth. Round after round both of us kept going. Slugging, jabbing, alternately taking the offensive and defensive. Round 30 came and went.

Round 40 was passed in a whirl of gloves. Round 50 and round 60. It was an awful mess.

Prep Star Performs Unique Feat

Billy Evans Says:

JOHN MOLNAR

Hitting Sports Highspots With James R. Dow

Ban Johnson stated yesterday that Landis is making a "fool out of himself" and further states that he has not quit the game and will be back in Chicago to have it out with the "Baseball Czar." Recently the American League executive was released and Frank J. Navin succeeded him and the league magistrate.

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 27.—Sampson, strong man of ancient history while he went without a haircut, might have startled the sports fans of his day by twisting a lion's tail and knocking pillars loose, but if he lived today a 16-year-old freshman athlete of the Waite High school here probably would be stealing his stuff. John Molnar, a football and basketball star, boasts of a unique feat that few athletes in the United States or any other country could duplicate.

Molnar, without resorting to paste or glue on the tips of his fingers, can hold a basketball aloft in each hand as shown in the accompanying photo. Placing the cage spheres on the floor, Molnar places a hand on the top of each, grips them with his fingers and holds them aloft for several minutes.

Basketballs are not heavy, but try to lift two of them in this manner employed by young Molnar. He accomplishes the feat due to the extraordinary size of his hands, which are almost twice as large as those of an average mortal.

Molnar started at halfback on the freshman football team at Waite this fall and because of his ability to throw a forward pass 45 yards was of great value to his mates. He is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 155 pounds.

GOLF TOURNEY OPENS FRIDAY

Brisk Winds Dry Links While Stars Wait Play At San Antonio Derby

(By Associated Press)
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 27 (AP)—Cloudy, but rainless skies and a brisk wind dried the Willow Springs golf course rapidly today and made it seem certain that preliminary play in the Texas open golf tournament would start tomorrow.

The tournament was scheduled to start today but was postponed one day yesterday when rainy weather made it impossible for the competitors to get in a day of practice. The course will be open today, unless further rain drenches it again, and almost 200 aspirants for the open crown are expected to tryout their clubs.

Walter Hagen one of the late entries, arriving this morning, making the delegation of star professional tournament placers almost complete.

Texas League Men Meet At Santone
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 27 (AP)—Club owners of the Texas League met here Thursday in executive session to arrange a schedule for the coming season, and possibly to make a few player trades. An announcement by President Doak Roberts in Dallas forecast a schedule opening April 13 and the club owners are expected to confirm this today.

BIG SUIT FILED ON HORNSBY BY RACE MAGNATE

FRANK MOORE SAYS STAR OWES HIM $70,075 ON RACE BETS

(By The Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, Jan. 27.—Frank L. Moore, horse race betting commissioner of Newport, Ky., today filed suit for $70,075 against Rogers Hornsby former manager of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals.

Moore lists eleven separate items in his petition, including a total of $25,000 shown as advanced by him to Mrs. Hornsby on her husband's notes, but he does not state the purposes for which he allegedly advanced the various sums, ranging from $50 to $18,000.

Last Saturday, however, Moore declared to reporters he had lost $74,000 on horse races for the baseball star last January and February. Part of the claims against Hornsby, he asserted, represented losses on racing bets which Hornsby placed with Moore and did not pay.

Bitter Feeling Seen In Senate
(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Jan. 27.—Bitter feeling was apparent for the first time this session in the senate today when the body ordered the common criminal jurisprudence to report by Wednesday on a bill by W. C. Woodward of Coleman.

Members who favored compelling the committee to make a report stamped as "damnable" the practice of committees in "arbitrarily smothering" bills in their sessions without giving the senate an opportunity to act.

The ghost of "Fergusonism" which previously had not entered to disrupt the senate, was paraded. Woodward's bill, which seeks to repeal the rule of evidence and virtually nullifies the search and seizure act, must be reported on by the committee on criminal jurisprudence by Wednesday, under the voted order of the senate.

Recess Is Called
AUSTIN, Jan. 27 (AP)—The house yielded again to pressing committee business and was in recess until 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Committees are working night and day now. Tonight the committee on municipal and private corporations will meet for further consideration of the public utilities by Representative Nat Jacks of Dallas, seeking to place practically all public services under regulation of the railroad commission.

The row started when Woodward introduced a motion to take the bill to repeal the rule of evidence from the committee, because, he said, a majority of the committee had "smothered" it.

Wirtz of Seguin, one of the committee members who had voted to postpone action on the bill until the "first Monday in March," injected the "Ferguson" issue when he took exception to Woodward's remarks. Wirtz is known to oppose the proposed repeal of the amnesty act enacted during the Ferguson administration.

Art Fund Trustee Puzzled Over Work

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 27 (AP)—With approximately $500,000 a year which must be spent for paintings, engravings, sculpture, tapestries, and rare books, and prospects of this sum increasing Kansas City is confronted with the problem of finding a worthy supply to meet the demand.

