Begin Suspends Mideast Talks

JERUSALEM (AP) — The 2½-month-old Egyptian-Israeli peace drive, caught in a crosscurrent of distrust and bitterness, came to a virtual standstill Sunday as Israel decided to suspend the talks on a troop pullback in the Sinai Peninsula.

The Israeli Cabinet met for 3½ hours and voted not to rejoin the Cairo talks, which had begun earlier this month after the Christmas day summit meeting of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin in Ismailia, Egypt.

The Israeli action, coupled with Egypt's withdrawal last Wednesday from parallel political talks in Jerusalem, brought the peace campaign started by Sadat last November to its lowest ebb, and it seemed to leave the United States with the task of trying to resuscitate the talks.

That job appeared to fall to U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Alfred Atherton, who arrived here Saturday for talks aimed at persuading both sides to rein in their rhetoric and resume serious negotiations.

Arab newspapers, reacting to the stalemate, blamed America for failing to extract sufficient concessions from Israel and said it was up to Washington to do so now in order get the talks back on track.

Begin, reading a statement to reporters, left room for later resumption of the Cairo talks, and the Defense Ministry said there were no plans to recall lower-level Israeli military officials already in the Egyptian capital for the negotiations.

In Cairo, a senior Egyptian Foreign Ministry official, Tahseen Bashir, said the Israeli announcement was "not unexpected." Bashir refused to go beyond that or to evaluate the Israeli move.

Begin indicated Egypt would first have to soften the tone of its public statements before talks could resume.

He said Sadat made "ultimatums that are totally unacceptable" to Israel in his speech Saturday to the Egyptian Peoples' Assembly.

In that speech, Sadat accused Israel of sabotaging the Jerusalem talks and said he would not back down from demands for total Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab lands and for establishment of a Palestinian state.

Begin accused Egypt of waging a "campaign of vilification" against Israel, and said he hoped the Cairo government would "act to prevent repetition of statements injurious to the dignity of the Jewish people and the Jewish state."

Anti-Semitic Slur

The Israeli prime minister seemed to be alluding to Sadat's description of him as "arrogant," and to the term "Shylock" used by the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram to characterize Begin. Shylock, the name of Shakespeare's usurer in "Merchant of Venice," is a centuries-old anti-semitic slur.

"Facing this situation," Begin said, "the government of Israel decided to postpone the date of departure" of top-level Israeli negotiators to Cairo to resume the conference.

Begin said Israel would review its decision "in the near future." He did not elaborate.

Scheduled Reopening This Week

The negotiations between Defense Ministers Ezer Weizman of Israel and Abdel Ghani Gamassy of Egypt opened Jan. 12 and were adjourned after two days when the parties failed to reach agreement on a formula for an Israeli pullout from Sinai. They had been scheduled to reopen this week, after President Carter persuaded Sadat not to break off the military talks as he did with the Jerusalem meeting of foreign ministers.

Although Western observers considered Sadat's Saturday speech to have been moderate because it left open the possibility for renewed peace talks, Begin described it as "extremist, aggressive speech."

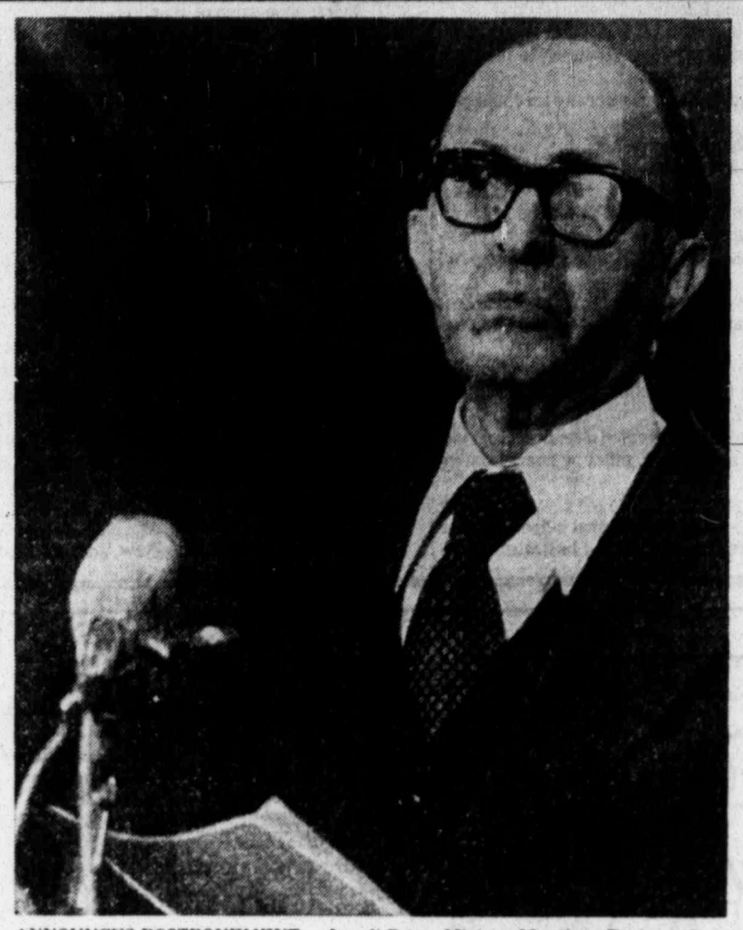

Observers said the Israelis may be awaiting a move by Sadat to reopen the Jerusalem conference.

Jewish Settlements Opposed

In his speech, Sadat repeated he would not allow Jewish settlements to remain in the Sinai after Israel leaves the desert peninsula. An Israeli public opinion survey published Sunday showed 71 percent of those questioned supported Begin's demand that the score of Jewish villages in northeastern Sinai be allowed to remain.

However, the poll by the Center of Applied Social Research found 60 percent opposed building new settlements, while 40 percent favored such a move.

The survey found respondents almost unanimous in their opposition to a Palestinian state in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip. Ninety-one percent opposed Palestinian statehood, a key demand in Sadat's peace formula.

Solons Vary In Opinions On Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, while calling for income tax reductions, is asking Congress to take away deductions for state and local gasoline, sales and personal-property taxes and to reduce the allowance for medical expenses.

But even with those changes, the Carter administration says, the president's total program proposals would mean lower taxes for virtually all taxpayers earning less than $100,000 a year.

When the tax cuts and the reduced deductions are combined, the effect would be to lower the tax bill of a typical $10,000-a-year four-member family by $312; at the $20,000 level, the cut would be $270. A single person earning $10,000 would pay $34 less; the $25,000 earner would realize a $245 reduction.

In Saturday Message

In a message to Congress on Saturday, Carter recommended tax cuts for businesses and individuals to keep the economy growing, and urged significant changes in the tax laws to promote fairness, simplification and investment.

He proposed reducing the tax rates for individuals and corporations; replacing the current $35-per-person tax credit and $750-per-person exemption with a $240-per-person credit; liberalizing tax benefits for business investment in equipment; reducing opportunities for tax shelters, and slashing by half deductions for business entertainment and the "two-martini lunch."

Carter said the tax cuts are necessary to offset higher Social Security taxes and the effects of inflation and to help prevent the economy from slipping into another recession.

Congressional Approval Needed

But to pay for those tax cuts without massive increases in the federal deficit will require that Congress also approve his "tax reforms" — that is, elimination of some of the deductions available to individuals and businesses.

The tax cuts would be effective next Oct. 1. The changes in deductions would become effective in 1979. None of the changes would affect the tax returns due by April 17.

Weather Blamed For Two Deaths

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

SOUTH PLAINS temperatures finally broke the freezing barrier Sunday afternoon after a final cold weather fling to which two deaths in the Lubbock area were attributed.

The temperature Sunday afternoon climbed to a pleasant 54 degree high for Lubbock.

A weak high pressure ridge that settled over the Panhandle early Sunday morning helped push the temperatures in the northwestern section of the state into the 40s and 50s. The ridge came on the heels of a week-long storm system that had held temperatures in the 20s and left a light covering of snow on Lubbock streets.

The ridge also produced a dense early-morning fog in the Lubbock area which,

Traffic-Related Death

Mrs. Laranah Dell Armstrong of Rt. 2, Box 43, Lubbock, became Lubbock's second traffic-related death of the new year about 9:32 a.m. Sunday. Police report that the 25-year-old housewife's 1964 station wagon was headed south on West Loop 289 and entered an overpass in the 4500-block of the loop.

Witnesses of the one-vehicle accident said the overpass was very icy and the car hit an icy spot, slid into the guard rail and flipped over it, rolling one time down the embankment before landing upright.

Mrs. Armstrong was thrown from the vehicle and landed 75 feet from the car, officers investigating the accident reported. Justice of the Peace Charles Smith ruled Mrs. Armstrong dead at the scene from accidental causes.

Children Uninjured

Several children were in the car at the time of the accident, but none were seriously injured, police reported. The children were taken to Lubbock Osteopathic and West Texas Hospitals where they were treated and released.

Visibility at the time of the accident was cut to about 1/4 of a mile, weathermen report.

Services for Mrs. Armstrong, a Lubbock native and a Baptist, are pending with Sanders Funeral Home.

Survivors include her husband, James; two sons, Billy Cheek and Jimmie Arnod, both of the home; a daughter, Melinda Cheek of Lubbock; four sisters, Mrs. Ava Doris Watson of Lubbock, Mrs. Ellen Shellnut of Houston, Mrs. Jack Rose of Paris, and Mrs. Joe Commander of Odessa.

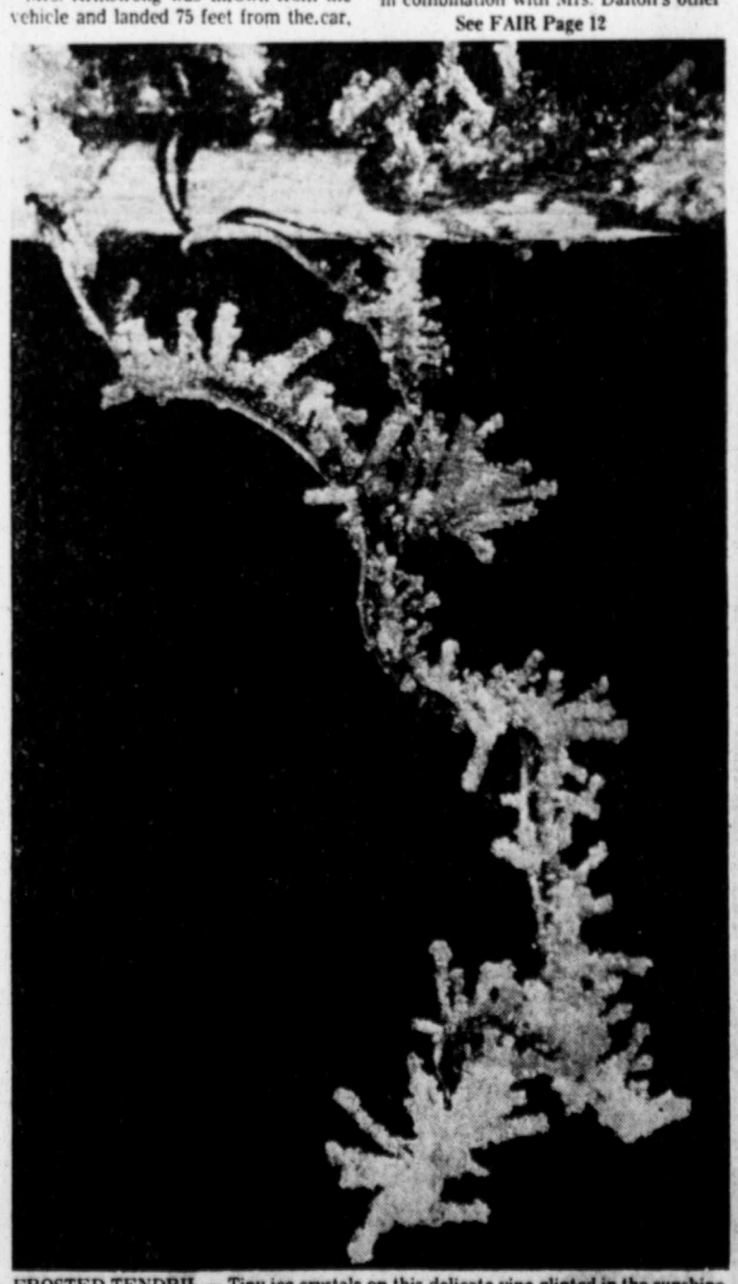

Another Death

Sunday's predawn, freezing temperatures also contributed to the death of another Lubbockite, police report.

Mrs. Charlotte Dalton, 79, of 1520 42nd St., was reported missing by her son about 7:30 a.m. Sunday. After searching for Mrs. Dalton for about 2 1/2 hours, police located her in the yard of a residence in the 1300-block of 42nd St.

When discovered, Mrs. Dalton still had vital signs, police report, but went into cardiac arrest en route to Highland Hospital where she died about 11:10 a.m. Sunday. Justice of the Peace Charles Smith ruled the death accidental. Police report that exposure to the cold weather, in combination with Mrs. Dalton's other

Supply Craft Links With Orbiting Lab

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet space scientists achieved another first Sunday when an unmanned supply capsule docked at the Salyut 6 space station to bring fresh supplies to two cosmonauts who have been orbiting the Earth for six weeks, the official news agency Tass reported.

The supply capsule Progress 1 apparently used the second docking port on the space station, alongside the Soyuz 27 space capsule that the cosmonauts used to reach the Salyut station.

The current Soviet mission aims to demonstrate the feasibility of lengthy manned space flights. Cosmonauts Yuri Romanenko and Georgi Grechko have been in space for 43 days and Western experts say the pair may try to break both the Soviet 61-day space endurance record and the U.S. 84-day record.

Automatic Spaceship

"For the first time in the history of cosmonautics, a transportation operation was carried out with the use of an automatic spaceship" to ferry supplies to a manned orbital station, Tass said.

It said Progress 1, which was launched Friday, brought extra fuel and "equipment and materials for ensuring the life of the crew and for conducting scientific research and experiments.

"The mutual search, rendezvous, tethering and link-up of the spacecraft was carried out automatically with the use of on-board radio-technical means and computing devices," Tass said.

Observations Conducted

In addition, the cosmonauts "conducted observations and control over the tethering and link-up," Tass said.

Tass said the cosmonauts will carry the cargo from Progress 1 to the Salyut station and the refueling will be supervised by both the cosmonauts and ground control.

On Jan. 11, the Soviets chalked up another space first when two Soyuz capsules were linked at the same time with Salyut 6, which was launched last September. It was the first link-up of three spacecraft.

The second capsule brought another pair of cosmonauts to join Romanenko and Grechko, who had then been in space for a month. The visiting pair, on a resupply mission, returned to Earth after five days.

Progress 1 is a stripped-down version of the Soyuz space capsules used to carry cosmonauts. Tass reports that when this resupply mission is completed, Progress 1 will be allowed to burn up in the earth's atmosphere.

Pen Pals Wed After Long Mail Romance

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — It wasn't quite love at first sight. No, not quite.

Pen pals Steven Newland and Roberta Pane were finally married in St. Brigid's Church in West Hartford Saturday after a nine-year courtship conducted across the Atlantic Ocean by mail.

Met In 1972

The two — he from Taunton, England, and she from West Hartford — began writing in 1968 thorugh a junior high school pen pal club. They didn't actually meet until 1972 and since then saw each other only eight times.

Ironically, married life won't be much different — at least for the first year. He has to return to England for a year to complete his studies to become a registered nurse.

Hazal Pane, the bride's mother, said Sunday the newlyweds were honeymooning "someplace in the Hartford area." She said the cou-

SUICIDE RATE

LONDON (AP) — The suicide rate among male British doctors is twice as high as the average in other occupations, a Bitish Medical Journal says. The current issue of General Practitioner said mental health experts don't know why more than one in every 50 male doctors here ends his own life, a rate of one a month.

POLITICAL WRITER DIES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Freda Utley, author and lecturer on political issues and social conflict in the Far East, Europe and America for more than 50 years, is dead after suffering a stroke. She died Saturday at Georgetown University Hospital, two days before her 80th birthday.

Vance Expects Talks Snags To Be Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance returned home Sunday expecting Israel and Egypt to resume their political negotiations, probably within a week to 10 days.

firect talks may be held in Jerusalem or Cairo, said a senior U.S. official, who did not wish to be identified.

Alternatively, Assistant Secretary of State Alfred L. Atherton Jr., who remained in the Middle East, would shuttle between the two capitals as a mediator.

Based On Appraisal

This forecast was based on an appraisal of Anwar Sadat's speech to the Egyptian Parliament Saturday in which he said the peace initiative would not be dropped.

He also said he is asking the United States to provide Egypt with "all weapons that Israel possesses." The arms request will be considered and Congress could approve delivery of some lethal weapons to Egypt, the senior official said.

As he stepped from his plane at Andrews Air Force Base, Vance said, "We believe it essential the parties put behind them the public exchanges of recent days and try to recapture the spirit of a common search for peace."

Negotiations Suspended

A cross-fire of hardline demands and some remarks that bordered on the personal were believed to have contributed to the suspension of the negotiations.

On the flight home, Vance singled out the conciliatory part of Sadat's speech. "I am pleased that it was made clear that the door to peace is open," he said.

"I believe that t-e objective of the parties remains the same — mainly the achievement of a comprehensive peace. We're going to have to perservere, work-

Soviets, Americans Cooperate In Search For Expectant Bear

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union promised Sunday to come to the aid of a pregnant and possibly homesick polar bear that roamed from Alaska into Soviet territory.

"We shall certainly help our American colleagues in searching for that courageous traveler," Soviet official Savva Uspensky told the newspaper Sotsialisticheskaya Industria.

The bear was one of two caught by officers of the U.S. Fish and Game Department in Alaska last June and collared with a radio transmitting device.

Scientists used a satellite with a special radio receiver to pick up signals from the collars and follow the route of the polar bears through the Arctic.

Soviet Help Asked

The male bear managed to get rid of his collar but signals from the female indicated she is now about 150 miles from Wrangel Island. U.S. scientists asked the Soviets to try to trace her and help her if necesary.

Uspenksy, director of the Central Laboratory for the Protection of Nature of the Soviet Ministry of Agriculture, said Soviet officials would give a warm reception to this "trangressor of state borders."

"When we meet her, we'll examine her, replace the dying batteries in the radio transmitter and give the result of our observations to American scientists," he said.

Uspensky said that, expecting to give birth to her young, the polar bear may have entered a den on an ice floe.

"Polar bears are pregnant for 230 to 250 days and to cover such a distance of 2,000 or more miles in such a state is a very difficult thing even for such a strong animal," he said.

The Soviet official said it was possible the bear actually was native to the Soviet Union and homesickness had been the reason for her trek.

"What called to her to take such a long trip?" he asked. "Maybe she was born in our territory and crossed the borders of the two countries and continents to give life to her children in the place of her own birth."

In any case, he said, Wrangel Island was a lucky destination because it became a preserve for polar bears last year. Scientists are marking and counting the island's bear population.

Bears have been a protected species in the Soviet Union since 1956.

Tears May Protect You From Common Cold

NEW YORK (UPI) — To protect yourself against the common cold, maybe you should cry a lot, collect the tears and make nose drops out of them.

Your tears are full of antibodies that neutralize cold viruses, research supported by the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases shows.

Identical antibodies — chemical agents that fight off bad things — are abundant in breast fluids, blood, and other body secretions, according to the Institute's latest report on the common cold.

But the tear therapy, just a research lead, isn't a scientifically accepted part of the armament against the common cold.

Tears And Chicken Soup? Why Not?

No more so, that is, than chicken soup, it was learned during preparation of this report on the common cold.

Nevertheless, thousands swear chicken soup helps fight a cold. Who needs official proof? Often called "Jewish penicillin," the chicken soup remedy reportedly first was pitted against the common cold by Jewish mothers. Its use now? Ecumenical.

Doctors say to drink fluids when you have a common cold. Warm fluids heat one's interior. Chicken soup is fluid and warm. Somehow it fits in the cold therapy bag.

Before America was laden with over-the-counter drugs concocted to fight the common cold's symptoms, and paid more than $500 million a year for same, a home remedy was to wear a garlic pendant.

Undoubtedly that kept people at a distance and prevented a common cold victim's sneezes and coughs (moving air at a speed of 500 miles pe hour) from infecting others.

Maybe the ancestors were right.

If the garlic irritated eyes, drawing tears — well, perhaps that helped fight the cold. The "perhaps" is based on the contemporary lead about neutralizing antibodies found in blood and body secretions, including tears.

Vitamin therapy as treatment and preventive figures seriously today among megavitamin freaks. But not all in the scientific world agree, not even on the therapeutic value of vitamin C, the citrus connection.

About vitamin C for colds, the Food and Drug Administration's "Consumer" says:

"James Lind, surgeon's mate on the H.M.S. Salisbury, and the father of nautical medicine, conducted the first properly controlled clinical therapeutic trial on record in 1747.

British Navy Acts Swiftly

"Aboard ship, his experiment determined the value of citrus fruit in the prevention and cure of scurvy.

"Forty-two years later, the Royal Navy adopted the administration of one ounce of lemon juice to each man each day. It wiped out scurvy ... and so began the recorded and gradual recognition of vitamin C (isolated and named in 1933).

"Today, these things are known about C: it helps hold body cells together and strengthens blood vessels; it helps heal wounds; it helps tooth and bone formation; and it helps in resistance to infection."

A cold is an infection. It should follow that C helps one resist a cold.

However, claims that C lessens the number and severity of colds remain controversial. The FDA says the most impressive study, to date, suggests that massive doses of 1,000 to 5,000 milligrams a day (one to five grams) may reduce occurrence and illness time of a cold by about 25 percent.

Tons of vitamin C go to war during the common cold season, peaking during these winter weeks. One billion colds strike Americans each year: two per adult and eight per child. Lost are 58 million school days and 40 million workdays as the victims go to bed or just hang around the house until feeling better.

Dr. H.L. Newbold, a New York physician who treats patients with vitamin therapy, in an interview talked about the use of vitamins against the common cold. He wrote "Megavitamins and Your Nerves."

Newbold believes in vitamin C against the cold probably as much as Dr. Linus Pauling, the Nobel prize-winning California scientist, who has been pushing C and other vitamins for years.

He said the reports in C's effectiveness probably are uneven because people don't take it long enough or don't take it in the right form.

Half Teaspoonful Every Two Hours

He recommends vitamin A, C, a multiple B complex vitamin and bioflavinoids against the common cold.

The most effective yway to take vitamim C, he found: mixing the fine-powdered form (it's like talc) in water.

He recommends about a half a teaspoonful, mixed in water, every two hours when awake.

"Continue to take it four to five days after the cold symptoms go away," he said.

For a preventive, he recommends a quarter teaspoon of the vitamin C powder in cold water four times a day.

In the vitamin treatment of a cold he also prescribes vitamin A — 30,000 to 40,000 international units the first few days.

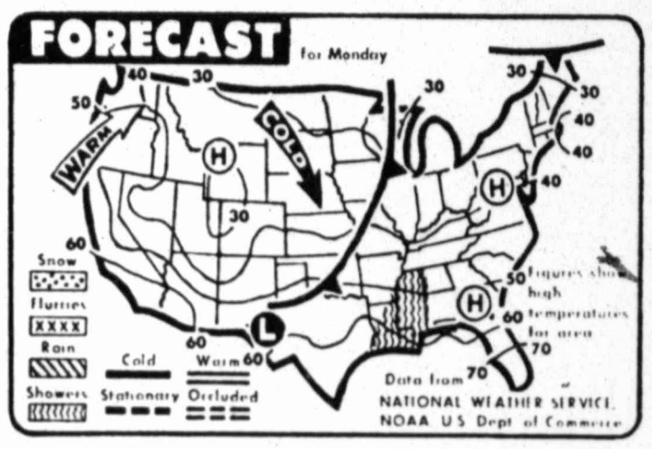

"Natural vitamin A," he said.

He recommends bioflavinoids, found in citrus fruit, three to four times a day — 50 to 100 milligrams.

"Then add the multiple B complex vitamin," he said.

"Unfortunately, 'rest, fluids, two aspirins, and call me in the morning' is still pretty much the state of science when it comes to the common old.

"Chicken soup remains to be scientifically verified."

Thames Flood Barrier Project Hampered By Expensive Delays

LONDON (UPI) — Only a break in the weather just before the full force of the Jan. 11-12 deluge kept Britain's worst storm since 1953 from threatening the lives of thousands of Londoners and wreaking billions of dollars in damage on the capital.

The storm pushed the River Thames to within 19 inches of breaching its central London banks, a safety margin cast into doubt by the hurricane-force winds blasting up London's famous waterway.

The fact that there was no prolonged rainfall hours before the storm reached its full fury spared London the catastrophe it possibly faces if the Thames does break its banks. The capital's narrow escape illuminated the delays in completing the Thames flood barrier, a major dam project designed to protect central London from any Thames incursion until the year 2030.

Hailed as "an eighth engineering wonder of the world" when its plans were first unveiled in 1973, the barrier was to have been operational by autumn 1979.

Labor and construction problems have delayed completion unti at least 1982, perhaps 1983.

The over-all cost estimate when building started at the end of 1973 was $437 million, nearly three times the original drawing board forecast.

It is now $838 million and the barrier is hardly half-finished.

"The construction problems of the Thames barrier are a scandal and a disgrace," the London Evening Standard complained. "The latest cost estimate presupposes that there will be no more of the labor troubles which have bedevilled the project from the start."

Government officials blame about three-fourths of the cost rise on inflation and put the remaining $95 million down to labor woes and constructional changes.

A Greater London Council spokesman said industrial problems, which included serious civil engineering delays, died down during the past year.

But construction method alterations, rather than actual design difficulties, were a continuing snag because "nothing like this has been tried before," the GLC spokesman said.

The barrier, stretching across the Thames between Silvertown and Woolwich, is to consist of seven piers supporting six huge steel plates about 75 feet high.

The gates will remain in recesses in the river bed for most of the year. Once a flood alert is sounded they will be rotated separately upward to hold back the inrushing tide.

Equipped with its own power supply, the barrier will have 200-foot openings between piers to allow shipping to pass when the gates are down.

A freak tidal surge into London could be the biggest natural disaster to strike a major city since the 1906 San Francisco earthquake.

River engineers warn that the combination of a surge tide and a strong northwest wind could turn half of London into a lake. Inundated would be four main sewage works, seven ambulance stations, 20 fire stations, 35 hospitals, 50 subway stations and more than 250,000 homes.

The potential damage estimate reaches $5.7 billion.

New York City Seeking Private Snowplow Use

By The Associated Press

New York City issued an appeal for privately owned equipment to help dig out from a paralyzing 13.6-inch snowfall before the morning commuter rush on Monday. In Boston, city schools were ordered closed Monday, and authorities told auto commuters to take public transit because many streets remained clogged with snow and stalled cars.

Sunny skies were expected to aid street crews in the cleanup of the storm that hit the mid-Atlantic and New England states with up to two feet of snow on Thursday and Friday. With the exception of New York and Boston, officials reported the job was going well despite freezing overnight temperatures.

Snowplowers were assisted by National Guard units in New York, Maryland, Ohio, West Virginia and other Eastern states.

In West Virginia, a National Guardsman was crushed to death as he assisted in clearing the way for snow-removal vehicles.

Staff Sgt. Lou D. Hudson, 31, of Charleston was crushed between a military tank and a wall as he tried to direct the tank into a parking space at a Charleston-area armory.

New York City's snow-removal fund was drained, and newly installed Mayor Edward Koch said he asked city finance officials for a supplemental appropriation.

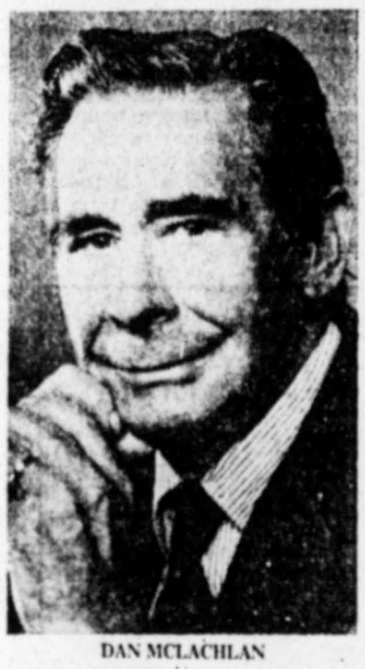

The city's cleanup problems were aggravated because nearly one-third of the Sanitation Department's 1,700 snow-removal vehicles were sidelined with mechanical or other difficulties. So the department issued an appeal for privately owned bulldozers, front-end loaders and dump trunks that it could rent.

By midday Sunday, primary highways were cleared and two-thirds of the secondary city streets passable, according to the Sanitation Department. But officials estimated that fewer than one-fifth of neighborhood streets were usable, and concentrated efforts there.

In Brookville, N.Y., on Long Island, inspectors began trying to determine what caused the collapse Saturday afternoon of the $1.5 million dome covering C.W. Post College's 3,500-seat auditorium. Accumulating snow and ice initially were blamed. No one was in the facility at the time.

CARBON DIOZIDE

If all the carbon diozide on earth that is locked in calcium carbonate, such as sea shells, were released, our planet's atmosphere would be as thickly poisonous as the atmosphere on Venus.

DAN MCLACHLAN

Ohio Professor Slated To Give Chemistry Talk

Dr. Dan McLachlan Jr., professor of mineralogy at Ohio State University since 1964, will deliver the Robert A. Welch Foundation lecture in chemistry at Texas Tech University at 8 p.m., Feb. 6, in room 5, of the Chemistry Building.

His subject will be "The Physical Chemistry of Crystal Growth." The lecture is open to the public at no charge.

The Ohio State lecturer is known for his contributions to a variety of scientific disciplines through his research in crystallography.

Texas Tech's chemistry chairman Dr. John L. Kice, terms him "an expert on application of X-ray diffraction techniques to the solution of problems in structure." In addition to a number of research publications, he is the author of two books, one of them "X-Ray Methods in Structure Analysis," a classic in its field.

McLachlan received the B.S. degree from Kansas State University and the M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Pennsylvania State University. For the first 11 years after receiving the doctorate he did research in industrial laboratories, first with Corning Glass and finally as chairman of Molecular Structure Research in the Stanford Laboratories of the American Cyanimid Company.

In 1947 he accepted a position as professor of physics and metallurgy at the University of Utah. This was followed by an appointment as fundamental research scientist at the Stanford Research Institute and a professorship of metallurgy at the University of Denver.

He criss-crosses the country seeding storm clouds in hopes of triggering rain or snow over parched areas. He also flies into hail storms in an effort to reduce their fury.

While most pilots look for blue skies, Keith looks for gray skies to do his flying. It's his job.

Keith, 41, of York, Neb., works for Atmopherics Inc., of Fresno, Calif. He flies his plane into they midst of turbulent storm clouds to scatter trails of silver iodide crystals that are supposed to precipitate snow flakes from winter clouds.

It's a nomadic life. The Keiths have been away from home eight months during the past year while he flies his dangerous missions.

"I was a schoolteacher for 10 years and a superintendent of schools for four years in the Dakotas," Keith said. "I thoroughly enjoyed running the school but I guess I liked flying better."

Keith is one of a number of pilots who make their living this way. Atmospherics Inc. has been awarded a contract from the University of Nevada's Desert Research Institute to seed clouds in Nevada, which has had two years of drought. Other pilots fly in the western part of the state while Keith flies in the eastern section.

"I've had what others might consider close calls," he said. "What worries you as much as anything is when you're carrying three or four inches of ice on your wing and you've got to get down."

Keith flies his twin-engine Navajo at from 15,000 feet to 17,000 feet to find an outside air temperature in a bracket between 5 below zero and 10 below zero. That's the ideal situation for triggering the crystalization of snow with the silver iodide.

To suppress hail, as he recently was assigned to do in Texas, Keith said the silver iodide forms small ice pellets which compete for moisture in the storm clouds and reduce the chance of large hail stones from forming. The small ice pellets then melt on their way to earth.

One of the company's planes recently sustained $10,000 damage when it got caught in a savage hail storm.

"You're always creating bad weather and it makes it tough to land," Keith admitted. "You take off in good weather but by the time you land it's bad weather."

What's Up . . .

