Ask Us

Q—What is the process for a recall election for removal of a U.S. congressman?

A—The law provides for no such process. A member of the U.S. House of Representatives may be removed from office only for improper conduct after a two-thirds vote of the other House members.

In Brief

School finance

AUSTIN (AP) — Poor school districts today asked a judge to declare the new education funding law unconstitutional and require a new way of distributing state aid before school opens in the fall.

If the law goes ahead as is, projected funding losses would require school districts "to take such actions as laying off teachers, canceling programs, not contracting for improvement of school buildings or buying teaching materials, or enriching curriculum," said the motion filed in state court by the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund.

Chamber request tabled

More discussion needed, city council says

In a unamimous decision Thursday, Snyder City Council members tabled a chamber of commerce request for $33,000 in hotel-motel tax funds until next month.

Chamber board members were seeking to use the funds to develop a tourism bureau, and free the chamber manager to work on economic development.

Council members said they believe the request is legitimate, but want to discuss it with other organizations before granting such a large sum of money.

The council room was full of chamber supporters, six of whom addressed council members.

"It does not make any difference who has the money; we all have to be going in the same direction if this town is going to grow," Chamber Manager Ricky Fritz said.

He also said that in his opinion, the creation of a Convention and Tourism Bureau is the "thing to do for Snyder's future."

According to the plan, the $33,000, if granted, will be used to create a bureau for tourism. The chamber will then use the monies it currently spends on tourism to pay a salary for an assistant who would run the bureau. The plan calls for Fritz to spend most of his time to work on jobs for Snyder.

Council members commended the chamber on its efforts to put the plan together and agreed the city does need a point person for economic development. However, Mayor Paul Zeck questioned if the chamber is the place for that person.

"I do concur that we need a point person for economic development but I am hesitant at this time to make a decision not knowing if everyone involved (other economic development committee members) agrees the chamber is the place for that," Zeck told the crowd.

Some 25 people were obviously disappointed that the money was not granted Thursday night. Before the group left, chamber board member Joel Hook asked that the council leave "politics and personalities" out of the decision and seriously talk to the heads of the other organizations concerning the matter.

A request by county museum director Shirley Leftwich for $5,000 in hotel-motel tax funds to be used for special events and brochures was also postponed by the council until next month.

Zeck recommended that all requests for hotel-motel tax funds be sidelined until the council can discuss the funds and decide which

United Way...

Telethon planned Sunday afternoon

Scurry County residents are encouraged to enjoy a variety of talent this Sunday during a telethon held to benefit five local United Way agencies.

The broadcast will originate from Colonial Hill Baptist Church and will air over local cable Channel 2 from 2 until 5 p.m.

Residents can also attend the telethon in person at Colonial Hill.

Scurry County United Way has collected only about 40 percent of its goal of $60,000 for the current funding year. The telethon is an effort to increase funding, upon which The Noah Project, Boys Club, Snyder Child Day Care, Oil Patch Foster Parents and Snyder Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse rely.

Donations will be taken over the telephone, 573-8596, by volunteers at Colonial Hill offices during the telethon. Volunteers will also be available to pick up donations during the event.

Challenges have been made between the sheriff's office, police department and fire department to raise pledges for the telethon, as well as the Lions Club, Rotary Club and Kiwanis Club, employees of each county precinct barn, and American State Bank, West Texas State Bank and Snyder National Bank.

Many local residents have already agreed to appear during the telethon. These include Kim Gorman, John Palomaki, WTC Handbell Choir and the Community Chorus. A taped performance by the Deep Creek Cloggers will also appear on the telecast.

Anyone interested in providing entertainment for the fund-raiser is asked to contact Claudia Fields at The Noah Project, 573-1822.

Fire destroys county home

Snyder Fire Chief Terry Don McDowell said the home was "pretty well a total loss." A 1989 Cadillac Eldorado in the garage was also destroyed.

McDowell said the cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Firefighters from Snyder and Fluvanna fought the blaze, which was reported at 9:45 p.m. The family was not at home at the time of the fire.

Firemen were at the scene until 5 a.m. today.

Mondale tapped to improve U.S. relations with Japanese

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton today tapped former Vice President Walter Mondale to be ambassador to Japan, calling him a leader of "enormous wisdom, courage, compassion and stature" who can help improve economic relations with Tokyo.

"There is no more important bilateral relationship in the world than that which exists between the United States and Japan," Clinton said at a Rose Garden ceremony with Mondale.

"I will look to Fritz Mondale — statesman, negotiator, counselor and representative of our people — to make the bonds that already exist between our two nations even stronger."

The high-profile appointment was widely seen as a sign of the importance the Clinton administration attaches to improving trade relations with Japan.

Indecency case...

Key pre-trial motions postponed

District Judge Gene Dulaney made several rulings Thursday in a pre-trial hearing involving a teacher's alleged indecency with a child, but postponed several key defense motions until late July.

One motion set aside by Dulaney was to quash a grand jury's indictment of former Stanfield Elementary teacher Floyd Garcia Jr. on a charge of fondling a 7-year-old student.

Garcia's trial has been set for Sept. 13, pending rulings on all the motions.

The 44-year-old second grade teacher was placed on paid administrative leave by the school district on the evening of Feb. 16. His contract has not been renewed for the 1993-94 school year.

On Thursday, Dulaney also postponed motions to transfer venue and to suppress Garcia's statement made to a Scurry County sheriff's deputy who investigated the case.

The motions have been rescheduled for July 29.

At least a dozen motions have been filed by Garcia's attorney, Mary Alice McLarty of Lubbock.

On Thursday, Dulaney granted a motion to discover criminal records of witnesses, and a motion requiring the state to reveal any agreement between the state and any prosecution witness.

He also granted a motion to give the defendant notice of any extraneous offenses the prosecution expects to introduce at the trial, and for a continuance until that notice is given.

The judge denied the defendant's request that the district attorney not be allowed to offer into evidence any witness statement in the presence of the jury or to challenge the defendant to offer any statement into evidence until the jury has been excused and the admissibility of the statements determined.

