We All Have Our Troubles And This Iowa Woman Thinks That Jail Might Be Some Relief

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 9—You aren't the only one having trouble with an income tax return.

Treasury officials laughingly made public today this letter from an Iowa woman:

"I am the cook, laundress, barber, housecleaner,... keep books in the winter, sell garden plats in the spring, can around 300 quarts of food in summer, grandmother to 10, try to keep my temper down and keep the old man happy and not trained for this job of bookkeeping anyway.

"So if you want to put me in jail because I make mistakes, go ahead, maybe I would get a rest."

Blow To Old Guard's Prestige On New York Stock Exchange Looms In Whitney Failure

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Mar. 9.—Wall street was in a flurry of conjecture today over the possible impetus to stock exchange reorganization and reform which may result from the sensational failure of Richard Whitney & Co.

While eagerly awaiting revelations as to the financial transactions that resulted in yesterday's announcement of suspension and insolvency of the brokerage house headed by the exchange's former president, some Wall streeters saw deep significance in the possible blow to the prestige of the stock exchange's "old guard."

The entire exchange membership, it was pointed out, is now voting on proposed amendments to its constitution, which if approved, would bring an entire new board of governors into office next May.

Whitney became president of the exchange in 1930 and was ousted in 1935 by an "insurgent" group which supported Charles R. Gay, present president. The insurgents opposed Whitney as representing the "old guard" which they charged perpetuated itself in control year after year, operated the exchange as a private club, and had not been alert to changes in public and political temper toward Wall street after 1929.

Some members of the "insurgent" group have complained, however, that the Gay administration has represented little alteration in control, since it found many of the "old guard" still in key positions in the board of governors.

The Whitney suspension gave Wall street a shock such as it has not received in years. Never in stock exchange history had a president or former president been suspended.

That the market received the news calmly, it was explained, was due to the fact that the name of Richard Whitney was prominent

Man's Prayer Likely Will Convict Him

Final Public Session Is Held Today; Confessions To Four Sinister Murders Given

(By The Associated Press)

MOSCOW, Mar. 9 — A scribbled prayer wrapped around a crust of dried bread was introduced today as further evidence of guilt against one of the 21 who have confessed to treason and murder in Moscow's greatest blood purge trial.

This incident and further confessions to four bizarre medical murders ended examination of defendants in open court. A secret session was to follow soon. It was the trial's seventh session.

Faces Probable Death

It was A. P. Rosengoltz, former commissar of foreign trade, already a confessed traitor and facing probable death with his fellows, whose religious talisman was produced by the prosecution to further convict him before the court of unbelievers.

The prayer, said Prosecutor Andrei Y. Vishinsky, was found in a secret pocket of Rosengoltz' clothes when he was arrested. Vishinsky read it:

"May God be resurrected and his enemies be smitten by the arrows of his faithful servants."

Blamed Upon Wife

Rosengoltz paled visibly in face of this apparent evidence of religious tendencies. His dark face took on an expression of fright. He said his wife put it in his pocket one day saying it was a talisman of her family and would protect him from danger.

"I paid no attention to it," he pleaded. "I carried it for three months. Only after my arrest I found out about the prayer it contained."

Medical experts named by the court unanimously found that Maxim Gorky, the writer, his son, Maxim Pechkoff, and Vyacheslaff Menzhinsky, once head of the secret police, suffered from treatments administered by three eminent physicians accused of their murders, and that a heart ailment of Valerian V. Kuibisheff, first head of the five year plan, was criminally neglected.

The experts also found that deadly fume-producing compounds had

Texas Officers Prepare To Crack Down On Livestock Theft Rings Over State

BY WILLIAM E. KEYS,
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Mar. 9.—Rangers, sheriffs and special officers of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' association are about to crack down on livestock theft rings.

A lengthy and quiet investigation is nearing a climax and, a reliable source said, evidence might be turned over to various cattle country grand juries in April.

Col. H. H. Carmichael, public safety director, says theft of cattle, sheep, goats and hogs has increased recently but enforcement officers, banking on new laws, believe their campaign will produce startling results.

In recent months 13 indictments were returned by juries in Panhandle and West and Central Texas counties. One source said results of newly gathered evidence should eclipse these indictments.

At the last general session of the legislature penalties for livestock theft were increased and theft of wool, mohair and edible meat was made a felony. Conviction under either law brings sentences of from two to 10 years.

The lawgivers also placed restrictions on livestock commission merchants, requiring them to register, make bond and keep an accurate description of every animal involved in transactions. Violations are misdemeanors subject to fines of from $25 to $1,000, 30 days imprisonment or both.

The new era of stock thefts, while lacking the color of that of frontier days, presents even more difficulties.

The modern rustler works with trucks instead of horses, has gained greater celerity of movement and, as a result, capture has been made more difficult.

In the dead of night he slips into vast ranchlands, cuts a few head from a herd, sometimes kills and dresses them on the spot and by daylight has disposed of them at a nearby market.

The method produces little evidence because thieves seldom leave behind hides or other incriminating evidence. But

Thousands Of Persons Are In Amarillo

Mrs. Roosevelt Arrives And Is Honor Guest; Governors Of Five States On Hand

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Mar. 9 — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived here at 11:25 a. m. (CST) today for the spectacular Mothers-In-Law day celebration and found this Plains cow town jammed to capacity with thousands of visitors.

Mrs. Roosevelt came here by train from Lubbock, where she spent the night, and was greeted by the governors of five southwestern states, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas. Her son, Elliott, and his wife accompanied the first lady.

Is Given Huge Bouquet

Mrs. Roosevelt, honor guest of the day, rode in an open car over the line of the 13-mile-long parade and stopped at the reviewing stand to receive a one-ton bouquet of 5,000 roses.

The first lady then watched one of the longest and most colorful parades ever staged in the southwest, featured by "the largest float in the world," which was occupied by 600 mothers-in-law and a boy selling soda pop.

Thousands Are Present

Thousands of women with married children were in the city for the annual celebration. Hundreds came from other states and nearly every state in the union was represented.

The weather gods smiled on the celebration, sending clear, warm weather after last night's rains had settled the dust.

By dawn the streets were packed and the only space where standing room was available by parade time was the bald plains surrounding the city.

Great Britain Retains Right Over Islands

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Mar. 9.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the house of commons today that Sir Ronald Lindsay, ambassador to Washington, had been instructed to inform the United States government that Britain "reserves her right over the islands of Canton and Enderbury."

Chamberlain announced that "proposals will be submitted in hope of ending this controversy."

Plan Joint Control

It was believed some form of joint control of the two mid-Pacific islands would be proposed by Britain.

Canton and Enderbury islands, in the Phoenix group, have been occupied by Hawaiian parties landed by a United States coast guard cutter. Previously they had been treated as British territory in British government orders-in-council.

Tolerant Attitude Is Cause For Great Concern In Japan

TOKYO, Mar. 9. (AP)—Britain's tolerant attitude over the planting of the United States flag on Canton and Enderbury islands in the mid-Pacific has aroused concern in official quarters here, where it is seen as evidence of Anglo-American cooperation.

Authoritative quarters said they were unable to reconcile occupation of the islands with the United States' insistence she was concerned only with defense in the Pacific. Britain's apparently "benevolent unconcern" toward American appropriation of nominally British territory has been noted with evident anxiety.

They're Putting It On In Big Style In Amarillo; Largest Parade In History Is Held

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, March 9 — When preparations were started a year ago for today's mother-in-law celebration, Gene Howe, originator of the idea, said he wanted the longest and most colorful parade ever staged.

The result:

A twelve-mile long parade, with the "largest float in the world" seating 600 women, all mothers-in-laws. A soda pop concession was arranged for the big float.

A realistic looking pioneer dugout, made for the oldest mother-in-law present, Mrs. Martha Rogers who came to Texas in an oxcart in 1861.

A group of 32 Indian mothers-in-law from the Navajo reservation in New Mexico marching in native costume.

An airplane model decorated with 25,000 handmade flowers.

An old surrey owned by H. B. Sandborn, founder of Amarillo and a developer of the barbed wire that fenced the open range.

Opposition To Crop Quotas Is Reported

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 9 — The agriculture department set up machinery today to take a farmer vote Saturday on invoking control provisions of the new farm law for the first time.

Polling places were established in 20 states where more than 2,000,000 cotton and tobacco growers can say whether they want a quota system to hold surplus yields of their crops off the market.

Markets Oversupplied

In ordering the election, department officials said markets already were oversupplied with these commodities. The quota system was necessary, they contended, to keep additional surpluses from moving into trade channels and depressing prices still further.

Approval of two-thirds of the farmers participating in the referenda—one for cotton and one each for flue-cured and dark types of tobacco — would put the quota device into operation.

Opposition Is Reported

AAA chieftains said today they had received reports of "strong" opposition in Texas and Oklahoma to cotton restrictions and in the Carolinas to quotas on flue-cured tobacco.

While not directly affected, growers of corn and wheat watched the referenda with interest. They may vote later this season on proposals to apply the quota system to their

Court Upholds Death Penalty

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Mar. 9.—The court of criminal appeals ruled today that Roscoe Young and Henderson Young, Harrison county negroes, must die in the electric chair for the robbery and assault of a Longview couple last August.

It affirmed the extreme penalties given the negro brothers who were accused of stopping Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Reed near Hallsville, robbing Reed of $144 and assaulting his wife.

Testimony Sufficient

Roscoe was convicted of robbery and Henderson of rape.

The highest criminal court said testimony was sufficient in both cases to support the juries conclusions and the appellants' guilt.

The cases were tried separately.

Rural Distress In Plains Area Acute

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 9—Rural distress is acute in the great plains states of the west, H. H. Bennett, chief of the soil conservation service, told the senate unemployment and relief committee today.

About 70 per cent of the land in the vast area extending from the Panhandle of Texas to the Canadian border has been affected in some degree by wind or water erosion, Bennett testified.

Must Solve Problem

He asserted that the problem of soil erosion must be solved "if the agriculture of the great plains is to become stable and secure."

Bennett estimated that 50 million acres of once productive agricultural land "has been virtually ruined for cultivation" by erosion, resulting in serious rural impoverishment.