A capsule view of tastes, interests and attitudes

...in future films

For those who like to plan their social schedules far in advance, here is a listing of some of the major films scheduled for release during the first half of 1978:

"Blue Collar," Richard Pryor.

"Heaven Can Wait," Warren Beatty, Julie Christie, James Mason and Dyan Cannon.

"Pretty Baby," Keith Carradine, Brooke Shields and Susan Sarandon.

"High Anxiety," Mel Brooks, Madeline Kahn, Cloris Leachman and Harvey Korman.

"Coming Home," Jane Fonda, John Voight and Bruce Dern.

"Apocalypse Now," Marlon Brando, Robert Duvall and Martin Sheen.

"The Deer Hunter," Robert DeNiro.

"F.I.S.T." Sylvester Stallone.

"The Driver," Ryan O'Neal, Isabelle Adjani and Bruce Dern.

"Comes a Horseman Wild and Free," Jane Fonda, James Caan and Jason Robards.

"A Wedding," Carol Burnett, Desi Arnaz Jr. and Mia Farrow.

"Grease," John Travolta, Olivia Newton-John and Stockard Channing.

"The Cheap Detective," Peter Falk.

"Convoy," Kris Kristofferson and ALi MacGraw.

Warren Beatty, Mel Brooks and Burt Reynolds will both direct and star in their films.

When Steve Spielberg's "Jaws" hit movie theaters in 1975, shark sightings at the nation's beaches multiplied. With the release of Spielberg's new film, "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," we're likely to see an upswing in reports of unidentified flying objects (UFOs).

But even back in September, International UFO Reporter received requests to investigate 65 strange aerial phenomena. The Reporter dismissed three of those sightings on the basis of flimsy evidence and came up with explanations for 55 more. Here's how those 55 identified flying objects were classified.

Stars and planets	14
Ad planes	14
Balloons and prank balloons	9
Aircraft	6
Meteors	5
Satellites	2
Moon	1
Ground lights	1
Helicopter	1
Flare	1
Launch	1

Of the seven remaining UFOs, six were described as nocturnal lights ("distant anomalous lights seen in the night sky") and one as a daylight disc ("distant disclike object seen during the day.")

The UFO sighting occurred in Louisiana, Oklahome, Missouri, Iowa, Arizona, Utah and California.

...in world travelers

Travel magazine annually recognizes the American whose journeys have most helped "establish a closer relationship between all peoples in order to secure lasting peace."

Entertainer Pearl Bailey is the most recent recipient of the "traveler of the year" title. Pearlie Mae's travels in 1976 took her to homes, hospitals, orphanages and institutes for the handicapped and retarded in Israel, Kuwait, Jordan, Egypt, Liberia and Senegal.

Previous travlers of the year include:

1954: John Foster Dulles
1955: Cardinal Spellman
1956: Danny Kaye
1957: Richard Nixon
1958: Lowell Thomas
1959: Dwight D. Eisenhower
1960: Ralph Bunche
1961: Jacqueline Kennedy
1962: Voit Gilmore
1963: Bob Hope
1964: Conrad Hilton
1965: Hubert Humphrey
1967: Laurence S. Rockefeller
1968: Billy Graham
1969: Apollo II Crew
1970: Crew and staff of the S.S. Hope
1971: Duke Ellington
1972: Henry Kissinger
1973: Henry Kissinger
1974: Sydney Clark
1975: Alistar Cooke

...in jazz

When the recording industry hands out its Grammy awards Feb. 23, most of the attention will be focused on pop-rock performers like Linda Ronstadt, Debby Boone, the Eagles and Fleetwood Mac. But Grammys are also awarded for the year's greatest musical achievements in classical, gospel, Latin and jazz.

Here are the nominees for the four Grammys to be handed out in the jazz field:

Best Jazz Vocalist:

1. "Amoroso," Joao Gilberto.
2. "Carmen McRae at the Great American Music Hall," Carmen McRae.
3. "Hlen Merrill–John Lewis," Helen Merrill.
4. "Kral Space," Irene Kral.
5. "Look to the Rainbow," AL Jerreau.

Best Jazz Instrumentalist:

1. "Afro Blue Impressions," John Coltrane.
2. "Bop Redux," Hank Jones.
3. "The Giants," Oscar Peterson.
4. "Heavy Weather," Joco Pastorius.
5. "The Phil Woods Six–Live From the Showboat," Phil Woods.

Best Jazz Instrumental Group:

1. "Afro Blue Impressions," John Coltrane.
2. "Eclypso," Tommy Flanagan Trio.
3. "Homecoming –LIve at Village Vanguard," Dexter Gordon.
4. "Mel Lewis and Friends," Mel Lewis.
5. "The Pil Woods Six –Live From the Showboat," Phil Woods.

Best "Big Band":

1. "Buddy Rich Plays and Plays and Plays," Buddy Rich.
2. "The 40th Anniversary Carnegie Hall Concert," Wody Herman.
3. "Lab '76,' North Texas State University Lab Band.
4. "Prime Time," Count Basie and his Orchestra.
5. "Road Time," Toshiko Akiyoshi-Lew Tabackin Big Band.

...in tall buildings

The World Almanac's list of tall buildings attracts more mail from readers than almost any other section of the book. Civic boosters from around the country suggest additions or dispute altitude figures, which vary depending on whether basements, pediments, TV towers or statues are included.

According to the Almanac, these are the tallest buildings in those U.S. cities having buildings more than 700 feet high:

City	Building	Height (ft)
Chicago	Sears Tower	1,454
New York	World Trade Center	1,350
Los Angeles	United Calif. Bank	858
San Francisco	Transamerica Pyramid	853
Pittsburgh	U.S. Steel BLdg.	841
Boston	John Hancock Tower	790
Minneapois	IDS Center	772
Detroit	Detroit Plaza Hotel	748
Atlanta	Peachtree Center Plaza	723
Houston	One Shell Plaza	714
Dallas	First INternational	710
Cleveland	Terminal Tower	708

...in silver linings.

Things aren't as grim as they seem. To prove it, Mother Jones magazine handed out "Silver Lining Awards," to the events, people and institutions that made the most "cheering contributions to society" in 1977.

Among the winners were:

–The Harris poll's finding that 78 percent of all Americans agree "the rich get richer and the poor get poorer."

–Carl Andre, a minimalist sculptor who succeeded in uniting the citiznes of Hartford, Conn., against him. Andre presented the city with a $87,000 bill for a "sculpture" composed of 36 real-life boulders.

–Printing International, a Dutch company that refused to fill a Ugandan order for 60,000 T-shirts bearing the likeness of President Idi Amin.

–A Cincinnati tree-planted some years ago in honor of President Richard Nixon –that died of frostbite.

–A Las Vegas hospital that sponsored a "once-in-a-lifetime cruise contest for patients checking in on any Friday or Saturday.

–The government of Spain, which granted amnesty to all Spaniards jailed under an adultery law.

–The New York Police Department, which tried to catch underworld pornographers by making its own dirty films.

–The city of Amarillo, Tex., where left-wing Chilean refugees play friendly soccer matches each week with anti-Communist refugees from South Vietnam.

–Professor Barry Lawson, inventor of "Clot" a new board game designed to teach lab technicians all about blood clotting.

–The nation's record $136 million civil defense budget, designed to reduce U.S. causualities from nuclear attack to "just" 20 million.

–Welterweight Tyrone Phelps, who grabbed the ring microphone after it was announced he had unanimously won his bout. "This is one decision I don't deserve," said the modest Phelps.

–Harvard College, where 15 years of research have revealed that top students are generally less mature and competent than students who get poorer grades.

...in rapid transit

It should come as no surprise that New York has more miles of rapid rail transit than any other city in the nation. In fact, the Big Apple's rapid transit mileage exceeds that of its three closest competitors –Chicago, San Francisco and Boston–combined.

But several major U.S. cities are currently building or upgrading their rapid transit systems. According to Modern Railroads Magazine, here are those cities and the rapid rail transit mileage they plan to add.

City	Mileage
Washington, D.C.	83
Atlanta	53
New York	45
Boston	29
Miami	17
Chicago	12
Baltimore	8
Philadelphia	2

...with gambling

At least 88 million Americans — three out of five adults — gamble, whether at race tracks, poker, games — even over the pool table. Sadly, the Commission on the Review of National Policy Toward Gambling says more than one million of those gamblers are compulsive.

There now is help for compulsive betters in the form of Gamblers Anonymous, a self-help organization with about 300 chapters across the nation. Here are the 10 signs Gamblers Anonymous says you should watch for in deciding whether compulsive for you or somebody you know:

1. Do you lose time from work due to gambling?
2. Is gambling making your home life unhappy?
3. Is gambling affecting your reputation?
4. Have you ever felt remorse after gambling?
5. Do you ever gamble to get money with which to pay debts or otherwise solve financial difficulties?
6. Does gambling cause a decrease in your ambition ot efficiency?
7. After losing, do you feel you must return as soon as possible and win back your losses?
8. After a win, must you return and win more?
9. Do you often gamble until your last dollar is gone?
10. Do you ever borrow to finance your gambling?

If the answers to several of these questions are yes, contact Gamblers Anonymous, P.O. Box 17173, Los Angeles, Calif. 90017.

...in governors salaries.

The nation's governors may not have it so easy these days, exposed as they are to conflicting pressures for more services and fewer taxes. HOwever, many of them may be consoled by recent salary increases.

The highest paid state governors in the land, according to The World Almanac, are:

Governor	Annual salary
1. Hugh Carey, New York	$85,000
2. Dolph Briscoe, Texas	66,000
3. Brendan Byrne, New Jersey	65,000
4. Milton Shapp, Pennsylvania	60,000
5. William Milliken, Michigan	58,000
6. Rudy Perpich, Minnesota	58,000

Tied for seventh place at $50,000 each are ALaska's Jay Hammond, Florida's Reubin Askew, Georgia's George Busbee, Hawaii' Edwin Edwards, Ohio's James Rhodes, Tennessee's Ray Blanton, Virginia's John Dalton and West Virginia's John D. Rockefeller 4th.

At the other end of the scale, Maryland Governor Blair Lee takes in a mere 25 grand a year, while NOrth Dakota Governor Arthur Link has to make do with $27,500.

Mideast Optimism Fades Since Previous Polling

By LOUIS HARRIS

By 54-37 percent, Americans are not optimistic about the chances for working out a total peace settlement in the Middle East. This is a turnaround from the euphoria of last November, following President Sadat's visit to Jerusalem. Then, a 51-44 percent majority was high on the prospect of a full settlement.

Despite this expression of pessimism, Americans have not given up hope in the negotiations now going on in Cairo and in Jerusalem. When asked for an assessment of the negotiations, a 68 percent majority felt that they would lead to "some" or a "great deal" of progress toward peace. Only 16 percent are prepared to write off the negotiations.

Among the other key findings about the Middle East in a recent Harris Survey of 1,259 adults nationwide are these:

• By 81-10 percent, a very heavy majority feels it is "more effective" to have Arab and Israeli leaders meet face to face than to have them talking through a third party such as the United States. Before Sadat's dramatic visit, almost all of the dialogue between the Arabs and Israelis was conducted through U.S. channels. The public is not yet ready to return to this form of negotiation.

• By 80-8 percent, people feel that it is "more effective" to have direct, face-to-face negotiations between the two Middle East countries than "a peace that the United States and Russia might make both sides agree to." Last fall, a joint U.S.-Soviet statement on the Middle East, suggesting terms for a settlement, deeply disturbed both Egypt and Israel. The statement is believed to be one of the triggers that caused Sadat to make his dramatic peace bid.

One of the main reasons for the current pessimism about the chances for a full settlement in the Middle East is the belief that among the nations most directly affected by the conflict in the region, only Egypt and Israel "really want a just peace."

• A substantial 52 percent feel that Egypt really wants peace, and another 25 percent think that country "only reluctantly wants a just peace." Only 7 percent feel that Sadat does not want peace.

• In the case of Israel, 51 percent of Americans think that country "really wants peace," another 27 percent believe it wants peace "reluctantly," while 8 percent are convinced Israel does not really want peace.

By sharp contrast, only relatively small minorities hold the view that Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Libya, Syria and the Palestine Liberation Organization genuinely would welcome peace:

• In the case of Jordan, 28 percent think King Hussein "really wants a just peace," with another 29 percent who feel that he wants it only reluctantly.

• With regard to Saudi Arabiaa, a key Arab nation providing much of the financial backing for Egypt, Jordan and Syria, 26 percent feel that country really wants peace; 31 percent feel Saudi Arabia wants peace only reluctantly.

• Only 19 percent feel that Libya really wants a just peace, with another 25 percent believing that country "only reluctantly wants peace."

• And only 19 percent feel that Syria, one of the key confrontation nations, really wants peace, while another 28 percent feel that country wants peace only reluctantly.

• As for the PLO, 13 percent feel that it "really wants a just peace," 18 percent believe that it would reluctantly accept peace, while a much higher 44 percent feel that the PLO "really does not want peace."

Considering these findings, it is scarcely surprising that most Americans are not very hopeful about the chances for a total settlement in the Middle East.

However, sizable majorities of Americans are quite willing to accept something less than a total peace settlement:

• By 70-5 percent, a big majority would favor Egypt and Israel working out their own peace treaty, if Syria would not agree to join the peace talks.

• By 68-4 percent, a comparable majority would favor Jordan and Israel getting together to make a separate peace under the same condition.

Americans would prefer to see a full and complete settlement among all parties involved in the Middle East. But with the hopes for peace quickening, it is clear that they are willing to settle for something less, particularly if it would head off another war in the region.

AN EDITORIAL:

County Funds--Good Business

IT'S CERTAINLY good news that Lubbock County ended 1977 with bigger cash reserves than it had when the year began, instead of the big deficit that had been feared.

This record could not have been accomplished, though, had the Commissioners Court given in to even a substantial number of the unmet demands made on it.

County Auditor Dale Gallimore reported that cash reserves rose by $345,000 last year, to more than $3 million, instead of shrinking by the $273,000 that had been forecast.

This was accomplished despite certain unforeseen expenditures, notably improvements to the county jail to comply with a federal court order.

THE AUDITOR SAID that ad valorem tax collections exceeded budgeted expectations, as did the fees collected by the county and district clerks and reimbursements from the state on auto sales taxes, voter registration and mixed drink tax collections.

Obviously, the commissioners had budgeted conservatively—a practice that can't get you into too much trouble.

To those who constantly are lobbying the governing body to spend the reserves on current expenses, it's worth noting that the interest received on the unspent funds is enough to help the commissioners avoid the necessity of raising taxes year after year.

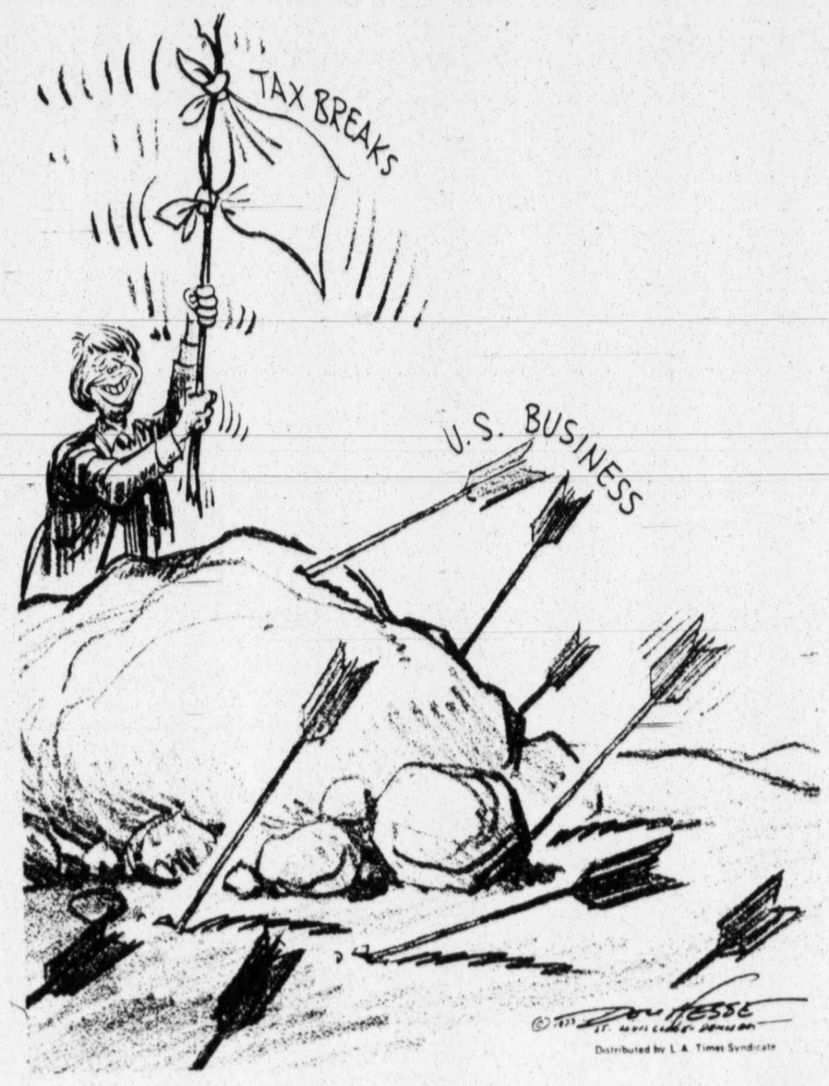

It also is important to remember that the reserves are a comfort to have for unexpected emergencies, such as last year's mandate to upgrade the jail facilities and the possible cost overruns on a new jail and juvenile detention center next year.

PERHAPS MOST encouraging about the healthy reserve fund, however, is that it will enable the Commissioners Court to meet at least some of the inflationary pressures on it without a hefty tax increase.

County employes recently petitioned for a 10 per cent pay raise. The treasury's healthy condition will enable the commissioners to take an objective look at this request without feeling as much of a budget squeeze as had once been feared.

Certainly, salaries and programs at the courthouse need to be maintained at a level to hold qualified employes and to serve the needs of a metropolitan county. These salaries and programs must be "balanced off" against the need to hold down taxes.

The reserve funds should not be looked upon as an open ivitation to free spending, but rather as an indication that the Commissioners Court has so far been successful in balancing off the county's needs against its financial resources.

AN EDITORIAL:

Deeds, Not Words, Hold Key

AT THE CONCLUSION of President Carter's State of The Union address, the commentators came up with their usual instant analysis.

For once, a couple of them hit the speech on the head, so to speak. "Mr. Carter, in effect, almost delivered a Republican speech," one noted. "Yes, but his program still is heavily Democratic," the second observed.

Somehow, the observation not only applies to Mr. Carter's high-flown pronouncements in this instance, but to much of his tenure thus far.

THE PRESIDENT has this way of making his listeners think he is saying what they want to hear.

But, when it comes down to performance, one finds the President still beholden to the same special interest groups that got him where he is in the first place.

No one can argue with Mr. Carter's inspiring rhetoric when he said: "Those who govern can sometimes inspire, and we can identify needs and marshal resources, but we cannot be the managers of everything and everybody."

THE PRESIDENT then proceeded to outline a program which in effect will continue to inject the federal government more and more into the personal and business affairs of "everything and everybody."

Actually, there were no major surprises in the President's package.

His emphasis on the energy program, the $23 billion personal and business tax cut, his support of the Humphrey-Hawkins full employement plan and backing of a consumer protection agency—all were more or less expected. Unfortunately, none of them is the longterm solution for "what ails us."

WHILE A TAX cut may be needed to stimulate a sluggish economy—something which this area has not experienced, except in the area of farming—the proposed slash will hardly offset the increase in Social Security tax increases.

And while there must be an effective energy program, the President continues to place more emphasis on turning it into a tax scheme rather than finding effective means of replacing our dependency on foreign fuel.

In brief, President Carter has given no real indication that he has learned anything from his first confusing and unproductive year in office. We hope with help from Congress and constructive advice from the business community, the administration can "get its act together."

If so, both the President, and the nation, will profit. And that's what the State of the Union is all about.

M. STANTON EVANS:

If Velikovsky's Wrong, Why Not 'Prove' It?

WASHINGTON—Immanuel Velikovsky, nemesis of the scientific establishment, is back in action.

For better than three decades, this Russian-born opponent of orthodox theories has been standing the scientific community on its collective ear.

Crisscrossing the fields of archaeology, astronomy, geology and other disciplines, he has proposed a vision of the solar system and human history that has commended popular attention and kept the nabobs of official science in a perpetual froth.

Velikovsky's theory, which he backs with every sort of evidence, is that the earth, at about 1500 B.C. and again at around 700 B.C., suffered some form of cosmic calamity—the near miss of a comet is the usual version—that caused a shift in the polar axis and resulting upheaval of the land and seas.

HE HAS RANSACKED the literature of numerous cultures to support this view, and also the geological record, and has written a series of books detailing his conclusions.

Velikovsky's latest effort is "Peoples of the Sea" (Doubleday), a comparison of Greek, Egyptian and Biblical histories aimed at proving a major part of his thesis:

That cataclysmic events described in the Bible at the time of the Exodus are confirmed by the records of the Egyptians.

The problem is that the records as conventionally dated are out of sync with the Biblical chronology.

HE SEEMS TO HAVE plenty of references to prove his point.

Predictions he has made based on his analysis have been confirmed by independent means.

Thus, radiocarbon dating of Egyptian artifacts conforms more closely to Velikovsky's scheme than to the conventional one.

The same thing has happened with other Velikovsky speculations in the past: The temperature of Venus, radio signals from Jupiter and dating of the Ice Age.

These successes, and the comparative clarity of Velikovsky's style, have won him a following in parts of the press and with a number of laymen.

But he is anathema to the organized scientific community, and it is this status, above and beyond his revolutionary thesis, that makes him such an interesting figure.

HIS TENACIOUS heresy has posed a clear-cut test of Establishment willingness to countenance dissent—a test that has been failed resoundingly.

Criticism and opposition might well have been expected, of course, and up to a point are fully within the rights of Velikovsky's foes.

The problem, however, is that some of his critics have gone considerably beyond mere disagreement.

Most notably, after his first book on this subject ("Worlds In Collision"), pressure was brought to bear on his original publisher, the MacMillan Company, to drop the book, under the threat of losing valuable textbook business.

VELIKOVSKY SUPPORTERS were mysteriously bounced from scientific and publishing jobs, and had trouble getting articles published in his behalf.

Velikovsky himself has been treated as a complete pariah, denied the right of publication or response in many cases, and denounced in the most abusive terms imaginable.

All of this went beyond mere intellectual controversy, and raised the question not only of free and fair exchange of views, but what it was about Velikovsky's thesis that drove his critics to such extremes.

If he is the fraud that some of his opponents say, why not show this by pointing out his errors?

Why the attempt to silence him, and to conduct purge of his supporters? It remains a major mystery of our time.

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK:

Yes, But Is It Legal?

NOVAK

WASHINGTON—An angry counterattack against federal environmentalists is now being quietly planned by cabinet-level departments, led by the State Department, with indications of support in the White House itself.

The counterattack seems certain to modify drastically and could kill altogether new regulations proposed by the Council for Environmental Quality (CEQ) that would make Uncle Sam the environmental policeman of the world—particularly policing nuclear reactors.

"Outrageous," one State Department official told us. "These regulations would impose American environmental standards on all our foreign friends and they would end up hating us."

This places President Carter in a peculiar dilemma. While crusading against nuclear proliferation and environmental pollution, he is bound as President by the practicalities of international life.

As such, he seems forced to disappoint his environmental constituency.

THE PROPOSED regulations were drawn secretly by CEQ planners with apparent help from the Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC), an environmentalist private action group.

They would in effect require standard environmental impact statements (to be called "assessments" in the foreign field) for all exported material or technology sold abroad with some help—export licenses or loan guarantees—from the U.S. government.

The real target may be nuclear reactors, a prospect that has infuriated the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC).

At a closed-door meeting called by CEQ Jan. 6, NRC assistant general counsel Carlton Stoiber said there is "no legal justification" for imposing U.S. environmental standards abroad.

That brought objections from CEQ chairman Charles Warren and member Gus Speth, who showed reluctance even to discuss legal justification.

AT LEAST AS upset as NRC and the State Department was Export-Import Bank president John Moore, who warned the Jan. 6 meeting that the proposed regulations would benefit Japanese and West German exporters at the expense of this country.

The reason: endless delays and lawsuits against U.S. exports on often specious environmental grounds would turn impatient foreign buyers away from the U.S.

Moore, a former Atlanta lawyer close to Carter, strongly urged White House domestic policy chief Stuart Eizenstat to attend the Jan. 6 session at CEQ. Eizenstat stayed long enough to ask three questions:

What is the cost to the federal government of the proposed regulations? What is their legal justification? To what extent would they impose American standards on foreign governments?

Speth, who took the leading role for CEQ in the acrimonious debate, gave uninformative and "fudged" answers, according to one participant.

EIZENSTAT LEFT the meeting before it ended, but those in position to know say he was unimpressed with CEQ's rationale and has strong reservations about CEQ's ambition to be top cop for global environment.

Speth was legal counsel for the environmentalist NRDC before Carter put him on the CEQ.

Last year the NRDC brought suit against the Ex-Im Bank to require it to meet CEQ's domestic standards in all its foreign lending operations.

That suit, while not directly related to CEQ's proposed new regulations, helps to explain why Moore and the Ex-Im Bank are so disturbed.

The bank has provided more than $20 billion in loans and guarantees for U.S. exports since mid-1974, much of it for nuclear and conventional power facilities and offshore oil drilling. NRDC claims these have direct impact on the environment.

IF EX-IM BANK either loses the NRDC suit (now in U.S. district court here) or is forced to comply with the proposed CEQ regulations, billions of dollars' worth of exports of U.S. products in the future could go down the drain.

Foreign buyers would be forced to wait out endless environmental investigations, filing of impact statements and predictable harassment of court actions brought by well-meaning environmentalist groups.

Add to that danger the equally predictable fury of foreign buyers and governments subjected to U.S. environmental investigations on their own soil and the awesome dimension of CEQ's ambitions comes into focus.

But the CEQ has almost certainly overreached itself. Representing an activist constituency that takes a highly negative view of extending U.S. military and political power around the globe, it now wants to blanket the world with U.S. environmental power.

And that is an unwanted extension of Potomac power which Jimmy Carter, ardent environmentalist though he is, is having trouble accepting.

ANDREW TULLY:

Keep On Puffin'

WASHINGTON—The campaign against smoking launched by HEW Secretary Joe Califano—with what only seemed to be a blare of trumpets—reminded this cigarette slave of Shamus.

Shamus, one of those celebrated Irish bachelors, owned a small farm in my Massachusetts home town. He put in a 12-hour working day every day of his life.

He smoked three packs of Camels and drank a quart of rye every 24 hours. He romanced every available widow within a 25-mile radius.

One day Shamus arose as usual at 5 a.m. After bacon and eggs and coffee laced with rye, he did his morning chores. He ate his usual big meal at noon, with booze for a chaser.

He worked all afternoon, paused occasionally for a nip from his bottle of Golden Wedding. After a hearty supper, he did some more chores. Then he fell down, dead. He was 98.

"SERVED HIM RIGHT," said Aunt Lil, the family moralist. "Maybe," said Doc Gibson, "but Shamus got away with his wickedness for an awful long time."

I point no moral. Every smoker, including me, should kick the habit. Some day I'll do so—I guess. But I don't want to be hassled, even by my friend Joe Califano.

It seems to me that every time I look at the news ticker some government official is telling me I'd die forthwith unless I stop doing something I enjoy and start living the life of a tonsured monk.

Too much meat is bad for me. So is coffee, Martinis, nitrites, sugar, salt, artificial fertilizer, white bread, fats, nonfats, whole milk. All food should be bought at health stores.

SITTING DOWN can be hazardous to my health. I should jog two miles a day and touch my toes without bending my knees. Cars should be employed for journeys of 10 miles or more.

Television is dangerous, not only because most of it is lousy viewing but because of all that radiation. Some Public Television programs are acceptable if they are sufficiently dull.

In short, the only activity not prescribed by the experts is physical romance. But I have learned to live in fear.

Any day now, a panel of experts will proclaim that having babies brings on heart attacks, palsy, appendicitis, Parkinson's disease, and the common cold.

AS FOR CALIFANO'S campaign against smoking, I suggest he adopt a wait-and-see attitude before spending 23 million clams to eliminate the evil. Although there are 55 million smokers in the country, the reformers already have made a good start toward declaring us outlaws.

In many places across the land, the smoker is looked upon as a nuisance, a nonperson. Smoking is permitted only in certain sections of airliners. People express loathing when the smoker lights up.

At a recent cocktail party, the hostess had to go rummaging, reluctantly, in the attic to find me an ashtray. At Duke's joint, a pasty-faced young man sitting 50 feet away demanded that the waiter order me to douse my gasper.

So take it slowly, Joe. Give such people time and they'll do the job for you. I may tend to be shameless, but I'll surrender when the FBI officially warns the public to shun me as a Typhoid Mary, nicotine division.

Meanwhile, all those scare stories about pollution have just about persuaded me to experiment with not breathing.

JAY HARRIS:

Food For Thought

DICK BOTHWELL is a columnist and feature writer for The St. Petersburg Times. We have made reference to some of his observations in the past.

Recently, as the New Year turned the corner, Dick got into a reflective mood and came up with an item which posed food for thought, not just with the blackeyed peas, but for all year.

Dick took note of the fact that Christmas had passed. "Yet, here I am, about to hand you a sparkling, valuable, brand-new gift. One that improves with use, never wears out, becomes more valuable with each passing day..."

The marvelous gift, it seems, was a Reasolution. A reasolution, Dick says, is a combination of Reason and Resolution.

"IT MAKES SENSE," Bothwell argues. "After all, when you resolve something you clear up a problem. When you reason, you think logically, use common sense.

"The problem to which we need to apply this fine new reasolution is simply this: How can we overcome our alienation from the Supreme Power which rules our universe in order to cope with the multitude of difficulties that hound us?

"Well, here's how it worked for me," the Florida pundit says.

"Two Christmases ago, I was musing over the New Year outlook. Economists seemed to agree that things looked pretty dismal for the world. We were running out of money, raw materials, time, brotherly love and just about everything else. There were figures to prove it, too!

"So I got to musing about what sort of year it had been for my family, adding up the good and bad points the way you do. Wondering about what 1976 would bring.

"And the thought hit me. What sort of year does God have? Is He, do you think, sitting up there at His great desk in His celestial palace (right across the street from Santa Claus) shuffling through his holiday bills and worrying about his income tax?

"IS HE regretting his losses in the stock market? Wondering about coming business deals, worrying about retirement, aging, physical or emotional problems?

"Only a primitive mind could conceive of such a scene.

"Most of us admit, theoretically, that God is both Almighty and spiritual. And that we are created perfect, as His image and likeness. So, I thought, everybody should have a great year, right?

"I could easily see where this is true of Divine Mind, the Supreme Power. Surely He, being of purer eyes than to behold (or remember?) evil, does not look back at the Depression years and sigh. Or regret the Dark Ages, recall the horrors of Vietnam or Nazi concentration camps.

"Nor would He think what a great year 2000 BC was, or 1925, or whatver. Surely, each year is alike to God, who made changeless perfection. Because time is a man-made device. Hence highly erroneous.

"The Almighty does not have to wait until things get better. He does not count on government contracts, food stamps, checks in the mail, inheritance. It's never too soon or too late for Him.

"TO DIVINE MIND existence can only be glorious. He has, as we say, got it made. For His man as well, as the first chapter of Genesis assures us.

"Wondrous word, glory. Means the splendor and bliss of heaven; a state of magnificence or greatest prosperity, among other things.

"The people who were inspired to write the Bible thought a lot about glory. They used the word 140 times or so. Often in connection with God or His son, Christ Jesus.

"We use it a good bit, too. 'For Thine is the kingdom, and the power and the glory,' we say over and over. Trouble is, I realized two years ago, we don't really act as though we believe it. We look for glory elsewhere, and become bitter and alienated in the process.

"'It's still the same old story, a fight for love and glory,' says the popular song, As Time Goes By.

"Looking over a copy of The St. Petersburg Times, I could see the results of this belief. A Census Bureau report said that violent crimes have tripled in the last 15 years. Economists said slow growth and rising unemployment are ahead for Western nations unless they change their ways.

"THE KOREAN influence-buying scandal continued in Congress, and Senators fought our born-again President's efforts to make regulatory agencies do their jobs.