A fund of about $650,000 now is available for the purchase of a site, to build a museum, or to purchase art under the terms of the will of Mrs. Mary Atkins, wife of an early day Kansas City realtor, who died in 1911. In addition, the income from between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 is available for the purchase of "works and reproductions of works of the fine arts" under the will of the late William Rockhill Nelson, founder of The Kansas City Star. Virtually $2,000,000 more is provided under the wills of his wife and daughter for the construction of a museum to house the Nelson collection.

To further complicate matters, the huge fund available under the Nelson will is for the purchase of works of artists who have been dead at least 20 years at the time of the purchase.

Notwithstanding the difficulties, R. A. Holland, director of the Kansas City Art Institute, believes Kansas City eventually will be one of the leading art centers of the nation. He points out the central location as an advantage and predicts that the interest awakened once the museums are functioning will lead other owners of large fortunes to add to the art funds.

The trustees of the Atkins and Nelson funds have discussed various plans of consolidating them and a definite program is expected to be set before 1928.

HONOR ROLL OF TEXAS U. MADE

Many West Texans Included In 353 Students Given Mention For Work

(Special To The Journal)
AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 27.—Dean H. Y. Benedict, of the College of Arts and Sciences of the University of Texas, has just made public a list of 353 students out of 1,191 registered in the College of Arts and Sciences deserving to be classed on the honor roll for exceptional scholastic averages during the fall term long session just ended. The object of the honor list is to commend officially members of the student body whose grades during the term rank them scholastically above the average. The list has been divided into five groups, according to the scholastic rank of the students mentioned.

Carefully Compiled
In constructing the honor roll, account is taken both of the grades made and the number of courses passed; that is, account is taken of both the quantity and the quality of work accomplished by the student, as evidenced by the reports of the instructors. Emphasis is placed on quality by counting an A as 12, a B as 3, a C as 6, a D as 3 in computing the score of the student.

Among the West Texans on the honor roll are the following: Thelma Lynn, San Angelo; Celia Prewitt, Pecos; Kathryn Zant and Cordie Lee Glasgow, Asperment; Mary K. McDonald, Hereford; Blanche McLarty, Vernon; Joseph F. Yonk, Panhandle; Maude Agnes Butz and Doris Lea, Fort Stockton; David M. Pumph, Cisco; Marie E. Fuller Barstow, George; Byron Skelton, Groom; Elsie Stiles, Luise Shifer, Manuel Horneado, Walter S. Howe, Eula M. Isaacs, Leo Jaffe and Ellen C. Woodriddle, all of El Paso.

U. S. Ready To Talk To China While Powers Prepare For Showdown; Many Suggestions Heard For Arbitration

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (AP)—Assurances that the Washington government is ready to enter into treaty revision negotiations with both the Cantonese and Northern factions in the present civil war were given at the state department today in amplifying the formal statement of American attitude toward China published last night by Secretary Kellogg.

No direct or indirect proposals for a conference between American diplomatic agents and representatives of the two factions have yet been received.

Protests Are Heard
On the contrary, such information as to the intentions of the rival authorities in China as have come to hand are in the nature of protests from each side against any steps by the American government to deal with the other side.

Department officials met with blank silence all inquiries as to what American naval cooperation with British and other forces might be expected if forceful protection of foreign life and property at Shanghai became necessary. There is no disposition in Washington to tie the hands of Admiral Williams, commanding naval forces there, so far as meeting any urgent emergency is concerned.

Japs Want Equal Treaty
LONDON, Jan. 27. (AP)—Reuters' Tokyo correspondent says: "It is understood the Japanese government authorities at a conference yesterday decided that a new treaty should be concluded between China and Japan on an equal footing, the mutual granting of most-favored nation treatment being likewise specified."

Surrender Asked
LONDON, Jan. 27. (AP)—Proposals which Charge d'Affaires O'Malley has been authorized to make to the Cantonese Foreign Minister Chen at Hankow are understood to embrace terms for the complete eventual surrender of the British concessions throughout China, including extra-territoriality, and plans for new treaties supplanting the present "unequal" ones.

The British government is keeping the United States, Japan and the other interested powers fully informed on the negotiations which are expected to have a most important bearing on the whole crisis arising out of the anti-foreign excesses in the Yangtze valley.

In making proposals to Chen, the British have been most careful to state that identical terms will be made to other Chinese authorities—that is, the Peking government—thus preventing the impression that Great Britain recognizes the Cantonese government as the responsible authority for all of China.

Borah Issues Statement
WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (AP)—America's policy in the Orient should look to a free disinterested China, Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee, said today in a formal statement, his first on the Chinese situation.

He expressed the opinion that the action of Great Britain in sending a large military and naval force to China might have "a disastrous result."

Britons Welcome U. S. Aid
LONDON, Jan. 27. (AP)—The British foreign office welcomes the views on China expressed by the United States government as an example of the best kind of co-operation, namely co-operation that depends not on formal agreements but on a common attitude toward a great problem.

Secretary Kellogg's statement is considered to express much the same spirit as was displayed in the recent British memorandum.

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (AP)—The United States has notified all Chinese factions and the powers signatory to the Washington conference treaties that if proper delegates can be agreed upon in the war-torn country it stands ready to transmit, either in concert with other nations, or alone, if necessary, a new tariff and extra-territorial treaties with China.

