A candle light dinner for about 800 persons or more greeted the members of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce and their guests as they attended the organization's annual banquet Thursday night.

The candles were unexpected as were the decorations of red, white and blue in the spirit of the Bicentennial. But the surprise awards and funny speaker were anticipated.

THE BANQUET PROGRAM moved steadily along until the climatic announcement of the 1975 "Citizen of the Year." He is Jimmie Allred, part owner of the Allred Oil Company. The presentation of the scrolled plaque was made by Weldon Dickson, president of the Hereford Noon Lions club.

Also receiving special attention were Margaret Clemon, past president of the Girls Rodeo Association, and Ed Hennessey, the featured speaker. Each was presented a Hereford Bull Award.

Roy Faubion, Cowgirl Hall of Fame president and past president of the C of C, presented Mrs. Clemon's award and made a special announcement that the hall has commissioned the creation of nine feet by 12 feet work of art. It is to be an oil painting of a cattle stampede and is to be valued at between $50,000 and $85,000 when completed. It will be painted by Leora Coffey of California and will take a year to be completed.

Recognized were outgoing directors, who were presented plaques by Bud Eades, 1975 C of C president. They include Larry Wartes, RC. Hoescher, Faubion, and Terry Caviness. Caviness was vice president of the board of directors.

DONALD HICKS, 1976 C of C president, presented Eades a plaque as the outgoing president and congratulated him for his past service.

In his remarks, Eades encourages the completion of the 25 year goals of the Goals for Progress committee and to get them completed "in the near future. Don't let them die."

He said the beginning of the goals commenced in 1975, but that much remains to be done.

Hicks took the podium and said, "It is a challenge for me to serve you as president. Hard work and cooperation have made Hereford and I hope we can have a successful year by continuing to work hard."

Introductions filled a large part of the night's activities including the recognition of all past and new directors, new and old committee chairmen, and past president of the C of C. Numerous ones were present including R.L. Thompson, who was the president in attendance with the oldest year of service--1942. Bill Albright, C of C executive VP, made introductions.

A HIGHLIGHT of the evening was the singing of the national anthem, when a 20 by 38-foot U.S. garrison flag was lowered along the rear bleachers. It was spotlighted and illuminated in the darkness. "If that doesn't inspire you, I don't know what will," said Earnest Langley, master of ceremonies.

The flag was flown here from Ft. Sill by the recruiting service of the U.S. Army.

Providing the entertainment were the Hereford High School choir under the direction of Don Moore. They sang a series of patriotic songs.

Dinner music was furnished by the HHS stage band, which also accompanied the choir. Decorations were made by the C of C Women's Division and Campfire Girls and the Horizon Club served.

Sunset Candles was applauded for their contribution of 300 rose flowered candles for the night's decorations. These were given to the C of C for use during the Bicentennial year for organization in the area who might need them for decorations at banquet.s

In accepting his award, Allred said, "I am as surprised as anyone. I deem it a pleasure having served the community and I'll try to do more in the future."

ALLRED, 62, came to Hereford six months after his birth in Amarillo. He was a rural resident until his family moved to town in 1930 so his sisters could attend school.

He became one of the youngest merchants after taking over the operation of his oil company after its previous owner became ill. In his youth he was a standout in basketball.

Under his direction, one of Hereford's savings and loan institutions reached great growth. He served as president of Hereford Texas Federal Savings and Loan Association. He was a leader in the associations to develop Highway 60 as a major travel route and was responsible for boosting tourism along it.

He was named Father of Year by KPAN two years ago and possesses the rank of 32nd degree mason. He is a deacon in the First Baptist Church and a longtime member of the Hereford Lions Club.

HENNESSEY, delivered a unique presentation to the crowd called, Laughing, Singing America." It consisted of a humorous monologue and then he broke into his presentation with the use of his guitar.

A former opera singer with the CBS television network, Hennessey, offered a mixture of laughs and patriotism with his songs delivered in different languages of French, German, Spanish and varying accents of English. He sings in 16 languages. He hails from San Francisco, Calif.

He has traveled across the U.S. on the banquet circuit and once traveled with comedian Bob Hope.

Seated at the head table were Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Sparks (Georgia Sparks is Women's Division president), Mr. and Mrs. Langley, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Albright, Ed Hennessey, Donna Kendall, Miss Teenage Hereford, Mr. and mrs. Eades, and Mr. and Mrs. Hicks.

The overall theme of the banquet was Have It Your Way.

Industrial Foundation Members Elect New Officers, Directors

Tom Burdett, president of the Hereford Industrial Foundation reported this week that new directors were elected and annual reports given at the first yearly meetings of the organization. It was formed last year after several dormant years.

The meeting held at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office Tuesday night, included recognition of outgoing directors Dean Herring, Ray Cowsert, Bobby Owen, Jake Webb and W.T. Carmichael. Webb and Owen were re-elected to serve on the board of the foundation. Other new directors include Bud Eades, Virgil Slentz, Major Schroeter, and Donald Hicks, who automatically serves on the board as president of the C of C.

Burdett reported that the foundation was in excellent financial shape with net equity of $45,000. Liabilities include a $40,000 note to the Texas Industrial Foundation, a $30,000 note to the Hi-Plain Savings and Loan Association.

Re-elected as the foundation officers are Burdett, president; Dick Geries, vice president; Ken Rogers, vice president; Bill Albright, executive vice president and secretary; and Dennis Farley, treasurer.

Burdett asked that pledges of $5,000 still need to be submitted to accurately reflect the foundation's assets. Presently, the organization has 145,000 in assets including the Sue Ann Inc. plant, accounts receivable and cash on hand at banks and other properties.

About 20 persons attended the meeting of the membership. Burdett said $10 annual dues statement would soon be sent out and that everyone was encouraged to renew their memberships.

Third Candidate Files For Commissioner's Seat

The County Commissioners' Court precinct 1 election race is getting crowded as Wallace Shelton Jr., 29, of Dawn filed Friday against two already announced candidates.

Precinct 1, which includes most of the northeast section of the county, was formerly administered by Earl Holt, who decided not to seek re-election after 12 years.

Other candidates running for the position are Alfred Smith, a farmer-rancher, and Donald Henslee, a retail car salesman. Both filed in December following the decision by Holt not to run again.

The only other commissioners spot up for re-election is precinct 3, held by Bruce Coleman. He is seeking his fourth term and no one has yet filed against him.

Other county positions open include that of Tax Assessor-Collector, held by Nell Miller, and Sheriff, held by Travis McPherson. Both have announced intentions to run again.

Shelton, a farmer from Dawn, is running because he feels more youthful citizens ought to participate in government. "I feel like its time for younger persons to participate in government especially in this Bicentennial year.

Specifically, he said he wanted more development of the rural areas as far as improved roads and recreational facilities. Also, he would like to see if a Medivac Helicopter couldn't be purchased jointly with other communities for use on a regional basis to speed up the treatment of wreck victims.

His rural residency is an asset for the court, he said, because he knows the problems faced by smaller county communities. "Other towns should be able to do like Dawn has done," he said referring to the creation of a volunteer fire department and the building of a new community center.

He has lived in Hereford and knows the problems here and feels he can adequately represent the whole county.

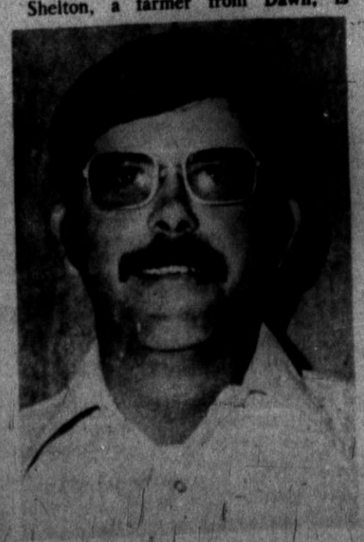

He is a member of the Dawn Volunteer Fire Department and has served as president of the Dawn Community Association for three years. He has served as a member of both the Deaf Smith County Sheriffs Reserves and the county Peace Officers Association.

His church membership is with the Hereford First Baptist church and he has been on the advisory committee for the Dawn Coop.

A 1964 graduate of Hereford High School, Shelton has lived most of his life in the county. He attended two years at West Texas State Universtiy and helped develop the Crime Information Center for the Federal Bureau of Investigation from 1966-69, when his family lived in Washington D.C.

His wife's name is Susie, and they have two daughters, Paige 8, and Meridith 7. Susie has lived most of her life in the county and graduated from HHS in 1963.

The last day to file for county offices is Feb. 2.

8 Accidents Investigated In December

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated eight accidents on rural highways in Deaf Smith County during the month of December, 1975, according to Sergeant W.E.Wells, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in no person killed and three persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first 12 months of 1975 shows a total of 108 accidents resulting in one person killed and 71 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for December, 1975, shows a total of 534 accidents resulting in 22 persons killed and 325 persons injured, as compared to December, 1974, with 598 accidents resulting in 11 persons killed and 340 persons injured. This was 64 less accidents, 11 more killed, and 15 less injured in 1975 at the same period of time.

The traffic deaths for the month of December, 1975, occurred in the following counties; Four in Parker; three in Hardeman; two in Lubbock; and one each in Bailey, Dickens, Hockley, Jack, Montague, Palo Pinto, Wise, Young Gray, Ochiltree, Parmer, Potter, and Wheeler.

Churches Join In Service Today

An ecumenical worship service will be observed by Hereford ministers this evening (Sunday) at 7:30 in St. Anthony's Catholic church.

THE SERVICE will launch the observance of the "Week of Prayer for Christian Unity," which runs from today through Jan. 25.

The opening prayer at tonight's service will be conducted by Rev. C.W. Allen of the St. John Baptist Church.

Dr. Jordan Grooms of the First United Methodist Church will present the first reading and the second reading will be presented by Doug Manning, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

The gospel will be read by Rev. Bernard McGorry of St. Anthony's while the prayer of petition will be offered by Brother Charles Kenney of St. Anthony's.

REV. WILLIAM LANG JR. of the St. Thomas Episcopal Church will render the homily.

The benediction will be given by Rev. Bobby McMillan of the First Methodist Church of Friona after the congregation joins in the renewal of baptismal vows.

The First Christian, Wesley Methodist, San Jose and First Presbyterian churches will also participate in Sunday's service.

Larry Kuper of St. Anthony's will lead the congregation in singing.

THE CHURCH WOMEN UNITED will sponsor a meal at noon Thursday at the First Methodist Church with those attending requested to bring a can of vegetables that could be put into a stew. The CWU will prepare the meat stock for the meal.

Scriptures will be read and groups will be formed to discuss their text following the meal.

County Jail Trustees Termed 'OK Guys'

Off And Running

A Deaf Smith County trustee is given the task of washing a Texas Highway Department patrol car. This is one of the numerous duties assigned the trustees at the county jail. (Brand Photo)

If that guy is a trustee from the County Jail, don't worry about it, folks; he's perfectly safe.

"We very seldom have one disappear," said County Sheriff Travis McPherson. "Oh, we've had one or two walk off, but we got 'em within 24 hours--they, usually, wind up drunk. But we seldom lose one; the penalty for escape in Texas is five years—trustee or not."

"WE NORMALLY have five trustees," explained McPherson noting "their 'time' runs from six months to two years. Prisoners can't serve more than two years in the county jail. Anyone sentenced to over that is sent to the penitentiary. And, one can't serve a felony in the county jail either unless the charge is reduced to a misdemeanor.

"We've got good trustees. They work out pretty good. They'll put in an eight-hour day, but, we can't use them for any other work than for the county.

"There are two or three classes of trustees," continued the sheriff, saying that all of them were strictly on "a volunteer basis. They have to indicate a willingness to work and get along...a volunteer that looks like have some 'drive'...

"We have one that works at Bull Barn...the Chief of Police uses one to wash cars...the Fire Department has one to take care of the fire trucks...One is a cook and does a good job... One washes cars and, over the weekend, paints a lot," said McPherson, nodding to a wall on the outside of his office, where some of the fella's paintings were hanging..."And, he said he will be painting for the museum over there.

"IT'S AN INCENTIVE type thing," continued McPherson, saying they have no trouble in selecting trustees. "We look for someone easily to get along with,.. the amount of time they have...their work record.

"You can pretty well tell."

Actually, the best judge of a potential trustee are other prisoners themselves, especially long-timers, who might be familiar with the "prospect" himself. They're as good as recommendations as anyone.

"For good behavior time, you get one-third (of the sentence) off," claimed the Sheriff. "But, one doesn't have to be a trustee to get that.

"Prisoners get two meals and a snack a day, but, if he works, he gets three meals. Also 'extra privileges', like TV." Trustees also make wages.

"We have a work release program...a trustee type program." Under the work release set up, one "will have to turn all their money over to the family...to provide for the family," taking ou only for "personal expenses."

"ANOTHER TYPE of trustee wouldn't be allowed to leave the jail," said McPherson, claiming those individuals would have "30 days or less." They would be eligible for good behavior and work time, too, "to get out quicker."

He went on to say, in general, a trustee's attitude is "much better. Of course, he has to have a pretty good attitude before he's even made a trustee. It means a lot."

Yes, trustees are as safe as that officer in the squad car.

"Even at Huntsville, they very seldom lose one; they interview people and keep records...so they know all about a trustee before selecting him."

McPherson and his department do, too.

Four Burglaries, Thefts Reported By Police Dept.

The Hereford Police Department reported four theft or burglary cases in the past four days.

Cowboy Chevrolet had $260 worth of headlight and hubcaps stolen sometime Tuesday.

Raymond Castillo of 207 Short reported to police that a CB radio was stolen from his car one Thursday. Another car burglary was reported by Edward Barbee of Lubbock, who had a CB radio antenna stolen from his car. It was parked at 504 Plains St. and supposedly happened some time Thursday night.

Nancy Kirby, 506 Ave. G. reported that her house had been broken in to, but that nothing was missing. It was messed up though. That was reported Thursday.

Realtors Board To Hold Meeting This Tuesday

The Hereford Board of Realtors will hold their monthly meeting on Tuesday at noon, Jan. 20 at the Civic club Center. All members, associates and friends are encouraged to attend.

Mrs. Jeane Coker will be presiding over the meeting as President of the Hereford Board of Realtors. Other officers are Vice-President; Tommy Bowling, and Secretary-Treasurer; Marie Griffin.

The program for the meeting will be a new film purchased by the Hereford Board. The film is entitled "Uncle Sam, The Man and the Legend."

The film will be available for use by the citizens of Hereford and Deaf Smith County and especially the Hereford School system. Further details on how to obtain the use of the film will be forth coming.

County Citizens Contribute Heavily To Retire National Debt

Hereford area residents will again be taxed heavily for the large amount of federal government spending the next fiscal year. This taxed amount will be in excess of $2.7 million and this goes toward futile efforts to retire the national debt, which Congress hikes every year.

Deaf Smith County taxpayers are required like other U.S. citizens to stand behind the national debt which is now in excess of half a trillion dollars. The local contribution described here is only on the interest charges on the debt and it is collected through taxes and other levies.

In line with the share normally born by the local population, they will be paying approximately $2,792,000 toward it. And that is merely for the annual carrying charges on the debt. It will not reduce the capital amount owed at all.

The findings are based upon data from the U.S. Office of Management and Budget and upon figures from other sources.

By the middle of next year, at the present rate of growth, the national debt will be equivalent to $2,750 for every man, woman and child in the country, the Treasury Department indicates.

As for the interest charges, which are close to $34 billion a year, they account for no less than 10 per cent of all Federal spending.

For the average Deaf Smith County family, it means that some $440 of the amount turned in by them in federal taxes is going for interest payments on the debt.

Because the Government was near the legal debt ceiling of $577 billion and could not continue borrowing to meet its oncoming needs, it recently sought and obtained from Congress an increase in the ceiling to $595 billion.

In the period since 1970, the budget shows, the interest on the national debt has jumped from $19.3 billion a tear to the present $34 billion.

The effect of this increase, on Deaf Smith County families, is that 76 percent more of their tax money is going into the carrying charges on the debt than was the case five years ago.

Just how the annual expenditure for interest sizes up with other Governemtnal outlays may be gleaned from the current budget. It shows that about 2½ times as much is being spent for interest than for education, manpower training and social services combined. It is greater than the total going in aid to veterans, public assistance and food aid to the needy.

Abundant Life

Fashions

Fashions cannot be ignored, but they are not to be followed without question. Some are not to be followed under any circumstances. If we do our own thinking, we will know how to be successfully dicerning about fashions. We will know which to reject, and which to follow and how far to go in those we do follow.

SOME FASHIONS ARE GOOD, and even an improvement over the past. Other fashions are inferior, and some are even downgrading. Some are useful and helpful, some are harmful in every possible way, and some are just fashions and neither good nor bad--they don't help and they don't hurt.

A big-to-do about fashions is not a proper manifestation of good judgement. This blind conformity to fashion does not indicate a high level of maturity and wisdom. It is a certain indication of shallowness and superfluity; and often keeps people in a miserable condition, because they are not able to pay the price of constant and meaningless fashion changes.

THE FASHION ADDICT is a self-centered, wasteful and often very insecure person. The constant change from fading fashion to fading fashion creates many troublesome problems, because such persons have a mixed up priority system for their lives. They usually do not know the difference between important and unimportant things.

The mature person will have a sensible "take-it-or-leave it" attitude toward the fashions someone is trying to force upon everybody. He will know which to reject, and how far to go in those he may accept. When the fashion has merit, these sensible people will not be the first to accept the new fashion or the last to lay the old aside.

MUCH OF THE RESPONSE to fashion is not a commendable commentary on human behavior, because it reveals the dominance of the vainglory of life. Generally speaking, this bespeaks the shallowness of human thought, conviction and purpose. The waste that is involved in changing from fashion to fashion is shocking.

We must be strong enough not to be blown about by every wind of fashion that blows. When we are not this strong, it means that somebody somewhere is dictating to us how to talk, how to dress, how to groom ourselves and how to manage our general life style. This is a terrible kind of slavery from which all of us should declare our independence.

Big Brothers-Big Sisters Board Elects New Officers For 1976

The board of Big Brother-Big Sisters of Hereford kicked off a new year Wednesday morning.

A new slate of officers for 1976 was elected as follows: Bartley Dowell, president, Ed Line, vice-president, Sherry Hoover, secretary, and Rodger Ruland, treasurer.

The public relations committee announced that March will be Big Brothers-Big Sisters month in Hereford. Plans are being made to honor the 30 volunteers who spend between four and five new members into the organization in December-3 Big Sisters and 2 Big Brothers. The organization is continually looking for prospective Big Brothers and Big Sisters to spend time weekly with a child from a single parent home. If you have a concern for others and a few hours to share each week, call the Big Brothers-Big Sisters office.

A newsletter will be published monthly beginning in January. This letter will help establish communation among members of the organization itself, as well as inform the Hereford community of the agency's activities. The newsletter will be available to anyone who is interested in the program and would like 12 hours weekly with their young friends. Anyone in the community who would like to join in paying tribute should contact the Big Brothers-Big Sisters office.

The membership committee accepted to receive it.

Hereford Jolts Tascosa As Kitchens (24) Shines

David Camfield sat... just shaking his head.

"If THIS is any indicator... well, we're in trouble."

The Amarillo Tascosa coach had just watched his Rebels drop a 74-59 decision to Hereford here Friday night and, obviously, he hasn't been too happy...

"I thought we were ready, but I guess not," sighed Camfield, who appeared more depressed with his own team's performance than impressed with Hereford.

