The SDN Column

The foreign exchange student program in Snyder High School is beginning its second decade this fall, Folke With of Norway being the 11th student from a foreign country to attend SHS. Moreover, seven SHS students have studied during summer months in other countries.

There have not been as many local students going abroad as there have been foreign students coming to Snyder because of financial problems that have arisen from time to time. This year, the American Field Service, which sponsors the exchange student program here, hopes to raise enough funds to send another Snyder student abroad next summer.

The program here was started by the Snyder High School Student Council in 1958, and in 1962 it became a community project. Many organizations, business firms and individuals contribute to the AFS chapter and such contributions are its only source of funds.

The fund-raising for the coming year is now underway and anyone wishing to contribute should contact Cecil Boren, treasurer, or any of the other chapter officers. Jimmy Melton is the president, Frank Taylor is vice president and Martha Zeck is the secretary.

The American Field Service is a private, nonprofit organization founded in 1914 as a volunteer ambulance corps and served with the Allied Forces in both World War I and II. The AFS program as it is known today was founded in 1947 for the purpose of creating greater understanding between peoples of the world by bringing students from abroad to study in the United States.

Snyder's first 10 foreign exchange students were Stig-Olaf Fernstrom, Finland, 1959-60; Evert Carlsson, Sweden, 1960-61; Isabel Saravia, Chile, 1961-62; Marta Burity, Brazil, 1962-63; Mike Koenig, Germany, 1963-64; Franca Gea, Italy, 1964-65; Martine Strubbe, Belgium, 1965-66; Hernan Hechenleitner, Chile, 1966-67; Gill Potgieter, Republic of South Africa, 1967-68; Edna Francao, Brazil, 1968-69.

Snyder students who have gone abroad for summer study in the program include Dick Martin, Philippines, 1960; Jean Young, Germany, 1961; Tommy Shelburne, Italy, 1962; Margaret Zeck, Brazil, 1964; Barbara Crowell, Chile, 1966; Sharon Carter, Philippines, 1967; Chere Reneau, Germany, 1968

Scientist Share Lunar Samples

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Six scientists shared two ounces of lunar dust Friday in the first distribution of matter from the moon to private investigators.

The moon samples, part of 48 pounds of lunar material brought to earth by Apollo 11, were distributed to scientists after a committee ruled that exensive tests showed the moon soil is harmless to earth creatures. The moondust had been quarantined in the lunar receiving laboratory since July 25.

About 18 pounds of the Apollo 11 samples will be handed out to 142 scientists from the United States and eight foreign countries for individual experiments within the next several weeks.

Each of the scentsts had to sign agreements to return the moon samples at the conclusion of their tests. Some of the samples will be destroyed in the tests, but the scientists will have to return the residue.

About 30 pounds of the Apollo 11 samples will remain in the lunar receiving laboratory. Some of it may be distributed to other scientists later.

One of those getting a sample, Dr. S. O. Agrell of the University of Cambridge, England, said the scientists studying the lunar dust are looking for clues to the origin of the moon. This is expected to provide important leads to learning the origin of the earth and the universe.

But Agrell said he doubts that all the questions could be answered from the Apollo 11 samples. He said it will take bits from a number of other lunar points. The individual studies, he said, "will be just pieces of a big puzzle."

Scientists will also try to determine the precise age of the rocks and how long they have been on the moon's surface. Some biologists will search the material for microfossils, remains of lunar life too small to be seen by the eye.

Tests so far have turned up no evidence of life on the moon.

Jaycees Take Aim At Mrs. O'Hair

Snyder Jaycees are going to actively enter the campaign to counter the efforts of Atheist Madalyn O'Hair, it was announced Saturday.

Mrs. O'Hair has led efforts to keep prayers out of public schools and has protested the reading of Biblical passages by U.S. Astronauts in space. She has a letter-writing campaign going and several groups, including Jaycees, are working to counter her efforts.

Detailed plans for the campaign here will be announced early in the coming week and forms for letters and other materials will be made available, Jaycee officials said.

Kidnapers Are Arrested

TORONTO (AP) — The biggest manhunt in Ontario's history ended Friday night with the recovery of $200,000 ransom paid for the release of kidnaped Mary Nelles and the arrest of five young men—one of them a former suitor of the woman, daughter of a Toronto millionaire.

Asst. Police Commissioner Harold H. Graham said the money was found in a plastic garbage bag buried near a cottage in Footes Bay, about 110 miles north of here.

Graham added that details in the four-page ransom letter led police to believe the kidnapers knew the Nelles' fanily well.

He said the first break police had was the discovery Friday by tracking dogs of a foam rubber cushion, bandages and a pair of binoculars buried near the cottage.

More Needed For Typing Classes

Several more students are needed for an adult typing class at Snyder High School.

Prospective students will have another opportunity to sign up and those interested have been asked to contact Mrs. Fry at 573-2128. Unless more students sign for the course, it cannot be offered this semester. The adult classes are held at night.

Gov. Smith Signs State Spending Bill

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Preston Smith signed the $5.8 billion two-year state spending bill Saturday after vetoing items costing $4.4 million "for the sake of economy."

The governor signed the hefty bill, which boosts state salaries and increases education and law enforcement funds, shortly before flying to Washington, D.C., and Williamsburg, Va., for the Southern Governor's Conference.

His vetoes were the most trimmed from a general appropriations bill since former Gov. John Connally slashed more than $10 million in 1963.

Smith's signature on the spending bill capped a victory for him. It was his rejection of the legislature's one-year budget that brought the lawmakers back for a bitter six weeks of taxing and spending debate in two special sessions that ended Tuesday. Smith insisted throughout that he wanted Texas to abandon her experiment—begun by Connally in 1967—with annual budgets and return to the traditional two-year spending pattern.

Biggest item vetoed was $2.9 million to build a Dallas neuropsychiatric institute under the State Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Smith said there was an unresolved question of whether the institute should be under that department or the University of Texas. He said the legislative budget board, under his chairmanship, recommended in 1965 that the institute be placed under the UT Southwestern Medical School in Dallas.

The vetoes should leave a state surplus of more than $4 million at the end of the 1970-71 financing period if Comptroller Robert S. Calvert's revenue estimates are on the nose.

Earlier, Smith said he would have to veto $1.2 million in order to finance 28 new district courts approved by the legislature. Calvert later changed his mind, so none of the vetoes was necessary to keep the state in the black.

The vetoes, Smith said, "were for the sake of economy more than anything else . . . I don't think there is anything wrong with having a little surplus in the economy of our state government."

No Change In Proposals

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam presented its same hard conditions for peace in Vietnam at the Paris talks today, showing no change since the death of President Ho Chi Minh. The United States then assailed Hanoi for "inhumane treatment" of American prisoners of war.

The 33rd plenary session had been postponed Sept. 4 at North Vietnam's request for a mourning period for Ho, who died Sept. 3. The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong repeated demands for a U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam and a coalition government.

Then U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, who said in advance his speech had "unusual significance," challenged North Vietnam to permit inspection of prison camps and to abide by the Geneva convention on treatment of prisoners of war.

"You should realize," he declared, "that your failure to act in accordance with humane practice flies in the face of world public opinion as a whole."

Lodge told Ambassador Ha Van Lau, sitting in as chief of the North Vetnamese delegation: "We have long been concerned by your refusal to permit impartial inspection of your prison camps. Frankly, this refusal inevitably brings up the thought that you fear that an inspection would not confirm your claims of humane treatment."

Lodge said that concern about treatment of American prisoners held in North Vietnam has been recently deepened by statements made earlier this month by two American prisoners released in August by the North Vietnamese.

He quoted seaman Douglas B. Hegdahl as saying: "I was kept in solitary confinement for over a year. I was made to stand with my hands over my head for trying to talk with other prisoners of war."

Lodge quoted Navy Lt. Robert Frishman, another released prisoner, as saying: "I don't think solitary confinement, forced statements, living in a cave for three years, being put in straps, not being allowed to sleep or eat, removal of fingernails, and not allowing exchange of mail to prisoners of war, are humane."

Turning to the subject of terrorism, Lodge said that "in recent weeks, acts of terror by your side against innocent civilians in South Vietnam have set a tragic record. In particular since Sept. 3, your official radio stations and your troop commanders have repeatedly appealed for even greater acts of violence as the best way of commemorating your late president."

Neither of the two chief North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates was present, having gone to Hanoi for Ho's funeral. But their deputies made clear that if any policy change is planned, it has not yet reached Paris.

Ambassador Lau quoted Ho as saying: "Nothing is more precious than independence and freedom."

There will be livestock and field crop exhibits, along with a variety of exhibits in the women's division. Also, there will be community booths, educational exhibits, an art show and a flower show.

