One-vehicle rollover injures three

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

Two Midland youths and a Midland man were injured Sunday night when their pickup truck overturned in a one-vehicle accident on Interstate Highway 20.

One of those injured received a broken neck and another suffered serious head injuries. The accident occurred at 7:25 p.m. Sunday.

The 1977 pickup, driven by Robert Gene Anderson, 16, was eastbound on the interstate at the intersection of FM 2544 near Stucky's Restaurant.

According to Department of Public Safety Trooper W.B. Jennings, the vehicle started to go off the road onto the center median. Anderson tried to jerk the truck back onto the inside lane and "over-compensated," Jennings said.

The truck slid sideways across the two eastbound lanes, hit the dirt shoulder and flipped one and a half times.

The two passengers in the cab, Joe Ballard, 16, and Wesley Clark Woodfin, 22, both of Midland, were thrown from the cab.

Anderson was trapped underneath the truck and was pulled free by an unidentified motorist who had stopped after the accident, Jennings said.

All three persons were taken to Malone Hogan Hospital by Shaffer Ambulance personnel.

Ballard was transferred to Odessa Medical Center Hospital last night with a broken neck. A hospital spokesman said this morning that he was in critical condition in the intensive care unit.

Anderson was in stable condition with head injuries this morning, according to a spokesman at Malone Hogan Hospital. Woodfin was treated and released Sunday night.

The accident occurred six miles west of Big Spring where the east-bound lane is being resurfaced.

Larry Mahan to appear in rodeo, parade

Larry Mahan, six-time all-around world champion cowboy, has agreed to be co-grand marshal of the Rodeo Gold Parade with Toots Mansfield June 22, according to Bob Lewis, media coordinator.

Mahan and Mansfield will also team rope that night at the rodeo. "That's something that surely every rodeo fan will want to see," Lewis said.

The parade will be that Wednesday at 4 p.m. It will begin at 10th and Main, will go down to Second Street and then back up to Scurry.

Official confirmation of Mahan's participation came this morning.

Mahan is now a pro-rodeo television commentator with a successful line of western clothing.

"Everything I've got came from rodeo," he said. "I feel very fortunate to be able to continue my association with the sport, now that I've quit competing on a full-time basis."

Mahan told Greg Jaklewicz of the Herald during the recent Pro-Am Golf Tournament that he wanted to

Council may deny TESCO's rate hike request

Big Spring city council members say that tomorrow night they will deny Texas Electric Service Co.'s request for a 16.1 percent systemwide rate increase.

TESCO filed a request with the Public Utility Commission June 9 for a 16.1 percent systemwide rate increase that would go into effect in fall. Rate increases also are filed with the cities served by TESCO and each city's governing body may accept, deny or suspend it.

The Big Spring city council will consider the rate hike at its regular meeting at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in City Hall.

City Councilmen Robert Fuller and Larry Miller said the council probably will deny the request.

"That's a real whopper they're asking for," Fuller said. "I'd prefer just to deny it and let them (TESCO) appeal. Frankly, I don't think we're qualified to go through their books and see if they really need it and I'm not willing to vote for it without more information."

Fuller said he believes the PUC is more qualified to make a decision.

"They (PUC) may be bad, but at least they have a staff that can handle it," Fuller said.

City Councilman Larry Miller said he views the agenda item merely as a formality.

"I don't know why they even bring it to us," Miller said. "I would deny it and send it back to PUC because it doesn't make any difference what we do anyway."

TESCO serves 78 cities in an area extending from Grand Prairie on the east to Wichita Falls on the north and Midland-Odessa on the west.

Hooper Sanders, manager of the Big Spring TESCO office, said the increase is needed to counteract inflation and to continue building lignite plants and the Comanche Peak nuclear plant. The increase will provide an additional $195 million in revenues.

TESCO last requested a rate increase three years ago. In 1980, TESCO requested a 17.7 percent, $123 million increase. The PUC approved a hike of 10.1 percent, or $69.4 million.

If the entire amount were granted, the typical residential customer whose bills average $50 per month would pay about $10 more.

Other items on the council agenda include:

• A public hearing on annexing the area of Kentwood No. 2 Addition that lies north of Merrily Drive and east of Shirley Drive. The council also will hold a See COUNCIL, page 2A

Sunshine Kids

Organization unites critically ill children

A DROP OF SUNSHINE

A drop of sunshine fell from the sky
And it fell in my eye.
And I found I was here.
And I found I was there.
I was on a trip.
A trip I loved.
Kids with cancer everywhere.
And I was there.
Not alone but with my friends.

Carrie Carnahan
8 years old
Big Spring, Texas
(Sunshine Kid)

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

If your young child is told he or she has a life threatening disease, pediatricians say one of the hardest things facing the child is finding friends and undergoing treatments while others their age are playing outside.

The Sunshine Kids is an organization trying to bring very ill children some enjoyment. Now, Jennifer Carnahan of Big Spring is trying to bring the Sunshine Kids to the Permian Basin.

Her 8-year-old daughter Carrie was diagnosed as having acute lymphocytic leukemia in July 1982.

To battle the disease, she spent six months in the Wadley cancer treatment center in Dallas. Now the leukemia is in remission, but she still must undergo chemotherapy at home and treatment at Wadley every three weeks.

Most of Carrie's friends are other cancer and leukemia patients. Those friendships led her and her mother into the Sunshine Kids.

"It's a way for these kids to do something besides visit doctors and get shots," Mrs. Carnahan said. "It's a good social group for them and a support group for the parents."

Sunshine Kids was started three years ago by Rhoda Tomascio, a volunteer worker with M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston. It has grown to include many young patients in Texas and Louisiana and provides ski trips, fishing trips, and various other events.

After months of her involvement in the group, Mrs. Carnahan came up with the idea of trying to raise money for the Sunshine Kids and perhaps draw ill children from the Big Spring area into the organization.

So on Saturday, July 16, four gospel singing groups will perform in a benefit concert at 7 p.m. at the Big Spring High School auditorium.

Mrs. Carnahan and the staff and volunteers working at the Friends of the Sunshine Kids office provided by Oilfield Industrial Lines have the dream that Big Spring could become a Permian Basin center for the organization.

"We know there are other kids in the area who go to Wadley, and we know of some who perhaps have the disease but are not in a life threatening condition," Mrs. Carnahan said. "We hope we can get people interested, and Big Spring is a good place to start. It's a caring community."

Friends of the Sunshine Kids is just starting to get organized. The 10 persons who work with the group are trying to get local businesses and residents to buy space in a special program for the concert. Those that do will receive tickets to the concert in return.

Mrs. Carnahan says the organization hopes to pay for transportation to bring Sunshine Kids from Lamesa, Baird and San Angelo.

The money raised from tickets and donations will go to the Sunshine Kids headquarters in Houston.

From there it will go into almost monthly activities, which in the past have included a ski trip to Winter Park, Colo., a fishing trip to Natchitoches, La., and an Astros baseball game in Houston.

Red Cross needs donations

The Kiwanis Club of Big Spring is challenging other local civic and business organizations to match their donation of $100 to the American Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund, according to Billy T. Smith, secretary-treasurer of the club.

According to Sharon Nuckolls, executive secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, the American Red Cross has spent almost $30 million for disaster relief this year and is running short on funds.

Ms. Nuckolls said donations can be made to the local chapter at 1017 Johnson.

Government phones used for 'Dial-A-Porn'

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Albuquerque's chief administrative officer says he will fire employees who call "Dial-A-Porn" at city expense.

The Albuquerque Tribune reported Saturday that New York City telephone numbers for Dial-A-Porn, which features sexually explicit messages, appeared on city, Bernalillo County and state telephone bills for the April billing period.

Seventy-one calls were on Albuquerque bills, 44 on Bernalillo County bills, 40 on University of New Mexico bills and 18 on bills of state agencies, the Tribune said.

The long-distance calls cost the agencies $114.99. The cost of each call ranged from 25 cents to 56 cents per minute. Most calls were billed at two minutes each.

High Society, a New York City magazine, began the call-in program earlier this year. The 57-second recorded messages feature three women who appear in the magazine. The tapes run 24 hours a day and are changed three times daily.

Don Brooks, Bernalillo County parks and recreation director, said one of two employees who made several of the 39 calls from a community center was asked to resign, and the other turned in his resignation prior to the city beginning an investigation last week.

The employee who was asked to resign refused and has contacted an attorney, officials said.

Most recently, Sunshine Kids were special guests at a benefit premiere of Return of the Jedi in Houston.

Sunshine Kids gained national exposure on ABC's Good Morning America and a cable television program called Nice People, but Mrs. Carnahan said the organization is often confused with similar charity groups, including a Chicago-based one which grants the wishes of dying children.

"The events Sunshine Kids provide are very special to the children," she said. "They are very well cared for. There is always a doctor and nurses present and injuries don't occur. But a child's condition can change quickly.

"After the ski trip (to Winter Park, Colo., in March) one of the boys' cancer got worse and he had to have his leg amputated. Another girl lost the remission in her spinal fluid and will be in the hospital for a long time.

"But the trip was so important for them. It's something they would have never gotten to do otherwise."

Both Mrs. Carnahan and her husband, Patrick, say Carrie has benefited greatly from the Sunshine Kids.

"She's handled the disease very well," Mrs. Carnahan said, "but it has still been hard for her. I think she's afraid of dying. She's had some close friends who have died."