"While the editorial page dealt with inflation's dollar deflation, loss of confidence in government and the continuing energy crisis...

"Same old story, indeed, every year's end.

"Two years ago, I realized clearly that as I put more and more confidence in the Almighty's government, and placed myself under God's law, my own energy crisis would be more than met.

"And so it has been. Sticking to this reasolution, I have experienced more and more productive, creative good each year, more blessings from my loving Father-Mother-God. And so can anyone. No matter what the economists say, the real man is not subject to material law.

"I do not pretend my discovery is original. Young people, particularly, are more and more active in the nation's swing away from the gross darkness of materialism toward the glory of spiritual life.

"Now you may write me off as a starry-eyed idiot. Or you may decide that you, too, can use that quality that distinguishes us from animals to make 1978 a glorious year.

"'Have a good day,' we say continually to one another. Why not have a glorious day, a glorious year? God does. And is anxious to share with all of us."

L.M. BOYD:

...Pass It On

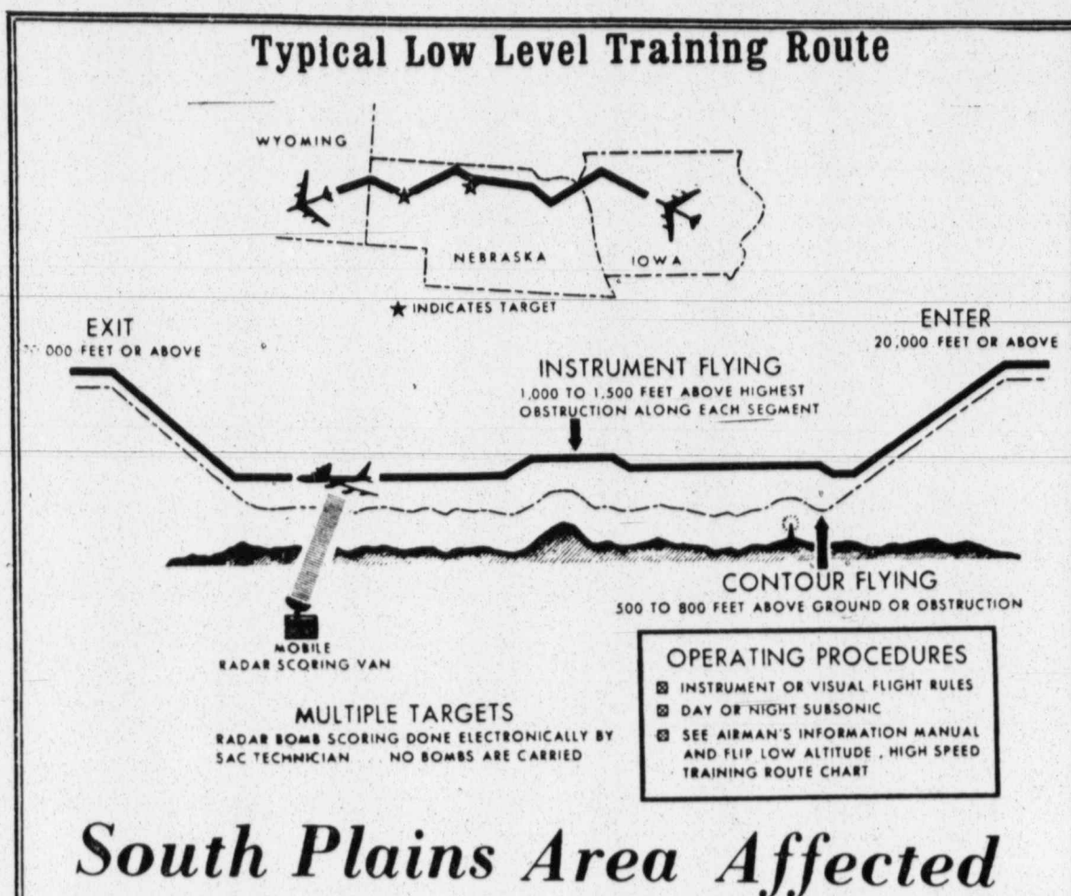

Q. "What's the average annual salary paid to NFL football players last year?"

A. $30,000. Note how that compares to the average annual salary this season of NBA basketball players, $77,000.

Q. "Any way to keep from chipping the plaster when driving a little nail into the wall to hang a picture?"

A. Might try putting a small square of cellophane tape over the spot first and tap the nail through that.

South Plains Area Affected By Air Force Training Flights

Strategic Air Command (SAC) bombers have begun flying a new low level training route over portions of Colorado, Oklahoma and Texas. The route will be used until Jan. 10, 1979.

The giant eight-engine B-52 Stratofortresses and swing-wing FB-111 fighter-bombers will fly the training route at subsonic speeds along a center line of an eight mile wide corridor at altitudes ranging from 600 to 2,000 feet above the ground. The route will be used to measure precision bombing, navigation training and electronic countermeasure activity.

Aircraft do not carry bombs on these training flights. All bombing is simulated and radar scored by ground based scoring sites. Radar bomb scoring (RBS) equipment will be located near La Junta, Colo.; Hitchland, Lefors, and Post, Texas.

These sites, using radio and radar signals, measure the accuracy of simulated bomb releases and simulated launching of short range attack missiles (SRAMS).

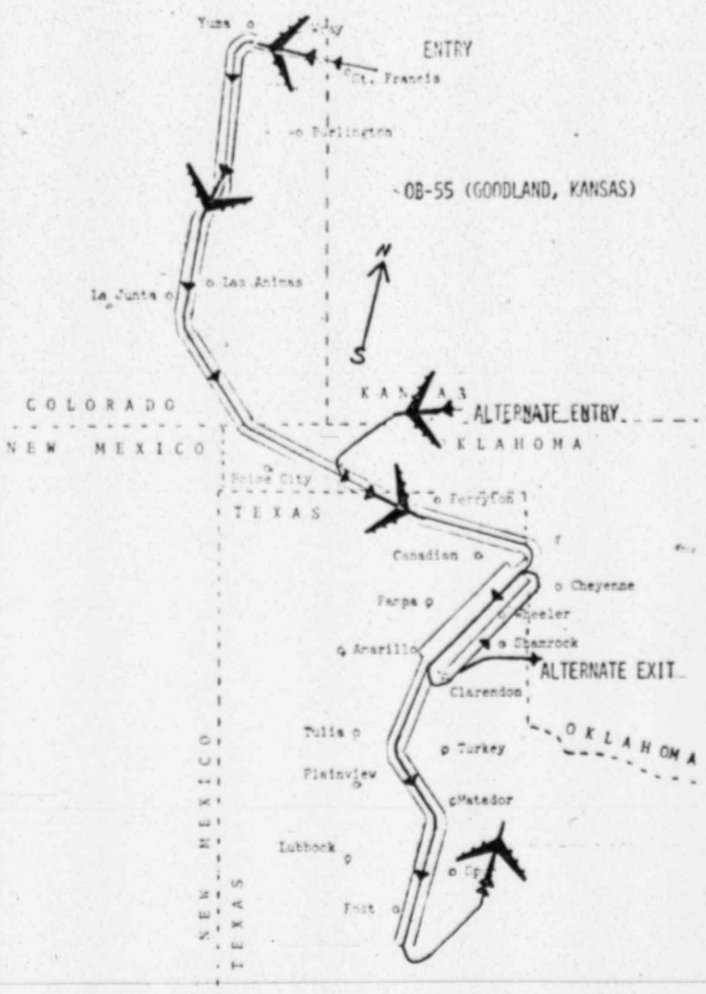

The Strategic Air Command conducts low-level bombing and navigation training to assure bomber crews are kept combat ready at all times. The routes are changed periodically to provide unfamiliar targets and radar returns. Populated areas are avoided as much as possible and all routes are coordinated with the Federal Aviation Administration.

Aircrews flying this training route, designated "Oliver Branch 55," will begin descending from high altitude north of Goodland, Kan. They will begin the low level portion of the route south of Yuma, Colo., proceed south toward La Junta, where they will make a left turn and fly toward Boise City, Okla.

From north of Boise City, aircrews will fly southeasterly to the Oklahoma-Texas border near Higgins, make an 120-degree right turn and fly toward Amarillo. Southeast of Amarillo, aircrews will turn left and fly to Silverton, making another left turn toward Matador. Aircrews will exit the low level portion southeast of Post. After exiting, aircrews will make a turn toward Jayton and continue to climb to a higher altitude.

This low level course has both an alternate entry and exit point. The alternate entry is near Boise City, and the alternate exit point is east of Amarillo near Shamrock.

Aircrews desiring additional training at the completion of simulated bomb releases near Lefors, will make an 180-degree turn near Clarendon, fly northeast toward Cheyenne, Okla., and re-enter the route north of Wheeler.

Death By Injection Sparks Controversy

NEW YORK (AP) — Texas and Oklahoma have new laws calling for medical "death by injection" executions.

The convict will be strapped to a hospital-type stretcher and a catheter or hollow tube will be inserted into a vein in the arm. Then, hidden behind a screen, three or four people will inject a substance into the tube.

"Not all the people doing the injecting will have the letal drug in their syringe. At least one person will have the medical equivalent of the firing squad's blank," says Medical Tribune, a publication for doctors.

The laws present doctors with extraordinary ethical dilemmas, the publication says. Is it ethical for physicians to take part, even to supervise, much less inserting the tube, or using the syringe?

More states are expected to pass similar laws, on grounds that death by injection is more humane than by gas, electrocution or firing squad, it says. Affected by the new laws are 66 persons on death rows in Texas, and two in Oklahoma, all with executions stayed by appeals.

On ethics, "the new laws in effect mandate the use of medical skills and techniques for a purpose diametrically opposed to that for which they were devised," says Anastasia Toufexis, a staff writer of the publication. "Medical techniques and a hospital-type setting (in prison) will be used not on physically ill individuals to save life, but on apparently healthy persons to end it."

The injections will consist of sodium thiopental in Texas, and sodium thiopental with succinylcholine or tubocurarine in Oklahoma.

Texas specifies that "a physician shall pronounce the inmate dead, but shall have no other function in the execution. The physician ... shall stand with any other witnesses present," and "a medically-trained individual (not to be identified) shall insert" the tube, Medical Tribune says.

"A corrections official, when asked whether this might be a physician, would not give a direct answer, saying only that 'a doctor won't be involved except in a regular capacity.'

"In Oklahoma, the matter is equally obscure. A Corrections Department planning and research official ... notes that 'a trained medical employee shall insert the catheter and any other monitoring equipment. The examining physician shall inspect the catheter and monitoring equipment and determine that the fluid will flow into the vein... Administration of the (lethal) substance shall continue until the physician ronounces the inmate to be dead.' (The spokesman) was unsure, however, whether the 'medical employee' could be a physician."

Film Director Dies In Crash

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — An American film director and three other persons scouting locations for a movie were killed when their helicopter hit a power line and plunged into jungle near Manila, authorities reported Sunday.

They identified the American as William Girdler Jr., who directed the Hollywood thriller "Grizzly."

Also killed in the crash Saturday were British producer Patrick Allan Kelly, Filipino film executive Dennis Jovan, and the helicopter's pilot, Jess Garcia, officials said.

They were scouting locations for a film Kelly planned to make on international drug smuggling, said Eddie Romero, a Filipino director and partner of Jovan.

It was not known whether Girdler was planning to work on the drug film.

Col. Frederico Donesa of the Philippine air force said the helicopter struck a power line in Pagsanjan, a rugged jungle region 40 miles southeast of Manila. The officer said the bodies of Girdler and Garcia were badly burned.

Pagsanjan was used by American director Francis Ford Coppola as the setting for his movie on the Vietnam War, "Apocalypse Now," which finished filming late last year.

Kelly lived in Hong Kong and worked briefly with Coppola, Romero said.

Jovan was president of Philippine Movie Props and executive producer of Romero's Hemisphere Productions film company.

U.S. and British Embassy officials said neither Girdler nor Kelly had checked in with their respective embassies, and the officials said they had no information on the deaths.

The Mexican port city of Mazatlan lies 15 miles south of the Tropic of Cancer at the same latitude as the Hawaiian Islands. The port sits at the edge of the Sea of Cortez, one of the world's largest fish traps.

"Who says you can't sell by Long Distance."

Every business day, salesmen all across the country are ringing up millions of dollars in sales...by Long Distance.

Of course, you have to know what you're doing. You must have a system. My salesmen have it. Southwestern Bell showed us how to use a planned program of Long Distance calling to reach markets we've never reached before. And it's working!

For one thing, Long Distance creates an excellent selling atmosphere. Both the salesman and the prospect are in their own offices. So each feels comfortable and on equal ground. And there are fewer interruptions. The salesman is able to establish rapport, create interest, field questions, overcome objections, deliver a well thought out sales message and close the sale...all in a brief period of time.

Now each of my salesmen is using the telephone to bring in new customers. And since we can reach prospects anywhere by Long Distance, our market is expanding outward, and our profits upward.

With programs like this, it's no wonder the people at Southwestern Bell keep saying the system is the solution.

The next time someone tells you "you can't sell by Long Distance," tell him to call Southwestern Bell toll free: 1-800-821-2121. Unless, of course, he's your competition.

Southwestern Bell

Long Distance.
It's the way to get things done. Today.

Emaciated Man Found Living In Cardboard Box

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (UPI) — A destitute 61-year-old Martinsville man was being cared for this weekend by social services personnel after a two-year ordeal during which he lived in a cardboard box in the woods.

Henry County sheriff's deputies said two residents found Hade Gilbert Andrews early this week inr a box made of cardboard and plywood just barely large enough for his emaciated body.

The deputies brought Andrews to the Martinsville Hotel, where he ate a hot meal and told of his struggle to survive in snowstorms, flooding, and temperature plunges this winter and last.

Anyone that's not used to it will sure have a hard time.

Andrews said he went to live with his sister in the Martinsville area several years ago, but she married a man he couldn't get along with. He said he moved into his makeshift shack because he was determined to get along on his own.

"I make it one way or another," he said, scatching his gray, stubbly beard with a calloused hand.

With this year's snowstorms already threatening to rival last winter's brutal weather, Andrews may owe his life to the two men who found him and helped the deputies convince him to come in out of the cold.

Tommy Earles and Mike Handy said they encountered Andrews while stalking a stray dog that had attacked one of their pet dogs. He was wearing ragged clothes and cracked rubber boots that were taped up with only two old blankets to protect him from the cold.

Report Says Drug Problem Widespread

A-J Correspondent

MIDLAND — About 1,000 persons in the Permian Basin area are in need of screening and emergency services for drug abuse — but that's just a small portion of the overall drug problem, according to a special report compiled by the Permain Basin Regional Planning Commission.

Although the commission's five year plan, which was obtained by The Avalanche-Journal this week cites a significant increase in drug arrests and drug related treatment in the 17 county region, it suggests that prescription and over -the counter drugs may be the biggest drug problem of all.

"Unfortunately, according to most law and drug enforcement agencies, there will be never available statistics to prove this fact. This is because most prescription abusers have legal access to drugs as long as their physician writes them a prescription," the planning commission said.

"More and more physicians are realizing that this is a problem and are beginning to place limits on the number of refills allowed. When a prescription abuser cannot obtain a doctor's approval for drugs, he will often forge a prescription or resort to more drastic means to secure the drugs."

The commission believes that the use of prescriptions and overttecounter drugs should be investigated.

It further stated that drug abuse services provided to the Permian Basin region are "poor." Limited money is available from federal and state agencies as well as local support funds and the services are accessible to only a small portion of those in need of the region."

Ector and Midland counties, the region's two largest counties, had the most people in need of drug services.

Cold Snap Hampers Burglars In City

Icy weather throughout the weekend apparently froze the fingers of burglars usually adept at prying their way into Lubbock homes and businesses, but as the ice and snow began thawing Sunday, burglars began making up for lost time.

Lubbock police said relatively few breakins were reported while most of the city was iced over Friday and Saturday, but early Sunday, the reports started coming.

A beer-drinking, music-loving intruder apparently made his way into Del Kidwell's 1337 65th Drive No. 20 home between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Saturday. Kidwell told officers the man took about $80 worth of albums and several cans of beer while leaving other more expensive items behind.

Burglars who apparently knew what they were looking for broke into the University-City Club at 2601 19th St. between 6:30 p.m. Friday and 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Brooksie Mae Harry of the club told officers. The intruders took $100 from a locked desk drawer, she said.

Troy William Massey of the Executive House Motel at 2121 Amarillo Highway told police someone took a $200 adding machine from his business sometime between 11:30 p.m. Friday and 12:15 a.m. Saturday.

A $90 television set reportedly was stolen from Collin Johnson's 3430 Fordham St. residence about 3 p.m. Saturday.

Burglars took a $600 television set and stereo from the home of Juan Segura of 604 N. Indiana Ave. between 6:45 p.m. and 7:45 p.m. Saturday, he told police.

Elva Alonzo of 2934 E. Bates St. told officers someone took a radio and a tape recorder valued at $383 from her home Saturday night.

Rudy Espinosa of 3302 E. Broadway told officers s omeone took $537.40 in appliances from that address between 9 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

Police Sunday were also searching for a man Annie Marie Pace of 2412 Weber Drive No. C told police struck her over the head with a pistol.

The woman told officers she was at a 37th Street club about 12:30 a.m. Sunday when the man hit her because of an argument they were having.

Apolonia Perez of 3001 1st St. told police she too was injured when someone threw a brick through a window of her home about 3:15 a.m. Sunday.

She said someone knocked on the door to her home, and then threw the brick at her through the window as she walked toward the door to open it.

Numerous Hassles Hinder GIs Stationed At European Bases

By JON STEWART
Pacific News Service

HEIDELBERG, West Germany — The 8,000 additional soldiers that President Carter has pledged to Europe will join some 315,000 GIs already here, many of whom are given to long hours of wondering why they are here and wishing they were back in the States.

For despite the seeming attractions of a European tour, despite the pride of satisfaciton among officers here, and despite the talk of the need to strengthen the NATO defense, the average American GI in Europe is broke, bored, skeptical and homesick.

Plethora Of Problems

He is beset by a mounting plethora of problems: the declining value of the dollar; an inability to speak the language and to socialize with the native populations; outright German racism against blacks; general resentment against all GIs; alcoholism and drug abuse.

Official Army statistics on what are called the "morale indicators" suggest things have improved since the early 1970s, when drug usage reached epidemic proportions both here and in Vietnam. Reenlistments in the U.S. Army Europe (USAEUR), have almost doubled between 1972 and 1977 (though this is partly due to the end of the Vietnam War and the introduction of the all-volunteer Army). AWOLS have fallen off by almost 400 percent since 1972, down to 1.2 per thousand a month today. Special courts-martial and Article 15s (administrative discharges) are both down about four percent over the past years.

Drug Usage Down

Hard drug usage, says a Seventh Army commander, is down 25 percent over two years, from a high of eight percent of all USAEUR soldiers to six percent today. Yet use of marijuana and hashish (by far the most available and popular drug) still runs around 19 percent of all GIs in Europe.

"To be honest," he says, "we've tried very hard to convince, to coerce, to educate, to change the thinking of these young folks about grass and hash. We just haven't had much success. They just don't see anything wrong with it."

Whatever the validity of the statistics, interviews with scores of GIs here at USAEUR headquarters and at other bases throughout Europe tell a different story.

Different Story

Take Dave Briggs, for instance (not his real name). Briggs is a Spec. 4 — as are the majority of GIs — 18 years old and serving three years with the 26th Signal Corps at Heilbonn near here.

"I joined up and got into the Signal Corps" says Briggs, "because I didn't want to pump gas the rest of my life. So now what am I doing? Digging ditches, mostly, cleaning up some farmer's field after training maneuvers. I haven't learned a damn thing I can use on the outside."

Briggs admits to frequently smoking hash and claims everyone he knows does, though he's never been detected. He has gone through the local Community Drug and Alcohol Assistance Center (there is at least one in each of the 33 military communities in USAUER), but that was for alcohol abuse.

"And it was a damn joke," he says. "As soon as the meetings would end everybody would head straight for a bar."

Living Costs

But Briggs' $450-month gross pay, minus about $90 in deductions, doesn't buy him many nights of revelry here, where a glass of beer costs a dollar and a moderately priced dinner can cost $15-20. For GIs living "on the economy" — off-base in rented apartments — the situation is even worse. While the mark, with which they pay their rent and buy their food and clothing, has held steady, the dollar, with which they are paid, has dropped dramatically.

Some GIs, like Briggs, make up the difference by dabbling in black market American cigarettes and liquor.

What does he think of the Army? "It stinks," he says in the proverbial reply of GIs everywhere. "I don't know what we're doing here. If the Russians ever decided to come across the border we've had it. There's nothing we can do except start throwing nuclear missiles at them. So believe me, when the balloon goes up and my commander says "Let's go," I'm gonna jump in my car and go to Switzerland."

If Briggs' attitudes and experiences are not typical, they are not uncommon, either. Others fare much worse.

'Married Army'

A colonel in USAEU's community life support division explains that "today's Army is a married Army. Over half the GIs over here have families. That's a real problem for those below the officer level, because the Army doesn't give them any allowance whatsoever for bringing their families over here or maintaining them. They either pay it out of their own pocket or just kiss their 17-year-old pregnant bride goodbye for three years."

Objects Of Resentment

Apart from the GIs' financial problems, which are only getting worse, there's the acute sense of dislocation and isolation in foreign communities, where their sheer numbers and ignorance of customs and language tend to make them the object of resentment.

In Heidelberg, particularly, an ancient university town, the GI stands in every contrast to the relative wealth, education and politization of the 35,000 university students with whom he shares the town.

To the students, who tend toward active radicalism, the GI — so easily discernible by his short hair and American-style dress — is a permanent, if accepted, evil, a symbol of the capitalist militarism to which so many German students are opposed. Indeed, as the graffiti that cover the university buildings attest, there may be more sympathy here for the remnants of the Baader-Meinhof Red Army Faction than for the U.S. Army.

Even an American student, showing a reporter around town, is careful to patronize only those bars displaying the ubiquitous "Off Limits to GIs" sign over the door.

The Black GI

The signs, say Army officials, are perfectly legal in Germany. And in most cases, they admit, they are not there to keep out all GIs — just the black ones.

"The black soldier has a much better chance of getting into trouble over here than his whiter counterpart," says an Army official. "They face great problems with the Germans. And naturally incidents occur. A black GI will go to a Gasthaus (inn) six times and get turned away, and the seventh time he's just had it and he's liable to go in and smash windows and wreck the place.

"It's a problem that we're very aware of and we're doing everything we can to solve it. It used to be that we could lean on them economically, threaten to take away all the American business. But that doesn't count for much anymore."

If the sense of alienation is bad in Heidelberg, where there are at least thousands of other young people and dozens of off-base watering holes, it is near-ridiculous in an area like Ramstein, headquarters of the ALlied Air Force and a part of the sprawling Kaiserslautern military community.

Garrison Conditions

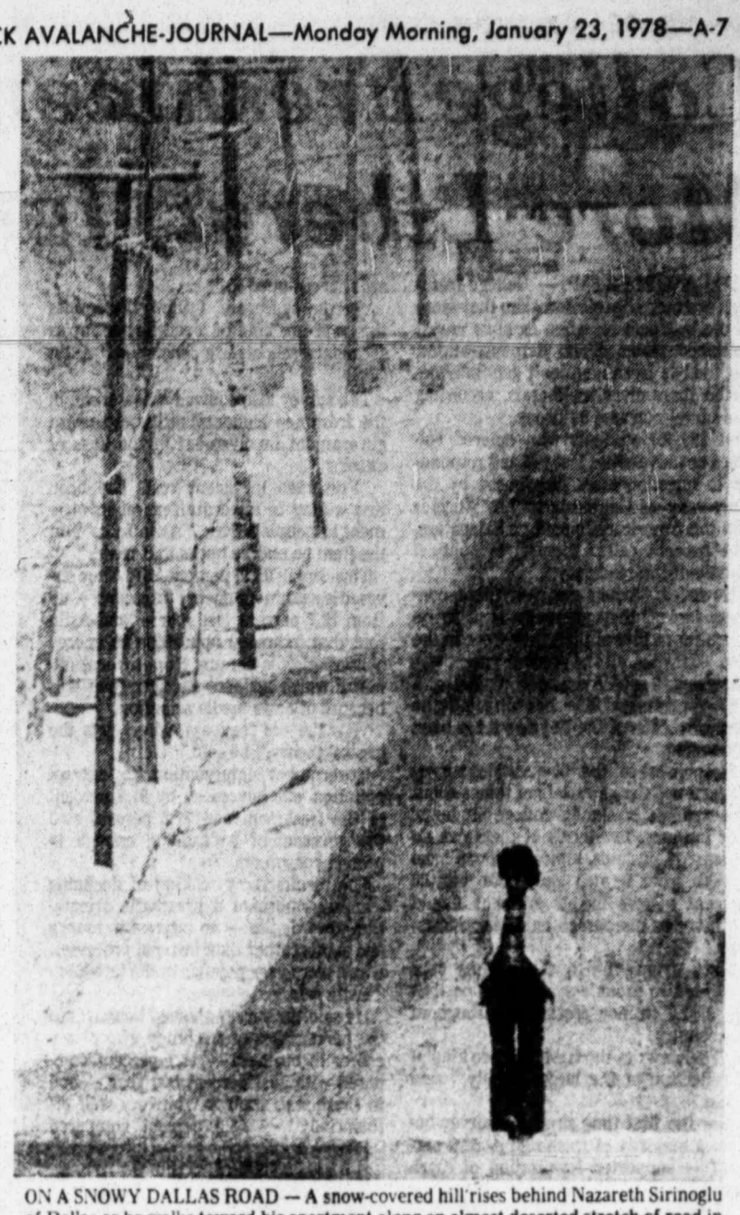

There, in what is claimed to be the largest U.S. "community" outside the United States, some 50,000 GI live and work 24 hours a day in what amounts to garrison conditions. Aside from a few small, scattered villages that offer little or no recreational facilities, there are no real cities within 50 miles or more.

Officers at Ramstein sit around a country club-like officers' mess and speak enthusiastically of the great opportunities this winter for skiing at Berchtesgaden and other military resorts. But they admit that they see few enlisted men there.

Recently in Naples, the U.S. sailors and Marines who clog the so-called "Gut," or prostitute area, were nowhere to be seen. the city's cab drivers had virtually encircled the landing area of the NATO Southern Command to prevent any American GI from leaving his ship. The blockade held until an American sailor was arrested for the murder of a cab driver the night before. But even a week later the resentment shown toward GIs in Naples was nearly palpable.

In fact, despite claims by commanders that today's Army in Europe is the most professional and ready for action that has ever existed, there are few enlisted men who would not trade in their USAEUR patch for a ticket back home. Generally speaking — and there are, of course, many exceptions — they feel cheated, deprived, disliked and uncertain of their own military role or capacity.

An Army public relations officer, over an off-duty drink at a Heidelberg bar, looks over the dozens of young Americans faces guzzling strong, expensive German beer and says, "It's not right that soldiers should be made to pay for the privilege of serving in NATO. But they are. They suffer, and not just financially."

Tech Parks Conference Considers Inflation Woes

Delegates to the 23rd annual Southwest Park and Recreation Training Institute, meeting Jan. 29-Feb. 1 at Lake Texoma State Park, will deal with problems of reduced budgets, increased demand for services, and increasing costs brought about by inflation.

The annual institute is conducted by the department of park administration and landscape architecture of Texas Tech University. It is sponsored by the National Recreation Department and the Southwest Park and Recreation Training Institute.

The director of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation of the U.S. Department of the Interior, Chris T. Delaporte, will address institute participants Jan. 30. He formerly served as the director of the Oklahoma Division of State Parks and was named Oklahoma's outstanding public administrator in 1976 by the state's chapter of the American Institute of Public Administrators. He also has served as executive director of the North Georgia Mountains Authority and executive director of the National Association of State Outdoor Recreation Liaison Officers.

One of the major issues to be considered by participants is that of mandatory dedication for public use of portions of real estate developments. This issue came before the Texas Legislature at its last session. Although no revisions were made in the principle, the question persists as land costs rise.

To be offered twice during the 1978 institute is the seminar, "Models for Management," led by Rick Wolfe, director of staff development at the Lubbock State School.

Keynote speaker for the institute will be R. R. "Pat" Murphy, director emeritus of the Oklahoma City parks and recreation department.

Sessions topics include designs for he handicapped, land acquisition, communciation strategies, cultural resources, winter sports, effective maintenance, planning and plan implementaton, trail concepts, planning, development, maintenance and funding, public relations and law enforcement.

Program participants will represent Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Missouri and Washington, D.C.

Dave Loughridge, director of the parks and recreation department of Richardson is president of the institute. Dr. James W. Kitchen of the department of park administration and landscape architecture at Texas Tech is director. Vice president is Jack Robinson, director of parks and recreation, Austin. Secretary-treasurer is Russell Studebaker, city horticulturist, Tulsa, Okla.

Fifteen juniors and seniors from Texas Tech have enrolled for the institute and will receive two hours' credit for participating, assisting with registration, workshop preparations and publication of proceedings.

Crisis Group Honored By Childress CC

A-J Correspondent

CHILDRESS — In a surprise move, members of the Childress Chamber of Commerce Saturday awarded 1978's Outstanding Man of the Year honor to the Medical Crisis Committee.

The award was presented to the five-member committee at the chamber's 67th annual banquet at the city auditorium. Late last year the committee was given the task of recruiting new doctors for Childress and succeeded in obtaining committments from two doctors specializing in family practice. The doctors should arrive here within the next few months.

Members of the committee include Pat Steed, James Driver, David Galligan, Wayne Lindley and Larry Moore.

The chamber's Outstanding Woman of the Year award went to Mrs. Joe S. Allen, wife of the pastor of First Baptist Church here. Mrs. Allen was cited for her service to the community.

KCTX Radio's Community Service Award went to former Childress Mayor Glenn Buckley. Buckley was mayor of the city seven years, retireing three months ago.

Mrs. Jean Havins, an employee of Smith Motor Company, was named Employee of the Year by the Childress Rotary Club. Rotary Club officials said Mrs. Havins received the award because she served as a good example to other employees.

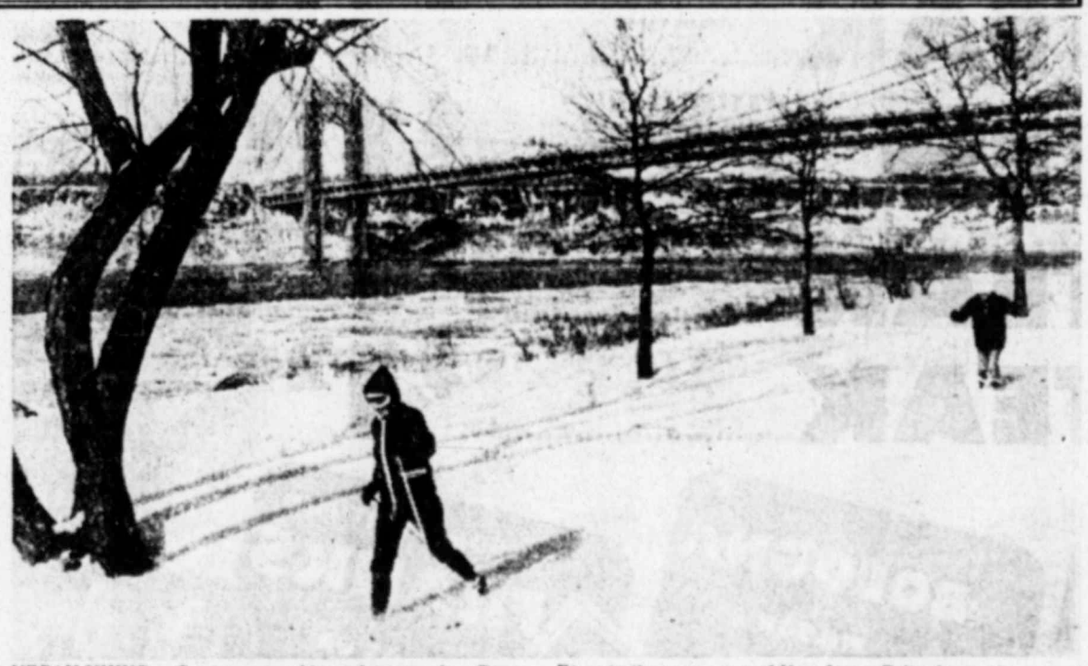

The Rolling Plains Production Credit Association's Farmer of the Year award went to 26-year-old Childress County farmer Danny Watts.

