"STOP SMITH" FIGHT TAKES FORM

Six Indictments Returned In Lynching Of Houston Negro

Faith

Woof, Woof—Principles—Starting the Work—A Little Custom—

Abilene is said to be out in the west, probably where "men are men," and is the home of J. McAllister Stevenson, president of the West Texas league. Mr. Stevenson says that he will not resign his post and that he will continue his warfare on J. Alvin Gardner, amiable president of the Spudders and the Abilene team. He has suspended everything owned or operated by Mr. Gardner except the Spudder team. He may stop the Spudders. Anything to crash the headlines. J. McAllister holds the president's chair but J. Alvin holds the purse strings. We have a hunch the boys will keep right on playing ball for Mr. Gardner.

There are many Texas Democrats, some in Wichita Falls, who are glad to see the opposition to Governor Al Smith take form. There are many who already know their program if the New York governor is nominated. "I have fought all my life for a principle and I'm not going to give it up now by voting for Al Smith," a Wichita county Democrat told the executive committee. There are many southern Democrats and sons of Democrats who have fought for a principle since '65—that of an exclusive white man's party. It will be the same old story in November.

Potato growers of Wichita county have an association which may serve as a model for other associations for the marketing of produce from this area. The potato growers plant at about the same time, use the same kind of seed, harvest at about the same time and market their crops jointly under the "City of Faith" brand. This year the crop was far less than expected, but the association is going right ahead with its program. There will be other years and the potato growers are going to keep the record clean.

Assistance of the Wichita Produce company and the Witherspoon company has allowed potato growers to make a new departure in cooperative marketing. The two local firms handle the entire output, a not inconsiderable factor with their many facilities and wide distribution. The potato association does no selling except through the two local companies. Associations for the marketing of other products should find such assistance of immense value in the work of gradually building up production in this area to the point where shipments will reach some volume.

Fines of $1000 are assessed against a negro man and negro woman in county court by Judge C. M. McFarland on a charge of adultery. It was an exceptional case, said Judge McFarland, because the negro man "claimed to be a 'cullud man from the north who these white folks can't tell what to do.' That's poor talk for either white man or black man. Then of course there are certain little customs observed in the south and in West Texas which may seem strange to other sections of the nation. But they have their purpose.

Fines of $1000 for adultery, except in such cases of "contributory conversation" by the defendants, could be better directed at members of the commercialized vice ring in Wichita Falls. So could the efforts of officers and prosecutors who attend to such matters.

Court Enjoins Delivery Of Illegal Cotton

NEW YORK, June 22. (UP)—Judge Richard P. Lydon of the state supreme court today enjoined the New York cotton exchange from delivering illegal cotton in violation of contracts.

The injunction was part of the litigation growing out of a suit for $500,000 brought against the cotton exchange by Louis N. Osmond, Anderson, Clayton company, and George McFadden and Brothers, all New York cotton dealers.

Illegal cotton was described as a product, the quality of which fails to come up to the cotton exchange standards.

GRAND JURY RETURNS BILLS IN 48 HOURS

Murder Charge Pending Against Seventh Man Who Is Free

LYNCHING DESCRIBED

Statement to Police Clears Up Hanging Case In Short Time

HOUSTON, Texas, June 22. (AP)—Six men were indicted for murder today less than 48 hours after they are alleged to have lynched Robert Powell, 24, negro, accused slayer of City Detective A. W. Davis.

Murder charges were filed against seven men late Thursday, and five of them were arrested a few minutes later. The seventh, Allen M. (Bubber) Kent, still is at large.

The other six men, who are charged with having taken Powell from his bed in a hospital where he was near death from a bullet wound in the stomach, supposed to have been inflicted by Detective Davis, are A. B. Wheeler, 26, boilermaker; John (Slim) Kent, 27, ambulance driver; Charles Oldham, 24; P. T. (Clyde) Shuck, 32; Howard (Tweet) Minton and T. J. (Tack) Reese.

One of the men, Wheeler, made a statement to officers and newspaper men to whom he described the lynching. The negro, Wheeler said, was not killed when he first was dropped from the bridge from which his body was found hanging by a rope. Powell was put back on the bridge, the rope shortened, and the negro thrown off a second time, the fall dislocating his neck, the statement said. The statements of witnesses that one of the raiders wore a uniform were not borne out in Wheeler's statement. Wheeler was not indicted.

Detective Davis was shot to death last Sunday when he attempted to disperse a group of negroes.

Players of Abilene Team Suspended For Playing Game in Wichita Falls

Hamlin Performers Declared Ineligible for Contest Here; Stevenson Claims "Immunity"

ABILENE, Texas, June 22. (AP)—The entire personnel of the Abilene baseball team was today declared suspended by J. McAllister Stevenson, West Texas league president. Ashel Hillin, Ed Kallina, Hank Guerra and Garland Orr were suspended for a year and the rest of the club members for four months.

Reason for the action was given as insubordination of the team following forfeiture of the Abilene and San Angelo franchises and suspension of managers of the clubs, Les Tullos and Earl E. "Red" Snapp.

Ordered to Sweetwater

Abilene's team was ordered by President Stevenson Wednesday to report to Sweetwater for the opening of the second half of the race today. Instead, the team, with Tullos still in charge, went to Wichita Falls where it opened a special series with Hamlin today.

Stevenson had notified Army Magness, Hamlin manager, that he and his entire team would be declared ineligible if the series is played. The league chief has notified Atlanta, which recently purchased Pratt, Alford and White from Hamlin for delivery at the close of the season, to protect its men with Hamlin.

Stevenson to Stick

"I know of no jurisdiction by which I can be removed from the president's chair," said Stevenson in regard to proposed attempts of league directors to oust him. "Only my demise or that of the league will keep me from finishing the season."

POISON KILLS BEAU BRUMMEL

Cashier Dies After Bank Shortage Confession

NOBLESVILLE, Ind., June 22. (US)—Omer G. Patterson, Beau Brummel assistant cashier of the Citizens State bank here, from which he admitted having embezzled $147,000, died late today of poison, which he had swallowed after his crime was discovered.

The state bank was closed this afternoon after Patterson admitted the shortage.

The assistant cashier for nearly 30 years has been regarded as a leading citizen, and a fashion plate, whose style dictates were law to the townspeople. Patterson only recently had been elected chancellor commander of the Knights of Pythias, secretary of the Eagles lodge, and was a prominent Mason and Elk, and member of the Business Men's association.

Where Patterson spent the stolen money remains a mystery as he was a man of whom no vices were known. Asked where the money went, Patterson answered laconically, "I spent it socially."

MOODY PLANS FEW SPEECHES IN CAMPAIGN

Governor Unable This Year to Stump All Of State

CITES HIS RECORD

Executive Lists Principal Accomplishments During His Term

Special to The Record News

AUSTIN, Texas, June 22.—Governor Moody will not make a town to town stump campaign but will confine himself to a recital of the accomplishments of his administration and speak in as many places as he can reach in the time.

"It will be impossible," the governor said today "to cover the state in the three or four weeks that I will be able to devote to speech making. I expect to make some speeches during July and I want to reach as many places as possible. I like to campaign and I wish that I could go to every town in Texas but that cannot be done. The time is insufficient and there are too many towns and too much territory in Texas. I want to go to as many of the towns and cities as possible."

Prisons Debtless

Among the accomplishments which he will discuss are:

Fifteen dollar per capita school appropriations support of higher education; rescue of the prison system from debt, and its return to a self-supporting basis; appropriations; lower price text books; greater highway construction and maintenance; the reduction of the state ad valorem tax to the lowest in years; sound condition of the treasury; and remedial laws passed by the 40th legislature.

Speaking of some of the things which he will discuss before the people Moody said:

Schools Bettered.

"More has been done for education in the past 18 months in Texas than in any like period of its history. The public school system has been better supported than in any past administration. The children of Texas received last year, and will receive next year, a fifteen dollar per capita apportionment, which the school authorities have long asked, but never before received. It means a million and a half more for the public schools this year and next. Under the system developed for the apportionment of the rural aid fund, every school in the state which qualified to receive rural aid was given a six months term. This was never accomplished before. The town and city schools have long had a six months term or better. This year and next year every rural school which qualifies for rural aid have and will receive a full six months term. Many thousand boys and girls in rural communities have received the benefit of the longer school term. It is a step toward equalizing educational opportunities between those existing in the in the cities and towns and those existing in rural sections. The only public schools which did not have a six months term were those which did not qualify for rural aid during the past school year.

"Children living in school districts that did not have a high school were given the opportunity to attend high school in some adjoining district at state expense by

City Prisoners Dig Way Out Of Jail Cell

Two Inmates of Municipal Prison Escape by Opening in Wall Of Room; One Man Recaptured

Two men slid down an improvised blanket ladder to freedom from a cell in the city jail just before 8 o'clock Friday night.

Their escape was discovered about 15 minutes later when two city detectives sighted one of the men walking along the railroad track on Eighth street. After a pursuit of a block the man was recaptured and returned to the jail, where the escape had just been discovered by the desk sergeant.

Dig Through Walls

Using the plunger from a cheap disinfectant pump within the cell, and the handle of a spoon, the two men dug their way through the plastic walls of the jail of the city of Wichita Falls in less than an hour's time, according to four or five inmates of the cell, who did not avail themselves of the opportunity for escape.

This is the third time a hole has been gouged through the walls of cell No. 5 in the city jail within the past six months. On both other occasions the attempt to escape was frustrated by early discovery.

Officers Sight Man

The two men who made their getaway were Fred Keyes, held for investigation, and Ernest Delaney, who was to have been tried on vagrancy charges Saturday morning in corporation court.

Keyes was sighted by Noah Daves and L. N. McKelvey as he left a drug store on Eighth street. The two officers recognized him as a man arrested the previous night and immediately started in pursuit.

Of the four men remaining in the cell after the jailbreak was discovered, one, held on a major offense, was transferred to another cell, while three, confined on minor charges, were allowed to remain in the cell, with the hole through which their cellmates had escaped uncloced.

Officers McKelvey and Daves finished their sprint neck-and-neck, but Daves admitted he lost three pounds in the chase.

Tight Squeeze

Delaney, according to the four remaining prisoners, being a larger man than Keyes, had some trouble getting through the hole in the wall but finally succeeded in squirming clear.

Delaney had not been located.

PAT HARRISON IS PEACE DOVE

"Ole Miss" Senator Wants More Harmony

HOUSTON, Texas, June 22. (UP) While troops of sweltering leaders continued arriving in Houston, a little group of men turned earnestly today to the work of building a preliminary groundwork for the Democratic party platform.

Prohibition and farm relief will be the pivotal points at the outset, and every effort will be made to get "satisfactory" planks on these two issues. While the platform committee has not yet been actually convened, several planks are already taking form.

The organizers are seeking "harmony," while dry anti-Smith groups are raising a cry to "stop Smith" as a wet.

Dry Plank Likely

The word was passed among leaders, however, that everyone should get together on a prohibition plank promising enthusiastic law enforcement and a farm plank offering a feasible remedy to the farmer but avoiding reference to the controversial equalization fee system proposed in the McNary-Haugen bill.

Both Smith and anti-Smith leaders indicated such planks would be acceptable to them.

The peace chorus was started by Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi after candidates' headquarters had buzzed for 24 hours with talk of the possibility of the Smith forces attempting to put a beer and light wine plank in the statement of party principles.

Harrison Speaks Out

"We should have a plank for enforcement of all laws," said Harrison. "That includes prohibition laws, laws against corrupt elections, laws protecting the nation's natural resources and laws against corruption in public office.

"Democracy must also give to agriculture some hope of immediate legislation to restore that industry to the economic basis of other industries. By this, I do not mean to endorse any particular bill."

All the leaders appear to be in complete unison on all the other issues, including the proposal to write a stiff plank denouncing corruption in government.

Southern Leaders Meet In Series of Caucuses On Convention

ACTION IMPERATIVE

Smith's Enemies Faced By Mounting Strength Of Candidate

HOUSTON, Texas, June 22. (AP)—A series of conferences among Democratic leaders of the south was started here today in an effort to stop Alfred E. Smith in the party convention which opens here next Tuesday.

SAID ALL THERE IS

ALBANY, N. Y., June 22. (UP) Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, will have nothing more to say regarding his party's platform until the convention is over, he said here tonight.

"I said all I had to say yesterday," the governor told newspaper men.

nomination, these leaders made a thorough canvass of the delegate situation, assessing the potential strength against the New York governor not only in their own group but in other anti-Smith camps.

Daniel Roper of North Carilonia, internal revenue commissioner in the Wilson administration and one of William G. McAdoo's chief lieutenants in the Madison Square Garden convention four years ago, appeared to be one of the moving spirits in the effort to coalesce the elements that are not reconciled to Smith's nomination. He declined, however, to discuss the movement.

Cordell Hull, who has the endorsement of the Democracy of Tennessee for the presidential nomination, was called in on the conferences, but he said that his only participation was to prepare a statement setting forth his views in favor of prohibition, a statement called forth by headlines in a local newspaper, but coming quickly upon the heels of Gov. Smith's reiteration at Albany that he had not changed his belief that the prohibition provisions should be amended.

Hull Loathes Fight

Representative Hull said he was in a receptive mood, but that he did not propose to enter into a bitter party fight such as attended the Madison Square gathering. He added, however, that he wanted his stand on prohibition as well as on the other questions of the hour known to the country.

A great deal of secrecy was

Fund for Reserve and Payment Of Taxes Provided for Refinery Here

A special master's report, an allotment of approximately $300,000 for payment of taxes and instructions to the receivers for handling the $2,500,000 secured in a public auction for assets of the company, together with other special orders issued by Judge William H. Atwell Friday terminated the special term of district court convened here Wednesday to settle the affairs of the American Refining company.

The affairs of the company will continue to be directed by the receivership for some time, the court decided. Receivers are E. H. Eddleman and J. C. Mytinger of Wichita Falls and John W. Hooser of Dallas.

The $300,000 allocated for federal taxes was apportioned by the court at $170,000 charged against W. M. Priddy, $40,000 against P. P. Langford, $60,000 against R. M. Waggoner and $30,000 against N. B. Chenault. No allocation was made against W. W. Silk, M. J. Basharas and W. T. Willis, who were named in companion receivership actions.

