NUMBER FORTY-NINE

EXTENSION MEN TO BE IN STANTON

G. W. Barnes, beef specialist and J. D. Prewit, district agent, both of the Texas A. & M. college Extension Service, are expected in Stanton Saturday. They plan to spend the day visiting 4-H club calves being fed out by Martin county club boys and offer suggestions on feeding practices to the boys, according to County Agent Geo. Bond.

Mr. Bond reports there are now 71 calves on feed in the county. Of this number 16 calves have been started only a short time, and are being fed on home grown feeds principally. The remaining 55 were started early in April on nurse cows and are now showing promise of offering some keen competition in the calf shows next spring.

SLUMBER PARTY FOR DOROTHY JEAN KING

Biddy Zimmerman and Nora Allene Purser, were hostesses for a slumber party last Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Purser, commencing Dorothy Jean King who has moved to Midland.

First, the guests accompanied by Mmes. Purser, Morris Zimmerman and J. E. Moffett, went out to the roadside park for a watermelon feast and then attended the picture show. After much chatter they finally took off to slumber land. Sunday morning all went over to the city park for breakfast which consisted of pineapple juice, scrambled eggs, toast, and cocoa.

The guests were: Patsy Wilkinson, Mary Sue Moffett, Joyce Brown, Babs Hittson, Sue Houston, and the honoree.

eral years, went over to Colorado City Friday night and held the Wolves to a 0-0 tie, all the time making ten first downs to Colorado's eleven. Maybe the Bulldogs are lucky not to have to play Stanton this season.

It's unfortunate that anyone must be sued, but, in law, as in everything else, the good goes with the bad—that misfortune over which no one has any control, falls upon the just as well as the unjust, and it so happens the unfortunate is snared in the net of being sued. As an example the Haskell Free Press came to this desk last week carrying 15 full pages of delinquent tax suits, involving 225 separate suits brought against holders of property in the city of Haskell. No doubt, many of the property owners, paid taxes regularly until misfortune overtook them rendering it impossible for them to meet their tax obligation, while other could pay, but won't until faced with a lawsuit. As a self-defense move, in an endeavor to collect back taxes owed the city, and with prospects that no effort was being made to settle accounts, Haskell decided to sue the property owners, and sell said property for the amount of the taxes held against the property. Whatever may be the fortunate or unfortunate circumstances that surrounds the delinquent city taxpayers of Haskell, Sam Roberts, and his Haskell Free Press, has forestalled the approach of the wolf at the door for awhile at least from the revenue received for publishing the tax suits.

Two of the four conference games are to be played on the Stanton Buffalo field. They are with Andrews and O'Donnell. The surprise outcome, 0-0 tie, with the Colorado Wolves, Friday night, bespeaks an excellent start of the season for the local squad and bears the earmarks that the Buffaloes stand an excellent chance for winning the district pennant.

Paul Barron, in his Town Quack column in the Midland Reporter-Telegram of Sunday handed the Stanton Buffaloes, this nice compliment: "Flat off to the Stanton football team. The neighboring youngsters, somewhat down trodden for sev-

Home Demonstration Exhibit November 18

The county clubs voted to have an exhibit of home demonstration work on November 18, in Stanton. Foods will be exhibited along with Italian pen-stitched scarfs and pillow cases and other bedroom improvement demonstrations that will be given.

An increased amount of canning has been done in the county this year, according to reports given to the council meeting last Saturday from individual clubs.

An account of the district 4-H club show and encampment at Lamesa was given by Edna Earl Jones, president of Tarzan 4-H club.

Following the regular meeting, slices of cake were sold and served with a refreshing drink. The cake netted $1.10 for the council treasury.

CONGRESSMAN MAHON TO WASHINGTON

Lubbock, Sept. 21—Congressman George Mahon closed his Lubbock office in Monday of this week and returned to Washington for the special session of Congress convening September 21.

He predicted that the cash and carry neutrality policy advocated by President Roosevelt would be enacted into law. "I voted for the cash and carry provision last session and I expect to do so again," he said.

