Hereford weather

Monday's high, 86; low, 65; no precipitation; year-to-date rainfall, 6.58 inches, according to KPAN Radio.

More thunderstorms moving toward Texas

Showers and thunderstorms developed over far West Texas Tuesday in advance of the latest cool front, which was forecast to bring more heavy rainfall and possibly violent weather to other parts of the state.

Early-morning temperatures ranged from the high 60s to around 80 degrees along the Gulf coast. It was 63 at Marfa, 69 at Conroe just north of Houston, 75 at Wink and Odessa as well as 80 at Rockport on the coast.

Winds were mostly southerly to southeasterly at 5 to 15 mph statewide, except for southwesterly at 10 to 20 mph in the Panhandle.

Light fog shrouded the Lufkin area, with low cloudiness along the upper coast. It was also mostly cloudy in the South Plains and Big Bend.

Scattered thunderstorms moved along the upper Pecos River, in the Davis Mountains and over much of the Big Bend, with a large cluster of storms southwest of Big Bend National Park.

Patchy fog was expected to continue in the east, with a chance of afternoon thunderstorms and windy in North Texas. The threat of storms and rainfall was likely in many areas by Wednesday.

Daytime highs should range from the upper 70s to 90s, with near 104 in the Big Bend valleys. Lows overnight were expected in the upper 50s to lower 70s — cooler in the north on Wednesday with the front's passage.

Precipitation chances were expected to increase on Wednesday.

Retail sales drop in May

WASHINGTON (AP) — American shoppers curbed their spending in May, sending retail sales nationwide down by a bigger-than-expected 0.3 percent, marking the second month in a row in which retail sales have fallen.

The Commerce Department reported Tuesday that retail sales nationwide fell to a seasonally adjusted $266 billion last month, the first back-to-back decline since July and August of 1998.

A big drop in sales at hardware, building and garden supply stores led the decline.

Many analysts were expecting retail sales to actually go up in May.

County addressing guesswork

By Donald M. Cooper

Hereford Brand Managing Editor

Even the man who's been responsible says Deaf Smith County's addressing is guesswork.

But if things go the way county officials and the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission intend, there will be a clear standard for providing addresses in the rural areas.

Under state law, all 254 counties in the state are required to name roads and assign addresses in the unincorporated areas.

The law is an offshoot of the 911 emergency network. Emergency personnel wanted standardized addressing to eliminate confusion in responding to calls for assistance.

Precinct 3 foreman Bobby Ham-

"Out on South Main, you've got a mess. They've brought in houses and left the original numbers on the houses and just keep on using them."

■ David Ruland,
Deaf Smith County clerk

mock told the county commissioners Monday morning that PRPC representatives will be in the county next week to conduct a survey.

Hammock said a county representative is supposed to ride along with the PRPC on the survey of each precinct, a process he said will take several days.

County Clerk David Ruland asked what will be expected of the county after the survey is completed.

Because his office handles the voter registration, which needs a numbered address, Ruland and his deputies have been responsible for determining the addresses — a matter of guesswork.

County Judge Tom Simons asked if "we have people with numbers already assigned?"

"Yes," Ruland responded.

"Where did they get them (addresses)?" Commissioner Wayne Betzen asked.

"From us. We're having to guess what the number might be," Ruland said. "Out on South Main, you've got a mess. They've brought in houses and left the original numbers on the houses and just keep on using them."

He said Austin Road also has similar problems, adding that "it's really confusing to us."

Hammock said he understands the PRPC will assign the initial numbers, but when a new home or business is built, the county will be responsible.

After discussion, the commissioners postponed any action on addressing standards.

The commissioners approved the hiring of Matt William Wallace as new agricultural extension agent.

County Agent Dennis Newton said he had 37 applications for the position. However, he said Wallace's qualifications were the most impressive.

FLAG DAY

Stars and Stripes' origin shrouded in myth

By Donald M. Cooper

Hereford Brand Managing Editor

Communities from Bangor, Maine, to San Diego, Calif., will be festooned with the red, white and blue banners Wednesday as part of the annual Flag Day observance.

While the United States flag probably has become the most widely recognized flag in the world, loved as well as reviled, the origins of the national banner are so clouded in myth it's almost impossible to establish the facts.

