Rail Board Gives Up, Declaration of Hooper

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The failure of all efforts to bring about the settlement of the country-wide strike of the railway shopmen was announced in a statement issued tonight by Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the United States railroad labor board.

"As there does not seem to be any probability of reconciling the antipodal views of the carriers and the men on the question at issue, the labor board and none of its members, as individuals, are engaged in any further efforts along that line."

Railroad executives, through the western president's committee on public relations of the association of railway executives issued a statement tonight corroborating chairman Hooper's statement that no further peace conferences were being held and that the seniority issue was the principal stumbling block.

"There are now no conferences in progress looking to a settlement of the shop crafts strike," the executives' statement said.

Chairman Hooper of the labor board has held informal conferences with some railway executives but these have had no results and are now at an end."

"Since the strike was called, the so-called question of seniority rights has arisen and has now become one of importance."

Chairman Hooper's statement said that conference was held last Saturday between B. M. Jewell, head of the shopmen, A. O. Wharton, labor member of the board and Mr. Hooper and heads of the seven striking organizations when Mr. Jewell indicated he would be willing to submit to his committee an agreed program if the carriers concurred in it.

Only 16 of 201 class one roads had entered into the contracting out of shop work and most of them have now discontinued it, his statement continued, and added that "the great majority of the carriers would be pleased to see the few remaining boards withdraw from it."

Mr. Hooper said that an agreement of some sort could doubtless be reached upon the matter of adjustment boards.

"At present," the chairman statement continued, "there is no possibility of an agreement on the question of the reinstatement of the striking employes with all rights restored."

Believe Search for Will Causes Murder

By Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., July 19.—Search for a hidden will believed to have been secreted in the isolated old Harris homestead near Mackinaw has been disclosed as a possible motive for the brutal murder last week of Sue Harris, 62, who was clubbed to death by four masked men in her room.

Investigators have learned that the will—a strange document apparently written as the climax to an extended family feud, is missing. A theory is advanced that one of the four robbers, unnerved when one of their member's masks was torn from his face during the fight with Miss Harris, murdered her to prevent identification.

Visitors Excluded From Phillips Cell

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—Mrs. Clara Phillips, accused by indictment of the murder of Mrs. Alberta Meadows here a week ago, was denied the privilege of seeing visitors other than her counsel today. Even her husband, A. L. Phillips, was denied admission to the county jail where Mrs. Phillips awaits her next appearance in court, set for tomorrow. She is expected to plead then to the indictment. The defense attorneys declined to discuss a statement attributed to Phillips, that he was a second cousin of Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the United States treasury, but word received here from the family of Secretary Mellon denied any relationship.

H. N. F's. Mainly About People

Where's the Joker? Wanted—a Minority—Neff Wouldn't Care—Ain't Politics Funny?

SENATOR J. A. HARRELD OF Oklahoma is a republican, an oil producer, a lawyer, a political accident and a gentleman of wealth and prominence. He wants to know why Mexican crude is on the free list. He is a senator and he has a right to know. He has discovered that Mexican oil importations are playing havoc with the independent producers of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Arkansas and Louisiana. There has been a slump of 25c a barrel in the price of Texas and Oklahoma crude. Senator Harreld says that Mexican crude is produced by American oil men with the aid of pauper labor. He says that a living wage must be paid to labor in the Texas and Oklahoma and Kansas fields. He would place a tariff of 35c a barrel on Mexican crude. He would place a tariff on all oil importations. He hopes to get the ear of Senator McCumber who is creating a tariff bill. This reminds the writer that Senator Harreld got the ear of the president less than a year ago.

The president told the republican senator from Oklahoma that all the people need petroleum or petroleum products and that for that reason the proper place for oil importations was on the free list. Senator Harreld almost dropped dead in his tracks. His arteries became frozen or hardened. A republican administration was in power and when he discovered that the republican administration favored free oil importations, he must have wondered why he had damned the Wilson administration for eight long years for its alleged free trade proclivities. There isn't a candidate for the senate in Texas who has had a word to say about Mexican crude. There isn't a candidate in Texas who has declared for a tariff on oil importations. All the candidates appear to have muzzled tongues. Texas has an oil and gas commission. A noted independent producer says it is used as a

STRIKERS KEEP NIGHTLY VIGIL

Watch Local Shops to Avert Trouble

Local strikers are watching every move around local yards and shops.

Armed with lunch pails, their nightly vigil is maintained regularly, that reports of activities may be made at the daily meeting of the striking unions.

No portion of rail property is overlooked by the watchers who state their purpose there is to maintain peace if possible in case any outbreak might arise.

The watchers are unarmed, according to their own statement, and are there only for the purpose of ascertaining any new moves attempted by rail heads here.

There has been little violence here since the strike began, and many attribute this to the fact that the daily meetings are held with that purpose in view.

Very few have been employed here since the walk-out, and they have been orderly about their work, and have done everything possible to keep down trouble.

Boy Is Convicted by Mother's Testimony

Convicted by the testimony of his own mother, Vernon Voss, 29, was found guilty of automobile theft by a jury in 30th district court here yesterday. The jury's verdict was returned early last night.

The boy denied he was stealing his mother's car, but said that he merely drove to El Paso to take a "lady friend who was going there to get a divorce." He was given a sentence of two years. The case was tried before Judge H. R. Wilson.

HOT BATTLES IN NEBRASKA SENATE RACES

G. O. P. Candidates Running Neck and Neck

By Associated Press.

OMAHA, Neb., July 19.—Adam McMullen of Beatrice went into the lead again tonight for republican gubernatorial nomination after having lost the lead to Charles H. Randall of Randolph earlier in the day. Returns from 1682 precincts of 1913 in the state gave McMullen 44,503; Randall 44,214.

OMAHA, Neb., July 19.—A real contest has developed in the Nebraska primary. The race between Charles H. Randall of Randolph, and Adam McMullen, of Beatrice, for the republican gubernatorial nomination became more intense than ever, and with 1504 precincts out of 1913 reporting, Randall has a lead of only 351. The vote: Randall 40,293; McMullen, 39,942.

A democratic gubernatorial clash was almost as hotly contested and with 1449 precincts reporting, Charles W. Bryan of Lincoln, brother of W. J. Bryan, had a lead of 797. The vote in this contest stood Bryan 22,741; Butler 21,944.

The progressive republicans swept the state with their votes in the United States primary, R. B. Howell, continuing to pile up his lead.

The vote in this race stood 1492 precincts out of 1913, Howell, 33,853; Jeffries 21,607; Davis 21,208; Gustafson 14,869.

Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock ran away from his field in the democratic senatorial primary and poled a vote of almost 3 to 1 over his opponent.

Illinois Opposes Bringing in Troops

By Associated Press.

HERRIN, Ill., July 19.—President Harding's plan of re-opening the coal mines of the country under the country under the protection of national guardsmen and federal troops if necessary, was opposed in resolutions adopted at a meeting of professional and b usiness men and miners of ten cities in Williamson, Franklin and Jackson counties, a large coal mining district, here this afternoon.

White Defies State Industrial Court

By Associated Press.

EMPORIA, Kan., July 19.—William Allen White, editor of the Emporia Gazette, today defied the Kansas court of industrial relations by placing a contraband placard expressing sympathy for the striking shopmen in the window of the Gazette office.

Mr. White posted the placard after he had been informed that the attorney general had ruled it against the industrial and anti-syndicalism law.

The poster expressed sympathy for the strikers in their announced stand "for living wages and fair working conditions."

Orient Grievances Will Be Heard

By Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kansas, July 19.—Charges made by former employes of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad that it is not pursuing an economical program will be heard July 24 at Wichita by the United States inter-state commerce commission, Governor Allen was notified today. The governors of Oklahoma and Texas, the other two states in which the road operates, have also been invited to attend the hearing, it was said. The charges against the Orient were made at a recent hearing at Washington into the threatened abandonment of the road, which is in the hands of the receivers.

Neff Seems a Sure Winner Next Saturday

Governor Almost Certain to Win Without a Run-Off Because of Constructive Policies For the Betterment of Texas; Has Lived Up to All His 1920 Campaign Promises.

(By H. N. F.)

DALLAS, July 19.—All the forecasts of politics writers, all the forecasts of the editors of the country press and all the forecasts made by well informed citizens of Texas indicate that there will be no run-off election for governor this year.

All well informed democrats, leaders and laymen, are of the opinion that the Hon. Pat Morris Neff will be given a majority of the votes cast Saturday, July 22. There are men in Texas who have made these forecasts who are not favorable to the candidacy of the governor. They admit that it is impossible to bring about his defeat. Not since the time of Rickard Coke has a democratic governor been denied a renomination and there is no reason why Governor Neff should be denied. He will be given a renomination and a second term because the democrats of Texas believe in established precedent. If a governor has been faithful to his trust, loyal to his oath of office, true to the pledges that he made to the people and has done his best as a public servant.

Neff Is Boss

All concede that the Hon. Pat Neff is governor. All concede there is no deputy governor. All democrats who are disposed to be fair minded concede that Neff has done just what he promised the people he would do.

There is a lot of noise, a lot of hate, a lot of dirt, a lot of bigotry and a lot of fanaticism in this campaign. There are times when it is disgusting to men who cling to the faith of the fathers, who believe in the fundamentals of democracy, who stand for the constitutional rights of the citizen and who believe in the drastic enforcement of the written law in the courthouse and not in the river bottoms. In times like these, it is well to be fair, to be just, to not be blinded by political or creed fanaticism.

Keeps Promises

As governor, Neff has done just what he promised to do. He has condemned mob law. He has condemned lynchers and lynch law. He has appealed to the patriotic and thoughtful people of the state to stand for the written law and the written law alone. He was elected as a democrat and those who are nearest to him say that he has triven to be a governor of all the people. He has not been the governor of any political clique, any powerful church, any combination of church politicians and his appointments from first to last have demonstrated that he is neither a narrow eyed political bigot nor a creed fanatic. There may be men who take issue with this statement but the

KU KLUX VOTE CHALLENGED

McCullough Takes a Rap at Mayfield

Declaring that he had no fight with the ku klux klan but appealing to their 100 per cent Americanism and challenging their sincerity in all that they profess if they vote for Earle B. Mayfield for the United States senate, Judge Tom L. McCullough of Dallas, scion of the famous fighting McCullough family, Wednesday night on Moore & Richolt's lot spoke from the back end of an automobile truck to 450 people in the interest of Cullen F. Thomas for United States senator.

Figuratively speaking, Judge McCullough ripped the insides out of Earle Mayfield's professed prohibition stand and showed records which, he said, proved that Mayfield, while professing to stand for prohibition, was, in reality, an "anti" and that he fought with the "antis" and put everything he could in the way of prohibition legislation. He quoted court records, where in 1908 the name of Earle B. Mayfield, then state senator, was sent in secret correspondence by brewery agents in Texas to the brewers of Germany, as one of the men in the senate who were with the brewers in their fight against prohibition.

Says Mayfield "Won't Do."

Fred Weeks opened the meeting by making a short speech. He, too, went after Mayfield because, he said, he understood Mayfield was going to be hard to beat because people are being misled as to his character. He said

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Second Assistant Postmaster General Henderson apnounced today that seaplane service for ocean mail would be established soon at New Orleans, the plane flying 90 miles down the river to put late mail on outgoing steamers and to take in-coming mail to the city. Mail thus brought will beat the steamers by about half a day.

QUITS TOUR AND WILL GO TO DENISON

Says Troops Will Be Used If They're Needed

By Associated Press.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Texas, July 19.—Governor Pat M. Neff tonight ments in his campaign for gubernatorial nomination and will go to Denison tomorrow morning to make a personal investigation of conditions incident to the strike of railroad shopmen there, he announced. It is possible, it is said, that the governor will also visit other strike centers in the state. The governor's schedule called for two more days of campaigning.

The governor, in a formal statement, intimated that if he finds it necessary to call out state troops to protect life and property and keep the channels of commerce in Texas open, he will do so unhesitatingly.

