The Criminal Justice Division is now headed by Jim Adams, who becomes director of the Department of Public Safety Jan. 1.

Texas Drivers Asked To Save

WASHINGTON (AP)—Texas drivers are being asked to save about eight-tenths of a gallon of gasoline a week to meet the proposed federal conservation guidelines announced Thursday.

That figure is based on 10.1 million vehicles registered in Texas on Sept. 1.

Texas was asked to cut its use of gasoline by 5 percent during the first quarter of 1980, compared to the first quarter of this year.

President Carter could make the program mandatory if the voluntary guidelines fail.

Figures released by the Department of Energy showed that Texas used 550,500 barrels a day during the first quarter of this year. State officials have been asked to see that the figure is reduced to 521,700 barrels daily next year.

Concert Lawsuit Filed

CINCINNATI (AP)-As residents of this Ohio city began burying the young victims of a rock concert stampede, some of the survivors filed a lawsuit seeking more than $27 million from a British rock group and the promoters of the concert.

The first legal action stemming from the tragedy on Monday asks $1.1 million for each of the 11 killed and 14 injured. And attorney Arnold Morelli, who filed the class-action- suit Thursday in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court, said he wants to go to trial as soon as possible.

5 GIs Injured In Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)-An explosion in the demilitarized zone separating North and South Korea today injured five American soldiers who were on patrol and probably lost in heavy fog.

The injured soldiers were evacuated by a helicopter which had to enter the DMZ in an area normally prohibited to aircraft, the spokesman said. They were taken to U.S. Army medical facilities in Seoul where one was reported in serious condition and four in good condition.

Shah's Nephew Assassinated

PARIS (AP)-A nephew of the deposed Shah of Iran was shot and killed today as he left his mother's home in Paris' fashionable 16th district, police said.

Sources said the man was shot twice in the head with a pistol as he left the house. His mother is a twin sister of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Police said the victim, one of two sons of Princess Ashraf, was shot by a motorcyclist at about 1 p.m.

Princess Ashraf is not now in Paris, the sources said. The victim, whose name was not immediately available, was identified only by his relationship to Princess Ashraf. In New York, a spokeswoman for the shah confirmed the shooting, but did not know which of the two sons was the victim.

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

Lynn Brisendine of the Brownfield News calls attention to the latest problem that ranchers and stockman have with environmentalists and the federal government.

"For several years now the stockman in Texas has been waging a losing battle with the coyote," said Brisendine. "First it was the government who banned poisoning the varmints, creating a population increase of the ever-present pest. Now the government has come to the canine's rescue again with a ridiculous order. Now to kill a coyote, you must first prove that it is guilty of some offense.

"We love the outdoors, hunting and fishing when we can get the chance is a great pleasure that has given us a special feeling for wildlife. It has also increased our awareness of how a coyote can be a pest.

"It has become more than that, however, for the folks who use the range to make a living. Cattle and sheep ranchers have taken a financial beating losing many animals to the carnivore.

"With this knowledge apparently too sensible, some bleeding heart in the bureaucracy has decided to give the killer almost human rights. Just how does one prove that this or that coyote did the dirty work? Next thing we know, they will be able to appeal."

Walter Buckel of the Lamesa Press-Reporter believes that food will ultimately bring the present Iranian regime to its knees.

"How long will the Ayatollah Khomeini last? Until the hunger pains strike," says Buckel. It's easy to be fanatical on a full stomach. But with 40 percent unemployment in Iran, you start getting hungry after running and shouting all day. Once the tummy starts growling, the ayatollah may find it difficult to rally his legions.

HISTORY DISCUSSED---What to do with the old Scurry County Jail and the Dodson House was discussed at a meeting of the local historical commission, the county commissioners, and Anice Read, the director of program for the Texas Historical Commission. Commission Moves To Preserve Old Buildings

The Scurry County Historical Commission voted last night to declare itself a non-profit organization in a move to obtain two old and historic buildings in Snyder, although a designation of what the buildings will be used for remains as elusive as ever.

The building are the old Scurry County Jail, built in 1910, on College Ave., and the Dodson House, built in 1883, north of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Members of the historical commission met with county commissioners and Anice Read, director of programs for the Texas Historical Commission, to discuss what could be done to save the two structures.

In presenting her program on the preservation and restoration of historic buildings in other towns of Texas, Mrs. Read noted that such properties are generally deeded to non-profit organizations for disposition.

The move to form non-profit organization here was made by Hugh Boren and seconded by Irene McFarland. The motion received the unanimous vote of all commission members present.

The move pends formal action, however. Still to be worked out are the legal procedures necessary for such a designation and the formal application for non-profit charter with the secretary of state.

Also to be gauged is community support and reaction. A committee composed of Ernest Sears, Harry Krenek, Hugh Boren, and Bill Warner was appointed to investigate details of the move and to examine community support.

Exactly what will become of the two buildings is uncertain.

Numerous possible uses have been suggested for the old jail, abandoned since January. To date, however, no concrete plan has been advanced.

In presenting a report to the historical commission early in the meeting last night, Western Texas College history professor Harry Krenek noted the Dodson House could be dismantled and moved to the WTC campus or to a permanent location on the grounds of the Scurry County Coliseum.

Other possible uses were mentioned, but disposition of the Dodson House, like the old Scurry County jail, remains in limbo for the time being.

