Two Fires Here Friday Night

Two homes were destroyed by fire in Ballinger Friday night, being the first fire losses reported here in some time. The first call was at 11:20 to a house owned by Frank Teykl. The house was vacant at the time of the fire and no cause for the blaze was given by those who inspected the building. Parties coming into town shortly after 11 o'clock saw the roof blazing in one small place and turned in an alarm. The blaze spread fast and by the time the truck arrived the entire building was in flames. The first fire was considered a complete loss with the walls and roof falling in and burning.

The second fire alarm was turned in at 3 o'clock Saturday morning and was for a house belonging to A. J. Smith. There was a family living there but only one man was at home at the time of the fire. The blaze was thought to have started from a spark from the other blaze earlier in the night. The company made a quick response and saved the walls of the house partially.

Floods at Houston are Worst in History of City

(By International News Service)

HOUSTON, June 1.—Some semblance of order is being restored today as Houston is taking stock of its losses in the floods which swept down upon the city yesterday and last night. It was the worst flood in the history of the city. Every stream in and near the city ranged its way far into the treacherous area. On a down town street a man who saw a boy swept to his death, fainted and fell in a swirling eddy and was carried from sight too. It was believed that both bodies are lodged in some nearby basement, but it will be impossible to recover them until the waters recede. Street car service was at a standstill and trains were halted in the outer city limits. Every policeman and fireman was called to duty in the dangerously flooded areas. The rushing waters swirled through down town streets and into business houses within a few yards of the heart of the city. The city water supply is low and what is left is believed to be polluted due to broken water mains. Chemicals to aid in purifying the supply were rushed from different points for distribution here. The greatest volume of water poured into the city from Buffalo Bayou. The docks along the channel were reported to be under water and in danger due to the constant buffeting of ships against them. Property damage will run into millions. The crest of the flood was reached late last night and it is believed the waters will recede by tonight.

R. W. Earnshaw was in San Angelo Friday assisting with the opening of the Weeks Drug Store in the new Hilton Hotel.

H. C. Lyon returned to Ballinger Saturday after attending the Rotary International convention at Dallas.

Postoffice Shows Increase for May

The Ballinger postoffice showed another gain during the month of May which makes a steady increase of business for this institution during the present year. The gain recorded in May amounted to $51.43. Receipts for May 1928 were $1645.80 and reecipts for the same month this year were $1697.23.

Postal receipts are a good index to the growth of a town. Ballinger has steadily increased during the last few years and 1929 will likely set the highest annual total for receipts ever known here.

Mrs. F. V. McCall Is Shot at Waco

Word was circulated in Ballinger Friday afternoon that Mrs. F. V. McCall, formerly of Ballinger, had taken her life at Waco. The following story, taken from the morning papers of Waco, tells the story as far as The Ledger is able to get any information on the subject:

"Justice of the Peace Aubrey Morris has begun an inquest into the death Wednesday morning of Mrs. F. V. McCall, age 23, who was shot through the right lung with a small calibre pistol about 10:30 Tuesday night, while at her home, 1101 North Eleventh Street.

"Statements from the husband, F. V. McCall, formerly chief of police of Waco, a brother and a sister who were at the house at the time the gun was discharged, were made to District Attorney Dick Holt yesterday.

"It was announced that services will probably be held here this afternoon at 5 o'clock from Crompton's Funeral Parlors."

The Mrs. McCall referred to in the above paragraphs, is well known in Ballinger. For the past two years F. V. McCall has been chief of police in Ballinger and only recently left this city when a new chief was named by the new city administration. Mrs. McCall left Ballinger some time before her husband and with the children returned to Waco.

She lived here more than a year and acquaintances here will be grieved to learn of the tragedy at Waco. Chief McCall is known by everyone in Ballinger, after serving as chief of the police force.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Forman left Saturday for New Boston to spend their vacation visiting with Mrs. Forman's parents.

Women in Wall Street Game Prove Better Losers Than Men Gamblers

By Frederick K. Abbott
(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 1.—Women are better losers than men. This fact was shown to be true by a canvas of several of the best known stock brokerage firms in the city.

"Women have always been 'investors,'" the manager of one uptown broker's office informed International News Service, "but it is only lately that they have become 'traders.' I should say, taking them on a whole, that the women are 'good sports.' Naturally they want to win as well as the men but if they don't, they take it with a smile."

During the investigation to learn just what women were doing in the stock market today, it was found that practically every big broker has a special department for women. Most of them have this department because they want the trade of women investors, others because they know that their women clients require special treatment and different service from the men, but one firm admitted that they didn't want the women's business and refused to talk about this department.

"True," said the manager, "we have a woman's service but only to keep 'em away from the men. Our male clients resented the continual presence among them of women—many of whom asked silly questions at the wrong time—so we separated them and now everybody's satisfied."

Only the older women come personally to the brokers' offices to watch the ticker and place their orders, the investigation showed.

"I don't know why it is," said the manager, "but the younger women seldom come into the office. They give their orders over the phone and I have some 15 women clients whom I have never seen. All transactions have been over the telephone and by mail.

"Perhaps it is because the older women have more time on their hands and therefore are able to come to the office and sit sometimes for hours. Whereas the younger ones are too busy with social or business engagements."

Strange tales of womens' frequent "hunches" were told to the inquirer. It was found that many women do not follow their broker's advice but prefer to trade on their own intuition.

"It is not rare," the manager of one office said, "for women to play "against" their husbands. I have had women clients come to me and tell me that their husbands were playing such and such a stock and that they, the wives, were convinced that hubby was all wrong so they would play some other way. And sometimes they were right."

To the question: "Has the woman a place in the market?" the answer was "Yes" at nearly all firms asked.

One manager went so far as to say that in his estimation 75 per cent of the wealth in the United States would be in the hands of women in 50 years.

"A few years ago," said this manager, "you could 'put it over' on the women—but try it today. That day has passed."

That men will, however, still remain in the business was assured by one director of a "women's trading service."

"Women have more confidence in men," he said. Most trading is done through personal contact and the women do not seem to have much confidence in their sisters. They prefer to talk things over with a man."