Advance tickets for the concert are $3 for children and $4 for adults. Tickets at the door are $4 for children and $5 for adults. Advance tickets can be purchased by calling Friends of the Sunshine Kids at 267-5143.

Performers will include The Dixie Harmony Boys, The Wills Family, Merle and the Gospel Four, and The Ellis Family.

Mrs. Carnahan says the organization is looking for places to lodge Sunshine Kids and their parents coming for the concert.

Gossip columnist lives the good life

HOUSTON (AP) — The movers and shakers of Texas' largest city who are grist for Maxine Mesinger's gossip column still read her column, although they sometimes wince when her typewriter strikes too close to home for comfort.

Celebrities call Miss Mesinger the queen of Southwest gossip columnists, although her work for the Houston Chronicle is not nationally syndicated.

But Miss Mesinger said she "snoops to conquer." She writes her Big City Beat column for the newspaper, sometimes using her own experiences and relationships with celebrities as subject material. Her column has appeared every day except Sunday for more than 20 years.

Frank Sinatra took her along when he toured Africa. Ed McMahon and his wife throw parties in her honor when she visits Los Angeles. And Barbara Walters lunches with her in New York.

She's a regular for dinner at Houston's most glamorous nightspots. She has chatted on television talk shows with Merv Griffin, Mike Douglas, Gary Collins and David Susskind.

On a typical night at Tony's Restaurant, Miss Mesinger joined a party of 35 people in the cool confines of a wine cellar. Seated together for dinner were Gen. Maurice Hirsch and Rosewood Hotel executives Caroline Schoellkopf and Bob Zimmer.

"Darling, you are simply too chic to have to work for a living," she said to a guest making her goodbye. "And God, so am I."

But she does work constantly, rising early to attend social events in Houston. She writes six newspaper columns, tapes five radio shows and hosts a one-hour celebrity radio talk every week.

She attends hundreds of social events a year, and crosses the country covering everything from the Academy Awards to the Miss USA Pageant.

Yarbrough trial reset

AUSTIN (AP) — The bail-jumping trial of former Texas Supreme Court Justice Don Yarbrough was reset today for Aug. 1.

"It probably will go to trial at that time," said Randy Leavitt, a member of the law firm representing Yarbrough.

State District Judge Mace B. Thurman directed that a jury panel be called for Aug. 1.

Leavitt said it was the policy of the Austin court to allow defendants in jury trials to appear in street clothes if they wish. "Apparently that was his request," Leavitt said.

Yarbrough was elected to the Texas Supreme Court in 1976 but resigned less than a year later after he was indicted for perjury.

Triumph

Paraplegic walks during college graduation

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Nan Davis' high school graduation ended in tragedy: an auto crash left her paralyzed from the waist down. But five years later, her college graduation ended on a note of personal triumph.

With 1,300 fellow Wright State University graduates and thousands of spectators watching, Miss Davis, 23, stepped from her wheelchair and walked 10 feet to receive her diploma. It was the first time she had walked in public since her graduation from St. Marys High School in 1978.

Her steps were made possible by a camera-sized computer that told her paralyzed muscles how to move and then triggered electrical impulses to move them.

"The last time she walked in public ... was in high school, and she wanted to walk in her college graduation," said Dr. Jerrold Petrofsky, executive director of Wright State University's National Center for Rehabilitation Engineering and developer of the computer system that enabled Miss Davis to walk.

The dramatic walk came Saturday near the end of a two-hour commencement ceremony at the University of Dayton Arena. With Petrofsky and fellow researcher Dr. Chandler Phillips supporting her arms, Miss Davis stepped forward to the commands of the computer.

"This is a special day for all of us," she said when she reached the podium to receive her bachelor's degree in elementary education. She then delivered a 60-second speech that ended, "Thank you all, and congratulations."

Miss Davis was a high school sprinter and planned to run track in college until the graduation-night crash. Her mother, Louise, said Miss Davis was a passenger in a car being driven by a friend, who wasn't injured in the one-car accident.

Last November, Miss Davis became the first paraplegic in Petrofsky's research project at Wright State to walk with the aid of computer-controlled electrical stimulation. To take those first steps, she wore a safety harness and held on to two steel parallel bars.

Petrofsky said Miss Davis now can walk 50 to 60 feet using only canes for support.

"It's a fraction of what she's capable of doing," he said.

In Petrofsky's system, eight sensors on Miss Davis' body monitor the position and movement of various body parts. The sensors tell the computer the position of the legs, so the computer knows which muscles to electrically stimulate next to achieve coordination. Up to 36 electrodes are placed on Miss Davis' paralyzed muscles to force them to move.

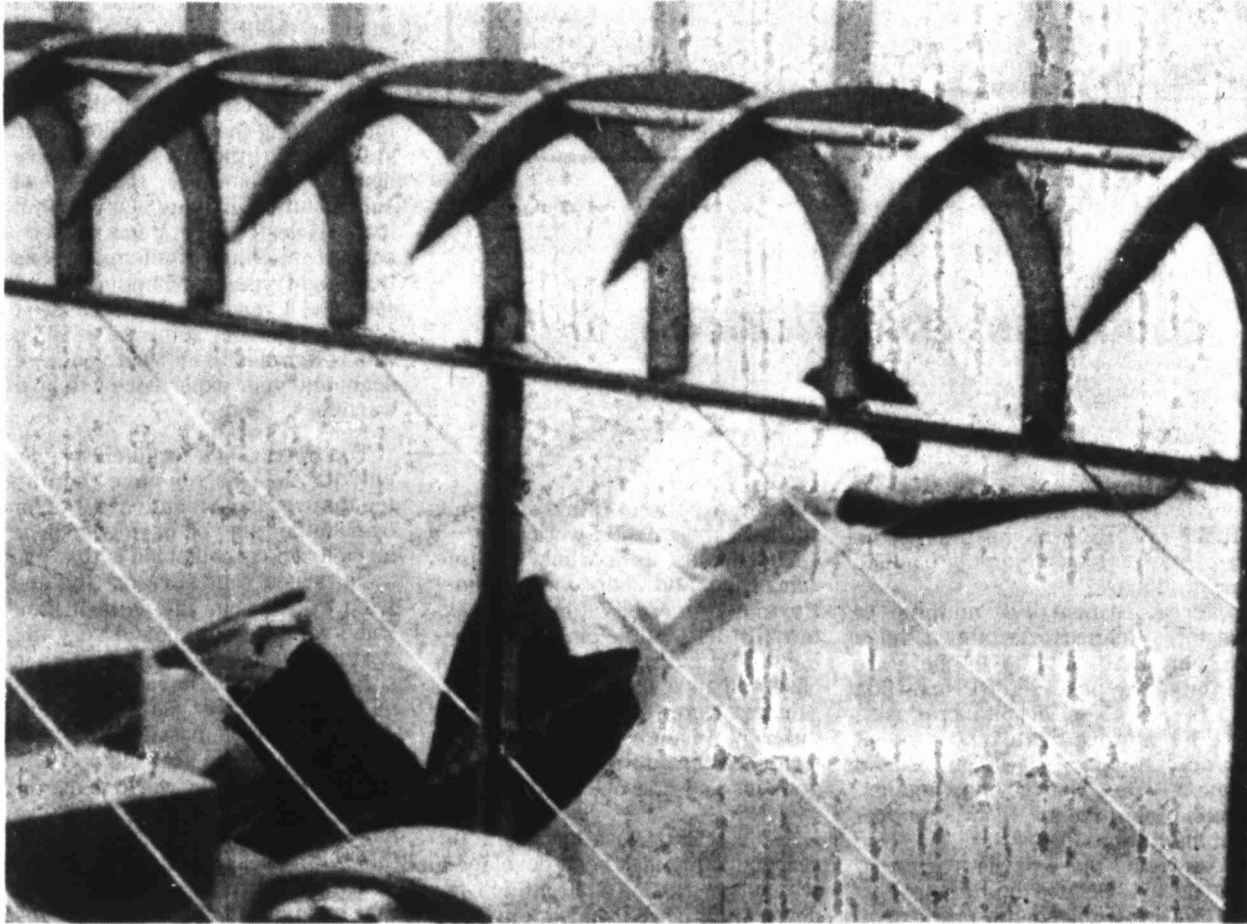

Last fall, the computer used to help Miss Davis walk was stationary, about the size of a room wall, Petrofsky said. The computer she used to walk for her diploma was about 4 inches by 6 inches and less than an inch thick.

Petrofsky credits private funding for speeding his research, which so far has enabled one other paraplegic and two quadriplegics to stand and participate in walking experiments. He hopes ultimately to surgically implant electrodes in paraplegics and quadriplegics to enable them to walk with the help of a portable computer.

NAN DAVIS GRADUATES — Nanette Louise Davis, 23, who became the first paraplegic to walk with the aid of computer-controlled electrical stimulation in 1982, stands during her graduation ceremonies from Wright State University in Dayton Saturday. Helping her stand is Dr. Jerrold Petrofsky, right, who headed the research project.

ON THE WAY DOWN — A man identified by police as Darrell King, 20, of New York, jumps to his death after climbing over the 12-foot high, spike-topped fence around the 86th floor observation deck of New York's Empire State Building Saturday. He was the second man to leap to his death from the building in 10 days, police said. He was believed to be the 31st jumper from the building which opened in 1931.

