JAPANESE troops and airplanes killed 120 Chinese soldiers near the Nonni river in Manchuria in two days, China charged in a note delivered yesterday to the League of Nations. TOKYO, Nov. 5. — Manchurian peace was postponed indefinitely today by a battle between Japanese and Chinese troops for possession of a dynamite-wrecked bridge.

The Japanese rushed reinforcements to the scene, where the Taonan-Angonchi railway crosses the Nonni river, and further fighting was in prospect.

The war office here announced 15 Japanese and an undetermined number of Chinese soldiers had been killed and many wounded, and said "positive and effective measures" had been decided upon by the Japanese to meet the "threatening" situation facing them on the Nonni river.

Youth Jumps To Death Rather Than Face $1.90 Theft Charge In Court

(By The Associated Press)

WACO, Nov. 5. — Opie Williams, 24, leaped head first to death from a third story window at the court house here today as he was about to be taken to trial on a burglary charge.

His head struck a concrete alley and was crushed.

Williams formerly attended the agricultural college at Jonesboro, Ark., and was a member of the school's football team.

Williams was in conference with his father, Oliver Williams, a Lorena farmer, and Bob Cowan, a lawyer, when a deputy sheriff advised them the judge desired to open the trial.

Williams started for the window, the sill of which was almost level with the floor.

His father and Cowan attempted to seize him as he leaped.

"They'll never get me now," he said.

Williams was charged with a $1.90 burglary at Eddy.

A verdict of suicide was returned by Justice J. J. Padgett.

Investigation By City Will Get Underway

Fourteen Other South Plains Cities Watch As Lubbock Is Preparing For Next Move In Rate Controversy

Preliminary investigation of books and records of the West Texas Gas company and the South Plains Pipe Line company here, to determine what course the city will pursue in its fight for lower gas rates, will be started at 9 a. m. Friday.

D. D. Martin, city accountant, will make a study of the books and report back to the city commission, City Manager W. H. Rodgers, said Thursday.

Others Interested

The probe will get under way with fourteen other South Plains communities interested in the move. These towns, also served by the West Texas Gas company, would be entitled to any reduction in gas rates Lubbock might receive, attorneys for the gas concerns have explained. The towns are: Canyon, Plainview, Tulia, Floydada, Abernathy, Lockney, Slaton, Idalou, Crosbyton, Lorenzo, Ralls, Hale Center, Happy and Hereford.

Decision to authorize Martin to make the investigation came October 29, following a two-hour conference at the city hall, at which

Consolidation Movement Is Sponsored By Amarillo Man

AMARILLO, Nov. 5. "Since the State Fair of Texas has an adequate plant and 180 acres of grounds, properly functioning administrative machinery, plenty of transportation facilities, it would be an economy to combine the celebrations and hold them in Dallas as the State Fair of Texas and the Texas centennial," Hawks said. "Dallas also is centrally located and has ample hotel facilities."

AMARILLO, Nov. 5.—His only complaint was the way the eggs were cooked. Taking his check, he walked nonchalantly to the cashier's desk and started searching his pockets.

"I left my wallet in my hotel room," he announced.

"An old one," said the cashier.

"I'll call and have them send it over," the customer said. "No, the telephones are disconnected."

"A new one," thought the cashier. When the proprietor suggested he might leave his hat, the customer pulled the "lid" down over his ears and bolted for the door.

"It's my contribution to the telephone fight," laughed the proprietor. "But it was a good gag at that."

Reduction Law Considered By State Leaders

Attorney General's Department Refuses To Pass On Constitutionality Of Statute Of Recent Legislature

Intricate Provisions Of New Cotton Reduction Measure Explained; Leniency Asked In Enforcement

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 5. — The attorney general's department in interpreting the law passed by an extraordinary session of the Texas legislature to limit 1932 cotton acreage to 30 per cent of the land in all crops in 1931 has refused to pass on constitutionality of the statute.

In an opinion given J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, Assistant Attorney General Maurice Cheek undertakes to construe the various sections for guidance of the farmer, but the claims of some that the legislation is invalid as in contravention to the state constitution is left to the courts for decision.

Must Be Lenient

The administrative agencies were counseled "to be lenient and to deal sympathetically with the problems of those who are called upon to subscribe to the terms of the law."

"Resort to the penal provisions of the law should be indulged in as the last and extreme measure, the opinion stated."

Under Cheek's interpretation each tract or land unit is subject to the 30 per cent restriction and a person owning farms in two or more counties cannot pool the entire acreage. Each farm owned, leased or rented is a legal unit, it was held.

Rotation Sought

Cheek pointed out the law plainly contemplated that different land be planted to cotton each succeeding year, thereby enforcing rotation. He held that land planted to cotton in 1931 could not be planted to cotton in 1932 even though the acreage be reduced to thirty per cent of last year's total. On the other hand, land not in cultivation in 1931 and new ground which was

Nan Britton's Libel Case Is Lost In Court

Jury Returns Verdict Against Woman After Deliberations; Attorneys Declare Case Will Be Carried Higher

(By The Associated Press)

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 5.—A federal court jury late today returned a verdict against Nan Britton, author of "The President's Daughter," in her $50,000 libel suit against C. A. Klunk, Marion, O., hotel operator.

The jury was out about an hour and ten minutes, during which it took but three ballots, before returning a verdict against Miss Britton on grounds of "no cause for action."

Her attorneys said they planned to appeal immediately and would carry the cause to the supreme court "if necessary."

Damages Charged

Miss Britton, whose book named the late President Warren G. Harding as the father of her daughter, sued Klunk on the grounds he circulated another book entitled "The Answer to the President's Daughter," which Miss Britton claimed damaged her reputation.

Judge John M. Killits instructed the jurors that if they decided the author of the "answer" book was justified in his accusations against Miss Britton, her plea for damage should be denied. If the book's attacks were unjustified, the judge said, the jury should award damages in any amount from one cent up, according to the amount Miss Britton was harmed.

Wife Of Passenger Watches From Airport As Plane Plunges Downward; Intense Heat Prevents Rescuers In Attempts To Reach Bodies; All Burned Beyond Recognition

(By The Associated Press)

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 5.—Crashing to earth on a golf course as it attempted to land at the nearby airport, a Washington bound passenger plane early tonight burst into flames, killing five persons. The plane had left Newark at 5:48 p. m.

Those killed, all burned beyond recognition, were Floyd Cox, Washington, pilot; Elmer Smith, advertising manager of the Washington Herald; Vernon Lucas, Washington; George B. Taylor, director of the laboratory division of Chestnut Farms dairy in Washington; and Francis R. Ehle, Riverton, N. J., president of the International Resistance company, of Philadelphia.

Noses To Ground

The plane, a high speed monoplane owned by the New York-Philadelphia-Washington Airways corporation, apparently was gliding to a safe landing when it suddenly nosed to the ground on the golf course.

Motorists on a highway and attendants of the airport hurried to the scene but were unable to rescue any of the passengers because of the intense heat. Firemen extinguished the blaze.

Thousands were attracted by the crash and blaze.

Officials of the Ludington air line said Cox was known as one of its best fliers and they could not account for the crash.