Present conditions, however, do not demand such action, the governor said. The Texas governor has notified Secretary of War Weeks of his plans to let the entire matter rest with state officials. No information had been received from the war secretary tonight.

"Texas will preserve her sovereignty, maintain her peace, protect the life of her people, keep open her commerce, enforce her laws and guarantee to all her citizens their inalienable rights without the intervention of the federal government and the federal authorities have been so notified," the statement read.

"M first duty is to the 5,000,000 people of Texas."

TEXAS WEATHER GOES ON SPREE

Heat, Cold, Drouth, Rain, Dust, Wind

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, July 19. Texas weather today was erratic, commencing excessively hot, averaging around the 100 mark and dropping about 25 degrees in less than 15 minutes, early this evening, followed by cyclonic winds accompanied by a brief sweeping rain. The sudden wind caused damage to some extent, according to meagre reports received tonight. Telegraphic and telephonic communication sufered materially.

Thermometer Drops.

The temperature before the windstorm struck Dallas was 99.4, dropping 26 degrees in ten minutes. Fort Forth figures showed a maximum of 102 degrees, Abilene 100 and San Antonio 98. A blinding rain at Paris, where the temperature had reached 101, lasted 20 minutes, doing much damage.

Practically all cities in east and north Texas suffered loss of communication to outside territory through wires being torn down and otherwise demoralized.

Windy City Elite Have Their Troubles

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Revocation of a $350,000 trust fund established by Mrs. Katherine Gordon Thorne, widow of the former vice president of Montgomery Ward & Co., for William C. (Billy) Camp, her one time husband, was sought in master in chancery proceedings here today.

Mrs. Thorne, who according to Camp's attorneys, Charles E. Erbstein, "bought and paid for" Camp, was described as the victim of "a cold blooded lothario who mulcted the widow out of hundreds of thousands of dollars" by her attorney, Harry Markheim.

Attorney Erbstein charged that the wealthy widow "practiced all the ordinary female wiles 'to win Camp'," bought his divorce for $40,000 and married him. Camp later was divorced from Mrs. Thorne and married Miss Mabel (Johnny) Walker, his companion in a California "love bungalow" incident.

Ladd Charges Uncle Sam's Mexican Policy Smacks of Imperialism

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The administration's policy toward Mexico was described as "wholly imperialistic," in the senate today by Senator Ladd, republican, North Dakota, who urged "prompt and unequivocal" recognition of the present Mexican government. Mr. Ladd predicted that unless such steps were taken by the administration, "a really progressive party" would come into power and establish a new foreign policy.

No constitutional rights exists by which the executive branch of the government "arbitrarily" withholds recognition of the Mexican republic, the North Dakota senator asserted. Senator Ladd also assailed Secretary Hughes saying that the state department head's demands on Mexico in the reported treaty negotiations were tantamount to an "offensive and unwaranted invasion of the sovereign rights of Mexico," he described the secretary as having been as secretive as "a European diplomat of the old school," in the negotiations.

Charging that there was a "close understanding between the department of state and American oil companies operating in Mexico," Mr. Ladd declared commercial as well as governmental power was being invoked to force revocation by Mexico of some of her domestic legislation.

"Three Squares a Day" Is Slogan Of Prisoners in County Jail

"Long's I get three squares a day
I don't care about no pay.
I should worry, 'bout makin' hay.
I've enough to drive care away."
—Street Corner Ballads.

The author of the famous "Street Corner Ballads" probably never wrote them "from the inside looking out," as the prisoners say, but he evidently expresses their view of the matter. At any rate that is the opinion of the sheriff's department here.

At the present time there are 63 prisoners in the county hoosegow, getting two meals each, or 126 meals a day at the county's expense. In order to fill out the "three squares," the prisoners pay fora third meal, each night, from a "pot fund" of their own.

MANY TRAINS ARE REMOVED

Southwest Hardest Hit by Strike

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The railroad shopmen's strike, now 19 days old, is beginning to be felt throughout the country in a gradual slowing up of schedules and the cancellation or combination of many trains.

Fifteen railroad centers in the middle and far west reported today that 247 trains have been or, are about to be cancelled. The southwest, St. Louis to Texas points, appears to be hit hardest.

Combined with the rail strike, the coal strike is entering into the transportation question, several roads being hard pinched for fuel.

Today's reports in other sections show:

St. Louis—The Missouri, Kansas & Texas has cancelled 42 local trains and the Wabash 24 due to coal shortage. The St. Louis & San Francisco will cancel 26 trains Thursday.

Oklahoma City—Wichita Falls & Northwestern has cancelled six passenger trains and the Midland Valley two, because of the shop strike. Six Missouri, Kansas & Texas trains cancelled in this section.

Omaha—The Omaha railroad commission refused to permit the Union Pacific to annul three passenger trains.

Dallas—One Texas & Pacific train between Denison and Sherman has been annulled; 16 Missouri, Kansas & Texas trains in this section; four passenger trains converted into mixed service.

More Cancelled.

Kansas City.—The St. Louis & San Francisco road will annul 26 trains tomorrow. The Missouri, Kansas & Texas annulled five trains at Sedalia, Mo., because of the shop strike, one Wabash train cancelled because of coal shortage.

Cincinnati.—Two Baltimore & Ohio trains between St. Louis and Cincinnati; two Baltimore & Ohio trains between Cincinnati and Parkersburg, W. Va.; two Baltimore and Ohio trains between Cincinnati and Toledo; and two on the Cincinnati, Indianapolis & Western between Cincinnati and Chicago cancelled because of rail strike.

Violence during the 24 hours ending tonight was confined mostly to the firing of the few shots in scattered sections and in one or two instances the whipping of workers by strike sympathizers.

8 INCH RAIN FALLS IN LESS THAN 1 HOUR

Homes Wrecked by Winds; Towns Isolated

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Texas, July19.—A cloudburst and cyclonic winds are reported to have struck Thornton, Texas, at 6:30 p. m. tonight. Reports say several houses have been blown down and windows all over the city shattered from large hail stones accompanying the storm when 8.35 inches of rain fell in 40 minutes.

Outlying districts are cut off but it is believed tremendous damage has been done.

Latest reports say that three large houses and numerous small dwellings were blown away. It is reported hardly a window escaped the hail. Shade trees over the city were literally stripped of all foliage, many being blown up by the roots.

The storm struck from the northeast lasting about 40 minutes.

Calvert Hit

Reports received at Calvert, 30 miles south of Thornton say that the fruit crop in that section has been almost totally destroyed. The little town of Oletha, 12 miles north of Thornton, is cut off from communication and it is believed heavy damage has been wruoght as the storm struck from that direction. Wires are down and surrounding territory has not been heard from.

Groesbeck, in the same county, reports a sand storm of considerable proportion at about the same time there, but no rain fell. The winds, while strong, did little damage, it is reported.

Storm warnings were issued early tonight at Beaumont for points along the coast, a report here says.

COAL OUTPUT GROWING LESS

Strikes Hampering Production

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—While government interest in the industrial situation continued to be centered today chiefly in the coal strike and particularly in the reaction from President Harding's invitation to governors of coal producing states to co-operate with him in the attempt to open the mines, evidence was not lacking that the coal and railroad strikes were co-related in effect.

Unofficial reports brought further details of reduction in coal output, because of inadequate car supply, and it was said that production was tending to be more than ever confined to non-union fields.

Two Decline.

With two exceptions, the governors who replied to President Harding's telegram today pledged their unqualified co-operation and support to the government. Governor Morrison of North Carolina replied in a decided negative, asserting that so far as he knew there were no strike troubles in the mining industry of that state and it would be a "vain thing" for him to "invite coal miners to return to work."

"I would not do so any way," Governor Morrison was quoted as saying.

Governor Trinkle, of Virginia, in his reply, called attention to the small amount of coal produced in that state.

Thermometer Does Tailspin as Breeze Brings Panting City Relief

Wichita Falls summer weather made a record Wednesday when the mercury fell 13 degrees from 3:30 until 3:59 in the afternoon. Old timers here said they had never before known such a rapid fall of the summer temperature in such a short time.

The weather started off at 80 degrees at 6:30 in the morning when most people were eating breakfast then rose rapidly until about 8:30, when it stood on the 90 degree line. From that time the heat grew more intense until the mercury reached 108 degrees, for the second time this year. The maximum was reached at 3 o'clock, then a short sandstorm, blowing just a little east of north, swooped down, evidently coming from out of a rain cloud and the mercury began to do a tail spin with almost airplane rapidity. In the next 20 minutes it dropped to 93 degrees. Later in the day, the mercury climbed slowly to 97 where it lingered for several hours. A breeze prevailed through most of the afternoon

POLITICS RIFE IN VERNON NOW

Campaign Hottest in Years

By ERIC SCHROEDER.

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, July 19.—Not in years has Wilbarger county political interest reached the heights it has assumed in 1922. Never, it may be stated with assurance, has such spirited competition been offered for important and minor offices alike, and the average citizen on local streets has come to view with suspicion the efforts of even the most casual acquaintance to be friendly. Handshaking is the order of the day, and Wilbarger arms pump madly up and down as owners listen to the Elysium tales of favorite candidates.

The story is going the rounds of two farmers standing on the curb in Vernon this week:

"I understand," said one, "that there is considerable mud slingin' going on in this political campaign."

"I dunno if it's mud slingin' or not," replied the other with a twinkle in his eye, "but I notice there ain't none of them suein' the others for slander."

Feverish last minute teforts characterizes the activities of the candidates this week. Rural communities also are being canvassed, even the most remote possibilities eagerly solicited, and townspeople are submitting to much enthusiastic thumping on the back.

Perhaps the most poignant interest can be found centered in the race for sheriff. Three candidates, W. A. Ish, Frank Edmonson and R. H. Bratton are seeking this office, Mr. Ish for re-election. There has been no mincing of opinions by friends of the three aspirants, and all are freely predicting victory. Mr. Ish has served a term and a half as sheriff, Mr. Edmonson is a former local deputy and private detective, and has recently been connected with the office of the sheriff at Breckenridge. Mr. Bratton is former city marshal of Vernon.

There is spirited competition as well for the office of tax collector. Mrs. D. J. Wilhelm of Faro, N. P. Whiteside, C. M. Blair of Vernon and Gilford McCarroll of this city, are the candidates. Mr. Blair is seeking re-election. All have many close friends in the county.

The office of public weigher, too, is being eagerly sought. Those desiring to serve thus are M. L. Walker, J. L. Reed, W. W. Gilbert, E. D. Vaughn, M. T. Havis, A. Paul Castleberry and J. G. Bryant. Mr. Sneed is seeking reelected.

Other county offices and those seeking them are:

County tax assessor, S. E. Porterfield and I. Lee Bryant; county clerk, J. W. Brock, Jr., and Miss Verna Tacky; county superintendent of schools, L. A. Holler; county treasurer, W. C. Alderman and Arthur Orr; county judge, E. L. McHugh; county attorney, John A. Storey and C. O. McCurdy; commissioner, precinct No. 1, A. M. Bourland and R. J. Byars; commissioner precinct No. 2, W. G. McDonald, Dr. J. L. Tull and D. A. McCaleb; commissioner precinct No. 3, Sidney Areber and J. R. White; commisioner precinct No. 4, R. Cobb, A. P. Mason and W. B. Douglas.

District Judge Race Close.

Candidates for district judge are M. M. Hankins of Quanah, Robert Cole of Crowell, James V. Leak of Memphis, O. T. Warlick of Vernon, and W. G. Gross of Childress. A. C. Nicholson of this city is the only candidate for district attorney. T. J. Griffins and W. D. Hollars are candidates for justice of the peace, precinct No. 1. C. A. Richie will be re-elected as district clerk.

Voters at Wilbarger county polls Saturday will have a total of ninety-four names to consider. Election returns will be flashed on a screen in the evening by both local newspapers and arrangements are being perfected to care for the largest audience in the history of local "politicaldom."

FIND BODY OF BABY FLOATING IN SEWER

Special to the Record News.