Decline noted in home thefts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of U.S. households victimized by theft or violence declined 1 percent in 1982, when blacks, high-income people and city dwellers were most vulnerable to crime, a new report says.

Members of nearly 25 million households were victims of some type of crime last year, according to a report released Sunday by the Justice Department's Bureau of Justice Statistics.

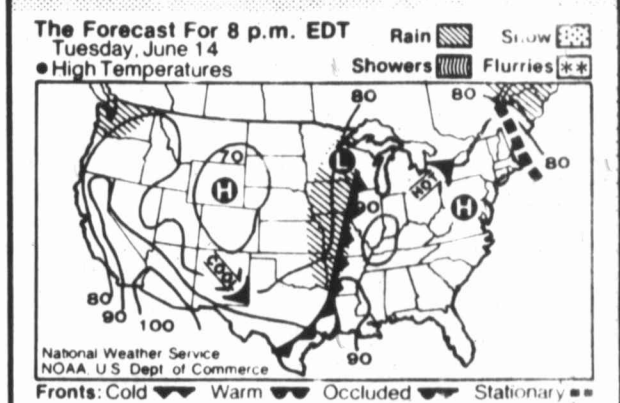

The decrease from 1981 was almost entirely the result of a decline in the number of households with a member who reported a personal property theft while away from home, the report said.

Victims of robbery or aggravated assault were more likely to be members of black households, the report said. At least one burglary or attempted burglary occurred in 10 percent of all black households last year compared to a 6 percent rate among white households.

Taken from the bureau's National Crime Survey, the report's figures are generally conceded to be the most comprehensive available crime statistics. Based on interviews with 50,000 Americans, the figures include both crimes reported to the police and those which are not reported.

"The percentage of households touched by other crimes (rape, robbery, assault, pocket picking, purse snatching, motor vehicle theft, household larceny and burglary) did not fluctuate greatly between 1975 and 1982 and showed no discernible trend," the bureau said.

High temperatures should climb into the 80s and 90s with 100 degree readings in the Big Bend valley.

West Texas — Partly cloudy afternoons and evenings north and southeast otherwise mostly fair. Widely scattered thunderstorms Panhandle Friday. Lows upper 50s Panhandle to around 70 south. Highs mid 80s Panhandle to mid 90s south with up to 104 Big Bend valleys.

Autopsy confirms cyanide was cause of children's deaths

STEPHENVILLE, Texas (AP) — Two children whose father has been charged with fatally poisoning the youths died after drinking cyanide, an autopsy report confirmed.

The bodies of an 8-year-old girl and a 5-year-old boy were taken to the Dallas County medical examiner's office for autopsies, and Erath County jailer Jerry Perkins said Sunday that the examinations confirmed cyanide poisoning as the cause of death.

Delbert Black, 33, is accused of forcing his children to drink a mixture of cyanide, sugar and syrup in his mobile home in rural Erath County, between Stephenville and Hico.

Amy Annette Black and Richard Loyd Black were dead on arrival Friday at Hico City Hospital, where they were taken by two men who said Black told them he thought they were poisoned.

Later Friday, officers went to Black's mobile home and found a can of cyanide-based ant poison and "a bottle of syrup, a jar of sugar and a large glass with it all mixed together," said Erath County sheriff's deputy Randy Merriman.

The neighbors said Black had been despondent over his divorce and had called his wife about 5:30 p.m. Friday, telling her it was "time for us to die."

Warrants for Black's arrest were issued shortly before midnight Friday, and Black was arrested without incident Saturday after a 24-hour search with bloodhounds and horses. Black was trying to hide in a dairy barn near Hico, Erath County Sheriff Jack Perry said.

Merriman said Black had been charged with trying to kill his 25-year-old wife Sylvia in February, but the case had not come up for trial and Black was free on bond. The couple was separated in February and divorced in May, neighbors said.

Two and a half hours later, a man identifying himself as Black called his landlord and said "he had poisoned his kids and had taken some of the stuff himself and was fixing to go and die quietly," Merriman said.

Black was arraigned Saturday night in Hico on two counts of murder. Hamilton County Justice of the Peace Joy Cook set bond at $100,000 on each count.

In their divorce, Mrs. Black won custody of the two children, with Black having visitation rights on weekends, neighbors said. They said the children were visiting Black Friday at his trailer house outside this community 75 miles southwest of Fort Worth.

Black's ex-wife worked as an X-ray technician at Hico City Hospital, but was not on duty when the children were brought to the hospital, officials said. Merriman said she had to be hospitalized and sedated after learning of the children's deaths.

Marty Bell, one of the men who brought the children to the hospital, said Black drove up in front of his trailer home in Hico and sat in his car for a while, then ran up to Bell and Gary Reed and asked them to take the children to the hospital because he "couldn't make it."

Black said he would follow the two men, but did not, Bell said.

Prisoners break out of Israeli detention camp

By The Associated Press
Dozens of prisoners broke out of the Israeli detention camp of Ansar in southern Lebanon and were hunted today by troops, tanks and helicopters firing machine gun volleys into nearby olive and lemon groves, according to Lebanese news reports.

An Israeli military spokesman in the Beirut suburb of Yarz denied the reports and said, "Nothing unusual is happening at Ansar. I don't know of any mass escapes."

Lebanese reporters sent dispatches sent back to Beirut from the Ansar area, saying Israeli troops had set up observation posts on the hills overlooking the camp 35 miles south of Beirut after the reported midnight breakout.

They quoted villagers as saying the soldiers lit the area with flares and pursued dozens of fleeing prisoners into nearby villages. The state radio also reported a breakout at the camp, but did not say how many people escaped.

There were other unconfirmed reports that guerrillas attacked the prison Sunday night to cover an escape while inmates rioted and set fire to tents to distract the Israeli garrison.

Israel's military command said guards shot and killed an escaping prisoner Sunday at the camp. But it said it knew nothing about a mass escape.

The camp was set up in southern Lebanon to hold thousands of people, most of them Palestinians, who were rounded up during the Israeli invasion of Lebanon last year.

According to the Lebanese reporters, at least 15 Israeli tanks were patrolling the area east of the camp today, firing machine guns into stands of olive and lemon trees where escapees might be hiding. They quoted villagers as saying they heard heavy gunfire for two hours in and around the prison Sunday night.

The state radio quoted anonymous police sources as reporting smoke, flames, explosions and heavy gunfire in the Ansar area.

Another Israeli spokesman said a car rigged with explosives blew up today south of Beirut on the old Sidon road, an Israeli military supply route, and killed two Lebanese men who were inside. The spokesman, who declined to be identified, said no Israeli forces were in the area, about 1 1/2 miles from the headquarters of the 100-man British peacekeeping contingent.

"The explosives-rigged car blew up, killing the two occupants. There was no other damage or injury," the Israeli spokesman said. British spokesman Maj. Michael Southworth said, "We heard a big bang and saw a large cloud of smoke."

In the Lebanese capital, Parliament convened under tight security to vote on a formal ratification of the troop withdrawal pact signed by Lebanon and Israel on May 17. It was expected to endorse the accord overwhelmingly.

Lebanese President Amin Gemayel was required by law to seek parliamentary approval for the accord, which will not be implemented until Syria also agrees to pull its army out of Lebanon.

But Syria warned once again today that it would not withdraw its troops unless the Lebanese government abrogated the U.S.-sponsored agreement with Israel.

"The Syrian position can be summed up in one short sentence: no withdrawal from Lebanon before the cancellation of the agreement and the completed unconditional evacuation of the Israeli occupation forces," said al-Baath, the newspaper of President Hafez Assad's governing Baath Party.

Red tape blues

Complaints from business about required government paperwork have become so routine that they rarely rate a mention in the news. American businessmen, however, may now take some small comfort in the quandary of managers in the Soviet Union.

The Soviet central planning bureaucracy generates so much red tape that Russian workers and managers must fill out 800 billion documents a year, according to reports from Moscow. This staggering load is the equivalent of more than 7,000 documents for each Russian worker.

Some Soviet economists, in belated recognition that central planning stifles economic activity, have called for easing the paper burden. One senior Russian economist, Alexei Rumyantsev, has found that nine out of 10 of the government documents are absolutely useless, having no other purpose than to justify a bureaucrat's slot.

Although Rumyantsev has yet to convert to the supply side, he has concluded that less government control would spur the Soviet economy. His days of influence, though, are probably numbered. Predictably, the central planners in Moscow are calling for more controls and more paperwork as the true communist way to new heights of productivity.

BEFORE GLOATING OVER the paperwork follies of the "people's paradise," Americans should note that Washington is no slouch in the red tape department. Federal officials say they don't keep count of the government documents Americans must fill out. They do, however, calculate appropriately named "burden hours" the paperwork requires. Federal agencies impose 1.1 billion burden hours of paperwork a year on private industry, and state and local governments. This amounts to 116 hours of paperwork a year for every American worker.

But unlike the Soviet Union, paperwork in the United States is significantly decreasing. Before enactment of the Paperwork Reduction Law in 1980, it took an additional 400 million hours a year to complete the federal forms. Continued reductions in red tape are likely under Reagan administration regulatory reforms.