The meeting was held in the conference room of Snyder Chamber of Commerce and was attended by approximately 20 persons.

Ceremony Marks Pearl Harbor Day

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP)-There were no guest speakers at the "off year" ceremonies today marking the surprise bombing of Pearl Harbor. But this year, the ceremonies took on a special significance as some 50 Americans remained hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Two-thirds of the Americans now living had not been born the day 38 years ago that Japanese bombs shattered a quiet Sunday morning and plunged the nation into World War II.

Pupils To Participate In County Spelling Bee

Dr. Thomas H. Scannicchio, director of the Scurry County Spelling Bee, has announced that students from the Snyder, Ira, and Hermleigh Public Schools will participate again in the fifth Annual Scurry County Spelling Bee in March.

Students in grades 4 through 8 are eligible to enter their local school contests. Two top spellers from each school in the county will enter the Scurry County Bee. The winner of the Scurry County Spelling Bee will then compete with the winners from over 20 other South Plains counties. The regional Spelling Bee is sponsored annually by the Lubbock Avalanche Journal and is tentatively scheduled to be held in March.

Approximately 400 local students are expected to enter the preliminary contests which will be scheduled in individual schools. Local school sponsors will distribute the booklet "Words of the Champions" to all students interested and eligible to enter the contests.

The booklet has 3000 words and more than 550 word changes from the previous year's booklet.

Last year, Floy Willingham, representing Snyder Junior High School, won the Scurry County Spelling Bee and placed fourth in the Regional Spelling Bee held in Lubbock. The county runnerup was Julie Kellner, an Ira Junior High School student.

Prizes of ribbons and medals will be awarded to the winners at the local and county level. The top prize for the regional winner will be an all expense-paid trip to the National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C., during the week, May 26-31, 1980. Michelle Evatt of Crosby County was the Regional Spelling Bee winner in 1979. In 1972, Robin Krall of Lamesa won the National Spelling Bee held in Washington, D.C.

All students in grades 4-8 interested in entering the spelling contests should contact their school sponsors.

Date Of Hostage Trial To Be Set Within 48 Hours

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)-Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime announced today that some of the 50 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy will be tried at a date to be set within 48 hours and might face death sentences. The government also said some would be freed but militants at the embassy denied it.

Hours later Khomeini urged Iranians to unify and "rub America's nose in the dirt." His call came as the revolutionary regime struggled to end a rebellion in the northwest by the nation's largest ethnic minority, the Turks. Khomeini suggested the United States fomented the unrest.

Ayatollah Mohammed Kazem Shariat-Madari, spiritual leader of the Turkish minority, said he supported the insurgents' fight for "freedom and their rights." But he said the rebels did not seek to secede from the nation.

Tehran radio said the insurgents held a government radio-television station for the second day in Tabriz, capital of East Azerbaijan Province.

Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said a trial date would be announced within 48 hours for some hostages and that those Americans not suspected of spying will be released "as soon as possible." He said arrangements were being made for all the captives to be visited.

However, a spokesman for the student militants holding the Americans contradicted the foreign minister. "We will release nobody, nobody at all" unless the deposed shah is returned to Iran, and "we have made no decision on the visits," the spokesman said in a telephone interview. He said it was "up to the people of Iran" to set a trial date.

Ask Us

Q--Who owns the ambulances, who provides for the upkeep, gasoline and servicing of the ambulances, and can these vehicles be put to personal use such as going to the grocery store, laundry, etc?

A--The city owns the ambulances and leases them to the franchised operator. The operator is responsible for the upkeep, gasoline, etc. Their use for personal errands is up to the operator, but generally, ambulance driving is a vocation in which it is considered in the best interest of service for the driver to be in the vehicle as much as possible, even while on personal errands.

Jobless Rate Falls To 5.8%

WASHINGTON (AP)-The nation's unemployment rate dropped from 6 percent to 5.8 percent in November, a clear sign that the economy remains healthier than most forecasters have expected, the government reported today.

The Labor Department said total employment rose by 350,000 jobs during the month, while the number of jobless persons in the labor market fell by 140,000 to just over 6 million.

Overall, the department said, employment in November totaled a record 97.6 million out of a labor force of 103.7 million. The previous record was 97.5 million in September.

The pattern has been a welcome surprise to the Carter administration, which had predicted that unemployment would rise well above 6 percent because of an expected recession that some economists believe already has begun.

The Labor Department said most of the decline in unemployment in November occurred among women and blacks, the same two groups most affected by a rise in unemployment during October.

Bregger said the recent fluctuations in the overall jobless rate stem from changes among the part-time work force, while unemployment among full-time workers has remained steady since the summer.

Overall, the department said employment in November totaled 97.6 million out of a labor force of 103.7 million.

The department said most of the employment gains during November occurred among adult women and white workers. A large portion of the new jobs were among white-collar sales workers.

During the past 12 months, employment has increased by 1.9 million, but most of that growth occurred during the first few months of that period. Adult women accounted for three-fourths of the year-long growth.

distorted job figures

Excuses, excuses, anything for an excuse to raise and spend more tax money. Ask any old lawmaker, and that's what he likely will tell you, if nobody else is listening and you're not carrying a tape recorder: "Yep, we look for excuses (reasons) to spend your tax dollars.