Of the $2,500,000 derived from the sale to a committee of creditors, $271,860.87 is to be turned over to the receivers to be used in meeting preferred obligations, taxes, administrative expenses and for a reserve to meet contested claims should the higher courts reverse the district court's ruling.

The portion of the proceeds of the sale not allocated by the court will be prorated among creditors.

HOUSTON, Texas, June 22. (UP) With the bearing of a conquering general, supremely confident of impending victory yet resolved to be generous to his opponents, the big chief of Tammany hall, George W. Olvany, arrived here with his general staff today.

"We are here to nominate another Abraham Lincoln from the sidewalks of New York," he announced as he stepped from the train.

Olvany professed to know little about plans of the Smith forces. He said he knew of no modification plank to be offered.

"How many ballots do you expect?" he was asked.

"That's for the convention to decide," the Tammany leader replied.

"Have the Smith people considered who should be nominated for vice president?"

"We came down here to nominate a candidate for president and that's all."

"Did you bring a message from Governor Smith?"

"I did not. If the governor wants to say anything to the delegates he will find his own way of communicating."

CAL AND GUIDE TALK OF TROUT

Presidential "Guardian" Is Appointed

THE SUMMER WHITE HOUSE, Cedar Island Lodge, Wisconsin, June 22. (UP)—With appointment of his official guide, John La Roque, a Chippewa Indian, President Coolidge is making plans for more extensive fishing expeditions in the neighborhood of his summer home. The president and La Roque held a lengthy trout conference today.

La Roque, hereafter will accompany the president on his rambles through the heavily timbered Brule valley and on his canoe voyages to the more frequented haunts of trout and bass. He is 59 years old and a native of the northwestern Wisconsin forest lands. He is reputed to know more about the habits, peculiarities and preferences of Brule river fish than any of the guides who are permitted to conduct fishing parties on the river.

Named by Commission

La Roque was appointed today by the state conservation commission because of his knowledge of the Brule waters and his retiring manner. His silence is as reputedly famous here as the president's taciturnity is in Washington.

He is looked upon by the commission as a fitting sports companion for the president.

On his recent outings on the Brule, the president has worn the garb of an outdoors man, which is more in keeping with his fishing life than the blue business suit he wore on his first few attempts at landing trout. He has been wearing the 10-gallon "wild west" hat that was so conspicuous during his vacation last year in the South Dakota Black hills, heavy boots, and a fisherman's jacket.

Adds Equipment

The president also is devoting more attention to his fishing paraphernalia. Colonel Starling of the White House secret service staff, who has accompanied Mr. Coolidge on several fishing trips here and who himself is a widely known Waltonian, was sent to Superior today to purchase additional items for the presidential fishing pack.

STERN JUDGE

Refuses Woman's Plea To Free Dog Sentenced For Chicken Theft

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, June 22. (AP)—Judge R. J. Camp, veteran jurist of Huntsville, who several weeks ago sentenced his dog, "Old Ring," to remain behind the gray walls of the Texas state penitentiary the rest of his life for stealing chickens from his master, received a letter from Miss Mayme McCune of Rock Island, Ill., who severely rebuked the judge for his action toward the dog. Miss McCune declared that the penalty imposed upon the canine was too severe for the crime.

In a statement in answer to Miss McCune, the judge said he enjoyed the letter immensely, although it did not change his attitude toward the dog.

"I think," the judge said, "that the dog is in the proper place, for I don't want him back home eating my chickens. Anyway the dog likes it better in the penitentiary, for all the prisoners are his friends and he gets plenty to eat."

Governor Unable to Stump Entire State

an act of the last legislature. Heretofore the children or their parents had to pay this expense, but the past legislature appropriated money for the state to pay their tuition. This gave many boys and girls living in the rural districts the opportunity to attend high school, an opportunity they otherwise would have missed.

Road Construction.

"When the present highway commission took office there were $8,250,000.00 of outstanding obligations, and the state highways were in worse repair than they had been since our state highway program was begun. The department had on January 1, 1927, just before the present commission went in, only $597,628.18. To make the problem more difficult there was available federal aid in the amount of approximately $6,500,000.00 and the department did not have the income to pay its debts, meet the requirements of the federal government for maintenance and match the federal aid available. Federal aid has been held up and its withdrawal threatened because the roads had not been properly maintained. Every one had known for months of corruption in highway affairs. This has been proved in the courts, and while it was suspected that the finances of the department were in a perplexing condition, the details and seriousness of the situation were not known until the present commission took charge of the records.

Gas Tax lower.

"To meet the necessities the gasoline tax was fixed at three cents. It will revert to two cents September 1, 1928. Every one of the obligations of the highway department have been met and paid. The federal aid money has been secured. And the roads have been placed in a better state of repair and maintenance than at any time in the past.

"During this administration the highway department has actually placed under construction 396 miles of concrete road; 219 miles of bitumiuous hard surface road; 758 miles of grading and drainage structure; 64 miles of graveled highway; and 1,956.7 miles of asphalt highway. Construction work involving $19,930,145.34 has been inaugurated.

Saving Made.

"More miles of all-weather highway have been built in the last 18 months than in any like period in the history of the state. Experience has proved that the type of asphalt topping for which the last administration paid 30 cents per square yard can be done at from seven to nine cents per square yard, where the covering material is supplied by the state, as was the case in the contracts let for this work by the preceding administration.

Tax Law Amended

"The automobile tax law has been amended to give the counties a larger division of this fund for the building and maintenance of lateral roads.

"On May 31, the cash in the state treasury amounted to $23,340,108.62, and the cash of the general revenue fund was $5,928,423.73. It is safe to say that the state ad valorem tax rate for next year will be even less than the rate for this year. If it should remain the same the rate for the two years of this administration would be eight cents less than the rate for the two years of the preceding administration; but it is evident that the rate for next year will be even lower than this year. As a result the state ad valorem rate for the two years of this administration will be from 10 to 15 cents lower than it was for the two years of the preceding administration. I feel confident that the state ad valorem tax rate for this two years will be the lowest rate the state has had under any administration since that of Governor Campbell, which terminated in 1910. This will be accomplished, and every debt and obligation of the state will be punctually met and every department and institution properly supported.

"The institutions of higher learning have been better supported than before, and the best opportunities possible have been given the young people of Texas to secure college and university training. Where buildings and new equipment were needed as the demands for higher education have increased they were furnished. The appropriations for their summer schools were not vetoed to make a better showing on the tax rate, and then run on deficiencies ultimately paid by the people. Adequate support has been provided by this administration.

"The amendment to the text book law passed by the last legislature requires that the text books be sold to this state at the lowest wholesale price at which the publisher sells its books at its factory. In the past the publishers have added freight, storage, hauling charges and other costs which they can no longer charge against the school fund of this state. By this law the school fund of Texas will be saved approximately $200,000 annually. A contract has been made for the rebinding of used text books. It will further economize textbook expense because it will enable the schools to use the books longer.

No Litigation

"Contracts have been let for text books and there has been no litigation as a result of these contracts. There has not been a breath of suspicion against their fairness, or any question raised about their justness. This is in striking contrast with our past experiences in letting text book contracts.

"The prison system which has long been a problem to the people of Texas has been placed upon a self-supporting basis. In 1925 and 1926 it lost the people of Texas $635,703.80. To pay its outstanding obligations as they existed at the beginning of this administration required $1,664,977.57. During 1927 the first year of this administration, the prison system was self-supporting, and showed a net gain of $7,554.52. This is considerable better than the loss of $598,421.68 which it had in 1926. The act passed by the vote of the legislature placed the system upon a budget basis and enables it to pay cash for its supplies instead of buying them on credit and paying higher prices and high rates of interest. As a result of this new arrangement the operating cost of the penitentiary for 1927 was reduced approximately one quarter of a million dollars from what it was for the preceding year of 1926. Under the old system the state paid a premium for practically everything it bought. This has been eliminated and prison supplies are now bought at the lowest cash prices obtainable in a competitive market.

"It was the duty of the 40th legislature to appropriate funds to operate the state departments and institutions from September 1, 1925 to September 1, 1927, and for this purpose it appropriated $42,414,086.65. This did not meet the needs and the present administration inherited from the preceding administration a long list of deficiencies and unpaid obligations of departments and institutions without the necessary maintenance and support to meet this inherited debt and support of departments and institutions until Steptember 1, 1927, which required to appropriation of $3,685,070.96. Thus it will be seen that from September, 1925, to September, 1927, the period covered by the appropriation bill of the 39th legislature the expense was the sum of these two figures or $46,099,157.61.

Funds Appropriated

"The 40th legislature provided funds to pay the inherited debt and appropriations for the support of the state departments and institutions for the period from September 1, 1927 to September 1, 1927, and for this period appropriated $47,056,333.70. In other words, the money appropriated to support the state government and institutions for the period beginning September 1, 1927, and ending September 1, 1929, is $957,176.09 more than was spent for the period from September 1, 1925, to September 1, 1927. The 40th legislature appropriated over one-half million dollars for vocational training for under-privileged children of this state. I approved this appropriation, and while a like appropriation was made by the 39th legislature, it was vetoed by the governor who preceded me, and this can account for more than half the difference. The increase of over $200,000 in the appropriations to provide for the care of the insane and unfortunates in our eleemosynary institutions can account for still more of this difference. The appropriation of $300,000 to build dormitories at the A. & M. college to house students who were living in huts that had been built on the campus, with the other debts just listed, more than account for the increase. No two legislatures appropriate the available money in exactly the same way, and under this administration we have tried to take care of the needs and accomplish the greatest good. The above illustrative items show worthy causes provided for by the last legislature.

"The people have long asked for judicial reform and the speeding up of litigation. They have wanted justice brought more nearly within the reach of rich and poor alike. The initial steps toward this goal were taken by the 40th legislature. The first requisite of a successful judicial system is capable and courageous judges. We have many such judges in Texas, but because of the meager salaries pal- many of our best men would not offer for the bench and in many instances the necessities of life have driven men from the bench when they could not support their families upon the salaries which they received. The salaries have been raised and judicial service made more inviting to those good judges who we know have and to other capable men who may aspire to the bench. Today our appellate courts are more nearly up with their dockets than in years.

"The act of the last legislature providing for the transfer of district judges will finally make it possible for the litigation pending in the district courts of this state to be disposed of without increase in the number of district courts. The transferring of cases from courts of civil appeals in order to equalize the work and hasten to the disposition of cases is now done twice each year instead of once. The rules of proceedure have in some notable instances been simplified."

Bride-to-Be Stops Wedding as True Love of College Days Enters Protest

FREMONT, Neb., June 22. (UP) The "social ring" of this little town was boiling over with gossip tonight after the marraige of one of the town's socially elite suddenly was called off today.

Miss Althea Marr, rich man's daughter and University of Nebraska co-ed, decided a few hours before the time set for her marriage that she would not go through with it.

Her love for a member of the university football team was responsible for the action. It was a college romance that wealthy parents tried to thwart by turning their daughter's attentions toward another man.

Seven hundred invitations had been sent out for the wedding. The groom was John Windsor Norris, the son of a widely-known Syracuse, N. Y., man.

While the parents were arranging wedding plans, the football hero journeyed to Fremont last Saturday and spent several hours with his sweetheart. She then refused to marry Norris and Mrs. Marr was forced to recall the invitations today.

Smashed Batteries Prevent Radio Message

By SALVATORE APONTE
Aboard the Citta di Milano

KINGS BAY, June 22. 6 a. m. (US)—(By Wireless).—Owing to the fact that the new batteries which were dropped with the other equipment by Major Maddalena yesterday on the camp of General Nobile were smashed when the parachute to which they were attached failed to open, we are still receiving scanty communications from the Nobile party.

Immediately after Major Maddalena's first visit, Sergeant Biagi probably disobeying, in the heat of the excitement, General Nobile's orders to conserve his power, let himself go for once and told us in words of exultant joy how they felt at the sight of the Italian colors appearing over their encampment. That waste of power has evidently further depleted their reserve.

Major Maddalena, who returned today after again having dropped supplies in the vicinity of the red tent, believes that the rescue will have to be eventually carried out by the Russian ice-breakers or planes, as the loosening ice packs now make the dog sleigh expeditions dangerous and difficult.

While the landing of an airplane on one of the small plateaus near the Nobile encampment appears feasible, Major Maddalena fears that none of these plateaus is long enough to permit a safe take-off.

There is no further news here of Capt. Amundsen.

Ramblin'

with

Marie Theresa

IF I had an opportunity to attend the national convention of the Democratic persuasion being held in Houston, I wouldn't give a fig about the politics in the case. But how I would enjoy the sight of the warmly clad northern brothers and sisters—as they crawl off those trains and first meet the brilliant Texas sunshine face to face after having sweltered in the trains for the last several hours, and wondered when and how they were to get out of the torrid zone.

It is said that the smiles of Houstonians, if placed end to end, would reach nearly 16 miles across the sizzling Texas plains. These smiles are all caused from glimpses of the agonized faces of delegates viewed upon their first encounter with summer as we see it. No smiles as yet have been contributed by delegates. And the tragedy is that these delegates have been warned that Texas is sensitive about its heat, and forewarned not to register heat audibly while in Texas. And they are still trickling off these trains from the north, according to word received from Houston.

AN exchange tells us that Russia is beginning to make a bid for American tourist trade, but makes stipulation as to amount and type of luggage carried by tourists, limiting shirts to three, suits of underwear to an even half dozen, soap to two bars no razors for ladies, no powder for men, etc.