THE LATE NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV sent chills down the spines of many Westerners when he proclaimed in 1956 that the Soviet system "will bury you!" Khrushchev's boast now seems hollow indeed. Instead of burying the West, the state-run Soviet economy is burying itself.

Grade A rainbow

Big Spring's Rainbow Project for abused and neglected children is one of the best pieces of work I've seen lately.

A home-grown project, the shelter will give children of hostile and unfit environments a chance to live relatively normal lives. They will have the chance to be kids without threat of violence or the loneliness of neglect.

In this soul-shrinking age when budget cuts and conservatism sometimes ignore people's needs, it's gratifying to see a warm, humane program like the Rainbow Project spring up.

We Americans, as a whole, are not big on empathy. We are selfish and driven by our own wants and needs. We don't notice much of the pain and suffering in the world because it's not affecting us.

Most of us have had it good. We tend to ignore the fact that some aren't so fortunate. They need help. They can't do it alone for whatever reason, and need a patient, guiding hand. If we Americans believe in helping those tired, poor huddled masses, then we should reach out that hand. That's what the Rainbow

Project is about.

I COULD NOT imagine how I might have turned out if my home life had been wrecked. Being a kid is tough enough without having to worry about being beat up or simply ignored and given no love or guidance. The Rainbow Project will help see a kid gets the care and love he or she needs.

Originally conceived by the Big Spring Ministerial Fellowship, an idea to help kids with home problems has blossomed into a tangible piece of work. I applaud those who have contributed to this project.

I like the Rainbow Project because it's local all the way. Funding, labor, materials and other needs have been met by the community. Some local projects just don't seem to be genuine, but this one rings true. No one benefits from this but those kids who need help. And that's the way it should be.

Being a journalist, I'm naturally skeptical of many things, but I've never felt that way about the Rainbow Project. It is simply a very good idea and I give it top ranking for its humaneness and usefulness.

A case of excellence

BERKELEY, Calif. — During this commencement season, the University of California at Berkeley cries out for national attention. It is, perhaps, the best university in the country. It has sustained eminence for years despite a cultural revolution on campus and the open hostility of two governors. So it offers a living example of how to achieve what everybody now agrees the country most needs in education — excellence.

The excellence at Berkeley finds many measures. This university was rated No. 1 in the country in 1970 in a study by the American Council on Education. It also came out first in 1982 in a study by the Conference Board of Associated Research Councils. It is among the top, if not at the top, in the number of Nobel laureates. A survey of Guggenheim fellowships between 1964 and 1981 found that Berkeley, again, led all the rest.

EVEN BETTER known, probably, are the threats posed to high quality here. The cultural revolution that challenged "elitism" in so many institutions found its home base here. Berkeley was out front in the demonstrations of the 1960s for "free speech," ethnic studies and an end to the Vietnam war. The students are still out front when it comes to showing lack of respect. Witness the heckling which caused Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick to cancel a lecture in February.

The contemptuous spirit within the halls of academe found its appropriate external counterpart in the two governors who served between 1966 and 1982. Ronald Reagan imposed budget cuts and caused the teacher-student ratio to go down by 15 percent. David Saxon, the physicist who is stepping down as president of all the California universities to head MIT, says of Reagan: "He was hostile to the university. He just didn't like public institutions."

Jerry Brown did nothing to restore finances despite a huge surplus that built up in the state prior to the passage of Proposition 13 in 1978. Nor, despite promises, did he improve the teacher-student ratio. Of him, President Saxon says: "He wasn't only against public institutions. He was against all institutions."

Surviving those perils was possible in part because the state university system solved the problem of democratic access. The total number of students in the system has jumped from 35,000 in 1958 to 140,000 today. But new universities and junior colleges absorbed the increase. Unlike state universities in Texas and Minnesota, for example, Berkeley did not explode with new students. It kept a lid on at about 30,000. "We stayed exclusive," Saxon observes.

THE MOST GIFTED faculty members, moreover, work at running Berkeley. David Riesman, the Harvard sociologist who specializes in the study of education, observes that the "senior faculty at Berkeley show an exceptional loyalty to the university." Saxon says that "even Nobel laureates work in committees, and in the Academic Senate. They keep the standards high."

A restructuring of the biology department offers a current example of faculty pressure for excellence. In large part because of strength in such traditional fields as botany, zoology and paleontology, Berkeley missed the big move to genetics and microbiology. Academic ratings in those fields fell, and laboratory facilities became so outmoded that accidents spoiled experimental work.

The faculty as a whole became concerned, and Chancellor Michael Heyman organized internal and external studies of the biology department. "We discovered," Heyman observed in a chat the other day, "that we were studying biology in 28 different faculties. We lacked the 'critical mass' to move forward in genetics and microbiology."

AS A RESULT, a program for reorganization has been developed. It involves raising $120 million for new facilities. It also involves something even harder — an advisory committee reporting directly to the chancellor on appointments in biology. The advisory committee supersedes the existing biology faculty in that matter. "Doing that," Riesman says, "puts faculty loyalty to an acid test."

Even continued thrusting for quality, however, does not assure success. Gov. George Deukmejian inherited from Brown, and Proposition 13, a huge state deficit. He has refused to raise taxes, and is trying to make ends meet by budget cuts.

But cuts at this time, Saxon and others here say, will do permanent damage by causing faculty members, already relatively underpaid, to pack their bags. Independent evidence supports that claim. A major new research consortium — MCC, headed by former Ambassador Bobby Inman — decided to locate in Texas, rather than California, because among other things, the financial structure of the university here is shaky.

So the lesson of Berkeley is clear. It takes many things, including leadership and loyalty, to achieve excellence. But money is an indispensable ingredient.

Billy Graham

Extramarital affair hurts

Dear Dr. Graham: I feel like I am in a hole that I have dug for myself. I have had several extramarital affairs to get back at my husband, who often treats me unkindly. However, I realize that I have only hurt myself. Can God forgive me and help me, or is it too late to do anything about the mess I have made of things?—Mrs. B.S.T.

Dear Mrs. B.S.T.: I am sorry that for so long you had been deceived into thinking that kind of life would solve anything. As you have discovered, however, there is not only no future in living that way, but it also is destructive. It has not solved your marriage problems nor has it brought you real happiness and security. I mention this because it may be there is someone reading who is tempted to do what you have done, and your experience will be a warning to them.

You need God's forgiveness—not only for the sins you have committed that you have mentioned, but for every other sin you have ever done as well. The greatest sin is that you have turned your back on God and tried to live your life without him. But I want you to know a very important truth. God loves you, in spite of what you have done. He is willing to forgive you and he has done everything possible to make your forgiveness possible by sending his Son into the world to die for your sins on the cross. In Christ "we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, in accordance with the riches of God's grace that he lavished on us" (Ephesians 1:7-8).

What must you do? First, believe that Jesus Christ died for you and took away your sins through his sacrifice. Then repent of your sins and ask Jesus Christ to come into your life as your Savior and Lord. God has promised, "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just and will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness" (1 John 1:9). This is God's promise to you in Christ—and God cannot lie. Accept Christ by faith. And then walk each day with him. You need his wisdom and his help—and he can help you begin to rebuild your marriage and your life if you will let him rule in your life.

Army accused of covering up disaster

WASHINGTON — The Army's inspector general is investigating shocking charges that officials knowingly let last year's disastrous parachute exercise in California proceed despite dangerously high winds — and then tried to cover up their fatal error. Six troopers were killed and more than 150 injured during the March 30 exercise at Ft. Irwin.

The mass jump by more than 2,200 82nd Airborne Division paratroopers — the men who put the "R" in the Rapid Deployment Force — took place in full view of the press. In the official report following an investigation, the deaths and injuries were blamed on "undetected high winds."

But according to sworn statements given to I.G. investigators, the winds were in fact detected — but were simply ignored. My associate Donald Goldberg has seen some of the statements made to the I.G., and sources say the charges are being taken "very seriously." They should be.

Detailed allegations of deliberate falsification of wind velocity readings and subsequent coverup were made by a master parachutist assigned to observe the exercise. He and an Army chaplain, also a master parachutist, witnessed the mass jump from a spot near where most of the injuries occurred.

According to the observer's affidavit, he and the chaplain saw a safety officer take wind measurements behind an ambulance instead of out on the field. "I asked the officer taking the wind readings if he knew how to take the readings, and he replied that he did," the observer testified. "I asked him if I could use his anemometer, he handed it to me and I stepped from behind the ambulance and turned the anemometer into the wind."

"The wind reading at that time was 30 knots, with frequent gusts to 40 knots. Smoke on the drop zone had been released and it was staying right on the ground, which indicated extremely high winds."

As the observer — and the safety officer — knew full well, the highest wind velocity considered safe for parachute exercises is set by the Army at 13 knots, equivalent to just under 15 miles per hour.

The observer's statement continued: "I then turned to the (safety officer) and said that the correct wind readings were 30 gusting to 40, and if personnel were dropped I would promise a thorough investigation."

But the fix was in, and the safety officers evidently knew it. The observer testified: "A radio message came over the radio ... at that time saying in an unusual manner, sort of a sarcastic tone, 'I'm reading 10 to 12 (knots). How about everyone else?'"

So the drop proceeded. Four troopers were killed on the spot and two more died later. According to the official report, five of the six died of head injuries from hard landings in the high winds, or from being dragged along the ground before they could cut their chutes loose. Most of those injuries were also caused by the high winds.