Of course this sizing up of elected lawmakers does not apply to all of them, but it does apply to all too many of them. We thought of this the other day when we read an item reporting that federal unemployment statistics are severely distorted, presenting inflated levels of unemployment nationally and costing billions of tax dollars to combat a problem not properly identified.

The item related to a study commission for Texas A&M and Research in Free Enterprise by Dr. Roger Meiners of Texas A&M and Dr. Kenneth Clarkson of the University of Miami. Their report showed that current measures of unemployment are no longer consistent with the traditional definition of unemployment.

As one reads on, one will observe that this applies to Texas as much as it does to other areas in the nation.

Perhaps we should refer to the situation as a sickness, for which there is no balm or cure except a good dose of "throw the bums out" administered by Dr. Taxpayer.

One of the researchers, Meiners, explained there has been a permanent increase in the number of individuals included in the unemployment figures since 1972. The new additions, he said, include individuals who are not seeking work but must register with the employment service as a condition for receiving welfare and food stamp benefits.

In the 25 years before 1972, Meiners pointed out, official unemployment averaged 4.7 percent, and in the five years after 1972 unemployment averaged more than 6.7 percent, an increase of more than 40 percent in measured unemployment.

Of this increase, Meiners and Clarkson estimate in their report, about half is due to the welfare work registration requirements, and much of the remainder of the increase in measured unemployment compensation benefits.

We can give the lawmakers the "credit" for both these fiascos in governmental fiscal irresponsibility.

The researchers used the unemployment statistics derived from the Current Population Survey conducted by the Bureau of Census for the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The two researchers said that three key elements determine whether an individual is counted as unemployed: not working; available for work, and looking for work. And, they said, since the first two requirements are satisfied by registering for work as part of welfare eligibility, it is important to understand what constitutes" "looking for work."

Meiners and Clarkson point out that the Interviewer's Reference Manual used for the population survey simply states that "registration in a public or private employment office" constitutes looking for work. Meiners pointed out that changes in our institutions and work registration requirements have "permanently altered official unemployment statistics, and this permanent higher reported level is in turn linked to new changes in institutions - public programs to reduce unemployment."

The study authors points out that the use and misuse of unemployment statistics by politicans is a common problem. And recently, they said, legislators have been explicitly tying federal spending to measured unemployment. Citing Bureau of Labor Statistics figures, they said, in 1977 alone more than $16 billion was allotted to states and communities on the basis of unemployment statistics.

Now heed this! Meiners said. "If anything, state and local officials have an incentive to see that welfare work registrations yield more 'unemployed individuals.' He added, "In other words, there is a direct budget payoff."

To elaborate upon this statement, he pointed out that because of a change in the statistical techniques used to calculate the unemployment rate of New Jersey, for example, that state lost $20-25 million in Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds. The state sued the Department of Labor but was unsuccessful. "This case clearly serves to illustrate the financial and political importance of unemployment statistics," he said.

Excuses, excuses, anything for an excuse to raise and spend more tax money. The lawmakers' eyes most surely must brighten in delight when they read of a rise in unemployment. They rub their hands, one can visualize, and write another tax or spending bill.

at wits end

I always wanted to do a funny book about traveling.

But I could never think of anything funny to write about it. Most trips are like a death march with stop-offs at tedium, exhaustion, and a layover at frustration.

If you doubt it, just ask yourself have you ever seen a traveler anywhere with a smile on his face?

Everytime I return home from a trip, I sit for days and ponder on the great mysteries of travel.

Like how come the first suitcase off the plane never belongs to anybody? I have purposely run from the plane to the baggage claim area to make sure I see the first piece to come rolling down the chute. Minutes later (35 or 40 of them to be exact), when I have my luggage, that first piece is still whirling around...unclaimed.

Why is it the window seat on the plane is always occupied by someone who is (a) sick or (b) asleep?

How come when the pilot comes on over the PA and says, "For all of you camera buffs sitting on the right side of the airplane there is an absolutely breathtaking view of Halley's Comet passing over the Statue of Liberty," I am always sitting on the left side which has been enveloped in clouds since we left the airport?

It has always been a mystery to me how the Fates know which gate to send me to. When I am carrying a newspaper and my handbag and have two hours and a half to change planes, I am at gate two.

However, when I am carrying my own luggage, a three-pound novel, hot rollers, an extra coat and live cactus for my hostess, and have 12 minutes to make a connection, my gate is still being built.

There is never a choice on will your luggage get lost or not get lost. The choice is always will it get lost on the way TO your vacation or on the trip home. It is invariably the former.

And finally there's the Feast or Famine Law. A dieter will be met on the 7:00 a.m. flight with a glass of champagne and food every 15 minutes throughout the flight and twice over each time zone, while the starving person will be forced to live by macadamia nuts alone.

Maybe traveling was never meant to be a fun experience. Come to think of it, Wilbur and Orville Wright rode bicycles.

I know it is the season to by jolly and for good cheer but go easy on that good cheer. If the Mideast doesn't settle down we may need it worse in our cars than in our eggnog.

Besides that stuff is bad for you. Take a friend of mine, for example. For years his wife warned him that if he didn't slow down on the sauce he was going to injure himself. Feeling lousy one Christmas Eve and in the middle of a holiday binge he began to believe her.

"How will I know when it hurts me?" he asked.