Mahon explained that it is not possible to tell in advance how long the special session would last. It might possibly last until late in the fall, he said. The regular session of Congress will convene on January 3, 1940.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest King and daughter, Dorothy Jean, have moved to Midland to make their home. This estimable family will be missed in Stanton.

Here From Ackerly

D. A. Grothe of route 1, Ackerly, visited the Reporter office Friday afternoon and ordered the paper to come to his address for a year. He came to town with his father, G. W. Grothe, and two brothers, A. F. and A. O., all of whom were in Stanton on business. The Grothes report they have fine feed and cotton crops.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING FOREMOST

Despite the appearance of other advertising media, the newspaper remains the most productive channel whereby industry can reach the buying public—and industry is fully aware of that fact.

A recent survey well illustrates the sustained popularity of newspapers among advertisers. The survey was made by four national associations serving chain stores, and covering 138 representative systems operating more than 33,000 stores, coast-to-coast, and having annual sales well in excess of $3,000,000,000.

During the typical year covered by the survey, these companies spent more than $55,000,000 for advertising, an average of $1.754 per store. Almost 58 per cent of the money was spent with newspapers. A little less than 10 per cent was spent on handbills and similar printed matter much of which was produced in local newspaper plants. Only 4.80 per cent was spent for radio with the balance made up of expenditures on miscellaneous media.

Breaking the figures down, it was found that drug chains spent 32.24 per cent of their advertising dollar with newspapers, grocery chains spent 56.53 per cent and general merchandise and variety chains spent 51.35 per cent.

That is a testimonial to the character of the American press. No institution holds a higher place in the esteem of the American people. This is particularly true of the newspapers serving the smaller towns of the country which are read from "cover to cover" by their subscribers—news, locals, advertisements and all.—Industrial News Review.

COLORADO CITY AND STANTON 0-0 TIE

Almost as great a shock to the football world in Stanton as the shock to the warring world of the Russian Red Army moving in on poor war-wrecked Poland, was the news that the Stanton Buffaloes had held the strong Colorado City Wolves to a 0-0 tie in their game last Friday night at Colorado City. The game was a non-conference affair, meaning no counter in the conference chase, but meaning much to the Buffaloes, as the Wolves are in a district composed of such strong teams as Snyder Tigers, Roscoe Plowboys, Roby Lions, and other equally as strong teams, and the further fact the Buffaloes for the past four seasons have been recognized as a "football" to be kicked around at will by other teams in their district, the Buffaloes invading Wolves' territory was considered by local fans as another case of "leading the lambs to slaughter," so when the report came trickling back from the scene of action, that the Buffaloes had held the Wolves to a 0-0 tie and made 10 first downs to the Wolves' 11, there was reason for the Stanton population to receive the news with a severe shock.

If the Buffaloes had made as many downs as Sunday's Fort Worth Star-Telegram had them making, (100), of course, the Buffaloes would have made more downs.

The team that went into action for the Buffaloes against the Wolves comprised Woody and Purser, ends; H. White and L. White, tackles; Clinton and Wilson, guards; Crow, center; Chandler, Sprawls, and McIlvain, backs.

Substitutes: Spinks, Thompson, and Blackford.

The Buffaloes go to Crane Friday night to meet that strong squad in a non-conference clash.

JESS WOODY WINS EIGHT MEDALS AND TROPHY

From the Big Spring Daily Herald, we found the following news of interest to Stanton:

L. P. McCasland, Big Spring's sharp-shooting state highway patrolman, barely missed the championship of the 13th annual Southwestern Pistol Match at Dallas over the week end, falling only nine points behind the winner with an aggregate of 1,681.

At one time McCasland apparently had the title sewed up, but he ran into bad luck with his time fire string and lost his advantage.

At that time he was good enough to win 16 medals for first place in the marksman class, to which he was assigned. In addition he copied a pair of trophies and the 22 championship of the matches.

Jess Woody, Stanton, who accompanied McCasland to the contests, came away with a creditable collection of honors, shooting steadily to earn eight medals and a trophy.