That women can "afford" to speculate more than men was another point brought out by one firm visited.

"Most men who speculate 'need' the money. Generally to support their families, but with women it is different. Most women speculate with money saved or are in a position to lose what they have risked. Maybe that answers: 'Why women are the better sports.'"

Twelve Stars Depict Roles in Talking Mystery Film

Not in years has there been a more notable combination of talent than in the screen adaptation of Owen Davis' famous stage mystery, "The Donovan Affair," a Columbia all-talking production scheduled to play at the Palace Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Jack Holt, Dorothy Revier and William Collier, Jr., are featured in the leading roles. Frank R. Capra directed this thrilling mystery drama with the cast that smacks of "Who's Who" in Hollywood.

John Roche, recently seen in "Diamond Handcuffs," plays the part of Jack Donovan about whom the mystery centers. Fred Kelsey, seen in "The Gorilla" as one of the two 'boob' detectives, is Carney, the sleuth who hinders rather than helps in the investigation. Hank Mann, hero of a hundred comedies, will be seen as Dr. Lindsey, a semi-humorous character. Agnes Ayres, former Paramount star and noted for her many splendid portrayals, will be seen as Lydia Rankin, the beautiful second wife of Peter Rankin, at whose home the mystery takes place. Wheeler Oakman plays the ill-fated Porter who is mysteriously slain during the action of the picture. He will be recalled for his important characterization in Columbia's "The Power of the Press." Virginia Brown Faire, who has been seen in numberless important productions, appears as Mary Mills, the maid who is involved in the plot. Alphonse Ethier, appearing as Peter Rankin, at whose birthday dinner two murders are committed, has had prominent roles in "The Dead Line," and in "Hardboiled." Ethel Wales, remembered for many famous roles, including her part in "The Covered Wagon," and such recent productions as "The Mask of the Devil," and "Craig's Wife," interprets the part of the loquacious Mrs. Lindsey. As for the three featured players, Jack Holt, Dorothy Revier and William Collier, Jr., the mere mention of their names recalls to followers of the films a long list of outstanding successes.

This galaxy of artists, chosen for their acting ability, excellent speaking voices and fitness to their respective roles enhances tremendously the interest in the "The Donovan Affair," a story that combines a logical mystery with a great love theme.

THREE GENERATIONS STAGE ELOPEMENTS

DENVER, June 1.—Grandmother did it; mother did, so son did it too.

They all eloped to get married.

Robert Collier Weill of Denver, was recently missed from his usual haunts. But not for long, for soon he returned with a wife, the former Laura Scott of Rock Springs, Wyo.

When Weill's mother asked him why he did not confide in her his plans to marry, he replied with a proud air:

"You eloped, and so did grandmother, so I was forced to uphold the family tradition."

Weill's grandmother eloped in the old "Kentucky fashion," or in other words, by horseback, to a town located a short distance from Lexington, Ky., a half century ago. His mother went by street car to St. Charles, a suburb of St. Louis, Mo. Weill used an automobile.

1929 CHAMPAGNE CROP IS INJURED BY INSECTS

(By International News Service)

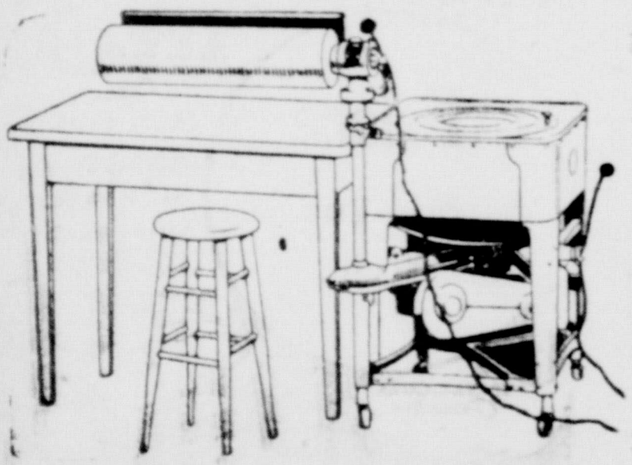

RHEIMS, June 1. — The 1929 champagne crop has probably been seriously injured by insect pests and the very rigorous winter, according to the wine growers, who are watching with great anxiety the development of their vines.

The Champagne region fears above all, extensive invasions of insects known as "pyrales," tiny butterflies whose caterpillars cause considerable damage. The enemy which has not troubled the French wine growers for a number of years, gives promise of a big invasion this season.

Buick Agency Showing New Auto Today

Buick dealers throughout the country today are displaying the Marquette, a new six, produced and distributed by the Buick Motor Company. This car which is the ninth in the General Motors line, and which will sell in the medium price field, is offered in six models —a two-door sedan, four-door sedan, business coupe, sport coupe, a roadster and a touring car.

The Marquette is an exceptionally large car for its price class, having a wheel base of 114 inches. Prices on the car range from $965 to $1035.

The six-cylinder L-head motor and the crank case are cast in one integral unit. The engine has a bore and stroke of 3 1-8" by 4-5-8" and develops 67.5 maximum brake horsepower. Buick officials say the Marquette has remarkably quick acceleration and a maximum speed up in the seventies.

All models are designed along low swank rakish lines. The bodies are built by Fisher and finished in Duco color combinations that follow the present fashion trends. The radiator which is covered with a metal grille is deep with a narrow chromium plated rim that balances with the chromium plated hub caps. The wheels are sturdy and carry large section 28x5.25 balloon tires.

The Marquette has a new non-glare Fisher VV type windshield which sets at an angle of seven degrees from the perpendicular and reflects all glare, whether from rear, front or sides, below the driver's line of vision.

Other features embodied in the Marquette include large internal expanding Duo-Servo four-wheel brakes, an adjustable steering wheel, adjustable driver's seat, a set of built-in bumper mountings and all chromium plated outside hardware. The soft, but durable, mohair upholstery is waterproof, impregnated under a new process with a rubber solution.