A number of local firms will have commercial exhibits also.

"Belfast Wall" Is Almost Completed

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — After averting another clash between Roman Catholics and Protestants, British troops worked today to complete the "Belfast Wall," a steel and barbed wire fence designed to separate the neighborhoods of the two groups.

The British hope the fence will persuade both Catholics and Protestants to dismantle the barricades they erected after last month's rioting.

The Catholic Civil Defense Committee of "Free Belfast" meets tonight to decide whether the barriers should come down.

Informants said the barriers probably would be removed after a face-saving agreement with the army that woul dallow leaders of the enclave to take them down voluntarily.

Details of the agreement were said to have been worked out between a "Free Belfast" delegation that met with British Home Secretary James Callaghan in London Friday.

An army spokesman said trouble between the two groups Friday night began when a crowd of Protestants approached British troops and "bashed and banged the roofs and windows" of trucks they were driving. He added, "The soldiers inside decided caution was the better part of valor and moved away."

But the crowd then advanced on a Catholic bar in a predominantly Protestant neighborhood, smashed in the door, broke all the windows and threw two gasoline bombs inside.

Catholics began gathering to retaliate, and more Protestants began streaming into the area. Finally, the army spokesman said, British troops arrived and the crowds dispersed.

The bar is on the same street where a Methodist church and a junior high school were heavily damaged by fire Thursday night.

Although there were disagreements over the location of several sections, most of the wall was completed without much trouble.

The fence of barbed wire piled six feet high is strung between a double row of steel stakes cemented into the ground. It is about a mile long and runs between the Protestant Shankill district and the Catholic Falls Road area.

Army guards patrol the roads at both ends of the fence day and night, check every vehicle in and out, and disperse any crowds that gather.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Recently you answered in your column that it was better for children to learn the facts of life from an "informed, responsible educator" than in the home, where the parents equated sex with sin, etc. In other words, you were pushing sex education in the schools.

That sounds all right, but how do we know that the school teachers are "informed and responsible?" Some friends of mine said they are sure their sixth grade daughter is being taught by a COMMUNIST teacher who is trying to break down the morals of our youth by telling them there is nothing wrong with "sex." I heard, too, that one 12-year-old boy had his head so filled with sex at school he went home and tried to "practice" on his little sister.

It has been proved that sex education has been the ruination of the Scandinavian countries. Do we want that to happen here?

ALSO CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: I recently returned from COPENHAGEN, DENMARK, and noticed no "ruination" there. In fact their sex crime rate is far lower than ours, and declining steady.

I, too, heard the tale about that 12-year-old boy, but thus far no one has been able to provide me with his name.

Recently I have been deluged with material from anti-sex education organizations. One in particular sent a questionnaire that supposedly was being used in our Junior High Schools. I, too, was appalled to see such "advanced" questions. Upon investigation, I learned that this questionnaire was NOT used in our public schools. It was used for pre-marital counseling! Quite a difference!

Why don't YOU check out what you hear? Go to school and ask to see the material being used, and talk to the teachers who teach the courses. They will cooperate and you will be much relieved.

And don't worry about the quality (or political persuasion) of our schoolteachers. In a class of 35 students, the teacher has 36 "watchdogs." For children go home and tell their parents everything.

DEAR ABBY: The young married woman across the hall from me accepted $500 from her father-in-law for having "given up" smoking. (She is pregnant.) Yet she comes over here at least once a day and begs a cigaret off me. I like this person a lot, and hate to refuse her, but I don't like being a party to this sort of deception. Any suggestions?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Tell her! But be prepared to see your friendship go up in smoke.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband has an 83-year-old great aunt who is a darling woman. Most of her friends are gone now, and we are her only relatives within the immediate area, so on Sundays she cooks Sunday supper and invites us. Her cooking isn't what it used to be, but we can stand that. It's the roaches! She isn't careful about her housekeeping, and the bugs are everywhere. Crawling up on the table, in the sugarbowl, etc.

I just can't accept another invitation to eat at her house! My children have positively refused to go there. She is a very sensitive woman and I hate to come right out and tell her the honest truth, so I've been making excuses until I am blue in the face.

Can you offer a suggestion for handling this very touchy situation in a diplomatic way? I told my husband that she is HIS great aunt, and HE should tell her, but he refuses as he's afraid she wouldn't take it very well.

STUMPED IN INDIANA

DEAR STUMPED: It is highly unlikely that an 83-year-old woman is going to change the quality of her housekeeping at this late date, so if you refuse to eat with roaches (and I don't blame you) continue to decline her dinner invitations, saying YOU like to cook on Sundays, and invite HER to your house.

Textile Problem Discussed

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of ~~Commerce~~ Maurice Stans and Japanese Foreign Minister Kiichi Aichi held a special session today and discusseed textile and other economic problems between their two countries.

After the 25-minute conference, Aichi told a reporter he had asked Stans to give any further information he had to a Japanese textile mission which is meeting here next week with U.S. officials.

Aichi came here to talk about the return of Okinawa to Japan. The textile problems was not on his schedule but he agreed to meet with Stans and talk about it.

The Japanese official said his call on Stans was "mainly social."

American officials agreed that the meeting was mainly social but said it did touch on the forthcoming technical talks next week.

The U.S. officials said the United States would like to see an agreement reached with Japan restraining textile exports to the United States at present levels before Prime Minister Eisaku Sato makes a state visit here Nov. 19-21. The officials feel this would clear the air in Congress, especially among members from textile states.

At the November meeting Sato and President Nixon are expected to set the date and announce the conditions for returning Okinawa to Japanese rule.

Aichi's meeting with Stans led to speculation among Japanese diplomatic sources that the United States was placing a textile price tag on its negotiations for the reversion of Okinawa.

Three Cars Are In Mishap Here Friday

Minor damage resulted from a mishap that involved three cars in the 2400 block of Avenue R at 1:37 p.m. Friday.

City Police said the hand brake on one of the cars apparently slipped and caused it to roll into another one, which was knocked into the one behind it. All had been parked.

Involved were the 1964 Model Plymouth of Ruth Clements Dublin, Colorado City; the 1955 Model Chevrolet of Joe Jackson, 3207 Hill; and, the 1960 Model Chrysler of Mrs. Dillard Herrley, 2410 Thirtieth Street. Damage to Mrs. Herrley's car was placed at $175; damage to the Plymouth was set at $50; and, damage to the other car was set at $15.

Evacuated Residents Return Home

GLENDORA, Miss. (AP) — Some 10,000 northwest Mississippi residents were back home today after an evacuation order by state officials sent them fleeing from gas released by a train derailment.

Controversy arose Friday over whether the evacuation was necessary.

Among the evacuees was Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., who called for a congressional investigation of rail safety. "Tragedy can be lurking on every train," he said at a hotel in nearby Cleveland. "We must do whatever we can to prevent tragedies like this, and we must do it quickly."

The residents of 10 Mississippi Delta towns and 1,400 inmates of the state penitentiary at Parchman were evacuated after five tank cars loaded with vinyl chloride derailed, exploded and caught fire Thursday night.

Dr. J. T. Minyard, a state chemist, said the vinyl chloride "by itself is toxic" and the burning was sending deadly phosgene gas into the air.

However, Uniroyal, Inc., of Geismar, La., where part of the shipment originated, disputed the danger.

A company spokesman said vinyl chloride is not lethal and "it is impossible to liberate phosgene, other than inconsequential trace amounts, when vinyl chloride is freely burning in the air."

Robert T. Van Aller, the chairman of the chemistry department at the University of Southern Mississippi, agreed with Minyard's conclusions, and added: "Even a little bit of phosgene gas is dangerous. It is an insidious poison that does not act immediately."

A 74-year-old man was critically injured when he was struck by the engine of the seven-car Illinois Central train. The derailment apparently occurred when the train engineer put on the brakes.

El Paso Wettest Place In State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Normally dry and sunny El Paso in far West Texas again was the wettest place in the state Friday evening.

Although the official rainfall measurement was only .22 inch at the airport, a sudden shower turned loose .60 on the northeast side of El Paso. Some streets ran like small streams for a time but there was no word of damage.

There were isolated thundershowers elsewhere in extreme West Texas during the night and a few lingered in that section this morning. Showers also occurred early today near the Lower Texas Coast.

Skies overhung most of the western third of the state by morning while it was clear to partly cloudy elsewhere.

Mild weather with no major change was expected to stick around throughout the state for the weekend.

Temperatures failed to reach 90 degrees in all sections Friday, hitting the top mark of 89 at Cotulla, Laredo and Texarkana. Lubbock was the coolest point with a high of 75.

