CITY CAMPAIGN GETTING WARM

ENGLAND IS FACING THE GRAVEST CRISIS SINCE IN JULY 1914

CABINET AND PARLIAMENT MEET ON SPECIAL CALL OF KING GEORGE.

HAVE DRAFTED PROGRAM TO MEET THE STRIKE

Government Can Sustain The Industrial Life Of Nation Through Use Of Troops.

By United Press.

LONDON, April 4.—The admiralty today cancelled all furloughs and ordered all sailors and officers who are on leave to return immediately to their posts.

Such action is very unusual and may mean that the government intends to use the sailors to keep essential industries going in event transport and railway workers join the coal strikers.

By ED L. KEEN
United Press Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, April 4.—Britain's industrial life was shriveling today, its fuel supply cut off by the great coal strike.

With the powerful transport workers and railway men threatening sympathetic strikes which would amount to practically industrial revolution, the cabinet and parliament met today on special call of King George to consider steps to save the nation from complete breakdown.

The government recognized the labor offenders as precipitating the gravest crisis since July, 1914. It flung its power into the fight to prevent an industrial revolution and "the inauguration of a socialistic experiment" at the same time leaders of the transport and railway workers were gathering for their meetings tomorrow and Wednesday to decide whether to join the miners.

The cabinet drafted a program to meet the strike. Later today it was to present that plan to parliament for ratification.

May Use Troops.

Under the emergency act invoked last week, the government can sustain the industrial life of the nation for a time through the use of troops. The meeting today was to decide how these forces could be used best in the operating of essential industries, in the distribution of food and the preservation of order.

Keeping of the peace was believed to be a grave problem. With 1,500,000 registered unemployed in the nation, their ranks were augmented by millions thrown out of work by the coal strike. Sympathetic strikes would increase the number still further. With dependents of the unemployed, the country would have in the neighborhood of $0,000,000 to care for.

Already great throngs of unemployed have gathered to protest. Processions are daily affairs. Officers admitted their fear that increases in this number would result in serious disorders.

Shutting of coal already has closed down many factories. Lack of transport would shut down more.

Plants Are Idle.

In Sheffield and other districts dependent upon their coal supply, the usual dense clouds of smoke were missing. The plants were dead, the stacks cold.

The mining districts continue idle, workers loafing about their villages in holiday attire.

Even the railroads were effected to some extent, the number of trains being cut down because of lack of coal to be transported.

Dealers collected stores of petroleum. Thousands of tins of motor fuel were piled in central locations, ready for use by strings of motor lorries in case the railways shut down.

Householders laid in supplies for their homes against the prospect of rationing by the government.

With the experience of two coal and railway strikes behind them, Britishers prepared methodically for what they expected to be the greatest struggle of all. Civilians were ready to cooperate with the government in carrying on of essential work.

MORE THAN A MILLION COAL MINERS ON STRIKE

LONDON, April 4.—Great Britain today faced the gravest crisis since the call for the first hundred thousand in 1914.

With 1,200,000 coal miners already on strike and industry in general already suffering from a shortage of fuel, week-end meetings of the miners' allies show a decided trend toward sympathetic strikes.

Regarded as more significant than a mere strike, labor's gesture was looked upon as a threat to force a general election on the country, and, if possible, seize control of the government.

Government officials believed the activity portended an attempt to impose great socialistic experiments upon the country.

The cabinet met early today before the emergency session of parliament opened. Government officers prepared for the debate on strike conditions which was sure to come up today. The government's plans for combatting the threatened attack on industry were to be drafted.

Will Support Miners.

The stubbornness of the battle to be waged was indicated by resolutions adopted in widespread meetings of railway and transportation workers over the week-end. The men decided to support the miners "by any action deemed necessary."

"Our downfall is the doom of the government," was a phrase used in the meetings.

Miners' leaders, admitting the seriousness of sabotage, declared it was necessary and approved the action of miners in withdrawing safety workers and flooding of the pits.

Suffering already has resulted from the mine strike. The men who walked out added 1,200,000 to the 1,500,000 already registered as unemployed.

MAKE PUBLIC THE TEXT OF NOTES ON GERMAN PAYMENTS

U. S. STANDS WITH ALLIES IN DEMANDING PAYMENT OF REPARATIONS.

COMMUNICATION IS NOT CONSIDERED FORMAL NOTE

Sent In Reply To Message Received From Dr. Simons Through U. S. Commissioner.

By A. L. BRADFORD,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Germany's first open attempt to gain the support of the United States in her differences with the allies over reparations has met with a firm refusal.

This was revealed today when the text of a communication from the German foreign minister, von Simons, with the answer of Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes, were made public.

Dr. Simons proposed that German labor and technical men be allowed to rehabilitate the devastated regions of France, and proposed the creation of an international loan in favor of Germany. Assumption by Germany of the allied debt to the United States is one feature of this proposal by Simons, who said that Germany plans fresh suggestions to the allies along these lines.

Hughes' reply said that the United States stands with the allies in holding Germany responsible for the war and is glad to see admission of her responsibility to make reparation. The hope is expressed that fresh negotiations will lead to settlement.

Hughes did not refer to German assumption of allied debts but this government is known to oppose such a move.

The text of the communication from the United States to the German government was made public at the state deparment today confirming the exclusive Unied Press dispatch of Saturday that Germany had been notified of the position of the United States.

The communication to Germany was in direct reply to one handed by the German foreign minister, Dr. Simons, to American Commissioner Dressel in Berlin. This was on March 23 and the American reply was dated March 29.

The state department today specifically denied that the communication from the United States was considered a formal note.

Text of Communication.

The text of Hughes' communication follows:

"The American government is pleased to note in the informal memorandum of Doctor Simons the unequivocable expression on the part of the German government of its desire to afford reparation up to the limit of German ability to pay. This government stands with the governments of the allies in holding Germany responsible for the war, and therefore morally bound to make reparations, so far as may be possible. The recognition of this obligation, implied in the memorandum of Dr. Simons, seems to the government of the United States the only sound basis on which can be built a firm and just peace under which the various nations of Europe can achieve once more economic independence and stability. The government believes that it recognizes in the memorandum of Dr. Simons a sincere desire on the part of the German government to reopen negotiations with the allies on a new basis, and hopes that such negotiations, once resumed, may lead to a prompt settlement which will at the same time satisfy the just claims of the allies and commit Germany hopefully to renew its productive activity."

German Memorandum.

The text of the memorandum of the German foreign minister, which was made public by the state department:

"It is the earnest desire of the government to reach an accord with the governments of the allied and associated powers and it is sincere in its purpose to meet their requirements as far as possible." Simons' communication stated.

"That an agreement was not reached at the conference in London on the question of reparation is a matter of extreme regret to the government of Germany. In their effort to reach an agreement with the delegates from Germany they went far beyond the limits considered possible for Germany and the judgment of an overwhelming majority of her economic experts.

"It has asserted that Germany is reluctant to recognize her obligation to make reparations. This is not correct. It is entirely clear not only to the goverment of Germany but to the German people that also Germany must make reparation, to the limit of her ability to pay.

Two Considerations Presented.

"In view of the foregoing two consideration in regard to reparations present themselves, both of which are of importance. These considerations are, first, the matter of the rehabilitation of the devastated regions and, second, the immediate establishment by Germany of an actual sum of cash money in foreign exchange of important proportion.

"For the immediate rehabilitation of these devastated regions Germany has repeatedly proffered labor, technical advice and material assistance. These offers have not been accepted, nor have they even reached the point of diplomatic exchange."

Simons then charged that there is no real concern in France for the plight of the devastated regions and that the French are using the condition of devastated France for political agitation.

"The German government does not desire to se hate perpetrated between nations," the communication continued. "In accordance with this purpose, it intends to submit fresh proposals on this subject to the government of France, the details of which are now

URGE THE RELEASE OF POLITICAL PRISONERS

Plea Is Renewed By Delegation Of American Federation Of Labor, Headed By Gompers.

By RAYMOND CLAPPER,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Organized labor today renewed its plea for release of political prisoners.

Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, and a delegation of labor officials called at the White House and urged President Harding to pardon all persons who were sentenced because of their views on the war.

The most conspicuous of these is Eugene V. Debs now in Atlanta penitentiary, whose case is now under review by Attorney General Daugherty.

Another delegation composed largely of socialists is to call at the White House on the same mission April 13.

The labor delegation is restricting its appeal to those who are serving sentences because of their opinions regarding the war. The draft evaders and those convicted of activity designed to hinder the prosecution of the war are not included in the category of politeal prisoners in the opinion of Gompers.

Before his election, Harding expressed the opinion that all of these cases should be considered individually on their merits. An impression is curren in Washington, without any deffnite statement to bear it out, that Debs is to be pardoned shortly. President Harding approved without question the suggestion of Daugherty that Debs be allowed to come to Washington without guard recently to discuss his case.

PARIS, April 4.—Resolutions demanding the arrest of Count Andrassy, a supporter of former Emperor Charles, and General Lehar, governor of West Hungary, have been adopted by the Hungarian national assembly, it is reported to newspapers here. A Prague dispatch to the Petit Parisien states that Dr. Eduard Benes, foreign minister of Czecho-Slavokia, has declared that if Charles does not leave Hungary before April 7, the "little entente" comprising Czecho-Slovakia, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia will intervene.

A Vienna dispatch to the Hungarian government has fixed August 20 as the date upon which a king will be elected.

Prince Andreas of Greece was the third son of the late King George. He was born in Athens on January 20, 1882, and served in the Greek army during the Balkan war of 1912. Following the flight of King Constantine from Greece in 1917, it was reported he aspired to the throne, but this move was reported to have been blocked by M. Venizelos, then premier of Greece. Following the return to Athens of Constantine, Prince Andreas was appointed to a general in the Greek army and late last night was said to be in command of a division at the front. He was married to Princess Alice of Battenberg on October 7, 1903.

It had been previously stated that the ex-ruler was refusing to leave Steinamanger because he had been taken ill, and two professors from the medical faculty of the university here went to Steinamanger to find out what the ex-king's condition really was. If his health was poor an automobile ambulance would be secured, it was declared, in which he could take up his journey out of Hungary.

SECURITY OWNERS AND RAIL WORKERS MEET

Seek a Common Ground For Meeting On The Present Wage Controversy.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The public was barred today from a meeting of representatives of the National Association of Owners of Railway Securities and representatives of railway workers, called here to discuss the rail situation. The object of the meeting was to see if the rail union executives could not find a common ground for meeting railroad managers on the wage question.

"This is a private conference," S. Davies Warfield, president of the securities' organization said in refusing to admit newspaper men. "Some things might come up which the labor men themselves would not want to make public."

It was announced that the rail unions would be represented by Warren S. Stone, president of the brotherhood of locomotive engineers; W. S. Carter of the firemen and enginemen; D. L. Cease of the trainmen; E. J. Manion of the railway telegraphers, and William Johnson of the machinists and shop crafts workers. Pulleyn, president of the Emigrant and Industrial Savings bank; Forest F. Dryden, president of the Prudenial Life, and George E. Brock, chairman of the National Conference of Mutual Savings banks. They represented themselves, not the organization officially, it was stated.

By RALPH F. COUCH
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Approximately one million persons have found employment, it was estimated here today, since January, when a government census revealed that 3,500,000 men and women were out of work.

Information reaching the government daily indicates that the army of unemployed is marching back into the factories.

Reports of the federal reserve board indicate that mills and shops are reopening every day. The textile trades are in better condition than a few weeks ago. The automobile plants which employ thousands of machinists are working up to near normal in several sections.

Announcement of wage reductions are less frequent than a few weeks ago.

THREE MEMBERS OF CITY COUNCIL ARE TO BE ELECTED ON TUESDAY; UNUSUAL ACTIVITY CLOSING DAY

Wichita Falls voters will elect three councilmen, to serve two years, in Tuesday's election, and the close of the campaign finds increasing interest manifested in the outcome, with practically all of the candidates busy with their canvasses.

The final meeting prior to the election will be held Monday night at the Labor Temple, and all candidates have been invited to speak there.

Labor officials Monday requested publication of a denial by them of a published report that indorsement would be given the candidacy of any candidate. The published report credited a rumor that indorsement of Yates, Howard and Reed would be indorsed. It is not the intention to indorse any candidate, The Times was told.

A reply by Commissioner Bralley to the charge that he had built up a police force composed largely of newcomers, and the come-back of Dr. Reed to questions appearing in an advertisement of the J. B. Hatchitt campaign committee were among the closing features of the campaign.

The polls will open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. Women who hold poll tax receipts will be entitled to vote, and the usual voting qualifications will prevail. It is estimated that between 3,000 and 4,000 votes will be cast.

Mr. Bralley's reply denied the charge of employing new comers, and gave figures showing the length of residence of members of the force. His statement appears in another column.

Dr. Reed was asked in the Hatchitt campaign committee's advertisement how he stood on the water and irrigation project, his reply being that "he voted and worked for it." Another question, dealing with the sewer situation, he answered by putting the burden on former City Engineer Donald.

Eight names will appear on the ballot Tuesday. They are here given in alphabetical order, but on the official ballot the names will "revolve" that is, each candidate's name will appear at the top of the list on an equal number of ballots:

For place No. 1.
W. G. Bralley.
George L. Hodgins.
William Lawrence Smith.
R. L. Yates.
For Place No. 2.
Joe B. Hatchitt.
J. F. Reed.
For Place No. 3.
Rhea Howard.
R. E. Shepherd.

There will be two polling places, at the city hall and court house. All voters living east of Indiana avenue, north of the river and south of the Wichita Valley tracks, vote at the city hall. All others vote at the court house.

SAYS ORGANIZED LABOR WILL NOT ENDORSE MEN

"Organized labor will not endorse any candidates for councilmen," John M. Simmons, secretary of the Wichita Falls Trades and Labor council, declared today in answer to statements that have been published that three certain candidates would be endorsed.

DOUGLAS POSTOFFICE ROBBED BY MEXICANS, GET FIFTY THOUSAND

DOUGLAS, ARIZ., April 4.—While Postmaster L. R. Bailey of Bisbee was working in his office last night, two masked Mexicans entered and at the point of revolvers forced him to open the postoffice vault. They escaped with about $50,000, according to information received here, $40,000 of which is said to have been in cash.

Postmaster Bailey was found this morning bound and gagged and beaten.

Mr. Bailey said that shortly after 10 o'clock last night someone knocked on the door of his office and that when he got up two men, apparently Mexicans, and masked, held guns on him. They ordered him to open the vault and before leaving assaulted him.

No clue to the bandits has been found.

GOVERNOR TO ISSUE REPLY TO MOVEMENT TO DIVIDE THE STATE

AUSTIN, April 4.—Governor Neff said this morning that he would "later in the day" give out a statement in regard to the move inaugurated in west Texas to divide the state into two separate states. His statement will defend his action in vetoing the west Texas A. and M. bill and the $4,000,000 rural school bill, the measures that caused the state division agitation, he said.

FEDERAL RESERVE HAS BIG INCREASE LAST FOUR MONTHS

IN BETTER POSITION TO ASSIST COTTON INDUSTRY THAN HERETOFORE.

INFORMATION IS GIVEN BY GOVERNOR HARDING

Indicates, However, Producer Must Rely On War Finance Corporation and the Banks.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Governor Harding of the federal reserve board told a delegation of southern bankers here that the federal reserve system now is better able than it has been in months to assist in financing the cotton industry and growers. The federal reserve system surplus has experienced a big increase in the last four months.

"But it is impossible to finance foreign trade in the old way," said Harding. "You in the south have organized a finance corporation which should be very effective in getthg your cotton and other products abroad. It may be several months, however, before this corporation will be ready to function in a large way. During the interim the burden will fall upon the war finance corporation and the banks. The export trade must be developed in the south. Otherwise, the purchasing power of the farmers is reduced, and that reduces manufacturing in this country."

Eugene Meyer, managing director of the finance corporation, encouraged the delegates to believe that the corporation will assist them, although he did not give a definite idea as to what extent the corporation will make loans.

"Our problem is to help rehabilitate agriculture and industry," said Meyer.

DRIVE IS LAUNCHED FOR SMOKELESS U. S.

Propaganda Is Being Sent All Over The Country According To Statement.

By RUSSELL BROWNING
United Press Staff Corerspondent.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The National Women's Christian Temperance union has launched a drive against tobacco. The object is a smokeless U. S. A. by 1925.

"To disclose our campaign now would play into the hands of the liquor interests, who are seeking to discredit our prohibition enforcement fight by the blue law bugaboo," said Mrs. Ella Boole, vice president of the national organization, today to the United Press.

"But you may say we are opposed to all narcotics, and tobacco is a narcotic."

Nevertheless, officials of the local headquarters indicate that their plans include no rough and direct methods such are were used in the case of John Barleycorn.

Propaganda is being sent all over the country advising members to create public sentiment against girls and women selling tobacco, petition colleges and clubs to abandon entertainment smokers, work for prohibition of smoking in markets, stores, polling booths and public places.

Many states have anti-smoking laws for boys, it was said at local W. C. T. U. headquarters, and a campaign will be staged to have these statutes strictly enforced.

Fought Movement During The Steel Strike Of 1919—To Reduce Wages.

By United Press.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The United States Steel corporation is to institute the eight-hour which it fought during the steel strike of 1919, according to reports here today.

The report said the corporation intends to reduce wages 20 per cent.

Officials of the steel corporation said no announcement will be made until Judge Gary, chairman of the board, returns from a vacation trip to the west coast.

Gary is said to be returning by rail and planning to stop at Gary, Ind., for a conference with heads of subsidiary companies. He is expected in New York the latter part of the week but the change in wages and hours may be announced before that.

When Gary left here, it was reported a cut in steel prices might be announced on his return.

Woman Complains Two Men Failed To End Her Life

BASEL, SWITZERLAND, April 4.—Two men who had entered into a contract with a woman to end her life were recently hailed into criminal court here by the party of the second part for taking her money and failing to carry out their bargain. Robbery was charged and the men were sentenced to terms in prison. The woman narrowly escaped trial for attempted self-murder.

Fraulein Krauus had been brooding over her spinsterhood, but could not bring herself to commit suicide. She found a chemist who professed to be willing to act as executioner for a consideration.

The woman insisted upon being beheaded, it was alleged, but the chemist held that poison would be just as efficacious and more conventional. The third party in the negotiations suggested drowning as a compromise, and the deal was closed.

The three started for Lake Lucerne, but the chemist, having exacted payment of 75 per cent of the f400 contract price, vanished en route.

AMERICAN RADICAL HAS BEEN DEPORTED BY THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT

MEXICO CITY, April 14.—Linn A. F. Gale, an American radical, who was arrested here Friday night, has been deported from Mexico by the way of Vera Cruz, it is said by newspapers of this city. There is a general impression here, however, that he was taken to Laredo to be turned over to United States authorities.

Government officials announced Saturday he would be turned over to American agents, but later declared he would go to Vera Cruz to take a steamer for an unnamed port, probably Havana. Although the authorities are silent as to the whereabouts of Gale, President Obregon has issued a formal statement asserting the prisoner has been deported as a "pernicious foreigner."