But when the observer reported what he had witnessed, he was told not to tell anyone. Not satisfied, the observer told the exercise safety director, who checked with his superiors. He told the observer that "there was a hold on all information about the drop and that we were not to discuss the airborne operation with anyone for now." Subsequent orders came down reiterating this secrecy lid.

"Every time we asked, we were again told ... that we were under orders not to discuss any information with anyone," the observer said in his sworn statement.

Footnote: The inspector general would not comment on the investigation.

— The U.S. Army Band's chorus and blues groups recently made a six-day tour of southern Florida. The tab for the trip came to $36,000 — and included the expenses of several non-performing, senior non-commissioned officers who tagged along. The unit commander, for example, flew down to join the groups for two days in West Palm Beach, and other sergeants major went down for advance work, auditioning and recruiting.

Dear Abby

Cousins cause confusion

DEAR ABBY: As the mother of 10 children, grandmother of one, aunt of 20, great-aunt of two, and cousin of everybody west of the Mississippi, I have spent years explaining to my offspring the difference between first, second and third cousins, first cousins once-removed, etc. Since my children read "Dear Abby" faithfully, I now have to start all over again.

You told "All Mixed Up" that according to Webster's New International Dictionary, "the child of one's first cousin is properly called 'first cousin once-removed' but often popularly 'second cousin.'" I wish you had gone on to explain that while that may be "popular," it is not correct.

As you (if not Mr. Webster) know, your first cousin once-removed (one generation removed) is the child of your first cousin; second cousins would be your child and the child of your first cousin. As second cousins are children of first cousins, third cousins are children of second cousins. A first cousin twice-removed would be your first cousin's grandchild (who would, of course, be your grandchild's third cousin, and your child's second cousin once-removed).

Abby, when you're trying to marry off 10 children, and you're related to everybody west of the Mississippi, you have to know these things.

TERESA BLOOM-INGDALE, OMAHA, NEB.

DEAR TERESA: Thanks for telling me in words instead of sending me a genealogical chart. That's where I got into trouble in the first place. I was doing splendidly with my chart until I came upon cousin removed once, twice and a third time, and then I was ready to be removed! That's when I naively turned to Mr. Webster, where I learned a useful lesson: Don't believe everything you read.

DEAR ABBY: I run a small restaurant in Heathsville, Va. We specialize in soft-shelled crabs, which are always fresh and delicious at a reasonable price.

Most of the customers ask for toothpicks. Abby, I was taught as a little girl that it wasn't proper etiquette to pick your teeth in public, so I don't have toothpicks on hand to give out.

Please write back and tell me what I should say to these people who ask for toothpicks. I promise to frame it and put it up where people will see it. Thank you.

MARTHA CURRY.

DEAR MARTHA: You may not want to frame this: If you want to succeed in business, your first concern should be to please your customers. Never mind etiquette. If a customer asks for a toothpick, cheerfully provide one. Many small restaurants (and some large ones) keep on hand a container of toothpicks at the register so those who need them can help themselves.

Hashimoto's disease: blood confusion

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My doctor tells me I have low thyroid and has started me on thyroid supplement medicine. I had a developing goiter. He said what I have is Hashimoto's disease. I understand this is rare. Is it? And what is the outlook for this with regard to medicine in the future? — Mrs. P.L.A.

Dr. Hakaru Hashimoto (1881-1934) is one of the few Japanese physicians to have a disease named after him, and that's the only thing rare about Hashimoto's disease. It's fairly common, in fact, and I've touched on it from time to time.

Hashimoto's is a disease of the thyroid with links to the body's system of immunity. Our immune system is constantly making all sorts of antibodies to protect us against various germs invasions. It's no simple job and requires lot of different kinds of body cells. One group of such cells is lymphocytes, special white blood cells that make antibodies. To further complicate the situation, there are various kinds of lymphocytes. Some help with antibody production, others work to suppress that production. The latter are suppressor cells. Their job is to turn off the antibody production when it's not needed.

In Hashimoto's the lymphocyte team is not working up to snuff. In this particular instance, the result is production of antibodies that want to destroy thyroid gland tissue. Often, the gland merely swells (goiter) and sometimes the antibody invasion is so great that thyroid hormone production is interrupted. That's called hypothyroidism.

The treatment is to replace the missing thyroid hormone with medicine, as your doctor is doing for you. When that is done the gland usually shrinks back to normal size within six months. The outlook is good, but the person has to take the thyroid medicine for life.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am taking calcium supplements per instructions from my own physician. I compared notes with another patient (of a different doctor). She informed me that she is supposed to take hers at night before retiring. My doctor says to continue taking mine at different times during the day, as I have been. Why the difference in opinion? Is it better to take it all at night? Both doctors work in the same practice. — Mrs. C.R.

There doesn't seem to be any real difference in how the supplements are taken. Perhaps your doctor prefers to give you less concentrated tablets, and since you have to take more, he feels it best to space them. Your friend may be using a higher-strength tablet, which can be taken once a day. Some doctors think that since hydrochloric acid (made in the stomach) aids in absorption of calcium it is best to give such supplements at night, when levels of the acid are slightly higher.

Why don't you present your doctor with your question? Or have your friend ask hers. Between the two of you, you should be able to unravel the mystery.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My 50-year-old workaholic brother gets bright red palms once in awhile. He is very thin, eats fairly well, smokes a little, drinks a little (neither to excess), and gets too little exercise. I've noticed the same red palms on the hands of two relatives who both smoked and drank too much. Any connection? — A.R.

There are studies that link red palms (palmar erythema) to cirrhosis of the liver, and that, as you know, is one of the consequences of overuse of toxic substances. But red palms is only one sign of that illness, and they are not truly the most important sign. They can be found in perfectly normal people.

Homemakers plan to attend state meeting

Plans to attend the state meeting were made by the Howard County Extension Homemakers Council at a meeting, June 6, in the First Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Delegates were elected and voted on to represent Howard County at the state meeting at Lubbock in September. Delegates are Mrs. Frances Zant, Mrs. Frances Mason, and Mrs. Merl Soles. Mrs. Lucille Petty was elected as an alternate.

Ladies from Howard and Martin County will attend the three day meeting at District 6 with the Coahoma club as hosts. Mrs. Mason will give the devotional, "I Have to Talk to Someone."

The county agent, Naomi Hunt, has return from New York where she attended the National Homemakers Council.

Parked car can be dangerous

Now that warmer weather is on its way, be especially careful not to leave children, pets and elderly in a parked car with the door closed.

Heat in a car parked in the sun can build up to dangerously high levels. A study notes that interior temperatures of 172.4 degrees were recorded for a car parked in direct sun; 111.2 degrees in the shade.

Rules for hand guns

Q. If I carry a large sum of money in the city, can I carry a hand gun.

A. No. Section 46.02, of the Texas Penal Code states that a person commits an offense if he intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly carries on or about his person a handgun, illegal knife, or club. Section 46.03, make provision for persons that Section 46.01, does not apply to. They are:

1. Persons in the actual discharge of his official duties as a member of the Armed Forces or National Guard or a Guard employed by a penal institution;
2. On his own premises or premises under his control unless he is an employee or agent of the owner of the premises and his primary responsibility is to act in the capacity of a private security guard to protect persons or property, in which event he must comply with subdivision (5) of this section.
3. Traveling.
4. Engaging in lawful hunting, finishing, or other sporting activity if the weapon is a type commonly used in the activity.
5. Who hold a security officer commission issued by the State Board of Private Investigators and Private Security Agencies, if:
 - a. He is engaged in the performance of his duties as a security officer or traveling to and from his place of assignment.
 - b. He is wearing a distinctive uniform, and
 - x. The weapon is in plain view; or
 6. Who is a Peace officer.

Texas law makes no other provisions for carrying a handgun. If you must carry large sums of money, do so discreetly and do not go alone to or from the bank.

Q. I am from out of State and just moved to Big Spring, how long do I have before getting a Texas drivers license and license plate?

A. Texas registration is required of a non-resident owner or operator of a passenger car or light commercial vehicle within 30 days after establishing a residence or entering into gainful employment in Texas.

The vehicle may be operated during this 30-day period if it has valid out-of-state license plates. Texas license plates are issued by the Howard County Tax Assessor-Collector's office located in the court house.

A Texas operator's license is also required within 30 days after establishing a residence in Texas.

Under Texas law, it is a misdemeanor if a person is found guilty of violating the license laws and is punishable by a fine of up to $200.

Q. How many patrol units are working during each eight (8) hour shift?

A. During the morning shift (7 am - 3 pm) there is a minimum of three (3) patrol officers and a sergeant working in marked patrol cars. The evening (3 pm - 11 pm) and night shift (11 pm - 7 am) have a minimum of four (4) officers and a sergeant working in marked patrol units.

These are minimum shifts accounting for regular days off, illness, vacation and officers attending out-of-town training schools.

There may be as many as six officers and a sergeant working during each shift. During emergencies and manpower shortages we also have the patrol administrative staff and uniformed identification officers available to answer calls for service.

'War Games' is high-spirited thriller even Al Haig would enjoy watching

Directed by John Badham, written by Lawrence Lasker and Walter F. Parkes. Starring Matthew Broderick, Dabney Coleman, Ally Sheedy and John Wood. Rated PG at the College Park Cinema.