A full pressure lubricating system is used on the new car insuring a constant flow of oil to main bearings, connecting rod bearings, cylinder walls, camshaft bearings and the timing chain. The water cooling system is thermostatically controlled and has ample capacity to keep the engine at normal temperature under all driving conditions.

The tapered chassis is exceptionally sturdy, and together with the long semi-elliptic springs, gives the Marquette new qualities of restful, smooth riding at all road speeds.

A SERIOUS CHANGE

Kentucky Lady Was Seriously Ill for Months But Was Finally Relieved By Cardui.

Lawrenceburg, Ky.—"At a time in my life, when my health was undergoing a serious change," says Mrs. J. C. Ray, who lives near here, "I found Cardui to be of the greatest benefit to me. I was seriously ill for about two months, and for several months I was not well. My nerves were all unstrung. I could not bear the least noise around me. I could not sleep.

"My head ached until it seemed as if it would burst. My feet and limbs swelled dreadfully. I felt tired all the time. When I was up, I dragged around the house, but most of the time I spent on the bed.

"I got Cardui and began taking it regularly. Very soon I could see that it was helping me. I began to sleep better and eat more. The awful nervousness got better.

"When I had finished the first bottle, I was much better than I had been for many weeks. I was so encouraged that I kept right on. Before very long I was doing all my housework and was feeling quite well."

Thousands of other women have been helped by Cardui after long suffering from weakness and nervousness. NC-198

Lindbergh Aids Movement to Get Better Air Facilities for Capital

By Alfred T. Newberry
(International News Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Strange as it may seem the nation's capital, center of various boards on aeronautics, has no municipal airport.

The city has a few nearby landing fields, Bolling Field in nearby Alexandria, Va., Hoover Field and Anacostia Field at the Anacostia Naval Base in Virginia, but there is none maintained by the city.

Various civic organizations started a movement for a municipal aviation field that has stirred action among members of the district committee in the house and senate. Hearings have been held for several months and after a few unsuccessful efforts, Senator Hiram Bingham, republican of Connecticut, succeeded in persuading Colonle Charles A. Lindbergh to tell the senate committee his idea of an ideal airport.

The senate committee realized that the popular Lindbergh knew less about airports than many other pilots before his transatlantic hop. But since he assumed the role of the nation's hero and idol he has traveled the country extensively; landing his flying machine on perhaps every airport in the United States, and has acquired considerable knowledge on aeronautics.

The aviator was given a rousing reception by the senate when he appeared to go before the committee. It was his first visit to the senate and the senators literally fell over one another to get near him.

He started his testimony by declaring there was no such thing as a "Class A-1 airport" in the United States. None of this country's fields can compare with the best fields in Europe.

American airports, he said, lacked suitable runways, proper sodding and passenger facilities. He asserted there was no shortage of pilots and that there were thousands of fliers in training while just as many applicants have been turned away because of the limited facilities for instructing men to handle airplanes.

Lindbergh testified:

"If the airport is an hour's ride from the city it takes away the advantage of flying time. On a trip form New York or Philadelphia to Washington the time required going to and from the distant landing fields would add so much to the flying time as to leave little advantage over the railroad."

"Would a distance of 20 minutes be a handicap?" he was asked.

"That's reasonable. It would be better if it were possible to have the field even closer.

City authorities should locate airports near the city regardless of the prevalence of fog. He continued:

"I personally favor a hard surfaced runway with sod on both sides. I believe the consensus of opinion is that a concrete basis and asphalt surface make the best runway. Of course, planes can land on the sod and use the runway only to reach the hangars and take off."

The colonel was asked whether tunnels should be built from the field houses to points out on the airport where planes take off. He said:

"That's feasible. In some years from now it will be entirely possible that fields will have such tunnels.

Bingham asked what airports he believed were the best in the country. He replied.

"I find more activity at Cicero Field, Chicago and at Oakland, Calif., than anywhere else. These two airports have more transportation activity."

Lindbergh predicted that cities will require two landing fields in a few years. He cited Omaha, Neb. where there is one field to land passengers near the city and the second, located further out, to house planes. Most of the transport flying is now centered on the West Coast, he added. Los Angeles got some praise from the witness for having 40 airports located near the city limits.

"Why is there more flying there than in the Mississippi Valley, Texas or the prairie states where there are plenty of landing facilities in the flat countryside?" was the next question.

"The climate has a great deal to do with it. A few years ago, however, the Daniel Guggenheim Foundation ofefred to make an equipment trust loan to the airplane transport company showing the greatest necessity for a passenger line. It was made to the Western Air Express to operate between San Francisco and Los Angeles. That had a great deal to do with givin gthe lead in transport traffic to the West Coast. People there had an opportunity to become accustomed to its uses. The rest of the country will feel the same way in the future."

OLD PROSPECTOR DIES HIDING SECRET FORTUNE

(By International News Service)

BOULDER, Colo., June 1. — Boulder citizens got a taste of the ever-living thrill that comes from a lost, buried treasure when it was learned here recently that Albert M. Sager, 77, mining prospector and recluse of Trail's End, near here, had died without disclosing the hiding place of his fortune.

He was said to have sold a mining claim for $30,000 shortly before his death, and there is no record of his having deposited the money in any bank.

Sager's body was discovered sitting upright in a chair. He had been looking out of the window of his lonely cabin when death overtook him.

All Texas has been visited during the last ten days by destructive floods. Lives have been lost and property damage done that can hardly be computed. It takes rain to make the land flourish but when rains fall over the state like they have for the last ten days they bring much damage also. In some localities in Texas there has been as much as 20 inches of rain in a single day.

Two revivals will close in Ballinger Sunday night, one will continue for another week and yet another will begin for two weeks. This is a good revival season and regardless of what church people are members of, it will help them to co-operate in these revivals. A great city is built not by one clique but by the co-operation of everyone and the religious life can be made bigger and better in Ballinger by the co-operation of everyone in these meetings.