The plane was being landed to allow Ehle to go to his home at Riverton. His wife was waiting at the port to take him to his home where two children awaited his arrival to begin the evening meal. Mrs. Ehle became hysterical and required attention of a physician.

A motorist on a nearby highway said he saw the plane nose dive and what appeared to be two sacks

Police Plan To Launch Drive Against Slot Machines Today

Chief John Lemond Declares That Charges Will Be Filed Against Operators; Checkup Made Thursday

CHARGES will be filed in connection with operations of slot machines and punch boards today if any of the devices are found in public places, Chief of Police John Lemond said late Thursday.

Operators of cafes, drug stores, and other shops having slot machines and punch boards were warned Thursday to take them out immediately, the police chief said.

Nine Are Found

Nine slot machines were found in business houses exchanging merchandise for slugs, police reported. Most of the slot devices were installed by owners who agreed to pay operators of shops in which they were located a percentage of receipts, police indicated.

Operation of slot machines returning slugs used in buying merchandise is a violation of state law, Police Chief Lemond said. Drives against such operations recur spasmodically here.

Operation of mint machines, or machines which pay the user with merchandise directly from the contraption, is not in violation of the law, Chief Lemond said. County Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson had informed him.

Brother Ralph Snarls And Curses As He Occupies Prison With Brother Al

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 5. — Brother Ralph and Brother Al, the two Leavenworth-bound Capones, were lodged in the same jail here tonight.

Ralph surrendered to federal authorities this afternoon to begin serving his three year penitentiary term for violating income tax laws.

"Scarface Al", the younger and the more notorius, has spent 12 days in the jail while his attorneys decide whether he shall remain there or begin serving an 11-year sentence at Leavenworth for a similar breach against the government.

Like Brother Al, whose smile was changed to a scowl by the weight of his sentence and a $50,000 fine, Ralph snarled and cursed as the barred gates of the jail clanged behind him.

He yelled oaths at photographers and called on jail authorities to throw them out.

At the federal building it was announced Ralph would be transferred to Leavenworth probably Saturday and, should the writ of supersedeas granted by the circuit court of appeals be lifted from Al, he may accompany Ralph on the trip.

Ralph turned to newspaper men requesting a statement and with a touch of sarcasm, said: "Well, you fellows solved the crime problem by sending me to the penitentiary for income tax violation."

His wrath was directed at photographers attempting to take his picture behind the bars. The effort to evade them unavailing, he hid behind a negro prisoner and covered his head with an overcoat.

Grand Jury To Conduct Probe

Death Of Slaton Man Will Be Taken Up In December When Group Convenes; Inquiry Is Held Thursday

Investigation of the death of F. E. Jackson, former Slaton automobile dealer, will be taken up by a grand jury in 99th district court when that body reconvenes December 7, it was decided yesterday following a court of inquiry before Justice E. H. Ward of Slaton. The inquiry was held here.

A slaton trucker, younger than Jackson, was released on his own recognizance to appear before the grand jury. He had been held in the county jail since Monday night.

Jackson, 51, was injured Monday afternoon at Slaton when his head struck the pavement after he had been knocked down by the younger man. Jackson died Wednesday afternoon at a Slaton hospital.

District Attorney Durwood H. Bradley and County Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson concurred in opinion that there was no intent to commit murder, they said. The younger man told of striking Jackson with his right hand, raising his left to fend off an expected blow, as the other's body motion indicated he was striking.

Testimony also was given by T. M. Hill and R. T. Williams of Slaton and Deputy Sheriff R. L. Wicker.

Funeral services for the former automobile dealer, who is survived by a widow and six children, were held at the Slaton Church of Christ Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Burial was in the Inglewood cemetery by the Foster Funeral home.

RETURN INDICTMENTS

ARCHER CITY, Nov. 5. (AP) — Indictments were returned by the Archer county grand jury yesterday charging Hunter Russell, Erwin Spicer, Kelly Hunt and another man, who had not been arrested, with burglary of the Dundee bank. The safe was removed from the bank to a deserted spot in the Wichita river bottoms near Wichita Falls. There it was opened with an acetylene torch and $1,600 in cash and about $110,000 in notes taken.

Theories Given In Fate Of Man

FORT WORTH, Nov. 5. (AP)—Conflicting theories as to the fate of W. L. Ray, missing filling station manager, were advanced after his automobile was found in a downtown garage this morning.

The machine had been parked at 5:53 o'clock Sunday morning, 23 minutes after Ray had left his home to take up his duties as manager of a filling station.

Rev. Jeff D. Ray, of Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary, father of the missing man, confided to Detective Chief Jackson today he feared his son was dead. Other members of the family however, clung to the theory Ray had suffered a lapse of memory or had been kidnaped on his way from home to the station.

Delay In Brick Shipment Holding Up Building Wo

Delay in receiving a shipment of bricks from Mineral Wells has caused a temporary suspension of brick work on the federal building it was learned yesterday.

The brick was expected in yesterday but failed to arrive. It was assured for this morning, the contractor was informed. The shipment was common brick for interior work, as the face brick for the third floor is on the ground.

Next week should see the walls completed and ready for pouring of the roof.

Three Robbers Loot Bank At Konawa; Posse Is In Pursuit

KONAWA, Okla., Nov. 5. (AP) — Three robbers looted the First National bank of Konawa today of between $4,000 and $5,000. They escaped in a small touring car after forcing the cashier to accompany them from the building. He was immediately released. Four bank employes and two customers were in the bank when the robbers entered, one robber holding a pistol on the group while the other two climbed over the cage and scooped up the money.

The robbers sped northward toward Hazel with a posse of officers and citizens in pursuit.

ARCHER CITY, Nov. 5. (AP)—Arson indictments were returned against Buford Hoffman, Sam Hannah, Ed Sughrue and O. D. Raulston by the Archer county grand jury in connection with the burning of an Archer city residence last summer.

Woman Is Near Death After Being Mistaken For Burglar

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 5. (AP)—Mrs. Matilda Flores was near death in the county hospital suffering from a pistol bullet wound sustained early this morning when she was mistaken for a burglar in the Lee H. Scott home.

Scott, filling station owner, said he heard a noise at his bedroom window shortly after 2 o'clock and saw a man peering into the room. He obtained a pistol and turned to see a form standing beside a window in a rear room of the residence. Thinking the man had entered the house, Scott shot and Mrs. Flores, housemaid, fell to the floor.

Mary Garden Suffers Cold Contracted In This State

AUSTIN, Nov. 5. (AP)—Mary Garden, ill with a cold, left today for Chicago, where she will rest several days. She sang here last night "under great difficulty," she said. She cancelled a concert booked for Abilene.

Miss Garden said she contracted the cold in Wichita Falls. Warm weather in this section aggravated her illness, she said.

DEMOCRAT WINS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 5. (AP) — Circuit Judge Ruby Laffoon, Madisonville Democrat, defeated Mayor William B. Harrison, Louisville Republican, by the greatest majority ever given a Kentucky governor on the basis of returns tonight from 2,976 of the state's 4,178 precincts. HEADACHES caused by ACID

Acidity haunts its victim like a shadow. No appetite; what you do eat disagrees, causes flatulence and makes you sluggish. Work is an effort. Before night, a headache.