This is Tom Swift meets Dr. Strangelove at the video arcade. Or maybe "Interface with Armageddon."

WarGames has a pro-nuclear freeze point of view, but it's such a high-spirited thriller that even Al Haig would probably get a kick out of it.

David (Matthew Broderick) is a Seattle high school student who, while playing with his home computer, accidentally locks into a nuclear war simulation.

tion with the Defense Department's NORAD installation in Colorado.

But NORAD doesn't believe it's simulation. And when David finds out what he's done and tries to stop the game, the computer keeps playing.

"Why?" David asks. "To win," the computer replies.

The movie has borrowed from Steven Spielberg's E.T. premise that young people are better equipped to handle life than adults, particularly adults in the military.

But director John Badham doesn't take the message too seriously; WarGames is played mostly for fun. He invests the generals, military strategists and computer technicians with personalities and quirks.

They refuse to believe that it's only a game. When the military is unable to find any evidence of the "Soviet attack" displayed on their big boards, they assume the communists have developed new "stealth" equipment making their missiles, submarines and jet fighters invisible.

Performances are the film's biggest pleasure. The actors in Badham's Blue Thunder weren't nearly as expressive as the star helicopter, but here people are given priority over machines.

Broderick's David and his friend Jennifer, played by Ally Sheedy, give the picture most of its energy. Dabney Coleman plays a NORAD computer supervisor, but he isn't given much to do but worry and yell. John Wood has fun with his role as the genius who invented the game that David stumbled upon. He chews his share of the scenery.

The film bogs down near the end with some unneeded messages of the insanity of nuclear war, but for the most part WarGames is kept on the level of a summer thriller. Take it at that and you'll have a great time.

Prisoners warned about AIDS

Prisoners in New Jersey are being given seminars on acquired immune deficiency syndrome, and other state prison systems are handing out fact sheets on the mysterious disease, which has killed at least 29 inmates.

"There are a lot of rumors and misinformation going around, said James Stabile, a spokesman for the New Jersey Department of Corrections. "One day a story says mosquitos may be the cause and another day God knows what."

At least 20 inmates in New York prisons have died of the disease since 1980, and at least nine New Jersey prisoners have died since 1979.

'Man with Two Brains' falls short on comedy

"THE MAN WITH TWO BRAINS" —starring Steve Martin — Kathleen Turner — David Warner. Directed by Carl Reiner. Steve Martin and George Gipe. Held over at the R70

What a wild and crazy guy Steve Martin is. Who would thought of a brain surgeon in love with a disembodied brain for the theme of a comedy movie?

Unfortunately, it isn't very funny... at least funny enough for an entire movie.

Steve Martin fans will probably find the entire film hilarious, but the film lacks enough truly humorous elements to classify it as a great comedy. This is not "The Jerk II" or even "Dead Men Don't Have Plaid Brains."

However, "The Man with Two Brains" is fairly effective as an entertaining film if the viewer does not ask for too much in the way of overwhelming laughs or plot.

Martin plays the world's best brain surgeon Michael Hfuhruhurr (as he tells everyone). Having just lost his beloved wife Rebecca (he misses having lunch on her behind), he marries a patient he has hit with a car.

A beautiful woman (Kathleen Turner) who just drove her old husband to the grave for his money, the luscious beauty refuses sex with her new husband for several weeks.

This literally drives Martin crazy (look for a hilarious scene with a hat). Miss Turner was the female interest in the steamy "Body Heat."

During a European trip in an effort to get his wife in bed, Martin encounters a wild-eyed brain surgeon (David Warner) who is experimenting with brain transplants. Martin falls in love with a brain named Ann floating in a jar in the scientist's lab.

The remainder of the movie details his "love affair" with a jar, his wife's efforts to kill him and Martin's solution for his problems.

Much of the humor deals with sex, or as in Hfuhruhurr...rrr...rrr's case, the lack of sex. Miss Turner successfully parodies her fortune-hunting sex vamp role from "Body Heat," but doesn't add any comedic elements to the film.

Martin is still Martin. His physical comedy provides the funniest moments in the film — a drunk test given by French police and the closing scene. But he hasn't given himself anything funny to say.

A great cameo appearance by a well-known television personality is just another example of a film with good comedic spots, but no continuity.

Ballesteros soars on eagle

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Seve Ballesteros was talking to the golf ball as it arched toward the 18th green, 225 yards away.

"Fly, fly, fly," he urged, the lifted his arms high over his head in joy.

"When the ball pitched on the green, I said, 'that's it,'" the 26-year-old Spaniard said of the 3-iron shot that secured his victory Sunday in the Manufacturers Hanover-Westchester Classic.

The shot set him up for the 2-putt birdie-4 he needed to win. But, with his flair for the dramatic, he didn't settle for that. He rapped in a 12-foot putt for eagle-3 and a two-stroke victory over Craig Stadler and Andy Bean, who had finished play ahead of Ballesteros and were watching in frustrated fascination as Ballesteros added this title to the Masters' crown he took home to Spain two months ago.

SEVE BALLESTEROS
...now U.S. Open favorite

Westchester

"This is very important," said Ballesteros. "It brings me a lot of confidence for next week." He was talking the U.S. Open Championship which begins Thursday in Oakmont, Pa.

It also brought him $81,000 from the total purse of $450,000 and boosted his earnings to $189,764 in only six starts in the United States this year, an average of $31,627 an appearance.

"He's among the very best in the world," said Bean. "There's just no telling what he'd do over here if he played our fulltime."

Ballesteros, 26, a dedicated globetrotter, has won more than two dozen worldwide titles, including the 1979 British Open and, only two weeks ago, the British PGA. He now has won four times in the United States, including the 1980 and 1983 Masters.

"Someday," he said, "I will play fulltime in the U.S. Some day. Maybe soon."

He has been offered, more than once, membership in the American PGA Tour. He has declined, however, on the basis that membership could restrict his foreign play.

He applied for, and was denied, exemptions from Tour regulations involving participation in foreign events that conflict with U.S. Tour tournaments. The result is that he will play only two or three more American events this season, including the Open.

Ballesteros, who had not played in America since he won at Augusta, Ga., in April, captured this one with a closing 70 and a 276 total, eight shots under par on the Westchester Country Club course in suburban New York.

Stadler and Bean tied for second at 276. Stadler had a closing 67 and Bean 68.

Mike Reid and Fuzzy Zoeller, who shared the lead at one point or another over the final nine holes, tied at 279 with Mark McCumber. Reid had a closing 70, Zoeller 72 and McCumber 68. Each won $18,600, with Zoeller going over the $1 million mark for his career.

Ballesteros, who led most of the day, surrendered the top spot with consecutive bogeys on the 11th and 12th.

He had to scramble for par on two of the next three holes, then regained a share of the lead with a 30-foot putt on the 16th, providing him with the birdie that set the stage for the drama of his winning eagle.

Barber outduels old rival

CLEVELAND (AP) — For 20 years, Miller Barber and Gene Littler waged some fierce battles on the regular PGA tour. And little has changed now that the golfing world considers them senior citizens.

MILLER BARBER
...seventh senior win

Seniors

Barber sank a 10-foot birdie putt on the final hole to take a one-stroke victory over Littler on Sunday in the $250,000 Senior Tournament Players Championship at Canterbury Golf Club.

"I'm still trying to beat the same guys I was trying to beat 19-20 years ago," Barber said. "It's always me chasing him. It was the same today — me chasing him."

Barber, 52, shot a final-round 68 to finish with a 10-under-par total of 278.

For 72 holes, Littler, also 52, missed a 30-foot birdie putt on the final hole and closed with a 68, giving him a 72-hole total of 279.

The 68 was Barber's best round of the tournament.

Both golfers won about

$1.6 million on the regular Professional Golfers' Association before joining the Senior tour in 1981.

Barber, who took a one-stroke lead into the final round, said there were two turning points in Sunday's round — his own bogey on the 15th, which Littler birdied to take a two-stroke lead, and Littler's double-bogey on the 17th, which set the stage for the tie-breaking 18th hole.

Paul Harney, with 67 for the final 18 holes, and Don January tied at 4-under-par 284 for third place. Arnold Palmer and Jim Ferree closed at 3-under-par 285 over the par-72, 6,615-yard Canterbury course.

Barber, who has won 11 events on the regular PGA tour, notched his seventh Senior victory and took home $40,000. Littler made $24,000.

Sheehan closes fast again

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Patty Sheehan has won an LPGA Championship, five other tournaments and almost $380,000 in less than four seasons.

Yet she does not consider herself as one of the game's current glamour names.

"I don't think of myself as a superstar, as somebody important. I'm just out here to play golf. I guess it's nice, but it's too new right now," Sheehan said Sunday following her two-stroke triumph over Hall of Famer Sandra Haynie in the LPGA Championship.

LPGA

After watching Sheehan reel off five straight birdies, a 6-under-par 66 and a total of 9-under 279, Haynie saw the champion in a different light.

In fact, Haynie, 40, the winner of 42 tournaments and an LPGA Hall of Famer, predicts certain stardom for the 26-year-old Sheehan.

"Patty is in for a wonderful career," said Haynie, struggling to 75 for 281 after leading by four shots after three rounds.

PATTY SHEEHAN
...rallies by Haynie

Sheehan created her own opportunity with a personal record of five straight birdies on the back side. The final one at the 15th hole gave her the lead for the first time.

