The queen was presented with a Chevrolet touring car before the gaze of thousands of eyes focused upon her from all parts of the packed tent, which housed Maskat temple's circus. Fritz as he announced the winners and her red lips aquiver as she muttered her thanks, the queen was every inch a queen. She looked the part, so vividly that no one seemed to hesitate to address her by the "most gracious" cognomen.

Recorder Fritz announced the winners to Potentate W. D. Cline and the potentate in his ever generous manner declared that as long as Recorder Fritz had been so active in handling the campaign from the word go to the coronation ceremony that he would defer the honor and pleasure of presentation to Mr. Fritz himself. Thereupon the recorder bowed in respect to the illustrious potentate and requested Patrol Captain Horace Robbins to line up the band and the coronation party and escort them

Going Back a Year—The Show-Down Lost—Leaders Needed Today Like Teddy or Woody

MORE THAN A YEAR AGO there was a general conference of captains of industry held in the city of Washington. It was decided at that conference that the time had come for a showdown between the organized hosts of capital and labor.

That is, the great employers of the country were ready to stand together and shoulder to shoulder for wage reduction and a longer work day when the time came to serve warning on organized labor that there should be a readjustment of wages and hours and a return to pre-war labor conditions. This was no secret.

It was known everywhere. Employers knew it; labor leaders knew it and wage workers of the rank and file knew it. Rail magnates knew it. Mining kings knew it. All heads of great concerns knew it.

FIRST CAME OPEN WAR BETween mine owners and the miners' organization. It wasn't a walkout as much as it was a shutout.

Mine owners refused to meet the representatives of the United Mine Workers' union. They said they would deal in future with their own employes and not with the representatives of the national organization of mine workers. Then came the wage reductions made by the railroad labor board. This was a move outside of the conference which was held in the city of Washington.

It is conceded that the railroad labor board acted for itself alone and was not controlled by organized capital or organized labor. Politicians everywhere are clamoring for freight rate reduction.

CANDIDATES ARE CLAMORING for lower freight rates. Farmers are said to be clamoring for lower freight rates. Rail chieftains say if there is lower freight rates, there must be sweeping reductions in the wages paid to railway employes. Candidates for office who

In various parts of the provinces the irregulars, alarmed by the advance of the national soldiers, have abandoned and burned their fortified positions and fled into the country.

Irregulars Driven Out

The encircling movement in the hills, south of Dublin, is rapidly approaching success, virtually whole roving bands of irregulars being driven into Blessington, where they are practically invested with the national troops holding part of the town. The total number of irregulars in Blessington is placel at more than 500. There are persistent rumors that Eamonn De Valera and Erskine Childers have been seen in this district, but these have not been verified.

In Dublin, itself, life is rapidly becoming normal. The railways are resuming service though damage to the line prevents direct railroad communication with Cork.

TARIFF MOVE KNOCKED OUT

Senate Cloture Fails By 9 Votes

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The republican move to enforce cloture on the administration tariff bill failed today in the senate.

The vote on the action to enforce the existing rule was 45 to 35, or less by nine than the required two-thirds majority.

Vote on the cloture motion was preceded by an hour's debate in which Senator Watson, republican, Ind., vigorously suported the motion, declaring that the paramount question was the ability of the senate to function. He declared it was better, that the senate adopt the rule, end the debate and pass the tariff bill in its present form, "than to continue this filibuster and take the time of the senate and of the people up until perhaps after election day."

RUSS ISSUES ROCK HAGUE

Rupture Threatened At Conference

By Associated Press.

THE HAGUE, July 7.—The Hague conference, following the dramatic pathway of Genoa's famed conclave, came very near a rupture today, the issue on which the conference threatened to split being the treatment of confiscated property in Russia.

What Russia proposed to do in the way of restriction, as explained officially by Maxim Litvinoff, the Russion spokesman, fell like a cold shower on the expectant delegates. Sir Philip Lloyd Greame, the British delegation member arose and declared it was perfectly absurd to continue the discussions unless more satisfactory assurances were forthcoming. Only M. Krassin—"Krassin, the conciliator," as he is beginning to be called—saved the day by suggesting mildly that controversial matters be left for the moment and a real effort be made to find a common ground based on mutual advantage.