Do you know what is wrong? An acid-soaked system! Too many acid foods. But you need not diet your way out of this difficulty! Take a tablespoonful or two of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

From the hour you relieve that acid condition you will feel like another person. Every spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will neutralize many times as much acid. Take it when stomach nerves are over-stimulated through worry, or excitement; when everything ferments in your stomach, and waste matter is poisoning the bloodstream or whenever the bowels are clogged. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia has a gentle, laxative action. It is ever so much better for one than the harsh purgatives that upset the stomach or weaken the bowel muscles. An occasional dose of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is all that is necessary to avoid those periodical attacks of sluggishness so apt to occur with any person who does not get a great deal of physical exercise.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is sold at drug stores everywhere in 25c and 50c bottles. Be sure to say "Phillips'" when you buy. Then you're sure of getting the product that doctors prescribe.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior tooth-paste that safeguards against acid-mouth.

PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA

When You CAN'T QUIT

Fatigue is the signal to rest. Obey it if you can. When you can't, keep cool and carry-on in comfort.

Bayer Aspirin was meant for just such times, for it insures your comfort. Freedom from those pains that nag at nerves and wear you down. One tablet will block that threatening headache while it is still just a threat. Take two or three tablets when you've caught a cold, and that's usually the end of it.

Carry Bayer Aspirin when you travel. Have some at home and keep some at the office. Like an efficient secretary, it will often "save the day" and spare you many uncomfortable, unproductive hours. Perfectly harmless, so keep it handy, keep it in mind, and use it. No man of affairs can afford to ignore the score and more of uses explained in the proven directions. From a grumbling tooth to those rheumatic pains which seem almost to bend the bones, Bayer Aspirin is ready with its quick relief—and always works. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Any nagging, needless pain.

Bayer-Tablets Aspirin Genuine

Get the genuine tablets, stamped with the Bayer cross. They are of perfect purity, absolute uniformity, and have the same action every time. Why experiment with imitations costing a few cents less? The saving is too little. There is too much at stake. But there is economy in the purchase of genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets in the large bottles.

Makers of Vicks VapoRub Announce a New Plan for Home-Control of Colds

News Comes With Development of a New Product; A Unique Companion to the Famous Treatment, Based on a New Idea for Prevention of Colds.

Makes Possible a Further Reduction of the Family "Colds-Tax" This Winter In Time, Money, Health.

A quarter century ago, Vicks VapoRub introduced the modern external method of treating colds. Now, Vicks Nose & Throat Drops—latest development by the Vicks chemists—introduces a new idea in preventing colds. Together, these perfect allies make possible the new Vick Plan for better "Control of Colds" and reduction of the family "Colds-Tax" in time, money and health.

Here is the Vick Plan of Control:

1.—BEFORE a Cold Starts.

On exposure to colds or to any of the causes that ordinarily lead to colds—(crowded indoor places—stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms—sudden temperature changes—wet and cold, etc., etc.)—that slow down the normal functioning of the nose, Nature's marvelous "first line of defense against colds"—use Vicks Drops promptly. Or, if a cold actually threatens—at that first stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—a few drops up each nostril, and many annoying colds will be avoided.

2.—AFTER a Cold Starts.

At night, rub Vicks VapoRub well over throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. Leave bedclothing loose around the neck so the medicated vapors can be inhaled all night long. During the day—any time or place—use the convenient Vicks Drops as often as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment. Admission to tonight's game at Tech Field will be charged at the flat rate of $1 per fan, a ticket thus purchased entitling holder to any seat in the grandstand or bleachers provided he gets there first.

Knute Rockne

In keeping with a national movement a small part of the net gate receipts of tonight's game will be turned over to the Rockne Memorial Fund committee to go toward the erection of lasting memorial to the late coach of Notre Dame. Fans are asked to take a part in the between-halves ceremonies in which the memory of Rockne will be honored. A short program has been arranged for this period, a committee composed of James H. Goodman, H. N. Roberts, Cletus Neubett, Spencer Wells, Earnest Lowrey and Charles A. Guy, having made arrangements. It is likely that a moment of silence as a tribute to Rockne will be asked.

Wayland Gridster Reported Better

ROSWELL, N. M., Nov. 4. (Special.)—Eldon "Lefty" Mitchell of Panhandle, co-captain of the Wayland College Jackrabbit football team, injured here Saturday in a game with the New Mexico Military Institute, is reported improving. He suffered a fractured skull in the last quarter of the game.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Mitchell, of Panhandle, Texas, his parents, are here as well as his sister Helen. Coach Frank Kimbrough of Wayland also remained here for several days.

Lefty is a half back on the Texas team. He suffered three fractures of the skull and many bruises. It is expected to be several days before he can be moved.

Rice Plans Big Day In Fort Worth

Special Train To Carry Fans To Owl-Frog Go

FORT WORTH, Nov. 5. (AP)—A special bearing nearly 1,000 Rice students and Houston football fans will follow the Owls here Saturday for the battle with T. C. U.'s Horned Frogs, according to reports by Gaylord Johnson, business manager of athletics at Rice. The 100-piece Owl band will come along.

The game is of more importance to the Owls than the Frogs because whereas the latter can lose and still remain in the race for the conference championship, the former must win or lose hope of breaking their school's record of never having won a football title.

The earnest work of the Frogs for the game reflects the respect they have for the Owls. At no time this season have they shown such an enthusiasm for practice and it is showing results in a smoother working offense.

It became doubtful today whether Doc Sumner, halfback, would be able to play. He suffered an injury at Arkansas last week and it has grown worse instead of healing. Doc is the alternate with Spearman at left half and will be sorely missed if unable to play.

Arkansas Razorbacks On Way For Game With U. Of Chicago

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 5. (AP) The University of Arkansas Razorbacks were en route to Chicago tonight where Saturday they meet the University of Chicago in an intersectional football game.

Coaches indicated every member of the squad might see action against the Maroons.

Oklahoma City university's grid squad, called the Goldbugs, is wearing bright yellow jerseys, pants, stockings and helmets this season.

Lubbock Sooners Defeat Floydada

Fullback Calhoun caught a pass over the goal line for the extra point after bucking the line for two yards and a touchdown in the first quarter of the game and the Lubbock Junior high school Sooners, coached by Mule Davis, defeated the Floydada Junior High school team, 7 to 6, here yesterday afternoon.

Floydada came back in the fourth quarter to make a touchdown when Captain Wilson Connally, fullback, went over the double stripe. Efforts to convert the extra point by hitting the line were futile.

Lubbock's lineup: Peach and McCanlies, ends; Young and Phillips, tackles; Dowell and McFarlane, guards; Chancy, center; Hill, quarterback; Aycock and Whiteman, halves; Calhoun, fullback.

Floydada's lineup: Lider and Jenkins, ends; Mooney and Lawson, tackles; Jones and Daniels, guards; Eudy, center; Parker, quarterback; Hollingsworth and Red Mooney, halves, and Connally, fullback.

