Roll Your Own!—The Secret of the Eye Beautiful Lies in Flirtation

By NEA Service
BOSTON—March 4—Now it's optical athletics!

Give your eyes a "daily dozen" and discard the horn-rimmed spectacles. A bit of high pressure medicine, if done regularly, lessens eye-sight, far-sightedness and tension, astigmatism, says Dr. Samuel S. Harris, of Boston.

Daily, folks come to his laboratory for optical exercise. After a few visits they add their glasses to his collection of his former patients' "crutches," as he calls them.

"A weak eye needs exercise to build it up and not a crutch to lean on," he explains.

Limbo is Beauty

In addition to curing their ailments, exercises beautifies the eyes, according to Dr. Harris, whose theory is that a "limber" eye is a pretty eye. It is expressive instead of dull and staring, and it has sparkle. When strain is removed, the sight improves—and, incidentally, the little wrinkles around the eyes disappear. Exercise also eliminates puffiness, he claims.

The man, woman or girl who would have the eyes one can't forget, need only start an exercise class for one, in the privacy of his or her boudoir, and practice the "rolling-down" and "roll-up" looks.

A pair of eyes which have been using glasses must be exercised a little more systematically. One method is the "swinging W" and consists of tracing up and down the lines of an imaginary six-foot W. If done regularly, the eyes relax during the day, the eyes relax.

For the Tired B. M.

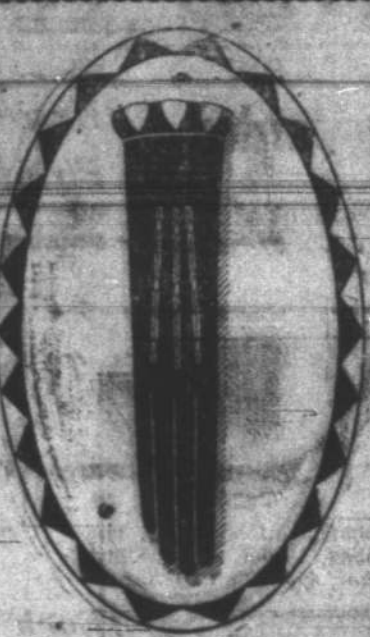

The exercise for advocates for the tired business man on the 4-5 p. m. lap of the day is this:

"Stand relaxed, and swing first from one foot to the other as a circus bear, swaying the head with the body, and letting the eyes swing lazily in the opposite direction each time."

Eye three who frequently see only a blur of letters while reading, Dr. Harris advocates his "dashings" exercise:

"Close the eyes and remember either black or white. Keep them closed until they feel tired. Now flash them open, look at the beginning of a paragraph and close them again. Repeat until the eyes, which the eye sees in its rapid opening and closing is small enough to encompass that one

Cherry pie was served with whipped cream, coffee and baked nuts.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH TRAINING SCHOOL

The Standard Training School at First Methodist church opens with its first class period Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. A large number have already expressed their intention of attending the school. Quite a number from churches outside the city have enrolled. Any Sunday school or church workers, regardless of church affiliation, are invited to attend. In addition to the Sunday afternoon period, classes will be conducted each night through the week at 7:15. The school will close Friday night.

There will be five courses offered. They are as follows:

Principles of Teaching—Dr. P. W. Horn.

The Pupil—Rev. E. E. White.

Methods for Primary Teachers—Mrs. J. C. Ballard.

Organization and Administration of the Sunday School—B. L. Nance.

Methodist Church and Its Work—Dr. A. W. Evans.

In order to receive credit, those attending should be present at every class period.

The services at the church on Sunday will be as usual. The pastor will preach both morning and evening hours. At the evening service the subject "How to Use Your Talents" will be the text of the series of "Practical Sermons for Practical People."

The Woman's Day

By Allene Sumner

The world's oldest man and the world's oldest woman will be married this spring. He is Ivan Chatusky, aged 145, and she is Olga Maslov, aged 131. They live near Berlin. A traveler, report has it, met the world's oldest man, told him of the world's oldest woman, and suggested that the two correspond. They did. Wedding bells will ring. I may be skeptical, but I wonder if "the traveler" wasn't a show man, and if the newly married twain may not find themselves on exhibit in a side show.

ON MARRIAGE!

Speaking of marriage, there is a new book called "The Wedding" by Margaret Leach that those married, those about to marry, and those who may marry, must not fail to read. Perhaps I should limit its field of necessity to the younger married tribe. It will probably sail over the heads of the 40's and 50's and 60's.

It is one of the most beautifully written books of the year. It has the flavor of Morley's "Thunder on the Left." It does not tell. It suggests. It has lines like this—

"She found it unpleasant to imagine Aunt Geraldine finding rest beneath the azure canopy of the slender four-poster bed lying between the fine linen sheets like an old coffee stain."

"The night closed around like a moist black bangle."

The story is simple enough. Lucia and Jay Fanning have been married ten years and have a son, Nickie, aged 7. They have money, position, good breeding, and a gay social life in "the smart set." They are very modern, "broad-minded." They have their respective men and women friends and make dates with people other than one another.

On their tenth wedding anniversary, Lucia discovers that her state is not so perfect, so secure as she had imagined. She learns that Jay loves another woman. And the way in which she learns it throughout the hours of that one day—the tiny wedding anniversary—is the artistry of the book.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Spikes Hosts to 1921 Club Thursday Eve.

With Mr. and Mrs. Houston Spikes entertaining, members of the 1921 Bridge club enjoyed games of bridge Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Spikes, 1612 Broadway. Charles Read and Mrs. Louis Quillin made top counts among the club members; Walter Giffon and Miss Alma Spikes scored highest among the visitors. Favors were presented the winners. A salad course was served at the close of the evening to Messrs. and Mesdames Charles Read, Hunt E. Jones, Louis Quillin, Veldon Spikes, Walter Giffon, Earl Hunt, Mrs. C. S. Gates, of Houston, Miss Alma Spikes, Miss Faye George and Jess Lockhart.

No "scenes." No big things. But the very gentleness of the marceling drama makes it crash like thunder.

And when she really does know, resolved, unemotional Lucia Fanning is primitive. She runs away. She will leave him. How dare he think he can have them both? But before she goes to sleep that night she is the restored wife, calm "modern wife." After all, reasons she, what has she lost? Can before she knew? "Fantasia!" she thought of the dusk she dashed into gray ribbons by her passion.

"After all, he was her husband! she possessed the habit of him, the recitative of his name, the occupancy of his house. They were bound by association, convenience, affection, appearances, shared possessions. At night he would come home to her. She would administer his household, rear his child."

But as Lucia Fanning, no longer primitive prepared for bed, she dropped a bottle of face lotion on the tiled bathroom floor.

"Staring at the scattered fragments of the glass, the spreading liquid, she began silently to weep. The delicate perfume rose and vanished. Moments passed, but still Lucia stood painfully gazing at the bathroom floor. Still tears ran down her pale cheeks, as though hopelessly she grieved for the loss of some secret perfume which she had cherished."

Sheriff Elmer Reed, of Crosbyton, was in Lubbock yesterday.

Therefore judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and will make manifest the counsels of the hearts, and then shall every man have praise of God.—Cor. 4:5.

WILL LUBBOCK GET GAS OR WILL SHE CONTINUE TO BE PLAYED WITH?

Lubbock has been several months in suspense as to whether she is going to get a gas line or not. It is a big project, and of course takes time to complete all arrangements, but it seems that Lubbock has been placed in a rather uncertain attitude, and there has been considerable inconvenience experienced in the letting of contracts for buildings, and the placing of orders for gas equipment by the local dealers, and also in the establishment of new industrial plants, and up to a few weeks ago it seemed that the gas proposition had been forgotten.

The latest information on the subject was carried in a news story from the Commission in the columns of the afternoon paper yesterday afternoon, and in the morning paper of today. This news item refers to the offer of the company to post a $5,000.00 check as a guarantee that the company will start actual construction of the line within sixty days, and within ninety days a mile of line will be laid within the counties touched by the line.

WHISKERS

The cartoonists who today undertake to picture the American farmers as wearers of long beards are as far behind the times as a 20-year-old maiden lady would be behind the prospects of matrimony. An official of a prominent farm organization, who recently made a tour of the agricultural regions of the United States, is said to have expressed surprise after returning from a visit to twenty-five States, that he found almost no farmers with long whiskers.

Monument, he doesn't hunt up a farmer as a customer, but seeks his "sucker" in the cities and usually finds one. So then, if the modern day cartoonists desire to be true to life, in the making of their pictures, they will be wise to discard the proverbial whiskers and represent the average farmer as a man of brains and good judgment who is wise enough to know his friends and strong-willed enough to meet his enemies in the battle of life.

The modern conveniences have certainly made a great change in things, and then the people in the rural communities—receiving much better educational advantages, and they are just naturally better equipped and use better business methods. They are thrown in contact with more people, and their surroundings are different.

NEW BROOMS

The March Rotarian Magazine carries a very good story of the principals of the New broom as applied to the business concerns of the land.

A gift which is always singularly apropos is a new broom—because of its reputation for clean sweeping. The gift, however, is seldom offered, which shows that our tact is equal to our perception!

None the less we all need occasionally the fresh slant and a new start. Quite often when we begin our modest summary of humanity's progress we forget to mention that a good deal of it is forced progress at least. Just how much man really owes to such factors as the irretrievability of time, the niggardliness of nature, and the urge of adverse climatic conditions, it would be hard to say.

