The energy shortage caught up with American Magnesium's tour of its solar ponds Wednesday. Some officials of the company were due to arrive around noon to make the tour with plant officers and Scurry and Borden County groups, but they were booked to fly commercial carrier into Lubbock and the flight was canceled.

It will be interesting to see how much voluntary cooperation the national effort to conserve energy receives from the public. Although some politicians and some officials of some energy suppliers appear inclined to scoff at prospects for voluntary compliance, everyone knows that by altering a few wasteful practices here and there, this country's daily requirements for energy could be reduced substantially.

The comment we have heard indicated more concern over possible reduction of the speed limit on highways than other aspects of emergency conservation proposals. Americans have become accustomed to hopping into their automobiles and going 70 miles per hour, or faster, whenever the urge hit them

But the country can function at slower speeds. They learned this during World War II when the speed limit was reduced to 35 miles per hour. The speed reduction then was for a two-fold purpose. They needed to conserve gasoline (which was rationed) and the tires available for civilians at that time were of questionable quality. Natural rubber had gone to war, the snythetic tires were nothing to compare with those available today.

But slower speeds on the highways is one proven method for saving gasoline. In fact, slowing from 75 miles per hour to 55 miles per hour will save you close to a quarter of a tank of gasoline between Snyder and Dallas.

Elsewhere on the energy front, Snyder is one of the fortunate cities. Although there is no over-abundance, there still is reason for optimism, declared Burl B. Huisey Jr., President of Texas Electric Service Co., which provides electric power for our city. Huisey was here Wednesday for the annual dinner meeting of the Quarter Century Club of TESCO personnel. This, incidentally, was the first time Snyder has been privileged to host one of these annual events. Anyway, TESCO is involved in construction of new generating plants using lignite fuel and also expects to get going soon on a nuclear plant near Glen Rose.

The first plant to use lignite—a low grade coal—is near Fairfield and a group of local residents made a tour there the past summer. There are two other lignite-burning plants under construction now, and these are expected to take some of the "heat" off demands for natural gas and fuel oil for production of electricity. Nuclear plants, which were thought to be just around the corner 25 years ago, have developed more slowly, and it will be several more years before this source will make a significant contribution to the electric power picture.

At present, it seems highly unlikely that Snyder will have to curtail its street lighting for the Christmas season. The lighted decorations here do not use much power, and the city has made some refinements in its street lighting system in the past few months to more than make up for it.—WACIL McNAIR.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Sunday, Nov. 11, the 315th day of 1973. There are 50 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1918, World War I ended with the signing of an armistice in Marshal Foch's railway car in the forest of Compiegne, France.

On this date-

In 1620, the pilgrims signed a compact aboard the Mayflower while anchored off Cape Cod.

In 1851, the first patent for a telescope was issued to Alvin Clark of Cambridge, Mass.

In 1889, Washington was admitted to the union as the 42nd state.

In 1921, the Washington disarmament conference convened.

In 1933, the first of the great dust storms of the 1930's swept across North Dakota.

In 1942, in World War II, the Germans occupied all of France.

Ten years ago: Richard M. Nixon said he was not a candidate for the Republican nomination for president.

Five years ago: The United States warned the South Vietnamese that it would go ahead with peace talks in Paris even if the Saigon government did not take part.

One year ago: The United States turned over its big base of Longbinh to the South Vietnamese, symbolizing the end of direct U.S. Army participation in the Vietnam war.

EMT STUDY—Randy Mosley, Electromechanical Technology instructor at WTC, and Debbie Clark are shown at a hydraulic bench in the EMT lab. The hydraulic bench is used to simulate electronic flow with fluid in explaining resistance. Other modern equipment is also available in the EMT lab for students to use in various phases of their study.

EMT Program At WTC Has First Fem Enrollee

The Electromechanical Technology program at Western Texas College has its first female enrollee this year. She is Debbie Bunch Clark, a freshman student from Snyder.

Electromechanical Technology (EMT) is a two-year vocational-technical program designed to prepare students for work as engineering assistants.

Its technical-sounding title may be one reason no other women have chosen it as a field. What are the possibilities for women in EMT?

"There's no reason a woman seeking a good paying career wouldn't do well in EMT," says Randy Mosley, instructor. "It's a demanding field, but any student who is interested in applied science and who is willing to put out the effort can qualify for a variety of job possibilities."

For students like Debbie, who have no strong background in math and science from high school or other previous training, EMT is a real challenge. Debbie is enrolled for a typical course for beginning students: physics, basic electronics, mechanical drives, algebra and trigonometry, and computer programming.

In addition to classroom lecture, EMT students work with a variety of equipment in labs.

"Students schedule lab periods to fit their own labs if they need that time to keep up. Normally a student carrying a full load will spend 35 to 40 hours per week in classrooms, labs, and doing homework.

"A night program is also available for students who work during the day," Mosley said. "The complete EMT course can be obtained in four years going to night school. the present enrollment in night school is around 20 students. This means that the classes are small and I can give each student personal attention."

Most of the EMT students are recent high school graduates, but there are also 10 veterans in the program.

Mosley sees a bright future for EMT students. They might choose to work in oil field automation, electronics, research and development, or design, maintenance, and operation of electromechanical equipment, for instance.

A new option being offered EMT students at the college for the first time this fall is Petroleum Technology (PT). Like the EMT program, PT was planned with the help of an advisory committee from this area. Committee members suggested courses that would be of the most value to the petroleum industry and people interested in careers in petroleum.

Debbie herself is enthusiastic about the EMT program. She plans to work toward the Associate in Applied Science degree and is carrying a full load to complete the degree requirements in two years. She hasn't decided on a field of employment yet, but she feels that additional training will help her find the field which will best suit her aptitudes and interests when she is ready to seek employment.

Nixon To Make Tapes Public

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken said today that President Nixon has told congressional leaders that he plans to make public the White House tapes and other Watergate-related documents after they are submitted to the federal grand jury.

Aiken, of Vermont, the senior Republican in the Senate, was among top GOP senators and representatives who conferred Friday with the President on how the Watergate matter is affecting the government.

"The President cannot release the Watergate information to the public now without being in contempt of court," Aiken said.

Aiken said it is his understanding the President cannot make the Watergate documents and tapes public until after they are given to U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica and the grand jury.

"The President will apparently be glad to confide with the public," said Aiken. "My impression is very strong that he is willing to release everything relating to the Watergate without being in contempt of court."

And, Aiken emphasized, "I got the impression that he didn't mind the public knowing, but the courts have to make a decision first."

Aiken said he understands that it would be about five weeks before the President could make the documents public because of the court proceedings.

Aiken said he didn't know whether the material to be released would be the original documents or transcripts.

But Aiken said the release of the material "would not only be of great benefit to President Nixon, but to the country as well."

Nixon appears to have launched a major effort to shore up Republican support and to clear away doubts about his integrity.

Friday the White House promised "absolute" cooperation with the Watergate prosecutors and the courts, and said new material will be given to a federal judge to fill the gap left by two phantom Watergate tapes.

Mrs. Harris Dies Here

Funeral arrangements were pending Saturday at Bell-Seale Funeral Home for Mrs. Josie Mae Harris, 81, who died at 9:50 a.m. Friday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Harris had been a Snyder resident for 2½ years, moving here from Big Spring.

She is survived by her husband, John Harris, whom she married in 1912 in Eastland County; three daughters, Mrs. Johnny Goldesberry of Snyder, Mrs. David Dickson of San Antonio and Mrs. Homer Baker of Wonewoc, Wis.; two sons, Marion Harris of Sandersville, Miss., and Willis Harris of San Antonio; a sister, Mrs. Bill Long of Fort Worth; 12 grandchildren and four great-granchildren.

Legion, VFW Events Today

Veterans organizations take the lead today in celebrating the traditional Veterans Day, which originally was known as Armistice Day commemorating the official ending of World War I and later became a day to honor all veterans.

The American Legion will serve breakfast to all veterans from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. and the Veterans of Foreign Wars will serve a barbecue supper to all who have current membership cards from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Both meals will be served at the VFW post home.

Love Says Fuel Crisis To Slow U. S. Economy

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's energy policy adviser John A. Love says the fuel crisis will bring a U.S. economic slowdown that could become a major recession at the whim of the Arab oil nations.

Without restored and even increased Arab oil, Love said, the nation's growth rate could be reduced as much as 80 or 90 per cent.

Love said in an interview that most other administration officials have not viewed the energy crisis as seriously as he does, but he said they may be changing their minds since the Arabs stopped oil deliveries to the United States, in a pressure tactic aimed at U.S.-Israeli relations.

Love said the steel industry may face a 15 per cent cut in its energy supply some time next year, forcing an even greater cut in steel production and sending ripple effects throughout the economy.