RELATED STORY, PG. 4A

"I dunno; I felt when this season began... with Cleveland (6-5 Dwight), Moore (6-3 Lewis) and White (6-3 Lloyd), we'd have the best front line in the district. But, we're not gettin' any play from the guys up front... and we're not getting any play from our guards."

True, senior backliner Mike Lorenc fired in a team-leading 21 points against Hereford, but Camfield was hardly excited...

"Yeah, but what'd he shoot? Forty-five per cent! Ya don't win games shootin' forty-five per cent."

...And, ya certainly "don't win games" shootin' 38.8 per cent, which is what the Rebels shot against the Herd. Tascosa dropped only 26 of 67.

Not only that, but the Rebs also couldn't stop the backcourt bombing of sophomore Kelly Kitchen or the inside destruction of 6-6 Mike Hull and 6-2 Paul Trolinder. Kitchens, bangin'-away 18-footers like they were goin' outta style, finished with a game-high of 24, which his season's high; Hull, doing most of his damage in the first half, wound up with 14, while Trolinder, taking over in the second, had the 16.

Toss in James' Mays' 10 points and Hereford had still a fourth player in double figures.

It was a prestigious, confidence-building victory for the Herd, who had also beaten the defending District 3-AAAA co-champs, 60-58, earlier in the season in the consolation finals of the Amarillo Tournament.

Obviously, this one was much simpler, especially after Hull flipped in a follow shot with 4:44 left in the second quarter, which gave the Whitefaces a lead they were never to relinquish.

After leading by eight (36-28) at the break, Trolinder and Kitchens went to work upon resumption as Hereford steadily widened its margin until it crested to as many as 17 points (74-57)... seconds before the final buzzer.

Camfield was in a state of shock...

He didn't feel Hereford was that much better Friday than the first time Tascosa had played 'em.

"It was the way WE played. Oh, they (Hereford) were well prepared, but, we just didn't do a thing."

To make matters worse, Tascosa was in early foul trouble (although the Rebels never did lose anyone)... they lost Moore late in the third quarter with a knee injury... and they played their first game without stand out guard DeWayne Gilbreath.

"We left him (Gilbreath) home," explained Camfield, adding a quick "...and we're leavin' him home for the rest of the season! I dunno what he was averaging, although somebody said it was in double figures." Gibreath, a 6-4 junior, apparently wound up in the (disciplinary) doghouse after Tascosa's 63-61 overtime loss to Coronado three nights earlier. Ironically, he scored a seasons low of only two points in that contest, managing only one for seven from the field.

However, the way Tascosa played, Walt Frazier probably wouldn't have helped 'em...

"We played so well against Coronado... and then to come down here and play like this." Coronado has beaten Tascosa in two of three meetings— with two of the contests having gone into overtime—and Camfield is firmly convinced...

"Right now, Coronado is the best team in the Panhandle," he assured. "They're real solid; if you take 'em outside, they'll go inside on ya... and if ya take 'em inside, they'll go outside on ya."

There's no doubt in his mind that "Coronado is better than Monterey," who the Rebels also played earlier, because the Plainsmen "can only do one thing... 'stuff it' (the good defense) on ya.

"But, if you don't let 'em do that..."

He ascertained, however, both Monterey and Coronado were better ball clubs than Hereford and indicated if the Mustangs "play their kinda game, they'd win (over the Herd) by 12 points." He emphasized, too, Coronado plays well on the road...

"They beat us!" he snapped. "...But, I'd like to see Hereford beat 'em... and I hope Barry (Arnwine, Hereford Coach) goes on and has a real good season."

Actually, for a while, it looked like Tascosa— and not Hereford —would pick up the victory; at least during the early going.

After three ties, Cleveland pocketed a follow shot and Lorenc sank a pair of free throws to give the Rebs a 14-9 lead with 2:10 left in the initial Arnwine: Our Biggest Win!

"It was our biggest win...and it couldn't have come at a better time."

Barry Arnwine was in a pretty happy mood Saturday morning after his sky-high Hereford Whitefaces scored a stunning 15-point victory over a good Amarillo Tascosa outfit the previous night.

"Our game plan was to go inside," confided the Hereford coach, whose team balanced its won-loss record at 10-10. "We knew Cleveland (6-5 center Dwight) was prone to get into foul trouble." Sure enough, the big Rebel pivotman picked up three fouls in the first 10½ minutes, had to be removed and Hereford's rapidly-improving front line of 6-6 Mike Hull, 6-2 Paul Trolinder and 6-0 James Mays went to work, both offensively and defensively.

"Trolinder and Hull did a good job," saluted Arnwine, noting the former picked up 16 points and the same number of rebounds, while Hull chalked up 14 points and added 12 caroms. Although Tascosa enjoyed a decided height advantage, Hereford still dominated the backboard, 44-34.

Of course, the key to Hereford's strikingly-impressive performance was the sparkling play of sophomore guard Kelly Kitchens...

"He finally broke out of a shooting slump that he's been in since the middle of December," said Arnwine. Kitchens bingoed nine of 16 shots from the floor...all but two of the long-range variety.

Hereford shot 49.1 percent on 30 of 61, while the Rebels were extremely cold, hitting only 38.8 percent on 26 of 67.

With a full week off before the next game (against Clovis), Arnwine said "we'll get a lotta scouting done. Tuesday, we'll have a scout at Clovis (where Lubbock plays) and there will also be two of us in Lubbock that night (for the Borger-Coronado and Pampa-Monterey contests).

"We scheduled Clovis on a Saturday so we could scout the two district games Friday (Monterey at Coronado and Lubbock at Plainview)."

Arnwine feels defense will play key roles in the success teams have in the District, which is usually the case.

"Scores will be lower. Coronado beat Monterey...I think it was 57-48...(late last month) and when they play again this week, I think the teams will score about 10 points lower.

"I feel, at this time, Borger is the best team we've played... and one of the reasons is because they held us to 48, 49 and 43 points. I's like our team to get where they can also hold a team to near 50 points.

"I thought we showed excellent patience on offense, especially in the first half," continued the Hereford coach. "...we didn't come down and jack the first shot up.

"We played real well.

"It's just like I've been saying, if we would play to our potential, we have a chance to be a factor in the race."

Despite Coronado's eight-game winning streak and 16-5 success, Arnwine still feels Monterey is "team to beat" in the District "because they have so much tradition. That's something hard to beat." The Plainsmen have advanced to the Regionals the past three seasons.

He realizes Coronado is playing extremely well, but claims the Mustangs "will have to prove" they're a better ball club than Monterey. "But I'm glad to see Coronado has been winning," said Arnwine, who had been concerned prior to the start of the season the Plainsmen would walk away with things again.

As for Clovis, Arnwine admittedly doesn't know too much about the New Mexico ball club other than "they lost to Amarillo at Amarillo and beat Palo Duro by 20, 64-44.

"Personnel-wise, they lost their two best players from a year ago; but, they're a good team., and I see they're ranked No. 5 in the state."

Clovis defeated Hereford twice last year—58-52 here and by three points there.

"We enjoy playing Clovis; even though it's only 50 miles from here, it gives our kids a chance to see how basketball is played in another state," concluded Arnwine.

KITCHENS...

session. It was 16-12 at the quarter.

Hull and Mays patrolled the inside for baskets at the outset of the second stanza to forge a fourth tie... and, then, the two clubs started swapping baskets.

Cleveland picked up his third personal and that was probably the "turning point" because Camfield was forced to sit down his No. 1 scorer and rebounder. The Rebs were leading, 20-18, at the time; however, in the next four minutes, with their "big man" on the bench, the visitors were outscored 12-2, as Hereford shot out to eight-point command.

Tascosa couldn't draw any closer than six the rest of the way.

Hull and Mays were the ringleaders in the Herd's break-away 24-point second quarter, with eight and six points, respectively.

Cleveland started the third quarter, but it mattered little as the Herd forged into its biggest lead (at the time)—12 points—at 40-28 on back-to-backers by the suddenly-hot Trolinder.

Kitchens dropped three long-rangers as the Herd maintained a comfortable lead, which stood at 50-39, when Moore hobbled to the sideline in the final minute of that third quarter.

Three times in the fourth quarter, as the bench-thin Rebels desparately tried to mount an offense, Moore limped in... only to limp off. The final time came after having his knee taped; however, even that didn't help and he finally retired for good with 4½ minutes to play and his 'mates down, 59-47.

Hereford ended up outscorin' 'em in that quarter, too, 22-16.

Moore finished with 16 points, and was the only other double-figure scorer besides Lorenc who matched Kitchens in outside shooting.

The victory balanced Hereford's record at 10-10, while Tascosa, who opens District 3-AAAA play at home Friday night against Palo Duro, slipped to a disappointing 10-9.

"All the teams in our district look tough," pointed out Camfield, noting Amarillo "is big and strong... Pampa is playing real well... and Caprock has a coupla real good kids (Mark Leonard and Jay Hunt)... He forgot to mention Borger; the Bulldogs are "only" 18-3.

Admittedly, Tascosa started slowly in non-district play last year, too, going 9-12 against outsiders before finishing with a flurry to win nine of 10 league games.

"Yeah, but the way we're playin' THIS year..."

Hereford also won the Junior Varsity game, 40-32, as the locals ran its record to 6-11. Meantime, the Hereford sophomores made it a sweep by defeating Shallowater 53-42.

Stanton Tops Mavs in Pair

Stanton's ninth-graders zoomed into the district lead with its fifth victory in a row by defeating La Plata, 38-33, Thursday before a jam-packed crowd on the Dogies' hardwood.

Kevin Bunch tallied 16 points for Stanton who ran its record to 7-2 overall, while Gret Dement led La Plata with nine.

La Plata, now 4-1 in district play, is 6-4 overall and saw its five-game winning streak broken.

The teams broke even in the other two contests as Stanton won the eighth-grade battle, 39-35, but La Plata scored a 26-23 victory in the seventh-grade contest.

Belen Ramirez dumped in 17 points for Stanton's eighth-graders, who ran its record to 3-2 in district play and 5-4 overall. The Mavericks are now 1-4 and 5-6.

Frank Maes tallied 12 for the Mavs.

Stanton's eighth-graders, who blew an early eight- point lead, had to battle back from a 19-18 halftime deficit.

The seventh-grade game was also a close, basket-swapping affair, which saw La Plata run its district mark to 3-2; the Mavs are 7-4 overall. Alan Wartes (9) and Felix Soliz (8) were the top scorers for the winners.

Stanton's seventh-graders who were led by Shawn Lightfoot's eight points, fell to 2-3 and 2-7.

The Dogies return to action Monday against Plainview Estacado here, with games at 4:00, 5:30 and 7 p.m.

La Plata's next games will be Tuesday at Canyon White.

District 4-AAAA Round-Up

Borger- Coronado Play

District 4-AAAA teams, for the most part, wind up non-league action Tuesday night and it's only natural a possible bi-district preview highlights the abbreviated three game card.

Borger and Coronado, both of whom are working on long winning streaks and currently boast the top won-loss records in their respective districts, collide on the Mustangs' hardwood in their first meeting of the season. The Bulldogs, who have won six in a row, including a big victory over Monterey over the weekend, are a glittering 18-3; the Ponies, even hotter with a streak of eight straight, are 16-5.

Obviously, the Borger-Coronado match-up has removed some of the glamour from still another attractive contest--a return engagement between the two defending district champions, Pampa and Monterey. The Harvestors, who nipped Monterey, 46-44, at Pampa 12 days ago, come in a gaudy 17-3; the Plainsmen, a five-point winner over Pampa in Bi-District a year ago, are 11-10.

Both teams lead their respective districts in defense.

Only one other contest is on the slate as Lubbock travels to Clovis.

Hereford(10-10)and Plainview (7-14) take Tuesday off, although the Whitefaces still have another non-district date at Clovis Saturday night.

District play actually opens on Friday with Coronado hosting Monterey in "the biggie" and Plainview entertaining Lubbock.

Hereford doesn't begin district action until Jan. 27 when they visit Plainview.

But, before league play begins, there will be some excitement in Lubbock with District 3-AAAA powers Borger and Pampa visiting Coronado and Monterey, respectively. Many believe these are the four best ball clubs among the 11 District 3-AAAA and 4-AAAA teams; they have an overall combined record of 62-21...and one of those clubs (Monterey) has lost nearly half of those games.

While the Pampa-Monterey collision matches the defensive leaders, the Borger-Coronado battle pairs the top offensive clubs. Each is averaging over 63 ppg. although the Mustangs might have the better balance of the two with three starters in double figures and two others averaging over eight ppg.

However, Borger boasts the top scorer and rebounder in the district in center Jason Welch and the 6-5 junior has a fine supporting cast, including 14-point scorer Ricky Dickson.

Pampa is allowing under 49 ppg., which is remarkable considering the Harvesters have played nearly two-thirds of its schedule.

Iornically, while both Pampa and Monterey have been so successful with their defense, the two teams are the weakest scoring clubs in their districts. The Harvesters are averaging only 54.5 ppg., with 6-4 forward Don Hughes---who scored 19 against Monterey earlier and is hitting 54 percent from the floor---leading the way with a 13.8 average. The Plainsmen are barely averaging 53 ppg.; they're led by 6-5 center Scott Gardner with a 14.1 mark, including 20 against Pampa in that first contest.

Monterey defeated Pampa, 57-52, in Bi-District a year ago after losing twice to the Harvesters in lopsided fashion during the regular season.

Clovis, currently ranked no. 5 in District 4-AAAA in New Mexico and 8-4 on the campaign, will be playing Lubbock for the first time. The Westerners are 7-14, although have plenty of scoring firepower in Cecil Ross (15.5), Gary Norris (14.2) and Floyd Smith (11.4) (14.6) the defense, however, has been weak.

Lubbock, incidentally, has already matched last season's seven victories.

Clovis looks like the top challenger to perennial powerhouse Hobbs in its district; they've won three straight ball games, including a pair in league play.

Comment On Sports

By Pete Fritchie

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- It will seem strange to see Mickey Lolich throwing for the New York Mets, who already had an outstanding pitching staff before acquiring Lolich.

Whether Mickey can help take the Mets into the World Series is a good question. But if the Mets should get there, ahead of the likes of Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, etc., Lolich will know what to do.

His 1968 performance is still regarded as one of the pitching epics of Series history. In that Series, Lolich won three games, though not starting the first, in three route-going performances--beating Bob Gibson in the finale.

Lolich's style was so well known in the American League he begins with an advantage in his new surroundings, and it may take National League hitters a time to learn his tricks. On the other hand, Lolich has necessarily lost something off his fast ball, and can't last forever at 36. So the Mets gambled he would be a big help this year--enough help to give up Rusty Staub.

Nip 'n Tuck SWHL Battle

Amarillo and Albuquerque continue to win on the ice, but the Chaparrals are still losing at the turnstiles in the Southwest Hockey League.

The Wranglers and Chaps, staging a heated battle for the top spot in the SWHL race, which they currently share, are both 20-points over third-place El Paso.

While Billings continues to lead the circuit in attendance—the Blazers drew a SWHL record recently with a turnout of 10,832— Albuquerque and El Paso continue to be the worst draws. The Chaps biggest crowd has been 2,015.

Businessman's Corner

LET'S TALK ABOUT NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

By Lynn Brisendine

MAKING YOUR ADVERTISING BELIEVABLE AND WHY

In spite of the drastic changes that have taken place in American society in the past twenty years, some business people still do not see the value of being completely honest in their advertising. Although outlawed, bait & switch ads still appear in publications, (where a "low-ball" price is advertised with the intention of selling a higher priced product after the customer is brought in), and the businessmen advertising in this manner scream to high heaven when caught in the act.

There are, of course, many ways to fool the reader of newspaper ads, through insinuating remarks, half-truths, quoting unusually low prices on one-of-a-kind-in-stock products as though you had a warehouse full of them, and other copywriting ruse. But, even if the advertiser gets away with this advertising, without involving himself in a legal complaint, he is still in for a rude awakening which will inevitably come from his would-be customers.

The businessman who allows dishonest statements to creep into his advertising copy is only fooling himself. How many times will a customer visit your place of business if he finds that what you had advertised is out of stock the same day your ad appeared in the paper? How many times will a customer return, in response to your advertising, after once being pressured to buy another product because the one he came in for is "sold out?" In short, how many times is it possible to make fools of your customers? Usually just once!

So what happens to the "sharpie" trying to outfox the buying public? Little by little he drives what could have been a nice clientele down the street to the man who is completely honest in all of his advertising.

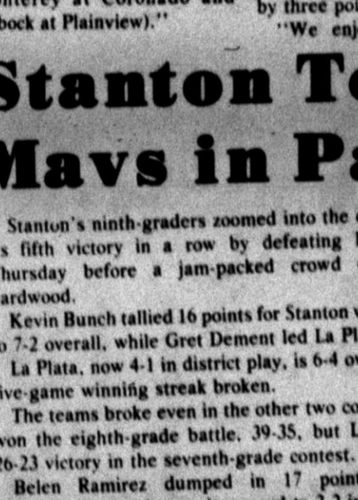

There used to be a saying among advertising men that went something like this: "Write all of your advertising copy as though you were talking to a 9 year old, and most of the people will respond." It is difficult to recall a time when this may have been true, but if it ever was true it surely is not today. Since the advent of American thinking that demanded almost every young person should go to college, and the massive return-to-school of older adults who had previously not finished their formal education, today's advertising is being read and evaluated by the most intelligent society the world has ever known. Even the elderly are far more sophisticated in their thinking than ever before. Is it any wonder that dishonesty in advertising doesn't pay? Of course, there are still a few die-hards around who advertise like they were selling snake oil off a horse-drawn wagon.

Summing it up, the benefits to the advertiser, of forthright advertising, should be glaringly obvious. It is utter foolishness, and even legally dangerous, to advertise in any other manner.

Whatever your individual advertising problem may be remember, this newspaper maintains a staff that is ready, willing and well equipped to serve you. From the standpoint of the service you receive from these people you couldn't possibly find a better bargain!

SUNDAY SHORTIES while wonderin' what SMU is gonna do now that San Jose State's Darryl Rogers nixed the Mustangs' head football coaching offer. Pittsburgh's Johnny Majors and ex-Kansas City Chief Hank Stram had turned down the position earlier. Rogers, obviously, received a hefty raise to remain on the West Coast because he had also refused more-attractive positions at Oregon State and Tulane before the SMU post popped up. The Mustangs, now down to their "4th choice" can't really be choosey, considering the schools' athletic situation, and it now looks like George Welsh (Navy) or Lou Holtz (North Carolina State) are the top candidates. Holtz, however, probably won't want it; most good coaches wouldn't...