Near dawn today readings sagged to 58 at Lufkin and 59 at College Station and Houston while it was still 75 at Brownsville and 77 at Galveston.

Corduroy Big Cotton On Campus

There's a "big cotton on campus" this fall that combines the sprightly spirit of youth with the dependable character of long life.

It's versatile cotton corduroy which has been around for something like 200 years. But in 1969's line-up of collegiate fashions, it has never looked younger.

The coed's constant companion, corduroy turns up in a variety of new faces in every campus collection of coats, suits, dresses, jumpers, and swinging separates. You'll see it with such different ribbed weaves as seersucker, hob nail, plaid-cut, honey-comb, thick-thin, and hi-low. A sculptured jackquard-like corduroy is one of the most unusual. And, of course, there are the tried and true favorites like mldwale, pinwale, and super wide wale.

Wales — for anyone not in the know — are the raised ribs in corduroy. However, one of the most exciting new looks of corduroy is one with no wales at all. Instead, it has a sheared, napped surface that combines the elegant good looks of velveteen with the sturdy practicality of velour.

Although nary a sign of ribs is seen, there's an eye-catching sheen to the suede-like surface of the new corduroy. This gives it a look that's plush enough for dress-up, yet sporty enough for casual wear.

Designers are using the new ribless corduroy in all categories of back-to-college wear, including coats and jackets, separates, jumpsuits, and date dresses.

For date nights and dress-up parties, the ribless fabric shows up in simply-cut dresses in both solid and printed versions.

Colors in the new corduroy lean toward the creamy beige shades and other basics like brown, green, turquoise, and cranberry red. The sheen of this kitten-soft cotton is especially noticeable in another favorite, black.

Glamor Dessert Tops Off Meal With Flourish

Flatter your family! Treat them to a dessert that's glamorous to look at and exciting to eat. For example, serve this lucious, southern Honeybeller Dessert topped with a glistening orange sauce, suggests Reba Staggs, home economist with the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Honeybelle Dessert

1½ cups sifted flour
¾ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup lard
⅓ cup sugar
1 egg
1-3 cup honey
2 tablespoons molasses
½ cup hot water
¼ cup finely chopped pecans

Sift together flour, soda, salt and cinnamon. Cream together lard and sugar until light. Add egg and beat well. Combine honey and molasses. Add to creamed mixture alternately with sifted dry ingredients. Add hot water. Mix lightly until smooth. Pour batter into greased cake pan (8-inch square). Sprinkle with pecans. Bake in a moderate oven (350 F.) 30 to 35 minutes or until done. Serve with Orange Sauce. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Orange Sauce

1-3 cup sugar
4 teaspoons cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
¾ cup water
¼ cup orange juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons orange rind

Combine sugar, cornstarch, salt and water. Mix until smooth. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until clear and thickened. Add orange juice, lemon juice and orange rind. Mix well. Pour over dessert and serve. Yield: 1 cup.

Cotton Takes On New Status

Time was when a cotton dress—was something you wore in the summertime only. The seasons haven't changed —but cotton certainly has.

While cotton has always been the most comfortable fabric to wear in the sticky hot days of summer, it's also become the most comfortable thing you can don during the brisk days of fall as well as the steam-heated days of winter.

New weaves and heavier construction of cotton fabric have been a factor in bringing this about. The double-wovens especially have given cotton its new year-round status.

A double-woven cotton is just what it sounds like — a fabric woven in two thicknesses, back to back, resulting in a reversible pattern.

Besides giving the fabric a handsome three - dimensional look, the double weave is an insulating factor, keeping you warm in cool weather — and because it's "breathable" cotton — keeping you comfortable in warm weather.

As for fashion appeal, doube-woven cottons have taken the fancy of fashion designers. They like the fabric's body and its rich, sculptured-looking surface.

Patterns are woven into these cottons, and they all seem to have a timeless, any-season appeal. Checks, plaids, sharp defined blocks of color, mosiac and tile patterns, diagonal criss-cross stripes, squares and circles — anything geometric, in fact, looks especially attractive in double-woven cotton.

A fabric with body and dimension of pattern, double-woven cotton is still light and comfortable. Because of this combination of qualities, it's extensively used for belted shirtdresses with full skirts, for coatdresses, jackets and dress combinations, and handsome coat and dress ensembles.

The color palette of double-woven leans to the any-season basics, like black and white, brown, beige, and white, or navy, red, and white.

Miss Garcia, Mr. Zamora Exchange Double Ring Vows In Snyder Church

Maria Belia Garcia and Alfredo Zamora Jr. were united in marriage in double ring services August 30 in Our Lady of Guadalupe Church. Rev. Father Herman Valladares officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Garcia and Mr. and Mrs. Alfredo Zamora.

Miss Lola Ayola played traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Arnulfo Garcia, the bride wore a floor-length sheath gown of white nylon illusion over satin with appliques of Chantilly lace and seed pearls. A matching detachable train was attached at the shoulders. A cluster of white nylon illusion leaves adorned with seed pearls held her veil. She carried an arrangement of white roses.

Mrs. Anita Valdez was matron of honor and Mrs. Tina Rios was bridesmaid. They wore lime green gowns of brocade taffeta fashioned with empire waists. Matching bows held their veils. Mrs. Valadez carried white roses and Mrs. Rios carried the white ribbon lasso bearing the couple's names in gold glitter, Miss Ofila Rios, maid of honor wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta fashioned as that of the other attendants. She carried white roses.

Josie Zamora, niece of the groom, was flower girl. She carried a basket holding 14 dimes presented to the couple by the groom's mother, originally presented to her on her wedding day 25 years ago, an old family tradition.

Salome Valadez served as best man and Asencion Rios was groomsman. Gordon Gonzales, nephew of the bride was ring bearer. He carried the rings on a heart shaped cushion trimmed with lace.

A reception was held at Guadalupe hall. Elida Garcia served cake and Lydia Gonzales served punch. Sue Garza, Eudelia Garcia, Eloisa Garcia and Olga Zamora completed the house party.

The couple are residing at 4807 Rieger Avenue, Dallas, following their honeymoon.

The groom is a 1965 graduate of Snyder High School. He attended an electronics school in Chicago prior to joining the army. He is a technician at Texas Institute of Electronics, where he is studying and working.

If Plants Yellow, May Need Iron

or outdoor plants are turning pale or yellowing, it's a good chance that the plant is deficent in iron. When the amount of iron available to plants does not meet their minimum needs, the plants fall into a diseased condition called iron chlorosis. It is due to the failure of chlorophyll (green coloring matter) to develop normally so that leaves cannot manufacture food needed for plant growth.

In deciduous or leaf-shedding plants, areas between the leaf veins become light green, yellow or white. The greater the iron deficiency, the paler the areas. The leaf veins ordinarily remain green but in very severe cases the edges of leaves — or entire leaves — turn brown and the plants often die. In conifers, needles turn yellow first, then brown if the deficency is severe.

Iron chlorosis most often occurs in soils that are high in lime. Thus it is more prevalent in the arid West than in the humid East since high-lime soils are found naturally in arid areas.

But iron chlorosis is not limited to naturally occurring high-lime soils. It may be caused by actual deficiency of iron or by application of excessive amounts of lime or phosphate to certain soils. It can be caused by over-irrigation, poor drainage, bicarbonate in the soil or in irrigation water and high levels of heavy metals in the soil such as manganese, copper, and zinc. House plants are particularly susceptible to iron chlorosis.

In studies conducted, iron chlorosis was found in more than 250 species and varieties of plants in western and southwestern states.

If over-irrigation or poor drainage is the possible cause of iron chlorosis, it should be corrected. Otherwise the easiest way is to supply the plant with horticultural iron concentrates such as non-toxic micronized iron that is found wherever garden supplies are sold.

This is a low-cost iron supplement that is merely added to the soil right out of the bag. The plant takes only as much iron as it needs and can use, so there's no danger of overfeeding for burning. Plants usually respond to this treatment in about seven days.

The "closed forest," a humid region that stretches from the barren coastal strip of Ghana far into the wooded Ashanti interior, holds one of the world's largest deposits of aluminum ore, or bauxite.

THE AMERICAN HERITAGE DICTIONARY OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE. Houghton Mifflin Co. and American Heritage Publishing Co. $7.95, $8.95 and $12.50.

A particularly exciting new dictionary has just gone on bookstore shelves. For brevity it probably will be called "American Heritage."

What makes this large, 155,000-word book one of very special note is its recognition that definition of a word is not sufficient in all instances.

After the definition of troublesome words is a paragraph on usage.

This reviewer, knowing a great many writers, finds that even professionals grow shaky when they face use of certain words. This new book should be a great comfort to a great many persons.