Ballinger has never known what a boom is like but the steady growth for the past two years and the growth that is being shown at present is encouraging to everyone. New homes are always under construction here and the type of construction is of the better class, being mostly modern brick and stucco houses. This is the ideal growth for during booms many towns over-build and later suffer a serious set-back; but where a steady growth goes on, caused by demand, there is no chance for anything but a better and bigger town.

Many comments are being heard on the streets now in reference to the new marriage law that goes into effect on June 13th. Some think that it is the best law that has been passed recently and others are very much opposed to the same. Most of the opposition is from single folks and one married man stated that the law should have been five years instead of three days. This, of course, was in a joking manner and most people who have given the new bill careful consideration are pleased with the law as it now stands and think that it will cut out many hasty marriages that only ripen into fruit for the divorce courts.

Your Birthstone for June

By PAULINE

"Long life and luck are promised you
And many another precious boon
By both the Moonstone and the Pearl,
Were you born in the month of June."

JUNE is fortunate in having two natal gems, the pearl and the moonstone, both of which according to early astrologers, come under the planetary influence of the Moon, and hence possess powerful psychic vibrations.

It was held that when these gems were worn by right of birth they had a profound effect upon the intuitive faculties of the wearers, so that they could not only sense the thoughts of others but actually envision events in the future. They were also believed to stimulate creative ability, being particularly favorable to the work of writers and composers.

The Orient pearl, which is formed by a substance secreted by a patient little bivalve living chiefly in the waters along the coast of Ceylon, has been cherished for its beauty and rarity by the people of all ages. The early Egyptians and Hebrews gave it first place among precious gems; the Chinese valued it equally with their beloved jade; the Greeks set pearls in the ears of their marble goddesses, and the Christians gave their choice pearls for the glorification of their altars. And when the Spanish first reached this country they found the Indian natives wearing pearls and setting them in their ornaments of religious worship.

Incidentally, it is chiefly to the pearl that Americans owe the discovery of this continent, since it was to find a Northwest passage to India and its great treasure chest of pearls that Columbus planned his voyage.

Although always valued chiefly for its beauty, the pearl also held an important place in the medical pharmacopea of the past. Pearls distilled in water are still used in the relief of stomach ailments in China, and at one time they were given in this form to the insane in order to restore their reason—probably through the belief in the pearl's connection with the Moon, which was commonly held responsible for lunacy.

As for the Moonstone, it was long thought that this stone contained an image of the Moon, which grew mysteriously from a mere spot to a full circle with the waxing and waning of that luminary. Because of this characteristic, testified to by many, including Pliny, the moonstone is a sacred stone in India, never displayed for sale except on a yellow cloth, the color yellow likewise being deemed sacred.

Like the Moon, the Moonstone is also supposed to be very powerful in arousing the tender passion, so that at one time it was the most popular of all love charms. It was said that lovers could foretell the fortune of their love by this stone, if it were placed in the mouth and the subject concentrated upon when the moon was full.

TAXI DRIVER FINED FOR UNBECOMING LANGUAGE

CHICAGO, June 1. — A new charge was uncovered in police court here when Louis Smith, taxi driver, was fined $50 for "language unbecoming a taxi driver." The language question was addressed to a traffic policeman but was not revealed in the courtroom.

A few minutes later, Charles Center Case, attorney, was discharged without a fine after confessing that he had called a traffic policeman a "dummy." Court followers are speculating on what Smith must have said.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By Edson R. Waite
Shawnee, Oklahoma

E. Kent Hubbard, president of the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut, says:

"Ever since my college days, I have been a firm believer in team work, whether practiced on the gridiron, the diamond, or in a unified effort to bring about increased efficiency in business. Team work is unselfish. It submerges petty self gain or glory in the interests of reaching a higher goal for all. It merges the strong points until they overlap the weaker. The results are as many stars united to light the way to new discovery and greater ultimate accomplishment. The unification of all railroads into a few large systems would be the masterpiece of twentieth century teamwork. It would be a boon to the manufacturer, the wholesaler, the farmer, and the consumer.

"Many consolidations, in diversified lines of business, during the past two years, have already set a precedent in favor of lawful combination for the best interests of industry. They have blazed the trail for the greatest of all mergers—the consolidation of our railroad transportation systems. All future advancement in industry and agriculture depends on the increased efficiency of transportation. Obviously, all products of the ground, goods in storage, manufactured products in warehouses, or crops in barns, represent frozen assets, until the surplus can be moved to a ready market. Millions of dolars in interest are lost every year while goods are in transit, and wholly at the mercy of the transportation agencies. I am certain that the speeding up of the marketing process will expand markets and have a tendency towards stabilizing freight rates, and equally certain that the one sure way to accomplish this is by a closer alignment of railroad transport activity, which can only come through consolidation.

"I believe the recent efforts at consolidation of railroads is the forerunners of a period of many consolidations before the end of the present administration. I believe we shall see, in the next four years, great strides toward the development of this policy in handling the administration of railroads. I am highly optimistic over the outlook for increased prosperity in the large manufacturing centers, through the nation-wide betterment of transportation facilities."

KANSAS U. FRESHMAN BREAKS SHOT RECORD

(By International News Service)

LAWRENCE, Kans., June 1.—That the University of Kansas has a potential word record breaker in the 16-pound shot put was revealed recently when James A. Bausch, first year student from Wichita, Kans., heaved the "shot" fifty-one feet competing in the Big Six Conference freshman telegraphic meet. Bausch thereby broke the Kansas university shot put record of 47 feet 11 3-4 inches set by Melvin Thorpe in 1927.

Athletic heads of K. U. are expecting big things from Bausch and many sports fans believe that this jayhawker will develop into another Tom Churchill, Oklahoma University star. Bausch is a star in basketball, baseball, track and football.

These Beauties are 'Frogland Favorites'

"Frogland Favorites" is the title given to the six co-eds at Texas Christian University who were chosen for the beauty section of the 1929 "Horned Frog," student annual. The girls are: (Upper, left to right) Misses Mae Morgan, Fort Worth; Robbie Lee Polk, Killeen; and Cecelia Byrne, Fort Worth; (Lower): Emma Nell Handley, Fort Worth; Maxine Russell, Ballinger; and Peggy Kipping, Houston.