It is understood that two other radicals who have been active soviet propogandists, will be deported soon. Gale's deportation did not cause undue excitement among communists here, many of them being unsympathetic with his views.

YATES DENIES HE HAS MADE ANY PROMISES ON POLICE CHIEF APPOINTMENT

In a statement Monday morning, R. L. Yates, candidate for police commissioner, declared that one of his opponents was circulating a report that he, Yates, had promised to appoint a certain man chief of police if he were elected. Mr. Yates denounced the report as false and without foundation.

"I have made no promises to anyone that any certain man would be appointed chief of police. If elected, I will select the man whom I believe can best can fill the place," he said.

William Riscau, ex-convict, robber companion of Miss Conway, ran amuck while moonshine mad, and shot and killed J. M. Zimmerman and Paul Spencer, policemen, and seriously wounded Frank Arndt, restaurant proprietor. Riscau then killed himself.

TOOTS AND CASPER— —BY J. E. MURPHY

32 ADDITIONS RESULT AT MEETINGS SUNDAY

Services At Floral Heights Baptist Church Bring In Number Of Converts.

Thirty-two additions to the church, most of them for baptism, resulted Sunday in the revival services at the Floral Heights Baptist church, where Dr. Virgin of Amarillo has been conducting a series of meetings. Services were held in the morning, afternoon and evening, with much interest throughout.

Dr. Virgin spoke at 11 a. m. on "How May I Know That I Am a Christian?" His subject at 3 p. m. was "Somebody's Girl, Please Oled, Not Yours," and Dr. Virgin, pointing to statistics showing that 300,000 girls and young women go astray each year, discussed the causes and remedies for this situation. Failure to enforce obedience in the home, failure to lay foundations for moral character, the joyriding habit, uncensored social diversions, especially dancing, and some extreme styles of dress were mentioned by Dr. Virgin as causes contributing to the downfall of young women. He declared it the Christian duty of all parents to see that none of these things were laid at their doors.

The sermon at 7:45 was from the story of Dives and Lazarus, the speaker seeking to show that salvation lies in neither wealth nor poverty, but in the individual.

Monday morning at 10 o'clock Dr. Virgin's subject was "Prayer;" his subject Monday night will be "The Life of Liberty," with a message addressed particularly to young men.

FOLLOWING LONG TRAIL OF WORTHLESS CHECKS IN EVERETT HARDING CASE

CHICAGO, April 4.—Secret service men today said they were following the long, long trail of worthless checks and I O U's that wind to the cell of Everett Harding, who posed as the president's cousin.

"Cousin Everett," who was arrested for obtaining money while impersonating a government official, was still being held today, because he lacked $6,000 for bond.

"Cousin Everett," authorities said, duped many politicians and others by promising them government jobs he said he would secure for them because of this influence and relationship to "Cousin Warren."

He recently had his home decorated in Harding blue. Here he entertained his guests and offered them the opportunity to invest in his proposed Harding hotel and Harding candy stores, who were to put out chocolates in neat Harding blue boxes.

ITALIAN COMMISSION IS RETURNING FROM SURVEY OF CONDITIONS IN MEXICO

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, April 4.—An Italian commission, headed by Guiseppe Garabaldi, is en route from Mexico City to Washington, via New York City, after making a survey of conditions in Mexico. They report that Obregon has accomplished much in the way of reestablishing economic and industrial conditions.

The real purpose of the commission was to investigate the feasibility of more extensive immigration to Mexico, General Garabaldi was accompanied by his brother, Captain Eric Garabaldi, and Count Emilio del Sera.

"I suffered from indigestion for many years, and got in such condition I could not work at times. Ware's Black Powder was recommended to me, and I started taking it. After using two or three bottles I was permanently relieved. I believe Ware's Black Powder is without an equal for its recommended use."

No Quotations in Portland Market; Price Is Too Low

PORTLAND, ORE., April 4.—No bids have been offered and no quotations published in the wheat market here since Thursday, owing to the low prevailing prices. Offers made in the surrounding country since Saturday were said to be as low as 93 and 95 cents a bushel. Large quantities of wheat are still in the hands of northwest growers and warehousemen. At Walla Walla on Saturday wheat sold down to $1 a bushel for the first time since 1914.

CALL REFORMED BURGLAR TO OPEN AN APARTMENT

CHICAGO, April 4.—A crowd gathered to watch the efforts of Mrs. L. H. Frenzdorf, assisted by police, to gain entrance to her own apartment late Saturday night, when the keys failed to work. A policeman spied "Motts" Murphy, reformed burglar, in the crowd, and requisitioned his services. With a screw driver in his teeth, Murphy climbed to the second floor and "jimmied" the window, descending a moment later to open the front door from the inside. Police placed him on his honor not to touch Mrs. Frenzdorf's belongings while inside.

DON N. ROBERTS TO TEST PROVISION ELECTION LAW

TERRE HAUTE, IND., April 4.—Don N. Roberts was preparing today to campaign actively for the democratic mayoralty nomination in the face of the Tucker law passed by the recent legislature which would prohibit him from seeking the office.

The law upon its promulgation will provide that no one who has been convicted of crime in a federal court can hold a public office. Roberts, who formerly was mayor, served a sentence in the federal prison for election frauds.

DENY THAT THE TURKS HAVE ATTACKED FRENCH

PARIS, April 4.—Reports that the Turks had attacked the French in Cilicia and that the Angora government had repudiated the Franco-Turkish agreement negotiated in London last month, were formally denied by representatives of the Turkish nationalist assembly here today. The Turks declared they looked upon the agreement as a prelude to a more general accord between France and the Ottoman empire.

The delegation declared it had received telegraphic information that the Turks had received orders to cease hostilities against the French.

Buying on a Falling Market

On a falling market men and women buy prudently. Whether they wish to purchase a pound of prunes or a million-dollar estate, they are inclined to shop 'round a bit before investing.

In times like these they read newspaper advertising closely. It is their market barometer.

It tells them what the shifts and changes are in the world of merchandise. It tells of the new things that will better supply old needs.

It tells of the new devices to raise the efficiency of store, office or home.

It helps them to true thrift—the spending of their money wisely.

Newspaper advertising, always read, is read more carefully and generally today than ever before.

Newspaper advertisers are getting results, because it is to the newspapers that people with money to spend are looking for advice.

MORALE OF CABINET GOOD SAYS SULLIVAN; WORK IN HARMONY

AS A WHOLE THEY ARE OBVIOUSLY A HAPPY OFFICIAL FAMILY.

AGREE ON PRACTICALLY ALL IMPORTANT ISSUES

Filled With Zeal For The Success Of The Administration Of Which They Are a Part.

By MARK SULLIVAN,
National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post.
(Copyright 1921 by the New York Evening Post).

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 4.—If the reader distant from Washington would like to get an impression of how the new administration has taken hold, he can have an approximate substitute for such a personal impression in the shape of a summary of the observations of the newspaper men here. The newspaper men see the president and each of the cabinet officials in informal conferences at lease once a week and in several cases frequently. In addition, individual newspaper men have frequent personal contacts with cabinet members.

Out of these conferences and other contact it is easy to assemble the material for a reasonably accurate impression as to how things are going. In this impression the outstanding feature is what we have all learned during the war to speak of as "morale."

The cabinet morale is good. Necessarily it ought to be good. Any new group of men taking hold of a job is fairly certain to start out with fresh enthusiasm, but the particular aspect of morale noticeable in this case is the solidarity and unity of the cabinet. As a whole they are obviously a happy family, they are obviously in agreement in practically all questions, obviously eager not to be opinionated or take stands on personal points of view, anxious to be generously helpful to each other and to contribute everything possible toward success for the administration as a whole.

Effective Team Work.

As things stand today the most obvious feature of the impressions picked up by an observer is the generous and effective team work of the cabinet as a whole.

The recollection you have of any conference with a cabinet member is the pleasure he has in his associations, his affection for President Harding and his zeal for success, on the part both of his fellow cabinet members and the administration as a whole.

Next to this, the outstanding impression is that for the present the thing that the various cabinet members are most intent on and the field in which they have made most progress is what may be called the government's housekeeping. In getting things cleared up, in establishing a prompt and orderly routine for the dispatch of business, in getting the desks cleared and in attending with businesslike promptness to things that come up, the cabinet makes an impression which leaves nothing to be desired. There are more business men in this cabinet than in any previous one for nearly a generation. Mellon, Weeks, Davis, Wallace, Fall and Denby have all had strikingly successful careers as business men. Hays has not had a business career but his is essentially an energetic and organizing personality and any one of the others gives more clearly the picture of a "live wire" business man. Hughes of course is wholly a lawyer, but he is much more the business man type of lawyer than other secretaries of state like Bryan, Colby and John Hay. In the effort to make a record for efficiency in a business way the cabinet members are handicapped by the difficulty of getting good assistance. In respects appointments and patronage the public is probably cynical. Recalling what has happened in the beginning of previous administrations the public probably pictures the waiting rooms of the cabinet members as filled with party workers looking for their rewards.

Not So Attractive.

There is some of this, but very much less than on previous occasions. Government jobs are not as attractive as they used to be. The changing value of the dollar has been recognized by business, but not by the government. Business now rewards its workers so much better than the government that a government job is less sought after than in the old days.

A newspaper man who goes from cabinet office to cabinet office and whom in his talks with cabinet members cannot help overhearing much that is going on over the telephone, and otherwise, gets distinctly the impression that the cabinet is less embarrassed in satisfying the smaller party workers than in getting able men to leave their private business and go to work for the government at smaller salaries. The job seekers bore them mildly, but the wish to get able assistants burns in their mind. You would think it would be easy to get successful business men who have achieved a competence to come to Washington for the sake of distinction and service in the spirit in which the dollar-a-year men came during the war. Many of the cabinet members thought it would be easy and some of them still entertain the hope of achieving it, even after a month of disappointment.

One small detail that makes life in Washington, in spite of its many attractions, less tempting to men who have won success and assured positions elsewhere is the fact that in the rigidly arranged social hierarchy of Washington the wives of heads of bureaus of the sort to which these men are invited must take positions of distasteful inferiority. Questions of social precedence and the whole mechanism of what is called "society" cut a larger figure in Washington than in other American cities. Too much importance is attached to it, and too much of the vitality of hard worked men is consumed in the formal dinner giving and other functions to which local custom attaches so much sanctity.

NIGHT OPERATOR AND HIS HELPER ARE LOCKED IN CAR AFTER STATION IS ROBBED

SALINA, KAN., April 4.—When Union Pacific train number 102 arrived at Solomon early today the trainmen found the depot deserted. A search was instituted and later Harry Snare, night operator, and a second young man were found locked in a box car one and a half miles down the track. They said a man armed with two guns entered the station, took $25 from the money drawer and $10 from the men, then marched them to the box car on the distant siding.

The Naval Treaty

By A. CONAN DOYLE

Copyright, 1921, by Harper & Bros. Published by special arrangement with The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

PART ONE.

The July which immediately succeeded my marriage was made memorable by three cases of interest, in which I had the privilege of being associated with Sherlock Holmes and of studying his methods. I find them recorded in my notes under the headings of "The Adventure of the Second Stain," "The Adventure of the Naval Treaty," and "The Adventure of the Tired Captain." The first of these, however, deals with interests of such importance and implicates so many of the first families in the kingdom that for many years it will be impossible to make it public. No case, however, in which Holmes was engaged has ever illustrated the value of his analytical methods so clearly or has impressed those who were associated with him so deeply. I still retain an almost verbatim report of the interview in which he demonstrated the true facts of the case of Monsieur Dubugue of the Paris police, and Fritz von Waldbaum, the well-known specialist of Dantsig, both of whom had wasted their energies upon what proved to be side-issues. The new century will have come, however, before the story can be safely told. Meanwhile, I pass on to the second on my list, which promised also at one time to be of national importance, and was marked by several incidents which give it a quite unique character.

During my school days I had been intimately associated with a lad named Percy Phelps, who was of much the same age as myself, though he was two classes ahead of me. He was a very brilliant boy, and carried away every prize which the school had to offer, finishing his exploits by winning a scholarship which sent him on to continue his triumphant career at Cambridge. He was, I remember, extremely well connected, and even when we were all little boys together we knew that his mother's brother was Lord Holdhurst, the great conservative politician. This gaudy relationship did him little good at school. On the contrary, it seemed rather a piquant thing to us to chevy him about the playground and hit him over the shins with a wicket. But it was another thing when he came out into the world. I heard vaguely that his abilities and the influences which he commanded had won him a good position at the foreign office, and then he passed completely out of my mind until the following letter recalled his existence:

"Briarbrae, Woking.

"My dear Watson.—I have no doubt that you can remember 'Tadpole' Phelps, who was in the fifth form when you were in the third. It is possible even that you may have heard that through my uncle's influence I obtained a good appointment at the foreign office, and that I was in a situation of trust and honor until a horrible misfortune came suddenly to blast my career.

"There is no use writing the details of that dreadful event. In the event of your acceding to my request it is probable that I shall have to narrate them to you. I have only just recovered from nine weeks of brain-fever, and am still exceedingly weak. Do you think that you could bring your friend Mr. Holmes down to see me? I should like to have his opinion of the case, though the authorities assure me that nothing more can be done. Do try to bring him down, and as soon as possible. Every minute seems an hour while I live in this state of horrible suspense. Assure him that if I have not asked his advice sooner it was not because I did not appreciate his talents, but because I have been off my head ever since the blow fell. Now I am clear again, though I dare not think of it too much for fear of a relapse. I am still so weak that I have to write, as you see, by dictating. Do try to bring him.

"Your old school-fellow,

"PERCY PHELPS."

There was something that touched me as I read this letter, something pitiable in the reiterated appeals to bring Holmes. So moved was I that even had it been a difficult matter I should have tried it, but of course I knew well that Holmes loved his art, so that he was ever as ready to bring his aid as his client could be to receive it. My wife agreed with me that not a moment should be lost in laying the matter before him, and so within an hour of breakfast time I found myself back once more in the old rooms on Baker street.

Holmes was seated at his side-table clad in his dressing gown, and working hard over a chemical investigation. A large curved retort was boiling furiously in the bluish flame of a Bunsen burner, and the distilled drops were condensing into a two-litre measure. My friend hardly glanced up as I entered, and I, seeing that his investigation must be of importance, seated myself in an armchair and waited. He dipped out a few drops of each with his glass pipette, and finally brought a test tube containing a solution over to the table. In his right hand he held a slip of litmus paper.

"You come at a crisis, Watson," said he. "If it turns red, it means a man's life." He dipped it into the test tube and it flushed at once into a dull, dirty crimson. "Hum! I thought as much!" he cried. "I will be at your service in an instant, Watson. You will find tobacco in the Persian slipper." He turned to his desk and scribbled off several telegrams, which were handed over to the page-boy. Then he threw himself down into the chair opposite, and drew up his knees until his fingers clasped around his long thin shins.

"A very commonplace little murder," said he. "You've got something better, I fancy. You are the stormy petrel of crime, Watson. What is it?"

I handed him the letter, which he read with the most concentrated attention.

"It does not tell us very much, does it?" he remarked, as he handed it back to me.

"Hardly anything."

"And yet the writing is of interest."

"But the writing is not his own."

"Precisely. It is a woman's."

"A man's surely," I cried.

"No, a woman's, and a woman of rare character. You see, at the commencement of an investigation it is something to know that your client is in close contact with someone who, for good or evil, has an exceptional nature. My interest is already awakened in the case. If you are ready we will start at once for Woking, and see this diplomatist who is in such evil case, and the lady to whom he dictates his letters."

We were fortunate enough to catch an early train at Waterloo, and in a little under an hour we found ourselves among the fir-woods and the heather of Woking. Briarbrae proved to be a large detached house standing in extensive grounds within a few minutes' walk of the station. On sending in our cards we were shown into an elegantly appointed drawing-room, where we were joined in a few minutes by a rather stout man who received us with much hospitality. His age may have been nearer forty than thirty, but his cheeks were so ruddy and his eyes so merry that he still conveyed the impression of a plump and mischievous boy.

"I am so glad that you have come," said he, shaking our hands with effusion. "Percy has been inquiring for you all morning. Ah, poor old chap, he clings to any straw! His father and his mother asked me to see you, for the mere mention of the subject is very painful to them."

"We have had no details yet," observed Holmes. "I perceive that you are not yourself a member of the family."

Our acquaintance looked surprised, and then, glancing down, he began to laugh.

"Of course you saw the J H monogram on my locket," said he. "For a moment I thought you had done something clever. Joseph Harrison is my name, and as Percy is to marry my sister Annie I shall at least be a relation by marriage. You will find my sister in his room, for she has nursed him hand-and-foot this two months back. Perhaps we'd better go in at once, for I know how impatient he is."

The chamber in which we were shown was on the same floor as the drawing-room. It was furnished partly as a sitting and partly as a bedroom, with flowers arranged daintily in every nook and corner. A young man, very pale and worn, was lying upon a sofa near the open window, through which came the rich scent of the garden and the balmy summer air. A woman was sitting beside him, who rose as we entered.

"Shall I leave, Percy?" she asked.

He clutched her hand to detain her. "How are you, Watson?" said he, cordially. "I should never have known you under that moustache, and I dare say you would not be prepared to swear to me. This I presume is your celebrated friend, Mr. Sherlock Holmes?"

I introduced him in a few words, and we both sat down. The stout young man had left us, but his sister still remained with her hand in that of the invalid. She was a striking-looking woman, a little short and thick for symmetry, but a beautiful olive complexion, large, dark, Italian eyes, and a wealth of deep black hair. Her rich tints made the white face of her companion the more worn and haggard by the contrast.

"I won't waste your time," said he, raising himself upon the sofa. "I'll plunge into the matter without further preamble. I was a happy and successful man, Mr. Holmes, and on the eve of being married, when a sudden and dreadful misfortune wrecked all my prospects in life.

"I was, as Watson may have told you, in the foreign office, and through the influence of my uncle, Lord Holdhurst, I rose rapidly to a responsible position. When my uncle became foreign minister in this administration he gave me several missions of trust, and as I always brought them to a successful conclusion, he came at last to have the utmost confidence in my ability and tact.

"Nearly ten weeks ago—to be more accurate on the 23d of May—he called me into his private room, and, after complimenting me on the good work which I had done, he informed me that he had a new commission of trust for me to execute.

"'This,' said he, taking a gray roll of paper from his bureau, 'is the original secret treaty between England and Italy of which, I regret to say, some rumors have already got into the public press. It is of enormous importance that nothing further should leak out. The French or the Russian embassy would pay an immense sum to learn the contents of these papers. They should not leave my bureau were it not that it is absolutely necessary to have them copied. You have a desk in your office?'

"'Yes, sir.'

"'Then take the treaty and lock it up there. I shall give directions that you may remain behind when the others go, so that you may copy it at your leisure without fear of being overlooked. When you have finished, relock both the original and the draft in the desk, and hand them over to me personally tomorrow morning.'

"I took the papers and—"

"Excuse me an instant," said Holmes. "Were you alone during this conversation?"