One other motion, to review a transcript of the grand jury proceedings, could not be granted because no grand jury records were kept.

Gun & knife show slated this weekend

A show for area gun and knife enthusiasts is scheduled Saturday and Sunday in Scurry County Coliseum.

The Texas Gun & Knife Association has been holding shows throughout Texas since 1978, but this is the first time the association has put one on in Snyder.

Don Hill, association president, said the shows feature the best in collectible guns, knives and accessories.

"These are items you simply can't find every day," said Hill. "And even if you could, you certainly wouldn't find them all together in once place, at one time, like this."

Hill expects a large number of exhibitors at the show, and he will be available to visit with the public during the event. A former staff writer for Knife World magazine, he is a well-known expert on unique and unusual knives. He designs knives in his spare time.

In addition to knives and guns at the show, there will also be a large selection of wildlife art, historical artifacts, "Texanna" items and Native American and military memorabilia, as well as displays of gold and silver jewelry.

The show will be held from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. Saturday and from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Sunday.

The public is invited to come in and buy, sell, trade or browse. People are welcome to bring their own unloaded guns for sale or trade.

Ira trustees ok hiring of two teachers, coach

Ira public school trustees hired two teachers and a coach and accepted the resignation of one instructor during their June meeting, held Thursday.

The board approved the hiring of Andrea Garner for secondary English, Joni Gainer for science, and Darren Janssen as coach and elementary physical education. Janssen will head up the boy's football, basketball and track programs.

The board also approved the resignation of high school English and math teacher Debbie Cook, who has taken a position with the Jim Ned school system.

In other action, the board awarded a bid to Arrow Ford in Abilene for a pickup in the amount of $18,796 and a bid to Wilson Motors in Snyder for a car in the amount of $14,671. Trustees rejected all bids for a small school bus.

They also accepted bids from various companies for food service and athletic supplies for 1993-94; approved a bid for computer hardware in the amount of $9,000 from Computer Solutions in Snyder; and approved West Texas State Bank for the school depository contract.

The only other item on the agenda was payment of bills. All board members were present.

The next regular meeting of the board will be July 15. Supt. Rick Howard said a special meeting may be scheduled prior to that date to discuss finances for 1993-94.

The SDN Column

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The one who's really in charge is the one with the TV remote control."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

The Brownfield News in Terry County has reported that Odell Sears has been named municipal court judge. Brownfield is on the route to a favorite New Mexico vacation ground, Ruidoso.

The new city judge is the brother of Snyder insurance agent Ernest Sears. Before we could get the question out of our mouth, the answer was: "No, I can't help you if you get a speeding ticket in Brownfield."

Ernest Sears, a long-time Snyder resident and civic workhorse, is a native of the Terry County community of Gomez. Sears says there is no truth to the coffee shop rumor that a statue in honor of him has been erected in downtown Gomez.

Brent Taylor, Snyder native and former KSNY and SDN staffer, will be leaving the Lamb County Leader-News soon. The Littlefield newspaper publisher has resigned to join Associated Telephone Publishers in Abilene.

Brent is the son of Bobbie Taylor and the late Frank Taylor.

Couple of things seem familiar:

—The Colorado City Record recently reported that the Mitchell County hospital board is looking at securing a wing at the hospital for exclusive use of inmates in C-City's prison which is now under construction.

—Lamesa Press-Reporter ran a front-page picture of a city patrol car which was damaged in an accident. It was the third mishap in four months involving a city police car.

—School officials representing "rich districts" Andrews and Seminole returned from Austin. After getting a briefing on the new finance bill, the schoolmen reached the same conclusion — there are no good options.

Tips to avoid severe constipation

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've experienced severe constipation for the past six months that causes impaction. I'm aware that sudden changes in bowel habits may be a symptom of cancer, but tests and X-rays have been negative. What are your suggestions?

DEAR READER: Impaction (the inability to expel a buildup of fecal matter) is an uncomfortable consequence of constipation. This can result from drugs that slow intestinal peristalsis (such as codeine and calcium-channel blockers) but can also accompany large, hard stools. Because your tests have shown no intestinal blockage, I recommend that you focus on avoiding an impaction rather than concerning yourself about its cause. Therefore, I suggest the following:

• Increase your fluid intake to at least six glasses of water a day. Your stools may be too hard and dry to pass. The additional liquid should soften them and aid elimination.

• Use a stool softener, such as Colace. By absorbing water, the products soften the stool and assist defecation.

• Try to have a bowel movement every day. Pick a time that is convenient (and you're not rushed) to spend in the bathroom. In this way, you'll be able to re-train your intestine to function normally.

• Drink an 8-ounce glass of hot prune juice daily. Prune juice contains potassium, which is a natural laxative. No one knows why heating the beverage helps, but it does.

• Make sure that you're not taking medicine that is constipating. Ask your doctor about this. If medication is the culprit, it should be changed or the dose reduced.

• Consider using a disposable enema, such as Fleet's, if you haven't had a bowel movement in two or three days. If you wait much longer than this, the bulk of the fecal residue may be too large to pass.

If these suggestions fail, request a consultation with a gastroenterologist who will examine you, review your tests and make specific recommendations.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my new Health Report "Constipation and Diarrhea." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

School survey eyes student misbehavior, disobedience

HOUSTON (AP) — An overwhelming majority of Texas teachers responding to a survey released by the Texas Federation of Teachers say student discipline and behavior problems are significant both in and out of the classroom.

"We got back some rather shocking responses," John Cole, president of the 20,000-member Texas Federation of Teachers, said at a Houston news conference Thursday.

"Our problem is that schools, in order to function, must be safe, secure places where people can think, reflect, ponder," Cole said. "You can't have disorder and have creative thinking going on."

Nearly one in five of the teachers reported experiencing a direct threat of personal violence, as student disobedience and misbehavior in public schools have become rampant.