"How will you know you idiot? You'll lose all your insides, that's how you'll know. Then what will become of me and the kids? Now go help mother trim the tree while I start on the turkey."

He decided that come Jan. 1 his resolution would be to go on the wagon. In the meantime it was back to the bar. He hated to leave anything half finished.

"At 2 a.m. he staggered back home, feeling no pain, and found the entrails of the Christmas turkey still in the kitchen sink.

"Oh my gosh! It has happened!" he wailed.

The next morning he woke up his wife with a kiss and told her he has reformed.

"No more drinking hon. I've given it up for good."

"Why the sudden change?" she asked bewildered, "and after all these years."

"I owe it all to you," he said. "I came in last night and just what you told me would happen, happened ... I lost my guts. But don't worry dear. With the help of God and a long handled spoon I got them all back down again."

Obviously the moral of that story is: If you drink don't marry and if you marry don't drink. The problem is that nothing will drive a man to drink faster than a nagging wife.

One such man stayed looped so much that his missus sought counsel from her minister.

"Treat him like a new man and he will become a new man," he told her. Try it just one week and see if it doesn't work wonders."

So that night she put on her best dress and cooked his favorite meal. She met him at the door with a newspaper and his slippers. After helping him into an easy chair, she put her arms around him and whispered in his ear, "Hey big boy, how about me and you getting together after supper?"

"Might as well," he said. "I'm going to catch hell when I get home anyway."

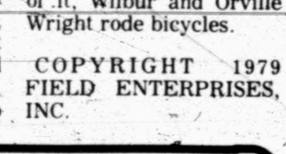

And then there is the guy who swears his wife didn't know he drank until one day he came home sober.

Once upon a time the United Nations would have been the first place to turn in a situation such as the Iranian crisis.

That time was back in the post-war 40's, when the organization was founded.

Not that the U.N. was ever designed to be a supranational authority. It was never intended, for principal example, to be an arbiter of disputes in which the vital interests of the great power were in direct conflict.

But it was presented as a civilized alternative to the playing out of lesser international disturbances through the traditional processes of threat, counterthreat and brute force.

Disturbances such as the U.S.-Iranian confrontation, at least initially.

The fact that that confrontation is only now, after a month in which to develop into a full-blown and convoluted crisis, backing into the U.N. forum may be taken as a measure of the extent to which the organization has failed to fulfill its original prospectus.

Not that the U.N. does not have much to its credit — sheer survival through more than 30 frequently turbulent years being far from the least of achievements. But most of its constructive work has been through its several affiliated specialized agencies, most notably in the health and educational areas. As the co-ordinator of a handful of multi-nation peace-keeping forces, it has performed usefully in several conflicts in which the great power have been interested parties rather than direct participants.

And it has proved to be of service to the multiplying smaller nations of the world in a number of respects. It provides a forum in which to air their views, mostly complaints in recent years. And it is easy on their foreign office budgets. Many governments, too strapped to be represented in every other country, conduct business with each other through their U.N. delegations.

But as a factor in mainstream international politics, the U.N. has been of steadily decreasing significance.

Its response to the Iranian crisis may reveal whether there remains any hope of it ever being anything more, whether, as The New York Times puts it editorially, "it has become merely a place or still functions as an institution."

The conglomerate of petty interests into which it has degenerated may be incapable of meeting the test. It may be exposed, again in the words of The Times, "as utterly helpless, unable to speak even for the most elementary ingredient of diplomacy, the safety of dioplomats."

On the other hand, that may be putting it too harshly. Even a United Nations as originally envisaged might well have been incapable of meeting this particular test, involving as it does a nation that has chosen to play the total maverick, acknowledging no standards of international conduct other than those it chooses to itself decree.

The charter presumes that all players would at least conform to such basic rules of the game as responsible, responsive governments.

Mistakenly, it now appears.

A frequent complaint directed at the United Nations is that it is least responsive to the interests of its major contributors.

That is particularly the case in the United States, which is the largest contributor by quite a bit - $553 million to all operations in 1977, for which complete figures are available. Sweden was a distant runner-up with $169.5 million and the Soviet Union was down in eighth place at $105.4 million.

But on a per capita basis, the contribution profile looks very different. Norway leads at $23.34 followed by Sweden, $20.42, and Denmark, $18.10. The United States is 15th at $2.51 per American.

And to look at it another way, the total expenditure of all U.N. bodies and operations is about $3 billion annually. As imperfect as its world-peace efforts may be, the U.N. can be considered a bargain at that price. Americans spend more than three times as much just on soft drinks every year.

Cat Returned After Air Flight

MELBOURNE, Fla. (AP)—A wide-eyed Siamese cat that spent 32 days and 225,000 miles in the hold of a Pan American World Airways jetliner has been reunited with her owners.

"We'd given up all hope on her," said Air Force Sgt. Guy Jones as his wife Ginger hugged the thin 2½-year-old cat, Sherry, at an emotional reunion Monday night at Orlando International Airport.

The cat, which had been shipped from Guam, could not be found when the Boeing 747 arrived in San Francisco. But 32 days later, flight personnel at London's Heathrow Airport found Sherry in the same cargo hold, injured and hungry, but alive.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is a 16-year-old high school sophomore who is very mature for his age. He's been steadily dating a 17-year-old senior for about a year. We've always had an excellent rapport with our son and have openly discussed sex, reproduction and contraception.