No amount of new brooms—actual or figurative—will change these conditions. But a new perspective will add one more spur, and a new incentive may often bring one more achievement. The mind that has sufficient elasticity to take in several angles of a given situation is a mind which minimizes mistakes and increases opportunity.

Because man sheds his skin gradually instead of doing it all at once we are apt to forget that he changes at all. Because things have always been done in a certain way we believe it not possible to do them in any other.

Somewhere we have read that on the New Year, the Chinese merchant pays up all his debts and makes a fresh start. The practice is worthy of imitation—the immediate present is as propitious as the New Year—and one should begin with the debts he owes himself.

LINCOLN'S ELEPHANTS

Few persons, perhaps, know that Abraham Lincoln at one time had a herd of twelve elephants on his hands. He did not exactly have them in his possession, but they were offered to him, and it took all the tact for which he was famous to gracefully decline them.

The letter in which he turned down the proffered gift has only recently come to light, according to a writer in the Pathfinder, who relates that the elephants were presented to President Lincoln for the United States government by the King of Siam, as a token of his friendship toward this country.

Lincoln's reference to his lack of jurisdiction over warm latitudes is given point by the fact that the South was not then under Federal control, and illustrates the subtle humor which often characterized his utterances.

Little Avalanches

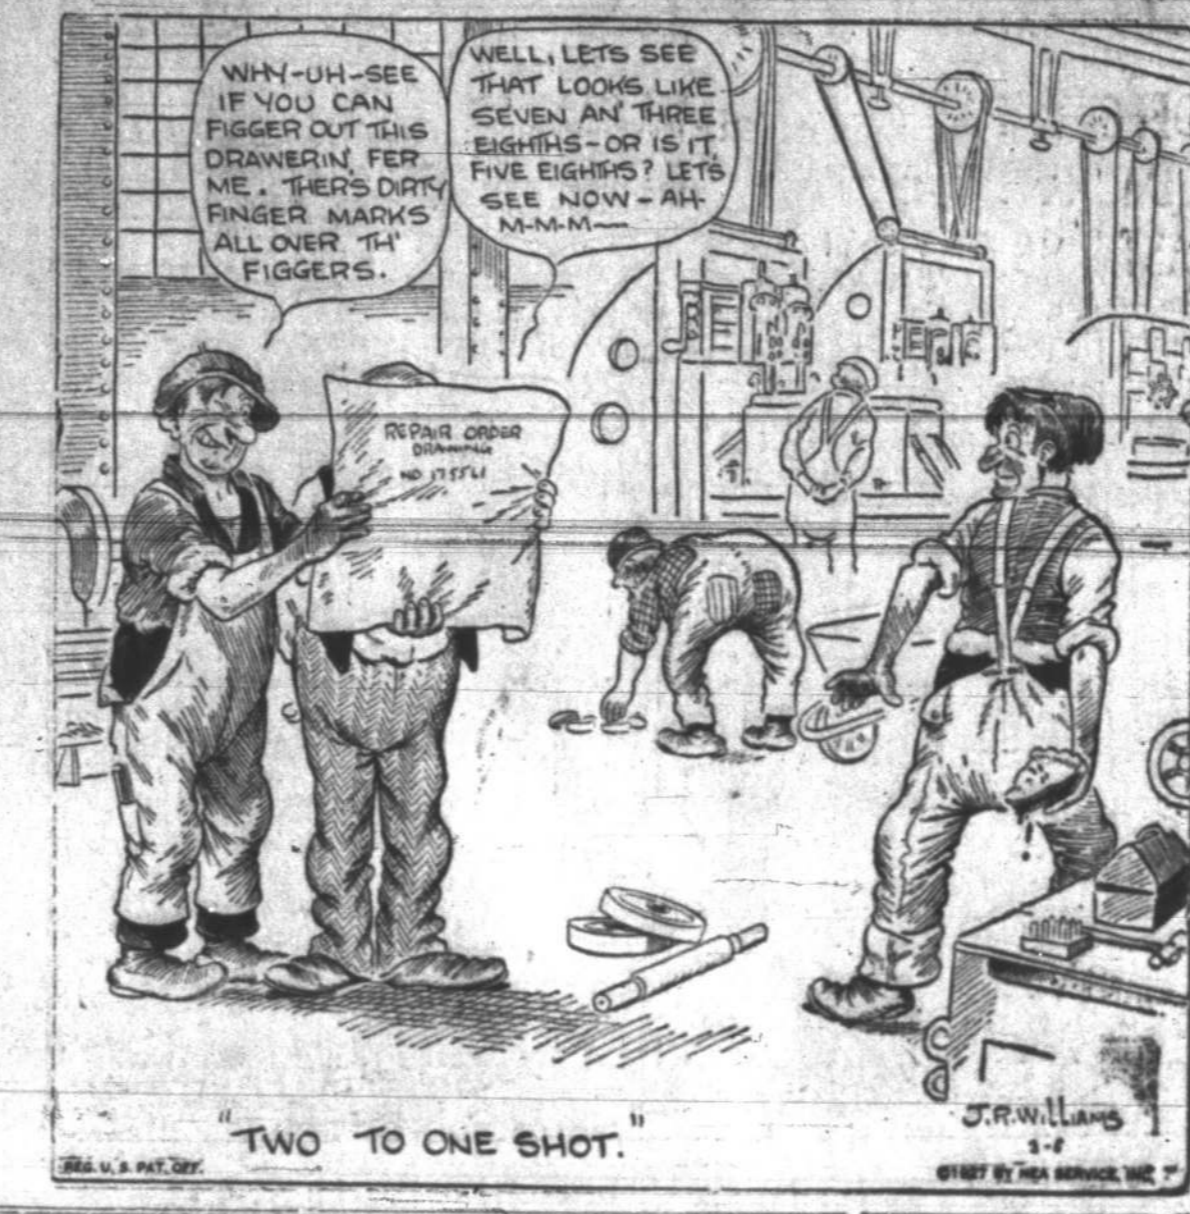

Mexican peasants have imagination, which leads them to see visions of the Blessed Virgin at divers and sundry places. She was reputed to have sat upon an immense houder near Guadalupe once, so when it was sought to blow up the rock during construction operations a few days ago a crowd of women sat upon it and defied the workmen to touch it. Police dragged the women away and the rock was shattered to fragments by a charge of dynamite, to the great consternation of the devout.

While it may be true as Otto Woods contends, that every man is entitled to a vacation, it is generally best to arrange for it in a regular way. Woods was recently arrested in Cincinnati after his third escape from the North Carolina penitentiary, where he is doing 30 years for murder. Upon being apprehended he made his vacation plea in extenuation of his unconventional behavior.

Friendship is a beautiful sentiment, but two Paris ladies carried it too far. Mile. Ernestine Binet and Mile. Sophie Printemps had rings placed in their noses, connected by a gold chain. As they left the jewel's a small boy ran between them, tearing the ring out of Mile. Binet's nose, while that of Mile. Printemps held fast.

Another instance in which rank and pay are out of joint is noted in the State of New York. Governor Alfred E. Smith gets $10,000 a year, while George B. Groves, his able secretary, receives $12,000. It is proposed to increase the governor's salary to $25,000, which does not seem unreasonable for the boss of the Empire State.

OUT OUR WAY

SO THINK WE

We think the Democrats will have to put out a mighty strong man personally in 1928 if he is able to swing the party into the saddle. Al Smith can't do it. McAdoo can't do it. and no wet candidate can go in to the chair on the Democratic ticket. A wet candidate is sure to divide the vote, and thereby kill all chances for election.

We think that a great many people need sympathy more than they need criticism, but sympathy usually spoils them, and criticism very often whips them into activity.

We think that Edward L. Dohoney may survive the $21,584,928 financial blow the government gave him, but it certainly would have given our financial standing a mighty hard jolt had it struck us like it did him.

We think the old adage that every-thing comes to them that wait may possibly be believed by 1928. Civil War widows, who under a new bill in congress will receive their appropriate part of $45,500,000.

We think the fellow who said that it was easy to criticize, possibly learned from experience and practice more than any other way.

We think that possibly the biggest thing that could be done for the South Plains just at this time is to connect it by automobile road with the city of Dallas. It would be a good investment for Dallas to help put this kind of a project over.

We think if Texas raised $2,700,000 worth of tomatoes in 1926 and still has to ship about two-thirds of the tomatoes we eat into the state from Colorado and other states, there is plenty of room for a large number more tomato farms out in the South Plains and also a good location for a good tomato canning plant.

We think that if McNary will run for President and Haugen for vice-president the farmers will elect them and then they can get their farm relief bill through an dthen not veto it.

We think the general public over Peaches Browning a vote of thanks for not allowing to be interviewed.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that Japan is facing a rice shortage. It would appear that China is facing worse than that.

It is reported that Mexico has a special tax on beauty preparations. We wonder that the United States is so extremely behind times.

It is reported that rice is to be sown by means of airplanes in some of the sections of Canada. There are many places that we would like to not live.

It is reported that there is much delay in road work all over the state of Texas, because of the lack of money. Texas got the bluekeys on the road money anyway, and is to be going to take some time to outline the repatriation made during the last two years.

It is reported that the equation to one who can eat a whole meal without putting his elbow on the table, according to the Mineral Wells Index, that being the case there are not many of these in existence.

It is reported that one husband upon being questioned by his wife when he spent his evenings, received the reply that if she would stay at home some evening she would very likely find out.