Industries dependent on propane gas already have been hurt by a propane shortage, he pointed out.

Through wholesale distribution controls, the Nixon administration plans a 15 per cent reduction in home heating oil this winter and Love said gasoline rationing is likely by next Spring.

But he said the energy crisis is spreading far past these impacts.

"It has gone beyond, as serious as they are, the cold home and the gasoline to the effect it's going to have on the economy, I think," said Love.

To end U.S. dependence on foreign oil, President Nixon announced Wednesday a goal of national energy self-sufficiency by 1980, comparing it dramatically with the wartime "Manhattan" atomic bomb project and the "Apollo" man-on-the-moon project.

But Love said Nixon's "Project Independence" may not really mean the United States would supply all of its own energy.

Exactly what it does mean, he admitted, has not been figured out.

Love also said the administration may allow new atomic power plants to start operating before cooling facilities are installed. Such facilities are required to protect rivers, lakes and coastal zones from hot water discharges that can endanger wildlife.

Here are highlights of the interview with Love, who directs the White House Energy Policy Office:

Q — Is the administration really planning for total United States energy self-sufficiency by 1980?

A — Well, as a goal, yes ... It may well be to our advantage to import oil, certainly from Venezuela, hopefully from Canada, even the Arab producing-nations.

Q — How long a crisis are we in for?

A — I think your question implies that somehow, within a stated period of time, we're going to be able to return to the "good old days", right?

It may well be true that we've seen the end of that era.

Q — Are you saying that from now on we should not expect to have all the energy we could possibly want?

A — In any near time frame, and I hesitate to put a time limit on it whether 10 or 15 years, I can not foresee a time in which we can, in effect, waste the amount of energy we are presently wasting.

Q — What is the implication of that for national growth, since energy use has paralleled the Gross National Product?

A — We will have growth but it will continue to be, in my opinion, parallel with the supply of energy.

Q — Does that mean that the growth rate is going to have to slow down?

A — Yes, I believe that to be true.

Q—What will be the impact on the economy and production?

A — It depends on how well we do this thing, how well we do the voluntary and mandatory programs and so on. If it hits, more or less, helter-skelter, it could be very serious.

We already have some dislocations showing up: primarily petrochemicals, plastics, glass manufacturers, those that use propane. If we indeed, as looks likely have to take 15 per cent of the energy away from steel, I would assume that their production would go down more than 15 per cent.

Peace Plan To Be Inked Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel announced today after a day of hesitation that it will sign the new Middle East cease-fire accord worked out in Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's whirlwind tour of Arab capitals.

"Only one thing is more important that a ceasefire—peace," said Israeli Premier Golda Meir in announcing her okay.

Egypt already is on record as willing to sign the six-point agreement, aimed at reinforcing the precarious Suez Canal ceasefire and opening the way to long-term peace negotiations between Arabs and Israelis.

A U.N. spokesman in Cairo said the signing ceremony will take place Sunday on the road from Cairo to Suez City at the southern end of the Suez Canal.

Mrs. Meir disclosed the Israeli willingness to sign as she boarded a plane in Tel Aviv on her way to London for a meeting of the Socialist International.

She met earlier today with U.S. Ambassador Kenneth B. Keating for the second time in two days in an apparent effort to get more clarification on how the Kissinger-sponsored peace deal would work.

Israel and Egypt had been scheduled to sign the accord today.

Smoking Linked To Heart Attacks

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer

BOSTON (AP) — A Tufts University researcher says laboratory tests show smoking has a direct link to the conditions leading to heart attack.

It has long been known that blood clotting in the arteries, called arterial thrombosis, leads to heart attack, stroke and blood vessel disease.

Dr. Peter H. Levine of the Tufts-New England Meical Center says his studies show that smoking only one cigarette has a dramatic effect on the clotting of blood platelets, the small cells that initiate the blood-clotting mechanism by sticking together.

"It has long been known that there is a statistical correlation between cigarette smoking and arterial thrombosis," Levine said.

"But this is the first time to my knowledge that anyone has shown through controlled studies that there is a direct, physical correlation."

Levine is an assistant professor of medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine and is director of the Blood Coagulation Laboratory at the New England Medical Center Hospital in Boston.

In his 18-month study, Dr. Levine used 27 male and female smokers.

Reporting his study in the journal Circulation, Dr. Levin said blood samples were drawn from each volunteer every 10 minutes during laboratory research periods to test platelet function.

After abstaining from cigarettes for 24 hours, each subject smoked one standard filter cigarette containing 1.3 milligrams of nicotine.

Thirty to 60 minutes after the first cigarette, the subjects smoked one made of lettuce leaves, which produces no nicotine. As a further control, the report said some subjects puffed on unlit cigarettes.

Following smoking or puffing on either lettuce or unlit cigarettes, there was no significant change in platelet function, the report said.

However, five minutes after smoking a single tobacco cigarette, there was a marked increase in the platelets' ability to form plugs in a manner similar to that found within thrombosed arteries, the study said.

This could explain why smokers have higher documented rates of diseases associated with arterial thrombosis, the report added.

Kissinger In China

PEKING (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew into mainland China today for "wide-ranging meetings" with Premier Chou En-lai about Indochina, the Middle East and possibly stronger business, scientific and cultural ties.

Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei and Vice Minister Chiao Kuan-hua met Kissinger at the Chinese capital's airport with diplomatic delegations from several nations.

"Oh it's nice to see you again," Kissinger told Chiao, whom he had seen recently at the United Nations in New York.

Kissinger's sixth trip here was, in stark contrast to July 1971, when he faked a stomach ache in Pakistan and, under the cover of darkness, flew secretly to the Chinese capital. That trip paved the way for President Nixon's visit to Peking last year.

Although not disclosing the agenda for the four-day visit, U.S. officials said Kissinger would take up with Chou the volatile situations in South Vietnam and Cambodia.

$120 dinner prize a big surprise for this donor

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I gave a party for my husband. I planned the entertainment, which included games with prizes for the winners. One of the prizes was dinner for two at our finest restaurant.

I did not set a limit on the amount to be spent on the dinners because I didn't think it would be proper.

Well, I just received a bill for two dinners, and it was $120. Thinking there must have been a mistake, I called the restaurant and was told there was no mistake.

That man and his wife had ordered four appetizers, and THREE lobsters for the two of them, plus $50 worth of drinks which included 15 bottles of imported beer! [They even charged the "tip" on the bill.]

I feel that we were taken advantage of, but I am at a loss as to what I should say to this greedy, gluttonous couple.

Any suggestions? TAKEN IN PITTSBURGH

DEAR TAKEN: I would say "Goodby," after telling them that they had eaten themselves out of your good graces.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of an 81-year-old man and a 79-year-old woman who met in an old folks home four months ago, and decided to get married to save expenses? It's true, one double is cheaper than two singles, but isn't that a silly reason to get married? LIVES HERE

DEAR LIVES: It's as good a reason as any to get married. And better than some.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a guy for nine months. We have been together every night since we met. He is 24 and I am 18. He talks about long-range plans, such as the two of us going to Europe together next summer. Our relationship is a good one, but it would be perfect if we were married. He has not mentioned marriage at all, except to knock it. He was married for two years and is now divorced.

Should I just wait until he brings it up? I would hate to go on like this for a couple of years and then find out he doesn't want to marry me.

How can I find out what his intentions are without being pushy? WANTS TO WED

DEAR WANTS: If he doesn't mention marriage, the chances are he isn't considering it. If you want to know for sure [and I can't blame you], ASK him. But be prepared for a let down. If your relationship is, as you say, a "good one" now, it's probably good enough for him—indefinitely.

DEAR ABBY: I notice the word "promiscuous" is used only to describe women.

A man who does the same thing is called [with the wink of an eye], "a ladies' man." And it sounds like a compliment! Why? WONDERING IN YAKIMA

DEAR WONDERING: Because men have always enjoyed sexual freedom, while women have not. But Womens' Lib is out to change all that.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Course On Dealing With Children Set

A five-week course offering instruction for adults who deal with pre-school age children will begin Monday night at Western Texas College, J.M. Kayser, Community Services director, has announced.

Classes will be held in Academic Science Building C, room 102, from 7-9 p.m., with Jim Erwin as instructor. Classes will continue through Dec. 10.

This course was planned as the result of a request from the Child Day Care Center, Kayser said. The minimum number of students for the course is 25, and the cost per person will be $7.50. The course would be useful to parents of young children as well as to kindergarden teachers and nursery workers.

Tentative subjects for the course include Understanding the Child, Methods of Correcting Misbehavior, Encouragement, Discipline, Respect, Elimination of Criticism and Minimizing Mistakes, Take Time for Training, Action Not Words, Win Cooperation, Have Courage to Say No, Avoid First Impulse: Do the Unexpected, Nutrition.