Last week his girlfriend happily informed him that she is six months pregnant, and she's delighted! She had already told her family, who she says are excited and happy and have given her baby gifts and almost completely furnished her nursery! She and her parents have talked with a school counselor and today she starts classes at an alternative school for school-aged mothers and mothers-to-be. She told all her friends at school before telling our son and he is now being approached with all sorts of questions and comments from his teachers and classmates.

The girl states she is happy about it and just hopes our son will be a good "Daddy." She's even asked him to participate in natural childbirth classes with her.

Our son is bewildered and dumbfounded about all this. He says he feels an obligation to her, but at his age marriage is out of the question. We agree, but how can we help him through this? All articles and programs are geared to help unwed mothers, but what about an unwed father? We want him to get on with a normal life without suffering any psychological scars. Are there groups or agencies to help boys in this predicament? Where can we turn?

PARENTS, HUNTINGTON BEACH, CALIF.

DEAR PARENTS: There are excellent counseling services in your area. Contact your Family Service Association. And see a lawyer about the obligations, rights and responsibilities of an unwed father.

DEAR ABBY: I see that many of our public figures are now getting hit in the face with pies and accepting it good naturedly. Have you ever had a pie in the face, Abby?

CURIOUS IN SACRAMENTO

DEAR CURIOUS: No. But if I ever do, I hope it's pecan. It might hurt a little more, but it will taste better.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. I don't know who else to talk to about this embarrassing problem. I am a 30-year-old woman who is going bald! It's on my mind (no pun intended) constantly, and I'm really depressed about it.

Two years ago, when I first started to notice that my hair was getting very thin, I went to a dermatologist. He said it must be a hereditary thing and there was nothing he could do about it. My father was bald at an early age, but my mother is 65 and has a full head of hair. As far as I know, there have been no bald women in my family.

Please tell me what to do before I lose my mind. I hate to go out of the house looking like this.

GOING BALD

DEAR GOING: See another dermatologist and get his opinion. If he can't help you, consult a therapist who is trained to treat emotional disorders. Baldness in women (as well as in men) is often caused by emotional stress. In the meantime, let me assure you that you are not alone. Get a pretty wig and some good-looking hats, and don't despair.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WILLIE IN WACA": Yes, there are plenty of dangers. Sometimes just the thought of getting into hot water keeps a guy clean.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

In 1948 Churchill and Cecil Head won the life master pairs with a tremendous four-session score. There is lots of luck involved in getting such a score, but without skill as a base the big score never materializes.

Sitting South, Church had several choices for his first response, but elected to bid two diamonds. West stuck in a takeout double of sorts and Head elected to bid two hearts rather than show immediate diamond support.

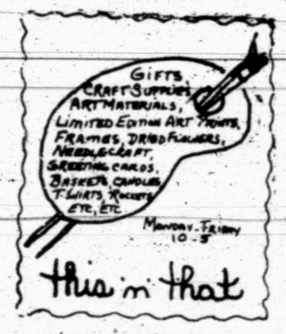

When Church continued with three clubs Head was trapped, but decided to jump to four diamonds to show he had really good cards in that suit. Now Church jumped to five hearts (he had not shown any heart support up to this time). Head knew that Church was asking him to place the slam and bid six diamonds to end the bidding.

The way the cards lay the slam was a cinch. The only trick Church had to lose was the ace of trumps since he was able to discard two of his clubs on good hearts after the jack dropped.

Note that the heart slam wouldn't make. With hearts as trumps there would be no way to avoid a club loser.

Tigers, Haltom Meet Tonight...

Reef Records Smashed!

The 25th annual Canyon Reef Basketball Tournament began with a double-overtime shootout in the morning and concluded its first day with a record-smashing individual performance yesterday afternoon, setting up what promises to be an exciting schedule today.

Lubbock Monterey and Sweetwater battled to a tie in regulation time and again in the first overtime before the 4A school finally overpowered the Mustangs 63-61 in Thursday's tournament opener at the coliseum.

The close contest became almost typical during the day as only two teams won by more than six points during the eight-game first round. Two records were broken - one knocked completely out of kilter several times before Charles Evans of Fort Worth Haltom finally settled the issue.

Evans sacked up 42 points to smash the previous single game individual point record of 29 set last year by Big Spring's Mark Ross. The points boosted Haltom to a 65-52 victory over this year's Steers team, and put Fort Worth in tonight's headliner game against host Snyder High School at 7:30 in the coliseum.

Ross' record took a little battering earlier in the day also, as John Jones scored 29 points for Estacado in a losing effort to San Angelo Central, 73-67, and Brad Kerley of Odessa Permian bucketed 37 points to lead his team past Canyon 86-81.

Other games saw Abilene High nip Abernathy 65-62 behind David Russell's, 18 points; Mineral Wells top Levelland 70-66 with Jesse Kimbrough putting up 17 points for the Rams; Rick Arce bundle up 20 points for El Paso High as the far West Texans slapped Pecos 52-30, and Kyle Short and Brad Richardson combine for 19 points each to lead Snyder past Borger 68-61.

Other top individual scoring efforts saw Brett Smith and Chester Williams of Borger sack 25 and 20 points respectively; Charles Bishop score 24 for San Angelo; Bill Gruhlkey, Kendall Walling, Butch Bearden and David Harbin rack up 20, 17, 16 and 16 points for Canyon; Duane Adams score 21 for Permian and Joey Garcia notch 23 for Abernathy.