Trouble Starts.

The difficulty started at the afternoon session of the conference, when M. Litvinoff read a long list of oil and other concessions which Russia was ready to give to foreigners.

When Patrolman Lay attempted to arrest the two men he is said to have been attacked.

No Hands Called

STAMFORD, July 7. For the first time since it began functioning West Texas chamber of commerce has received no orders for wheat harvesters, although it sent out questionaires to many towns in the wheat belt where such labor is usually needed at this season of the year. The lack of orders is due to the shortage of the wheat crop, the increased labor that has emigrated to West Texas, and the inclination of the wheat grower to employ his own services in the fields.

Tense Situation In Slater Shops; Rail Officials Nervous

Train Service Will Be Interrupted If Shops Remain Closed Much Longer; Townsmen On Edge as Union Strikers Disappear for Secret Sessions in the Country Points

By The Associated Press.

BOONEVILLE, Mo., July 7.—National guardsmen of Battery D., Missouri field artillery are mobilized here tonight and ready to entertain for Slater, Mo., as soon as orders are received from Governor Hyde. It was believed here tonight that the orders to proceed to Slater would be received tomorrow morning or at any rate that the troop movement would begin at that time.

The battery numbers more than a hundred men.

SLATER, Mo., July 7.—Union shopmen left here in large numbers during the day, going apparently by preconcerted arrangements to some point in the country. The object of the movement could only be conjected.

Nervousness was apparent around the office of the Chicago & Alton railroad, where J. L. Marquette, veteran division superintendent, still awaits word from Governor A. M. Hyde as to whether troops will come to Slater.

The coal is low in the chutes, the water is almost out, and there are no men to man the pumps or handle coal.

"Another day or two will inevitable see reduction in train service, but we will stick as long as there is anything we can do," Marquette declared. Thirteen great engines stand idle and disabled in the roundhouse. There are no hands to put them into shape. Slater, meanwhile, is divided between grim sympathy for the strikers and uneasiness over what may come from the outside world.

The town realizes that its existence is largely dependent upon the railroad shops and while it continues to be popular to express sympathy for the striking shopmen, occasional fears are heard of the possible consequences to the town should the Chicago & Alton railroad officials decide, after the strike is over, to accept the invitation which, it is understood, has been forwarded to the road from Mexico, Mo., to move shops and the division point there. No further effort has been made by local officials or by the sheriff of Saline county to afford protection to the railroad.

No more strikebreakers have been brought to Slater. Railroad officials

Oil Refiners After Eatern Market Trade

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Members of the Western Petroleum refiners association meeting with railroad officials here, today, expressed the hope that independent oil refiners in the mid-continent field would soon be able to compete in eastern markets from which they claimed they have been excluded because of freight rats. An approximate advance of 40 per cent in rates, effective since August, 1920, has forced the western refiners out of eastern markets, it was said. still awaited word from the three men believed to have been kidnaped by the strikers. Fears were expressed for the safety of two of them.

FIRST WEEK ENDS WITH SITUATION DOUBTFUL.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 7.—The first week of the strike of railway shopmen ended tonight with sporadic outbreaks of violence reported in various sections of the country, troops held in readiness to quell trouble in Illinois and soldiers requested in other states and union officials, railroad executives and the United States railroad labor board standing firm in the position each assumed when the walkout started July 1.

The attitude of the federated shop crafts was indicated tonight when B. M. Jewell, head of the railroad employes department of the American Federation of Labor issued a statement disclaiming any responsibility for continuation of the strike and holding the railroads and the labor board to blame for the length of time the walkout lasts.

Chairman Ben W. Hooper of the labor board issued an individual statement in which he asserted that "the only feasible way" for the shop crafts organization to end the strike was to follow in the footsteps of the maintenance of way men who agreed to postpone their strike pending further negotiations.

