A SHARE IN KINDNESS

Nothing in life is more difficult than war for peace-loving people. It bears the unending trail of sorrow, its disruption of homes and its utter waste of life and property. Yet the people of this nation are in the third year of the world's most horrible war.

Each day more blue stars in service flags turn to gold as the son, that brother or that father falls on a distant and unknown battlefield. Each day hundreds or thousands of men are carried back to hospitals with grievous wounds. Each day is a member of some American family. These and, yes millions of American men in uniform are tired because of belief of battle, and homesick for home and family. Yet they know they must keep on.

There is no one of us but would give everything to lighten the burden of sorrowing families who have lost their men, or come the fears of those whose men have been wounded. We would give all we could to ease the pain of the injured, or still the homesickness in those who must fight on.

Today, as the American Red Cross opens its campaign for funds, we can do our share in lightening the burden of sorrow, in relieving the tears and in easing the pain of the wounded.

The American Red Cross was created just for that purpose and through its channels of service we can do most for those who need our help.

The Red Cross is at the front keeping alive the atmosphere of home for the men who are fighting; the Red Cross is in the hospitals cheering the wounded and sending messages home to anxious and fearful relatives; the Red Cross is sending blood plasma and surgical dressings to save the lives of American youth; the Red Cross is here at home to aid and assist families in distress.

This is Your Red Cross and through it you can do your share in human kindness and blunt somewhat the horror that is war.

AMATEUR HOUR TUESDAY

The senior class of 1915 is sponsoring an Amateur Hour in the Gymnasium Tuesday, February 27. It is an annual affair, and there will be a good display of varied talents. The seniors are expecting a large crowd, and all are doing their best to provide a program everyone will enjoy.

Entries may be given to Elden Marse, Earlene Jester, and Ramona Hoek until the night of February 26. For admission and prizes see the advertisement in this paper.

COUNT MACHINES NOT

Due to the fact that war conditions prohibit the purchase of machinery and also the actual labor shortage, the Commission of the County of Mitchell has decided to discontinue the terracing program for the duration and to operate what oil and water equipment is in keeping in condition as possible under the prevailing conditions.

Discontinuing the terracing program is not the pleasure of the Court, but a decision reached because of war necessity demands.

FIRE CHIEF CAUTIONS CAR DRIVERS TO STOP

Tom Ray, Fire Chief, has issued a warning to all who drive cars to pull over to the curb and stop when the fire siren is sounded for a fire or practice. When a car remains on the street it hinders the operation of the firemen and may result in serious accident. The fire truck, when it is called out, must go to the fire in a hurry. Every second delay gives the fire that much more time to spread, and cars ahead of the fire truck do delay it in arriving at the scene of the fire. The firemen want to render the best service possible and in order to do so must have a clear street when the fire alarm sounds. Do your part to help by pulling over to the curb when you hear the siren. A minute or two delay won't hurt you and it may save the property of someone.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

German Militarism Doomed As Big Three Chart New Europe; Allies Spear Deeper into Reich

Released by Western Newspaper Union.
 (EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Bearing personal possessions, Filipinos pass through smoldering ruins in Manila after Jap fight to slow Yank advance.

BIG THREE:

Europe of Tomorrow

Although details necessarily must be left until after the war, the general pattern of the Europe of tomorrow loomed as a result of the Big Three's conference at the Crimean watering resort of Yalta.

As the outline emerged, there was the prospect of a Europe consisting of an expanded Russia; of smaller countries promised the right of picking their own governments, and of a Germany emasculated to prevent the conduct of another war.

Determined to stamp out German militarism, the Big Three planned to break up both the general staff and army; do away with all Wehrmacht equipment; eliminate or control all Nazi industry that could be used for war production; and wipe out all Nazi and Junker influence in the life of the state.

In conceding Russia's claim to eastern Poland, Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill compromised with Premier Stalin on the question of a government for the recently liberated nation, agreeing on a regime to include members of the present Red-sponsored Lublin committee and other Democratic elements, with a free election to be held later for final settlement of the problem.

In addition to promising the smaller nations the right to choose their own governments, the Big Three an-

Sensing such a plan, himself, Russia's Marshal Gregory Zhukov maintained heavy pressure on German lines to the north of his forces bearing down on Berlin, in attempts to unsettle Nazi designs on a great flanking drive southward.

If Germans placed their faith in a miracle, however, that faith was being sorely tested by Allied operations, with the latest Russian menace being a drive on industrially important Saxony, following a quick dash westward across Silesia. Not only did the Reds threaten to seal off this production center, as they had moved to seal off the lower Silesian area, but they also threatened to swing to the north and outflank embattled Berlin, periled by Zhukov's armies pressing forward from the east.

Meanwhile, Marshal Bernard Montgomery's Canadian and British Tommies pressed their attack on the northern anchor of the Siegfried line in an attempt to swing behind German defenses and then break south for the Ruhr, trapping Nazi forces facing U. S. armies on the Rhineland plain from the rear.

As Montgomery's forces headed for the Ruhr, the Nazis opened the floodgates of the Urt and Schwammeneau dams farther to the south, inundating the western banks of the Roer river and bogging the British 2nd and U. S. 1st and 9th armies in their smash through the Siegfried line to the Rhine. Rain added to the floodwaters released at the rate of 1,000,000 cubic feet an hour to slow the Allied advance.

MEAT:

Growing Shortage

Because of decreased cattle and hog slaughter and big government demands, civilian meat consumption may drop to the lowest level since 1935, when emergency butchering of stock in drought areas and the pig rationing program forced the per capita supply to 116 pounds.

Short now, meat may become even more scarce during the spring and summer, when the government, unable to stock up during the winter months, may be compelled to go into the market during the slack seasons. With the normal increase in fall butchering, supplies could be expected to become more plentiful then.

In a further effort to get its share of meat now, the government recently ordered federally inspected packers to set aside 70 per cent, instead of 50 per cent, of their utility grade beef production for use in canned goods for the military and lend-lease.

