

On The BEAM

By J. W. King, Sr.

There is a time almost every spring in West Texas when people are anxious and worried about whether or not it will rain in time to plant a crop. Such a time is with us now. It has been an unusually dry spring and the good moisture we had early has receded to a depth that is too great for planting. A good rain that will go down to the ground that is already in the ground is needed now.

Most people prefer cotton planted in May but this year not many farmers who do not irrigate have been able to plant and get their cotton up to a stand. It isn't too late to plant cotton. It can be planted even as late as the first few days of July and still make a good crop, so just keep hoping that a good rain will come before it is too late.

This has been an unusually cool spring. Down in Central Texas where cotton is usually up to a fairly good size at this time of year, there is a lot of it, so I have heard, that has just come up. It looks like a late spring everywhere.

Fiesta Days Set At Dyess A. F. B.

West Texan's have a treat in store, coming up June 15-16-17 and 18, at Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene, when this installation of the Strategic Air Command hosts its annual Fiesta Days Celebration.

The base will be open to the public during the four day period, and in the fashion of a county fair (military style), the occasion will feature carnival rides and booths; displays of modern military aircraft and equipment; a daring sky-divers parachute exhibition; stage shows spotlighting outstanding show business personalities; and a performance each day by the famous U. S. Air Force Drum and Bugle Corp from Washington, D. C.

One of the acts headlining the stage show portion of Fiesta Days will be western recording artist Leon (Take It Away) McAuliffe and his Cimarron Boys. This outstanding aggregation will share the spotlight for nine stage shows (two nightly, and a Saturday matinee on June 18), with such an impressive array of performers as the ever-popular Ink Spots; amusing Lono and Oscar of Grand Ole Opry fame; the versatile Merry Maes vocal group; local favorite, comedian Uncle Willie; and the danceable orchestra of Chuck Carbot.

Leon McAuliffe, appropriately known as "Mr. Steel Guitar", gained fame in the western music ranks, not only as a performer, but also for his authoring of such time favorites as "Steel Guitar Rag" and "Panhandle Rag," among others. He has made over fifty recordings for Columbia Records with the Bob Wills band, and a partial list of his waxings with the Cimarron Boys include "Rag Mop," "Chattanooga Shoe Shine Boy," "Jellybean Rag," "What've You Got," "Tulsa Straight Ahead," "Take It Away," and "Leon and the Merry Maes."

The stage show schedule lists the Merry Maes, Lono and Oscar, Roy Drusky, Uncle Willie, and the Fred Woolridge Band, for two appearances on June 15 and 16; and for the remaining two days, June 17 and 18, it will be the Ink Spots with the Chuck Cabot group; again comedian Uncle Willie, and Leon McAuliffe.

The carnival on the flight line will be somewhat larger than last year's Fiesta Days attraction, and will consist of 10 rides, plus approximately 35 booths, the majority being sponsored by Dyess squadrons. No admission will be charged for admittance to the carnival area.

Pastures have been dry and not much sod was large enough for grazing so farmers and stockmen had begun to sell off a part of their cows to conserve their feed supply. This depressed the market somewhat at the auction rings. Since the moisture has come and if more will follow the grazing situation will be much better shortly.

Robert Ryan Weds Miss McDonald

The wedding of Miss Patricia J. McDonald and Robert Ryan was solemnized in the First Baptist Church in Abilene Tuesday, May 31, with the Rev. George Caffey pastor of the East Side Baptist Church in McGehee, and uncle of the bridegroom officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McDonald of Kamey, Texas and Mr. and Mrs. R. Q. Ryan of Hawley, Texas.

The altar was centered around a white satin covered Prayer rail, flanked by two baskets of white gladioli and stock and candelabras burning white tapers banked with palms.

Mr. Leo Lambert of Lubbock was organist and Mrs. Charles Spicer of Abilene was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of white embroidered tulle over satin, combined with a figurine bodice topped by a deep pointed yoke embroidered with sequins and seed pearls fashioned formal length. The long sleeves shirred to the wrists ended in petal points and the floor length, bouffant skirt was draped into a bustle back.

Her waist length veil of silk illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls. For wedding traditions, something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue, the bride carried her grandmother's thirty-first wedding anniversary gift, a gold locket.

She carried her bridal bouquet of white roses, atop a white pearl covered Bible.

Maid of honor was Miss Frances Kesner, from Lafayette, La. a former college roommate of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Lynn Stephens of Hasted, Texas; Miss Susan McDonald, sister of the bride of Kamey, was junior bridesmaid.

Former Superintendent Speaks To Seniors

"There is no secret formula for success in life" stated Mr. Don Robbins of Midland, former superintendent of schools here, as he spoke to the 20 graduates of Loraina High School Friday night at commencement exercises.