"Absolutely."

"In a large room?"

"Thirty feet each way."

"In the center?"

"Yes, about it."

"And speaking low?"

"My uncle's voice is always remarkably low. I hardly spoke at all."

"Thank you," said Holmes, shutting his eyes; "pray go on."

"I did exactly what he indicated, and waited until the other clerks had departed. One of them in my room, Charles Gorot, had some arrears of work to make up, so I left him there and went out to dine. When I returned he was gone. I was anxious to hurry my work, for I knew that Joseph—the Mr. Harrison whom you saw just now—was in town, and that he would travel down to Woking by the 11 o'clock train, and I wanted if possible to catch it."

BROTHER GREEK KING DIES OF WOUNDS HE RECEIVED IN FIGHTING

LONDON, April 4.—Prince Andreas of Greece, brother of King Constantine, has died of wounds received in fighting near Brusa, says a Constantinople dispatch to the Evening News, quoting a Turkish announcement. The Turks also assert that General Viachapoulos, who was in command of the Greek attack against the Turkish nationalists on the Brusa front, has been killed in action.

DECLARES SINN FEIN LEADERS OF "SO-CALLED" IRISH REPUBLIC WORSE THAN THE BOLSHEVISTS

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 4.—"The sinn fein leaders of the so-called Irish republic are worse than the bolshevists of soviet Russia. They haven't the support of any but the most radical element of Ireland, and by their ruthless methods of terrorizing the population, are rapidly losing power, even in the south of Ireland.

"I cannot understand how people who call themselves intelligent can listen to their propaganda, financed as it it with German money, and with the one purpose of stirring up hatred for Great Britain.

"They are the self-same sinn fein who put every possible obstacle in the path of your allies during the war; who are responsible for countless graves of your American lads in Flanders because of the aid they gave the German U-boats by fostering them in Irish ports; who threw your American soldiers into the docks when they visited Queenstown and Cork."

It was an Irishman speaking—an Irishman who declares that he is just as truly Irish and just as proud of his Irish blood as Mary MacSwiney. He is William Wilson, who, with his two brothers, Eccles and Wesley, have just come to Oklahoma City directly from the county of Tipperary in the south of Ireland. It has been less than six months since their father, William H. Wilson, an officer in the Royal Irish constabulary, was shot down by the sinn fein while going home to his wife and children one afternoon. His own life and the lives of his brothers have been threatened many times by the sinn fein, until they were forced to find refuge in America. And their mother and sister were forced to leave their home in Tipperary and go to the north of Ireland for fear of being molested.

That is typical of Ireland today Wilson declared. Only those who favor the sinn fein are safe in certain parts of the country. They are afraid to express their real views, because those who have done so have been the victims of the most brutal attacks, he said.

German Propaganda Ends Happiness.

"Ireland was happy and satisfied until the Germans started their propaganda in 1916. We never had been so prosperous before. England gave us all the freedom anyone could wish, why we were freer than you are in America today. But Germany saw that if she could work on Irish prejudices while England's hands were tied, she could hit Great Britain in a vulnerable spot. It would give her a base to operate her U-boats, and later she might go to Ireland and bombard the British Isles. So the sinn fein was organized. It does not represent real Irish sentiment. Why, its president, De Valera, is not even an Irishman. And the U-boat which sunk the Lusitania was fostered in an Irish port. Yet these self-same Irish have the audacity to ask you Americans to recognize their so-called republic, which doesn't even exist.

Wilson declared that all of Ulster and many of the Irish in other parts of the country are loyal to the British Empire and do not even want home rule. They were satisfied as things were. Then the sinn fein got busy. England's hands were tied. And England has been "too soft," he said. There was conscription in Ireland, to be sure. But it was never enforced. Yet thousands of loyal Irishmen volunteered. My brother, Eccles, served under the British flag and was proud of it. And when the sinn fein began its campaign of terror England let things go. She didn't take the drastic steps she should have taken—that America would take if your I. W. W.'s (and that is what the sinn fein amount to) started a revolution in America. One may not like an Englishman personally—I don't think any real Irishman does. But we are proud of our allegiance to the British Empire, and there is none of us but what will admire the England idea of sportsmanship. The English like fair play. They are noted for it. You remember they wouldn't use gas against the Germans until the French forced them to, because they didn't think it was fair. Well, it's the same way in Ireland. Their method has been to fight in the open. The sinn fein shoot you in the back. They show no respect for women and children. I know of dozens of women who have been killed, along with their men folks by the sinn fein."

Alleged British Atrocities Denied.

Wilson denied that the British army is committing atrocities in Ireland worse than those committed by the Germans. There are atrocities committed, but they are committed by the sinn fein, he declared.

"You would not believe it if I were to tell you some of the things I have seen happen in Ireland. I have seen the bodies of members of the Royal Irish constabulary chopped to bits. I know it to be a fact that the sinn fein have cut the legs off men who have volunteered for the Royal Irish constabulary—not British, you understand, but they have committed these crimes against their own countrymen, just because they didn't believe in the sinn fein, and didn't want the Irish republic. Now the British have sent their army into Ireland, and where such atrocities are committed they hunt down the criminals and execute them. It is what they should have done a long time ago. And now, because they are being defeated, getting a taste of their own medicine, they set up a loud squeal, and run to America for sympathy."

Wilson declared that no true American would favor the Irish "republic," if he understood real conditions. The courts established by the sinn fein in certain sections of Ireland are no longer operating, he said. When they did they were presided over by ignorant, illiterate men, for the most part, he declared.

Ammunition of German Make.

"Before the war we had peace in Ireland, and we had religious freedom. But if they force the republican government that the best people of Ireland do not want, we will not even have our religious freedom," he said.

"You know the money that France borrowed from England right after the Franco-Prussian war to pay off her immense debt to Germany. It was paid in gold. Well, that self same money is being used by the sinn fein in Ireland today. I myself have seen it when I worked in a bank in Langford county. And all of the ammunition captured from the sinn fein is of German make. I know that to be a fact. England cannot give Ireland her absolute freedom, for not only would it be an injustice to those of us who do not want it, but it would be cutting our own throat. It would give Germany a base of operations against England. Don't think Germany is spending all this money to finance the sinn fein for nothing. And everybody who knows our history knows that we Irish ourselves entered into a union with England in 1800 of our own free will."

Better Represented Than England.

Ireland has more representatives in the English parliament for her size and population than either England, Scotland or Wales, he said. There may have been a time when Ireland did not get justice at the hands of England, but it has not been for many years, he declared. "Where wages in Ireland used to average $3, in your money, a week, they now average $30, in your money, a week. We have never been so prosperous, and when the sinn fein are put down we shall be prosperous again. For I tell you it is not healthy to be in Ireland right now."

The words sinnfein mean "ourselves alone" when literally translated into English, Wilson said. And the sinn fein are living up to their name, he declared. Soviet Russia is the only country which has recognized the Irish republic. It did so immediately.

She Swore Loyalty to England.

"The sinn feiners are first cousins to the bolshevists. That is the reason. Yet you deport radicals who preach bolshevism, and let other radicals spread the self same propaganda under the guise of Irish freedom.' I do not wish to say anything against Mary MacSwiney, but I cannot help saying that the things she tells you are nothing but German or sinn fein propaganda. There again is the English idea of sportsmanship. Because she is a woman they gave her a passport to America, after she had sworn that she was a 'loyal English subject,' and then she comes over here and strikes at the very heart of Great Britain. America would never let such a thing happen if conditions were reversed, and that is what I admire about your country. The English are too soft."

The Wilson boys are at the home of their brother-in-law, Jack Erwin, 131 East Tenth street. They intend to make their home in Oklahoma City, and to bring over their mother and sister as soon as possible.

"Drop that light or I'll shoot!" Then he saw that it was a girl—all of which, and more, happened to Peter and Priscilla in liveliest Mexico. Read how Priscilla bagged a Big One, by Royal Brown, in April Cosmopolitan.—Adv.

LLOYD GEORGE IS CHALLENGED TO A GENERAL ELECTION

ARTHUR HENDERSON READY TO SUBMIT ISSUE IN ENGLAND TO PEOPLE.

SAYS PREMIER'S PARTY IS FALLING TO PIECES

Henderson Recognized During War As a Conservative And Conciliator.

By LLOYD ALLEN,
United Press Staff Correspondent.
(Copyrt. 1921 by the United Press.)

LONDON, April 4.—Arthur Henderson, most powerful labor leader in Great Britain, today virtually challenged Premier Lloyd George to a general election on the issues raised by the threatened industrial revolution in the United Kingdom.

Known throughout the war as a conservative and conciliator, Henderson in an exclusive interview with the United Press indicated his one idea now is overthrow of Lloyd George government.

Radical and conservative laborites, he said, have been cemented by the crisis brought on by the great coal strike. A victory for labor with Lloyd George, an outcast and a laborite government based on social justice will result from the next election, he declared.

Contemptuously referring to the "insincerity, inconsistency and inconstancy" of the premier, Henderson declared Lloyd George's party is falling to pieces. The labor party will not only survive Lloyd George's attack but will be strengthened by it," he said. "His hysterical attacks are not deceiving anyone, not even himself."

Program is Withheld.

Henderson refused to announce the complete labor platform but made it clear that "when labor wins," it will "reconstruct society, impoverished and disorganized by the long war, on the principles of social justice and economic freedom."

"The premier is a man who feels that his force is spent," Henderson asserted. He has aligned himself irrevocably with party of privilege and property which he once assailed with a vehemence of tongue and recklessness of spirit which no laborite ever excelled.

"Lloyd George has forsaken the people's cause."

Profiteers and exploiters of labor will have short shrift if labor is empowered.

Henderson vitriolically attacked these two classes.

"They put Lloyd George where he now stands," he declared.

Henderson said that labor has saved Lloyd George more than once politically but that "now with a cynism unequalled in the history of British politics, the premier has inaugurated a campaign of unscrupulous misrepresentations against the one party now seeking to realize his own discarded aims.

Suggested Alliance.

"More than once," he charged, "Lloyd George privately suggested alliance and a working partnership with the laborites whom he now assails."

The premier has lost forever the support of labor, Henderson stated.

The labor leader was certain this withdrawal of support would mean collapse of the Lloyd George government and the coalition party, giving labor its opportunity to seize control and institute its own program. Sketchily touched upon, labor's program, it was indicated, would mean not only a great change in working and economic conditions but would have a startling effect upon Irish, international and internal situation.

Changes made would be "revolutionary" he indicated, "but hastily disclaimed bolshevik tendencies of his party. He did not use the word socialistic, although associates admitted some theories to be tried out are socialistic.

Say Both Space And Time Finally Will Disappear

NEW YORK, April 4.—Professor Albert Einstein, originator of the conception in his "Theory of Relativity" that the universe and space are limited and that both space and time will finally disappear, gave a dozen newspaper reporters here virtual "brainstorms" yesterday in their efforts to follow his explanations and deductions.

They gathered, however, that the professor does not claim the theory is entirely infallible, but he declares that two facts so far bear out his deductions. They are the irregularities of the movements of the planet Mercury, and the fact, since proved by British scientists, he said, that light is deviated when passing by a planetary body like the sun or a large planet.

The professor explained that he did not understand the reason for the widespread public interest in his deductions.

"The practical man does not need to worry about it," he said. "From the philosophical aspect, however, it has importance, as it alters the conceptions of time and space which are necessary to philosophical speculations and conceptions."

"Just as a joke, however," he added, "and not to be taken too literally, it has this effect on any thought of the universe. Up to this time the conceptions of time and space have been such that if everything in the universe were taken away, if there was nothing left, there would still be left to man time and space.

"But even under this theory, time and space would cease to exist because they are inseparably bound up with the matter conception."

That was about all the professor would add to make the poor reporters swim, and as one scratched his head and asked: "What is this here Einstein theory anyway?" The professor laughed and said:

"It doesn't matter much anyway."

INVESTIGATING MURDER OF PRIEST AT DETROIT

DETROIT, April 4.—Deputy sheriffs went to Bronson, Mich., today to question former parishoners of Father Leo Jarecki who was killed in the doorway of his rectory at Wyandotte, a surburb, last Friday night. It is known that the investigation of yesterday had to do with the identification of possible enemies of the priest.

MAY BE CHIEF OF STAFF.

Major-General James C. Harbord, who, according to rumors in official circles in Washington, is slated to succeed General Peyton C. March as chief of staff. General Harbord who was chief of staff of the A. E. F., and commander of the service of supply in France, rose from the ranks.

OKLAHOMA IS FACING A DEPLETED TREASURY

Legislature Adjourns Without Passing The Main Appropriation Measure.

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 4.—Faced with the possibility of a depleted state treasury June 1, because the house of the state legislature adjourned Sunday morning without passing the main appropriation bills, Governor J. B. A. Robertson today considered ways and means to prevent absolute stoppage of the state government machinery after that date. The state treasurer now has on hand only enough money to permit the state institutions and state departments to operate until June 1, it was said at the capitol.

Party leaders of the legislature saw two courses open to the governor which might solve the money problem for the state:

First, the governor might call an extraordinary session of the state legislature at which they money bills might be considered.

Second, the defeated money bills might be voted upon by the people at a special election.

So far the governor has not indicated what course he will pursue.

DIDN'T PRINT DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE OUT OF RESPECT TO THE BRITISH

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Assertion that the war department last year refused to permit the printing of several hundred copies of the declaration of independence because "it would be an act of discourtesy to our friends, the British," is made by Representative Kelly of Pennsylvania in a forthcoming book, "The Community Capitol." An advance excerpt from the volume was made public in a statement here today by Frank P. Walsh, counsel for the "Republic of Ireland."

Mr. Kelly further states, according to Mr. Walsh, that the department's alleged refusal to permit the printing of the document was because "in the inflamed state of public mind such a publication might increase social unrest and the tendency to bloshevism."

Mr. Walsh declared in his statement that the alleged action of the war department "furnishes one illuminating example of the suppression of the declaration of independence by the American government throught understanding with the British government."

MAY FINISH SCHOOL TERM BEFORE FACING TRIAL FOR MURDER OF HIS PLAYMATE

ORA, IND., April 4.—Eleven year old Cecil Burkett may finish the spring term at the little country school house before he faces trial for murdering Benny Slavin, his seven year old playmate and next door neighbor.

Likelihood that the trial, in which the state asks that Cecil be put to death for Benny's slaying, will be postponed, developed today with the illness of James A. Dilts, prosecuting attorney.

The trial was to have started tomorrow.

If the case is not called in the next two weeks, it will not be held until June because W. C. Pentecost, circuit judge, goes to an adjoining county soon to conduct court.

Cecil is charged with shooting Benny while they were playing in Cecil's back yard last Thanksgiving.

TAX QUESTION AND PEACE SETTLEMENT ARE BIG PROBLEMS

COUNTRY-WIDE SURVEY OF INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS IS MADE.

BUILDING OPERATIONS SHOW MARKED INCREASE

Country Better Off Today Than Three Months Ago Says Former Secretary Of Treasury.

BALTIMORE, MD., April 4.—David F. Houston, former secretary of the treasury, in analyzing a country-wide survey of industrial, financial, agricultural and other economic conditions, declares that "the big national question is taxation with peace settlement and international trade next."

The survey, made in all of the geographical divisions of the United States by field agents of the Fidelity and Deposit company of this city, consisted of answers to 36 questions by farmers, bankers, manufacturers and public officials. An interesting feature of the statistics is that in every section except New England and the Rocky Mountain states building operations show a marked increase. General transportation conditions in every state were reported "good" and raw materials plentiful. Savings accounts, the survey showed, increased in 19 states.

Police officials of 27 states said there had been a noticeable increase in crime over last September but a decrease was reported in Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Deleware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi.

Farmers Holding Crops.

In every state the concensus of opinion was that the farmers have not disposed of all their last season's crops. Low prices and shortage of money and labor are said to have caused a reduction in acreage in all states except Illinois Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and the Pacific coast states. The crop outlook for 1921, however, in every case, was reported fair or good.

"The survey indicates that the business world is still feeling its way, but with increasing confidence and with the conviction that the worst has passed," said former Secretary Houston. "The country has successfully borne the strain caused by a most notable drop in prices, particularly of a vast volume of raw materials, and has weathered a trying period of liquidation.

"The demand for finished products has not developed to the point where our factories feel justified in taking the requisite quantity of our surplus raw materials to furnish the necessary relief to their producers, but there are some indications of a change in this direction.

Building Situation.

"This survey does point to certain favorable domestic conditions. The cost of living has appreciably diminished. Building operations in a number of districts tend to increase. There have recently been no strikes of consequence. Greater productivity of labor per man is reported from all districts. Raw materials are plentiful, and physical transportation conditions are good. There have been no business failures of moment. The crop outlook is satisfactory, and the banking situation has improved.

"The country is better off today than it was three months ago, and manufacturers in growing numbers are planning definite production schedules. Information from other quarters than this survey indicates that the automobile industry and some textile lines are picking up now. But the public is still restricting its buying and probably will continue to purchase cautiously until retail price reductions become more nearly equal to the reduction in manufacturers' and wholesalers' prices.

Retailers are Criticized.

"The maintenance by retailers of a relatively high price level has been perhaps the chief stumbling block to quickened industrial activity. The great cut in producers' and wholesalers' prices last summer and fall was not followed by proportionate reductions in the prices to consumers. It is apparent that we are approaching the point where many manufacturers can get materials at prices they can afford to pay and with lower wages and more efficient labor they can furnish goods at a cost within the consumers' reach.

"An appreciable reduction in wages is noted in every section and in virtually every kind of industry. The fact that savings accounts have increased in the industrial sections, however, would seem to indicate that in such districts wage and salary reductions have not been as great as the reductions in the prices of commodities, and that therefore, fortunately, the decrease in wages has not necessitated a lowering of the standard of living.

"The credit situation is improved. Interest rates range from six to eight per cent for the country as a whole, but banking funds are reported available by every section except the south and Rocky mountain region."

"LADY NICOTINE" WANTS PRAYERS TO PUT TOBACCO ON THE DISCARD LIST

CHICAGO, April 4.—Miss Bertha Bowman, "Lady Anti-Nicotine," called on 500,000 members of the W. C. T. U. today to pray tobacco out of existence.

"It took forty years of prayer to bury John Barleycorn," said Miss Bowman. "Now we are praying that Lady Nicotine be placed in the grave next to him."

The W. C. T. U. goes about is business—and its business is to make the world a better place—in a quiet manner, explained Miss Bowman.

$1,415 Plus One Month's Expenses For Day Nursery

When the "adding up accounts" had been finished at noon Monday, the day nursery treasury was the richer by $1,415.67 and a check for one whole month's expenses from Mrs. J. W. Stringer and family.

Mrs. C. B. Jetter, chairman of the tag day arrangements, and Mrs. Goodale, chairman of the new nursery finance committee of the City Federation, which recently assumed the big burden of financial responsibility for the nursery, were deeply pleased at the result of the tag day, feeling that the big donation represented not only the guarantee of nursery running expenses for another few months, but the support and approval of the general citizenship of Wichita Falls for the day nursery plan.