Dr. W.E. Thorn, president of Dallas Baptist College, presented the keynote address at the banquet and Royce Bodiford, general manager of an Amarillo radio station, served as master of ceremonies.

Bennie Foard, retiring president of the chamber's board of directors, introduced incoming president Albert Helm to the crowd.

College Freshmen Found More Liberal, Ignorant

LOS ANGELES (AP) — College freshmen are more liberal now than they were in the last decade, when campus unrest produced violence and demonstrations, but today's freshmen don't generally describe themselves as liberals, according to a survey released Saturday.

Of 299,467 students who entered colleges or universities last fall and responded to questionnaires distributed by the University of California at Los Angeles and the American Council on Education, 56.6 percent called themselves political middle-of-the-roaders.

However, "when you ask them concrete issues, they generally tend to be much more liberal than they were in the late '60s when all the student unrest was occurring," said Alexander W. Astin, a UCLA professor who has directed the survey in each of the 12 years it has been conducted.

Responses to the 50-question survey showed pollsters a variety of things about the nation's freshmen college students. For instance, two-thirds of them can do at least 15 pushups, almost half can bake a cake from scratch and more than 80 percent believe the government should do more to discourage energy consumption.

Data from the questionnaires was weighted to provide a statistical portrait of all 1.7 million freshmen throughout the country.

"The views of the freshmen are kind of a reflection of the larger society," said Astin.

For the first time since the survey began, a majority of freshmen — 52.9 percent — supported legalization of marijuana.

In this survey, 40.6 percent advocated busing to achieve racial balance in public schools, compared with 37 percent who expressed that opinion in the last survey.

A whopping 92.3 percent this time said women should have equality in the job market with men.

"A majority 10 years ago felt a woman's proper place is in the home," Astin said.

He said the finding that alarmed him most in this year's survey was the students' apparent lack of preparedness for college.

A record 42.6 percent said an important reason for going to college was "to improve my reading and study skills."

Ten years ago, 48.8 percent said they could list personal freedoms guaranteed by the Bill of Rights; this fall, 29.7 percent could do the same. A substantial majority in the most recent survey — 61 percent — said high school grading standards have slipped.

"In the aggregate, I think the results this year are kind of a red flag as far as secondary schools are concerned," Astin said.

The survey also showed a new trend in the freshmen students' attitudes toward government involvement in the lives of citizens.

"Freshmen in recent years had been less willing to advocate federal involvement in people's lives," Astin said. "But the item on energy bucks that trend."

This time, 81.9 percent said they favored government energy programs — up from 79.7 percent last year — and Astin said that indicated opposition to energy conservation is coming from a vocal minority which appears stronger than it is because of news media attention.

"It's the old 'squeaky wheel gets the grease' theory," he said.

Government intervention to control pollution was advocated by 81.2 percent of the freshmen, and 71.2 percent said the government isn't doing enough to protect consumers.

The results show "a kind of declining idealism, more of a pragmatic orientation towards life — an interest in money and status rather than internal processes, which were very popular in the late '60s," Astin said.

He said the survey showed increases in the percentages of freshmen who plan a career in business — 18.1 percent compared with 16.4 percent last year — and in those who want to "be very well off financially" — 58.2 percent compared with 40.1 percent in 1967.

Furthermore, 62.1 percent of the freshmen in the new survey said being "able to make more money" was an important reason for going to college, compared with 49.9 percent who expressed that opinion in 1971.

The goal cited by the largest number of freshmen this year — almost three quarters — was to "be an authority in my field."

Developing a philosophy of life was once "by far the most popular goal" but dropped to third place in this year's survey, Astin said.

"In heterosexual relationships, women are more conservative than men. Men are more willing to endorse casual sex, sex without marriage. But in the area of homosexuality or gay rights, men are more conservative — considerably more," he said.

Women appear to be increasingly taking up traditionally male-oriented tasks and vice versa, Astin said, which may account for the increase in the percentage of freshmen who say they can bake a cake from scratch — 43.4 percent 10 years ago, 49.3 percent today.

"The sexes are coming together a bit on this item, which may be a result of the women's movement," Astin said. "The men went from 16.4 percent to 22.6 percent, whereas the women declined slightly from 77.0 to 76.1, a very slight decline."

At the same time, he added, more women and fewer men now say they can do at least 15 pushups.

Student Group To Continue Book Exchange

The Student Association book exchange for the spring semester at Texas Tech will begin its final three days of selling used textbooks to and for Tech students at 10 a.m. today in the University Center courtyard on the Tech campus.

Students who wish to leave books with the exchange for sale by the Air Force ROTC cadets and members of Angel Flight who are manning the sale booths should bring them by between 9:30 and 10 a.m., according to project coordinator Cadet Ray Mehringer.

The sale begins at 10 and concludes at 5 p.m. The sale will continue th A consignment operation, the book exchange takes in books from Tech students at prices set by the student. Sale of the books, usually at about 60 students at prices set by the student. Sale of the books, usually at about 60 to 70 per cent of original price, results in a percentage payment to the exchange which still allows the student to better bookstore rates, according to Mehringer.

Mehringer said this semester's sales totals and number of books sold are up, due to increased time alloted the sale. The sale, run by Air Force ROTC and Angel Flight members for the third consecutive year, has been in operation Jan. 12 and 13, and Jan. 15-20, before this week's final days.

Student Association External President Ronnie Bobbitt said the Student Association makes no profit from the exchange, and profits to to Air Force ROTC and Angel Flight projects.

Gentle Talk Helps Bandit To Surrender

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — A man armed with a shotgun took over a crafts shop here and tied up customers with macrame rope as they entered during a three-hour period. He surrendered after his boss began talking about religion.

"What turned him around was when we started sharing Christ," said Gordon Cederberg, co-owner of the building which houses Kathy's Korner crafts shop. The gunman ws identifed as Gordon Freeze, 20, a building tenant who worked as a handyman.

After he turned himself in at police headquarters, Freeze asked officers to take him back to the shop so he could apologize to the owners, Kathleen and Dexter Presnell.

Police and the hostages gave this account of the incident.

Freeze entered the shop shortly after it opened Friday, pulled a shotgun from beneath his coat and announced a stick-up. He ordered Presnell to tie up his wife with macrame rope sold in the store and then Freeze tied up Presnell. The couple was ordered into a back room.

Freeze then tied up customers as they entered the shop and ordered them into the back room. He answered the telephone, impersonating Presnell, and at one point invited radio station advertising salesman Tom Steel to drop by to talk about an ad.

When Steel arrived, he was tied up and put in the back room with the Presnells and, by that time, four customers. Steel was robbed of $4 and $290 was taken from the shop's cash register.

Cederberg and building co-owner James Crantz entered the shop later, realized what was happening and began talking to Freeze. Eventually, Freeze set realized what was happening and began talking to Freeze. Eventually, Freeze set his gun aside, and Cederberg drove him to the police station while Crantz untied the hostages.

"It was like the things you see on TV, where a guy flips out because he's paying too much rent and doesn't have a job," Steel said.

"The more people who came in, the more he stalled, as if he were hoping someone would talk him out of it," said Laurie Walikangas, who was held hostage along with her fiance.

The hostages said Freeze waivered between concern for their comfort and threats of violence.

"He told my husband, 'Don't tie her up too tight.' Then, in the next breath, he'd say, 'Don't make a false move or I'll blow your brains out,'" No shots were fired, and no one was injured.

Freeze stood mute at arraignment in District Court on Saturday. He was jailed in lieu of $20,000 bond on three counts of armed robbery and one count of assault with intent to rob while being armed.

No trial date was set.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. — I expect to retire in about six months, at 62. My income will be $1,000 a month plus the interest from about $100,000 now in a day-to-day savings account. I realize the interest rate is low, compared with other savings plans, but I have very few tax deductions. Should I pay off a $10,000 loan on my home? How should I invest for more income? Would you recommend trust deeds?

A. — Allow me to begin with discussion of a phrase that frequently crops up in readers' letters and always bothers me. I'm referring to your "justification" for keeping $100,000 at, I assume, only 5 or 5¼ percent because you "have few tax deductions." The implication is: Why earn more interest if I'm in a high tax bracket? I've never been able to understand this reasoning. It is the closest I've ever seen to the "cut-off-my-nose-to-spite-my-face" philosophy.

No one likes to pay income taxes. But until a person gets into a 100 percent (?) income tax bracket it should be obvious that 7¾ is better than 5¼.

If you were honest with yourself you would have to face up to the fact that what you are doing here is rationalizing you laziness in failing to put that $100,000 to better use. You've just turned your back on it and glossed over your neglect by saying: "What's the use, I have to pay income taxes."

If you plan to retire soon, it is obvious this money should be earning more than 5¼ percent — tax or no tax. You don't say how much of your $1,000 retirement income will be taxable. But even if all of it will be, you could still stand $8,000 or $8,500 a year from this $100,000, instead of $5,250. Furthermore, at 62, you should have some money employed in common shares in the hope of combatting inflation, as well as in bonds, preferreds and insured savings.

Second mortgage trust deeds on real estate could be risky. Don't touch them unless you "know your (real estate) stuff."

Let that $10,000 mortgage stand until you've had a year or two of retirement financing. Then see how paying it off will affect your budget.

Q. — We are living on a small pension plus the income from $30,000 on deposit at 7 percent. We could get 7½ if we tie it up for six years, but we're reluctant to do this because we feel money rates will rise.

A. — I think you've spelled out the story pretty well: If you want to stay "short term" with your money you can't hope to get as much interest as if you lent it for a longer period of time. That's one of the inflexible laws of money and interest.

If you feel top quality bonds will be yielding 9 and 9½ percent next year, keep your money in short term commitments. Of course, that's easy advice to give — but difficult to put into practice, because you must then decide the exact time to make the commitment. And that will not be easy. Also, you must figure what it is costing you in lower current income while you wait for that "best" bond buying time.

Q. — I am a senior citizen who has just inherited $10,000. I was told to invest in tax-exempt bonds. I also have a few common shares of Pennsylvania Power & Light which pay very small dividends. Should I sell them?

A. — The $10,000 could earn about $825-$850 a year if invested in high quality corporation bonds; or about $550 a year from similar quality tax-exempts. Are you in a tax bracket high enough (about 35 percent) to reduce $825 to $550 net? If not, you don't want tax-exempts.

Penn Power & Light's dividend payment to you may be "very small" because you have "very few" shares. But the company rated A minus (high) actually yields — percent on your investment which is very good. Don't touch.

Tomorrow: Looking for warning signals on stock.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

Researchers have gone to a lot of trouble to figure out what makes a woman successful in the corporate world. They've come up with:

1. Don't wear sweaters unless you want to be a secretary the rest of your life.
2. Wear glasses even if you don't need them.
3. Paint your office a masculine color.
4. Don't have a flower on your desk.
5. Take your family's picture off your desk.
6. Have a small chair so you'll look larger.
7. Hang only neuter art.

Now they tell me. For the first six years of my writing career, I listed shower curtains and a new lid for the commode as office expenditures on my tax returns.

There are thousands of women who work from their homes who don't have time to play the corporate game. Our rules are a little different.

If you want to get ahead at home:

1. Don't schlepp around in bathrobe and scuffies unless you want to be a housewife the rest of your life. Be dressed by noon.
2. Paint your office black unless you want to spend your entire time scouring around the light switches and looking for dust.
3. Equip your phone with a 75-foot extension cord. This permits you to stir the potatoes, type, turn off the washer, and grab your prize-winning poodle before it mates with a St. Bernard.
4. Detonate your scissors, plastic tape, pens, rulers and matched stationery. Put a sign over your desk that reads, "THIS IS A HARD HAT AREA. ENTER AT YOUR OWN RISK."
5. Wear glasses. Especially when you can find them. They're authoritative and also keep you from shouting at a Boston Fern, "Comb your hair or cut it!"

As everyone files out of your kitchen leaving you with dishes, the garbage and the chores because they've "worked all day," remember, it's lonely at the top.

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠862 ♡7543 ◇AJ96 ♣Q5
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♡	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. Your hand was worth one voluntary move, and you have already made it. The fact that you have four-card support for partner's second suit does not make your hand any better. Partner's rebid in a lower-ranking suit is not forcing, so any action by you now would show extra values.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A872 ♡Q107 ◇AJ865 ♣4
Partner opens the bidding with one no trump. What do you respond?

A.—While you have the values to jump to three no trump, your distribution suggests a suit contract. We would make a Stayman inquiry of two clubs, followed by a rebid of three diamonds regardless of whether or not partner shows a four-card spade suit. If the hands fit well, you might be laydown for a slam!

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AJ982 ♡KJ7 ◇62 ♣AKQ
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—It seems that slam depends only on partner's diamond holding. If he does not have two quick losers, you should be an overwhelming favorite for at least twelve tricks. A jump to five spades will set his mind at rest about the trump suit and will pinpoint your concern about the diamond suit.

Q.4—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠73 ♡AJ9 ◇A873 ♣KQ105
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Double, and lead a trump if partner leaves it in. Either East has some queer ideas about forcing two-bids, or his hand is very distributional. If the former, your double could reap a handsome profit; if the latter, partner might take out into a red suit for a good save.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A7 ♡5 ◇AK872 ♣AK963
Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with one heart. What action do you take?

A.—Double. We do not normally recommend a take-out double with a two-suited hand. It is usually wiser to bid both suits. Here, however, your hand is just too strong for that action. You should still plan on showing both suits if the auction permits.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK8 ♡AQ4 ◇J983 ♣AKQ
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. Despite your wealth of prime cards, don't bid the same values twice. Your opening bid has already announced 22-24 points and something in every suit. Any further move is up to partner.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠83 ♡K976 ◇Q852 ♣K104
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 ♠	Dble.	?

What action do you take?

A.—We recommend that you bid one no trump—the same action you would have taken had there been no interference. If you do not tell partner now that you have some values, you are unlikely to have the opportunity to do so later in the auction. That could result in a lost partscore or game, or a doubled penalty from the opponents.

Q.8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK982 ♡AQJ6 ◇7 ♣Q83
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—You are in the slam zone, but you can't yet determine the correct level of the final contract. For the moment, you need do no more than complete the picture of your hand. Bid four clubs—to highlight your singleton diamond. That might spur partner into making a forward-going move.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY
DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been having several headaches a week for the past 12 years. I suspect sinuses to be the cause of some of them. Pain medicine doesn't help, but sometimes a decongestant will. At times I get nauseated and weak and break out in a cold sweat. Do you have any suggestions? — Mrs. J.C.

The commonest headaches are the tension type and migraine. The sinus variety is less common. Any can be complicated by allergy. For these reasons headache is probably the most frequent complaint doctors hear, and often the most complex to unravel.

Your nausea and sweating suggests migraine. This is often one-sided. The typical migraine victim is tense, a perfectionist who is easily upset by reversals. For them the best approach is to reduce tensions and use medicine to head the migraine off "at the pass" at the first symptom. Investigate this.

Headache that is relieved by decongestant suggests sinus involvement, so a nasal and sinus examination may be in order for you. It can be related to an allergy, perhaps to alcohol effects. Can you relate episodes to a cocktail? Some are sensitive to salicylates (in aspirin or certain foods). The foods are too numerous to list here, but Dr. Claude Frazier in his book, "Coping With Food Allergy," discusses this in depth. Your several headaches a week over such a long span suggests some basic cause, such as a food allergy. Chief offenders are milk, wheat, eggs, fish, fruits and vegetables, and chocolate.

With all this in mind, review your lifestyle, tensions, and your eating habits. Also, have that sinus check-up.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there a difference between a pilonidal cyst and a pilonidal sinus? My 2-year-old daughter was born with a tiny hole through the skin at the base of the spine. The doctor called it a pilonidal sinus. Is it something that will cause trouble? — M.C.

The two are related. A sinus is a hollow space in tissue. A pilonidal sinus is an abnormal one in the lower spine area. When hair grows within it, a cyst often forms — a pilonidal ("hair nest") cyst.

There's danger of infection, so these developmental quirks have to be watched carefully. The sinuses may cause no trouble, but cysts can develop in later years from irritation. One of the phrases used to describe this is "jeep driver's disease," from the jouncing of the tailbone in rough terrain. Surgery can correct the problem. Watch for any drainage and keep the area clean.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My mother is 90 years old and very healthy. Last winter she complained of her feet being so cold. I took a look at them and they were purple. I took her to a doctor and he gave her circulation medicine and told her to wear heavy stockings. She did and it helped her some. Later she complained of her feet being tingly and hot. The doctor had no answer for this. Can you offer any help? — Mrs. P.H.

There could be a simple answer. The tingling could be related to her circulation problem. Perhaps the heavy stockings are too bulky for her old shoes. She may need larger shoes to accommodate them. This would account for the numbness. Too, material in the new stockings may be causing an allergic reaction.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain the cause of dry mouth. In the morning it is especially dry. I wear dentures, and in the morning my tongue is almost stuck to my upper plate. I am 71 and in good health. — Mrs. R.C.

You are probably a mouth breather or your sleeping room is too dry. You should probably remove the dentures before retiring. They can complicate dry-mouth problems.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Why does a person sniffle when crying? — H.A.

The tears collect in the conjunctival sac (at the inner corner of the eye) and spill over into a channel leading to the nose.

Oswald: "All else being equal, the best percentage play is the one declarer should take."

Jim: "East wins the second spade with the king and leads a heart. Should South take an immediate heart finesse (a 50 percent chance) or rise with the ace of hearts and hope to be able to discard his queen of hearts on dummy's fourth club?"

Oswald: "A suit breaks three-three only 36 percent of the time so that at first glance the heart finesse seems to be the better play."

Jim: "There is some presumption that East would not be as likely to lead a heart if he held the king, but that really doesn't matter. Believe it or not the odds favor rising with the ace."

Oswald: "The reason is that South may still make his contract if the clubs don't break. All he does is run off all his trumps. If the man with the king of hearts has four clubs he will be squeezed. West is in that situation and must either unguard his jack of clubs or chuck the king of hearts on that last trump."

Jewelry Brings New Message To Valentine's Day

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a whole new way to say "I love you" this Valentine's Day, thanks to imaginative jewelry designers, reports the Jewelry Industry Council.

Take a second look at heart-shaped pendants and pins, the experts say. They have a new look and a new message to convey. For example, one attractive golden heart pendant, on closer inspection, shows itself to be "love power" — the heart is formed from a clenched fist.

Another handsome heart pendant that has an opal stone rimmed with gold can open up and be worn as a free-form pendant.

The very newest design for today's lovers is the provocative "Swingers" heart pendant. The heart shows a male and female whose arms and bodies make up the heart outline.

If none of the aforementioned suits your fancy, you might choose a more conventional form of daintily filigreed gold hearts, or a "hearts and flowers" motif — two heart shapes with finely fashioned gold flowers sculpted in the center and room for your beloved's initials outlined in tiny diamonds.

Along this same theme, there are cutout hearts edged in diamonds, or hearts with diamond pave centers.

Another luxurious jewelry item is the "sticks and stones" heart pendant. The heart has tiny little gold "sticks" crisscrossed through the center and in with the sticks are the "stones" — small diamonds!

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: Sometimes you print material from another source. This poem was sent to me but I don't know who wrote it. Please share it with the world. It's priceless! — East Coast Reader

Ellie and Marvin
Have been having secret meetings twice a week
For the past six months
But have thus far failed to consummate their passion;
Because
While both of them agree
That marital fidelity is not only unrealistic but irrelevant,
He has developed sharp shooting pains
In his chest, and she's got impetigo, and
He's got pink eye
Ellie and Marvin
Drive forty miles to sneaky luncheonette
In separate cars
But have thus far done no more than heavy necking
Because
She's developed colitis, and
He has developed these throbbing pains in his back, and
She has started biting her nails, and
He's smoking again.
Ellie and Marvin
Yearn to have some love in the afternoon at a motor hotel
But have thus far only had a lot of Coffee
Because,
He is convinced that his phone is being tapped, and
She is convinced that a man in a trench coat is following her, and
He says what if the motor hotel catches fire, and
She says what if she talks in her sleep some night, and
She thinks her husband is acting suspiciously hostile, and
He thinks his wife is acting suspiciously nice, and
He keeps cutting his face with his double-edged razor, and She keeps closing her hand in the door of her car, so
While both of them agree that guilt is not only neurotic but also obsolete,
They've also agreed
To give up
Secret meetings.

MUSHROOM PARTY SANDWICHES
1 (2-½ oz.) jar sliced mushrooms, drained
1 (3-oz.) pkg. cream cheese with pimientos, softened
3 slices bacon, crisply fried and crumbled
1-½ tsp. instant minced onion
8 thin slices whole wheat bread
Butter or margarine
Mayonnaise or salad dressing
Parsley flakes

Set aside 16 mushroom slices; finely chop remaining mushrooms. In small bowl, combine cheese, bacon, onion and chopped mushrooms. Trim crusts from bread; butter each slice. Spread 4 slices bread with mushroom filling; top with remaining bread slices. Cut each sandwich from corner to corner, making 4 triangles. Spread tops of sandwiches lightly with mayonnaise; sprinkle with parsley and toast lightly. Garnish with mushroom slice.

ITALIAN PORK ROAST
1 pork loin, about 4 lbs.
Salt and pepper
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
1/3 cup finely chopped onion
1/3 cup finely chopped celery
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 clove garlic, minced
½ tsp. rosemary leaves, crushed
⅛ tsp. ground cloves
3 tbsp. water

Sprinkle pork with ¼ tsp. salt and pepper; place on rack in shallow baking pan. Roast in 350 degree oven 35 to 40 minutes per pound or until meat thermometer registers 170 degrees.

Meanwhile, melt butter in skillet; saute onion and celery until tender. Add bread crumbs, garlic, rosemary, cloves, water and 2 tbsp. pork drippings from pan. Spread mixture over pork 30 minutes before end of cooking time. Baste pork once with drippings.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Readers:

It just dawned on me the other day that lots of people aren't aware of how to fold fitted sheets.

My girlfriend whom I lived with in college was visiting me while I was folding laundry and she said, "Oh, that's how you fold them." I thought she knew!

So I figured it was time I told you how I fold those pesky things without any trouble, and in no time flat. Or is that — so they will be flat?

I take the two corners of the top of the sheet and put my hands into them like slipping on an oven mitt. Now, take the bottom or free end and put the corners of this end over the corners of the other end which your hands are in.

It is like folding the top to bottom and then slipping each corner or little pocket into the corresponding corner.

Then I slip one hand over the other and lay the sheet flat and kinda taking a tuck in the fitted part, fold the sides neat and fold as usual.

This may sound a little confusing, but do give it a try, step by step, and I think you will see how simple and easy and neat your sheet will turn out. Ciao — Heloise

HINTS FROM HIM

Dear Heloise:

When I loan a book to someone I put one of my calling cards or a picture of myself in it to be used like a book-mark.

This way they never forget who the book belongs to and my books are always returned. — W.B. Emick

Dear Heloise:

To speed the boiling of potatoes, remove a strip of skin from one side.

Boil, then the rest of the skin peels off easily. — Mrs. M.A. Renehan

Dear Heloise:

With school now in session the children brought home armloads of books to be covered.

The stores were out of bookcovers and I was out of the large paper bags.

Then the idea hit me. I had three different-colored rolls of shelf paper.

Now each child has pretty bookcovers and each a different color so they can tell whose books belong to who. -Mrs. Judy Earl

Dear Heloise:

When using adhesive-backed paper, or any other paper with a backing, use a knife or the edge of the scissors and score the corner of the paper backing till it tears.

This way you can peel off the plastic without spending half an hour trying to peel it off with your finger nails. — Vera Quinn

Dear Heloise:

I am a seamstress and find it hard to get a zipper long enough for a man's jumpsuit.

After having a jumpsuit here for a year to replace a zipper, I took a zipper out of an old mattress cover. Later I saved the zipper out of an old garment bag.

Although they are not the same color, the color doesn't show and they are good strong zippers. — Ruth Kimmerly

Dear Heloise:

Here is a hint my husband has been doing for years.

When you want to keep a record of the maintenance of your car, just write it in ink on the owner's manual.

When you change the oil and filters, write the date and mileage down and put the manual in the glove compartment of the car.

You'll have it handy for a reference and a record that will help when you want to trade your car or sell it. — Mrs. Roy A. Smith

THIS COLUMN is written for you...the homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

ALL-SEASONS MACARONI SALAD
1 can (14-¾ oz.) elbow macaroni & cheese
½ cup mayonnaise
⅛ cup finely chopped celery
¼ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup relish
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen peas, cooked and drained
¼ tsp. salt

In bowl, combine ingredients; chill. Serve on salad greens. Garnish with green pepper if desired. Makes about 4 cups, 4 to 6 servings.

VICHYSSOISE
4 leeks, sliced (white part only)
1 medium onion, sliced
¼ cup butter or margarine
2 lbs. potatoes, pared and thinly sliced (6 medium)
1 quart chicken broth
1 tbsp. salt
2-½ cups milk
2 cups half-and-half or light cream
Chopped chives

In deep kettle lightly brown leeks and onion in butter. Add potatoes, broth and salt; boil 30 minutes or until potatoes are very tender. Puree in electric blender or rub through a fine strainer. Return mixture to kettle, add milk and bring to a boil. Cool. Strain through a fine strainer. Add half-and-half; chill thoroughly. Serve granished with chives. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Reopening Of Talks Predicted By Vance

ing with the parties to reach that end.

Sadat ordered the talks broken off last Wednesday even as Vance was narrowing the differences between Egypt and Israel on a declaration of principles to guide future treaties.

"We're in one of the downs now," the senior U.S. official acknowledged. But he said he was confident the Egyptian-Israeli military negotiations would be resumed, as well as a declaration of principles, although not in political committee form.

"We will go forward again," he said, with the United States in the role of trying to bring the parties together, talking to both of them and carrying messages back and forth.

To Report Today

Vance will report to President Carter today and convey Sadat's arms request. The Egyptian leader has asked for American military aid in the past, but has received only limited amounts of so-called non-lethal equipment planes and reconnassiance drones.

No details of Sadat's request were provided to reporters travelling with Vance, largely on the grounds that he wanted to talk to the president first.

U.S. officials said Sadat based it on "the situain the area and especially Africa."

Egypt is backing Somalia in its clash with Ethiopia, and is also at odds with Libya and is seeking military parity with Iran. The Soviet Union cut off new weapons shipments to Cairo when the Egyptians defaulted on payments for the arms used in the 1973 war with Israel.

Last Stop

Vance flew to Washington from Athens, the last stop on a seven-day, four-nation mission of mediation in the Middle East and the Aegean.

Vance visited Turkey and Greece in a bid to bring the two NATO allies closer together on the Cyprus question and on other issues dividing them.

His one-day stopover in Athens was marred by anti-American bombings. They apparently were protests against what leftists see as U.S. pressure on the Greek government to mend its Cyprus quarrel with Turkey for the sake of unity within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

There were no injuries in the bombings, none of which occurred near the secretary.

Cars Damaged

Police said firebombs early Sunday damaged three cars at the Hellikon U.S. air base. On Saturday, bombs damaged an American library and an American Express office in the northern city of Salonika.

Vance, who had stopped off in Turkey Friday, said his discussions with Premier Constantine Caramanlis and Foreign Minister Panayotis Papligouras were "very fruitful and helpful to me."

Caramanlis said Vance did not bring specific proposals from Turkey for resuming the negotiations between the Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot communities, but that tbe American "exhibited his impressions" from his talks with Turkish leaders.

Caramanlis said this made him "neither optimistic nor pessimistic." But he said promised Turkish proposals for advancing the negotiations must be meaningful or the situation could deteriorate.

Statements Formal

Vance limited himself to formal statements, and he and his aides said the United States does not want to directly intervene in the Cyprus dispute.

The Greek press, nevertheless, concluded almost unanimously Sunday that both Greece and Turkey had rejected American pressure on Cyprus. The newspapers specualted that Vance's visit ultimately was aimed more at smoothing Greek-American relations on such bilateral issues as speeding up congressional action on a new accord providing military aid to Greece in exchange for U.S. bases.

Vance discussed a similar U.S.-Turkish accord, also pending before Congress, with Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit.

Caramanlis said Saturday he told Vance that Greece's full return to NATO was directly linked to settlement of the Cyprus crisis.

Withdrew From NATO

Greece withdrew from some NATO activities when the alliance did not act against Turkey as a result of its 1974 invasion of Cyprus. Although NATO as a whole took no action, the United States imposed an arms embargo on the Turks.

Turkey said it invaded the island to defend the Turkish Cypriot minority after a short-lived coup by right-wing Greek Cypriots.

Turkish troops continue to occupy 40 percent of Cyprus.

MONDALE TRIP ENDS

MERIDA, Mexico (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale concluded a 2½-day visit to Mexico Sunday and flew home after touring ancient Mayan Indian ruins on the Yucatan Peninsula.

Mitchell, Nixon 'Still Friends'

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Former Attorney General John Mitchell arranged to enter Georgetown University Hospital Sunday for surgery on an artery, and told a Washington newspaper he is still friends with Richard Nixon.

Mitchell is scheduled to be operated on Tuesday by cardiovascular surgeon Charles Hufnagel for an aneurysm, the ballooning of an artery caused by a weakening of the vessea l wall.

The surgery will be followed about two months later by an operation on a painful hip joint, which Mitchell said in a rare interview printed in Sundays's Washington Star is "frozen in the socket."

Mitchell also told the newspaper that former President "Richard Nixon and I are friends.

"We have been since the year one," he said. "We talk all the time."

Herjected the notion that he was made a scapegoat by Nixon.

"If you were up on all the technicalities on those things and the nuances involving the people around him you would understand," he told Star writer Betty Beale in a telephone interview.

Mitchell defended Nixon's visit to Washington last weekend to attend memorial services for the late Sen. Hubert Humphrey, saying the two men "were very close personally" and noting Nixon offered Humphrey the job of U.N. ambassador after the 1968 election.

Mitchell, 64, has been in and out of the hospital since he was released from the federal minimum security unit at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., after Christmas for treatment. He will be eligible for parole in June from a one-to four-year jail sentence for his role in the Watergate coverup.

Mitchell said he probably will live in Washington after his prison term is over, because his 17-year-old daughter, Marty, now an honor student at Sacred Heart Academy in Greenwich, Conn., plans to attend Georgetown University here and begin studying to become a lawyer.

The Maxwell Air Force Base prison "isn't my choice for a southern resort, as much as I like the people in Alabama," Mitchell added. But he said the legal work he did for fellow prisoners " was very rewarding - getting some of those people out of there.

" I had a helluva lot of clients - the largest ingrown captive law practice in the world," he said. "In some cases it was just a question of counseling. The poor people were lost."

Cloudiness Lingers

Though the fog blanketing the South Plains cleared by noon Sunday, widespread low cloudiness lingered over east and south Texas into the late afternoon.

A line of low clouds covered the state along a line east of Wichita Falls to Austin and Laredo. Fog accompanied the cloudiness and visibilities across that section of Texas were reduced to two to four miles.

The cloud cover held most temperafures in that region in the 30-degree range.

While South Plains residents were enjoying the sunshine for the first time in almost a week, residents of the Gulf Coastal Plain were forced to endure light rain and drizzle, prompted by a weak stationary front in that region.

Fair Weather Forecast

Weather across the South Plains today, forecasters say, should be fair and warmer with the high reaching the upper 50s and the low dropping only to the lower 20-degree level.

Late this afternoon, however, clouds are expected to re return to the South Plains as a cold front, currently located in the northern Rockies, is expected to move into the Panhandle. This new cold front, National Weather Service officials say, will once again bring slight chances of snow to the Lubbock region.

Pen Pals Wed After Long Mail Romance

ple would spend two weeks together before he returned to England to finish school.

Newland said once he finishes his schooling he plans to return to the United States and look for work.

Two-Year Silence

He said the relationship survived long periods of separation, expensive telephone bills and a two-year period of silence.

"We stopped corresponding for a while," he said. "We had a difference of opinion."

But in 1975 Miss Pane decided to write to him before leaving on a trip to Europe. "I figured I had better write to Steven, because if I didn't, I'd run into him over there and he'd be mad at me," she said.

The couple got together in London and "we decided we had missed one another," Newland said. They spent that Christmas and New Year's together and that started them considering marriage.