Persons interested in the course may contact the Community Services office at WTC for further information.

HILF System Of Grazing Outlined

With today's high cost of production, ranches are looking for ways that will increase the efficiency of their operation. They are trying to increase the calf crop percentage, reduce labor and vehicle expenses, and striving to increase the utilization of all plants. One way of increasing the efficiency of their operation is by a planned grazing systems, such as a High Intensity-Low Frequency (HILF) grazing system.

High Intensity-Low Frequency systems employ the same principle under which the grasslands were originally formed and maintained. An area or pasture is grazed for a short period of time, and a long period of time is allowed for plant regrowth.

Following this principle, the livestock is combined into one herd and rotated on 5 or more pastures. The pastures need not be of the same carrying capacity or size. The length of grazing period for the pastures can be adjusted to compensate for these factors. The grazing period is normally 2 to 8 weeks, and then a rest period of 6 to 8 months is allowed for grass regrowth.

The grazing period needs to be as short as possible so that plant regrowth will not be grazed during that grazing period. The key to a HILF system is how long it takes to graze the plant short and how long it takes the plant to recover before grazing begins again.

With all plants receiving equal grazing pressure, the better plants have the same advantage as the poorer plants in making recovery. The better plants are deeper rooted and have the ability to replace the poorer ones under these conditions. This will not normally happen under a continuous grazing because the better plants are repeatedly grazed.

Fencing and water development are two major items of expense that may be needed to start a system of this type. There needs to be enough water in each pasture for the total number of animals in the system. In most cases the increase in production will offset these expenses in a very short time.

HILF system is a fairly new concept, and one of the fastest growing systems in the state. The grasslands still have a lot of potential that is not being developed. To increase beef production per acre, each plant on the ranch must be thoroughly utilized. It appears that High Intensity-LowFrequencygrazing system will be a management tool that can be used to increase beef production per acre.

For further information about HILF grazing system, contact the Soil Conservation Service.

The Pacific Northwest still appears to many as a solid forest mostly of Douglas firs.

Letters To Editor

To The Daily News:

Most political questions usually take several years to know which side proves correct. On the question of the representative's pay raise it will take time to tell if the voters were right or wrong. I only know a few representatives including our own, and I find they are honest and efficient men. Now the next election, if these men or others like them are not on the ballot then we know that the voters were wrong.

Wheat, corn and cotton are commodities that can be purchased for a price. I suspect that the Texas voter has wised up that you can't purchase honesty at a price.

To The Daily News:

The 100 U.S. Senators and 435 Representatives with their $50,000 plus salary and the White House with all the agencies, layers, committees and advisors are all guilty of neglect in their conduct and actions for the benefit of the American people who put their trust and confidence in their ability to govern and solve the eternal problems of growing and progressive people. Not only in the foreign affairs, but the domestic problems as well. From the city hall to Austin and Washington, too many agencies exist. This situation brings on time wasted delays of things that are important to the welfare of the American people. We are a prosperous nations as of now and will be for years to come inspite of the bungling of the politicians.

Some politicians and representatives stay in office too long and become more or less of a dictator, or untouchables who do not take time to listen to the voice or needs of the people. In our democratic society when the people become disgusted and frustrated, we can and will get rid of the politicians and would-be dictators. As far as the Mid-East problems, they will be solved. According to Jeremiah, Zechariah and Daniel a dominant of 10 nations which include Egypt, Syria and other Arab nations a peace pact will be made with Israel and will last for a number of years. In the meantime, those politicians and men in authority who want to serve the American people instead of enslaving the people had better wake up to the fact that they can be replaced. This hardness of heart and neglect to the needs of the people will not work. The law of harrassment, local as well as state and national, is coming fast to the end which it has brought upon itself and the end of the liberals and socialists in our government has about run its course. We will return to the Bible instructions to the healthy, to either work or starve and stop the powder puff law to the criminals and restore sanity to this nation This we will do.

The New Wave in Wigs Is Short And Young

Fashion's swing to the small neat head has given birth to a new generation of wig wearers. Young "with-it" women have discovered that wigs provide a short cut to today's close-cropped hair styles without necessarily sacrificing the long locks they love.

The new short wigs are made for the girl who does her own thing and does her own hair. These wigs of Dynel modacrylic fiber are designed to do everything human hair can, only better.

When a girl's own hair is tired, her wig is ready to go with just a shake and a flick of the hairbrush.

The soft, seductive waves of the thirties vamp, the flirtaceous flip of the Gatsby flapper and a whole cast of ingenue looks are easy for the young heroine to switch on and off as she pleases. An entirely new hairdo no longer requires special cutting and setting. A wig will satisfy any whim a woman has for a younger look in hair.

The new wigs have particular appeal to today's young woman who demands fresh-washed naturalness, even in her put-on hair. A full range of healthy, living colors can match her hair shade perfectly or give her the beautiful bounce of a born blonde or redhead.

To keep pace with today's breezy casual lifestyle, the newest wigs of Dynel are artfully designed to seem un-set, touseled, and care-free. Best of all, they adapt to suit every face because they brush into bangs, parts or off-the-brow styles.

Young women are learning that sometimes it's fun to fake it, especially when it's with a super-realistic short-cut wig!

PLANS REVEALED—Mr. and Mrs. S.R. Bell of Big Spring, formerly of Snyder, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Vickie Jo to Rick Charles Gorrondona. He is the son of Mr. C.D. Gorrondona and the late Mrs. Rosemary Gorrondona of Donaldsonville, Louisiana. The future bridegroom is presently stationed at Webb A.F.B. The couple will exchange vows in the Immaculate Heart Of Mary Church in Big Spring on December 17.

HOLIDAY GLITTER GOES TO THE HEAD—Here are four glittering coiffures designed by the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association for the December holiday party season.

Holiday Glitter Goes To The Head

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—Jeweled glitter will be sparkling coiffures throughout the country this holiday season, according to the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association (NHCA).

Louise Cotter of Detroit, Mi., who is serving as the Association's National Styles Director, explained that, "the present fashion trends toward glitter and elegance will soon be evidenced in hair styling, especially during the upcoming December party season.

"When women go to their hairdressers to get a special coiffure for a holiday party, they will be looking for assistance on how to add jeweled glitter to their hair in order to complement the sparkling and elegant holiday fashions they will be wearing," Ms. Cotter said.

Four different holiday coiffures featuring holiday sparkle have been designed by Ms. Cotter for the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association's 60,000 members from throughout the country.

Ms. Cotter, who represents the Association's exclusive Official Hair Fashion Committee, presented the holiday coiffures at the Association's exclusive Official Hair Fashion Committee, presented the holiday coiffures at the Association's "New, Now National Hair Fashion Show" in Las Vegas during the first week of November. Ms. Cotter predicts that the hair fashion looks captured in this holiday release are, "a short glimpse or peek of what to expect in United States hairstyling in 1974."

Following are descriptions of the four holiday looks:

Jeweled Veil

A veil glittered with jewels creates a mystic holiday mood for fashion conscious woman. Holiday veils and ear-clips will be elegantly jeweled, but never contrived. The veil covers a short head-hugging style highlighted in multi-blond tones, the "nature look" in hair-coloring.

Ear-Clip Accent

Large sparkling ear-clips radiate a holiday glow throughout this soft coiffure, which features wave movement across the forehead and over one eyebrow. This luxurious bob provides perfect harmony with today's new luxury look in clothing.

Ear Glitter

The exposed ear is a new sex symbol, and glittering ear-clips add alluring festive sparkle to this holiday coiffure. A buoyant band and upward curl frame the face in stylish, downward movement.

Jeweled Chignon

The chignon comes back for the 1973 holiday season in jeweled sparkle to increase the sophisticated style of this elegant, back-moving coiffure.

Quotable Women

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"I greatly appreciate the opportunity that was given to my colleagues and me for the many hours to speak frankly and in friendship." Premier Golda Meir speaking about her visit in the states.

"I got up the courage to walk into the Art Students League. I saw students there working in stone and I knew that's what I wanted to do - and it did come very easy." Jane Armstrong, sculptor.

"France is the oldest and most faithful friend of the United States. We have fought together, we have suffered together. We have rejoiced together. The affection which we share is an unbreakable bond. I am deeply moved and humbled by the honor which you have given me. Long live France. Long live the United States!" Louise Bushnell upon receiving the National Order of Merit medal for her work in strengthening Franco-American ties.

"I'm not ready to sing again, but I will be soon, I hope! I know producers' problems and I don't want to add my problems to their problems." Actress-singer Mary Martin.