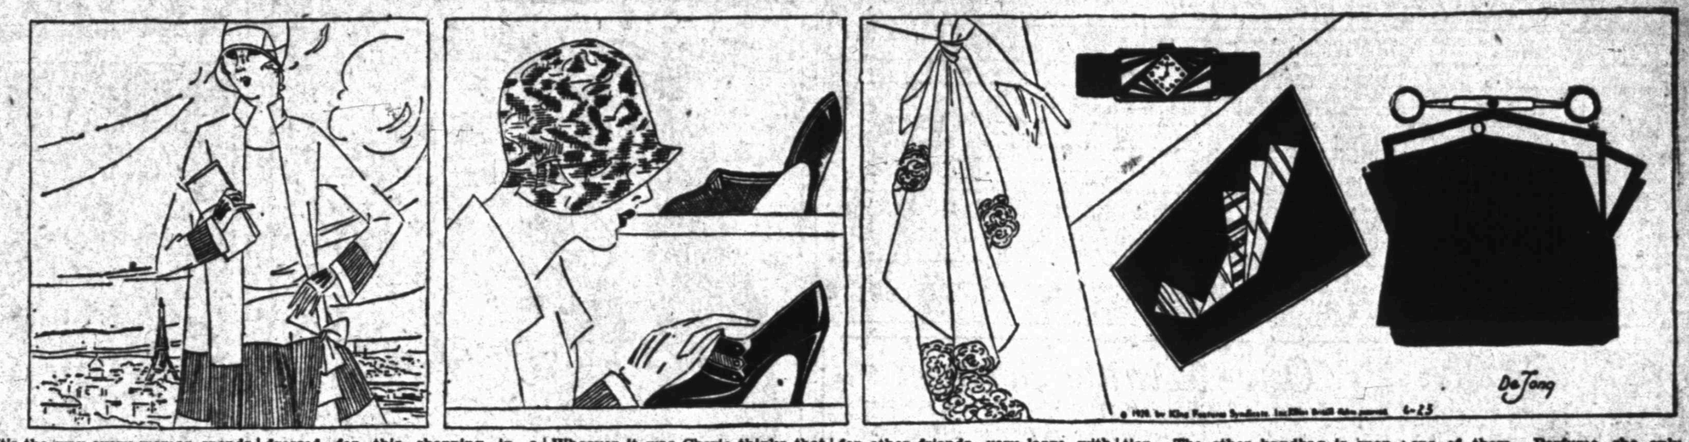

This all reminds Marie Theresa of a joke told her last evening on four Harvard graduates who were friends of the person who recounted the incident. The boys had been told jokingly by a globe trotter that they would find that Europe was poorly supplied with matches and the youths were advised to carry their own. So they set out for a tour of Europe burdened with four cartons of small boxes of matches. Upon every turn they found matches as plentiful in Europe as they are here, and somewhat cheaper. And the convolutions those boys had to undergo to get rid of those cartons of matches without arousing the suspicions of hotels and hotel maids, was quite amusing. They would ditch the matches, only to find them back on dressers and in trunks. At last the idea occurred to them to do away with the now burdensome American matches by throwing away handfuls at a time when no suspicious European was in sight.

CHIC CHERIE — LATEST FASHIONS

It's the way every woman spends her last day in Paris. Trying to remember whether it was Alice or Esther who wanted a bottle of perfume and if Mimi asked for that special kind of cream and who was it sent her to the lingerie place on the little side street? Cherie dressed for this shopping in a tucked flat crepe ensemble and hoped for the best.

Cherie's hat is feutre ciselé—a new felt used by Patou and Descat. Somebody (who was it?) gave her a shoe size and asked for a couple of pairs of shoes from this shop. Whoever it was Cherie thinks that black patent leather slippers with three snaps on the band over the instep, and mules of red suede and black patent should suit her.

Several of these chiffon evening handkerchiefs will make presents for other friends—very large, with lace in three corners only. The modernistic watch is for Emily—black and jade green enamel on a ribbon band. The modernistic purse is red grained calf with appliques of brass, steel and copper for decoration. The other handbag is sponsored by Molyneux and is called the "Latch-key" bag. Either one or both sides of it may be unlatched by the key in the handle. There were quantities of other things, of course. Gloves—she's bought dozens of them. Perfume—she only hopes the bottles won't break before she gets them home. Costume jewelry—well, she only wishes it were all real!

Wife of Faithless Husband Should Prefer Settlement to Alimony

Why Wife of Faithless Husband Should Hold Out for a Settlement Rather Than Alimony—Superiority of Stylish Stouts Over Lightweight Wives. Outwitting Silly Parental Prejudice Against Marriage.

Dear Miss Dix—A certain man is very much in love with his secretary. His wife's people want her to divorce him, but she says "no." She married him when he had nothing and has worked like a galley slave to help him make his fortune, and she is not going to step out and let this other woman have her home and comforts. The wife also says that she is not fitted or physically able at her time of life to go out into the world and earn her living. This couple were ideally happy before this girl came into their lives and flattered the poor foolish man into falling in love with her. Do you think the wife is right in this case or not?—M. G.

Answer—I certainly do think that she is just exactly right to sit tight and refuse to throw her physical comfort and well-being into the discard along with her domestic happiness. For that is exactly what a wife does when she rushes into the divorce court because her middle-aged husband has fallen for a flapper.

Of course, in her first rage of jealousy and anger at his disloyalty she feels that she would like to punish him and hurt him as he has hurt her, and that she never wants to see him again or speak to him again, and that nothing else in the world counts. But in this she is mistaken. Wounds in our hearts do not kill us. We go on living, no matter how much our feelings have been hurt. We have to eat and drink and be clothed and have a shelter whether we are happy or unhappy, whether our husbands are true to us or false to us.

If a woman has a fortune of her own or if she is a highly trained woman with some way of making a good living doing work that interests her, she may please herself about divorcing a philandering husband. She will probably be happier without him than bothering with him, unless her love is of such a quality that it can overlook his sidestepping. But the purely domestic woman who has no money of her own and no trade by which she can support herself, only adds the miseries of poverty to the sorrows of the deserted wife when she gets a divorce.

Many a woman finds that all the freedom that her divorce gives her is the freedom to go out to hunt for a job that she does not find, for there is no place in the commercial world for the middle-aged, untrained divorcee. And many a woman living in a miserable hall bedroom, half-starved, shabby, has felt like echoing the old song—"I had a good home and I left it."

In a case such as you cite, where the woman has helped her husband make his fortune, she has a right to share in it, and she is wise if she refuses to sacrifice this. A luxurious home and plenty of money to spend and one's social position do not atone for a faithless husband, but there is no denying they are compensations, and the woman who has them is better off than she would be if she still had the faithless husband and was trying to fill some ill-paid job.

So my advice to such women is to stick tight until their husbands are at least willing to give them their share of the money they have helped earn. A settlement is better than alimony.

As for the man, he must individually be small loss if he could let a girl flatter him away from his wife. However, if he is that vain, it should be easy enough for his wife to get him back. All she has to do is to feed him on a brand of jelly more potent and intoxicating than that which the girl is handing out. And, knowing his weakness better than the girl does, the wife should know the better how to do it.

Personally, I shouldn't think that a man who had to be flattered to be kept was worth having. But a good, honest, comfortable house is a different matter.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am 25. Weighed 190 when I was married. Now I weigh more than 200. My husband is very slim and he often jeers at me for being too stout. Seems not to care to take me out. Never shows me any affection. If I ask him if he loves me, he says: "I work for you, don't I?" If I do weigh more than 200, I have a heart the same as if I only weighed 110, and I don't enjoy doing all of the lovemaking. What should I do?—WORRIED WIFE.

Answer—You know what the saying is, "Nobody lived a fat woman," which shows how little sense men have, because the most agreeable wives in the world are the stylish stouts. It is the easygoing, good-natured, happy-go-lucky women who don't worry and fret and nag, and who love good food and set a good table, who get a little heftier and a little sweeter as the years go by. Why, there is more to love of a fat woman than there is of a thin one!

It is the nervous, irritable, trouble-borrowing women who keep a boyish figure. The women who have no appetites and who can make a good meal nibbling on an olive and who think that you can open a can of something and make a dinner off it. If I were a man picking out a wife, I would never marry one of these living skeletons.

But all the same, there is no denying that the ideal ladylove has a lean and hungry look and is nothing but a bunch of bones, so you had better begin counting your calories if your husband has commenced looking at flappers and comparing you individously with them.

You can get thin by dieting and it will have a twofold effect. It will decrease your size and it will make you so cross and disagreeable to live with that your husband will beg you to give it up and go back to being a nice, amiable heavyweight.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have been engaged to a young man for a long time, but we have not married owing to the fact that the father of my fiance strenuously objected on account of my being the elder, a mere trifle of not quite four years. Aside from that, he had no other objection to the match. Recently the father has lost all of his money due to bad investments and his health is broken. My fiance is heartbroken, for he feels that his father is wrecking our happiness; yet he is so conscientious that he considers it his duty to do all he can for his father and not to add to his troubles by making a marriage that would vex him. Therefore, he feels that it would be better for us to break our engagement, although we love each other devotedly, because he cannot see any hope ahead. But I try to convince him that everything is not lost and that the clouds will eventually roll by.

Please give us your honest advice in the matter.—HEARTBROKEN.

Answer—I think your sweetheart is acting like a perfect idiot, and if he hasn't enough manhood and spunk about him to marry you in spite of his father's silly objections, that you are well rid of such a weakling.

Four years' difference between the age of a man and a woman is nothing. They are simply not to be considered at all. They don't count one way or the other.

If your sweetheart's father is making a mountain out of this molehill, it is to camouflage his real motive, which is to keep his son from marrying at all. He wants to keep his boy to himself, and he would have raised an equal objection over the color of a girl's hair or what church she belonged to. Anything to stop the wedding.

It is admirable for your sweetheart to want to be kind to his father in his misfortune, but he has one of those ingrowing consciences that work more harm than good. It doesn't seem to occur to him that he is sacrificing you to the prejudices of a senile old man and ruining his life and your life just for a whim.

My advice to you is to say nothing more to the father about the matter, but to go off and get married and when it is all over he will be pleased as punch. As matters stand now he has got on a high horse that he doesn't know how to get off. Help him down.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Pot Shots at Politics by Col. Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald

POWER CONTROL

Maine Republicans have spoken. They renominated United States Senator Frederick Hale by a vote of two to one over Gov. Ralph O. Brewster. Brewster had the backing of the remnants of the Klan in Maine. Hale has been a constant opponent of the Klan program. William Tudor Gardiner was nominated for governon by the Republicans. He is a Hale Republican. There was an issue in the campaign. It was the question of water power. Three contenders for the gubernatorial nomination favored retention of what is known as the Fernald law, which forbids the export of power from Maine. Gardiner, the winner, took the stand that he would not oppose an amendment to permit the export of power provided the rights of the state were safeguarded. Power control is more than a state issue. It is a national issue. It may be a burning issue in this campaign.

PEOPLE SOURCE OF POWER

Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman of Wisconsin is for Hoover and Curtis as strong as horse radish. Gov. Zimmerman is not a progressive or La Follette Republican. He slipped into the office two years ago, defeating a LaFollette Republican. LaFollette Republicans elected a majority of the delegates from Wisconsin to the Kansas City convention. They elected a national committeeman and a national committeewoman. Their selections were thrown out by the national committee controlled by the Hoover or rather the Coolidge organization Republicans. After a steam roller hits a man he lets a squawk, grunts a groan and becomes as flat as a pancake for the time being. This is what happened in the selection of the LaFollette delegates named for places on the national committee. In the game political, the medicine may be nasty but it is wise to take it. After two years have rolled around, grab the steam roller and pay off old scores. In Texas the steam roller in the selection of delegates to the national convention, were first employed in the year 1908 in the city of Fort Worth. Joseph Weldon Bailey was the head of one faction. Cone Johnson had another faction. Two or three districts selected delegates to the Denver convention. They were thrown out by the Bailey faction which controlled the convention and ever since it has been a game of grab with an utter disregard or defiance of all the principles of justice or equity. Districts should elect delegates to the national convention; the state elect the delegates-at-large. There should be no unit rule. And lastly, the two-thirds nominating rule should be abrogated. If the people are the source of all power, then they should be permitted to exercise that power and the majority rule should be the rule of all Democratic bodies or conventions.

A REGULAR.

Mrs. A. C. Zehner of Dallas is a delegate-at-large to the Houston convention. She attended the Republican convention. She returned to Texas. Her fighting blood must have been aroused. She said, "The platform to which the Republicans have committed themselves is in our favor. I never read a weaker platform than the one they adopted. They have not slated any real help for the farmer. I'm going to Houston Sunday for the Democratic meeting and expect to fight the Republicans to the last." Mrs. Zehner is one of the most eloquent speakers to be found in the ranks of the women of Texas. She is a life long prohibitionist but a Democrat first. That is, she is of and for the organized democracy of the state of Texas and the nation at large. There are regulars and irregulars in politics. Mrs. Zehner is a regular. She takes the pledge, she supports the nominees and she doesn't care who knows it.

ABE MARTIN

Another traffic nuisance is th' feller who drives eight miles an hour while trying t' cop a girl off th' sidewalks. Why does a prescription allus cost around 75 cents regardless o' what's in it?

One-Minute Sermon

Remember this and shew yourselves men: bring it again to mind, O ye, transgressors.

Remember the former things of old: for I am God, and there is none else; I am God, and there is none like me.

Declaring the end from the beginning, and from ancient times the things that are not yet done, saying, My counsel shall stand, and I will do all my pleasure.—Isaiah, xxxxvi, 8-10.

Great Is Texas

SATURDAY'S dispatches told of the receipt at Houston of the first bale of 1928 cotton crop from the Rio Grande valley.

While Rio Grande district farmers were picking the first bale of cotton, farmers of Northwest Texas were still planting their cotton fields. They will not pick their crop until September.

These facts are illustrative of the great variety of the climate of Texas. While the crop is growing in the Rio Grande valley snow still covers the plains of Texas which are becoming a great cotton producing area.

Fate's Irony

FATE plays peculiar, freakish pranks sometimes.

Rene O. Olsen was an airmail pilot. He had flown many thousands of miles, through all kinds of weather, and had done it unhurt. He enjoyed life and good health in a supposedly dangerous calling.

The other night, off duty in Akron, Ohio, he and some friends got into an auto to go to Cleveland, 30 miles away, to attend a theater. It was a commonplace enough trip; thousands of people make it daily. But here Fate played her trick.

The auto collided with another car at a cross roads. Olsen was instantly killed.

Strange, the way things happen. To escape the dangers of aviation through thousands of miles of flying, only to die in an automobile while driving to a theater—there is a grim irony in it.

Acme to Have Paved Highway

NEXT to the oil industry probably the cement plaster industry in Hardeman county is the most important in Northwest Texas.

Acme is the center of this industry. Thousands of cars of cement are shipped from Acme annually. The plants there manufacture sheetrock, boards, building blocks, brown cement plaster, plaster of Paris, Keene cement, dental plaster and other gypsum products.

In the Hardeman county agricultural and industrial edition of the Quanah Tribune-Chief we note Acme will soon be connected with Quanah with a concrete highway.