McCasland won the Balfour trophy for scoring 868 out of a possible 900 in the 22 pistol competition. The patrolman also won five spots in the master or open class and took the Capt. B. B. Smith trophy for his proficiency against the field.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

Does a newspaperman really live as exciting life as the movies would have you believe.

In running back over some of the events of 23 years of news-chasing, this chronicler recalls such experiences as:

The night the telephone tinkled in the Eastland Oil Belt News office; no one replied to my "Hello" but, acting on a hunch, I hurried to the courthouse just as a jury was coming in with a death verdict. Later, a friend who was an official said he had called me but didn't have time to wait and figured I'd figure it out.

The alarming night when Curley Maynard awakened me from sound slumber to go out and see how the newly-finished

Lake Eastland dam was withstanding the pounding of its first flood. Water was coursing down the streets and covered railroad tracks, nearly three miles from the lake, and a torrent—so deafening it drowned out speech—was roaring over the spillway but the dam held.

And the night that three men were fatally burned in a gasoline plant explosion at Olden and the music of the dance hall went on as gaily as though nothing had happened.

A memorable experience back in prohibition days was an inspection of an oil boom hotel which had been raided. There were mirrors so placed that a man on watch could observe the approach of strangers and there were cords that could be manipulated, closing doors halfway down the corridors to delay the "laws" and enable lawbreakers to escape or hide poker chips or liquor. (Officers had caught the "sentry" offguard, however.) Then there were trap-doors, false walls and secret compartments.

Maybe the movies aren't entirely wrong, after all; perhaps, a reporter does have a few unusual experiences.

Re-appointment of Tom C. King as State Auditor, is a richly deserved recognition of two years' loyal service to the people of Texas. The biggest State has the biggest auditor and Tom King's bigness of stature is equalled by his courage in hewing to the line regardless of politics and politicians.

Hick Halcomb, colorful newspaperman and political figure, has a sticker pasted inside his hat: "H—, no, this ain't yours; put it back!"

How about a saunter through the Austin hotel lobbies to see who we can see? There's Hall Walker; he's mayor of Ranger, head of the bank, runs a hotel and in the hotel are the bus station and the telegraph office as well as a coffee shop and barber shop, and he is thinking about putting in a curio department.

And there goes Garland Adair who used to edit papers at Breckenridge, McCamey, and Mexia, who is happy as assistant of the new University of Texas museum which he had so much to do with making a reality.

The big, quiet-looking man in the broad-brimmed hat is Captain Frank Hamer.

Who's the visitor with the snow-white hair? Oscar Chastain of Eastland, who made the closing speech in the House of Representatives years ago in support of the renowned Small riverbed bill.

A stranger walked into a district courtroom in East Texas. The judge took one look at him, recessed court and called him to the bench shaking hands with him and plying him with questions as to what he was doing there. A lawyer stepped up and said to the visitor, "Howdy, Dave." The judge frowned and said, "This man's name isn't Dave; he's Jack Dempsey." There was general embarrassment all around when the visitor had to admit he was not the former heavyweight champion but he was Dave Pena, Tyler civil engineer, one-time captain of the University of Texas football team and former football coach at Texarkana and Eastland.

Henry Pharr, of Greenville, former assistant Attorney General, tells of a pompous East Texas lawyer who was fond of propounding a question on cross examination that went like this:

"Mr. Witness, where was you at on July 10, 1931, if anywhere?"

You Said It!

Hank Hart, in his "The Sports Parade," in the Big Spring Daily Herald, spoke the facts, under the circumstances, when he said:

The Stanton people, they say, are glad to get out of the class of football that matched the Buffaloes against such towns as Midland, Wink, Odessa, and Monahans; and are anticipating better things in the District 6B set-up, with foes such as Seminole, O'Donnell and Andrews. The Buffs started out nicely enough in holding Colorado City to a scoreless tie Friday night. The Stanton schedule for the remainder of the year:

Sept. 22—Crane at Crane.
Sept. 29—Kermit at Kermit.
Oct. 6—Andrews at Stanton.
Oct. 13—O'Donnell at Stanton.
Oct. 20—Monahans at Monahans.
Oct. 27—Seminole at Seminole.
Nov. 3—Andrews at Andrews (extra game).
Nov. 11—Oren.
Nov. 17—Loraine at Loraine.
—Conference game.