"There was such a vacuum. Black media had no respect. I thought we should break through with a professional effort to compare with the best that existed already. So we went for broke." Ida Lewis, editor and publisher of "Encore" magazine.

Pineapple GreenTea

PORK WITH BAMBOO SHOOTS

1 egg
2 tablespoons soy sauce
½ teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon cornstarch
¾ pound (1½ cups) thin strips lean tender pork about ¼ inch wide and 1½ inches long
2 tablespoons salad oil
1-3rd cup coarsely chopped onion
1 can (8 ounces) bamboo shoots (drained, thinly sliced and cut in ¼-inch wide strips)
1 scallion (green onion), thinly sliced, including green part

In a shallow wide dish with a fork or a small whisk beat egg until yolk and white are combined; add soy sauce, sugar and cornstarch and beat until smooth. Add pork and mix so all strips are coated. In a large skillet over moderate heat, heat oil; add pork and its marinade and the onion; mix well and, stirring, cook a few minutes; cover and simmer until pork is cooked through (it should look white inside when a strip is cut) — about 10 minutes. Add bamboo shoots and heat, stirring several times, for a few minutes. Garnish with scallion. Makes 4 servings when served with other dishes on a Chinese menu.

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP) — The Lord Provost's committee has unanimously recommended acceptance of an invitation to Aberdeen to host the International Festival of Youth Orchestras for the next three years.

The invitation followed the successful staging of the festival in August, when more than 1,000 young musicians, dancers and singers from all over the world attended the festival.

HEALTH TIP from DEAN

A household detergent which has been agreeable to your skin may suddenly produce a rash on your hands, if the manufacturer changes the formula. This is apparently done periodically to achieve better cleaning or brightening effects. In addition to hand lotions to protect the skin, a switch to a less irritating cleaning agent seems the best remedy.

DEADLINE NEARING—Deadline for the completion of the new Scurry County Museum on WTC campus, January 1974, is nearing and the building appears closer to completion each day. If the weather permits the construction will be finished on schedule and museum workers will begin preparing the exhibits for the public.

Museum News

The Museum Building at Western Texas College has been going up rapidly during the good fall weather.

The Museum Board met Monday, Nov. 5th, at the WTC Cafeteria. Ernest Sears presided over an evening of formulating plans for the next few months. Much work goes on at this time in our office in the Diamond M Building. We are open on Wednesdays only but on many other days someone is there working on plans for our opening in the spring.

We will expand our one room museum by adding trail drives and building of the railroads. These exhibits we are sure of as the basics were salvaged from the Heritage Hall Museum in Fort Worth last spring. We will have professional help with enlarging and building our exhibits from Mr. John A. Wilson. Mr. Wilson is the Museum Consultant for the Permian Basin Museums and works out of the UTBP in Odessa. Also Mr. Mickey Schmidt, who is in charge of the Planetarium at the college, will be working with us.

At this time we need YOUR support by renewing your memberships or joining soon! Mrs. W.D. Sims, our membership chairman, reports that twenty-two members have renewed from last year–this is only about half. We do have two new patron members ($100.00 or over) and one benefactor ($500.00 or over). But we really need everyone's support for the big push to get into the new building.

Please do send your check in to Mrs. Sims or address it to Box 698.

We feel that you will be proud to show visitors and friends this Museum if YOU have a personal part in it...and everyone enjoys the bonus quarterly newsletter "Scurryly Speaking."

Besides memberships we need a part time secretary to work on the acquisition records. Mrs. Pat Bills is our Acquisition Chairman. Please call her 573-6076 if you have a few spare hours.

The Museum Room will be closed on Thanksgiving Day, November 22, and on the following Sunday, November 25. However, if you have out-of-town visitors who would like to see it, you may call Ernest Sears at 573-3858 or Mrs. H.P. Redwine at 573-2202.

A&M Coeds Are Making Progress

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — The women's movement has not completely taken over Texas A&M academics, but it is making progress.

A&M offers 135 courses and women are enrolled in 98 of them, says Registrar Robert A. Lacy.

Enrollment reached a record 18,520 this fall, including the 3,990 coeds—up 1,278 from last year.

Women comprise 54.4 per cent of the College of Education, marking the first time coeds represent more than half the students in any one college.

This year also marked the first time a woman was admitted to A&M's Texas Maritime Academy on a fulltime basis.

The Colleges of Liberal Arts and Veterinary Medicine follow the College of Education in the percentages of women enrolled with 40.4 per cent and 26.8 per cent, respectively.

Percentages of women enrolled in other colleges include Science, 25; Business Administration, 18.6; Agriculture, 11.9; Architecture, 9.97; Geosciences, 9.0; Marine Sciences and Maritime Resources, 6.3; and Engineering, 3.6.

The earth's outer shell is 25 miles thick.

MICKEY BAIRD

Mrs. Baird Named To Regional Post

Mrs. Mickey Baird, Director of Student Activities at Western Texas College, has been named Regional Coordinator for Region 12 of the Association of College Unions - International (ACUI).

As Regional Coordinator, Mrs. Baird will also be a member of the Regional Board, the policy making group for the region.

"I am pleased to have been named to this position," Mrs. Baird said. "It will give me an opportunity to work actively toward the improvement of student service programs at two-year colleges such as WTC and to share with other student activity directors information about what WTC is doing."

The ACUI was founded in 1914 and is one of the oldest intercollegiate educational organizations. Its purpose is to provide an opportunity for student unions to join in studying and improving their organizations, services, programs, facilities, and personnel.

The organization is divided into 15 geographical regions. Region 12 includes seven colleges in Arkansas, 12 in Louisiana, and 45 in Texas. Other member colleges in the Snyder area include Texas Tech University, Angelo State University, Howard Payne College, and Tarleton State College.

Mrs. Baird, a graduate of Sul Ross State University, was named to the faculty at WTC in 1970. She teaches a physical education coirse in addition to serving as director of student activities.

L'Ensemble Presents The Muses

NEW YORK (AP) — "Muses in a Mansion" is the title of a five-concert season being presented in 1973-74 by L'Ensemble du Sacre Coeur.

The concerts will be presented in the former mansions of Otto Kahn and James E. Burden, which now house the Convent of the Sacred Heart private girls school.

FHA Faced With Selling 10,000 Houses At A Loss

By ROD DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The Federal Housing Agency (FHA), faced with a major increase in mortgage foreclosures, is trying to sell 10,000 houses in the Southwest this year and expects to lose an average of $3,500 on each.

FHA regional real property officer Joe Rhodes sees a silver lining, however. The FHA, because of stepped up sales, may be selling as many houses as it acquired by year's end.

The FHA puts up no money when a purchaser buys a house. It only guarantees the mortgage money. If the buyer defaults on the mortgage, the FHA pays off to the lender and takes possession of the house.

The FHA in the Southwest acquired 25 per cent more homes than it sold. It had to take possession of 11,037 residences but managed to sell only 8,916.

This year so far, the agency has acquired 9,053 homes and has sold 8,890.

But as of the end of September, the FHA had a backlog of 10,460 houses to be sold in Texas, Arkansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

Of that number, 40 per cent had been surrendered by low-income families who had been housed under the now-terminated U235 program.

Reasons for the upturn in acquisitions are numerous. Partially it is a result of the generally tough economic situation, but it is also linked to dissatisfaction with the sliding scale used to determine U235 payments and the instability of many of the families who are given low income housing aid.

The FHA repairs repossessed homes and resells them. Though in isolated cases the FHA makes money on a resale, its average track record is not good: $3,500 loss each time it unloads a repossession.

It does not take a mathematician to figure out that even if the FHA sells as many as it buys, it is still in the red.

Rhodes says one must consider more than the bottom line on a financial ledger in judging the federal subsidy program.

"It depends on what you want to do—help poor people or insure houses that won't come back to you," he said in an interview.

The U235 project, discontinued in January, was a "high risk program," Rhodes says, but it did offer a chance at good homes to the young, the jobless, the uneducated and the unskilled.

But if the subsidy program is not to be judged on dollars and cents, it might eventually be judged on whether the foreclosure rate continues to grow.

This year the Southwest region of the FHA is concentrating on selling off its properties. But selling is not easy or cheap.

Of the 10,460 acquisitions the FHA now has, only about 2,400 are currently marketable. The others are on a list requiring repairs before they can be sold. If a house is sold within six months after purchase, that is considered good.

Not all the acquisitions can be resold. In one instance, a $14,000 home was in such poor condition that it was demolished and sold for materials for less than $1,000. The FHA through its Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund, took the loss.

Another stumbling block for sales can be the general community where the homes are located. In San Antonio, Tulsa, Shreveport and New Orleans, it is difficult to resell houses because of neighborhood deterioration.