PACIFIC:

Mop Up Manila

As Yanks moved to close up the last pockets of Jap resistance on battered Manila, other U. S. forces spread out to the east and north of the central plain to tighten their grip on the main Philippine island of Luzon.

With its modern business district gutted by fire, Manila long rumbled to heavy gunfire, as die-hard enemy units, fighting to the last, mounted artillery and mortars in buildings in the south end of the city and peppered advancing U. S. liberation forces.

Repaying in kind, famed U. S. artillery pulverized Jap strongpoints, with ground forces pushing their way forward through rubble-strewn streets, still infested by light-armored enemy remnants. As the 37th infantry, 1st cavalry and 11 air borne divisions closed in on the Japs, they pressed them tighter and tighter against the dock area.

Jap Ghosts

Although the starving Jap stragglers on Guam constitute neither a menace nor a threat today, it is still a surprise to come on them without warning in banana and coconut groves or to catch them at night trying to pilfer from a ration dump, marine correspondent Alvin Joseph Jr., says.

With the development of the island and with the arrival of army and navy nurses, women correspondents and congressional groups, the presence of Japanese is annoying.

Servicemen With Their Loyal and Strange Pets

Four mascots, upper left, of the Seventh Liberator squadron. They all joined the squadron when small pups. Lower left shows a sleeping G.I. with his two strange bedfellows, a monkey and a dog. Right shows a pet that as become as tame as any of the more domestic type of pets. Insert, a G.I. with his white mouse. Thousands of these pets will be returning to the U. S. with their masters when the war is over. Army officials say they have played a most important part in morale building among the servicemen.

American Allies Fighting Behind Jap Lines

Led by American army, navy and marine officers and enlisted men, the Kachins, perennial hill people of Burma, are focusing their natural fighting talents on combating the Japanese behind enemy lines in Burma. Known as the American Kachin rangers, the Kachins have contributed greatly to the defeat of the Japs in Burma during the last two years. The activities, until recently, have been withheld.

G.I. Joe's Personal Biographer

Famed war correspondent Ernie Pyle, whose warm informal human-interest reporting of the war on African and European fronts earned him the title of G.I. Joe's personal biographer, is greeted by Capt. H. B. Miller, USN, left, and Capt. David S. Ingalls, center, as he arrives in Hawaii to begin a duty tour of the U. S. navy on the Pacific front.

Water Buffaloes on Leyte Isle

Veteran signalmen of the Seventh division on Leyte give high praise to water buffaloes as pack animals, but have a serious grievance regarding other habits of these sturdy beasts. Herds, roaming freely in certain areas of the island, frequently disrupt communications by getting tangled in signal corps field wire, laid off roads to avoid tanks.

What a Dog's Life

My Joey, whippet, resents the intrusion of the photographer into his privacy while he is being beautified. The manicure serves more than vanity in this case, it makes running more comfortable. This is only one of the trials of a whippet.

Dishes Made of Ice

Now that the women of America have learned to operate drills and chisels, they will be making their own ice bowls for salads and sea food dishes, as does Madeline Stone, above.

Ernie Pyle With the Navy

Only a Fool Would Want To Return to Front

Writer Is on His Way Back Despite All Arguments

By Ernie Pyle

Ernie Pyle is with the navy in the Pacific. Pending receipt of his dispatches from that war theater this newspaper is publishing a few articles he wrote before his takeoff from San Francisco, of which the following is one.

SAN FRANCISCO—Well, here we go again. It has been four months since I wrote my last column, from France. In four months of non-production a writer gets out of the habit. He forgets the rhythm of words; falls into the easy habit of not making himself think or feel in self-expression.

This first column is a man-killer. Your mind automatically resents the task of focusing itself again. Your thoughts are scattered and you can't get them together to put onto paper. Words come hard. You have to think again. You curse the day you ever took up writing to make a living. So until I'm once more immersed in the routine of daily writing, and transported once more into the one-track world of war, I'm afraid you'll have to be tolerant with me.

There's nothing nice about the prospect of going back to war again. Anybody who has been in war and wants to go back is a plain old damn fool in my book.

I'm certainly not going because I've got itchy feet again, or because I can't stand America, or because there's any mystic fascination about war that is drawing me back.

I'm going simply because there's a war on and I'm part of it and I've known all the time I was going back. I'm going simply because I've got to—and I hate it.

This time it will be the Pacific. When I left France last fall we thought the war in Europe was about over. I say "we" because I mean almost everybody over there thought so. I felt it was so near the end I could come home and before the time came to go again, that side of the war would be finished, and only the Pacific would be left.

But it didn't turn out that way. Now nobody knows how long the European war will last. Naturally all my friends and associations and sentiments are on that side. I suppose down in my heart I would rather go back, to that side. For over in Europe I know the tempo of the battle; I feel at home with it in a way.

And yet I think it's best to stick with the original plan and go on to the Pacific. There are a lot of guys in that war, too. They are the same guys who are fighting on the other side, only with different names, that's all. It is not belittling my friends in Europe to desert them and go to the Pacific for a while.

I'm going with the navy this time, since the navy is so dominant in the Pacific, and since I've done very little in the past on that part of the service. I won't stay with the navy for the duration—probably two or three months, and then back ashore again with my noble souls, the doughfoots.

Security forbids telling you just what the plans are. But I can say that I'll fly across the Pacific, and join ship on the other side. Aboard ship I'll be out of touch with the world on long cruises. It may be there will be lapses in the column, simply because it's impossible to transmit these pieces. But we'll do our best to keep them going steadily.

I haven't figured out yet what I'm going to do about seasickness. I'm one of those unfortunate with a terrific stomach on land, but one that turns to whey and jelly when I get aboard ship. I know of nothing that submerges the muse in a man as much as the constant compulsion to throw up. Perhaps I should take along my own oil to spread on the troubled waters.