Longhorn Captain May Not Be In Lineup For Bear Go

AUSTIN, Nov. 5. (AP) — Maurice Baumgarten, guard and captain of the University of Texas football team, may be unable to play in Saturday's game with Baylor, it was learned today. Baumgarten was reported hobbling about on an injured ankle, hurt in the game last week with Southern Methodist and aggravated since.

Baumgarten is the fifth regular to be reported suffering from injuries and unless they show greatly improved form by Saturday it was doubtful if any of the five would be used against the Bears.

Others reported injured were Harrison Stafford, star half back; Johnny Furrh, end; Ox Blanton, Tackle, and Jimmy Burr, halfback.

CAPONE GIVES UP

CHICAGO, Nov. 5. (AP) — Ralph Capone surrendered to the federal authorities today to start serving his three-year sentence for violating income tax laws. He appeared just five minutes before the deadline set by the United States circuit court of appeals for forfeiture of his bond.

Football A B C's

Quick Kick Is Effective Only When It Catches Opposing Eleven Off Guard

Kicking, according to some football authorities, used to be considered about 50 per cent of a team's offense. In late years, however, it has dropped off to about 25 per cent.

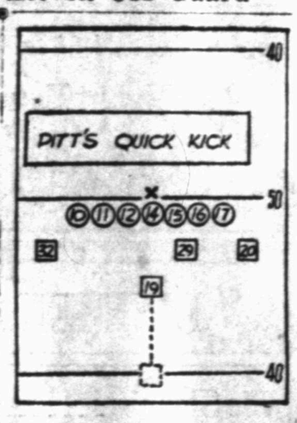

If kicking is only one-quarter of a team's offensive strength, the so-called quick kick must simmer down to about 5 per cent of that. This doesn't leave much for the quick kick, but it's a good weapon if executed properly.

To be effective, quick kick has to catch the opposing eleven off guard. For instance, a quick kick on fourth down would contain no surprise element, for the defensive team would be looking for a kick of some kind. But a quick kick on second down, with five yards to go, might catch the secondary drawn in close to defend against a run or pass.

Pitt executed several quick kicks against Notre Dame this year that caught the Irish by surprise. Rip Collins at end had been doing most of the Pitt kicking. But on their surprise kicks, the Panthers sent Halfback Warren Heller back to boot the ball.

The accompaning diagram shows how Pitt turned the trick. The formation is one of double wingbacks, which Pitt uses.

A moment before Center Daugherty, No. 14, snaps the ball Heller, No. 19, quickly backs up five or six steps to a position about eight or 10 yards behind the line of scrimmage.

At this point the secondary may wake up to the fact that a quick kick is about to be executed. But Heller is already back in position. Daugherty's pass arrives and Heller boots the ball.

Reider, No. 20; Hogan, No. 29, and Luch, No. 32, are ready to block as for the ordinary kick from punt formation.

TOMORROW—A cutback.

District Two Club To Come Here Saturday

Bobcats May Spring Surprise On Tech Field Tomorrow Afternoon; Chapman Bids Men Prepare For Game

Urged by their coaches to take enough time out to think about the things closer at hand instead of working up too much early enthusiasm over a Thanksgiving dinner, the Lubbock High school Westerners turned their attention yesterday to plays that will be used tomorrow against the Childress High Bobcats.

While the Westerners are heavy favorites to win Saturday's game, which is to start at 3 o'clock in the afternoon until further notice, they are not taking lightly the fact that Childress is also a Class A team in Class A company. The Bobcats have lost two games in District 3, thus being thrown definitely out of the district race, but it is not likely that they will come to Lubbock prepared to fall in the dust at the feet of Lubbock's "great big tough" Westerners.

Show Straight Stuff

Lubbock will show only straight football Saturday, saving all the tricks until Thanksgiving when they go up against the Amarillo Golden Sandstorm, an organization from which already issues a low, moaning warning to a team which trounced what was previously considered the best in the district. However, it has been with only straight football that the Westerners bowled over all competition prior to the Pampa game last week, amassing a total of several over 300 points. The 32 points garnered off Odus Mitchell's bunch Saturday sent the Westerners into second place in the state and probably in the country as high scoring records go.

Next Wednesday afternoon the Westerners will engage in their third District 1 championship game when they meet the Plainview Bulldogs here. The game will feature Lubbock's observation of Armistice Day. Here again the locals are prime favorites, but more than once has a practically unknown team knocked off favorites.

Big Spring Club Visitors In City

"Value of Kiwanis to You and Me" was discussed by County Attorney James Little of Howard county, who made the principal address of a program presented before the Lubbock Kiwanis club Thursday by ten Big Spring Kiwanis club members. Benefits derived from Kiwanis members were pointed out by Mr. Little.

Grover Porter, president of the visiting delegation, was in charge. Miss Virginia Peden, teacher of violin in the Big Spring schools, presented a violin solo, accompanied by Miss Katherine Sangester, pianist. Quartet selections were given by Jack Ellis, Duck Webber, Charlie Deats and Bax Baxley of Big Spring. A short talk was made by Garland Woodward, former president of the Lubbock club but now a Big Spring resident.

Other Big Spring guests were Enos Ashcroft and Ray Wilcox.

Railroad Officials Visit In City During Thursday

Conferring with local employes upon matters of business and meeting customers over the city, J. D. Farrington, general manager of the Ft. Worth and Denver City Railway company and of the Wichita Valley Railway company; and Fred Daggett, general passenger agent of the lines, were in Lubbock yesterday.

Both Messrs. Daggett and Farrington reside in Ft. Worth.

TOBY GREER o GUARD

Toby Greer, the Comanche Keed, guard on the Texas Tech Matador Team, will have his hands full again tonight when he squats with his mates in an attempt to outdo the Abilene Christian college Wildcats. Greer has been playing off and on with the regulars all season, but his work at Waco last week must have been pleasing. He has been ordained as a starter in tonight's game, and Mentor Cawthon says nothing but his best shall play tonight, barring injuries.

Harvard To Play Texas Once More?

Proposal Made For Post-Season Tilt On Austin Grid

AUSTIN, Nov. 5. (AP)—A proposal that Texas and Harvard play a post-season game in Austin in the interest of charity will be presented to officials of the University of Texas tomorrow by Charles B. Cook, president of the Austin Chamber of Commerce, Cook said today.

Five civic organizations are sponsoring a post-season game between Texas and an unnamed opponent. Cook said he favored Harvard because he believed the Crimson Tide would draw the largest crowd. His proposal called for a guarantee of $20,000 to Harvard for the game.

Harvard defeated Texas October 24 overwhelmingly 35 to 7 but Texas supporters feel the Longhorns would make a better showing if they played the Crimson in Texas.

Cowhands Win 28-0 Victory At Crosbyton

Holding Line Makes Way For Plunging Backs As Swede McMurray's Team Smothers Class B Contender

CROSBYTON, Nov. 5. (Special.)—Coach Swede McMurray's Lubbock High school Cowhands completely squelched the Crosbyton High school's gridiron attempts here this afternoon and ran away with a 28 to 0 victory. A powerful line featured by the playing of Tol Terrell at center, Hale at guard and Rice at tackle on the defense kept the local delegation wondering how to get around, and so much time was spent in wondering that there was no time left for touchdowns.