The resold houses can be purchased by anyone and are not limited again to low income families.

"Property disposal is more business-like perhaps," Rhodes says. "Here we are trying to minimize our losses."

Based on September figures, houses are being held by the FHA for resale in the following

Junior Editors' Quiz on JOHN J. PERSHING

QUESTION: Who was John J. Pershing?

* * *

ANSWER: John J. Pershing was one of the great military leaders of the United States. He lived from 1860 to 1948. He was born in Linn County, Mo., and was the son of a railway section boss. He was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1886. He entered military service and engaged in campaigns against the Apache and Sioux. He fought in the Spanish American War and also was in charge of the expedition sent to Mexico in pursuit of Pancho Villa.

When the United States entered World War I, Pershing was placed in command of the A. E. F., the American Expeditionary Forces. He trained an army of 2 million men, chiefly raw recruits, and insisted that the Americans fight the war independently and with their own tactics. His ideas proved to be correct. The fast drive of the Americans broke down the German morale. Pershing was given the highest rank ever given an American Army officer, that of General of the Armies of the United States.

Like George Matheson, in his blindness, said we must have faith. We must have faith in our fellowman, in our country, in our church. Whenever we doubt either God or man, we would do well to think of Jesus, since we are not sufficient unto ourselves. Although we have faith in God largely because we must have Him, we would become ineffective and insecure without it.

For people of faith, life becomes a radiant thing. Faith can overcome the most miserable circumstances. Faith can overcome despair. Even the universe opens its heart to eyes of faith.

The fidelity of man will be secure only when we make interest coincide with duty. Latent powers will then blossom in the presence of those who offer such confidence.

Surely, faith must be the root of all blessings. Without it life would be worthless. It would have no meaning. A little faith can be a big light on a dark night. The man who has no faith in God nor in his fellowman is as dead as a cinder. He has spiritual leukemia. God waits every hour to share His blessings on men who can be trusted . . . Men of Faith.

LEADING RUSHER—Snyder High School's Ricky Howell turned in an outstanding effort in the Hereford-Tiger District 4-AAAA football clash Friday night, gaining 171 yards on 32 carries. Here, he displays his winning form. Tim Sonnier (60) blocks for the Tiger fullback.

Aroused Tigers Spoil Herd's Record, 28-7

HEREFORD—Those loyal Snyder fans who made the long trip to cold Hereford Friday night were rewarded for their faithfulness: They got to see the hot Tigers put together their best effort of the season and knock off previously undefeated Hereford 28-7.

The victory boosts the Tiger record to 5-3-1 for the season and 1-2-1 in district. Hereford now is 8-1 for the campaign and 3-1 in the league. The Whitefaces now are tied with Monterey for the loop lead, but will win a playoff berth if they can beat Lubbock High there next Thursday. For the Tigers, they have the satisfaction of knowing they played their best when many people expected them to be down and being the only team to beat the champs.

It was not by any means apparent the Tigers were going to win at the outset. Hereford took the opening kickoff and drove 63 yards in five plays to take the lead. But, the Tigers, playing flawless ball, knotted the count later in the period and scored touchdowns in each succeeding period while an aroused defense shut out the vaunted Whitefaces the remainder of the game.

So completely did the Tigers dominate play in the second half that Hereford wasn't able to get a first down until there was 7:43 remaining in the fourth quarter. Hereford's heralded tandem punch of Charles High and James Harris were held to their lowest offensive output of the season with High gaining just 49 yards on five carries and Harris getting only 55 yards on 12 runs.

Crisp blocking all along the offensive line and a determined, heads-up defense paved the way for victory.

Snyder also unveiled a reserve fullback, Ricky Howell, who came through handsomely in his first big opportunity this season. He led ball carriers with 171 yards on 32 carries. Welton Cobb, Tiger tailback, contributed 75 paces on 13 thrusts.

It was almost a perfect performance by the Tigers. Each man did his job and did it well. There were no fumbles lost and the team was penalized only three times for 15 yards. Snyder dominated the statistics, rolling up 19 first downs compared with only five for Hereford. They gained 288 yards rushing compared with only 84 for the Whitefaces, who collected 50 of the total on their first drive. This means, the Herd was held to only 34 yards rushing in the last 3½ quarters. Quarterback Richard Gorman completed three of three tosses for 51 yards and reserve Tim Jones hit one for one for five paces.

Harris scored the first touchdown on a 4 yard romp with 8:36 remaining. Dave Charest's kick put the Herd ahead 7-0. Big gainer in the march was a 37 yard burst over left tackle by High, but an important fourth down pass from quarterback Franklin Higgins to end Armando Gonzalez kept the drive alive with a 13 yard gain to the 13.

On their second possession of the first quarter, the Tigers spanned 59 yards in six plays. The payoff was a 32 yard touchdown pass from Gorman to end Doak Witherspoon. The big Tiger receiver made the reception at the one and dragged two defenders across the goal. Mickey Gonzales' first of four [illegible] kicks tied it 7-7 with 24 seconds remaining in the stanza. Howell gained 13 yards on two carries in this drive, Cobb contributed 12 paces on two runs, and Hubert Crayton added two yards on one effort.

Snyder marched 50 yards in 10 plays early in the second quarter with Cobb capping the drive with a four yard touchdown run with 6:25 remaining. He took a pitchout and went to the left for the tally. The drive began after Steve Grimmett intercepted a pass at the Snyder 42 and returned it to the 50.

Howell carried five times in the second period drive and gained 31 yards. Cobb and halfback David Mayes also made valuable contributions. The drive also included a nine yard pass, Gorman to Grimmett, who turned in another interception to stop Hereford late in the period.

On their second possession of the third quarter, the Tigers drove 60 yards in 11 plays with Gorman punching across from the one on a keeper for the touchdown with 3:05 remaining in the period. Howell contributed 44 yards on seven carries. He set up the tally with a 14 yard charge to the one. Gorman contributed 10 yards when he sprinted around right end after his receivers were covered, and Cobb made six paces on one run.

Snyder's last touchdown drive began in the third quarter at the Tiger 24 and it was climaxed 10 plays later in the fourth quarter with Cobb scoring on a 34 yard romp aroundleft end with 1:32 remaining.

Smart play calling accounted for the TD. Howell had carried the ball five straight times and the defense was beginning to key on him. Facing third and six at the 33, Gorman faked to Howell and pitched out to Cobb who raced around left end and sprinted to the goal untouched.

Snyder also marched from its 42 to the Hereford 21 later in the fourth quarter. Big plays in the drive were a 21 yard caper by Howell and a 10 yard toss, Gorman to Witherspoon. But, Hereford stiffened and Gonzales attempted a field goal from the 28 with 2:07 remaining. The ball fell short.

Jones directed the Tigers in a 22 yard march to the one yard line just before the final gun. Crayton contributed a 14 yard run in this drive. On the final play of the game, Jones fired a quick pass to V.T. Roberson who was split to the left. The play gained five yards but Roberson was stopped at the one.

It was really an outstanding team effort by the Tigers, both offensively and defensively, but Grimmett, Roy Lee Carter, Willie Smith, and Ralph Lewis were particularly outstanding on defense.

The victory assures the Tigers of a winning season this year.

Minnesota Seeks Ninth Straight NFL Victory

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"If we're lacking one ingredient, maybe it is that we lack the killer instinct," says Minnesota Coach Bud Grant.

Maybe so, but don't try to convince any of the teams in the National Football League of that. After all, the Vikings have knocked off every one they've faced this season.

The Vikes go after their ninth straight victory—and their 15th in a row if you tack on the perfect exhibition season—Sunday in Minnesota against the Detroit Lions.

If Minnesota wins, it'll make it an even dozen triumphs against them for the Vikes. And if a few other breaks come their way, the Vikings also will wrap up the National Conference's Central Division title.

Sunday's other games are Pittsburgh at Oakland, New England at the New York Jets, San Francisco at Washington, New Orleans at Los Angeles, Baltimore at Miami, Atlanta at Philadelphia, Dallas vs. the New York Giants at New Haven, San Diego at Denver, Cincinnati at Buffalo, Cleveland at Houston and St. Louis at Green Bay. On Monday night the Chicago Bears play the Chiefs in Kansas City.

The Lions lost 23-9 in the teams' first meeting this season, have a mediocre 3-4-1 record and face elimination from the race with a loss.

With a Minnesota victory and losses by the Packers and Bears, the Vikings would clinch their fifth NFC Central title in six seasons.

Pittsburgh's Steelers, closing in on a second straight Central Division flag in the American Conference, face the West Division leaders and defending champion Raiders, who have been waiting for this game ever since last Dec. 23.