Tourists remember the highway between Quanah and Acme as one of the worst in Texas. The new Hardeman county highway will not only be pleasing to tourists but it will be a great boon to Quanah people who work in the cement mills at Acme. It will also be a great boon to residents of Acme. One of the things a highway does for a small town through which it runs is to improve the looks of the town. Its effect is first seen in the improved appearance of the residences along the pavement. This soon spreads to other parts of the town which in a year or two can hardly be recognized.

We've seen this happen in many towns in Northwest Texas. It will happen at Acme.

Hoover and Smith

"WHY, after, should Governor Alfred E. Smith talk politics when he can talk administrative achievements?" asks the Outlook, which goes on to say: "His annual report, recently made public, shows a free cash surplus of $13,505,227 in the treasury; sinking funds of $100,120,027, with taxation increments assured sufficient to meet all obligations at maturity; and $3,742,000 bonds during the fiscal year. In addition, tax reductions on real property have saved, in the pockets of the taxpayers, $12,500,000."

It doesn't take a lot of wind-jamming to show why Governor Smith stands so high in the esteem of the people of New York. His record speaks for itself.

It is Herbert Hoover's record and certainly not what he has said that forced his nomination by the Republicans at Kansas City. The politicians didn't want him.

If Smith is nominated by the Democrats, as now seems practically certain, the voters of the United States can have the best choice they have probably ever been offered for the presidency. There have been candidates who have been more outstanding as national leaders than Smith or Hoover but certainly there have been none with a greater record of achievement behind them and certainly none who could be more surely counted upon to give the country's affairs efficient and honest administration.

An Acknowledgement

WE WOULD like to pay a tribute to Editor Hutton Bellah and the staff of the Altus Times-Democrat.

On Saturday afternoon a tornado swept across the north part of Jackson county, Oklahoma, leaving death and destruction in its wake. The Times-Democrat had gone to press for the afternoon and its staff had scattered to their homes. No issue of the paper was scheduled until Monday afternoon. The cloud was seen in the direction of Blair. Members of the Times-Democrat staff began an investigation which revealed there had been a destructive storm. They got an automobile and started for the scene. Soon they began to bring in reports that revealed the destructiveness of the storm. They set to work to compile reports of the damage and at 2 A. M. Sunday issued an extra edition of the Times-Democrat that contained the fullest account of the storm published by any newspaper.

They not only got the story in their own paper but gave reports to the Times and Record News and to Oklahoma City papers and to the press associations. They followed up their work Sunday and Monday both for their own newspaper and others. Photographs were made early Sunday and rushed to Wichita Falls and Oklahoma City. Te Record News Monday morning was enabled to publish photographs which showed graphically the storm's destruction.

The Times-Democrat followed up its work on Sunday and Monday with a detailed report of the damage throughout the county and section. It was as fine a piece of newspaper work as this paper has ever observed. It awakened the whole section to a realization of the destruction and speeded up relief work. It immediately brought several thousand dollar contributions to the relief fund.

The Times and Record News wish to acknowledge their indebtedness to Mr. Bellah and his staff. The newspaper as a whole and the people of Altus and of Jackson county may well be proud of them.

Insect Life

By CLIFFORD McBRIDE

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Walter Winchell tells how Eddie Cantor sang himself out of a "ticket" for traffic violation. Eddie, minus his burnt cork, of course, and accompanied by two days' growth of whiskers, was driving across Queensboro bridge when halted. When he produced his license, the cop was skeptical. "Eddie Cantor, eh? Well, you don't look like him. Got any other identification?" Eddie failed to find any, and gave himself up for lost.

"Say," the cop went on, "I got some Eddie Cantor records at home. Sing something." So while a line of cars formed, and the cop rested a hoof appreciatively on the running board of the auto, Cantor warbled a verse and a chorus of "You'd Be Surprised." The song, and a promise to send around two tickets to a show to "the missus," won him freedom.

The Broadway association, composed of merchants and property owners, held an anniversary celebration the other day, and a lot of bright light habitues discovered that Broadway isn't a thoroughfare bounded by Wall street and some remote place north o' Fifty-three (street), but runs right on and on, through Yonkers, away up the Hudson river valley to Troy and beyond.

The discovery has bestirred such wonderment, that some Times square Broadwayites propose to organize a daring expedition to see what inhabitants of the far reaches of the street are like, wild or tamed. Dr. Frederick A. Cook has been suggested as leader of the expedition, which would be made in Chinatown sightseeing buses.

The various "rides" and other mechanical devices at Coney have cycles of favor, and most of the other attractions have variable periods of prosperity, but trade never falls off in the "chamber of horrors" or the "congress of freaks," I am told. Folks always like to see sights that make them feel better off. The woman who gazes at the fattest lady on earth or the bearded lady gets joy out of the idea that her few surplus pounds or superfluous hairs are as nothing; and the husband who sees the representation in wax of the Snyder-Gray murder is gladder that he's alive.

Incidentally, an enterprising concession man proposed to sell souvenir sashweights to wives who visited the exhibits and were properly impressed. He discarded the idea after some friendly admonitions from the police.

At 11 o'clock the other night two members of a fashionable dinner party in an East Seventieth street manse got the idea they'd like to play chess. Nothing else would satisfy them. The butler was unable to locate chessmen in the house. Various persons present called their clubs and endeavored to have a set delivered. It appeared that in the greatest city in the world, it was impossible to obtain chessmen at night. The least wealthiest and unimportant person present, a reporter, bet that he could have chessmen delivered at the house within 30 minutes. He won. He phoned various drug stores down town, and located one that handled the article. Then he phoned for a taxi, instructed the driver to obtain the chessmen and deliver them, and this was done.

Such unusual missions are no novelty to the New York hackman. He's used to being sent on all sorts of strange errands, and he accepts them as a regular part of his business. I've no doubt that if I hailed a taxi, flashed a bankroll, and told the chauffeur, "Drive my dog to Sitka, Alaska," he'd ask the street address and do it.

So far as I know only one prominent New York restaurant continues to object to smoking by women guests. Even when a woman is accompanied by a man who smokes, a waiter hands her a small card: "Ladies will please refrain from smoking. Thank you."

Most of the department stores now have smoking facilities for women shoppers, such as balconies, rest-rooms equipped with matches, trays, etc. In floors on which gowns, shoes and such things are displayed by mannequins, there are easy chairs with convenient smoking stands for customers.

What do you want to know about New York? Ask C. K., 2200 Times building, New York, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

THESE WESTERN PLAINS.

I stand and view these endless plains
That reach to edge of sky,
With farm, and road; with home and ranch.
Those things escape my eye.

And in their stead, are a thousand head
Of buffalo, stampeding.
A lithe red man, with gun in hand
Has found where they were feeding.

There comes a note, from coyote's throat,
So thin, so shrill—deceiving.
With sunset's chill, he's off to kill
His dinner for the evening.

There comes again, so true and plain
The sound of pistol's rattle,
A cow-thief's band, that sweeps the land
To steal a ranch-man's cattle.

I clear my eyes, and realize
That I was only dreaming
Of days of yore—of frontier lore—
Of long dead Sunset's beaming.

Those days are gone, but lingers on
The spirit of the west,
Where men can ride the swiftest tide,
And do all things the best.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Virginia smiled up at him, but the smile chilled Nathaniel's hope.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Nathaniel Dann, struggling artist, gives a party at his studio in honor of his fiancee, Virginia, beautiful daughter of Richard Brewster, Wall street financier.

Niel's model, Chiri, is jealous of Virginia and tells him he will spoil his career if he marries the wealthy girl who cannot appreciate his art.

During the party Niel hears that Virginia's father has died of heart failure. He hurries her home, where she is prostrated with grief. Noting the peculiarly tortured expression on the dead man's face, Niel involuntarily asks the doctor, "Do you think it was a—natural death?" The doctor advises that death was caused by worry and shock, and it is later revealed that Brewster had lost his fortune in reckless speculation. Virginia bears up bravely under the double loss and Niel urges an immediate marriage, but his pleading is interrupted by Frederick Dean, an old family friend.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER III

"Virginia, I wish you hadn't consented to see anyone just now," Nathaniel protested when the maid had gone to admit the caller. "There is something I wanted to talk to you about."

"But Niel, I couldn't send Mr. Dean away."

"No, I suppose not. He's been a great help." Nathaniel spoke a trifle acidly.

"He and Clarissa both, Niel. She's been an angel, missing things to be here with me."

Nathaniel held his tongue in reply to that. He happened to know that Clarissa Dean had kept some of her engagements. One of them was a dance. But so long as Virginia was happier in the belief that Clarissa had sacrificed her social pleasures altogether during her friend's black days, let her think so.

He did not feel so tolerant of the girl's father, however, for he did not like Mr. Dean. There was something about the man intangible, indefinable, that made Nathaniel want to refuse to shake hands with him. He could not tell what it was that caused him to distrust the man, but the distrust was there and whenever he saw Dean with Virginia, his hand naturally ached as was his custom. Nathaniel wanted to boot him. It was a crude instinct, he knew, and as far as he could judge an unwarranted one, for certainly Frederick Dean appeared worthy to pat Virginia's hand. And he had been one of her father's oldest friends: a man who belonged to the same clubs for which the names of both had been put up at birth!

But still Nathaniel did not like him, and when he appeared in the doorway wearing a sympathetic smile, Nathaniel nodded curtly, murmured a vague greeting and stood with his hands behind him.

Dean appeared to take no notice of him beyond a quick "howdy-do." Doubtless he did not regret that he was not compelled to take his hand. But whether or not Nathaniel was to him important enough to shake hands with, he seemed to find Virginia's hands fully satisfying. For he was patting them as usual, and Nathaniel's skin began to creep as he watched. The man needn't be so confoundedly paternal, he thought. He couldn't stand much of that, he decided, and took his departure.

"I'll come back in half an hour," he said to Virginia, hoping Dean would take the hint. "You know there is something I want to talk about."

Virginia kissed him goodby, but her fingers seemed to cling a little to him as she let him go.

"My dear," Dean began in a sad voice when she was again seated beside him. "I would not have intruded upon you at this moment had I not felt that it might comfort you to know I was your father's confidant and that I am aware of the blow you have suffered today. I promised Richard I would see you through it."

"Is it really as bad as Mr. Gardiner says?" Virginia asked him, her voice rising a little.

"Richard gave me to understand that matters were in a very bad state—but of course I do not know what Mr. Gardiner said."

"He said there was nothing left—that even the furniture in this apartment must be sold." Suddenly Virginia's hands were withdrawn from Dean's grasp and were covering her face. Her body shook with the emotion she had until now been gallantly suppressing.

Dean's arms went around her; he drew her head to his shoulder, and if there was a touch of greediness in his movements Virginia was not aware of it.

"I can't understand it, Uncle Frederick"—she called Mr. Dean that on occasion—"what shall I do?"

"That's what I've come to talk to you about, my dear. Naturally you will come to us. And perhaps, when the estate is settled, there will be more for you than we think there is."

"I wouldn't mind losing the money if father had lived," Virginia said. "And I don't mind so much for myself—but there's Niel."

She sat up now and looked at him with deeply troubled eyes.

"You fear it will make a difference to him?" he asked in surprise. Such an idea had not crossed his own mind, though he welcomed it readily enough.

Virginia smiled wanly at his misinterpretation of her words.

"Niel regretted that he was going to marry a girl with money," she explained hastily. "He wouldn't have taken any of it for himself but it would have made it possible for him to devote himself to his work without worrying about supporting a wife."

"Ah, I see; you're quite right to think of him, Virginia. When a man knows he is neglecting to provide properly for the woman he loves he is sure to be distracted from his work. Especially if he knows that that very work is the cause of the neglect."

"I think Niel wants me to marry him right away. He hasn't said so yet, but I'm sure he made up his mind to do it when he heard Mr. Gardiner say I must give up this place."

"That would be—disastrous," Dean snapped. "You mustn't think of it, Virginia. You have said yourself that it would be detrimental to his career; besides, you cannot think of marrying so soon after—after—it wouldn't be respectful to your father's memory."

"I think father would wish it," Virginia said softly, "but I don't want to begin my life with Niel under a shadow."

"Then will you come to us?"

"I must talk to Niel first, but please don't think I am not grateful to you and Clarissa. It would be so much harder to bear without you two, and Niel."

"Well, I hope you won't let him cloud your judgment. I'm sure you don't realize what a chance has come to you, Virginia. Poverty's a rather terrible thing to one brought up as you have been. It will require some time for you to adjust yourself to it. Much better that you should do it alone and not as a hindrance to a young man who is still at the foot of the ladder."

"I know you are right," Virginia agreed miserably.

"Of course I am, but you mustn't expect a young man in love to agree with me. Be careful, my dear, that he doesn't confuse you and make you forget to think of consequences."

"I'll try to make him understand," Virginia promised.

Very soon afterwards, Mr. Dean planted a fatherly kiss upon her forehead and left her. In the lobby of the building he met Nathaniel and the two men unchanged brief, unsmiling nods.

Virginia had gone into her dressing room to bathe her eyes in cold water when the maid opened the door to Nathaniel. He had a few moments of fretful waiting before she came in.

"Sweetheart," he cried, and Virginia thought he acted as though he had not seen her for weeks. "I was a fool to get out," he chided himself openly. "What did Dean have to say to you?"

"He offered me a home," Virginia said, limp in his arms. Nathaniel sometimes forgot his strength when he held her.

"The nerve! What does he think I am? I hope you told him you're going to marry me without delay."

Virginia smiled up at him, but the smile chilled Nathaniel's hope. He could see it was meant to soften the refusal that was to follow.

"Let me get my breath," she pleaded, and Nathaniel released her.

"Now tell me what you said to him," he urged.

"I promised to talk it over with you."

"But you know what I'd say, Virginia; there's only one answer. We will be married as soon as you must give up this apartment. Right away would be better. I don't want you living here alone. I'll get a little place of our own; 'fraid you wouldn't care to live in the studio. What do you say, dear?"

"I can't say anything but no, Niel. Please try to understand: I'm too unhappy to think of getting married. It wouldn't be fair to you either."

"But I want to look after you," Nathaniel protested pleadingly. "You said you told Mr. Dean you would talk it over with me, but it seems you had your mind already made up."