Friends warn me about all kinds of horrible diseases in the Pacific. About dysentery, and malaria, and fungus that gets in your ears and your intestines, and that horrible swelling disease known as elephantiasis.

Well, all I can say is that I'm God's gift to germs. Those fungi will shout and leap for joy when I show up. Maybe I can play the Pied Piper role—maybe the germs will all follow me when I get there, and leave the rest of the boys free to fight.

So what with disease, Japs, seasickness, and shot and shell—you see I'm not too overwhelmed with relief at starting out again.

But there's one thing in my favor where I'm going; one thing that will make life bearable when all else is darkness and gloom. And that one thing is that, out in the Pacific, I'll be damned good and stinking hot. Oh boy!

ON CALIFORNIA'S FRONT
These first half dozen columns or so are being written in San Francisco before taking off for the Pacific. They are a very sketchy report on the home front.

If you can bear a little reminiscence I'd like to go back over these last four months of furlough, and bring you up to date on the Prodigal Son's recent activities.

Well, since leaving France and returning to America, I have—Crossed the continent three times. Had eight teeth filled. Spent my first Christmas with "That Girl" since the war started. Mowed the lawn once.

I've been photographed 1,000 times, and was made president of the Rio Grande Steamship and Navigation company. (Blubber division.) I've been killed by Paulette Goddard, Olivia DeHavilland and Jinx Falkenberg all in one afternoon—Hallelujah!

Six people sent me oil paintings they'd done from photographs. I've sat up all night three nights on trains, and three nights on airplanes. I've said "no" to at least 500 requests to speak, and have managed to keep well supplied with cigarettes.

Kind people have flooded me with gifts. Mayor Clyde Tingley of Albuquerque opened it with a $500 wrist watch, which so overwhelms me that I left it in a safety deposit box back home. Who would dare wear a $500 wrist watch?

I've had luscious apples from Washington state, pecans from Mississippi, half a dozen homemade hunting knives, two college degrees, a Texas cowboy belt, two foxhole shovels, one baby jeep, sun glasses for the Pacific, and one noble friend came through with 10 pounds of bacon.

We've had so much company at our house in Albuquerque that one night I slept on a canvas cot in the woodshed, and one night on the living room floor in my new sleeping bag. (I didn't sleep very well either.)

Despite all the frenzy, I've felt almost pathetic in my happiness at being home. I've had a wonderful time.

People are always asking what I think of the "home front," expecting me of course to raise hell about it.

Well, I don't know. In the first place it's so wonderful to be home that I find myself reluctant to criticize or even admit any flaws in the home front.

It is true that a great many people don't know there's a war on, or don't seem to care. And yet I realize that I could very easily let myself sit down and take it easy and never think of war again, except in an academic way.

I've had no bad incidents during these few months at home. But I have learned from experience that it's almost impossible—some times infuriating in a helpless sort of way—to talk to most civilians feelingly about the war.

On trains and in public places I find myself drifting automatically to boys in uniform with overseas ribbons or service stripes, for we can talk the same language.

As an example of what I mean, one man said to me one day in complete good faith, "Tell me now, just exactly what is it you don't like about war?"

I think I must have turned a little white, and all I could do was look at him in shock, and say, "Good God, if you don't know, then I could never tell you." It's little things like that which make returning soldiers feel their misery has all been in vain.

I don't think America at home is either unwilling or incapable of getting fully into the war.

We need only to be told more what to do, and to have scarcities and grimness applied clear across the board.

Pyle Wrote His Final Article From Paris

(Ed. Note: Before beginning his new series above, Ernie Pyle wrote his farewell from Paris to the doughboys and sailors serving on European front.)

This is the last of these columns from Europe. By the time you read this, the old man will be on his way back to America. After that war will come a long, long rest. And after the rest—well, you never can tell.

Undoubtedly this seems to you to be a funny time for a fellow to be quitting the war. It is a funny time. But I'm not leaving because of a whim, or even especially because I'm homesick.

I'm leaving for one reason only—because I have just got to stop. "I've had it," as they say in the army. I have had all I can take for a while.

GOD IS MY CO-PILOT

Col. Robert L. Scott

WNU RELEASE

The story thus far: After graduating from West Point, Robert Scott won his wings at Kelly Field, Texas, and takes up combat flying. He has been an instructor for four years when the war breaks out, and is told he is now too old for combat flying. After appealing to several Generals he is offered an opportunity to get into the fight. On arriving in India he is made a ferry pilot, but this does not suit Scott, who talks Gen. Chennault into giving him a Kittyhawk for combat flying. Soon he is flying over the skies of Burma and becomes known as the "one man air force." Later he is made C.O. of the 23rd Fighter Group, but he still keeps knocking Jap planes out of the skies.

CHAPTER XXVIII

It looked as if we'd get the chance very soon, too, for the field in western Yunnan had been selected by the General and I called Yeching. To us that meant "good hunting," for ducks and geese abounded. The landmark for our base was just one of the many lakes in Yunnan.

For the purpose of security in future operations, I will not name our base in western Yunnan. But there was a big turquoise-blue lake less than ten miles away which the General and I called Yeching. To us that meant "good hunting," for ducks and geese abounded. The landmark for our base was just one of the many lakes in Yunnan.

Next morning I went out on Lake Yeching, and from the bow of a native sampan I soon shot eighteen of the biggest geese I had ever seen. Even if we were remote from the loved ones at home, we'd have meat for Christmas dinner that was filled with the vitamins we needed.

I had hurried back to the field before taking off for Kunming with my report on the efficiency of the warning net, and was taking pictures of some little mongol-appearing Miaoos who were holding my geese aloft—when we had an air raid alert. There was heavy engine-noise from the reporting stations over towards Burma. We tossed the eighteen geese into the baggage compartment, winding their necks around among the contents of the radio so that the cargo wouldn't shift, and I took off for Kunming. Then as I heard more reports from the Southwest, I turned South, joined the other fighters on patrol, and looked for the enemy. In about forty-five minutes we spread out to cover more territory, and I caught sight of two enemy planes—Zeros I thought, at first sight. I called to the others and attacked. Even as I approached the Japs I knew they were too slow and too large for Zeros. Then I saw that they were single-engine reconnaissance-bombers.