Quarterback Joe Nelson was the big offensive threat. He scored three of his teams' four touchdowns and was responsible for the gaining of many yards. Truman Hutson, big halfback, ripped off plenty of yardage and executed one touchdown play. Two touchdowns were made in each half, with a safety coming in the fourth quarter. The pass snatching of little Newton, 125-pound end, was another offensive feature. Newton caught everything that came his way and the aerial game was good for long gains.

Lubbock's Lineup: Newton and Leslie, ends; Ford and Rice, tackles; Hale and Duncan, guards; Terrell, center; Hutson and Love, half backs; Nelson, quarterback, and Payne full back.

Let's Meet The Proposal!

The football team at Texas Tech will play a game here tonight with the Wildcats of Abilene Christian college as the opposing eleven. According to Coach P. W. Cawthon, the Matadors are out to restore confidence in their ability—confidence lost in some quarters last Saturday when Tech's showing against Baylor university did not live up to expectations of coaches and an appreciable number of local fans.

Texas Tech plans tonight to restore confidence, and local fandom, in our opinion, will do well to meet the athletes half way by being there in large numbers and, at first hand, the restoration process. In other words, if the team and coaches think enough of us, as spectators and supporters, to dedicate a game to us, the least we can do is to respond.

The Wildcats come to Lubbock just about as impressive as their name.

They have a good, fast, hard hitting ball club, capable of testing the mettle of any college team in its class anywhere. The tilt is no 'setup' for Tech—in fact, comparative scores indicate that the Matadors will have their hands full throughout the evening.

But it is not necessary for Tech to win to restore confidence, if any has been lost. Many a good team has lost ball games and it's the spirit and fight that counts.

Another important angle to the Tech-ACC melee is the fact that a percentage of the gate will go to the Jones-Blackburne Memorial fund, being raised by schools and colleges everywhere for the erection of a suitable memorial to Notre Dame's late, great coach. This fund, if it should draw a large crowd.

And we see it, the hard work and thorough efforts of Coach Tech's coaching staff this year and last year deserve the support of football fandom and especially of it, when the players are out to show the world they've got plenty of stuff, should the crowd be impressive.

Let's get the Matadors half way by being in the stands at the kick-off—and by staying there until the final gun is heard!

NO CROCODILE TEARS

While The Morning Avalanche is basically and intensely opposed to mob action of all kinds, we can squeeze out any crocodile tears over the thumping of Communists and Red organizers who attempted to throw monkey-wrenches of red take into the delicate machinery of Maryland the other day.

Perhaps we should grow wrathy over the incident, or somehow or another the wrath just won't come. We continue to hold to the opinion that if these Reds don't like the way this country is run they ought to go somewhere else where they do like it—and if they won't go of their own accord they should be booted out. Nine times out of ten, when one reads about a communist rookus the names sound like the roll call of a Russian military unit—there's not a good, old American name in the bunch.

Maybe those people with the "ski's" and "vitch's" on the end of their names are dissatisfied, why don't they go where they like things better?

LOSING GREAT WEALTH

It was just a small story—hardly more than two inches in type—but it packed a heart throb; it showed what can, and frequently does happen to men who have every reason to believe they're financially independent for life and then discover that the bubble has burst.

The story in point was the dispatch from Denver in yesterday's Morning Avalanche, telling of the inability of W. S. Reynolds to pay a $2 fine for a traffic violation.

"When I came from Leadville to Denver 40 years ago," he testified, "I had a million dollars. It wasn't in real estate. It wasn't in securities. It was in good, hard cold cash. But business reverses have taken it. I haven't any money at all now!"

The Editor of the Morning Avalanche has never been rich, so comment here upon the effect of wealth is entirely theoretical.

But it is our opinion it is infinitely worse to have been rich, then to grow poor than it is to be always in straightened circumstances.

The man who never knows what it is to have 'big money' is better off than the fellow who has a taste of wealth—then awakes to the cold reality that he is shorn of funds and the comfort they bring.

It is expected before the year is up, someone will have invented a bridge bidding system that tells over your business phone number and your wife's maiden name.

Practical Health Problems

OXYGEN APPARATUS IS VALUABLE

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The use of oxygen in the treatment of disease began about 1917, when the famous British psychologist, Haldane, devised a face mask which was successfully used in treating cases of disturbance of the lung due to war gas poisoning.

The harmfulness of a lack of oxygen has been illustrated by the symptoms of mountain sickness, in which the air is low in oxygen content. When there is lack of oxygen the person becomes blue because there is not a sufficient amount of oxygen circulating in the blood. The pulse becomes rapid. There are disturbances in the breathing, nausea and vomiting, slight fever, fatigue delirium and finally unconsciousness.

It is found by examining the blood of patients with pneumonia that it contains at times a very low amount of oxygen. If oxygen is given to a patient with pneumonia, the amount of oxygen in the blood is raised greatly and the patients thereby breathe more easily and have a better opportunity to recover.

The use of oxygen has been delayed by the necessity for the development of special apparatus with which it may be supplied to those who need it. As an outgrowth of this need there has been developed the oxygen tent which is placed over the patient as he lies in bed. The gas is supplied to the tent from the oxygen tank connected with a motor and with suitable devices for cooling.

In pneumonia consolidation of the lungs takes place and the air spaces are filled with purulent material. Therefore, it is difficult for the person to get enough oxygen. Thousands of cases of pneumonia have now been treated by this method, and the results are sufficiently favorable to warrant its consideration in every difficult case. Because the more serious cases have been selected for this type of treatment, it is at present difficult to evaluate it properly.

There are, of course, other types of cases in which the lack of oxygen in the blood is conspicuous such as, for example, collapse of the lungs after operation, in cases of asthma, severe cases of asphyxiation, heart failure, and other disturbances of the heart.

Today many of the leading hospitals of the country have installed oxygen chambers, rooms especially arranged for supplying oxygen to the patient while lying in bed, the entire bed wheeled into the oxygen room.

Heated Debate Is Seen

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

Lincoln Memorial

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5. — The idea that a tax increase can be avoided at the next session of congress has quite definitely been abandoned by the group of statesmen in Washington who have most influence in shaping the government's financial policy.

The administration does not like the thought of an increase, with a national election ahead, for it realizes that it will be blamed for it.

The administration's opposition does not like it very well, either, or the opposition will be nearly as strong on Capitol Hill this winter as the administration's forces, and consequently is fearful that its own lawmakers will be criticized also, for acquiescing in what most of them cannot help agreeing appears to be inevitable.

BY THE TIME congress meets, however, the accumulated excess of the government's expenditures over its revenues will be on their way toward the two-billion dollar mark.

Few fiscal experts care to take the position that so large a deficit should be made up by borrowing.

A bond issue to raise money for an exceptional emergency would be a different thing. Indeed, there are many advocates of a huge loan to cope with unemployment, but not many who argue that current expenses, piling up at so alarming a rate, should be met by such means.

OF COURSE it is conceded that expenses must be cut, too.