He paused as a significant thought came to him. "Or else you don't believe in me," he rushed on. "I've failed you in some way."

"Oh, no," Virginia cried and put a hand to his lips. "I love you more dearly than anything in the world . . . now, Niel, but I must be wise for both of us. I'm sure you haven't thought this out as I have. No one but you, dear, would fail to realize what a burden I would be to you if we were to marry immediately."

"No, I haven't thought far enough to reach such a crazy conclusion as that." Niel told her, "but my thinking doesn't have to be very profound to convince me that you've had help in making your wise decision." He spoke bitterly and Virginia stared at him in astonishment.

"Dean's been advising you," he accused shortly.

Belgrade Deputy Defies Magistrate

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, June 21. (AP)—Punica Ratchitch, Montenegrin deputy, who shot and killed two other deputies and wounded four in the Jugoslav parliament yesterday, lost none of his nerve when arraigned before a magistrate today on the charge of murder.

"I am ready to be taken out immediately and shot without trial," he exclaimed. "I have fulfilled my task."

When Ratchitch previously had tried to see the minister of the interior, Father Korosetch, the latter said: "I receive no murderers. Surrender to the gendarmes in the anteroom."

Ratchitch was asked why he carried a revolver in parliament, and replied: "Oh, everybody in the Balkans carries a small arsenal in his belt, why not I?"

ELECTRA, Texas, June 22.—Between 1000 and 1500 bushels of cotton seed has again been distributed by the Electra Chamber of Commerce to Electra farmers whose lands were laid waste by storm and flood this week.

The seed was secured with much effort by R. P. Hall, manager of the Electra chamber, and is being delivered to the farmers at a minimum price. The seed is of the half and half variety. In many cases the seed is being distributed among farmers who have had to replant as many as five and six times.

JONES PLANS WORLD FETE

Projects State Centennial In 1936

HOUSTON, June 22. (UP)—Jesse H. Jones, millionaire "king of Houston," who "paid the freight" for the Democratic party, brought the national convention to Texas and, for its accommodation, made a new auditorium to bloom where only cactus bloomed before, is "cool, tired but satisfied."

A United Press correspondent found him in his shirt sleeves, hard at work in his office today, unsnarling tangles of seating arrangements for the big show opening Tuesday.

Being a Texan, Jones' coolness is no pose. He's used to heat. He observes Clem Shaver's "shirt sleeve mandate" because he desires to be "regular."

He is tired because he has worked 18 hours a day for weeks getting ready for this convention.

Denies City's Selfishness

There were little rumors around hotel lobbies today that Houston business folk want the convention to run over the next week for business purposes after giving generously to the campaign fund. The same sort of conversation was heard at Kansas City during the pre-convention days there as soon as it became apparent that Messrs. Vare, Mellon, Butler and Hilles were only going through the motions of holding a Republican convention, merely because some one had signed a contract for one.

Jesse Jones, however, is apparently out to scotch such unworthy suggestions here.

"We have not given the question of when this convention will end a single thought," he said today. "Houston is delighted at the coming of the convention and is taking its responsibility seriously. While it is a big undertaking for a city of this size, we are going to get away with it, for everybody in town considers its success his individual responsibility.

Interesting Work

"Preparing for the convention has been interesting work and very exacting, but to have people come to see us from every city and hamlet in America is, in our opinion, about the biggest thing that could happen to us.

"We still say 'howdy, friend,' here in Texas.

"We are really not counting the cost because we are pleased at having the convention come so far south.

"The money contributed by the citizens and merchants has been contributed to the Democrats party as much as if we were giving a coming out party. That is the kind of Democrats we are and we are all Democrats down here.

Plans Centennial

"Bringing the convention here serves to wipe out the sectional lines politically—and that means also in every other way. It will serve to make our own people nationally minded."

Jones is like a Caesar dreaming of more Gauls to conquer. Before this convention of his opens he is already talking and planning about bringing "the world to Texas" for a state centennial of mammoth proportions in 1936.

And they will still be saying "howdy, friend," down here in Texas in 1936.

AUSTIN, June 22. (AP)—State Senator Thomas B. Love, Dallas, candidate for lieutenant governor, has no desire for personal leadership, but wants to see "honest politics and government dominate" Texas, he said in Belle today.

He traced his record in state and national politics since before 1900, and declared that at the Beaumont convention he had to the best of his ability "plowed a straight furrow and a clean one."

DIVINE ENTERS FOR PRESIDENT

Pastor "Called" To Demo Convention

DUNCAN, Okla., June 22. (UP)—The Rev. Alonzo F. Workman, who had a premonition that he will be the next president of the United States, is ready to offer himself to the Democrats as soon as they become deadlocked at Houston.

Although deeming it undignified for him to be attending the convention since in his case he feels the office has been seeking him more than he the office, Reverend Workman fears that he will be in Houston when the convention opens.

"I am not strong for candidates for president going to the conventions, but I don't see how I can resist the temptation," he told the United Press tonight. "I am close to it down here."

To Send Letter

The campaigning minister has completed plans to place his name in nomination. No flowery oration, attended by much hoop-la will place him before the convention—he has selected the more dignified way of sending a letter to the secretary of the convention and a friend, whose name he is not revealing for political reasons, will call for the reading of this letter to the convention.

The letter, in addition to throwing his hat into the Democratic arena, gives the platform on which he will consent to take the nomination. Excerpts of the letter read:

"The meeting of the great Democratic party means so much to the nation and the world that I have no desire of restraining myself from communicating directly with you.

"I feel it is a duty as well as a privilege as a citizen to submit my name and my life to you for the nomination for the president of the United States.

Has Platform

"I have no desire to dictate your platform, but as I am a candidate, as a partisan and a Democrat, I would, however, venture two suggestion:

"I believe in clean government and law enforcement.

"I believe in a tariff on all imported wheat in order to protect the American farmer, and that the tariff money be used for revenue only."

Reverend Workman believes he is a fine compromise candidate. If nominated, he can woo and win the Protestant vote, the dry vote, the farmers' vote since he owns two farms and knows the farm problems. Labor is friendly to him because he complied with the request of the Allied Printing Trades council of Charleston, W. Va., in using the trades label on his printed matter.

"If I am nominated and elected one of my first fights will be for farm relief," he promises the much maligned farmer.

Claims W. Virginia

This itinerant minister has campaigned almost single-handed in his attempt to swing the Houston convention in his favor. Mrs. Workman is his campaign manager. He filed announcement of his candidacy in 17 states. He claims the 16 delegates of West Virginia.

To the senate investigating committee he revealed a campaign expenditure of $9.08 and he admits spending $1.60 in West Virginia—or 10 cents a delegate. Publicity gained through newspapers is listed by him as "value undetermined"—if any.

Reverend Workman was born May 20, 1880, at Richland, Mo., was ordained to the ministry at Kansas City, Kan., in 1902, and claims residence at Joplin, Mo., and Duncan, Okla. If elected, he promises a "new America after 1928, free from the thraldom of greed and Republicanism."

"I feel it in my soul, I will be the next president of the United States," he confided.

Limits Placed On Rate Concessions

AUSTIN, June 22. (AP)—The state railroad commission's order authorizing establishment of current motor truck rates by three railroad systems moving cotton to Corpus Christi from points within 100 miles, was amended by the commission Thursday to provide that the rates shall be effective June 23 and expire midnight June 22, 1929, unless cancelled or extended earlier.

Motor truck rates were allowed on baled cotton, compressed or uncompressed, on application of the Southern Pacific lines, Missouri Pacific lines and the Texas Mexican railway so they can meet motor bus competition into Corpus Christi and determine whether the rates should be adopted permanently.

Favorite Jokes of Famous People

As Told by Them to
FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON

By CARMEL MYERS

CARMEL MYERS

Carmel Myers was born in San Francisco, the daughter of Isadore Myers, a Jewish rabbi. She has a face like a candy shop and looks best in her little bead costume.

Carmel has a yen for writing short stories, and when she's not emoting spends her time wrecking a typewriter. Knows her monosyllables perfectly and can use big words like "fortify" and "negotiate" if occasion demands.

Rumor has it that she is five feet four inches tall, has dark brown hair, green eyes and is 28 years old.

"Speaking of jokes," she told me, "here's one that is really true. It's about a waitress in a white-front restaurant.

"I have often wondered how these young women who juggle trays and things can have so much patience, and you can't blame one when she becomes hot and bothered over some irritable customer.

"A woman, catalogued as the I-brow type, took her seat at this particular waitress' table and distinctly ordered a cup of cocoa. By mistake the waitress put a cup of coffee in front of her.

"'What is this?' bellowed the fretful lady. 'What is this, I say?'

"'That, madam,' said the waitress sweetly, 'is the Panama canal!'"

Cover tightly and bake in a hot oven for about 20 minutes. During this time remove the lid once or twice and pour a spoonful or two of hot water over the egg plant. When tender, remove cover and allow to brown slightly. Serve in the half portion with butter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: Mrs. C. W. S. writes: "For several months I have been bothered with my tongue burning. Am 52 years old, weigh 170 pounds, and am five feet, seven inches tall. Am well and active. Can you advance a cause for this disagreeable trouble, and tell me how to remedy it?"

Answer: In the first place you are at least 30 pounds overweight. If you will diet to reduce your weight to normal, I am sure the tongue burning will disappear, as the same diet which will reduce your weight will remove the excess stomach acidity which is no doubt the cause of the burning.

Question: W. G. writes: "In your weekly menus you never mention any drink with a meal. Is water not to be used with meals?"

Answer: If you feel thirsty at meal time, drink a small amount of water without ice. It is much better, however, to do your water drinking between meals. Let your thirst dictate the amount, and you will finally get into the habit of drinking away from meals and not with them.

Question: Mrs. R. writes: "My little boy is quite sick with ulcers of the stomach. He is 13 years old. Should he go on a diet?"

Answer: If he does not go on a diet he will surely go on the operating table. I hope by the time you read this answer you have already placed him under the care of a diet specialist who understands how to treat stomach ulcers so that the case does not develop into one which requires surgical intervention.

Kaw Tribe To Honor Nominee

KAW CITY, Okla., June 21. (UP) To show their pride in one of their tribesman who has been honored by the white man, the Kaw Indians tribe will hold a mammoth celebration in honor of Charles Curtis, vice presidential nominee on the Republican ticket.

The date of the celebration was set at a meeting of chieftains of the Kaw tribe this afternoon. A special invitation was extended to Senator Charles Curtis to be present, but it was impossible for him to accept.

An undemonstrative people, the Kaws will hold their celebration in a sequestered grove on the banks of the Arkansas river near Kaw City. The event will be policed by the American Legion, who has charge of the event. Chieftains of other Indian tribes will be honored guests.

Senator Curtis, through whose veins flows Indian blood, has his name on the roll of the Kaw tribe. The tribe numbers but a scant 200, and only 40 of these are full flood Indians.

Pastor Steers Cab to See Thug Life

But Rev. Tom Can't Get It in His Sermons

NEW YORK, June 22. (UP)—That comfortable assurance that your taxi driver is a thug and a potential assassin no longer exists for New Yorkers.

The latest recruit to the "15 and 5" pilots is the Rev. Thomas H. Wheipley, pastor of the Chelsea Presbyterian church. The Rev. Tom has been cruising about Broadway at night for two weeks now, learning what life is like among the laity during that portion of the 24 hours regarded by Texas Guinan as a working day.

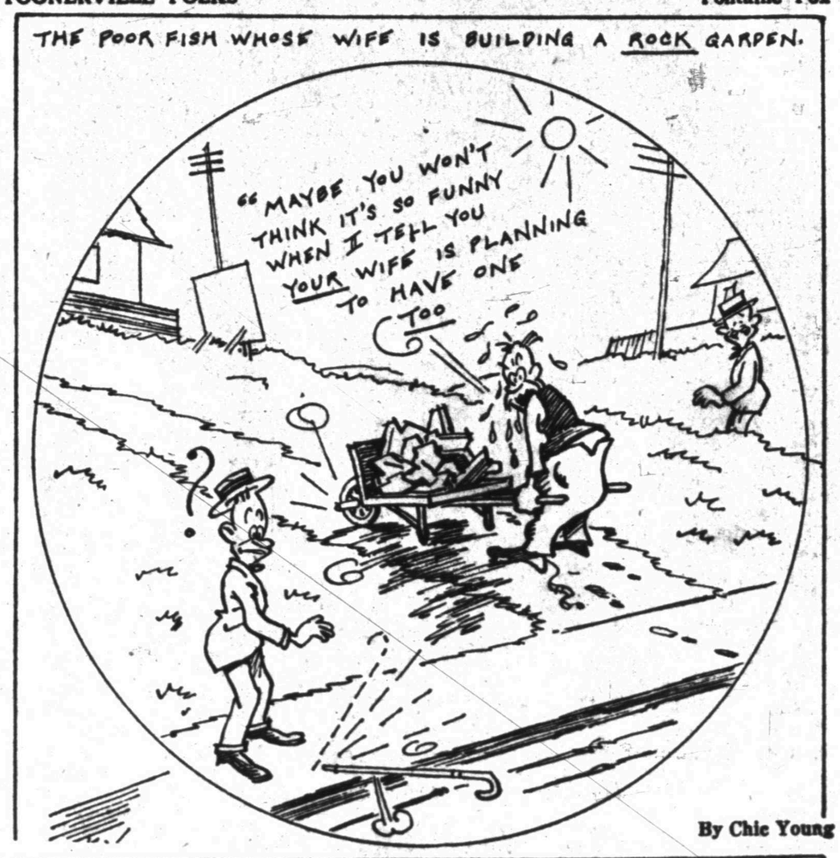

The Rev. Tom has seen so much in the last two weeks that he has been unable to get it all into his sermons. The gist of it is that some taxicab passengers are virtuous and uninteresting and some are full of hootch and ambitious to turn the devil wrong side out to see what gives him that pink glow.

"It seems to me there is less drinking among the people here than I have observed in smaller cities. While I have found the night life less lurid and wild than it is commonly pictured by those who have had no contact with it, there is no use in denying its existence. But it is the man from out of town, here for a spree, who is taken in by it and supports it, not the New Yorkers.