The soil conservation chief recommended continuation of government aid to distressed farmers who are economically unable to meet the problem of soil erosion themselves.

Be Able To Continue

"If our erosion control program is made adaptable to persons without means, or with inadequate means, by permitting greater federal contributions to impoverished farmers, such unfortunate operators

Austrian Vote Will Be Held

(By The Associated Press)

VIENNA, Mar. 9.—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, champion of Austria's independence, was reported reliably today planning an early referendum to win a mandate for his resistance to German encroachment.

Semi-official quarters and sources in the fatherland front, Austria's only legal political party, said the plebiscite might be held within eight days.

Schuschnigg's plan, they said, was to ask every Austrian over 24 years old:

Question To Be Asked

"Are you in favor of Austrian independence and sovereignty?"

Government officials predicted a 70 per cent vote endorsing Schuschnigg's policies since his "Berchtesgaden conversations" last month with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, which opened the way for wider nazi influence in Austria.

It was explained that the 24-year age limit would exclude youths among whom the nazis have been conducting their most intensive propaganda.

The chancellor had been known to be considering a referendum since his meeting with Hitler. He was understood to feel the sooner it was held the better—before the nazis can extend the inch they have been given into a mile.

Strong Winds Shake Corpus

(By The Associated Press)

CORPUS CHRISTI, Mar. 9.—Winds of terrific force, estimated at 70 miles an hour at the municipal airport, shook Corpus Christi buildings early today, broke several windows, but caused no material amount of damage. In the Saxet oil field near here, several derricks were blown down, one narrowly missing a house.

No official report was available at the airport because the power was cut off during the blow, but the estimate was considered by weather bureau officials as fairly accurate.

Barometer Falls

Official records in the downtown section showed a maximum of 48 miles an hour for five minutes and 55 miles an hour as the fastest single mile. The barometer fell from 30.01 at midnight to 29.80 at 2 o'clock this morning.

Trees were blown down, garage doors torn off and at the airport a fire extinguisher house was lifted over a fence.

The weather bureau said the wind was caused by a local disturbance resulting from thunderstorms in the north and a low pressure area over Arizona.

BOSTON, March 9 (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Thomas Cleveland's defense of J. Edgar Hoover cost him a serious stab wound in the chest in an argument over the prowess of the head of the federal bureau of investigation.

George Lumpkin, 18, was arrested on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Boost For Freight Rate Is Granted

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 9—Approval of higher freight rates by the Interstate Commerce commission fell so far short of needs, rail executives said today, that the nation's railroads remain in a perilous financial condition.

"We are glad to have what they gave us," said J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, "but we're disappointed."

Additional Revenue

The commission's decision, handed down late yesterday, gave the railroads permission to raise most rates from 5 to 10 per cent. Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman estimated the additional revenue would amount to $274,000,000 a year.

Pelley said a study of the 190-page decision indicated the general freight rate schedule had been boosted only 5 or 6 per cent. Railroad spokesmen during the hearings asked for a 15 per cent increase, but Pelley said the requested changes actually would have lifted the rates only 12.9 per cent.

Next Step Undecided

"Whether we'll go back to the commission again with another petition for higher freight rates, or just what course we will pursue hasn't been decided," he said, adding that the permitted raises will be put into effect as quickly as possible.

They may be applied on 10 days'

The Democratic whip, Representative Boland (D-Pa), told reporters he had made no poll on the proposal but forecast the vote would be "awfully close."

Before McCormack offered the amendment, the house agreed to end the discussion of the so-called "1B" tax section — containing the closely held corporation surtax — within an hour and a half.

The bill would impose on companies having annual net incomes above $75,000 and owned by a family

Chinese Blast Dykes In An Effort To Check Japs

SHANGHAI, Mar. 9. (AP)—Chinese blasted dykes and hoped by flood today to check the Japanese army's drive into the vast and fertile area south of China's meandering Yellow river.

The new tactics were used against 900 Japanese with 20 tanks who crossed the Yellow at Szeshui, 25 miles west of the strategic railway junction, Chengchow in Honah province.

Many of the Japanese were drowned, Chinese said, and their tanks were crippled when the blown up dykes flooded the countryside.

New King Producer Is Being Claimed For KMA Section

WICHITA FALLS, Mar. 9. (AP)—The KMA oil field today claimed a new king producer after officials of the Consolidated Oil company late Tuesday opened up their newly-completed No. 4 W. P. Ferguson well for inspection of all who might be interested.

While accurate estimates of the well's production are impossible, observers rated it as good for at least 8,000 barrels after watching it blow the head of a separator, gush 150 feet in the air through seven-inch pipe, and overflow a 400-barrel tank in less than 30 minutes.

Numerous Persons At Station To See First Lady Depart

Approximately 600 persons were estimated to have witnessed departure at 8:45 o'clock this morning aboard a Panhandle & Santa Fe train of Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who spoke in Lubbock Tuesday night.

Numerous persons spoke briefly with the First Lady, who smiled but declined to give autographs.

Her famous smile especially was directed on 7-year-old Billie Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Yant of 1919 Twenty-fourth street, who not content with seeing the wife of the president went over and touched her shoulder.

Peruvian Handbag

Large handbags did not, as you might suppose, come out of the need of modern business women for satchels that would hold a day's supply of make-up and a batch of letters. No, Peruvian glamour girls went in for roomy handbags such as the handwoven one above more than a thousand years ago. Slung over the shoulder in the follow-up manner of 1937, the gals of 937 or thereabouts filled them with jewels, medicinal herbs, and cocoa leaves — forerunner of chewing tobacco. The bags—a number of which are now on display in New York — were woven of cotton and wool and dyed bright colors which have held "fast" through the years.

Texas Tech Library Formally Dedicated; Allred Speaks

The cornerstone of Texas Technological college's $275,000 library was levelled Tuesday afternoon by the Grand Lodge of Texas, A. F. & A. M., and Gov. James V. Allred spoke.

Grand Master John Temple Rice of El Paso officiated during ritual attendant to laying the cornerstone, in which subsequently were placed documents "that will show those who remove them at some future time present culture of the South Plains and West Texas." He was assisted by other officers of the Grand Lodge.

A crowd variously estimated at from 3,000 to 4,000 persons braved intermittent showers to see the ceremony and to hear the great structure dedicated to the future of education, to those, as the governor said, "who will know no north, no south, no east, no west," but "freemen standing steadfast for those principles which the experience of their fathers revealed as underlying the foundation of the best of government."

Allred Traces Construction

Governor Allred traced the construction of the library from the abstract days when a proposal for its creation was offered in the legislature.

Senate bill No. 18, he said, was offered by Sen. G. H. Nelson of Lubbock and enacted by the 44th legislature. It unanimously was passed by the senate Nov. 12, 1935. On Nov. 13, the house of representatives passed the measure, 112 to 18, and the next day "it became effective when upon reaching my desk it was gladly and promptly approved . . ."

The governor traced the progress of education in Texas and, at conclusion of his address, he was forced to climb from a 10-foot platform to avoid the press of autograph seekers, camera fans and well-wishers in general.

The governor was introduced by Dr. Bradford Knapp, Tech president who arose from a sick bed to preside at the cornerstone laying. Dr. Knapp said Tech's progress had begun with "nothing and had reached an enrollment of 3,490 in the regular semester this year—all in the space of 13 years." He indicated more than 5,000 students would be enrolled in the long session of 1941-42, based on present strides.

The new library, said Dr. Knapp, will provide for 1,000 students to be accommodated at the same time, whereas the old structure would handle only 149. He praised efforts of Governor Allred in behalf of Tech.

Music was played at intervals in the program by the Matador bandsmen, Prof. D. O. Wiley directing. Dr. Lewis, acting grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Texas, offered an invocation, later pronouncing a benediction.

Miss Elizabeth H. West, librarian, was called to the stand and praised for her contribution in bringing about the new library.

Grand Lodge officials in the ceremony were: Rice; Lee Lockwood of Waco, state deputy grand master; Leo Hart of Gilmer, grand senior warden; Sam B. Cantey, jr., of Fort Worth, grand junior warden, and Jim Martin of Stamford, grand marshal.

Other Masons on the platform were Dr. J. M. Lewis, H. J. McClellan, Burton S. Burks, Neil H. Wright, H. L. Willeford, W. Guy Casey, A. Sansom, S. C. Wilson, and Early Daniel, all of whom live in Lubbock and were appointed to serve as grand officers for the occasion.

Also on the rostrum were Spencer Wells, vice chairman of the board of directors of the college; Charles C. Thompson of Colorado, director; W. T. Gaston, college business manager; Sen. Nelson, DeWitt Knapp, son of the college president, and Gen. John A. Hulen, former director, and Dr. J. O. Loftin, president of Texas College of Arts and Industries.

On the side of the cornerstone were the names: James V. Allred, Sen. G. H. Nelson, Rep. J. Doyle Settle, Clifford B. Jones, Spencer Wells, Mrs. John A. Haley, Mrs. W. R. Potter, James M. West, Charles C. Thompson, all directors, and Dr. Bradford Knapp.

Work Is Advancing On Dickens Route

Judge Marshall Formby of Dickens county said here Tuesday that dirt is being moved and that several bridges are nearing completion in road construction extending nine and one-tenth miles east from Dickens on Texas State highway number 24.

"The total drainage contract amounts to $177,000," said Formby, "and several of the 26 bridges called for, five of them major structures, are nearing completion. Work will probably be completed in the early fall and we hope to get a hot top on the road by 1939."

According to the Dickens report it was necessary to build several bridges before dirt work could start. A number of Dickens county men are employed, which relieves somewhat the unemployment situation.

James Spencer and Sons have the dirt-moving contract and Oran Speer is building the bridges.

"Approximately 70 per cent of current collections have been made for 1937," said Formby, "All bond funds are in excellent shape. A large per cent of delinquent taxes have been paid during the past 12 months, and a good many warrants are being paid which had been issued against road and bridge funds."

Explaining further that other funds are in good shape, Formby said that the county is in the finest shape in several years.

Young Father Works By Night And Attends School By Day

PITTSBURGH, Mar. 9. (AP)—A young father of three children who works by night and attends classes by day is the only straight "A" freshman at suburban Elizabeth high school.