Mr. Robbins gave a challenge to the class in the address, telling them that one gains only in proportion to the amount of work he puts into it.

Kenneth Ford gave the invocation and Rev. Mack Farrington the benediction. Mrs. Rex McDonald played the processional and recessional.

Mr. Robbins continued his address by asking the question, "What do you want to gain in life and how hard are you willing to work to obtain that goal? There is no substitute for hard work. As we look to the successful person we see someone who was willing to devote the time and energy necessary to achieve that stature."

In concluding his talk, Mr. Robbins compared life with a book. A book can be long or short, he stated, as can life, with a plain or fancy cover but it is the "stuff" inside that determines whether it is a good one or a bad one. Some make lasting contributions while others pass into oblivion.

Mr. Vance Dickenson, high school principal, presented certificates for being neither absent nor tardy to Annette Browning, Carol Ann Dickenson, Joretta Hall, Barbara Mahon, Esther Mosher, Joyce Simon, Don Redwine, Ben Clopton, Clovis Hale, Kaye Nell Lankford, Jamie Lee Ruth, Browning, Teddy Miles, Lester Mosher and Linton Ray Webb.

Saturday, June 4, is the day on which voters of Texas go to the polls to vote in the run-off primary. Polls will open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

In the Loraina and Landers precincts there will be only two offices to vote on, that of Sheriff of Mitchell County and one of the places on the State Supreme Court.

The fact that only two offices are to be voted on does not lessen the responsibility of the voters. Every voter should go to the polls and exercise his privilege of voting for whomever he pleases. As a usual thing, run-off elections where there is only one or two offices to fill, voters get careless and stay away from the polls. Even one vote might make a lot of difference in any race. Go to the polls Saturday and vote.

Mr. and Mrs. Price Hall and daughters Joretta and Janet Sue visited in Monahans Saturday morning with Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Powers and went to Kermit Saturday afternoon and attended the wedding of his brother, Roy Hall, and Miss Marilyn Patten.

I reckon you'd have to say there are drawbacks to living in a small town. But it still beats living in a city where "reform" tickets are brought out every time there's an election.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Neill of Monahans visited his father, J. H. Neill, and Mrs. Neill during the weekend.

Charlie House of Odessa visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie House Friday.

Ben and Walter Clopton left last week for Fort Worth where they have work for the summer.

Mrs. Dale Johnson and children of Abilene visited Mrs. Bessie Johnson Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Homer Johnson and Dr. and Mrs. Dale Johnson and children were here Sunday to attend the funeral of their uncle J. L. Johnson, and visited their mother, Mrs. Bessie Johnson.

Beverly Johnson came in last week from Abilene where she has been a student at McMurry College. She will spend the summer here with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Johnson.

Mrs. Cleddie Hall brought her mother, Mrs. G. W. Hendrick, home Monday after she had spent several months with the Hall family in Corpus Christi. Mrs. Hall will be here this week. Another daughter, Mrs. J. D. McDowell and girls of El Paso came in Thursday and will spend a week with her mother.

Q. I'm going to take evening college courses under the Korean GI Bill, and I realize I'll have to spread out the school work over quite a period, since I have a full-time job. How much time do I have to complete training? I was discharged in mid-1958.

A. Korea veterans have eight years from discharge or until January 31, 1965, whichever comes earlier, to complete training. In no event may a veteran take training after January 31, 1965.

Q. I understand that no new

GI insurance is being issued except to Korea veterans who have some service-connected disabilities, but what other conditions must be met for a veteran to be eligible?

A. To be eligible for new GI insurance, a Korea veteran must have a service-connected disability so rated by the VA, and must apply within one year from the date VA rates him service-connected.

Q. Who gets the money allowance from VA where a child is taking courses under the War Orphans Education program, the student or parent or guardian?

A. Usually the allowance is paid to the parent or guardian of the young man or woman going to school. There are, however, cases where the money may be paid to the young person directly.

A little conversation with a lot of fishermen always brings out a raft of ideas.

Nearly every fisherman has his own special operation on "how to do it" when it comes to catching fish, especially big bass. Whether you agree with what he says or not, you must admit that if he is a successful bass fisherman, there must be something to what he says.

This, even though his own thoughts may sometimes be in conflict with each other.

Yet, when you stop to think about it, fish themselves don't always follow the same pattern, strike the same bait, or act the same way, day in and day out. Some anglers say you must think like a fish to catch fish. Others say you've got to out think them.

One old-time fisherman contends that the big trouble with most fishermen is that they use the same bait that every other fisherman uses. Net result is that the bass become so familiar with that particular bait, or type of bait, that they just won't strike any longer.

In other words, every bass fisherman, by using the same method of bass fishing that the bass have seen for years, finally educates the finny creatures to the dangers of attacking such a lure. Result is spotty fishing. On the other hand, there is the other type of fisherman who says that as soon as your partner lands one, switch to his identical lure. He figures his chance of success is greater when he offers the same attraction.