"My mother thinks I'm crazy," the new bride said of the expected separation from her new husband.

Prison Surgery Gives Convicts 'Better Image'

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Things are improved these days for Roy Edwards although he's still a prison inmate. For one thing, he looks a lot better.

A decade ago Edwards, 38, was almost bald and his face was covered with scars from a car wreck that required 103 stitches.

Now his head is covered with dark brown hair and only a thin scar above one eye mars his face. He says he's got a better self image.

And the cost for the new self image? Zero dollars but a few years of his life behind bars.

Edwards, in jail on charges of armed robbery and indecent exposure, took advantage of Texas' penal system, one of 22 around the country that offers government-paid plastic surgery to inmates.

The Texas program has been in operation since 1952 with eligible inmates receiving medical treatment from physicians from Baylor and St. Joseph's medical schools in Houston.

Testimony By Park To House Probers Demanded By Solon

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said Sunday he has demanded that the South Korean government permit Tongsun Park to testify to House investigators on alleged influence buying — or risk the loss of U.S. military aid.

O'Neill said he asked South Korean Ambassador Yong Shik Kim on Wednesday to deliver the message to South Korean President Park Chung Hee, "and he said he would."

The Massachusetts Democrat said he learned Kim was returning to Seoul on Thursday and that the ambassador had been wanting to make a courtesy call. O'Neill said he consulted with the State Department, then invited Kim to his office to receive the message for President Park.

O'Neill said he told Kim to tell President Park, "We need Tongsun Park over here. Unless he's returned, you're in dire trouble."

O'Neill said he told Kim the continuing influence-buying scandal was jeopardizing relations between the United States and South Korea and was endangering military assistance legislation for the South Korean government.

"It doesn't augur well for our defense. It doesn't augur well for your defense. And it doesn't augur well for the free world," O'Neill said he told Kim.

"I don't think that we could get an arms bill or mutual aid bill through to help Korea," the House speaker said. He made his remarks in an appearance on CBS-TV's "Face the Natiop."

"I'm not going to take to the floor ... I saved the last one (aid measure). The feelings on this are running high," O'Neill said. "We've got to get this behind us."

Gary Hymel, O'Neill's press secretary, said later Sunday that it was the first time O'Neill had issued such a warning.

Asked whether O'Neill actually was threatening a cutoff of funds, Hymel said: "That's the impression we wanted to leave." Hymel said it was believed Kim was to meet with President Park in Seoul on Monday and deliver the message at that time.

He said O'Neill's message to the South Korean leader involved U.S. plans to allow South Korea to keep military equipment affected by the phased withdrawal of American troops from the Asian nation.

O'Neill also said he demanded that Tongsun Park be required to appear before House investigators before any criminal trials associated with the alleged influence buying get underway in the United States. Tongsun Park is a South Korean businessman indicted in connection with the alleged influence-buying operation.

U.S. prosecutors have been questioning Tongsun Park in Seoul, but no agreement has been reached between the United States and South Korea on whether he should testify to congressional investigators.

Solons Vary In Opinions On Tax Cut

gress, Carter was adamant about the desirability of making tax laws fairer, a key campaign promise.

"The average working man and woman pay for the loopholes and the special provisions in our tax laws — because when some do not pay their fair share, the majority must pay higher taxes to make up the difference," he said.

Carter added: "There is no good reason for next-door neighbors, in the same economic circumstances, to have vastly different tax bills because one has found tax shelters and loopholes."

Blumenthal Expects Passage

Meanwhile, Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal said in an appearance on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" that he thinks Carter's tax cut proposals will get through Congress, adding that it was premature to discuss what trade-offs the administration might be prepared to make if the measure runs into problems.

Rep. John Rhodes, R-Ariz., said Carter's proposal was a good start but that a $25 billion tax cut isn't enough "if you are going to do the things which the president thinks this tax cut should do."

"In order to make up just for the inflation factor, you would have to "In order to make up just for the inflation factor, you would have to "In order to make up just for the inflation factor, you would have to "In order to make up just for the inflation factor, you would have to "In order to make up just for the inflation factor, you would have to have $31 billion instead of $25 (billion) and in order to actually take into consideration the loss to the American public as far as the Social Security tax is concerned, the total tax cut would have to be $51 billion," Rhodes said.

He made his remarks on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Appearing on the same program, Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., Senate minority leader, said he is "pleased with the language of Carter's proposal. He added: "But so much depends then on the detail, how the tax cut, if there is a tax cut, is allocated; what we do with respect to the reduction in the size of the intrusiveness of government, how we go about establishing new jobs in the private sector."

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, had said earlier he thinks the $25-billion net tax cut is too high. He said about $15 billion would be more desirable.

Sen. William V. Roth, R-Del., sponsor of a Republican-backed tax-cut plan, called Carter's proposal to replace the $750 personal exemption with a $240-per-person credit a scheme to "soak the middle class."

Deductions Fight Expected

Carter's plan to scale down individual itemized deductions is expected to face a difficult fight in this election year simply because it would affect so many middle-income taxpayers, who typically vote in large numbers. The popularity of these provisions was proven again late last year when the House stripped from Carter's energy bill a section that would have killed the deduction for state and local gasoline taxes.

Here are major parts of the Carter proposal:

—Individual tax rates, currently ranging from 14 to 70 percent of taxable income, would be cut to 12 to 68 percent. Proportionately larger reductions would go to low-and middle-income taxpayers.

—The present tax exemption of $750 per taxpayer and each dependent and the $35-per-person tax credit would be eliminated in favor of a $240-per-person credit. (An exemption reduces the amount of income subject to tax; a credit reduces the tax itself.)

This change would benefit most taxpayers earning $22,000 a year or less. Most persons or families at or near the poverty level would pay no tax at all.

—The deductions allowed for state and local gasoline, personal-property and sales taxes would be eliminated.

—Current law allows a deduction, for those who itemize, of one-half of the first $300 paid each year for medical insurance, plus other uninsured medical expenses that exceed $100 from theft and fire.

Deductions Combined

Carter wants to combine the medical and casualty deductions into a new "extraordinary expense" deduction. It would apply to all such expenses that exceed 10 percent of income.

—The current 4-percent federal tax on telephone service would be repealed, effective next Oct. 1.

—Corporate taxes would be cut by about $6 billion a year, mainly by gradually reducing the maximum tax rate from 48 to 44 percent and by expanding the ability of businesses to reduce their taxes by investing in equipment and machinery.

—Businesses would no longer be able to claim deductions for theater and sports tickets, yachts, hunting trips, lodges and first-class airfair. The deductions for "business lunches" would be cut in half.

—The minimum tax, enacted in an effort to assure that wealthy persons pay some tax, no matter how many deductions they claim, would be strengthened.

Under present law, a high income person pays a 15 percent tax on certain mahor deductions but is allowed to reduce that "minimum tax" by half the regular income tax paid. Carter proposes to end that offset.

—Two major tax breaks that are worth about $2 billion a year to big corporations would be phased out over three years. One is special tax treatment for earnings on exports; the other allows such firms to avoid tax on foreign income until the money is returned to the United States.

Cambodia Refugee Tells Of 'Purification' Horror

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pin Yathay escaped from his native Cambodia after two years of seeing starving people in hospitals hide the bodies of the dead so they could eat them. He saw his parents, his brothers and sisters, and his children die, one by one.

Yathay, a 34-year-old civil engineer, arrived in Washington Friday, telling his story under the auspices of the American Security Council, a private group which supports and lobbies for American military spending.

2.5 Million Deaths

He said that at least 2.5 million people, of a total population of six million, have died since the communist Khmer Rouge took power in Cambodia in 1975. China has expressed strong support of the Khmer Rouge government.

A State Department Cambodian expert confirmed that Yathay was director of public works for Cambodia under the fallen Lon Nol government. He confirmed that Yathay turned up as a refugee in Thailand six months ago. There is no way to confirm Yathay's story of what happened in the meantime. The Khmer Rouge allow no contact with Americans.

"On April 17, 1975, the Khmer Rouge took power. After a moment of stupefaction, all the people in the city were happy. They acclaimed the victors. We thought that peace had arrived and we'd be able to work after five years of disaster and destruction.

Everyone Had To Leave

"But after a few hours, the order came to evacuate the city of Phnom Penh. Everyone had to leave — soldiers, civilians, monks, the wounded and sick, even women giving birth.

"We walked in single file. A lot of the children and the sick died on the way. After 10 days, we crossed a river and reached Cheu Khmarr. The next day, the work in the fields began. We worked 12 hours a day, seven days a week. Every third day, there was a political-education session."

Yathay said the Khmer Rouge divided Cambodia's population into two groups: the "old" people, mostly rural, who had lived under Khmer Rouge control; and the "new" people, mostly city dwellers, who had lived under the Lon Nol government and had to be "purified" before they could be integrated into the new society.

Conditions Grew Worse

Cheu Khmarr was the first of four places where Yathay was moved. Conditions, he said, grew steadily worse at each, but he kept moving because he was afraid the Khmer Rouge was looking for past officials of the Lon Nol regime. He told people that he had been merely a technician in the public works department.

"In January 1976, we began eating communally. You could no longer keep cooking utensils or uncooked rice. Everything belonged to the 'angkar,' the Khmer word for the organization. Rations began to diminish in March until they reached one tin of rice per day for eight people. There were many deaths due to sickness. I would estimate that 80 percent of the people died.

"Generally, the poor died first because the wealthier people still had jewels they could barter with the wives of the Khmer Rouge soldiers for extra food.

Dead Bodies Eaten

"If a mother was caught stealing food, the whole family was taken away. Cats and dogs disappeared. People began to eat the flesh from dead bodies. A teacher who ate the flesh of her dead sister was caught and beaten to death with sticks in front of the whole village, her child crying beside her."

"In my family, there were 15 people left (three had previously died or been taken away). Twelve died in front of my eyes. My father, aged 60, was worn out and couldn't work anymore. He was cut to half rations and died.

"My mother was hospitalized and my sister pretended she was sick so she could go to the hospital and look after her. She caught the fever and died first. Another sister went, and she died. Then my mother died.

"My nine-year-old son was still at home because he had a sore leg. One day the Khmer Rouge leader came to our hut and said, 'comrade, you still have strong individualist tendencies. You are keeping your child. He should be with the angkar.'

Volunteered To Leave

"My son volunteered to leave. He said he might eat more with the angkar youth group. He left, and five days later, it was announced he was dead. I don't know why. I went to see the body, but he had already been buried, and all I could see were his clothes."

Yathay left his last son in the hospital in the care of a mother whose six children had died. Using false papers, he and his wife went to another village. By bribing the wife of the village chief with about three ounces of gold, they were able to stay and to eat well, he said.

Then, in May 1977, he and his wife and 10 others left on a 100-mile trek through the jungle to the border with Thailand. His wife and the others were eventually caught by the Khmer Rouge, he said. He was the last left free.

"I ate leaves and fruits, frogs and turtles. Three vultures followed me for a week. Five kilometers from the border, the Khmer Rouge saw and took me prisoner. But I was no longer afraid. I thought that by dying I would join my family."

Escape During Rainstorm

Yathay said he "miraculously" managed to escape from his captors during a driving rainstorm and made his way into Thailand on his hands and knees. He displays a picture taken by Thai officials a month after he arrived. He was so gaunt that his head looks like a balloon on a string. It is impossible to tell if it is Yathay.

Officials Still Seek Redwood Vandals

EUREKA, Calif. (UPI) — Authorities tried during the weekend to solve the mystery of who has destroyed or damaged 16 historic, giant Redwood trees, some several thousand years old and popular attractions for tourists from around the nation.

The vandalism, which began Jan. 3, came amid a dispute between loggers and conservationists over a congressional bill to expand Redwood National Park, but both sides angrily attacked the desecration of the trees.

The Redwoods are preserved in groves along Highway 101, and the latest vandalism occurred Friday when four of the trees were chain-sawed and damaged on the Avenue of the Giants in Humboldt Redwood State Park about 55 miles south of Eureka.

The four marred trees stand from 250 to 300 feet tall and range from 6 to 10 feet in diameter. Nine trees damaged earlier had to be brought down.

Park and law enforcement officials said they are mystified, but friction is growing between the conservationists and loggers as a hearing is planned for this week concerning expansion of federal Redwood reserves.

A congressional bill would add 48,000 acres of heavily timbered mountain land to the Redwood National Park.

The first vandalism Jan. 3 resulted in the destruction of three 1,500-to-2,000-year-old trees, two of them tourist attractions with walk-through tunnels.

Glen Jones of the California Park Department office in Eureka said he had never seen anything like it.

"Never just plain senseless destruction," he said. "These trees are truly one of the wonders of the world.

"Every one was near the highway. It is not difficult to use a chain saw and go unnoticed. Chain saws are a tool of the north woods."

Mayor Sam Sacco of Eureka, who spent last week in Washington lobbying against the expansion bill with representatives of labor and the timber industry, described the cutting of the trees as "a detestable act."

"I want the persons arrested and convicted," he said. "It is not a part of anything we have done. Emotions get warm, but our anger is kept within bounds.

"I could have made the statement that someone who approves of the park (expansion) did it. But I wouldn't do that. It has to be someone with a deranged mind."

The Associated California Loggers and the California State Park Rangers Association have each posted $1,000 rewards for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the vandals.

"Because of the commercial value of the trees — $125,000 — the vandalism charge would be a felony," said sheriff's investigator Phil Cox.

Ordination Of Gays Urged By Presbyterian Task Force

By United Press International

WASHINGTON — A task force of the United Presbyterian Church recommended Sunday the church adopt a policy statement allowing homosexuals to be ordained to the ministry.

The proposal will be presented for action later this year to the general assembly of the denomination, which has 2.6 million members.

The assembly will be asked to rule that each presbytery and congregation should decide the question on its own, but a minority report will ask the group to vote against ordination of homosexuals.

In the proposed policy statement, the task force said that while the church's constitution "does not prohibit a presbytery from ordaining a candidate who is homosexual, it is also clear that it does not require it to do so."

"May a self-affirming, practicing homosexual Christian be ordained?" the proposed policy statement asks.

"We believe so, if that person manifests such gifts as are required for ordination," it said.

"For some homosexual Christians growth toward mature Christian living may imply accepting celibacy; for some it may imply accomplishing reorientation to heterosexuality; however, for others it may imply remaining open to or attaining full companionship and partnership with a person of the same sex."

The issue is one now being intensely debated in a number of Protestant denominations.

Among Episcopalians, the decision of the Rt. Rev. Paul Moore, bishop of New York, to ordain a lesbian to the priesthood, has deeply divided the church, and was the ostensible reason that a breakaway group left to form a new American Anglican body.

The proposed United Presbyterian statement, however, says that the issue threatens unity among church members "only if we allow it to undermine our common ultimate loyalty to Jesus Christ."

The statement calls on the church to "confess its homophobia and be healed of it so that homosexual persons may be approached with grace rather than guilt, with love rather than hate, with compassion rather than fear, and with justice rather than oppression.

"There is no legal, social, or moral justification for denying persons of homosexual orientation access to the basic requirements of human social existence," the statement said.

Ethiopia Expels German Envoy

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Ethiopia expelled West Germany's ambassador Sunday in apparent retaliation for Bonn's grant of $11.8 million in credits to Somalia that could be used to buy arms.

Addis Ababa radio said the envoy, Johann Christian Lankes, was told by the Ethiopian Foreign Ministry to leave the country within 24 hours.

"The continued stay of Dr. Lankes in Ethiopia has been found to be detrimental to the traditional relations existing between the two countries," the radio said.

In Bonn, a West German spokesman said, "We cannot understand the Ethiopian government's decision."

The expulsion came within a day of Bonn's disclosure it had given Somalia $11.8 million in credits to use on projects of its own choosing.

While West Germany said it was understood the funds would not be used to buy arms, the "blank check" fashion in which it was granted led some diplomats to believe the aid would be used to help defray military costs of Somalia's six-month war with Ethiopia in the Ogaden region.

The credit grant was believed to be in fulfillment of a promise the Germans made to Somalia after their commandos rescued 86 hostages held by terrorists aboard a Lufthansa airliner at Mogadishu airport last October.

Last week, Ethiopia expelled the West German military attache, Lt. Col. Deltev von Muenchow, asserting that the two countries no longer have any military cooperation.

Somalia last week asked the United States, Britain, France, Italy and West Germany for aid to help fight off an expected Soviet-backed invasion from Ethiopia. The United States and Britain rejected the request outright and all five countries said in Washington they favored a negotiated settlement.

In Moscow, the Soviet Union Sunday accused the West of encouraging Somalia to attack Ethiopia.

The authoritative International Weekly Review of the Communist Party newspaper Pravda said "While some Western powers actually encouraged Somalia to launch an aggression, the Soviet Union, on the contrary, was doing everything to prevent an armed conflict."

The Soviets shut off arms supplies to Somalia in August and were, in turn, expelled from their bases in Somalia in November.

Montana Governor Picks Judge For Senate Seat

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) — Montana Gov. Thomas Judge, a Democrat, Sunday appointed Chief Justice Paul Hatfield of the State Supreme Court to complete the unexpired term of U.S. Sen. Lee Metcalf, who died 10 days ago.

Hatfield is scheduled to be sworn in as senator Monday afternoon. Metcalf's term of office runs until January 1979.

Gov. Judge said that Metcalf, who had announced prior to his death that he did not intend to seek re-election, had personally recommended Hatfield as qualified to succeed him.

Judge himself had previously expressed interest in running for election to Metcalf's seat but never formally declared himself in the race for the post. In making Sunday's announcement, he gave no clue to his own political plans.

Hatfield was a district judge in Montana for 17 years, and was elected chief justice in 1976 by more than 100,000 votes — the largest margin in Montana history for that office.

Metcalf, a Democrat who spent 25 years in Congress and was a champion of conservation, was found dead in his apartment in Helena Jan. 12, apparently of a heart attack, at the age of 66. He was praised posthumously by President Carter as "a voice that had long spoken up for preserving the great wilderness areas of this country."

Judge said Sunday in his announcement that Metcalf fought during his 25 years in Congress for the belief "that government should exist for the people, not for the powerful, the privileged and the special interest groups."

Metcalf was a member of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee and the Governmental Affairs Committee. He was a key supporter of the strip-mining legislation approved in 1977.

At the time of his death, he was working to classify millions of acres of federal land adjacent to Glacier and Yellowstone national parks as wilderness areas.

The governor will appoint a successor to Hatfield as state chief justice after receiving nominations from a special judicial advisory committee.

'Chicken Ranch' Fails In Career As Restaurant

DALLAS (UPI) — Texas' most famous brothel has failed in its attempt at a second life.

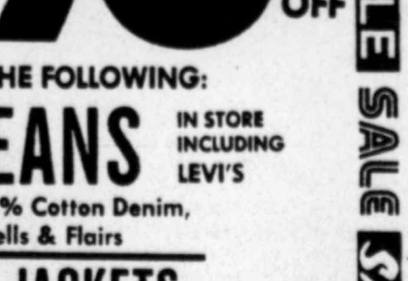

The Chicken Ranch's new image succumbed last week to cold weather and sparse crowds, closing after four months of rehabilitation on Dallas' restaurant-loaded Greenville Avenue.

"We had a little slump during the holiday season," said manager Bill Fair III, who helped organize the move of the building from La-Grange.

"The problem was there were no funds available to add additional heating capacity," he said.

Wilmington 10 Release Possible

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. James Hunt will go on statewide television Monday to announce a decision on pardoning or reducing the sentences of the Wilmington 10, whose case has drawn attention internationally and become politically volatile at home.

The case of those charged in a firebombing during a 1971 racial disturbance puts the first-term Democratic governor between international opinion and his constituency at home.

Amnesty International, which last year won the Nobel Peace Prize, has called the Wilmington 10 "prisoners of conscience." The Soviet government has cited the case as an example of human rights violations in the United States. The East German press has sent representatives to North Carolina to report on the case, and rallies have been held in Paris and East European cities as well as the United States in support of the defendants.

In North Carolina, petitions have been circulated urging the 40-year-old Hunt not to intervene in the case, leaving the defendants to serve out their sentences.

The case arose out of the firebombing of a grocery store during racial disturbances in Wilmington, a city of about 45,000 located on an inlet along the North Carolina coast.

The Rev. Benjamin Chavis II and eight other young black Wilrnington men were convicted of the firebombing and conspiracy to fire on emergency personnel during the strife. A white woman, since paroled, was convicted of being an accessory.

The three key prosecution witnesses, all black, have since said that they gave false testimony because of threats of reprisal or offers of favors.

Two years ago, the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear the appeal of the Wilmington 10 men, who are serving prison sentences ranging from 29 to 34 years.

After the state Court of Appeals rejected the group's appeal for a new trial earlier this month, Hunt, who had said a "reasonable time" should be allowed for the courts to resolve the case, said it was "an appropriate time for the governor to make a decision."

Chavis, who was sent to Wilmington to help quell the racial violence, got the longest sentence — 25 to 29 years on the burning charge and four to five for conspiracy. He and his supporters contend authorities branded him a troublemaker and were out to get him, dragging the others into prison in his wake.

Chavis, a slender black man with a light complexion and scraggly whiskers, was sent to Wilmington in February 1971 by the United Church of Christ's Commission for Racial Justice.

The state-financed Good Neighbor Council and the Rev. Eugene Templeton, the white pastor of Gregory Congregational Church, a meeting place for black youths in the heart of Wilmington's black community, had urged Chavis to come to Wilmington.

"We were glad to have Chavis there," the Rev. Aaron Johnson, then a member of the Good Neighbor Council, recalled recently. "There was no leadership, no black leadership at all, in Wilmington. Militants were starting to stream in from out of the state and they were trying to get control of Wilmington's blacks. Chavis was about the only man we knew who could prevent that and still have a chance of keeping a lid on things."

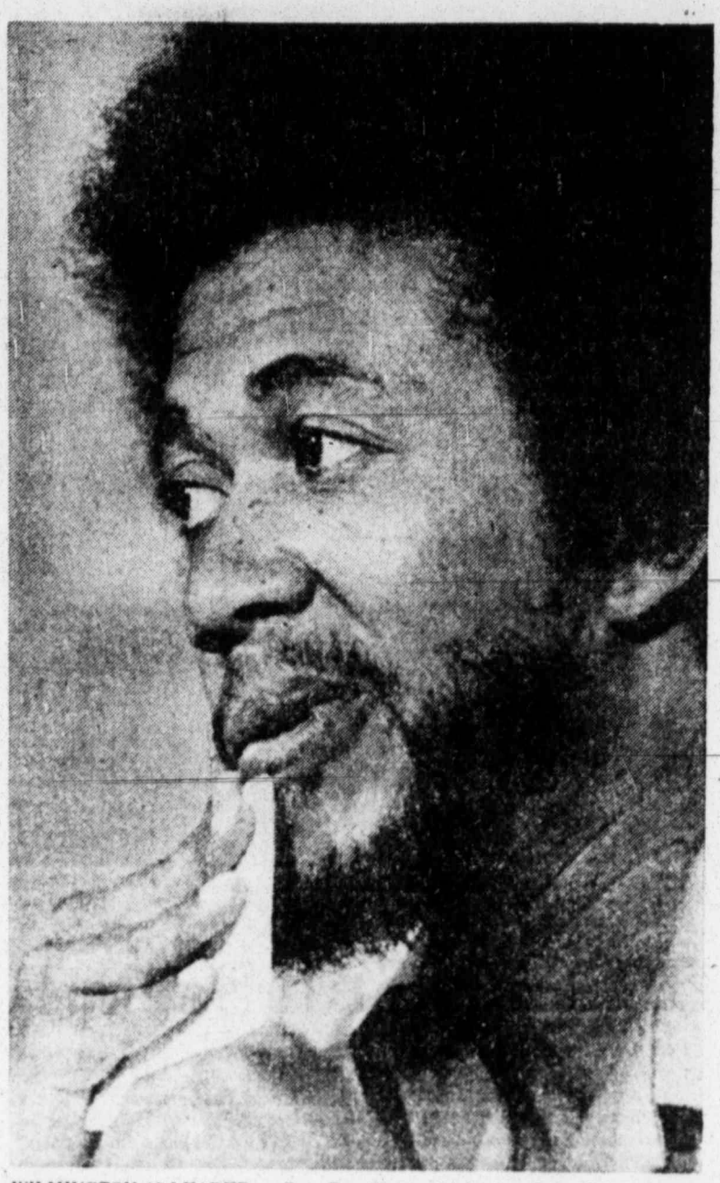

"So far as we've been able to determine, he's never instigated any violence," said Everett Parker, head of the United Church of Christ's communication office in New York. "He is a gentle man. He has been absolutely honest in everything he did. He could have done what (Eldridge) Cleaver and some of the others (black militants during the 1960s and early 1970s) did, fled or come up here to New York. But he stayed right there through everything. He felt a responsbility to the others who were arrested with him."

The United Church of Christ has given financial support to Chavis throughout his legal battles and continues to pay him as director of its Commission for Racial Justice in Washington, though he is imprisoned.

There are others who think Chavis did not try to keep the lid on Wilmington's rising racial troubles.

"I place the blame right there where it belongs," L.M. Cromartie, then-mayor of Wilmington, once said. "Right with that United Church of Christ. They sent a pro in here to stir up our town. I feel sorry for those other boys. They were influenced by a pro. But I don't feel sorry for Ben Chavis."

James T. Stroud, the assistant district attorney who prosecuted the 10, said during a post-conviction hearing last year on new evidence — that the state's witnesses had committed perjury — that the group is too dangerous to release from prison.

WILMINGTON 10 LEADER — Rev. Ben Chavis, the leader of the Wilmington 10, who has been in a North Carolina prison since Feb. 2, 1976, will learn Monday night if his sentence will end early. Gov. James B. Hunt will go on statewide television to announce whether he will act to release Chavis and the remainder of the group known internationally as the Wilmington 10. Chavis is shown during a July 1977 news conference at McCain Prison. (AP Laserphoto)

New Jersey Political Expert In Line For Democratic Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man slated to become executive director of the Democratic Party offered to help the Republican gubernatorial nominee in New Jersey last year after working in two unsuccessful primary campaigns to unseat Democratic Gov. Brendan Byrne.

Dan Horgan, a professional political consultant whose most noted accomplishment was his handling of Jimmy Carter's 1976 presidential campaign in Ohio, says the offer wasn't serious. And New Jersey Republicans say they were suspicious of it because of Horgan's Democratic background.

Nevertheless, Horgan acknowledges submitting a $340,465 bid to apply his political expertise to Republican Ray Bateman's general election campaign against Byrne, who was seeking his second term.

When the Republicans rejected the offer, Horgan eventually made his peace with Byrne and took a lesser role as consultant to the winning Byrne campaign.

Now, Horgan has been selected by the White House and party chairman-designate John White to be executive director of the Democratic National Committee. He is expected to be appointed after White's formal election at the DNC meeting here this week.

As executive director, Horgan would be White's chief aide and operations chief. Although the job is little-noticed publicly, it is one of the most critical in Democratic politics.

Horgan has a reputation as one of the country's best political tacticians. His performance in Ohio in 1976 is acknowledged by Carter forces as being one of the keys to the president's victory.

Despite Ohio's historic preference for Republicans in presidential elections, Carter carried the state by some 7,000 votes out of almost 4 million cast and captured its 25 electoral votes. It was one of the two midwestern upsets — the other was Wisconsin — which led to Carter's electoral majority.

After the presidential election, Horgan returned to New Jersey, where he is president of Princeton Campaign Associates, and began looking for a role in the state's upcoming gubernatorial campaign.

Under fire because of a state income tax enacted in his first term, Byrne was generally felt to be vulnerable if not doomed politically. But both the governor and the tax proved to be more popular than their critics had thought.

For a while Horgan teamed with former Jersey City Mayor Paul Jordan, who was preparing to challenge Byrne for the nomination. But when Jordan's handpicked successor lost in Jersey City, Jordan withdrew from the governor's race.

Horgan then joined the gubernatorial campaign of Rep. Robert Rowe, who finished second to Byrne in the Democratic primary out of a field of 10.

Having failed twice against Byrne with Democrats, Horgan then offered to join Bateman and the Republicans. He submitted a 14-page bid entitled: "A proposal prepared expressly for Raymond Bateman, Republican Candidate for Governor and the Republican State Committee."

The submission proposed the standard campaign operations, including canvassing, voter identification and persuasion, telephone banks and election day activities.

"Daniel W. Horgan, president of Princeton Campaign Associates, in addition to administering the programs described below, will be available for consultation on questions of policy, strategy and tactics, at the discretion of campaign leadership," the bid offered.

"I was kind of surprised he made the offer," said Dave Norcross, New Jersey Republican state chairman. "Dan is pretty basically a Democrat. I turned him down because I didn't want to be feeding that kind of data into what is certainly predominantly a Democratic head."

"I didn't question Dan's ability to get the job done," Norcross said, "but anytime you do that kind of a job you get yourself a bank of information and unless you're a fool — and Dan's no fool — you keep it."

Horgan said he only made the presentation at the urging of Bateman, who is a personal friend of long standing despite their differing party ties.

"I didn't want to turn him down, so I just priced it out of the market," Horgan said. "Under New Jersey's public financing law, Bateman was limited to spending only $1.5 million for the campaign and a consultant's fee that would have been a quarter of that would have been prohibitive."

After his exchange with the Republicans, Horgan made his peace with Byrne and took a less ambitious role in Byrne's successful showdown with Bateman, doing some fund raising and consulting.

White House sources said Horgan had Byrne's support for the new national party job.

Japanese Tremor Toll Raised To 23

TOKYO (AP) — Earthquakes that shook a resort area on Japan's eastern seaboard this month killed at least 23 persons, and two more are missing and presumed dead, a comprehensive damage report said Sunday. Earlier reports had put the death toll at 13.

The earth tremors on the Izu Peninsula, 80 miles southwest of Tokyo, inflicted property damage of $76 million, local officials said. The series of about 40 tremors began Jan. 13. The main shock Jan. 14 registered the maximum 7 on the Japanese scale of quake intensity.

Officials said searchers have been unable to find a man and his wife who were buried in a landslide that destroyed their home, one of 87 leveled by the tremors or resulting slides. Another 4,298 buildings as well as miles of railroads and highways were reported damaged.

Aftershocks are expected to continue into February, Japan's Central Meteorogical Agency said.

In a separate development, an earthquake of intensity 3 was felt Sunday on Japan's northernmost island of Hokkaido.

Solons Forecast End To Pricing Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — A trio of congressional leaders agreed Sunday that the House and Senate may be close to ending the natural gas pricing dispute that has stalled passage of energy legislation.

Differences between House and Senate conferees over the proposed deregulation of prices on new natural gas prevented Congress from approving President Carter's energy program last year.

House members of the conference generally favor continued price controls on natural gas. A bill passed by the Senate calls for deregulation, and the two sides were unable to resolve their differences before recessing for the holidays.

However, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee, and Rep. John Rhodes, R-Ariz., House minority leader, said they believe Congress is moving toward some form of deregulation to break the stalemate.

O'Neill said he based his optimism on the attitudes of lawmakers rather than on any new tallies of the votes of members of the House-Senate energy conference committee.

"I think there is tremendous more feeling in Congress about the urgency of this, what other nations around the world feel about it," said O'Neill. "I think we're very close to a bill. I would hope we could have one on the president's desk by late February or early March."

O'Neill said he believed the full House would support some kind of deregulation if such a plan were approved by the House conferees.

"The House might go for deregulation over a seven-year period or something," he said in an appearance on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation."

Baker said he feels there may now be some new-found flexibility among members of the conference panel.

"Deregulation is the heart of the problem," he said. "I hope the administration will go along with deregulation at some point, probably accompanied by an excess profits tax. We may get a bill sometime this spring."

Rhodes said he, too, was hopeful that a compromise on energy could be worked out soon.

"It's a very complex issue," the Republican leader said. "I wouldn't want to put the onus of failure completely on Congress. The record of this administration has been very checkered as far as energy is concerned."

Baker and Rhodes made their remarks on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press."

On another matter, O'Neill defended the Carter administration's decision to replace the Republican U.S. attorney in Philadelphia, David Marston, while Baker denounced it.

Attorney General Griffin Bell advised Marston on Friday that the administration was sticking to its decision to dismiss him. Bell said Marston could remain on the job until a successor is found. But Marston, who was investigating Democratic officials in Philadelphia, said he would resign Monday rather than serve in a lameduck status.