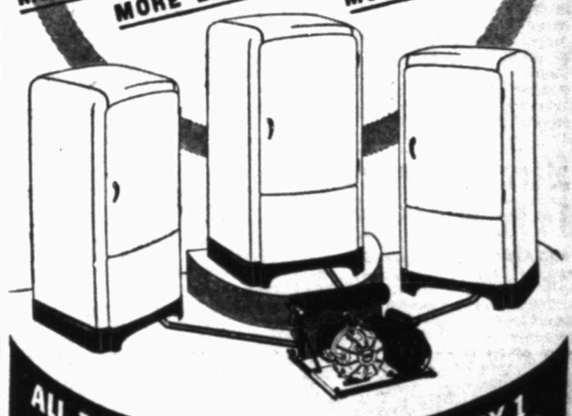

He is Lawrence Stragand, 29, whose ambition to "get somewhere" in the Carnegie Illinois Steel corporation chemical laboratories led him back to the school he quit 13 years ago.

The father of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow disapproved of his son becoming a man of letters.

Things Look Rosy For Giants

Colonel Terry Expecting To Grab A Flag

(By The Associated Press)

BATON ROUGE, La., Mar. 9.—The Giants, to whom rival National league folks are fond of referring as "lucky stiffs," are far along in their training here on the banks of the Mississippi, and Colonel Bill Terry says he thinks they're going to win another flag.

"I don't see anybody to beat us," he said, "unless both Dizzy and Daffy Dean should come back and pitch for the Cards like they did a few years ago. But I won't believe that until I see it."

Sublime Confidence

There's something wholly charming about the Giants camp. Colonel Terry isn't glowering at the sports writers and there's an atmosphere of sublime confidence. Others might worry about the Giants and try to figure out what holds them up, but there's none of that around here. They've shaken off that beating they took from the Yankees in the last World series.

So nicely are things breaking that Terry couldn't even get excited when his rookie second baseman, Bill Nowak, turned up in the Cleveland Indians training camp yesterday. He would get him back, he said, letting it go at that.

Better Than Ever

"Terrible things have been happening to us all spring," Bill said. "Castleman refused to report, Burgess Whitehead was operated upon for appendicitis and Dolfo Luque pulled a Cuban sit down strike on me. And it looks like we're going to be a better ball club than ever."

Largely responsible for Bill's expansive mood is his suspicion that in Tom Baker he's found a right hand pitcher who will make him forget all about Clydell Castleman. Since watching Baker pitch three innings against the Athletics last Sunday at Lake Charles, the colonel has quit wiring Castleman to report instanter.

Stars Of Tomorrow To Receive Tests

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., Mar. 9. (AP)—Future baseball players for the Chicago Cubs will in effect be shoved through a laboratory test tube in an attempt to bring out their potentialities as stars of tomorrow.

It's the idea of P. K. Wrigley, multi-millionaire owner of the team. Nothing like it ever before has been attempted in baseball, although the idea has been applied to industry.

Wrigley has set up the first baseball research laboratory under the general supervision of Prof. Coleman Griffith, a specialist in psychology at the University of Illinois.

Prof. Griffith, a tall, scholarly looking individual, is regarded as a genius in athletic research. He has figured the horse power a runner develops in a 100-yard sprint, the speed a baseball gathers from pitcher to catcher and in its flight from a bat, and the muscular and mental reactions of an athlete doing anything.

Prof. Griffith contends there are many young men in this country who have never thought of baseball as a career who possess just the proper eyes, muscular responses and mental equipment to make them possible stars. He said that men of these qualifications can develop their inherent talents quickly through proper coaching.

Southwest Cage Race Closed When Aggies Defeat Rice

(By The Associated Press)

The Southwest conference basketball season came to an uneventful close last night when Texas A. & M. defeated Rice institute at Houston 52-45. The game gave the A. & M. Aggies six victories against six defeats—just enough to keep them ahead of the University of Texas.

The Longhorns ended up in fifth place. Rice, which had lost more games than any other team except Texas Christian, was next to the cellar.

Many games previously Arkansas had cinched the title. Baylor took second place, beating Southern Methodist university, last season's champions.

Texarkana Junior College To Abandon Football Schedule

TEXARKANA, Tex., Mar. 9. (AP)—Texarkana Junior college will not play intercollegiate football hereafter, the school board decreed last night. H. W. Stilwell, superintendent of the school system, said the board took the action because football "had not paid its way."

Coach D. M. Telford, football and basketball coach at Texarkana, Tex., high school, tendered his resignation because, he said, he could not expect a winning team under "existing conditions."

The board's action will have no bearing on high school football. Telford's successor has not been named.

They say Clingman really did a sweet job of it. . . . Don't know whether Big Train will be able to referee here tonight or not. . . . But he's sorry he ever let Moran bulldoze him in the first place. . .

Let's have some more suggestions in the "name the ball club" contest. . . . They've been coming in slowly, about half of them suggesting the name Hubbers be retained . . . . Let's have your views. . . .

Demise of Judge Stephen McKeever of Boston, otherwise a lamentable incident, may help clear up the Brooklyn baseball muddle. . . . The McKeevers and the Ebbetses, involuntary partners in the Dodger deal, have been at odds for several seasons, this being one reason the Dodgers haven't prospered in the percentage columns. . . . The McKeever descendants may be able to "see the light," or cause the opposition to do so, thus bettering the National League's biggest problem. . . . Larry MacPhail, now in general charge of the team, is a smart fellow. . . . If his advice is taken by both factions, the Dodgers may become quite dangerous.

As related by Alan Gould, AP sports ed, here's old Pete Alexander's story of that celebrated occasion when he stood off the Yankees for the Cardinals in the seventh and final game of the 1926 World Series:

"I had pitched and won the game the day before," related Grover Cleveland, recently named to baseball's hall of fame. . . . "Rogers Hornsby said after the game, 'Pete, I may need you tomorrow, so please don't do any drinking.' . . . I told Rog I would be with him from that time until the next afternoon; that I would eat with him and sleep with him, which I did. . . . After the game, the newspapermen of New York said I stumbled out to the mound. . . . They asked Rog if I were drunk. . . . Instead of denying it, as he should, he said: 'Alexander can pitch better drunk than most men sober' . . . Remember I am not criticizing Rog. . . He was a great ball player, a judge of ball players, but I never liked him for that one remark."

HALL OF FAME having been established in baseball, Alan Gould, sports editor of the AP, has made bold to name candidates for other sports' halls. . . . See if you agree with him in the following:

Boxing: 1—Jim Corbett; 2—Robert Fitzsimmons; 3—John L. Sullivan; 4—Joe Gans; 5—Jack Dempsey; 6—Benny Leonard; 7—George L. (Tex) Rickard; 8—Gene Tunney; 9—Jack McAuliffe; 10—Sam Langford.

Tennis: 1—William Tilden II; 2—William M. Johnston; 3—Hugh Laurence Doherty; 4—Norman Everard Brookes; 5—Reginald F. Doherty; 6—Fred Perry; 7—Rene Lacoste; 8—Henri Cochet; 9—Anthony F. Wilding; 10—Maurice E. McLoughlin.

Track and field: 1—Paavo Nurmi; 2—Lon Myers; 3—Jesse Owens; 4—Joie Ray; 5—Hannes Kolehmainen; 6—Alfred Shrubb; 7—Jim Thorpe; 8—Alvin C. Kraenzlein; 9—Glenn Cunningham; 10—Harold Osborn; (Mr. Gould may have reconstructed his rating since Cunningham's record mile run the other night.)

Golf: 1—Harry Vardon; 2—Bobby Jones; 3—Walter Travis; 4—Walter Hagen; 5—James Braid; 6—H. H. Hilton; 7—J. H. Taylor 8—Francis Ouimet; 9—John Ball, jr.; 10—Charles Chick Evans, jr.

And for his gallery of women hall of famers, in different branches of sport:

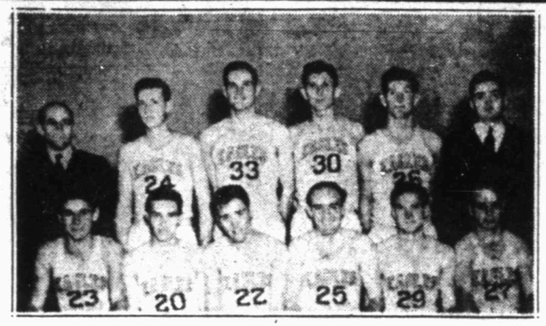

Tennis and golf—Mary K. Browne.
All-around—Mildred Babe Didrikson.
Swimming—Gertrude Ederle.
Tennis—Suzanne Lenglen.
Tennis—Helen Mills Moody.
All-around—Eleonora Sears.
Golf—Glenna Collett Vare.
Golf—Joyce Wethered.
Tennis—Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman.

Jack O'Brien, former sports editor of a leading San Antonio daily, now publisher of his own weekly sports mag, "No Foolin'," dedicates this week's issue to the St. Louis Browns. . . The Browns, who farm the Santone club of the Texas League, are training in the city. . . O'Brien's paper, always on bright gold colored paper, is printed with brown ink, and the whole theme is calculated to make the Browns feel at home in San Antonio. . . . The front page picture of Olivia DeHavilland, is quite a wow, too. . . The Browns must be chuckling today over the latest antics of their former playmate, Rollicking Rollie Hemsley, recently traded to the Cleveland Indians, yesterday sent back home to "think it over" after thrice breaking training rules. . . .

Texas Lone Star Cage Champs

DENTON, March 9—Champions of the Lone Star Conference, the ten Eagle cagers, their coach and manager pictured here, are in Kansas City this week, where the basketball squad is competing for the Naismith Intercollegiate trophy in the National Intercollegiate Basketball Championship March 7-12. The Eagles this year won the first basketball crown in eleven years and the first Lone Star title that has ever come to Denton Teachers.

Strangers On Grapple Card

Dandy Dick Sampson, the Denton dervish, clashes with drop-kicking Jack Mandell of Boston tonight in the main spasm of grappling at Sled Allen's Auditorium.

Sampson, now riding the crest of popularity around here, is doped to win tonight's setto almost as easily as he took Bob Cummings last week, judging from Mandell's previous exhibitions here. They say, however, that Mandell can really go to town in main event wrestling. He may give Sampson a battle.