Of the 1,447 teachers surveyed in April and May, more than 83 percent said student discipline and behavior problems are significant in and out of the classroom. More than 35 percent said they had a significant problem within their room.

"The bad news, of course, is not just that you are likely, if you are a classroom teacher in some places, that you run the risk of being assaulted in your classroom," Cole said.

"Probably worse throughout the survey is that we saw a clear, systematic pattern of student disrespect for authority, disorder and failure to respect the rights of others. That is alarming even if you're not talking about assaults."

The survey included public school teachers from all over the state, large districts and small. Teachers in the survey were about equally divided among elementary, middle or junior high schools and high schools.

Of the teachers surveyed:

—53 percent reported an assault on students.

—8 percent reported an assault on teachers.

In general, 58.5 percent of the teachers said violence in the just-completed school year has become more of a problem, while 4.5 percent said it was less.

The teachers union is endorsing a campaign for zero tolerance of profanity and violence in the schools and is calling for violators to be barred from classes.

"What we need to do, very early, is show that there are consequences," Albert Shanker, president of the American Federation of Teachers, said.

"This is the only country in the world that is willing to sacrifice the education of 98 or 99 percent of the youngsters because it insists on keeping youngsters who are in some cases criminal and in other cases very disruptive in the classroom. In some cases, we're sacrificing 98 or 99 percent for 1 percent."

More than half of the teachers, 56 percent, said school rules need to be toughened, but more than three-fourths, 77 percent, said the existing rules need to be uniformly enforced by administrators.

Two weeks later, seized squad car still in Mexico

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — Two weeks after a Harlingen police officer chased auto-theft suspects across the border, Mexican authorities continue to hold his squad car.

"It's in the hands of the state departments of both countries," Harlingen Police Chief Jim Scheopner said Thursday. "We've got to go by the book. It's got to go through the diplomatic channels."

Scheopner said he inspected the $20,000 patrol car on May 27, the day after it was seized, and again Thursday at a Mexican customs parking lot in Matamoros.

"The only difference between then and now is the car's got a coat of dust on it," he said.

The chief said he was optimistic that the car would be returned, but he couldn't say when.

"I've never been pessimistic," he said. "I just don't like to hurry up and wait."

Guillermo Gonzalez, administrator of the Mexican customs office in Matamoros, explained that the matter was out of his hands because proper paperwork had to be completed by the federal governments of both nations.

"It's not a question of time, there's a diplomatic process that must be followed," Gonzalez said. "This vehicle was introduced into sovereign territory. It's very simple."

Gonzalez praised Scheopner for understanding the process, but he criticized Brownsville Police Chief Victor Rodriguez for getting involved.

"I don't know why he's putting himself into something that has nothing to do with Brownsville," Gonzalez said.

Post's Garza Theatre plans Harley Sadler Show dates

POST — In a salute to one of West Texas' most popular personalities, Harley Sadler, tent show entertainer, the Garza Theatre will offer "A Harley Sadler Show" 20 times, Thursday through Sunday, beginning July 1 and continuing through Aug. 1.

"A Harley Sadler Show" features the three act comedy, "Natalie Needs a Nightie," by Neil and Caroline Schaffner. It's a fast-paced family comedy which was performed a number of times on the tent show circuit.

Although Harley Sadler's shows were presented in tents, the old fashioned "under the canvass" atmosphere will be re-created within the theatre building.

Starring in the show will be area favorite performers: Jon Steele, David Weaver, Jr., Rick Fay, Charles Somervill, Alison Hoefler, Raina Kennedy and Don Evelyn Fondy.

Evening performances will begin promptly at 7:45 p.m. and Sunday matinees will begin at 2:30 p.m. The fun begins one-half hour before showtimes with a musical concert inside the theatre, featuring "The Musical Gray's Stock Company" band.

During the first intermission, Harley Sadler's traditional candy sale will be recreated. Each candy package will include "West Texas salt-water taffy" with prizes in many of the packages. Also, during the first and second intermissions, the band will continue its concert and accompany the on-stage vaudeville acts.

There will also be a benefit show on July 10, beginning at 2 p.m. with a $5 admission fee, which will include the band and a variety of vaudeville acts, such as "Toby Goes To The Crazy House," and "I'm Herbert." This performance will be different from the one that evening.

Call the Garza Theatre at 1-800-846-3706 or (806) 495-4005 for information and reservations. The box office is opened Monday through Friday, noon to 5 p.m. and on "show" Saturdays and Sundays from noon to showtimes. Ticket prices are $7 for adults and $4 for students ages 6-12. Taxpayers Who Fear Filing Can Get the Help They Need

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1993 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: On May 11, 1992, you responded to an individual who wrote to say that because of a series of extenuating circumstances, she did not file her tax return one year.

As she missed filing once, she was afraid to file again the following year for fear of the consequences, so she had not filed since. You referred her to Enrolled Agents (EAs), who are authorized to represent taxpayers before all administrative levels of the IRS, and can help get people "back on track" with the government.

The response to your column was astounding! Here at the headquarters of the National Association of Enrolled Agents (NAEA), we received more than 10,000 telephone inquiries from people who had failed to file their tax returns — thanks to our 24-hour EA Referral Service hotline ((800) 424-4339). We also received approximately 800 letters from taxpayers who had, likewise, disappeared from the tax rolls and decided to come forward.

We responded to each request from these concerned individuals (within 48 hours) with a list of member EAs in their area. Furthermore, for those who called our main business line (because they were wary of divulging their mailing address), we provided the names of EAs on the spot.

The time has finally come for non-filers to stop living in fear and to get on with their lives; it is critical that they be advised of the IRS' assurance that those who come forward voluntarily will not face criminal prosecution!

Moreover, three out of four people who file tax returns receive refunds. Because there is a statute of limitations (generally three years), time is of the essence to file those past-due returns in order to obtain a refund.

NAEA now offers a free informational brochure designed especially for non-filers titled "Enrolled Agents — Taxpayer Representatives on Your Side," which is available by calling the 24-hour hotline, or writing or faxing your request to: NAEA, 6000 Executive Blvd., Suite 205, Rockville, Md. 20852-3813. Fax: (301) 231-8961. We treat all requests confidentially.