LACEWELL 'LOOSE'

And, speaking of Southwest Conference coaching vacancies, one of Rice's applicants is popular Larry Lacewell, defensive coordinator and Assistant Head Coach to Barry Switzer at Oklahoma. Lacewell, who is making $24,500 as an assistant, turned down previous head coaching opportunities at Iowa in '74 and Kansas State in '75 because those programs were on the very bottom of the Big Ten and Big Eight barrels. Rice, naturally, is too---and it's even hotly rumored the Owls will drop collegiate sports in the not too distant future. However, Lacewell regarded as one of the most promising head coaching prospects in the country, is a crack recruiter, with especially intriguing ties here in Texas. He's bright, personable, humorous and even has his won weekly TV show (during the season); he'd be a plum catch for Rice and if ANYONE can revitalize the Owls' grid fortunes, Lacewell's the man...Who says basketball teams can't win on the road? Western Junior College Athletic Conference visitors have won 23 of 30 league games--that's a staggering .766 winning percentage!---including a five-game sweep by Amarillo, Midland, New Mexico J.C., Western Texas and Frank Phillips Thursday night. Western Texas (16 2 overall) and Frank Phillips (10-5) currently share the top spot with 5-1 records...Coach Barry Arnwine and his Hereford roundballers will probably be pulling for Coronado to defeat Monterey on the Mustangs' gym Friday night because the Whitefaces have to play the Plainsmen a week later on the latter's hardwood. With Monterey losing to Coronado, the Plainsmen could be "down" when Hereford comes in, which could allow the Herd to sneak away with a victory. A win at Monterey Jan. 30 could be a springboard to defeating Coronado here Feb. 3. So, Friday's Monterey-Coronado is a very big one as far as the locals are concerned. Hereford has to feel their best chances lie in the district's first half--even if Monterey does defeat Coronado Friday. Perhaps a Plainsmen victory Friday could also work in the Herd's favor because Monterey may then feel they have the District's first half "in the bag" and, consequently, stub its toe in one of its remaining three games. Coronado and Monterey open both halves against one another and, obviously, the victor---in both games---is gonna feel they have that half "wrapped up." Frankly, Hereford's second-half chances lie in that early-February five-game home stand, hoping they can build some momentum while at home that might carry over on season-ending road trips to Coronado and Lubbock; because, a loss at either one of those two sites in late February would prove costly. While either half could wind up in a tie (3-1) between two teams, all clubs have to assume it's gonna take a perfect 4-0 mark to win it. From here, it looks like a Coronado, Montery, Hereford, Lubbock, Plainview finish...It has also been announced that the District 4-AAAA first and second-half winners will collide Friday Feb. 27. That victor will then play the District 3-AAAA kingpin March 1 or 2. The survivor will then join three other District champs in the Region I Tournament at Abilene Christian College March 5 and 6. Other Regionals will be held at Texas A&M (Districts 9-16), the University of Houston (Districts 17-24) and San Antonion Junior College (Districts 25-32). So, all Hereford has to do is win its district, plus five playoff games and the Whitefaces will replace defending two-time winner Houston Kashmere as State champs...Any doubts ACC fans don't like their basketball: Seventh-ranked North Carolina (12-1) and 14th-rated North Carolina State (11-2) are playing today—Super Sunday after noon —at Chapel Hill...

DELAY...DOOM...DEFEAT...

You'd think Arkansas Basketball Coach Eddie Sutton would have learned a lesson after his Razorbacks blew an eight-point lead at home in the final 2:10 and lost a one-point decision to SMU! The very next time out, four nights later, Sutton had his Porkers employ similar delay tactics after bursting out to a 20-point lead (51-31) at Houston and, sure enough, they blew that game, too. That loss was doubly embarrassing 'cause the Razorbacks had thrashed the Cougars, 92-47, only eight days earlier...Ken Trickey, one of the nicest guys in the biz, just might have one of the worst major college basketball teams even though his Iowa Staters boast the nation's No. 10 scorer in Hercle (Poison) Ivy (25.6). The Cyclones, who supposedly had a fine recruiting year and returned four starters off last seasons' 10-16 outfit, are 0-14 after losing at Oklahoma State Saturday night. They're the only winless major college team in the country...Joe Harris, a long-time syndicated predictionist, had New Mexico State a

Economics

From time to time there is a survey made among high school and college age students which reveals a woeful lack of understanding of the basic laws of economics and there is always a cry that the schools must remedy this by doing a better job of teaching that subject.

It is not only the students who are ignorant of economics. We have politicians in positions of great power who don't know the laws of economics, either. We also have a great swarm of people who not only don't know about economic facts of life, but resist any effort to be taught these things.

People might understand that if everybody could print their own extra money in their basement, money would soom become worthless.

But we don't stop to think that when our government does exactly the same thing, our money, while not become exactly worthless, does become worth less.

We know that if, tomorrow, everybody got a 100 per cent raise in pay, we would have no more of anything, but everything would cost twice as much. But we don't understand that when we get a raise without producing any more to earn it, then every unearned dollar has to be added to the selling price of the goods or services we produce.

Thus, Congress, in its wisdom, is going to play Santa Claus and give a big raise by boosting the minimum wage across the this nation. This will not make everybody richer, it will merely succeed in jacking up the prices of things that we buy, thus the raise means nothing except a harder time making ends meet on those not covered by the minimum wage.

We resent the high cost of welfare, of social servicesof many governmental program. Yet we keep sending men back again and again to Congress who vote for these spending measures. Somehow, we think that by some magic, we can get something from the government without having it first extracted from us.

If anybody doubts that our political leaders lack economic savvy, look at the bill the House passed on the heels of the President's $100 billion energy bank proposal. The House has passed a bill ordering the oil companies to (1) reduce prices and (2) reduce production.

It doesn't take a person with a degree in economics to know that these two proposals do not go hand in hand.

Or take the farm program, where our leaders want the farmers to produce more grain in order to help the nation's balance of payments. In order to encourage them to do this, they place into effect all manner of measures designed to drive the price of grain down.

Surely nobody skilled in economics would fall for that.

We have a topsy turvey world of economics these days. And it is unfortunate that not all the nuts are on the trees. Too many are serving in the halls of Congress.

Shooting Your Mouth Off

Clever defense attorneys with the assistance of some gullible jurists have created a situation where an accused criminal, even a convicted one, can have his conviction reversed or at least gain a new trail simply by shooting his mouth off at the time of arrest and before trail. His case is helped if prosecuting attorneys and law enforcement officials do the same thing. If he makes a confession which he later repudiates, and can get it printed in the papers, he has it made.

The case of the accused kidnapper of Reg Murphy—since a new trail has been ordered we don't dare say "convicted kidnapper"—is a perfect example.

Among the examples of unfavorable pre-trail publicity cited by the court as making it impossible for the accused to get a fair trail, was the 4,000-word article Murphy wrote of his own experiences. What is a victim supposed to do? Keep his mouth shut? Then whose rights are being invaded?

It is no exaggeration to say that under the current set of rules being pursued by the courts the task of bringing a criminal to justice can be rendered next to impossible if the accused can get the help of the press and maximize pre-trail publicity.

When will the courts wake up to the fact they and the public are being used and abused in these instances by clever defense lawyers who are taking advantage of the press' unpopularity as bearers of bad tidings.

Talk of Texas

By Jack Maguire

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY---Of the several groups that have attempted to establish socialistic Utopias in Texas over the years, the Society of the Burning Bush came closest to success.

The Society originated in Chicago after the turn of the century and took its name from the account in Exodus of God speaking to Moses from the flames of a burning bush. In 1913, with funds provided by two of the organization's wealthy members, about 400 of the faithful decided to relocate in Texas.

they acquired 1,500 acres of land near Bullard, Smith County, and set up a commune that was religion oriented and which required all members to share everything equally. They took their meals in a common hall and stored their produce in a common barn. They built a school, a tabernacle, homes and communal quarters for the unmarried. They planted crops.

As farmers, however, the colonists were failures. Within six years, they were heavily in debt and bickering developed among the members of the Society. In 1919, the settlement closed. Today only a few shacks remain at the site its founders planned as a kind of Heaven on earth.

THE CHANGING TIMES---Texas, once one of the nation's largest producers of broomcorn in the U.S., grows almost none today.

The corn used to be a necessity in the production of brooms. The use of vacuum cleaners and the manufacture of brooms from synthetic fibers, however, killed broomcorn as a money crop. Whereas Texas once produced more than 50,000 acres annually, fewer than 8,000 acres are grown in the entire U.S. today.

GHOSTS WALK---Archaeologists are digging up an old ghost town 25 miles northeast of Borger, Hutchinson County. When they're through, modern America will get its first glimpse at a camp used by buffalo hunters.

the town is Adobe Wells. It consisted of a saloon, blacksmith shop, general merchandise store and a hide buyer's shop. A few months after it was built, Indians attacked the settlement and the hunters decided to move on. In the century that followed, nothing was built over the site, making it an ideal spot for the historic dig.

The Panhandle Plains Museum at West Texas State University in Canyon owns the site. Museum officials say it is the first camp of buffalo hunters ever to be excavated.

YOU MIGHT LIKE TO KNOW---That Texas has an official state artist.

He is Jack White of New Braunfels. He was selected by a committee of five members of the Legislature for the honorary post.

White specialized in painting black figures on glass, backing them with a color and then reworking the surface with gold leaf.

FILL 'ER UP--Texans used more motor fuels in 1974 than any other state except California.

Based on taxes paid, Texans burned 7.6 billion gallons of gasoline and other petroleum-based motor fuels during the year. That's an average of about 800 gallons of fuel for every motor vehicle on the road, excluding motorcycles.

Figures for 1975 aren't in, but estimates are that Texas used at least 300 million gallons more of such fuels last year than in 1974.

Film Premiere Attracts Roy Rogers

LUBBOCK--Roy Rogers is back. After a 20-year absence from movie making, the legendary star returns in "Mackintosh and T.J." which will have its world premiere at the Winchester Theatre in Lubbock February 5.

A gala evening is planned for West Texas' first world premiere of any major movie. Roy Rogers will be on hand for the event which will benefit the Ranching Heritage Center at The Museum of Texas Tech University.

The center now is planning its formal opening for July 2-5, 1976. It is an authentic outdoor exhibit depicting the history of ranching in America's West.

Those attending the premiere will have a reception at 7 p.m. in the lobby of the Winchester. The film will start at 8 p.m. Those who purchase Golden Row tickets will attend an after-theatre supper party with Roy Rogers. Tickets are $10, $25, and $50. All seats are reserved and may be purchased at The Museum of Texas Tech or by writing P.O. Box 4612, Texas Tech University. All proceeds are for the development of the Ranching Heritage Center.

"Mackintosh and T.J." is a contemporary western, filmed at the 208,000 acre 6666 Ranch, 92 miles east of Lubbock near Guthrie. None of the sets were constructed. All are set against the backdrop of the famous 6666. Instead of a 10-gallon hat and buckskin, Rogers' costuming is usually a straw hat and cotton shirt. instead of Trigger, Roy's transportation is a broker-down pickup truck.

Rogers' co-star is Clay O'Brien who was born six years after Roy's last picture, "Son of Paleface," was released.

I'm Not A Republican

Politics is a strange beast at best and usually excites most people into some sort of deep involvement if they are directly participating in it on some level of the party structure.

Such is the case for those with an interest in it and lucky enough to get elected to some post or another. One local example is our Criminal District Attorney Andy Shuval who can be seen numerous times in Austin for this legislative committee or in different Panhandle towns finding where the political activity is. He recently, for example, was one of two hosts for the Democratic party's voter participation workshop held in Amarillo.

There, he and an old news source of mine (Calvin Guest, state Democratic Party chairman and Bryan School Board member) were successful in getting about 100 voters to come out on a Saturday afternoon to hear what activity election wise is coming in 1976.

However, this is not always the case as I recently found out while gathering information for a spring election roundup story. It happens that there is no Republican Party chairman in Deaf Smith County according to past county chairmen. Each said they knew of no person serving in that capacity at present.

The party chairman is responsible for having forms for prospective candidates to fill out in order to run in the party primaries. Naturally, this like most of Texas is a Demo Party stronghold, but surely there are some Republicans out there who at least would like to see some opposition posed.

The reasons given for lack of Republican organization are probably obvious based on recent political disgraces in that party. That's right—the Watergate mess. Thought you'd heard the last of it for awhile, did you?

As one of the past chairmen said, "I sure hate to see all my service (As Republican Party chairman) be for nothing, but the present is not the most appropriate time to be associated with Republicans."

This referred of course to the hassles of all the political heavies under Nixon and Agnew. The former party chairman then said that in a few years, people might forget the past occurances and it would allow the Republicans to rise again slowly. He even was down on President Ford for his lack of action and said he'd prefer a Democrat elected this time to give more positive direction.

Maybe, better times will come for the underdog party in Texas, but I wouldn't hold my breath until it happened.

History has a way of resurfacing every now and then I think Watergate will stay in our minds for some time.

A story written by me last week reported the passage of the bid by the County Commissioner's Court for cushions in the district courtroom. It accurately reflected what occurred although someone involved didn't intend it to happen the way it did.

Three different company bids were presented to the court by Joyce Shipp, county extension agent, and the commissioners narrowed their selection down to two different-priced bids submitted by Hacker Upholstery. Since both of these bids were lower than the respective ones submitted by the two other firms, the commissioners went with them.

Well, Mrs. Shipp discussed the merits of the cheaper bid prices at $315 for cushions to cover five benches in the courtroom. She said the material was heavier and the lower cost fabric was recommended because of weight, durability and ease of care. The commissioners then unaminously voted for the bid.

She contends that she did not recommend a bid, since her position forbids her to do so. I stated she recommended and the commissioners approved the bid, which is exactly what happened. It is just a matter of semantics as to when she recommended it, whether after or before the commissioners narrowed their choices down.

I understand her situation and support her to the extent that she did not mean to indicate a recommendation of one firm's bid over another's But this is for her to state cautiously, not for me to interpret otherwise.

I report what happens, not offer explanations for readers. Naturally mistakes have been made and will continue to be made as long as I report. But I endeavor to correct them when notified of them and try at all times to be fair.

No wrong intentions were meant by the story and I apologize for any wrong impressions, but no mistakes were made in this instance as contended by the county agent. She does a fantastic job for the county and I understand her position. Hopefully everyone else will too.

A newspaper's job is to simply state the facts and let the reader decide.

I want to praise the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce for the fine banquet put on Thursday. The speaker was great and the decorations and atmosphere created were unique and ideal.

Of course, it may be hard for them to top what they did this year, Even if its the same, it will be well worth the effort. A special thanks goes to Sunset Candles for their donation of 300 rose shaped candles.

Congratulations to Jimmie Allred for being named the "Citizen of the Year." He well deserves it for his contributions to the community and county. It wasn't much of a secret who it was after it was stated the recipent stood six foot, six inches tall. He is a towering figure above us all.

The C of C had a great year in 1975 and I wish them a better year to come.

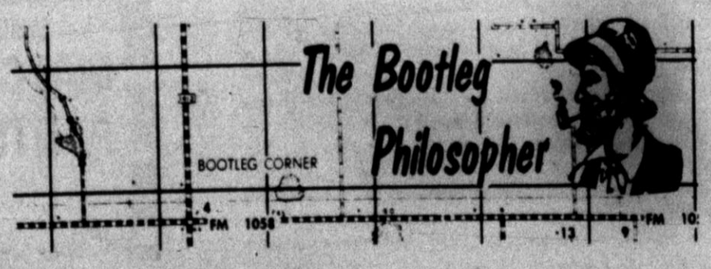

—BT—

Hope my wife doesn't decide to have our baby today, as I must see the Super Bowl. That's not only my wish, but that of our doctors. One of them is away skiing and the other would like to see the Cowboy- Steeler clash himself.

He told my wife that I could be given a handbook on instant delivery, if the baby arrives at the "inopportune Time". I guess, you can't fight mother nature though and I will arise to the occasion if need be. Afterall, a friend of mine almost did, why not me.

We pre-registered this week and a tour of the maternity facilities at the hospital started me thinking more about what is to come. It's really closer than I thought. When we were at the hospital, a few persons who knew us looked at us in amazement. They asked, "Is it time?" We responded in quick unison that it wasn't.

Folks, no false alarms yet although Feb. 1 is only around the corner.

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith grass farm on Bootleg Corner sends word that he's still not quite able to write a column on his own this week but has pulled one out from several years ago in the hope you might find it entertaining.

Dear Editor:

According to an article I read in a newspaper which blew against my back door and I had to pull down anyway to see out--I know where that loose is on the step but I like to see it before I put my foot on it--seventy percent of the U.S population now lives in or near big cities.

As you can see, this leaves 30 percent in small towns and the country, which is all right with me, as it's not the percentage that counts, it's the quality, and when it's not the quality, it's the distance apart, which sometimes is nearly the same thing.

But the most important thing about the article was its statement that in 40 years all these big cities will double in population.

I don't see how the cities can stand it. I never heard of solving the problem of over-crowdedness by crowding in more. What I mean is, go into any big city and try to imagine it with twice the traffic snarl it has now.

Furthermore, I saw a television report the other night showing one block in one city with 1600 people living in it. You try to picture 1600 people living on one block in Hereford and then multiply that by a few more blocks and while I don't know what you'd come up with, it's not for me. I like my fellow man, but not that many that close.

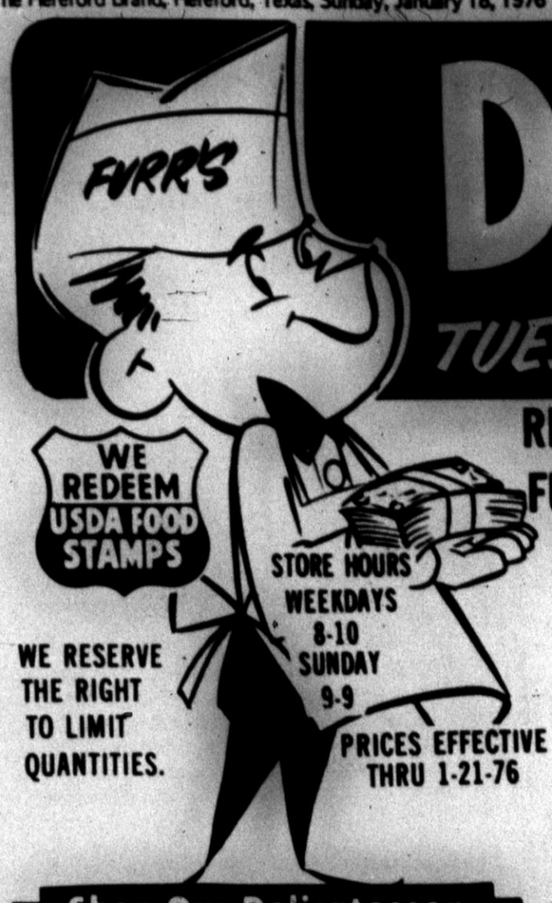

I understnad that the main purpose of most big cities is to keep growing; any time a census report shows one has gained in population its newspapers come out with big headlines, but it seems to me the cities may be carrying this too far. If they all double in size in 40 years, they'll be building highway loops half way around the country just to by-pass them, and a man in the country wanting to get another spot in the country will have a choice of driving 200 miles to get around one or losing a week trying to go straight through.

I don't know that there's anything that can be done about this, or should, but it's a problem I intend to watch from a distance.

Yours Faithfully,
J.A.

West Texas Awaits Cards

CANYON- The season has reached the halfway point for West Texas State's basketball Buffaloes and if the second half turns out to be anything like the first half, Coach Ron Ekker's crew will be finding themselves in a post-season tournament.

The Buffs, who returned from Las Cruces, N.M. today after playing New Mexico State Saturday night, will be idle until Thursday when they have a return engagement against powerful Louisville. WTSU ambushed the-then 11th-ranked Cardinals, 84-78, in Louisville's Freedom Hall earlier in the month despite being a 15-point underdog.

Louisville also lost its next two ball games---to Cincinnati (77-73) and Providence (63-60), both on the road---before rebounding to defeat Tulsa (78-68) and Drake last week, so will take a 9-4 record into its home game against Wichita State Monday night before coming to Amarillo.

WTSU is 11-2 and the Louisville game will be the next-to-last non-conference encounter for the Buffaloes, who also play North Texas State in Amarillo Feb. 5. The Buffs have lost only to Texas-El Paso in 11 non-conference outings.