Three total strangers dot the card tonight, appearing on the supporting events.

Mrs. Pogi's little boy Gorilla, native of the Argentine, comes to grips with a newcomer, one Bill Hall of Hollywood. Hall gets by with his angular frame, his steel muscles and his ability to take it. His offense is an unknown quantity just now, although he comes well recommended from the West Coast circuit. He is known as the "rubber man" of Hollywood, which might be a hint. Local wrestlers remember another tall, slender heavyweight who had his games in his legs—John Larue. They say Hall is something on the same order.

Two total strangers clash in the curtain raiser, and they may be doing main event service ere long. They are Basanta Singh, a Hindu with a lot of trouble up his sleeve, and George Hartay, a Hungarian.

And so, four continents, as many countries—and Hollywood—will be represented on tonight's card.

Barney Ross To Fight Twice Before Defending Crown

CHICAGO, March 9 (AP)—World Welterweight Champion Barney Ross will sharpen up in at least two non-title engagements before defending his crown against Henry Armstrong in New York May 26.

Co-Manager Sam Pian said he expected to close a date today for a bout in Minneapolis, and had another formal workout in the making for April.

Pian predicted a gate of close to $300,000 for the Ross-Armstrong battle.

Sixteen Teams Are Still In Tourney

KANSAS CITY, March 9 (AP)—Sixteen teams, representing a garden variety of playing styles and a far-flung geographical setup, swing into action in second round games of the National Intercollegiate Basketball tournament today.

There is the Marshall college squad of Huntington, W. Va., whose razzle dazzle floor play and shooting wizardry carried it to a 67 to 60 victory over the Peru, Neb., Teachers.

Two Texas Teams

Thirteen states are represented by the survivors, with Iowa, Texas and Missouri each having two teams still in the picture.

Today's program includes several contests which loom as anybody's ball games, included are the Valparaiso-Warrensburg encounter, the West Texas State Teachers-Roanoke affair, and the Murray Teachers-Maryville, Mo. game.

The towering West Texas quintet edged out scrappy little Westminster college of Fulton, Mo., 35 to 34.

Today's schedule included:

2:50 p. m.—Roanoke college vs. West Texas State Teachers.

6:30 p. m.—North Texas State Teachers vs. Mississippi Delta.

Famous Names Are Found In Derby List For This Year

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 9 (AP)—There are 103 of them, but the important thing is not "how many," but "which ones."

Yes, it's the Kentucky derby list that comes along this time every year, be there devastating floods or bright sunshine in Derbytown. There in the neat little "derby booklet" are such magic names as Stagehand, Fighting Fox, Nedayr, Menow and Tiger, Dauber, Mountain Ridge and Teddy's Comet.

There are also some more which may make any one of the early choices stretch out for all they are worth before the old Churchill Downs mile and a quarter is traversed May 7 for the 64th time by some 15 or 20 of those named today.

When the New York Y.W.C.A. announced typing lessons for women in 1881, vigorous protests were made on the ground that the famale constitution would break down completely under the strenuous six-month course offered.

State High School Champions Take Part In Tournament

DALLAS, March 9 (AP)—The state high school basketball championship team, playing as the Jas. K. Wilson of Dallas quintet, clashes here tonight with the powerful Tom Padgitt cagers in the A. A. U. tournament.

Other matches tonight are those of Sammy's, Dallas, vs. Asburn Ice Cream team of Fort Worth; Dr. Pepper vs. Lueders cagers and E. M. Kahn, Dallas, vs. American Liberty Pipeliners.

Oilers Are Defeated

The Slaton Oilers, defending champions, were eliminated last night in their first round contest by the Lueders cagers 51-34.

Dr. Pepper defeated the Sabinas Bottlers 42-27. Scores and opponents of the other winners were Jas. K. Wilson over Kroehler Manufacturing Co. 44-37, and Tom Padgitt over Olive and Myers 49-44.

PIRATES PITCHER HURT

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., March 9 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates ran through a lively drill today, despite several sprinkles of rain.

Marvin Duke, the southpaw who won 21 games last season for Montreal, reported a damaged finger on his left hand caused by stopping a battered grounder on Monday—the first casualty of the spring training camp.

Boxing Bouts Held At Slaton

Preliminaries Of AAU Tilts Held Tuesday

Over 500 fans overflowed the auditorium of Slaton's city hall last night to witness a program of 12 preliminary A. A. U. elimination boxing bouts.

Finals scheduled for last night were postponed until next Tuesday evening because of additional entries. Representatives from every weight division except the light heavy and heavyweight will be selected to participate in the District A. A. U. meet at the Lubbock Auditorium, Friday, March 18.

Feature of the contests last night was the heavyweight battle between Herbert Lamb, 195 pound battler from Wilson, and Frank Williams, Slaton's 190 pound favorite. Lamb took the judge's decision after three fast rounds which saw the winner demonstrate unusual speed for his weight.

Results of the other bouts were:

Jack Summerford, 100 pounds, won over R. A. Brackren, 100 pounds.

James Sideman, 110, won by a technical knockout in the third round over Walter Mosser, 110.

Horace Lee Altman, 110, decisioned George Green, 110.

Billy Bates, 118, registered a technical knockout in his fight with Dick Bell, 112.

Joe Teague, 125, and Joe Wicker, 126, fought to a draw.

Billy Joe Lucado, 125, showing smooth form stopped J. W. Martindale, 131, in the latter part of the third round. Martindale was down for an eight count in the second.

Ray De Busk was given the judge's nod in his bout with George Talbot, 133.

Jack Porterfield, 154, demonstrated more speed than the rest of the contestants to register a draw with Hugh Diamond, 155.

Harry Bell, 115, of Slaton, won by a technical knockout in the second round against Fred Pendleton, 118, of Wilson.

Lloyd Henry, 148, stopped Carlon Stotts, 153, in the second round. Henry will enter the A. A. U. tourney as Slaton's best bet for a champion.

Leon Walston, 168, and Leon Powers, 168, fought to a draw.

Coach Stumpy Hamilton, director of the programs, announced that proceeds from the fun nights were being used to purchase football letter sweaters for the Slaton team.

Joe Vows He'll Stay At Home Unless He Gets $40,000

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9 (AP)—Outfielder Joe DiMaggio wants more than the offered $25,000 for another season with the New York Yankees, and he plans to "stick right here" until Col. Jacob Ruppert offers him more money.

Joe wants $40,000.

Colonel Ruppert said in New York yesterday he believed he had been reasonable in his contract dealings and that DiMaggio "can stay home if he doesn't want to play ball for $25,000."

Fifteen morning and three evening newspapers are published daily in London.

Lefty Offers Good Reason As Cripple

(By The Associated Press)

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Lefty Gomez, the New York Yankees' star southpaw who is expected to oppose Dizzy Dean to start the grapefruit league season Sunday, has an adequate explanation for his "charley horse" that developed yesterday. "I was thinking about Buck-Rides-Again Gehrig," he said, "and I pulled up lame."

DUE FOR WORKOUT

BATON ROUGE, La. — Dick Bartell, the New York Giants' last holdout, was due for a workout today but not for a salary conference with Manager Bill Terry. Dick didn't get in until late last night and Terry and the main squad left early for an exhibition game against the Phillies at Biloxi, Miss.

DODGERS CAN'T LOSE

CLEARWATER, Fla. — It looks as if the Brooklyn Dodgers couldn't lose on Kiki Cuyler this season. He has been assigned to teach Buddy Hassett, the ex-first baseman, his new duties as an outfielder. And Cuyler knows plenty about that. Then his salary depends upon how many games he plays.

FIRST GAMES TODAY

CATALINA ISLAND, Calif. — Manager Charley Grimm ordered the Chicago Cubs out today for their first intra-camp game of the training season. Newell Kimball and Bob Logan were to hurl for the regulars and Clay Bryant and Leroy Parmelee for the opposition.

GABBY GETS BARGAIN

SAN ANTONIO. — Gabby Street of the St. Louis Browns thinks he got a bargain in young Ed Cole, the pitcher Cleveland threw in on the deal for Rollie Hemsley. Says the old sarge, "he has the pitching style I like; a rhythmic motion conducive of steadiness."

Two Oil Flows Are Reported In Hockley County Well

Two oil flows within 10 hours, one of 55 barrels and the other of 50, were reported Tuesday night from the Honolulu 1-51 Slaughter in Hockley county. The well was reported drilling at 4,964 feet after having topped production at 4,949 feet.

The Honolulu 1-77 Slaughter topped anhydrite at 2,240. Drillers were fishing for a bit in the Gulf No. 1 Gordon at a depth of 4,859 in lime.

Final Stab At Big Dough Is Being Made

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Lou Gehrig, the New Rochelle dud rancher is making what may well b his final stab at the big money and to date, Jake Ruppert is doing neat job of parrying.

Some fancy haggling yesterday brought the Messrs. Ruppert and Gehrig to a point where only $1,00 separated Lou from a signed contract and departure for St. Petersburg, Fla., and the Yankee camp The iron horse wants $40,000, the colonel offers $39,000. The market was steady at closing time.

An Old Ambition

The sum Gehrig asks symbolizes to him the fulfillment of one of his ambitions. He realizes that if he is to pull down $40,000, a salary few ball players have approached, this is the year to get it.

In this Gehrig uses what his playmates at St. Pete would call "the old onion." The big first baseman has been playing that bag since 1925, which is not an awesome figure until it is broken up into the quick starts and stops, slides, off balance throws and times at bat that make up 1,962 consecutive ball games.

This then is the time to grab that $40,000 for Lou cannot look forward to many more years of service, despite his pylon-like legs and barrel chest.

Lou's admission that $40,000 is an old ambition discredits the story that he is waiting to sign a contract until he is sure that Joe DiMaggio, the Italian outfielder, will not collect more from the colonel's privy purse than he will.

The colonel is pretty definite on that.