TEXARKANA, July 19.—Sewer workers tending the grates at the disposal plant were horrified here when they found the floating of a girl baby. A number of bodies have been discovered here in this manner recently.

Every effort is being made to trace the parentage of the infant, but little hope is held out. In the future more rigid investigations are to be made in all such cases, local officers declare.

FUEL SHORTAGE IN STATE IS FEARED

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, July 19.—An acute shortage in fuel oil and coal is likely to develop in Texas within the next week or ten days, due to the scarcity of tank and coal cars as a result of the traffic tie-up resulting from the railroad shopmen's strike, according to fuel oil and coal officials here. The fuel oil supply has been dwindling and but few tank cars are moving at present, they declare.

The coal shortage is not expected to have any great influence on the industrial situation as but comparatively few industries in the state use coal, it was added.

Its free importation is said to play havoc with the business of the independent producer. All the people eat meat. All the people wear clothes. All the people buy shoe leather. All these are to be tariff taxed. Now why is Mexican crude on the free list? The writer merely asks for information. He isn't an oil producer. He is not the owner of oil stocks. He just wants to know, don't you know.

CANDIDATES FOR THE LEGislature must win a majority vote to nominate. It is a pity that there isn't a powerful minority power in Texas. Then a nomination would not be the equivalent of an election and there would be fewer snow-birds sent to Austin to make laws for the people. A legislative snow-bird is about as valuable at Austin as a tom-tit would be in the nest of an eagle.

GOVERNOR NEFF IS GOING to close his campaign at Bonham and Major Fred Rogers is growling about it. Rogers should close his campaign at Waco. This would make it fifty-fifty and Neff wouldn't care.

POLITICS IS A FUNNY GAME and this is a funny old world.

There are many funny people in it and two or three are candidates for United Statest senator. They are telling the people just what they intend to do should the people send them to Washington. One distinguished gentleman is going to reduce the freight rates, cut them to the bone and he is telling railroad employees that he is for high wages and that a sweeping reduction in freight rates is the only way for the aforesaid employes to get what is coming to them. Another distinguished seeker for a senatorial toga is going to make all the farmers and live stock producers rich by taxing them and all their fellow citizens. This is what he promises: "When I get to Washington and I find that the tariff is too high, I will lower it and when I find that it is too low, I will raise it." Another distinguished gentleman is going to restore normalcy and make all the people here at home prosperous and peaceful and happy and lazy by making aliens kneel and kiss the American flag on the arrival at an American port of entry. This will banish illiteracy from the heart of America, bludgeon superstition and make all the people intellectuals at one full swoop of the senatorial wand. Another distinguished gentleman is going to pay off the war debt by letting loose rivers of beers and lakes of wine. Another is going to save posterity and the American flag by collecting twelve billion dollars in foreign loans a day or two after he has landed in the senate. He will distribute six billions of this vast amount to the former service men and place the other six billions in the federal treasury to the credit of the dear people with a warning to Wall street and its big bankers that they will be blown into hell if they attempt another deflation campaign and there are some funny paign. Yes, politics is a funny people playing the game.

MAYFIELD FOR FARM CREDITS

Wants Esch-Cummins Law Repealed

Special to the Record News.

HILLSBORO, July 19.—Speaking here last night in behalf of his candidacy for the United States senate, Earle B. Mayfield stressed the necessity of the restoration of rate-making powers to the Texas commission as the principal issue in the senatorial race.

"We can expect no substantial and permanent relief from present high rail rates," he said, "until the Esch-Cummins law is repealed and congress defines clearly what is state commerce and what is interstate commerce, and limits the powers of the interstate commerce commission so that it cannot destroy the rate-making powers of the state commission as it did in the Shreveport rate case. My candidacy is committed to that undertaking."

that he had never heard a single man stand up and call Earle B. Mayfield a clean, moral man, but that he had heard it said of him many times, "he will not do." Mr. Weeks discussed the other candidates briefly, then introduced Judge C. F. Spencer of this city. Judge Spencer made a very short talk in which he praised Cullen F. Thomas and his record and then said that the speaker of the evening, Judge McCullough was well known and that his record was such that anything he might say would be true. He then introduced Judge McCullough.

Declaring that "the United States shipping board officials have turned bootleggers and have sold the honor of America to the liquor interests and ought to be wearing stripes," Judge McCullough said that those who say the liquor question is not an issue in this campaign are trying to fool somebody.

He quoted an article from the New York Times, which said that the liquor interests are making the most desperate fight of their history to get modified liquor laws and named Texas as one of the states from which they counted on electing a senator friendly to them.

Plays Ousley's Stand

Judge McCullough discussed the various candidates. He told of Clarence Ousley's open work for the liquor interests and flayed Ousley's protective tariff stand. He said the proposed tariff to protect the farmers would not protect the farmers. He said corn and cotton need no protective tariff because when the farmers make a bumper crop of corn here it goes down to 10 and 15 cents a bushel and nobody would ship it in for that price. He said there is no competition in the kinds of cotton we raise, but that the so-called protection on the raw material is in reality protection for the manufacturer on the finished article.

Judge McCullough laid stress in the beginning on the fact that this nation and the entire world is now in the most trying period of history. He said that every nation is looking to the United States for help. He declared that it was our munitions and our guns that wrecked Europe and that if we failed to help Europe now de would not be human and would show an un-American spirit. He said that he would never desert the flag of Woodrow Wilson and the league of nations.

What Candidates Offer

After picturing the conditions of the whole world as shaky, Judge McCullough showed that each candidate offers as a remedy. He said Bob Henry is going up and down the land with a fiery cross in one hand and his platform in another and saying "For these things vote for me." He said Henry would be the last man in the race.

He discussed Ferguson's record briefly and showed how he has always stood for the liquor interests and against what he said are the sacred things for which good people stand.

After quoting the record on Earle Mayfield as to his connections with anti-prohibition and showing that in every instance where Mayfield voted for regulatory measures the "antis" practically all voted that way because they were seeking to regulate to save their hides. Judge McCullough showed a letter from the Woman's Christian Temperance union stating that Mayfield stood against prohibition. He then showed where Cullen F. Thomas has fought for 20 years to down the liquor traffic has fought for woman suffrage and for the purity of the homes. He said Thomas has given his time freely and spoken for more platforms than any other man in the state against liquor and for the things that are just. In conclusion he said: "There is an organization that has as it's slogan 100 per cent Americanism the purity of the home and christianity. If this organization is sincere then let them vote for the man who has stood for 20 years for all they stand for. To repudiate Cullen F. Thomas is to repudiate all we have fought for during 20 years." He said to vote for Mayfield is to vote for a man who does not stand for those great things for which Christian people have fought so hard.

record that the man has made speaks for itself.

He is nearing the end of his first term. He has moved slowly and he has acted cautiously. He has studied the economic and educational needs of the people and he has never lost his head. He dismissed the pardon board. He has granted mighty few pardons to convicts. He has not been handled by lawyers who in other days were pardon brokers nor has he permitted political, church or financial influence to win pardons or paroles for persons convicted of crime. He is the friend and not the enemy of education. He is for the education of all the children of all the people. He is for law enforcement and drastic law enforcement at that. He would have the lawmakers enact a statute which would empower the attorney general to file ouster proceedings against a sheriff or a district or a county attorney who refused to enforce the laws of the commonwealth.

There are men who say there are counties in Texas where a certain secret organisation controls the police department and the constabulary and sworn officials wink at violations of the law. Now why shouldn't there be a law enacted that would enable the attorney general to file ouster proceedings against all officials who are derelict or wink at crime? Just why should they be kept in office if they are false to their oaths and permit the statues to be trampled in the mire?

It requires two years for a man who has been elected to the office of governor to thoroughly familiarize himself with all the needs of the people and the details of government.

Governor Neff is before the people with a constructive building program which should appeal to all men and women who wish to see Texas take its proper place among the great commonwealths of America. This program calls for an educational system, modern to the last word and of the highest; a state highway building program that would place Texas near the head of the list; a law enforcement program that would do away with mobs and river bottom justice; a conservation and reclamation program that would add millions of acres to the tillable lands of the state by the impounding of flood waters; the creation of immense catch basins or storage lakes and by the construction of dykes or levees to prevent the overflow of valley or river bottom land.

This is a constructive program and Texas needs it. There hasn't been a constructive program submitted to the lawmakers of Texas for many, many years. It is high time that something is done for the development of the latent resources of this imperial state, for an educational system that will place Texas in the lead and not away down in the list and for a gigantic program that will reclaim semi-arid wastes and also protect the owners of lowland farms from financial disaster which now threatens them every year.

Lest we forget, constructive brains will be needed next winter under the big dome in the city of Austin. Men of vision, men who are constructive, men who have no time for the shrill shiek of the bigot or the blatant voice of the shallow demagogue, are the men who are needed in house and senate of the thirty-eighth general assembly. There are many candidates offering for these legislative places the state over. If the people are wise, they will pick men who are thinking of the future and not of the past. They will not pick those who are time servers or noisy ranters. They will pick men who are builders, men who wish to see their state go forward, men who are ever opposed to cranks or crank legislation. There will be a lot of work cut out for the successful candidates for the senate and the house. Prohibition isa settled issue. Equal Prohibition is a settled issue. Equal happened 200 years or 20 years ago doesn't concern the people who are earth today. They wish to place Texas first as to educational advantages. They wish to place Texas first as to modern highways and a state system that will be second to none. They wish to reclaim millions of acres of arid lands by the magical flow of impounded water. They wish to reclaim millions of acres of swamp lands by a system of irrigation. They wish an impartial enforcement of the written laws of Texas and the elimination of mobocracy and its champions. Why not vote for Texas?

Duncan Relieves Water Situation

Special to the Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., July 17.—What looked to be a critical condition in the water situation in Duncan a few weeks ago has been relieved by the deepening of the several municipal wells that has increased the flow to the extent that there is now plenty of water for domestic uses and fire protection. The municipal plant has ample pumping power, a storage tank of over a million gallons capacity and now with plenty of water supply there will be plenty to afford Duncan's needs.

Two Wells in at Electra

NEW PRODUCER AT 1500 FEET

South Electra Gets New Shallow Well

The second producer in the new 1500-foot sand of the South Electra pool, and another nice well in the 1900-foot sand the first of the week, and is a 100-barrel well.

The No. 28 Burnett, Lease A, sand at 1940 feet, is a 600-barrel well.

These will be the last completions of the Griswold Oil company until conditions in the oil market are bettered. The No. 11 Bryan-Burnett is on the 1900-foot sand, but will be shut down. The No. 12 on the same lease is also shut down on the 1900-foot sand.

The Griswold company's daily production is now around 2,000 barrels.

MARLYAND TANK FARM IS BEGUN

Increased Capacity a Million Barrels

Special to the Record News.

PONCA CITY, July 19.—Construction has started on 1,820,000 barrels of steel storage tanks for the Marland Refining company here, including twenty-four tanks of 80,000 barrels capacity each, to be erected on the Handley farm, recently purchased in the southwest of section 33-26-2 east, adjoining Ponca City on the southwest. These tanks become really an extension south of the Cresent tank farm here.

To build these tanks will require 230 tons of steel to each, or a total of 5,520 tons, or estimated at 300 carloads. The cost is placed at 35 cents a barrel, or a total of $672,000. Work has started on the first four so far as grading and excavating are concerned and the bottom has been laid for one. The tanks are to be finished in the following order—the first by August 15, and the remainder at the rate of one each ensuing ten days.

The present tank farm has a storage capacity of 1,433,000 barrels, and the completion of the addition will more than double, or a total of 2,353,000 barrels. The present farm includes four 5,000-barrel tanks, six 10,000, ten 64,000s, fifteen 66,000s, and four 55,000s. Twelve of the new tanks will be for crude oil and storage and twelve for gasoline and kerosene. The steel is now on the ground for three of the new tanks.