However, until new treaties are negotiated with "somebody representing China," and ratified by the senate, existing treaties cannot be abrogated.

Is Kellogg's Plan
These are the cardinal points in Secretary Kellogg's long-awaited Chinese policy declaration, made public last night in the form of a "statement" and making no mention of the British memorandum on the subject, to which it had first been planned to be an answer.

The pronouncement was made public simultaneously in Peking, Hankow and Shanghai.

It pointed out that American naval forces will be held in Chinese waters to protect American life and property in event the "Chinese authorities are unable to afford such protection," asserted the United States has watched with sympathetic interest the "nationalist awakening of China," and expressed a desire to observe strict neutrality as between Chinese factions and to deal with the country in "a most liberal spirit" as to treaties.

Protect on Is Necessary
All that was required of China, the statement said, was protection, and "equal opportunity with the citizens of other powers to reside in China and to pursue their legitimate occupations without special privileges, monopolies or spheres of special interest or influence."

While the statement on its face did not develop any wide variance of viewpoint with that outlined by the British, it did point out that the United States held no concessions in China. On this point, President Coolidge believes there is some ground for differences in American and British policy in dealing with China.

The statement also asserted the United States "has never manifested any imperialistic attitude" toward China and said the only question before it in considering a new treaty was "with whom it shall negotiate."

CATERPILLAR BRAVES COLD
KEENE N. H., Jan. 27. (AP)—It may be a marauding pest, but at least it is courageous. While the temperature ranged from 12 to 24 below zero in this state today a black and brown caterpillar was found crawling along a sidewalk here.

WORLD TRADE NOW WATCHED BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (AP)—From the jostling, colorful banniers of the Orient to the quiet reaches of Thread-needle street, the world's trade is watched by a foreign service squadron of American observers.

A force of young Americans, enlisted under Secretary Hoover from American schools and business houses, has been mobilized for the needs of the nation's growing foreign commerce and guided to a career of both romance and research that has won the respectful attention of business men.

The young men in the observing corps may find himself in Aden one year, in Singapore the next, and in Bucharest the third. His duties will range from getting a new agent for the sale of American bicycles in Calcutta to tracing out the impact on international trade of a new foreign combination of steel rail makers.

There is every appeal to the semi-adventurous in the service, yet there is considerable difficulty in keeping men at all of its posts. That difficulty is not a strange, says O. F. Hopkins, assistant director of the bureau of foreign service in charge of its personnel. This man, who has made good

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (AP)—Cotton opened steady at an advance of one point to a decline of two points. There were substantial overnight selling orders in the market following the earlier tone of late yesterday, but offerings were well absorbed by buying inspired by relatively firm Liverpool cables. Brokers with trade connections were buyers of May around 13.40 and October at 13.80 which helped to check the early decline. Orders were fairly well divided at these figures, and the market held within a point or two of the lowest at the end of the first hour.

Absorption of early offerings seemed to leave the market comparatively bare of contracts, and prices became steadier on a little further trade buying at closing. The midday market was about unchanged to four points higher, with May selling at 13.45, and October 13.85.

VOICES

THE day is full of voices—meaningless, insistent. They drone upon the street, chatter at parties, hurl snatches of themselves at you from passing automobiles, rise up and down dramatically from open-air platforms, end with question marks at the office, trail after you on street cars. . . . Your ears, forever open, almost have to hear.

Yet in this same room with you are voices of utmost silence, whose every word concerns you. You control them more surely than you control telephone or radio. Open a page—they talk to you quietly. Close a page—they are through. They are the voices of the advertisements. They talk direct to you. Tell of better roofing for your home, more protective paint for its walls. Shoes your youngsters can't scuffle out easily. Salads, delicious drinks, to gratify you. Reinforced hosiery, cooler underwear, purer soaps. You believe in these voices, for they have to be sincere. Else they would not be in these pages—could not have the nation's belief. You buy the goods they proffer, for you know already what those goods will do. And wide belief has lowered their prices. They are economical—sure!

Loose products everywhere in stores are crying out, "Buy me!" But behind the voice of the advertised product is the voice of authority. The voice that tells the why, what, when, where and how of the goods you buy.

Heed these courteous voices often. Read the advertisements every day.

Aerial Hitch-Hikers Will Go On Flight Around World

Major and Mrs. Lester D. Gardner

By JIMMY POWERS, NEA Service Writer. NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(Summing an airplane ride around the world. That is the plan of a New York couple, a quiet, unassuming pair of seasoned fliers who have made cloud-skimming their hobby. Major and Mrs. Lester D. Gardner will leave New York city's bright lights behind them at midnight the first auspicious night next April and using only established airways, will circle the globe, being their progress according to pre-arranged schedule. They hope to hang up a new record of 24 days.