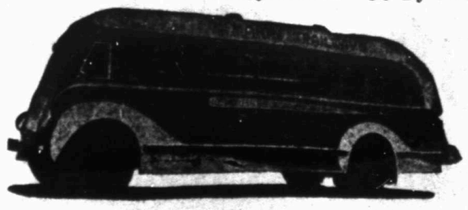

"DiMaggio can stay home if he doesn't want to play ball for $25,000," declared Ruppert yesterday.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK March 9 (AP)—Stocks spurted ahead a bit in today's market but dropped back to a narrow area under profit taking.

Around the fourth hour many leaders were unchanged or with early gains cut to fractions. There was a fair proportion of losers.

Rubbers, coppers and farm implement issues provided the best performances of the day. Steels tilted well forward for a while, but yielded later to mild selling pressure.

Response of the carriers to the I. C. C.'s freight rate increase — regarded as disappointing in some quarters — was a dip at the opening, followed by slow and selective recovery. Traders found some encouragement in preliminary carloading reports for the week indicating a fair increase over the preceding period.

The pace was moderate in the first hour but slowed down as profit selling appeared, but offerings were moderate.

In a narrow range, but with the tendency higher most of the time were U. S. Rubber, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Anaconda, American Smelting, Consolidated Edison, Du Pont, Standard Oil of N. J., Sears Roebuck, Philip Morris, U. S. Gypsum and Pullman.

Narrow with some of a trifle were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, American Telephone, Santa Fe, New York Central, Great Northern and Boeing.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Cotton futures opened 2 lower to 1 higher with trading light, March 9.05; May 9.07; July 9.11; Oct. 9.19; Dec. 9.20; Jan. 9.22.

Foreign orders were small but the tone ruled steady on trade buying and when contracts proved to be scarce prices advanced moderately on scattered buying. May advanced from 9.06 to 9.10 and shortly after the first half hour prices ranged from 1 point net lower to 4 higher.

A private report placed farmers' intentions to plant cotton at 27,100,000 acres.

The market held steady later in the morning on moderate Liverpool buying, trade price fixing and local buying, influenced by steadiness of the stock market. Offerings were light and trading quiet. Around midday May was holding at 9.09 and the list was net unchanged to 5 points higher.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, March 9 (AP) — The cotton market opened steady here today net unchanged to 1 point lower.

Very little business developed during the morning and near the end of the first half hour active months reacted only a point under the opening figures.

March opened at 9.19 bid, May 9.18, July 9.34, Oct. 9.29, Dec. 9.31, and Jan. 9.33.

Cables from overseas were easier. Liverpool said the market there was steadier with liquidation, straddle reserving and hedging absorbed by commission house buying on the scale down.

Prices moved within a very narrow range after the start and at mid-session active months were unchanged to two points higher compared with the opening.

May sold at 9.20, July at 9.24, Oct. at 9.31, and Dec. at 9.32. Domestic cotton goods markets were reported quiet with prices steady.

A private authority estimated 1938 acreage would be about 27,100,000 or 7,283,000 acres less than in 1937 and 1,049,000 less than his estimate of a month ago.

The turnover yesterday was 58,700 bales and open commitments 415,100 bales, an increase of 930 bales over the previous day.

New Type Of Home Report Is Drafted

Further steps to provide Lubbock schools with a new type of home report were taken Monday when the report committee held its third meeting with Dr. Agnes True elementary curriculum director. From the progress the committee is making at present questionnaires about the report will be sent to parents of all Lubbock school children early in April, Dr. True said.

Monday afternoon a questionnaire was drafted by the committee working together, after they had divided into sub-committees to work with Dr. True on the problem. At the present time an explanatory letter to accompany the questionnaire is being drafted.

While the committee is planning to make a recommendation on the matter of report cards, the questionnaire will give every parent a chance to contribute to the final selection. Sub-committees will work with Miss True during the next three weeks to get the material ready to go to the parents.

may be able to continue on a subsistence basis without being forced onto relief," Bennett said.

"Conversely, if sufficient relief should be provided, it is possible that such individuals might be able to contribute enough to the current erosion-control program to check the loss of their soil and eventually to emerge as self-sustaining subsistence units."

Settlement Of Claims After Accident Is Being Urged

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9. (AP)—Representative Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) urged the war department today to approve claims arising out of an army plane accident in Austin, Tex., December 7.

Johnson said he expected the department to make recommendations Saturday on a $10,000 claim he seeks for Spencer Albright, University of Texas instructor, whose son, Leonard, was killed when the plane crashed into the Albright home.

Johnson urged the department to settle outright smaller claims filed in behalf of Albright, Dr. J. W. Calhoun, president of the university, and O. J. Harrington for property damage.

Livestock Thefts

officers, alert to the new methods and gaining more and more information about illegal trade channels, are piecing together scattered shreds.

Although tighter laws are helping, there is need for even more authority, officers assert. Texas cattlemen can register their brands with county clerks but registration is not compulsory and duplicate brands are not uncommon.

Another difficulty, they say, comes from "outlaw" packing plants where stolen stock is disposed of and the hides ground into fine bits, destroying identification marks. There is no law prohibiting this practice.

Cattlemen themselves, incensed over increasing thievery, are waging war against rustlers. The association, in convention in San Antonio, has pledged a united front against the illegal traffic.

Many ranches are so large owners cannot patrol them. They make little effort to hunt down rustlers. They simply keep a sharp eye trained on outlets and roads, looking for suspicious tracks.

Rustling of the old fashioned type is confined largely to the international border country and federal, state and county officers on either side of the Rio Grande have about brought an end to it there.

Mothers-In-Law

patrolled the vacated residential sections, managed the parade and handled the heavy side-street traffic. Only official automobiles were allowed on the main streets.

No accurate estimate of the size of the crowd could be made, but it numbered into the thousands and was by far the largest ever to gather in this city.

There were horses, flowers, floats, Indians and blaring bands—such a splash of color that the crowd was awed.

Governors In Parade

Riding in the parade on prancing horses were Governors Allred of Texas, Tingley of New Mexico, Ammons of Colorado, Huxman of Kansas and Marland of Oklahoma.

Thousands watched the governors man their mounts. Riding in $1,500 saddles were Governors Allred and Tingley, who had long carried on an argument as to who was the better rider. Looking on in seeming unconcern was Colorado's cowpuncher executive who tonight will be asked to settle the horsemanship dispute between the contesting governors.

It was a mother-in-law joke that caused Gene Howe to originate the day, five years ago. The purpose of the celebration, the newspaper publisher said, was to promote better relations among in-laws and to honor mothers who have made good.

Official Day Proclaimed

Allred proclaimed an official Mother-In-Law day in Texas.

Business houses and the postoffice closed during the parade. Mail delivery was curtailed. It was the first time the postoffice ever closed for any event other than a legal national holiday. A postoffice may close if all business concerns close.

It was the biggest day in the life of 95-year-old Mrs. Martha Rogers, who in 1861 drove an ox team 300 miles across the wilds of the Texas frontier. She was honored as the oldest mother-in-law present.

Operetta Will Be Presented Tuesday

"H. M. S. Pinafore", an operetta, will be presented on March 15, at the Senior High school auditorium by the Central Ward chorus. The operetta has been specially arranged for the voices of elementary children, and all the work on songs and dramatics has been done in the classroom.

A chorus of 75 voices, accompanied by the Senior High school orchestra, will take part in the production. Soloists include David Coursey, Betty Ann Cogburn, Ben T. Wells, John David Davis, Billy Bob Harris, Mary Beth Dupree, Ellen Frances Moser, and Billie Cope.

Every department of Central Ward is cooperating in the presentation. Teachers who are acting as chairmen are: Charles Fike, music; Mrs. Lattie Rankin, dramatics; Miss Opal Sloan and Russell Wimberley, stage setting and costumes; Miss Dimple Watson, dances; Mrs. Charles Fagg and Miss Frances Conaley, ticket sales and advertising.

Tickets are being sold by students of Central Ward at a cost of 10 cents to children and 20 cents to adults.

men riding sidesaddles.

Three miniature railroad trains.

A float entered by the city of Shamrock that depicts Irish humor. It measures exactly a city block in length.

An American Legion float for gold star mothers-in-law.

More than 50 bands.

Although mother-in-law jokes were out at least for the day, humor was not overlooked. Arranged to trail behind the largest float, was a midget automobile for a real midget. The auto was equipped with an open "mother-in-law" seat.

"Dust bowl victims" had their day, too. Fifteen of the fattest people to be found in the Panhandle were drafted to ride in the float and eat beef sandwiches prepared by John Snider, an early cowhand.

Parade planners remembered the fathers-in-law by representing them in the parade with a group of men wearing balls and chains.

Crop Quotas

crops. Growers of rice, the only other crop to which the control system might be applied, are specifically exempted from quotas this year.

The quota program would limit sales of 1938-grown cotton to about 11,000,000 bales, compared with last year's record crop of 18,746,000 bales.

Among the states in which cotton referenda will be held, and an estimate of the number of farmers eligible to vote:

Arizona, 2,370; California, 3,800; Kansas, 110; New Mexico, 3,260; Oklahoma, 126,250; Texas, 365,000.

Tax Plan

or a few individuals, a 20 percent surtax applicable to income remaining after other corporate taxes are paid and specific deductions taken.

Six-sevenths of the weighty measure had been approved tentatively before today's session.

Aside from clarifying changes, only one amendment had been tacked onto the bill last night. It would require the treasury to make public all corporation salaries of $75,000 and over.

Stock Exchange

more for position and connections, than for great wealth or financial power.

Adding to the sensational aspects was the formal announcement of the stock exchange that the notice of insolvency from the firm came after the exchange's committee on business conduct had "discovered evidence of conduct apparently contrary to just and equitable principles of trade," and had "presented to a special meeting of the governing committee charges and specifications."

The committee set March 17 for a hearing on the charges.

Fifteen Per Cent Increase In Salaries For Each Baby Born Being Suggested

BERKELEY, Calif., Mar. 9. (AP)—The head of a wage-earning family should be given a 15 per cent increase in pay for each baby born, says Dr. Paul Popenoe, director of the Los Angeles Institute of Family Relations.

"It is estimated that it takes 15 per cent of the family income to raise a child," Dr. Popenoe told the Berkeley conference on family relations yesterday. "Consequently, each child actually causes a 15 per cent pay cut for the wage earner, and a man can handle just so many cuts and no more.