Everybody responded in a splendid spirit to the tag salesgirls and women on the street Saturday, and there were many genuine expressions of approval and appreciation of the nursery and the fund. There was a small army of volunteer workers, who made their headquarters at Harrison's drug store, many of whom worked on the down town streets the entire day.

Thanks to Workers.

Mrs. Jetter and her committee assistants, and the members of the finance committee—Mesdames Goodale, Kell and Shepherd—expressed sincere appreciation of the help and co-operation of the workers, and stated that with the present situation well tided over, the federation believed that the financial situation could be satisfactorily handled by a budget and pledge plan in the future. This plan is to be worked out immediately by the finance committee.

SENIOR CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR APRIL FOOL PARTY FRIDAY

The Senior Christian Endeavor young people of the First Presbyterian church entertained at the home of Judge and Mrs. A. R. Carrigan Friday evening with an April fool's party, a jolly crowd of twenty-five or thirty young people enjoying the jolliest affair imaginable.

Plans for the party were hatched in the fertile brains of the Endeavor program committee—Miss Eddilene King, Mrs. Joe D. Harris and Miss Gladys Coleman, who presented carefully printed "rules and regulations" to each guest on arrival. The first few "regulations" read about as follows, and occasioned a lot of fun:

"Come in.
"Go upstairs.
"Remove wraps and firearms.
"Hide them to prevent loss.
"Descend same stairway; elevator busted in the basement."

During the evening, following the same program obediently, the young people enjoyed a series of games and contests, one an anagram president's contest proving a good test for sharp wits. A feature of the party was the grand march, for which "Tuscanini's Sympathy Orchestra" furnished the music. The orchestra comprised two pianos, a victrola and sundry other musical instruments in the Carrigan home, all "turned loose" at once, and the march was a great success.

Late in the evening Mrs. Carrigan served orange ice and angel food cake.

NOTED WOMEN LAWYERS.

Each year finds the law schools of the country turning out their quota of Portias, most of whom immediately seek admittance to the bar. Miss Rose Rothenberg, one of the latest and most successful of women lawyers, has the distinction of being the only woman member of the New York district attorney's staff. Miss Rothenberg is twenty-seven years old and was admitted to the bar in 1916. Though she has prosecuted many cases, Miss Rothenberg specializes in criminal law.

LATEST STYLE

By LENORE

Sometimes the smartest effect is gained by the simplest device. Probably the least expensive trimming is to be found in plain machine stitching, an idea originated last winter in Paris, and used again in spring clothes.

An attractive example of what the young woman who makes her own clothes may achieve with this idea, is illustrated in the frock above, which is developed in dark blue gabacord. The stitching is in peacock blue, with kid belt to match.

Organdie is crisp and summery for the vest, which may be plain or finely tucked and trimmed with lace.

Pattern No. 128.

A pattern for the above model (No. 128) can be obtained in sizes 34, 36, 38 or 40, by sending to Lenore, 8 West 40th Street, New York city, your name and address, number of this pattern and the size required, and 25 cents in postage stamps. Be sure to keep this newspaper clipping of the sketch and description of the garment to use as a working model when the pattern reaches you—which will be within two weeks.—The Editor.

STANDARD CLUB GIVES LUNCHEON ON SATURDAY

The Standard club entertained with a luncheon meeting at the home of Mrs. C. E. Bailey Saturday afternoon, following a precedent for luncheon study-meetings recently set. The meetings have proved such a success that they have been continued for the past several weeks.

Following the luncheon, which was prettily planned and very delightful throughout, an extra session of the club was held, Mrs. Isbell presiding. During the business session preceding the lesson study the chief topic of discussion was the coming meeting of the First District Federation in Wichita Falls, and the club considered plans for co-operation with the City Federation in entertaining the visitors and delegates.

During the study session Miss Louise Lipscomb was a capable leader of the lesson on Shaw's "Candida," "Getting Married," and "The Doctor's Dilemma," the papers read including a contrast of Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra" with Shakespeare's "Anthony and Cleopatra," prepared by Miss Mayme Patrick and read by Miss Margaret Watson. Shaw's attitude toward divorce in "Getting Married," by Mrs. L. L. Allen; Shaw's prefaces, by Mrs. C. W. Wallace; Shaw's stage directions, by Mrs. S. M. Jameson; the satire on medical men in "The Doctor's Dilemma," by Miss Chella Hendrick, and a review of "Heart Break House," a late Shaw play now being produced in New York, by Mrs. A. D. Patillo.

Members present included Mesdames Baum, Milbury, Fisher, Bailey, Staley, Jameson, Haggard, Keim, Lewis, Wallace, Strong, Isbell, Allen, Mariele and Patillo, and Misses Margaret Watson, Henrietta Pyle, Mayme Patrick, Chella Hendrick, Louise Lipscomb and Mary Dickson.

Granddaughter Late Lieut.-Governor Of Texas Elopes With Princeton Boy

New York society was treated to a sensation recently when it was learned that Miss Inez "Lola" Gibbs eloped with William Leland Hayward, son of Colonel William H. Hayward. Young Hayward, who is nineteen, is a student at Princeton university. Society conceded Miss Gibbs to be one of the most beautiful, if not the most beautiful, of the season's debutantes. She is eighteen years old, and the daughter of George W. Gibbs of New York and a granddaughter of the late Lieutenant Governor Darney Gibbs of Texas. They were married by a justice of the peace at Greenwich, Conn.

JUBILEE'S PARDNER

by Judd Mortimer Lewis

Illustrations by Eckmiss

When I was at Sunday School yesterday Younlss asted me how my toolip was getting along, and I did not know so I went home and gave it a look and it had not come out of the dirt yet so I took it out of the dirt and washed it and looked at it and I could not see anything new about it, but I put it back to give it a chance.

We had roast beef for dinner and punkin pie, and then I snuck out to the barn and clumb out in the alley before my mother could tell me to stay home and take care of Annabel Lee. We was going to fly our kites on the vacant lot but Maggie the mutt which got fascinated on her leg was there and we knew she would run and tell some of our mothers and fathers what we was doing on Sunday, so we all went out to where the dug-out used to be before the top of it caved in, and there is not anything growing yet and all the trees look skinny without any leaves on them.

While we was setting there a lot of men and women on horseback came through the woods on the other side of the ravcen ad one of the men asted us if we knowed where there was a spring, and we went across to where they were. And one of them was Jonesy our teacher and some other women and they all had on britches and everything like a man. They said they would tie their horses and scatter and look for a spring.

Me and Jonesy went one way and come to a gully with a rotten tree acrosst it about half ways down and the but end of it was kinda slippy. I went acrost and when Jonesy jumped from the but end of it she kinda bent back and wound up both arms like a windmill and then she sot back on the but end of the tree so hard she said something.

Then she said, "OH, Thomas Aristides, don't you tell anyone." I said "Tell anyone what? I did not see anything and I did not hear you say anything, either." Then she laughed and said, "You are a brick. It was your kind that saved the world for democracy." But I told her it was not my kind because my father was a republican. Then someone whistled and they had found a spring, and us kids skun out and left them.

She did not say anything about it at school and neither did I, and she had her coat in her chair to set on. I had to go right home and clean out the stable and mind Annabel Lee so I did not have any fun. A kid always has to do the dirty work. My mother is still mad at my grandfather about the trick I played on her April fool day. I am not going to lick Nibs for putting Fishmouth on me, but I would of if I had not licked Fishmouth.

My grandfather made a ring in the yard and had a boughten fishpole with a reel on it and he practiced flinging a sinker at the ring till it got dark. He says he is going to try a new kind of fishing. I guess when a fish pops its head up he thinks he can stunt it with a sinker. He is a nut.

Then she said, "OH, Thomas Aristides, don't you tell anyone."

BOY AND DOG.

By MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

A boy is mostly lonesome when he's little. Grown up folks
Don't understand his notions or his silly little jokes;
They think he's sulky sometimes when he's only very shy,
And they think he's up to mischief when he doesn't meet their eye.

They smile when he's in earnest, at his little loves and fears,
They wonder at his laughter and they wonder at his tears;
So a boy, who must have some one who will answer to his call,
Has a dog that he can talk to, and can love the best of all.

Dogs don't laugh at you and tease you when you tell your secret hopes;
They don't ask you what you're doing with your barrel hoops and ropes;
But they gaze at you as if you were a hero from a book,
With a world of trust and loving and confiding in their look.

Oh, a boy is always lonesome when he's little; grown up folks
Think that boys are either terrors or just silly little jokes;
But a dog—a dog's a comfort, and he makes their spirit rise,
When he looks at them with loving in his almost human eyes.

—Christian Endeavor World, April 9.

By Way of the Transom

By L. M. D.

"Dogs don't laugh at you and tease
you when you tell secret hopes;
They don't ask what you are doing with your barrel hoops and ropes"—

Do you live in a family where a large part of the daily conversation hinges about questions and remarks similar to these:

"What are you doing?"
"Where are you going now?
"What are you going to do with that?"
"What's all that for, honey?"
"Who were you talking to out at the front?"
"Who was that little boy who whistled?"
"Don't be silly, honey."
"You can't fix that. Why don't you leave it alone?"

Somebody has called this, following the stone age, the iron age, the golden age, and the other ages, the "children's age." Children have been discussed and variously "pawed over" from one end of the United States, particularly, to the other. Most of the discussions and attention has lent wings to progress in the business of child rearing, and some of it has brought down the criticism of the elect. The "individuality" of the American child has become a much-mooted question, with much of the talk favoring a little less individuality and a little more manners on the part of the young hopefuls over here. The child's every move and phase of development is being watched with an eagle eye by investigators, kindergarten experts, and child experts of every class.

The whole system of training has changed. It is the Day of the Child.

But it doesn't seem to have changed for the better for the Little Chap. He is met at every turn of the reel by the defeat of his own honest best interests by the grown-ups. True, they are providing him with more things to do. He doesn't have to use "spools of thread for fishing lines and bended pins for hooks" any more. He has a real outfit, or as much of one as his folks can provide, and there is no necessity for the use of his inventive genius. He doesn't have to improvise games; games are suggested and fixed up for him. He doesn't need to make a kite—he couldn't really do it, anyway, you know, and it's a mess, and you can get perfectly nice ones for ten cents at the store. He can't be part of the gang, because his companions are given the eagle eye, the once over, and the third degree, and all of the pep eliminated. He can't slip out to attend a secret meeting behind the garden fence, the barn, or anywhere else, because his goings and comings, being a matter of serious concern to all posterity, are carefully censored.

A long time ago it would have been conceded that he had to eat a peck of dirt anyway, and that he might as well get a black eye or two early as late, and that it wouldn't seriously impede his pre-presidential career to associate with any of the village youngsters. But that is most all changed today. The little chap hasn't, really and truly, but one old-time friend left, of all the customs, folks and conventions of the good old days.

"Who was that whistled, Bobby? Don't you go out of the yard, son. There's measles all around."

"Gol - dam - th'-gosh-ding," whispers Bobby fervently into a long, drooping, silk velvet ear. And the eyes that "have lovin' in them" smile humanly back into his.

How to Prepare Garments for Hemstitching

Hemstitching is one of the most popular and effective trimmings employed in dressmaking, and is said to be more in vogue this season than ever before. Because of this, and of the fact that many a beautiful dress or blouse is rendered extremely difficult to handle on the hemstitching machine because of a wrong preparation, a local hemstitching operator of long experience has offered the following helpful suggestions for the Times Woman's Page:

"Customers desiring fancy designs worked on garments, etc., should stamp design on material or run a basting thread outlining the design. This should by all means be done when scalloping is desired. Never cut the scallop out until hemstitching has been done.

"Baste seams together as for ordinary stitching and then turn both seams one way and baste on one side of garment.

"In preparing a blouse for hemstitching, baste all seams as if to sew by hand, using rather closer stitches. Do not press open the seams. This is done for all regular seams and yokes. For the armholes and cuffs leave the seams open or the work cannot be done satisfactorily. For the shoulder, however, this is not necessary. Hems are turned twice as for ordinary stitching, but are basted rather closely. Hems for skirts and ruffles should be turned twice.

"For a ruffle, or 'gathered' material, the seam should always be turned away from the ruffle or gather.

"Hems with raw edges should be turned twice as prepared for machine stitching.

"Picot edge is hemstitching cut in two. It is always advisable for customers to press hemstitching before cutting it.

"For picot edge leave half-inch margin.

"When a row of hemstitching is desired on collars and cuffs, etc., set back from edge, outline the place to be stitched.

"When picoting ruffles, crease the material with hot iron the width ruffle is desired and one row of hemstitching when cut picotes two ruffles.

"When binding is set on, stitch on the machine first, then turn material over on the right side and baste about one-half inch below the machine stitching, turning the raw edge under.

"If you would have your work done right, baste it right."

Resinol relieves dandruff

Dandruff is one of the most frequent causes of baldness and too much care cannot be exercised in getting rid of it. The Resinol treatment is an easy method. Shampoo with Resinol Soap working the lather well into the roots of the hair. Rinse thoroughly and when wholly dry spread the hair apart and gently rub into the scalp a little Resinol Ointment. If carefully done little Ointment will get on the hair. Resinol Soap and Ointment at all druggists.

TO LIVE LONG!

A recipe given by a famous physician for long life was: "Keep the kidneys in good order! Try to eliminate through the skin and intestines the poisons that otherwise clog the kidneys. Avoid eating meat as much as possible; avoid too much salt, alcohol, tea. Try a milk and vegetable diet. Drink plenty of water, and exercise so you sweat—the skin helps to eliminate the toxins (poisons) and uric acid."

For those past middle life, for those easily recognized symptoms of inflammation, as backache, scalding "water," or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, "rusty" joints, stiffness, get "An-uric" (anti-uric acid) at the drug store. This is a wonderful eliminator of uric acid and was discovered by Dr. Pierce of Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce for trial pkg.

SHOTGUN ACCIDENT SUNDAY RESULTS IN YOUNG MAN'S DEATH

Wade Clarence Tilghman, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Tilghman, died at 5 o'clock Monday morning in the Methodist hospital from the effects of gunshot wounds accidentally inflicted by himself Sunday afternoon.

The boy was cleaning a shotgun in his home, 1721 Fifth street, preparatory to a hunting trip and in some way the weapon was discharged. A heavy charge of shot struck squarely in his left arm, causing such wounds that the arm was amputated Sunday night.

Young Tilghman was rushed to the Methodist hospital at Call Field, but the loss of blood from the wound coupled with the shock of the amputation caused his death.

He is survived by his parents and several brothers and sisters, all living at home.

The body was removed to the Hines undertaking parlors and prepared for burial and will be sent some time Tuesday to Jacksboro for burial.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

DECLARES CITY ADMINISTRATION HAS MADE SPLENDID RECORD

Editor The Times:

I have no axe to grind on a political stone, and I have never been a believer in the use of the news columns of a daily publication as a medium for the expression of personal views. I have spent twelve years writing for newspapers, but this is the first article I ever attempted to address to a newspaper.

I honestly feel, however, that a recent communication from J. B. Fitts bearing on tomorrow's election should not go unchallenged; not because Mr. Fitts questioned Mr. Brally's record as police commissioner, however, but because he included in his communication a general attack on the present city administration. I do not care to take sides for or against any individual in the present campaign. I assume each man to be quite capable of defending his record in office or of advancing proper arguments why he should be placed in office.

But when Mr. Fitts declares that "the present city government has gone through a riot of spending that is making the owning of property a burden," I do feel like telling the public that one citizen at least is mighty proud of Mayor Walter D. Cline and the city officials who are working with him to give us a modern city in keeping with the growth in population and prosperity.

I have attended a score or more of the city council meetings of the present city administration. Instead of finding the members of the council indulging in "a riot of spending," I have seen them planning soberly and conscientiously on municipal improvements that are absolutely necessary if Wichita Falls is to take its proper place as one of the big cities of the southwest. I have seen them place our fire department on a plane with the finest departments in the state; they have graded our streets, sold our bonds and made preparations for the paving that we must have; they have given thought to the beautification of our parks and playgrounds; they have purchased the water works and through doing so have improved the water service, provided an additional source of city revenue and have thrown additional safeguards around the health of our citizens; they have perfected a sanitary department that would be a credit to any city; they have made proper provision for adequate sewer systems; they have set aside $75,000 for badly needed hospital improvements; they have systematized every department of the city government as contrasted with the ancient slip-shod methods that formerly prevailed.

In short, the members of the city [illegible] have applied to Wichita Falls [illegible] methods they have used in patro[illegible]ire as successful business men. [illegible]y have spent money, a great deal of it, it is true—but no city on the face of the globe ever saw out of the village class without spending the money necessary to keep pace with growth and development.

Personally, I am proud of the splendid record in municipal progress made by the present city administration, and I believe it is unjust and unfair to inject into this local campaign unfounded, unsubstantiated charges that the administration has been reckless or "riotous" in spending the people's money.

BARED FEET IN CHURCH NOT SACRILIGIOUS SAYS PASTOR NEW YORK CHURCH

NEW YORK, April 4.—Bared feet in church are not sacrilegious, Dr. Wm. Guthrie told his congregation before six college girls tripped out into the Protestant Episcopal church of St. Marks-in-the-Bouwerie without slippers. Their legs, however, were covered and they wore white satin robes. The girls appeared in the ritual dance of the Della Robbia Annunciation.

HIGH SCHOOL TRACK TEAM IS SELECTED

Will Represent Wichita Falls In District Meet To Be Held At Olney Next Week.

With the district interscholastic meet but ten days away, local high school representatives are getting down to real practice in preparation for the events, and all indications point to the fact that Wichita Falls will have a strong lineup when hostilities open at Olney on April 15 and 16.

The eight boys who will compose the track team were selected late last week by Coach J. N. Hall from a large field of contestants, and Mr. Hall is confident that his charges will stack up favorably with representatives from the other institutions of the district. Each of the eight men will compete in four or five events, according to the coach, and all are showing proficiency in their respective lines. Those selected by the coach are Captain Richard Kenley, Luke Wilson, Leo Baldwin, George Sibert, Donovan Weldon, Tom Beatty, Harold Mackechney and Philip Pinkston.

In the tennis singles matches William Powers will represent the boys and Jewel Williams the girls, both of these students having won out in all their matches. In the boys' doubles Powers and Haynes won the right to represent the school by disposing of William Talbot and Harvey Bolding, who reached the finals. The girls' doubles team is yet to be picked, but lies between Dorothy Nolen and Franckie Adickes, composing one team, and Jewel Williams and Lorraine Wales making up the other. The deciding matches will be played Monday afternoon.

Marguerite Fisher will represent the school in the declamation contest.

MUCH INTEREST IN ART EXHIBIT AT HIGH SCHOOL, PROGRAM GIVEN MONDAY

Monday is the last day of the art exhibit being held at the high school under the supervision of the art department, and good sized crowds were expected to turn out for a look at the large collection of prints of famous paintings. According to those in charge, the display has drawn splendidly thus far, many of the pictures having been sold and orders taken for several others, all of which has enriched the school picture fund to a considerable extent.