Efforts have been made to "fix the language" as the experts say. That means putting the language in a straitjacket so that if you know the rules you always will be correct.

But English seems to slip through all bonds as easily as a magician frees himself from a locked box.

Sometimes the language change goes too far. As one expert says, "illiteracy is no basis for linguistic evolution."

So there must be some language freedom within a framework of standard usage, definition and spelling.

To solve the problem, the editors of "American Heritage" organized a panel of 200 persons who write or speak or otherwise publicly use words daily.

But such is English that the panelists could not always agree. A group of the comments, not a part of the book, lists viewpoints which makes controversial and sometimes pungent reading.

Take the expression, "It's me." Purists insist the proper sentence is "It is I," or "It's I." Such is the changing language that "It's me" is acceptable and some experts say anything else is prissy.

Two words that grate on many nerves are "host" and "finalize" as verbs, as in "I will host the party and we will finalize the deal."

The usage panel voted 82 per cent against "host" and the surprise is that the opposition is not larger. Ninety per cent voted against "finalize" and some called it bureaucratic illiteracy.

To those who know little about grammar or word usage it will be a great comfort to know that many consider Shakespeare a very loose user of the language while admitting his genius.

Unless a writer has Shakespeare's genius, however, he would do well to study usage whether he is writing a school compostion or a novel.

Let there be no mistake. This is not a specialist's dictionary. It is simply an extension of other such books and contains all the standard dictionary information.

It goes two steps further, including the new language of the ghetto and confrontations as well as its passages on usage.

The publishers are convinced they have produced a superior book and it seems they are backing a good horse — The AP.

If you have leftover raw egg yolk (after using the whites), you can hard-cook them by simmering them in salted water for 10 minutes or so. The hard-cooked yolks may then be used in sandwich fillings or they may be sieved and used as a garnish.

Use a ¼-cup measure, from a fractional cup measure set, for pouring pancake batter onto the griddle. This way the pancakes will be of uniform size. And wait until underside is brown before flipping pancakes.

Women's Comments

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"It has been hectic, happy, interesting, sometimes strenuous, sometimes tiring, but never boring. No, never boring."—Mrs. Artur Rubinstein, reflecting on 37 years of marriage to the famed pianist.

"I'm living on hope and prayers."—Josephine Hoffa, wife of imprisoned Teamsters Union President James Hoffa whose case is to be reviewed before a parole board this month.

"I'm a firm believer in authority. I have a mind of my own, but why should I defy my elders just for the sake of defying them, if I know they're right."—Pamela Ann Eldred, the new Miss America, commenting on campus disorders.

"He did not fear death and now he is at peace."—Mrs. James A. Pike after the body of her husband, former Episcopal bishop, was found near the Dead Sea.

"I can never plan my life, and if I try to, it never works out."—British actress Maggie Smith, star of the film "The Prime of Miss Brodie."

"It's been hard getting over the obstacle of being Dionne's sister. People ask why I don't change my name. Not after all this time of singing. I'm not. It took Eva Gabor a long time, but she made it."—Singer Dee Dee Warwick, sister of famed singer Dionne.

Cook that custard mixture over simmering, not boiling, water if you want a very smooth result.

AFTER FOUR-YEAR ABSENCE

TV Doctors Are Returning

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The Bold Ones" has a permanent set which is a simulated hospital operating room but looks like an engineer's dream of a pilot's room of a someday spaceship.

James Daly, who plays the chief of staff in "Medical Center," often walks around murmuring words like "pheoeroma cytoma" so that they will slip fluently off his tongue.

Film crews from "Marcus Welby, M.D." turn up at hospitals throughout the Los Angeles area to shoot Robert Young with his little black bag going in and coming out.

At Universal and MGM studios a common sight is extras in hospital robes, wrapped in casts or swatched in bandages, killing time between scenes.

It seems like old times: the TV doctors are coming back after a four-year absence. Like "Dr. Kildare" and "Ben Casey" before them, the new season's doctor dramas will present members of the profession as dedicated, over-worked humanitarians.

There may be some duplication of diseases and disabilities, but each network series is tackling the healing profession from a different angle.

ABC's "Marcus Welby, M.D., will have a general practitioner, the fast-disappearing family doctor, as its hero.

CBS's "Medical Center" will present dramas of modern medicine in a university setting that permits a combination of human drama—the school's star athlete has a tumor: can he ever play again—and scientific research.

NBC, every third week, will explore in dramatic context the present and future advances of medicine and surgery in "The Bold Ones."

All three series have spun off two-hour TV pilots which have been broadcast. Not surprisingly, two of them were built around heart transplants, certainly the most dramatic surgical advance of the century.

"The Bold Ones" will specialize in stories that star scientific and surgical advances. There will be a story about repairing a damaged heart by removing it, correcting the trouble and then returning it. There is another about diagnosing and treating the illness of an astronaut 24,000 miles in space.

"Medical Center" will take some of its story lines right off the front pages. One concerns the "battered baby syndrome," about parents who beat their helpless infants.

"Marcus Welby, M.D.," will have some stories in which he serves as an understanding family councillor, but will be a catalyst in others where the services of a specialist are required. One of the episodes concerns an adoption that fell through, another about reaching a withdrawn child.

Presumably the nation's physicians are pleased that the new series will make medicine a glamorous and selfless profession. There may be, however, a return to some grumbling of the type encountered during the five years of Dr. Kildare and the three of Dr. Casey. The series gave suggestible patients ideas.

Doctors reported that it was important to check on the weekly diseases and operations in Kildare and Casey because patients, particularly the hypochondriacs, arrived at their offices with symptoms, and suggestions for treatment. Hematoma became a house word. Some patients wondered why their doctors didn't act like the handsome men on their small screens—or prescribe the same cures.

With the current emphasis on the paraphernalia of modern medicine, it probably won't be long before the public speaks with familiarity of heart-lung machines, parameters and surgical consoles.

"The Bold Ones," particularly, will costar machines. It has the services of a biotechnologist who has designed operating rooms. The show's operating room is equipped with meticulous reproductions of the very latest machines, including computers and television screens. "Medical Center" has acquired a huge X-ray machine, complete with everything except the tube.

"Marcus Welby, M.D." has the incidental but avowed purpose of helping promote the status of family physician to a specialty with a specialist's accreditation. It also has made arrangements with the American Academy of General Practice to send to its membership in advance synopses of its story lines.

A return to the life-death drama of the hospital and sick room is logical enough at a time when the more artificial excitements of the Western and the private eye are out of favor. There may be some question whether the public will find dramatic treatment of ailments of the heart, kidneys, lungs and accident cases entertaining or, perish the thought, scary and depressing.

TEL AVIV (AP) — Pretty Israeli girls in this nation's conscript army are involved in a major conflict—the skirt war.

The army lays it down firmly that skirts must be NO shorter than 3 centimeter (just over one inch) above the knee.

But most girls hoist their skirts a good deal higher than that.

Occasionally the Army clamps down in what it calls "operation uniform" in which military policemen and women scour the streets for offenders.

Soldiers with side-burns are told to shave them off, and girls with too-short skirts are ordered to lower their hems.

The up-and-down ruckus was highlighted recently when a military policeman who posed for a press photographer taking the measurements of a girl soldier's skirt was sentenced to 35 days' detention.

The penalty drew angry protest letters in Israeli newspapers.

"Where is the justice? Why the policeman—why not the photographer?" said one letter-writer.

"What's so terrible about a well shaped knee, even if it is a uniformed one?" said another.

The problem occurs—and many wouldn't really call it a problem—with the new mini-skirt fashion that virtually every Tel Aviv girl has adopted.

An average skirt on a young girl hovers around six inches above her knee.

And when Miss Israel is called up at the age of 18 she reacts pretty sharply to covering so much.

"This is a modern army—we should have modern skirts," was how one young army girl put it.

Otherwise the girls regard their uniforms as quite snappy—buff-colored lightweight skirts and shirts or shirt-tunics with black, blue or red-colored air hostess type hats.

Although the girls are given weapons training they are not called on to fire a gun, filling the jobs of telephonists, secretaries and other army clerical duties.

But it's difficult to keep the girls from the action and they showed what they could do recently when a bevy of them took part in a parachute-jumping display off the Tel Aviv sea front.

The girls, mostly wearing bathing costumes, plopped happily in the sea.

They work as parachute packers and were given the opportunity to take part as a favor.

Apart from the skirt length, most girls are keen to do their 18-month service for their embattled country.

"If you don't serve in the army you feel you've missed something—your friends look down on you," said one attractive 17-year-old.

"I'm looking forward to my service. I want to be an officer—the uniform is better," she said.

It all comes back to clothes in the end.