It's not even clear if the flag flew in a land or naval battle during the American Revolution, but the Stars and Stripes did originate on June 14, 1777, when the Continental Congress adopted a resolution designating the familiar red, white and blue, stars and stripes pattern as the official national flag.

The resolution establishing the flag was not published until Sept. 2, 1777, and Gen. George Washington's requests for the flag went unheeded until 1783, after the American Revolution was over.

The other flags that the American forces fought under during the Revolution included the Grand Union Flag, which was a modified version of the British flag, and was unfurled on Jan. 1, 1776, when the Continental Army came into existence.

The minutemen of Bedford, Mass., carried a flag with silver arm and sword on a red field at the Battle of Concord in April 1775, while the Sons of Liberty had a plain red flag with a green pine tree on it at Cambridge, Mass.

In June 1775, when Washington took command of the army, he was escorted by the Philadelphia Light Horse Troop, which carried a yellow flag that had a coat of arms — shield charged with 13 knots, the motto "For These We Strive" — and a canton of 13 blue and silver stripes.

In February 1776, the South Carolina Provincial Congress received a flag to be used by the commander of the Continental Navy. It had a yellow field with a rattlesnake about to strike and the legend:

"Don't Tread on Me."

On Aug. 16, 1777, patriots fought under a flag of seven white and six red stripes with a blue canton extended down nine stripes and showing an arch of 11 white, seven-pointed stars over the figure 76 and a star in each of the upper corners.

At the Battle of Cowpens, Jan. 17, 1781, the 3rd Maryland Regiment carried a flag of 13 red and white stripes, with a blue canton

Clinton: GOP plan to hurt rural elderly

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton said a Republican-backed health care plan "claims to help everybody but is a false hope for most," as the White House and congressional Republicans touted dueling programs to help older Americans pay for medication.

Clinton noted bipartisan support for an expansion of Medicare to cover the cost of prescription drugs, but said only his plan offers the elderly an honest deal. Adding the coverage — which was left out of the original Medicare program created in 1965 — is a popular election year issue.

Clinton and fellow Democrats claim the GOP plan covers too few people, while Republicans claim the White House plan is too expensive.

"If we were in deficit and trying to do this, I would understand why we would say, 'Well, we can't help everybody so we'll just help a few,'" Clinton said.

"But that's not the situation. We can afford to do this right, and we must not pass a plan that claims to offer something to everybody and is a false hope to most and therefore

Convicted killer executed

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Melinda Mason stood trembling in the corner of the Texas death chamber, two relatives comforting her, as her ex-husband was strapped to a gurney, denounced his prosecutors and insisted he didn't kill her mother and grandmother.

"I'm not surprised," she said after watching Thomas Wayne Mason be executed Monday evening. "He's the type of man who would never admit he was wrong."

"He put the fear right back in me. He had that one last chance to scare me and he did."

Thomas Mason, 48, was condemned for the killings 81/2 years ago of Marsha Brock, 55, his former mother-in-law, and her 80-year-old mother, Sybil Dennis.

He became the 20th Texas inmate to be executed this year and the first of three set to die this week. The U.S. Supreme Court had turned down his final appeal Monday afternoon a few hours before the punishment was carried out.

"It was just a cold-blooded premeditated double homicide of two totally defenseless women by an individual who never showed any remorse for his crime nor ever accepted any responsibility," said Jack Skeen, the Smith County district attorney who prosecuted Mason.

Convicted gambler testifies

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A part-time golf bookie who supported his family of four with wagers against a South Texas millionaire is expected to continue his testimony by explaining how the high-stakes golf games led to murder.

Daniel Rocha, 30, is serving a life prison term in Florida for solicitation of capital murder in the 1997 shooting and stabbing death of Sheila Bellush, a mother of quadruplets, in her Sarasota, Fla., home.

During his trial, Rocha testified that Allen Blackthorne, 45, paid him to arrange Bellush's death.

Blackthorne is now on trial for interstate conspiracy to commit murder for hire and interstate domestic violence.