the snow capped Alps, seen the Russian steppes in the moonlight, the Ganges at dawn and have ferreted out a landing place for him in the green jungle land of the Congo. Private to Major. Major Gardner enlisted as a private during the war and ended up organizing air squadrons at Kelly Field, Texas, a full-fledged major. At his publishing office here, he paced the room as he outlined his schedule. He can beat the established record the world record of 28 days 14 hours and 26 minutes if his plan "click" he says. He is going to pick up rides from pilot cronies scattered all over the globe. Invitations. "I have been invited by soviet Russia and the German Luftwaffe combine to use their ships," he says. "And here are two cables inviting me to make the opening ride on the new Tokio-to-Moscow line. The Korea-to-Pekin line will be opened soon and in the spring I will be set to pioneer the first regular journey around the world on the established route. "I tell you"—and here he wheeled and pounded his desk in emphasis—"the day of commercial aviation has arrived. Flights are safe, reliable, convenient and inexpensive. It makes me boil to hear nitwits who know nothing about aviation dismiss it coolly with joking remarks that 'the ground is good enough for me.' That impedes progress and the Lord knows American aviation can brook little interference. "Here is our schedule," and he hauled out his maps and listed the major jumps. "We leave on the night plane from New York to Seattle. Take a steamer from Seattle to Yokohama. Ship from Yokohama to Seoul. Shoot across the Korea strait to Fusan, Korea, then to Mukden in Manchuria. Then we fly to Peking and jump another airline to Moscow and Koenigsberg in East Prussia. Then into the established and flourishing airlines to Berlin, to Cologne, to London and finally New York. "No special planes, no special trains, nothing tricky or stunts—but I'm sure we'll fly back with a new record to beat the 28-day dash of Linton Wells."

Neither Star Present. Neither Cobb nor Speaker was present when Leslie O'Connor, secretary to Commissioner Landis, passed out the typewritten sheets of the commissioner's decision, nor were they represented by counsel. Commissioner Landis was in his office earlier, but left shortly before the decision was given out. Cobb was understood to be in Augusta, Ga., his home, and Speaker in Cleveland.

Speaker To Play. CLEVELAND, Jan. 27 (AP)—Tris Speaker, in a brief statement to the Associated Press today said he was very well pleased with the decision of Commissioner Landis clearing him of the Dutch Leonard charges and declared he expected to be in harness next season to prove to the baseball world "that he is the Tris Speaker of old."

Teams Bid for Stars. NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—New York baseball men today viewed the possibility of Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker being sought by one or all of the three metropolitan clubs, the Giants, Yankees and Robins, as a consequence of their vindication by Commissioner Landis. Officials, while expressing gratification over the decision of Commissioner Landis, declined to say whether overtures would be made to the veteran stars.

IDALOU HIGHWAY

he would rather the public would concede all the property he has that will be affected by the highway than to have such charges stand against him. Tom Garrard, local attorney, explained the situation which he termed indeed serious now facing citizens of this city and county, saying that it would be an equal matter of equity for the route to be changed to divert all traffic both from the north and east over one route. He said that at least 95 per cent of tourist traffic from the south, east and north would never see Lubbock if the designation is allowed to stand on Avenue H, and that the loss to Lubbock from this source alone cannot be estimated.

Aimee's Temple Jammed After Her Famous 'Kidnaping'

Aimee Semple McPherson, flower-laden as she leaves Los Angeles on an eight-weeks' trip Eastward, kisses her daughter, Roberta Semple, goodbye. Note the crowd gathered to give her a "send-off."

By NEA Service. LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 27.—Aimee Semple McPherson's tangle with the law, following her "kidnaping" last spring, might have been expected to interfere slightly with her work as a minister of the Gospel. But it didn't. It was a great help. For Mrs. McPherson, most famous present-day evangelist in America, is a showman—a showman whom P. T. Barnum himself could have taught nothing.

Before her disappearance the temple had a resident membership of 7000. Now it has 15,000. It also has a registered radio membership of 50,000. A few months ago there was a lull in her case and she slipped off the front pages. Instantly her nightly audiences started dwindling. Then there were new developments—and at once the temple became jammed again with crowds standing in the street in front to hear Aimee's sermons over the loud speakers.

Now she has gone on an eight weeks' tour of the United States. The Angelo Temple congregations, left in the hands of "Ma" Kennedy, again have begun to shrink. But it will only be for eight weeks. Then Mrs. McPherson will return, and you can rest assured that some new method of showmanship speedily will be forthcoming. For Mrs. McPherson is a born showman.

The way has been cleared for the purchase of the only remaining municipally owned gas and electric plant in the state of Wisconsin. The people of the town of Fort Atkinson voted on the offer of $450,000 made by the Wisconsin Gas and Electric company at a recent election, and the result was an acceptance of the purchase price offered. The company will now take over the plant and operate it as a subsidiary. Statistics prepared by the American Gas association show that there is a distinct trend toward the abolition of privately owned utility plants, the public evidently feeling that private ownership and management results in better service.—Gainesville Register.

SAINT AND SINNER

BY ANNE AUSTIN COPYRIGHT 1926 NEA

TWO automobiles were needed to carry the mass of flowers which had come from friends and strangers to testify sympathy with the Lane family in their bereavement.

"People are kind," Faith murmured to Bob, as the undertaker's assistants piled the hundreds of wreaths and bouquets into the waiting automobiles. "They are trying to tell us that they believe in Cherry. But Mother would have been pleased if she could have known she was to receive so many flowers."