Alaska Withholding Judgment On Bids

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Alaska is withholding judgment on 15 bids, but it has accepted 152 totaling almost $862.3 million from its oil lease sale, a state official says.

Thomas Kelly, commissioner of natural resources, said the 15 on which judgment was delayed amount to $37.9 million.

The state sold 179 tracts in the oil-rich arctic Wednesday for $900,220,590 in apparent high bids. But the state withheld final acceptance until it could compare the bids with estimates of the value of each tract and also check the validity of each bid.

Crusading Workshops Developed

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) —The U.S. Congress on Evangelism has developed do-it-yourself workshops in search of grassroots crusading.

The congress of 5,000 Protestant denominations closes tonight after one week of speeches, papers and shared ideas designed to modernize soul-winning and launch a spiritual revival across the nation.

The ideas were swapped in 46 "Church in Action" workshops. Participants got the chance for two hours each afternoon to see and hear what evangelical specialists of other denominations are doing on the parish and local levels.

"The people running the demonstration sessions are not here to sell their own programs," said the Rev. Paul P. Fryhling, a Covenant Church pastor in Minneapolis and a congress executive.

"We want their methodology," he said. "This has been the heart of the congress—examination by the delegates of successful evangelistic programs."

The workshops dealt with topics including leisure, evangelism, family life, young adults, hippies, drug adicts, and college campuses.

The congress, first ever held in the United States across denominational lines, was organized with a budget of $300,000—largely met through a lump fee of $50 per participant or $10 daily for anyone who wanted to attend part of the week.

Several thousand teen-agers jammed into a city stadium Friday night for a musical "Turn-on for Youth" at which singer Pat Boone, who belongs to the evangelical Churches of Christ, was the star attraction. Singing was mixed with soft-sell testimonies and witnessing. A thousand young people were turned away because the arena was filled to capacity.

A final public rally in a larger stadium tonight will close the congress, with Billy Graham the main preacher.

Letters To Editor

To The Daily News:

In this article I would like to express my sincere thoughts of the student today. Parents send their children to school to learn to grow up and be civil people. In the schools today the boy cannot wear sideburnes to their choise. If they have them any length at all they are told to shave them off... Yet the girls goes to school with mini-skirts so short its disgraseful.

Referring back into history think of how Grant, Washington and Lincoln grew beards and sideburnes yet today we're told how we should show our respect for them because of their achivements.

A child is sent to school to learn how to read, write, add, subtract, etc. . . Their not sent to learn how to comb their hair, or whether or not to grow sideburns.

For my personal opinion if a boy is sent to school for nothing else, they can go to learn how to protest, burn, loot, or take over buildings sponsored by the state.

Men are fighting and dying every day for our countries freedom, WHAT FREEDOM!!

That is one reason why there is one boy less in Snyder High School today.

Tornadoes Edge Tigers, 7-6

Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes won for both 3-AAA teams here Friday night. The Tor defense, led by mid-dle linebacker Cecil Davis, shaded Snyder's Tigers 7-6 in a tight defensive battle that inaugurated the 1969 football sea-son for both teams.

The Tors only touchdown came on a blocked punt, and they used their speed and stamina to good advantage to thwart a fourth period drive by the Tigers to preserve the victory.

GOOD GAIN — Snyder split end Merce Hernandez (80) caught two fourth quarter passes that swept the Tigers from their 48 into Lamesa territory at the 29. Here, he nears the end of an 8-yard gain after the second reception. The Tigers moved inside the 20, but the Tornadoes held on for a 7-6 victory. Closing in on Merce are Tornadoes Gene Tutle (20), Jerry Beaty (22) and Ronald Hester (30).

Carroll Paulk, big Tornado senior right end, crashed through to block a punt at the Snyder 35 midway in the third period after both teams battled to a 0-0 stalemate in the first half, and the Tors spanned the distance to the goal in nine plays. The payoff was a 4-yard thrust by senior wingback Ronald Hester. Big tackle Lynn Bilberry kicked accurately from placement for the important extra point.

Snyder took the ensuing kickoff and drove 62 yards in four plays following a 15-yard runback by Willis Harrison, senior Tiger halfback. Two passes put the Bengals in scoring position. Senior quarterback Lee McNair lofted a long one to split end Merce Hernandez, who leaped high in traffic to make the first reception at the Tor 25. Then, McNair tossed a screen pass to halfback Randy Levens, who fought his way to the 13. A 5-yard penalty and a fullback plunge by Eddie McClain netted eight more yards, and Willis Harrison went wide right from the five for the touchdown. A fumble wiped out the extra point attempt.

Mistakes hurt the Tiger cause. Striving valiantly to wrest victory from the Tornadoes, Snyder dominated the action in the final quarter and thrust into enemy territory three times. A bad snapback from center and a penalty blunted the first two drives, and stout defensive play by Lamesa halted the last one.

On the last drive, the Tigers moved from their 48 to the Lamesa 29 on two completitions, McNair to Hernandez, and two successive five-yard penalties put them just inside the 20 with a couple of minutes remaining. However, a run play lost a couple and two incompletions left the Tigers facing fourth and 12 from the 22.

Larry Wall attempted to kick a field goal from the 28, but the kick was short, and Lamesa took over and ran out the clock.

Both teams struggled with determination, and the closeness of the skirmish is reflected in the score. Snyder made a magnificent goal line stand early in the second quarter, after Lamesa had swept from its 37 to the Tiger five in the first quarter, mostly on the running of Aaron Manuel and Bennie Williams.

A quick opener by Manuel set up first and goal from the three. A five-yard penalty pushed Lamesa back to the eight, then quarterback Brent Minnix was stopped for no gain and a pass fell incomplete to set up third down. On the crucial third down play, Minnix kept and went wide left, but he was smashed down out of bounds by Hernandez and linebackers Delbert Hirst and Ricky Glasscock. Bilberry missed a field goal attempt on fourth down. McClain also turned in some key defensive plays earlier in the drive, coming up quick from the middle linebacker post to make several tackles.

Snyder took over at the 20, and drove to the Lamesa 15, but a clipping penalty and a loss moved the Tigers back in to their own territory and halted the threat.

Until the penalty, Snyder had taken command of the game. McClain went up the middle for three from the 20, and Levens shot over right tackle for 10 more to the 33. Then McNair passed to Hernandez for a first at the Tiger 48. Levens and McClain alternated carries, getting into Tornado territory at the 46. Levens then swept right end to the 37, and McNair hit Harrison with a flare out pass to the left, and the quick halfback fought to the 15. However, the penalty occurred on this play and moved the Tigers back to their 40, and a loss ended the threat.

More experience and depth in the defensive line helped Lamesa maintain their one - point margin. Although the visitors may have held a slight edge in defense, Snyder held the upperhand in offense, outgoing its foe 206 yards to 133 in total offense. Snyder chalked up 14 first downs compared with eight for Lamesa. McNair completed 9 of 21 passes for 149 yards. Both teams had superb punting with Stewart Sims averaging 32 yards, including the punt that was blocked.

GiantCoachSherman Gets Walking Papers

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The once-proud New York Giants began a new chapter in their football lives today with old workhorse Alex Webster taking over as head coach from the fired Allie Sherman.

Sherman was dismissed and Webster named to replace him late Friday.

Sherman's firing came less than 24 hours after the Giants had absorbed their fifth exhibition loss in as many tests, a 17-13 licking Thursday night by the Pittsburgh Steelers at Montreal.

Webster, 38, had served as offensive coach for the past two seasons under Sherman after an illustrious 10-year National Football League career as a running back with the Giants. He was a star during the years the Giants reached their loftiest heights under Sherman.

Webster still holds three records as a Giant. He ran with the ball 1,213 times, gained 4,805 yards rushing and scored 39 touchdowns by rushing.

The new coach was extremely optimistic about the Giants' future, meaning the current season.

Admitting he was surprised when told he would be the new coach, Webster made this prediction:

"I think we can finish with a 10-4 record this season, and if we do, we'll win our division. I mean it."

This year's Giants games have been punctuated by choruses of "Goodbye Allie," organization of "Goodbye Allie" clubs throughout the city and letters of protests from fans to the Giants' management.

The die-hard Giant fans' campaign to get rid of Sherman, who guided the club to three Eastern Division NFL titles during his eight season, reached cloudburst status Aug. 17.

That was the Sunday Sherman's charges lost to the other New York pro team, the Joe Namath-led American League Jets 37-14 at New Haven, Conn.

During his eight seasons, Sherman coached the Giants to 57 victories, 51 defeats and four ties. He was named NFL coach of the year in 1961 and 1962.

As head coach, Webster gets his baptism Sept. 21 against the Minnesota Vikings at Yankee Stadium.