OFFSIDES

OFFSIDES

There's "method in our madness" for launching this column. The fact that the Stanton Buffaloes, have been placed in a new district, eliminating such teams as the Midland Bull Dogs, Odessa Broncs, Pecos Eagles, Monahans Greenwaves, Crane Cranes, and that ever wrecking, poison spouting machine, the Wink Wildcats, arouses our football spirit to the pitch that the vale of "unforlome hopes" has been lifted that has not only shadowed the trek of the bison herd down the football path the past three or four years years, but almost consigned the squad into utter darkness, and that our Buffs are going to win the district pennant chase this year.

By looking over the Buffalo schedule it will be noted theolical squad has games with Crane, Kermit, Monahans, Loraine, all outside the conference clamor, giving us an excellent alibi, if any of these teams defeat the Buffs, "Oh, well, it doesn't count, anyway—it wasn't a conference game." But gives us an excellent opportunity to throw our hats in the air and holler, "Hallujah," should the Buffaloes chalk up a victory. Victory, is something the Buffaloes hasn't had assessed against them in several years.

Imagine a victory, over either Crane or Monahans, or Kermit, for that matter. Pandemonium would reign in the Buffalo camp equal to a powderhouse explosion—and you pessimistic fans don't be too sure that something like that won't happen.

As evidence that something of a shocking nature may happen in the bison camp this season, we have only to cite the fans to the episode that took place last Friday night in the den of the Colorado City Wolves.

The Buffaloes and their followers that trekked to Colorado, bossomed the thought the team was headed for the slaughterhouse, but the game would be an excellent practice affair for the Buffaloes to start the season. And it turned out to be just that very thing. The game closed in a goose-egg tie with the Buffaloes chalking up 10 first downs to the Wolves' 11.

Friday night, (tonight), the Buffaloes are scheduled to play the strong Crane Cranes at Crane. The same pessimism that followed the Buffaloes to Colorado City will tag along behind the squad to Crane. But let this column warn you—anything can happen, and it may be a happening that may cause crocodile tears ooze from the eyes of the Cranes.

Mr. Parker is associated with an oil company in California.

SQUASH FOR THE EDITOR'S FAMILY

The editor's family enjoyed a new variety of squash recently and voted it fine. The squash, which was given by Miss Loree Massey was grown from seed sent from California by Mrs. Susie Corbin. The Corbins formerly lived in Martin county and for years were tenants of the late Dr. Vance, buying a place from him which they in turn sold to Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ory.

The senior member if this firm has an aversion for squash but even he had to admit this was good.

THE WONDERS OF NATURE VIEWED BY TRAVELER

By MARY ALICE WOODARD
Published in Big Spring Daily Herald

(An explanation is due for publishing this article out of turn, or as we may say, "getting the cart before the horse," we inadvertently picked this copy from off the hook without once using what little gray matter we have, and be certain we had the right follow-up copy of Mrs.

Woodard's trip to California, hence we have her returning from California, when she has not yet left San Francisco—that is in the stories Mrs. Woodard wrote on her trip—hence the story published this week "out of turn."—Ed.)

It's always a temptation to "hurry up" a bit on the home stretch of a long trip but we took time to go by the Grand Canyon, the Painted Desert and the Petrified Forest in Arizona. The Grand Canyon is so large, so deep and so beautiful, that it is hard to describe. Its coloring is magnificent—I have seen numbers of color postcards and thought they surely must be exaggerating the brilliant colors—but I was wrong. We could hardly believe our own eyes—that Old Mother Earth could produce such soft grays, greens and blues, and in contrast, such blazing reds and yellows, just in the soil itself. Here we saw it all, blended more beautifully than any artist could possibly make it.

The Canyon varies from one to seven thousand feet deep, but is twenty miles wide at the widest part. It is about 125 miles long. It is said that when you stand on the rim, some of the peaks, within the canyon below your feet are higher than any mountains east of the Rockies. And from where you are, you look down upon them.