COLLEGIAN DARBY BEATS SPUDDERS IN PROFESSIONAL DEBUT

TEACHER GETS 6-HIT, 4-2 WIN

Blackerby Leads Cub Attack of 15 Blows

WACO, Texas, June 22. — Del Pratt, who has enjoyed phenomenal success in the development of youngsters, sent Ox Darby, late of San Marcos Teachers' college to the hill today in the opener against the Spudders. It seems as if Mr. Pratt may have uncovered another "find." Darby held the hard-hitting Spudders to six hits today and won his first professional ball game, 4 to 2.

After the champions took the lead, 2 to 1 in the second inning, Darby was in great form the rest of the way, while his comrades hammered Joe Kiefer for 15 hits, including a home run by Windle.

Blackerby Gets Four Hits

George Blackerby, back in the game after a few days' absence, massed four blows and Randy Moore knocked three blows to lead the attack. The Spudders fielded errorlessly while the Cubs made only one misplay.

Lapan made two hits, Pete being the only Spudder to get more than one wallop.

The Cubs scored in the first inning. Moore walked after one was out and went to third on Blackerby's single to right. Pratt lifted to Jenkins, Moore scoring.

Wichita Falls tallied their two in the second. Jenkins singled to left and went to third on "old reliable" Swenson's double. Stanton fanned. Lapan singled to left, Jenkins tallying, and Swenson also scored when Battle threw wild to the plate.

Cubs Take Lead

Waco took the lead in the fifth with a brace of markers. Moore beat out a hit to Roetz. Blackerby banged the left field fence for a single but Jenkins threw out Moore at third, George going to second. Pratt singled to short, Blackerby advancing to third. Battle singled down the first base line, Blackerby scoring and Pratt stopping at third. Johnson hoisted to Fitzgerald, Pratt scoring.

The Cubs scored their fourth in the eighth when Windle drove a circuit smash over the left field wall.

Fishing Chats with The Old Angler

It never pays to assume airs and high-hat the natives when you go back in the wilds for fish or game. They will be friendly and receptive if you meet them on a level, and it is remarkable how the tender of one's brand of smoking or chewing tobacco will liven the tongue of a backwoods patriarch and he will tell you more about fish and game in an hour than you will otherwise discover in a month. Then the gift of a few hooks, flies or other tackle to an urchin of the trout regions turns him into your friend and guide.

"Say, mister, I'll show you where to get big trout," volunteered a 10-year-old kid whom we had outfitted with hooks and lines in West Virginia mountains.

We followed him half a mile down stream and came to a big pool over which was suspended a burlap sack containing a hunk of rotting meat, as we learned presently. The maggots were dropping from it into the pool and being gobbled up by trout which continually stirred up the surface, and in half an hour we caught a dozen and the boy landed more while he kept up his running trout lore.

Another day we came to a village where we saw half a dozen 18-inch trout draped around a cake of ice where they had been caught. While in a tackle store window and learned where they had been caught. While we gazed with the village onlookers along came a local Sheba, glimpsed the speckled beauties and observed, "Look at the big fish!" and a village sheik bowed, tipped his hat and smiled.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

THE WEST TEXAS league started the second half yesterday with peace and harmony established after the outburst by President Stevenson. The West Texas league enjoyed an interesting and successful first half and this second half should be as good. The moguls of the West Texas loop, business men who are sportsmen, and baseball men who are sportsmen and business men, are to meet Monday at Abilene to consider "important business." The welfare of their circuit assured by their cooperation in the session of Thursday, in which they rescinded "suspensions" and "forfeitures" imposed by Stevenson, the magnates now can go ahead with plans for the future, serene in the knowledge that they all are of one mind—that of working together for the best interests of baseball and their towns.

Repudiated by his club owners, Stevenson has made no announcement of his course. It seems unlikely that he is wanted by the moguls. The unfavorable publicity accruing from his sensational and nonsensical actions is resented by all the men of the West Texas league. That they will take action, probably drastic, to show Stevenson that the West Texas league and baseball is bigger than an individual, is certain at the meeting Monday.

JIM REED, having expressed his unfavorable opinion on Smith and Hoover, reminds one of that Quaker quotation noted in a Chicago tea room: "All the world art crazy except thee and me, and at times I think even thee a bit queer."

HUDKINS AND WALKER, the greatest middleweights of modern times? Perhaps. But to classify them with the gladiators of yesterday, with Ketchell and Papke and Thomas and others of two decades ago, is libel on those mighty fighters of the past. Walker and Hudkins fought a hard 10-round fight. But there is no comparison to the battle of Mickey and Ace and those of Ketchell and Papke.

Papke, the Illinois thunderbolt; Ketchell, the Michigan assassin. Those were great fighting men. Papke knocked out Ketchell in 12 rounds, winning the title. Two months later, without the blare of a year's "building up" publicity and vaudeville tours, they fought again. Ketchell won, this in 11 rounds by a knockout.

THE LAST FIVE championship fights, a total of 70 rounds, have been devoid of a knockout and only one knockdown marked those battles. Mandell defeated McLarnin in defending the lightweight title and Loughran whipped Latzo in 15 rounds, each without a knockdown, to keep the light heavy crown. Izzy Schwartz defended the banty championship in 15 rounds, flooring his foe for a knockdown. Tod Morgan beat Pepper Martin in 15 tame rounds to keep the junior lightie crown. Then Walker and Hudkins fought their 10-round war without a decisive punch hit.

Ritt's Ritticisms

By BILL RITT

Old Emil, the corner barber, has quit to become a wrestler. For the last 20 years he has been practicing holds on customers.

Emil was a barber of the old school which believed in never letting a man out of a chair until the beard trimmer had put his trade mark on him. Emil's sign was a deep gash back of the left ear.

As a scissors chauffeur Emil had little technique but plenty of energy. He never felt a job was done until he had trimmed the ears.

His style was often likened to Walter Hagen's. He used a clipper shot on the bald spot or fairway, but always relied on his razor when he got in the rough.

Jeffries once dropped into Emil's chair. A week later Jim retired undefeated heavyweight champion but thoroughly demoralized.

Customers in Emil's hands had only one consolation. Their insurance was paid up.

The chin scraping industry lost a great character when Emil decided to do all his fighting on a mat. There will never be another like him—there couldn't be.

Jones' 144 Leads National Golf And Hagen Rallies to Shoot 147

Von Elm and Leach Tie for Second With 146, While MacFarland and Henry Ciuci Equal Walter's Score

By ALAN J. GOULD

OLYMPIA FIELDS, CHICAGO, June 22. (AP)—Shot-making kings of them all, the one and only Bobby Jones and that daring gambler in golf fortunes Walter Hagen, stole the thunder of a stormy second round in the international open championship today.

When the bunkered brigade had finished the first half of the 72-hole test, Jones, after a brilliant par-equalling round of 71 today, stood two strokes in front of the field with a 36-hole total of 144. The great Georgian, completing his round before a huge gallery just before the storm broke, was three strokes in front of Hagen, who rallied with the suddenness of the downpour to finish his incoming nine holes to the record-breaking tune of 32, four under par. "The Haig" thrilling the soaked and dilapidated gallery that stuck to his heels, served notice of his threat to Jones or any other title rival by finishing in 72 to post a total of 147.

In between Jones and Hagen were two others who moved up into contending positions, George Von Elm of Detroit and Bill Leach, Philadelphia, "pro," each with totals of 146, while the British open king at 147, was tied by two more, Willie MacFarland, 1925 champion, and Henry Ciuci, young Stratford (Conn.) pro, who fell off to 77 today after his dazzling 70 of the opening round.

Cooper Near Elimination

It was a day of dazzling, storm-swept golf, filled with shattered hopes for such as John Ball, the Atlanta pro of Bobby Jones' home course, who blew up with an 81 after helping Ciuci set the pace with a 70 yesterday, and for such stars as "Light Horse" Harry Cooper of Buffalo, runner-up a year ago but among those eliminated tonight as he turned in a dismal 163.

It was a day of sensational flights for such as Craig Wood, Bloomfield, (N. J.) pro who blew himself to the best round of the day, a 70, but for the spectators the most spectacular stuff was turned in by the two giants of American golf, Jones and Hagen.

Where Hagen gave the galloping gallery its biggest thrill on his homeward journey through the rain, shooting four birdies in five holes with golf such as only Sir Walter can flash when he is "hot," Jones carried a huge and unruly following, some 5,000 strong through a steady succession of exciting moments. Hagen had to shoot his 32 to offset a mediocre 40 on the outgoing nine but Jones slugged it out with Old Man Par all the way around to make it a draw at the finish.

Jones was wild and often in trouble with his wooden shots but he has seldom, if ever, been any more brilliant with mashie and niblick or with his famous putter, "Calamity Jane."

Accurate With Jones

The deadly accuracy with which he laid his approaches dead to the pin from traps, rough or plain fairway and the uncanny touch with which he rolled the long ones on the green, smack up to the hole, had the gallery alternately gasping and cheering.

The Atlanta wizard got the "break" on such occasions as when his hooked drive caromed off a bunker to safety, when another bounced from a tree to the fairway and when one of his putts spun around the hole before dropping in, but he also experienced ill luck when at least a half dozen of his bids for "birdies" missed out by margins averaging about two inches. Had even half of his putts against par, ranging from five to 10 feet, dropped as they seemed to inclined to do, Jones would have put the old man down for a long count and jumped into an almost unbeatable lead.

On nine of the 18 holes Jones was either in traps or rough. Only once did he fail to save himself by miraculous recoveries with his mashie or niblick. That was on the tenth, where he was lodged in a trap and still 100 feet from the green with his second shot. This was a great shot and his third, dead to the pin, was another but he missed by an inch the putt that would have kept him even with par. His only other mistake, so far as its costliness was concerned, was on the tenth green, where he took three putts.

Hagen Sensational

Jones' play, under the harassing conditions imposed by the gallery was remarkable enough but it is doubtful whether the tournament will see another finish such as Hagen put on later in the day. The storm seemed to electrify the Haig, who missed by inches his bid for a birdie in the tenth, then stepped out while the storm was at its height to knock off the next three holes in 3-3-2. Clipping a stroke off par at each, Sir Walter holed a chip shot from just off the green on the eleventh, clearing a big puddle of water to do so; sank a 25 footer for his "bird" at the twelfth and rammed in a 12 footer on a soggy, treacherous thirteenth green, for a duece.

Hole high on the fourteenth with a smashing iron, Hagen just missed his putt for another birdie, but bagged his fourth on the 555 yard fifteenth, where he was home in three to sink a curling putt clear across the green, easily 50 feet. He was putting for a birdie again on the sixteenth but missed and was forced to be satisfied with a mere par for the remaining two holes.

ALL-CITY GOLF STARTS TODAY

Record Entry Expected In Renewal of Tourney

Experts, duffers and just golfers will tee off today and tomorrow at Wichita Falls Golf and Country club in qualifying play in the all-city championship tournament. With the entry near 50 yesterday, it is expected that close to 100 will compete for the title as the foremost golfer of the city.

The tournament is under the direction of Bill Strachan, professional of Golf and Country club, who also will act as starter. Entry may be made by players just before teeing off today and tomorrow.

Numerous Flights

There will be as many flights in the tournament as made possible by the number of entrants. The championship flight will comprise 32 and other flights 126 players. An entrance fee of $1.50 will be used to defray the cost of purchasing trophies, with prizes to winners and runnerups of all flights.

Amateur golfers more than 16 years old and residents of the city for a year are eligible for competition.

Sterling Field

Match play will start after qualifying, with two rounds to be played each week. Final round will be for 36 holes and other rounds 18.

J. H. S. Bonner, who won the last all-city tourney, in 1925 over the Weeks park links, is expected to defend his title. The champion will encounter probably the most sterling field that ever entered a local tourney, including players noted as foremost stars in Texas golf.

Hamlin Defeats Abilene in Ninth

Scores 7 to Win Opener Of Series Here, 10-3

Abilene Aces, winners of the first half championship in the West Texas league, lost the opening of the second half yesterday at Spudder park when Hamlin won a 10 to 3 game. Chick Galeria, who had scored something like 11 or 12 victories to one or two defeats in the first half, weakened in the ninth and Hamlin counted seven runs in that round.

The game was first of a three-contest series transferred here from Abilene.

Fonken held the Aces to seven hits and also contributed to the winning attack. Hamlin pounded Galeria for 15 blows, eight in the ninth inning.

The let-down following their first-half victory was evident in the play of Abilene yesterday. They were shaky afield, making five errors, three by the highly touted Deba Garme, shortstop. Some fast fielding by Orr was about the only feature of the Aces' play. Score:

Yale Crew Easily Conquers Harvard

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 22. (UP)—A splendid Yale varsity crew completely smothered a giant but listless Harvard eight in their annual four-mile struggle on the Thames here this afternoon.

More than 50,000 persons witnessed the race and it is doubtful if there was one spectator among them who was not amazed at the utter collapse of the Crimson crew. There was no life in the boat at any time during the long pull and Ed Leader's men won going away. They were about nine lengths ahead of the floundering Cambridge oarsmen at the finish. There was no contest after the first quarter of a mile had been covered.

It was the most humiliating defeat sustained by a Crimson desity on the Thames river.

CARLTON AND GUNN SURVIVE

Texan Meets Georgian Today in Southern Final

BROOK HOLLOW GOLF CLUB, DALLAS, Texas, June 22. (AP)—Watts Gunn, youthful star from Atlanta, Ga., and Ossie Carlton of Houston, Texas, twice a Texas state champion, will fight it out over the 36-hole route here tomorrow for the southern amateur golf championship.

They won their way into the final today in gruelling matches. Lanham Conner, Dallas Country club and University of Texas player, participating in his first formal tournament, carried Gunn one extra hole before he succumbed, 1 down.

Louis Jacoby, Dallas veteran and twice a runner-up in the southern amateur championship, fought a bitter battle with Carlton only to lose on the final green.

Conner for three days had played seemingly inspired golf.

He broke under the strain of competing with a golfer of the Gunn calibre, however, and his showing on the extra hole was extremely poor.

Conner Breaks

He topped his drive and it rolled weakly about 100 yards into the rough to the left of the fairway. He hit far back of his ball with his iron and got a bare 10 yards. Right there his hope of playing in the finals tomorrow vanished, although Gunn himself was wabbling all over the course and took the hole virtually because Conner forced it upon him. Conner took a 7 and Gunn got down in 6.