The official funeral party was made up of members of the family only, except for Bob Hathaway, who would become one of the family upon his marriage with Faith. But the unofficial funeral train, which was more than half a mile long, was composed of hundreds of cars, filled with morbid sensation-seekers, and with reporters and cameramen. The Lanes tried to ignore that long line of cars, to achieve some small measure of privacy in their grief. A squad of policemen, ordered by Chief Morehouse to protect the family from annoyance, kept the crowds at bay at the gates of the cemetery, but at least a dozen reporters and two photographers slipped past the officers who made little or no effort to detain them, and watched the final services almost at the elbows of the mourners.

The last rites over the body of Martha Lane were read by the Methodist minister who had "officiated" at the brief services at the Myrtle Street house. Faith shut her eyes, leaning heavily on Bob's arm, while her left hand gripped her father's hot, gnarled old fingers. She tried, with all her will-power, to disassociate the beautiful words of the burial service from the unctuous, professionally comforting voice of the fat, old preacher who intoned them.

"I am the Resurrection and the Life, saith the Lord." If only she could believe that her mother was free of her body somewhere, gloriously well-free, free, and looking down upon them with infinite wisdom and loving understanding.

"O teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom."

But her mother was dead, dead, and Cherry was in prison, charged with a terrible crime, and she was left to carry the burden of the family and somehow, oh God, somehow, somehow to save Cherry! Her ears strained again to catch a word of comfort from the deeply intoned, solemn words of the changeless, deathless ritual.

"For as much as it hath pleased Almighty God in His Providence to take out of the world the soul of our deceased sister—"

Deceased! The word was like a sharp knife turning in her heart. The mother whom she could remember as a strong, cheerful, willing worker, singing about the house, scolding and praising three troublesome little children—herself, Junior and an adorable little elf called Cherry—deceased! No, no, she had escaped from pain and sorrow and the disgrace of Cherry's trial for murder. Suddenly Faith knew that she was glad that her mother was dead if only she could have died without knowing that the most dreadful of calamities had overtaken the child she had adored above everything else on earth or in heaven.

"The Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ and the Love of God and the Fellowship of the Holy Ghost be with us all evermore. Amen."

Faith opened her eyes, which had been streaming tears unheeded, and forced herself to watch them lower the coffin into the grave. When the first lumps of frozen earth clumped heavily upon the box, Joy with a wild shriek of realization and despair, flung off her father's comforting arm and ran, before anyone could stop her, to the very brink of the grave.

"Mummy, Mummy! I want to go with you!" Joy's shrill voice rose and cracked on such agony as Faith had not dreamed the child was capable of. Joy with the writhing, convulsed little body into her arms. "I'm going to be your Mummy now, darling. I'll be good to you, Joy."

TOMORROW: Cherry is arraigned on the charge of murder.

Light—It Helps or Hurts Our Eyes

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

ALL over the world attention is being given more and more to the question of proper illumination of homes, factories and schools, with a view to the health aspects of the situation.

A special report of the British Medical Research Council, analyzing available literature, indicates that close work is best observed by monochromatic rays from the blue end of the spectrum, whereas distant objects are best seen in the red end, and general detail is brought out best by white light.

Eyestrain
A normal eye under ordinary illumination can be used continuously for three or four hours with the eye maintaining a practically constant efficiency.

Continuous intensive eyestrain, as for example, that of airship observers during flight, will produce signs of visual acuity, images seen after the original observation, and inco-ordination of the eye muscles.

A study of the lighting of postoffices made by the United States Public Health Service involved the detailed examination of 3449 postoffice employees.

It was found that fewer than 30 per cent had normal vision and that fewer than 17 per cent had both vision and eyes wholly free from defects.

The group with the best vision obtained a maximum amount of work output at eight-foot candles illumination, while the group with the worst vision did not obtain its maximum work output until the illumination reached 14-foot candles. The average daylight in postoffices is 12-foot candles.

In The Home
Several recent observations on lighting in the home point out that the eye is adapted to a wide range of intensity of light, but emphasize the danger of undue glare. All artificial light sources should be shaded and glossy surfaces should be avoided especially on printed paper.

Several investigators recently have urged the use of artificial illumination or of especially prepared window glass for schools which would permit children to receive regularly a definite amount of ultraviolet rays.

There seems to be no doubt that ultraviolet light is valuable in aiding proper body growth through its effects on nutrition and the absorption of food substances. However, the possible effects of long continued or overexposure to ultraviolet light have not been definitely established.

American physicians are inclined to delay such movements for the utilization of ultraviolet rays until a time when sufficient experimentation shall have been done to avoid the possibility of bad effects from overexposures.

An Ill Wind

The kind of weather we have been encountering the past few days, unpleasant as it has been for most of us, must certainly have been created with a happy heart and buoyant spirit by many others.

It has given so many people a topic of conversation.
At least one out of every four men must have some remark to make about the weather when ordinarily they would be dumb as an ox.

Cut Down This Toll!

Nineteen hundred twenty-seven finds the United States still faced with a problem which will merit call for a most earnest new year's resolution.
It is a problem of the coal-mining industry.

That doesn't refer to coal prices or labor troubles. It refers to the toll of lives which the industry annually exact.