As a treasury spokesman expressed it recently, they not only must be cut, and they not only must be cut deeply, but they must be cut SPECTACULARLY.

The truth is, the administration is not so resentful as it pretends, at the navy's howling over the proposed radical curtailment of its allowance for the 1932-1933 fiscal year.

The navy is at the disadvantage of being a service in which reductions can be effected in noticeable chunks.

In the other departments it is possible to lop off only small items, here and there. Their total may be considerable, but they are not showy, considered separately. Throughout the rank and file of departmental personnels they cause low groans, but not loud yells. The administration needs yells, to convince the taxpayers that, while the government must have more money, it is saving all it can.

BUT RETRENCH as the administration may, it recognizes the hopelessness of attempting to make ends meet or even remotely approach one another without advancing the tax rate.

The necessity for an advance probably will not seriously be questioned, but bitter will be the controversy over the method to be adopted.

The treasury wants what it calls a "broader base" of taxation.

The anti-administration folk seem certain to consolidate upon a program of higher levies upon large incomes and a tightening up of levies upon inheritances, to prevent great estates from passing out of the hands of their owners into the hands of their heirs in the guise of deathbed gifts.

THE TREASURY'S argument against big income sur-taxes is, not that they are discriminating, but that they do not yield adequate returns in hard times, such as the present.

When prosperity is rampant, according to treasury statisticians, fat incomes are so numerous as actually to overload Uncle Sam with money. But today, complain the statisticians, there are not enough incomes of maximum size to balance the federal budget even at a 100 per cent taxation rate.

As a matter of fact, administration financiers say they are not opposed to a higher import upon maximum incomes, as a guarantee to the public that the nation's richest men really are bearing their proportionate share of the load—but they deny that the increase will add sufficiently to federal revenues to wipe out the deficit.

IMPORT TAXATION (the tariff method) is similarly criticized.

Above a certain level, as treasury economists point out, customs levies become practically prohibitive; imports decline and collections shrivel to nearly nothing.

This, as the treasury sees it, leaves Uncle Samuel with no remaining recourse but an excise—in other words, a sales tax.

It is the "broader base" that Secretary Mellon advocates.

Anti-administrationists, generally speaking, do not like it. They may dislike it less as a luxury tax than as a tax on the necessaries of life, but in principle they object to the whole proposition. Disputing the treasury's income tax arguments, they insist on that solution of the problem.

The question will be one of the foremost subjects of debate in congress all winter.

A LOCOMOTIVE LIFTED BY A SHEET OF PAPER

Someone in the organization of the Hemmél-Roes Fibre Corporation, Hopewell, Virginia, wanted to know just how strong their .045 (1-22 of an inch) fibre paper was, but there was nothing handy to make such a test. Eventually they rigged up a 9x5 foot piece of paper with clamps at each end, hooked one end on the boom of a locomotive crane, and the other end on a locomotive—the heaviest thing around the plant. It worked, and the engine was left dangling from the end of the boom for some time, suspended by nothing but the single sheet of paper.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Pretty NORMA KENT, 20-year-old secretary, marries MARK TRAVERS, millionaire's son, in spite of the opposition of Mark's father.

The story takes place in Marlboro, middle-western metropolis. After an extragavant honeymoon the couple face poverty. Mark secures a job, loses it, and then becomes floorwalker in a department store. The young couple are beginning to master their problems when Mark's father sends for him and offers him a place in his own business organization if the son will prove he can make good. Mark's first assignment involves a business trip to France. Norma must remain at home.

She is rudely treated at her father-in-law's home and runs away, leaving no trace of her whereabouts. CHRIS SAUNDERS, Norma's former roommate, helps her find a job. Mark's father employes detectives who unearth records showing that three years before Norma had been convicted on a vice charge. In spite of evidence that the charge was framed, Travers sends his lawyer to Paris to engineer a divorce. Weeks later Norma learns the decree has has been granted.

In August Norma's son is born. When the baby is six months old Norma returns to her former job. Mark's mother sees her with the child and a few days later a public health nurse comes while Norma is away and takes the baby, explaining a complaint has been made that he is neglected. BOB FARRELL, young lawyer, discovers that Mr. and Mrs. Travers are seeking to get custody of the child. Farrell persuades Norma to go to LAFAYETTE FLYNN, district attorney, and tell how the charges against her were framed. Flynn exposes these facts and an investigation is ordered. Norma receives a threatening letter and is sent to stay with MRS. EVERETT, employe in the district attorney's office, until after the trial. Farrell calls to see her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLVII

Norma and Mrs. Everett had just left the table when Bob Farrell arrived. He came in smiling.

"Did you think you'd been kidnaped, Norma?" he asked. "I just dropped in to assure you that you haven't. Well—I should say you're going to be very comfortable here"!

His glance took in the pleasantly furnished living room.

Mrs. Everett held forward an open box of cigarets. "Oh, I think we'll be comfortable," she said. "Norma and I've been discovering that we have several interests in common. We both like Kathleen Norris' books and I have her newest one. I'm going to send down for some more books tomorrow so we'll have plenty of reading material. Then Norma's offered to help me with some curtains—"

Her voice trailed on. Mrs. Everett evidently enjoyed talking. A cheerful, comfortable person herself, she was anxious that others should feel the same. She stayed with the young couple for 15 minutes, suddenly remembered some task and disappeared.

Norma sat on the davenport, the glow of the lamp light turning her hair to pure gold. Her face was in shadow and the care-worn look, the lines that had appeared in the young face during recent months seemed to disappear almost by magic.

Bob watched her for a moment, crossed the room and dropped to a seat beside her. When he spoke the young man's eyes were leveled directly ahead.

"Norma," he said, "there's something I've been wanting to talk to you about. I don't know just how to begin—"

The girl gave him a quick glance. "If there's anything at all I can do," she said. "I hope you'll tell me. I'll never be able to repay all the kind things you've done for me."

"Nonsense. I haven't done anything and there's nothing for you to repay. I don't want you to feel that way. There's a question I want to ask you, Norma, and your answer is going to mean a lot to me. It's going to help me decide something—something terribly important! Oh, I know this is no time to talk about such things but it's the first chance I've had to see you alone in weeks. I hope you'll understand—"

There was a step in the doorway. Mrs. Everett stood there, smiling as usual.

She came forward, carrying a letter. "I wonder, Mr. Farrell," she said, "if you would drop this letter in the mail box when you go out? I'm anxious for it to get off tonight. The box is just in front of the entrance in case you didn't notice it. They make the next collection at 9:30.

Bob said he would be glad to post the letter, took it and slipped it in his coat pocket. Mrs. Everett settled herself and began talking about the Spring Music Festival to begin the following weeks.

Norma understood the woman was trying to keep the conversation from drifting to the ordeal of the coming trial but Bob appeared restless.

Presently he looked at his frist watch. "Time for me to be going," he announced. "I won't forget the letter, Mrs. Everett." With a hand on the door knob he paused to say to Norma. "I'll try to get out another evening soon. Take good care of yourself. Well, good night!"

Alone in her room a little later Norma puzzled over the interrupted conversation. Another proposal? Was that what Bob had meant when he said, "There's a question I want to ask you." Another proposal from Bob?