That was the AFC divisional championship when Oakland seemingly had a 7-6 victory in the bag. But on the Steelers' last play of the game, Terry Bradshaw heaved a desperation pass which bounced off Oakland's Jack Tatum and into the hands of Franco Harris, who dashed 42 yards to complete a game-winning 60-yard touchdown play.

Bradshaw won't be on the field this time, though. He's got a shoulder separation. Terry Hanratty, with bruised ribs, was knocked out of last Monday night's game against Washington but is expected to start against Oakland with young Joe Gilliam ready to come in again if needed.

The Raiders are having no such quarterback problems. They've got Kenny Stabler, who replaced Daryle Lamonica early in the season and has become the AFC's No. 1 passer.

Speaking of separated shoulders, Joe Namath of the Jets is getting over his and "if he's 100 per cent healthy, I'll start him" against the Patriots, said New York Coach Weeb Ewbank.

The Redskins, who share first place in the NFC East with Dallas, are meeting San Francisco for the first time since losing to the 49ers 24-20 in the 1971 playoffs. San Francisco is floundering with a 3-5 NFC West record and desperately trying to catch Atlanta and first-place Los Angeles. Joe Reed will start ahead of Steve Spurrier and John Brodie at quarterback.

The Rams, coming off two straight losses, have to contend with the surprise team of the season, the New Orleans Saints, who have scratched their way to a 4-4 record two straight victories, including the first shutout in their history a week ago.

Miami's Dolphins, with a two-game lead in the AFC East, are gunning for their fourth straight shutout over Baltimore. Atlanta, having won four straight games for the first time in their history, face Roman Gabriel and the Eagles, the NFC's No. 1 passing team.

The Giants, sagging under a six-game losing spin including last Sunday's 42-0 whipping at Oakland, face a Dallas team that beat them 45-28 three weeks ago. San Diego makes its first start under Ron Waller, the interim head coach who took over for Harland Svare. The Chargers are the only team out of the AFC West race. The Broncos are within striking distance of the top at 3-3-2.

Buffalo's Bills still have high hopes of a playoff berth and a victory over Cincinnati would make them higher. But O.J. Simpson's chances of surpassing Jim Brown's single-season record of 1,863 yards are fading. He got only 79 last week in New Orleans and has 1,104 for the year. Houston, having won a game after 18 straight losses, now face Cleveland with their next big goal—two in a row, a feat they haven't achieved since 1971.

Like San Francisco, Green Bay is a defending divisional champ in trouble. The Pack is 2-4-2 and stumbling with the AFC's poorest offense. St. Louis, with the NFC's No. 2 passing attack behind Jim Hart, also has a former Packer, Donnie Anderson, leading the league in touchdowns with 10.

Petkevich To Skate For Kids

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — John Misha Petkevich, the 1971 U.S. and North American figure skating champion who is now a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford, will make a special return to Harvard to appear in the fourth annual "An Evening With Champions" Nov. 16 and 17 at Watson Rink.

Petkevich, who was graduated from Harvard last June, was an originator of the ice skating show in 1971. In three years, the show has raised more than $64,000 for the Jimmy Fund, the popular name of the Children's Cancer Research Foundation.

Coyotes Put Down Garden City 30-16

GAIL—Borden County's Coyotes remained in the district 8-man football race with a convincing 30-16 triumph over Garden City's Bearkats here Friday night.

The duo of Monte Smith and Henry Oliverez combined for three touchdown passes for the Gail-based crew.

An Open Letter
To All of Our
LP-GAS Customers

Dear L.P.Gas Customer,

There's talk around that the energy crisis is artificial. It's not. It's real. And its causes are real, in the U.S., most of our energy (including electricity) comes from oil, natural gas, coal, nuclear energy, or hydropower. Until now, when one of these sources became limited, there was enough of the others to make up the difference. But that's not true anymore. The chilling fact is that we have an energy shortage and it will probably continue for some time.

YOU USE L.P.GAS. IS IT IN SHORT SUPPLY, TOO?

Yes. The White House has ordered the first mandatory allocation of L.P.Gas since World War II. The administration has announced a rationing program for L.P.Gas that will give priority to residential use, agricultural production, and other essential, traditional uses. These steps will by no means end the shortage; in general, their aim is to make sure that the shortage does not have any kind of drastic effect on the economy or the life style of the public.

HERE ARE SOME WAYS YOU CAN HELP

You can conserve energy by turning off unneeded lights and appliances. Weatherstrip and caulk around windows and doors. Don't overheat; set your thermostat three degrees lower this winter. Keep heating or cooling system filters clean. Install overhead and side-wall insulation. Fix leaking faucets. Don't use more hot water than you need in tub or shower. Don't overload washers or clothes dryers. Wash a full load of dishes at one time. When cooking, don't use a high flame when a low one will do the job. And remember: switching to electrical energy only adds to our energy crisis. It's a recognized fact that gas is more than twice as efficient as electricity.

Careful attention to these conservation efforts will help ensure that you and your neighbors have enough clean-burning L.P.Gas to take care of your essential needs. We need to conserve fuel, too. One way we can (and must) save fuel is to fill on routes as much as possible. If you must call us to fill a tractor storage tank, please call us as far ahead as possible, so that we can unload a truck in your general area.

There is not enough L.P.Gas presently available to completely fill house tanks. We will attempt to be at every tank every two weeks (on the same day of the week, weather permitting) and put in the maximum percentage available. We will not be able to refill your house tank until the next route date.

With your cooperation we can give you good service and save you money too.

Energy Crisis Will Dominate API Meeting

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The energy crisis aggravated by sharply curtailed oil shipments from Arab nations will dominate the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute starting Monday.

The official call for the two-day meeting made no direct reference to the actions by the Arab nations but Frank N. Ikard, president said both the nation and the petroleum industry are facing trying times.

The former Texas congressman said the industry not only must seek to meet energy needs for the coming winter but also must continue working to assure all Americans of adequate long-term supplies of energy.

"To carry out this assignment, we will need renewed dedication within our own ranks," Ikard said.

"We will also need the support and cooperation of intelligent and well-informed Americans from all walks of life. With the help of sound public policies, we are confident the job can be accomplished."

Ikard and other leaders of the trade group that represents all segments of the nation's oil and gas industry long have advocated several of the proposals outlined Wednesday night by President Nixon in his third major energy message of the year.

Such proposals include the reduction of automobile speed limits, temporary relaxing of antipollution standards, curtailment of power and industrial plant conversion from coal to petroleum fuels, and the suspension of federal price controls on newly discovered natural gas reserves dedicated for sale in interstate markets.

In recent Senate hearings testimony, industry leaders not only have sought to bolster explorations for new gas reserves through the decontrol of prices for new gas but also have advocated spreading over a four-year period the decontrol of prices of old interstate gas sales.

Ikard and former Colorado Gov. John A. Love, director of Nixon's Energy Policy Office, are to speak at Monday afternoon's opening general session.

Tuesday's concluding general session speakers include Rawleigh Warner Jr., board chairman of both the Institute and the Mobil Oil Corp., and Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va.

Directors of the Institute will be asked Monday to approve a major reorganization aimed, in part, at strengthening the trade group's timely development of industry positions on public issues.

The restructing program results from a two-year study headed by R.C. Gunness, president of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana).

Warner, in announcing the reorganization plan, said the Institute's role in support of industry public policy positions is potentially unique and is dependent upon a strengethening of fact-gathering and analysis capabilities.

While the reorganization will not be formally approved until Monday, the Institute already has demonstrated a change in policy by reacting quickly to new developments on controversial issues.

Until recent months, a wide divergence of views among producers, refiners, and marketers had prompted caution by the Institute and a reluctance to become involved in controversies.

Ikard and others now are making quick and blunt responses to criticism of the industry.

"There has been a realization that delay weakens the effectiveness of any response to unfounded charges and criticism," a spokesman explained.

TV Series Canceled

NEW YORK (AP) — The NBC television network says it will take four new series off the air in mid-January: "Diana," with Diana Rigg, "Needles and Pins," "NBC Follies" and "Love Story."

NBC's announcement Friday brought to eight the number of new television programs, all plagued by low ratings, that the networks have canceled since the 1973-74 season began Sept. 10.

ABC has canceled "Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice," while CBS has axed "The New Perry Mason," "Calucci's Dept." and "Roll Out."

NBC said the discontinued shows will be followed by a heavily revamped evening program schedule, effective in January, with only the network's Saturday and Sunday night program lineups unchanged.

The schedule includes two new offerings — "NBC Wednesday Night at the Movies," featuring both theatrical and made-for-TV films, and a one-hour Thursday night program whose title and contents will be announced later, NBC said.