Bellush moved to Florida after a 10-year divorce and custody battle over her and Blackthorne's then teen-age children. She was killed six weeks after moving out of Texas. Her 2-year-old quadruplets were discovered unharmed, two of them crawling in their mother's blood.

Experts stress damage prevention

Preparation key to facing storms

WASHINGTON (AP) — While researchers are working to improve hurricane forecasts, many believe that more lives and property can be saved by being better prepared to face the storms.

"The impact of the next hurricane is being decided right now — in the days, weeks and months of preparation that are required to make communities resistant to disaster," James Lee Witt, director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, told a conference on hurricane preparedness.

Witt spoke as top hurricane specialists gathered with emergency management planners and broadcasters to discuss hurricane forecasting and preparedness. The conference was sponsored by the American Meteorological Society and The Weather Channel.

Hurricane forecasters struggle to predict the path a storm will take, how fast it will move and, perhaps most difficult, how strong it will be.

But hurricanes — also known as tropical cyclones and typhoons — can do the unexpected, suddenly changing direction, rapidly getting stronger, or just drifting along the coast, threatening for days before turning inland.

D. James Baker, head of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, noted that hurricane track forecast error has been reduced over the last few decades. In the 1960s and 70s, forecasters could predict 24 hours ahead of time a hurricane's path within about 100 nautical miles, he said, and now they can predict it within about 80 nautical miles. And 72 hours ahead of time, the error has cut in half, from 400 nautical miles to 200 nautical miles, he said. A nautical mile is 1.15 statute miles.

Prose submitted by reader 'A Cut Above' for Flag Day

Dear Readers: The following was sent in by Judson Barefoot of Raleigh, N.C., and it is perfect for tomorrow, Flag Day. The author is unknown:

I am your Flag. I have been kicked, trampled, burned, and shot full of holes. I have fought battles, but I prefer the untroubled air of a world at peace.

I am your Flag. I represent the freedom of humanity, and I shall fly high, thundering in silence for the whole world to hear. My gentle rustling in the breeze sounds out the warning to all who would bury me forever that below stands a population dedicated to liberty.

For those who have perished for my right to freedom of flight, for those who will die, and indeed, for those who will live, I stand as a symbol of freedom-loving people.

I have been carried into battle in faraway lands, always for the cause of freedom. I am bloodstained, torn, and many times wearied and saddened by the thousands who have paid the supreme sacrifice. Do not let it all be for nothing. Tell me the brave have all died for a worthwhile cause. Be proud of what I represent, and display me for all to see.

Whether you call me "Old Glory," "Stars and Stripes" or "Star-Spangled Banner," I shall fly forever as a symbol of your freedom, as I did for your ancestors, and as I shall for your heirs.

I am YOUR Flag.

Dear Readers: This year marks the 21st anniversary of the first National Pause for the Pledge of Allegiance. Please take a few moments at 7 p.m., Eastern Time (that's 6 p.m. in Chicago, 5 p.m. in Denver, 4 p.m. in L.A., and 2 p.m. in Honolulu) to recite the Pledge. The words, written in 1892 by Francis Bellamy, are: "I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

If you have an American flag, remember to display it starting tomorrow through July 4th. If you do not own a flag, now would be a good time to buy one.

Dear Readers: Remember all those things that brought you and your loved one together? The slightly goofy, endless phone calls, the beautiful letters? My newest booklet, "How We Met," is a collection of sentimental love stories that have appeared in my column over the past few years. It will make a lovely keepsake or a memorable gift for that special someone in your life. For a copy, please send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $5.50 (this includes postage and handling) to: How We Met, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562 (In Canada, $6.50).

Dear Ann Landers: Here's one for your stupid crooks file, a bit different than the ones you usually print:

Police learned about a house of prostitution in Salt Lake City because the owner decided to advertise. She printed up some fliers in Spanish that described the nature of her business, the price for sex ($35) and the location of the house, complete with a map. Apparently, she didn't realize that there are police who can read Spanish, too. What do you think of this? — Laurie in Utah

Dear Laurie: I think the Madame is muy brillante and will probably rake in mucho dinero — once she gets out of the slammer. There will always be a market for her wares, and nothing is going to change that.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Nuggets and Doozies," has everything from the outrageously funny to the poignantly insightful. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $5.25 (this includes postage and handling) to: Nuggets, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. Play DAY

Picking up where he last left off — Former Hereford High graduate Lynn Lauderback, Class of '74, pitched-in with the brass section during the Mighty Maroon Band's parade routine Saturday. After his high school band career, the horn player went on to play for Texas Tech's Big Red Band.