In 1926 more than 2150 coal miners lost their lives, the federal government estimates. Of these 2150 were killed in "major accidents." The resulted singly or in groups of two, or three. Nearly five-sixths of the deaths occurred in bituminous coal mines.

The fatality rate, however, based on tons of coal produced, was considerably higher among anthracite workers.

How many of these deaths can be classified honestly as "unavoidable" it is hard to say. At all events it would seem as if America could make no new year resolution much better than a resolve to cut down the death toll of its coal mines.

Here is a list of major coal mine accidents of the year, accidents in which eight or ten "lark men" were killed.

Wihurton, Okla., Jan. 2, 97 killed;
Farmington, W. Va., Jan. 14, 19; West
Frankford, Ill., Jan. 28, 10; Helena, Ala.,
Jan. 29, 27; Horning, Pa., Feb. 2, 21;
Nelson Creek, Ky., Feb. 16, 8; 40-cvles,
W. Va., March 4, 19; Port Carbon, Pa.,
March 22, 10; Kingston, Pa., July 2, 2;
Moffat, Ala., July 21, 9; Clymer, Pa.,
Aug. 28, 14; Tahona, Okla., Sept. 2, 14;
Rockwood, Tenn., Oct. 4, 27; Uatickows, Pa., Oct. 26, 9; Moundsville, W.
Va., Nov. 15, 5; Francisco, Ind., Dec.
9, 28.

The men who go down into the mines are risking their lives daily in the production of an essential commodity.

The toll of 2150 lives a year is too high for any community, no matter how essential it is.

Imperialism?

Some of the critics of our state department, pointing to our policy toward Mexico and Nicaragua, contend that we are filibustered upon a policy of imperialism.

The majority of us can not know what is in the minds of the nation's leaders. But most of us ridicule the theory that we already are an empire
and are expanding our domain.

It is in other lands, however, the protests against "American Imperialism" have reached their loudest pitch.
In Europe, Asia—and Latin America as well—the ambitions of rulers, statesmen, nations and races have so powerfully influenced the course of history and wrecked and re-wrecked the happiness of that succession has become one of the most important items of national defense as well as chief cause of war.

If the suspicion of these methods is directed at this great country today
there is little need for comment.
What nation of the past beyond the more powerful than her neighbors, has not set out on the course of empire?

Consider Imperial Egypt. Imperial Greece. Imperial Rome. Imperial Spain. Imperial France. Imperial Germany. Imperial Russia.

And then consider what a task we must have on our hands to convince the world that the United States always will stand as the Great Exception of History!

Mining operations call for 250,000-000 cubic feet of lumber every year.

Old Masters

So fallen! so lost; the light withdrawn
Which once he wore!

The glory from his gray hair gone
Forevermore!

Reville him not, the Tempter hath
A snare for all;
And pitying tears, not scorn and wrath
Be fit his fall.

Oh, dumb be passion's stormy
rage,
And hide the shame,
When he who might
Have lighted up and led his age,
Falls back in night.

Let not the land once proud of him
Insult him now,
Nor brand with deeper shame his
dim,
Dis honored brow.

Then pay the reverence of old days
To his dead fame;
Walk backward, with averted
face,
And hide the shame,
J. G. Whittier: Ichabod (selected verses).

IN NEW YORK
SEE-SAVING
and down
BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Times and style change amusingly. Not so many years ago it was supposed to be the mark of the European visitor
that he have long hair and a beard patterned after the second act of "La Boheme." Paderewski's tossing mane was taken as a standard and, to this day, cartoonists love to picture the esthetic young musicians with curls all but dangling down their backs.

Yet the popular young moderns of the music world might easily be mistaken for well-groomed bond salesmen from Wall street. Of six I have heard this winter but one seemed to need a hair cut, and I'm inclined to think that the length of his crop really was the result of a week's delay in barbering.

Kochanski, one of the most popular violinists of Manhattan just now, is slender, well hairdressed and easily could be mistaken in the movies if he could pass a film test.

Klemperer, dynamic German director who now wields the baton for the New York symphony, while thick of hair has no locks to fly in the wind,
and Toscanini of the Philharmonic arrives with a little hair that would do no harm.

On the other hand long, straggling locks of pre-1918 era now seem to mark a majority of feminine musicians. A few of the more modern school, have taken to the loose bob, though none I have seen have dared the dangers of a boyish bob. And those representatives of "solid music"—almost to a man, or rather to a woman—cling to woman's crowning glory.

The music season, by the way,
reaches its peak in Manhattan just at this season.

To glance beyond the doorways of Aeolian or Carnegie halls is to behold
a chaos of announcements and a dizzy array of notable names. The real music lover would have to keep going day and night and bob up in several places at the same time to attend any appreciable percentage of the concerts.

YUCCA IS AS SINGULAR

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—In case
some of you think Washington news is a bore and that Washington correspondents ought to take four or five days off every week, you may be interested to hear of the vast amount of "news" with which the reading public is not afflicted due to the forbearance of editors and correspondents.

Every correspondent here gets enough
"publicity" and "information" in his mail every day to fill a good-sized newspaper.

Here is the gist of part of the morn-ing's mail, most of it provided by private or government press agents:

THAT STREET SWEEPING MACHINE

The Globe today publishes a letter from J. M. Dean in which he deplora the dirty condition of Amarillo streets, and makes the assertion that if the city has a street sweeping machine it must be keeping it as a curio.