Ken Blames Alarm Clock

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP)—Ken Harrelson plans a special ceremony for his alarmless alarm clock when he gets back to his penthouse apartment in Cleveland.

"I'm going to open my 30th floor window and give that clock a real ride, all the way down," Harrelson said. "That blankety-blank clock has got to go. It's too expensive."

Harrelson announced plans for the drop-out party after blaming the clock for his missing the team plane to Baltimore Friday, and a resulting stiff fine which followed.

"The fine was in three figures—a healthy three figures," Harrelson said of the mid-month payroll deduction ordered by Manager Alvin Dark.

Batting only .220, as compared with his .275 average of last season, Harrelson said of the fine: "It was more than I'm hitting."

"I went to bed early Thursday to get a good night's sleep," the Hawk said seemingly bemused at listening to his own tale. "I set the alarm for 10:30, and then it didn't go off.

'Dogs Roll Over Cards

HERMLEIGH — The high-scoring Loraine Bulldogs spoiled the host Cardinals season-opener here Friday night with a 48-22 decision in an eleven-man, Class B football tussle.

Ronald Jones and Tim Hamilton each tallied three touchdowns to pace the Bulldog attack. Hamilton dove across from the one in the first quarter, and Jones scored on gallops of four and 64 yards in the same period.

In the second period, Jones sprinted 67 yards for another touchdown, and Hamilton scored again in the second half on runs of seven and six yards. Each boy ran across for two extra points following touch-downs.

The other Loraine touchdown resulted from a two - yard plunge by Robert Finley.

The Cardinals also generated a lot of offense with quarterback Tommy Vineyard passing 25-yards to end Bruce Hess for one touchdown and running two yards for another one. Randy Roemisch capped a long drive with a one-yard run, and he and Hector del Toro ran across conversion points.

Hermleigh has an open date this week.

Gail Rips Bula 40-14

GAIL — The Borden County Coyotes were the only Scurry County football team to open the new season on a happy note, They trounced Bula's Bulldogs 40-14 here Friday night in an Eight-Man clash.

Gail coach Bob Dyess, in his first season at the Coyote helm, was pleased by the hard-hitting line and the offensive heroics of quarterback Rick Hendley, speedy halfback Charles Billeck and hard - driving back Joe Pat Harding. Harding punctured the Bulldog goal thrice while Hendley accounted for two TD's and Billeck posted one. Harding and Hendley added the extra points.

Tom Newton and Ron Risinger tallied for Bula, and Newton added a couple of extra points.

Borden County will be at Threeway next Friday night.

Ira Falls At Mertzon

MERTON — Host Mertzon over - powered Ira's Bulldogs 26-6 here Friday night in a Six-Man football contest that opened the season for both teams.

The hosts took an 8-0 lead in the first quarter, scoring the first touchdown on a short run that was set up by a long pass. They added touchdowns in the second period on another short gallop and a long aerial to take a 20-0 margin into the dressing room at halftime.

A steady drive overland in the third period propelled Mertzon into a 26-0 lead, but the hosts had to keep most of their front-line defenders in the affray when Ira fought back gamely in the fourth quarter and hammered at the goal several times.

Ira got its touchdown on a long, sustained drive caped by a 2-yard plunge by halfback Billy Payne. The Bulldogs penetrated the 5-yard line three more times in the last stanza, but just couldn't muster a scoring punch near the goal.

The Ira defensive line was weakened by several injuries. Mertzon also looked sharp on pass defense, once swiping a pass in the end zone to halt a drive.

The Bulldogs host Miles next Friday night.

Orioles Clinch Tie For East Pennant

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ken Harrelson may have known something when he missed his plane in Cleveland. He didn't want to get wiped out by Dave Johnson.

Eddie Leon and Mike Paul weren't so lucky. Johnson, the Baltimore second baseman, put them out of commission with two swings of his bat in the fourth inning Friday night.

Then, in the sixth, he cracked the single that gave the Orioles a 2-1 victory over the Indians and enabled them to clinch at least a tie for the pennant in the American League East. The Orioles can clinch it today by winning or if the defending world champion Detroit Tigers lose.

The Tigers bowed to Washington 4-3 Friday night and trail the Orioles by 17½ games. Elsewhere, Minnesota remained 8½ games ahead of Oakland in the AL West by blanking Kansas City 3-0 while the Athletics trounced the Chicago White Sox 12-4. Boston nipped the New York Yankees 4-3 after losing the opener of their twi-nighter 5-3 and Seattle defeated California 4-1 before the nightcap was called as a 1-1 tie after 9½ innings when rain made the field unplayable.

In the National League, the New York Mets swept Pittsburgh by 1-0 scores, Atlanta nipped Houston 4-3, San Francisco stopped Cincinnati 1-0 on Juan Marichal's one-hitter, Los Angeles topped San Diego 5-3, the Chicago Cubs whipped St. Louis 5-1 and Montreal shut out Philadelphia 4-0.

Harrelson, the Hawk of Cleveland, flapped into Baltimore several hours after the rest of the Indians and was hit with a stiff fine by manager Alvin Dark.

"The fine was in three figures —a healthy three figures. It was more than I'm hitting," disclosed Harrelson, whose batting average is a meager .220.

The Hawk said his alarm clock, set for 10:30 a.m., didn't go off and he awoke at 11:55, 35 minutes before take off time.

"It takes only 20 minutes to get to the airport from my apartment," Harrelson said. "But I wasn't even packed. The only way I could have made it would be to put a bathrobe over my pajamas and pull on my cowboy boots."

Harrelson wasn't in the starting line-up—"He has been swinging the bat a little slow," said Dark—but got in as a pinch hitter in the eighth inning and flied out. By that time, Johnson had wreaked his damage on the Indians.

It started in the fourth. First, shortstop Leon crashed into the stands chasing Johnson's pop foul and went to the hospital with a bruised left kneecap. Next, Johnson cracked a one-hopper back to the mound and it hit pitcher Mike Paul in the nose. Paul was stretchered off and hospitalized with a broken nose.

Johnson struck again in the sixth—legitimately. The Orioles had tied the score on a walk and singles by Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson. Johnson singled Powell across with the winning run.

Del Unser figured in three run-scoring innings with three singles and Casey Cox won his 12th game as Washington held off Detroit. Jim Northrup homered for the Tigers.

Minnesota veteran Jim Perry matched his previous high win total—18 for Cleveland in 1960—and blanked Kansas City on five hits. Cesar Tovar and Bob Allison homered for the Twins.

A seven-run fifth inning, featuring a three-run homer by Sal Bando and a two-run shot by Dick Green, powered Oakland past Chicago. Tito Francona had three doubles and two singles for the A's, who then heard owner Charles O. Finley tell them they have the talent and plenty of time to overhaul the Twins.

"I told them not to give up because we still have a great chance," said Finley. Don't bet the family jewels on it, because if the Twins win 11 of their remaining 19 games, the A's must win all 20 of theirs—to tie.

Ken Brett, a rookie pitcher, hammered his first major league homer, a double and single, driving in three runs and posting his first big league triumph in Boston's second-game win over the Yankees. Jerry Kenney and Bobby Murcer homered as the Yanks won the opener behind Al Downing and Murcer added two more in the nightcap, giving him 26 for the season.

Tommy Harper stole his 68th, 69th and 70th bases, most in the AL in 53 years, as Seattle won its opener. George Brunet and Wayne Comer homered for the Pilots. The nightcap will be replayed tonight as part of another twi-nighter.

Austin Duo Takes Over At Odessa

By MIKE COCHRAN

ODESSA, Tex. (AP)—A touring pro stricken with a virus and an amateur who says he's "over the hill" led by a stroke today as the third round opened in the $35,000 Odessa Pro-Am.

Veteran Terry Dill and Austin attorney Bill Penn moved down the stretch with a 36-hole total of 128, 16 under par over the 6,600-yard Odessa Country Club course.

The Austin combo fashioned a second straight 64 Friday and jumped ahead by a stroke over rookie pro Rik Massengale of Jacksboro, Tex., and University of Georgia ace Allen Miller.

"I'm going right home now and go to bed," said Dill, the former kingpin of Mnleshoe, Tex., who could add only two birdies to the six that Penn contributed in the drive into first place.

He said he was suffering from a virus but did not tell his partner because "I didn't want to put the pressure on him."

Penn, who missed a hole-in-one by an inch, claimed at 37 "I'm over the hill."

Matadors, Dunbar Are Impressive

Although there were no conference games, District 3-AAA football teams mostly picked on each other to open the season Friday night.