The new schedule shifts five new and old evening programs — "Lotsa Luck," "The Magician," "NBC Wednesday Mystery Movie," "Adam-12" and "Chase" — to new starting times and dates in mid-January.

"Lotsa Luck," now aired on Mondays, will be moved to the Friday night time slot occupied by a sixth rescheduled show, "The Girl With Something Extra." The latter will be broadcast a half hour later under the new schedule.

In the other shifts, NBC's "Mystery Movie" programs will be broadcast on Tuesday nights, as will "Adam-12," now seen on Wednesday night.

Pecan Show Scheduled At Odessa

SAN ANGELO--The eighth West Texas Regional Pecan Show is Dec. 13-14-15 at Odessa, said economist Robert H. Kensing of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

To be in Winnwood Mall, the show will include classes for all named varieties as well as competition for "heaviest pecan," "highest percent kernel,"; "collection of three varieties" and "collection of six varieties."

Kensing, chairman of the annual show, "said the native (seedling) pecans were to be grouped in a separate class. He also said pecans from yard trees were not only eligible, but have been state winners in previous years.

Entries in the Odessa show may consist either of pecans already awarded ribbons in a county show, or of those submitted by growers living where there are no county shows (open entries that must number 40 pecans).

Samples that have already won in a county show should number at least 30 pecans, 10 of which will be processed for judging.

All entries should be sent to Maurice W. Black, County Extension Agent, 201 Courthouse, Odessa 79761, by 5 p.m., Dec. 10.

In the time between now and mid-December, pecans from throughout Texas will be exhibited in 30 county shows and three regional shows. Regional winners are eligible for competition in the Texas State Pecan Show in 1974.

CELEBRITIES ON THE COUCH

By Dick Maurice

Interview: Jerry Stiller & Anne Meara

The husband-and-wife comedy team of Jerry Stiller and Anne Meara has become so popular that Stillerandmeara is practically one word. They have brought their topical sketches and humor to TV: over 50 Ed Sullivan shows, the talk shows and specials. They've also played the major clubs. While they're best known for jokes which play off their Jewish-Irish marriage, their comedy act has a spontaneous quality which reflects their training in improvisational theatre. Besides being a team, they both have very successful careers on their own. Anne recently starred in "The Corner Bar" on ABC television. Husband, Jerry, wasn't far away. He was associate producer of the show.

MAURICE: How did the team of Stiller and Meara come about?

MEARA: Jerry and I met when we were both playing Shakespeare in the park. We were both making $50 each and unemployment was $55. So we decided to form a team. It was either that or going on unemployment.

MAURICE: Jerry, when you get a heckler in the audience, how do you handle it?

STILLER: If they start, I say, Uncle Joe, go home. I told you not to show up tonight. We sometimes welcome it because you can get off at times with a lot of funny wise cracks. In the old days, the maitre d' would come up to the drunk and tell him that there is a telephone call for you at which point he would never be seen again. But we don't like to do things like that because we are very gentle people. After the show, when he's walking down the street, we hop into our car and simply run him down.

MAURICE: Anne, is Jerry as funny off stage as he is on?

MEARA: I have to tell you something that happened quite a while ago. But I remember it because it's typical of my husband. We were in the dressing room between shows and we turned on the TV. President Nixon had landed in China. We watched the President and Mrs. Nixon step off the plane – have that long handshake with Chou En-lai, everybody's smiling. And then the camera turns to the Chinese band which starts to play the Star Spangled Banner. Jerry turns to me and says, "Gee, Anne, their national anthem is just like ours!"

MAURICE: What's the most embarrassing thing that's ever happened to you?

MEARA: I remember, before Jerry and I had an act together, we were both playing in the same show in Chicago.

STILLER: Oh no, you are not going to tell that story about Chicago.

MEARA: Yes I am. I remember Chicago fondly. I got pregnant in Chicago and we were both very happy. I think the lake air has something to do with my pregnancy. All I know is I was three months pregnant and I was on stage doing a number with two other girls. As you know, something happens to your kidneys when you're pregnant. We started laughing and let me put it in a nice way, "my kidneys runneth over." We left the stage laughing so hard there were tears running down my face. Jerry was supposed to follow me on stage singing the song "the old pizza maker". Jerry, do you still remember it?

STILLER: The puddle or the song? I remember the song went like this - "When you're near that certain corner and you smell that certain smell it's the old pizza maker with his crummy mozzarella." When I saw the puddle I broke into laughter and I couldn't finish the song.

MAURICE: Jerry, what was your childhood like?

STILLER: I grew up in a Jewish slum on Manhattan's lower East side. I remember as a boy I once played in a show called "Many Moons" at the Henry Street Settlement House. My first adlib was when I was the king and I pulled the bell cord and it fell off. I said, it dropped off and everybody laughed.

MAURICE: What did your father want for you?

STILLER: He wanted me to be a dental mechanic. That's the guy who makes teeth. The idea in his book was don't set your goals too high because you will only get knocked down. But my mother said he wants to go to school, let him go to school. Because of her, I was given a crack at whatever I wanted to do.

MAURICE: Anne, you are an Irish Catholic and Jerry's Jewish. What was your parents reaction when you told them that you were getting married?

MEARA: My dad wasn't upset that Jerry was Jewish. It was the fact that he wasn't Catholic. We were married in a civil ceremony at New York City Hall. Do you want to know something funny? Jerry's sister married an Irishman who drives a bagel truck.

MAURICE: You do a lot of funny jokes on the Jewish Irish ethnic groups.

STILLER: Yes we do. Have you heard the one about the fellow who is standing on the corner of a street in Belfast, Northern Ireland. A group of toughs come up to him and said: "What are you – Catholic or Protestant?" The fellow looked up and said: "Neither, I'm Jewish." They said, "All right, but what kind of Jewish are you, Catholic or Protestant?"

MAURICE: Do you consider yourselves actors or comedians?

MEARA: Well, we are both. But I guess first and foremost we are actors. But the problem is finding acting work as a team. I remember when we first got together Jerry was working nights at Needick's and acting in Shakespeare during the day. I could still show you the stacks of unemployment books. One theatre I played, the ushers made more money than we did. Jerry's money-making brain child: a duo act which eventually took us out of our Washington Heights walk-up apartment.

MAURICE: What's the most important thing to both of you?

STILLER: The most important thing is that we have each other. Life isn't always a bundle of laughs; but as long as we have each other, that's all that really matters.

Cast Announced For WTC Play

The cast of "Look Back in Anger" has been announced by Charles Holland, assistant professor of speech and drama at Western Texas College.

The new play is slated to open in mid-December for a four-night run.

The four cast members are all Snyder natives, and their names and faces will be familiar to Snyder theatre goers.

Jamie Boren is cast as Jimmy Porter. His wife, Alison, will be played by Donna Messimer. Retha Boyd will portray Helena Charles, and Bill Martin will play Cliff Lewis.

Boren, a 1970 graduate of Snyder High School, has several years of acting experience behind him. He was recently seen as Fancourt Babberly in WTC's production of "Charley's Aunt." He also appeared in plays at Snyder High School and at North Texas State University.

Miss Messimer has appeared in "Charley's Aunt," "20th Century America," and "Butterflies Are Free" while at WTC. She was also active in speech and drama while attending Snyder High School.

Miss Boyd is not only active as an actress, but as a technical theatrician as well. In addition to her role as Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez in "Charley's Aunt" she served as the show's costume designer. She was costume mistress for last year's production of "Butterflies Are Free." At Snyder High School, she had roles in "The Music Man" and the UIL award winning one act play "Ondine."

Martin may be remembered as Don, the blind boy in "Butterflies Are Free" at WTC. He was a member of last year's road show "20th Century America" as well.

"The people who were cast in "Look Back in Anger" were chosen according to their inherent abilities to cause people to better understand themselves and those around them in a deeply physiological play," Holland said.

Clayton Black, technical director for the new production, has also announced heads of the technical crews. Black, a sophomore student from Abilene, was technical director for "Charley's Aunt" and "Butterflies Are Free."

Steve Bratton of Rotan will be stage manager. Barry Rinker of Snyder will be lighting technician and Mianne Allen of Abilene is sound technician. Katie Bullock of Lubbock will be costume mistress, and Michael Crawford will serve as make-up director.

Hearing Set On Gas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission says it wants to know how much natural gas is in Texas, where it is located, and if apportioning among the gas utility companies might head off shortages within the state.

The oil and gas regulatory agency set a hearing for Nov. 26 at the University of Texas Law School to get the answers to those questions.

It issued an order Friday that all gas utilities and owners or operators of gas pipelines must submit within 30 days a sworn report on gas reserves, sales volumes, gas contracts and technical data on gathering systems and transmission lines.