I caught the rear one and gave it a short burst, keeping my eye on the other. The first one went down with most of one wing gone. The next I chased down every valley on the Mekong, getting in several good shots, but I never did see him go down or crash. From the evidence of the thin trail of smoke that I last saw coming from it as I dove and circled to look around again, I claimed it as a "probable."

The first one I had confirmed as a "certain." The others in our patrol engaged four other planes and probably shot down two of them. The General had been correct as usual—the Japs were keeping the end of the ferry route under close surveillance.

Christmas night, while we were enjoying the geese, George Hazlett came in with his Squadron to report that the Japs had bombed our base near Lake Yeching with eighteen ships on that afternoon of Christmas Day, and the first warning the field had was the sight of the enemy bombers in the clear blue Yunnan sky. Luckily the bombing had missed the field and no ships were damaged, but many Chinese in the village had been killed. Definitely the warning net in western Yunnan made the operation of the Transport Command at Yeching hazardous. I could tell by the General's face that he had some plans he would tell me about in private.

The General had been sick with a cold over Christmas and had a fever that night, when he told me what he had to do at Yeching. At dawn the next morning—December 26th in China, but actually Christmas Day in America—I took off with full instructions. When I left, the Doctor told me General Chennault was running a temperature of 103. All of us were worried about him, and knew that the defeats on Christmas Day hadn't helped his spirits.

As I flew West towards Yeching, 145 miles away, in the half light I saw the coolies carrying drums of gasoline on wheelbarrows up the Burma Road. Some of these I knew would go on through Kunming to Chungking, 380 miles away by air. Trundling these crude wooden-wheeled vehicles of the ages gone-by, these patient workers would require seventy days of constant effort, at their dogged trot, to reach the capital at Chungking. The two wheeled Peking carts with three drums would take a shorter time—44 days. I saw coolies plowing in the rice paddies halfway up the sides of the mountains—paddies built like steps from the top of the hill to the valley, so that the irrigation water could be used over and over. I laughed as I saw the ancient means of cultivation—the boy, standing with his feet on the wooden scraper, was using his own weight to make it scratch the mud, but was holding on to the water buffalo, with his hand gripping the tail of the ponderous animal.

Landing at the threatened air-drome, I put the General's plan into immediate effect.

I commandeered the necessary transportation on Yeching field and placed it ready for the instant movement of pilots to their dispersed fighters, which were scattered in all parts of the air-drome. The P-40's were pointed in the direction of a run for immediate take-off. All this was to save even the barest minimum of lost time, for when the alert came we would have to move fast and furious. Every one of the thirty pilots was kept on alert, and constant patrols were begun at dawn. We sent two ships above the field at seven o'clock and doubled the number at nine. At eleven o'clock we doubled again and, continually had eight high in the sky.

The Jap had attacked the day before at 2:35 in the afternoon, or 14:35. The General had told me many times of the propensity of the Japanese for the exact duplication of former military operations. We were going to get gradually more vigilant and stronger above the field for the expected blow. At the same time we were going as far as was commensurate with safety to conserve the invaluable aviation gasoline. Most of the fighters kept right over the field or slightly away in the direction of the expected attack from Burmese bases. Four fighters began to patrol from Yeching to the Mekong, on course to Lashio and seventy miles from where we were waiting.

At two o'clock I sent all planes into the sky except mine. I sat in that on the ground, listening for Harry Pike's expected report from his patrol to the Mekong River. I was within shouting distance of the ground radio operator, who would tell me of any developments on the weak-functioning warning net. The Jap would come today, I knew, between two and four—that's 14:00 to 16:00 hours.

At 14:54 I saw the radio operator wildly running for my ship. He yelled, "Report from W-7 says heavy engine noise coming this way—the report is right recent." I was already energizing my starter when Harry Pike called excitedly: "Here they come—fighters and bombers—I'm just East of the river." I knew then that the Japs were close to fifty miles away; we had all we could do to get set and be waiting for them.

When Pike called in, as I got the engine started, I heard that the Japs were at seventeen thousand, and I called to him to take the fighters, for I hoped by that move to make the bombers come in unescorted. From Yeching at its level of 6500 feet I was climbing with full gun, climbing for all the altitude I could grab. I watched the temperature but drew all the boost I could without detonating too badly. At exactly three o'clock I reached twenty thousand feet and picked up most of my Group, which today was made up of Hazlett's Squadron.

Just six minutes from the time I had given the ship the gun, I saw flashes reflected by Japanese windshields in the sun. They weren't far away, but I grinned—for they were below us. I heard from the chatter on our frequency that there was a fight going on towards where Pike had seen the formation cross the river. As the enemy ships materialized on the horizon, I knew that Pike had done his job well, for there was only one fighter with the bombers—as escort—one fighter with nine heavy bombers. I think I knew then that we were going to make it tough for the Japs.

I called for the attack, in order to get the enemy before he could bomb the field. As I dove for the attack that I had always longed for, I saw one P-40 take the lone Zero head-on and shoot it down, and I knew from the way the shark-nosed ship pulled up in his chandelle of glory that Dallas Clinger had become an ace with his fifth enemy ship.

We made the attack from three directions simultaneously. Lieutenant Couch led his ships on a stern attack that I did not see, for I was diving on the course of the bombers from the flank where the low sun was. I was going in for a full-deflection shot from out of that sun, for I had planned this method of how I wanted to attack a bomber formation long ago. On my wings were six fighters in two ship elements. In Couch's flight were four fighters, and Hazlett had four coming from above the Japs on the other flank.