O'Neill said he agreed with the administration's decision.

"If the House were to go Republican in the next election, every committee counsel and every committee administrative assistant would be automatically out of a job," he said. "It isn't a question of competency."

O'Neill said, however, he believes Carter erred in telling Republican U.S. attorneys last year that they would be allowed to stay in their jobs until they concluded cases already underway.

"The system has worked well in the past and I'm not critical of the president at all," he said. "If I'm critical, I don't think they moved speedily enough."

Baker suggested the Marston case may come up when Carter seeks confirmation for the prosecutor's successor.

"I think President Carter made it an issue," he said. "It was brazenly political in this case. The president, I think, tried to avoid making it a political issue. It may very well be a political issue of significant proportions in 1978."

Easement Granted On Prized Land

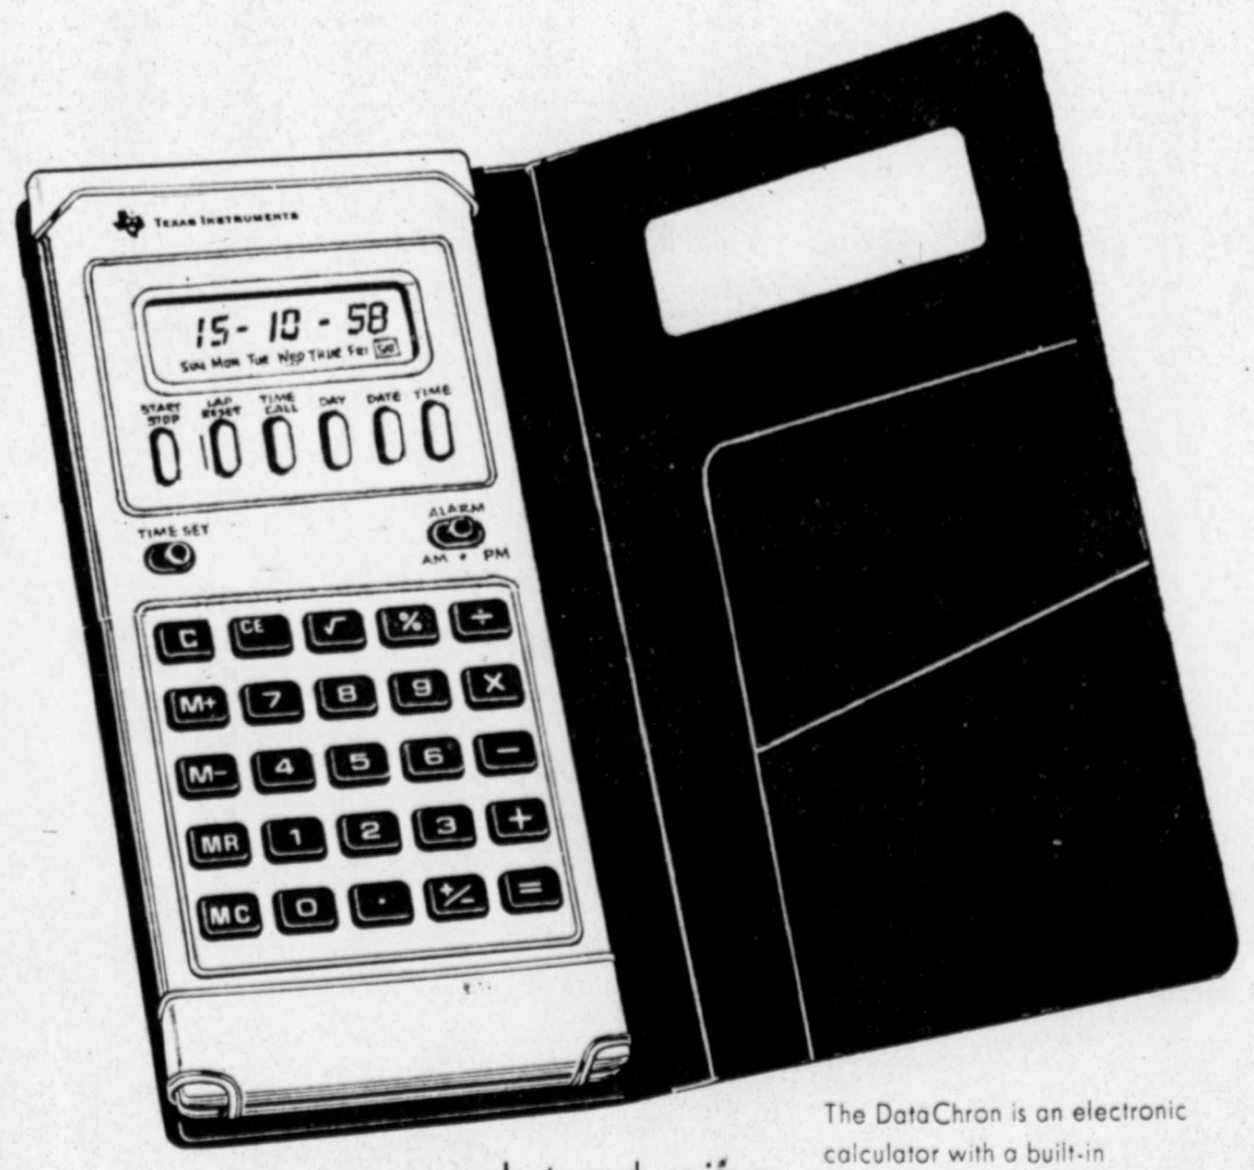

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Acting Gov. Blair Lee told State Treasurer William S. James "you're out of you're mind."

Nonetheless, James told the Maryland Board of Public Works on Friday that the state could have a conservation easement on land he owns in Harford County.

The governor made the remark because the easement would prohibit commercial development on the land — 35 acres of which are choice industrial property.

The tract is the only land in the county, with the exception of federal property, that borders the Chesapeake Bay.

James offered to keep the land is its natural state, reserving the right to build four homes.

Business & Industrial Review

Ski-Lubbock Sports Single Source For Apparel, Equipment, Repairs, Rentals

"Our stock is heavy, and the selection is the finest we know how to assemble," is the word from the "pros" at Ski-Lubbock Sports.

What better news could there be now at the beginning of the ski season!

(Reports are that skiing is excellent in a number of the popular ski areas. Ruidoso reports new and heavy snow, excellent powder for maximum ski enjoyment.

(Ski-Lubbock Sports provides a 24-hour ski report; one may simply dial 747-6641 for latest conditions around the clock.)

Several Departments

Ski-Lubbock Sports, 2918 4th St., (where "skiing is our only business") traditionally comes through with the finest, whether in apparel sales, ski equipment sales, rentals or repairs. The firm actually maintains the finest repair facilities in the state, it is reported.

Apparel was never prettier or of better quality than now . . . at Ski-Lubbock Sports. The new colors for the season are like a rainbow in choice fabrics, and Ski-Lubbock Sports is happy to present Roffe parkas and accessories, Demetre sweaters and Bogner apparel as new additions to their clothing lines this season, enriching the existing lines of Anba, Innsbruck, White Stag, Beconta and Profile — all great names in the world of ski apparel.

Many of these lines are shown here only at Ski-Lubbock Sports.

Co-owners Hoyle Moss and son, Steve H. Moss, each voice their pleasure in adding Roffe, Demetre and Bogner, lines that meet the quality and function test required of products carried by their Lubbock firm.

Not only does Ski-Lubbock Sports constantly strive to provide finest in equipment and apparel, but it also works at making one's shopping more interesting. New interior remodeling has made better utilization of space and affords customers with the true mountain ski chalet atmosphere.

Ski-Lubbock Sports staffmembers are true professionals backed with training and experience in all phases of the business.

"It is here you get the facts, not the fast talk."

Quality Lines

Olin, Dynastar and Sarner comprise the quality ski lines, with Sarner added this year at Ski-Lubbock Sports. (Sarner offers colorful skis with varying degrees of flex and performance and names including the Skill, Kick and Ray.

Olin is carried in depth in all models including the new Mark VI and the Mark IV. Dynastar is featured in Medalist, Freestyle, Laser, Pulsar and FPS models.

Tyrolia bindings, with 25mm of lateral elasticity in the toe, have been added to the existing Salomon and Look systems. All have high shock absorption and quick return to center force characteristics. Step-in or turntable types are available.

The award-winning Hanson, as well as the Dolomite lines, comprise the ski boots stocked, ranging from $85 to $220.

The Hanson is truly a revolutionary boot designed around the foot, providing comfort and warmth, with the latter obtained from the microcelluler Elastomer sock-type inner boot with custom fitting obtained from a packet of fast-forming micrseran beads.

The Hanson boot, unlike most boots, provides separate thermal and foot form fitting systems. (Hanson introduces the Citation boot in white and flame red, and one must see this Citation to appreciate its lightweight one-piece molded construction and its many other features.)

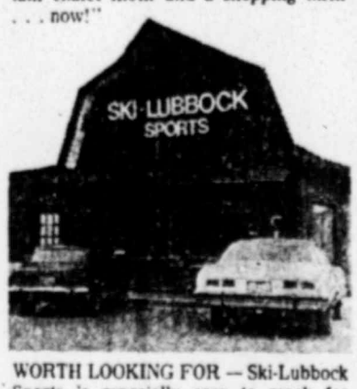

Fitting Specialists

Dolomote boots offer a lower foot profile, and the shell is of durable polyurathene construction, IOS standard sold configuration, and it is offered in three or four-buckle models. The Turbo, GTS and Espada are stocked in a full range of sizes and widths.

Comfort and flex patterns are criteria in the selection of boots stocked, and Ski-Lubbock Sports recognized years ago that some feet were more difficult to fit than others. They set out to educate themselves in the art of boot fitting, and for the past two years have trained under the foremost boot fitter in the nation.

"Our purpose is to fit the boot to the foot and not to assume the foot is going to fit perfectly in all boots. Pronation and flat feet are common causes of problems, so if you have a boot problem, in many instances you can find relief from a good boot fitter."

"There you have a thumbnail picture of Ski-Lubbock Sports for the current season . . . the new lines, along with the accessories, true professionals with facts and not fast talk, certified ski mechanics on duty, a fully equipped repair facility, and personnel with a desire to serve you. If you haven't visited Ski-Lubbock Sports lately, why not treat yourself to a mountain chalet motif and a shopping thrill . . . now!"

WORTH LOOKING FOR — Ski-Lubbock Sports is especially easy to reach for southwest Lubbock residents who can take Indiana Avenue through the Tech campus to 4th Street, turning right for a few blocks, and there it is, on the north side, at 2918 4th St. Wherever one lives, a trip is advocated to Ski-Lubbock Sports, where the snow skiers meet.

Mickie's Beauty Academy, Nationally Accredited, Pinpoints Other Pluses

Outstanding in every phase of its operation, Mickie's Beauty Academy in Monterey Center has several benefits that might be singled out for special note:

(1) Its enrollment has steadily climbed, and the students are reported most successful in their achievements after graduation.

(2) Nationally accredited, Mickie's Beauty Academy is VA approved, and GEOD grants are honored.

Its certificate of accreditation points out how after examination of its educational practices and achievements by the Cosmetology Accrediting Commission (national) the school has been awarded its certificate. High professional standards also are noted.

(3) Several vocational students are among those at the Academy, with area school vocational contracts involved and honored.

(4) Every Tuesday is Senior Citizens Day at the school, with discount prices (from the regular school prices) effective on haircuts, shampoo and sets for senior citizens. Of course, other customers are welcomed on the same day, but at regular low prices.

(5) An extensive skin care and facial program now is a reality and most popular at Mickie's Beauty Academy. Mickie points out how a customer can have hands and feet treated at the same time the skin care program is being utilized.

MICKIE ROPER

(6) Owner Mickie Roper recently returned from intensive study in Europe, attending the International '77 Salon in London and taking private classes there. She brings this added and latest knowledge back for benefit of the student and customer alike at the Academy.

She even more recently has been elected to the board of directors to the Texas Association of Beauty Schools.

Enrollment at Mickie's Beauty Academy is available any day, Tuesdays through Saturdays, and Mickie personally instructs.

Students are encouraged to reach greatest proficiency and are recognized accordingly, with plaques and other honors.

All this also directly benefits the public, as one is invited to utilize the services of the Academy, at popular school prices. (Call for appointment; patrons are welcomed Tuesdays through Saturdays.)

Spring Arrivals Dominating Selection At Vetral's Fashions

"Add new zest to the weeks ahead; shop now (at Vetral's Fashions) for new spring apparel items that are arriving daily!"

Also there are some numbers in fall and winter wear left, and these are drastically reduced in price from the already-low cost. If the size still is available in a garment of one's choice in this season wear, then an exceptional saving is effected.

The new spring merchandise is likely the most gorgeous ever, with new, pretty colors and patterns. Select from dresses, coordinates, long dresses, pant suits, jumpsuits, etc.

Everything at Vetral's is new — nothing is in the expansive racks but fresh, delightful stock.

"The Best for Less" is the meaningful slogan at Vetral's Fashions, located just east of Lubbock. Go east on the well-marked route, from Lubbock's East 4th Street, to north of the Roosevelt School. The drive takes less time than many instances of traffic fighting within one's own city area.

Though open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., Vetral's is glad to open late for the convenience of customers wishing to shop at a later hour.

This is just one of the thoughtful gestures of the smart apparel shop. (Remember, simply take FM 40 east of Lubbock for six miles, then go three-fourths mile south.) The fashion shop on the west side of the pavement is clearly marked and features easy access and plenty of paved parking. No congestion here! No high overhead here!

Owners Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Davis traditionally assure real treats in fashion and quality at sensible prices. They and their capable assistants give the customer every benefit.

Select from pant suits, coordinates, dresses, sweaters, blouses, etc., that reflect the care in which Vetral's buys and stocks.

'NEW CAN BE ECONOMICAL' — Mrs. Jimmy Davis, owner of Vetral's Fashions, popular apparel shop just east of Lubbock, calls attention to a chic ensemble among the new arrivals for spring, presented at modest price as traditional at Vetral's.

For those who already know the everyday low prices and the chic merchandise at Vetral's, enthusiasm naturally is being shown for the new spring arrivals. For those who may not have patronized Vetral's, now would be an excellent time . . . come on out and shop while selection is at its best.

Vetral's can be called, directly (toll free) from Lubbock; dial 842-3376.

Master Charge and Visa card use is welcomed.

Sherry Nelson Conducting February Workshops At Village Craft Corner

Another great opportunity has been availed at Village Craft Corner!

Sherry Nelson, master tole teacher from Odessa, has been secured to conduct workshops Feb. 3, 4.

Now is the time to sign for these workshops as the demand for attendance always has been heavy.

Cost is only $15 per class, with sessions from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. on the announced dates, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 3, 4.

On Friday, the subject for painting will be "green apples," with the Saturday session devoted to "sweet peas."

Master Teacher

Sherry has been most active in the field of decorative art for several years, teaching workshops and seminars for advanced students and teachers throughout the nation. She has been enthusiastically received in previous appearances at Village Craft Corner.

Fully Stocked

Exceptional opportunities traditionally are the rule at Village Craft, in South Plains Mall, with an enviable record of superior workshops, art and craft classes.

'Better Hearing Aid Center' Outlines Products, Services

For hearing help, the Better Hearing Aid Center is a good place to know!

The Better Hearing Aid Center, No. 30 Redbud Square, about midway between 4th Street and 19th Street on Slide Road, is a multi-line dealer, specializing in all-in-the-ear models. Service and repairs on any make of hearing aid is expertly afforded, too.

James O. Davidson, certified hearing aid audiologist at the Better Hearing Aid Center, recently announced a most helpful program to assist one "after" purchase of the hearing aid. This C.A.R.E. program includes a video unit with a series of tapes that explains graphically how to enjoy and use one's aid to the fullest. It helps, among other things, in "learning how to listen", in adjustment of the aid, and even helpful hints on "attitudes".

Other benefits also are provided at Better Hearing Aid Center. Davidson makes scheduled trips throughout the area, and those desiring service or consultation "near to home" are invited to check his ads appring each Monday on these pages to learn of his current schedule.

"If you hear . . . but do not always understand . . . maybe all you need is the custom-made, all-in-the-ear hearing aid from Better Hearing Aid Center, Redbud Square (on Slide Road), phone 792-0507."

Learn about the convenience and utility of the tiny unit that fits all in the ear, helping nature help you hear better.

For hearing loss suitable to correction and improvement through amplification, a "Contour" hearing aid by Dahlberg offers a special kind of hearing help for mild, moderate or moderately-severe hearing impairment.

Starting with an exact impression of your own ear, a plastic shell is formed which duplicates the contours of your ear. Dahlberg's evaluation committee then analyzes your hearing loss supplied by your hearing aid specialist and selects the most suitable degree and type of amplification. Dahlberg's manufacturing staff then assembles the electronic components specified and makes your "Contour" to order within your own contoured shell . . . providing your personal hearing aid.

"Individually made to order for you, no two are alike."

And remember . . . at the Better Hearing Aid Center there is a liberal hearing aid trial rental plan.

Lubbock Electric Suggests Conversion To Electricity

Extending sincere greetings — and serving throughout the year — is no new experience and pleasure for Lubbock Electric Co., as the firm has been on the job since 1944.

"We anticipate a new year in which again we can benefit you with our products and services gauged for your trouble-free operations and savings in dollars and cents."

"Lubbock Electric Co., 1108 34th St., can be the big assist in making numerous farming operations trouble free and less expensive."

These factors can be mighty important in 1978 or any year.

Reduces Worries

Conversion to electricity is advocated by Lubbock Electric Co. for measurable reduction of irrigation worries, and the knowledgeable staff there suggests that this is an excellent time to consider converting from engine drive to electric motors.

"When you convert your well to electricity, you do away with oversized engines and constant repair expenses and operating troubles."

Lubbock Electric Co. recommends installation of its compact V-belt drive for trouble-free operation.

The firm has custom-built, adjustable motor bases that will mount the gear head, giving a compact, economical drive for wells. The experts at Lubbock Electric can supply base, motor (either new or rebuilt), pumping panel and wiring to replace present rigs.

Always On Call

Service is a big item at Lubbock Electric Co. The complete staff is on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week; and this can be mighty important to the person with a crucial task awaiting motor repair.

"Call Lubbock Electric now and ask for a representative to call on you and explain the many advantages of a changeover to electric power for your irrigation system. That number is 744-2336."

Benefits Pinpointed

With irrigation engineered by Lubbock Electric, the following advantages are assured:

—Easy pump adjustment.

—Dayton exclusive cog belts for non-slip V-drive.

—Low maintenance and operating costs.

—Instant pushbutton start, eliminating costly down time.

Savings Of Time, Money, Water Shown In Sprinkler System Use

"Sprinkler systems save more than time" is the qualified word from Gilbert & Spencer Enterprises, Inc., 2304 Ave. Q, phone 797-9212, in Lubbock.

According to the Lubbock firm, an automatic sprinkler system will save time, money and water.

Efficient water distribution is the reason.

By automatically distributing only the desired amount in only the right places, a sprinkler system wastes no water — something that Lubbockites don't have in quantities to waste.

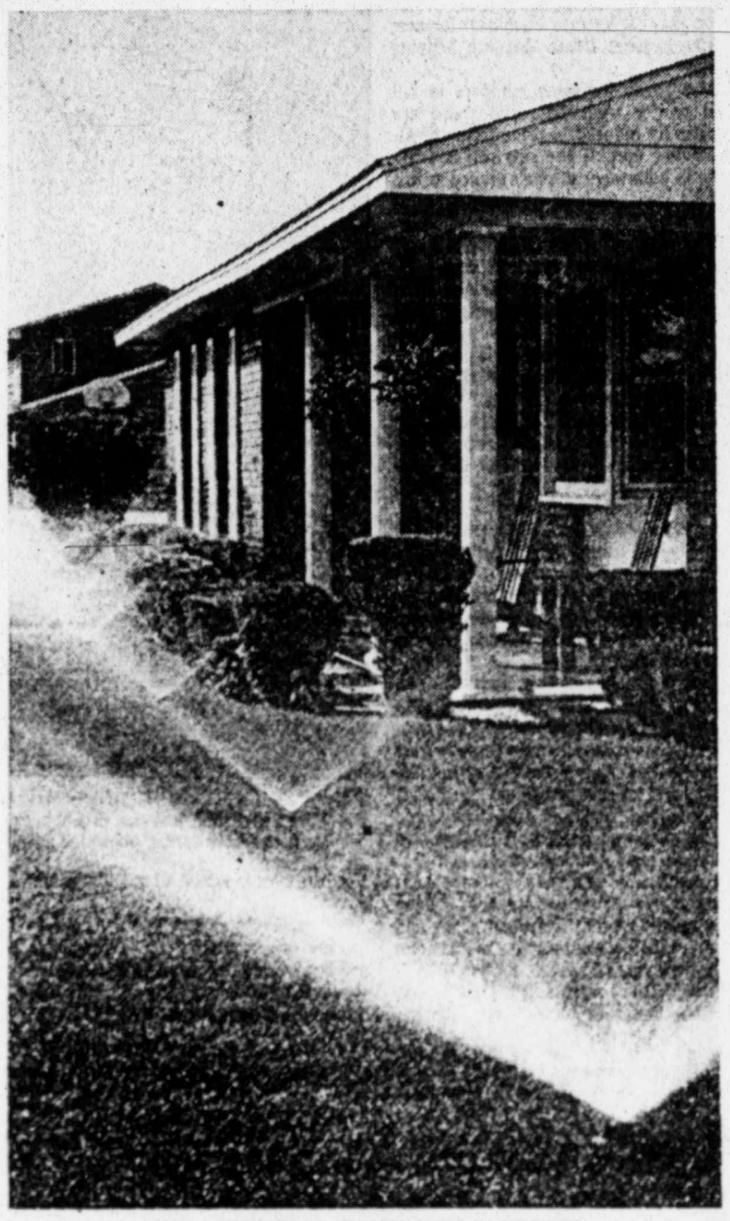

Bruce Gilbert, the firm's president, said that "although the situation will probably change as the water begins to run out, the majority of our customers have their systems installed for the added convenience."

Once a system is installed, the owner never has to worry whether he forgot to turn it on or off, or whether he'll run over one of the sprinkler heads with the lawn mower. The system does it all. It even makes it appear as if a home is occupied when it isn't, like when a family leaves on vacation.

Gilbert & Spencer has been designing and installing automatic sprinkler systems in the Lubbock area for three years. And in that time, the company has encountered several misconceptions concerning the systems. According to Fred Spencer, chairman of the board, "many people that we talk to about our systems believe that it is terribly expensive to install and maintain a sprinkler system. Others say that they're afraid that the installation will mess up the yard. And still others are concerned that the system will constantly need repair, causing the yard to be frequently dug up. Of course, none of this is true. The fact is that we can install an automatic sprinkler system for an average lot for about a thousand dollars or less. And most of that is eventually saved through more efficient water distribution. A yard will never suffer permanent damage from the installation. In fact, most lawns recover completely within a few weeks thereafter. And, although we honor the longest guarantee in the area, two years, we have a minimum of service calls. Those we do get usually amount to nothing more than the replacement of a malfunctioning head.

"There are two main reasons for this. The first is craftsmanship. Bruce Gilbert is a fully licensed landscape irrigator, and has won several design awards. Every job is surveyed, the sprinkler system is custom designed, and a detailed blueprint is approved by the customer before any ground is broken. Second, we use only the best parts that are available to us. Whereas others will use only one line of pipes, fittings, heads, etc., we utilize the best of both the Nelson and Toro lines. Consequently, we feel that ours are the best automatic sprinkler systems in the area."

"But, owning your own automatic sprinkler system has even more advantages. Not only does it increase the property value of the residence, it protects your landscape investment — which can amount to a very sizeable sum. And Gilbert & Spencer makes free estimates on all jobs. Considering all the advantages that the system offers, and all the company offers, it's no wonder that GSE is already the leader in this area after only three years in operation. But according to Bruce Gilbert, 'the homeowners in Lubbock need to be better educated with respect to lawn care and maintenance. Most just don't realize how much our systems can do for them.' But, perhaps as the water begins to dry up, more will decide to get their feet wet with Gilbert & Spencer."

'FOR CONTROLLED, ECONOMICAL WATERING'

Felix West Paints, With Convenient Clovis Road Address, Serving Region

"Much more than a paint store alone", Felix West Paints, on Clovis Road east of University Avenue, stocks fully to justify the invitation:

"Get it all at Felix West."

Not only is the stock complete, but Felix West holds the price line for customer benefit.

And most often there are some real bargains in discontinued items, remnants, etc., making it advantageous to check the store frequently for special savings.

Open Saturdays

Another item of customer consideration is the long hours observed every weekday. Felix West Paints is open from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays; yes, Felix West is open all day Saturdays.

Seasonal needs, as well as the standard year-around items, are found at Felix West Paints.

General Hardware

Thousands of general hardware items and scads of other products contribute to the "difference that is Felix West Paints".

Colony paints, Armstrong and Congoleum ... these are among the names that spell true quality and availability for the demands of every season; always at Felix West.

Felix West has a pipe threader as an added service, enabling cutting and threading in every pipe need (new pipe only). A good stock of pipe also is provided.

Located just one block east of University on the Clovis Highway (2319 Clovis Road), Felix West not only is one of the easiest stores to find (look for the distinctive signs), but it provides all the popular and even hard-to-find hardware items that make a trip there worthwhile.

Whether one selects from the Colony paint stock or chooses from the wide inventory of hand and power tools, pipe fittings, shop items, inexpensive gas or electric bathroom heaters, etc., the price and quality is unmistakably the best — a tradition well practiced and protected at Felix West Paints in its one big Lubbock location.

Felix West is no newcomer to Lubbock or to the hardware and paint trade, and he is unusually adept at stocking the right items for South Plains clientele.

FURNITURE, TOO — Delightful furniture selections for the little tots' rooms is stocked at Baby World that also is noted for its apparel and accessory selection. Note the clearance sale prices outlined in the accompanying story.

Half Price On Fall, Winter Items Arranged By Baby World

"Did you see the Baby World ad in the Sunday Lubbock Avalanche-Journal in which special clearance prices were revealed?

"Yes, it is annual January Clearance time at Baby World, 4918 50th St., which means that all fall and winter apparel there is marked at one-half price!

Also, clearance is equally sensational in savings at Lue Ree's Children's Shop, under same ownership, in Briercroft Center.

Select at Baby World in boys sizes through size 7, and girls through 6X.

At Lue Ree's, boys wear is stocked from infants through size 12, girls in infants through size 14 plus pre teens and some juniors.

Furniture for the children's rooms is stocked in a most delightful selection at Baby World.

Strolee Savings

A special one-week-only Baby World feature (beginning today) enables one-fourth off in price on the famous quality Strolee products including strollers, high chairs, car seats, walkers and portable bassinets.

In the apparel line, there is much that is new at both Baby World and Lue Ree's, with so-beautiful spring items very much in evidence.

Convenient hours at each store are 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays.

Accessories are stocked at both stores.

Possibly best known for the apparel items and accessories, Baby World is truly outstanding in its presentation of furniture for the little folks, with the Simmons products stocked.

"Everything for the nursery" is the correct image of Baby World, area shoppers have found.

"After all, your baby deserves the best, and the Simmons 'Little Folks' line would seem to meet the criteria."

Everything at Baby World and Lue Ree's, merchandise, decor and friendly greetings included, conveys that exciting offerings are the rule, with the customer given every consideration.

One may select with confidence from top lines . . . at prices to please.

The ownership likes children and stocks accordingly!

Owners Vickie and Jonathan Hoffman are most appreciative of the trade that has made growth of their stores possible, and they seek to prove this in every transaction.

Ample off-street parking is provided at both Baby World and Lue Ree's.

Overhead Automatic Doors Affording Full Convenience, Important Safety

"Don't lift it ... just call 797-4141!"

"Or better yet, come by Overhead Door Co., 50th Street at Frankford Avenue (just off the Brownfield Highway near the Loop) and discover how an automatic overhead door installation can benefit in your own situation."

Convenience, safety and protection — this is the whole story of automatic overhead doors from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock.

Serving with the same fine products and desire to please, traditional with the firm for over 29 years, the Overhead Door Company of Lubbock is in relatively new location and in large, modern quarters.

For those who looked to the Overhead Door Company of Lubbock for years at its former 5283 34th St. location, the present location and expansion can be especially appreciated. The new facility is much larger than the former home, with greater storage, and even parking, to give the maximum of customer service.

So ... what better time is there to visit Overhead Door Co., to arrange for an automatic overhead door for the family's benefit now and for seasons to come, upgrading a present home or in building a new one.

"Give your home distinction and new convenience at low cost. Give your family the Overhead Door electric operator from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock."

Auto-Mate 80

Special attention is called to the Auto-Mate 80, the ultimate garage door opener with all the features one would expect, and more.

Security and convenience are synonymous with the Auto-Mate 80. The simple touch of a button on the remote transmitter is all it takes to open, close and lock the garage door. Added security is as automatic as the door itself since when down, the door is securely locked.

A powerful 1/3 h.p. motor, operating on standard 115 V household current, provides smooth, quiet, dependable and positive operation of the door.

Complete Operation Safety

An instant reversing mechanism insures complete safety should the closing door encounter an obstacle. Should a power failure occur, a spring-loaded quick disconnect instantly converts the door to manual operation and is simply reconnected by hand.

This heavy duty, UL-approved operator can handle sectional or one-piece doors up to 18' by 8' or two single car doors hooked up tandem.

Automatic Doors represent a wise gesture by the head of the family. With these doors, the wife can open the garage, enter and lock it without leaving her vehicle — quite a convenience benefit in inclement weather (wind, rain, dust, snow), and a definite safety factor on dark nights.

Free Estimates

The Overhead Door Company of Lubbock is glad to demonstrate how simple it is to enjoy these benefits. Call for free estimate.

Overhead doors are available and recommended, also, for commercial and industrial buildings.

Whether selection is from a steel, wood or fiberglass overhead door, Tim Hatch at Overhead Door Co. assures the very best value in installation and sales, resulting in lasting satisfaction.

Year Warranty

A full year warranty is one of the features at Overhead Door Co. where its own servicemen are on the job to speed every operation.

"If you are planning a new home soon, or would like to upgrade the convenience and safety of your present home, check the many advantages offered by automatic garage doors from Tim Hatch and his reliable staff.

With the Auto-Mate, the garage door unlocks and opens and the garage is flooded with light, all automatically, while you are still in your auto. Just drive up and drive right in; the remote signal has the garage door open in seconds.

After you drive in, you push the button in your auto again and the garage door closes and locks without your leaving the safety of your car. (When leaving the garage, of course, the action is reversed with corresponding safety and convenience in the process.)

Security Factor

Security is one of the big factors in seeking the automatic feature. Eliminate worries about any danger lurking in the dark. Also, chances of intrusion and theft are reduced. When the door is closed, it is locked. And the family is snug, safe and warm!

Reliability is another characteristic of the automatic doors from Overhead Door Co. of Lubbock.

All components, sub-assemblies and complete units have been thoroughly tested in laboratory and in field use. The radio controls are designed by engineers famous for their work in guided missile electronics.

Thousands of Auto-Mate operators, designed to open even the largest doors, have been in use since 1934. Many, many are in Lubbock!

"You enjoy a handful of automatic appliances and drive an automatic car. Then why not operate this biggest moving part of your home automatically, too? It is not a luxury, not at all."

MODERN AND AVAILABLE — Shown is a Lubbock installation of an overhead automatic door (note its attractiveness) and the acclaimed Auto-Mate garage door opener that can be "a lift in your own situation," thanks to Overhead Door Co.

And the prices are such that can be lived with and appreciated!

Very good values at this time include frostings for $20 and Uni Perms for $18.50!

A highly qualified staff adds further to the "satisfaction" picture at the Holiday Salon, with this staff including Hazel Cagle, Lou Cox, Elsie Borden, Kaye Rebber, Jo Ann Fannin, Sharina Bush, Peggy Tooke, Regina Parrish and Estella Loya.

At this season of the year, with its many demands for beauty attention, it is emphasized that the best hairstyles begin with the proper cut. This fact is well recognized at the Holiday Salon, and the expert attention there is appreciated by its customers.

Continuous Study

Seminars are attended periodically by the staff, including a recent haircutting session where they studied under some of the nation's greatest hair cutters, together with experts from other nations.