Whether the sweeping machine is kept in use regularly, the Globe does not know, but it does know that our streets are too dirty for the health of the community. The Globe has on numerous occasions advocated the washing or flushing of the down town streets, and the longer the city delays in cleaning the streets are more it endangers the public health.

If the one sweeping machine is not sufficient, it would be advisable to purchase another, and if they fail to clean the streets it is time to spend some money on water, brushes and a shovel crew.—Amarillo Globe.

THE MULTIPLICITY OF LAWS

Laws are made for the protection of the people who live under them.
This is something for legislators to remember at this season when state legislators and congress are in session and the number of laws will be increased by several thousands.

If a law is a good one, it should be enforced. If it is not a good law it should be repealed and not be permitted to remain on the statute books and serve as one of the causes that are tearing down the respect for law.

We have too many laws that are dead letters—laws that may have been useful at one time, but the need for them has ceased to exist. They give the fanatic a weapon to create disorder and ill feeling that might be avoided if they were erased from the statute books.

This condition is well known to the public, even the younger generation just reaching maturity. It is not calculated to increase respect for law. It is a danger to all law.

We need fewer laws, and the laws
we have should be enforced.—Panhandle Herald.

Tolstoy's Grave
Hidden By Trees

YASNAYA POLYANA, Russia, Jan.
27. (AP)—Unmarked and unadorned,
the grave of Count Leo Tolstoy, great Russian writer and philosopher, remains hidden in his beloved woods
where neither the voice nor footsteps of man intrude.

The author of "War and Peace" sleeps under a simple mound of clay surrounded by nine great oak trees in the depths of the forest near where he was born almost a hundred years ago.

Russia has gone through revolution, famine, plague and civil strife, but the old Tolstoy homestead is much the same as when he died in 1910.

The house in which he was born was removed many years ago, to be supplanted by the ten room brick and frame house in which he spent most of his life, and wrote his masterpieces.

Time weather and neglect have dealt severely with it, but the soviet government has set aside a sum for its maintenance as a museum.

Miss Alexandra Tolstoy, the writer's youngest daughter, has charge of the house and surrounding estate. She guards his books, family bedrooms and personal possessions with maternal care.

In the dark, arched room where Tolstoy wrote most of his books are the old wicker buckles bench on which he sat cross-legged while writing, his chessboard, and the garden spade, hoe and rake with which he liked to till the soil. There, too, are the photographic records which the writer made during the last years of his life. They contain selected pieces from his works, created by himself.

Nothing guards the lonely Tolstoy grave except a plain lattice fence. It was his wish that only "God's blue sky and nature's silent forest" be over his ashes. The family disapproved of a memorial.

RECALL OLD DAYS
IN AVIATION

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 27. (AP)—
The appropriations which will be made this year for maintenance of the army air service would have sounded like the combined national debts of the nations of the world to Lieut. Col. B. D. Foulis, who carried the army's flying activities through their first year on an appropriation of $150.

Airplanes were rare machines in 1914. San Antonio saw its first flight in that year when an intrepid acrobat, as he styled himself, conducted a flight from a nearby pasture. About ten days later Lieut. Col. Foulis, Lieutenant Foulis then, arrived with the army's first plane, one of the primitive Wright models, and assembled it
at an army camp here.

His first flights were apparently successful as a newspaper of that time records the fact that he broke his own endurance record a few days after the plane was assembled by remaining in the air 23 1/2 minutes. Shortly after this Lieut. Foulis and the small personnel assigned to help him take care of the plane became the aviation section of the Signal corps.

The maintenance appropriation of $150 was insufficient and approximat-ly $200 came out of the pockets of the aviation section the first year.

Broadcasting Of Symphony Success

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—Symphonic music made available to appreciative hearers by means of the radio is enhancing the popularity of the orchestras. This is the experience of at least four conductors, who pronounce broadcasting of orchestral music a success. "The concert by radio as a type of entertainment and education combined seemed to strike a real popular demand," declared Walter Damrosch, who is retiring as conductor of the New York Symphony orchestra to give more attention to radio music. "I think that after hearing radio symphonic music the people are anxious to see the musicians and the conductor, consequently I believe it is a splendid thing." De Robertis said he found it easier to get contracts outside of Kansas City as a result of broadcasting. Nikolai Sokoloff, conductor of the Cleveland Symphony orchestra, said that if radio were to accomplish nothing more, "its service to humanity so far as music education is concerned would be remembered forever."

Other leaders were inclined to await further experience before forming a conclusion. "I think the broadcasting of symphonic music would be a wonderful educational influence for the country in general but its advisability is a question which should be decided by the trustees and management of the orchestra," said Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. "Like everything that is new and attractive," Rudolph Ganz, conductor of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra, believes that radio "is being overdone to the extent of 'giving too much for nothing'."

Concerts of the St. Louis orchestra which are broadcast "have suffered some," he said, "but we feel that we have gained in national reputation through our being heard over the radio."