The exception was Levelland which trounced Olton, 19-7. Defending State Champion Lubbock Estacado started pretty well as expected by bouncing Brownfield, 50-0, and Lubbock Dunbar showed power by whipping Littlefield, 55-0. The Snyder - Lamesa and Sweetwater-Colorado City games were virtual standoffs with Lamesa winning 7-6 and Sweetwater edging the Wolves, 27-26.

San Angelo Lake View and Slaton were to tangle Saturday night at San Angelo in their season openers.

Since the 11-team district has been zoned, league games will not begin until mid - October.

Lueders Hits Hobbs, 26-7

LUEDERS — Halfback Gary Harvey led the host Raiders to a 26-7 triumph over Hobbs' Panthers in a Six-Man gridiron clash here Friday night.

Harvey got loose on touchdown runs of 2 and 60 yards in the second half, and he caught a 31-yard scoring pass from quarterback Junior Barnes. He also kicked successfully once from placement.

David Hager intercepted a Hobbs' aerial and returned it 50 yards for the other Lueders touchdown.

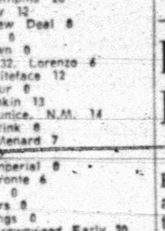

Hobbs will be at O'Brien next Friday night.

Giant Conglomerates Are Targets Of Administration

By STERLING GREEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has mounted the biggest and broadest antitrust crackdown since Franklin D. Roosvelt's New Deal, cheered on by both Big Business and Big Labor.

The cooperation of Big Business is unprecedented, but hardly surprising.

Major targets of the new trustbusting era are the brassy, pushing johnny-come-latelies of industry, the giant conglomerates.

These are lying low until the heat is off. A leading merger matchmaker, Robert Baron of Philadelphia's Baron & Co., Inc., told The Associated Press:

"Our big buyers of companies are telling us: 'Don't do anything right now. We want to see what happens in Washington.'"

The merger business is still booming, said Baron, whose confidential files list 600 companies willing to be sold and five or six times that many prospective buyers.

"The smaller corporations, those in the $10 to $100 million class, are going right ahead merging and acquiring without any trouble from the Justice Department," he said. "The big ones are keeping their heads down."

Well they may. President Nixon's antitrust chief, Assistant Attorney General Richard W. McLaren, has filed antimonopoly suits against some of the biggest conglomerates. His boss, Attorney General John N. Mitchell, has warned that the Justice Department "may very well oppose any merger among the top 200 manufacturing firms or firms of comparable size in other industries."

McLaren predicts that if the Supreme Court does not uphold his cases against the conglomerates, Congress wil be obliged to enact a "death sentence" law, presumably one similar to what which forced the dismantling of some vast utility holding companies built in the 1920s.

The AFL-CIO relishes this tough talk. Big Labor shares with the business Establishment a strong distaste for the giant conglomerates and has supported tax reform bills to curb their growth.

Big, multicompany corporations dilute a union's bargaining power. A strike doesn't hurt as much if a struck firm represents only a fifth or a tenth of a corporation's profits.

The merger movement that began in 1965 is by far the greatest and longest of the three merger waves of the past century. Last year there were ten times as many mergers as in 1960. Bigger and bigger companies have been taken over, willingly or otherwise.

Conglomerate mergers, uniting firms in unrelated industries, were relatively rare two decades ago but today they are an overwhelming majority of all mergers. Some have predicted that a mere 200 giant corporations will be making all major economic decisions within 10 years. Conglomerate leaders deny this trend toward economic concentration.

Now the conglomerators—who have raided and captured many a stately citadel of industry—are being heavily rocked by a counterassault from the Justice Department, Congress, and more than a dozen departments, agencies, special task forces and investigating committees.

Nobody loves the conglomerates any more, it would seem except the investing public, and even the investors have proved a bit fickle. Washington's chill blasts frightened investors into unloading conglomerate stocks, causing a $5 billion loss in two months market value of major conglomerate shares.

That further depressed merger activity, because conglomerates like to acquire companies by noncash swaps of stock and other securities. When their stocks are skidding in price it is harder to make a deal. The recent general slump in the market has been a further deterrent to mating activity.

McLaren is plainly pleased with the deterrent effect of his anti-trust suits, but reportedly is disappointed at his lack of opportunity to kill some mergers in court before they are consummated. Each time his men get ready to file complaints the merging couple has called off the marriage to avoid the courts.

The biggest of McLaren's cases, that against Ling-Temco-Vought was handpicked for maximum chance of victory, but it came late. L-T-V—the biggest of the conglomerates, acquirer of 33 corporations in 80 lines of commerce, already owns most of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., sixth biggest steelmaker, the target of the takeover which McLaren has challenged.

McLaren denied accusations that the Nixon administration is trying to protect entrenched interests' against the conglomerate raiders.

Representatives of Pan American Airways, B. F. Goodrich Co., and other blue-ribbon corporations ran to Washington for help when the conglomerates ambushed them, but McLaren pointed out:

"We've filed more cases by far against the made-in-heaven kind of corporate marriages than we have against the takeover. In fact, the action against Northwest Industries Inc. in May, to block the attempted capture of Goodrich was the first takeover case we've gone after.

"Some of the conglomerate people have said we're cracking down only on companies controlled by Democrats, for the benefit of old line Republican companies.

"That's just silly. I don't know who owns these companies."

There's no doubt that the go-signal for a massive, government-wide attack was flashed by the White House.

It may have been signaled when McLaren got the green light to throw Justice Department policy into reverse. His predecessors believed that conglomerate mergers couldn't be reached by the Clayton Antitrust Act. McLaren thought they could, and lit the fuse that started a legal and legislative bombardment. These were among the bombshells:

—The Federal Trade Commission, which shares antitrust enforcement responsibility with McLaren, shook off two years of lethargy to file four major antitrust cases in rapid-fire order.

—Almost the whole alphabet of regulatory agencies—CAB, ICC, FPC and FCC—launched special inquiries into the conglomerate threat to the industry structures they keep watch over. One result: A bill to require government approval of any airline takeover.

—The SEC (Securities and Exchange Commission) is studying tougher proxy and registration rules. The aim is to discourage possible fraud and deception of investors when a conglomerate makes a "tender offer"—an open bid for stock control of a firm that doesn't want to be gobbled up.

Junior Editors Quiz on ELECTRICITY

QUESTION: How does electricity get into a lamp socket?

* * *

ANSWER: In electricity, opposite poles attract each other. Picture (1) shows an empty lamp socket. Two wires from opposite poles of the power source come through the bottom; one — we call it pole (A) — connects with the screw top of the socket; the other — pole (B) — connects with a metal plate inside the socket. These two connections do not touch. Notice that the light bulb in (2) also has a pole (A) and a pole (B). When you screw the bulb into the socket far enough, the two pole (A's) connect and so do the pole (B's). The current runs up a delicate wire inside the bulb, which is connected by a fine filament to the other side. The current runs across the filament and down the other wire; now everything is connected and a circuit is established. The filament tries to resist the current — gets white hot doing so, and makes the bulb glow with light (3). If you put your finger in an empty socket, your finger would connect poles (A) and (B). Instead of cheerful light, you'd get a nasty shock. It's dangerous — don't try it!

"TAKE my HAND"

"Take My Hand, Daddy!" has been the age-old cry of children the world over. They were looking for security and protection. Somehow that big hand around their small one gave a thousand times more reassurance than all the words in the world could give.

Yes, the outstretched hand from child to dad is a simple gesture of surrender meaning, "I am giving my life to you because I trust you and know you will protect me." From Dad to child, it is a gesture of love which means, "I am here and will shield you. Just hold on tight."

Unfortunately, children grow up and no longer need the outstretched hand. But no one grows so big that they no longer need the nail-scared hand. When the outstretched hand is the nail-scared hand we should never let it go. It is the best kind of security . . . the devine security, born out of perfect love. We may no longer need to say, "Take My Hand Daddy," but we will always need to say, "Take My Hand, Father."

CAREER CORNER

By F. J. LAIN

"I'm told club management is an interesting field with good potential for qualified mature men and women, as well as younger people. For example, a Hungarian friend who has spent most of his life in diplomatic service found his second career in a small Illinois town. As a result of years of embassy entertaining, he and his wife are quite knowledgeable about food and beverage service, and together they operate the town's country club. Both say they've found a happy home, but I can't help wondering if this isn't a job where you have to toady to others too much. Care to comment?"

A. — Yes, I have heard the occupation of club manager knocked as really being that of a glorified butler. Perhaps so, in a limited number of situations. As one top club manager explained, the status question crops up most in certain middle-size clubs whose socially insecure members are on their way up but haven't quite arrived. However, in the majority of clubs, the manager is a business executive who enjoys the same degree of esteem as other kinds of managers.