The cards:

The huge gallery followed the Gunn-Conner match and obviously favored the Dallas man. He was regarded as the underdog because Gunn has been picked as the likely winner since the list of entrants was announced.

Fewer than half a dozen spectators witnessed the bitter contest between Jacoby and Carlton.

The finalists won their way into the semi-finals today by top heavy scores, while the men they ousted in the afternoon round had hard struggles.

Gunn Beats Lamprecht

Gunn put out Fred Lamprecht of New Orleans, former intercollegiate champion, 5 and 4, and Carlton ousted Charles Dexter Jr., of Dallas, southern champion 12 years ago, by the same score.

Connor, shooting the wonderful golf that had marked his progress through the event, put out L. R. Robertson of Dallas, the medalist, after a ding dong battle that ended only on the home green, with the college youth winner 1 up.

Dimocks Increase City League Lead

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 22. (AP)—A further advance which carried prices into new high ground for the movement in the cotton market today, was attributed to a continuation of recent buying inspired by unfavorable weather and crop advices. October contracts sold up to 21.57 or 28 points above yesterday's closing quotation, 144 points above the low level of June 12 and within 21 points of the high price touched at the beginning of May. Realizing caused reactions in late trading, but the close was steady, last prices showing net gains of 6 to 17 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 5 points to a decline of 1 point, active months selling 2 or 3 points below yesterday's closing quotations under liquidation or realizing and some local selling for a reaction. The latter was attributed to relatively easy Liverpool cables and belief that recent advances had eased the technical position of the market. The setback brought in some trade and speculative buying, however, and the market turned firmer on the forecast for further showers in the south. There was covering or replacing by some of the earlier sellers on the advance which followed, the market showing increasing firmness during early afternoon on private reports of rains or showers at Memphis and in some sections of Alabama.

July sold up to 21.38 and December to 21.43, net advances of 20 to 28 points, but demand slackened at these figures and prices lost a good part of their gain in late trading.

Rather more favorable crop advices from Texas were considered responsible for some of the early selling, but there were unfavorable reports from various sections of the belt, and buying on the recovery from the early decline, was encouraged by reports of a more active demand for cotton goods.

Private cables said Bombay buying had been followed by local, London and continental liquidation in Liverpool and reported a smaller cloth turnover with buyers showing disinclination to pay current prices.

Exports today 7842, making 7,384,639 so far this season. Port receipts 5357. U. S. port stocks 933,496.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 22. (AP)—The cotton market was moderately active today and although prices fluctuated widely, their general trend was upward. Good trade and speculative buying absorbed contracts although profit-taking developed on all dips. October contracts traded up from 20.68 to 21.02, a net gain of 26 points. The option closed at 20.93, 17 points net up. The general market closed very steady at advances of 13 to 17 points.

The market opened easy in sympathy with lower Liverpool cables than due, first trades showing losses of 3 to 13 points. Prices eased a few points additional after the start on the comparatively dry weather map. July traded off to 20.93, October 20.68 and December to 20.65, or 8 to 13 points under the previous close.

Trade and speculative buying developed at the low levels and the market strengthened, aided by the firmness shown in New York. The upturn was helped also by map indications of a return of unfavorable weather in the belt and an official forecast for showers. Before mid-session July had recovered to 21.14, October to 20.88 and December to 20.85, or 18 to 31 points over the lows.

Following a reaction of 4 to 7 points on realizing prices turned upward and again after mid-session under buying induced by reports of rain in the central belt and fears of overflows. Considerable covering also developed, and before the demand was supplied July reached 21.25, October 21.02 and December 20.95, 24 to 34 points above the lows and 19 to 26 points over the previous close. A renewal of realizing in the final trading caused a recession of 6 to 9 points and July closed at 21.19 and December 20.86.

Futures closed very steady at a net advance of 13 to 17 points.

Lightest Trading in Year Causes Dull Inroad On Stock Market

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service Financial Expert

NEW YORK, June 22.—A very mixed and extremely dull market was experienced on the stock exchange today. Total trading was just under 1,500,000 shares. It was the lightest trading since July 18, 1927 when volume was 1,378,000 shares and for the first time in many months the ticker stopped entirely at intervals.

The improvement in the money and brokers' loan situation shown in the reserve bank statements helped sentiment somewhat. There is fear of higher money next week, however, as an obstacle to new buying, while professionals have been licked so often in past months on the short side that there are comparatively few with courage to sell short.

General Motors, Steel and other standard industrials held to fractional range. Pierce Arrow and other motor shares helped by merger talk showed the best advances. Rails with few exceptions quieted around the levels reached in recent recovery while oils and coppers were extremely dull.

Foreign exchange recovered slightly. Wheat and other commodities ruled quiet, also losing slightly for the day on weekend realizing.

Correction of just under $300,000,000 in brokers' loans for a fortnight as shown in the reserve bank reports was the most drastic experienced in any similar period since early in 1926.

Some brokers wondered whether it was sufficient but practically all bankers were warned to be prepared for steps toward further reduction and the consequent bearish influence on the stock market.

The big money disbursements due the end of next week with other seasonal requirements, it was pointed out, might be sufficient to effect all the reduction the money powers wanted particularly as the market has quieted, or as the street puts it, is no longer attracting undesirable comment about excess speculation.

Western Maryland and Pittsburgh & West Virginia benefited further from the approval of the latter's roads application for an extension. However, as those roads that are interested in the four trunk line plan had fought the application the approval lost some of its bullish force because of possibility that plans of the controlling interests in Pittsburgh & West Virginia might delay consummation of the eastern consolidations. Railroad men do not expect definite action on any mergers for many months and point out that the most important development now is the upward trend in car loadings.

MARKET REVIEW

R. O. Harvey & Co., rooms 630-34 Harvey-Snider building, received the following on cotton, grains and stocks from their New York and Chicago correspondents:

Cotton

NEW YORK, June 22.—The demand is some less urgent today due to many shorts having covered and heavy profit taking but the market acts remarkably well and offerings are being easily absorbed. Bullish sentiment is increasing and trade fixing is more noticeable for both foreign and domestic accounts. With present weather conditions crop complaints are bound to increase and will undoubtedly be reflected in a higher market.—E. A. Pierce & Co.

Stocks

NEW YORK, June 22.—Total sales today fell short of 1,500,000 and call money was at 6½ all day. Price changes on the whole were small. Selling was scattered. Trading turned extremely dull on recessions and picked up a little on recovery. Pierce Arrow suddenly developed decided strength on reports that the merger with Studebaker was a decided probability. Indian Refining also enjoyed an outburst of strength. Buying was said to be for Chicago interests. Radio was perhaps the strongest of the better known issues and in that stock a heavy short interest was said to have existed with selling having gained in volume as the shares broke below 180. Today's strength was attributed largely to short covering. Majority opinion inclined to the view that the correction in brokers' loans would have to go further. —E. A. Pierce & Co.

Grain

CHICAGO, June 22.—Wheat—Shows strength early and advanced over one cent from yesterday's finish on buying induced by further rain and hail storms in the southwest and unexpected strength in Liverpool, but houses with eastern connections were sellers on the bulge, and with a flattening out in the trade, the market reacted to around the finish of the previous day. Near the close liquidation by locals who had gotten long earlier in the day broke prices sharply and the close was at the low figure of the day. Aggregate trade was not large and market easily influenced. Strength in Liverpool was reported as due in part to failure of Canadian pool to offer abroad overnight, but other cables told of a better cash demand from the continent and of lighter offerings. Export demand at the seaboard was active, with sales of 2,000,000 bushels in all positions, largely Manitobas, but including some durms. Forecast indicated generally fair weather for Kansas and a little cutting is underway in that state, although general run of reports indicate that it will take several days of good weather before much work can be done. Further damage was claimed in that state and Oklahoma due to storms last night. Conditions in Canadian Northwest generally favorable.

Corn—Showed considerable resistance to pressure, with July gaining fractionally on September, and went to about the best premium over the deferred delivery so far. There was fair buying by commission houses and locals, but the aggregate grade was not large, and the market easily influenced. Cash demand was somewhat less active. Reported some corn sold for export via the gulf for December shipment. Weather over the belt remains favorable for the new crop.

Oats and rye—Action of the oats and rye market was largely a reflection of that of other grains.

Grain

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE
Universal Service

CHICAGO, June 22.—For most of the session today the grain markets gave a display of four-flushing that would have done credit to many a successful nonproducing job holder. They closed irregularly with wheat and rye distinctly lower.

Wheat was off ⅜c to ⅝c at the finish; corn was ⅛c to ⅝c higher; oats were ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher; rye was down 1⅛c to 1½c.

At the end wheat and corn looked weak enough to be prescribed the oxygen treatment.

They may recuperate tomorrow, of course, but that seems very doubtful in light of the fact that tomorrow is Saturday. Only a brave bull, in all probability, will want to carry wheat and corn over the Sunday holiday into next week.

The susceptibility in the wheat and corn markets to selling that may develop tomorrow appears to lie in the recent pit buying on reported export business.

The picture presented by the wheat situation is so extremely bearish that the chance of getting any outside buying at present seems slim. We have one of the biggest visible supplies—if not the biggest—in a quarter of a century. The prospects in Kansas are for harvesting 175,000,000 bushels of winter wheat, with the possibility of a record yield. Corn was bulled so persistently earlier in the season at present prices and much higher ones, the conclusion is forced that there must be heavy long holdings in the nearby futures at prices a good deal above the existing level.

Rye was weak today.

In the cash market wheat was unchanged; corn was unchanged to 1c up; oats were firm; rye was quiet; barley was firm.

J. C. Hunt Grain company—Wheat, $1.20; oats, 55c.

Cotton Closes Down Grain Prices Steady

Cotton closed a few points down Friday, slightly higher than it opened last Monday, according to quotations of local cotton brokers. Wheat was unchanged at $1.20. Offerings of 55 cents and 65 cents are being made locally on oats. Produce markets were unchanged Friday.

The past week has seen a number of new arrivals on the local markets, most noticeable of which were Washington cherries and California grapes, plums and apricots.

Watermelons, with arrival of the season's first carload here the middle of the week, skidded from 5 cents to 3 to 3½ cents.

Local potatoes, the "City of Faith" brand, also made their first appearance on the market Wednesday, with prospects that an active campaign for local absorption of the entire output will be made. The first of the year's crop, which will be about 50 per cent of normal, was harvested by Solon Downing.

Other markets showed no change during the week.

Lamesa Well May Open New Field

Special to The Record News

LAMESA, Texas, June 22.—The Hobbs well number one has been pronounced by oil men as a paying producer. It has been capped off and no measurement has been yet ascertained as to the actual flow of the well, but it is believed that here is the opening of a new and productive oil field. This well is located 70 miles west of Lamesa on an air line.

Business men of Lamesa are busy getting better road conditions to this well from here. The well is located almost on the Dal Paso Cavern highway just across the state line and already there is a good road to the well from here, but a better road will be built if Lamesa men have their way.

Hotel facilities in Lamesa are being made headquarters for oil men who are interested in the situation at Hobbs, this being the nearest point with hotel accomodations that are ample. Leasing is active and royalties are fast selling according to reports reaching here today.

Business conditions have picked up in Lamesa as a result of this well and the knoweldge that a paying oil field will be produced at Hobbs and between Lamesa and Hobbs.

LETTERS BRAG OF PUBLICITY

Utility Witness Tells Of Press Dealings

WASHINGTON, June 22. (AP)—Letter writing proclivities of J. B. Sheridan, director of the Missouri committee on public utility information, in which he censured business methods of the utilities companies, dubbed Missouri country editors "God's fogs," and made a false statement concerning The Associated Press, furnished much documentary evidence at today's federal trade commission inquiry into public utilities.

Shortly after letters in which Sheridan bragged to associates about the amount of public utility press agent stuff The Associated Press was using, were introduced, he was confronted with a letter he wrote to the St. Louis office of the association in which he complained that associates had told him "The Associated Press was hostile to their news."

Letters Informative

Sheridan's letters admitted that the part of his information the news association did use had news value and that he did not offer it anything that was not of that calibre.

In a letter in 1923, to J. S. Richardson, then chairman of the Pennsylvania public utility bureau and now director of the joint committee for national utility associations, Sheridan made the untrue statement about The Associated Press.

"I think word has gone down from headquarters of The Associated Press to take care of committees on public utility information," he wrote.

Is Cross Examined

Cross examined by Robert E. Healy, chief counsel for the commission, Sheridan said he had no authority for this statement; that it was just an idea that he had.

Other developments in today's inquiry included the attention that Sheridan's organization and the National Electric Light association paid to the attitude of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Sheridan wrote a letter March 19, 1928, to George F. Oxley of New York, information director of the National Electric Light association in which he said, "I believe that the personal 'slant' of its hired men largely is responsible for the pink leaning of the Pulitzer press."

POWER!

ONE little streamlet doesn't exert a great force. But Niagara Falls is the sum total of hundreds of such streamlets united.

IF our Classified Section consisted of one ad, read by one person, the chances are results would be somewhat unusual.

BUT the Want Ad Section of the Daily Times and Record News carries hundreds of little ads each day and they are read by thousands of people living in Wichita Falls. These two papers have more ads, more readers; more readers, more results; more results, more ads—and so on all over again.

IS it any wonder these little ads nearly always get what they go after?

READ every day by thousands of Wichita People.

ELECTRA THEFT SUSPECT HELD

Deputy Sheriff Hurt In Affray

Complaints charging robbery of the Jefferson hotel and the Jackson and King News company at Electra a few nights ago probably will be filed Saturday against a man taken by members of the sheriff's department early Friday morning, according to Sheriff W. G. Bralley.

The man was surprised asleep in the bed at the place where he stayed in Electra Friday morning by Charles Gant, deputy sheriff, and members of the Electra police department. Prior to the early morning visit Sheriff Bralley and a number of his deputies had visited the man's room, but had not found him in at that time.

Deputy Hurt

When Mr. Bralley left for Wichita Falls with a prisoner facing charges of swindling shortly after midnight, Mr. Gant was left in Electra to apprehend the man he later arrested.

During a fight which preceded the man's arrest, Mr. Gant received a cut lip and bruises and the prisoner also was slightly bruised.

When the Jefferson hotel clerk was held up and robbed of cash and checks by an armed man early in the week, the masked marauder is said to have fired two shots in making his getaway, one of which was directed at a negro porter of the establishment.