Norma slipped off her garments and into the borrowed nightgown. She sat on the edge of the bed and considered this possibility. Could Bob Farrell whom she had three times refused to marry, whom she had treated so shamefully when she eloped with Mark, still care for her enough to want to marry her? Could Bob love her that way?

"He's the best person I've ever known," Norma told herself. "No—one of the best. Bob isn't any better than Chris. They're both wonderful. Nobody ever had finer friends than I have."

But could she marry Bob Farrell?

It was a long while before Norma dropped to sleep. She awoke in surprise to find herself in strange surroundings. Then she remembered where she was. When Mrs. Everett tapped on the bedroom door to announce that breakfast was ready Norma had finished dressing.

The day that followed and the ones that came after it were curious. Neither Norma or Mrs. Everett left the apartment. Morning and evening newspapers were delivered at their door. Every day Mrs. Everett telephoned orders to the grocery and meat store. Sometimes they played the radio and it brought them the only voices they heard except their own.

It was a curious existence, being in the world and not being in it. Sunday passed exactly as the week days except that Chris and Bob arrived together for a brief visit. There was no chance for Norma to talk to either of them alone.

Monday passed slowly and Tuesday dragged. A package arrived, sent by Chris. It contained Norma's suit and some other clothing. The suit had long since lost its elegance. It was the one Norma had worn on her honeymoon journey a year and a half before. She was to wear it in the courtroom next day.

It was curious that the girl scarcely gave a thought to the threat against her life. She had never taken that anonymous letter seriously.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Everett coached Norma about the trial. She explained the proceedings, told the girl what to expect. If Mrs. Everett had seemed a pleasant, talkative housewife previously now Norma understood that she was far more than that. She knew the facts of the Wellington investigation as well as the district attorney himself— or appeared to.

"I'll be right with you, child," she told the girl repeatedly. "There's nothing for you to be afraid of and I'll be right behind you."

Norma strove to conceal her nervousness. She was nervous—no use to deny it!

"Remember", Mrs. Everett's calm voice went on. "You're doing this as much for others as yourself. Oh, I'm sure you'll be brave. And 24 hours from now the whole thing will be over."

Before Norma's eyes there arose a blurred vision of staring faces—men and women craning their necks to look at her, whispering voices, cameras clicking, alert, determined reporters. Twenty-four hours! Oh, could she go through all that nightmare again? Twenty-four hours—!

A policeman was at Norma's elbow. "Stand back!" he roared. "D'you hear me?—Stand back!"

The crowd on the sidewalk edged backward. Through the narrow passageway the girl felt herself being pushed and pulled forward. The door of the waiting taxi opened. Norma stumbled inside, sank back against the leather cushions.

"Chris!" she moaned. "Oh, Chris!"

The older girl's arms were around her. "But it's all over, honey! There's nothing to cry about now. It's all over!"

Norma's head was pillowed against Chris' shoulder. She clung to the other girl helplessly. Norma was weeping tears of exhaustion. She drew far back into the dark corner of the cab.

"I want to go home, Chris!" she moaned. "Home!"

The cab had pulled away from the curb. "Mrs. Everett said you were to go to her apartment—" Chris began but Norma shook her head.

"I want to go home!" she repeated. "Away from all those people. Don't make me go back there again! Please take me home!"

"Why, of course—of course if you feel that way about it! You don't have to go any place you don't want to.!" Chris leaned forward, gave the driver the address of the apartment the girls shared.

Norma's sobing contined for several moments. Presently she was quite, rubbed her eyes with a handkerchief.

"Everyone thought you were wonderful," Chris said in a low voice. "You didn't see the newspapers, did you? They say its only the beginning of a tremendous clean-up They say the investigation is going on until it reaches the men who've been making all the graft. 'Whitey' Black's going to go on the stand tomorrow—"

She stopped, catching sight of the other girl's face. Norma said unsteadily, "Please don't talk about it! I—I don't want to even think of this afternoon. Do you know what I'm going to do, Chris? I made up my mind while I was waiting in that room in the courthouse."

"What are you going to do?"

"I'm going away!" Norma said the words almost fiercely. "I'm going away where people won't know me. Here—oh, I'd never be able to look at anyone again—"

"You need a good rest. That's what you need," Chris said gently.

The cab left them before the familiar brick building. Norma and Chris went inside and climbed the two flights of stairs. The door opened to reveal the shabby, homelike room.

Norma dropped into the big chair. She leaned back, sighing. "Every time anything important has happened in my life," she said, "I've come back to this place. I thought when I married Mark I was leaving it for good. I came back though when he went away and I came back the night I heard about the divorce. After the baby was born we came here from the hospital. It seems I'm always coming back to this room. That's why I wanted to be here tonight! It's sort of a comforting place. Don't you think so?"

"It is to me," Chris agreed. "Do you know it's almost four years since that afternoon we looked at it and agreed to take it?"

Norma said idly, "A lot can happen in four years." She arose and took off her hat and coat.

The older girl was watching her. "You don't mind being alone for a little while, do you?" she asked carelessly. "We'll need things from the delicatessen for dinner. Then I think I should telephone Mrs. Everett that you've decided to stay here tonight. If you don't mind I'll run out and do it now."

"Why, no. I don't mind."

Chris picked up her pocketbook. "I won't be long," she said as she turned and opened the door.

It seemed to Norma that Chris took a long time for those errands. The delicatessen was in the same block, the telephone on the first floor of the building. Ten minutes should have been enough for both errands but when 10 minutes had passed Chris had not returned.

Norma moved about restlessly.

She slipped out of her suit, bathed her face and freshened it with powder. Then she got into a house frock. She was lying on the davenport, eyes closed but wide awake, when there was a knock at the door.

Norma arose to answer it. She thought, "It's Chris. She must have forgotten her key."

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Cotton Price Of Cotton Steady At Close — Livestock General Stock Trading Steady — Grain All Commodities Are On Advance

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5. (AP)—Net gains for the day were shown in the New Orleans cotton market after slightly downward slants in erratic fluctuations and fairly active trading. The market advanced on firmness in wheat and steady stocks, but dropped under hedge selling.

Easier sterling and a new high record for silver influenced somewhat better Liverpool cables and as a result New Orleans cotton realized a gain of 2 to 3 points at the start of trading. This was soon wiped out under hedging.

New Orleans closed steady with the general market showing gains of 3 to 7 points. Liverpool is due tomorrow unchanged on New Orleans.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. (AP) — Slight opening advances in cotton today were followed by moderate reactions but prices firmed up again in the late trading.

January contracts, after selling off from 6.63@6.53 or 4 points net lower, closed at 6.62, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 4 to 7 points.

The opening was steady unchanged to an advance of 7 points on a continuation of buying responsible for yesterday's late rally.

Additional private crop reports were issued with figures on the indicated yield ranging from about 16,343,000 up to 6,702,000 bales.

Market Closes Irregularly Lower As Wall Street Watches Wheat Advances

BY JOHN L. COOLEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. (AP)—Strong markets for commodities and bonds failed to arouse much sympathetic enthusiasm in stocks today.