I had to dive from 20,000 feet to 17,000 feet to get on the level with the enemy formation, and when I got there I had plenty of excess speed over the Japs. I passed them rapidly from out of their range, but could see their tracers curving short of my flight. When I had over-run them a thousand yards, I turned right into the bombers and we went after the three Vee's of Mitsubishi bombers. By being on the same level with them I'm sure we caused part of the enemy formation to blanket out some of their own ships from firing at us. I opened fire from six hundred yards and led the enemy leader by at least a hundred yards; it must have been just right, for the tracers seemed to go into the top of the wing. I just held the trigger down and kept going into the sides of the Japs—they blossomed out of the sky at me, growing larger and larger, "mushrooming" in my windshield. As the bombers passed by, my bullets were raking them with full-deflection shots, and as fast as my formation turned the other five men were doing the same. I saw the lead bomber climb a little, then settle back towards the formation with one wing down.

As I saw the second Jap in front of me—the left wing man of the leader—I realized I'd have to dive under the enemy very soon or I'd run into them. Things hit my ship now, and with noise like a wing coming off, the side glass of my windshield was shot out. I was three hundred to two hundred yards from the second bomber when I got my long burst into it. There was a flash ahead, and I dove as fast as I could above the nose down. As I went under the smoke and orange flame, I thought that the Jap I was shooting at had caught fire, but as I pulled around, back to the direction the formation had been going, and climbed, I saw what had happened.

There was only smoke above, and the formation had broken, for I knew the bomber had exploded—the bombs had been detonated by the fifty-calibre fire. Behind, over the trail the Japs had come were four plumes of smoke where their bombers were going down. Below there were bomb bursts all over the paddy fields where bombs had been jet-tisoned in the unanticipated interception. I pulled up behind one of the lone bombers that I could see and began to shoot at it methodically from long range. Over on the left were three more, and I saw P-40's making passes at them. Over the radio I could hear happy American English, with unauthorized swear-words aimed at the Jap that the individual pilot was shooting at, and by the tone of the pilots I knew that we were winning this battle and that the General was also going to be very happy.

From 800 yards I'd squeeze out a short burst at one engine, then skid over and aim carefully at the other engine and throw out another short burst. The Jap ship was diving with all the speed he could get, but the P-40 kept moving up. I think all their ammunition was gone, for I saw no tracers. In my second burst on the right engine I saw some gray smoke—thin, like gasoline overflowing a tank and blowing back into the slipstream. The next time I came over behind that engine from closer range I saw two red dots near the engine, two dots that became fire. The flame ran to the engine and to the fuselage, but by that time I was over shooting at the other engine again. I last saw the bomber diving, with flames that were orange against the green of the mountains below.

There were no more bombers to be seen, but I saw seven P-40's. Clinger came over and got on my wing; as I recognized his ship I slid my hatch-cover back and waved at him. Even before we landed I thought that we had gotten all the bombers. As we circled the field, with me trying to dodge the cold air that was knifing through the hole in my windshield and bringing a particle of glass against my face every now and then, I realized why we still had to wear goggles in fighter ships in combat. Below on the Yunnan hills, I saw eight forest-fires that could have been started only by burning airplane wrecks, for they had not been there when I took off.

I kept some of the planes up for top-cover while we landed those that were shot up or low on fuel. Later, when I had the combat reports made out before the pilots could talk the battle over between them, the "certain" out of the nineteen that had come in—nine fighters and nine bombers and one observation plane—were fifteen.

Afternoon Frock.

THE sort of dress every woman likes—with its soft, graceful skirt, nice shoulder detail and flattering sweetheart neck edged in ruffling. Especially designed to give you a poised, well-groomed feeling.

Pattern No. 1292 comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38, three-quarter sleeves, requires 3 1/2 yards of 38-inch material; 1 yard edging for neck trim.

If a newspaper becomes stuck to a varnished table top, apply olive oil. Let soak thoroughly, then paper can be removed.

Baste velvets with silk thread. This leaves no mark of the basting.

When washing a knitted wool garment, don't lift it out of the water, as the weight of the wet garment will stretch it. Squeeze suds through instead and support the garment firmly with the hands. Gentle always is first rule in right wool care.

To make screws penetrate hard wood more easily place a little ordinary household soap on the thread.

Sunback Dress. THIS smart sunback frock has gay over-shoulder ruffles to give it a jaunty air. A "cover-up" bolero is included in the pattern which adds up to an ideal mid-summer outfit. Make it in polka dots or bright checked cottons.

Pattern No. 1983 comes in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 12, with ruffles, requires 3 1/2 yards of 35 or 38-inch fabric; 7 yards rick rack to trim ruffles and skirt; plain dress, 3 1/4 yards; bolero 1 1/4 yards. Due to an unusually large demand and current war conditions, slightly more time is required in filling orders for a few of the most popular pattern numbers. Send your order to:

Introducing Rhea Merket

Rhea Merket was born July 25, 1928. She attended school at Landers the first five years and has been a pupil in Loraine the last six years. She plans to finish here this spring. Rhea has been an active member of the F. H. T. Club all four high school years.

Some of Rhea's favorites are: dish, fish; day, Sunday; subject, Chemistry; movie, Going My Way; actor, Clark Gable; actress, Greer Garson; and her ideal man believe it or not is tall, dark, and handsome. Say Rhea, isn't that asking too much considering this man shortage!

Rhea is five feet three and one half inches tall, has green eyes, and blonde hair. She has a nice personality, and is definitely "cute".

She doesn't know just yet what she wants to do, but will likely succeed at her chosen goal. Rhea is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Merket from South of Loraine.

Home Making News

We have begun with our clothing unit. So far we have only begun with some white panels for the windows in the living room. We have also had some dealings with the stage curtains which look much better with the silver strip replaced. Beginning with today we are going to sew some for ourselves. Some are making shirts and blouses with "fancy trim", some dress.

This wouldn't be complete without some what-ifs. What if Miss Jarratt didn't go to Paris so much? La Rue and Marie didn't like chocolate fudge? Marie liked flies? Lois and Kathryn liked candy? We liked to work? We want to thank Mrs. Walker for teaching us Friday.