The railroad labor board also passed a resolution today declaring it to be the opinion of the board that a carrier has no right to require an employe to perform work regularly delegated to a craft that is on strike unless the employe and this work voluntarily. A decision in this matter was one of the stipulations under which E. F. Grable, head of the maintenance of way organization, agreed to withhold strike orders, he having maintained that some carriers were discharging members of his union when they refused to do shopmen's work.

From the headquarters of the shop crafts organization here tonight was issued "Strike Bulletin No. 1" which asserted "that the first strike of shopmen was 100 per cent perfect"

If freight rates are to be reduced then there must be sweeping cuts made in the wages of the railway wage workers. This is the contention at least of railway managers and those who own the railways of America. There is one thing certain; the people cannot get along without the railroads. Modern civilization would perish without the transportation lines. They are entitled to a fair return on the capital invested.

They are entitled to liberal treatment by the lawmakers of the country. They are not the enemies of the people. They should be the servants of the people. They are an economic necessity.

THERE SHOULD BE NO COAL

famine permitted this fall and winter. All the people are fuel consumers. All the people are entitled to protection. All the people know what extortionate prices mean to the millions who take down small wages or small salaries.

If the strike continues until November or December there is certain to be a tremendous fuel shortage. All the coal reserves are melting away. This is admitted by the rail chiefs and the heads of great manufacturing plants of America. If Theodore Roosevelt were in the land of the living and president of the United States he would find a way to force a settlement of the miners' strike and he would find a way to prevent a general strike of rail employes.

If Woodrow Wilson were president of the United States, he would find a way. Theodore Roosevelt did not shrink from the critics or criticism when he knew he was right. He grew fat upon criticism. Woodrow Wilson was of the same temperament. He found the way. And in finding the way he made powerful enemies who never forgave him for what they were pleased to call autocratic interference on the part of the government with private business and the affairs of private individuals. As a matter of fact readjustment must come the country over.

As a matter of fact war wages must be revised as fast as war prices for the necessities and necessaries of life show a decline.

IT IS ALL RIGHT TO DEnounce swollen fortune. It is all right to denounce the 10 or 12 families who are said to own the railroads of America.

It is all right to denounce the financiers who are said to manipulate railroad stocks and bonds, but it doesn't get the people anywhere. Railroads are entitled to a fair return on their investment. Railway employes are entitled to an honest and efficient living wage for honest and efficient service. Labor is not a commodity. Labor has a soul. There are signs in the heavens that the rail chiefs and their employes may get together and adopt a program of peace. There are signs on the surface that this will not be a last ditch fight. There are signs that reason and not prejudice or stubborn pride may guide the deliberations of the representatives of the warring factions.

This is no time for a railway strike. This is no time for a strike in any field of industrial endeavor. If the mine owners and the striking miners cannot get together, if they refuse to harmonize their differences, then powerful pressure should be brought by the government.

THERE ARE REASONS WHY

the champions of a showdown may have changed their minds. Pinchot smashed things in Pennsylvania. He had the backing of the coal miners. Beveridge smashed things in Indiana. He had the backing of railway employes and coal miners. Brookhart smashed things in Iowa. He had the backing of farm-labor and railway organizations.

Lynn J. Frazier smashed things in North Dakota. He was put over by organized farmers and organized labor. This is not an opportune time for last ditch fighters. This is not an opportune time for red radicals. This is not an opportune time for the forces of reactionaryism to crack the whip.

This is the opportune time for safe and sane men everywhere to teach the gospel of toleration, the gospel of fair play, the gospel of live and let live, the gospel of the golden rule, the gospel of peace and love and faith and hope and charity. Those who profess to be 100 per cent American should stand for all these.

They should counsel harmony and not hate; they should counsel justice and not fanaticism; they should counsel the reign of law and order and not the reign of violence or anarchy. They should get back to the teachings of the constitution of the United States and the traditions of the fathers of this republic who won freedom with their shining swords, who declared all men are created free and equal and the Declaration of Independence a sheet anchor of hope.