It is hoped that with the money already in the treasury combined with the proceeds from the present exhibit that it will be possible to purchase pictures for every school room in the city.

An interesting program relating to the pictures on display was given in the high school auditorium Monday morning by the school orchestra and a number of the students from the art department. The overture "Poet and Peasant," which is corresponding music to the painting "The Gleaners," was rendered as the opening number and was followed by a short talk by Mortimer Clopton, who briefly sketched the origin of the picture and gave some interesting facts concerning it.

William Powers spoke on "Sir Galahad," after which a vocal solo, "Hark! Hark! the Lark," was given by Masie McClure. The story of the picture "The Song of the Lark" was given by Dorothy Eagle, finished the program.

The success of the exhibit has determined the school authorities to make it at least an annual affair, and it is their hope that others of a similar nature can be given in the near future.

STILLMAN ORDERED TO PAY ALIMONY AND FEES WITHIN THIRTY DAYS

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 4.—Justice Morschauser in supreme court here today signed an order directing that payment of alimony and counsel fees in the divorce proceedings brought by James A. Stillman, New York banker, against Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, be made within thirty days and that meanwhile referee hearings in the case be stayed.

Counsel for both sides agreed that sealed papers in the case, including letters said to have been written to Mrs. Stillman by Fred Beauvais, Indian guide, named as co-respondent, and the alleged "confession letter" of Mrs. Stillman to her husband, should not be opened when they are filed in the Putnam county court house at Carmel.

The order provides that no further hearings be held before the referee until Mr. Stillman has paid to his wife $15,000 alimony for March and April; counsel fees of $35,000, and $12,500 for expenses. The entire amount is to be paid in thirty days.

Counsel of Mr. Stillman announced that an appeal would be taken to the supreme court in Brooklyn today against Justice Morschauser's decision last week in expunging from the records the letters said to have been written by Mrs. Stillman and the Indian guide.

WOUNDING A PEOPLE'S PRIDE.

As great as is the feeling of disappointment and even resentment over Governor Neff's veto of the West Texas A. & M. bill it is perhaps less responsible for the movement for a separate state in West Texas than the failure of the legislature to redistrict the state to give western Texas its proportionate representation in the state legislature and in congress. The failure to provide institutional facilities equal with the other sections of the state may be explained, in a measure, by the statewide demand for retrenchment but the failure of the legislature to pass a redistricting bill to give this section its proportional representation in the legislature cannot be satisfactorily explained and hurts our pride. We are made to feel that we are not considered on an equality with the people of other sections and that our demands for equal representation can be passed lightly by. It is this feeling that makes it possible for the propaganda for the formation of a separate state to be favorably received by so many citizens.

The attitude of many citizens has been given expression in the resolutions adopted in a mass meeting at Sweetwater Saturday night. This resolution follows:

"Whereas, the state of Texas has maintained an unconstitutional government, in that it has failed to afford representation according to population in that portion of the state known as West Texas, for the past twenty years, in the legislative branches of said government, thus creating inequality and injustice, and denying equality of representation to thousands of citizens of West Texas, and whereas, West Texas is burdened with taxation without representation, grossly unjust as compared to the taxation as levied in other portions of Texas, and whereas, the citizenship of West Texas being imbued with that inherent desire for justice and adequate educational facilities and institutions for which said citizenship has appealed in vain to the state government of Texas that posterity might be blessed with enlightenment, and whereas, no free and vigorous people can be content to live under a state government which denies them such rights and privileges.

"Therefore, be it resolved, by the 5,000 citizens of Nolan and surrounding counties here assembled, that we demand that the state government of Texas give immediate representation in the legislative branch proportionate to our population. We demand also that a just proportion of the taxes which we pay into the state treasury be expended in the election and maintenance of such educational institutions as the people deem proper to the training of their children. We call on the state government to equalize the burdens of taxation.

"Be it resolved further, that the said citizens here assembled, suggest that if our demands are not complied with by the next special session of the state legislature we will call for the creation of a new state under which we may hope to have equal rights and representation. Be it further resolved, that we appeal to the West Texas chamber of commerce and all lovers of justice and fair play in gaining the representation and rights herein called for."

TUESDAY'S ELECTION.

Three city commissioners are to be elected in Tuesday's election in Wichita Falls. They will be the heads of the important departments of public safety, including the police and fire departments, finance and public health. These three commissioners will have a large share in the conduct of the city government during the next two years. Wichita Falls has become a city of importance. Its commissioners expend large sums and their conduct of their departments and of the city government as a whole directly effects every one of Wichita Falls more than forty thousand inhabitants. Heretofore the large majority of the voters of Wichita Falls has been content to permit a few to select the men to fill these important positions. The majority has failed to go to the polls and exercise their right and duty as citizens. It is time the people ought to assume their responsibility as citizens.

Editorial Echoes

Governor's Action on the Educational Bills.

(Dallas News).

"Our expenses," Governor Neff says in his memorandum recording his action on the four educational bills the legislature left with him, "must be kept within our revenues. Appropriations must not be made beyond the state's available ability to pay. Taxation must not be increased." Those maxims, appealing at all times, are particularly persuasive in the circumstances of the present, and one who had put himself under their restraint also put himself under moral compulsion to relieve the treasury of at least half the demand which the approval of the four bills would have made on it. For the expenditure of $8,400,000 which they called for could not be made without causing a deficit in the state's revenues and without thereby entailing an increase in the tax rate next year.

Accordingly Governor Neff has approved two and vetoed two of those four measures. He has approved the bill transferring $3,000,000 from the general fund into the available school fund and he has approved the bill appropriating $1,250,000 to buy land adjoining the campus of the university. He has vetoed the bill appropriating $4,000,000 for the support of the rural schools and the bill appropriating $50,000 to purchase a site for an agricultural and mechanical college in west Texas, which the bill proposed to create.

Governor Neff declares himself to be as much in sympathy with the purposes of the bills he vetoed as with the bills he approved, and the News does not believe that any one who reads the reasons he sets forth for his decisions will doubt his sincerity in making this statement. In saying this, however, the News does not imply an agreement with all of his decisions or with the reasons he gives for them. He would have done better, in the News' opinion, to approve rather than veto the bill creating an agricultural and mechanical college in west Texas. The bill appropriating only $50,000, so that the amount saved by vetoing it is not large enough to give any appreciable accommodation to the state's treasury. But the bill did more than make an appropriation. It directed the creation of an agricultural and mechanical college in west Texas, and while it made no provision for its building now, it assured its building in the future. In vetoing the bill, therefore, he has deprived the people of west Texas of the assurance of getting at a future time an institution which they have much reason for demanding now. At best he has postponed the fulfillment of a cherished hope and, at worst, made its fulfillment doubtful. He has not merely "cut back" a tree; he has uprooted one it has taken a long time to get set.

In electing to approve the appropriation for the university and for the available school fund and to veto the appropriation for the rural schools, Governor Neff made a decision which is pretty certain to excite a good deal of resentment. Possibly he would have done better to veto the appropriation for the available school fund and approve that for the rural schools. But that is a view of his problem which it would not be easy to sustain. The fact that the appropriation for the rural schools was larger by $1,000,000 than that for the available school fund was a heavy consideration with one bent on effecting the utmost economy that was practicable. Besides, the rural schools share in the distribution of the available school fund on the same basis that the urban schools do, so that they do not suffer an entire denial because of his action. Furthermore, as Governor Neff says, the rural school districts have a larger taxing power than they formerly did, and hence are not so dependent as they formerly were on this subsidy from the state. Governor Neff expresses his willingness to approve an appropriation for the rural schools if it can be made without embarrassing the treasury, and this presents, not a probability, to be sure, but a possibility, that the legislature may find a way during the special session to make some additional provision for the rural schools.

The reasons Governor Neff gives for approving the appropriation for the university are conclusive and unassailable. It would have been a calamity to that institution had he acted otherwise, and, furthermore, a veto of that appropriation would have been condemned by highly material considerations. It would have deprived the university of the Littlefield bequest, and, what would have been a much worse consequence, it would have made its future a subject of political contention which could have only been disastrous to it. By approving this appropriation, Governor Neff has, as he says, fixed the habitat of the university for all time to come, and the people of Texas have reason to be grateful to him for that high service.

Beset by circumstances which made his task extremely difficult and delicate, Governor Neff has discharged his duty in this matter with a courage and candor which must command the admiration even of those who may think that he has not discharged it in all respects most wisely.

Amusing or Impudent?

(Dallas News)

Mr. Jewell, president of the American Federation of Labor's railroad department, has asked President Harding to use his executive influence to bring about a conference between the railway executives, as they are organized nationally, and the railroad employes as they are organized nationally to undertake to compose the differences on all points in dispute."

The only controversy between the railroads and those of their employes for whom Mr. Jewell speaks, or at least the controversy which involves all disputes, is whether all the railroads, acting as a unit, shall negotiate new wage and working agreements with their employes, acting as a unit. That controversy is now under consideration by the railroad labor board, which body is authorized by law to decide it.

It will be seen, therefore, that in making this request of the president, Mr. Jewell is asking the president to ignore the law he has sworn to support, by virtually wresting this controversy from the jurisdiction of the railroad labor board. And he is asking, in fact, more than that. He is asking the president, not only to take this controversy out of the jurisdiction of the railroad labor board, but to adjudicate it favorably to the desires of the men for whom Mr. Jewell speaks. The question at issue before the labor board is whether it is right and expedient that the railroads should, acting as a unit, negotiate with all their employes, acting as a unit, or whether it is right and expedient that every railroad should negotiate separately with its own employes. If the president should accede to the request of Mr. Jewell, he would pronounce in favor of the contention of the employes in the case before the labor board. In that event political influence would have been used to coerce the railroads into foregoing their right to have their contention heard and considered by a tribunal created to hear and decide it.

Mr. Jewell's action may appear to some as an evidence that the employes are conciliatory, and that the troubles of the railroads with their employes result from a stubborn refusal to confer with them. But to others, better informed, it must suggest a disposition to pose before the grandstand.

WHY?—

Is the Devil Called "Old Nick"?

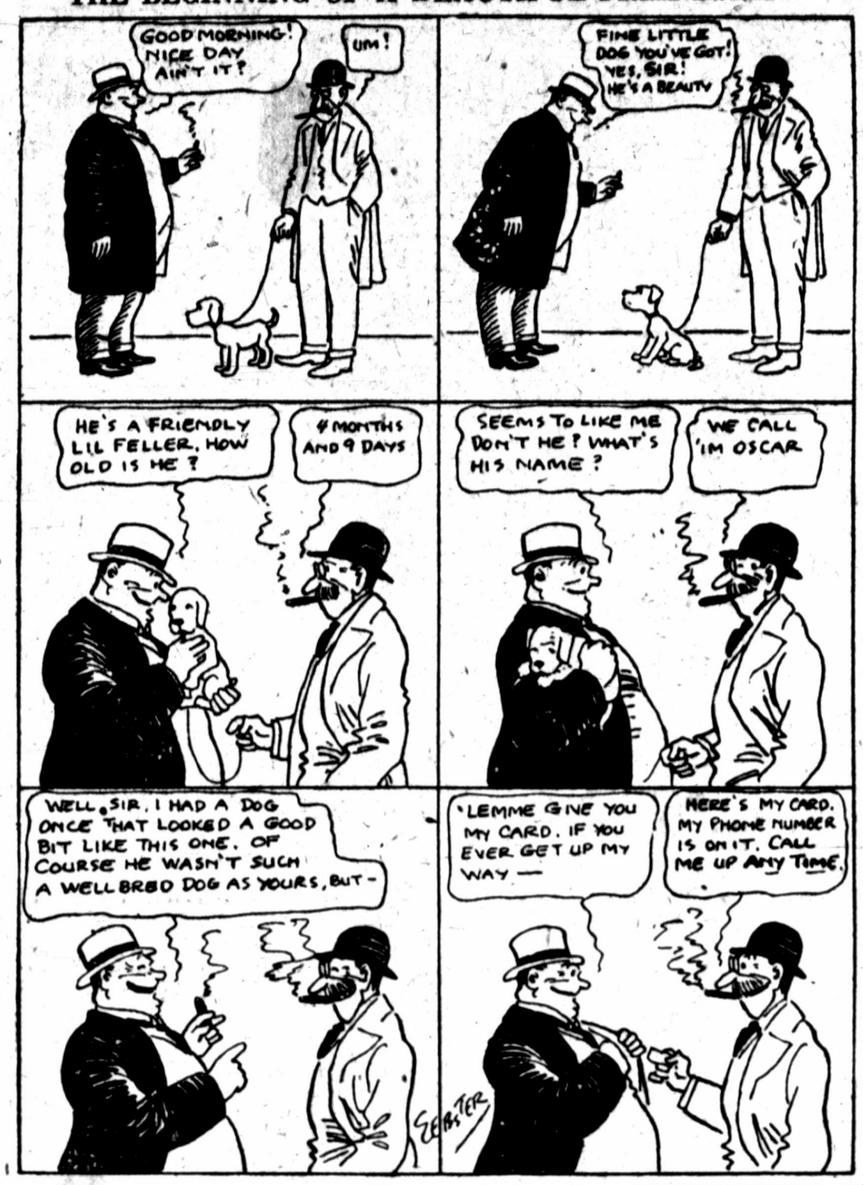
(Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

The word "Nick," so often applied to His Satanic Majesty, comes to us from the Anglo-Saxon "Nicor," the water spirit, a name which is found in a similar form in German, Swedish, Danish and Icelandic. Its prevalence shows the extent to which the worship of the water deity was formerly carried—seas, rivers and lakes alike being worshipped by all Aryan nations.

Of late years the respect for the Devil appears to have waned materially, but formerly, and especially in ancient times, the powers of evil were treated with a great degree of reverence. Thus the Greek Furies, the avenging deities, were named Eumenides or the "Well-Wishing Ones," and in the Book of Jude in the Bible we read that "Michael the archangel, when contending with the devil, he disputed about the body of Moses, durst not bring against him a railing accusation, but said, 'The Lord rebuke thee.'" A homely and rather amusing instance of the desire to stand well with the powers of darkness is given in Conway's "Demonology," where the story is told of a Hampshire mother who asked a friend if she made her children bow when they mentioned the Devil's name, adding solemnly, "I do—I think it's safer!"

Tomorrow—WHY are rivers never still?

THE BEGINNING OF A BEAUTIFUL FRIENDSHIP



JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

Getting Home.

Getting home is best, I say!
Though it's fun to go away,
And there's pleasure in a trip
Overland or on a ship,
Taking you to splendors new,
After all the journey's through,
Makes no difference where you roam,
There's no thrill like getting home.

Maybe with a thumping heart,
You look forward to the start,
And you think you'll never get
Quite enough of travel, yet
After you have journeyed far
Where the nation's wonders are,
Soon you'll find you hunger for
All the folks at home once more.

You may laugh and sing and shout
As you wander, in and out,
Meeting new friends everywhere,
Seeing glories here and there,
But these joys at last will pall
And you'll wish above it all
For that happiest moment when
You'll be starting home again.

Trips are glorious things to take,
Journeys everyone should make,
There are sights good to be,
Much the eye of man should see,
But no matter where you go,
This you'll surely come to know—
Best thing trains can do is when
They get you back home again.

Come take a trip in the open. Fill your lungs with outdoor air. Enjoy a laugh. Read "The Desert Caravaners," by Mary Roberts Rinehart, in April Cosmopolitan. (adv.)

Even if youre on the ferst form.

And ferthermore roll up their sleeves.

And put away in camphor till next yeer
Are millions of short winter pants.

BANKING POOLS ARE SUGGESTED SOLUTION OF COTTON SITUATION

MEETING IN WASHINGTON IS DISCUSSING PROPOSED ORGANIZATION.

WOULD ACT AS SELLING AGENT FOR THE PRODUCER

Program is Approved By Secretary Of The American Cotton Association.

By CLARENCE DUBOSE
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Efforts to revive business and bring back prosperity in the south by relieving the cotton situation began today at conferences between government officials and southern bankers.

Success of the efforts would end the commercial stagnation in the cotton belt and, indirectly, react favorably on conditions of unemployment, prices and commerce in the New England cotton manufacturing district, cotton men here said.

General business in all parts of the country would also be bettered.

The program proposed seeks restoration of American cotton export trade with Europe, including Germany, and includes:

First.—Formation of pools of southern bankers and business men, to organize under the Webb-Pomerene act and assemble great quantities of cotton from the farmers and others now holding out. These pools would act as selling agencies for the producer.

They would send representatives to Europe to secure mortgages, notes and various securities from spinners who have no cash but who want to buy cotton.

Second.—Formation in the south of Edge law banks to handle the securities gathered by the pools. The Edge banks, after approving and endorsing the foreign securities, would ask approval of the war finance corporation. If the corporation approved it would issue money or certificates to the Edge bank, which would pass them along to the pool, which in turn would pay the cotton owner.

All these transactions would be upon a long time credit basis.

"It is entirely practicable and will, I believe, be attempted and will succeed," Harvey Jordan, secretary of the American Cotton association, composed of southern cotton producers, bankers, business men and cotton manufacturers.

SUGGESTS GOLDEN RULE AS SUBSTITUTE FOR ONE IN NATIONAL AGREEMENT

CHICAGO, April 4.—The golden rule would be a good substitute for one of the rules of the national agreements for railroad shop employes W. G. Besler, president of the Central of New Jersey, declared today before the railroad labor board. Mr. Besler appeared to answer questions asked by Frank P. Walsh, counsel for the unions, who is endeavoring to draw testimony from railway executives which would favor continuation of national agreements.

Discussing rule 38, which provides that "an employee unjustly discharged or dealt with shall be reinstated with full pay for all time lost," Mr. Walsh demanded to know if that were not a just and reasonable rule.

"Why not substitute the golden rule? Make rule 38 read 'Do unto' others as you would have them do unto you' Mr. Besler replied. "Such a rule is unnecessary."

Mr. Besler characterized other rules as 'silly,' "vicious" and "absurd."

DR. REED ANSWERS CAMPAIGN QUESTIONS

Declares He is For Irrigation Project And Worked For It—Tells Of Plans For Sewer.

In a statement given to the Times Monday morning Dr. J. F. Reed, candidate for city commissioner Place No. 2, answered certain questions asked him in an advertisement of "The J. B. Hatchitt Campaign Committee," printed in the morning paper.

The first question was headed "A Question" and was followed with the statement that many citizens would like for Dr. J. F. Reed to answer before Tuesday's election. This question was as follows:

"Dr. Reed, are you in favor of the water and irrigation project for which leading citizens have been working for so many years? Are you for this great and necessary improvement that assures the future of Wichita Falls and Wichita county, and that will give employment to so many citizens while it is building?"

"When that project was before the voters, Dr. Reed, did you work and vote for it, or against it?"

Following this question was another under the heading, "Another Question, Doctor." This question follows:

"When your henchman, Mr. James Calvert, was writing his 'fiction' letter for Sunday's Times, had you told him about the sewer line that you, when a member of the council, 'located in the pastures adjacent to Archer county,' to use Mr. Calvert's language, which sewer line, if it could have been built, would have had to be put on stilts in order to give drainage? Had you explained to Mr. Calvert, from your knowledge of such sewer construction, that not even in fiction stories can sewage be made to flow uphill?"