T. C. U. Annual Dedication Issued

Dedication of the 1929 "Horned Frog," student year book of Texas Christian University, took place at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in the school chapel. The annuals were then distributed to the student body.

Issuance of the books reveals the identiy of the "Frogland Favorites," six girls and two boys selected by the student body in a popularity contest last fall. The girls who were elected to be pictured in the "Favorites" section are: Misses Cecelia Byrne, Mae Morgan and Emma Nell Handley, all of Fort Worth; Robbie Lee Polk, Killeen; Maxine Russell, Ballinger, and Peggy Kipping, Houston. The two boys are Austin Griffith, Dallas, and Sidney Latham, Longview.

The 1929 Horned Frog is dedicated to Edwin A. Elliott, associate professor of economics in T. C. U. The dedication reads:

"We are Youth, in whom there is a kindred feeling for those young in spirit and in years who lead the way to taking place beside Experience. As Bacon counselled: 'A man that is young in years may be old in hours, if he have lost no time.' Such a man we wish to honor; one who has lived for his Alma Mater, as student, as soldier, as teacher. Of him we can say, 'And gladly wolde he lerne, and gladly teche.' Whom T. C. U. has claimed, we of the Class of 1929 acclaim; and so we dedicate this, our treasury of memories, to Edwin A. Elliott."

A modernistic motif in the cover, opening and division pages is carried out in the 1929 Horned Frog. New features are a lecturers' page, a junior-senior chapel page and a radio page. The book contains 328 pages, with five main divisions—"The School," "Organizations," "Activities," "Athletics," and Frogland Favorites." There are approximately 850 pictures in the volume.

Miss Louise Shepherd is editor of the 1929 Horned Frog, and Chris Byrne is business manager. Both live in Fort Worth. Other members of the editorial staff are:

Miss Margaret Rankin, assistant editor; Miss Crystal Daly, organization editor; Miss Byrne, senior editor; Franklin Fitts, literary editor; Miss Virginia Griggs, publications editor; Miller Robertson, humor editor; Miss Elizabeth Ayres, society editor; William Balch, fine arts editor; Stewart Hellman, dramatic and forensic editor; Owsley Shepherd, Wade Howkins and Miss Lois Houtchens, athletic editors; Miss Helen Cowan and John Garnett, campus photographers, and Bob Gray, staff cartoonist.

Besides the business manager, the business staff was composed of Travis Wright and Rhodes Earle, assistant business managers.

USE PLANE TO HUNT WALRUS AND CARIBOU

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 1.—Into the desolate Far North by land, water and air, Bruce Thorne of Chicago, and George Coe Graves II of New York, scions of prominent families, will lead a hazardous expedition this summer in quest of rare specimens of walrus and caribou for the Field Museum here. The two also are financing the venture.

The party will sail June 19 from Seattle aboard the schooner Dorothy. It is expected they will be compelled to cruise in icy waters as far north as Wrangle Island.

In announcing the undertaking, Stephen G. Simms, director of the museum, explained the walrus is one of the hardest animals to prepare for preservation, and no specimens ever have been satisfactorily mounted.

To overcome this difficulty, the hunters will take along John Jonas, an expert taxidermist. It is planned to mount the group in lifelike attitudes at the museum in a setting showing the midnight sun and the fields of floating floes.

The second stage of the expedition will entail an overland trip across Alaska from Nome to Fairbanks, to reach the caribou hunting ground. It is in this part of the trek that the airplane will be utilized.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McCarver returned home Friday night from Bartlett where they had been to attend the funeral of Mr. McCarver's mother.

New Ford Finance Company Makes It Easier To Buy A Ford

One of the developments of the past year which created national interest in both automotive and financial circles was the organization of the Universal Credit Company for the purpose of financing exclusively the time sales of Ford products thruout the country. Ultimately service of a similar nature will be provided in all countries where Ford products are sold.

Universal Credit Company is a specialized financial institution created to provide uniform and authorized time payment plans at low cost for the purchase of Ford products on an instalment basis.

The Company in the first year of business just closed has made sound and gratifying progress. The reception accorded the authorized Ford Finance Plans by the public and Ford dealers in the 21 large cities where branch offices have been established is indeed impressive.

Today UCC has purchased instalment contracts in excess of $75,000,000 which establishes a new record in instalment financing for an institution which has only been in operation for one year. It is anticipated that the volume of business handled will exceed $25,000,000 monthly from now on. In the short space of a year, the UCC organization has grown from an organization of ten people to one employing almost a thousand.

Already there has come a realization that the Universal Credit Company was created primarily for the sound financing of the Ford dealer and purchaser, and not with the primary object of profit. Its establishment is thus squarely in conformity with the reiterated Ford policy of creating and developing every possible economy from mine to consumer, for the benefit of the public.

The purpose is to reduce the cost of credit, to the indivdual who buys on time, commensurate with sound business policies. This reduction in the cost of credit is made possible by the many economies that arise from the operation of an authorized plan, on the basis of nation-wide volume, and dealing exclusively with the Ford dealer organization. Simplicity of forms, special bookkeeping and statistical machinery and general uniformity of procedure all under centralized control and management, are constantly contributing to cut these costs.

This cost of credit is just as vital as the cost of any of the material that goes into the building of the automobile. It is in every sense a commodity which becomes a part of the completed article before it is ultimately sold to the public.

Thus, the Universal Credit Company's low finance charges are equivalent to a price reduction on the Model A car and other Ford products.

Then there is that important matter of good will. A buyer delights in dealing with an organization that gives him prompt, courteous service, that deals fairly with him, that maintains scrupulously the standard of its product and that is constantly instilling in that buyer a sense of reliability and confidence and appreciation of the seller and his product.

UCC is serving a still greater purpose in the economic and social phases of our national life. In addition to adding to the advancement of organized industry, UCC is at the same time contributing substantially to the happiness and contentment of society. By extending credit to every deserving person in the nation at the lowest possible cost, UCC is helping to bring greater health and happiness to a large group of American people, heads of families as well as their children. In the process of transition from the crowded city to the healthy country districts, UCC is aiding the American family to establish itself with economic advantage in more desirable locations and is thus helping to raise the standard of American living conditions.