Another fisherman says that if you want to land the big ones, do your fishing from a boat. Fishing from a bank or wading in a lake, river or stream is okay in his opinion, but the far better method is from a boat.

Yet the largest fish we ever hooked was while spin casting from a rocky bank in a narrow cove.

All of which might lead one to think that the fish doesn't care where his meal comes from, as long as it looks appetizing.

Now let's see what another fisherman has to say. Speaking of boats, this avid angler says that he prefers a 14-foot, flat-bottomed, wooden fishing boat, painted a dark gray or green. Better, yet, a black-bottomed boat. His preference for the wooden boat is that it makes less noise than any other type manufactured. He absolutely will not use a metal boat. But he says fiberglass might be a close second choice to the wooden boat.

He contends that the drumming sound of the metal boat scares the fish away. He even argues that the splash of waves on the metal boat will echo so loudly that it scares them to other sections of the lake. He also contends that waves lapping up against the side of a metal boat make a drumming noise under water.

A fishing buddy chimed in to stress the importance of being quiet when fishing. Noisy use of the oars in paddling is just as bad as dropping a pair of pliers to the bottom of a metal boat, in his opinion.

He advocates extreme caution while rowing, and says to move along slowly.

His contention is that when rowing, you never should take the ear out of the water. He says further—return it to forward position by bringing it forward parallel to the boat, then row with a figure-S motion, so as to get the greatest amount of power with the least disturbance of the water.

Also, if you must raise the ear out of the water, don't raise it more than a few inches above the surface. Then dip it straight down into the water and break the surface as lightly as possible.

A fishing guide at Falcon Lake tells us that one of the better ways to oar a boat quietly is to finish your stroke fully before lifting the ear out of the water. This, whether it is a pulling stroke, or a back stroke.

Reason is, of course, that you are clear of the water you have generated and thereby eliminate the slushing of the stirred-up water against your own paddle.

In other words, avoid short, choppy strokes. Make them long and complete. Every fisherman seems to agree on one thing. That is that you should approach your fishing spot quietly, with the least disturbance of the water, and with the slightest possible noise. One ardent angler even recommends that you make no attempt to cast your line into the water for about five minutes. Just sit there and relax until the bass have become accustomed to the boat being around. Needless to say, loose or broken seats that creak or squeak should be repaired before you take to the water.

Tackle boxes were the object of another angler's concern. He favors the wooden boxes over the fiberglass ones, and absolutely abhors the metal boxes. Here again, metal is the most distracting thing in a boat.

What about clothing? That provokes a lot of conversation. A man sticks up quite a way above the seat of a boat, says one angler. He warns that there should be no bright colors in the fisherman's clothing, or any colors that will reflect a lot of light.

This eliminates gaudy apparel and white shirts or trousers. Khaki seems to be about as fitting a garb for the fisherman as any, say most anglers. Second choice is GI fatigue clothing.

This is the end of our line today. Later we will pass on to you some comments of other fishermen we have contacted.

BAPTIST BROTHERHOOD TO SPONSOR FATHER-SON NIGHT JUNE 6

Rev. Roenfeld, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Roscoe, will be the speaker Monday night, June 6, when the Baptist Brotherhood will sponsor a Father-Son night.

Any Brotherhood member who does not have a son is asked to invite a young man or boy. All boys of the church are invited.

A hot dog supper will be served and the Men's Quartet will sing. Time for the meeting is 7 p. m.

There is no public library in Lorain so the library at the Baptist Church has been opened to the public so that all may enjoy the many good books there. The books are carefully selected by a committee so that none but good clean books are placed in the library.

The library will remain open one hour each Tuesday afternoon from 3 to 4 to give those who wish to read an opportunity to check out a book.

Included in the list of books are "The Man Called Peter," "The Big Fisherman," "The Apostle of the Amazon," and "God Cares For Me."

"A Man Called Peter" by Catherine Marshall is the true story of a great modern minister and a warmly human personality. The opportunity to read about the life of Dr. Peter Marshall through this book provides a rare experience, for he was truly an unusual and memorable man.

"The Big Fisherman" by Lloyd C. Douglas is the story of Simon Peter, one of the most human and lovable of the Apostles of Jesus. He is first seen at the Sea of Galilee, one who spent most of his time fishing but who lay down his nets to follow Jesus to Calvary.

"The Apostle of the Amazon" by L. M. Bratcher is the story of the life of Erik Alfred Nelson

WHAT does it MEAN?

CORNED BEEF

The grain we call "corn" has nothing to do with corned beef. At one time, many years ago any small grain was called "corn," so it followed that a grain of salt was a corn of salt. Corned beef is merely salted beef—or beef preserved in corns of salt.

What is the answer?