"I believe that educational, ministerial and other such agencies should combine in a movement to obtain automatic pay increases for families producing children. In this way, more children with fine heredity would be born and families would be enabled to have the number of children to which they are entitled."

The 15 per cent subsidy for each baby, Dr. Popenoe said, would improve the race and eliminate one of the chief causes of discord in the home.

She also visited the Robert L. Foster home and her picture was taken in front of the George Slover residence.

She inquired into the practicability of the colony and although some of her questions made the West Texans who accompanied her smile, she expressed satisfaction with the colony and the park here.

That Girl on Broadway says before 30 a man needs advice to quit risking his health and after 40 he needs advice to quit thinking about it.

"Man, Married Nine Times, Goes Insane," reads a headline in a contemporary newspaper.

Say, how can a crazy man go insane?

SPEAKING of crazy people, probably nine out of ten readers will think The Plainsman is nuttier than a fruitcake when they hear that Tuesday afternoon he had the opportunity to spend two full hours with Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt and did not avail himself of it.

And maybe they'll think his reason for not availing himself of the opportunity is even crazier.

It is undoubtedly a rare privilege to have a two-hour visit with a First Lady—especially a very charming and unusually famous First Lady.

From what The Plainsman has heard of Mrs. Roosevelt from friends who have entertained her, the President's wife is one of the most likeable and personable people in the whole country.

And he didn't pass up his chance because he failed to realize the honor and the possibilities of an enjoyable chat. Instead, he forewent the pleasure because he felt sorry for Mrs. Roosevelt, who must be nearly a nervous wreck as the result of people's trying to be near and with her everywhere she goes.

HAD The Plainsman taken those two hours, all the value of the contact would have been his. It would have meant nothing to Mrs. Roosevelt.

Because of her position, not only now but for many years, Mrs. Roosevelt has been thrown with hundreds and thousands of personable and intelligent and charming people and to expect her to enjoy being with a common, ordinary, run-of-the-mine country editor was just too much.

As much as The Plainsman would have enjoyed the chance of being with and talking to this remarkable lady, he felt that to do so would be unfair to her.

Mrs. Roosevelt graciously gave interviews to three Avalanche-Journal reporters and her stay in Lubbock was "covered", as newspapermen say, "like a blanket."

The Plainsman had not one iota of an excuse for foisting himself off on the First Lady, hence he—and he hopes thoughtfully—dodged the temptation to bore her stiff.

Another reason was that Mrs. Roosevelt was in the hands of two of the most personable and pleasing young men in West Texas—Parker Prouty, of The Avalanche-Journal, and Dorrance Roderick, formerly of The Avalanche-Journal and now of The El Paso Times.

They met the First Lady when she climbed from a Santa Fe chair car Tuesday morning and took her and her secretary to the Hilton hotel. She liked this pair and immediately accepted their invitation to "show her around", which they offered without the slightest idea that she would want to be "shown around." Of course, they were glad to be of service to her, but when they first made the suggestion it was to be polite, because they had no idea she would take them up. When she did, they were tickled pink.

They were not the only ones to "get a break," however. Mrs. Roosevelt has never been better attended and The Plainsman can't think of any pair who could better represent West Texas before the First Lady than these two. If he'd gone along when invited he doubtless would have spoiled Mrs. Roosevelt's opinion of our people as a whole.

MESSRS. Prouty and Roderick, like everyone else, were under Mrs. Roosevelt's spell from the moment they met her at the depot until they left her.

Neither is what you'd call a rabid New Dealer, Mr. Roderick being sort of a halfway Roosevelt fan and Mr. Prouty being thoroughly and entirely opposed to the Roosevelt administration.

Yet both of them fell for Mrs. Roosevelt like a ton of bricks and literally sang her praises. "Unaffected, Democratic, interesting, highly intelligent, agreeable to the nth degree—", these are only a few of the terms those two young men applied to Tuesday's honored guest.

And Messrs. Roderick and Prouty were not the only ones. Everyone who came into contact with her felt the same way.

Vernon Herndon, the Hilton manager, said the First Lady was a wonderful type of guest who demanded nothing, yet who seemed to thoroughly enjoy every courtesy extended. George Zarafonetis, who was detailed to see that Mrs. Roosevelt's every wish was carried out at the hotel—and to anticipate her needs and wishes whenever possible—was simply wild about her.

The reaction to Mrs. Roosevelt here was the same as it has been in the other places she has been—100 per cent for her.

And The Plainsman believes that the Lubbock and South Plains public, which patronized the First Lady's lecture so generously, ought to know it.

The champion pessimist is one who fears he will live long enough to pay the insurance company the full amount of his policy!

That Man on Avenue Q says the average motorist is willing to go faster, but he is forced to stay with the car.

Whether you're a big or little shot
Largely depends
On how much jack you've got!

THE Plainsman can't forego the opportunity to commend the elevation of Dr. R. C. (Bob) Goodwin and Dr. W. C. (Curry) Holden to deanships. The choice is indeed a good one in each instance.

The only fly in the ointment is, of course, that the reorganization was made necessary largely through the untimely death of Dr. W. A. Jackson last fall. We still can't think of Bill without a lump in our throat—and we doubt that we'll ever be able to.

NO task is so humble that it does not offer an opportunity for individuality.

POLLY CHELSEY, heroine; stranded in London when war breaks out.

JERRY WHITFIELD, hero; the Yankee who sees her through.

CABELL BANKS, privateer captain.

Yesterday: Awakening after his blow in the alley, Jerry finds himself prisoner aboard a British ship.

CHAPTER X

Polly wakened at dawn and immediately set about dressing and packing. She was pleased to think that Jerry would find her awake and profitably engaged when he came to knock on her door.

It puzzled her when morning came in earnest and he had not arrived to summon her. She thought, "I must have misunderstood. Could he have told her to call him when my trunk was ready?

She went through the long narrow tavern halls and down the stairs into the public room. There was a good deal of stir there, for guests were paying their bills and getting ready to be picked up by one coach or another in the stable yard.

She drew the tavern keeper aside and said, "Where is Jerry Whitfield, Mr. Toby? Where is my cousin?"

"Why, I couldn't say, Miss Chelsey. Come to think of it, I've not seen him this morning."

"Then he's overslept, Mr. Toby!" Polly exclaimed. "Send a boy to his room! Quick! We're catching the Dover coach!"

Mr. Toby made haste to comply, for he was a kindly man and always concerned for his guests. He liked young Mr. Whitfield, for all that he had discovered him to be an American, and he thought Miss Polly Chelsey very appealing and mannerly. Though young Whitfield had spoken of Miss Chelsey as "my cousin," Mr. Toby—a sentimental man—soon saw there was more to it than that. He had remarked to the equally sentimental Mrs. Toby, "if they're cousins, it's far distant. I look to see a wedding any time now."

"Sweethearts and Americans," Mrs. Toby had sighed, for this latter fact too she had discovered from certain evidence. "And they want to pass for a pair of English country cousins! Don't they know, poor dears, that a young English girl of standing wouldn't gallavant around without a maid or some other female companion?"

"Well, she seems a lady for all of it," Mr. Toby had said, and his wife had agreed. "Though there's no denying Americans have strange ways."

Since this romance so interested him and his good wife, the tavern keeper had taken notice of Jerry Whitfield's departure from the public room last night with the young woman in blue and the hackney driver. He did not like the looks of it, for young Whitfield had definitely said that he and Miss Chelsey would be leaving early on the Dover coach. Mr. Toby had watched for Jerry Whitfield's return until 10 o'clock, when he had retired to his own candle-lit bedchamber and nightcap.

"I dare say he's gone to his room by the back stairs," he told Mrs. Toby. "No doubt he knows some folk here in London and wanted to bid them goodby." . . . But now here was Miss Polly Chelsey asking for him, and the coach almost due . . .

When the boy returned to say that Mr. Whitfield was not in his room and that his bed had not been slept in, Mr. Toby and Polly looked quickly at each other. The innkeeper's expression promptly became evasive, but Polly's remained blank with surprise. "But I don't understand," she said.

"Nor I, Miss." The man felt a wave of pity for the girl before him. "Mr. Whitfield paid the bill last night, as I well recall, and drank an ale at that table near the door. . . . Wait! I'll send the porter's boy to the stable yard. He's likely out there, looking after your dog."

"Why, yes!" Polly exclaimed. "That's where he is, I reckon."

She clung desperately to this hope until the boy returned. The dog was there, he said, as lively as could be, but not Mr. Whitfield. He'd not been there since last night. The stable boy knew, because Mr. Whitfield paid him to look after the dog. He'd given him a coin last night with orders to feed and water the dog early.

Mr. Toby said kindly, "Go to your room and wait, Miss Chelsey. This is a busy time for me, as you can see. I'll send breakfast up to you. There's no knowing when something unexpected will change a man's plans."

Polly went upstairs to her room. She tried to eat the excellent breakfast that the porter's boy brought up, but she could not. She could only look at it, blankly. She noticed, with some fragment of her mind, that the boy was poorly dressed, as many London urchins were, but that his face was more open and appealing than most. She smiled at him absently and gave him a coin out of her knit bag, for which he thanked her eagerly.

"You can take the tray away now," she told him.

He carried out the untouched breakfast, and when he was in the hall he sat on the floor with the tray before him and disposed of sausages and coffee and wheatbread and honey, very happily. It was a good day for the porter's boy.

An hour passed. Two hours. Polly paced the floor. She knew when the Dover coach came and went. She said to herself at five-minute intervals, "I must do something!"

At noon she went down to the public room and called Mr. Toby aside. She noticed that he seemed loathe to talk to her, for her perceptions were sharpened by anxiety now, and by speculation.

She said, "Mr. Toby, is there anything you know about Jerry Whitfield you've not told me? . . . Because if there is, you must tell me now. He's more than my cousin. He's my sweetheart and we were on the way to getting married."

"We figured it that way, Miss. My wife and me. It's pleasant to see young things in love right under your nose. In this tavern, now, a body sees plenty of crabbed couples disagreeing over the food. Plenty of business men from Liverpool and Bristol and the like. Plenty of young men coming down from Oxford and Cambridge for a fling of fun. Plenty of spinsters traveling with their nieces or their maids. Plenty of—well, of everything but sincere young sweethearts, Miss. I was saying to my wife only yesterday—"

Polly caught the innkeeper's wandering eye and held it. "Mr. Toby, you're evading. I asked you if you know anything about Jerry Whitfield that I ought to know."