If we reach only a portion of the non-filers, this effort will be worthwhile — both for their peace of mind and our government's.

DEBORAH B. VIEDER,
DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC RELATIONS, NAEA

DEAR READERS: Be advised that the fees charged by Enrolled Agents vary according to location and services.

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the letter from Al Seivertson who wrote to say that he is a smoker, enjoys eating fried foods, ham and eggs, and everything that's supposed to be unhealthy. He boasted that at age 60, he took early retirement and didn't use up any of the sick time he had coming.

Well, until a month ago, my husband could have written a similar letter. He's a retired auto worker who had worked for the same company for 30 years. He just had his 61st birthday. (Notice, I didn't say "celebrated.") Four weeks ago, with practically no warning, he had a major heart attack and ended up with a quadruple bypass.

His doctor had warned him to quit smoking several times, but like Al, he said, "I'm going to enjoy life while I'm living, and if I die a few years earlier, that's OK, too." Like Al, my husband boasted that there had been no history of heart trouble in his family, and his father had also been a three-pack-a-day smoker.

I hope Mr. Seivertson's luck holds out better than my husband's did. He didn't think it could happen to him either. You may use my name.

BARBARA KENNEDY,
TRENTON, ILL.

DEAR BARBARA: Thank you for your candid letter. Your husband will be in my prayers.

Governor continues search for state treasurer position

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards is moving as quickly as she can in naming a new state treasurer.

Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison's election Saturday to the U.S. Senate means a Richards appointee will fill the post until the 1994 elections.

Richards, who served as treasurer from 1983-1991, hasn't set a timetable to replace Mrs. Hutchison but is moving quickly, her staff said Thursday.

"It's my understanding that Sen.-elect Hutchison is taking the oath of office Monday. So we'll be moving as quickly as possible," said Chuck McDonald, Richards' deputy press secretary.

Comptroller John Sharp earlier this week suggested that the job could be left vacant and the duties turned over to his office. But McDonald said that was unlikely.

However, he said, the governor was looking for someone who could further economize the Treasury operations.

"Gov. Richards did ask Comptroller Sharp for his suggestions on how we could make all of state government more effective and more efficient. I think we have an opportunity here with a new treasurer coming in — one appointed by the governor — to make significant steps toward making it more efficient," he said.

Neither Richards nor her staff has said who is getting a look for the treasurer's appointment. But a number of names have been mentioned, including:

—Mary Beth Rogers, a former Richards chief of staff who's now teaching at the LBJ School of Public Affairs.

—Mary Scott Nabers, who Richards appointed earlier this year to the Railroad Commission.

—Ygnacio Garza of Brownsville, chairman of the Parks and Wildlife Commission.

—Alicia Chacon, El Paso County judge.

—Kathy Whitmire, former mayor of Houston.

—Pam Reed, a state water commissioner and former Travis County commissioner.

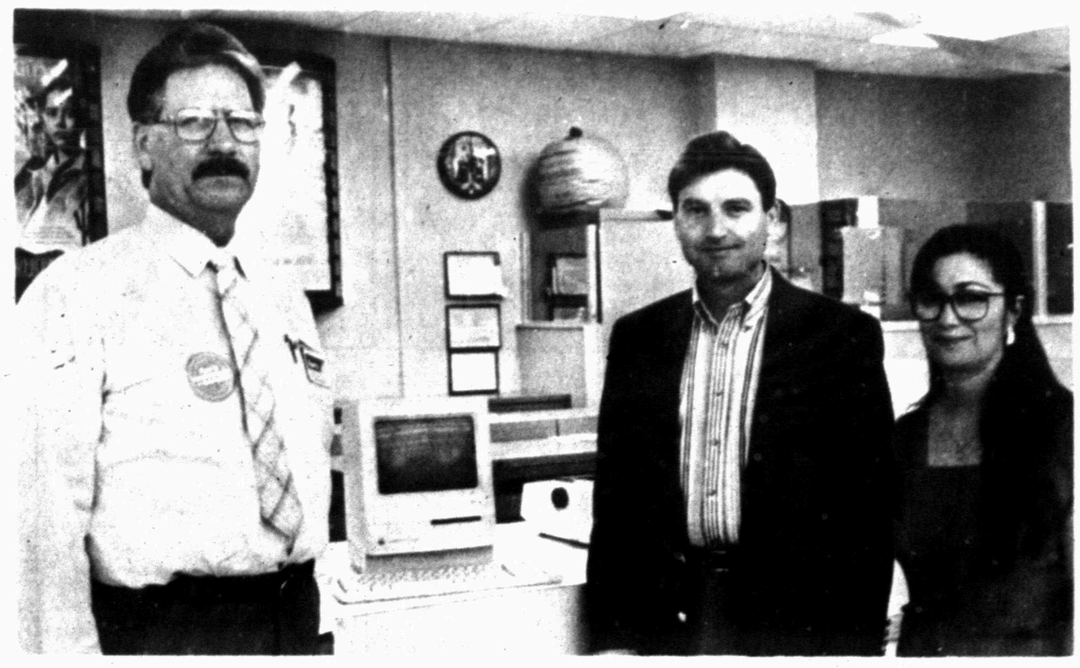

—Cathy Bonner, executive director of the Texas Department of Commerce.

—Ronald Kirk, Dallas, a state General Services Commission member.

—Cecelia Burke, a special assistant to Attorney General Dan Morales.

—Kay Granger, mayor of Fort Worth.

—Katy Caldwell, Harris County treasurer.

NEW COMPUTER — Central Elementary School has received a computer from Furr's. The purchase was made possible by the Furr's Computer Receipts promotion. Ron Ramsaler, manager, made the presention this week to Jim Rosson, principal; and Cris Benitez, Parent Council representative. The assumption on two levels

By Phillip Alder

G.H. Lewes wrote, "We must never assume that which is incapable of proof." Well, sometimes in bridge we must make an assumption even if we cannot prove it at that moment. At other times, though, by making one assumption we can draw another conclusion — as in today's deal.