A fun run, a parade, a park gathering in Dameron Park and so much more; the annual Hereford Town and Country Jubilee kicked off this past weekend and once more delivered on the promise of bringing Hereford residents together for a week filled with fun and fellowship.

Waiting — Residents line the parade route.

Megan Bordayo, five-year-old daughter of J.R. and Bobbie Compton of Hereford, took a sip from a Coke while her mom shopped at the Hereford Pilot Club's Jubilee of Arts & Crafts.

Connie Davis of Memphis, TX used a scroll saw to demonstrate how he made one of the many wooden trinkets and toys he had for sale at the Jubilee of Arts and Crafts.

LOOKING BACK

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, June 13, the 165th day of 2000. There are 201 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On June 13, 1900, China's Boxer Rebellion targeting foreigners as well as Chinese Christians, erupted into full-scale violence.

On this date:

In 1888, Congress created the Department of Labor.

In 1898, the Yukon Territory of Canada was organized.

In 1942, President Roosevelt created the Office of War Information, and appointed radio news commentator Elmer Davis to head it.

In 1944, Germany began launching flying-bomb attacks against Britain during World War II.

In 1966, the Supreme Court issued its landmark "Miranda" decision, ruling that police had to inform suspects of their constitutional rights before questioning them.

In 1967, President Johnson nominated Solicitor-General Thurgood Marshall as the first black justice on the U.S. Supreme Court.

In 1971, The New York Times began publishing the Pentagon Papers, a secret study of America's involvement in Vietnam.

In 1977, James Earl Ray, the convicted assassin of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., was recaptured following his escape three days earlier from a Tennessee prison.

Ten years ago: Secretary of State James A. Baker III, testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, urged Israel to accept a U.S. plan for peace talks. (Baker gave out the telephone number for the White House switchboard, telling the Israelis publicly, "When you're serious about this, call us.")

Five years ago: President Clinton proposed a 10-year plan for balancing the federal budget, saying in a televised address his proposal would cut spending by $1.1 trillion. France announced it would abandon its 1992 moratorium on nuclear testing and conduct eight more tests between September and May.

One year ago: NATO soldiers shot dead two armed men as peacekeepers tried to contain new violence in Kosovo; Russian troops, meanwhile, blocked British troops from entering the airport in Pristina, the capital of Kosovo.

Alzheimer's support group will meet at Fellowship of Believers

In affiliation with the Alzheimer's Association, Panhandle Chapter, the Hereford support group for family caregivers of persons with Alzheimer's disease and related dementias, will meet at 10 a.m. Thursday, June 15 in Fellowship of Believers Church, 245 N. Kingwood, next door to Hereford Care Center.

A support group is a gathering of people with common problems, needs and interests to share their feelings, thoughts, questions, experiences and concerns in a combined effort to better cope with and survive the challenge presented by persons with Alzheimer's disease and related dementias.

In addition to the usual and all-important time for sharing feelings, experiences and concerns, Thursday's group will also view a videotape by Doug Manning entitled, "Caring for the Caregivers." If time permits the subject of anger and how to deal with it, may be discussed.

Friends, relatives and neighbors of these brave caregivers are encouraged to offer to stay with the person with Alzheimer's to allow the caregiver a rest. Respite care is vital for these caregivers whose days are typically 36-hours long.

The "bible" for caregivers of persons with Alzheimer's is entitled, The 36-Hour Day: A Family Guide to Caring for Persons with Alzheimer's Disease, Related Dementing Illnesses, and Memory Loss in Later Life by Mace and Rabins. Thanks to the generosity of Hereford's Pilot Club and the Fellowship of Believers Church, this excellent resource is available at no cost by calling 364-0359.

Group facilitator is Nathan L. Stone, Ph.D., pastoral counselor and former senior chaplain with Family Hospice of Temple.