Latest statistics show the Buffs leading the Missouri Valley Conference in three categories---field goal percentage (.509), defense (61.0) and scoring margin (11.7). Also, WTSU foes are hitting only .399 from the field.

Individually, guard Maurice Cheeks leads the league in field goal percentage (.585), while center Dallas Smith in No. 6 in rebounding (7.5) and No. 7 in scoring (14.8).

WTSU, who is averaging 72.7 ppg., has two other players averaging in double figures--- Brad Schreck (13.6), who ranks No. 10 in league scoring, and Melvin Jones (10.3). Cheeks (9.6) and Eugene Smith (8.9) are the other starters, while "sixth-man" Reggie Ramey is also an 8.9 campaigner.

The Buffs will work out daily in preparation for the big return contest; the Civic Center Coliseum seating capacity will be increased to 5,700 for the meeting between the 19th-ranked Buffaloes and the highly-touted Redbirds.

*Denotes Conference Game

one-point favorite over West Texas State Saturday night and, also sez Louisville will beat the Buffaloes by four in Amarillo Thursday. Oh, yes; he tabs Pittsburgh by 20 over Dallas today. That's right--"by 20"...Fourth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas (14-0), one of only six major college teams still unbeaten (Indiana, Washington, Rutgers, North Carolina A&T and Western Michigan are the others) is averaging an amazing 108.1 ppg. They've cracked the century mark 11 times, including one string of nine games in a row...That 10-player traveling rule really burned St. Joseph's (Pa.) in a game against Xavier at Cincinnati recently. Would you believe that eight Hawks fouled out and the philadelphia outfit finished the game with only two players on the floor? Yep, Xavier won, 109-96--in two overtimes...

While Texas Tech's guys are winning, the school's gal basketballers are losing. The club is currently 2-5 after splitting a pair on the road last week and travel to Snyder Monday to take on tough Western Texas J.C. (9-2). Tech's real young, with two frosh, a pair of sophs and only one senior in the line-up. Five-eleven Libby Keller(14.7) is the top scorer on the club after pouring in 46 points in the two games (against Texas Women's University and Texas-Arlington) last week. Five-seven frosh Carol Dudensing is averaging 12 points and is the team's No. 2 scorer...Blunder of the basketball season was made by an Oral Roberts University announcer the other night at halftime of a game between the Titans and Weber State at Ogden, Utah. The guy was interviewing Idaho State Coach Jim Killingsworth and asked him if "his club ever played Weber State before." Killingsworth had all he could do from laughing. "We're only in the same conference!" he replied. Naturally, the two teams both in the Big Sky Conference, play one another twice...Abe Lemons, whose Pan American cagers boast the nation's No. 1 scorer in Marshall Rogers (34.3), was asked if having the top gunner could lead to dissension on a ball club and chuckled: "I'd rather have the nation's No. 1 scorer on my side then have to play against him!" 'May have a point. The Broncs are averaging 89.4 ppg., ranking 15th in that department...Good to see Chrissie Evert named "Female Athlete of the Year." Who else could it have been--Phyllis George?...

PITTSBURGH!...BUT, BY 20?

35-10, 33-14, 16-7, 23-7, 16-13, 24-3, 14-7, 24-7, 16-6. Those were the scores of the past nine "Stinker Bowls" or "Stupor Bowls" or "Snicker Bowls" as they've been called. Every one was lousier than the previous one. In those past nine games---between the supposedly BEST teams in football--there were a total of 55 turnovers. That's an average of over six per game. The top pro teams not only don't always get into this game--and this year, Pittsburgh and Dallas are hardly the two best clubs--but don't always win it either. In Super Bowl III, the new York Jets (11-3) had "no chance" against Baltimore (13-1) and were a ridiculous 21-point underdog; however, the Jets prevailed, 16-7. In Super Bowl IV, the Kansas City Chiefs (11-3) had "no chance" against Minnesota (12-2) and were a 17-point dog. But, the Chiefs won, 23-7. And, today, Dallas is given about as little-a-chance as the Jets were in '69 and the Chiefs were in '70. Perhaps even less. Anyone with a Doug Dennison and a Robert Newhouse in the same backfield, along with 12 first-year players, just aren't supposed to win World Championships, let alone play for one. In New York, they're giving Dallas plus 20 points; in LA, it's the Cowboys plus 10. Texans, naturally, like to THINK the Cowboys will win it, forgetting the fact the team is lucky to be in Miami in the first place and will be frankly, tickled to bring home even a LOSER' paycheck. Dallas probably beat two better ball clubs in Minny and LA than they're playing today. But after scoring 37 points against a Rams' team--in LA!--that had been allowing less than 10 ppg., there's no telling what the Cowboys are capable of doing aginst Pittsburgh on a neutral field. Remember, too, Dallas was just as big an underdog against their first two playoff foes--on the road--as they are today. To be sure, the key is how well Dallas' offensive line can match up against Pittsburgh's front four--Dwight White, Ernie Holmes, Joe Greene and L.C. Greenwood. It could be a mismatch. Holmes, who leads Pittsburgh in sacks with eight, could make hash of Dallas rookie guard Burton Lawless, while Holmes and Greene could have a lot of fun movin' down Cowboy center John Fitzgerald. Dallas tackle Rayfield Wright might be able to hold his own against Greenwood, but Dallas tackle Ralph Neely will be no match for White on the left side. On the other hand, Minny and LA had outstanding "front fours," too, but the Cowboys averaged four TDs per game. Somehow I incidentally the two teams played during the exhibition season; Dallas rallied for a 17-16 victory at Irving. But, there were 11 turnovers in that game-more than in any other exhibition game. Today's game could be just as sloppy. "On paper," it certainly will be lopsided...

'Barry' Sets Talk

A Booster Club meeting will be held Monday night at the Hereford High School Auditorium, beginning at 7:30.

Head basketball Coach Barry Arnwine will review the season and show films of recent Whiteface games.

It was also announced that mothers of basketball team members will put on a Chili Supper Monday Jan. 26 at the high school cafeteria. Afterwards, a bonfire will be held for the basketballers who tip-off District play the following night at Plainview.

The players will be introduced during the festivities.

Tech Eyes Tough Baylor

WACO- Baylor, surely the surprise team of the Southwest Conference, will find out if they're R-E-A-L-L-Y for real here Tuesday night when they host strong Texas Tech. Tip-off at Heart O'Texas Coliseum is 7:30.

While the realatively-young, but towering Bears are only 7-8 overall, they're 3-2 in SWC play and are especially dangerous at home, where they have lost only to twice-beaten North Texas State (87-86) and strong Texas A&M (76-69 in overtime) in seven contests. Baylor has beaten Southwest Texas State (71-45), Lamar (109-79), Rice (87-69), New Mexico State (75-72) and most-recently Texas (82-77) here; the Bears also own a 72-70 triumph over the Longhorns at Austin.

Texas Tech is 5-0 and 12-2 after its contest with Texas A&M and the Red Raiders have been playing outstanding ball, particularly the suddenly-blossoming relief corps of forwards Mike Russell and Grant Dukes and guard Geoff Huston, who are combining for nearly 19 ppg.

Baylor starts a freshman, sophomore, two juniors and a senior, but the big noisemakers the first half of the season have been the youngsters from Memphis, Tenn.---6-9 letterman Tony Rufus and 6-8 rookie Larry Spicer, both of whom are solid double-figure scorers.

So is 6-10 junior forward Gary McGuire, who is averaging 13 ppg.

This trio, incidentally, forms the tallest front line in the SWC.

Junior Billy Carlisle, a local product and another returnee, is a good-scoring guard, who comes in with an 11-point average, while 6-2 senior Danny McDaniel runs the show. Mac can score, too.

Coach Carroll Dawson has been receiving surprisingly strong support from the bench, especially 6-1 Tom Callahan, a junior college refugee; 6-5 soph Arthur Edwards and 6-7 junior Sherman Patton.

Texas Tech, who lost here, 60-55, last season, will be playing three of its next four SWC games on the road---and They're all toughies. After entertaining tough SMU (9-6) Saturday, the Raiders play at Arkansas (Jan. 28) and Houston (Jan. 31), both of whom are regarded as solid contenders in the conference race.

Rick Bullock is averaging 21.2 points and 8.1 rebounds, while Grady Newton (10.8), Keith Kitchens (6.9), Rudy Liggins (6.4) and Steve Dunn (4.3) round out the line-up; Tech is averaging 73.4 ppg.

Russell (8.2), whose average has been rising steadily; Huston (5.8) and Dukes (4.8) have been coming in early to lend a hand.

Defensively, Tech is allowing only 62.6 ppg., with only two teams--Notre Dame (88) and Washington (83)--managing over 65 points against Coach Gerald Myers' club.

PROBABLE LINE-UP

TEXAS TECH (12-2)		BAYLOR (7-8)
Liggins (6-6)	F	McGuire (6-10)
Newton (6-5)	F	Spicer (6-8)
Bullock (6-9)	C	Rufus (6-9)
Kitchens (6-1)	G	Carlisle (6-3)
Durin (6-2)	G	McDaniel (6-2)

TIP-OFF: 7:30 p.m. Tuesday (at Heart O'Texas Coliseum in Waco).

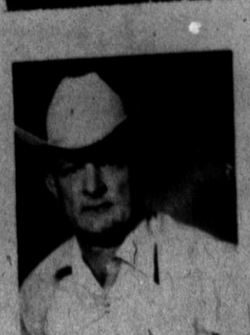

IT COULD COST 61% MORE TO REBUILD YOUR HOUSE TODAY!

Suppose your house were badly damaged or totally destroyed by fire. The U.S. Department of Commerce statistics show that $100 worth of construction in 1967 would have cost $161.40 in the third quarter of 1974 — an increase of more than 61%! Do you know whether you have enough insurance to cover such a loss? In these days of runaway inflation, costs of repairing or replacing damaged property have risen so high that your coverage may be left far behind.

Don't just wonder and worry whether you're dangerously underinsured. Let us review your coverages today for proper insurance to value. We know how to STRIKE BACK at inflation. . .let us show you how!

Queen Candidates Presented At Tea

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Valentine queen candidates will be judged by three members of the sorority from Amarillo today at a Valentine tea to be held from 2:30-4 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Joe Story at 125 Nueces.

Vying for the coveted crown are nominees, Mrs. Ken Walser of Alpha Iota Mu chapter, Mrs. James Head of Kappa Iota chapter and Mrs. Jim Aldridge of Dimmitt from Xi Epsilon Alpha chapter.

The queen's coronation will highlight the sorority Valentine Ball Feb. 14 at Knights of Columbus Hall. "Let Heart and Heritage Ring" in conjunction with the current yearbook's motif, will be the theme of this year's cotillion.

During the come-and-go-tea, queen nominees will submit personal resumes and photographs and will be interviewed by chairman, Sheila West, Edwina Cage and Judy Synek, all of Amarillo.

Mmes. John Schneider, Tom Bullard and Randy Jones will present the candidates and Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Bullard will serve at the refreshment table.

Centering the serving table will be a red and white floral arrangement and a punch and tea service.

Farm, Ranch Club Plans Guest Day

"Missions of Texas" was the program presented by Mrs. P.B. Sowell during the Farm and Ranch Club luncheon Thursday at Caison House with Mrs. Jess Odom serving as hotess.

During the business meeting, members planned a tea for guest day which will be held from 3-5 p.m. April 25 in pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room.

Also, members will serve as hostesses for a "42" party scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Feb. 14 in the home of Mrs. Sowell. Husbands will be honored guests.

Mrs. David Bullard and her daughter Kyle were welcomed as guests by members presetn. They included Mmes. Julian Perrin, Charle Burk, Paul Rudd, Jack Weaver and Elton Sorrells.

To Exchange Vows

Miss Brenda Jolly and Roy Faubus will be united in marriage April 17 in First Christian Church, it has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Jolly, Route 2. The prospective bridegroom, who is employed by Talkington's Men's Store at Lubbock, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Faubus of Fayetteville, Ark. He attended the University of Arkansas. A 1973 graduate of Hereford High School, the bride-elect will receive her degree next month from Radiologic Technologist School in Lubbock, where she resides.

ALONG THE FRIO

Mrs. Owen Andrews

Frio Homemakers Club met Tuesday at "The Funny Farm" in Sugarland Mall, with operators of the business, Mmes., Betty Martin, Judy Metz and Judy Neumayer discussing the origin and type of business their hobby shop involves. After the meeting the group went to the home of Mrs. Eldon Fortenberry for a business meeting and refreshment visiting time. Those attending the program included Mmes. Tommy Sparkman, Tony Urbanczyk, J.E. Warrick, E.F. Vogler, Annie Springer, Fred Walton, T.L. Sparkman, Jr., Eugene Baldwin, Herbert Bruns, Billy Warrick, D.F. Yandell, Harlan Barber, Sam Ogan, Jack Andrews, Owen Andrews and Miss Alma Andrews.

Rev. and Mrs. Lon Conner were attending the Baptist Evangelistic Conference in Ft. Worth this week going on Monday and returning on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Harder were to return home the last of the week from a two and a half week visit in California with many relatives. The vacation, including plane fare, was a surprise Christmas gift from the Harder children, J.D., Gerald and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Harder. The Harders have many relatives in California, many of whom they have never gotten to visit because they have come to this country from Poland at various times since World War II. Mrs. Harder's mother Mrs. D.P. Schmidt now deceased came to this country about the time of W.W. I so family history is highly valued by family members as they meet and visit.

A miscellaneous bridal shower honored Miss Billie Faye Manion on Saturday morning, Jan 10. It was in Frio Church Fellowship Room, with hostesses Mmes. Floyd Cole, Weldon Stephan, Earl Harkins, T.L. Sparkman Jr., Owen Andrews, Clark Andrews, Fritz Smith, Frank Robbins, Clayton Jobe, Lee Roy Burgess, Don Adams and Richard Price. The honorees chosen colors of varying shades of lavendar to purple were used in table decorations. Mothers of the couple, Mrs. Harvey Manion and Mrs. Cagle were special guests. Miss Kim Manion, sister of the bride-to-be, registered guests. The wedding is scheduled for this Friday evening, Jan. 16, in Frio Baptist Church. Gary Cagle is the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Richardson and Jennifer returned home Wednesday from a two and a half week visit. First stop was with friends in Abilene and then to Florida, to Georgia and finally South Carolina, where they visited Jerry's parents, the Eugene Richardsons, of Plum Branch, N.C. They visited his sisters in the other states. Miss Brenda Richardson, who is a student at W.T.S.U. returned with them, after having visited her parents during the holidays.

Owen Andrews and Rocky Andrews went with George Zetzsche to Carthage, Mo. the first of the week for a load of cattle from "Four A" (Glenn Andrews) ranch. They spent two nights traveling and a day there. Mrs. Andrews spent the time with Frances Zetzsche and family.

Mr. H.M. Mobley visited her sister, Mrs. George Bentley and Mr. Bentley at Monahans, last week end. It was a special occassion as the Bentleys were celebrating their golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cole, Beverley and Cheryl D'Amato went to Hattisburg, Miss. last week to attend the wedding of David Cole, a nephew, on Friday night Jan. 9. David is the son of the Ralph Coles. Both of the young people are college students. The Coles went on to the Gulf near Biloxi, before returning by way of Oklahoma City, to take Cheryl home, on the return way home.

Cay, Jim and Joe D. Zetzsche were visiting grandparents the Owen Andrews, the last of the week while parents, George and Frances, went to Houston to attend festivities connected with the Young Farmers and Young Homemakers State Convention. Daughter Ann had gone with local Home-Makers members who were representing the Area group.

The Joe Ed Andrews went to Abilene and other points in the area during the weekend. They visited her brother, the Robert Haseloffs, in Abilene.

Rev. and Mrs. Sam Ogan of Amarillo were visiting their daughters, Mrs. Marsh Pitman and Mrs. Jack Andrews and their families, the past few days. They were helping the Pitmans and getting aquainted with the newest baby Benjamin Douglas who was born Jan. 8, in Hereford hospital.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Bryan of Cleburne announce the engagement of their daughter, Micah Ann, to Joe Don Noland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Noland of Route 1. The couple will exchange wedding vows Feb. 14 at 4 p.m. at Westgate Church of Christ in Abilene. The bride-elect is a graduate of Cleburne High School and Tarleton State University. She is presently employed as a teacher at Bluebonnet Elementary School. Her fiance is engaged in farming and attended Hereford High School and served in the U.S. Army.

Chapter Here Joins National MOT Club

Members of Mothers of Twins Club unanimously voted to apply for national affiliation during a meeting Tuesday at Caison Steak House.

Mrs. John Avent summarized the purpose and structure of the National Organization of Mothers of Twins Club, stating that each local chapter remains autonomous and is free to decide its own programs, projects and bylaws. Member clubs will have access to films and books from the National Library.

Members who have paid the $5 entry fee will receive the bimonthly publication "Notebook," which documents feature stories about twins, research projects and tips for a family with twin siblings. Members will also be presented a club card which is accepted for price discounts by participating merchants.

During the local meeting, officers were elected. Serving on the executive board will be Mrs. Avent, president; Mrs. Tim Gearn, secretary-reporter) Mrs. Jim Simon, treasurer; Mrs. Dee Willard, national representative; Mrs. Bruce Futrell, membership chairman.

Persons interested in joining the chapter may contact Mrs. Futrell at 289-5316 or Mrs. Simon, 364-0650. It was announced that special programs for parents of twins will be conducted later this year. The birth of twins to Mr. and Mrs. Larry Huff was reported.

The next meeting was scheduled to convene at 4 p.m. Feb. 3 at Caison's. Six members were present for the business meeting.

Club Makes Nomination For Award

Mrs. State Norvell was selected as nominee for Club Woman of the Year by members of Palo Duro Extension Club Thursday evening at Community Center.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Ted Coleman was voted as a nominee to attend the THDA district meeting and members also voted to participate in the Mothers March of Dimes drive.

The next meeting was scheduled at 7 p.m. Feb. 2 in the home of Mrs. Ted Coleman at 603 Ave. J.

Members present included Mmes. Lynn Fisher, Charles Thomas, Mickey Brisendine, Norvell, Wendell Bain, Coleman and Wallace Hill.

MRS. ROYCE RIGGIN
...nee Cindy Coleman

Coleman-Riggin Service Solemnized Here

A massive pyramid of lighted candles illuminated the altar of First Christian Church Friday night when nuptial vows were pledged by Miss Cindy Coleman and Royce Riggin. The Rev. Eugene Brink, pastor, officiated.

White chrysanthemums, bridal pink gladiolas and babybreath adorned the candle tree, which was braided with English ivy and flanked by two pairs of branched candelabra. Marking the pews in the sanctuary were swirls of light pink and cara mia pink ribbon with English ivy.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Coleman, Route 2, are the parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Riggin, 212 Hickory, are parents of the bridegroom.

Honor attendant for the bride was Miss Sophie Essinger while Kenny Gearn appeared as best man. Serving her sister-in-law as bridal matron was Mrs. Gary Coleman. Tommy Riggin was groomsman for his brother's marriage.

Guests were ushered by Rickey Riggin, the bridegroom's brother, Gary Coleman, brother of the bride, Greg Chisholm and Jerry Ward.

Mrs. Leroy Thornburg presented vocal renditions of "The Lords Prayer," "Time in a Bottle" and "Colour My World." Mrs. Joe Hacker provided accompaniment.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of bridal satin and taffeta designed with a high neckline and bishop sleeves.

Floral-sculptured lace embellished the neckline, bodice and double flounce of the A-line skirt. Matching lace bordered the chapel veil of imported bridal illusion, attached to a lace coif.