THIRTEEN BURBANK WELLS ARE COMPLETED

Thirteen additional wells were completed in the Burbank or western Osage pool, the past week, including four by Cosden, as follows: No. 9, in northeast 6-26-6 east for 330 barrels, the No. 11, same quarter, for 420 barrels, the No. 14, same quarter, for 330 barrels, and the No. 4 in northwest 31 for 170 barrels.

The Sinclair Oil company completed two: No. 12 in northeast 32-27-6 for 1,000 barrels and the No. 3 in southeast 30 for 420 barrels. Friedman No. 10, 18 northeast 5-26-6 for 250 barrels, and Producers & Refiners No. 13 in northwest 31 for 170 barrels.

Marland and Gardner have just completed the No. 9 in 1-23-5 east for 1,600 barrels.

NEW LOCATIONS INDICATE ACTIVITY

The Marland Oil company is having the slush pond dug for a test on the L. U. Cole farm, 3 miles northeast of Newkirk, the Carter Oil company is drilling at 1,700 feet on the O. P. Smith farm, in 8-28-3 east, northeast of Newkirk.

The Blackell Oil and Gas company has made the location for Nos. 5 and 6 on the Ruzek farm, in northeast 3-24-1 west, in the Bliss-Tonkawa field. This is the same section where the Comar Oil company has a good well on the Carmichael farm.

The Autwine wildcat by Marland, Spencer and others, in southwest 13-26-1 westt, reached a depth yesterday of 2,484 feet. A producing oil sand has been anticipated at about this depth.

The Kay County Gas company, the pipe line department of Marlands, has posted a price of $1.75 a barrel for crude oil.

2,000 Barrel Well In at Mirando City

Special to the Record News.

LAREDO, July 19.—There is much excitement here over the bringing in at Mirando City, near here, of Kanoka well No. 1 with a flow of 2,000 barrels from the 1600-foot sand.

Big oil men from all over the country are pouring in here and the little town of Mirando City is well crowded. Leases are selling at top prices and the spirit of speculation is on in full swing.

Drilling has been going on in this section for several years and there has been production for some time, but nothing heretofore has been brought in that can equal the Kanoka No. 1.

GRISWOLD WILL STOP DRILLING

Shut Down Will Be Only Temporary

The Griswold Oil company, one of the largest independent producers in the South Electra field, will start no new wells, and will shut down all drilling immediately, except those wells about on the top of the sand, and these will be shut down as soon as the sand is reached, and casing set and cemented. This order, issued Wednesday by S. M. Griswold, president and general manager of the company, is the first which has been announced since the strike, and other developments which have contributed to the lowered price of crude oil, but from reports current Wednesday there will be temporary shut down on a number of leases.

This action was taken by the Griswold Oil company as their part in helping prevent conditions from becoming worse, while the period of inactivity in oil shipments is in force, according to Mr. Griswold, president and general manager. The Griswold company sells practically all of its production to independent refineries, located outside Wichita Falls, delivering through a trunk line, as do many other producers.

The danger of a complete shut down in refineries, as they are unable to move their products, makes the bringing in of new producers very undesirable, as shutting in producers will damage the wells to a considerable degree.

There is no tendency among Wichita Falls operators to be panic stricken over the cuts, circumstances supporting the general belief the condition will be only temporary and that it is the natural outcome of several coincident circumstances.

GASOLINE SHORTAGE PREDICTED THIS YEAR

Special to the Record News.

TULSA, Okla., July 19.—An official of of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, who refuses to be quoted, says:

"Independent refiners should not become alarmed over the cut in the price of crude. They should hold on to their gasoline, and they will win out in the long run, before the present motoring season is over.

"The jobbers 'buying strike' is actually a 'buying strike' and when they turn over and start buying, gasoline is going to be scarce, and times will be better."

It will be extremely interesting to note if his logic is correct. With all due credence to the official, however, it looks like the independent refiners are "holding the sack."

MEXICAN OIL EXPORTS DROP

June Shipments Show Big Loss

Special to the Record News.

TAMPICO, Mexico, July 19.—Exports of petroleum for June amounting to 16,976,788 barrels show a loss of 1,621,870 barrels from May, when 18,598,758 of south country light crude, Panuco heavy crude, topped crude distillates and crude naphtha were shipped from terminals on the Panuco were shipped from terminals on the Panuco river and sea loading stations along the coast. This is the smallest amount loaded since February, when but 16,852,469 barrels crossed the bar in tankers.

For the fourth month in succession and the fifth time this year, the Huasteca Peroleum company leads list of shippers, having exported 3,193,854 barrels from Mata Redonda terminal.

The Aguilla maintained second place with 2,325,431 barrels, with the Corona company climbing from fifth in May to third place, displacing the Trans-Continental. The International moved from sixth to fifth with the Mexican Gulf dropping from fourth to sixth. The Penn-Mex Fuel company established a monthly record for itself by shipping 757,700 barrels from Tuxpam. The Panuca Boston again made shipments while the government embargo on wells and the terminal of the National Oil company continued to present their exporting.

Because of the great amount of light crude oil in storage it is not anticipated that exports for July will show any tremendous drop because of the intrusion of salt water in Toteco, bu tthat the shortage will be noticed next month.

Exports by companies for June follews: Huasteca, 3,195,845; Aguila, 2,325,431; Corona, 2,019,053; Trans-Continental, 1,452,352; Mexican Gulf, 1,150,193; Texas, 98,707; Cortez Atlantica, 911,370; Penn-Mex. 757,700; Freeport Mexican, 757,668; Agwi, 411,202; East Coast, 382,501; New England, 375,014; Island, 506,805; Tal Vez, 121,006; Inter-Ocean, 101,152; National Petroleum, 73,054; Continental Mexican, 69,416; U. The quality of the merchandise and the prices at which we are offering it in this clearance sale will impress you at once as phenominal.

This has been made possible by reason of the fact that we made two late trips to the New York market, where we were able to buy Ready-to-Wear in many instances at half and less than half of the original wholesale price. We, in turn, marked these goods with a very narrow margin of profit. We are now getting ready to open up our Piece Goods Department, and wish to make early arrangements for our fall merchandising campaign. We are therefore willing to eliminate our profit and effect a quick clearance of our stocks.

THE LOCAL RAIL POLICY

COMMISSIONER FITTS' announcement that the city officials are taking no side in the railroad strike but that the public is going to be protected, is worthy of commendation.

While the public naturally suffers, either directly or indirectly from any strike, regardless of how quiet an affair it may be, the public in many cases is made to suffer unnecessarily because of happenings between the two factions. Commissioner Fitts declared that he will disarm all persons regardless of what side they are on who are carrying weapons without a license or right to do so. Such action may prevent serious trouble and precaution is always best.

Mr. Fitts has not questioned the right of the railroad companies to arm men guarding their property if they remain on the railroad property but his statement is that anyone on public property cannot carry a weapon unless they are officers.

WHAT MAKES FAIRS?

ALL west Texas and a big part of Oklahoma appears to be entering into the spirit that has put the Texas-Oklahoma fair where it is. Various counties are preparing exhibits to be put on at the fair here and that very fact will make each exhibit that much better. Each county knows it will have keen competition and for that reason each county will try to have the best exhibit.

Exhibits are wonderful things. Taking products of all kinds collectively they make an impression that could not be made by any single product. One farmer may produce the best corn in the country and he may not think that he has done much, but when he sees his corn exhibited along with the best cotton, the best wheat, the best fruit, the best melons and cattle, etc., that other farmers have produced then he realizes that the farmers as a whole are doing good work and it is good work that makes progress.

The spirit of co-operative competition is what makes a fair successful.

WHISKEY MAKES VAGS

"EVEN the possession of whiskey constitutes vagrancy." Judge W. H. Caldwell is quoted as having made that decision in city court and said that his decision is upheld under the law of the state.

The judge's decision is not a new one, though it may be implied in a way new to some people. That whiskey will make vagrants, tramps and most anything else out of people has been known to the world for many years.

GOULD GOES TO SCOTLAND

GEORGE JAY GOULD has decided to become a citizen of Bonnie Scotland. His brilliant wife died a year ago. Now he has another wife, who was Miss Alice Sinclair, an actress of some note. George Jay is 29. When Jay Gould died George stepped into his shoes. His father was one of the most wonderful manipulators of men and makers of money America has produced. None of the big fellows ever got away with Jay Gould. Many of the big fellows got away with his son, George. By inheritance he was the uncrowned king of American railways. When the finish came he had his millions, but the big fellows had reduced him to the ranks and made him a piker. At the throne of mammon.

His father was a wizard; George Jay was a poor imitator. He has acted wisely. He has retired from business. He will live out his remaining years in Scotland, where he has a noble estate, where the sh ting is good, the fishing fine and the wine cellars of the Scotch gentry are said to be the most inviting as well as the most generously filled of any in the British isles.

Jay Gould made his first financial hit as the seller of a patent mouse trap. He became a railway king, a Napoleon of finance, a Wall street Titan and when he passed on all his sons and daughters were multi-millionaires. In his will he directed that George should sit at the head of the table and play the grand papa to all the others. George made a dismal failure. There are Goulds in France. There are Goulds in Spain. There is a Gould in Scotland, and the story has been told.

July 4 has been shoved into the background of memory by candidates for the time being. The big date of history in their estimations is July 22. It is the same old question "to be or not to be."

DRINKING BRANCH WATER IN DALLAS

FORMER District Judge Charles M. Smithdeal of Dallas not long ago publicly declared that vice was running rampant in that city. A grand jury was impanelled and Criminal Court Judge Charles M. Pippin read his charge to the inquisitorial body. An investigation was made and the grand jury reported that Dallas was spotless, that vice had been eradicated, that the devil and his agents of destruction had no habitat in the city on the banks of the Trinity and that Judge Smithdeal must have come out of a trance or a Dante's Inferno when he made his cruel accusations against the morals of the city. They painted Dallas snow white.

Bootleggers had flown, rum-runners were unknown, there were no traces found anywhere of those who walked in the primrose path of dalliance and danced at the altar or shrine of wine and women and song. According to the report, Zion City had nothing on Dallas when it comes to a spotless people and spotless environments. Of course Smithdeal came back. He said that the police commissioner had been called before the grand jury. Smithdeal had not been called and yet Smithdeal had offered to furnish big batches of evidence as well as the names of witnesses who were ready to testify. Dallas is the home of the Rev. Dr. Atticus Webb. This is one of the reasons why Dallas is sinless and stainless and the moral hope of a wicked world.

They are drinking branch water there now. In the old days they swam in oceans of beer, lakes of wine, rivers of whisky, rivulets of brandy and at intervals bathed in ice cold champagne. And yet some men say that this world is growing weaker and wickeder all the time. There is absolutely nothing to it. As exhibit A in the direct evidence against their contentions there sits Dallas, the pure, at the headwaters of Trinity navigation.

CONGRATULATIONS, FARMERS

WICHITA county farmers, according to County Agent Guy R. Jones, have the best crop prospects they have had in many years. They deserve it. The farmer is among the hardest working specimen of humanity known to mankind.

Every resident of Wichita Falls will rejoice with the farmer when he harvests and markets his big crop. When the farmer is prosperous everybody else is prosperous and when the farmer is poor every other pocketbook in the country is effected.

GOVERNORS AND THE LAW

HON. RICHARD MAYES of Navarro county, outgoing president of the Texas Bar association, flayed former Gov. W. P. Hobby and Gov. Pat M. Neff for having declared martial law on Galveston island and in the Mexia oil field.

Mr. Mayes says these acts were unconstitutional and unauthorized. Hi-jackers and gamblers and rum-runners and rum-sellers kicked aside all statutory laws in the Mexia fields. They were a law unto themselves. If Mr. Mayes had have been governor he would sought out the ring leader of hi-jackers and outlaws and punished him by hitting him with his hat. Laws are made to be enforced. They are made for the protection of society. They are made for the protection of life. They are made for the security of property rights.

Some law enforcement officials make use of machine guns; others use pop guns. Men who believe in law and order are for the officials who take decisive actio- and make short work of the criminals. Of course if the constitution has been violated or ravished, it is to be regretted but there is one thing certain, the lawless element disappeared from the Mexia field.