That 86-81 Permian-Canyon score also set a new tournament record of 167 total points, breaking the previous 152.

Friday's games were to get underway at 9 a.m. with Canyon taking on Sweetwater, followed by Big Spring versus Borger at 10:30, Lubbock Estacado versus Pecos at noon and Abernathy versus Levelland at 1:30 in consolation bracket contests. All were to be held at the coliseum.

Winner's bracket tilts, also held at the coliseum, will be Permian versus Monterey at 3, Abilene High versus Mineral Wells at 4:30, San Angelo versus El Paso at 6, and Snyder versus Fort Worth Haltom

Odessa Edges Dusters, 77-75

Coach Joe Cushing's Western Texas College Dusters worked out from underneath at least three times here last night, but couldn't hang on quite long enough to defeat Odessa's Lady Wranglers.

With 1:08 left in the ballgame, Odessa's Jackie Skinner drilled two charity shots to tie the game at 75-75, and teammate Laura Smith got the winning points a minute and two seconds later to lift the visitors to a 77-75 victory.

Cushing praised the efforts of his team, but added, "We were just dog-tired. We're going to have to get some help from our other people in the future."

WTC rallied from deficits of eight and 10 points in the first half, striving to lock the totals, 39-39, at halftime. The Dusters controlled much of the second half, and with nine minutes left in the game, jumped out to a 66-58 lead.

Sophomore guard Katie Fisher, who accounted for 23 points and 11 rebounds for the night, led the charge, providing good floor leadership for the Dusters. Stella Bickley, Joyce Plagens and Shari Teal accented the rally, and it appeared for a few minutes that WTC would blow the game open.

But the Dusters were plagued by a poor shooting percentage all night, and it hit an all-time low in the final minutes of the game. Odessa took advantage.

The well-rounded Wranglers team didn't give up. With less than two minutes showing on the clock, Gloria Simmons and Carolyn Burnam trimmed the margin to 75-73. Then, with 1:08 left, Plagens was ticketed for a foul to Skinner, and the Wranglers player tied the score with two three throws.

The Dusters had several chances, but good inside work by Odessa, combined with the almost non-existant outside shooting from WTC, kept the score tied until Fisher was charged with a foul with six seconds left of the clock.

The incident sent Smith at the line and she cooly hit both ends of a one-and-one situation, giving Odessa the lead, 77-75.

The Dusters had time for a final shot, but Linda Holubec's try hit the backboard and bounded off the rim, leaving Odessa with the victory.

"It was a shame that Katie (Fisher) had to get that foul after playing such a good game all night," said Cushing, who confirmed that after Smith made the go-ahead free throws, the Duster plan was to get the ball to Holubec for a last, desperate shot.

"She (Holubec) was tight, and it just didn't go in. But we weren't shooting well the whole ballgame. It wasn't just her. We shot 35 percent for the game, and we've been averaging 45 percent."

In contrast, Odessa sacked up 52 percent of its field goals, led by Smith's 20 points and followed by 19 each from Burnam and Skinner and 15 from Simmons.

"This game will make us stronger," added Cushing. "I think we played well on the whole, but our shooting was not as good as it needed to be. We're looking forward to playing them again, though. It should be another real good ballgame."

Plagens scored 16 points for the Dusters while Teal and Holubec added 14 and 13 respectively. Plagens ripped off five steals, and seven rebounds. Teal had nine rebounds as WTC beat the Wranglers on the boards 35-31.

Division Title On The Line

PHILADELPHIA (AP)– They both stumbled over three straight losses, but neither the Philadelphia Eagles nor the Dallas Cowboys fell flat.

The Eagles recovered from their tailspin to upset the Cowboys 31-21 in Dallas last month and have since won three straight to become the first National Football League team to earn a playoff berth.

The Monday night loss to the Eagles was the first of three games in 10 days for the Cowboys. Dallas lost all three to fall a full game behind Philadelphia in the National Football Conference Eastern Division.

With 10 days' rest after the Thanksgiving Day loss to the Houston Oilers, the Cowboys simplified their offense, got their running game going and took a 28-7 win from thue New York Giants last Sunday to end their skid.

It all becomes academic Saturday, when the Eagles, 1-4, host the Cowboys, 9-5, in a nationally televised rematch.

In another game Saturday, Denver is at Seattle in a game that will help decide whether the Broncos or San Diego take AFC West Division honors. The Chargers face the Saints at New Orleans Sunday.

"The game against Dallas is for all the marbles," said Eagles tight end Keith Krepfle.

"If we win it, we have a good chance of winning the division," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "And if we lose it, there's a chance we won't even be in the playoffs."

Dallas is still one game behind the Eagles, tied with the Washington Redskins, who the Cowboys play at home to close out the regular season a week from Sunday.

"I don't even know all those tie-breaking things, but I know we're going to the playoffs," said Eagles Coach Dick Vermeil after Philadelphia guaranteed itself at least a wild-card playoff spot with a 44-7 win over the Detroit Lions last Sunday.

Westerners Pull Out Victory Over Visiting Wranglers

The Odessa Wranglers threw Coach Nolan Richardson's bunch a curve that kept them swinging air most of the time here last night, but the highly touted Westerners finally caught a piece of the ball and knocked in their twelfth victory of the season, 79-71.