She parred the last three holes to earn a $30,000 check that pushed her 1983 winnings past $119,000.

LONGHORNS HOOKED THEM ALL — The University of Texas Longhorn baseball team celebrates its national championship Saturday night in Omaha. Coach Cliff "Gus" Gustafson, left, is hoisted on his players' shoulder in the melee after UT's 4-3 win over Alabama in the championship game.

Texas welcomes Longhorns as heroes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The "Eyes of Texas" were on the Texas Longhorn baseball players — national champions after defeating Alabama 4-3 in the finals of the College World Series — as they triumphantly returned to their fans.

A crowd estimated at 2,000 gathered at Disch-Falk Field Sunday afternoon to shower the Longhorns with applause and adoration. Texas also was greeted by several hundred fans at Robert Mueller Municipal Airport after an hour's delay in Houston.

The delay hardly diminished the enthusiasm of the Longhorn fans, many of whom began assembling outside the stadium as early as 11 a.m.

The crowd at the stadium sang "The Eyes of Texas," waved pompons and milled around the players, getting autographs and taking snapshots.

One man held a sign proclaiming the Longhorns "Kardiac Kids" for their four come-from-behind wins in five games in the series in Omaha, Neb. Another held up a No. 1 on a piece of orange cardboard. Others waved a state flag and a University of Texas flag.

"What a thrill it is to see this kind of support," coach Cliff Gustafson said. "You've given it to us all year long, and you are one reason we've been able to accomplish what we have."

For Gustafson, the national title is his second in 11 trips to the series over a 16-year career.

Gustafson paid tribute to his assistant coaches, Bill Bethea, Clint Thomas and Howard Herrera, and introduced each member of the team by number. The largest ovations were reserved for first baseman Jose Tolentino, shortstop Mike Brumley, designated hitter-pitcher Kirk Killingsworth and pitcher Calvin Schiraldi.

U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, sent a congratulatory telegram saying "no one can say you did it the easy way."

Connors whips edgy McEnroe

LONDON (AP) — Jimmy Connors is a solid favorite to keep his Wimbledon title after outplaying John McEnroe 6-3, 6-3 on grass in the final of the Stella Artois tournament at London's Queen's Club.

McEnroe admitted it. "He is playing really well," McEnroe said. "Right now he must be the Wimbledon favorite."

But Connors warned there are many unknown factors at Wimbledon, which begins next week.

"If I were a bookie I would rate my chances one in 128 right now," Connors said, referring to the number of players entered in the men's singles.

"After the first day I will tell you more. A lot happens on the first day at Wimbledon. You have to get in there. Once the first round is past the gate is open," he said.

"So many things happen at Wimbledon. So many players are out to win or to make a name for themselves by scoring an upset on one particular day."

Connors named Steve Denton, Vitas Gerulaitis and South African Kevin Curren as players who might upset predictions at Wimbledon if their service is on target.

Connors hit top form in Sunday's Stella Artois final and blasted McEnroe off the court in 1 hour 22 minutes. He was never behind in the match.

McEnroe was in trouble more than once. A ball skipped off the net and hit him in the eye at the start of the second set.

Four games later he raced in a vain effort to get under a short return from Connors and aggravated an old shoulder injury.

McEnroe exercised his arm and played on. He did not appear in any discomfort, but he won only one of five games after the incident.

Connors, 30, raced about the court like a youngster. He hit out at McEnroe's big first services and often connected with winning returns.

His last two winners — forehand-service returns — brought roars from the crowd.

"I can keep up that pace for three games," Connors said, "but I play a bit differently in the five-set matches at Wimbledon."

"The final at Wimbledon last year went to five sets, and I saved my best till the last. I bide my time in five-setters better now than I used to."

McEnroe had an exchange with photographers at the side of the court after the seventh game. He turned a television camera round on its swivel on his way to his chair, then traded words with a press photographer who had stepped forward to speak to the umpire.

"I get fined $1,500 when I say something to these guys," McEnroe said after the match. "Why shouldn't they be fined $1,500 when they say things to me?"

In her last tournament before Wimbledon, Billie Jean King retained her Edgbaston Cup women's tennis title at Birmingham, England, with a 6-0, 7-5 victory over Alycia Moulton.

King, who is not playing the $150,000 BMW championships at Eastbourne starting today because she prefers to practice, took just 58 minutes to whip her young opponent from Sacramento, Calif., who was born in 1961, the same year that King made her Wimbledon debut.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 14, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Make headway and rapid progress by sticking to the conventional and the conservative. Don't get involved in confusing situations or you lose some of the benefits you deserve.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have many fine creative ideas. Figure out how to use them. Be more formal with the one you love to show your care.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You now know how to please kin more and show you are truly devoted. Entertain at home this evening for fine results.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Financial matters can be improved by following a workable plan. Be careful not to get involved in questionable schemes.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get health and looks improved by tested means to be at your best. Avoid people who are jealous.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Consult with an expert to get the answers to a dilemma you're having. Tonight, plan the future more wisely and intelligently.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Spend time with good friends who have common interests. Use only sterling methods to pursue your goals.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) One in authority follows every regulation which resolves problems for you. Dress well and be at your very best.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have an opportunity to get into a very interesting project. Follow your intuition for good results. Guard your reputation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your subconscious will tell you just how to solve problems. Join with your loved one later in a mutual interest.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A business partner proves instrumental in forming a new alliance. Remain neutral in a public situation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get at regular routines and don't make drastic changes you may have in mind. Control a co-worker when conditions change.

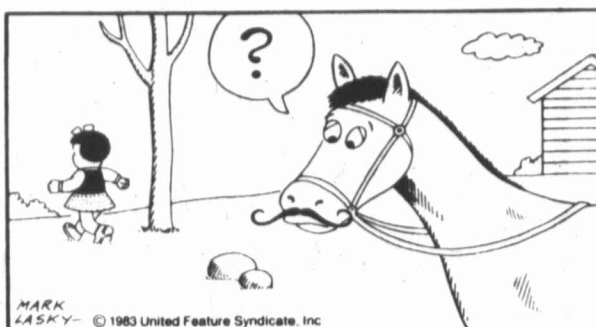

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be sure you know the cost of that trip you want to take before you make plans. Encourage a loved one to use talents.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he or she will be capable early to understand both the needs and motivations of others and can give good advice. Conditions are favorable for psychology, psychiatry, philosophy, etc. The field of merchandising is also good here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Wright rips Twins

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Texas Ranger George Wright says he "panicked" after smacking the longest home run of his career and his first game-winning blast.

"I knew I hit it good. I just didn't know what to do," said Wright, who watched at home plate as his third homer of the season lifted Texas to a 4-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins in 11 innings Sunday.

Wright's 417-foot smash to right field off reliever Ron Davis, 2-2, came with one out in the 11th inning, after the Twins, losers of six straight, had battled back to tie with single runs in the ninth and 10th innings.

"That's about as good as I can hit one," said the switch-hitting Wright, who was batting left handed. "He got behind me 2-0 and I don't think he wanted to walk me. I just looked for a good pitch. That's the first time I've gotten a hit off him."

After winning five of the last six games and with eight straight errorless games, Texas Manager Doug Rader looks forward to a 14-game home stand.

American League

Minnesota tied the game 2-2 in the ninth inning to send it into extra innings, then matched runs with Texas in the 10th.

Buddy Bell singled with two out in the Rangers 10th to drive in the go-ahead run in Mickey Rivers, who had doubled. But in the bottom of the inning, Mickey Hatcher singled with one out, and John Castino followed with a single, sending Hatcher to third. Dave Engle's sacrifice fly tied it 3-3.

Mariners 8, Royals 1

There was no way Glenn Abbott was ever going to pitch in the major leagues again.

The Seattle Mariners right-hander had undergone major arm surgery, then contracted viral meningitis.

Then, on Sunday, in his first appearance since Oct. 3, 1981, Abbott

Ryan zips Padres

Nolan Ryan is once again tied for the top spot on baseball's all-time strikeout list. And he could care less.

The Houston flamethrower is also still No. 1 on the career walks chart. And he couldn't be happier.

Ryan, firing fastballs at 99 mph, fanned 11 San Diego batters Sunday — to tie Philadelphia's Steve Carlton with 3,535 lifetime strikeouts — as the Astros downed the Padres 2-0.

But what pleased Ryan the most about his five-hitter was that it marked the first time in his career that he pitched a complete game without walking a single batter.

"I just felt like I had real good control," said Ryan, who has walked more batters — 1,943 — than any other pitcher in baseball history.

The 36-year-old Ryan was making just his second start since returning to the starting rotation after a severe hamstring pull sidelined him for a month. Ryan had missed the early weeks of the season with prostatitis.

National League

"I was much stronger than I've been any time this year," he said. "The conditioning work we've done has paid off."

Ryan said he "didn't feel as strong" in the later innings, but the radar gun that measured one of his first-inning heaters at 98 mph caught a ninth-inning fastball at 99. He also extended his major-league of games with 10 or more strikeouts to 147.

Ryan, for his part, has downplayed the leapfrog strikeout battle with Carlton.

"I don't pay attention to that," Ryan said. "I wasn't aware of how many strikeouts I needed. I can't let what Mr. Carlton does, what I read in the papers, affect my approach to pitching."