Perhaps Wall street preferred to give wheat further opportunity to prove itself in view of its sensational gains; or it may have been that traders believed shares, averaging 15 points above the October 5 lows, had already discounted such improvement in sentiment as had already appeared and that the cause of reconstruction would best be served by comparative stability.

At any rate, the market, after selling moderately higher in the morning, fell back during the afternoon and closed irregularly lower, although above the day's minimums There was intermittent group of strength in metals, based on the 1 1-2 cent rise in silver.

Bandits Shoot Lock Off Money Drawers But Police Arrive

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Nov. 5. (AP)—Three bandits early today shot the locks from money drawers in the office of the Elms hotel here, then engaged in a gun fight with police who arrived while the holdup was in progress.

One of the bandits was believed wounded. More than forty shots were fired.

Maurice Thought He Was Going To Jail; His Friends Come To Rescue

CHICAGO, Nov. 5 (AP)—Maurice J. Tausig has many friends.

Tuesday he was ordered to pay $100 alimony to his wife, Sylvia, who sued him for divorce, by 4 p. m., yesterday or go to jail.

Jobless and without funds, Maurice felt certain he was going to jail. But he chanced to tell his story at a neighborhood drug store.

After he left, Clark Moss, one of the druggists, suggested that each of his friends contribute $1 to keep him free. When the store closed Tuesday $50 had been contributed. During the first three hours yesterday, $37 more came in. By this time Maurice had heard about the plan, so he went to the drug store and sat down to wait. At 2 p. m., the fund remained at $77. Then twenty friends walked in and handed in the balance.

At one minute to 4 Maurice paid his bill.

Sino-Japanese

the Nonni river bridge destroyed what few hopes remained for success of the League of Nations plan for a return to normal conditions in Manchuria by November 16.

Cause Not Clear

The immediate cause of the battle, after which the two armies "dug in" on either side of the river, was not quite clear. The Chinese troops were those of General Mah Chan-Shan, supporter of the absent nationalist governor, Wan Fu-Lin.

Chinese reports said the Japanese consul at Tsitsihar and the Chinese authorities there conferred and agreed to do everything to avoid a clash, but that the Japanese commander made a verbal demand for evacuation of the Chinese position by noon Wednesday. The ultimatum was disregarded, the report said, and the fighting followed, the Japanese using planes when their first infantry party to cross the river was repulsed.

Versions Vary

The Japanese version said General Mah's men had attacked a Japanese reconnaissance party after Mah in conference at Tsitsihar with several Japanese army officers had agreed to permit the South Manchurian railway engineers to repair the bridge.

General Mah's men dynamited the bridge some weeks ago to hinder movements of the insurrectionist army under General Chang Hai-Peng, who was trying to wrest control of the Tsitsihar area from the nationalists. He was defeated.

The whole story was told today to Emperor Hirohito by General Giro Minami, the minister of war, in a special audience.

To Send Brigade

Newspapers announced the war office had decided, subject to cabinet approval, to send a mixed brigade of 4,000 men to Manchuria from Japan to replace tired troops sent from Korea at the time of the original outbreak near Mukden September 18.

The Rengo News agency said reinforcements were being sent to the Nonni river from both Taonan and Changchun, including a field gun detachment on an armored train. About 500 troops were sent north in the guard for the bridge crew, but General Mah is said to have 5,000 men in the Tsitsihar area, whose equipment includes field and machine guns.

and now I am attempting to devise a basis of regulating production that I hope will be acceptable to those who favor the acreage basis as well as the element pleading for a continuation of the existing per well method," the governor stated.

Protest Is Lodged

A group of operators in the field yesterday protested adoption of the acreage plan submitted by Charles F. Roeser of Fort Worth, president of the Texas Oil and Gas Conservation association and others. They appealed to the governor to let "well enough alone," and not to "disturb a satisfied people." They expressed a preference for the per well basis of proration.

It was believed the governor was working on an idea in which would be incorporated features of both plans.

Never Dangerous To Cure Eczema

That's What Doctors Say—

Some people have an idea that it is dangerous to try to cure eczema—that the "poison" will go through your system.

That's all wrong, doctors say. Nobody knows exactly what causes eczema, but plenty of folks know how to stop it—how to get relief that's nothing short of magic.

Eczema—tetter—salt rheum—no matter what you call it, no matter how long you've had it, nor how many things you have tried—

When it itches so it almost drives you crazy—when you think you just can't stand it another second—put some Moone's Emerald Oil on it.

If that doesn't give you—instantly—greater relief than anything you've ever tried, money back.

Don't be afraid of its hurting you or your clothes—use lots of it. And remember that Bowen's Drug and Bowen's Hilton Pharmacy and every first class druggist guarantees it. —Adv.

Senator Connally Sees An Improvement For Business

BUFFALO, Tex., Nov. 5. (AP)—Senator Tom Connally, speaker at the celebration opening highway No. 75, expressed belief that a general improvement in business conditions was ahead.

He said some industries already were showing more activity and unemployment in certain areas seemed to be declining.

He referred to the load of war debts as being a major cause of poor business in the past two years in this county. He said private indebtedness incurred when commodity prices were high also contributed to the seriousness of the situation.

He pointed out that commodity prices are lower and repayment of debts requires an increased volume of commodities.

Colds and Coughs Yield to Calotabs

Medical writers agree that the important point in the treatment of a cold, or cough due to a cold, is to relieve the congestion in the nose and throat, thereby preventing serious complications which may follow a neglected cold. To stop this congestion calomel was the accepted and standard remedy until Calotabs, the improved calomel compound tablets was introduced.

Now that science has robbed calomel of its nausea and danger, making it pleasant to take and perfectly safe for general use, over forty million Calotabs are consumed in the U. S. yearly with only the most pleasant and satisfactory results. In millions of homes Calotabs have proven their superiority in the prompt relief of colds and coughs due to colds.

One or two Calotabs at bed-time with a glass of sweet milk or water. No salts necessary. No nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning the congestion has subsided, your cold or cough is relieved, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish—no danger.

California Nudists Seek Home; City Debates Request Of Unique Society

CARMEL, Calif., Nov. 5. (AP)—Carmel, which claims to be literary and artistic capital of California, is debating whether it shall admit a colony of nudists.

International branch No. 12 of the Society of the Sun, which has its headquarters near Carmel, wants to move into this picturesque village. In a letter to the city council last night, Mme. Mathilde Baumgartener, head of the branch which consists of 12 members, asked if the nudists might move in.

Herbert Herron, Carmel's ex-mayor, said he saw no objection to the plan, as did several other councilmen, but City Attorney Argylle Campbell, to whom the matter was referred for a ruling, said he would oppose the request.

"Carmel would become the laughing stock of the nation," Campbell said.

"They're doing it in Europe," Herron countered.

Madame Baumgartener's letter said the society insisted on three requisites: love of the sun, scorn for lustful thoughts and a firm belief it is sacrilege to clothe the human body.

She said the cult's present quarters were inadequate, in that there was no protection from "peeping toms." If the cult moved to Carmel, it would be located in a wooded section, "surrounded by an eight foot wall," the letter explained.