US Open poses course difficulty

■ Nicklaus says Pebble Beach hard on golfers

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The last time Matt Gogel was walking the fairways of Pebble Beach, he watched a seven-stroke lead disappear on the back nine as Tiger Woods stormed to his sixth straight PGA Tour victory.

That wasn't even on Gogel that featured thick rough, tight fairways and hard, fast greens.

Pebble Beach takes on a new look when the U.S. Open comes to town, and not just because Tommy Smothers is not around to do yo-yo tricks.

They call the U.S. Open the toughest test in golf for a reason.

"This is the kind of golf course, the way it's set up, where you have to put the ball on the fairway and put the ball on the green," Jack Nicklaus said after his practice round Monday. "If you do that ... well, you're not going to do that. It's going to be a difficult golf course to get the ball up and down."

The second hole, a generous par-5 that routinely yielded birdies in the past three U.S. Opens at Pebble Beach, is now playing as a 484-yard par-4.

Rough that was supposed to be a nuisance has become nasty, leveled off at 4 inches and capable of making balls sink to the bottom. If that wasn't enough, Nicklaus winced when he saw workers watering the rough late in the day.

"It's long, it's gnarly, it's thick," Nicklaus said. "I thought they might take water off so we could have half a chance to play a reasonable shot."

Compounding matters are the greens, which already were rolling at 11 on the Stimpmeter. They never got beyond 11 all week at Pinehurst No. 2 in last year's U.S. Open.

Who knows what awaits when the shots actually count on Thursday.

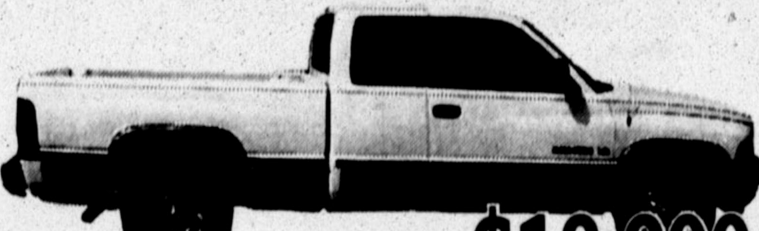

The best option is to not miss fairways and greens, which is no small task.

"I don't know who's leading the PGA Tour in greens in regulation, but whatever that average is, it's going to be down after this week," Meeks said.

Atlanta rallies to beat Pirates, 10-8

Giants' skipper Baker becomes all-time winningest San Francisco manager

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Kevin Millwood got roughed up again and the Atlanta Braves fell behind early. Then, unfortunately for the Pittsburgh Pirates, they got mad.

Andruw Jones homered twice and drove in five runs as the Braves lost a three-run lead, then rallied from five runs down to beat the Pirates 10-8 Monday night.

"From the second inning on, we were bound and determined to get back in the game, and the offense came back and picked him (Millwood) up," said Chipper Jones, who started a go-ahead, two-run ninth inning with a double.

Pirates reliever Jason Christiansen (1-6) followed Jones' double by walking Andres Galarraga, and Javy Lopez and Reggie Sanders each had RBI singles.

The Braves tied it with a two-run eighth on a walk by reliever Rich Loiselle, pinch-hitter Brian Jordan's infield single that led to third baseman Luis Sojo's run-scoring throwing error, and Keith Lockhart's RBI double.

"All the guys were really ticked off and wanted to win it," Chipper Jones said. "We had some good at-bats, but probably the biggest play of the game was Sojo's error."

In other NL games, Milwaukee beat Montreal 8-1; St. Louis defeated San Diego 7-3; Arizona edged Los Angeles 4-2; San Francisco topped Cincinnati 10-3; and Florida beat Philadelphia 5-2.

The Braves' comeback overshadowed Kevin Young's six-RBI night for the Pirates.

Young drove in six runs in the first two innings with a double and homer as the Pirates quickly chased Millwood and seized an 8-3 lead.

But that merely set the stage for Atlanta's comeback.

"You get kind of frustrated, but you know if your bullpen keeps it close, you still have a chance," Andruw Jones said. "You get one here, one here, and you're back in it."

Kerry Ligtenberg (2-1) pitched a scoreless eighth for the victory and Mike me, and maybe this was it, to have a bad outing and for us to win the game," Millwood said.