The commission said it has the authority to apportion gas between towns, cities and corporations. It added that it is prepared to issue regulations "to determine emergencies and to prevent or lessen the adverse impact a serious shortage of natural gas could have on the citizens and economy of Texas."

Booklet On Apprentices

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: I would like to learn a trade by being an apprentice. I've been out of high school for a couple of years and nothing very good in the line of work has happened so far. Could you help me out? – H.N., Dallas, Texas

Apprenticeship (where you learn and earn at the same time) is widely recognized by employers as being a thorough training method. It's a good route to developing a skill that will lead to good pay and a secure spot in the jobmarket.

The Federal Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics has issued a booklet, "Jobs For Which Apprenticeships Are Available." It contains summaries with highlights of job qualifications and trends for selected occupations in technical and service fields, building trades, machining, mechanics and repair, printing, civil aviation and other career areas.

Some of the apprentice programs listed require a high school diploma while others are open to applicants having less than a high school education.

For a single free copy of this booklet, send a stamped, self-addressed business size (4¼" x 9") envelope to me at this newspaper. Supplies are limited so get your request in right away. Write "Apprenticeship Booklet" in corner of your outside envelope and allow several weeks for delivery.

Dear Joyce: I have heard of Big Brothers who give service to help some child. What I would like to know is if there is something like that for a female to do? If so, whom would I write to for such information? – A.W., Camden, N.J.

Glad to get letters such as yours which show a warm human concern in wanting to do this kind of volunteer work. Yes, there are Big Sisters organizations in some cities, but the national directory doesn't show a group in yours. Similar to the male organization, Big Sisters act as advisers and friends to girls, and generally meet with their "little sisters" twice a month. The girls are from homes where one parent is absent (often the father) and from foster homes. While the Big Sisters (like the Big Brothers) don't get paid, contributions are needed to pay for the administrative costs of matching up adults and children. Administrative money's been short lately, and this may be why you haven't heard much about the female organization. For more information, you can write to Big Sisters International, 2015 Bailey Ave., Chattanooga, Tenn. 37404.

Dear Joyce: Is there a how-to book for opening a small wedding boutique? Who will sell or let us market their wedding gowns? – J.C.P., Chicago, Ill.

No book springs to mind, but you can get expert counsel at no cost by writing to James A. Cerbone, executive director of the Bridal and Bridesmaids Apparel Association, 566 Seventh Ave., New York, N.Y. 10018. Better still, Cerbone suggests you schedule a trip to New York City and the Association will arrange for you to visit a number of wedding gown suppliers.

• • •

Dear Joyce: What's the name and source of that booklet you mentioned some time ago for scholarships? – R.T., Memphis, Tenn.

If you mean "Need A Lift?" the 1973 edition should be ready now. The cost is 50 cents per single copy. It's a goldmine of information on educational opportunities, careers, loans and scholarships. You can obtain from: The American Legion, Education and Scholarship Program, Dept. A., Box 1055, Indianapolis, Ind. 46206.

Snyderite In NTSU Band

DENTON–Noble B. Young of Snyder is among 157 students performing with the North Texas State University Marching Band this fall.

Members of the band perform at football games, enter competition and make guest appearances in and out-of-state each year.

The Marching Band, directed by Maurice McAdow of the NTSU music faculty, trades its marching shoes for music stands at the end of football season and is transformed into the NTSU Concert Band.

Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Noble J. Young, 4204 Ave. V., is a freshman music education major at NTSY.

UT May Delay Spring Semester

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — University of Texas President Stephen Spurr said Saturday the university may delay the opening of the spring semester in order to conserve energy.

Spring registration is set for Jan. 9-11 with classes to begin Jan. 15.

The university postponed the start of the spring semester last year because of a fuel shortage.

Spurr said, in a written statement that the school also would consider turning off the heat entirely in some buildings on weekends, setting thermostats at 68 degrees in dormitories, offices and classrooms, and reducing library hours.

By eliminating some lighting and cutting down on air conditioning, the university reduced its energy consumption for a five-month period by 15 per cent from a similar period in 1972, officials said.

Faculty Increased

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Twenty-four new faculty have been added on the James Connally campus of Texas State Technical Institute, bringing the number of faculty to 175 full time and 25 part time.

Groucho Marx Files Lawsuit

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Groucho Marx has filed a $15 million lawsuit seeking a halt to publication of "The Marx Brothers Scrapbook."

Marx, 83, said the book so shocked him that it made him ill. He said it includes his comments on the drinking habits of his wives, his evaluation of people in the entertainment industry and remarks about people's sex habits.

Marx said he had agreed only to have informal talks with writer Richard Anobile.

INCOME TAX DEDUCTS

Several items cross this desk concerning income tax savings. I mention them only as suggestions for your consideration and use provided they are applicable. You need to check with your tax consultant to see if they will work for you.

According to information I received in almost every state there is a toll-free number to reach a specified IRS office on any business day in order to ask questions concerning your income tax. I have been unable to find out this number for our area, but you can check with the Lubbock or Abilene IRS Office for this service.

Here are some ideas you may want to check on for more information.

Farmers, ranchers and other self-employed individuals can save on tax dollars by starting a tax sheltered retirement plan. This is called the Keogh plan and is available through many banks, insurance companies and mutual funds. Up to 10 per cent of earned income or $2,500, whichever is less, can be invested each year in an approved retirement plan. Earnings on the money are not taxable until the individual retires. Before a retirement plan is started, a proposal must be filed with the Internal Revenue Service.

A separate phone for business is probably a good idea for tax purposes, but most farm people use the home phone for business also. IRS suggests a daily diary of business calls. This portion can be deducted.

If a lawyer does your tax work and handles other legal matters, get him to itemize your bills. The fees for advice on income tax, gift or estate taxes are deductible.

This is not a tax consideration but something you may want to consider. Before you pay off long term notes, such as real estate loans, you should decide if you will need to make production loan on next years crop. It may be to your advantage to pay a lesser amount on your long term note and eliminate the need for a production loan, due to the increase in interest rates. Many of the long term loans were made at a much lower rate of interest than that which is available on short term production loans. This could be a nice savings in itself.

Any tax savings ideas you run across in news media should be clipped out and placed with your tax records for consideration at tax time. Record keeping is a year-round job.

Eicke is a senior Agriculture Business major at LCC. He has a grade point average of 3.60 in 103 credit hours.

He is a member of the Aggie Club at Lubbock Christian College.

School Dedicated

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Wisconsin Gov. Patrick J. Lucey has dedicated an 18-classroom primary school donated to this earthquake-devastated city by his state.

Lucey, on a three-day visit to this Central American country, joined with Nicaraguan Education Ministry authorities in the ceremony Friday.

A large area of Managua was destroyed Dec. 23, 1972, by an earthquake that killed an estimated 10,000 persons.

2 Area Doctors AAFP Fellows

KANSAS CITY, MO.--Two doctors from the Snyder area have been named Fellows of the American Academy of Family Physicians. They are Dr. Carl A. Dillaha of Snyder and Dr. John H. Chinn of Colorado City.

The degree of Fellowship may be attained in either of two ways: successful completion of 600 or more hours of accredited continuing medical study, or achievement of diplomate status in the specialty of family medicine as a result of passing a certifying examination administered by the American Board of Family Practice.

Fellowship entitles the conferee to use the title "Fellow of the American Academy of Family Physicians," or "FAAFP."

The degree was conferred Oct. 2 upon some 3,000 members of the Academy in conjunction with the AAFP's annual convention and scientific assembly in Denver, Colo. Ceremonies were held in the Denver Convention Complex Arena before more than 8,000 persons. Fellowship candidates wore academic robes and mortarboard caps. They were recognized according to state chapter groups and the oath of fellowship was recited en masse.

The American Academy of Family Physicians, representing more than 34,000 family doctors, is the only national medical group requiring members to take continuing study, 150 accredited hours every three years. The AAFP, headquartered in Kansas City, is the largest of medicine's specialty groups.

State Traffic Deaths Up 3%

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Eighty more persons have died in Texas traffic accidents this year than last year at this time, the Department of Public Safety reported Saturday.

The DPS said traffic deaths this year total 3,074—a 3 per cent increase from a year ago.

Cotton Moves Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices of active cotton futures in the domestic market moved higher this past week.

At Friday's close, No. 2 contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange gained 75 to 708 points, after closing mixed the previous week in a range from 245 points higher to 24 points lower.

The week's trading volume was about 746,400 bales compared with 1,122,800 bales last week, for a daily average of 191,000 bales against 224,600 bales a week ago.

The open interest was reported by the Commodity Exchange Authority as of Thursday at 1,934,900 bales, an increase of 83,900 from the level of the preceeding Friday.

Analysts said that upward pressure on prices resulted from tight spot supply.