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

One year ago today the Avalanche carried the following items in its news columns:

"Playing almost like professionals, and to a large and appreciative audience, the Lubbock high school band rendered its first public program at the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock last evening."

"Today the high school Westerners will compete in tri-city meet with Slaton and Post City path cinder clubs."

"Songs of long ago will be features of the program rendered at the Kiwanis club next week. Prof. W. R. Wagborne, Mrs. Frank Barclay and Miss Viola Graham will render the program."

"J. W. Gamel, J. H. Maxey and W. R. Wagborne was a committee selected yesterday to work out a schedule on the Home Beautiful campaign that the Kiwanis club will sponsor this year."

"L. G. Harris who has had charge of the building of the Santa Fe line through to Elmore from Lubbock having completed all details in connection with the construction of that line left yesterday for points in Oklahoma to commence work on a new extension in that state."

"John Roper, laborer for the Panhandle Construction company, suffered a broken collar bone and right arm Thursday morning when he was caught in a ditcher on 4th street."

"Judge Jas. H. Goodman of Lubbock's city court has been confined to his bed since Monday with the flu."

"Sheriff Bud Johnston of Lubbock county will probably attend the next regular meeting of the West Texas peace officers association, March 12, in Inland, California county."

"A. H. Davis, city manager and also manager of the Lubbock chamber of commerce, yesterday pledged his unqualified support to the efforts of Miss Clara Pyle, head of the home economics department at Lubbock high school, to bring the 1927 state girls' clothing contest to this city."

DIVERSIFICATION BEING PROVEN

S. P. Canned We will now converse on something to eat. It is about two cans in a row, first the Free-Range Canned Turkey, then comes the Turkey of the West. It is a vocational institution for colored youth, with F. W. Wheeler as principal. It is located near Worsham and is doing good work, as may be judged by the quality of these canned tomatoes. This Free-Range is not a tomato-like connoisseur, but Mr. V. Schiefelmeier, who is very tasteful in such matters, declares these goods are "Really excellent." He goes farther and says: "This pack of tomatoes from the Free-Range County school was put up by the boys and girls of that school, and prove that quality products can be canned in Texas in spite of heat, drought or wet weather. These tomatoes are as good as any I ever ate in Missouri or Iowa, yet I have heard these last two years that Texas tomatoes lack acidity and are not to be compared to the colored school canners who have proved otherwise."—State

Sentimental? "Stolid" Britons Are the Worst of All

By MILTON BRONNER NEA Service Writer

LONDON, March 4.—The British like to say that Americans are a sentimental young people and the French are a sentimental old people. The implication is always that the British are a stern, steady race, without any of that twaddle in their makeup. But as a matter of fact, for sentimental sniveling, the English take the bun.

Here is a concrete example. Before the war, and for some period during the war there, in the neighborhood of Leicester Square a number of theatrical shows. Shows were given there. The little tradesman and his wife went there to see the shows.

The Rounders, too. But the gilded youths, the sprigs of nobility, the men about town, the rounders, also went there. Not to see the shows. The attraction for them was the promenade with its ladies and the many bars.

Finally the pressure of public opinion became so great that this unpleasant feature of London life was suppressed. The theaters struggled on for a time, but it was a losing fight.

And each time this occurs there is the most perfect display of false dignity that you could find on this earth. The last night performance in the place is packed to the doors. Men, now grown gray, and callow college youths unite in speaking as if the end of the world had come. And the newspapers print columns of sentimental gush.

This phase, sadder truth is, of course, that London is a better place because the old promenades have been suppressed. They were never very staid. Only people with a queer mental and moral kink could get any joy out of them.

They were one of the features of London life which caused the French to speak with acerbity of "English hypocrisy."

It is often so very difficult for a mother to know how best to spend her time and strength. And if she has other interests besides feeding, clothing and housing her family, her problem is still greater.

Last summer I seized a most unusual opportunity, and I left my little ones in other careful hands for an hour or so each day while I attended a University course. One day shortly after my return from class I was folding down a huge basket of clothes fresh and white from my line, and as I laid aside the little undergarments to be worn unwashed, I commented laughingly, "My poor children! Mother attends lecture courses and they have to wear clothes that are not ironed!"

Some time later as I mused over my remark I began to wonder if I had not uttered a grave condemnation against myself. But I am convinced that I am right in the standard I have set for myself in such matters.

I want to do for the children that which will be best for them not only today but ten or twenty years from today. I am trying to provide not only a happy childhood, but also a full, rich maturity. By such a standard I test my daily work.

Tradition teaches that my children shall wear clothes inside and outside that are ironed, that unless I can hire someone else to do it, I must save at a board instead of attending concerts or lecture courses. Experience teaches that a large percentage of mothers faithful to this tradition fall short in the task God gave them to do. These women are usually ideal mothers to little children, but when adolescence comes, trailing its manifold dangers, these mothers can no longer serve their best. Bodies and nerves are spent in ceaseless labors, minds once keen are dulled by the deadly monotony of such tasks as ironing seven little undergarments for each of three children every week, for twelve or thirteen years.

I want to give my husband and children the best of all I have. I try to keep the little ones as clean as healthy children can be, not only for today's health, but for the strength of the bodies they will need to do life's work. I try to direct their thoughts and feelings, of that they may conduct their little lives rightly today and may achieve Godly manhood and womanhood. And through it all and for it all I must leave untold many of the things of the passing moment that I may spend my time and strength on things of far reaching consequences, and at the same time I must keep my self fit to serve my grown boys and girls at a time when they will most need a mother who is keen, sympathetic and strong.

Three From One Ratus was proudly sporting a new shirt when a friend asked, "How many yards does it take for a shirt like that?" Ratus replied, "I got three shirts like this out of one yard last night."

Teacher (to boy sitting blankly at school during writing time)—"Henry, why are you not writing?" Henry—"I ain't got no pen." Teacher—"Where's your grammar?" Henry—"She's dead."—Dry Goods Economist.

MEMORIES

On June 16, 1905, the Avalanche carried the following local news items: I. L. Hunt, after spending a few days with relatives here returned to his home in Canton.

W. S. Poney and wife, Jone Penney and wife and Miss Mable Penney spent Monday on the canyon fishing, and report a very fine catch.

T. D. Haney, of north of Lubbock was here the latter part of last week, and stated that they were contemplating selling their old school building and building a larger one, as the old one is now too small.

W. R. Adams, the handsome bachelor from the southside of the county was in the city the first of the week.

Uncle Joe Onion returned the first of this week from several week's sheep shearing campaign through the eastern part of the plains.

John Penney has been papering his room and fixing it up most beautifully. Now don't ask why.

George Carter, one of our prosperous merchants received a handsome family carriage this week.

Harry Reed, the handsome cow-boy from the north side of the county was here Tuesday, and said he knew several things but none of it would be good to go in a newspaper.

Pastor Walter Griffith, and a number of helpers were busy the first of the week placing the new pews in the Methodist church. They are handsome and comfortable factory made pews, but of helpers were busy the first of the week.

Colleges of Sentiment The receipts from the box office could not hope to make good the losses incurred when the bars were no longer a bonanza. One by one these once famous—or shall one say notorious?—houses have been forced to give up the ghost.

And each time this occurs there is the most perfect display of false dignity that you could find on this earth. The last night performance in the place is packed to the doors. Men, now grown gray, and callow college youths unite in speaking as if the end of the world had come. And the newspapers print columns of sentimental gush.

This phase, sadder truth is, of course, that London is a better place because the old promenades have been suppressed. They were never very staid. Only people with a queer mental and moral kink could get any joy out of them.

How Shall Mother Choose Her Tasks?

It is often so very difficult for a mother to know how best to spend her time and strength. And if she has other interests besides feeding, clothing and housing her family, her problem is still greater.

JUST FOLKS

LIFE

Argue things as you will, Or pre- or con- or pro- Press forward or stand still. The world goes on. Hunger and thirst and pain Pass and return again. Join with this throng or that, Wear blue or gray, Food's cap or cardinal's hat. Still day by day At dawn the sun will rise Lighting the eastern skies. The world goes on despite Our thoughts or dreams, Still shine the stars at night.

Still flow the streams, Nor will the mountains care Whether we mark them there. Time on us each bestows A stretch of years But still unchanged it goes By smiles or tears. Not time's but ours to bear The anguish of despair.

Each at his little post The while he lives Must strive to make the most Of what he gives. Men pass but these remain, Hunger and thirst and pain.

RALLS GOES INTO SEMI-FINAL STATE CAGE TILT

SOUTH PLAINS' QUINTET DEFEATS TWO OPPONENTS IN FIRST DAY OF TEXAS INTERSCHOLASTIC BASKETBALL

(By Associated Press)
COLLEGE STATION, March 4.—Athens high, Denton high, Reagan high, of Houston, and Ral's high entered the semi-finals of the state interscholastic basketball conference tournament to be played Saturday morning by virtue of victories Friday night.

Saturday morning Denton will play Reagan high, Reagan and Athens will play Athens, the winners of the respective contests meeting Saturday night for the state interscholastic championship.

Ral's defeated Alpine 32 to 14 in the third basketball game of tonight's play.

Denton defeated Breckenridge high school of Pan Antonio, 46 to 17 in the first bracket, of Friday night's matches. Reagan high of Houston, defeated Austin high school 18 to 17 in the second game of the night play.

Athens high beat Cisco high 30 to 18.