The Wranglers edged in front early in the WJCAC confrontation and immediately went into a stall-type offense. The tactic befuddled the Westerners, who usually delight fans with their streamlined, fast-moving floor game.

To add to the confusion, WTC's normally hot-handed outside shooters such as Phil Spradling and Ronald Portee, found their shots bounding off the rim, only to be rebounded by the agile Wranglers.

Odessa went ahead by as much as eight points in the first half, but a quick flurry of points by the Westerners cut that margin to two by halftime.

Not until 13 minutes were left in the game did WTC show signs of taking control. Westerner Greg Stewart, who sacked up 15 points in that time, was the offensive difference. The 6-8 sophomore, named to last year's NJCAA National Tournament team, scored from inside off of steals and on tip-ins to lead the Westerners on track.

Behind 53-45, WTC scored five quick points by way of Stewart. Ironically, Odessa's next two points came through Stewart too, who was called for goal-tending. The sophomore star trimmed the lead to 55-52 with 10:10 left, and Phil Spradling scored two quick back-to-back buckets to put WTC in front 56-55. Behind the scoring efforts of Stewart and Brown, the Westerners edged to a 60-57 lead before quick-handed Kelly Kitchens put Odessa back on top again.

The lead changed hands several times until Stewart grabbed the ball from a player's hands, drove half the court and layed up two points with 4:09 left to give WTC a 66-65 lead.

The Westerners never lost the advantage after that, though with 1:26 to play Jerry Savoie scored a basket to narrow the lead to 71-69. But Stewart punched in the next two for WTC, 75-69, and with only seconds remaining, the Westerners hung on for the win.

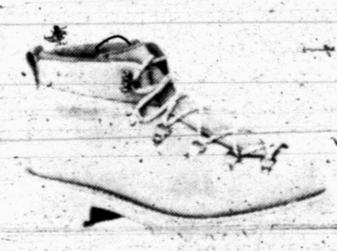

Stewart led the Westerners with 24 points, followed closely by Spradling with 20. Bill Patterson garnered 14 points and Brown and Paul Pressey chipped in eight apiece.

Ehlo led the Wranglers with 19. Ivy added 18 and Savoie scored 12.

The Sport Boot.

Before you get outdoors, get into Wolverine.

Everywhere you look these days, more and more people are getting into the great outdoors. And Wolverine boots are a great way to get there.

On the outside, Wolverine boots are as rugged as the wilderness—they were born to wander. But the inside story is one of comfort. Deep-cushioned insoles. Leather linings. Some with insulation. Some with padded collars. And all the other great features you'd expect from Wolverine.

Before you get outdoors this year, get into a pair of genuine Wolverine boots. You'll feel what we mean.

PATRIOTIC TREE-Thad Myers points to a Christmas star and 50 flags that highlight Scurry County Library's Christmas tree decorated in red, white and blue. The flags are in honor of the 50 Americans hostages being held in Iran. With Thad are his sisters Misty, and Melissa. They are children of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Myers.

1st Baptist Sets 'Christmas 2001'

Approximately 50 members of the Pre-Teen Choir (4th and 5th graders) at First Baptist Church, under direction of Jerry and Judy Neill, will present "Christmas 2001" during the evening worship service Sunday.

It is a "space era" musical-drama written by Flo Price. The performance is complete with a space ship, time machine, robot and lots of happy kids.

The drama cast includes Kelly Poarch and Jeff Clawson as space children, Myah and Orion; and Judson Morrison as CD2, the robot. Playing the role of the earth children are Brad Vincent as Rick; John-David Gilbreath as Carl; Stacie Hart as Gwen; and Shanda Wiman as Paula. Tracy Daniel is the narrator.

For the nativity scene, Terry Classcock is Mary; and Robert May is Joseph. Todd Pollard and Shane Gann are shepherds. Also, singing solos are Jeff McGuire and Kristi Neill.

The technical crew is made up of the additional workers in Pre-Teen Choir: Kim McPherson, Connie Huddleston and Beverly Duff, who also served as rehearsal accompanist. The musical will be presented at 8 p.m. Dec. 18 in a special community presentation. The Monday night performance will also include "An Old Fashioned Christmas," the adult-youth cantata this year.

Both performances will be in the auditorium of First Baptist Church and the public is invited.

Says New York Banker...

Oil Profits Vital In Energy Search

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—A New York banker predicted four consequences for the U.S. economy if proposed windfall profits taxes on oil and gas revenues are not used to develop additional sources of energy.

"If government extracts money from the energy industry and uses it for purposes other than developing more energy, it is sabotaging our own economy," Chase Manhatten Bank Vice President John G. Winger said Thursday.

Speaking at an energy and feedstocks conference at Texas A&M University, Winger said the investments outlook is grim for developing additional energy sources. And he said if present projections come about, "a major financial crisis is inevitable."

U.S. Rep. Phil Gramm, D-Texas, said oilmen will produce when it is to their individual benefit to produce.

"If the nation wants more energy production, it's got to make it profitable for a company to do it," said Gramm.

"People will conserve when it costs them not to. It's got to be in their own interest," said Gramm. "Businesses are consuming less energy, but it's not patriotism, it's dollars and cents."

Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton said imposing windfall profits taxes would shift the focus away from conservation and decontrol as methods for dealing with the nation's energy woes.

"We should stop talking about a windfall tax because it misleads and detracts from solving the problem," said Clayton.

"The real windfall from decontrol of oil prices goes to government, since government would receive 60 percent of all additional revenues through sources such as taxes, royalties and lease payments," he said.

The Texas legislator said if decontrol is to be coupled with a high tax on excess revenues, then that tax rate should be limited to profits not reinvested in exploration, development, research for new supplies or construction.

"We can't conserve our way to a balanced program, so we need an effort to expand domestic production over the next few years," he said.

Blood protein in urine

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you tell me anything about albumin in the urine? How does it get there and what can be done to get rid of it? I'm 36 years old and gave birth to my third child three months ago. All through my pregnancy I had to go to the hospital every week for two urine tests.

My delivery was fine and fast (15 minutes). Our beautiful son is fine. When I went back to the doctor for my six weeks check-up, the albumin was up, he said to 3 plus, the highest ever. When I asked the doctor what I should do about it he just said nothing can be done, just watch for an infection. I'm quite baffled by the whole thing.

I am overweight but have no known illnesses. Is there anything I can do to get rid of the albumin? Also does the albumin cause any illness? My three children are all under five years of age and I would like to be able to enjoy watching them grow up without having to worry about myself.

DEAR READER — Albumin is one of the normal blood proteins. We all have it. A tiny amount of it leaks out through the kidneys into the urine. This is usually such a small amount that it can't be measured. The amount can be increased in the presence of an infection in the urinary tract or a variety of disorders of the kidney.

You should also know that some people can have increased amounts of albumin in the urine without having any important disease. Some people tend to have this simply with standing. We call this orthostatic albuminuria, meaning albumin in the urine because of standing up straight.

It might be helpful to collect your urine while you've been lying in bed for several hours. You could do this by first emptying the bladder, then going to bed and then collecting the urine when you first get up. This specimen could be compared to one obtained while you've been up and around for quite a while. The difference in the amount of albumin in the urine should provide a good clue as to whether it's related to just posture or not.

In any case, unless you can define what's causing the albuminuria, there's not much point in doing anything about it. Just remember that it is a normal blood protein. It's probably a good idea to check in with your doctor regularly until the cause of the albuminuria is solved, such as a postural factor, or until the problem disappears.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 12-12, Your Kidneys And How They Work. It will give you a better understanding of the whole problem. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

If you happen to have an inflammation of the urinary tract, that will also cause albuminuria. Your doctor has probably already checked this and not found anything that concerned him. Of course, you should lose weight — even if you don't have albuminuria.

Presentation Of 'Messiah' Is Set

Handel's "Messiah" will be performed Dec. 16 at First United Methodist Church by a community choir of Snyder.

The presentation, which will be one hour long, will begin at 4 p.m. A reception will be held afterward.

The 60-voice choir will feature bass soloist Jim Fletcher from the Dallas-Fort Worth area. Local soloists to be featured in the presentation include Bob Clinton, Verna West, Jane Womack, and Kay Kenner.

"This is the first time this (the "Messiah" presentation) has been performed in Snyder in about 15 years," said Chuck Weatherford, director of music and education at First Methodist, who will help stage the program.

The "Messiah" was written and composed by George Friederic Handel in 1741.

Lectureship Set At Local Church

A lectureship built around the theme Action '80 will be held next week at the 37th Street Church of Christ in Snyder.

The three-day event begins Friday night, will continue on Saturday and will conclude on Sunday.

Loy Mitchell, minister from Odessa, will be the 7 p.m. Friday speaker.

Saturday activities start at 9 a.m. Speakers during the day include Doug Allee, minister of the East Side congregation in Snyder; Bill Looney, a former Snyder resident who is minister of the Southside congregation in Brownfield.

Mitchell will speak again on Saturday as well as Abe Lincoln, on the faculty of the Sunset School of Preaching in Lubbock and Richard Rogers, minister of the Sunset Church of Christ in Lubbock.

Tex Williams, Sunset faculty member, will speak to all adult Bible classes at 9:45 a.m. Sunday and he will speak again at the 6 p.m. worship service. Speaking at the 10:45 a.m. worship service will be Doyle Gilliam, also of Lubbock. The 6 p.m. evening service will be preceded by a congregational singing at 5:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend any and all of these programs, and a nursery will be provided.

5 Scientology Leaders Going to Prison

WASHINGTON (AP)— Five Church of Scientology leaders are heading for prison for conspiring to steal government documents, infiltrate federal agencies and kidnap a church official who decided to help expose the crimes.

U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey sentenced the church leaders to either four-or-five-year prison terms and fined each $10,000 Thursday. He said the punishment should be "a deterrent to others."

Four other church leaders and operatives were scheduled for sentencing today.

All the defendants sentenced Thursday -- including Mary Sue Hubbard, wife of church founder L. Ron Hubbard -- said they were sorry for their crimes. One, Henning Heldt, said the church leaders were reacting to government attempts to "destroy their religion and make a mockery of their beliefs."

Secondary Pupils Get Report Cards

Pupils in Snyder secondary schools were getting report cards today.

The report cards for the first quarter of the 197-80 term were being distributed at both the junior and senior high schools.