ST. ELMO PLEASES

A pleased audience was out last night at the Majestic theater to witness "St. Elmo," that good old book story dramatized from the book of the same name presented by the Fox stock company. This story was well presented by this stock company as they had every character that is in the book story woven into the dramatized story that was presented.

Leon (Jim) Bostwick and Hazel Fox were seen in the parts of "St. Elmo" and Edna Earle, the two leading parts of the story. V. A. (Toby) McIntosh was seen as usual in the comedy part. Good vaudeville was given between each act by different members of the company. "Zim," the artist, was seen in cartoon work, Billie Semour in a Roman ring act, and Toby McIntosh in a singing act. This same story will be given tonight for the last time; also a matinee this afternoon.

NEGROES ATTEMPT TO BREAK JAIL

For the third time in as many weeks negro prisoners on the third floor of the county jail are said to have attempted Thursday night to escape from the jail. They broke a chain which held the door to the big cell they were in, but their possible success was frustrated by Night Jailer Simmons, who got wise to their plans and confined them in a small but secure cell until morning.

Money Changers Fight Vainly To Ward Off Jinx of "Mex" Cash

Is it, or is it isn't?

That was the question asked many times last night at the Shrine circus.

An innocent Mexican half-dollar was the cause of the discussion.

Some one passed the coin at the rack where beaded bugs are wont to be had. When discovered it then passed immediately over the counter for a package of "Swift's Prize Breakfast Relish." The cashier of that booth made change for J. I. Staley, and he became the temporary possessor.

Next, the vagabond half-shekel was chanced away to Jerry Moffett, in lieu of anticipated Chesterfields. Jere couldn't stand the pressure and shopped awhile with Grover Bullington, purchasing a "Coney Island Hot-Dog."

Judge Bonner shopped at the same refreshment stand and was "changed" with the wandering kopeck, but lost little through the trade and wended his passage thereby into the "big top" in a vain attempt to establish partnership with Chief Rabban Al Reid of Dallas, whose osculatory accomplishment was loudly proclaimed by Chief Spieler Frits.

After the close of the big act, the teller in the Last National Bank refused payment on the outlaw cash, and some unknown personage will tonight again circulate the homeless coin.

Five-In-One Show's Biggest Fake on Lot—See for Yourself

Another mystery was solved last night by the Record News information sleuth, who donned his Sherlock Holmes expression and staggered Julian Montgomery, chairman of the side shows, with some of his Philadelphio-lawyer-type questions.

The news hound found out that the sacred white elephant is located in the Five-in-One show at the end of the pike. This is the show with the two-piece band, composed of M. Muelberg and Julian Montgomery, neither of whom are union musicians. The band is really in charge of Joe Ward and is under ordinary circumstances a three-piece band, but Ward is generally sent out to mingle with the crowd when one of the union musicians' walking delegates approaches.

Dave Paul is one of the other members of this five-in-one show. It isn't necessary to say what he does. Like Eddie Purdue, the funny-faced heavyweight from the Record News he's a circus himself.

In the same show are two marvelous young lady dancers, Miss Anna Mae Cato, who is a teacher for Mrs. Fulton's fancy dancing classes, and the other is Hattie May Chance, also a wonderful dancer.

to the stage.

The alertful official then had the group parade the big tent several times. Upon their arrival at the platform the recorder's voice read out the names of the winners, presenting each gift with remarks of his own originality.

The Thrilling Reel

The unusual feature of the coronation ceremony was played by one of the honored guests present. This was Chief Rabban Al Reid of Hella temple, Dallas. He formally crowned Mrs. Green queen of Wichita and escorted her to the machine that just had been presented to her. The courteous chivalier assisted his most gracious queen in operating the starter.

At this moment it appeared to many in the audience that Chief Rabban Reid took advantage of a suggestion on the part of Recorder Fritz of what had happened on a previous occasion by an officer of Muskat when the illustrious potentate gave away the bride.