Against your four-heart contract, West leads the spade king, cashes the spade ace and plays a third spade. How do you continue after ruffing East's spade queen?

Both North and South bid the spots off their cards. With such poor distribution, North was only just worth his limit raise, which showed at least four trumps and some 11 total points. South, who had a minimum opening, should have passed. But he wanted to try for the vulnerable game bonus.

After ruffing the third round of spades, South immediately led a heart to the king and ace. When the trumps broke 3-1, he had to lose another trick and finished one down.

"Sorry, partner," he said. "I knew I should have passed over three hearts."

"I agree with that, but I think you should have made your game," commented North.

"Why should I play East for the heart ace rather than West?"

"Well, to stand any chance, you must assume that the club finesse is working. And if it is, that gives West at least 10 points: the club king and the A-K of spades. This makes it more likely that East will have the heart ace. You should cross to dummy with a diamond and play a low heart through East."

Helmsley due early release

NEW YORK (AP) — Hotel queen Leona Helmsley will be checking out of prison early.

U.S. District Judge Thomas Griesa cut her four-year sentence for tax evasion to 21/2 years Thursday. With time off for good behavior, Mrs. Helmsley could be out of her Danbury, Conn., prison cell in January 1994.

She entered prison on Tax Day, April 15, 1992.

Griesa said he reduced her sentence because of her age, 72, and the condition of her ailing, 84-year-old husband, Harry. The judge acted after the U.S. Parole Commission twice turned her down for early release.

The billionaire businesswoman was convicted in 1989 of evading $1.2 million in taxes. She has paid about $8 million in fines and restitution.

Appropriations Committee allots $620 million for collider

WASHINGTON (AP) — With critics of the super collider just weeks away from launching their strike against the embattled project, Texas lawmakers are guardedly enthusiastic about a House panel's action.

A House appropriations subcommittee Thursday earmarked $620 million for the giant atom smasher — just $20 million less than what is being sought by the Clinton administration.

"That's extremely good in the context that the subcommittee didn't get nearly its allocation that the president had requested," said subcommittee member Jim Chapman, D-Sulphur Springs.

Rep. Martin Frost, D-Dallas, whose district is home to much of the particle accelerator, said, "I was very pleased with the action by the subcommittee."

Rep. Joe Barton, R-Ennis, whose district also includes part of the collider, injected a note of caution. "We're pleased as a beginning, but it's still a beginning. We've still got a lot of work to do," he said.

Foes of the project, now estimated at $10 billion to complete, contend it's siphoning money from other basic science. They also say the collider is too costly in an era of huge deficits and some claim the project is poorly managed.

Last year's House vote to kill the collider still fresh in their minds, supporters are very cautious when asked to assess the vote expected later this month.

"I think it will be a very tough vote," Chapman said. "I would say right now we might be a touch behind, but we have reconfirmed strong support from the White House. We expect the president to be involved in this effort and we're going to work very hard to convince the freshmen."

Both sides agree the battle will be won or lost with the 110 freshmen, many of whom campaigned on the promise of cutting spending. "I think there will be a fair number that go in undecided," Barton said.

If that's the case, it won't be for lack of effort. Proponents and opponents alike have held news conferences, circulated dozens of congressional letters and made countless speeches on the floor. A well-heeled lobbying and publicity machine is grinding out pro-collider information, while consumer watchdog groups and others go on the attack.

Rotary scholarship applications due

SAN ANGELO — Applications for 1994-1995 Rotary Foundation Ambassadorial Scholarships to be awarded worldwide are now available from local Rotary Clubs.

The scholarships, which are designed to further international understanding and goodwill, provide for study abroad in one of the 184 countries and geographical regions where Rotary Clubs are located.

Academic-year Ambassadorial Scholarships are for one academic year abroad and provide round-trip transportation and up to $20,000 (U.S.) or its equivalent for tuition and fees, room, board, necessary educational supplies and limited educational travel and contingency expenses. Multi-year ambassadorial scholarships are flat grants of $10,000 (U.S.) per year for either two or three years toward the cost of a degree program.

Also available are Cultural Ambassadorial Scholarships for three to six months of cultural immersion and intensive language study in another country.

During their studies abroad, Rotary Foundation Ambassadorial Scholars act as "ambassadors of goodwill." Through appearance before Rotary Clubs and districts, schools, civic organizarions, and other forums, the scholars represent their homelands through international "Service above self."

Interested persons should contact Michelle Moore with the Rotary Club of San Angelo-Southwest at 915-949-1947 for application materials.

Completed applications are due by July 15, 1993.

The Rotary Foundation Ambassadorial Scholarships program is the world's largest, privately-sponsored international scholarship program. Some $215 million dollars has been spent on over 24,000 international scholarships since the program began in 1947.

Game 2 in Phoenix tonight...

Suns hope to draw even in NBA Finals

PHOENIX (AP) — The Phoenix Suns have been here before. They know how to fight from behind in the playoffs.

Their problem is that Chicago has been here, too. The Bulls know how to win championships.

The Bulls took a big step toward that in Wednesday night's opening 100-92 win that put the Suns in a tough spot — win tonight or go to Chicago facing the prospect of being swept in the best-of-7 NBA Finals.

The Bulls avoided such premature thoughts in their successful title runs the past two seasons.

"We'll start letting you guys write that, but we won't think it," Scottie Pippen told reporters Thursday. "There's still a lot of basketball to be played. We feel if we can get this next game, we'll definitely control the series."

While the Suns could become the first NBA finalist to lose the first two games at home, "We don't feel pressure. We haven't felt pressure all year long," Dan Majerle said. "We have to win the game, obviously, but we've been in this situation before."

The Suns dropped the first two games of their opening series at home against the Lakers, then won three straight to eliminate Los Angeles. They were tied 3-3 after losing Game 6 of the Western Conference finals by 16 points, then returned home to beat Seattle.