Brewers 8, Expos 1
Jason Bere (4-5) won for just the second time in 11 starts since April 13, allowing three hits in 6 1-3 innings and striking out seven. Curtis Leskanic and David Weathers completed the five-hitter.

Milwaukee extended its winning streak to three thanks to a three-run fourth off Javier Vazquez (6-3). The visiting Expos lost for the fifth time in six games.

Cardinals 7, Padres 3
Mark McGwire hit a towering two-run homer off Matt Clement (5-6) that broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh. McGwire's 23rd homer, his second in two days, landed an estimated 451 feet into the second deck in left field at Qualcomm Stadium.

Andy Benes (6-3) allowed three runs and six hits in six innings, and struck out a season-high 10 against his former team.

San Diego played the game under protest after losing a sixth-inning argument with plate umpire Gary Cederstrom, who allowed a run to score when an errant throw came to rest on a towel in the dirt in front of the Padres dugout.

Diamondbacks 4, Dodgers 2
Travis Lee homered and drove in two runs, and Brian Anderson (6-1) won for the 12th time in 13 decisions as Arizona stopped a five-game road losing streak.

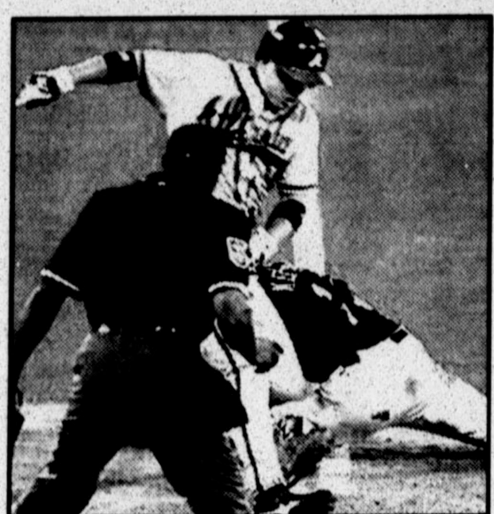

Anderson allowed two runs and eight hits in six innings. Byung-Hyun Kim got three outs for his ninth save.

Giants 10, Reds 3
At San Francisco, Joe Nathan (3-1) scattered seven hits in eight innings and hit his first big league homer.

Marvin Benard added a two-run homer, and Bobby Estalella and Ellis Burks hit solo shots in Dusty Baker's 587th career victory, the most by a San Francisco manager, one ahead of Roger Craig.

Marlins 5, Phillies 2
Alex Gonzalez and Paul Bako each hit two-run triples in a game that ended at 2:06 a.m. EDT. It started 59 minutes late because of rain, then was delayed 2:35 in the bottom of the third.

Taking the lead—Chipper Jones crosses home plate in the ninth inning of Atlanta's comeback 10-8 win over the Pirates.

Smith scores an ace

Hereford native Ron Smith scored a hole-in-one Thursday at the Quarry Golf Club in San Angelo.

The perfect shot occurred on hole 16 which is 185 yards in distance and is a par 3. Smith used a two iron into the wind.

The hole-in-one was the first ever for Smith who was playing in a tournament sponsored by American General Insurance. Smith is the business manager for Stevens 5-Star Car & Truck Center.

Witnesses of the event were Steve Stevens, Jerry Stevens and John Stagner.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs."

- Then remember these hints:
- Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of
 - Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
 - Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
 - Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach

Syrians mourn the passing of Assad

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

News digest

DAMASCUS, Syria — Pallbearers in scarlet berets and combat fatigues carried the body of Syrian President Hafez Assad through the mourner-thronged streets of his capital Tuesday, in a day of funeral ceremonies fraught with national grief and filled with political portents.

In dark mourning suits or flowing Arab robes, world leaders and other dignitaries paid tribute at the flag-draped casket of Assad, who died Saturday at age 69, at the elaborate, white marble People's Palace, set on a Damascus hillside.

His son and designated heir, Bashar Assad, was flanked by Syria's defense minister, in a symbol of the key support Syria's powerful military has thrown behind him. He passed both hands in front of his eyes in a prayerful gesture as his father's coffin was carried along a stretch of red carpet at the palace to a black-shrouded pedestal to lie in state.