The bride wore her grandmother's engagement ring as an heirloom piece and carried a silk bouquet of white gardenias, bridal pink roses and flocked babybreath, all atop a white Bible.

Votive candles nestled in nosegays of bridal pink carnations and forever yours roses tied with streamers were carried by the two bridal attendants. The bouquest were accented with babybreath and English ivy.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Coleman was attired in pink and Mrs. Riggin wore a blue dress. Both were presented cymbidium orchid corsages, as were grandmothers of the couple.

The bride's bouquet was placed in a sliver epergne for a reception at the church. In the parlor, quartette tables were centered by pink candles and babybreath inside hurricane globes.

Miss Rene Russell invited guests to sign the registry book while Mrs. Kenny Gearn and Miss Shelly Lupton served refreshments.

Leaving for a wedding trip to Red River, N.M., Mrs. Riggin wore a brown and beige pantsuit, complemented by a corsage of orchids.

Out-of-town guests in attendance included Mrs. Josie busby of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Porter, Mr. and Mrs. David Coldiron and Mr. and Mrs. Ron Coldiron, all of Amarillo, and Mr. and Mrs. H.T. Thornhill of Pampa.

The recent bride attended South Plains College at Levelland after graduation from Hereford High School. Her husband, also an HHS alumnus, attended West Texas State University and is employed by Allied Chemical.

Envy supplies the motivation for about fifty per cent of the world's small talk.

Study Club Names List Of Officers

Officers for the new club year were announced when members of Summerfield Study Club met Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Thurman Achley with Mrs. Earl Lance Sr. serving as co-hostess.

Officers returned to office included Mrs. Atchley, president; Mrs. Clayton Sanders, vice president; Mrs. Mack Noland, treasurer; Mrs. George DeLozier, recording secretary; Mrs. J.R. Euler, corresponding secretary; Mrs. L.H. Lookingbill Sr., historian.

Mrs. Earl Lance Jr. was elected to fill the office of parliamentarian which was vacated by Mrs. Ray Johnson.

Mrs. L.H. Lookingbill Sr. led the pledge of allegiance and Mrs. Sanders read the poem "America For Me" by Henry Van Dyke.

Mrs. Atchley presented a synopsis of "Buggies, Blizzards and Babies" by Cora Frear Hawkins who was the daughter of young and dedicated Dr. Edwin D. Frear.

She outlined the informative accounts of dramatic and humorous episodes in the life of the doctor and his family ranging from blizzards, small pox and floods to the light hearted antics of his children.

Members present included Mmes. R.B. Baker, Lookingbill, Sanders, Bill Broxson, Lance Sr., Euler, DeLozier, and Lee Curry.

SOUR CREAM SUSTITUTE — What do you do when you suddenly discover the recipe calls for sour cream and you're fresh out? Just add one tablespoon vinegar to one cup evaporated milk, let stand 10 minutes, and use instead of sour cream.

WINTER WONDER — Homemade maple sauce spooned over vanilla ice cream is a gourmet dessert treat. To make the sauce, cook 1-1/2 cups maple syrup and 2/4 cup evaporated milk until they reach the soft-ball stage. Remove from heat and stir in one cup chopped nuts. Wonderful!

DAR Officer Nominees

Two women who have been nominated for offices in the Texas Daughters of the American Revolution were present at a meeting of the Los Ciboleros Chapter this week. Mrs. E.S. Brainard, a member of the local chapter, is shown at left and will be considered for the office of state vice regent. Mrs. Robert Sanders of Dallas is a candidate for the position of Texas recording secretary. The state election will be held in March during the Texas DAR convention at Fort Worth.

DAR Trio Appointed As State Delegates

Three members of Los Ciboleros Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, were elected as delegates to the State DAR Conference scheduled March 16-18 in the Sheraton Fort Worth Hotel at Fort Worth.

The election was conducted during the monthly meeting held Thursday afternoon in the parlor of Deaf Smith County Historical Museum. Hostesses were Mmes. Merlin Kaul, T.J. Carter and E.S. Brainard.

Chosen to represent the local chapter at the Texas DAR meeting were Mmes. Carrol F. Newsom, Brainard and Sue James. Alternate delegates are Mmes. Jess Robinson, Carter, Charlie Holt, Earl Holt, W.J. Gililland, J.J. Durham and Miss Sydney Brainard and Mildred Elliott.

Mrs. Brainard was appointed as delegate to the DAR Continental Congress to be held April 19-23 in Washington, D.C. Miss Brainard and Mrs. Newsom were named alternates.

Mrs. L.W. Norvell, chapter regent has delegate privileges to both assemblies and the vice regent, Mrs. Joe Reimuc, Sr., is automatically an alternate.

Mrs. Norvell introduced a special guest, Mrs. Robert E. Sanders Jr. of Dallas from the Michael Stoner Chapter of DAR.

She is a candidate for DAR state recording secretary.

Also nominated for a state office is Mrs. Brainard, a candidate for Texas vice regent. The election will be held during the state meeting at Fort Worth, this spring.

Mrs. Newsom, resolutions committee chairman, presented the initial reading of the proposed resolutions to be considered and voted on during the meeting of the local chapter next month. Topics included in the measure are "Opposing Federal Government Bailing Out Bankrupt Cities," "Favoring Food Stamp Reform" and "Favoring Food Commidities Be Left To Normal Trade Channels."

Miss Nancy Newsom and Miss Bea Barrett were welcomed as new members. Other business included a report from Mrs. LeRoy K. Williamson, national defense chairman, who stated that the United States government has spent almost two billion dollars in foreign aid since 1945. Mrs. Arthur Clark, chairman of the American History Month essay contest reported that 199 written themes had been submitted.

During the annual business session, committee chairmen gave summaries of various task force projects.

Chapter members approved a motion to relinquish their "used book sale" to Friends of the Library as a fund raising project. The DAR will donate books remaining from the last sale for the project.

Others present included Mrs. A.L. Jordan and Mrs. Garth Thomas.

New Members Elected

Three new members were elected to the Bishop committee at the annual parish meeting of St. Thomas Episcopal Church Sunday which was followed with the monthly luncheon of "The Believers" group.

New members included Mrs. Mary Waldrup, Randy Farr and Robert Betzen. Hold-over members were Bill Smith, senior warden; Robert Stewart, junior warden; and Keith Simmer, Bruce Miller, Rachel Hine and Meredith Wilcox.

Rossanne Smith will serve as secretary of the parish and treasury is Mrs. Rudy Metz.

Elected as delegates to the council meeting in November were Leon Puckett and Rossanne Smith with alternates Rhure Puckett and Mary Fraser.

The next luncheon was scheduled Feb. 8 at which time Bishop Willis Henton of Lubbock will be present to hold worship service and confirmation.

Hostesses for the luncheon were Peggy Lang, Margaret Betzen, Rhure Puckett, Lorene Johnson and Linda Gilbert.

Profit Gleaned From Project

On behalf of the Hereford Medical, Dental and Hospital Auxiliaries, Mrs. Trow Mims presented a check for $4,122.53 to Ron Welty, administrator of Deaf Smith General Hospital Thursday. The funds, yielded by Project Christmas Card in December, will defray the cost of an infant intensive care unit [shown in background.] An additional $600 was raised through the annual project and will be deposited in an Opportunity Scholarship Plan for students interested in pursuing health careers.

Service To Honor Couple

A mass will be read at 11':30 a.m. today in honor of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carmen Gallegos.

The service will be celebrated at Saint Joseph's Catholic Church, where the Gallegos couple have been members since they came to Hereford in 1959. The mass will be followed by a reception at 3 p.m. in the Gallegos home, 430 Ave. D.

Jose Carmen Gallegos married Prisciliana Cervantez on Jan. 15, 1926 in the Valle de San Francisco Church in Vill de Reyes, San Luis Potosi, Mexico. The Rev. Victoriano Reyna officiated.

The couple has seven children, including Mrs. Carlos Pena of Weslaco, Mrs. Reynaldo Reyes of Del Rio, Manuel Gallegos of Lubbock and Mrs. Juan Guillen Sr., Mrs. Abel Redriguez, Mrs. Israel Herrera and Jack Gallegos, all of Hereford. They also have 24 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Couple At Home After Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Albert Knabe are at home at 3301 Providence at Bryan after their marriage recently at Central Christian Church at Bryan.

The Rev. Gerald T. Jenkins, pastor, officiated at the ceremony.

Mrs. Knabe, the former Karen Ann Currin, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lee Currin of Bryan and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Knabe of Star Route.

Two candelabra and a wicker basket of white gladiolas and greenery decorated the main altar of the church.

Miss Patsy Ann Harper served as maid of honor and Larry Stuteville was best man.

The bridegroom's brothers, Dwaine, Weldon and Adolf Knabe served as groomsmen and Mark Clemmer and Gerald T. Jenkins lit candles.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Sweeney vocalized wedding selections, "O Perfect Love" and "God Bless These Hands United", accompanied by Mrs. Gerald Jenkins.

The bride's sister, Miss Connie Currin, invited guests to sign the registry book at the reception in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's sisters, Miss Dawn Currin and Miss Linda Currin, and Mrs. Wayne Park served cake and punch. Others assisting included Mrs. Mickey Rogers and Misses Edna Miller, Leta Capps, Ruby Stabler, Isabel Berry, Phyllis Wilkerson and Evelyn Anderson.

The bride is employed as a secretary at the Animal Science Department at Texas A&M University at College Station and is a 1974 graduate of Bryan High School.

The bridegroom is a student at Texas A&M and plans to become a swine nutritionist.

FARM PRICES UP

Travelogue Thursday To Spotlight Portugal

On Thursday evening, the Whiteface Kiwanis Breakfast Club will present its third program of the "Travel and Adventure" series beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Hereford High School auditorium.

Leo and Dorothy Eckman, who have traveled around the globe to produce travel and documentary films, will marrate "Tales and Trails of Portugal." The public is urged to attend.

In addition to programs for the lecture platform, the Eckmans have compiled information for educational purposes, public relations projects and advertising. As illustrative photographers and writers, their assignments have taken them to all sections of the North American continent, Europe and other areas of the world.

Their articles have appeared in national magazines and numerous of their color photographs have been used as illustrations by publishers and the graphic arts industry. The Eckmans bring to the podium the experiences and information gleaned as a husband and wife team during years of photography and travel.

The couple observes that the Portuguese have maintained a high degree of fidelity in their traditional way of life. Theirs is a rich heritage from the ancient peoples who settled the Iberian Peninsula: courageous Lusitanians, who fought the invading Romans; Phoenicians with their navel genius; Moorish invaders; fishermen, farmers and Renaissance navigators, leaders in discovering the uncharted areas of the world.

For centuries, Portugal has been a nation of seafarers, strongly linked to the coasts. Yet at the same time, part of its populace has been attached to the farms and forests. The annual harvest of cork is exported around the world. These fertile regions cultivate bountiful crops and people deeply devoted to the land and tradition.

"Tales and Trails of Portugal" is a full-length color film that describes "the vigorous spirit of the proud Portuguese people and their manner of living."

The film's sequences fall logically into given geographical patterns:

LISBON: broad, elegant Avenida Liberdad, tailored parks, modern balconied apartments, mosaic walkways; tower of Belem, St. Geronimo Church, Presidential Palace and changing of the guard; the storied Tagus River and Europe's longest suspension bridge; staircase alley streets of 17th century Alfama.

COAST OF THE SUN: Sintra, Estoril, Cascais—smart resorts; gleaming yachts beside scarred fishing boats; fairy tale castles in times mountain settings.

NORTH ALONG THE COAST: Nazare, a quaint fishing village, high-powered boats and women in several petticoats; Coimbra, University students in frock coats and capes; Oporto, industrial city of the north, port wine cellars, Europe's most picturesque Duoro River vineyards.

ALENTEJO PROVINCE: land of swift stallions, brave bulls, large latifundios producing cork, eucalyptus and rice.

SUBTROPICAL ALGARVE: Portugal's southern coast—almond and olive groves, palms and sandy beaches; Moorish towns; bleak and rocky Ponta de Sagres where Prince Henry the navigator revolutionized the art of seafaring; exciting tuna fishing.

New Officers Elected By Pioneer Study Club

Members of Pioneer Study Club elected new officers at their recent luncheon held in Caison Steak House.

Mrs. W.C. Hromas will serve as president; Mrs. W.W. Wimberly, vice president; Mrs. Frank Ball, secretary; Mrs. Ralph McCullough, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Herman Ford, treasurer.

Also, Mrs. Delmar Sigle, historian; Miss Roberta Campbell yearbook chairman; Mrs. Guy Walser, federation representative; Mrs. P.B Sowell, parliamentarian; Mrs. Art Manjeot, public information chairman.

During the remainder of the business session with Mrs. Sowell presiding, Mrs. L.H. Lookingbill gave the federated club report and the next meeting was scheduled Jan. 26 when the club will meet for a salad luncheon at the Community Center.

Also, Mrs. Ralph McCullough reported on club correspondence and Mrs. W.C. Hromas reported on the year-end balance and announced that the club received a check in the amount of $700 for the bulb project.

The proceeds for the project were donated to local churches and to Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Tom Burdette presented a program on the debated issue of "resolved, that the Equal Rights for Women Amendment (ERA) to the Constitution be rescinded."

Mrs. Bonnie Burmley gave the historical link for the day and Mrs. Henry Neely led the pledge of allegiance to the American flag and Mrs. Ford led the allegiance to the Texas Flag.

Mrs. M.L. Simpson presented the invocation.

Hostesses for the luncheon included Mmes. Frank Ball, Henry Hastings and C. Ora Cockrell.

In 1976 Social Security deductions at the rate of 5.85 per cent of gross wages won't stop until your income reaches $15,300. That means that the maximum Social Security deduction for the year, which was $824.85 in 1975, will go to $895.05 in 1976.

FOOD COST UP

Americans ended 1975 with a familiar round of price increases at the grocery store, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows. There were indications of improvement over the previous year.

Decorating Needs Change

Decorating is a continuous process--as a family's circumstances change, so will their home furnishings needs.

Careful study and planning is necessary to be a 'discriminating' shopper in these days of increasing prices and decreasing quality of materials.

Plan most major shopping for the bigger home furnishings sales in January and August. But the following guides are important no matter when you shop.

--Avoid buying a roomful of advertised "economy" furniture--at best it will be mediocre and probably last only a few years.

--Don't be carried away by an over-eager salesman or a so-called bargain. Remember that no matter what the cost, if a piece of furniture doesn't enhance the room, it's not a bargain.

--Always shop with a tape measure. Know available space and size of door openings to get the piece into the home.

--Choosing one piece at a time, with a general theme in mind gives the rooms more personality and charm. Refinished older furniture and lots of plants can fill in for an "eclectic" look.

--Resist the temptation to get something that's appealing but in no way relates to other furnishings in the home.

--Look for simple pieces that can be used in several ways.

--Take plenty of time shopping because furniture is a long term investment.

We've had several requests for the following recipe:

GERMAN CHOCOLATE CHEESECAKE

1 18-½ oz. German Chocolate Cake Mix
1 egg
2 eggs
2 tsp. vanilla
¼ cup sugar
1/3 cup butter, softened
2 pkgs. (8 oz.) Cream Cheese, softened
3/4 cup sugar
2 cups sour cream
1 tbsp. vanilla

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Mix together Cake Mix, butter, and 1 egg at a low speed until crumbly. Press very lightly in an ungreased 9" x 13" baking dish. Beat cheese, 2 eggs, 3/4 cup sugar, and 2 tsp. vanilla until smooth and fluffy. Spread over cake mixture. Bake for 20-25 minutes.

Mix sour cream, ¼ cup sugar, and 1 tbsp. vanilla until smooth. Carefully spread over cheesecake. Refrigerate at least 8 hours. 20 servings.

MRS. GARY CAGLE
...nee Billie Manion

Nuptials Pronounced In Sanctuary

The marriage of Miss Billie Faye Manion of 406 Ave. J and Gary Wayne Cagle of 810 E. 3rd was solemnized Friday evening in Frio Baptist Church by the Rev. Lon Conner, pastor.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. and Mrs. Harvey J. Manion, Route 5 and Mr. and Mrs. Willie Cagle, 810 E. 3rd.

For the double-ring service, the church chancel was enhanced by two bouquets of white gladiolas, a pair of spiral candelabra and the traditional unity candle.

Mrs. Greg Jones served as her sister's matron of honor and Steve Jones, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

Guests were escorted to their seats by Jay Manion, the bride's brother, Greg Jones, brother-in-law of the bride, and Sam Cagle, the bridegroom's brother.

Tammy and Shannon Jones, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Greg Jones, served as flower girl and ring bearer. Clad in matching lavendar gowns with purple lace, Tammy carried a basket of carnations while her sister clasped a single carnation.

Mrs. Jack Rogers provided musical accompaniment for Miss Donna Kendall, who sang "Wedding Song," "Wedding Prayer," "Twelfth of Never," "Whither Thou Goest" and "We've Only Just Begun."

Lace roses decorated the candlelight gown worn by the bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father. Fasioned of miramist over crepe, the empire dress was patterned with lace edging the V-neckline, contoured yoke, sheer bishop sleeves and chapel train. Lace appliques were scattered across the front of the A-line skirt.

A bridal cap sheathed in lace held the elbow-length Juliet veil of candlelight net. She carried a deep purple cascade centered the three white cymbidium orchids. Her jewelry included a pearl necklace borrowed from her mother.

Lavendar ribbon trimmed the purple double-knit gown worn by the matron attendant. The dress was styled with an empire bodice and leg o' lamb sleeves.

Wedding guests were invited to a reception in the church Fellowship Hall after the ceremony. Centering the serving table which was draped by an ivory cloth was an orchid bouquet. The three tiered wedding cake was garnished with ropes of icing, purple bells and roses.

Miss Kim Manion, sister of the bride, secured names of guests in the registry book while refreshments were served by Miss Tammy Cagle, the bridegroom's sister, and Mrs. Steve Jones.

Embarking for a honeymoon trip to Carlsbad, N.M. Mrs. Cagle was attired in a coral pantsuit, multi-striped shell and matching scarf. The newlywed couple will reside at 406 Ave. J.

Among the out-of-town guests were Miss Linda Riley of Tucumcari, N.M. and the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Blankenship of Hobbs, N.M.

A graduate of Hereford High School, Mrs. Cagle attended West Texas State University and is presently employed by One Hour Martinizing. Cagle also attended HHS and is employed at Joe's Auto Clinic.

'Heidi' Movie Slated Thursday At Library

The beauty of the Swiss Alps will be depicted in the classic movie "Heidi," to be shown at Deaf Smith County Library at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. There is no admission fee and the public is urged to attend this family presentation.

Johanna Spryri's story of a young girl's love for the mountains and the people around her has entertained readers for decades. The full-length movie depicts the idyllic existence of Heidi, her grandfather and her friend, Peter, who is a goat shepherd. As in the book, this film relates Heidi's adventures in the city with a crippled Klara, who returns to the mountains where she finds the courage and will to walk again.

Another scheduled library presentation is "The Romantic Road," to be shown in three matinees Monday, Jan. 26 at the library. Showtimes are 10 a.m., 4 p.m. and 8 p.m.

There will be no charge and the public is invited to view this travelogue about Germany.

MEDICINE CHEST

by H. BOSWELL YORK, R. PH.

I understand some women receive injections of silicone to enlarge their busts. Is this safe to do? - S.T.

No, The American Medical Association says it is dangerous, and the Federal Drug Administration says it is illegal. The silicone can enter the blood stream and deposit in the brain and lungs. Several deaths have resulted from silicone injections. According to Dr. Marion J. Finkel, deputy director of the F.D.A.'s Department of Drugs, "massive abcesses necessitating surgical removal of the breast have followed such injections."