MOOS OF THE MOMENT

BY UNCLE BOB

of the Kraft Dairy Farm Service

Being the kind of a lazy fellow I am, I'd like to see someone come along who can teach cows how to milk themselves. But I don't think this is going to happen, so right now I'm interested in the best advance in milking methods that's been made in a couple of thousand years.

The new and improved way of milking is called the "correct milking method." It is faster, aids sanitation, has helped build volume and is a most important part of mastitis control.

The system calls for a few simple steps, as outlined by extension dairymen. First, wash teats and udder with a chlorine solution which feels quite warm when you put your hand in it. Next, take two full-hand squeezes of each teat, into a strip cup.

Start milking immediately. When teat cups crawl, pull them down part way, using the free hand to massage the udder. Remove machine as soon as milk ceases to flow. Leaving it on may cause injury.

In hand milking use full hand strokes and stop when the milk quits flowing. Milking takes about three minutes by machine and from four to seven minutes by hand.

Next, remove milker units and dip the teat cups into a chlorine solution before applying to next cow or, in hand milking, wash hands in warm, sudsy water.

I mentioned a short time ago that an article on this method of milking which appeared in the Kraftman has been reprinted and is now available. A lot of dairymen have already written in and asked for this reprint and I suggest you get an order in for your copy right away. Write Uncle Bob at 500 Peshtigo Court, Chicago, 90, Ill., and ask for "How to Milk a Cow—and Why."

No doubt you have a bunch of educated cows, but I don't suppose they can write. If they could, and made out a list of the hay they like best, alfalfa would be at the top. Hay and pasture are the foundation for your entire dairy feeding program. Now is the best time to make your hay plans for 1945 and even 1946.

I hope you will include at least an acre of alfalfa per cow. Illinois figures 25 pounds of high quality alfalfa hay will furnish all the protein required to produce about 30 pounds of 4 per cent milk.

Alfalfa will give your cows all the calcium they need. In winter it is the best source of Vitamins A and D. If you don't have alfalfa, look to some of the other legumes, such as the clovers, soybeans, lespedeza or good mixed hay.

Valuable suggestions for planning your hay program will be found in USDA Farmers' Bulletin 1626, Extension Bulletin 217, Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., and Extension Circular 122, Mississippi State College, Miss.

The start your calves get is about the most important thing in their whole lives. If they are troubled with scours, colds, ringworm or other things which bother young stock, it may cut down their milk production in later years.

Scours generally results from indigestion. Improper feeding, drinking too fast, cold milk, sour milk and dirty utensils or dirty feeding troughs can cause scours.

You will get a lot of help on treating scours from a veterinarian and from the following bulletins: Extension Bulletin 377, University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., Extension Bulletin B-104, Texas A. & M. College, College Station, Texas, and Extension Circular 308, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisc.

*NOTE: There usually is a 5c charge for pamphlets mailed to non-residents of a state, but possibly your own state has a free pamphlet on the same subject. Ask your county agent.

Senior News

We all enjoyed the program Mr. Williams brought over with him last Thursday. We all agree some good things come from Colorado City. The seniors sponsored the program.

Another important event to take place the twenty-seventh of this month is the annual amateur, sponsored by the Seniors. So come to the Amateur Hour; we're sure you will enjoy it very much.

It seems as though the warm sunny weather has turned into cold wintry days again. If you want to know more about this see Trudie, Melton, Madeline and LaVerne White. They really know a lot about it.

Don't be surprised if you see the seniors walking around with their heads in a book, especially Chemistry and Plane Geometry, this week and next.

The annual staff have started the week by working on the annual. They have really worked hard on it and are putting out a good annual, we think, and I'm sure everyone who gets one will think so, too.

If you notice La Verne White walking around with a half look complete happiness and the other half that puzzled expression, you will know it was a letter from overseas not written in the same handwriting that usually comes from that direction, even though it has "his" name signed to it.

There seems to be a little confusion on the subject of an "all American" football player, up here at school. It seems that some members of the senior class met an ex-football player who says he played for Vanderbilt, but others say they did not. Well, time will tell, I hope. See Homer, Snitch, and Norris for all the details.

FFA To Attend District Banquet

Ten representatives of the Loraine chapter of the F. F. A. will attend the annual banquet of the Roscoe District of the Future Farmers of America at Sweetwater Thursday evening, February 22, at 7:15. The principal speaker will be Keesey Kimble of Alpine, the State President. He will be accompanied by Mr. W. E. Williams of Alpine, Area 2 Supervisor.

Alfred Hackfeld, president; George Willis Hughes, vice president; Don Narrell, treasurer; Raymond Hackfeld, sentinel; Gaylord McCollum, freshman president; and Royce Beights, district secretary, are the local chapter members attending the banquet. Their guests will be Laverne Henderson, chapter sweetheart; the superintendent, r. Parish; a member of the board of trustees; and Edward E. Brown, local adviser.

The district Future Farmer banquet is an annual affair sponsored by the Roscoe District. It is usually held each year during National F. F. A. week, the week containing George Washington's birthday. This year it is on Washington's birthday. The host for this year's banquet is the Sweetwater Chapter. Past host chapters have been Westbrook, Colorado City, Roscoe, and Loraine.

The banquet was held last year in the local Lions Club building. Distinguished guests of the district invited to this banquet include George H. Mahon of Congress; Sam Russell of Congress; Harley Sadler, Texas House of Representatives; Pat Bullock, Texas Senate; Ray Chappell of Texas Tech; W. E. Williams, Area 2 Supervisor, Alpine; Keesey Kimble, president of the Texas Association of Future Farmers of America, Alpine; Joe Lane, president of Area 2, Alpine; R. B. Rutland, State Adviser of the Texas Association, Austin; and the president and adviser of neighboring chapters of Snyder and Hermleigh.

The chapters composing the Roscoe district of the Future Farmers of America are: Colorado City, Loraine, Highland, Blackwell, Sweetwater, and Divide.