"We learned many new cuts and analyzing techniques for achieving the best results in newest trends."

The staff understandably is excited about the new cuts, together with all the specialties of this better salon.

Manageability for care at home is a key consideration of the stylists, with consultation provided for better results at home for correct care of the new cuts.

For Men, Too

Expert hair care for both men and women begins at the Holiday Salon of Beauty (where the natural curl look for straight hair is enabled); after all, there is no need for men's hair appearance to be drab!

The invitation is extended to visit the Holiday Salon of Beauty at earliest convenience . . . at its modern, convenient facilities, meeting or renewing acquaintance with the staff.

"May we have the pleasure of your visit soon, at 4935 Brownfield Highway, phone 795-8276?"

Products, Services Excel

"Hughes wants to have a part in your future."

For full janitorial service or for purchase of professional maintenance supplies, there is one location in Lubbock for all . . . at 101 Sherman Ave., home of Hughes Services, Inc. and HUCO Products Co.

Customers have long profited from the learning and experience, plus capacity for service, of the Hughes and HUCO personnel. Offices are maintained in both Lubbock and Amarillo, and counties throughout the area are well served with HUCO products and with Hughes janitorial services.

In explaining HUCO Products, president George Hughes puts it this way:

"We believe a professional wants strictly professional merchandise; hence any product we sell is used in our own professional maintenance business; we have tested it before recommending and selling it, for sure."

Twenty-six counties are presently served with HUCO Products.

Among the products available from HUCO are Hillyard floor treatments including gym finishes and concrete seals. (One can run a new slab and just as soon as it is dry for walking, a spray seal can be applied to keep it from ever getting stained. How great for a commercial building, or even for the home owner who can seal the garage or even the residence floor before carpeting.

All types of hospitalization chemicals are stocked.

And Dynasurf products, L&A pressure washers and associated chemicals.

Plus National Super Service floor machines.

Spic & Span 1-Hour Cleaners Emphasizing Professionalism

"Being well groomed is an asset; dry clean when you care."

This truism is emphasized by Spic & Span Cleaners with its two convenient Lubbock locations, at 50th Street and Avenue U and at 70th Street at Indiana Avenue.

Further helpful observations are given:

The days of grubby dress, stringy hair and clumsy shoes have passed. As an old, but new era of fashion is re-born, the day of the elegant look has returned.

One may see the man outfitted in a vested suit coordinated with a shirt and tie, or a lady in the "below the knee" dress and higher heels. With these new styles comes a new look in fabrics, too.

Care Exphasized

"You will find on the market today, along with your man-made fabrics, many of the natural fibers such as cotton, wool, silk, cashmere, velvets, corduroy, chiffon and many more."

In caring for these old but new fabrics, problems sometime occur; be sure you are not misled.

"Several advertisers today promise consumers unheard-of savings through the use of 'do it yourself' home products for the laundering of fine fabrics. Don't be fooled by misconceptions.

"Professional drycleaning care includes stain removal, spotting, pressing and other labor costs not included in the price of that home laundry product. But that is only the beginning. By attempting to save a few cents, one may very easily ruin fine fabrics washing them in water. Shrinkage and color distortions are very common problems. You'll find yourself far ahead in the long run by eliminating the risks altogether — drycleaning is the answer."

(At today's prices, one cannot afford not to use professional service.)

Who's to blame if your dress or pants are damaged at the cleaners? As the Better Business Bureau explains, according to a recent article by Patricia Andersen of the International Fabricare Institute, "most of us are apt to blame the drycleaner. After all, he was the last to handle the garment. But the fault may lie with the manufacturer or the retailer, or even with you, the customer".

Further advice writer Andersen quotes from the Better Business Bureau:

"The manufacturer may be at fault if you were not supplied with information required by government regulation and the garment showed damage in subsequent cleaning as a result . . . but suppose you got the information on care and cleaning, but you did not follow it. Then you are at fault."

"To be well groomed, your clothing will look better longer if it is drycleaned."

Spic & Span One Hour Cleaners has served the people of Lubbock for 28 years. Experience is important.

"Remember, when you need your clothes drycleaned, take them to the Spic & Span One Hour Cleaners, at 50th & U, or 70th & Indiana. Spic & Span is member of the IFI state and local associations and has an apt motto: some bigger, none better; no brag; just facts."

ONE OF TWO SPIC & SPAN CLEANERS IN CITY — The pictured 70th Street at Indiana Avenue facility of Spic & Span 1-Hour Cleaners has been named recipient of a national merit award by the American National Drycleaners Magazine, with both layout of plant and the management capabilities cited.

Agents Of Farmers Group See Service As Paramount Benefit

Emphasizing the "Farmers Insurance Group brand of service," the Lubbock Independent agents of that group are being introduced in a series within these pages of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

The two featured this week are Jim White, with offices at 4417 50th St., and Jerry Rose of 5602 Slide Road.

Each point out that "If you already are utilizing the service of a Farmers Insurance Group agent, you know the benefits; if not, then likely you should inquire at soonest possible time for your own profit."

There are several offices manned and headed by Farmers Insurance Group agents in Lubbock; in fact, there are some 18 such agents affording "anything in insurance."

The Jerry Rose Agency prides in being "your good-life center," with Rose expressing "total financial security as our reason for being."

Rose calls attention to the unique situation wherein his agency is like a "close-knit big family," with the "good life" team quality control department constantly working behind the scenes to assure all friends and customers that they are up-to-date and covered for all their security needs. He is especially proud of his staff personnel.

The business concept of the agency (including staying current on everything possible to help the customer) has placed it in the "top 5" in life insurance within the state, Jerry reports.

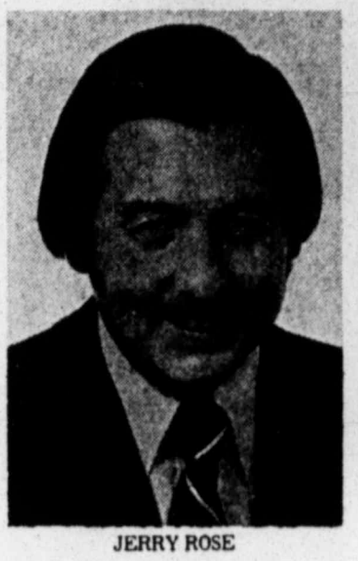

Also, Rose has been in the Life Masters honor list of the company for nine consecutive years by virtue of business volume.

With Farmers Insurance Group since '69, Rose is a native of Lockney, and is a graduate of Roswell (N.M.) High School and the Bethany Nazarene College, Bethany, Oklahoma.

Long in sales work, he sold Singer sewing machines while in high school and received a state award for his successful efforts. He likes sales, service and people.

Mrs. Rose is the former Karen Classen of Fairview, Okla., and the couple has three children: Denton, 16, a Coronado High School student; Brenda, 12, attending Wilson; and Sherlene, 11, attending Wester.

Jim White, at 4417 50th St., likewise has a most auspicious record of production and service. With the company for seven years, he has been a member of the Toppers Club, considering all production, for six out of the seven years; he is a member of Life Masters and of the half-million-dollar Round Table.

JERRY ROSE

White is a 23-year Lubbock resident and is a 1970 graduate of Texas Tech where he was a marketing major.

He and his wife, the former Kathy Hilgenfeld of Houston, have one son, Andy, age five months.

White specializes in the personal lines of insurance, though serving all insurance needs most admirably. Fire, homeowner, life and auto insurance possibly might be singled out as his specialties.

"Anything in insurance" is the correct image of Farmers Insurance Group, Los Angeles based organization celebrating its 50th anniversary in 1978 and one that has been represented in Lubbock for over a quarter century.

Eight office locations are now utilized in Lubbock. These are located at 3328 82nd St. (the district office); 2221 34th St., 5106 Slide Road, 5602 Slide Road, 3534 34th St., 3409 50th St., 4417 50th St., and 7402 University Ave.

Agents Named

Among the local Farmers Insurance Group agents are Jerry Rose, Jim White, Don Busby, Rick Dyer, Gene Cribbs, Gary Jeter, Dick Heath, Allie Baxter;

Joe Schoenig, John Hatchett, Howard Havery, Lee Robertson, Lanny Harris, Don Freeman, Jere Smith, Presley Schofner and Philip Wilbanks. Bill Hatchett is district manager.

Each is thoroughly versed in the full spectrum of insurance services — auto, fire, life, truck, boat, commercial, liability and all.

IRA Outlined

Special attention is directed to the IRA-Plus savings including such features as:

Allowable savings contributions are 100 per cent tax sheltered.

Payments, less an expense charge, earn a high prevailing intaerest rate (currently 8 per cent) with 4 per cent guaranteed.

The proceeds guarantee a life income from the date one elects to retire, anytime between 59 1/2 and 70 1/2 years of age.

Funds continue to grow even when payments are suspended.

Payments can vary each year.

No current tax on the interest on your capital accumulation.

Systematic methods of savings:

Your own personal money management plan backed by a large insurance company.

Get full details from a Farmers Insurance Group agent; he is a man worth knowing!

And a further word to the wise:

"Don't renew your Homeowner's Insurance until you get all the facts about Farmer's Homeowners Package Policy.

Leaseway-Southwest Services Seen Advantageous To Region

Leaseway-Southwest, at 409 E. 50th St., in Lubbock, offers a complete transportation service to busy companies that simply cannot devote the time, space or money required to own and maintain a fleet of vehicles, or in some instances, just one or two units. This progressive leasing firm provides transportation vehicles to serve any size or type business.

Full Service

"Corporations as well as small operators find that full-service transportation package is more efficient from every standpoint."

"Full service" as provided by Leaseway-Southwest Transportation Corp., is exactly what the name implies. The firm provides the maintenance and inspection and even supplies the fuel and pays the taxes on the vehicle!

Personnel there are most adept, serving in a professional but considerate and friendly manner to meet the particular transportation needs of every customer.

"We'd like to count you, too, among our customers."

Upgrading and additions to its stock is a continuous operation at Leaseway-Southwest.

Leaseway-Southwest's understanding of the short-term, peak and long-term needs of area industry and business is well recognized, contributing to its own growth, too.

Half-a-hundred Lubbock businesses (and even more) depend on Leaseway-Southwest for transportation vehicle needs.

There must be a very good reason.

In Tune With Times

Keeping abreast with the needs of the area is one of the convincing reasons. Leaseway-Southwest continually adds new equipment for rental and for full-time customers of this service-oriented firm.

"Utilization of leased vehicles is the growing trend in transportation management" it is emphasized by Ken Wright, president.

SUPERVISES RED GRILLE — Woolco introduces Kathy Alvord as new Red Grille manager. Kathy has been a member of the Woolco family for over four years and has spent most of her life in the Lubbock area. She enjoys cooking and reading. Kathy extends a personal invitation to all her friends to stop by and try Woolco's Red Grille "Special for the Week" — Steak-um Sandwich; and the Dessert of the Month — apple pie a la mode.

MECCA FOR MAJOR APPLIANCES — Popular brands are the fast rule at Woolco, and never more evident than in the Major Appliances Department. Select from such trustworthy names as RCA, G.E., Whirlpool, Electrophonic, Sanyo, Zenith, Cobra and Midland, for example. Whether the need is a TV, refrigerator, freezer, washer, dryer, stereo or even CB radios, Woolco comes through handsomely! Free local delivery is featured in this department.

BUDDY BARRON & Company

DEAR BUDDY'S Advice to The Homehunter

DEAR BUDDY: Contemporary Homes really turn me on. Do you have a 4 bedroom under $60,000.00?

"YOUNG MODS"

YOUNG MODS: We've got it!!!! I hope that the mod decor and garden area off the Master bedroom doesn't turn you off because this one is really "far out".

DEAR BUDDY: I'm late again. We were looking at one of Stringers new homes and now it's sold. Does he have any more?

"BORN LATE"

BORN LATE: Stringer has a 3 bedroom, 2 bath at 5604 70th Street. Beautiful earth tones. Don't be late or you'll have to wait.

DEAR BUDDY: I'm tired of paying rent but I can't find a 3 bedroom, 2 bath home with payments less than $300.00. Please help.

...RENT PAYER

RENT PAYER: Let me show you a dandy at 4826 45th Street. Payments less than rent and it's easy to own. Just phone.

Floyd, Watson Share Crosby Tourney Lead

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Raymond Floyd was asked about the mad scramble down the stretch that eventually left him tied for the lead with Tom Watson in Sunday's rain-delayed third round of the $225,000 Bing Crosby Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

He thought for a moment and finally summed it up in a single long sigh.

He and Watson ltook turns throwing away the lead and finally backed into a share of the top spot when still another player, Mike Morley, took his turn at golfing horrors. In Morley's case, it was a double bogey from a bunker on his 17th hole.

And it gave Floyd a shot at something that has eluded him for 16 seasons — a vic victory in California. He's lost in playoffs three times, to Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and J.C. Snead, but has never won in this state.

"It's imperative for a player who's looking for an outstanding season — by that I mean leading money-winner or something of that nature — to play well in California," Floyd said.

And he added: "I'm playing well enough to win."

Watson noted, however, that "there are a lot of guys in good position."

There were. Thirteen of them were within three strokes of the top spot.

"And 18 holes a Febble Beach is a lot of golf to be played," said Watson, the defending champion.

The famed links on the cliffs of Carmel Bay played at it's toughest on the run to the clubhouse, with Watson and Floyd among the principal victims.

ebble Beach at its best," Floyd signed after his wildly-erratic round of Par 72 over the craggy headlands of the famed golf links. His round included five birdies, three bogeys and a double bogey.

The former Masters champion was tied at 211, five-under-par for one trip over each of three Monterey Peninsula courses, with Watson, who made a victory here a springboard to the 1977 Plagyer of the Year honors. Watson had a 71 and like Floyd, encountered most of his difficulties in the into-the-win run down the stretch.

"I started out playing very well and ended up playing out of the garbage can," he said.

Only one stroke back going into the final round— set back to Monday when Thursday's play was rained out — were Dave Stockton, Tom Weiskopf, David Graham and Mike Morley, tied at 212.

Morley, who had a clear lead before he made double bogey from a bunker on his 17th hold, had a 68 in the mild, sunny weather. Stockton and Graham shot 69s and Weiskopf had a 71.

Longshot Tom McGinnis and Hale Irwin, who opened the day's play in a tie for the lead with Floyd, slipped to 74s and were two shots out at 213. They were tied with Andy North, Ben Crenshaw, Don Biles and Gibby Gilbert, North shot 69, Gilbert 72, Bies and Crenshaw 73.

U.S. Oepn champion Hubie Green shot a 74 and was at 214. That put 13 men locked withing three shots of the top spot.

All of the leaders except Gilbert and Bies played at Pebbl Beach, the site of the final round. Gilbert was a Cypress Point, Bies at Spyglass Hill.

Almost unnoticed in the rapidly changing scramble for the lead, Jack Nicklaus quietly put together the best round of the day, a 6-under-par 66 that put him at 217, six strokes back and, perhaps, too much even for him to overcome in 18 holes.

"A 66 is Pretty good, but a 65 would have put me that much closer, Arnold Palmer, who played with former resident Gerald Ford as his amateur partner, took a 73 and had a 225 total. The team had a 72 for the day, Ford helping with three shots. They had a team total of 205.

Both Floyd and Watson played well over the front nine. Each turned in 33

Pro Golfers Threaten Suit

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A suit against the PGA Tour seeking restoration of their lifetime playing rights will be filed Monday by 13 prominent touring golf professionals Monday, Dave Marr, a former PGA national champion and spokesman for the group said Sunday.

The suit, arising from one of the greatest controvesies the pro golf tour has experienced in recent years, will be filed in Houston by attorney Jack McConn of the law firm of Butler and Binion, Marr said.

"It is with great reluctance that we're taking this action," Marr said. "I'm telling you, it puts a knot in my stomach.

"We don't want to do anything to hurt the game or the tour. The game is bigger than any of us. But we feel they're taking away something that belongs to us."

A decision to enter the suit was reached after representatives of the group — which includes Hall of Famers Sam Snead and Gene Sarazen — was reached after a meeting with the PGA Tour Policy Board Tuesday night, Marr said.

In addition to Marr, Snead and Sarazen, parties to the suit — all of whom have contributed financial support — are Jack Burke, Jerry Barber, Julius Boros, brothers Jay and Lionel Hebert, Bobby Nichols, Jim Ferrier, Ken Venturi, Bob Rosburg and Doug Ford.

"The players who have filed this suit all have won the PGA or the National Open or both, prior to 1970," the group said in a prepared release.

"These are two of the three most important golf tournaments in the western hemisphere. It has been the rule for years, as put out by the PGA, that the winners of these tournaments had earned lifetime exemptions from qualifying in PGA co-sponsored tournaments.

"Some of the benefits realized from winning these tournaments are public appearances from which these men earn a large part of their livelihood.

"A new rule proposed by the Tournament Policy Board of the PGA nd passed, effective Jan. 1, 1978, would arbitrarily abolish a large portion of these earned rights.

"These men have exhausted every avenue in trying to work this matter out peacefully but these efforts have failed and they have no alternative in protecting their livelihood but to tile this suit."

Players who won the PGA or the U.S. Open prior to 1970 were given lifetime exemptions from qualifying.

The Fish Are Waiting

WHEN GARY WYANT moved from Tennessee to Texas nearly two years ago to join Steve Sloan's staff at Texas Tech, he sold his bass boat, believing that he wouldn't need it in this parched, dusty region. He later reviewed the decision with some regret, but an investment in another boat appears imminent.

"Yes, I would imagine that I'll have another one soon," he said with a chuckle.

There is basis for his assumption. After his time at Tech and a very, very brief sojurn at Ole Miss, Wyant is returning to Tennessee. He'll be at Sparta, Tenn., about halfway between Knoxville and Nashville and very near Center Hill Lake, which he says is "one of the most beautiful in the world and great for smallmouth bass fishing."

And Wyant, an avid fisherman, figures he should have more time to pursue his passion because he's giving up the very time-consuming occupation of coaching for the banking business. The decision was not easy nor made in haste.

"I guess the decision came over a couple of years or so," Wyant said. "The guy who runs the bank is a fellow I've known for quite a while. He offered me a good opportunity, and I figured it was something I wanted to do."

A NUMBER OF reasons affected Wyant's decision. As a coach, he had to contend with long hours, a great deal of pressure, being away from his family often, perodic moves and the insecurity of the coaching profession.

"There were a bunch of personal reasons. I felt things were getting to the point where I wanted to spend more time with my family, and I certainly want to," he said. "I've enjoyed coaching and working with the kids, but I want to stay with my own some.

"There's a little more stability in this position, too. I won't have to worry about where I'll be three years from now. I've got one son that will start high school next year, and I'd like him to feel that he won't have to pull up and move again before he finishes."

During his 15-year coaching career, the Kansas native and Wichita State graduate coached at his alma mater, Florida State, Georgia, Tennessee and Tech. He figures he's moved on an average of once every three and a half years.

THE LAST MOVE, which came about suddenly when Sloan unexpectedly announced his resignation to take the head coaching job at Mississippi, was a factor in Wyant's decision to quit coaching. He applied for Sloan's old Tech position, but withdrew his name two days later. After several days, he opted to join Sloan at Ole Miss, but then changed his mind.

"I'd wanted to be a head coach at the major-college level ever since I'd been in the business," he said, "but lately I'd wondered if that was what I really wanted to do. Sometimes you stumble along looking for your niche in life, but you're not sure of it until you hit it.

"Opportunity knocked when the job at Tech opened, but I couldn't get that fired up about it. And I didn't want to put my family on a pedestal anymore than it already was.

"It was tough to tell Steve, but he was aware of it. We had discussed it at length before it happened, and he knew about the possibility before we went to Ole Miss, so he wasn't shocked. There's not a better guy to work for than he."

WYANT WILL BE trained to step into the bank's top management when he's prepared. It is a bank he says has "grown by leaps and bounds," and whose top man now needs help handling all the responsibilities.

"It's a small country bank, not one with a lot of specialized departments," he said. "Ten years ago, it was handling about $10 million worth of business. Now it's up to about $44 million.

"It's really going to be challenging. I've got a whole lot to learn. I'll be working with people, like I did in coaching, but the technical aspects of banking will take time to learn."

Football, though, will not be forgotten.

"I'm sure that I'll get a whining in my gut when Saturdays roll around in the fall. I know that I'll miss it. Anybody that's been in the business that long couldn't help but miss it. I've got a lot of good memories from football."

But just think of those smallmouth bass waiting at Center Hill Lake.

Borg Claims Grand Slam

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP)– Bjorn Borg credited an agressive game plan for his 7-6, 3-6, 6-1 victory Sunday over Jimmy Connors in the $225,000 Grand Slam of Tennis.

Connors blamed his own agressiveness for the defeat.

The furiously paced, fiercely contested match started under sunny skies. It ended three hours later under lights and thunderclouds.

"Before the match, I said to myself, 'I'm going to play a little bit different, Borg said. "I said I was going to hit the ball hard and make him run after the gball.

"I kept him back and I kept him on the baseline. That's very important against Jimmy."

Connors said the strategy didn't bother him.

"He wasn't forcing me at all," Connors said. "All he was doing was playing back and hitting a lot of top spins."

Connors said it was his own pounding, agressive play that cost him the match.

"I did most anything I wanted to, but I just missed the ball a few inches a couple of times," he said.

"I'm not perfect. Pretty close, but not perfect."

Borg declined to comment on whether his victory in the Grand Slam, his secod straight in this event, should make him the No.1 player among the world's male tennis stars.

Connors wasn't ready to concede that ranking either.

"This year's till young, man," he said. "Ask me in December."

Borg, who defeated Connors here a year ago, earned $125,000 for two days of tennis in his four-man event. Connors collected $50,000.

Twelve of the 29 nationally-televised games, played on clay before 8,000 spectators, went to deuce. There were 15 service breaks, eight of them by Borg.

ND Turns Back UCLA 75-73

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Bruce Flowers grabbed a crucial rebound, then sank a free throw with one second remaining Sunday, helping seventh-ranked Notre Dame turn back third-rated UCLA's second-half comeback and beat the Bruins 75-73 in a nationally televised college basketball game.

UCLA's James Wilkes missed the first shot of a one-and-one free throw opportunity that could have tied the game with four seconds to play before Flowers yanked the ball off the boards and was fouled in the scramble.

Earlier, the 6-foot-8 Flowers hit two free throws with 55 seconds left Earlier, the 6-foot-8 Flowers hit two free throws with 55 seconds left which gave the Irish a 74-71 advantage.

It was Notre Dame's second victory of the season over the Bruins, who saw their nine-game winning string snapped and fell to 13-2. The Irish now are 11-3.

Senior guard Duck Williams came off the Notre Dame bench with 13 points in the first half, including seven straight that gave the Irish a 41-32 lead. He finished with 19 to lead the Irish scorers.

A three-point play by Dave Batton and a Williams field goal put the Irish ahead 46-34 early in the second period. The Bruins, however, led by Roy Hamilton, then outscored Notre Dame 16-1 and took a 50-47 advantage. Hamilton, held to one point in the first half, had six during that surge.

NFL, Fans Want More Scoring

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The offense will open up more next season if the majority of National Football League clubs get their way, commissioner Pete Rozelle said Sunday.

Touchdowns were down from 910 during the 1976 season to 815 in 1977 and the number of points scored dropped from 7,508 to 6,733, decreases of more than 10 percent in each case. The average 1977 game had 34.4 points scored, down from 38.2 a year earlier.

"I think we've got to come up with changes to benefit the offense and improve scoring prospects. Personally, I feel we are on the horns of a dilemma between what you might call fairness and what the public wants — and the public wants scoring," Rozelle said after a series of meetings with the NFL's 28 club owners at nearby Tarpon Springs in conjunction with tonight's Pro Bowl game at Tampa Stadium.

Rozelle said the league had received 21 responses to a survey sent out Dec. 8 asking coaching staffs whether they wanted to see changes of any kind implemented for the 1978 season. "We haven't heard from a lot of playoff clubs. They had more important things to think about," Rozelle said.

"Of the 21 clubs we've heard from, 18 expressed an interest in improving the offense. Not every team had the same solutions, but the basic philosophy was to put more points on the board."

Among the changes to be considered by the NFL's Competition Committee are radical ones like permitting backfield motion toward the line (now allowed in Canadian football), allowing linemen downfield on screen passes (now permitted in college play), further restricting defensive tactics against receivers, reducing holding penalties from 10 to 5 yards and widening the hash marks.

The committee—Paul Brown of Cincinnati, Bart Starr of Green Bay, Tex Schramm of Dallas, Don Shula of Miami and Peter Hadhazy of Cleveland—will consider all possibilities and present its findings at the league's March 13-17 meeting in Palm Springs, Calif. Approval of 21 teams is neceeded to make rules changes.

The league also will attempt to resolve the problems tied to the complicated tie-breaking procedures used to determine final standings.

Hogs Flat Against Lowly TCU

By The Associated Press

Lowly Texas Christian succeeded in cooling off hot-shooting, sixth-ranked Arkansas — something no other Southwest Conference team has been able to do lately. It's easy, the Frogs found, to lull them to sleep with a 21-game SWC losing streak.

"Regardless of what you tell players, they read the newspapers and compare scores. We were flat," Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton said after his Razorbacks hit a miserable 37 percent in the first half Saturday night and edged TCU 43-35.

The Hogs, 16-1 for the season and 4-1 in the SWC, had been averaging 56 percent from the field. They even hit more than 58 percent in their lone loss to Texas.

Meanwhile, TCU, the team that lost 90-41 to Texas earlier this season, entered the game with a 2-11 season record and a 21-game SWC losing string.

"When you aren't prepared emotionally, your shots don't go in, you don't get the rebounds, your defense isn't quite as sharp and you're a half step slow," said Sutton. "That first 20 minutes was about as bad as I've seen in college basketball since I've been at Arkansas."

TCU's delay offense and scrappy defense didn't help matters any for Arkansas. Ron Brewer and Marvin Delph, who were averaging a combined total of 36.5 points per game, were held scoreless in the first half.

"No one was trying to delay," said TCU Coach Tim Somerville. "I certainly didn't want to. Nobody could get an open shot. Our defense had to hurt them. They had problems getting the shot and our kids did a super job."

TCU and Arkansas were tied 20-20 at halftime and the Frogs actually moved ahead 26-24 with 16 minutes remaining when Steve Scales hit a 20-foot jump shot. The Hogs then reeled off nine straight points to finish off the pesky Frogs and hang them with their 22nd straight conference loss.

LOOKING FOR AN OPENING — Coronado's Donna Boyd (24 dribbles the ball during a girl's high school basketball game. Ponies, MHS Battle For Loop Lead

Monterey's girls seek the first-half basketball title in District 4-AAAA tonight when they entertain Coronado in the MHS gym at 8 p.m.

The Plainsmen, 2-0 in league play and 15-7 for the season, need a victory tonight to cinch the first half. However, Coronado, 1-1 and 9-10, could tie the first-half race with one game left if CHS could defeat MHS tonight.

Monterey won the first meeting between the schools, 49-26 at CHS on Jan. 12. The teams were tied 20-20 in that game at halftime. Since that league opener, MHS downed Lubbock High by an impressive 75-39 margin while CHS nipped the Westerners 48-47.

In that first CHS-MHS affair, Marilyn Beckner of Monterey topped all scorers with 24 points while Dona Boyd paced Coronado with 14.

Coronado concludes its first half Thursday night by hosting LHS. Monterey wraps up its first half a week from tonight at Lubbock High.

The Monterey and Coronado junior varsity game will precede tonight's varsity encounter at 6:15 p.m.

BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

College Cagers Put On Stellar Performances For Home Crowd

By The Associated Press

Far be it from Bruce Campbell of Providence and Duke's Eugene Banks to disagree with such a noted literary figure as Thomas Wolfe, but it turns out that you can go home again, after all. Of course, Wolfe wasn't a basketball writer.

Campbell and Banks put on a show for the home folks in New Haven, Conn., and Philadelphia, respectively, Saturday night in leading their nationally ranked teams to 10-point victories.

Campbell had 18 points and seven rebounds as 12th-ranked Providence downed Connecticut 57-47 while Banks, one of the nation's hotshot freshmen, poured in 24 points in Duke's 91-81 triumph over La Salle.

But while Campbell was enjoying his evening, 14th-ranked Holy Cross came a cropper just a few miles down the Connecticut Turnpike. The Crusaders bowed to Fairfield 123-103 as the winners got 28 points from Kim Fisher, 24 from Mark Plefka and 23 from Flip Williams. Joe DeSantis had 15 points and ten assists as the Stags extended their home-court winning streak to 23 games.

Three other members of the Associated Press Top Twenty also came up short. Fourth-ranked Indiana State, unbeaten until Thursday, dropped its second game in three days, losing to Illinois State 81-76 despite 37 points and 17 rebounds by Larry Bird, the nation's No. 2 scorer.

Virginia, ranked No. 13, bowed to Clemson 79-70 in overtime as John Campbell produced 19 points and 12 rebounds for the winners. And No. 16 Nevada-Las Vegas, deadly at home but dead on the road, suffered its third consecutive setback on a disastrous trip when Lynbert "Cheese" Johnson scored 29 points and led Wichita State to an 87-83 decision over the Rebels.

The nation's top two teams came through in style. No. 1-ranked Kentucky, the only remaining unbeaten major college team, bolted to a 23-point lead and trimmed Mississippi State 75-65 while runner-up Marquette opened a 15-point lead early in the second half and turned back Washington 71-63.

Elsewhere, fifth-ranked North Carolina socked Maryland 85-71, No. 6 Arkansas held off Texas Christian 45-35, No. 8 Kansas shaded arch-rival Kansas State 56-52, and No. 10 Michigan State defeated Iowa 68-58.

In other games involving members of the second ten, it was No. 18 DePaul 74-70 over Dayton and No. 20 New Mexico 84-57 over Texas-El Paso. The scheduled contest between No. 11 Syracuse and Fordham was postponed by a snowstorm.

Royals Schedule Camp Opening

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Kansas City Royals said training camp for pitchers and catchers will open Feb. 25 at Fort Meyers, Fla., and all other players are to be in camp three days later.

The Royals have invited six non-roster minor league players to camp in addition to the 34 players on the major league roster. The non-roster players are catchers Jim Gaudet, Kevin Gillen, Bobby Glass and Craig Perkins; pitcher Mark Daly, and infielder Rudy Kinard.

Robinson Contacted Concerning Ram Job

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Eddie Robinson, the long-time head football coach at Grambling University, said Sunday that he was among the candidates for the head coaching job with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

Robinson, who if given the Los Angeles job would be the first black head coach in the NFL, made his disclosure in an interview with sportscaster Howard Cosell on the ABC Sports Magazine program, on the eve of the league's Pro Bowl game.

Robinson, who has sent numerous players to the NFL and coached All-American quarterback Doug Williams during the 1977 season, said he would be interviewed Tuesday by Carroll Rosenbloom, president of the Rams.

In Los Angeles, a Rams' spokesman, Jerry Wilcox, confirmed that the club had been in contact with Robinson and added, "He's just one of quite a few fellows" in line for the job.

The Rams have been seeking a head coach since Chuck Knox was released recently and signed a six-year contract with the Buffalo Bills. In the past five seasons under Knox, Los Angeles won the National Football Conference West Division championship each year. But each time, they failed to qualify for the Super Bowl.

Others reported to be under consideration to replace Knox are Dallas Cowboys assistant coach Dan Reeves, Stanford head Coach Bill Walsh and former Washington Redskins head Coach George Allen.

Asked whether he thought being black would have any influence on his receiving or being rejected for the Rams' job, Robinson said, "I don't think getting the job will be predicated on whether I'm black or not. It comes down to who can win with the Rams, who can get them to the Super Bowl."

EDDIE ROBINSON

On whether he felt it would be historic to become the NFL's black coach, Robinson said, "No. Frankly, this doesn't appeal to me. I'm not concerned about that. I think inwardly, every college coach would like sometime to coach in professional football."

Age Fails To Slow Superfan

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — When they talk about superfans, the name of Herbert 'Dad" Gallagher heads the list.

Not many other sports fans can say, "Cy Young was the greatest pitcher I ever saw."

His friends made a big deal when Gallagher turned 100. That was more than three years ago.

"When you get to be 100, you got to have something to take up your time," says the old man who has braved dozens of blizzards to attend sports events. "Sports gives you action. Everything moves so fast.