Feminist Movement Explained To Club

Mrs. Robert Josserand presented the program entitled "Women's Political Power" to members of Bay View Study Club Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. D.N. Garner.

Using the book "Clout-Womanpower and Politics" as the basis of her report, she sketched the history of the feminist movement as it relates to woman power and politics.

She mentioned women's groups which have influenced the movement and then discussed women who have served and are now serving in state and national elective offices with special emphasis on women of Texas.

The speaker concluded her program by urging everyone present to accept her individual challenge as a woman by actively and constructively working for better government on all levels.

During the business meeting, library memberships were paid by each member.

Refreshments were served to members present. They included Mmes. H.L. Benefield, Colby Conkwright, Si Darling, R.W. Eades, Herman Ford.

Also, Mmes. Howard Gault, John Gililland, W.K. Golden, W.S. Kerr, Earnest Langley, Ansel McDowell, R.B. Miller, Keith Simmer, Jack Wilcox and Earl Holt.

THE HOME GAME

READY SPAGHETTI -- Yes, spaghetti CAN be cooked ahead of time and still taste good. After you cook it, just toss lightly with a little cooking oil, cover with a damp cloth, and plop it in a slow oven. Keeps well and won't stick together!

SLIDES SHOWN

Joe and Bethany Williams are our photographers extraordinaire. If it were not for them we'd lose track of ourselves and our goings on here.

Last evening they entertained us with slides of many Manor events such as these: Mrs. Mason's Farewell Party, our trip to the Bicentennial program on Court House lawn last July 4th. Crop tours made, trip to Kress, watermelon cutting, yard picnic, Founders' Day Banquet and Kiwanian Banquet both at The Bull Barn.

Then the Williams carried us via of slides on their recent trip west most of the scenery being in New Mexico. They showed the famous Palisades, other rock formations, highways and wooded scenes, desert flowers, sunsets resplendent with aspens and maples, ranches and highways-then last and certainly most loved our own flower beds bespeaking the care of our own David Hill.

Thanks to Joe and Bethany.

On Friday, the 9th, the King's Manor executive board had lunch at the Manor. Lynn Bergman from the general board of Hospitals and Homes United Methodist Church, Evanston, Ill. was present.

The new president of the board, Leo Southern, Jr. of Amarillo, was there. Other members sharing our fellowship were: Rev. James Carter, from Amarillo, Rev. Jordan Grooms, Wayne Williams, Mrs. Carleta Harkins, Rev. Dewitt Seago, Jim Conkwright, Donald Hicks, and Mrs. Joyce Lyons, all from Hereford.

The CLOD KICKER

By Roy Faubion

A moment of self examination, if you please. Occasionally it is good to look inward, examining, questioning, discovering. So, let's take that moment now.

May I suggest that to look inward, let's first look outward. Confusing? Maybe. But, let's try it. Look around you. What do you see? Or, more importantly, who do you see? What kind of people do you attract? After all, birds of a feather flock together. Or are those old fashioned sayings no longer valid?

Are your friends interesting people? Do they read, observe people and things, and generally display an awareness of the world about them? Or do they invest their allotted time sewing seeds of gossip? Do they smile? Are they selfish, or do they concern themselves with the needs of others?

By looking outward from your own position I believe you can discover many things about yourself. Things perhaps you would rather not know, but important things nonetheless. You see, the company you keep, the books you read, the world about you are all more than just incidentals to you. They are you.

Dull people enjoy dull tv programs and dull books. They also associate with dull people. But exciting people, people who really realize that they only have one life to live, gravitate to exciting people, activities and books.

What kind of person are you? It's so easy to answer that it's rather scary. Just ask yourself what kind of friends you have, what kind of books you read, what kind of world you live in, and you have a pretty fair picture of yourself.

When you find you attract exciting and interesting people, you can bet you are among your peers.

Sheering Thanks

Bob Ward, vocational agriculture teacher at Hereford High School, accepts a pair of animal sheers from Mrs. Nancy Victor of the Hereford CowBelles for work performed by students in the Future Farmers of America during Farm-City Week activities. The gift was given to the school by the CowBelles in appreciation of the student's help.

Movie On Alcoholism Scheduled On Tuesday

A movie about one of the biggest public health problems— alcoholism— will be shown free to the public Tuesday at the Hereford Community Center, beginning at 7 p.m.

the 70-minute film, which will be available to schools, churches, civic clubs and other groups interested in showing it to club programs, centers around a priest who works with alcoholics.

Sponsored by the Deaf Smith Council on Alcoholism and the Texas Panhandle Community Action Agency, the film discusses minsonceptions held by professionals that either fail to help the alcoholic or allow him to progress deeper into the illness.

The film, which is called "Chalk Talk," is part of the awareness campaign of the Community Action Agency unit to draw more referrals to its counseling services.

It is estimated there are currently 9,000,000 alcoholics and, according to the film, that figure might even be double.

A local priest urged those in helping or service positions to view the film as well as the public.

Doctors and counselors will hold a panel discussion following the showing of the film and talk about the seriousness of alcoholism and available sources of cure.

Refreshments will also be provided.

Askew Who's Who For 75-76

Danny Askew of Hereford has been named Who's Who Among Students In American Junior Colleges for 1975-1976.

Danny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Askew, and he is majoring in Agriculture. He was selected and nominated by the faculty and staff of Clarendon College for the honor.

Selection was based on scholastic and leadership qualities demonstrated by Danny while attending Clarendon College.

Danny's name will be published in the current year's publication of Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges and will receive a certificate of achievement from the national office.

NBC'S PEACOCK

NEW YORK--After nearly 20 years on television, NBC's famed peacock color symbol has been replaced with a new corporate symbol--a red and blue abstract version of the letter "N"--except for rare occasions.

The moonshine liquor business has fallen on its worst days since the repeal of prohibition, government figures disclose.

Bank Purchase OK With Governors

The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System in Washington has announced the approval of the application of Citizens Bancshares, Inc. to purchase the First State Bank of Petersburg, Texas.

Clint Formby of Hereford serves as a director and a stockholder of Citizens Bancshares, Inc. and also serves as a stockholder and director of the Citizens National Bank of Crosbyton, owned by Citizens Bancshares, Inc.

President of Citizens Bancshares, Inc. is Don Workman, senior vice president of the First National Bank of Lubbock. Don Anderson of Crosbyton serves as chairman of the board and other directors include Plainview attorneys Marshall Formby and Graddy Tunnell.

Final approval of the sale is expected in about 30 days.

Johnny Cash In Portales January 31

Portales-Johnny Cash, as American as the songs he sings, will perform in concert Jan. 31 in Eastern New Mexico University's Physical Education Complex Arena at 8 p.m.

Johnny Cash stills performs 10 to 12 prison shows a year, along with his television and concert commitments. He has just finished writing a book about his experiences and philosophy of life, as well as his spiritual world; tentatively entitled "Man in Black."

The words he says and the songs he sings are a life style for Johnny Cash. By using his great personal strength and innate musical ability, Johnny Cash has risen far above his dreams.

Tickets for the Johnny Cash concert are $5 a person and available at the Campus Union Building in Portales or the Taco Box in Clovis. Persons may obtain tickets by mail and should make their check payable to Eastern New Mexico University. Requests should be directed to Johnny Cash, Campus Union Building, ENMU, Portales, NM. 88130. They should include a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

LABELS & FATS

Cholesterol counters and weight watchers could benefit from a new regulation issued by the Food and Drug Administration. Labels on all foods containing fats or oils will have to list what kind of oil or fat is involved.

ON FUEL PRICE

The Federal Energy Administration has ended its requirement that price increases on gasoline and light fuel oils be limited to once a month.

Position Papers Adopted By WTCC For Congress

The Directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, in the 1975 Mid-Year Meeting in Amarillo, adopted two position papers in regard to national legislation that is of vital interest to all West Texans.

The WTCC called for necessary legislation to allow private enterprise to compete with the U.S. Postal Service in delivering first class mail service to improve and, at the same time, provide possible lower mail cost and less tax burden to the taxpayers.

The second position paper adopted asked for the necessary federal legislation to reform the present U.S. Social Security System to allow government insured private enterprise the easy opportunity to furnish a social security system that would preserve and protect Americans' investments and, slowly and surely, build a strong, safe retirement system.

"West Texas Chamber of Commerce, its officers and members are calling upon all members of Congress, representing portions of West Texas, to work for the necessary federal legislation to make these two proposed reforms a reality," says W.A. Griffis, Jr. of San Angelo, chairman of WTCC's National Affairs Committee.

"If the necessary federal legislation and regulations are passed by Congress," says Griffis, "it might be possible for private enterprise to carry and deliver first class mail at a lower cost, and to improve mail service."

In regard to a reform in the Social Security System, Griffis said: "Through competition, private enterprise could surely build a strong, safe retirement system for all Americans. If given the opportunity, private enterprise could furnish a social security system that would preserve and protect Americans' retirement investments and Americans would not be stuck with a bankrupt, monopolistic, federal retirment system. This reform in the Social Security System would restore the Fedcral Government to its proper role as the protector of individual choice."

By Jim Stelert

THE CONTROVERSY over bovine brucellosis control in Texas has been confusing for those looking on to see how this situation would work out.

There are cattlemen who are unhappy with the regulations which the state will be required to follow because they are time consuming and costly.

However, the fact that a quarantine of Texas cattle was avoided has caused a good deal of relief among the state's cattle breeders. If there's one thing the Texas cattle industry doesn't need right now it's a logjam over technicalities, and the ruling by 64th District Judge John T. Boyd helped insure the free movement of Texas cattle.

THE CATTLE industry is still recovering from the brutal beating it took in the marketplace over the past two years, and a quarantine would not have done much to help that recovery.

Sacrifices are being made on the part of cattlemen to cut down their herds, trim the fat and make their operations efficient and profitable once more, and the full pens at local feedlots during the past several months show that the cattle feeding industry is becoming healthy once more, and will remain that way if major obstacles aren't thrown in its path.

TURN

PRICES RECEIVED for hogs by Texas producers have remained at an excellent level for a number of months now, and producers in the state intend to increase production in the upcoming months, according to a report from the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Production will also be expanded nationwide, with production expected to be about seven per cent more than last year, but 16 per cent below the December through May period of 1973-74.

Numbers of swine were at a low level in the nation during the past year, while demand for the product remained good. What resulted was high prices for pork in the marketplace, and the price will probably remain up much of this year.

TURN

WATER INC. has scheduled its annual meeting for Hereford with the dates for the event set for Feb. 13 and 14.

I attended a planning session for the upcoming meeting earlier this week and visited with Duncan Ellison and Tommy Swann of the Lubbock office of Water Inc.

Both men indicated that there are great things in the future for water importation in Texas, and they pointed out increasing interest in such a project among government circles.

HEREFORD WILL have the honor of hosting this upcoming meeting at the Bull Barn, and Ellison pointed out that our local motels will probably be full of people attending the two day affair.

Among the dignitaries planning to attend are Congressman George Mahon, Governor Dolph Briscoe and Speaker of the House Bill Clayton.

It's good to see a meeting drawing attention from such influential individuals. We know the Water Inc. meeting here will be a success, and we hope that the meeting will kick off a year for the organization in which major progress is made toward obtaining import water for the Panhandle.

TURN

WHILE ON THE subject of water, an article in the January edition of Irrigation Age magazine lists three of the cardinal sins of corn irrigation. Farmers know that corn requires more water than many crops, and often, just how and when that water is applied can bake a big difference in yields.

Listed as mistakes to avoid were: 1. Waiting too long to begin irrigating the corn crop in the spring, which often results in the farmer's being required to spend the rest of the season trying to catch up. 2. Applying several quick, light irrigations at mid-season instead of taking the time to wet the rows thoroughly will not do the crop any favors. 3. Corn yields will be crippled if water is pulled off the crop in the fall before plants have reached physiological maturity.

TURN

FEBRUARY WILL be a busy month for farm-related meetings in Deaf Smith County.

Sugar beet producers will hold a meeting from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Bull Barn Feb. 10 for growers from all counties that produce sugar beets.

On Feb. 17, a vegetable conference will be held at the Bull Barn from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Concluding the round of February meetings will be a beef cattle clinic Feb. 26 from 1-5 p.m. in the Bull Barn.

Seminar to Study West Texas Agriculture, World Food Status

Bob Scott, President, Kimbell, Inc. of Fort Worth and Chairman of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce's Water Development Committee, announced that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has joined with Texas Tech University and other organizations to sponsor a one-day seminar on Jan. 30 in Lubbock to take a realistic look at global conditions of world food productions and the role that West Texas agri-business industry will play in it.

The purpose of the seminar, according to Bob Scott, program moderator, is "to discuss the potentials of West Texas in the business of feeding the world."

National and state leaders in agriculture, business, population control, and water use and conservation have been scheduled to speak in sessions at South Park Inn from 8:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Discussion time has been allotted for both morning and afternoon.

Registration fee is $12.50, and the meeting is open to all interested persons.

Groups participating with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in the planning are: the West Texas Water Institute, Texas Tech University's College of Agricultural Sciences, the Texas Department of Agriculture, Planned Parenthood Association, and the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Some of the topics to be covered in the morning are: progress in controlling world population, world land resources, and the potential of meeting world food need through genetics.

The afternoon session will include an appraisal of the possibilities of transferring water to arid regions and improved methods of using present water supplies.

This is one of a series of food conferences the Texas Department of Agriculture will participate in during 1976.

"Because Texas is a large provider of basic food supplies for the export market, our producers need to get through the rhetoric and discover the realities of world conditions. Such conferences will help Texas farmers and ranchers to plan for the future," Agriculture Commissioner John C. White stated.

Key speakers include Dr. John Timmons of Iowa State University, Dr. Glenn Burton of the USDA and the Georgia Agricultural Experiment Station, Dr. Frank G. Viets, Jr., Fort Collins Colorado; and persons yet to be named for population control discussions.

Other participants on the program in additin to Bob Scott include Dr. Anson Bertrand, Texas Tech University; commissioner John White, Texas Department of Agriculture; George W. McCleskey, Water, Inc.; Dr. Charles Smallwood, West Texas State University; K. Bert "Tex" Watson, Pioneer Corporation; Russel Bean, West Texas Water Institute; and Dr. Jack Musick, USDA Southwestern Great Plains Research Center.

Commodity Topics

By E. Robert Flores

Registered Commodity Representative

Prices featured on the commodity futures market represent a composite index of current opinion projected for specific dates in the future. Of the more than forty commodity futures contracts traded, none are more popular than those that bear a direct relationship to the preservation and well being of humanity...these are the grain and livestock markets. Comparing these two, the livestock futures traded at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange have shown the most rapid growth within the past ten years and even greater prospects are held for 1976 as the economy continues its rebound from last years depressing levels.

As the economy gains strength and comsumer spending increases, it is expected that the demand for meat products, especially beef, will also increase. In fact, past studies have shown that beef consumption is proportional to income. As income increases so does the demand for beef. Since cattle futures are demand oriented, that is their prices are influenced more by variations in demand than supplies, it should be expected that cattle prices in the future will increase if supplies do not increase proportionally.

Presently there are a lot of cattle available thanks to last years bountiful grain harvest and relatively cheap fee, providing the cattle producer an incentive to increase the size of his feeding operations. According to the latest Agriculture Department reports, the number of cattle going into feedlots is substantial and above the levels of a year ago when grain prices, particularly corn and soybean meal, were much higher in price. So for the near term cattle supplies should be plentiful and beef prices remaining steady.

The Agriculture Department also reports on a regular basis cattle slaughter rates and occassionally what kind of cattle are being slaughtered. Recently, and particularly during the third and fourth quarter of 1975, a substantial number of nonfed cows were slaughtered as compared to heifers and steers. In fact, during November the cow slaughter was the highest it had been in 17 years.

There are many reasons for this occurance, for instance there may have been more cows on pasture than the farmers felt were necessary to feed through the winter, or there may have been more cows available than previously indicated in earlier reports.

Whatever the reason and there are many, one thing is certain, the loss of these cows will be felt dearly at some time in the future. Many of these slaughtered cows represent breeding stock which, once depleted, take a long time to replenish.

In the meantime, perhaps in eight or nine months, after the cattle now on feed are taken to slaughter, there could be a noticeable slowdown of new feeder cattle placements reflecting a reduction of young lightweight cattle. However, present supplies are adequate and for the next five or six months beef prices at the grocery store could drop a bit while feeding operations remain profitable.

SAFETY CORNER

Well planned holding pens, crowding pens, working chute and loading chute make cattle handling safe and easy. Handling setups should include sorting alley, squeeze, cutting gate, blocking gate, head gate and man escape provisions. Write to Extension Agricultural Engineer at your state university for information on plans for cattle handling equipment.

Farm Data for Texas Counties Available in Free Publication

AUSTIN--How much cotton did Austin County produce in 1974? How much grapefruit did Cameron County produce? How much livestock was in Parmer County?

The answers to all these questions and much more information are included in a new publication "1974 Texas County Statistics."

Prepared by the Texas Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the 257-page book contains agricultural data for every Texas county, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Information given for each county includes crops, irrigated crops, vegetables for fresh market and processing, fruits and pecans, livestock production or marketing, livestock on farms, government payments and cash receipts.

The book is available free by writing Commissioner John C. White, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

Hybrids Studied

Research Leads to High Yield Wheat

Several new high yielding wheat varieties and basic research with wheat hybrids are results of research conducted by Texas Agricultural Experiment Station small grain research scientists. Dr. Kenneth Porter, Wheat Breeder from the USDA Research Center at Bushland, elaborated on these research accomplishments at the Annual Meeting of the Texas Certified Seed Producers in Lubbock, January 13 and 14.

Short wheats for high production levels released in the last five years have added up to 20 bushels per acre on irrigated wheat. Development and release of wheat R-lines for male parents of wheat hybrids, varieties with high protein, and insect and disease resistant varieties are other major research accomplishments by Experiment Stateion scientists.

TAM W-101 released in 1971 has become an important variety in both Texas and Oklahoma. TAM W-103, released in 1974, is well adapted for irrigation anywhere in the Great Plains and for dryland in the Rolling Plains of Texas. In 1975, Texas has joined Nebraska in releasing Lancota, a new variety with 1 to 2 percent more protein than other commercial hard red winter wheat varieties. Lancota is adapted to the same cropping areas as Scout 66.

"More promising experimental short wheats are in the making", Porter continued. At Bushland in 1975, some new wheat lines produced 90 to 100 bushels per acre in irrigated trials. This was 15 to 20 bushels more than TAM W-101, Sturdy, Centurk or Scout, the best commercial varieties in the test. These experimental lines also equalled yields of the best varieties on dryland and consequently, have potential for use on large acreages.

In addition to producing high yielding varieties, researchers are hunting for resistance to wheat streak mosaic, a highly destructive virus disease, the scientist stated. Resistance is being selected from bulk hybrid popuations by artificially inoculating young seedlings.

This is accomplished by spraying water solutions of virus at high pressure to penetrate leaf surfaces. In the last year, twenty thousand plants have been inoculated at Texas A&M by Dr. Earl Gilmore and Dr. Robert Toler. At least as many will be treated at Bushland.

"We expect to isolate several hundred plants for additional evaluation", Porter said.