That victory put the Suns in their first championship series in 17 years, and the lack of experience showed. Their early jitters and lack of aggressiveness helped the Bulls to a 20-point second-quarter lead that Phoenix never could overcome despite improved play the last 21/2 quarters.

"Our experience really showed," Michael Jordan said. "When they made a run, we didn't lose our poise."

Chicago, 12-2 in the playoffs, has won its last five games. Phoenix, 11-8, has lost two of its last three.

But Suns coach Paul Westphal said, "Let's don't give the Bulls superiority yet just because they won one game."

And Phoenix guard Danny Ainge, a 3-point shooter held to one errant attempt from that distance because of sticky defense, saw one encouraging sign.

"The only positive thing that I can think of is that we set them up," he said. "We've got them right where we want them. They think they've got this thing locked up."

But the Bulls are hardly satisfied with winning just one game in Phoenix and gaining the home-court advantage.

The first-game focus was on the failures of the Suns' two key players. Charles Barkley missed 16 of 25 shots despite getting little double coverage. Kevin Johnson had just two assists and 11 points, but committed five turnovers.

"I think that we'll have better performances from (those) two guys and that will make everybody play better for us," Westphal said.

He said Johnson needs his teammates to move to open spots so he can pass to them when he penetrates and runs into the Bulls' tall frontline.

And Barkley must hit his shots and force Chicago to double team him, leaving other Suns free.

Ira decides on Janssen

IRA — Ira Independent School District trustees Thursday hired Valley girls' basketball coach Darren Janssen to take over the boys' football, basketball and track programs at IHS, and to coach elementary physical education.

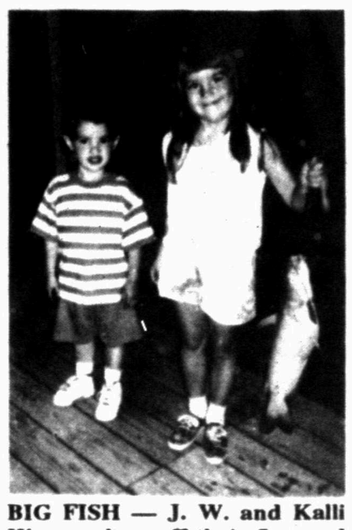

Janssen has been the girls' cage coach, as well as the cross-country coach and an assistant football coach at VHS since 1991.

The Lady Patriots, under Janssen's guidance, went 18-11 during the 1992-93 campaign, earning the District 2 title, a bi-district crown and an area championship.

His other coaching credits include a year at Rotan, where he coached girls' basketball and track, and was an assistant varsity football coach and head JV grid coach, and a stint at Kermit, where he scouted for the varsity football team and coached seventh grade football, basketball and golf.

Janssen, a 1988 graduate of Abilene Christian University, has also worked with Special Olympics.

Court reverses ban on animal sacrifices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today ruled that a community's ban on animal sacrifices in church rituals violates religious freedom.

The court ruled 9-0 in case from Florida that the Constitution protects a church's right to kill animals in worship services.

"The laws in question were enacted by officials who did not understand, failed to perceive or chose to ignore the fact that their official actions violated the nation's essential commitment to religious freedom," Justice Anthony M. Kennedy wrote for the court.

"We conclude, in sum, that each of Hialeah's ordinances pursues the city's governmental interests only against conduct motivated by religious belief," Kennedy wrote.

"Legislators may not devise mechanisms, overt or disguised, designed to persecute or oppress a religion or its practices," Kennedy wrote.

The Church of the Lukumi Babalu Aye challenged a ban on animal sacrifices in the Miami suburb of Hialeah. The church practices Santeria, an ancient African-based religion in which animal sacrifice is a central ritual.

Mainstream religions kept a close watch on the case after the high court in 1990 abandoned its longstandiing rule that laws interfering with religious practices must satisfy a compelling interest.

The court's 1990 ruling in an Oregon case let states outlaw the religious use of the illegal hallucinogenic drug peyote. People's religious beliefs do not excuse them from having to comply with "neutral and generally applicable" laws, the justices said in that decision.

Today, Kennedy wrote for the court that the 1990 ruling, which has sparked an attempt in Congress to overcome it, still is the law of the land.

But he said a law that fails, like Hialeah's ordinances, to meet the "neutral and general applicability" requirement "must be justified by a compelling governmental interest and must be narrowly tailored to advance that interest."

Hialeah's ordinances flunked that test, Kennedy said.

The ordinances were passed to promote public health and prevent cruelty to animals, but Kennedy noted that Hialeah officials did not attempt to regulate non-religious slaughter of animals for food.

The challenged 1987 Hialeah ordinances ban the "sacrifice" of animals in any "ritual or ceremony not for the primary purpose of food consumption."

Treasury targeted in probe

AUSTIN (AP) — State Treasurer and U.S. Sen.-elect Kay Bailey Hutchison termed an investigation into wrongdoing at the Treasury "outrageous" after several of her employees and an official with her Senate campaign were subpoenaed by the Travis County district attorney's office.

"This is so outrageous. I think it's beneath partisanship," said Mrs. Hutchison, a Republican who won election to the Senate on Saturday by overwhelming Democratic appointee Bob Krueger.

"There are two ways to lose: gracefully and the way the Democrats are doing it. ... I am very surprised and disappointed."

Mrs. Hutchison, who visited Washington on Thursday, is scheduled to be sworn into the Senate on Monday.

District Attorney Ronald Earle said Thursday his office subpoenaed 14 employees of the state Treasury and an official of Hutchison's Senate campaign to testify before a grand jury about several allegations of wrongdoing.

Diana Gonzales, 32 of 708 28th St., was treated at Cogdell emergency room for a scalp laceration at 1:50 p.m., following a two-vehicle accident in the 2800 block of Avenue J.

Gonzales was the driver of a 1972 Chevrolet which was in collision with a 1992 Geo driven by Katherine Jones of 1909 30th St.