It had been asserted by some of those supporting Mr. Hatchitt that Dr. Reed was opposed to the water and irrigation project and that he had voted against it. In his statement Monday morning Dr. Reed directly refutes these charges. Dr. Reed's statement condemns the questions quoted above. It follows:

Dr. Reed's Answer to Questions.

Question—"Dr. Reed, are you in favor of the water and irrigation project."

Answer—"Yes. And I have often said that this was the only chance for Wichita Falls to get its water supply, and the only hope for Wichita Falls was the water supply."

Question—"When that project was before the voters, Dr. Reed, did you vote and work for it, or against it?"

Answer—"I voted and worked for it."

Question—"When your henchman, Mr. James Calvert, was writing his sewer 'fiction' letter for Sunday's Times, had you told him about the sewer line, if it could have been built, would have had to have been put on stilts in order to give drainage?"

Answer—"I had not told Mr. Calvert about that, but I had directed the surveyors to lay off a sewer line in Highland Heights, and to go as far west with it in Floral Heights as they could. Mr. Donald, the city engineer, made an office survey and ran it further into Floral Heights, but the depression was so great that it came out of the ground before getting very far into Floral Heights, and would have had to be put on stilts had it been laid. The office survey don't always fit the ground. Mr. Nichols called my attention to it, and Mr. Donald argued with me that it could be laid that way."

SOUTH BEND WELL FLOWS 250 BARRELS, RIG IS DESTROYED

Blowing in unexpectedly from the 2215 foot sand one-half mile south of the South Bend store, the Henry Hobbs No. 1 well on the Colquitt lease destroyed its rig early Sunday and is now flowing 250 barrels a day by heads, according to word reaching here Monday. Oil men who visited the lease Sunday have expressed it as their opinion that the well, when cleaned out and drilled deeper into the sand, will be good for at least 1000 barrels and will effect a half-mile extension to the south of the South Bend pool.

The test was drilled independently by Hobbs and Colquitt, and is believed to be one of the best in the South Bend territory. It is half a mile from any proven production, and the fact that it is flowing by heads through several hundred feet of open hole and then 40 feet over the top of a ten-inch casing substantiates the belief that it is a good one.

The sand was pierced less than six inches, according to Mr. Hobbs, and the resulting flow of oil blew out the tools, caught fire and destroyed the derrick. It will be ten days before a new rig can be fitted and the test finished.

Mr Hobbs and Clint Wood visited the lease Sunday and were convinced that a 1,000 barrel producer is possible when the hole is cleaned.

WAGE REDUCTION ON THE KATY AND NORTHWESTERN IN EFFECT ON MAY FIRST

DALLAS, TEXAS, April 4.—Reductio.. in wages of all classes of employes and officers of the Katy lines and the Wichita Falls and Northwestern railway will go into effect May 1, according to notices made public today at Katy general offices here. The notice was issued by Receiver C. E. Schaff and was signed by C. N. Whitehead, chief operating officer.

The extent of the reduction has not yet been decided upon. A series of conferences for this purpose will be held in St. Louis beginning April 18 and continuing through April 22.

MUSKOGEE MAN FEELS BETTER THAN IN YEARS

Well-Known Salesman for the Phoenix Clothing Company Tells of Splendid Results He Obtained From Tanlac.

"If I hadn't got Tanlac when I did I couldn't have stayed on my job," declared J. B. Gannon, 506 South Seventh street, Muskogee, Okla., a well known salesman employed by the New Phoenix Clothing Company.

"About a year and a half ago," said Mr. Gannon, "my stomach went wrong and I suffered continually from gas, bloating and shortness of breath. I couldn't sleep and got up in the morning feeling dull and drowsy and more like getting back in bed than going to work. My back hurt so I couldn't reach my hands above my head without suffering agony. I was nervous and irritable, had no appetite, never felt like myself and was losing strength and getting in worse shape all the time.

"Well sir, I got Tanlac just in the nick of time for now my appetite has come back in full force and no matter what I eat I never feel any distress afterwards. I sleep soundly all night long and get up feeling thoroughly refreshed and full of strength and energy. In fact I am sound and well and actually feel better than I have for years. I couldn't ask to have a medicine do more for me than Tanlac has done."

Tanlac is sold in Wichita Falls by Miller Drug Co., in Electra by Tarleton Drug Store, West End Drug Co., Burkburnett, Texas, and by all leading druggists.—adv.

KIWANIANS HEAR TY COBB, MAYOR AND EXCELLENT MUSIC

NOTED BALL PLAYER SPEAKS OF RECENT SCANDAL IN WORLD SERIES.

CLINE MAKES REFERENCE TO IMPENDING ELECTION

Postpones His Regular Speech, But Submits Record Of Administration to Voters.

Ty Cobb, Mayor Walter Cline and some very talented musicians shared honors at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club at the Kemp hotel Monday.

Mayor Cline, who was on the program for the principal talk of the meeting, did not get started until late, and for that reason asked to be excused from making anything in the nature of a formal speech. He referred to the pending municipal campaign as having aroused some dissension not in line with his preference for peace and harmony, and said:

"I'm not going to make any political speech. I just simply submit to you the administration's record for your consideration."

Mr. Cline was given a demonstrative greeting when he arose to speak. He had been introduced by the chairman, Raymond Myers, as a man who truly exemplified both the Kiwanis motto, "We Build," and that principle in the Kiwanis creed that calls for serving the public unselfishly. The chairman declared that as mayor, Mr. Cline had shown himself a builder, and that in many ways he had shown his unselfish willingness to be of service to the public.

Cobb Talks on Baseball.

Ty Cobb, who was also enthusiastically greeted by the Kiwanians, declared public speaking to be out of his line, and there really was considerable embarrassment, genuine or feigned, in his manner; but it did not prevent his making a talk that was most heartily appreciated.

"You are most of you here business men," he told the Kiwanians, "and you know that co-operation and team work are needed to win in business, just as they are in baseball. And baseball is like business, too, in this—a man has got to be 100 per cent confident in himself is he is going to win.

"Baseball is the cleanest sport we have in the country. Those men who did that awful thing that brought stigma upon the game, didn't stop to think what they were doing; they didn't realize that baseball didn't belong to them, that they were only some of the custodians for a game that really belongs to the 115,000,000 people in this country, and to their children and to their children's children."

Ty declared that he had a clean, hard-working bunch, and that he was going to give everybody reason to be proud of them.

"We want you to pull for us," he said, and the applause he received when he sat down indicated that the Tigers would have some social support

Bush and Dauss of the Detroit team were present and were introduced to the Kiwanians.

Misses Irene and Thelma Stuck, accompanied by their sister, Mrs. McMurray, entertained the Kiwanians with some song and dance numbers that reflected great credit on the diminutive performers.

"Single Duets" Are Sung.

The young lady who, in telling how she and her sister entertained some guests, related that "the pieces that was duets for two, we sang together, and them that was duets for one, I sang by myself" had nothing whatever upon Miss Helen Davis, mezzo soprano, and Miss Sibyl Sanderson Fagan, Edison artists. Each of these, after giving a number "on her own," gave a duet with herself, singing or whistling while an Edison phonograph reproduced her melody at the same time. Unless one depended on his eyes, it was almost impossible to determine where the human voice left off and the mechanical one began. Willard Osborne, third member of the trio, did not perform except to introduce the others and to change the record.

About 100 were in attendance. C. J. Pate won the gold pencil, given by Horace Smith as an attendance prize. All those present received "slight boosts" from Rex Watland, in the form of hose supporters.

under consideration and the subject of discussion with the laborers of Germany.

"In respect of the second consideration, the immediate establishment by Germany of an actual sum of cash money in foreign exchange of important proportions, it is obvious that Germany can fulfill this obligation only through large increases in the volume of her exports.

"An international loan in favor of which the allied and associated governments would waive their general mortgage, constitutes the only solution of the problem. The government of Germany is prepared to offer the necessary securities for the safety of such a loan."

Simons Makes Proposal.

Simons then makes the proposal that Germany assume the great allied debt of $10,000,000,000 to the United States.

Germany would not be unwilling to assume the obligation of the interest and the amortization of the foreign debt of the allied and associated powers, within the limit of her capacity should this measure be entertained by the allied and associated governments and their creditors.

"Germany stands ready to meet any proposal which appears feasible for the solution of the economic and financial problems of Europe, and would invite the examination by unbiased experts of its own ability to make payments. It is the opinion of Germany that the heavy weight of debt now borne by all the state which were participants in the world war and the damages which were wrought in the course of that war, cannot be laid upon the shoulders of any single people.

"Germany believes also that policy of duress and coercion will not bring about the reconstruction of international economic life and that only by way of peaceful discussion and understanding can such reconstruction be obtained. The German government considers it important to give, with solemn emphasis, the assurance that for its part, it is honestly willing to follow the path which it has suggested"

DR. L. COONS CALLED BY DEATH SUNDAY; PIONEER RESIDENT

Dr. L. Coons, pioneer resident of Wichita Falls, died suddenly Sunday morning, while seated at the breakfast table at his home, 1622 Tenth street.

He had been in apparent good health recently, and his death came as a great shock to his family and friends. Death was due to cerebral hemorrhage.

Dr. Coons was born in Louisville, Ky., in 1848 and spent all of his early life in that city. He attended the Louisville Medical school for four years and after his graduation practiced medicine for a number of years. He came to Wichita Falls early in 1895 and continued his practice.

His wife died here a few years after his arrival, and since that time he has been living with his twin daughters, Cora and Dora, both of whom were with him at the time of death. There was probably no one in Wichita Falls who was more widely known nor more highly respected than was Dr. Coons, for his long association with the public in his practice had acquainted and endeared him to many. He was a member of the Wichita County Medical association and had always taken an active interest in public affairs.

Funeral services were conducted in the residence at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon by Rev. J. Lem Keevil, pastor of the First Christian church, and the body was to be sent to Louisville two hours later, accompanied by Judge C. B. Felder. Dr. Coons leaves no relatives in Wichita Falls aside from his daughters, but is said to have several brothers and sisters in Kentucky.

BRALLEY REPLIES TO THE CHARGES MADE DURING CAMPAIGN

W. G. Bralley, candidate for re-election as police commissioner in Tuesday's election, has issued a statement in which he replies to charges that many non-residents have been appointed to the police force. He also tells of the adoption of the eight-hour shift for patrolmen and of the amount of stolen property recovered. His statement follows:

Those who are opposing me in the race for police commissioner either intentionally or unintentionally are misleading the public as to certain phases of the police department of the city.

We have by actual number 36 men on the police force. Sixteen of the 36 own their own homes in the city; 14 more are men with families who live in the city, but do not own their homes.

Six are unmarried men who live in the city.

Of those who own their homes, they have lived here none less than one year and ranging as his as 24 years.

Of the 14 men with families who do not own their own homes none have been here less than one year and ranging as high as 30 years.

Of the six remaining men, three have lived here one year each, one four years and one seven years.

Chief Detective Boyd has been here four months. He was 15 years chief detective for the bankers' association and I consider the department fortunate to get a man with the experience of Mr. Boyd.

Reports Misleading.

From the above it can be seen that instead of the department being filled with nonresidents, just the opposite is true.

The above list does not include two patrol drivers, the desk sergeant, the woman travelers' aid at the station and the night watchman, paid half by the city and half by the business men.

None of the last mentioned five have been here less than one, and two have been here as long as four years.

Eight men on the force are ex-service men, some of whom have lived here as long as 12 years, some came direct from the war and did their first non-war work in the department.

When I went into office the patrolmen were working 12 hours daily and with the consent of the city council it was changed so that the men would work only eight-hour shifts and this system is still in force. I felt that the men could give better service on shorter hours of work.

According to receipts on file in this office, there has been recovered and returned to owners, stolen property to the amount in value of $28,810 since January 1, this year.

While I have lived in the city for more than seven years I have only been at the head of the police department about ten months.

W. G. BRALLEY.

TRIAL OF CHIROPRACTOR C. H. BLACK BEGUN IN COUNTY COURT OF LAW

Trial of the case against C. H. Black, a local chiropractor, began in the county court of law Monday. The jury was selected Monday morning and the submission of testimony began Monday afternoon.

Black is charged with practicing medicine without a license and charging for his services. It is alleged that he treated one Luther Carpenter.

The father of Luther Carpenter told the jury of how he had brought his son to be treated by the defendant and that after four months' treatment the boy was removed to the hospital at Fort Worth, where an operation was performed. The father stated that his son is now dead.

A big damage suit filed by the father against Black & Black is now pending in the district court.

ARREST MAN CHARGED WITH PASSING WORTHLESS CHECKS

Detective Jack Miller arrested a man Monday on complaint of a number of local merchants who charged him with passing worthless checks. Nearly a dozen checks, all for amounts of $10 or less, were passed on merchants and came back from the banks marked "no funds."

When arrested, he is claimed to have told the police that he had no money, but on being searched $140 in bills was found on his person. All checks in the possession of the police were paid by the man, leaving him approximately $40. He was turned over to county authorities and is being held until other checks believed to be in circulation are accounted for.

HARDING APPROVES RE-INTRODUCTION OF PEACE RESOLUTION

REPUBLICAN LEADERS HAVE NOT REACHED A FINAL DECISION.

MAY WAIT FEW MONTHS FOR PEACE DEVELOPMENTS

President Is Urged To Make a Declaration In Forthcoming Message To Congress.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—President Harding is understood to have approved immediate reintroduction of the Knox peace resolution when congress convenes next week.

Final decision has not been reached, however, it was indicated today by republican leaders, as to when it would be pressed for adoption.

Hopes are said to be entertained in administration circles that definite progress toward a concord of nations on a new world peace program might be possible within a short time. For that reason, it was intimated, a period of three months or so might be allowed to elapse before action on the resolution was taken by congress.

Some of Mr. Harding's advisers are said to hold that with the Knox resolution pending, an influence would be exerted on the thought and action of other powers in their consideration of peace questions which might be brought forward.

To this would be added, it was said, the natural influence of the debts owing to the United States.

Hope for Foreign Support.

With these two factors prominent in negotiations, there was said to be hope in republican circles that strong support would be found abroad for any new peace program that might take shape.

Republican senators were said to be generally in accord with respect to the Knox resolution. Several of these senators held an informal conference last night. It was followed today by a call at the White House by Senator Watson of Indiana.

It was said that the only important questions now open with reference to the Knox resolution was the time for its adoption and the possibility of an amendment to declare the attitude of the United States should world peace be again threatened by Germany.

The president is understood to have been urged by some advisers to make an emphatic declaration in his forthcoming message to congress announcing unequivocally that under no circumstances will the United States at any time join the present league of nations. Mr. Harding was said not to have not indicated his decision in this respect.

EXTRA DEPUTIES FOR THE WILLIAMS TRIAL

Alleged Peonage Case Will Be Called In Covington, Ga., Tuesday Morning.

By EDWARD A. SHELLNUT,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

COVINGTON, GA., April 4.—Scores of deputies were sworn in here today to patrol the town and preserve order during the trial of John S. Williams, proprietor of the alleged "death farm," whose arrest has embittered feeling between whites and negroes throughout the state.

A squad of special deputies left for Atlanta to escort Williams and his accuser, Clyde Manning, self confessed "executioner" for Williams, to the Newton county jail.

The trial begins Tuesday.

Williams will probably go on trial without breaking his silence.

Not since his arrest has he discussed the charges against him.

Then he declared the charges were a "frame up" inspired by neighbors.

Williams will face trial here on indictments charging him with the murder of three negroes, whose bodies were found in Newton county.

ROWAN MAY ESCAPE STATE MURDER CASE

Judge Indicates Indictment Will Be Dismissed Unless Governor Pardons Scrivner.

DALLAS, April 4.—Albert L. Rowan, under twenty-five years' imprisonment sentence in federal court in connection with a Dallas subpostoffice robbery on January 14, may not be tried on a murder indictment in state courts, it was announced today. District Attorney Maury Hughes announced at noon, after a telephonic conversation with Gov. Pat M. Neff, that he believed the governor would not pardon W. S. Scrivner, confessed participant in the robbery, escaped state convict, and only witness for the prosecution in the murder charge against Rowan. Rowan's trial is set for tomorrow. The indictment charges him with killing G. W. Street, a postal clerk, during robbery of the postal station.

District Judge C. A. Pippen, in whose court the murder charge is pending, indicated the indictment would be dismissed unless Scrivner is pardoned of his crime of highway robbery, for which he was serving fifty years when he escaped from prison a few weeks prior to the Dallas postoffice robbery. A convicted felon cannot testify in Texas courts.

District Attorney Hughes quoted Governor Neff as having said today that he had "signed no pardons and I hate to begin. I have not definitely decided, however."

LABOR LEADERS ARE CALLED TO CONFER WITH PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, April 4.—B. M. Jewell, president of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor, and A. B. Garretson, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, were called into conference today by President Harding, who is studying the general railway situation.

It was understood that the two leaders were summoned to give their opinions not only regarding wage schedules but relative also to the broader question of railway rehabilitation. They were given separate appointments.

HENRY G. M'CLESKEY NAMED TIME KEEPER

Commissioners In Executive Session Select One Of Fourteen Applicants.

Henry G. McCleskey, son of a former county commissioner, was named as timekeeper for the Iowa Park road by the court of commissioners in executive session Monday morning. The salary was fixed at $150 and a discussion of the duties of the timekeeper was had.

It was decided that the timekeeper should keep a strict account of each man at work and the amount of time put in by each and a record of all the material received and used in the construction of the road. The reports are to be made daily and the record of the time is to be made in triplicate and the record of the material in duplicate.

Potts & Prentice employ a timekeeper whose salary is included in the regular weekly payroll. It has been stated that under the law the county cannot pay for two men filling the same position.

A formal request for the $100,000 state and federal aid promised the county was made out by the commissioners. Several other minor questions were discussed, after which they adjourned until next Monday morning.

BASHARA AND CARTER TO CONTEST FOR HONOR

Sam Bashara and Weldon Carter, declamation champions respectively of Alamo and Austin schools, will "go to the mat" Monday night at the High school for city honors in the state interscholastic debate and declamation contest. The winner will be sent to the district contest at Olney April 14.

The contest will be held in the high school auditorium, and the general public is invited.

Winners at Alamo.

The elimination contest at Alamo school last week was a very enthusiastic and interesting affair, with the boys and girls competing for honors. Otto and Willard Stehlik, Ford Chauncey, Sam Bashara and Harold McConnell, and Mary Jane Black, Dorothy Reid, Irene Clark, Marporie Simmons, Marjorie Bright and Mary Elizabeth Featherston were contestants. The winners were: Firsts, Sam Bashara and Dorothy Reed; seconds, Ford Chauncey and Marjorie Louis Simmons, who ran Miss Reid a very close match; thirds, Otto Stehlik and Mary Elizabeth Featherston.