Attempts are being made to transfer greenbug resistance to wheat from a greenbug resistant rye. This is diffieult because wheat and rye are hard to cross. Another line of investigation for greenbug resistance has shown tha pubescence or hairs on wheat leaves slow the speed at which aphids crawl. This seems to reduce insect reproduction and plant injury. Because resistant lines have to be crossed on present varieties, it will be several years before new greenbug resistant wheats will be available to farmers.

"We have had research on hybrid wheat for over 10 years", Porter stated, "and our hybrids have promise, but are not better than regular varieties". The Experiment Station is comparing five wheat hybrids with hybrids from commercial companies and commercial varieties in a regional trial at 15 locations.

In addition to making experimental hybrids, last year the Station released a short wheat R-line which may be useful to commercial hybrid wheat breeders as germplasm.

Dr. Neal Tuleen at Texas A&M has developed another wheat R-line from a cross of male sterile wheat and rye, which may be released to wheat breeders over the Great Plains. These two lines are expected to provide resistance to both mildew and wheat streak mosaic.

"We are still hoping to develop a hard red winter wheat with quality equal to hard red spring wheat", Porter continued. The best experimental wheat lines grown at many locations are evaluated for milling and baking characteristics at the Quality Laboratory at Texas A&M. If a new variety does not make bread as good or better than old varieties, it is discarded.

Dr. Porter concluded by stating that, "hard red winter wheat breedign is exciting, productive research carried on by many experiment station and USDA scientist in Texas and other states. It may take 10 years to make a new variety with improved characteristics needed by farmers, but if the past is an indication of the future, new and better varieties will soon be available."

Recipes Available

AUSTIN–A new recipe booklet, "Texas Vegetable Recipes," has been published recently, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has announced.

The booklet contains eight recipes for preparing Texas vegetables. All recipes have been tested by the Texas Department of Agriculture home economist.

For a free copy of "Texas Vegetable Recipes" write Commissioner John C. White, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

Nurserymen Told How To Avoid Government Power

The best way an industry can avoid outside intervention is for the industry to set and maintain high standards.

And that, Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White says is exactly what the Texas Association of Nurserymen is doing with its certification program.

The commissioner told about 200 persons attending the annual Nurserymen's Short Course at Texas A&M University that the certification system is effective, and it assures "the people of Texas that their decorative plants are being handled by skilled personnel."

White said the Texas nursery business has grown from small, family-operated ventures to a multi-million dollar industry. Business is so good and the product is so valuable, he said, that there is a big increase in thefts of nursery plants, potted plants in particular.

The commissioner then turned to the field of politics and criticized the ever-expanding national debt and spending. He said this means the people have lost touch with the government. The only way they can retrieve control is through much more vigorous political action at the local level and massive turn-outs at elections.

Deficit spending, he said, is usually blamed on liberals. But nowadays, conservatives also are pushing for more government aid, and the overall problem is compounded.

Cotton Came Through

To help meet the nation's increased production needs during World War II, cotton manufacturers turned out the equivalent of 19,560 miles of fabric each day in 1942. Enough cotton cloth was produced to reach the moon 19 times.

Ag Research Is Entering Period Of Excitement in Next 25 Years

Agricultural research can enter its most challenging and exciting period in history in this last quarter of the 20th Century, according to the director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Dr. Jarvis E. Miller, director of the Experiment Station—the state's agricultural research agency—said scientists can do a number of things to assure that the next 25 years are exciting and productive for research.

"First, we can continue to demonstrate the remarkable productivity of agricultural research of the past, a skill that has placed U.A. agricultural technology far ahead of other nations. Then we can take a hard look at our projects and operations, review our programs, and demand the best performance and accoutability from our efforts," the research director said.

He emphasized that researchers should analyze the depth and balance of projects, and upgrade regional research efforts to make them fully relevant to today's needs. "Then scientists need to communciate more effectively and more creatively with all groups, and stress the responsibility of the agricultural research system," Miller told about 550 reseachers attending the annual confernce of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Texas A&M Unviversity.

Miller also listed several concerns of scientists today, although he pointed out that the state of agricultural research in general and that of the Experiment Station in particular is "very good," in his talk entitled, "Are We Wise Enough to Master the Arts of the Possible?"

Scientists should be concerned about the long-term viability and strength of agricultural research efforts and overall progress in the field of science, the director noted. New groups other than traditional support groups are emerging and need to receive attention, he added.

Still other concerns, the director said, are declines in research funding for other fields of science.

"Nevertheless, despite these concerns, scientists have the knowledge base, the dedication and enthusiasm to move agricultural research into the most productive and meaningful period ever known in the next 25 years," Miller predicted.

Dr. Vernon E. Schneider, Davis Distringuished Professor of Cooperatives in the A&M Department of Agricultural Economics and program committee chairman this year, was named 1977 conference chairman. Heading this year's conference was Dr. Leonard Pike, vegetable scientist with the Experiment Station.

Dean Says More Study Needed To Battle World Food Woes

Intensified agricultural research can be a major factor in the struggle against world food production problems, but such a thrust will need certain help.

That help, says Dr. H.O. Kunkel, Texas A&M University's dean of agriculture, should be population control--everywhere--and more investment in advanced food production methods.

The dean, speaking Friday to about 550 persons attending the annual Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Conference at A&M University, said it is clear that improved agricultural research will be needed in the United States and in other countries.

He said much of the problem, however, will be in spearding and converting research information into more food output.

"Hopefully, agricultural research and extension will have an ally: The development of the will or the technology for population control everywhere, coupled with major capital investments in fertilizer and equipment manufacture in the developing countries," Kunkel explained.

He told conference members that such food production talk today is Malthusian and tinged with pessimism. But there also is condiserable opinion that research can provide a long-r range solution.

Still, there is little doubt that population control in the U.S. has been a factor in this nation's envious surplus food production ability, Kunkel said.

"If North America's population had increased since 1950 at the same rate it has in Mexico, Venezuela, Peru and Brazil, there wold be some 100 million more people in North America," the dean said. "At the current per-capita consumption levels, those additional millions would absorb virtually all exportable supplies, and North America would be struggling to maintain self-sufficiency."

Kunkel called for more balance in research programs. Specific research areas should be related to scientific importance, their relevance to state and national needs and to agricultural and biomedical problems.

"There is a need to extend voter participation in defining what the community wants from our service beyond the groups with whom we traditionally communicate," he pointed out. "I think we need to find more ways to relate to consumers, environmentalists, politicians, and our colleagues across the university."

The dean predicted greater interaction of agricultural research with science in general, especially in basic and clinical nutrition fields.

The one time you expect to see a Zimmatic broken down.

About the only time you expect to see a Zimmatic broken down is when it leaves one of Lindsay's plants. Once assembled in your field, it seldom causes a problem. Those big, sure-footed towers power their way around the field, carrying water to crops.

Hour after hour, day after day. Until you decide to shut down. That kind of performance doesn't just happen. It's the result of constant testing — both in the plant and in the field. Lindsay puts these rigs through the most punishing conditions — loads on more stress in a week, usually, than they're likely to see in a lifetime of normal use.

But we know that no system is 100% perfect all the time. That's why we're ready to help with an extensive parts inventory and factory trained servicemen if you ever have a problem. Before you buy any center pivot irrigation system, be sure to let us tell you about all the advantages of owning a Lindsay Zimmatic.

The home smoke detector market is heating up. Two major manufacturing giants are going all out to get their smoke detectors well established in the market. Norelco and General Electric are both going full blast to snare a major share of what is termed "the hottest market around." According to an officer of Norelco, "The fire safety market is as yet untapped."

Safety experts say the smoke detector alarm is the first step in proper home fire protection, even before a fire extinguisher. The self-contained smoke detector sounds an alarm when it senses a fire. There are 70 million residences in the U.S. and less than 2 million of them have smoke detection devices. Household fires cause about 200,000 injuries and 7,000 deaths annually and fire protection specialists believe these figures could be sharply cut with more of the smoke detectors installed.

Some manufacturers of smoke detector alarms are concentrating on the new home construction market, working with contractors, architects and manufacturers of mobile homes. Other companies are concentrating on the industrial market where the cost of a built-in sprinkler system is prohibitive. General Electric and Norelco are heading straight for the consumer with massive TV advertising planned.

A built-in market already exists for the alarms. H U D requires smoke alarms in all new houses bulit with funds from the Federal Housing Administration. State and local building codes are requiring the installation of the alarms in new homes. The sales of home smoke alarms has doubled in just the past two years.

Retail price of the units is currently around $40, but this price is dropping and lower prices for the alarms is expected to increase sales sharply in older homes. Some manufacturers are looking for the market to develop into a $200 million a year giant by 1980.

Canyon Hosts Water Resources Meet

CANYON— West Texas local government officials will meet here Tuesday and Wednesday for a workshop on Water Resources and Solid Waste Management.

"The two-day meeting is designed to provide a greater awareness of significant activities in development of water resources within reasonable financial and environmental limits," according to Dr. Robert M. Sweazy, assistant director, Water Resources Center, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, and workshop coordinator.

A portion of the workshop will deal with problems faced by local governments in handling solid wastes and possible alternatives in the future.

The workshop is one of a series offered throughout West Texas for local govenment officials and employes by the Division of Continuing Education and the Center for Public Service at Texas Tech. Workshops in Canyon are conducted in cooperation with the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission and West Texas State University.

Registration begins at 1 p.m., Tuesday in the Activities Center at West Texas State. Sessions begin in the Center at 1:30 p.m.

Registration fee for the workshop is $20 in advance or $25 for registration at the conference. Advance registration may be made through the Division of Continuing Education, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas 79409. Further information may be obtained by calling (806) 742-7279.

Vets Urged To Convert Term Insurance to Plans

Veterans holding National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) policies are encouraged by the Veterans Administration to give consideration to converting the five-year level premium term insurance to a permanent-plan policy.

The NSLI program was started in 1940 to serve the insurance needs of World War II servicemen, Jack Coker, VA Regional Director, explained. More than 22 million policies were issued before the program was closed in 1951. There were 16 million policies in force with a face balue in excess of $121 billion during the peak enrollment in 1944.

At the end of fiscal year 1975, there were four million policies still in force with a face value of $26 billion. Of these, 2.5 million have been converted to permanent plans. The VA counselors are directing their attention to the remaining 1.5 million policyholders.

Term insurance premiums increase sharply at each renewal after age 50, often imposing a hardship on the policyholder. While premium rates for permanent plans are higher than for term policies issued at the same ages, they remain constant throughout the life of the policy.

The VA stresses that the decision to convert from term to a permanent insurance plan must be based on the veteran's present and future needs for insuarnce, its cost and the veteran's ability to pay for the coverage.

The VA offers a number of permanent plans of insurance, all of which offer cash and loan values while avoiding future premium increases. Included are modified life plans, ordinary life, limited payment life and endowments.

Veterans now receiving insurance dividends will continue to receive them after conversion, the amounts depending on the new insurance plan. Policyholders who purchased paid-up additions to their term insurance will be permitted to retain the paid-up additions with the new permanent plan.

Complete information on insurance coverage and counseling on conversion options is available at all VA offices.

Child Abuse Program Given

The Classroom Teachers Association met recently in the Aikman Music Room. Robert Stewart, Vice President, introduced Paul Abalos who presented an informative program on "Child Abuse and the Teacher's Responsibility."

Dorothy Szydloski, chairman of the nomination committee, presented the list of nominees for local CTA officers for 1976-77. They will be elected in February.

Delegates were elected to the State Convention to be held in Dallas Feb. 19, 20, and 21. They were Mary Jo Hamman, Richard Stanley, Robert Stewart, Mary Dziuk, Marie Stringer, and Reuben McGilvary. Alternates selected were Ronnie Wood and John Dominquez.

Dr. Roy Hartman, superintendent chosen as one of the three top administrators in the state, will be honored at a luncheon on Feb. 20 during the Convention.

The faculty representatives from each building were given cards to distribute to teachers in their building. The cards say, "Something Nice Happened at School Today." Teachers were urged to send one home with students who achieve something in the classroom, this giving students and parents a more positive attitude toward school and teachers.

The next CTA meeting will be at 4 p.m. March 8 at Bluebonnet. Persons filing for school board vacancies will be asked to present their platforms to the membership.

New Officers For Santa Fe

Top changes in Santa Fe Industries' and Railway's law department at Chicago, effective February 1, were announced by John S. Reed, chairman and chief executive officer.

C.G. Niebank, Jr., has been named vice president--law, succeeding Starr Thomas who retires January 31, and R.K. Knowlton becomes general counsel succeeding Niebank.

Receptionist Course Slated

Amarillo-A class receptionist training will be conducted on the Texas State Technical Institute campus, here, beginning Thursday night.

The class will be held at the technical office training center on the TSTI campus each Thursday night, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Certificates will be awarded to all individuals who complete the training. There will be no charge for the program, which is to provide individuals with skills to become a receptionist. Further information may be obtained by contacting the adult continuing education department at TSTI, 335-2316 Ext. 251.

RULE AGAINST NIXON

A special three-judge federal court has ruled that the government and not former President Richard M. Nixon should decide on public access to millions of documents and the White House tapes of his presidency.

ENERGY NEEDS

Government forecasters say that by the year 2000, America will be using more than twice as much energy annually as it does now.

TO BE ELECTRIC HEAT BESWITCHED

Two hundred years ago, the witch hunters would have burned us at the stake for even daring to dream of a clean, practical means of heating our homes like electric heat. Fortunately, things have changed since then and today you can choose a heating system that is not only clean and efficient, but also economical and environmentally-sound. You don't even have to look for a witch to give you a great deal like this one. Call the electric company. . .we'll show you how easy it is to BESWITCHED to real comfort home heating that's as modern tomorrow as it is today.

ASK ABOUT THE HEAT PUMP

IT'S NOT MAGIC...IT JUST ACTS THAT WAY

You'll think it's magic when you see what the heat pump does, but it's not at all. It probably will seem quite impossible that one unit can provide such efficient electric heating and cooling with only one [illegible]. The important thing to remember is the heat pump is today's answer to improving your lifestyle—economically and efficient[illegible]. Not at all.

ENERGY EFFICIENCY ALLOWANCE

We, at Southwestern, are interested in your getting the most for your energy dollar. That's why we're offering an Energy Efficiency insulation allowance to our customers in existing homes who install electric comfort heating. Ask about it.

By The Garden Gate With Glad

By Gladys Manjeot

"The beginning of a new year, like the beginning of a new gardening season, is a time to look ahead. And this Bicentennial year we should take a glance backward.

For any gardener, the long view can stretch past the confines of garden walls and beyond the limits of a growing season. That long view takes in national landscape and the legacy we enjoy from previous generations whose plantings of trees, shrubs, ground covers and grass are now mature parklands and developed farmlands.

However, each year the pressures of a growing population cement over a million acres of that precious loam. Where plants would grow the land is now sealed under asphalt. In our cities today we have created vast areas of living space for man; in that environment, plants need help in order to survive.

Yet we CANNOT do without natural greenery. If man is to survive, we must continue to plant trees and other greenery. When they live, man can live.

Gardening is a hobby for some 80 million people in this country. It is one of the most popular hobbies of our nation.

Some dig deep in their own plot of ground; others garden without any soil at all. Gardens are everwhere--on windows, balconies, porches, patios, in city backyards, water and in settled suburbia.

Knowledge about plants and their functions are fast becoming the concerns of many persons, not only the avid gardener.

More and more, there are plants in people's lives. They are living sculptures in a new landscape. They alert us to the change of season, rewarding us with colors, texture and fragrance. They provide food in exchange for care and attention. They are a constant reminder of life, a pliant partner for the creative in us.

The American Horticultural Society encourages this enterprise and wishes to see it expand. And we are ready to help you in your efforts. Each gardener can do his share, acting independently while contributing to the larger collective green good.

There's the long view--people of all ages involved in building with nature to lift the spirits of man. Dr. Henry M. Cathey.

Any interested person may become a member of American Horticultural Society, Mount Vernon, Virginia. 22121. Dues for membership in the Society start at $15 per year. These dues entitle the member to News And Views and other publications and services as well as to participate and share in a variety of Society activities and benefits.

News and Views is published bi-monthly, in January, March, May, July, September and November by the American Horticulture Society, 7931 East Boulevard Drive, Alexandria, Virginia 22308.

I recommend membership in The American Horticultural Society for anyone interested in gardening and the welfare of our American people.

THE QUAIL SEASON was a busy time in our area. I visited with many of the hunters and met some from other locales. Here is a planting hint for the farmers and ranchers.

"Grow some Weeds." This probably will not be the greatest of gardening tips, but think it over...it would be beneficial. If you want quail on your farm or ranch, it really is good advice. Weeds are easy to grow, they make lots of quail food, are inexpensive and require little or no cultivation, according to M.G. McMurry, a biologist in Carrizo Springs for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

In selecting seed for the planting, choose those which will produce many seeds and those which will be attractive. Some flower beautifully, while others have very attravctive fronds, which later make colorful seed.

NEW INTRODUCTIONS: It is always exciting and interesting to learn about the new introductions in the flower world. An All America Selection is "Majorette" a new hollyhock. The dwarf "Majorette" is a more versatile hollyhock than the leggy, late-blooming perennials of the past.

Hollyhock or Althaea, a stately summer flower of Old-world charm, is one of the oldest garden flowers we have. it was brought to America fro China many years ago and is a member of the Mallow family. it is thereford fitting that one of our oldest garden flowers has been improved to the extent, which has been reached by "Majorette." It is one of the new introductions for this year, 1976.

It has taken breeders over 20 years to develop the hollyhock, "Majorette." In the early 1950's, a new group of strictly annual hollyhocks was developed in Hungary under the name of "Hungaria." These were tall, loose growing plants which had been crossed in the early sixties with a dwarf wild specimen of hollyhock (Althaia pallida). Through this finding, the colorful (ranging from deep garnet, burgundy or crimson, shades to delicate lavender, pink primrose or apricot hues) was developed and produced the lovely new introduction. I feel that this hollyhock will become a very popular garden flower. Its dwarf growth (2 to 2½ ft) will be an added attraction.

Four winners were awarded to the gladiolas. The All America Gladiola Selection named: America, Spectacular, Lampkin and Rudolph as the winners.

America is an early-blooming glad, with flowers which combine intensive red and chalky white. Spectacular the second winner, has 5-foot stems which bear up to 24 florets. The round, ruffled blossoms are golden yellow, surrounded by a rose red corona at the petal edges. Description sounds like one which could be comparable to our Texas sunsets.

Lampkin is a miniature gladiola with ivory white, ruffled 3 inch florets on slender 40 inch stems. Rudolph was the fourth selection, it is described as a rich red, with seven to eight florets per spike or stem.

Begonias and marigolds were popular introductions among several seed companies. Scarlet Sensation, whose bright red flowers are twice the size of the usual semperflorens type begonia. The new selection is a free-flowering begonia and will bloom all summer in partial shade or full sun.

Three fibrous begonias: Champion is an F hybrid multiflora-grandiflora with scarlet, orange and yellow blooms. It has 3 inch flowers on 12 inch plants and produces more flowers per plant than regular hybrids. love-Me, Pandula, is similar to the Rieger begonias, which have become very popular and are beautiful specimens of the begonia family.

Other new introductions have been made: some of these are petunias, zinnias and the pansy mixture, "Magnifico." I was thrilled to learn that a new hibiscus, Florabelle Mixture is an introduction. The flowers bloom will measure approximately 11 inches in diameter and come in shades of pale pink through rose and crimson red. A pretty blue new ageratum, called Blue Tango, heads the list of blue flowers.

Tomatoes head the list of new vegetable introductions. Big Girl (to compete with Big Boy) is the leader in new tomatoes. one of interest is Redpak, which is recommended because of the dwarf vine which bears clusters of fruit with seed cavities so small that they are almost solid flesh. Ripens early and bears heavily.