EL PASO LEADS IN SUL ROSS ENROLLMENT ALPINE, Jan. 26.—El Paso county is leading in enrollment of students in Sul Ross State Teachers college, according to a recent checking of students by counties. ### CITY DADS TALK ABOUT SUBWAYS

No Definite Decision Is Yet Reached in Plans; Another Meeting For Today

Considerable discussion of proposals to construct subways under crossings of the Santa Fe railroad at the east and north sides of the city was had by members of the City Commission in called session here Wednesday afternoon, but pending further discussion of the situation, no definite action was taken. The commission was to meet again this afternoon, when it was thought probably some definite decision would be made.

Three of the commissioners and Mayor Pink L. Parrish expressed favor toward early beginning of negotiations leading to construction of both subways, while two commissioners favored negotiations for only one underpass at a time, unless some means is provided by law to force the railroad company to construct the subways.

Broadway Is Favored

It was the opinion of two of the commissioners that the Broadway project, upon which considerable preliminary work has been done should be given first consideration if only one is built due to the fact that plans for this project were started about seven years ago. It was their opinion that this project will more practically serve the citizenship.

Tax payers of Lubbock today are drawing considerable consolation in the action by the commission when an extension of thirty days was voted for payment of city taxes. By unanimous action of the commission upon a motion offered by W. S. Posey, no penalties will be attached to city taxes until after March 1.

Law Often Resorted To

The action came after an explanation was made that many Texas cities often take advantage of this feature of the law, and in view of existing conditions since many property owners cannot pay their taxes without much inconvenience, very little discussion of the matter was held.

The commission also set widths for the various streets under the paving program recently contracted for, and with the exception of the north end of Avenue H that empties onto state highway No. 9 to Plainview, all streets will be paved not less than 26 feet wide. Considerable discussion as to the width was had but the body was almost unanimous in the opinion that a great mistake had been made in cutting Main to 26.

Under the action Wednesday, 16th from Avenue Q to College avenue, and 19th from Texas avenue to college avenue will be 26 feet. Texas avenue from 14th to 18th will be 22 feet, with a 22 foot parkway in the center. Avenue G from 16th to 8th is to be 25 feet wide, as is 8th street between Avenue G and Avenue H; Avenue H, north of the railroad crossing from 6th to 1st will be 30 feet under terms of a petition filed by property owners.

All the paving will be brick on four inch concrete base under unanimous vote of the commission at a recent meeting.

Flashes Of Life

(By The Associated Press)

Look Out, Tex!

FRESNO, Calif.—Tex Rickard had better look to his laurels. Jack Dempsey says he's going to try to turn promoter if his attempts to continue as a fighter fail.

A Big Cop

NEW YORK—Father Knickerbocker has a giant, a perfect physical specimen, among his new policemen. Frank Brooks is 6 feet 7-1/2 inches tall in his stockings and weighs 205.

Babe For Ban

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—Babe Ruth, batting for Ban Johnson, calls him "a regular guy," notwithstanding sundry fines and suspensions which Babe confesses he deserved.

A New Idea

NEW ORLEANS—Dr. J. W. Previne, president of Mississippi college, prefers that students spend time "shooting the bull" about athletics rather than playing poker and drinking as was done in former days. And instead of spending too much on athletics, colleges spend too little, he thinks.

Here's a new way to use an old brief case—and, also, a good way to make sure that little Billy won't get cold when he plays in the snow. Rev. R. L. stars at once, but not three. Bobby Jones won from the best ball of Glenna Collett and Maureen Orrcutt last summer. Now Jack Hutchison has been defeated by Glenna, Miss Helen Payson and Mrs. E. A. Tracey, although he did a 70.

He Finds Out

NEW YORK—Jack Fugasey, promoter, went up to Albany to relieve his perturbation over an idea that Governor Al Smith was a foe of boxing. Fugasey is back with word that the governor does not oppose boxing, but it is not one of his two hobbies—he's stuck on dogs and the movies—slapstick comedies.

Linwood V. Castner of Medomak, Me., claims the world's clam digging championship. He dug 456 bushels of clams in 29 days, his best day's record being 18 1/2 bushels.

Pennsylvania, considered chiefly an industrial state, has more money invested in agriculture than any other industry but mining. An income of $506,000 a year is produced by 296,000 acres.

William Turner, 94, of Barnstable, England, has drawn an army pension for 56 years, a postoffice pension for 20 years and an old age pension for 18 years.

LOSE FAT IN THIS PLEASANT WAY

Not by abnormal exercise or diet, but by correcting the cause of excess fat, as countless people now are doing. That way is Marmola Prescription Tablets, used for 19 years. Today you see the results in every circle, in figures made girlish and slender. The use of Marmola has grown to very large proportions because of these proved results. HOW frequently, at the end of the month, you wait and wait for the balance sheet, while your bookkeepers pore over the ledgers, searching for an elusive mistake! Perhaps an important plan or deal is kept "on-the-shelf"—in any event, precious time is lost, books are tied up one week, maybe two.

Save all this trouble

Rid your business of such expensive, annoying delays! You can with the Dalton "MULTIPLEX" Commercial Ledger Posting and Statement Machine. For this machine tells each day whether the ledgers are in balance. When the day's posting is completed, the machine instantly and automatically proves the work.