ENGLAND IS FACING THE GRAVEST CRISIS

workers have been out to half time and it is believed that a total of more than 3,500,000 are out of work or are working only part time. Thousands have not registered as unemployed. Statisticians estimated that with an average of four departments for every worker, a total of 18,000,000 persons are directly affected by the strike.

If the railway and transport workers are added to the list after their meetings on Tuesday and Wednesday, the total will be increased by possibly 12,000,000 more.

Will Last Several Weeks.

Predictions today were that the struggle will last four or five weeks.

It was believed that a general election will be held early in June, perhaps late in May.

The government platform has been determined upon—shall the nation subsidize millions of workers by taxation, and does the nation desire the inauguration of fresh socialistic experiments on a huge scale?

Mine leaders renewed today their assertions that they will not accept wage cuts amounting to 35 and 40 shillings per week in some districts. The new scales on that basis would be from 35 to 54 shillings per week.

This is not a living wage, they declared.

The leaders demanded the nation maintain the old wages, making up the differences from taxation. They pointed out that one-seventh of the amount made by the government during the period of control would be ample to finance that plan.

Government leaders have announced definitely they will not subsidize the mining industry and slight others.

DOROTHY DIX'S TALKS

By DOROTHY DIX
THE WORLD'S HIGHEST PAID WOMAN WRITER

THE REAL BEAUTY CULTURE

THE other day a woman killed herself because she had lost her good looks. She had been a noted beauty; but ill health, and grief over the death of her child, and the approach of middle age had robbed her of her pulchritude, and she ended her life because it was unendurable to her when she was despoiled of her physical charms.

A pitiful and paltry tragedy, this. Yet perhaps there is no more bitter ordeal than the one the beauty endures who sees her good look fade. She knows the agony of gazing into her mirror, and watching the gold of her hair turn to silver, the roses die out of her cheeks, the light fade from her eyes, the grayness and the wrinkles creep into her skin, the slenderness of her form change into scrawniness, or fat.

It is as if one watched oneself slowly dying; for to the woman the charms are dissolving that gave zest to her life. No more will she be a queen in her little world, no more will she see a tribute of admiration in every eye. No more will she be courted, and flattered, and sought after. Perhaps she will even no longer be able to hold the love she has won by her beauty, for with her good looks gone, her wand of enchantment is broken.

The pretty woman's beauty is generally all the stock she has on her shelves, and when it is gone, all is gone. She is bankrupt. That is why women hang on so frantically to the last vestige of their good looks, why they dye their hair, and paint their cheeks, and try to camouflage their lost charms. That is why they spend fortunes on salves, and unguents, and fall victims to any charlatan who pretends that he can restore their youth and beauty.

Such a miracle is, alas, impossible. No mortal hand can ward off the ravages of sickness, or anxiety, or stay the passage of the years that take their inevitable toll of a woman's looks. Age and the fading of her physical charm are bound to come to every woman, and then her beauty depends upon the kind of soul she has.

It is strange that women do not think of this oftener, and realize that if they spent half as much time, and effort, and money, in cultivating an inward beauty, as they do in vainly trying to keep their outward beauty, they would have no reason to fear age, for they would achieve an imperishable charm.

Suppose, for instance, a woman spent as much time cultivating the inside of her head as she does the outside. Suppose she gave as much time to study every day as she does to brushing and fiddling with her hair. Suppose she put in as many hours reading new books as she did in having a permanent wavve, or doing it up on crimpers herself, to say nothing of the forty-leven branches of literature she might explore in the time it takes her to execute a first-class, hand-made complexion. What an interesting companion she could make of herself! How wide and varied would be her conversational repertoire! What a responsivve listener she would become!

The main reason we avvoid homely old ladies is because they are so dull, and such bores. We don't mind a pretty woman's being stupid, because we can feast our eyes on her beauty, and enjoy her as we would a living picture; but when such a one loses her looks, she has lost all claim to our consideration. Nobody cares a rap about the color of a woman's hair, as long as she is entertaining. It is only the tedious of whom we demand curls, and shining tresses.

As a matter of fact, no woman is really ugly who is highly intelligent, and who has a sympathetic and understanding soul shining out of her eyes. Anyone who has traveled in the Orient, and seen the women who are hideous hags, or lumps of fat, with their dull, stolid, expressionless faces, must have realized that it pays to educate women just to keep them from being so hard on the eyes when they are old.

And suppose women spent as much time in putting salve on the cranky places in their disposition as they do in rubbing cold cream on their countenances. How much more profitable the results would be. After all, a wrinkle in your cheeks isn't so disfiguring as a wrinkle in your character.

There are thousands of women who live in fear that they will lose their husband's love when they lose their good looks, and so they spend their time and money in beauty parlors, and are boiled, and fried and stewed in oil, and massaged, and kneaded to a pulp, trying to ward off the tell-tale lines with which time stamps a woman's face. And in vain.

But they could get results if they gave the same amount of energy and effort to cultivating sweetness of spirit, for life is a faithful scribe, and it stamps goodness, and kindliness, and gentleness on a woman's face just as surely as it does temper, and irritability, and discontent.

Maybe a young man just looks for color and contour in a girl's face, but an old husband looks for something else, and no man whose wife just gets dearer and sweeter every year, and more suave and easy to live with, ever finds out that she has lost her beauty. She looks better to him every time he looks at her.

And suppose a woman devoted as much time and self-denial to reducing her nagging as she does to reducing her figure. Suppose she made as great an effort to get back the attitude she took toward her husband before marriage as she does to regaining her girlish figure, wouldn't there be something doing? Oh my, I should say, yes.

After all, what does a middle-aged man care whether his middle-aged wife weighs a few pounds more or less? Nothing. A man has got to be tied to a woman by something stronger than a corset string if she holds him. What counts with him is a peaceful home, and an easy-going, reasonable wife, who can get his point of view on things, and who is willing to accord him a reasonable amount of personal liberty.

Of course, it's all right for women to take care of their beauty and make themselves as good looking as they can. But if they want to get action, let them devote time and attention to cultivating their minds and souls. That's where they will get the lasting results that pay.

An O. HENRY Story

Humor—Pathos—Romance.

The Day Resurgent

By O. HENRY.

EASTER Sunday dawned as it should, bright and early, in its place on the calendar between Saturday and Monday. At 5.24 the sun rose, and at 10.30 Danny followed its example. He went into the kitchen and washed his face at the sink. His mother was frying bacon. She looked at his hard, smooth, knowing countenance as he juggled with the round cake of soap, and thought of his father when she first saw him stopping a hot grounder between second and third twenty-two years before on a vacant lot in Harlem, where the La Paloma apartment house now stands. In the front room of the flat Danny's father sat by an open window smoking his pipe, with his dishevelled gray hair tossed about by the breeze. He still clung to his pipe, although his sight had been taken from him two years before by a precocious blast of giant powder that went off without permission. Very few blind men care for smoking, for the reason that they cannot see the smoke.

"'Tis Easter Day," said Mr. McCree.

"Scramble mine," said Danny.

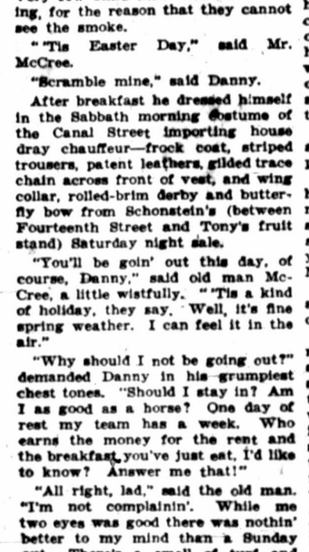
After breakfast he dressed himself in the Sabbath morning costume of the Canal Street importing house dray chauffeur—frock coat, striped trousers, patent leathers, gilded trace chain across front of vest, and wing collar, rolled-brim derby and butterfly bow from Schonstein's (between Fourteenth Street and Tony's fruit stand) Saturday night sale.

"You'll be goin' out this day, of course, Danny," said old man McCree, a little wistfully. "'Tis a kind of holiday, they say. Well, it's fine spring weather. I can feel it in the air."

"Why should I not be going out?" demanded Danny in his grumpiest chest tones. "Should I stay in? Am I as good as a horse? One day of rest my team has a week. Who earns the money for the rent and the breakfast you've just eat, I'd like to know? Answer me that!"

"All right, lad," said the old man. "I'm not complainin'. While me two eyes was good there was nothin' better to my mind than a Sunday out. There's a smell of turf and burnin' brush comin' in the windy. I have me tobaccy. A good fine day and rist to ye, lad. Times I wished your mother had learned to read, so I might hear the rest about the hippopotamus—but let that be."

"Now, what is this foolishness he talks of hippopotamuses?" asked



They pumped hands on the corner.

Danny of his mother, as he passed through the kitchen. "Have you been taking him to the Zoo? And for what?"

"I have not," said Mrs. McCree. "He sits by the windy all day. 'Tis little recreation a blind man among the poor gets at all. I'm thinkin' they wander in their minds at times. One day he talks of grease without stoppin' for the most of an hour. I looks to see if there's lard burnin' in the fryin' pan. There is not. He says I do not understand. 'Tis weary days, Sundays, and holidays and all, for a blind man, Danny. There was no better nor stronger than him when he had his two eyes. 'Tis a fine day, son. Injoy yeself ag'inst the morning. There will be cold supper at six."

Danny wandered. The double, heavy incumbency of enjoying simultaneously a Sunday and a festival day was his.

The family entrance of Dugan's cafe was feasible; so Danny yielded to the vernal season as far as a glass of bock. Seated in a dark, linoleumed, humid back room, his heart and mind still groped after the mysterious meaning of the spring-time jubilee.

"Say, Tim," he said to the waiter, "why do they have Easter?"

"Skiddoo!" said Tim, closing a sophisticated eye. "Is that a new one? All right. Tony Pastor's for you last night, I guess. I give it up. What's the answer—two apples or a yard and a half?"

From Dugan's Danny turned back eastward. The April sun seemed to stir in him a vague feeling that he could not construe. He made a wrong diagnosis and decided that it was Katy Conlon.

A block from her house on Avenue A he met her going to church. They pumped hands on the corner.

"Gee! but you look dumpish and dressed up," said Katy. "What's wrong? Come away with me to church and be cheerful."

"What's doing at church?" asked Danny.

"Why, it's Easter Sunday. Silly! I waited till after eleven expectin' you might come around to go."

"What does this Easter stand for, Katy," asked Danny gloomily. "Nobody seems to know."

"Nobody as blind as you," said Katy with spirit. "You haven't even looked at my new hat. And skirt. Why, it's when all the girls put on new spring clothes. Silly! Are you coming to church with me?"

"I will," said Danny. "If this Easter is pulled off there, they ought to be able to give some excuse for it. Not that the hat ain't a beauty. The green roses are great."

At church the preacher did some expounding with no pounding. He spoke rapidly, for he was in a hurry to get home to his early Sabbath dinner; but he knew his business. There was one word that controlled his theme—resurrection. Not a new creation; but a new life arising out of the old. The congregation had heard it often before. But there was a wonderful hat, a combination of sweet peas and lavender, in the sixth pew from the pulpit. It attracted much attention.

After Church Danny lingered on a corner while Katy waited with pique in her sky-blue eyes.

"Are you coming along to the house?" she asked. "But don't mind me. I'll get there all right. You seem to be studyin' a lot about something. All right. Will I see you at any time specially, Mr. McCree?"

"I'll be around Wednesday night as usual," said Danny, turning and crossing the strpet.

Katy walked away with the green roses dangling indignantly. Danny stopped two blocks away. He stood still with his hands in his pockets, at the curb on the corner. His face was that of a graven image. Deep in his soul something stirred so small, so fine, so keen and leavening that his hard fibres did not recognize it. It was something more tender than the April day, more subtle than the call of the senses, purer and deeper-rooted than the love of woman—for had he not turned away from green roses and eyes that had kept him chained for a year? And Danny did not know what it was. The preacher, who was in a hurry to go to his dinner, had told him, but Danny had had no libretto with which to follow the drowsy intonation. But the preacher spoke the truth.

Suddenly Danny slapped his leg and gave forth a hoarse yell of delight.

"Hippopotamus!" he shouted to an elevated road pillar. "Well, how is that for a bum guess? Why, blast my skylights! I know what he was driving at now.

"Hippopotamus! Wouldn't that send you to the Bronx! It's been a year since he heard it; and he didn't miss it so very far. We quit at 469 B. C., and this comes next. Well, a wooden man wouldn't have guessed what he was trying to get out of him."

Danny caught a crosstown car and went up to the rear flat that his labor supported.

Old man McCree was still sitting by the window. His extinct pipe lay on the sill.

"Will that be you, lad?" he asked.

Danny flared into the rage of a strong man who is surprised at the outset of committing a good deed.

"Who pays the rent and buys the food that is eaten in this house?" he snapped, viciously. "Have I no right to come in?"

"Ye're a faithful lad," said old man McCree, with a sigh. "Is it evening yet?"

Danny reached up on a shelf and took down a thick book labeled in gilt letters, "The History of Greece." Dust was on it half an inch thick. He laid it on the table and found a place in it marked by a strip of paper. And then he gave a short roar at the top of his voice, and said:

"Was it the hippopotamus you wanted to be read to about then?"

"Did I hear ye open the book?" said old man McCree. "Many and weary be the months since my lad has read it to me. I dinno; but I took a great likings to them Greeks. Ye left off at a place. 'Tis a fine day outside, lad. Be out and take rest from your work. I have gotten used to me chair by the windy and me pipe."

"Pel-Peloponnesus was the place where we left off, and not hippopotamus," said Danny. "The war began there. It kept something doing for thirty years. The headlines says that a guy named Philip of Macedon, in 338 B. C., got to be boss of Greece by getting the decision at the battle of Cher-Cheronoea. I'll read it."

With his hand to his ear, rapt in the Peloponnesian War, old man McCree sat for an hour, listening.

Then he got up and felt his way to the door of the kitchen. Mrs. McCree was slicing cold meat. She looked up. Tears were running from old man McCree's eyes.

"Do ye hear our lad readin' to me?" he said. "There is none finer in the land. My two eyes have come back to me again."

After supper he said to Danny: "'Tis a happy day, this Easter. And now ye will be off to see Katy in the evening. Well enough."

"Who pays the rent and buys the food that is eaten in this house?" said Danny, angrily. "Have I no right to stay in it? After supper there is yet to come the reading of the battle of Corinth, 146 B. C., when the kingdom, as they say, became an in-integral portion of the Roman Empire. Am I nothing in this house?"

Pirates Bombard Two More Spudder Hurlers For Another Victory

Those fans who claim that they love to see a free-hitting contest should ve paid double admission at Athletic Park yesterday afternoon and watched orge Gibson's Buccaneers paste that old pill. Thump, thump, thump! The ay the base hits bounced off the Pirate willows was a sight to behold. wenty solid smashes, including a half a dozen doubles, two triples and a like umber of circuit clouts were crowded into the matinee by the visitors and hen the smoke cleared at the end of the ninth they had crossed the platter o less than 18 times while Salm's youngsters made the circuit thrice.

"Babe" Ruth essayed to do the twirling for the locals and he didn't have thing in his category except what was mutton for the Pirates. He lasted five nnings, during which he was found for seven safe blows and six counters. Hudspeth was sent in to stop the onslaught in the sixth and he had even less han "Babe." He didn't even have a prayer. He was nicked for 13 blows in four innings and the other 12 runs were chased across during his reign.

Hamilton Starts For Pirates.

As was the case Saturday, Gibson tarted one of his old reliables on the ill. Earl Hamilton, who has been rning back the sluggers of both ma- r league organizations for a number f years began the fray and twirled ir tight ball except in the fifth chap- er when he eased up a bit and was ound for four hits and the only three runs scored by the Spudders. Zinn fin- ished out the last three and while he was not nearly as effective as Hamil- ton he got away without a scratch.

Johnny Mokan led the Pirate attack with a single, triple and circuit clout. He also walked twice and grounded out once. He dropped one over the left field barrier in the fourth canto as he was won't to do last season and jaunted around the bags as a matter of course. Barnhart delivered the other excursion bang—a most hefty wallop which cleared the fence in left center. It was a prodigious thump and had far more power behind it than Johnny's.

Danny Gross and Tex McDonald were the Spudder luminaries with the stick. Danny smashed out a brace of singles while Tex uncorked a brace of two- ply wallops. Jake Miller pulled a couple of sterling catches in the out- field, but was run ragged hounding drives to his left and right that no liv- ing man could get and was forced to retire before the matinee was brought to a close. He has been suffering with a terrific cold the past week and was in no condition to "shag." McElwee and Moore did their share of "shag- ging" too and realized full well that they had been in a ball game.

Maranville Cuts Up.

Rabbit Maranville clowned quite a bit and his amusing tactics put a lot of life in the game that would have been lacking had he been absent. As quick as a flash, he was always pulling the unexpected and handing the spec- tators a laugh.

The visitors lost no time in getting started and chalked up a couple in the initial chapter. Ruth couldn't find the platter for Bigbee and he walked on four pitched balls. On the hit and run play Maranville deliberately placed a safety in right that sent Bigbee to third. Mokan followed with a hard smash between Gross and Comstock that scored Bigbee and put Maranville on second. Both runners advanced on Barnhart's sacrifice. Whitted slammed one at Tanner and was thrown out at first, Rabbit scoring on the play.

McDonald tried to put his mates in a position to get those runs back in the Spudders' portion of the frame by socking a long double between Mo- kan and Whitted, but his mates weren't equal to the occasion and he got no farther than third.

Skiff got a lucky hit through Tan- ner in the second and Hamilton pasted a safety to right, but no damage re- sulted. Gross bounced one off the left field fence in this session and Bischoff drew a comp, but Ruth took a third strike and the locals went runless again.

"Babe" Bombarded.

The third was disastrous for "Babe." He issued a couple of passes and Barn- hart drove him out of the lot in this round. An error by McDonald didn't help matters any, but aided in another counter. Mokan ambled on four wide ones and trotted around ahead of Barn- hart when the latter circled the bags. Whitted popped to Comstock, but Ruth again wavered and couldn't locate the plate for Tierney. Grimm was retired by Ruth and Comstock. Skiff drove one at McDonald that the latter was lucky to stop. He fielded the agate as well as could be expected but threw it to the club house while Tierney romped home. An experienced first sacker might have stopped the ball, but it was a poor peg, nevertheless.

Mokan's homer in the fourth netted the visitors one more and it was in the next session that the Spudders did all their damage.

Bischoff led off with a drive that took a bad hop over Rabbit's shoulders and went to second on Ruth's smashing drive to right. McDonald's second two- play wallop was delivered at this junc- ture and chased both men over the pan. Tex went to third on Tanner's infield out and counted on McElwee's Texas leaguer to right. This ended the Spud- der scoring for the day.

The Pirates, however, were just get- ting started and went after Hudspeth right off the reel. Two men were re- tired when Bigbee scratched a hit through Tanner and Maranville pasted one to right. Mokan then showed Gibson why he should keep him by socking one on the nose over Jake Miller's head in deep center that cleared the bags while Johnny jaunted to third.