SE of the fourteen teams entered in the tournament here, all bi-district champions, had been eliminated when the first and second brackets, comprising the first round, had been completed. Denton and Cisco did not play in the first round, each having drawn a bye.

Brown, Kirkland, Taft, Carlton, Sulphur Springs and Shiner were the teams which fell by the wayside.

Results in the first two brackets:
Breckenridge (San Antonio) 23; Brown 26.

Edwards (Houston) 29; Kirkland 24; Austin 49; Taft 4.

Ral's 29; Carlton 22; Alpine 35; Sulphur Springs 22; Athens 35; Shiner 9.

From a Sporting Viewpoint

Daily Olympic Stadium is being used in Amsterdam, March 4.—The Dutch Olympic Committee has issued a communique strongly denying a widely circulated rumor that the ground of the new Amsterdam stadium is gradually sinking. On the contrary, the committee says, the work is going forward excellently. The last pile, establishing a record of 4,625 piles, has been driven in less than four months. The concrete foundations are nearly finished, the subsoil under gradually used the surface of the playing ground has been prepared and as soon as mild weather sets in grass will be sown. The question of building an Olympic village near the stadium has not been decided.

Wesley Goal Tender Breaks Into Papers

PITTSBURGH, March 4.—Generally the goal tender in a hockey game gets poor plunkings in the way of publicity but Roy Worters is one who does not share by the rules of the game. Roy Worters' National Hockey League team, holds the distinction of having featured a newspaper account of a sensational game. Montreal writers gave him all the credit for the victory recently when the Blues won over the champion Maroons in the Canadian Cup.

Spillall Pitcher Dealt to Seven

CHICAGO, March 4.—Only seven remain of the vanishing tribe of major league spillall pitchers out of 17 per cent of the total number of pitchers in the American League. Quinn of the Athletics has been in the majors 18 years, Pater of Chicago 13 years and Coveloski of Washington and Shuster of New York 11 years. In the National League of Professional Baseball has been a big league 11 years and Dock of Brooklyn and Grimes of New York 10 years. Dock returns to Brooklyn this season after a period of retirement when he was a Texas real estate dealer.

Keller Goes Into Slaton Territory

E. H. Keller, new state highway law enforcement officer, spent yesterday in Slaton where he gave the citizens of the section warning concerning the lack of tail lights, head lights and license tags. Keller has had a busy time since arriving in Lubbock and has already added a considerable number of Lubbock county auto owners to his list of violators.

OKLAHOMA WINS

NORMAN, Okla., March 4 (AP)—A close game Oklahoma university basketball team beat Grinnell college 54 to 52 here this afternoon.

RULE MAKERS FROWN ON ATTEMPTS TO WEAKEN FOOTBALL ATTACK BY REVISION OF FORWARD PASSING

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK, March 4.—Facing a prolonged debate over the shift and padding with an apparently wide diversity of opinion, on which either should be pursued or eliminated, members of the National Football rules committee started a two day session today at the Roosevelt hotel.

BASKETBALL

At Des Moines: Iowa State 54; Drake 50.
At Fort Worth: Marland 51; Panhandle 22.
At Lawrence: Kansas 49; Kansas State 24.
At Abilene: West Texas Teachers 29; Abilene Christian college 19.

Frenchman Wins Over Willie Hoppe

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—Felix Grange, sensational French billiardist tonight sprung an upset in the 18.2 ballline world's billiard championship tournament by defeating Willie Hoppe of New York, present champion, 498 to 254.

MCDONALD BREAKS AUCTION SALE MARK

TOPS ALL FOUR OF HIS OWN HIGH RECORDS AT AMARILLO

Special to The Advance
HEREFORD, March 4.—When D. L. McDonald of Hereford sold the top of the auction sale in Amarillo, March 2, he established a record for other breeders to shudder at. The fourth Hereford sale that Mr. McDonald has entered, and he topped all four of them.

In 1925 Mr. McDonald topped the Panhandle Hereford breeders sale in Amarillo and the Texas Hereford breeders sale in Sweetwater. Last March he sold the top of the Texas Hereford breeders auction sale in Fort Worth.

Four line bred Anxiety 4th bulls, all sons of Mr. McDonald's herd sire, Super Anxiety, are consigned to the Texas Hereford breeders sale in Fort Worth, scheduled for March 9. One of these bulls, Super Anxiety 7th was grand champion of the Deer South County Hereford Show last September and was judged junior and grand champion of the Panhandle Hereford show in Amarillo, March 1. This bull, and nine of his brothers and sisters will be shown in Fort Worth during the southwestern exposition and Fat Stock show.

The Hereford country is considered the headquarters for line bred Anxiety 4th Herefords, and an excellent string of Herefords have been shipped from here to the big show in Fort Worth.

Chalk Field Driller Crushed to Death

Special to The Advance
BIG SPRING, March 4.—George Herby of Colorado, Texas oil well driller, was killed at the Chalk oil field, 20 miles south of Big Spring at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon. He was drilling on Marland well No. 16 when his clothing caught in a wire cable and he was crushed on the drum of the drilling machinery, his skull being crushed. His wife witnessed the accident, having driven from Colorado to the well arriving about 15 minutes before the accident occurred. His body was taken to his home at Colorado for burial by the Elberton undertaking establishment of Big Spring.

WINS FLORIDA OPEN

PANFORD, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Sensational putting including nine one-putt greens on the morning round well placed iron and wood shots today won for William Burke, Clearwater club member, the 12 hole Central Florida open golf championship, held over the Sanford country club course. Burke had a total of 230.

WINS FLORIDA TITLE FOR WOMEN'S TENNIS

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Miss Clara Cassel, veteran New York net star, won the Florida state women's tennis championship here today for the third time by conquering Mrs. D. F. Stenz, her fellow-townswoman, in straight sets.

JAP DEFEATED AGAIN

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—Kiryu Matsuyama of Japan today met his fourth defeat in the 18.2 ballline billiard championship tournament at the hands of Edward Hovvams, of Belgium by the score of 498 to 256.

National Track Honors for Third Consecutive Year Is Goal of Dean Cromwell, at Southern California

By NEA Service
LOS ANGELES, March 4.—Out here on the Pacific coast, Dean Cromwell, the champion-maker, is confronted with the task of winning the third consecutive track and field championship to Southern California.

While only 14 1/2 points are left to the Trojans from the 25 1/2 they amassed to win the I. C. A. A. for the second consecutive time at Boston last May, Cromwell has potentially a team that will rate with any other collegiate club aggregation in the United States.

The greatest loss will be felt by the Trojans through the graduation of Bud Houser, Kenneth Grumbles and Leighton Dye. Houser, champion in both weight events, and world's record holder in the discus, Grumbles, the low hurdle king, and Dye, the high hurdle champ, made twenty points between them at Boston. Bill Cook, the other graduate, made two and one-half points in the javelin.

Returning are Joe Aleks, shot putter, Cliff Reynolds, high hurdles and broad jump; Henry Coggeshall, high jump, and Ted Larwood, pole vault, the men who scored the rest of the points for Southern California. Around these men, other veterans of last year's dual meet victories, and a promising line of freshmen stars of last season, Cromwell hopes to build his championship team.

In the sprints, the Trojans should be stronger than any university in the nation. Last season, Cromwell had three sprinters in Ed House, Herschel Smith and Johnny Parsons that were undefeated in the 220-yard event throughout the dual meet season, and scored a "hurd" "0-0" in the shorter event. Ed House, who ran 9.9 in the 100 last year and 21 1/2 in the 200, is captain of this year's team.

Two sophomores will probably supplant the veteran stars in the sprints. Ed House and Vernon Brown ran so fast as freshmen that Cromwell has decided to shift Smith and Parsons over to the 440-yard dash.

Borah, a product of Phillips Andover Academy, Massachusetts, became famous by running within an inch of Charlie Paddock when the "fastest human" set the new century record of 3.65.

Borah increased his prestige by winning the national A. A. E. 100-yard title, defeating Jackson Scholz, considered one of the greatest sprinters of all time.

Weldon Draper, who has run 9.4-10 in high school at Fort Worth, Texas, is nearly as fast as Borah. He defeated Borah in an early-freshman race last season, and was out for the rest of the year with an injury.

In the 440-yard dash, Bruce Smith, who has beaten 50 flat, is potentially the best quarter-mile that Cromwell boasts. If the two sprinters Smith and Parsons, shifted from the 100-yard dash to the quarter-mile, come through, Coach Cromwell has a fine chance to put over another championship team in track.

Strolling Down Sport Lane With James R. Dow

Breckenridge high school, of San Antonio, John Reagan high, of Houston, and Austin high school teams won their contest yesterday morning in the annual basketball meet, being held at College Station this year.

The track will be finished for the Matador cinder path followers and the wearers of the abbreviated-phantom will have their try-outs with in the next few days for the team that will represent Texas Tech at the meet.

Windy and disagreeable afternoons have slowed the baseball work-outs down considerably in the Tech camp. Coach Ewing Y. Freeland and his recruits will be hitting the apple and fielding the horseshoe in a few days getting ready for the schedule.

H. C. Hervey, manager of Tech athletics, stated yesterday that a good baseball calendar is being prepared for this season. Although several games have been indefinitely set the Matador card carries a hard and stiff series of games. A great percent of the games now scheduled will be batched out on the home lot.

It may not be football season—but is football training to 48 husky local high school gridsters. Coaches L. J. von Tungen and Henry Frank are getting ready for their fall contests with a good line of material working out daily during the spring training.