Tribute from Post

Prince J. L. Post who has won royal fame and a niche in the queen's kingdom of friends and admirers through his publicity direction, declares that she would have been lost to Wichita Shrinedom had a movie scout been present last night. The publicity prince didn't say it for publication but his personal comment was that the queen of Wichita could easily qualify as one of the many queens of the movies. "Her name could handily be carved in blazing electric bulbs—and quite successfully," Post confidentially confided as he adjusted his spectacles and looked down at his note book.

From the show last night all indications are that tonight's closing attraction will be kept right up to the standard of production maintained during the entire week.

Actors Praised

Never has a better aggregation than Lavan, McCune and Grant, Hays and Hays, acrobats; Stoefer and D'Onzo, roller skaters, the Rays and the Musical Emersons ever played with such a production, according to many visiting Shriners at the Maskat circus last night. The management declares that it is well satisfied with their endeavors to give the public a real, genuine entertainment tonight as in the past, and the hopes are that the big top will again be packed to the fullest capacity.

Lucille Comes Back To Circus Pike At Finale Tonight

Ee-yi-ee-yi-oh-o!

Lucille is coming back!

Sure enough!

Publicity Purveyor Post says so. Julian Montgomery told him.

The crowd on the circus pike last night seemed to echo from one end to the other the question in yesterday's Record News: "Where's Lucille?"

Montgomery explains that Lucile unfortunately twisted herself out of joint Wednesday night, but that she was put into shape by a visiting Shrine chiropractor, who at first stated that it was a very complicated case. Norris Ewing, devoid of shekels for a couple of nights at his tent, took a hand in the matter, however. Ewing was able to show the doctor where the dislocation was; Lucile was repaired at once.

She'll be back on the lot Saturday, boys. Ewing and his bally-hoo outfit is in trim and ready to go again. They say it's a greater Lucille tonight than ever before.

Car Not Awarded

Many lingered patiently last night on the show grounds, hoping to be awarded a Chevrolet sedan, promised by the management of the circus.

But they lingered to no avail. The car was not given away.

Recorder C. O. Fritz has not given up hope, and any desiring information regarding the car are welcome to communicate with the recorder at the Shrine office.

DEEP TEST PLANNED WEST OF BALLINGER

Special to the Record News.

BALLINGER, Texas, July 8.—J. B. Gordon and D. Wilson of Breckenridge and Ranger, experienced oil drillers and field developers, have taken over the Safety First well on the Allen lease three miles west of Ballinger. If given encouragement they will sink the well to a great depth and give that territory a thorough test, it was announced today.

On the Midway

Horrace Robbins again admitted last night that he had no been able to locate Lucille, but he confided to the scribe before the show that he had a firm grip on another secret and that was—He knew who the queen was and furthermore, he knew the queen.

A beautiful blonde, deep blue eyes, a smile—ah, who wouldn't crown her queen?

The Musical Emersons, performers in the circus, turned out to be friends of J. L. Post, who is visiting Maskat temple. He stated that her maiden name was Evelyn Ostaller, when she lived in St. Louis. She plays the xylophone and responded last night to a couple of encores.

When Horrace Robbins seemed over-fatigued, he held private confab for some reason or other with Jimmy Williams and general called into the parley, Irv Staley, vice president of the patrol. This isn't intended for wit. It is passed to this column by a Shriner. Probably they can decipher it for their own chuckle.

Lucille gets back tonight and Norris Ewing goes back to work.

Jerry Moffett complained last night that business was dull at the cigarette shop. But 'andsome Jerry ought to know he's not in his class. He needs a place at the beaded bag counter. Of course he's a lure to the feminists and other flappers, anyway, but they don't all smoke cigarettes.

JAPS SHOW INCREASE IN HAWAIIAN BIRTHS

(By International News Service.)

HONOLULU, T. H., June 7.—Out of a total of slightly over 10,000 children born in Hawaii during the calendar year 1921; 4,940 were of Japanese parentage, according to figures just made public by the territorial board of health at Honolulu.