Thomas A Edison, an outstanding genius of our time has recently said on the subject of instalment selling:

"What we call instalment buying is one of the methods by which we are preparing to take immediate advantage of the opportunities for a higher standard of living thru machine production. That is a method of saving in goods instead of saving in money. In the old days a man spent most of his life getting ready to die. He saved against a rainy day—against old age. Now, altho it is a nice thing to have a fund to fall back on, a family thinks more of living than of dying.

"People who work for wages seldom come into the possesion of considerable funds. Unless they save they can hardly ever buy an article costing over $50 or $100. Their incomes, however, justify the possession of more expensive articles that contribute to their comfort or their enjoyment, such as automobiles, phonographs, radios and books, as well as many household conveniences. There is no reason why the manufacturers of these articles should not aid in the purchase by shifting the point of saving from before purchasing until after purchasing.

"If the cost of living goes down—and invention and engineering are bound to drive it down—and wages go higher—and they are bound to go higher with more efficient production—then still more attention can be paid to living rather than dying. This whole instalment system which is gradually developing along business lines will be a necessary part of the job of having consumption both increase and diversify in order to take care of production.

"Saving by people of moderate means, in order to provide funds for investment, is not so necessary as it used to be. The big companies are able to provide their own investment funds to a considerable degree out of their own earnings. We are getting a new slant on savings by the individual of comparatively small earnings. One evidence of that is the giving of more attention to living than to dying. That means that people in general have greater confidence in the future than they used to have."

Sound spending by the recipients of American high wages logically follows. If industry is to continue to create products they must be consumed. To make this consumption possible by the wage earner who helps create the product, the manufacturer presents low cost finance plans and makes available credit where credit is due. A sound instalment plan is now one of the necessary elements of our modern business system and is so recognized.

The institution of instalment selling has contributed a monumental share in the development of industry. The cost of credit to the consumer is of paramount importance to prosperity and to the individual. In the operation of the Universal Credit Company, they are always aiming at lower costs and broader markets with high standards for the specialized banking field in which it has embarked. Thru these lower costs for financing service, the use of motor cars is made available to that great section of society who most benefit by every economy. With these ideals of service paramount in mind, Universal Credit Company is making a contribution to the economic and social phases of American life.

UCC is operating at this time 21 complete offices, located in the following cities: Atlanta, Boston, Buffalo, Charlotte, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Dallas, Detroit, Houston, Jacksonville, Kansas City, Memphis, Minneapolis, New York, Norfolk, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Washington and Mexico City.—Adv. 1-1d&w

BEAN'S HOMER IN 12TH BEATS ABILENE 4 TO 3

The best game of ball yet played in Ballinger this year was Friday afternoon at Fair Park when the Bearcats slipped it to the Abilene Aces 4 to 3 in the last of the 12th inning. Big Tom Vaughn pitched the entire game for the Cats and allowed the Aces only five hits. Three of these hits came in the seventh go-round, which, coupled with an error, gave the visitors all their runs.

Homer Kile, center fielder, had a large part in the victory, both with the stick and in the garden. In the eighth frame Kile picked a ball off the boards which had all the appearances of being headed for the laundry ditch. He snagged the ball on a dead run and fell against the fence, almost knocking a panel out of the fence. Kile in his first trip to the plate, hit the ball over right field fence with a man on base, accounting for two of Ballinger's four markers.

Shelton, the southpaw college recruit, started the game for the Aces but was sent to the showers in the third stanza and Cromer, pitching his first game for Abilene did a nice job of relief pitching and held the Cats to two hits for the remainder of the game.

The greatest sensation of the day came when Bill Bean went to the pan in the 12th inning, and with two men down and two strikes on himself, whammed the pill over the boards and far away, thereby allowing the hungry fans to go to their supper. The fans slipped Bill a slight token of appreciation for the four-base blow that meant so much to the out-come of the game.

Kittrell led off in the first with a base hit and Kile hit for the full fare, accounting for the first two counters. In the sixth inning Mueller was safe on a fielder's choice, stole second and scored when Abilene failed to make a double play, second to first. The last run came on Bean's home run.

Abilene's counters came in the seventh inning. Allday singled, Anderson was safe on an infield error with Allday advancing to third. Bradbury flied out to left. No advance. On hit safe scoring Allday and Anderson. Cox singled sending Orr to third. Orr scored when Ballinger tried for a double play second to first.

In nine of the 12 inings of the game Friday, only three men faced Vaughn in any inning, and in the entire game only three men were safe on base outside of the seventh.

Have a look gentlemen—for the first time this year Ballinger is out of the cellar. We may still be tied for the place but we have a right to not be listed last.

The Abilene sport scribe says that Vaughn's earned-run column resembles a Scotchman's charity budget.

Sunday's game with Abilene will be played in Coleman at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

* * *

After looking the Ballinger team over carefully Friday afternoon several fans state that they do not see any further changes in the personnel. One man stated that we now have by far the best team in the league and we heartily agree with this gentleman. Not only is it the best 14-player team in the league but the fellows are friends and getting along together and are a set of gentlemen Ballinger can be proud of as ball players and citizens. In fact we would like to see the whole lot play ball here until they are too old to scamper over the diamond and then settle down here as permanent fixtures.

* * *

The Bearcats turned in four more stolen bases Friday which ought to make them leaders of the league in this column.

Somebody presented Bill Bean Friday with a lucky Mexican jumping bean and Bill is sleeping with the bean after getting his circuit smash in the 12th frame.

For seven consecutive days Ballinger has used only seven pitchers. Each man starting a game has finished and four wins have been turned in out of the seven games.

Fist Fight Was Real Start of Friendship of Loughran and Smith

By David J. Walsh
(International News Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, June 1.—Probably no boxer and manager ever have known a finer friendship than that preserved through the professional career of Tommy Loughran, the light heavyweight champion of the world, and the little man who has been less manager than friend, Joe Smith. Their regard, respect and trust have been mutual, and, unless all signs fail, will be permanent. And it all began in the most cordial manner imaginable. It began with a fist fight in Mr. Smith's dining room.