With most people, the art of raising children consists in furnishing rations and clothes and trusting God for the rest.

When a man becomes very proud of his ability, he moves to New York. His ego shrinks at once, but he soon becomes equally proud of being a New Yorker.

When people wish to praise a congressman, they do not say: "He is a wise man"; but, "Gosh, he's a slick one." And that explains much.

The Spanish Inquisition knew much concerning instruments of torture, but it is unjust to accuse it of inventing the saxophone.

Rippling Rhymes

FIFTY CENTS.

I often wonder where he is, James Bulger, once my bosom friend; along the highway he may whiz, or through the solemn forest wend. No matter where he may have trekked, through palaces or Bedouin tents, he yet at times must recollect that he still owes me fifty cents. Perhaps he flees in frenzied haste before a wild mid-ocean gale; perhaps he's in some artic waste, with polar bears upon his trail. I picture him in camp asleep, when stars peep through the cloudy rents, and when he wakes I see him weep because he owes me fifty cents. No man can have a tranquil mind, or know the peace that does not fade, if he has left some debts behind, the debts he knows he should have paid. The memory will haunt him still when he communes with other gents; and when he sleeps upon the hill, his dreams will be of fifty cents. I car not for that ancient loan, four bits won't make or break a man; but Bulger's soul must creak and groan whene'er my name haps to scan. He's lost the peace that is sublime, his halidom is full of dents, his fame is tarnished for all time because he owes me fifty cents.

DOGHILL PARAGRAFS

The Once Over

THROUGH THE GAME WITH BABE RUTH

FIRST INNING.—The Bambino came to the plate attired in a loud-colored bathrobe. He removed it revealing himself in black trunks and white shoes. The crowd cheered. He then skipped the rope nimbly for three minutes, astonishing the crowd with his display of agility. He seemed in excellent shape for battle.

After warming up he grasped a bat, took three swings at the ball, and struck out with rare precision.

SECOND INNING.—As the Babe came to the plate Umpire McGoohey stepped up and examined his hands. He claimed the bandages were too heavy. The Babe refused to remove any of the tape. An argument followed. The Babe led with his left. The umpire parried the blow and sent a right to Ruth's nose, drawing the charet. Ruth then crashed a right uppercut to the umpire's jaw for one of the cleanest knockouts seen in an American league park this season. The Babe then struck out.

THIRD INNING.—The start was delayed somewhat, due to the search for a new umpire. There were plenty of umpires on the lot, but none of them had trained for a finish fight. Hennegan was finally secured. He stripped at 178 pounuds ringside and seemed in the pink of condition. The inning was rather dull. Ruth contented himsel with shadow boxing. The umpire sparred light with Miller Huggins. The fans shouted for more action.

FOURTH INNING.—At the gong Babe rushed from the dugout to the plate, swung at the first three pitched balls and missed by a mile. The umpire called him out. Babe rushed him into neutral corner and pounded him against the ropes back of the pitcher's box. Seven players separated them. The umpire pretended to be wobbly, but as Babe rushed in to deal the knockout blow, he straightened up and caught Bambino with a sharp jab to the cheek. Ruth then drove a left to the stomach and a right to the jaw. They carried the umpire off in a blanket. It was thought he would be out for the rest of the season. So far it was the Babe's fight.

FIFTH INNING.—The opposing team refused to continue unless the Yankees would agree to a heavier umpire, and one with a championship record. After a consultation this was agreed to. Sledgehammer O'Brien, former heavyweight champion of the Pacific fleet, then signed articles to officiate the rest of the game. His weight was announced at 235½ pounds. He seemed a trifle fleshy. Ruth stepped to the plate, knocked a fessly grounder to the pitcher, who got it to first before the Babe had started to run. O'Brien called him out. Ruth hit him with the famous rabbit punch. They clinched. The combined efforts of 17 other players failed to separate them. It seemed likely the fight would have to be called on account of darkness.

Suddenly Ruth broke away, worked the one-two punch and knocked O'Brien cold. So far the Babe had played errorless fight. His hitting average, according to the umpires, was .300 if it was a thing.

SIXTH INNING.—Time out for a search for more umpires. The Babe amused the fans by punching the bag and muscling himself on a horizontal mar erected by the groundkeeper just behind the plate.

SEVENTH INNING.—Two umpires were finally drafted into service and the Babe agreed to fight them both. In fact, he seemed anxious to. At the bell the Babe hit a high fly to the third baseman, who caught it easily. Ruth rushed at Umpire Grogan for calling him out and felled him with a solar plexus punch. He then took on Umpire Guiness and put him away with a volley of lefts and rights to the chin. The score was now Ruth 5; Umpires 0.

EIGHTH INNING.—Ban Johnson and Judge Landis leaped into the ring—beg pardon—into the field and announced they would do the umpiring. The Babe seemed tickled to death. Both had a decision over the Babe, but he seemed very confident of reversing it. As all three advanced from their corners the fans were in an uproar. The referee cautioned the crowd against applauding except with the hands. Landis tapped the Babe on the cheek. As the Babe backed away, Johnson tacked one on his chin. The Babe then bellowed like a bull, swung fiercely with right and left and knocked both men over the right field fence. It was the longest drive of the season.

NINTH INNING. — The contest was too one-sided and the fans began leaving the field.

It was announced that the league had run out of umpires.

Babe then offered to fight anybody in the grand stand or bleachers. Everybody then left the field and the Babe had to content himself with boxing the bull in the Bull Durham sign in left field.

There is every indication that the Bambino will break all records by knocking out at least 75 umpires before the season ends.

The Mueker

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Billy nodded and moved off in the direction of the ranchhouse. Here he dismounted and with Eddie Shorter and Mr. Harding commenced circling the house in search of some manner of clue to the direction taken by the abductors. It was not long before they came upon the spot where the Indians' horses had stood the night before. From there the trail led plainly down toward the river. In a moment 10 Americans were following it after Mr. Harding had supplied Billy Byrne with a carbine, another six-shooter and ammunition.

Through the river and the cut in the barbed-wire fence, then up the face of the bluff and out across the low mesa beyond the trail led. For a mile it was distinct, and then disappeared as though the riders had separated.

"Well," said Billy, as the others drew around him for consultation, "they'd be goin' to the hills there. They was Pimans—Esteban's tribe. They got her up there in the hills somewhere. Let's split up an' search the hills for her. Whoever comes on 'em first'll have to do some shootin' and the rest of us can close in an' help. We can go in pairs—then if one's killed the other can ride out an' lead the way back to where it happened."

The men seemed satisfied with the plan and broke up into parties of two, Eddie Shorter paired off with Billy Byrne.

"Spread out," said the latter to his companions. "Eddie an' I'll ride straight ahead—the rest of you fan out a few miles on either side of us. S'long an' good luck," and he started off toward the hills, Eddie Shorter at his side.

Back at the ranch the Mexican vaqueros lounged about, gramubling. With no foreman there was nothing to do except talk about their troubles. They had not been paid since the looting of the bank at Cuivaca, for Mr. Harding had been unable to get any silver from elsewhere until a few days since. He now had assurances that it was on the way to him; but whether or not it would reach El Orobo was a question.

"Why should we stay here when we are not paid?" asked one of them.

"Yes, why?" chorused several others.

"There is nothing to do here," said another. "We will go to Cuivaca. I, for one, am tired of working for the gringos."

This met with the unqualified approval of all, and a few moments later the men had saddled their ponies and were galloping away in the direction of sun-baked Cuivaca. They sang now, and were happy, for they were as little boys playing hooky from school—not bad men; but rather irresponsible children.

Once in Cuivaca they swooped down upon the drinking-place, where, with what little money a few of them had left they proceeded to get drunk.

Latel in the day an old, dried-up Indian entered. He was hot and dusty from a long ride.

"Hey, Jose!" cried one of the vaqueros from El Orobo Rancho; "you old rascal, what are you doing here?"

Jose looked around upon them. He knew them all—they represented the Mexican contingent of the riders of El Orobo. Jose wondered what they were all doing here in Cuivaca at one time. Even upon a pay day it never had been the rule of El Orobo to allow more than four men at a time to come to town.

"Oh Jose come to buy coffee and Tobacco," he replied. He looked about searchingly. "Where are the others?" he asked, "—the gringos?"

"They have ridden after Esteban," explained one of the vaqueros. "He has run off with Senorita Harding."

Jose raised his eyebrows as though this was all news.

"And Senor Grayson has gone with them?" he asked. "He was very fond of the senorita."

"Senor Grayson has run away," went on the other speaker. "The other gringos wished to hang him, for it is said he has bribed Esteban to do this thing."

Again Jose raised his eyebrows. "Impossible!" he ejaculated. "And who then guards the ranch?" he asked presently.

"Senor Harding, two Mexican house servants, and a Chinaman," and the vaquero laughed.

"I must be going," Jose announced after a moment. "It is a long ride for an old man from my poor home to Cuivaca, and back again."

The vaqueros were paying no further attention to him, and the Indian passed out and sought his pony; but when he had mounted and ridden from town he took a strange direction for one whose path lies to the east, since he turned his pony's head toward the northwest.

Jose had ridden far that day, since Billy had left his humble hut. He had gone to the west to the little rancho of one of Pesita's adherents who had dispatched a boy to carry word to the bandit that his Captain Byrne had escaped the Villistas and then Jose had ridden into Cuivaca by a circultous route which brought him up from the east side of the town.

Now he was riding once again for Pesita; but this time he would bear the information himself. He found the chief in camp and after begging tobacco and a cigarette paper the Indian finally reached the purpose of his visit.

"Jose has just come from Cuivaca," he said, "and there he drank with all the Mexican vaqueros of El Orobo Rancho—all, my general, you understand. It seems that Esteban has carried off the beautiful senorita of El Orobo Rancho, and the vaqueros tell Jose that all the American vaqueros have ridden in search of her—all, my general, you understand. In such times of danger it is odd that the gringos should leave El Orobo thus unguarded. Only the rich Senor Harding, two house servants, and a Chinaman remain."

A man lay stretched upon his blankets in a tent next to that occupied by Pesita. At the sound of the speaker's voice, low though it was, he raised his head and listened. He heard every word, and a scowl settled upon his brow. Barbara stolen! Mr. Harding practically alone upon the ranch! And Pesita in possession of this information!

Bridge rose to his feet. He buckled his cartridge belt about his waist and picked up his carbine, then he crawled under the rear wall of his tent and walked slowly off in the direction of the picket line where the horses were tethered.

"Ah, Senor Bridge," said a pleasant voice in his ear; "where to?"

Bridge turned quickly to look into the smiling, evil face of Rosales.

"Oh," he replied, "I'm going out to see if I can't find some shooting. It's awfully dull sitting around here doing nothing."

"Si, senor," agreed Rosales; "I too, find it so. Let us go together—I know where the shooting is best."

"I don't doubt it," thought Bridge; "probably in the back;" but aloud he said, "Certainly, that will be fine," for he guessed that Rosales had been set to watch his movements and prevent his escape, and, perchance, to be the sole witness of some unhappy event which should carry Senor Bridge to the arms of his fathers.

Rosales called a soldier to saddle and bridle their horses and shortly after the two were riding breast down the trail out of the hills. Where it was necessary that they ride in single file Bridge was careful to see that Rosales rode ahead, and the Mexican graciously permitted the American to fall behind.

If he was inspired by any other motive than simple espionage he was evidently content to bide his time until chance gave him the opening he desired, and it was equally evident that he felt as safe in front of the American as behind him.

At a point where a ravine down which they had ridden debouched upon a mesa Rosales suggested that they ride to the north, which was not at all the direction in which Bridge intended going. The American demurred.

"But there is no shooting down in the valley," urged Rosales.

"I think there will be," was Bridge's enigmatical reply, and then, with a sudden exclamation of surprise he pointed over Rosales' shoulder. "What's that?" he cried in a voice tense with excitement.

The Mexican turned his head quickly in the direction Bridge's index finger indicated.

"I see nothing," said Rozales, after a moment.