New varieties of sweet corn have been introduced. These are Scarlet, Pear N' Gold and Carmelet. The latter matures in 72 days. The ears are 8 to 9 inches long and have 12 to 14 rows of light golden kernels.

In planning gardens, it would be wise to include some of these new introductions. Hopefully they will be on the market for the new season.

Social Security

(Have you a question about social security? Address it to the Social Security Administration, 317 East Third Street, Amarillo, Texas 79101. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.)

Q. I am currently confined to the hospital and wish to apply for social security disability payments since I will not be able to return to work. Do I have to wait until I leave the hospital to file my application? Also, if I am found eligible and receive benefits, what do I do if I am able to return to work in 2 or 3 years?

A. Your disability claim can be handled completely by telephone and mail. A phone call to the nearest social security office would be sufficient to get your claim started. If you should resume work of any kind after filing, you should notify social security right away.

Q. I am 18 years old and I received a serious injury playing football. I have worked in supermarkets part time for the past three years. Will Social Security pay disability benefits for this kind of injury?

A. It makes no difference how your injury occurred. If you have worked enough under social security to be insured and have a disabling condition that prevents you from being able to do any type of gainful work, you may be eligible. Your condition must either have lasted or be expected to last for at least one year.

Q. I was getting disabled child's benefits on my father's social security but my benefits were stopped because I improved enough to do some work. Could I be again entitled to benefits on my father if a new period of disability begins?

A. Yes, if your new period of disability begins before the 84th month following the month your disability benefit stopped. Of course, your work may be sufficient to insure you on your own work record.

The Federal Energy Administration has proposed a set of oil prices that promise the American consumer a 1-cent to 1.5-cent a gallon cut in retail fuel oil and gasoline prices in February.

Lose Up To 10 lbs. In 10 Days

New Grapefruit Diet 'Pill' Gives Fast Weight Loss

LAS VEGAS, NEV. (Special)- An amazing new improved version of the popular grapefruit diet has recently been developed featuring the use of a "grapefruit pill" that enables overweight people to easily and quickly become slim, trim and attractive "while eating almost as much as you want."

The new chewable (candy-like) grapefruit pill puts an end to the inconvenient mess, fuss and high cost of eating half a grapefruit at every meal. Happy testimonials from people all across the country claim "you save time and money while achieving more effective weight loss results with this new diet plan."

Lose up to a Pound a Day

Those who follow this simple diet plan report an average loss of up to a pound a day and even more without strenuous exercise or starvation.

Fortified with vitamin E and C, the new whole grapefruit extract pill and foods as prescribed by the diet will, through natural action, act to help your body release excess fat and body fluids, allowing you to keep your weight down and figure in firm control.

Eat All You Want

Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, lobster, chicken, fish, some sauces, gravies, bacon, eggs, and still lose weight.

Diet Now Available

To get a copy of this highly successful diet and grapefruit pills, send $5 for 10 day supply (or $8 for 20 day supply or $10 for 30 days supply) cash, check or Money Order to: GRAPEFRUIT GROWERS, Dept. J20, 107 Water St., Henderson, Nev. 89015. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not satisfied.) BankAmericard or Master Charge OK (send number and expiration date).

Bulling Around

Margaret Clemons, past president of the Girls Rodeo Association, receives a special Hereford Bull Award from Roy Faubion, president of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame. She was presented the surprise award at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce banquet Thursday night at the Bull Barn.

Local Woman At Workshop

Trini Gomez of Hereford is one of 48 women from Texas who was selected to participate in a four-day Campaign Techniques Institute workshop, which ends in Phoenix, Ariz. today.

Conducted by the National Women's Education fund, the workshop is for women from Texas, Arizona, California and New Mexico who are interested in becoming involved in a campaign for public office as candidates, campaign mangers, finance chairwomen and other responsible campaign positions.

Miss Odle Gives Spot Removal Tips

Prompt stain removal treatment can help those new holiday clothes stay prettier longer, Marlene Odle, a clothing specialist advises.

"Somehow little bits of food sometimes find their way onto special holiday clothing and unless treated right away, they may be there for weeks--or permanently," she said.

Miss Odle is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Greasy stains can be removed with special treatment with a spot or grease remover. Brush the stain from the outside toward the inside to prevent a ring, using a soft cloth.

"Non-greasy stains usually can be brushed off and lightly wiped with a damp cloth," she said.

After removing the spot, it is wise to launder or dryclean the garment as soon as possible to be sure the stain is permanently removed, the specialist said.

"Candle wax on garments can be removed by scraping the excess wax from the garment with a dull adge knife. Then place the stain face down on an absorbent paper towel, place another towel on top of the stain.

"Hold a hot iron over the towel, but do not let it touch the towel. move the towel as often as necessary until was does not appear on the towel.

"Launder or dryclean as usual to remove any discoloration left from the stain," she said.

Health Tips

Texas Medical Association

Texas Medical Association
1801 North Lamar Austin Texas 78701

It's that time of year again--the cold season.

During cold weather, great numbers of Texans will suffer the consequences of a cold, flu, or respiratory infection even though trying to avoid or prevent infection.

Since the chances are good to have a bout with the "cold bug" this year, it might behoove each of us to know more about what a cold is and what to do with it when you have it, say officials of the Texas Department of Health Resources.

What is a cold? The common cold is a name given to any of a number of short-lived infections of the nose and throat. All of them are highly contagious. They have similar symptoms. Sometimes they are called by other names, which simply tell you what part of the upper respiratory tract is particularly affected: rhinitis, affecting the nose; pharyngitis, the throat; or laryngitis, the voice box.

What causes a cold? The Department of Health Resources points out there are many different viruses which cause a cold. A virus is a disease-producing agent so small that it can go right through a very fine filter that stops bacteria. These cold-causing viruses are present in great numbers in your nose and throat when you have a cold. They are carried on the droplets you expel when talking, coughing, or sneezing.

How do you catch a cold? Though a virus causes your cold, a number of conditions seem to increase your susceptibility (science does not yet know why or how.) People appear to catch colds mainly indoors. They get more of them during the colder months. Fatigue, chilling, and poor physical condition seem to give the virus a better foothold. If possible, you should try to avoid persons who have colds in order to keep from getting one yourself.

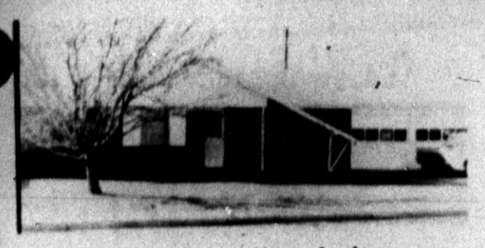

What's the course of a cold? From one to three days after the virus takes hold in your body, the symptoms appear. (But other people can catch your cold even before your symptoms appear--one reason why colds are hard to prevent.) The first hint is usually scratchiness in the throat. Within a few hours, your nose gets stuffy and you have vague feelings of discomfort and illness. Usually you start sneezing, too.

Within 48 hours, your cold is in full bloom--eyes teary, nose running, voice husky, breathing obstructed, and your senses of taste and smell dulled. You may feel lethargic and achy. It's common to have a moderate headache, especially at the beginning (But a severe one may be a sign of some complication.) You may also have some fever, although that's unusual in adults.

Once the cold has fully developed, it usually continues at its peak for several days. Then there is a gradual letting up. An uncomplicated cold commonly lasts from seven to fourteen days.

Can a cold be dangerous? In itself, no. But it can open the door to other illnesses. And it's hard to know when the door has opened, because all the virsues that cause the common cold have not yet been identified. It's very difficult to say where the simple, unperilous cold leaves off and complications.

CARD OF THANKS
TRI STATE DIESEL REBUILDERS wishes to thank the City Police Department for their courteous and helpful manner in doing their job. I personally think we have one of the finest. I too, have been stopped for speeding and not following the law to the letter, but respect by a courteous officer has shown me cause why I should respect and obey the law.
Ed F. Young.

ARC Volunteers Plan Displays

Mrs. Lee Umsted was appointed to arrange for Bicentennial displays in several local stores during a meeting Wednesday of the Uniformed Volunteers of Deaf Smith County Chapter, American Red Cross, at Civic Club Center.

During a business meeting led by Mrs. Sam Morgan, president, Mrs. Emil Dettman reported that on orientation was held for LVN's this week at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Recognized as guests by the volunteers were Aleas Hodson and Mrs. Melvin Jayroe.

It was tabulated that the eleven Red Cross workers present had contributed 160 hours of service since the last monthly meeting.

VA Questions, Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Adminstration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q--How much time do I have after separation from active duty to apply for VA dental treatment?

A--A veteran has one year from the date of separation to apply for one-time dental treatment unless he has a service-connected dental disability.

Q--How do I get a VA check replaced that was accidentally destroyed?

A--Obtain from your VA regional office a letter showing date of issue, check number, etc., and forward it to the Treasury explaining the circumstances.

Q--What is the maximum loan amount on a VA conventional home loan?

A-- There is no maximum loan amount established by the VA on a conventional home loan; however, the maximum guarantee to the lender cannot exceed 60 per cent of the loan value up to $17,500.

Q-- I served on active duty in the armed forces from 1942 until 1946. Am I still eligible to use my GI home loan?

New Horizons

By JANE FORREST

We should vow early never to live with our children. This subject deserves periodic discussion, for it touches a situation which many children and parents must eventually face.

Parental love thrives best in an atmosphere of underexposure. When you're rubbing shoulders for long periods with an older parent, the warm, loving relationship often deteriorates into grudging toleration.

A woman writes she and her husband invited her widowed mother to live with them 20 years ago, and all these years their family life was subtly disrupted, "for Mother is a woman with very definite ideas."

The mother imposed her views on the family and the two young sons were always a little frightened of her.

"We had to take her everywhere we went and she always wanted to go home before anyone else was ready. She had a bad hip and needed help dressing and going up the stairs. We were glad to do this, but we couldn't leave her long alone. She reprimanded us for wanting to turn her out when we suggested she might be happier in a nursing home which she could afford," the writer continues.

"Finally my husband and I decided to take a motor trip through Mexico and told my 84-year-old mother we were placing her in a local residence for older people for six weeks.

"Once there, she quickly found it was pretty nice. She liked the privacy of her room and the fact there were others around when she wanted to socialize. Fortunately, she has decided to stay there. And now I am once again feeling the warm, natural love I formerly felt for her."

Psychologists generally agree it is far wiser for people to plan their lives to retain domiciliary independence.

School Volunteer Program To Organize

Organizational meetings for the Hereford Independent School District Volunteer Program are scheduled for 4 p.m. Tuesday and 9:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Heritage Room of the Deaf Smith County Library according to one of its coordinators Mrs. Margaret Formby.

Other coordinators of the newly designed program include Mrs. Jo Ellen Jorde and Mrs. Wanda Hoover.

A slide presentation will be given at the meeting of an established Volunteer Program in the Dallas schools. It will be given by Mrs. Margaret Dunlap of the Dallas school system.

Mrs. Formby said the presentation will offer ideas on how to begin the program here, but that the local program will be developed for the specific needs of the Hereford schools. The Hereford School Board of Education authorized superintendent Roy Hartman and his staff to proceed with the program and to implement as they see fit.

Currently, there are nearly 3,000 bounteer programs from tiny rural communities to the metropolitan areas, where they are organized on a much larger scale. The programs are funded by home-town citizens and those participating, who offer their free time where it is needed most.

The programs are designed to cut down on school expenses and work loads that might not otherwise be taken care of as effectively. Jobs may vary from clerical duties to helping teachers with student's lessons.

Those who offer this help range from retired teachers, housewives and students to industrial executives, merchants and construction workers. A special aspect of some programs, which will be tried here, is to arrange for workers to take time off from jobs to give about two or three hours service a week to the schools.

Some of the areas of assistance developed by the Dallas schools include instruction in reading and other subjects; helping with the library operation, the special education classes, early childhood classes; lecturing on personal experiences for student enrichment; preparing instructional displays; arranging and supervising field trips; assisting with clerical duties, acting as interpreters; and participating with extra-curricular activities.

The volunteers contribute a minimum of one-half hour each week and more if possible.

Mrs. Formby said, "I feel the program will be good for the school system and we hope to contact as many volunteers as possible through the meetings and by phone contacts."

Those interested should attend the meetings or call Mrs. Hoover at 364-1735 or Mrs. Formby at 364-3589.

Volunteer Leaders

Volunteer program coordinators are [L-R] Mrs. Jo Ellen Jorde, Mrs. Wanda Hoover, and Mrs. Margaret Formby.

January Declared Blood Donor Month

President Gerald R. Ford has proclaimed January as National Voluntary Blood Donor Month and hailed it as an "opportunity to honor those fellow citizens who willingly offer their blood to benefit those who need it.

"In this first month of our Bicentennial year, it is most appropriate that we dedicate ourselves to the achievement of an all-volunteer supply of blood to meet the nation's needs," the President's proclamation stated. "I welcome this occasion to urge all Americans to make this worthy goal a reality in 1976."

The President's recognition of the need for an all-volunteer blood supply was welcomed by the American Red Cross, the American Association of Blood Banks, the Council of Community Blood Centers and the American Blood Commission, the non-governmental organization charged with implementing a national blood policy for the United States.

President Ford also said that the "life-giving gesture" of donating blood "is cherished not only by its recipients and their families, but by all of us."

Chapter Reviews Activities

The Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross met for a quarterly business session Tuesday in Community Center.

Progress reports were heard from Mrs. Dale Henson, youth chairman, and Mrs. Richard Zinser, who directs water safety programs.

Mrs. H.H. Miller, executive secretary, summarized her role in helping establish an ARC office at Littlefield recently. She announced that a workshop will be conducted for Panhandle ARC Chapters at the headquarters of the Greater Amarillo Chapter, 1800 Harrison, Amarillo, on Thursday.

Others in attendance included Lee Umsted, chapter chairman, W.J. Albracht and Mmes. Curtis Roach, Robert Lloyd, Wayne Lady and Trini Gamez.

Local Post To Welcome Legion Zone

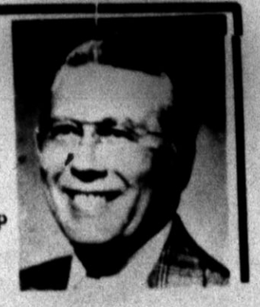

American Legion Post 192 and its auxiliary will host the Zone II monthly meeting here beginning at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. This meeting was originally scheduled at Happy, but was changed due to a conflict in arrangements.

Dinner will be served and a business session will follow. All Legion members and their wives are invited to attend.

Zone II is composed of Legion posts and auxiliaries at Happy, Nazareth, Tulia, Hart, Dimmitt, Friona and Hereford. Francis Wilhelm and his wife, Betty, are currently serving as zone commander and zone president, respectively.

H3 Hustle Hustle Hustle

By Bill Albright, Executive VP
Chamber of Commerce

THE BICENTENNIAL REALLY KICKED OFF with a Red. White and Blue bang at The Bull Barn last Thursday evening. The decorations were just the best I've ever seen and the Decorations Committee of the Women's Division were the gals responsible for the super job- Mary Herring is Chairman.

THE SPECTACULAR TOUCH WAS ADDED with unprecendented support from Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Phillips of Sunset Candles. As I've been able to determine-this was the first candlelight banquet. The effect brought forth many, many compliments and I'm sure the generous public spirited gesture by the Phillips will be long remembered.

GOOD COMMENTS WERE NOT LIMITED TO the decorations and the candlelight. The program provided by the high School Stage Band and the Varsity Choir was highly praised by many folks. The participation by the young people also won strong approval.

SERVICE BY THE HORIZON CLUB OF The Camp Fire Girls, the especially great meal by Dickie's, the ususual and enjoyable entertainment by Mr. Ed Hennessy, the impressive flag ceremony by our High School girls, the always reliable assistance of the Hereford Hustlers, the help and cooperation of our law enforcement people-the Santa Fe Railroad- The Bull Barn Boss, J.C. Simpson- The Hereford Brand and Radio KPAN- the tireless and responsive efforts of your Chamber Staff plus Inez, Susie and Debbie- all these pieces fitted together to make a really tremendous event.

AND WHO SHOULD take the bows for such a success? YOU- the members of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. Thanks to everyone.

-HUSTLE-

THERE'S A SITUATION THAT'S developing into a problem. Many of our businesses in Hereford are experiencing an increased number of requests for donations from out-of-town solicitors. The money may be doing some good to someone but that's not always assured either. Anyway, those funds do leave our community and we do not really know what happens to them. There's another side to the story- when a merchant contributed to out-of-town "charities", by the time our own requirements from youth groups and worthwhile Hereford activities ask for help- he may be saturated and unable to contribute.

The Chamber Member has a solution! He can point to the decal on his window which says "Member, Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. no solicitations without Chamber approval." This can be an effective method to reduce the constant requests for money.

-HUSTLE-

BEST WISHES TO OUR NEW PRESIDENT, Donald Hicks, and the Board of Directors. And many thanks to Past President Bud Eades as he exits his year with much satisfaction, success and Hustle, Hustle, Hustle.

'George M' Set For Amarillo This Weekend

Theatre Amarillo takes a nostalgic look at Broadway at its height in the rousing musical, "George M!" opening Friday.

Joel Gray starred in the hit Broadway version of the life and times of the great George M. Cohan.

Music and lyrics for the musical were written by George M. Cohan himself, with book by Michael Stewart and John and Fran Pascal.. Cohan wrote some of the most memorable songs of the American stage during his lifetime. Among song hits of the musical are "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy," "Give My Regards to Broadway," "It's a Grand Old Flag," and "My Town."

Additional performance dats dates ate January 24, 29, 30, 31, February 1, 5, 6, and 7. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. except for the 2:30 p.m. matinee February 1. Reservations may be made by contacting the Theatre Amarillo Box Office. There will be a special preview performance January 22 with reduced rates and non-reserved seats.

PTSO Meeting Slated Monday

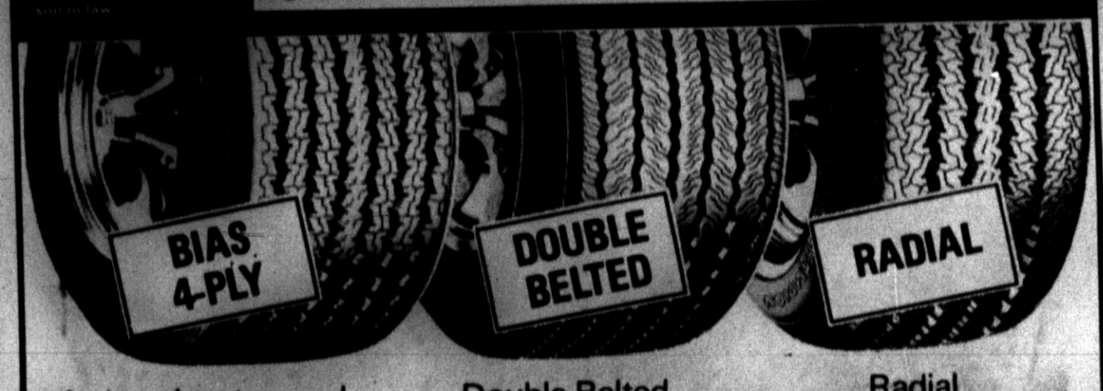

A PTSO meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the high school library with Title IX Sex Discrimination being the main subject.

Jim Holmes will be in charge of the event, which will include a panel discussion led by four or five classroom teachers. A question and answer session will also be held.