It was a balmy summer's evening and a goodly crowd was not there, only one bloke who thought he could fight and another who was sure that he, the former, couldn't. The first bloke was a fresh-faced kid from the neighborhood by the name of Loughran. He weighed only 140 pounds at the time and looked like a candidate for the freshman glee club.

The other was a retired club fighter. His name was Smith and, being far from an eloquent man, he was trying unsuccessfully to frame himself an "out" from the interview. He didn't want to manage Loughran and was attempting to tell him so with as little offense as possible.

However, these guys who think they can fight are easy to cure sometimes, provided one goes at it in the right way. Mr. Smith reached a sudden decision.

"Put up your hands," 'said he. Loughran obeyed.

"Now," resumed Mr. Smith, "What would you do if I did this?"

"This" happened to be a smart rap on the potato with a left hook. Mr. Loughran's reply was a gem of brevity and directness. He poked Mr. Smith in the old reflector. Mr. Smith, it seemed, had no more questions to ask. He was too busy trying to answer. He poked Mr. Loughran on the nose. Mr. Loughran was a good fellow but he thought this was going too far. He poked Mr. Smith in the pantry. The conversation then became general.

Five minutes later, Mr. Smith's mother appeared with the police, and after they called in the cabinet maker to see what he could do about the wreckage in the dining room, it was rather pointedly suggested if the gentlemen had anything further to talk over, they do it in the cellar. They accepted the suggestion in good part and repaired below to finish the discussion. This time training gloves were acting as interpreters of the unspoken thought. Mr. Smith expected to lick Mr. Loughran then and there and have done with it. But Mr. Loughran was not licked.

So he tried again the following evening. The result was ditto. He didn't lick Mr. Loughran and the way in which he didn't was extremely impressive. He tried once more on the third night and once more did he fail in a big way. Whereupon, he decided that the kid was tough, if nothing else, and that the best thing to do was to turn the asisgnment over to some matchmaker, who not only would see that Mr. Loughran got licked for Mr. Smith, but that both would get paid for it.

It is a matter of record that, ten years later, Mr. Smith no longer is waiting for Mr. Loughran to get licked. In fact, he is sure that it can't be done. It happened a few times in the old days but, for some years, Tommy Loughran has been no nearer a licking than he was that summer's evening in Mrs. Smith's dining room, which wasn't near at all. As it turns out, it wasn't even adjacent.

Girl Swimmers Off to England To Try Channel

By Frederick K. Abbott
(International News Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, June 1. — New York's swimming sisters, the Zitenfield Twins, are to take another crack at Old Man Channel.

This time, however, the girls propose to swim from England to France, thus being the first "women" to make the hard grind in the opposite direction.

The girls, accompanied by their mother, sailed on the S. S. Rochambeau. They intend to do their training on the English side. In their last attempt at the channel they trained on the French side but they believe better conditions in England and better trainers are available.

"The last itme I sent my girls over there," says Papa Zitenfield, "they only had two weeks to get ready. Why you can't even get acclimated in that time.

"So now they are going over early and they probably won't make a try at the channel before the last of August or the first of September."

The twins, Phyllis and Bernice, are determined to conquer the twenty-two miles of water that separate France and England.

"We swam from Sandy Hook to the Battery and believe us that's harder," said the twins. "If we'd had better dope on the tides the last time we tried the channel we would have made it. But this time we won't take 'no' for an answer."

Christian Revival To Open Sunday

Paul Campbell

Evangelist Paul Campbell who is to assist the pastor of the First Christian Church in a series of revival services, arrived in Ballinger Friday. Mr. Campbell has an unbroken record of continual service in evangelical campaigns, having during the past two years worked in 32 meetings, which sets a record among the Christian Church evangelists.

A special feature of his work is the drawing each night of a beautiful picture, illustrating his solos and many of the grand old hymns.

This work is done on a large electrically lighted easel, making a picture approximately five feet by three feet in size, which is complete in every detail, and which usually is drawn within five minutes time. These pictures are given away each night to the person in Ballinger who is responsible for the most new people being present at the service.

Mr. Campbell has promised to give special attention to the interests of young people and children. A booster-pep-choir is to be organized, in connection with Bible drills and studies.

A real song service, filled with life and energy, is to be one of the nightly features.

Because of the illness of the pastor, Rev. G. T. Reaves, Mr. Campbell will carry on the full program Sunday in song, picture and sermon.

SAND-LOT UMPIRES WILL GET TRAINING

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 1.—A training school for umpires, open to sand-lot members of the junior baseball league here, has been opened with fifty students, ages ten to sixteen years, under direction of George M. Maines, director of the circuit and former president of the Michigan-Ontario baseball league.

C. "Brick" Owen, veteran American League umpire, has offered a silver trophy to go to the kid arbiter chosen at the end of the season who receives the highest rating in the kid circuit. Big league and minor league umpires will be invited to act as instructors and classes will be held twice weekly.

Kid umpires will handle the games in the midget class in the junior circuit composed of teams averaging twelve years and under, of which three hundred are registered in the sand-lot organization in this city. The midget players are associated with the regular organization of boys' baseball teams which have enrolled a total of fifteen thousand youngsters to participate in one league in this city.

MISSOURI PLANS GRID SERIES WITH CARNEGIE

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS, Mo., June 1.—That a series of football games beginning in 1931 will be played between Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh, Pa., and the Missouri Tiger eleven, was indicated here recently by Chester L. Brewer, director of athletics of the Missouri university. Brewer has just returned from an eastern trip during which he visited athletic plants of universities in the East.

Methodist Revival Will Close Sunday

The Friday night service at the Methodist church was well attended and a wonderful service held with one conversion.

The juniors who have worked faithfully during the meeting had the largest gathering Friday of any day since the meeting began. Dr. Hawk spoke to the juniors at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and following the service a picnic was held for them in the basement of the church.