"You do now, though," replied Bridge, and as the Mexican's eyes returned in the direction of his companion he was forced to admit that he did see something — the dismal, hollow eye of a six-shooter looking him straight in the face.

"Senor Bridge!" exclaimed Rozales. "What are you doing? What do you mean?"

"I mean," said Bridge, "that if you are at all socicitous of your health you'll climb down off that pony, not forgetting to keep your hands above your head when you reach the ground. Now climb!"

Rozales dismounted.

"Turn your back toward me," commanded the American, and when the other had obeyed him. Bridge dismounted and removed the man's weapons from his belt. "Now you may go, Rozales," he said, "and should you ever have an American in your power again remember that I spared your life when I might easily have taken it—when it would have been infinitely safer for me to have done it."

The Mexican made no reply but the black scowl that clouded his face boded ill for the next gringo who should be so unfortunate as to fall into his hands. Slowly he wheeled about and started back up the trail in the direction of the Pesita camp.

"I'll be halfway to El Orobo," thought Bridge, "before he gets a chance to tell Pesita what happened to him," and then he remounted and rode on down into the valley, leading Rozales' horse behind him.

It would never do, he knew to turn the animal loose too soon, since he would doubtless make his way back to camp, and in doing so would have to pass Rozales who would catch him. Time was what Bridge wanted—to be well on his way to Orobo before Pesita should learn of his escape.

Bridge knew nothing of what had happened to Billy, for Pesita had seen to it that the information was kept from the American. The latter had, nevertheless, been worrying not a little at the absence of his friend for he knew that he had taken his liberty and his life in his hands to ride down to El Orobo among avowed enemies.

Far to his rear Rozales plodded sullenly up the steep trail through the mountains, revolving in his mind various exquisite tortures he should be delighted to inflict upon the next gringo who came into his power.

CHAPTER XVI.

Eddie Makes Good.

Billy Byrne and Eddie Shorter rode steadily in the direction of the hills. Upon either side and at intervals of a mile or more stretched the others of their party, ocasionally visible; but for the most part not. Once in the hills the two could no longer see their friends or be seen by them.

Both Byrne and Eddie felt that chance had placed them upon the right trail for a well-marked and a canyon along which they rode. It long-used path wound upward thru was an excellent location for an ambush, and both men breathed more freely when they had passed out of it into more open country upon a narrow tableland between the first foothills and the main range of mountains.

Here again was the trail well marked, and when Eddie, looking ahead, saw that it appeared to lead in the direction of a vivid green spot close to the base of the gray brown hills he gave an exclamation of assurance.

"We're on the right trail all right, old man," he said. "They're over there," and he pointed ahead at the

Famous Film Stars' Favorite Coiffures

AGNES AYRES

"I am particularly fond of a coiffure in which my hair is dressed very close to my head," explained Agnes Ayres, Paramount picture star, in discussing hair dressing.

The wavy marcel breaks the harshness of such a close hairdress, which is further softened by the little curly bangs which partly cover the forehead. No false hair is required and the hair is very easily arranged in this fashion. The lines are smooth and the general effect harmonious.

FAVORITE RECIPES OF FAMOUS WOMEN

No. 33—By MRS. ALBERT SYDNEY BURLESON
(Wife of Postmaster General in President Wilson's Cabinet)

War Bread

Two cups cornmeal.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Two tablespoonfuls melted lard.

Scald the meal, thin with cold water to a thick batter, mold into cakes the size of a large batter cake and the thickness of a thin biscuit, and fry brown on both sides. Then run the griddle iron into a warm oven and bake for about twenty minutes. The result is something between a Mexican tortilla and an old fashioned cornpone, without the flabbiness of the one or the underdone taste of the other.

Little Stories For Bedtime

A NEWCOMER IN THE OLD ORCHARD.

Where he came from no one knew. The Old Orchard simply awoke one morning to find him there. He was bustling about quite as if he intended to stay. He wasn't the least bit bashful as most newcomers to the Old Orchard were. In fact, he acted for all the world as if he always had lived there, was one of the old residents. He wasn't very big, indeed, he was small compared with some of the other folks who live in the Old Orchard, and he wasn't at all handsome. But it was very clear to all that he cared nothing about how he looked and that his small size didn't trouble him the least little bit.

Of course everybody hurried to look him over as soon as it was known that he had arrived. You know it is always that way whenever a stranger comes to any neighborhood, and usually it is a very trying experience for a stranger. But it did not seem to be for this one. He bustled around just as if there was no one about, and if he saw all the sharp eyes watching him, as, of course, he did, he made no sign. He flew from tree to tree inspecting each one carefully with his sharp eyes and in the most business-like way. He paid particular attention to every hole in them. Now some of these holes were deserted houses and some were occupied for the summer, but it seemed to make no difference to him. He poked his head in at the doorways of the houses where people were living quite as boldly as of houses that were empty, and didn't even say "Beg pardon," or "Excuse me."

All the time he did a great deal of talking to himself and his voice was not at all pleasant. Not once did he sing or even try to sing. The little people who had lived in the Old Orchard for so long didn't know just bustled right past as if he didn't see them at all. He didn't so much as nod his head in greeting. Of course this was no way to make friends. No one else who had come to the Old Orchard had acted that way. t was very clear to everyone that he didn't care whether he made friends with them or not. He acted as if he thought that the Old Orchard belonged to him and as if he intended to do just as he pleased.

Of course, all those who were living in the Old Orchard forgot their own affairs in watching this newcomer and in talking over among themselves his strange ways.

"I don't like his looks," said Welcome Robin. "He doesn't look to me as if he belongs among us at all. He looks to me like a foreigner." You know a foreigner is somebody from a distance country.

"He certainly is very untidy and his voice isn't at all pleasant," said gentle Winsome Bluebird in his soft voice. "But perhaps he is much nicer than he appears. You know you cannot always tell what people really are by the way they dress. If he is going to make his home here I hope he will prove to be nicer than he appears."

"He's got the worst manners I ever have seen," sputtered Jenny Wren. "Why, he actually tried to poke his head in at my door this morning and then got into a great rage because it was too small! He acted just as if he had a perfect right to come into my house without so much as an invitation."

"He did the same thing at my house, only my door was big enough for him to put his head in, and he seemed to get terribly angry because I was living there. I wonder who he is anyway, and where he comes from," said Skimmer the Swallow.

"I'm going to find out," replied Jenny Wren in the most decided way. And because Jenny Wren believes in doing things promptly she flew over to the old apple tree in the far corner, where the stranger was inspecting an old home of Drummer the Woodpecker. If any one could make the stranger talk it was Jenny Wren.

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord

A New Tread—a Lower Price
Reliable Goodyear Quality

Here is a new Goodyear Cord Tire—a big, sturdy, long-wearing tire—that sells at a price lower than you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown value.

It has a different tread from the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread Cord—a new tread with a deep, clean-cut, cog-like pattern—and it sells for from 20 to 25% less.

It has in it the same high-grade long-staple cotton, the same Goodyear patented group-ply construction, the same liberally oversize dimensions.

When you buy the 4½-inch size, for example, you get a tire whose actual measurement is nearly 5 inches.

Don't confuse this Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord with other popular-price cords which sell at the same price or for slightly more.

In many cases, these other cords are made of inferior materials, with short-staple cotton as a foundation.

Get the tire that is good enough to carry the Goodyear name, that is built to safeguard the world-wide Goodyear reputation.

All of the Goodyear Service Station Dealers listed here have the Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord, as well as the famous All-Weather Tread Cord, ready for you now.

Compare these prices with NET prices you are asked to pay for "long discount" tires

FASHIONS

Delightfully frilly is the party frock shown in the sketch for a two to four year old girl. The sleeves are cut in one with the dress, that is, they are not of the set-in type. The narrow ruffles set into the sleeve and shoulder seam and standing perkily up on the shoulder gives the frock a little out-of-the-ordinary look. And two extra ruffles are added to the skirt at either side, making a sort of back and front panel effect. This little dress could be made of georgette or crepe de chine with very good effect, the only trimming touch being the little ribbon flowers in contrasting color set on where the side ruffles end both at the front and back. The dress is fastened with a tiny ribbon bow at the neck in the back.

These little sheer frocks are more often than not accompanied by matching hats or bonnets. There is quite a fancy for hats to match coats and wraps, whether these are designed for summer or cold weather wear. A smart rose pink taffeta coat for a three-year-old, seen recently, had a tam crowned hat to match, both hat and coat being trimmed only with lattice work bands of self fabric. The tam crown had an insertion of the lattice work, the brim being plain, and both sides of the coat in front were bordered with the lattice bands, the same finish being accorded bottom of coat, sleeves and turn-down collar.

Frocks of the frilly type and those of the tailored and sports type share honors for members of the younger set. Among the sports frocks or suits that have found favor this season are the bright checked flannel smocks to be worn over white linen or flannel knickers. Frequently a circular cape matching the knickers is made a part of the outfit. Such a costume is excellent for motoring. Bright red or green flannel is also combined with white linen or white self fabric in the development of these practical outfits.

PAINS ACROSS SMALL OF BACK

Husband Helped in Housework. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Strong

Foster, Oregon.—"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for pains across the small of my back. They bothered me so badly that I could do my work only with the help of my husband. One day he saw the 'ad.' in our paper telling what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is doing for women, so I began to take it. It has helped me wonderfully. I am feeling fine, do all my housework and washing for seven in the family. I have been irregular too, and now am all right. I am telling my friends what it has done for me and am sure it will do good for others. You can use this letter as a testimonial. I will stand up for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound any time."—Mrs. Wm. Juhnke, Foster, Oregon.

Doing the housework for a family of seven is some task. If you, as a housewife, are troubled with backache, irregularities, are easily tired out and irritable, or have other disagreeable ailments caused by some weakness, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. Let it help you.

The Domestic Science Expert Says—

"There are two things all women should know about ice.

"One is that the economical way to use ice is to keep the ice chamber of the refrigerator well filled. Ice does not melt so rapidly then.

"The other is that in hot weather or cold ice is a mighty small investment for the big protection it brings—protection of food, health and comfort."

Scrapping Spuds Stage Strong Comeback in 12-2 Win

MOKAN HURLS SECOND FOUR HIT GAME OF SEASON AGAINST GIANTS ON THEIR HOME LOT

Spuds Stage Encounters With Players and Umps; Kitchens, Bescher, Tanner and Salm Chased as Old-Time Fight Shows Up; Russell Driven From Mound in Eighth.

Special to The Record News.

DALLAS, July 19.—Mokan hurled his second four-hit game of the season against the Giants and incidentally won his third game in five days, having gone in and and won two games of the Fort Worth series at home.

The Spudders drove Russell from the mound in the eighth and Seifert who replaced him, fared little better. As a result, 11 runs were counted in the last two frames for a 12 - 2 win in the second game of the series.

Manager Salm was chased from the park in the eighth inning, being the fourth member of the visitors ejected from the park. Kitchens and Segrist staged a short fistic encounter at the plate in the first inning and both were chased. In the second, Bescher charged Russell with a bat and was escorted out by half a dozen police-

Summary: Two-base hits, Beck, Galloway, Bischoff, White; three-base hits, Galloway, Summa; stolen base, Lingle, Bischoff; sacrifice hits, Donohue 2, Ruth 2, Adams, Summa, McDonald; hits and runs off Russell 9 hits, 6 runs 8 innings, (no outs in the ninth); hits and runs off Seifert 2 hits 4 runs no innings; off Hill 2 hits 2 runs 1 inning; struck out, by Russell 4, by Mokan 7; base on balls, off Russell 1, off Hill 1, off Mokan 3; batsmen hit, Russell (Mokan); left on base, Dallas 5, Wichita Falls 6; double plays, Mokan to McDonald, Galloway to Stow to Galloway; umpires, Sweeney and Hill.

men. In the last half of the inning, Tanner appealed to Umpire Hill when Lovelace interfered in a double play. Hill failed to see Tanner's point and ordered him out of the park after an exchange of words.