Water Consumption Lowers Lake Level

Water is no longer running over the spillway at Lake Wichita and the consumption of water in the city is gradually bringing down the level from its recent high mark.

Tests of the water for hardness show that the water is down about four parts per million since the recent rains.

Dr. A. H. Dougless, manager of the water system, explained this as being based on the generally accepted basis for water in the country, which is the Great Lakes. There the hardness is 125 parts per million. The reading on the most recent test on Lake Wichita was 317 parts per million, and the previous test showed 321.

Severe Pain in Side, Nervous, Thin, Tired

Lady Says She Didn't Feel Like Going Anywhere or Doing Anything Until She Took Cardui.

Huntington, W. Va.—"I was in a very weak and run-down condition," says Mrs. Fannie C. Bloss, of 1960 Madison Avenue, this city.

"In my left side the pain was very severe. It would start in my back and sides. Part of the time I was in bed and when up I didn't feel like doing anything or going anywhere.

"Life wasn't any pleasure. I was very pale. I was nervous and thin, and so tired all the time.

"My druggist told me that Cardui was a good tonic for women and I bought a couple of bottles. I took two bottles, then I noticed an improvement. I kept on and found it was helping me. I have taken nine bottles. I'm stronger now than I have been in a long time."

For over 50 years, women who had gotten into a weak, run-down condition, have been enthusiastic in their praise of Cardui. Thousands of them began taking Cardui because of the confidence they had in the advice of friends who had told them of their own experiences.

Cardui is a harmless extract of mild-acting medicinal herbs.

Sold by druggists everywhere.

TAKE CARDUI
USED BY WOMEN FOR OVER 50 YEARS

Cardoseptic, for hygienic reasons, should be used by women as a mild, harmless detergent; 50 cts.

ADDED GRIEF

City Bothered With Moss Growth in Water Ditch

Fish and moss are adding to the grief and the worry of the city water department.

Friday, members of the department were busy clearing moss from along the sides of the ditch from Lake Kemp to the city plant. This condition has come about since the fish and moss has been at the lake and it is thought that it just followed the course of the water through the ditch.

From now on, the department expects to have to clear the sides of the ditch about every two weeks to keep the moss from accumulating and clogging up the plant.

Fight On Smith Takes Form

thrown around the conferences which are to be continued, perhaps up to the very time of the balloting for the presidential nomination. Southern leaders now on the ground look for the augmenting of their forces as others arrive from Alabama, North Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Virginia.

Smithites Unworried

Some other of the Smith opponents were approached before the initial conference was held, but it was reported that they had declined to become a party to any coalition aimed at Smith; that they insisted that their favorite should stand or fall upon their own ability to gain strength from the delegates.

The activities of the opposition apparently gave the Smith adherents little concern. They went ahead with their plans for headquarters and for the wind-up of the campaign confident in the belief that the New York governor would obtain the necessary two-thirds of the 1100 delegates on an early ballot.

REED ARRIVES; TALKS LIKE SPHINX

HOUSTON, Texas, June 22. (UP) James A. Reed of Missouri, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, declined to discuss politics when he arrived here tonight for the convention.

When asked for comment on the dispute here over the prohibition plank in the platform, Reed said: "I haven't any ideas on that subject now or any other. I may have something to say tomorrow."

Reed was greeted at the station by approximately 200 persons.

SENATOR GEORGE ARRIVES IN HOUSTON

HOUSTON, Texas, June 22. (AP)—Senator George of Georgia, one of those upon whom the southern Democrats may concentrate in their drive to stop Governor Smith, arrived in the convention city tonight to carry forward his campaign for the presidential nomination.

The Georgia delegation is instructed to cast its 28 votes for the senator, who said that in addition he had been given the personal assurance of the delegates that they would stand by him as long as he might desire.

INDIANA VOTES SOLIDLY FOR WOOLLEN

HOUSTON, Texas, June 22. (AP)—Indiana's 30 votes in the Democratic convention will be for Evans Woollen, of that state, until a candidate is chosen by the convention, his personal representative A. C. Sallee declared in a statement issued tonight for publication.

Mr. Sallee emphasized that Indiana has "no alliances and no animosities," and "its not against anybody," but the declaration was regarded in some quarters as dimming any prospects of Governor Smith or any other leading candidate picking up votes from Indiana until a nomination is made.

Deaths

MRS. FANNIE E. KING

Mrs. Fannie E. King, 78, died at a local hospital Friday afternoon at 6 o'clock.

Funeral services will be held from the Hines mortuary chapel at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, with the Rev. W. H. Townsend, pastor of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church, officiating. Burial will be in Rosemont.

Mrs. King is survived by eight children and 15 grandchildren.

Movies in Scotland

Free motion pictures will be shown in Scotland park Saturday night by the park department, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, superintendent of parks. No pictures are shown on Sunday nights.

SEWER FEE URGED HERE

Douglass Warns of City Penalties

"Pay your sewer rentals before July 1 or your water and sewerage service both will be discontinued."

This was the warning broadcast Friday by Dr. A. H. Douglass, manager of the water and sewer departments.

"A recent city ordinance transferred the sewers to the water department," Dr. Douglass said. "The same ordinance stated that after July 1 there will be no more sewer rentals.

"But up to that time the rental is in full force and effect. The ordinance set forth that every water and sewer connection in the city where the sewer rental has not been paid before July 1, will be shut off by the city at once.

Delinquent Penalty

"All bills paid after that date must include the cost of turning off the water, disconnecting the sewer line, connecting the sewer line, turning on the water and the original unpaid sewer rental. This is mandatory under the ordinance and is beyond the power of any city employe to change. The city does not want to have to take any action in any case, but in cases where the rentals are not paid, it will be necessary to do so under the ordinance.

"These rentals should be paid now. We had hoped that the money would practically all be in by this time. Sixty thousand dollars is the total sum due. We have received only $5000.

"This means that only 1 out of 12 persons whose sewer rentals should be paid, have paid.

"For this reason, we are appealing to every man and woman in Wichita Falls to check up his own sewer rentals and be sure they are paid. We also hope that people talk it by word and mouth so that there will be no one in the city who will say he didn't know his sewer rentals were due.

"The money should be paid at the water office in the city auditorium on the main floor in the front portion of the east wing of the building."

Churches Close Bible Schools

Two churches closed their vacation Bible schools Friday evening with programs. The daily vacation Bible school of the First Presbyterian church gave a program at the church at 8 o'clock Friday evening, while an hour of readings and musical numbers beginning at 8:15 o'clock, brought to an end the summer session for the Lamar Avenue Baptist church.

The program of the First Presbyterian church was as follows:

Processional; flag salute; song, "Glorious Things of Thee are Spoken"; Twenty-third psalm by the beginners' department; one hundreth psalm, memory selection, by the primary department; song, "Three Little Maids from Japan," by Jennie June Donnell, Lucille and Hilda Gibbs; Matthew 13, 1-12 by the junior department; pageant, "Mother Goose Missionary Meeting" by the primary department; song, "America, the Beautiful," by the school; "Into All the World," by the school; presentation of diplomas and trophies; song, "Faith of Our Fathers" and the benediction.

Numbers on the program of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church were as follows:

"Holy, Holy, Holy," precessional hymn by the congregation; prayer by the pastor; flag song by the beginners; beginners' program; Bible song by the primary department; memory drill by the primary department; story retold by a student in the primary department; salute by the primary department; drummer song by the primary department; salute by juniors and intermediates; song, "We've a Story to Tell to the Nations," by juniors and intermediates; story retold by pupil in the junior department; reading by a junior; song, "O, Master Workman of the Race," by junior department; "Paul's Defense Before Agrippa," dramatized by pupils of the intermediate department; geography songs by the juniors; playlet by the juniors; song, "Just as I Am, Thine Own to Be," by juniors and intermediates, and the benediction.

Candidates Rush To Pay Demo Assessment

Prospects for a rush to the office of E. C. DeMontel, Democratic county chairman, were in evidence Friday following an announcement by Mr. DeMontel that names of the aspirants to county office who had not paid their assessments by Monday night would be omitted from the ballot. Only about half of the candidates had paid their assessments Friday afternoon, Mr. DeMontel said.

Theft Charge Based On Loan of Boat

Arthur "Slim" Madison was charged with theft by bailee of more than $50 before Judge R. V. Gwinn, justice of the peace, Friday morning, following an investigation by Gage McDermett and Dick Kenley, assistant district attorneys. Madison made bond of $750.

Madison is accused of borrowing an outboard motorboat motor from a friend and then trying to sell it.

Man Held Here On Charge of Forgery

Following identification in Electra early Friday morning a man alleged to have scattered a trail of checks through Electra, Vernon and Wink was held in the county jail here Friday, facing charges of forgery.

The checks used by the man in his systematic compaign of swindling are purported to have been taken from an oil company in Wichita Falls, later forging his name to a number of them filled in for amounts from $12 to $30.

Boys Puzzled

The grounds in front of the city auditorium have been recently harrowed. A short time ago it was said that the city did not contemplate the immediate sodding of the block of land around the building this year due to the cost and due to the depleted state of the city treasury.

Some boys stopped along the sidewalks in front of the building Friday trying to figure out the correct names for some of the weeds which the harrow had thrown to the edge of the sidewalk.

Today At the Theaters

MAJESTIC: Last times of Zane Grey's "The Vanishing Pioneer." Paramount news. Cartoon.
STRAND: Syd Chaplin in "The Fortune Hunter," (vitaphone feature), and "In a Monastery Cellar" and "Non-Support," vitaphone shorts. Pathe news.
OLYMPIC: W. C. Fields in "Fools for Luck." Comedy. Fox news.
GARDEN: "Quick Trigger." Serial. Comedy.
GEM: "Gold from Weepah." Serial. Comedy.

Now that the week's work is practically finished, there should be a little interest in a good show. Everyone has cussed the hot weather, but there isn't much use in that.

It is just as well to get a laugh out of life, even if the weather is hot. Laughing at the good comedies to be seen in the theaters here or enjoying the good action pictures, is a lot better than making things more unpleasant grumbling about the weather. If you grumble, folks will say "Well, he IS that way."

Syd Chaplin has the cure for the hot weather ails. He's got it parked and waiting for you at the Strand theater. It's name is "The Fortune Hunter." More than that it is a picture with Vitaphone music all the way through. So, there is comedy and good music combined at that show.

Lest we forget, don't pass up reading the Tuesday morning Record News. Tuesday is the morning after the night before when the city council meets, and that is always good for a grin or two. Those Monday night meetings of the council develop comedy or fireworks every week. The fireworks are more interesting, but the city dads fight to keep down any fireworks. That throws the comedy to the fore, and, believe yours truly, there is lots of it.

Saturday is the last day for a play that has received mighty good praise from many folks. It is "The Vanishing Pioneer" at the Majestic.

W. C. Fields in "Fools for Luck" at the Olympic.

Zane Grey's popularity as an author of exceptional stories is strengthened, if such a thing be possible, by this picture.

Chester Conklin and W. C. Fields are also in their last day at the Olympic in a knockout comedy. It is "Fools for Luck" and is the kind of a show folks laugh and roar at.

Negroes Freed On Robbery Charges

He Hadn't Seen $32 in 'Long Time'

Black Wax and Charlie Shaw, negroes, charged with robbery by firearms were freed by O. L. Gibbs, justice of the peace, following a preliminary hearing. Black Joe Griffin, a friend of the two charged, was author of the complaint against them.

In the preliminary hearing Griffin testified that Shaw, armed with a revolver, and Wax, armed with "a East Dallas special," had robbed him of $32 in $1 bills a few days ago.

Black Wax declared that he did not have any East Dallas special and that he had not owned a knife of any description for three years.

On the stand Wax told his story of what happened in an alley near Baylor street.

"Me an' Charlie wuz goin' through de alley when Black Joe cum outen his house and ast us does we want to shoot some craps.

"My wife done got all my money and I ain't got a nickel an' I says 'No.' But Charlie says, 'Guess we might as well.'"

"They wuz shootin' the dices when three dices rolled outen Black Joe's hand and Charlie puts his foot on the money and the dices and makes Black Joe give 'im back whut he won."

"Did you see $32?" questioned the defense counsel.

"No suh! Ah ain't seen $32 in a long time, suh."

Charges against Wax and Shaw were dismissed.

Wichita Falls Business Men Give Luncheon at Frederick, Editor Talks

Ben R. Vardaman of Chicago was the principal speaker Friday noon at the visit of Wichita Falls business men to Frederick, Okla.

Twenty Wichitans were in their automobiles at 9 o'clock at the chamber of commerce, and at 11 o'clock they were in Frederick. They spent the next hour rounding up their friends and in taking them to the Christian church where the ladies of the church served the luncheon. The luncheon was given with the compliments of the Wichita Falls men.

J. L. Newlan, president of the Frederick chamber, was chairman, and Raymond Myers spoke for Wichita Falls. Mr. Myers is chairman of the inter-city relations committee of the chamber. Ben R. Vardaman, editor of the National Commercial magazine, made an address.

After the luncheon the Wichitans visited with the merchants for an hour and then drove home before dark. Among those making the trip were J. E. H. Railey, P. E. McLain, W. H. Puryear, W. L. Mulligan, Bert Bean, Mr. Myers, J. R. Dodd, G. B. Keith, Jr., C. E. Watson, L. C. Robertson, O. D. McCoy, J. W. Chatham, J. M. Harrison, L. K. Peters, S. A. Gaines, L. H. Estes, A. C. Flack and D. L. Naylor.

'Fortune Hunter' Gleans Laughs

By The Record News Critic

A big city man in a small town endeavoring to find a wife with a multitude of Uncle Sam's coin of the realm serves to bring forth comedy which gleans the laughs in "The Fortune Hunter," which opened Friday at the Strand theater as a vitaphone feature.

Syd Chaplin and Helene Costello hold the leading parts in the presentation and Chaplin is responsible for the comedy.

One of the best parts of the Strand program is the presentation of a vitaphone quartet in an act termed "In a Monastery Cellar." The quartet sings ballads of past and present fame and the act is one of the best so far booked into Wichita Falls as a vitaphone feature.

Burr McIntosh, in a one-act play, "Non-Support," rounds out the vitaphone program. The plot of the play is based on the divorce courts and McIntosh portrays the judge to perfection.