Sophomores Prepare for Exams

You see it; then you don't see it. We're talking about the way the sun conducted itself last week.

The Sophomores are really getting Algebra minded here lately, but it mostly a case of have to, cause if we don't study we're out of luck, and what with six-weeks exams coming up next week it's not such a bad idea to freshen up the old memory!

The Sophomores who take Spanish 1 are really getting good on writing themes in Spanish. Of course they probably wouldn't win any prizes as good short stories, but we think they are the real thing!

The F. F. A. boys are all excited about their forthcoming trip to the Fat Stock Show. The girls aren't jealous of the boys, but we only think it's rotten luck to be girls in more ways than one.

If you have never had the privilege of eating something cooked by the Home Ec. 2 girls, you just don't know what you have missed. Last week a choice few got to eat baked ham and meat loaf that were prepared by these little "cooks." The boys who get these girls will certainly be getting prizes.

The English classes are trying their hands, left and right, at letter-writing of all sorts. Some of them are unusually interesting. If you care to know more about these letters, just see Merlyn for the unusual type.

Freshmen Face

Br-r-r, this cold weather is getting us down. After all that good ole Texas sunshine we've been having then it turns cold on us.

The cold weather, however, didn't stop some of our freshmen from having a good time over the week-end. Ask Jeannine and Louise to confirm this for you, since they spent the week-end in Abilene.

For all the little girls that are interested, Bobby Johnson has a new heart-throb! Wonder who's the lucky girl?

Mrs. Cope is really teaching us our General Math. class and the latest is that some of the kids are getting moved around with good results.

Junior News

Here we Juniors are gain this week studying harder than ever, because it's getting pretty close to six weeks exams again. In American History we've found out that some people beside Dorothy, Delma and Kathryn had better answer some questions in class or else make an excellent grade on tests.

This past week everyone has been going to church. Wonder if it wasn't because of the preacher's little son, or out-of-town visitors?

We really enjoyed the Seniors' assembly program Thursday. (The English 3 class got out of writing a theme because of that.) But we were not disappointed about the theme for we got to write it the next day.

When Mr. Pippen came to class Thursday morning, he was greeted by a whistle. (You know, one of those kind that really makes boys sit up and notice.) It really surprised him, and to show his gratitude for it, we didn't have class that day. But things changed Monday morning, because Don had found a little mouse and it just scared Delma to screams. At least, she thought she was a goner, until she found out that it was just a toy mouse, but she still didn't feel too healthy until she got to sit up on the front seat.

Loraine 4-H Club

Our 4-H club met Thursday February 15, 1945. We elected new officers. The president is Patsy Beaty, vice-president, Margaretta Pettit, secretary and treasurer, La Joyce Beaty, and reporter Pearl Burrow. At this meeting we talked about making waste paper baskets. We are trying to get them finished by our next meeting which is March 15, 1945.

At this meeting we had thirty-three members. We had about six new members.

Game To Finance Sweaters

There was only one basketball game played last week, Friday afternoon Feb. 16 by the Loraine girls and the Colorado City Jr. High School girls. Colorado City won the game, and the score was 16-20.

Considering the absence of two of our main team girls, we think the girls did quite well.

There are two games planned for this week. On Thursday night Feb. 20, they will play Colorado City again here, and on Friday night Feb. 23, Pyron will come here.

These games are being played to pay for the girls basketball sweaters, so everyone come and help them out.

Neta Sparks of Washington, D. C. is spending two weeks here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Sparks. Neta is employed by Western Union and is being transferred from Washington to Los Angeles, California.

For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood. You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up at night, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with burning and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT

Rubber does not enter into the making of tents, yet the demand for military tents has reduced the manufacture of passenger car tires. Tire cord and yarn for tent duck are made with the same machinery.

Assuming that the trees are in reasonably good condition when the For East rubber plantations are re-occupied, experts anticipate that within two years some 1,600,000 tons of natural rubber will be made available, enough to fill one year's estimated needs. That is why B. F. Goodrich officials believe civilians will still have to depend upon synthetic rubber tonnage in addition to that required for natural rubber.

JESUS, THE SON OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 16:13-17; 1:9.
GOLDEN TEXT—Whoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven.—Matthew 10:32.

"What think ye of Christ?" There is a question that every human being must answer. Jesus asked it (Matt. 22:42), and each of us makes some kind of reply. It is the touchstone that tries men, and churches, organizations and movements. The answer to it is of deep importance, for it determines character, condition, and destiny for time and eternity.

Jesus, the Christ, the Son of the living God, is the center of the entire lesson.

I. Jesus Confessed (16:13-17). With His crucifixion now only six months away, our Lord in preparation for it is about to make a more definite claim to Messiahship, and thus to establish the truth in the minds of His disciples. He therefore asks this all-important question about Himself.

First, it is a general query, "Whom do men say that I am?" The answer (v. 14) indicates that the common opinion concerning Christ was a very high one. He had made an impression on the people of His time, and this has been true down through the ages. Even those who do not believe on Him admit that He was "the ideal representative and guide to humanity," or the person before whom "everyone would kneel." But beautiful tributes to His character and leadership are worse than meaningless unless they lead to a personal confession of Him as Lord and Saviour.

The question becomes personal as He asks, "Whom do ye say that I am?" That question no one can escape. We cannot refuse to answer. Neutrality is impossible. Whatever we do or say, or do not do or say, is a decision.

Peter's answer is really the sum and substance of Christian doctrine. He recognized Him as the Messiah, the fulfillment of all Hebrew prophecy, and as the Son of the living God, the Redeemer and Saviour of men, the One in whom centers all Christian faith.

II. Jesus Transfigured (17:1-3). As His amazed disciples looked on, the eternal, divine glory of the Son of God could no longer be hidden by the human body and the humble garments of our Lord, and "His face did shine as the sun and His raiment was white as light."