Golf will no doubt be a popular pastime in Lubbock this summer as so far nothing is being done towards the promotion of baseball here this summer. The municipal and country club courses will get a good play. Golfers who intend to playing this game extensively this summer and who are not members of the country club should sign up for membership in the municipal course—it's cheaper in the long run.

Twitty Explains Early Siren Whistle

Answering the protests made by a number of Lubbock citizens against the lengthy blowing of the fire siren early yesterday morning, Fire Chief W. E. Twitty said yesterday that the blowing of the siren and wail orders were given to stop it, he would have to continue it. He explained that when a call was made to the business district, every man in the station went on the run, therefore leaving no one to close down the siren and it had to blow until one of the men returned to cut it off.

The whistle blew for several minutes yesterday morning about four o'clock when the fire in the Corner Drug store at the intersection of Thirteenth and Avenue H was extinguished. The inside of the store was damaged considerably, the flames burning a number of shelves and part of a counter, more than 40 gallons of chemical being used to put it out. It started from a bunch of rags and paper in a waste basket.

Will Tell Lubbock of W. T. C. C. Meet

W. B. Hamilton, chairman of the publicity and conventions committee of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce, will attend the Retail Merchants' association banquet here next Monday to lay before Lubbock citizens the plans for the convention.

Dempsey Saving Wallop for Gene

By NEA Service
LOS ANGELES, March 4.—Why waste a knockout punch on Jack Delaney or some other contender for Gene Tunney's crown when that same punch might return that same crown to the head that wore it rather proudly before Tunney earned it?

There is the logic used by Jack Dempsey, ex-champ in turning a deaf ear to the entreaties of Tex Rickard to participate in Mr. Rickard's well-known series of elimination bouts in New York.

"One punch might regain the title for me," murmurs Dempsey, "so why waste it on Delaney when it would mean so much on Tunney?"

Magnolia Slashes Crude Oil Again

DALLAS, March 4 (AP)—Magnolia Petroleum company posted another slash in crude prices Friday night effective at 7 p. m. Saturday. The cut amounts to 10 cents a barrel for all oil brought on a gravity basis and testing 28 degrees baume in Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas. For oil of 28 to 28.9 degrees the cut is 12 cents a barrel. A differential of 2 cents above that as the gravity scale ascends, reaching 18 cents on oil of 32 gravity and above.

NEW BILL SUGGESTED

AUSTIN, March 4 (AP)—Incorporated church and charitable organizations would be empowered to retain directors for three year terms instead of one year as required by law at present under an amendment bill finally passed in the house today. Representative J. H. Kirby of Houston, author of the bill, explained that the Texas State Baptist association wants it.

COLORADO WOULD DOUBLE GAS TAX

DENVER, March 4 (AP)—Increase of the gasoline tax from two to four cents a gallon was approved today by the Colorado house of representatives.

BIG LAKE THEATER TO OPERATE ON SUNDAY

Special to The Advance
BIG LAKE, March 4.—Petitions have been filed in several prominent places in Big Lake, and are being signed by numerous persons of the town, urging Manager Elliott owner of the Crystal Theater to open his place for one or two shows on Sundays, and Elliott has agreed to do this, the shows to be of a moral, educative and yet entertaining nature. This move has been adopted to stop the Sunday flow of Big Lake traffic into Deaf.

HUMMING MACHINERY IN MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL CAMPS GROWS LOUDER AS STARS GET DOWN TO REAL WORK

(By Associated Press)
ATLANTA, March 4.—The humming of machinery in major league baseball camps of Florida, Louisiana and Texas grew louder and more regular today.

The Boston Red Sox had their first workout of any consequence when Bill Currrigan led the American leaguers to their New Orleans lot and started them out on a practice game.

Manager Harris rounded off a few rough edges at Tampa as he put the Washington Senators through their last drill before crossing bats with the Boston Braves tomorrow.

A number of regulars will start in both leagues.

The shortest training session of the day was at Tarpon Springs, where Cleveland's Indians showed more snap and pep today than at any time since they got together.

Wayland Dean, pitcher, and John Moxan, outfielder, have arrived in the Philadelphia Nationals' camp at Bradenton but the entire squad is not expected for a couple of days.

CATTLE SALES TOTAL LARGE AT PLAINVIEW

HALE COUNTY SELLS $55,000 WORTH CATTLE IN TEN DAYS

Special to The Advance
PLAINVIEW, March 4.—Cattle sales totaling more than $55,000 have been made in the vicinity of Plainview within the past ten days.

All have brought a good price and cows have brought as high as $55 and yearling steers as high as $45. Wheat has been used a great deal as a winter pasture by local cattlemen and wood profits have been made by them. There are still several large bunches of select cattle on farms and ranches near Plainview.

C. G. Goodman and W. E. Powl sold about 400 head of cows and 453 head of calves and yearlings. The cows brought $55 and the calves $45. Fred West and Hanley Vasson sold 200 head of short calves at $28. J. C. Terry sold 100 head of yearling steers at $45. There are many other large herds of white faces in this section, many more than in past years.

Many wheat farmers in this section have considerably reduced the expense of their crops by selling wheat pasture to the cow men. Others have benefited greatly, by buying small bunches of cattle and pasturing them through the winter. This season has seen good money made in the Plainview country through winter pasturing of wheat land.

Will Write Life of Late Doctor Elliott

BOSTON, March 4 (AP)—The literary executors of Dr. Charles W. Elliott, President Emeritus of Harvard university who died last August in his sixty-second year, announced today they had authorized Henry James to prepare a biography.

Mr. James is a son of the late William James and a nephew of Henry James the novelist. He is an overseer of Harvard. William James was long professor of philosophy at Harvard.

LAST PAN-AMERICAN PLANE ARRIVES AT BEUNOS AIRES

BUENOS AIRES, March 4 (AP)—The United States army Pan-American ship San Antonio arrived here this evening from Bahla Blanca, Argentina. The San Antonio is flying to undertake the other good will fliers who left Asuncion, Paraguay, today, for Montevideo, Uruguay.

SCOUTS WILL TILT FOR PLAINS TITLE

TROOP 4, LUBBOCK, AND TROOP 1 OF CANYON, TO MEET APRIL 16

Scoutmaster Clapp of Troop 4 returned yesterday from Canyon where details were completed for a meeting of Troop 1, Canyon, with the local troop for the championship of the North and South Plains, on April 16 at Canyon.

Troop 4 recently won the Lubbock field meet and is considered to be the best troop in the South Plains council. Troop 1 of Canyon is the champion of the Panhandle council, the largest council in the United States, comprising twenty-seven counties with headquarters at Amarillo.

"Bad" Weather Good for Lockney Wheat

LOCKNEY, March 4.—Sleet, snow and freezing weather, now prevalent in this section, will greatly benefit growing wheat crops. During the past few days the temperature has been so high that farmers feared for wheat and fruit crops. They have prospects of a bumper crop at this time, but a few more warm days and then a hard freeze would have proven disastrous.

FEWER PLEASURE CARS, MORE TRUCKS AT MULESHOE

MULESHOE, March 4.—Daley county, up to February 15, 1927, showed a decrease in the registration of passenger automobiles and an increase in the registration of trucks over the previous year up to that time. On February 15, 1925, 385 automobile owners had paid for tags while at the same time this year only 278 had done so. This year the truck registration on February 15 was 160 and the same time last year it was 90.

HUNT FOR PROPHECESS

LOS ANGELES, March 4 (AP)—The San Diego police and the sheriff of Los Angeles county were requested by Los Angeles police to aid in the apprehension of Mrs. Margaret Rowan, religious leader, and self-styled prophetess. She is being sought on a warrant charging conspiracy with intent to murder Dr. Burt Palmer, former member of her church and leader of an opposing religious cult.

TROOPS TO FRONT

SHANGHAI, March 4 (AP)—Shantung province troops of the northern alliance were hurried to the front south of Shanghai to replace thousands of deserters fleeing before the Cantonese at Sunkiang, 25 miles from this city. The army of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang, fallen ruler of five eastern provinces of China, its morale gone, demoralized after its defeat at Hangehew a fortnight ago, has disintegrated.

T. P. R. R. Improves Big Spring Holdings

Special to The Avalanche. BIG SPRING, March 4.—The T. & P. railroad is making considerable improvements around their local station at Big Spring. About 100 feet of concrete sidewalks will be placed between the passenger depot and the tracks. On the north side of the depot abutting first street there will be about 700 square feet of macadam. This will hard surface the spots on both sides of the passenger depot.

Three Film Outfits May Consolidate

NEW YORK, March 4.—News comes of the consolidation of three motion picture concerns with assets of more than $100,000,000 in progress and probably will be completed next week. It was learned today from officials of the firms involved. The firms are the Stany company of America, with headquarters in New York, the West Coast Theatres company, with principal offices in Los Angeles and San Francisco, and First National pictures, Inc., which has its headquarters in New York.

FREED ON BOYER MURDER CHARGE

IMPOSSIBLE TO CONVICT COUPLE, ATTORNEY DECLARES

(By the Associated Press) OSHKOSH, Neb., March 4.—The last episode in the strange case of Frank Boyer, who was murdered on his lonely ranch in the sand hills, 24 miles northwest of here in 1914, ended today when his wife, Minnie Boyer, and her common law husband, Henry Boyer, were freed of murder conspiracy charges and released. The couple confessed at Kearney, Nebraska just recently that Boyer was murdered by Thomas Boyer, brother of Henry, following an argument 13 years ago. They were brought to Oshkosh and Henry led a Garfield county posse in the search for the grave which was found after 36 hours' digging. With the bones of the slain man identified, County Attorney Frank Dutton charged the two with murder conspiracy.