Figures compiled by the Japnese Consulate at Honolulu for the year 1921 show only 4,628 Japanese births, or 312 less than the number shown by the board of health figures. This discrepancy is accounted for by the fact that a number of American-born Japanese in Hawaii have discontinued filing any records with the Japanese consulate.

CORN YIELD LARGE

Special to the Record News.

HONDO, July 8.—Large yields of corn are reported on many farms in the Hondo country. Some boll weevils have made their appearance in the cotton field, but have not become so numerous as to destroy the crop.

Churchmen Spend Heavily For Religion

Special to The Record News.

RANGER, Texas, July 8.—Work is progressing on the new brick church edifice at Merriman. The structure will cost about $10,000. The church is in a section where Baptists made considerable money on royalty from oil wells. The congregation enjoyed considerable fame because they refused to accept a cool million dollars to permit large oil companies to drill on the church cemetery. In one year the church spent $40,000 from its rich oil royalties for education and missionary work.

C. OF C. FOSTERS BETTER WHEAT

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, July 8.—Assurance was given today to the Southwestern Wheat Improvement association by the West Texas chamber of commerce that it would co-operate in every way to further the movement which is being made to improve the grade and yield of wheat. The association was organized only a short time ago, but has already enlisted most of the more prominent chambers of commerce, county agents, millers and growers of the southwest.

A better wheat campaign is to be inaugurated at once over the Panhandle and plains section of the state. H. M. Bainer, director of the association, writes the West Texas chamber of commerce that its territory can be greatly improved as a wheat producer by resorting to the planting of better seeds and giving more careful attention to cultivation.

PEOPLES ICE CO TO INSTALL MODERN ICE CREAM PLANT

Announcement has been made by the Peoples Ice company that it is going to install in the near future, a modern ice cream manufacturing plant. The management of the company announced that the demand for high grade ice cream in Wichita Falls and this territory is such that the company has decided to enter that field. The plant will be modern in every detail, it is said, and will manufacture a high class product.

WEST TEXAS BUILDING HITS HIGH MARKS

Special to the Record News.

STAMFORD, July 8 — A definite sign that construction in Texas is on the crest of a wave is indicated by reports which have been made to the West Texas chamber of commerce by the brick manufacturing companies of West Texas. A local brick company which admits that it has passed through some very grevious and sore days is now literally "swamped" with orders and is employing day and night crews in order to keep up with the demand. In this connection this plant advises that it is shipping velvet face brick to Dallas, Waco and other central Texas points and as far northwest as Amarillo. Inquiries for these bricks are coming from points as far distant as Shreveport.

MRS. O LEARY DIES IN HOSPITAL HERE

in a local hospital at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon following a short period of illness. She was brought to the local institution from her home in Burkburnett about a week ago and underwent a major operation. She failed to rally to medical treatment, however.

She leaves her husband, Pat O'Leary, as the only immediate surviving relative.

The body was removed to the Merkle-Lunn undertaking parlors and prepared for burial. Funeral services will be held in the Sacred Heart church at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, conducted by Rev. P. Boniface, with burial in Sacred Heart cemetery.

DALLAS LAUDS IT

The Maskat temple Shrine circus is a bigger proposition and a more successful affair than the Dallas show. Al Reid, chief rabban of Hella temple, Dallas and Tom B. Hunter, said so.

COURT TO RULE ON WINE VALUE

(By International News Service)

SANTA ROSA, Cal., July 7.—The question of how much wine is worth under prohibition may soon be settled.

Steps were being taken today looking to the filing of recovery suits against Sonoma county for taxes collected on wine during the past three years.

There are 3,000,000 gallons of wine in Sonoma county vaults.

In 1920 it was assessed at 20 cents a gallon. In 1921, on the theory that prohibition had made it more valuable, it was assessed at 30 cents per gallon.

But the wine remained in the cellars, and no means has been found for its legal disposal.

This year it was assessed at 1 cent per gallon.