Gonzales was released following treatment.

Police worked a second accident at 5:08 p.m. in the 4600 block of College Avenue. Involved were a 1986 Ford driven by Ellis Ray Crawford of 2907 Ave. V and a 1979 Chevrolet driven by John Mackey Greene of 2409 31st St.

Requests tabled

direction the monies should be allotted. Council members agreed.

Western Texas College withdrew its request for $4,595 for hotel-motel tax funds for the annual Brock Memorial Speech Tournament until next month.

The council did approve a joint purchase between the appraisal district and itself to purchase an AS/400 computer. Carolyn House, city data processing director, has come before the council several times to advise that the city is running out of space on the current computer system, and that a change in equipment will be necessary.

She pointed out that purchasing the computer jointly with the appraisal district would be a cost savings to the city of some $40,000. The computer will cost the city $85,883.

Council members tabled a TU Electric request to amend its franchise agreement with the city. TU has been paying the city 3 percent of its gross receipts from the retail sale of electric power and energy and is seeking to amend that amount to four percent.

The council asked Daryl Thomas, manager of the TU Electric Snyder area office, to come back in a couple of months after he has done some research on the matter. The council said it wants to know what other cities have amended franchises before voting.

A bid for $88,800 from Henninger Inc. of Abilene on the Central Fire Station expansion was not accepted last night. On two separate occasions the council has considered bids for expansion of the station and all the bids have come in over the budgeted amount, which is $63,000.

Fire Chief Terry McDowell explained that the problem is that there are three fire trucks that the fire department does not have a place for, since the substations were deleted. The council said it will consider the project again in the new budget year.

Two zoning requests were approved on second readings. Golden Terrace Village received a zone change north of Cogdell Memorial Hospital from a single family district to a multi-family district. This will clear the way for construction of a 40-unit senior citizens apartment complex.

O'Neal and Virginia Bloom received a zone change from an R-1 to a C-1 commercial district. The Blooms are planning to establish a card shop and bed and breakfast at 2018 37th Street.

In other action, Mike Post was elected as mayor pro tem and Jack Denman was appointed as the city's representative to the West Central Council of Governments.

Bids were accepted from Fina Oil and Price Construction, both out of Big Spring, for latex asphalt and sealcoat rock, which will be used on street projects this summer. The combined total of the bids is $86,653. Vic Chambers, director of planning and zoning, said that more than six miles are expected to be covered on the road project.

Council members also reviewed a tracer study on the water treatment plant and a map of the city concering water line replacements scheduled this summer.

City Manager John Gayle informed the council that the Texas Department of Transportation has budgeted $100,000 for beautification on U.S. Highway 180 for next year. He also said that the WTC Exes Association and the Girl's Softball Association had requested hotel-motel tax funds but that the amounts were under $1,000. If the amounts are under $1,000 the request goes before a committee and not the city council. The committee is made up of the mayor, mayor pro tem and the city manager. The committee has taken no action on the requests at this time.

All council members were present, to include Denman, Dayton Robertson, Vernest Tippens, Mike Post, I.E. Martin and Ron Shaw. Zeck presided.

Also present were Gayle and Ernie Armstrong, attorney for the city.

Three enter guilty pleas

Three people entered guilty pleas in 132nd District Court Thursday.

Alejandro Ramirez, 19, of Snyder, pled guilty to a Dec. 20, 1992 offense of burglary of a building. He was sentenced to 10 years in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice Institutional Division, probated. He was also ordered to pay $500 in fines, $84.50 in court costs and $3,530 in restitution.

Joe Garza, 23, of Snyder, pled guilty to two offenses on April 4, 1993, criminal mischief and burglary of a building. He was sentenced to 10 years in the TDCJ-ID for each offense.

He was also ordered to pay $84.50 in court costs and $8,598 in restitution on the criminal mischief offense. On the burglary of a building offense, he was ordered to pay $84.50 in court costs and $713.94 in restitution.

Garza's probation was also revoked on a July 1, 1989 offense of arson. He had received six years in the TDCJ-ID, probated and was ordered to pay $2,796.20 in restitution. All three sentences will run concurrently.

CDC says evidence points to new strain of rodent virus

ATLANTA (AP) — Government scientists say the search for the cause of the deadly mystery illness in the Southwest points to a brand new strain of a rodent virus.

Doctors have said since last week that they suspect a member of the family of viruses called hantaviruses, which are carried by rodents, is causing the flulike ailment that is striking down mostly, young otherwise healthy people with alarming speed.

However, most hantavirus is found in Asia, and none has ever caused an outbreak in the Western Hemisphere. Also, hantavirus typically kills with kidney failure, not respiratory failure. None of the U.S. victims has had kidney failure.

On Thursday, Dr. James Hughes, director of the Center for Infectious Diseases at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, said the evidence suggests a brand new type of hantavirus at work.

The CDC counted 26 cases by Thursday — most of them in New Mexico — and is investigating 14 deaths that may have been caused by the illness, spokesman Bob Howard said. The disease has stricken mostly Navajos. Some victims died within hours.

Other agencies' numbers varied somewhat. New Mexico state officials counted 23 cases and 11 deaths, with a possible 12th. The Indian Health Service has reported 28 cases with 14 deaths.

The CDC has begun lab tests to isolate that virus from the blood or urine of rodents, tests that would prove it's the cause and specify which animal is its carrier. That will take at least a few weeks, Hughes said.