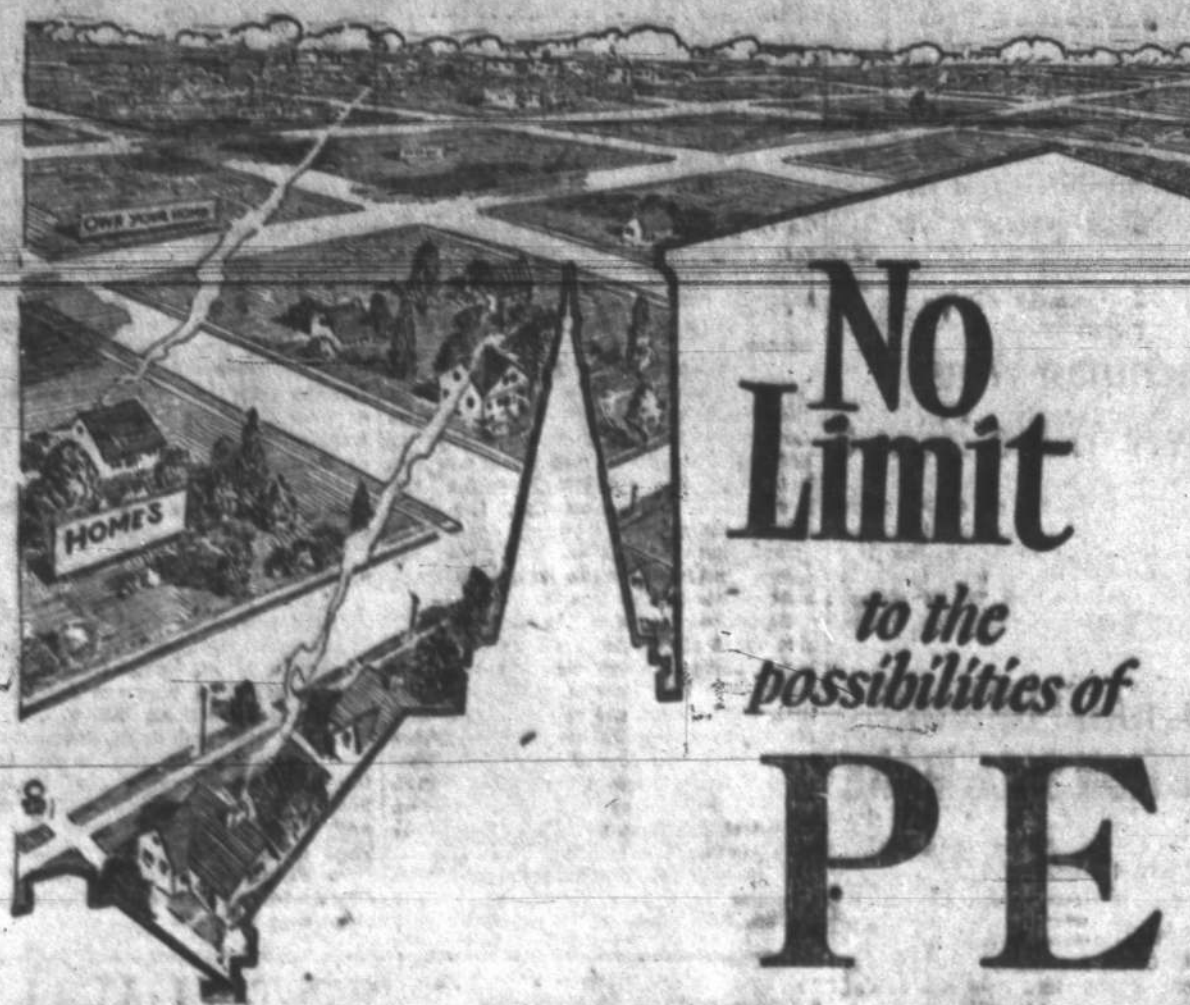

ENGLISH RACER KILLED

Driving Chain Breaks While Car is Going 160 Miles An Hour

BRINDLE, Wales, March 4 (AP)—J. G. Parry-Thomas, one of the greatest British automobile racers, met a terrible death today, while trying to break the world's automobile speed record.

The driving chain broke as he piloted a huge racing car along the sands of the beach at the terrific speed of 160 miles an hour. The big automobile turned three somersaults and skidded about 150 yards. A wheel came off and the broken driving shafts whirled around Parry-Thomas' neck. LET'S TALK On Pleasant Things

No Limit to the possibilities of PEP!

There are things happening, even in these quiet times, that offer YOU opportunities. To be able to see them is the BIG THING. Later it will be an easy matter for you to point out the PAST OPPORTUNITIES—that you FAILED to see at the time. What pleasanter subject could you find than one that deals with your present and future welfare? All right, then, let's go further!

Nearly 100 Lots Have Been Bought There Very Recently

That's a little surprising to many no doubt who are acquainted with PEP—and what's going on near this thriving, growing village! The fact that you can buy lots NOW on mighty easy terms, or can get them by TRADING us property of other kinds, even for a RESIDENCE IN LUBBOCK (which we happen to want right now) isn't any more interesting, of course, than the possibilities of that investment. Let us tell you more:

POTASH

Did you know that there are three POTASH lakes near PEP than any other town? That Silver Lake, 2 1-2 miles West of PEP has been tested and found to be one of the richest potash finds in the Southwest? Then there's the Illusion and Yellow Lake just Four miles East of PEP and Bull Lake just to the North.

Now remember how our government is beginning the development of Potash finds in his section. Certainly these lakes will be developed sooner or later.

OIL

In speaking of LOTS in PEP we can't emphasize too much the great possibilities your investment has on account of the drilling operations now being enthusiastically carried on in YELLOWHOUSE NO. 1—just Four miles of PEP. This test is now nearing 3,900 feet with the most flattering reports coming to us.

If the well comes in a producer, turn your imagination loose on the possibilities of PEP—and the returns on money invested in lots, none of which sell for more than $225 now.

FARMING

But aside from all the possibilities along the line of Potash and Oil development, look at lots in PEP with your best eye on the agricultural section which it now serves and which will gradually be expanded and further developed.

Lots are priced with only regard to the agricultural development of PEP and its community, and the other possibilities offered are not considered in our pricing. So if you have something to trade or wish to make a good, sound investment, or if you have a RESIDENCE in Lubbock, talk your proposition over with us.

NO GENERAL DECREASE IN ACREAGE OF COTTON THIS YEAR, REPORTS TO WEST TEXAS C. OF C. NOW INDICATE

STAMFORD, March 4.—There will be no general decrease in cotton acreage this year according to numerous reports which have come to the office of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Despite all efforts to bring about average reduction, the land is being put up for cotton at about the normal rate of increase. The acreage of cotton will show an increase according to these reports. The feeling seems to be general over the cotton section that there will be a decrease in total acreage throughout the south this year. Hence the man who tills the soil figures that the general reduction is going to cause an advance in price, and that by slipping in a few extra acres, he will benefit. In some communities meetings have been held according to reports received. Local men in those places have confidentially advised the farmers to talk a great deal about reducing cotton in order to secure the other fellow in other sections into reducing acreage, then to plant ten acres of his more cotton and benefit by the crop that will be made. The reports during February presented many men planting spring crops as they had planned. Considerable acreage was planted to oats, by planting like the acreage that had been neglected. Field men report that this land is now being planted to wheat in place of cotton. The only thing that can prevent the threatened increase is for the farmers to decide upon wanting a tremendous acreage in wheat. This is considered unlikely by those who usually bring low crop prices on the market. In some sections farmers have found that by planting less cotton they can realize more money from wheat than from cotton, but the average farmer dislikes to wait for his profit after gathering the crop. He prefers a crop that he can sell and consider cotton the easiest crop to raise. Hence the feeling that 1927 will see an almost cotton acreage as was planted in 1926.

An active road building program was also taken up by the Rankin chamber of commerce.

BARBLES RECOMMENDED TO CURE FLAT FEET

AUSTIN, March 4.—A committee of the University of Texas has advised that waybarbles, but not up-to-date. According to University relief, the flat foot victim sees the barbles between the first and its neighbor and walks a distance of 100 yards with the barbles in that manner. The process lessens the necessary muscles and stretches the fallen arches, it is explained.

CRITIC PRAISES
MME. MATZENAUER

"DON GIOVANNI" IS AT LOSS FOR WORDS TO LAUD GREAT SINGER

It would seem that critics and writers in general are forced to take refuge in superlatives when writing about the art of Mme. Margaret Matzenauer, who will be heard at the Tech college assembly hall March 24. Witness the enthusiastic review of her art by "Don Giovanni" in Music and Musicians. He writes:

"When a music critic is confronted with such a gigantic undertaking as to write a few sympathetic words about such a popular, well beloved, resplendent star of the first magnitude, such as this diva of insuperable attainments, what should he say? And if inspiration should not come to grief before the awe inspired by the impotent personality in question, how can he put in adequate words the sentiments that fill his mind with every thought of her performance?"