The wine growers will seek to recover all of the taxes paid on the grounds that with the advent of prohibition it completely lost its value as property.

MAYFIELD SPEAKS AT SAN AUGUSTINE

Special to the Record News.

SAN AUGUSTINE, Texas, July 8.—"We will break faith with those who sleep in Flanders' Fields if we permit one alien to set foot on American soil," declared Hon. Earle B. Mayfield here this afternoon at the big holiday barbecue, "so long as there is one man in this country who wore the uniform, needing work and wanting it, and not being able to find it. If I am elected to the United States senate, I will support a measure to prohibit immigration to America for a period of two years, excepting only students who desire to attend our universities. An emergency exists which justifies such legislation."

WOOL EXHIBIT

Special to the Record News.

STAMFORD, July 8.—At the request of the Young Men's Business League of Waco the West Texas chamber of commerce has taken up with the Texas Wool & Mohair Growers association the matter of having it bring its wool and mohair exhibit to the Texas Cotton Palace at Waco at its annual exposition this fall. Much interest is being stimulated in these industries. The exhibit would be one of the largest that has ever been shown at a fair or exposition in the southwest.

STRIKES REDUCE MINE FATALTIES

Special to the Record News.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—One of the results of the coal strike has been a great decrease in the number of fatalities in the coal mines of the United States.

During the month of April, according to the department of the interior, 72 accidental deaths in coal mines were reported, less than half the number during the same month of last year, when 164 fatalities occurred. This decrease, an official of the bureau of mines declared, is a natural result of the closing down of many mines throughout the country.

Harding Turns Wichita Coyote Over to Zoological Gardens

President Harding has turned his Wichita Falls coyote over to the zoological gardens.

It all came about like this: Frank Snidlow of the Texas Iron & Metal works, of this city, once lived next door to the president, back in Marion, Ohio.

Having a pet coyote raised from puppyhood, Mr. Snidlow sent it to the president for a pet. He has received the following letter written at the direction of the president by George B. Christian Jr.: "The president has asked me to asknowledge the receipt of your letter of June 23rd and to thank you for the friendly spirit which prompted you to send the coyote to him.

"He asks me to tell you, however, that as there are no facilities for keeping the coyote at the white house, it is being sent to the zoological gardens."

Mr. Snidlow failed to state in his letter to the president that the coyote was tame, that he had been raised by his son and was just as companionable as any dog—even Laddie Boy.

RUSS ISSUES—

He complained of absolute failure to clear away differences during the fortnight of the conference. The Russians had explained their position thoroughly, especially on property concessions, and in the conference were to succeed and Russia helped, she must have credits.

Sir Philip Lloyd Greame interposed speaking slowly and cuttingly. His words were:

"No credits, public or private in any country of the world will be forthcoming, unless satisfactory conditions are obtained regarding property. It is absolutely necessary we should know what property will be restored. What you intend to do when property is not restored and what will be the conditions of restitution? Until this is known, it is perfectly futile and absurd to continue."

This was agreed to with the understanding that classified industries would be taken up and an effort made to establish conditions for restoration to former owners which would be mutually satisfactory.

DIVORCE SUIT IS TRIED BEFORE JURY

A divorce case entitled Walter S. Haid against Helen M. Haid is being tried by a jury in the 89th district court before Judge P. A. Martin and is attracting a great deal of attention because of the fact that it is being tried before a jury. The husband in this case is seeking a divorce on grounds of cruel treatment. The case originally went to trial several weeks ago, but was continued.

The case is expected to occupy the time of the court most of Saturday morning.

Mrs. Haid asks that if a decree is rendered there be a division of community property valued at $50,000.

KU KLUX ACTIVE.

TARIFF—

"In other words," he continued, "over and above the bonus and over and above the ship subsidy, and over and beyond the tariff, is the question of the ability of the United States senate to function, to legislate, to discharge its obligations and to meet the requirements imposed upon it by the people of the United States. That is the sovereign question."