"It's not as if when you get old you want to say, 'I've had my day.' I just like living. Sports keeps my mind busy. It makes me feel like I'm 50 again."

The man whose pitching shoulder gave out at age 27, in 1900 — "I had a good drop curve, a slider you might call it" — still attends local sports events. When he can't, he's glued to the television at home.

"Hockey is my middle name," Gallagher says. But he devours the agate type on newspaper pages to keep up with other sports news too.

The old man called "Dad" by his many friends came from Milltown, New Brunswick, Canada as a young man and went into the wholesale lumber business. He stayed with it until he was 85.

Meantime, he arranged his work schedule to attend sports events at parks and arenas throughout the Boston area.

As a spry senior citizen of 85, Gallagher used to walk from his home — then in Newton, Mass. — to Fenway Park in Boston to watch the Red Sox.

"It only took about an hour," he recalls.

He allowed himself to take the trolley home.

"Dad" now lives with his namesake son, Herb Gallagher, who retired two years ago as athletic director at Northeastern University. The two were true friends.

The father and son went deer hunting in Vermont every year until "Dad" was 102. A cataract operation foisted a detested cane on the old man, making it impossible for him to carry a rifle.

But Gallagher still walks for an hour or so daily, pacing back and forth on the front porch while smoking a big cigar.

"I didn't start smoking til I was 60," he says. "But I have yet to take my first drink of liquor."

The decision to abstain was made as a pledge to his mother, 95 years ago.

The aged superfan still negotiates steep flights of stairs aided only by his cane. He prepares his own breakfast and lunch daily and takes no medicine.

Gallagher also completes an unending series of New York Times crossword puzzle books when he takes a break from sports.

Each day begins with the clipping of the television sports schedule in the newspaper.

"Sometimes I have to stay up past midnight to watch," the old man says. "I don't want to miss anything."

The winter weather has curtailed jaunts to local college games, but "Dad" plans to be at Boston Garden for the Beanpot Hockey Tournament this winter. He'll be rooting for Northeastern, of course.

Gallagher is well aware that he's outlived all his old sports chums. Perhaps his love of sports makes him too stubborn to quit living.

On July 9, "Dad" will be 104.

Top Pros Eye Indoor Tennis Crown

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Four of the top five players in the world, headed by Jimmy Connors and Bjorn Borg, are in the field for the U.S. Indoor Tennis Tournament which opens a seven day stand here today.

In addition to Connors and Borg, ranked one and two, third rated Brian Gottfried and fourth-ranked Vito Gerulaitis are among the 64 competing for the $35,000 first prize.

$35,000 first prize.

Only Guillermo Vilas, pro tennis' third-rated star, is missing among the first five computed by the Association of Tennis Professionals (ATP). Vilas returned to Argentina following the recent Grand Prix Masters in New York.

Connors and Borg, of course, were placed in different brackets in the hope that the top two players can win their way through the week-long competition into a final confrontation next Sunday.

The ATP does not permit automatic byes for top seeds, so Connors, for example, goes right to work Monday against Cliff Drysdale, the tough South African veteran who reached the semifinals here last year before bowing to Connors.

Shuld Connors survive the first round, he could be paired against Adriano opponents could be ninth-seeded Dick Stockton, seventh-seeded Raul Ramirez and Gottfried.

Borg drew a first round bye, and meets the winner of the first round match between Tom Okker and Bill Scanlon. Borg last year lost in the first round to unseeded Ray Moore, which tells you something about seeding and form. Fyour of the top 10 seeds loom as potential Borg obstacles to the final of the $225,000 tournament.

Acually, nine of the top 10 ranked players in the world and 25 of the leading 30 are in a field described by some as equal to that of Wimbledon. Only Vilas, Tony Roche, Stan Smith, Jaime Fillol and Phil Dent are missing.

"There is no question in my mind that the Philadelphia field is superior and much tougher than Wimbledon," said defending champion Stockton in an appearance here recently.

The top 10 seeds are Connors, Borg, Gottfried, Gerulaitis, Manuel Orantes, Edydie Dibbs, Ramirez, Ilie Nastase, Stockton and Roscoe Tanner.

Gottfried drew a bye and meets the winner of a Marty Reissen-John Alexander first round go. Gerulaitis starts against Mike Fishbach; Orantes vs. Italy'sPaolo Bertolucci; Dibbs takes on South Africa's Bob Hewitt; Ramirez and Nastase byes; Stockton plays Tim Guillikson, and Tanner meets Spain's Jose Higueras.

Rod Laver, almost a fixture in this tournament, along with Arthur Ashe, are not entered. Laver is in semi-retirement and didn't score enough World Championship Tennis points to qualify. Ashe is just returning to action after a chronic heel injury. But 43-year-old Ken Rosewall of Australia, who says the 1978 tour is his last, will give the oldsters someone to cheer. He's seeded 12th, behind Corrado Barazzutti, Italian Open Champion.

Among the new breed in the field are John McEnroe, the teenager who starred last summer at Wimbledon; Butch Walts, Fishbach and the Gullikson twins, Tim and Tom.

Wood Left Chilly After Cancellation

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

No one in their right mind would have ever thought the Estacado Matadors might have any problem disposing of the Lake View Chiefs.

But the Lubbock bunch has. And for a good reason, too. The two District 3-AAA teams have had a harder time getting together than Margaret and Pierre Trudeau, Sonny and Cher and the rest of those Hollywood types.

Last week the Chiefs and the Matadors were scheluded to meet on Friday night. But some unscheduled snow halted game. So the game was reset for Saturday at 6 p.m.

But a strange thing happened to the Chiefs on their way to Lubbock...

Because of the foul weather the Chiefs were unable to keep their date with the Matadors. Now it is hard to determine if the game will ever be played.

"They (Lake View officials) wanted to know if we would play next Saturday," said Estacado coach J.J. Wood. "But I feel that is out of the of the question. We have to play a game (against Brownfield) on Friday night and then come back Tuesday night against Dunbar.

"If you asked me I think they should forfeit the game."

Wood also pointed out than the break in action could possibly hurt the Matadors later down the line.

"It has broken up our routine," Wood said. "And it is sort of aggravating, too."

The matchup between the duo in all certainly will not be a classic confrontation. Sonny and Cher have probably had better.

Estacado, which leads the loop with a 5-0 record, is currently the top AAA team on the South Plains with a 20-2 overall mark, while Lake view, the only team yet to win a game in District play, lays claim to an equally unimpressive 1-14 season mark.

"Looking at the records, I guess we shouldn't have any trouble with them" Wood said. "But we still have to play and anything can happen."

The Chiefs and the Matadors weren't the only teams having trouble getting together. Down in District 2-AAA, Andrews and Fort Stockton had their troubles, too. And like with Estacado and Lake View, the weather had everything to do with it.

No date has been set for the game which pits the only two teams in the loop that has not won a loop game. Both stand 0-2 in district warfares. However, Andrews holds a 13-8 season mark compared to a 7-11 for Fort Stockton.

Elsewhere around District 3-AAA, Dunbar coach Joe McWilliams said the first-half play "went the way we expected it too."

"I've said from the beginning that Estacado was the team to look out for," said McWilliams. "They had all those starters coming back."

McWilliams, who watched the Matadors whip the Panthers by two points during overtime, said he is pleased with the current play of Dunbar.

WJCC Thrown Into Tight Race

Suddenly, only one game separates Odessa from Amarillo, New Mexico Military, South Plains College and Western Texas in the Western Junior College Conference Race.

OC, which is 6-2 in league wars after falling 98-87 to Amarillo Thursday, hosts Frank Phillips (4-4) tonight.

South Plains treks to Roswell to battle New Mexico Military in what could be the top game. NMMI is ranked No. 13 in the nation, but SPC has won five straight to up its record to 13-6.

Amarillo travels Clarendon (4-4), Western Texas travels to Howard (3-5) and New Mexico JC (1-7) is at Midland (3-5).

An important women's game is also on tap, as Howard (14-1, 4-0) hosts Western Texas (11-4, 5-1). Frank Phillips (0-5) is at Odessa (1-4) also.

Group Studies Football Dangers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The hazards of playing football are being looked into the by the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

The commission acted following a request from a Chicago chiropractor, Dr. A.C. Larcher, who asked the commission to develop a mandatory safety standard for football helmets. Larcher said 360,000 injuries associated with the head, neck, spine and arm are caused annually by helmets. Commission officials indicated they have reports of about 45,000 concussions among football players each year.

Holy Shroud Scheduled For Display In Italy

TURIN, Italy (AP) — The Holy Shroud, venerated as Christ's burial cloth, will be put on public display later this year for only the fourth time this century, the Roman Catholic Archdiocese said Saturday.

The shroud, kept protected in a silver chest, will go on view from Aug. 27 to Oct. 8 in the cathedral in this northern Italian city. The display will mark the 400th anniversary of the shroud's transfer from Chambery, France, by the House of Savoy, Italy's former royal family.

Q. HEARTLINE: Can you tell me if Medicare will cover my wife for kidney dialysis treatment? I am 63 and am drawing my social security benefits. My wife is 59 years old and she is not on social security. C.R.

A. Yes, Medicare would provide coverage for your wife for the kidney dialysis treatment. The following group of people are eligible for Medicare coverage for kidney dialysis treatment.

* All people who are on Medicare.
* A worker who is already drawing social security benefits but has not yet * A worker who has enough quarters of coverage under social security to be eligible for a retirement benefit.
* The spouse or dependent child of a worker who is already eligible for social security benefits or drawing their social security benefits.

For people who are now on the Medicare program or will soon be turning 65 and going on Medicare, Heartline now has available their brand new 1978 version of "Heartline's GUide to Medicare." This book is still written in easy to understand question and answer form, but the 1978 issue has much more information. Included in the new issue are the new deductibles for part "A" Medical insurance, more items and conditions that Medicare covers, a more concise explanation of reasonable charges, and detailed instructions on how to fill out your Medicare claim form.

YOu can receive the 1978 "Heartline's Guide to Medicare" be sending $1.75 to Heartline's Guide to Medicare, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. This book is completely guaranteed and if you are not satisfied your money will be cheerfully refunded. Please allow six weeks for delivery.

HEARTLINE: Lately, I have been receiving a lot of mail from different companies wanting me to apply for their credit cards. I have never had any as I always pay cash for all of my purchases. I was thinking about getting one at a local store but I am still not sure. My main concern is losing one of them. Can you give me any advice on this? S.F.

A. Credit cards are almost as numerous in consumers' wallets these days as dollar bills. Perhaps more so. Losing disapperance of a wallet full of money. It is always wise to carry only the credit cards that will be needed on a particular shoopping trip on journey, leaving the others safely locked up at home. The name and serial number of each credit card carried should always be jotted down and placed in an inside pocket, a glasses case, or auto glove compartment, so that prompt notification can be made if the credit card itself is lost or stolen. Some insurance companies include a limited amount of coverage against misuse of a credit card in home owner's policies; others offer it for an additional charge although it does not provide an insurance policy, the Credit Card Service (4660 Kenmore Ave., Alexandria, VA 22304) offers a service by subscription that includes notifaction of all credit card companies of the loss and arranging for a loan to cover transportation back home of the credit card owner.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The oncoming full moon brings considerable activity, especially where home, family and civic matters are concerned. Get into and improve basic interests, goals.

ARIES (March 21 to Apr. 19) Not a good time for making changes at home or getting into any arguments there. Show that you are thoughtful, tactful instead. Get your home in finer order and be happier there.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Good time to take care of errands. Don't argue with allies or you could get into trouble. Try to maintain your equilibrium no matter what.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Show more consideration for others and gain their goodwill. Try to economize more so you need not feel lack at odd times.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't be so demanding with others and you get along better with them. Do some entertaining and make a good impression on others. Be charming and show good will.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Not a good ime for discussions with mate, loved one who is not in a good humor. Think along more constructive lines.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Good time to be with dynamic friends who have fine ideas to give you and which should be followed. If you go out socially, don't get into any heated arguments, discussions. Be tactful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be sure to heed whatever a bigwig has to suggest since this can be helpful to you. Do not be pressured into buying anything you don't want.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You want to jump right into some new project, but it is best to first get facts and figures and think about it. Don't argue with a new contact.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Pay bills and make collections where possible. Be more objective with a partner who is very busy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be fair with associates and gain their good will, listen to their views more. A new contact could prove to be sarcastic, but don't let it bother you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You seldom do things as others do and this is a good time to put original ideas to work successfully. Help a fellow worker with a problem.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you are careful with your money, this can be a good time to put for you. Avoid one who could be a deterrent to you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have much control and be able to handle big projects efficiently and should have the education slanted along such lines, and would do well in big business, markets, real estate, public work, etc. Permit to work out novel ideas as early in life and encourage to work with hands.

City Woman Appointed Hospital Staff Chief

Dr. Katherine Rodgers, a San Antonio pediatrician who grew up in Lubbock, is new chief of staff at Santa Rosa Medical Center in the Alamo City.

Dr. Rodgers is not only the first woman to be elected to that position at Santa Rosa, one of the oldest and largest Catholic Hospitals in the nation, but she is also the first woman to head up a medical staff in any hospital in San Antonio.

The pediatrician was chosen by the 352 physicians who make up the active and honorary staff of the downtown medical center.

A native of Childress, Dr. Rodgers earned a bachelor of arts degree in chemistry from Texas Tech in 1955 and a medical degree from Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, where she graduated in the upper 10 percent of her class.

KATHERINE RODGERS

Dr. Rodgers considers the most important accomplishment of her medical career to be when she helped organize, develop and direct the Neonatal Intensive Care Nursery at Santa Rosa from 1972-1974.

The neonatal unit is a highly specialized area for newborn babies who need special attention or observation because of premature birth or other complications. It is reportedly the largest and most extensively equipped and staffed unit of its kind in the Southwest.

In addition to her other duties, Dr. Rodgers is a clinical professor of Pediatrics at the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio. She is active in community pediatrics and in the Texas Medical Association, where she works on the Maternal and Child Health Committee and the Committee on Adoptions.

While in Lubbock, Dr. Rodgers was a member of First Methodist Church and was active in the Methodist Student Center. Today she is an active member of Coker United Methodist Church in San Antonio.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible©
Rev. 21:9-23, The Living Bible

9 Then one of the seven angels, who had emptied the flasks containing the seven last plagues came and said to me, "Come with me and I will show you the bride, the Lamb's wife."
10 In a vision he took me to a towering mountain peak and from there I watched that wondrous city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of the skies from God.
11 It was filled with the glory of God, and flashed and glowed like a precious gem, crystal clear like jasper.
12 Its walls were broad and high, with twelve gates guarded by twelve angels. And the names of the twelve tribes of Israel were written on the gates.
13 There were three gates on each side—north, south, east, and west.
14 The walls had twelve foundation stones, and on them were written the names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb.
15 The angel held in his hand a golden measuring stick to measure the city and its gates and walls.
16 When he measured it, he found it was a square as wide as it was long; in fact, it was in the form of a cube, for its height was exactly the same as its other dimensions—1,500 miles each way.
17 Then he measured the thickness of the walls and found them to be 216 feet across (the angel called out these measurements to me, using standard units).[2]
18,19 The city itself was pure, transparent gold like glass! The wall was made of jasper, and was built on twelve layers of foundation stones inlaid with gems: The first layer[3] with jasper; The second with sapphire; The third with chalcedony; The fourth with emerald; The fifth with sardonyx;
20 The sixth layer with sardus; The seventh with chrysolite; The eighth with beryl; The ninth with topaz; The tenth with chrysoprase; The eleventh with jacinth; The twelfth with amethyst.
21 The twelve gates were made of pearls—each gate from a single pearl! And the main street was pure transparent gold, like glass.
22 No temple could be seen in the city, for the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are worshiped in it everywhere.[4]
23 And the city has no need of sun or moon to light it, for the glory of God and of the Lamb illuminate it.

A DREAM-COME-TRUE, FOR SOME — The 12,000 square foot California governor's mansion, shunned by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., will become a dream-come-true for two middle class couples who have been given the opportunity to occupy the $1.2 million one-storey mansion. Each couple will receive $800 a month to provide 24-hour security and custodial care for the site, located on a bluff overlooking the American River about 15 miles east of Sacramento, Calif. The man in the photo is a workman on the site during construction of the mansion in 1976. Ronald Reagan initiated plans for the mansion during his tenure as governor of California. (AP Laserphoto)

PEOPLE PLACES THINGS

Non-Smoker Seeks Transfer

NILES, Ohio (AP) — The cost of buying cigarettes goes up 30 cents a pack when a smoker makes his purchases at Alberini's Restaurant and Nightclub in Niles.

Instead of the usual 70 cents for cigarettes dispensed from vending machines, each pack costs $1 in Alberini's. Owner Richard Alberini gives the extra 30 cents to cancer research.

"The smokers help cause the problem, so they should help finance research for a cure," Alberini said. "We put a sign on the machine to tell them that."

A former smoker himself, Alberini gives the money to the Eastern Ohio Lung Association, which in addition to cancer research also promotes antismoking education.

Alberini figures the rise in prices at his restaurant won't make much difference to his smoking patrons, noting, "You know how smokers are when they run out of butts; they don't care what the price is, they just have to have more."

Anti-Jogging Law Studied

LOS ALTOS HILLS, Calif. (AP) — So many joggers are taking to the streets here that the city council may make it illegal.

"They take over the streets on weekends, sometimes 100 strong, five or six abreast and refuse to get out of the traffic lanes," City Manager Bob Crowe complained.

"One of these days a car is going to come around a curve and wipe out 45 joggers. We don't want that to happen," he said Friday of the runners rampant in his city of 7,025 people.

The Santa Clara county sheriff's office has asked the city council to adopt at its Feb. 1 meeting one of two ordinances intended to keep joggers off the streets. One would require that they carry permits. The other would make it a misdemeanor to jog on the street, punishable by six months in jail, a $500 fine or both.

Town Enjoys Being 'Flaky'

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP) — The newspaper in Oswego, where 146.1 inches of snow already has fallen this winter, has a message for Johnny Carson.

"We just want you to know that Oswego lives with its snow and you can bank on it," the Oswego Palladium-Times said Saturday in an open letter to Carson. "We're a little flakey sometimes, but there's not an igloo in our whole town, and life goes on."

Carson has been poking fun recently at the tiny upstate New York community because of all the snow it receives.

Smokers Aid Cancer Fund

Sam's Act Too Sober

Sam Peckinpah, the director who brought honor to bloodbaths ("The Wild Bunch," "Straw Dogs," "Killer Elite"), has turned actor. Peckinpah's moved in front of the camera for old pal, B filmmaker Monte Hellman, on "China 9, Liberty 27," with Warren Oates and Jenny Agutter. Trouble is, according to Agutter, "sam was on the wagon and had a terrible time.

Maybe it's difficult to play a sober journalist." That's not the sort of comment that lines up future acting jobs for you.

Inmate Petitions For Shorts

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — An inmate at the Charlottesville-Albemarle Joint Security Complex has filed a federal court complaint to get a free pair of undershorts.

Inmate Waddell Boyce Flood has petitioned U.S. District Court Judge James C. Turk "in hopes that I will be furnished with proper underclothing."

Flood's brief "petition for relief" charges that the jail administrator, Samuel V. Pruett, took away his non-white underwear in November and refuses to give him a pair of white cotton shorts.

"We require inmates to wear white," Pruett explained, "because we have to wash all their underwear together and we don't want colors fading all over everything."

He added that Flood "had plenty of money to buy underwear," with $41.75 in his jail account.

Tiger Gets Dental Reprieve

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Motorists may have thought otherwise, but the recent avalanche of snow here was a blessing for some. Take Monty the Tiger, for example.

The Siberian resident of Philadelphia Zoo won an indefinite reprieve from a root-canal operation on Friday when his dentist got stuck in his Elkins Park driveway.

Monty has a broken right maxillary canine.

Art's Purpose To 'Inspire'

"The highest purpose of art is to inspire," says semi-visionary singer-songwriter Bob Dylan. "What else can you do?" he asks. "What else can you do for anyone but inspire them?"

Dylan's latest inspirational effort is a film called "Renaldo and Clara," which, in the words of Rolling Stone magazine's Jonathan Cott, is about "art and life, identify and God — with lots of encounters at bars, restaurants, luncheonettes, cabarets and bus stations."

Conceived over a period of 10 years, and edited down from 400 hours of footage, "Renaldo and Clara" was shot during the 1975-76 Rolling Thunder Revue, the touring company of musical performers, poets and hangers on which included Bob and Sara Dylan, Joan Baez and Roger McGuinn.

"I know this film is too long — I don't care," says Dylan, who made his film debut in Sam Peckinpah's "Pat Garrett and Billy the Kid." He contends, "in India they show 12-hour movies. Americans are spoiled, they expect art to be like wallpaper with no effort, just to be there."

Tooth Fairy Gets Bad News

Does the thought of a dentist's drill drop you into a dead faint? If so, you're not alone. According to a National Health Survey, one out of every five Americans has never dared a single visit to the seat feared second only to the electric chair. In fact, the average person has five untreated cavities and, if over 30, shows some signs of gum disease.

But the news is not all bad in the battle against dreaded tooth decay. Researchers have now developed a decay dissolving spray which will make drilling obsolete, and are working on an innoculation against tooth decay.

According to an artilce in Apartment Life, scientists at Tufts University Dental School in Massachusetts have patented a spray called GK-101 that dissolves tooth decay in minutes. There's no pain, so no need for anesthetic, and unlike drilling it doesn't destroy healthy portions of the tooth. The spray is still under study by the FDA, but there have been no serious side effects reported.

Elsewhere, The National Institute of Dental Research is among the groups working to develop a vaccine against the bacteria that cause tooth decay. It is about to be tested in Japan, and the hope is that it will be available by the 1980s. That would make cavities as much a thing of the past as the recently eradicated smallpox. That's something to smile about.

Met Revives Massenet's 'Thais'

By FREDERICK WINSHIP
UPI Music Critic

NEW YORK — Two generations have grown up without a chance to see and hear Massenet's "Thais," considered by many to be an even finer work than the French master's earlier "Manon," on the New York stage.

Now the Metropolitan Opera has borrowed the San Francisco Opera's production and cast two of its brightest stars — Beverly Sills and Sherrill Milnes -in the lead roles to make up for the overlong neglect. The result is an experience of mixed delights that made its debut Jan. 18.

Miss Sills is the first Met soprano to essay the role since Helen Jepson in 1939 and the great Thaises of the past — Farrar, Jeritza and Garden — elude even the longest memories. Thus no odious comparisons are in order.

Miss Sills has made the role completely her own, equally successful as the seductive toast of Egypt's hedonistic society and as the repentant courtesan who will become the Catholic church's St. Thais.

Miss Sills was stunningly lovely in her diaphanous gowns and glittering jewels, touching in the simplicty of her nun's garb. Her voice, slightly tenuous at first, warmed to Massenet's succession of glorious melodies, endowing each with delicate shadings and emotional accents. Having announced her decision to retire in 1980, she is determined to end her career in prime vocal and physical condition. Brava, Beverly!

Thais, a high class hooker in Alexandria in the fourth century, was converted to Christianity by the monk Athanael. While she finds salvation, he experiences painful perdition because of his carnal desire for the convert. Milnes was perfect in the Athanael role, originally created by Anatole France for his novel, "The Legend of St. Thais," and apparently recreated by Somerset Maugham in his Rev. Alfred Davidson.

Milnes made a handsome, stalwart hero, believable in all the complexities of his role. The voice is one of the great baritones of the day and perhaps no role can show it off more felicitously than that of Athanael, thanks to Massenet's remarkable appreciation of the human voice.

Milnes would have stolen the show if he had not been paired with Miss Sills. Fortunately they worked beautifully together and with the rest of the cast, including James Morris, Raymond Gibbs, and Batyah Godfrey.

The lavish production is likely to be controversial, a mish-mash of styles that recall Gustave Moreau, the Wagner grandsons, Cecil B. DeMille, and the Folies Bergeres. Mirrors are very big with designer Carl Toms, making his Met debut.

Poll Indicates Confidence Low In Carter Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — Public confidence in President Carter's ability to deal with the economy has hit a new low, according to a poll conducted by The New York Times and CBS News.

According to the nationwide poll of 1,599 adults, 81 percent of those responding said they doubt Carter can control inflation; 74 percent doubt he can balance the federal budget; and 54 percent are skeptical about his chances of lessening unemployment.

The poll also showed a continued drop in Carter's overall job rating. From his inauguration, when 66 percent of the nation said they approved of the way he ran the country, his rating dropped to 55 percent in October and to 51 percent in the latest polling, conducted Jan. 8-12.

At the same time, 50 percent of those participating believe themselves worse off financially than they were last year at this time, and 44 percent believe they are better off. Blacks, the elderly, low-income and college-educated groups all cited a drop in their personal economic situations.

In addition, the pollsters made these conclusions:

—51 percent of the nation disapproves of the Panama Canal treaty.

—47 percent believe the energy crisis is a concoction of the oil companies, and 43 percent believe it is a serious problem. But by a seven-to-one margin, citizens blame Congress for the lack of an energy program.

—One third of the public believes that Carter's recent trip abroad will help relations with other nations, another third said the trip will make no difference, and the rest did not follow the trip.

Soviet Solons Visiting U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the invitation of Congress, a delegation from the Soviet parliament arrived here Sunday for an 11-day visit that will also take them to Houston, Los Angeles, Detroit and New York.

The group of 10 represents the Supreme Soviet, the body of government subordinate to the leadership of the Soviet Communist Party.

The group arrived at Andrews Air Force Base aboard a Soviet Aeroflot jetliner. They were welcomed by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who is the majority whip, and his counterpart in the House, Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind.

Best Actress Selection Difficult For 1978

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For the first time in 15 years, it's a real race for the Oscar as best actress of the year.

When the 50th awards of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences are presented at the Los Angeles Music Center April 3, the biggest suspense will likely be in selection of the actress winner. Oscar historians can't recall as impressive a field since 1962.

That was the year Anne Bancroft scored for "The Miracle Worker." The other nominees were equally distinguished: Bette Davis, "What Ever Happened to baby Jane?"; Katharine Hepburn, "Long Day's Journey into Night"; Geraldine Page, "Sweet Bird of Youth"; Lee Remick, "Days of Wine and Roses."

Not this year. The film companies have finally realized that audiences are also interested in subjects about women.

Two 1977 movies offer double possibilities for nominations as best performance by an actress: "The Turning Point," Shirley MacLaine and Anne Bancroft; "Three Women," Shelley Duval and Sissy Spacek. Diane Keaton could be nominated for either "Annie Hall" or "Looking for Mr. Goodbar."

Jane Fonda, winner for "Klute" in 1971, is a likely candidate for "Julia." Vanessa Redgrave may be mentioned for the same film, though perhaps as supporting actress.

Kathleen Quinlan is a sharp possibility for "I Never Promised You a Rose Garden." Others: Lily Tomlin, "The Late Show"; Sophia Loren, "A Special Day"; Gena Rowlands, "Opening Night"; Marsha Mason, "The Goodbye Girl"; Liza Minnelli, "New York, New York."

Comedy performances dominate the race for best performance by an actor. Comedy performances dominate the race for best performance by an actor. Richard Dreyfus is a probable nominee for "The Goodbye Girl" (rather than "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," in which he ws upstaged by space creates). Two stand-up comics turned actors are hot prospects: Woody Allen for "Annie Hall" and George Burns for "Oh, God!" And another — Art Carney for "The Late Show."

Other possibilities among star actors: Gregory Peck, "MacArthur"; John Gielgud, "Providence"; Marcello Mastroianni, "A pecial Day"; Robert DeNiro, "New York, New York." John Travolta, "Saturday Night Fever"; George C. Scott, "Islands in the Stream."

Science fiction dominates the field for best picture. The front-runners: "Star Wars" and "Close Encounters of the Third Kind." It's a curious fact that hardware seems to dominate such films; no performances appear likely for nominations, except perhaps Alec Guinness as supporting actor in "Star Wars."

The field for best picture, along with the directors who may well be nominated: "Star Wars," George Lucas; "Close Encounters," Steven Spielberg; "The Turning Point," Herbert Ross; "Annie Hall," Woody Allen; "Julia," Freyd Zinnemann; "That Obscure Object of Desire," Luis Bunuel.

The supporting performance nominations are less easy to predict. Among the possibilities:

Supporting actress — Vanessa Redgrave, "Julia"; Joan Blondell, "Opening Night"; Bibi Anderson, Sylvia Sidney, "I Never Promised You a Rose Garden"; Karen Lynn Gorney, "Saturday Night Fever"; Janice Rule, "Three Women"; Dominque Sanda, "1900"; Diana Rigyg, "A Little Night Music"; Leslie Browne, "The Turning Point."

Supporting actor — Bill Macy, "The Late Show"; Burt Lancaster, Sterling Hayden, "1900"; Alec Guinness, "Star Wars"; Peter Firth, "Equus"; Jason Robards, "Julia"; Tom Skerritt, Mikhail Baryshnikov, "The Turning Point"; G.D. Spradlin, "One on One"; Lionel Stander, "New York, New York."

Luckenbach Humorist Honored In Sub-Freezing Ceremonies

LUCKENBACH (UPI) — An estimated 200 persons stood in sub-freezing weather outside a 128-year-old saloon Saturday and giggled, guffawed and laughed for one full minute in what was billed as the first International Chuckle-In.

The group braved a 27-degree temperature to honor the late humorist Hondo Crouch who made this Hill Country town famous as a site for all-night beer parties and a gathering place for musicians and artists.

At the end of the ceremony a red bandana was used to unveil a bronze bust of Crouch near the front porch of the old general store where he gathered his friends around a woodburning stove to spin yarns and sing songs.

"It warms your heart and your body," said Kathy Morgan, who co-owned the town with Crouch, after the gales of laughter subsided.

"Hondo is dead, but he'll roam these hills forever," said humorist Tex Scofield, one of several speakers eulogizing Crouch during an hour-long ceremony.

Guich Kooch, a co-star of the television series "Carter Country" who helped Crouch preserve Luchenbach for posterity, said the white-bearded Crouch would have been amused at the teeth-chattering crowd and probably would have been inside by the stove himself.

"It's just like Hondo to pull a joke on us like this," Kooch said. Crouch was famous for practical jokes and spoofing serious subjects like the American Bicentennial.

Crouch's son-in-law, Dow Patterson, sang a song he wrote about Crouch and his friends and read from an old Episcopal prayer book which Crouch used to bury actor Ken Curtis in a western movie shortly before Crouch's death in 1976.

Recording artist Jerry Jeff Walker sent a telegram honoring Crouch and Walker's song, "Old Buddy," was played over a loudspeaker during the unveiling of the bust, sculpted by Richard Omar Cook.

The crowd also heard a letter written by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., one of four persons honored as "national nags" in the first edition of a new weekly newspaper called the "Luckenbach Moon."

Proxmire promised in the letter he would stop for one minute Saturday and laugh aloud as part of the Chuckle-In. Also named as nags and asked to laugh along were Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., gossip columnist Rona Barrett and atheist leader Madalyn Murray O'Hair.

Dole said he would not participate in the chuckle-in. "He thought he was declared a horse," an aide said. "He said he is going to the horse races."

Farm Strikers Request Funds, Replacements

A-J Correspondent

PADUCAH — The American Agriculture Strike Office here called on citizens of Cottle and King counties to help raise funds to keep strike delegates in Washington and to send new replacements to help them take their message to Congress.

Contributions of any amount may be taken to this strike office located one door north of W. R. Moore Cotton Office, south of city hall.

Checks may be mailed to American Agriculture in Paducah. If designated as a gift, these contributions are tax deductable, a spokesman said.

Of the 52 delegates who have been in the nation's capitol for four days at their own expense, seven plan to leave for home Saturday.

The seven are Bob Graves, James Long and Roy Bob Keith of King County along with Cottle County farmers Billy J. Holley, Gerald and Steve Piper and Randy Fields. They will continue the battle to gain support for a new farm program which will allow farmers to realize production costs and gain a reasonable return on their investments.

Delegates said they were making headway in their efforts to explain to senators and representatives from urban areas why it is that the nation's farmers are going broke.

The legislators from non-farming regions said they had no idea of what went into the production of the food stuffs they purchase from the supermarkets or of the fiber which goes into their wearing apparel.

A group of farmers are making plans to depart Monday to join their friends in Washington.