It is well known how certain artists suffer from stage fright, and how social climbers, presented for the first time before the august person of a king or a queen, become speechless and awkward. Now, then, this scribe is filled with the same stage fright which certain singers experience when appearing for the first time before an audience. Before this Queen of Song, the pen of this scribe refuses to follow the promptings of the inspiration with which the queenly beauty of Margaret Matzenauer has filled his mind. Well does he remember how she has thrilled him with her superb voice and divine art—and the thrill still persists. Whether as Kundry in Parsifal, as Dollah in Le Prophete in Asia, in any role vested by this supreme diva, one is always certain of a genuine artistic thrill. Yet, why attempt a description of the sun or moon? Only the pen of a Theophile Gautier could do justice to the divine art of Matzenauer. All that which this scribe can say is that he has been genuinely thrilled by Matzenauer, herself, her voice and her art.

WHAT IT TELLS About You!

How do you stand in the world of business—is your credit record all that it ought to be? Whatever its status, you alone are responsible. Every one intends to pay his bills promptly. Most people carry out the intention. Some, however, "put off" and become slow pay... some experience temporary financial difficulty and frankly talk it over with the merchant who extended credit, promising payment. The fact that you "promise to pay" is sufficient assurance to your merchant that you at least want to pay your bills when they become due. There is a great deal of satisfaction in knowing that your credit standing rates high. When your bills are paid, your mind is at rest... you can look the world in the eye and smile all the while. If you're in arrears, catch up as soon as you can... and from then on pay up promptly.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
Death strikes GARRETT FOLSON while bathing at Ocean Town, N. J. After being perfunctorily examined by a doctor, the body is brought to the Hotel Majusaca, where an inquiry is started.

Folson's bathing companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, MRS. HELEN BARNABY, and CARMELITA VALDON. It is established that Folson, just before his death had been standing next to NED BARRON, known as the copper king.

Then the startling announcement is made that Folson had been stabbed to death in the water. ROSS, the waiter, is questioned, as are Barron and his wife, but no light is shed on the mystery.

ANASTASIA FOLSOM eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is established that the death weapon was a pichee, an Oriental knife, and that it had been found in the washbasin on the boardwalk.

Carmelita Valdon, who stood on the other side of Folson at the time of his death, is unable to describe his actions at the time, and the coroner seems suspicious.

NO GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XVIII
"I did," said Carmelita, "but to stand next a person on dry land is one thing. And in the rolling, tumbling surf it is quite another thing. I was entirely occupied with the difficulty of keeping my feet against the crush of the waves, or notice or think about anyone else. There was a big wave rolling in, and after it had passed, I noticed that Mr. Folson had disappeared. But I gave it no second thought, assuming—as I noticed at all—that he had been swept off his feet and would right himself in a moment."

"And then, what did you see next?"

"Then I saw the life guards coming our way. But even then I didn't think of their being any of our party until I saw them dive or stoop down and come up with Mr. Folson in their arms."

"The two men?"

"That I don't know—if you mean did they both carry Mr. Folson, I think only a confused memory of somebody raising Mr. Folson from the water and hearing a few stifled screams from women nearby."

"And then, Mrs. Valdon?"

"Then I saw Mr. Neville coming our way and he told us to come on out of the water. I asked him what ailed Mr. Folson, but he didn't reply. He was helping Mrs. Barnaby along, and he turned to ask if I was all right. I said yes, and then we all went out on the beach and found a great crowd gathered. Mr. Neville told us Mr. Folson had had a stroke or something and for us all to go to our bathhouses and dress. So we did, and when I was dressed and out again, they had taken Mr. Folson up to the hotel, and Mr. Neville told us to come along too."

"Thank you, Mrs. Valdon, for a clear straightforward account of the scene. Now, Mr. Barron went forward with visible reluctance."

"You stood next Mr. Folson at the rope?" Hubbard asked him.

"Yes, next to him."

"You knew him?"

"I had never seen him before to my knowledge. I am told he arrived at our hotel the night before, but I had not noticed him, and had no idea who he was."

"You talked with him?"

"He addressed a few observations to me, which I naturally answered, but I made no further conversation with him."

"What were his observations about?"

"To the effect that he had not been in Ocean Town for some years. That the fashion in bathing suits had changed in that time. And that's about all I can remember of his chat."

"And soon after that he went under the water?"

"Yes, but at that time I was turned in the other direction and I did not see him fall."

"Thank you, Mr. Barron, that is all."

Jepson, the detective, had returned from his errand to the shop of the auctioneer, with some details of the sale of curios that took place on Thursday evening.

He responded to the coroner's inquiries by saying that the proprietor of the place had been most willing and anxious to be of assistance in the matter, but that his information had been of little real value.

"Could you find out if this dagger was sold that evening?"

"Yes, it was, but it was not possible to learn who bought it."

Everard Meeker asked to be allowed to interrupt and stated that as a frequenter of auction rooms, he was sure the name and address of buyers was always made a matter of record.

"Mr. Hirsch," Jepson responded, "for that is the name of the man who owns the business, tells me that it is customary in large and important sales to take the names of the buyers. But he says that the sales conducted in his establishment are often of goods of slight value, and that fully half of the items sold are merely paid for at the moment and the purchasers carry them off."

"But the sale Thursday night included many really valuable curios," Meeker insisted, "and the prices—in many instances ran fairly high."

"Yes," Jepson agreed, "that is true. But it seems this—what do you call it?—though, is not of great value and was among the last to be sold, and it is not certain that the address of the buyer was noted."

"Not certain!" cried Miss Folsom, who was devouring with her eyes the police detective. "Then it may be they have his address?"

"It is possible they told me. You see, I didn't have the dagger with me, and though I thought I recognized it on the list they showed me, yet I could not be positive. It seems the rare pieces were sold first, and after that the lesser valued ones were put up. Sometimes in lots of more than one article."

"Yes," said Meeker, nodding his head. "I stayed myself until all the worthwhile stuff had been put up, and as the cheaper junk came along, I went home. The items I had bought were sent to me next morning."

"Do you notice anybody here, Mr. Meeker," the coroner inquired, who was also at that auction on Thursday night?"

"Oh, yes, I see several men in this room who were present there."

"The coroner turned to the audience."

"Will anybody in this room, who was at that auction, please rise?" he said.

"Two or three men arranged to their feet, but it was with obvious reluctance."

"Don't hesitate to acknowledge your presence there," Hubbard advised. "To have been at an auction sale in no way invites suspicion. In fact, only the withholding of the information can be questionable procedure."

Whereupon several more men arose, and among them was Croydon Sears.

Inquiry proved that none of these men had bought Oriental weapons except Sears, and he had, he stated, bought two daggers, one a Japanese Hara Kiri and the other a Malay Kiri of the seventeenth century.

"Where are those weapons now?" asked Hubbard, and Croydon Sears informed him that they were in his room at the hotel.

"Why did you buy them?"

"To add to my collection of antique weapons. I own about thirty or forty such, and it is one of my hobbies to collect them at any opportunity."

"Yes," corroborated Meeker. "I saw next this gentleman at the auction sale and we were both greatly interested in the collection that was being dispersed."

"You are acquaintances, then?"

"We had not been so previously," Mr. Meeker smiled, "but a similar taste in collecting is a great help toward friendship, and we chatted as easily as old friends about the weapons shown."

"And neither of you stayed until the less desirable numbers were put up for sale?"

"No," Meeker said, "we left the place together. We parted just outside, for Mr. Sears said he was returning to his hotel, while I had an errand further along the boardwalk."

"And you went directly to the Majusaca, Mr. Sears?" said Hubbard, who showed no trace of suspicion in glance or manner, but whose tone was a little curt.

"Very shortly," Croydon Sears said, his face flushing with annoyance. "I took a turn or two up and down the boardwalk, watching the crowds, and then I went to the hotel and straight up to my room."

"Carrying your purchases with you?"

"No, leaving them to be sent to me the next day—as Mr. Meeker did."

"You didn't return to the auction room?"

"I most certainly did not!"

"You visited any other shops?"

"No—no other shops."

But there was a decided hesitation of speech, and more than one face turned curiously on Croydon Sears as he made his denial.

The coroner said no more, and as a glance at Miss Folsom showed no desire on her part to have this witness examined further, Sears was dismissed.

But though his calm demeanor seemed to be untroubled, one there, who knew him well, realized only too fully that underneath the calm there was a seething tumult.

WEAK, RESTLESS
Tennessee Lady Had So Little Strength She "Couldn't Get Around." Took Cardui With Benefit.

Gessaway, Tenn.—"I wasn't able to do any of my work, and it seemed like I had so little strength I just couldn't get around," says Mrs. Frank Murphy, who lives near here.

"My mother knew of the good Cardui could do, so she told me to take it. I sent and got a bottle, and seemed like all the time I grew stronger."

"I had been suffering with pains in my sides all the time, and Cardui helped this wonderfully. I needed a tonic for female trouble, and Cardui just fitted the need. I was awfully restless and could not sleep at night, but after taking two bottles of Cardui I could sleep like a top. I got along all right, and I know it was due to Cardui. I can certainly recommend it to women suffering from women's troubles."

"My present health is just fine."

Thousands of women have written to tell how Cardui relieved them of pain and suffering, and helped them to improve in health and strength. Cardui is perfectly harmless, being an extract of mildacting herbs, and contains no dangerous drugs or harmful ingredients.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: Sharing the Good News.

Scripture Lessons: Acts 8:4-8; 2 Cor. 5:14-20.