Padres Manager Dick Williams — who Ryan with the California Angels in the early 1970s — was also impressed.

"I had him for nearly three years and I never saw him with better control. To me, it's like another no-hitter," Williams said of Ryan, who has pitched a major league record five no-hitters.

Paul captures l-weight fight

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Jimmy Paul of Detroit knocked down Honolulu's Andy Gangan four times before scoring a sixth-round technical knockout here Sunday to claim the vacant United States Boxing Association lightweight title.

Referee Bobby Ferrara stopped the nationally televised fight at 2:58 of the sixth after Paul flattened Gangan.

In an earlier bout, also scheduled for 12 rounds, Detroit's David Braxton won the vacant North American Boxing Federation super welterweight title with a third-round TKO over Kansas City's Larry Martin.

limited Kansas City to four hits, going the distance to beat the Royals 8-1.

Abbott was the beneficiary of 16 hits, including three apiece by Al Cowens and Jamie Allen, who homered, and the 32-year-old pitcher retired the final 10 Kansas City batters in a row.

Red Sox 7, Orioles 6

Dwight Evans homered twice, and Tony Armas and Jim Rice each homered. But the Red Sox didn't snap their seven-game losing streak, longest since 1981, until the ninth inning with the help of a bunt single and a bases-loaded walk. The Orioles had won six in a row.

Brewers 6, Yankees 5

Cecil Cooper doubled and scored on a two-out single by Jim Gantner to give the Brewers a 12-inning victory over New York. Cooper doubled off Rudy May with one out in the 12th. Walks to Don Money and Charlie Moore, sandwiched around the second out, loaded the bases for Gantner, who hit a 3-2 pitch to end the 4-hour 9-minute marathon.

Blue Jays 6, Angels 5

Willie Upshaw's run-scoring triple in the 15th snapped a 3-3 tie and started a three-run rally that enabled Toronto to hang on for a victory over California.

Tigers 4-3, Indians 1-1

Milt Wilcox pitched a five-hitter to win the opener, and Jack Morris won a duel with Len Barker — although he yielded two more hits — to win the nightcap.

Lou Whitaker drove in two runs with a triple and a single for Detroit in the opener, and Chet Lemon homered for the Tigers in the nightcap.

White Sox 12-8, A's 10-1

The White Sox won the opener in 11 innings. Vance Law's sacrifice fly broke a 10-10 tie, and Greg Walker followed with a solo homer. Law's sacrifice fly scored Tony Bernazard, who started the 11th with a triple.

In the second game, Jeery Koosman tossed a five-hitter and allowed only an unearned run. The White Sox broke the game open by scoring six runs in the third inning as Walker and Law contributed RBI doubles.

Phillies 5, Pirates 4

Pete Rose, again filling the role of pinch-hitter deluxe, singled in Joe Morgan with two outs in the bottom of the 11th inning to lift Philadelphia.

Rose, who has not started any of Philadelphia's last five games but has gotten into each one, came through after Morgan drew a one-out walk and went to third on Joe Lefebvre's single. After Ivan DeJesus struck out, Rose singled on the first pitch from Rod Scurry, 2-5.

Cubs 6, Cardinals 3

A crowd of 38,635 at Chicago's Wrigley Field saw a Jody Davis grand slam, a two-run shot by Keith Moreland and a near-brawl, along with the Cubs' ninth victory in their last 11 games.

Moreland put the Cubs ahead in the second inning with his eighth homer, which came off Bob Forsch, 4-5.

Then in the fourth inning, Forsch hit Bill Buckner with a pitch, prompting Buckner to start toward the mound. Both benches emptied but no punches were thrown. When order was restored, Ron Cey singled and Larry Bowa walked, setting the stage for Davis' 10th homer of the season and the first grand slam of his career.

Reds 3, Dodgers 1

Mario Soto held Los Angeles hitless for 6 1-3 innings and finished with a three-hitter while striking out eight.

Pedro Guerrero lined a single to left for the Dodgers' first hit off Soto, 8-4.

Duane Walker doubled in Cincinnati's first run and singled in the second run. Paul Householder, who had three hits, smacked his second homer of the season to cap the Reds' scoring.

Braves 3, Giants 2

Dale Murphy upped his major league-leading home run total to 17 with a pair of blasts to account for all of Atlanta's runs.

Pascual Perez raised his record to 8-1 by allowing eight hits in 6 2-3 innings. Gene Garber pitched the final 2 1-3 innings for his fifth save.

Mets 9, Expos 1

Tom Seaver hadn't been getting much support since returning to pitch in New York this season. But the Mets banged out 14 hits — including a two-run homer by George Foster (No. 11) and a two-run pinch-double by Rusty Staub — and Seaver did his part by throwing a four-hitter.

BOBBLE — Chicago Blitz receiver Doug Dennison has a pass from Tim Koegel slip through his hands Sunday against Tampa Bay.

Stars nail down playoff berth

By The Associated Press
First, they battled from behind to defeat the New Jersey Generals in the oppressive heat of Giants Stadium. Then they retired to the locker room and cooled off with a champagne shower.

Now that they've become the first team to qualify for the playoffs in the United States Football League's inaugural season, cooling off is one thing the Philadelphia Stars want to guard against with three weeks remaining before the playoffs begin on July 9 and 10.

"We all knew Boston lost. I didn't say anything to the players. I didn't have to," said Coach Jim Mora, whose team clinched the Atlantic Division title by parlaying a 23-9 victory over the Generals with the Breakers' 31-19 loss Saturday night to Birmingham.

The Stars, who scored on five straight possessions, got touchdown runs of 7 yards by Allen Harvin and 1 yard by Kelvin Bryant and field goals of 25, 39 and 49 yards by David Trout.

The USFL's 15th weekend concludes tonight with the Denver Gold playing the Invaders at Oakland. On a field where temperatures teetered near 100 degrees, Philadelphia's victory did not materialize into the expected track meet between the league's top two rushing leaders — Philadelphia's Bryant and New Jersey's Herschel Walker. Instead, Harvin outgained both of them with 76 yards, one more than the Walker and 52 more than Bryant.

USFL

Bryant was held to a season-low 24 rushing yards on 11 carries by the Generals, whose rushing defense statistically is the worst in the league. He still managed to inflict some damage by catching four passes for 66 yards and scoring on a 1-yard plunge in the third quarter. He also set up a 7-yard TD run by Harvin with a 50-yard catch and carry on a screen pass.

Walker, who leads Bryant by 246 yards in the race for the USFL's rushing title, carried the ball 25 times against the league's best defense against the run as a crowd of 32,521 witnessed the Generals' 11th loss of a disappointing season.

Blitz 31, Bandits 8
Tim Koegel threw three touchdown passes to help Chicago tie Tampa Bay for first place in the Central Division with 10-5 records. A crowd of 21,249 attended the Soldier Field contest in 86-degree temperatures.

Panthers 42, Express 17
Playing with a cracked rib, rookie Bobby Hebert passed for four Michigan touchdowns and completed 16 of 25 passes for 147 yards in an aerial duel with Tom Ramsay, who set a club-passing record with 281 yards.

Stallions 31, Breakers 19
Boston lost its chance to stay in the race for the Atlantic Division title as Bob Lane and Lonnie Johnson each scored a pair of touchdowns for Birmingham. Lane's second score, on a 25-yard pass from Greg Anderson, was set up by kicker Scott Norwood's recovery of his own onside kick.

Federals 18, Wranglers 11
Craig James and Billy Taylor scored touchdowns on short runs and Sandro Vitello kicked a 48-yard field goal as Washington got all its points in the second half to snap a 10-game losing streak.

Foursome wins Chicano golf

The foursome of Ben Garcia, Jr., Tano Chavarria, Alex Escanuela and Dr. Byung Lee won the Chicano Golf Association Louisiana Draw Sunday.

Garcia's group fired a five-under-par 66 to edge out the team of Luvien Flores, Gilbert Reyna, Sal Diaz and M.L. Torres with a 67. Third place went to the team of Ben Garcia, Sr., Joe Montez, Manuel Correa and Mike Russell with a 68.

Winning closest to the pin honors was Juan Ortega while Johnny Subia hit the longest drive of the day. The one-day tournament was played at the Comanche Trails Golf Course.

Yanks take over first place

The Yankees and Rangers picked up wins Saturday night in National Little League play.

The Yanks outscored the Lions 11-10 as Wade Salvato rapped a pair of singles and a triple. Aaron Salazar had three and Tracy Huddins two hits for the Lions.

Both teams entered the game with 8-4 records. Salvato and Timmy Gutierrez teamed for the win which propelled the Yanks into first place.

The Rangers improved their mark to 6-5 with an 18-5 romp past the Cardinals. Leading the 12-hit attack was Rickie Swafford with a single and two triples and Thomas Moore, Bobby Gerstenberger and Alfredo Garcia with two hits each.

Ali wins exhibition

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — Muhammad Ali had some words of advice for winger Dave Semenko of the Edmonton Oilers after their three-round exhibition boxing match Sunday night.

"He's involved too much in one sport," said the former three-time world heavyweight champion when asked if Semenko could ever be a boxer.

"I think he could if he tried but I don't think it would be wise," said Ali in a slow, halting voice.

But Semenko said he intends to stick to hockey.

"I have no second regrets for doing it," said the 25-year-old Winnipeg native. "I know why he's the greatest champion in the world."