Your initiative and diligence is not apt to go unrewarded in the year ahead. Use these assets to your advantage to make your mark in the world both socially and materially.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't let your social interests become so predominant today they cause you to set aside or reschedule priority matters. What you neglect now will be twice as problematical later. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. CANCER (June 21-July 22) In order to be successful today you have to have definite plans as to how you intend to achieve your objectives. If you know what you want, you'll know how to do it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) There is something you've already made a decision on so stop rehashing its pros and cons. Overanalysis could confuse you and jam up your decision mechanism.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Close involvement with a bold and daring associate might do your cautious outlook some good today. We can always learn something from others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Take ample time to weigh and balance critical issues today. Your first decisions aren't apt to be your best ones, because they are likely to be made impulsively.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In order for today to be meaningful for you, it's important you do things you deem to be productive. If you waste your time, you'll regret it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Social sports that have elements of friendly competition could be very gratifying today. However, be careful not to play with persons who take these games too seriously.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Once you start a task or assignment today there is a good chance you'll follow it through to a satisfactory conclusion, even though you might have some disturbing outside factors with which to deal.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There are several close friends you've been ignoring a bit lately who are anxious to see and talk with you. Just for the heck of it, pay them a surprise call today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Things should work rather well for you today in areas where you focus your attention. If it's in the material realm, you may be able to do something significant to make or save money.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Assume the initative today instead of waiting to take cues from others. They might not have the urgency about certain matters that you do. They can afford to wait, you can't.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Most of today you may find yourself in a quiet, reclusive mood. However, this attitude can be used productively to clean up work you do best when alone.

Washington audience enjoys preview of 'Jurassic Park'

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was Capitol Hill meets Godzilla at the world premiere of the movie "Jurassic Park" — and the politicians, it seemed, came away impressed.

Wednesday night's screening of the summer's much-hyped $56 million dinosaur thriller by director Stephen Spielberg was held to rave reviews in a benefit for the Children's Defense Fund and the Children's Action Network.

It was a bit of Hollywood on the Potomac as the red carpet was rolled out for the likes of "Jurassic" stars Jeff Goldblum, Laura Dern and Sam Neill, along with writer Michael Crichton and top executives from Universal Pictures.

Washington provided some heavyweights of its own, including former Washington Post Executive Editor Ben Bradlee, and his wife, Washington writer Sally Quinn; Health and Human Services Secretary Donna Shalala; Children's Defense Fund founder Marion Wright Edelman; former boxing champ Muhammad Ali; Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America; and several members of Congress.

Tickets started at $250 and went up to $10,000.

Noticeably absent: President Clinton, who some critics have accused of being too taken by Hollywood glitter, and first lady Hillary, a former board member of the Children's Defense Fund and long-time friend of Edelman, whose husband is a member of the Clinton administration.

About 300 inner-city youngsters attending for free had a raucous time, cheering and screaming in the top balcony of the Uptown Theater, one of Washington's largest and oldest movie houses.

"It surprised me because I didn't think it was going to be so exciting and scary. It fooled me," said Tiffany Turner, 14. Tiffany and 15 fellow students from Frederick Douglas Jr. High in Southeast Washington were among those receiving complimentary tickets.

The event's more well-heeled attendees seemed to flinch and yell at all the right hi-tech moments too.

"I thought it was fantastic," said Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt. "They have an all-time hit with this one."

Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, emerged smiling with his daughter, Jenny, 11, and wife Ruth.

"That was a fun, scary movie." Harkin said. "You almost feel worn out at the end. The only thing that would have made it better was if it was in 3-D."

"Jenny was sitting to my right and my arm is numb. She was clinging on to me the whole time," Harkin added.

The movie, which will be released Friday in 2,200 theaters, is adapted from a Crichton novel about a future-fantasy theme park built by a wealthy industrialist. The park's star attractions, dinosaurs, are cloned from genetic material extracted by scientists from insects trapped millions of years ago in amber.

Genetic find dates back to dinosaurs

NEW YORK (AP) — In a breakthrough recalling "Jurassic Park," scientists extracted genetic material from an insect that lived when dinosaurs roamed the Earth.

The extinct insect, a weevil some 120 million to 135 million years old, was well-preserved because it had gotten mired in tree resin that hardened into amber.

The genetic material is at least 80 million years older than any used in previously reported studies, researchers said today — one day before the opening of the movie "Jurassic Park," based on the Michael Crichton novel.

In "Jurassic Park," scientists extract dinosaur genetic material from an insect and go on to clone a dinosaur.

But the newly reported genetic material is from the insect itself, rather than an insect's meal of dinosaur blood. And it's just two bits of one gene, not enough to create the insect, even if such cloning were possible.

The weevil was found in Lebanon in the oldest known amber deposits to contain insects.

"I never expected to get DNA from this weevil" because it was so old, said researcher Raul Cano of California Polytechnic State University in San Luis Obispo, Calif. "But when we looked at the tissue, there was a lot of tissue there. So we were willing to take a chance."

He reported the study in Thursday's issue of the journal Nature with a colleague at his university and scientists at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Aalanta, American University of Beirut in Lebanon and the University of California at Berkeley.

Genes are made up of chemical sequences, and researchers were able to determine the sequences of two bits of the weevil gene.

The report is "amazing and a great achievement," said Ward Wheeler of the American Museum of Natural History in New York, co-author of a recent study of genes from a termite some 25 million to 30 million years old.

The record may not stand for long. Brian Farrell of the University of Colorado at Boulder said he had "preliminary positive results" in getting a genetic sequence from the scales of fish some 180 million to 210 million years old.

MDA camp scheduled

Key people in the program are the volunteer attendants who serve as companions to the campers. Each child, whether walking or in a wheelchair, has their own attendant who provides care, close attention and supervision.

Camp will be held Aug. 8-13 at Ceta Canyon Methodist Camp in Happy, approximately 25 miles south of Amarillo. Volunteers are currently needed.

For more information and an application form call 806-793-5632.

Those eligible to attend the camp are anyone between the ages of 6 and 21 diagnosed as having a neuromuscular disease covered by MDA. The West Texas Camp is for anyone who lives in the Amarillo, Lubbock, Permian Basin and Concho Valley areas.

Patients and their attendants are admitted free of charge.

A paramedic will be at the camp the entire week. All activities are designed and adapted so each camper can participate according to his/her own abilities.

Some activities take place in small groups and may include baseball, swimming, table games, volleyball, singing, dances, camp fires, horseback riding, talent show, arts and crafts and fishing.