Acts 8:4. They, therefore, that were scattered abroad went about preaching the word.

5. And Philip went down to the city of Samaria, and proclaimed unto them the Christ.

6. And the multitudes gave heed with one accord unto the things that were spoken by Philip, when they heard, and saw the signs which he did.

7. For from many of those that had unclean spirits, they came out crying with a loud voice; and many that were palsied, and that were lame, were healed.

8. And there was much joy in that city.

9. Cor. 5:14. For the love of Christ constraineth us; because we thus judge, that one died for all, therefore all should die.

10. And he died for all, that they should live; but unto him who for their unbelief died not again.

11. Wherefore we henceforth know to fear the flesh, even though we have known Christ after the flesh, yet now we know him so no more.

12. Wherefore if any man is in Christ, he is a new creature: the old things are passed away; behold, they have become new.

13. But all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself through Christ, and hath given unto us the ministry of reconciliation; to wit, that God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself, not reckoning unto them their trespasses, and having committed unto us the word of reconciliation.

14. We are ambassadors therefore in behalf of Christ, as though God were entreating by us; we beseech you on behalf of Christ, be ye reconciled to God.

15. Time: Philip's visit to Samaria took place some time in A. D. 35.

16. Place: Samaria, the central district of Palestine. Seepp. Cor. 5:14-20.

17. Philip, a deacon, the central district of Palestine. Seepp. Cor. 5:14-20.

18. Golden Text: Ye shall be my witnesses.—Acts 1:8.

19. Introduction: We could not better begin our study of this lesson than by considering the missionary activities of the early church. The first Christians were so full of the joy of the Christian revelation of God's goodness, the gospel, the good tidings, that they could not keep it to themselves. Their hearts were in the home, and they were ready to share their joy with their relatives and friends; how could they be selfish enough to keep it from them? And so, inevitably, Christianity widened out. Christianity missionary—the saved seeking to bring the light to the heathen.

20. Persecution and Evangelism, v. 9. "They therefore that were scattered abroad went about preaching the word." Stephen, the noble deacon, evangelist, had been put to death by a raging mob of wicked men whom his teaching had convicted, and opened the pathway to murder, thus aroused all not admitted, had sought new victims among the other Christians. For as most part the Christians were defenceless, the authorities being against them, and there was no safety for them, especially for women and children, save in flight from Jerusalem. This was not a condition, as the Christians themselves loved by their bold preaching; it was a prudent withdrawal that they might continue the fight for truth and purity in religion. The word which they preached was the story of the cross of Christ's atoning death for the sins of the world, the good news which all men needed, and which they need equally today.

21. Philip The Deacon, v. 5. "And Philip went down to the city of Samaria." This is Philip the deacon (Acts 6:5) one of the seven men chosen from the whole church to administer its temporal affairs. He was a Greek, if we may judge from his name, which means "a lover of horses," and he must have been a man of business, and of great ability as an executive and as a Christian evangelist. This chapter, and the mention of him as "Philip the evangelist" in Acts 21:8, contains all we know of him; but the latter reference, speaking of his four daughters all of whom were evangelists like their father, shows that Philip's preaching had been at home, that he was the head of a truly Christian household. "Went down" because Jerusalem was on high ground, and also because it was the chief city of Palestine.

Philip's Preaching and "Signs" v. 6. "And the multitudes gave heed with one accord unto the things that were spoken by Philip." The implication of the Greek is that the multitudes not only listened, but also believed. Indeed, when Christian truth is declared by one who believes it with all his heart, his speech is very certain to give rise to equal faith in those that hear. Such faith as Philip's is blessedly contagious. "When they heard and saw the signs which he did." They heard Philip's preaching and "saw" his miracles, or they heard about the miracles worked elsewhere and saw what wonders Philip wrought in their midst. These miracles are called by Christ's favorite name, "signs," on his own miracles; they were of less value in themselves than as tokens of the supernatural power granted to the one who worked the miracles, and thus as authentications of his ministry.

Evangelism and Joy, v. 8. "And there was much joy in that city." There is no surer way to bring happiness to a life or to a city than the way of Christian evangelism. No pleasure is comparable to the delight of soul-winning, and it is amazing that so few pursue this most rewarding of all careers.

No work on earth is so dear to the heart of the Master, so rich in its compensations, so productive of spiritual fruitage in the life of the worker.

Paul's Principles and Motives. This second letter to Corinth sets forth Paul's principles of action and vindicates his apostolic authority, giving as being a part of the chapter in which the great missionary defined the function of Christian ministers, and, for that matter, of all Christians who realize their duty to bring their friends to Christ.

"For the love of Christ constraineth me." "Constrain" means in this sense to confine, to shut up to one course of action, that is, to evangelism. Paul was so filled with Christ's love for the souls of men that he could not spend his time in any other way than by telling men about that love. It is a moving picture of true evangelistic zeal.

The Imperative Obligation, v. 15. "And he died for all, that they should live; but unto him who for their unbelief died not again." Christ's death purchased life for those that believe, that accept his death as sufficient for them and as uniting them with the Father. The union with God through the sacrifice of God's Son is the true life, Christ's life, entering our poor human lives and lifting them up into the divine life of self-giving, into the spirit of the cross. Selfishness and Christianity are absolute opposites.

What shall I do for Christ? asked a young disciple of Bishop Selwyn. "Go where he is not, and take him with you," was the Bishop's reply. Lyman Beecher was asked in his old age what he considered "the main thing." "The main thing," he replied, "is not theology; it is not controversy; it is the saving of souls."

"Thou must save another's soul, if thou wouldst save thine own. For heaven's door is closed to him who comes alone."

"Go, labor on, spend and be spent; No toll or hire shall be in vain."

The Ministry of Reconciliation, v. 18. "And gave unto us the ministry of reconciliation." Though the whole of this wonderful change of conversion and regeneration is worked by the Holy Spirit, and man can never bring it about without him, yet it is equally true that in all this work human agents are necessary to God. If only a song is used to effect the change, or only a Bible verse printed on a card, some human being must sing the song or print the card. Every Christian is called to be God's agent, God's minister, and is truly, if he is faithful, a minister of the gospel.

Ambassadors of Christ, v. 20. "We are ambassadors therefore on behalf of Christ." An ambassador is an honorable and responsible statesman. For the purposes of his embassy, he is the empire or kingdom or republic that sends him forth, he is the emperor or king or president, the army and navy, the judges and legislators and all the citizens. Thus every Christian sent forth by the son of God to give the glad invitation, has back of him while on that errand all of Christ's powers and all the resources of heaven. Let no one shrink from evangelistic work because he feels he is too weak for it. "As though God were entreating by us." That is why we are made ambassadors, to do what was done by the Great Ambassador, Jesus Christ. We are to present to men not God's command or threat or condemnation, but God's entreaty. It is not the divine light that God's family shall be emphasized, but God's love and mercy and free forgiveness are waiting, eager and ready. This is the supreme opportunity which the evangelist must emphasize.

C. C. Publicity Man Moves to Ft. Worth

Special to The Avalanche
STAMFORD, Tex., March 4.—E. N. Whitehead, publicity manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will be moved to Fort Worth to take charge of the Fort Worth office of the West Texas chamber, vacated when Roy Leeman resigned to become manager of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce. This announcement was made today by Arthur P. Duggan, president, and Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas chamber, following their recent conference. Mr. Whitehead will retain his title as publicity manager, and will have general supervision over all publicity work of the organization, in addition to his other duties. He will continue to edit "West Texas Today," the official magazine of the chamber, with the assistance of Miss Sena Allen Wright, who for the past six months has served as assistant publicity manager. Miss Wright will remain in the Stamford office. This arrangement permits the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to operate without adding another man to the staff. Mrs. Sadie Moore, for several years office secretary in Fort Worth, will remain as Mr. Whitehead's assistant. No other staff appointments will be made, according to the announcement of Wade and Duggan. Mr. Whitehead has been with the West Texas Chamber about two years, coming from Cisco, where he was extension secretary of the Cisco chamber. He will move to Fort Worth about April 1.

LONGHORN ROCKBREAKERS TO GO TO COMAL COUNTY

Special to The Avalanche
AUSTIN, March 4.—The geology summer camp at the University of Texas will probably be held this year in Comal county under the direction of Prof. F. L. Whitney, chairman of the department of geology. Special study will be made of the Balcones fault. In the past few years a great deal of constructive work has been accomplished in the mapping of the geologic structure of that county, Whitney stated.

The Typical Outdoors Girl

An outdoors girl? Yes, but she'd pass indoors, too. She is Carol Woods of San Diego, Calif., recently chosen as the "typical girl reserve."

Three Sisters to Get Their Degrees

Special to The Avalanche
AUSTIN, March 4.—From one family there are three candidates for degrees at the June commencement of the University of Texas. They are Miss Miriam, Miss Laurie and Harper Brown of Cleburne, whose father is superintendent of schools there. Miss Miriam Brown expects to receive the master of arts degree in June. Miss Laurie is working toward a bachelor of science degree in home economics and Harper is a candidate for the bachelor of arts degree. Miss Miriam has already received the honor of election to Phi Beta Kappa, and it is said that her brother's grades will also win for him that distinction. Only candidates for the B. A. degree are still alive.

More Tax Notices Are Being Posted

Three hundred tax suit citations were yesterday pulled down from the board in the lobby of the court house here, and two hundred more put up for display there for three weeks as "citation by publication." Judgment will be had in the April term of district court here.