"Well, there's nothing to amount to, Miss Chelsey. Things come up in a man's life, unexpected like. If I was you, now, I'd take off my bonnet and settle down for a couple of days to wait for him. He'll be back, like as not, as apologetic as can be for upsetting you."

"I'm more than upset," Polly said. "I'm frightened. Something's happened to him. Something terrible! Nothing else would make him desert me just when we're getting out of England . . . You're a good man, Mr. Toby, though you ARE an Englishman, and I'm not afraid to trust you. We're Americans—"

"My wife and me knew that too, though we've not told it. Are you bound for France?"

"Yes. We expected to slip across the Channel in a smuggler's boat. Jerry arranged it. That's why I say he'd not have deserted me unless he'd met foul treatment."

"No, Miss," said Mr. Toby deliberately, for he believed he saw his duty now. "You can put your mind at rest on that score. It's not that. It's something else. There was—there was a young lady came into the public room and talked to him last night at the table where he was sitting, near the door. I take it they were old friends. They had coffee together—they and another man that had on hackney clothes. Mr. Whitfield asked the barmaid to fetch three cups of strong coffee from the kitchen, and they all drank together. After that they went out together."

Polly's face was still and white. "Did she have on a sky-blue bonnet? And a sky-blue dress, cut square in the neck?"

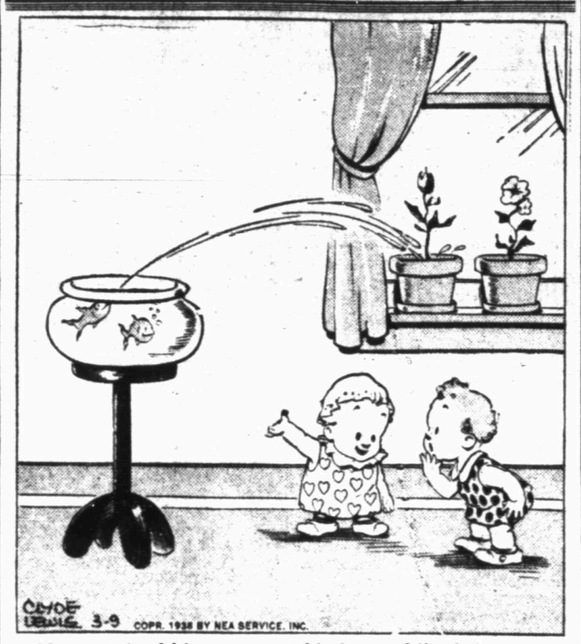

"Yes, Miss Chelsey. That was her. Fair complexioned . . . I'd not be too hard on him, Miss. I've seen men and women come and go under my roof and I know human nature. It's weak. Human nature's weak, Miss Chelsey. . . . You wait here till he comes back. He'll come. Decent men don't desert their own."

"Thank you for your information, Mr. Toby," Polly said in a voice that was much too quiet. "But never mind the advice. I'll take the next coach for Dover."

AN ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN FOR MEAT

Support of Panhandle cattleman for a national advertising campaign, seeking to increase consumer demand for beef and to stabilize prices, should be hailed with delight by every person who likes to see meat appear frequently on the family table.

That campaign will involve an expenditure which, taken as a lump sum, may seem large. But the fact of the business is that if it should mean anything at all to the average consumer, it will mean cheaper meat—cheaper for the simple reason that a properly conducted advertising campaign will increase sales volume and thus reduce certain costly overheads for each pound of meat marketed. Reference is made particularly to such essential costs as slaughtering, packing, distribution and, paradoxically, advertising.

However, the cattleman must, and doubtless does realize that excessive retail prices for the product will be more harmful to him than to any other person. Meat prices skyrocketed not so long ago. Whether they were necessary or unnecessary, the demand plummeted and market conditions approach chaos.

But if cattlemen and the meat industry do not demand an unreasonable return from their investment, they may expect their campaign to lead toward a market condition more satisfactory both to them and to the consumer.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, March 9—Charles Judels, the man who has the most foreign-speaking roles on the screen, actually knows only two languages—English and Holland Dutch. And he never has used Dutch!

Among the studios there is a constant demand for Judels to appear in French, Italian, Spanish, German, Swedish, Russian and Jewish roles, but the lines he is supposed to speak in those languages are pure gibberish—a sort of international double-talk.

His accents and expressions and gestures are so typical of the nationality represented that nobody knows the difference.

It all started about 25 years ago when Judels was selling sheet music in New York. Every day he would dine in Figalo's, a restaurant on 39th street patronized by the chorus men of the Metropolitan Opera Company. The singers always divided into racial groups and spoke their native language. Judels, who happened to be a natural mimic, would sit and study them. He noticed the predominant sounds of each language, and the manner of delivery. Also he picked up a few words such as greetings and farewells.

So now, when talking with a casting director about a part, the language required is always the first one he learned. His latest role, with Olympic Bradna and Gene Raymond in "Stolen Heaven," is that of an Austrian innkeeper. Shortly before that he was a Swede in "You're Only Young Once." In "The Great Ziegfeld" and "Cafe Metropole," he portrayed Frenchmen.

His Own French

Naturally, when rattling off a lot of unrelated sounds which are supposed to sound like words, Judels sometimes runs out of things to say. So to avoid too much repetition he begins naming objects as they meet his eye, but these are pronounced so strangely that they really aren't words at all.

For an example, while we were having coffee in a restaurant near Paramount, Judels indicated a curtain and a cup and saucer as things which might suggest sounds to him.

Then, with gestures and expressions of animation on his pudgy face, he proceeded to speak "French". "Voola la COORTONette a vawa alor la COOPeerong SOOZEERong."

A couple of years ago Judels applied for the role of a Hollander in a picture. But the director had heard that he really couldn't speak any foreign language, and he became angry when Judels went into his song-and-dance about Dutch being the first language he'd ever learned.

It happened that the director had a friend from the Netherlands visiting the studio that day, and the fellow was brought around to expose the actor.

The two immediately struck up a conversation in Dutch and learned they had mutual friends in Amsterdam. The director was so chagrined that he wouldn't give Judels the part.

His Italian Not Of Italy

In New York, at one of the gambols of the Lambs' Club, of which the actor is a life member, a group of Italian opera singers were furnishing the entertainment. The singers spoke almost no English, so they were told that an Italian-speaking member of the club would express the organization's thanks. Judels then launched into a flowery address in Italo-gibberish and was politely applauded.

Obviously, though, the guests were greatly perplexed. One of the more articulate ones said that Mr. Judels seemed like a very fine fellow and a good Italian, but that he must come from Sicily or some other little island because they hadn't understood a word of what he said.

His "Banker's" Language

Sometimes he has been hired to stage some elaborate ribs. He was sent to Cleveland to appear at a convention of bankers where he was introduced as a celebrated French financier.

Speaking English, but with a heavy French accent, Judels then proceeded to pan the American banking situation, the system in general and the ethics of its practitioners. The atmosphere was just about at the boiling point when Judels was halted and his identity revealed.

They were afraid some of the bankers might have a stroke.

Mrs. Rubens Remains In Russian Prison And There's No New Ambassador Named By U. S.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 9 — The latest mass trial of "old bolsheviks" in Russia may remind you that the Soviet government is still holding an American woman named Mrs. Ruth Marie Rubens in prison under bizarre circumstances and that our government seems in no hurry to choose an American ambassador to succeed Joe Davies, who is being moved to Belgium.

Rodney Dutcher

Those last two facts are not entirely unrelated. Mrs. Rubens and her husband, who had traveled on false passports under the name of Robinson, disappeared in Moscow last December. After much fuss and inquiry the Russian government admitted their arrests. Under the Roosevelt-Litvinov agreement upon which American recognition of the U. S. S. R. was contingent, American diplomatic officers were privileged to visit such prisoners without delay.

Plenty Of Red Tape

Only after the heaviest diplomatic pressure, applied by the State department under White House orders, was the American charge d'affaires at Moscow, Loy Henderson, permitted to see Mrs. Rubens and identify her as an American citizen — and then under restrictions which irritated higher-up officials. Only a few questions were allowed and those had to be asked and answered through an intermediary. Mrs. Rubens was represented as saying she wanted no assistance from the embassy.

The State department has no assurances that the woman will ever come out alive. Officials suspect she is being used as a witness against her husband, who is a spy suspect, and that her answers to questions were made under threats as to his or her own safety.

The Russians say the Americans can't look into the matter any further until their investigation is completed. Apparently there's no time limit on a Russian investigation—or any knowledge here as to its technique.

But certain hints have been given that there may be no American Ambassador to Moscow until this government knows all about Mrs. Rubens and her future.

Spy Mystery

Inquiries among army and navy officers for inside information about the "spy scare" centering on the arrest of three German spies in New York elicit little more than sarcastic suggestions that the arrests are chiefly valuable as publicity for J. Edgar Hoover and his G-Men.

The army and navy hardly ever catch a spy themselves, but usually they're only too happy to build up a spy scare — even with such dreary material as the bungling, $50-a-month small fry whom Hoover's men caught in New York. So their present attitude is a mystery.

No Personal Profit

The idea that the President was going to cash in on his exalted position to the tune of $75,000 or $100,000 by the sale of his writings and press conference transcriptions to a magazine and a newspaper syndicate created a generally sour impression which easily could have been avoided.

Formal denial that Mr. Roosevelt would pocket any money from the sales, coupled with assurance that his profits would be devoted to a "useful public purpose under government direction," came only after critics had hurled their sharpest barbs and friends had moaned in despair. The question naturally arises as to why, if Roosevelt orginally didn't mean to pocket the money, that fact couldn't have been made clear in the first place. As it is, the delay in explanation has given the sharpshooters a chance to hint that their attacks forced a change of plans and public disavowal of a personal profit motive.

The fact that the President has

ALLEY OOP — EVEN THE BEST LAID PLANS— By HAMLIN

Mrs. Roosevelt Tells Stories Of Daily Life In White House

Human and humorous touches of daily life in the White House were related to a capacity audience at Senior High school auditorium Tuesday night by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, first lady of the land.