They saw their beloved Master now for what He really was, the Son of God. The testimony of Peter was no longer mere words, although ever so blessed. His speech had been confirmed by sight and they knew their Master as the Lord of glory. It is essential in both the life and service of a Christian that he clearly understand the truth about Christ, His person and His work. When that understanding is tied up with a personal vision of His glory, there is assurance and power.

The want of such a vision explains the lack of zeal for soul-winning, the ineffectiveness of witness, the unwillingness to suffer or sacrifice for Christ's sake. "Where there is no vision, the people perish" (Prov. 29:18) for want of a witness concerning the Saviour.

III. Jesus Triumphant (17:4-6). The crowning point of the transfiguration came when the voice spoke out of the bright cloud and gave not only the Father's unqualified approval of Christ, but also His command that men should listen to Him and heed His message of redemption.

Note how this word of the Father completed the transfiguration. In itself it might have been likened to that which happened to Moses (Ex. 34:29, 30). We say likened to, because the glory which showed forth in Jesus was from within, not just a reflected glow.

But the words from heaven provide the conclusive and final witness. They so impressed Peter that he talked of them as a cherished memory and a transforming power in his life, even when he was an old man (II Pet. 1:16-18).

How do they impress you? Are you ready to acknowledge Jesus as the Christ, the Son of God, and take Him as your Saviour?

IV. Jesus Only (17:7-9). Having seen Him in His glory, they now saw Him alone. True, the others had gone, out is there not also the thought that He, the blessed God, now filled the vision of their souls?

Surely we find it right at hand to make that application to our own lives. When we really see Him as He is, then He fills our vision, and when He does that, we have reached real satisfaction of life.

Kathleen Norris Says:
Get Ready for a Glorious Tomorrow
Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

"Are you planning for your soldier's return, not with ice-box cake and fried chicken, but with real financial help and a plan for his future?"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

JUST how heroic are you? Just how well prepared for strong and helpful facing of the most tremendous problem that ever has been put before American women, or any women, of any time or generation?

How long since you have taken stock of yourself, analyzed what you are doing, thought of what is ahead? The answer to that is probably, "Oh, not for years. Not since John and I first were married, and sat down to work out, with a pencil and paper, just what we had to spend and just how much we had to do with it."

If that is so, today is a good day to think of the future, as we all must live it, and begin to get your house in order.

Start with money. Money sounds so vulgar, so materialistic, and yet money trouble is at the root of nine out of ten divorces, and of thousands of other domestic difficulties that never get as far as divorce.

So start with money. Are you living well within your income? Are you saving? Are you being fair to every member of the family, not wasting to the point that worries the man of the house, not indulging the children? Are you planning for your soldier's return not with ice-box cake and fried chicken, but with real financial help and a plan for his future?

If the answer to all this is "no," then you're not going to have the place you should in the world-after-war. You're not living up to your obligations.

End Money Worries.

Get the money question settled once and for all. Get out of debt. Stop charging things; pay cash. You'll find the whole family braced and encouraged when you take this bull by the horns; when you announce there is just one trouble that isn't going to touch your family after the war, and that trouble is nagging, annoying, nervous-making bills and extravagances and waste.

Especially braced and encouraged by this course will be that quiet, tired, bewildered person, sometimes known as the old man. He'll take on new youth when you stand beside him, assuring him that no matter what happens, no matter how wild a storm of depression rocks the world, your little craft can weather it.

Then, while you are cutting, watching, saving, simplifying, see to the comfort of everyone. Make yourself a committee of one to insure hot prompt meals, lower voices, avoidance of controversy, Clean rooms, cheerful talk. Make yourself the person to whom someone in your home circle will presently say, in a rare moment of appreciation, "Gosh, you are lovely to come home to, Mom; you help us all to get through!"

With no money worries, now or to come, and peace and harmony at home, you've achieved miracles. If every woman in every home could do it, there wouldn't be any after-war depression. It's as simple as that.

Afterward you'll have time to turn to the problems of others; to go on vigorously with Red Cross and rehabilitation work; to make a real friend of the crippled or blind boy in the neighborhood, whose own family has let him come back to nothing but fretting, complaining,

Live within your income. . .

Heirloom Quilt.
THIS handsome quilt belonged to Mary Gregg McCollum who lived in Kearney, Nebraska, sixty or more years ago. Faded to a soft pink on white, it was doubtless a bright turkey red "oak leaf" when as a bride she went from Berea, Kentucky, to Nebraska. The twenty-inch block is put together in four separate sections—the leaf itself is 7 inches.

Ignorance Paid a Big Dividend to Tom Edison

When Thomas Edison first began to attain fame, his innocence in money matters often worked to his advantage.

"Will you take 30 thousand for the patent?" cabled an English company, referring to one of Edison's inventions.

"Don't accept that offer," urged his friends. "It's not enough."

"Nonsense," disagreed Edison. "The thing isn't worth a third of that. They can have it."

A few weeks later Edison received a check for $150,000 which made him sputter. For Edison had been thinking in terms of American dollars.

Big Saving. No Cooking. So Easy.
You'll be surprised how quickly and easily you can relieve coughs due to colds, when you try this splendid recipe. It gives you about four times as much cough medicine for your money, and you'll find it truly wonderful. Fame comes to but a few lonely souls here and there, but faithfulness should be the actuating idea of our lives. No career is really ordinary that is consecrated to a high purpose; no life is spent in vain whose organizing principle is devotion to man because of love to God.—Rev. C. A. S. Dwight.

Tough, pistol lugging General Patton prayed for better weather early in the Third Army's counter-attack against the Germans. This is the full text of the Christmas day prayer, distributed to every man in the Third: "Almighty and merciful God, we humbly beseech Thee of Thy great goodness to restrain those immoderate rains with which we have to contend. Grant us fair weather for battle. Graciously harken to us as armed with Thy power, we may advance from victory to victory and crush the oppression and wickedness of our enemies and establish justice among men and nations." Unprecedented flying weather followed.