Young and politically untested, the 34-year-old Bashar was meeting for the first time many of the leaders giving homage to his father, who ruled Syria with an iron fist for three decades.

South Korea's president at summit in the North

SEOUL, South Korea — Clapping for each other and holding hands, the leaders of South Korea and North Korea exchanged hopes they can end hostilities on the divided Korean Peninsula in a historic meeting Tuesday.

The three-day summit started with a surprise welcome by North Korean leader Kim Jong-Il at the airport on the outskirts of Pyongyang where his southern counterpart President Kim Dae-jung arrived to an elaborate reception.

Kim Jong Il, one of the world's most reclusive leaders, stepped forward to shake hands with the southern leader at the foot of the plane and the two smiled and clapped for each other. The reception included a military band, goose-stepping soldiers and women dressed in traditional, billowing Korean gowns.

The two leaders then rode in the same limousine into the North Korean capital, where an estimated 600,000 people lined block after block of broad avenues, waving bouquets of pink paper flowers. The spectators appeared to direct their emotion at Kim Jong Il, whose name they chanted in unison as the motorcade passed through the city of 2 million.

Hard drives missing from weapons lab ignite fears

WASHINGTON — Investigators are intensely looking for two computer hard drives, containing nuclear weapons secrets, discovered missing from a vault at the Los Alamos National Laboratory in New Mexico. The incident is prompting renewed questions in Congress over security at the federal research labs.

The disappearance of the nuclear weapons data was discovered more than a month ago, but was not made known to senior Energy Department officials until June 1. It was disclosed publicly Monday after a weeklong investigation by three dozen FBI and Energy Department agents who swept down on the lab.

Blaze rages out of control in Colorado hills; hundreds forced to evacuate the area

PINE JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — Driven by wind and feeding on tinderbox conditions, a fire raged out of control in the pine-covered Colorado foothills early Tuesday after forcing hundreds of people to flee their homes.

Nearly 180 girls and employees at a Girl Scout camp were cleared out as a precaution and authorities ordered 300 to 400 people out of the area near Bailey, about 35 miles southwest of Denver. At least 10 houses had burned.

The Hi Meadow fire covered some 3,500 acres Tuesday. It exploded in just a few hours Monday as winds of more than 20 mph pushed flames from tree top to tree top, leaving many in the scattered mountain neighborhoods with little time to gather their belongings.

The flames drew within 50 yards of David Wortman as he and his wife loaded their horses into a trailer, hitched it to their pickup and fled with their dog. They could feel the heat inside the truck.

"Once I saw the flames that close, we had to get out," he said. "I couldn't stand between my house and the flames, it was that hot."

Firefighters were ordered to protect buildings first and think about containment second, said Doug Lee, a spokesman for a multiagency fire management group.

Through the night, the flames moved below the crowns of the trees, allowing ground crews to begin working on containment, night incident commander Brad Ruder said. He said a cold front that moved through the area at midnight helped calm the blaze. North of Denver, a second fire near a subdivision in the mountains west of Loveland had burned at least two homes and threatened as many as 200 others, authorities said.

With much of the nation facing drought conditions and the heart of the fire season ahead, the Colorado fires were the most damaging of those burning across a number of Western states, including Arizona, California, New Mexico and Utah. Smoke from both blazes hung over parts of the Denver metropolitan area. No injuries were reported.

The nation is seeing the worst start of a fire season since 1996, the National Interagency Fire Center in Idaho said Monday.

The season began more than a month ago with blazes engulfing areas of Florida and the Southwest, most notably in Los Alamos, N.M. By Monday, some 44,300 fires covering more than 1.2 million acres had been recorded nationwide.

Some 300 firefighters were at work on the Colorado fires and another 200 were expected to arrive Tuesday. The number of burned homes near Bailey was expected to rise. Authorities described flames jetting from exposed natural gas pipes.

The fire was moving away from the Flying G camp, but officials evacuated 140 girls and 38 staffers as a precaution, said Rachelle Trujillo, a spokeswoman for the Girl Scouts' Mile High Council.

There were no immediate plans to evacuate 84 girls from a second camp 10 miles west of the fire, she said.