FACADE FOLLY. Because of the pleasant work surroundings and affable types that club management attracts, it may seem like a paid holiday to outsiders — "golf when you like, invite the family for a swim." Wrong! It's a job and should be viewed as such. In fact, some managers are responsible for larger dollar volumes than many businesses.

MEMBERSHIP ROSTER. Some 5500 establishments comprise the private club industry; these include country clubs, athletic clubs, town and luncheon clubs, university clubs and a host of others associated with specific industries, societies, professions and sports. An expanding type of social club are those created as part of the package in residential land development and large apartment complexes. Not included in this industry are key clubs, local night clubs or commercial health clubs.

Clubs that cater to the Big Rich open infrequently, but new ones for the middle income society are blossoming at the rate of about 200 each year.

BON VIVANT-ISM. Managers' duties are diversified, ranging from part-time one-man operations to immense club organizations with as many as 25 separate departments. Important qualifications: a working knowledge of food and beverage service; skill in personnel, financial and property management; a likable personality; enjoy working with people, both accepting supervision and supervising others; creativity to suggest ideas for parties, athletic events, clubhouse activities, etc.; perseverance; and a sense of humor. Velvet-glove tact is useful too, because managers are accountable to the club's board of directors who may know frustratingly little about operating the club's business.

EARNINGS. It's a good paying field but some clubs are weak on retirement benefits. A 1969 survey by the Club Managers Association of America (CMAA) shows managers make about $15,000 up; assistant managers, $10-15,000; and supervisory level employees, $8-12,000. Of course, it varies widely from club to club.

THE FIELD IS OPEN and well suited to women. Although there's a current shortage of qualified managers, the number of annual job openings is expected to increase only slightly in the next decade, and most vacancies will arise from replacement needs. Security depends on the individual manager; in former years, it was not unusual for a club to promote an untrained person from the ranks and personnel turnover was high. The picture is changing.

PREPARATION. A college degree is not required, but advancement may be more rapid and earnings higher. However, experience and skills are necessary even with a degree. A high school graduate with industry training — perhaps acquired through special courses or hotel-restaurant experience, can go far. With adequate background, you can start as an assistant manager. A profile of Certified Club Managers (professional recognition) defines the average age as 49, the average education as 14 years, and 40 per cent have a college degree.

ADVANCEMENT is in more salary or to a larger club. Some managers later open their own restaurants or other businesses.

MORE INFORMATION is contained in a fall CMAA booklet, "Club Management, A Path To A Rewarding Future." This is now being printed, and will be mailed as soon as it's available to readers who send me a postcard in care of this newspaper.

HUMOR AT THE LAUNCH PAD — Apollo 12 astronauts Alan L. Bean, Richard F. Gordon, Jr., and Charles "Pete" Conrad, (left to right) joke with newsmen as their Saturn 5 moon rocket rolls to the launch pad at Cape Kennedy, Fla. They are to be launched Nov. 14, with Conrad and Bean scheduled to land on the moon's Ocean of Storms Nov. 19. Astronauts reported they are ready to go and wished the launch were sooner. Pete Snyder Descendant Due For Ranchers' Day

By EMPRESS McFARLAND

One of the honored guests expected here for the Ranchers' Day celebration Sept. 20 will be Varn Snyder, Luna, N. M., a descendant of William Henry (Pete) Snyder, the Dutchman who came here 91 years ago and set up a trading post on the banks of Deep Creek. It was after Pete Snyder that this town was named.

Born in 1837 in Pennsylvania, Snyder was a veteran of the Union Army. In 1863, after his discharge, he bought mules and wagons to make his trip to the west. Despite many skirmishes with the Indians, he arrived in Scurry County and opened a trading camp. The location of the store is believed to have been where the Elite Beauty Salon now stands.

Since there were no houses in existence in this area, Snyder dug a cave in the banks of Deep Creek, above the high water marks. He purchased a buffalo hide for a door and set up housekeeping. A drawing of his dugout is on the front of the invitations being sent out for the Ranchers' Day celebration. The illustration was done by a local artist, Mrs. Gene Dulaney.

Snyder hauled lumber and goods on a wagon from Dallas. He cut poles and secured buffalo hides for the sides of his store. The only merchandise he started business with was said to be a few cans of Bull Durham tobacco, a few hatchets and some guns he treasured.

The first customers to come to the trading post were curious men who had buffalo hides to trade. J. Wright Mooar, who was the first white man to come here, sold hides to Snyder.

When business here became profitable, other persons began moving in and building around Pete's trading post. Before long, the town of Snyder was well established.

From here, Snyder moved to Colorado City in 1881 and established another business. At that time, Colorado City was a booming little town on the new Texas and Pacific Railway.

In 1899, Pete went from Colorado City to Dunn and began ranching. He bought six sections of land in that area. Not satisfied with cattle raising, he decided to try another business.

He next began to buy oxen and haul hides for Mooar and others who came to him. He also rigged up freight teams and began hauling government freight between Denison and San Angelo.

Snyder married Miss Nellie Farclough, a native of New York, in 1883. The Snyders lived in Colorado City the remainder of their lives. Snyder died in 1916 and was buried in Colorado City.

Two Texans On Latest Casualty List

WASHINGTON (AP) — The names of 27 men killed in action are on the latest Defense Department casualty list from the war in Vietnam.

Included were two Texans: Army Spec. 4 Richard R. Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert L. Hughes, Box 600, Rural Route 2, Denton; Pfc. Robert E. Ahlstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Ahlstrom, 503 Rittiman Road, San Antonio.

Died not as a result of hostile action:

Marine Corps Lance Cpl. Julian Escobedo, son of Julian G. Escobedo, 4226 Eldridge St., San Antonio.

Mooar Will Be Remembered Here On Ranchers' Day

A man certainly to be remembered at the Ranchers' Day celebration here Sept. 20 will be J. Wright Mooar, who has been said to have made the first wagon tracks in this county.

Heirs of Mooar still own some of the property on which he settled in the late 1880s. Mrs. S. D. Hays, Sr., Mooar's granddaughter, and her family are expected to participate in the Snyder gathering.

Born in Vermont in 1851, Mooar was the son of a sawmill operator. At the age of 18, Mooar went to Michigan to live with an uncle. For the next few years he worked in Illinois, Kansas and Vermont.

Mooar's life as a buffalo hunter began in Kansas. After hearing of buffalo hunting, Mooar began saving his money so he could go into the business. He, along with his party of six others, killed buffalo and shipped the meat to Kansas City and Illinois. Only the hindquarters of the buffalo was used for meat. The forequarters and hide were left where the animals were shot.

It was in 1871 that the buffalo hide became valuable. A hide dealer in Leavenworth, Kan., bought 500 hides from Mooar to be sent to English tanners for experimental purposes.

The 57 hides which Mooar had left were sent to his brother, John W., in New York City. The brother sold the hides to a Pennsylvania man for $3.50 a hide. After experimenting with the hides, the tanner and his firm ordered 2,000 more, beginning the greatest buffalo slaughter in the country.

At this time, John joined his brother, and the two went into business together. J. Wright killed the animals and his brother did the marketing. In 1875, Mooar and his party made their way from Kansas to Denison, Tex. They later hunted as far as Haskell County and established a camp there.

In October of 1876, the Mooar brothers came as far as Scurry County. The first day they were here, J. Wright killed a white buffalo just a few hundred yards below their camp. The site is thought to have been in the vicinity of what is now Dermott. The hide from the white buffalo was sent to Dodge City and made into a robe.

The following year the Mooar brothers bought a herd of cattle and kept it in Fisher County. They built the first house in that county.

For the next two years the brothers continued to hunt buffalo in this region. In 1878, J. Wright was in the freight business in Arizona. During this time, John was cutting hay in Howard County and selling it to workers on the Texas and Pacific Railway to feed their animals.

The Mooar brothers went to Colorado City in 1881 and entered the livery business. They bought a ranch in Scurry County, just west of Snyder, in 1883.

On April 3, 1897, J. Wright married Mrs. Julia Swartz of Colorado City.

Mooar died in 1940 and is buried in the Snyder Cemetery, alongside his wife, who died in 1921.

Fish Dying From Oxygen Depletion

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Thousands of striped bass, smelt and perch have died in Berkeley's Marina, a mile-long shallow waterway east of Eastshore Freeway, during the past five days, city officials report.

Robert Castell, supervising sanitarian for the Berkeley Health Department, said preliminary tests show the kill was caused by oxygen depletion in the water.

He said duck wood and algae are dying out and the fish are suffocating.

The Berkeley Marina is connected to San Francisco Bay by tidal gates. Officials say average depth of the marina is six feet.