At the very bottom is the Colorado, which we crossed once in Colorado, and again at Needles, looking now like a tiny silver ribbon inches wide—when in reality it is 420 feet wide. In comparison to the Canyon, nearly everything we have seen is dwarfed—and if nothing else could make one feel completely humble, this sight certainly could. The best description in a few words is the title of a little book we bought on the rim—"Golly! What a Gully!" and on the front is a picture of the canyon with a small sign saying, "Down—WAY Down."

much the same as the Grand Canyon. The Petrified Forest is just that—a forest of giant trees turned to stone, probably millions of years ago. The great logs we saw were solid stone, but we could see the bark of the trees, and the place where the limbs had been. The nearest that scientists can come to explaining the process, is that millions of years ago, there must have been a great forest in Arizona of a tree now extinct—and that forest was buried under mud, swamp and water, from floods that occurred in prehistoric time. For the past several hundred years, the stumps and broken logs have gradually come to light and been excavated. And so—from Arizona thru New Mexico and home. We have traveled 4,603 miles in two weeks, have seen wonders of nature and of man—and have learned a lot about another part of the world. To show for it, we have pictures, maps, literature, memories, and a car literally covered with stickers—so covered that in Los Angeles we were an object of curiosity. But we went blithely on our way—knowing that those stickers meant a good time at every place where we had been. The only time we were stopped by motor cops was in Gallup, New Mexico, where one waved us down, yelling, "Hey, what about ours?" We stopped, looked—and he was waving two New Mexico stickers in his hand. We meekly stuck them on, too, while he watched the job well done.

KEEP YOUR HEAD

Rarely in our history has it been so necessary for Americans to keep their heads as it is today.

The most ghastly of all tragedies has engulfed Europe. It is the burning hope of the vast majority of our people that we may escape the holocaust of destruction. We have not forgotten the World War. It sowed seeds for the years of discontent and depression that followed. We have not forgotten that thousands of American lives and untold billions in American wealth and resources were sacrificed. Only history will eventually reveal what good if any, came from that war.

The President has said that as long as it remains within his power, there shall be no "blackout of peace" in this nation. In that he echoes the minds and hearts of all of us. But mere wish is not enough. Hysteria, passion, fanaticism, mistaken idealism—these things can be the producers of ruin and horror. American neutrality is dependent upon America keeping its head.

No one knows when the war will end, or who will be the "victor." But certainly there is justified fear that all that is best in Europe may be lost to that continent for many years after hostilities have stopped. War means that the arts of peace must be ruthlessly dropped in order that the arts of death and destruction may be advanced. The preservation of liberties which have been won thru centuries, are threatened in a warring world.

TEXAS OUT-OF-DOORS

Feeding of turkeys, attempted by the Texas Game Fish and Oyster commission only in times of stress, helped overcome the effects of a drought in the Hill Country this year. As a result, that section of the state, faced with the possibility of having its seed crop of the big game birds wiped out, should have a sufficient stock of adult birds for the next breeding season.

Figures made available by the executive secretary of the Game Department reveal that a total of fifty-three feeding stations were established and that forty-five of them were used regularly by turkey until July 10, when the feeding program was discontinued due to general rains over the area helping alleviate the situation. It is estimated by the regional game manager of that area that more than 3,000 adult birds used the feeding stations. More than 3,300 pounds of maize and 54 bushels of corn were used in the drive to succor turkeys.

The Game Department does not advocate the artificial feeding of turkeys except on unusual occasions because it produces heavy concentration of birds at the feeding stations and thus makes a more accessible to predators.

The crop of young turkeys is negligible this year due to the effects of the drought.

The second covey of quail in Texas containing rare white quail discovered during the last two years has been reported to the Game Department by the game warden at Roby, who found flocks of the Bobwhites one pure white and four streaked with brown, near Abilene recently. One other white quail was reported in Northwest Texas as recently and a covey was found in East Texas nearly two years ago. White quail are the result of the lack of pigments in feathers of the birds, but white quail, or any other species of birds or animals is not considered albino, the term most commonly applied to them, unless they have pink eyes.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The art of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feet tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.