Intermittent showers fell throughout the game and twice halted play, but the condition of the grounds did not justify calling the contest.

All these irregularities did not disturb Mokan, a youngster making his debut into baseball, and he continued his deadly hurling. As a result only four safeties were registered and seven hitters turned back at the plate via the strike-out route.

The re-arranged team following the dismissal of the players functioned with machine-like regularity and were behind the hurler all the way. Ruth had three killings in right and McDonald assumed his old time form at third.

Mokan also had a large part in winning his own game, getting two singles and was put on base again when Seifert hit him with a pitched ball.

Summa, White, McDonald, Beck and Ruth all hit opportunely and as a result, many runners chalked up. A bunting attack started the fireworks in the eighth and the Dallas infield went into the air. Three errors were charged but freak plays were in evidence and the players stood and held the ball or threw late to catch runners.

Both teams counted in the second inning. Summa beat out an infield hit and was almost caught off first when Weiss popped to third on an attempted sacrifice, but the throw was wild to first and Summa advanced to third. Beck doubled to center and Summa counted.

The Giants got their run when McDonald dropped Galloway's fly to right. Donohue sacrificed him to second and Lovelace singled to center, scoring Galloway. A run in the fourth put the Giants in the lead. Galloway shot a terrific triple to center. Donohue walked and went to second when Galloway was caught at the plate when White pulled a beautiful play to Bischoff on a grounder by Lovelace. Stow popped to Adams but Lingle singled to left and Donohue counted.

There was no m ore scoring until the Spudders started their parade in the eighth.

The game was halted for a few minutes for a hard shower in the beginning of the fifth inning. Play was resumed and the game finished without further interruption.

FIRST ROUND MATCHES FAST

Bebb Upsets Dope as Akin Goes Out First

First games in the Record News tennis tournament were played Wednesday afternoon. In one of the hardest matches played Bebb defeated Akin 1-6, 6-0, 6-3. The play was fast in every game and each point was fought for and decided by good playing. Akin went fine in the first set but seemed to slow up as the play progressed. In the final set Bebb showed rare form and took the contest.

Playing at the Thirteenth street courts, Paul Hines took two straight sets from Raymond Myers, 10-8, and 6-2. The first set went to extra games with both players showing good form, but in the second Myers let up in his pace and Hines took easy games. The heat was excessive and the contests were started with more speed than was present at the close.

Isadore Cohen took two sets from Ted Williams and won a chance at the cup. Playing hard the complete time both players put up good tennis exhibitions. The sets were 6-3, 3-6, 8-6. Maples defaulted to Kirckham.

Interest is aroused in all the matches and the games were played before large galeries. The tennis men of the city are putting in good time during the day on the courts in preparation for their matches and every court gives evidence that a tournament is in progress.

Tomorrow the doubles will start play for the cups to be awarded. With the doubles in play and the singles on the second lap the courts will be in use for the next few days with some snappy games promised.

The loving cups have been ordered and will be on display at Collier & Landon's store within the week. Trophies denoting the city championship are of the same design for the two divisions. Duplicate cups will be given the winners in doubles.

Play for the consolation prize will start as soon as the contests in the first preliminaries of the main event are completed. This prize will be a merchandise prize donated by a local sport dealer.

Games to be played today, singles: Enlow and Gordon, park; Clifford Haynes and Tatum, park.

Doubles: Gardner and Kirkpatrick vs. Ferguson and Sheldon, Thirteenth street; Waghorn and Tatum vs. Ford and Evans, 2:30, at Thirteenth street; Bebb and Ellis vs. Enlow and Denney, Thirteenth street; Hines and Haynes vs. Myers and Formeigze, at 4:00 o'clock, at Thirteenth street.

REPORTS SAY FREEMAN IS QUITTER

No Word Received From "Holly" So Far

By "SPIKE" COOPER.

Reports from Chicago yesterday told of another major league hurler who had jumped organized baseball. And that hurler was (or is) the possession of the Spudders. Alex Freeman, former Cub heaver was released to Wichita Falls in a trade for Earl Adams, star short fielder of the Spudder team. Two other players were involved in the trade and both came in per schedule. Freeman was not released at the same time as Keene and Weiss, but got his papers on July 7. Since that time, nothing definite has been heard direct from him.

Transportation was wired the hurler several days ago but he did not seem to know what it was for and several attempts to get in communication with him by Prexy Harvey were futile. The announcement from Chicago yesterday came as a complete surprise to all concerned, as Freeman was expected to join the Spudders in Dallas.

"Holly" Still Out.

Last reports from Pittsburgh, dated Friday, July 14, stated that Hollingsworth would be started to Wichita Falls not later than Saturday night. So far he has not arrived, nor has any report from him been received. He may have decided to pursue the course of Freeman and seek more lucrative positions in the outlaws.

Local team heads do not know what to say or do in regard to the two men who were expected to hurl the Spudders to a championship. Since both are the property of the Spudder team, they will both be suspended from the game if they do not see fit to come through.

Just what prompted the actions of the players is not understood. They are both youngsters and promising ones too. But a taste of the "big show" must have gone to their heads. They're maybe not as good as they admitted themselves to be. Many a good youngster has deprived himself of a wonderful opportunity by such a course.

Anyway, the two hurlers are not in the Spudder fold at present and indications now are that they will not be.

Luke Mathewsla says some girls find a man and decide to marry him, while others decide to marry and then find a man.

Your Second Tennis Lesson Is the Receiving Position

By "DON" WELDON

Equally as important as the correct service is the manner in which the service is returned. The position to take on the court depends entirely upon the speed of the service to be received. For the slow service take position half way between the service and the base line; for the swift, at the base line or at the back of the court; for the twist or cut, the same as the slow service. The feet should be held firmly in the ground and the body should face the net.

The first stroke in returning a service is probably the most difficult in the game and should be played for accuracy rather than speed. Simply try to set the ball over the net and as far back in the court as possible, giving you a chance to obtain position in the center of the base line. Remember that the harder the service the more damaging will be the return as the server must set himself to serve the swift strokes and will not be in position to take a return.

Never try to kill the ball, as to do so will send the ball in the net, but make it a point to return the ball to a position that cannot be covered by the server. A person is invariably weakest on the backhand so make that the point of attack. By changing the tactics during a game and keeping your opponent guessing you will be in a position to use any stroke with success.

Rule 3. The choice sides and the right to be server or receiver in the first game shall be decided by toss; provided that, if the winner of the toss choose the right to be server or receiver the other player shall have the choice of sides, and vise versa; or the winner of the toss may insist upon a choice by his opponent. If one player chooses a side the other may elect to serve, or not, as he wishes.

Tennis Terms

In Play. A ball is "in play" from the instant it leaves the server's hand until the point has been decided.

Volley. A stroke made by hitting a ball before it has touched the ground, except in serving.

Letters From People

BE BRIEF AND COURTEOUS

(Names of Writers Must Accompany All Letters, Although It Is Not Always Necessary That They Be Printed With Their Articles)

TRAINING CAMPS FOR DEVIL.

To the Record News:

Oh! woman where is thy shame?

American womanhood rise up, from whence thou hast fallen!

Lift up thy name oh! ye woman, and stand foursquare to all inquitious customs—and be not careless or criminal with your own reputations!

God haste the day when women shall wake up to the higher privileges of life—when they will blush to shame upon seeing a sister woman don a viciously abbreviated bathing suit, and basking in the arms of one the masculine frequenters of the bathing pool—as so many hogs in a wallow.

Can the moral woman sit still any longer because of false modesty and refuse to come to the rescue of the stalwart men of Christian character, who are battling against these and other evils of the day? No! no! a thousand times no!

"We must be up and about our father's business. We must help to mold public opinion in the more sober things of life, else woman will pitch headlong into the miry wallow of immorality, from whence she will not soon regain her poise.

If woman values not her own chastity, why can't we have some law or ordinance as our brother "Fellow Citizen," suggested in your Record News of recent date, that will protect the public against such outrages?

Let there be a fine of not less than $50 or a jail sentence imposed on every woman found exhibiting her physical make-up around public bathing pools, providing there be present members of the masculine gender.

Bridle the woman, and man will harness himself.

We hear the cry of the divorce courts. It carried us back to the near-nude demons of the bathing pools. Oh! yes, we often found among these parties, some silly little girls, and good women, but how would they like to meet God face to face, in such a garb anyway? We fear they would be worse excited than were "Adam and Eve," who really found themselves the victims of circumstances.

If you have any doubt about where you stand, take your case under advisement with God. Then if your conscience does not hurt you, you may go on sing, "Let the Rest of the World Go By."

However, if you happen to be the parent of one or more girls, you would rather see them shop-lifting, or most anything else, before becoming one of the modern day brazen imps above referred to. For beside the evil deed, they are not so vulgar and coarse, as the now so-called popular bathing beauty, whose chiefest concern is to catch the eye of the opposite sex, through the display of her near-nude figure.

We shudder beneath the horrible thought, that if some day our precious little daughters should yield to such debasing influences, in order to be with the popular set so-called, we would much prefer they had died in their infancy.

The bathing pool hilariousness is by no means the only degrading practices in the social life of today. "The movie kiss," "the motor hug," and many forms of vulgar dancing—all come in for their share of the shame.

Time was when women of the segrigated districts, and drunken men were the two greatest social perils, but added to these are the above mentioned practices, all of which silly themselves as so many "training camps for the devil." Are you on guard?

A WOMAN READER.

RECORD NEWS BOOSTED

The Record News:

In yesterday's issue of your paper I noticed a little stranger "Open Letters by Father Wichita" and wish to thank you for the complimentary notice given me in this column and will add that if any doubting personages that your business office may come in contact with question your circulation, send 'em to me. I've made a host of friends since I first visited Wichita Falls and yesterday and today as I came in contact with them they all referred to this item. Whenever a man passed me on the street and didn't refer to it I put him down as an enemy or a republican. I was disappointed this morning in glancing over the paper before sitting down to steady reading, to note that the headline of the little stranger was missing. The possibilities of such a column are great as an educational feature—to say nothing of the amusing features. A man who doesn't believe in advertising and who wouldn't give five or ten dollars for the same space would place a $50,000 valuation on it in a libel suit if something uncomplimentary were said—wouldn't give $5.00 for it and let him write his own copy.

I ran a column of this kind one time, and among others put in half a dozen complimentary notices of an old crab that never was known to thank anybody for anything—the seventh I purposely spelt his name wrong and having an odd name he hied himself to headquarters and made a roar. When his attention was called to the six others o. k. and asked if he had anything to say about them he replied: "No not necessary to say anything about them, they are all right." He was informed they were not all right but all wrong and wild sketches of the imagination—and the name didn't appear any more right or wrong. The column is a good column and there is a chance to inject lots of "pep" into it.

Yours truly,

Thanks for the swell Shrine Review article last Sunday and picture of the queen. Have mailed marked copies to all the northern Masonic papers.

Oil Belt Entry Going Strong

Iowa Park and Seymour will meet in the second of their two game series at Iowa Park today. The teams are meeting for the first time and the game today promises to be a fast one.

Iowa Park has a team which is touted to be the strongest amateur club in the oil belt, and their record would seem to uphold the contention. During the season they have played over 25 games and won all but two. These were taken by the same team which is now being challenged for a return game.

WHEAT HITS SKIDS HARD

Material Fall in Value Recorded

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19—Wheat underwent a material fall in value today chiefly as a result of assumed likelihood that the railroad strike was nearing settlement. Prices closed nervous, 7-8 to 2 1-2c net lower with September $1.10 7-8 to 1.11 and December $1.13 to 1.13 1-4. Corn gained 1-4 to 1c.

Oats lost 1- 4to 3-8c and provisions finished 7 to 20s up.

Bearish effects of talk about settlement of the railroad strike were most apparent in the July delivery of wheat. Selling pressure which became heavy at times in the wheat market was led by houses with eastern connections. Such rallies as took place were ascribed in the main to covering by shorts.