The three group prayer meetings in homes in the city had about 50 ladies present.

Dr. Hawk spoke from the parable of the prodigal son Friday night and brought a great message on the rededicating of the Christian's life. An announcement was made that there would be no services at the church Saturday night and that Sunday would see the close of the meeting. At the morning service Sunday morning children will be received into the church and the doors of the church will also be opened Sunday evening.

Dr. Hawk will preach Sunday morning on "The Last Question of Our Lord," and Sunday evening at 8 o'clock the subject of his sermon will be, "The Man Who Disappointed His Friend." He will leave Monday for his home at Fort Worth where he will begin the tremendous task of an $800,000 building program.

Everyone has an urgent invitation to these last services.

Scarface Al in Jail Controls Chicago Gangs

By Francis F. Healy
(International News Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, June 1. — From his cell in Holmesburg Prison in the state of Pennsylvania, "Scarface Al" Capone, the "master mind" of gangdom, is controlling, puppet-like, the figures in Chicago's reputed $75,000,000 a year vice, gambling and liquor syndicate, a survey of the situation here revealed recently.

Sitting on the throne temporarily and unwillingly vacated by the gangster chieftain is his chief aide, "Little Jackie" Guzik, business man of the organization.

The "peace treaty" mentioned by Capone as having been completed before his arrest for carrying concealed weapons, attended in Atlantic City by "Bugs" Moran, the Aellos and other gang leaders, divides the city of Chicago into well bounded territories.

Capone, it has been reported, impressed upon the other men the necessity of a lull in the warfare for the good of everyone all around. The gangster chief pointed out that the new Jones law was ousting the little fellows and that to survive, there would have to be an agreement among the big gangsters.

As it has been during the past few months, Capone told the gathering, liquor caravans from Detroit and Canada have been "knocked off" not only by police and federal agents, but by "hi-jackers."

Hopes that "peace" had been established, however, were rudely jolted within a week after the pact was supposed to have been established by the killing of two men, one a detective and the other a well-known racketeer.

Capone advocated settlement of petty differences by means of an arbiter, similar to the manner in which Judge Landis sits in on baseball. It is reported that E. J. O'Hare, former St. Louis attorney and associated with Capone in his dog tracks, might be slated for the job as arbiter.

Capone and Guzik, under the treaty, are to have everything south of Madison Street, which includes the entire south side. Moran is given the north side for operations with a western boundary, and the Aellos can operate west of that boundary. The "loop" or downtown section, is admittedly open with anybody's say so to run speakeasies and liquor parlors.

The peace treaty of Capone was seen as a means of the crafty gangster to further his own ends. His organization, which was considerably weakened by the killings of Anselmi, Scalise and Guinta, needed time above all things, to get on its feet again.

By invoking the treaty, Capone is giving his organization time to again become "air-tight" until a time when it can combat any new gang war and come out of it ahead.

STRIBLING SOON TO RETURN TO THE RING

(By International News Service)

ATLANTA, Ga., June 1. — W. L. (Young) Stribling, the Georgia Peach, who went into temporary retirement after bowing before the pugilistic prowess of Jack Sharkey, the Boston sailor, in Jack Dempsey's "Battle of the Palms" at Miami last February, will soon return to the squared arena.

This word came from "Pa" Stribling, father-manager of the Macon lad, when he stopped over here en route north to confer with northern promoters.

"And it will be a big match," "Pa" promised. He, however, would give no inkling as to the opponent.

CURTAIL BUS ACCIDENTS SLOGAN FOR UTILITY MEN

(By International News Service)

LANSING, Mich., June 1.—"Reduce Motor Bus Accidents."

That, in effect, will be the slogan of five states—Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Minnesota—who will band together for a concentrated war on bus accidents through the formulation of uniform regulations to be inforced in the five states, according to Grover M. Rouse, head of the bus department of the Michigan Public Utilities Commission.

Arrangements for a conference of representatives of the five states are being made for an early date.

Mrs. Sam Behringer returned to Ballinger Saturday from Temple where she was operated upon some 10 days ago. Mr. and Mrs. Behringer are preparing to move to Abilene at once.

Southern Vets' Annual Reunion At Charlotte

(By International News Service)

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 1.—With measured tread, stepping proudly to the old familiar tunes of fife and drum, the gray clad armies of the South will march again, this time through the shady streets of Charlotte where the 39th annual Confederate reunion will be held June 3-7.

From the mountains to the sea, all below the Mason-Dixon line, grey-haired veterans will come to the meeting in the Old North State. In thousands they will gather to join with former comrades and revive again the memory of those thrilling days when they stood shoulder to shoulder in defense of "a lost cause."

They will be greeted with open arms as they gather in Charlotte where the last full meeting of the Confederate cabinet was held.

Preparations for the housing, reception and entertainment of more than 50,000 are being made under the general supervision of Colonel Edmond E. Miles, commander-in-chief of the Sons of Confederate Veterans.

Reservations are pouring in from all parts of the country, and large delegations will come from many northern sections.

"Camp Goodwin," established in the largest city park and named in honor of General A. T. Goodwin, of Elmore, Ala., will care for nearly the entire army of 50,000 expected, it has been announced. General Goodwin was present at the "bombardment of Fort Sumpter," when the first shot of the war was fired.

From the United States Army eight carloads of equipment will come to make the encampment. Company streets will be laid out between the row of more than a thousand tents and the "old camp grounds" will be made as realistic as possible.

Huge outdoor kitchens and mess halls will serve the veterans.

The business meetings of the reunion will be held in Charlotte's new auditorium-armory, construction of which is in its final phases.

To guide the faltering steps of the ex-soldiers will be 1,500 Boy Scouts of America, recruited from over the entire state.

A feature of the first day's program of the reunion will be the celebration of the 121st birthday anniversary of Jefferson Davis, the president of the Confederacy. The state will join the veterans in paying tribute to the memory of this Confederate statesman.

The track meet between the Crimson and Blue and the English teams will be held as usual in the Harvard satdium in July, while the proposed tennis series would be held in Newport, R. I., the following month.