Mrs. Roosevelt wore a long, black lace dress with wide gold, metallic belt and orchid corsage. Her greying, blonde hair was coiffured simply around her face and caught with a knot at the back.

Beginning with the President's breakfast alone with his newspapers —both friendly and unfriendly—the First Lady of the Land took the president through a typical winter day, then described the many duties of a president's wife, reminding the audience frequently that she was describing the routine of any chief executive and wife.

By 9:30, three secretaries appear to go over appointments of the day, press releases and miscellany. At 10:30, Mr. Roosevelt walks along a covered path, by the gardens, to the executive office, getting "the only fresh air that he inhales regularly."

Remainder of the morning until 1 p. m. is filled with appointments, each with a person representing a large group of citizens with an important issue. As a rule, appointments last 15 to 30 minutes with Secretary Marvin McIntyre acting as timekeeper.

"The President, as well as any chief executive, must be able to see the point of view of the man with whom he is talking," she said. "He must have a background that will enable him to see other points of view. He must be able to argue, if necessary, and he must be able to make decisions.

"Before the morning is gone he has referred to experts on various subjects under consideration, he has read pamphlets and other sources of knowledge and he is thankful for every bit of experience and knowledge that has been his in the past."

"From 2 until 4 p. m., twice a week, he meets the cabinet. On other days, he finishes appointments, and about one afternoon in five he has time to read some personal mail. On ordinary days his personal mail—about three baskets a day—is taken to the White House for perusal by the President in the late evening.

Swims At 6 O'clock

"The President swims at 6 o'clock, then has dinner with guests, who have to see him on important business, then he goes to his study. Often, he sees congressmen or senators in the study, then—when it's very late—he gets to his mail, signing his name to documents, reading pamphlets and letters for personal attention, etc.

"He quits at 12 o'clock and turns to his hobby, stamp collecting, for about 15 minutes before going to bed. He clips stamps from letters sent by the state department and sorts them to be attached to his collections.

Movies On Saturday Nights

"Occasionally, on Saturday nights, there are movies in the White House. Often they are pictures which the government requests that he see and sometimes they are films such as are shown in Lubbock on Saturday nights.

"The day's routine is complicated during the social season because of state receptions two nights a week, a state dinner and musicale another night and other social affairs that are conventional."

"Goes Like A Martyr"

The President "goes down like a martyr" to these affairs, "as though I had planned them and were making him go," Mrs. Roosevelt said, and "more frequently than not he has a delightful time."

After breakfast, the President's wife starts the house to running by interveiwing four persons, the head usher, the housekeeper, the social secretary and her personal secretary, Mrs. Malvina Scheider who accompanied her to Lubbock.

Mail Is Classified

Mrs. Scheider, who has worked with Mrs. Roosevelt 16 years, selects all letters which should be opened personally by Mrs. Roosevelt and brings them to her unopened. Other mail she takes to the social bureau where it is classified for especial attention. Mail that cannot be handled in that manner is brought to Mrs. Roosevelt's desk at night.

From 11 a. m. until 1 p. m., if the weather permits, the first lady goes riding, often alone, except Monday when she has press conferences from 11 until 12 o'clock. After lunch she has conferences with persons interested in social service, housing problems, sanitation, care of children or charitable projects. She, like the President, is grateful for a background that is helpful in her work.

During the social season, Mrs. Roosevelt is hostess daily at 4 and 5 o'clock teas, shaking from 3000 to 5000 hands a week. Whenever possible she shakes the hands of every person who enters the White House, realizing that the White House is theirs and that she is representative of the government in which they have a stake. April and May, when people come to conventions and to see the cherry blossoms and when high school graduates makes tours to the White House are her busiest handshaking months.

Often Works Late

In her room at night, Mrs. Roosevelt often works with her mail until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning.

Mrs. Roosevelt was introduced by Governor Allred who closed his remarks by saying "Mrs. Roosevelt typifies the finest spirit we could want an American to typify."

The governor was introduced by Dr. Bradford Knapp who has been sick at his home the past week and who, according to physician's order, must remain in bed at least another week. He stayed up Tuesday for the laying of the library cornerstone at Tech college and the evening lecture.

Seated on the stage were the directors of the college, Tomas B. Pollard of Tyler, Charles Thompson of Colorado and Spencer A. Wells and Mrs. Pollard, Miss Johnsie Jo Steele, daughter of Director L. L. Steele of Mexia who was unable to attend because of illness, and Mrs. Scheider.

Press Conference Held

An imitation of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's famous press conference took place in her suite at the Hilton hotel shortly after her arrival here Tuesday morning.

The lovely First Lady was interviewed by Miss Margaret Turner, Mrs. Evelyn Boyd, and R. C. Hankins of the Avalanche-Journal staff, Miss Bess Stephenscn of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Miss Mary Howell and Miss Futrelle McClain of the Tech Toreador staff.

In the room also were Mrs. Roosevelt's personal secretary, Mrs. Malvina Scheider, a Life magazine photographer who took numerous pictures and Mrs. Cassious M. Stanley whose family members are friends of the Roosevelts when they visit in Georgia, Mrs. Stanley's home state.

The rooms were decorated with flowers, gifts of the hotel and of the Lubbock branch of the American Association of University Women. Mrs. Scheider sat at a portable typewriter which was all ready for writing her daily column.

Mother Dies, Baby Born Later

This little eight-pound girl was born ten minutes after the death of her mother, wife of a Pennsylvania miner. She was delivered through a Caesarian operation, and immediately after her unusual birth she was placed in an incubator. Now she has an excellent chance to live. She is perfectly normal, her doctors say, and she shows it by smiling at her nurse in the Uniontown, Pa., hospital where her life was saved.

Wright Funeral Services Are Held In Plainview Tuesday

PLAINVIEW, March 9 (Special) —Funeral services for Mrs. J. W. Wright, 63, dho died Monday in a hospital at Slaton after a month's illness, were held here Tuesday afternoon at the chapel of the Wood Funeral home.

She was the mother of Mrs. Henry King and Paul Wright, both of Lubbock.

Mrs. Wright resided in Plainview 30 years until her removal nine months ago to Slaton to make her home with Mrs. G. G. Thompson, a daughter.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. King of Lubbock and Mrs. Thompson of Slaton; five sons, Paul of Lubbock, Bill of Muleshoe, Don of Clovis, N. M., and Jess and Wendell of Oakland, Calif.; her mother, Mrs. A. R. Frogge of Monticello, Ky.; three brothers, L. M. Frogge of Plainview, John Frogge of Akron, Ohio, and Jess Frogge of Albany, Ky.; and two sisters, Mrs. Edgar Catron of Danville, Ky., and Mrs. E. W. Smith of Monticello, Ky.

Hour In Jail And Costs Of Trial Given To Defendant

One hour in jail plus costs of the trial was the penalty imposed by County Judge J. J. Dillard Tuesday upon Fannie Joyner following her plea of guilty to a charge of violating state liquor laws last Dec. 20.

Mrs. Cora Ryan, charged with establishing a lottery, was tried before the court and Judge Dillard took the case under advisement, he said. He indicated it would be late in the week before a verdict was returned.

L. O. Griggs, also charged with establishing a lottery, was scheduled for trial Tuesday, but his case was postponed until later in the week.

On today's docket are charges of David Martin, establishing a lottery; Haskell Ford, establishing a lottery; and Ezel Raney, carrying a pistol.

Mother-In-Law Still Is A Mother Out Here On Plains Of Texas; Howe's Movement Expanding

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following was written for the Associated Press by Gene A. Howe, Amarillo newspaper publisher who founded Mother-In-Law day in Amarillo five years ago after a joke in his column had offended his mother-in-law, Mrs. Nellie Donald. Mother-In-Law day is being observed today).

BY GENE A. HOWE

AMARILLO, March 9 (AP) — I'm glad I live in a part of the country that is civilized. A mother-in-law still is a mother out here in Amarillo, Texas, where there are more happy homes and fewer divorces than any place in the United States.

The phenomenal growth of the mother-in-law movement is due to the renewed interest in life it has brought to so many thousands of women and to the publicity which comes from the seeming incongruity of the whole affair. People in the east raise their eyebrows and consider it goofy. Maybe so, but if so there is merit in goofiness.

To Welcome 200,000

The movement has expanded from a simple tea for a group of women until it has become a demonstration that will be attended by Mrs. Roosevelt and five governors who will ride horseback in the "march of the mothers-in-law," the longest and most colorful parade ever held in the west. And this is in a city of only 60,000 people preparing to welcome 200,000 visitors from every state in the union.

There is no silly sentiment in this. There is none of the drippy gush of commercialism of Mothers' day. Probably there is more mother-in-law humor dispensed in Amarillo than any other place. But there is nothing cruel or inhuman about it. The jokes and remarks that indicate a mother-in-law is a meddlesome, vicious shrew who makes trouble where ever she goes are out. The mothers-in-law are being treated as human beings who have a place in the lives of all of us.

Would Think It Funny

If a man should carry a sign down the streets of New York and this sign should urge that mothers-in-law be tarred and feathered, most New Yorkers have such a distorted sense of humor they would think it funny. But if the word "mother" was substituted in the place of "mother-in-law" there would be a riot. But why should motherhood be submitted to coarse jokes simply because a mother has a daughter or a son who has married? Our mothers-in-law are still mothers.

Much of the credit, if credit is due, belongs to the sons-in-law; they were the first in Amarillo to show their approval. Thousands of them marched in the first parade, they received a great kick out of it themselves. I must confess that at first the daughters-in-law were more backward and some were resentful, but they at last have been carried away by the spirit of the celebration. There has been distrust between mothers-in-law and their daughters-in-law and much of this, I believe, began before the weddings. There are but few mothers who approve of the selections made by their sons and, woman-like, they cannot help but show it.

Good-nature is contagious. People enjoyed seeing the mothers-in-law enjoying themselves, and they, too, waded in. And now all through this plains country people are getting along better in the homes, where it counts, and are in vastly better humor than they were before. Anything that accomplishes this has a place and a purpose.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25c. Stubbornly refuse anything else.