Considerable strength developed in the corn market as the result of the activity of export demand. The bullish effect was somewhat offset however, by a statement that much corn was being consigned to Europe with expectation of finding an outlet there owing to delay in the movement of Argentine corn. Oats tended down in sympathy with wheat.

Shipping call for lard was said to be expanding somewhat and offerings of all kinds of provisions were rather light.

COTTON RISES DESPITE TRADES

Market Closes at Good Advance

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Local traders in the cotton market today continued their opposition to advancing tendencies but could not prevent a general rise in prices, and the close was firm at 16 to 30 points net advance. Steady English cables and dry weather in the southwest were largely responsible for an opening advance of 14 to 17 points in the market. A subsequent upturn carried October to 22.40 and December to 22.38 from which levels there were later reactions of about 28 to 32 points under selling by room traders. Afternoon reports of shedding and high temperatures in Texas led to a renewal of buying that advanced October to 22.36 and December to 22.92.

Exports 9,349 bales, making 5,963,329 so far this season. Port receipts 3,944. United States port stocks 550,141.

COAL SITUATION IN TEXAS UNAFFECTED

By Associated Press

DALLAS, July 19.—Efforts of President Harding to secure resumption of coal mining is not expected to materially affect the coal industry in Texas. Union miners, numbering less than 2,000, have been on strike for more than a year. Several of the smaller mines were opened about three months ago on an open shop basis and are reported operating on a reduced personnel, while one of the larger mines is working union men under a special agreement.

WALL STREET IS OPTIMISTIC

Stock Exchange Still Going Strong

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Wall street's belief in an early solution of domestic economic problems again was indicated today by the further strength and greater activity of dealings on the stock exchange.

Disregarding additional widespread cuts in crude oil products, diminution of industrial operations because of coal shortage and the firmer tone of the money market, prices of many investment and speculative shares registered material gains.

The movement was broader than yesterday's, encompassing numerous high grade rails, as well as coalers, shippings, coppers and the better class of specialties, with a marked revival of interest in foreign oils.

"Mexpet" Active

Of the latter, Mexican petroleum was most conspicuous, asserting some of last months strength at an extreme advance of 9 points and net gain 6 points. Pan-American, General Asphalt, some of the low grade domestic oils, notambly, Cosden, were in fair demand.

United States steel improved fractionally, the buying probably being based on prospects of a good showing in the report for the second quarter to be issued next week. Crucible, Vanadium and the various independent steel shares held firm to strong and the inquiry for coppers accompanied reports of a better domestic and foreign demand for metals.

Realizing for profits manifested itself in the last hour, ith Studebaker, several motor accessories and leading equipments as the most vulnerable issues. Reactions of one to almost three points in those stocks caused moderate irregularity at the close. Sales amounted to 785,000 shares.

Davidson Proving Popular in West Section of State

East Texan Makes Many New Friends Because of Proven Ability as Official.

Senator T. W. Davidson of Marshall is delighted with his reception in the west and believes that he will be chosen as the democratic nominee in the first primary, as a candidate for lieutenant governor of Texas.

Senator Davidson is from east Texas, but is deservedly popular in west Texas and the Panhandle country. As a senator, he voted and worked for a redistricting bill giving a fair and constitutional representation to all sections of the state. He opposed as unjust and unconstitutional the provision suspending the redistricting bill for two years.

Would Be Good Governor.

If the people of Texas were choosing a governor from among the men running for lieutenant governor, there is but little doubt that Mr. Davidson would be the choice of an overwhelming majority of those who choose a man for public office because of his fitness and merits.

The editor of the Marshall Morning News who has known Mr. Davidson for many years gives us the following account of his life:

"Senator T. W. Davidson, for more than a decade recognized as one of the leading progressive democrats of the state and known as one of the strong members of the Texas bar, is a native son of Harrison county.

Born On Farm.

"When Lee sheathed his sword at Appomattox, and much of the South lay in ashes, the smoke of battle had scarcely cleared away before one of his veterans, John Davidson, of the 17 Georgia regiment, from the old town of West Point, removed to the rural districts of Eastern Texas and started life over in a new and different atmosphere. Here Thomas Whitfield Davidson was born on a farm.

"In the early nineties when "Whit" as his boyhood friends call him, grew up to young manhood, farm products were low, cotton as bringing about four or five cents a pound. There was no library near, the postoffice was miles away, but nothing daunted, when yet a youth, like Henry Grady, he mapped out his life's work. With a grit and nerve rarely equalled, in the quiet hours of the night after his day's toil, he completed one course of study after the other with as much regularity and dispatch as though he had been in school. After becoming a man he sent himself to college.

"From early boyhood he was a great lover of history. With his father he fought over the campaigns of Lee in Virginia.

Teacher and Lawyer.

"Before reaching his majority he taught school and later entered the practice of the law. He has never ceased to be a student. Every legal proposition that went from his office to the trial courts and to the higher courts has had careful scrutiny and investigation. During the first ten years of his practice almost every night the lights would be seen burning late hours in his office. His summer vacation instead of being spent in travel, were often spent in pursuing some special course of study in the leading universities of the country.

"His efforts have been rewarded with success and his judgment is regarded as safe in business as in law.

"Two of the outstanding characteristics of Mr. Davidson are his independence in action and thought, and his willingness to see the good in the other fellow and his proposition. With a mind always open to conviction, he examines a question and reaches a decision. When this decision has been reached he does not hesitate to announce what it is, be it popular or unpopular.

Successful In Office.

"During the transition of Marshall from a country town into a modern city, Mr. Davidson was city attorney. In all litigation incident to such change he was uniformly successful, not only looking after the city's legal interests, but aiding its executive officers in a constructive way in improving the health and beauty of the city.

"For the past decade he has been a member of almost every democratic state convention and was one of the delegates to the National convention in 1912 at Baltimore that nominnated Woodrow Wilson for president.

"President of the Harrison County Bar association for several years, and is one of the directors of the State Bar association.

"Polished and refined in his bearing, and dignified in his demeanor, but democratic in his life, and a soul filled with the milk of human kindness."

BENTLEY WILL "UNWIND" TAPE

Criticizes Present Organization

Special to the Record News.

FORT WORTH, July 19.—"The first thing I do when I go to Austin to assume the office of state superintendent of public instruction will be to unwind the red tape from the administrative affairs of that office and reorganize the entire state department of education into an efficient, workable organization."

This declaration was made here by R. B. Bentley, candidate for the state superintendency, in two speeches Wednesday night. He spoke at considerable length regarding what he called the inefficiency, waste and extravagance of the present administration of school affairs, under the administration of Miss Annie Webb Blanton, and declared in favor of a complete reversal of her policies.

"The second thing I do," he continued, "will be to trim that young army of supervisors and traveling inspectors down to a stand. I don't see any reason for the great amount of interference with your local school affairs from representatives of the state department of education and I am not going to tolerate it.

Fifteen Minutes of Radio a Day

By EDWARD N. DAVIS
(Formerly Technical Electrical Expert for United States Government)

Lesson 24.

THE ELECTRIC WAVE.

Electromagnetic waves travel with the speed of flight, at a velocity of 186,000 miles per second, or 300,000,000 meters per second. If the velocity of the electric wave (300,000,000 meters per second) is divided by the number of waves generated per second, the result will be the length of a single wave. Due to the fact that the number of waves radiated is equal to the number of cycles of current in the open circuit or, in other words, to the frequency of the oscillations, the length of a single wave may be obtained by dividing the velocity of the electric waves by the frequency of the oscillations. For example, if the frequency of the oscillation is 1,500,000 cycles per second the length of a single wave will be 300,000,000 divided by 1,500,000 or 200 meters. Inversely, if the wave length is known, the frequency of the oscillations may be obtained by dividing the velocity of the waves by the wave length.

The train of oscillations set up by a spark discharge in a radio transmitter is shown in the following diagram:

The oscillations are known as "damped" oscillations due to the fact that the amplitude decreases at each successive oscillation because of energy losses in the circuit. For example, the amplitude (C) is less than amplitude (A), amplitude (E) is less than amplitude (C), and so on. If a train of waves is radiated in which the amplitudes decrease too rapidly, interference with other radio stations will result. The United States government prescribes a certain definite ratio between the successive amplitudes of the oscillations. The logarithm of this ratio is known as the "decrement" and must not be greater than 0.2 for each complete cycle. Without explaining the mathematical development of this figure, it may be stated that the minimum number of 23 complete oscillations must be established in the open or antenna circuit, by a single spark discharge in the closed circuit, in order to conform to the U. S. regulations.

The length of a wave may be expressed as the distance between the points of two successive waves where the energy is at a maximum or a minimum. For example, in the diagram above, the length of a single wave is the distance between points (A) and (C) or between points (1) and (2). In radio practice wave length is expressed in meters.

For amateur communication the U. S. government prescribes a transmitting wave length not to exceed 200 meters; the present highly developed "broadcasting" is performed on a wave length of 360 meters. Commercial stations operate on standard wave lengths of 300 and 600 meters, or on wave lengths in excess of 1600 meters. For example, the powerful transoceanic station at Rocky Point, Long Island, N. Y., uses a wave length of approximately 16,500 meters and the familiar time signals sent out by the government naval station at Arlington (Radio, Va.) are radiated at a wave length of 2650 meters.

FAIR SECURES WORTHAM SHOW

Midway to Be Same as at Dallas

Wortham Brothers No. 1 shows, consisting of 26 first class attractions will be one of the big features of the Texas-Oklahoma fair here Sept. 30 to Oct. 4, inclusive. Frank Stanley, representing the show, conferred with fair association directors and the amusement committee Wednesday with the result that the No. 1 Wortham attraction is practically assured.

The Wortham shows to come here will be the same attractions that will go to the state fair in Dallas.

While the contract for the attractions was not signed, all details were practically agreed upon, it is said, and a representative of the fair association will go to Chicago next week to sign the contract and also to look over other attractions for the fair.

Many Free Attractions

The point was brought out at the director's meeting Wednesday that the Texas-Oklahoma fair is going to have the best attractions obtainable at any price. There is no question in the minds of the directors but that the crowds will justify the best and the Texas-Oklahoma fair is going to be launched as one that will have no superior. Besides the big Wortham shows there will be several other first class attractions signed, and among them will be many free shows. It is the free shows and other big attractions that the representative of the association will go to Chicago to look over and sign up.

The directors are also very much encouraged by the number and size of the exhibits promised.

MOTHER ASKS HELP TO REGAIN CUSTODY OF TWO CHILDREN

Two little children learned something of the law Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, and enjoying a long, long journey at the expense of Wichita county.

A mother entered the sheriff's department Tuesday and told the sheriff's deputies that she wanted her two little children; that they were being held by a man and woman who claimed to have adopted them, and that they had no right to them.

Officers Lay and Bryan, in company with Sheriff McDonald of Archer City, journeyed to a camp south of Kemp City, where they took possession of the kiddies with a habeas corpus warrant.

The children were brought back to Wichita Falls, and spent the night here, but yesterday morning they were permitted to return to Kemp City with their "foster" parents.

It is up to the court to decide who shall have the children, the officers said yesterday afternoon, and the court will do that possibly on Friday.

Four Engines Idle Because of Strike

Four engines are out of commission in the Fort Worth & Denver yards here because of the strike of the shop crafts. The capable repair men available are kept busy trying to keep the engines now in commission running, according to rail officials, and no attempt has been made to keep a full quota of engines in working order.

To the Voters of Wichita County

JIM AVIS

Do you believe Texas has spent enough money foolishly?

Do you believe our farmers should have more consideration in state legislative matters?

Do you believe Wichita county oil interests need a conservative business man to protect its welfare in the legislature?

Do you believe our farmer boys and girls ought to have more consideration in matters of education?

Do you believe in voting for sane-minded, conservative business men who are fully qualified to fulfill all the obligations of a responsible state office?

If you do, you will vote for J. D. (JIM) AVIS, a pioneer county resident, for State Legislature, Place No. 2, a man whose life and works are known to the citizens of this county, and whose history is an open book.

J. D. (JIM) AVIS.