Pirates Still Counting.

In the next chapter a double by Roh- wer, who had relieved Whitted in right, followed by Tierney's single and Cutshaw's pinch double netted a couple more. A walk, two doubles, a single and a sacrifice fly figured in the two tallies made by the visitors in the eighth while in the ninth they made a race track out of the park.

Zinn started the fireworks with a lucky double that bounded away from McElwee in short right and he quickly tallied on Carey's triple to deep cen- ter. Maranville's poke to center chased Casey to the bench and Mokan walked. Barnhart dumped one down the first base line and Gross failed to cover the bag on Hudspeth's toss and Maranville and Mokan counted. A long sacrifice fly to right by Rohwer allowed Barn- hart to score from third after he had reached that station on the preceding play. Tierney kept the ball rolling by polling his second double, but the next two men were retired before further damage was done.

COMPULSORY ATHLETICS AT UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

DETROIT, MICH., April 4.—Outdoor athletics will be made compulsory for every student at the University of Michigan if plans now being consider- ed by the university board of regents are carried out. Announcement was made here by James O. Murfin of De- troit, a member of the board.

Under the proposed plan no student would be permitted to graduate with- out having taken a course in outdoor athletics.

Attention of the regents was called to the need of physical development of students by examination of young men for service during the war, Mr. Murfin said. Athletic participation would be required on the part of both men and women students, it was said. The work would be carried on under supervision of the new physical de- partment of the university.

Mr. Murfin announced he was en- deavoring to interest other universities and colleges in a plan whereby col- lege athletes would not be barred from college games because of participation in professional sport.

The proposal provides grouping of athletes into three classes, amateur, professional and college. He declared it was unfair to deprive a student of the opportunity to earn money to finish his college career by barring him from engaging in professional contests.

"College competition would be keen- er, the atmosphere surrounding col- lege athletes would be purer, and there would be fewer liars," he said. "No one school could put this through alone but I hope the western conference will take action."

SLUGGED HIS WAY INTO THE BIG LEAGUES —By Wood Cowan

Up to the latter part of July, with the Reading club, Frank had 25 home runs to his credit and was batting over 400, when one of the Washington ivory hunters saw him in action and collared him for the Senators.

Bower is a big fellow, standing 6 feet 2, and weighs 185 pounds; 23 years old, bats lefthanded but throws with his right.

Frank is a natural hitter, having a sort of crouch when standing at the plate. He bends his knees slightly and bends forward a little, holding his bat close to his body near the waistline. He does not step into the ball, but seems to draw away a few inches.

Graduating from Washigton and Lee university, where he pitched for the varsity team, Bower signed with the St. Louis Cards. From there he went to Utica where he pitched 23 games, winning 17.

The Phillies had him at their spring training camp in 1916, where Pat Mo- ran decided to make a first baseman out of him and there's where he stuck. Frank has a lot to learn, however, in the finer points of covering the initial sack.

Bower has a great throwing arm and can hit left-handed pitching. Griffith thinks a lot of Frank's possibilities.

Pirates Have Real Club.

Well, the Pirates have come and gone and it must be said that they have a regular looking ball club. The one department in which they showed up weakly at Athletic park was in base running. This may have been due to any one of a number of reasons, but the most likely is that they have not yet got their signals into working or- der. Time and again men were caught flatfooted on the sacks due to the bats- man's inability to carry out his end of the play or due to their own dumb work. Outside of those plays they looked like a million dollars. They fielded well and their hitting was way above par.

Mokan "Long Gone."

We tried to get a little inside dope from Pittsburg scribes (there were four of them) on Johnny Mokan's chances of sticking. We were hoping that they would say that he would be turned back here but here's what we got instead: "Boy, he's long gone from here. He's one of the best looking youngsters that ever came up from the bushes. You haven't got a chance in the world of getting him back. He'll hit with any man on the Pirate club and plays with his head up all the time. Gibson thinks he is the sweetest look- ing rookie that he has dug up in a long time."

Works a Wonder.

They incidentally told us that we could go as far as we liked in playing up Works, our new first baseman. The youngster stands 6 feet 3 inches and is just as good as he is big. "He'll blaze the trail for every first sacker in the Texas league" was the info they handed us. During the training at Hot Springs they rode the life out of the youngster, but he was un looking for more all the time. Grimm is con- ceded to be the best fielding first base- man in the National league, but 'tis said Works gave him a rub.

Full of Pep.

The Pirates certainly are a "peppy" crew. Rabbit Maranville and Charlie Grimm are bubbling over with paprika and have a hard time finding an out- let for it. The Rabbit is without doubt the fastest thing we ever lamped on a ball field. Even the most ordinary move he makes is done in a hurry. Grimm, Maranville, Tierney and Whitted compose a singing quartet that cannot be beaten in the big show and they are not a bit backward in showing their wares. They hit a few "barber shops" yesterday and Satur- day that weren't so tough on the ears.

Watch the Tigers.

We'll now see what Ty Cobb et al have to offer. One thing is certain, his club will run into some better hurling than did Gibson's charges. The Tigers won't pull all the horse play that was displayed by the Pirates as Ty means business and is out there fighting for every play. He wants his men ready to go when the season opens and is anxious to have them "get the habit" of winning ball games now. You won't find any of his men lying down for a second or failing to run out a hit.

Gross Hitting the Apple.

Danny Gross takes very kindly to big league hurling. This youngster had no difficulty in solving Hamil- ton's shoots yesterday and he also greeted Jimmy Zinn with a bingle. He's making a great bid to land that utility infield berth and is forcing Comstock to go at top speed all the time. Salm is still up a tree as to which man to keep. Danny's hitting is getting better every day and can- not afford to be overlooked, but neith- er can Commy's ability to jump into any position in the infield or behind the bat in a pinch. It's a merry race.

How Many April 15?

Stoecker Bros. have offered a five- pound box of chocolates and a box of cigars to the members of both sexes who come nearest to guessing the size of the crowd that will attend the opening game with Dallas April 15. The only condition is that you make a purchase of any size. A "coke" will entitle a person to one guess and he can have as many guesses as pur- chases between now and the opening date. Estimates ranging from 2,500 to 4,500 have already been turned in.

Rickard Continues To Get Offers From All Corners Of Country, But Is Stalling.

NEW YORK, April 4.—With five days until the "open season" closes, the "hunting" for the Dempsey-Carpentier fight continues along large lines.

Tex Rickard is still hearing by wire and mail from four corners of fortunes that are waiting for him if he will dis- pose of the contracts with the two heavyweights.

The latest comes from one J. L. Sex- smith, Spokane lumberman who asks Rickard to let him know the best offer and he'll go it $50,000 better. He wants to get the fight for northern Idaho.

Rickard answers all: "I'll tell you Saturday."

JOHN BULL HAS IT ON UNCLE SAM IN GOLF

United States After British Golf Title And International Polo Heroes This Year.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, April 4.—British box- ers may be an awful bunch as a class; British tennis players may be a peg below the American experts; British runners and rowers may be yards be- hind Uncle Sam's men, but with it all, John Bull can do one little thing a lit- tle better. He can play golf.

Uncle Sam, after a year of remark- able success in international compe- tition has two great ambitions for the summer, to bring back the internation- al polo cup and to win the British golf championship.

The American polo team has an ex- cellent chance to bring back the lone trophy that is being detained in Eng- land but the golf prospects, while the best in years are not over assuring.

Last winter such elaborate plans were outlined to go after the British amateur and open titles that the Brit- ish were alarmed about the impending fall from a throne that they have al- ways occupied.

Many of the Americans plans have gone astray since, however, due to the inability of star players to make the trip over this summer.

LOOKS LIKE A BIG YEAR FOR HOUSTON TREASURY

HOUSTON, TEXAS, April 4.—Exhibi- tion games played in Houston to date this spring have brought more than 25,000 fans through the gates. The Cleveland club was paid $2,200 as its share of the Saturday and Sunday re- ceipts. The spring returns will exceed the outgo in training expenses, leav- ing a nice profit. No other spring season in Houston's history has earned so much money. On two occasions the attendance has exceeded 4,500.

MY—MY!

My caddy bag—my caddy bag,
Is filled with many a club,
Yet though I use fourteen of them,
I'm still a Class B dub. —W. P. H.

The four-foot putt—the four-foot putt,
It gets upon my nerves,
Sometimes it bobbles, twists or turns,
Sometimes it merely swerves.

HALF STRIDES.

Many a cove uses up most of his speed in practicing quick starts for the dining room.

Batting around .300 and batting around all night are still as far apart as the outposts of a Siberian frontier.

Since the time allotted for the average block is only three-score years and ten, we have given up the idea of wasting any part of this brief spell by trying to win an argument. For even if you win—then what?

ABNORMALITIES.

Abnormalities in sport hardly pop out every other day, else they would not be abnormalities.

Upon the wave crest of this inside information we further add that what to a number of people is a long time is in fact merely a pin prick upon time's vast calendar.

Baseball began about sixty years ago. And in the course of fifty-eight of those years any man who could bat out twenty-five home runs was a superman. Such great sluggers as Delahanty, Crawford, etc., came along and vanished with the record unbroken.

And then a "Babe" Ruth arrives with fifty-four homers in his wooden mace for one year's output.

Twenty-five years ago Bernie Wefers ran 220 yards in 21 1-5.

For two and one-half decades the record stood.

Then Paddock, another abnormality, arrived, cutting the mark to 20 1-5.

Some time ago we suggested that just as "Babe" Ruth came along, so a sprinter will emerge some day fast enough to run 100 yards in 9 seconds flat—fast enough to turn out the 220 in 20 seconds flat.

Impossible? But is it more impossible than a ballplayer getting fifty- four home runs in a year, where the old record was twenty-five in the major leagues?

THE BIG AGE.

There has been a golden age of literature and a golden age of art.

Sport lovers today are living in the Golden Age of Sport.

Crowds have never been as great—interest in many sports has never been as keen.

And within the last twelve months we have had a "Babe" Ruth, a Man o' War and a Charley Paddock.

There isn't any argument about supremacy here. The records tell the story unadorned.

It may be this Golden Age will bring a broad jumper who can clear twenty- five feet, a high jumper who can reach seven feet, and it may be that Paddock will at last give us a 100-yard mark as low as 9 2-5.

There has never been a time in all history when as many, young and old, were taking an active interest in so many outdoor competitions. And this wave of enthusiasm is no brief flare. It is here to last indefinitely, for few who ever come upon the lure are willing to quit.

And these record breakers of sport who set the bar boundaries are big assets to the game and therefore to the race.

They help to stir up interest—they bring out old enthusiasms and add on new ones.

They are the pacemakers of the big age.

PREPONDERANT CLASS.

Every sport now has its wonder, male or female. The ring has Dempsey, with a Carpentier as challenger.

Miss Sterling, Miss Leitch, Mlle. Langlen, Tilden, Johnston, "Chick" Evans, Paddock, Ruth—wherever you turn there is preponderant class.

No wonder the populace is stirred up as the palpitating multitudes were never stirred before.

Two important cups left on a long journey in 1914. We retrieved the Davis Cup in tennis, but, in the meanwhile, lost a golf cup, which Ted Ray lugged home with him. So Grea' Britain, with the polo cup and our open golf champ- ionship, still has two important bowls. Duncan and Mitchell are coming over to help Ray defend his golf cup, and as the odds are now even in the polo affair, there is still plenty of work ahead before we can reassemble the main trophies.

They may standardize the balls and standardize the clubs, but we are cur- ious to observe the pop-eyed reformer who will ever be able to standardize the language of the bunker and the putting green. He will be a bird that should be stuffed and preserved.

Tennis Tourney Opens.

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—A three- days tennis tournament arranged by the Philadelphia district tennis asso- ciation opened today on the roof of a department store with William T. Tilden, world's champion, as one of the entrants. He was scheduled to meet Craig Biddle, Philadelphia.

Orioles Win Opener.

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—The Phil- adelphia Athletics' second team opened the baseball season here with a re- turn game with the Baltimore club. The Orioles won the first game at Bal- timore yesterday. The Athletics' first team will meet the Philadelphia Na- tionals tomorrow at Greenville, S. C.

They're In Again.

CHICAGO, April 4.—The six-day bi- cycle racers at 7 a. m. today, the end of the eighth hour of the race, had cov- ered 153 miles, four laps, and the teams were practically tied as to dis- tance covered.

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, April 4.—An opening decline of 6 to 18 points in the cotton market here today was only a partial response to weakness in Liverpool. According to private cables the market there was depressed by apprehensions that British railway and transport workers would strike in aid of the coal miners. Local selling on the unfavorable news from abroad was checked by a hope that the conference between the war finance corporation and southern bankers today would result in the announcement of some measure to assist in the exportation of stocks held in the south and the market held fairly steady for the first few minutes; then broke under increased Liverpool selling. There was also some southern selling on the decline to 11.46 for May and 11.99 for July, or about 20 to 25 points net lower.

The market was less active and steadier during the early afternoon on covering and Washington reports indicating that bankers are willing to lend more freely on cotton at present prices. July contracts rallied from $11.83 to $12.04 and active months generally recovered about half of the forenoon losses.

The close was steady.

New York Spot Cotton.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Spot cotton quiet; middling 11.65.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, April 4.—The trend of prices was strongly lower on the opening of the cotton market today but immediately after there were partial recoveries. A lower Liverpool than due and reports that the English transport workers had passed a resolution in favor of joining the striking coal miners caused the selling. At the lowest in the early trading prices were 12 to 25 points under the close of last week with May off to 11.11. At the end of the first half hour of business prices were 8 to 10 points up from the lowest.

A further break ensued following the posting of Hester's figures on sales of fertilizers in the cotton region and at 11 o'clock prices of the most active months were 34 to 41 points under Saturday's finals with May off to 10.97. Sales of fertilizers during March in the eight cotton states were placed at 697,952 tons against 825,040 in March last year. For the eight months ending with March sales amounted to 1,351,158 bales against 2,679,817 during the same period last year, a decrease of 49.58 per cent. Selling resulted because sales during March were larger than during the preceding seven months of the season.

The tone was steadier on realizing by shorts in the early afternoon. At 1:20 o'clock prices were 10 to 12 points up from the lowest.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

CHICAGO, April 4.—Wheat prices developed a little strength today as a result of buying based on opinions that all bearish factors had been discounted and that a rally was due. Opening quotations, which varied from unchanged figures to ½c higher, with May $1.37 to $1.38 and July $1.16 to $1.16½, were followed by moderate gains all around, and then by a general sag.

Subsequently, rains in the west and southwest had a bearish influence which was somewhat counterbalanced however by liberal export business in both wheat and flour. The close was unsettled, 1¼c net lower to a like advance, with May $1.38 to $1.38¼ and July $1.15.

Later the market was firmer, owing to persistent rural buying in small lots. The close was steady, at the same as Saturday's finish to ½c higher, with May 59½ to 60c.

Corn and oats fluctuated with wheat. After opening ½c to ¼c higher, including May at 60¾ to 60¾c, corn receded so that gains were more than wiped out.

Oats started ¼c@¼c off to ½c@¾c advance, July 38¾ to 39¼c, and then hardened a little but soon became easy.

Higher quotations on hogs had only a transient bullish effect on provisions.

LIVESTOCK.

Fort Worth Livestock.

FORT WORTH, April 4.—Under an increase in receipts the cattle market was very slow and draggy today, but sales on fat cattle were about steady. The demand for stockers was weak and all such had to sell lower. Calves and yearlings were about steady. Receipts were 5,000 head of cattle, including 2,100 en route to pastures, and close to 1,200 head of calves.

Hog receipts were below expectations, only 1,000 head arriving. Other markets were lower, but prices here remained geerally in line with last week's close. A shipper paid $9.10 for one car and the top to packers was $9.00. Most sales ranged from $8.25 up to $8.75. Pigs ruled 25c lower with a top of $8.25.

Sheep receipts were liberal, about 2,000 head arriving. A few decks sold early at 50c decline, but most of the supply was peddled up to a late hour. Wethers and yearlings brought $5 to $5.50. Quotations:

Hogs 12,000; uneven to shippers, 25c lower; $9.60 paid for 200 pound averages; to packers 15@25c lower; bulk of sales $8.50@9.50; pigs mostly 50c lower; best $11.00.

Sheep 10,000; slow, lambs 10@15c lower; top $9.10.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The stock market again lacked definite tendencies at the opening of today's session, although advances were in excess of declines. Oils and motors overshadowed the general list, Mexican Petroleum, General Asphalt, Invincible Oil and Studebaker rising 1 to 1¼ points in the first few transactions. U. S. Rubber, American Hide and Leather preferred, Bethlehem Steel and Allied Chemicals also were firm. An easier trend was shown by Crucible Steel, Royal Dutch, Central Leather and Keystone Tire. Only the smallest fractional changes were recorded by rails. Preliminary rates of exchange on London reflected further unsettlement at that center over industrial conditions.

Call money eased to six per cent at noon but the relaxed rate failed to change the course of the market. Mexican Petroleum was especially heavy, showing a loss of 3¼ points and miscellaneous shares, including sugar, textile and motion pictures issues were 1 to 3 points lower.

—real bargain days for the man who builds

For the man who plans to build, repair, or remodel, this is certainly a favorable time to buy lumber. The country as a whole is four years behind in its building program. Our own city needs many homes to bring conditions back to normal.

People should build now for these low prices will not continue always. The present situation is the result of forced selling by manufacturers who are over-stocked.

These manufacturers were caught by the lull in buying and they must convert their stocks into ready money. In many cases they are selling at cost.

This has created the builders' opportunity and we strongly advise our customers to take advantage of it. Build now while lumber is cheap.

We have a big stock of building materials, including all kinds of lumber, Johns-Manville roofing, and Beaver Board, which we secured at favorable prices.

S. A. L. MORGAN WILL RUN FOR CONGRESS

Local Attorney Announces He Will Be In Race To Succeed Lucian Parrish.

S. A. L. Morgan, Wichita Falls attorney, on Monday authorized the statement that he will be a candidate for congressman in the democratic primary in 1922. Mr. Morgan has been considering the matter since it became known that Congressman Parrish would make the race for the United States senate.

Mr. Morgan is a native of Texas, being born at Cedar Valley, Travis county. He attended rural schools until 18 years of age, when he began teaching school in the winter time and attending the summer sessions of the State university. He spent two years in the Philippines, teaching school, and before his return completed a trip around the world. He then returned to the university and took up the study of law, in which he received his degree.

After his graduation, Mr. Morgan located at Vernon, becoming a member of the firm of Berry, Stokes and Morgan. He was appointed county attorney to fill an unexpired term and after serving two terms was nominated for a third; before the general election, however, he was invited by Judge A. H. Carrigan and Judge A. H. Britain to enter their firm, to take the place of Judge J. T. Montgomery who had accepted appointment of the supreme court commission. Since Judge Montgomery's return the firm name has been Carrigan, Montgomery, Britain and Morgan.

Mr. Morgan expects to make a vigorous canvass of the district at the proper time. He has already received many assurances of support.