Reminding the senate that the republicans had come into the control of the government with a majority of 7,000,000 votes, the Indiana senator said the republican party owed it to the country to redeem its promise of a protective tariff.

Senator Watson charged that a filibuster was in progress and which, he said, was "very adriotly conducted and carried on in a manner almost to fool the elect."

Senator Underwood of Alabama, the democratic leader, denied that there was a filibuster on the democratic side.

Senator Watson was interrupted frequently by democratic senators, the observations of some of whom afforded considerable amusement both to senators and the crowd in the galleries.

WEEVIL SCARE BOOSTS COTTON

Market Closes At Good Advance

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, July 7.—Boll weevil complaints and the increasing strength of the statistical situation put the price of cotton higher today. October standing at 22.35 at its higher. The greatest strength was on display toward the end of the session when the most active trading months were 37 to 50 points higher than yesterday's final prices. The close was 20 to 40 points net higher for the day on the list, July gaining but 20 points and closing at 22.60. October closed at 22.25. July was not active during a good part of the day.

The opening was higher and early advances amounted to about $2.00 a bale as the result of a better Liverpool than due, reports of scattered rains in the western belt and complaints of increasing weevil damages in Texas. As the session progressed, these weevil complaint increased, many coming from Oklahoma as well as from Texas. In connection with the weevil situation the forecast showery weather for a large part of the belt was regarded as nigaly unfavorable.

"Shall America Follow Lenin, Debs or Arbuckle?"—Knickerbocker

"Sunday night I am going to give the last of my series on 'America,'" said Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, South, corner Tenth and Lamar, to a Record News reporter.

"The special subject will be "America and Whose Leadership Shall She Follow, Lenin, Debs, "Fatty" Arbuckle or Paul'

"The names of these men stand for certain generic principles of life, morals and politics. If any one thinks that America has a charmed life, they are very much mistaken. America has some tremendous perils threatening her very existence. Only in being forewarned and forearmed can she escape the fate of other great nations who once have flourished as she flourishes and now are only a name in history.

"Some of the subheads of my subject will be 'The Menace of Loose Living,' 'The Menace of Loose Thinking,' 'The Menace of Class Hatred.' We are furnished constant illustrations of these great subjects—the railroad strike, the mine marders, the spread of divorce, the decadence of modesty, etc., etc. I am told that this age is different from others and that excuses its derelictions. I will prove that the fundamental factors in the problem are changeless. Hear the testimony of the juvenile officer of Wichita Falls concerning the morals of some of the young girls in this city and let your alarm awaken you to apply all the remedies that God may give us.

"The subject of my sermon at 10:50 a. m. will be 'Is the Voice of the People the Voice of God?' That is the old Latin proverb. 'Vox populi, vox dei,' translated into modern idiom that would read 'Everybody's doing it makes it right.' This subject will be illustrated with some recent local history.

"The morning service closes promptly at 12 o'clock. The night service begins at 8:15 and closes on or before the stroke of 9:30."

Suggesting the soft atmosphere of the tropics, many baskets filled with ferns, brilliant blossoms and their foliage pinced on stands on the spacious porch of the Ben G. O'Neal bungalow at 2011 Eleventh street attract the attention of all who pass by on that popular resident street. Two large white baskets with tall handles filled with the flowers and foliage plants with their leaves of many tints ornament each side of the lawn, where they are arranged in the center.

Rare plants of the tropics also adorn this yard. One tall palm which shows remarkable growth and health for this far north, is an attractive feature of the front near the house, while several small magnolia shrubs, suggestive of Florida and the evergreen woods of southern Alabama, are dotted about over the yard.

Lining the driveway next to house to the garage, are many tall cannas in the yellow and red sprinkled freely with bunches of shasta daisies and other summer flowers.

The home is one of rare beauty and the yard one of the prettiest in the city.

FASHIONS

The Self Fabric Trim is a Feature of This Frock.

The training devised for the dainty little crepe de chine or canton crepe frock shown in the sketch is of particular interest. The dress is a simple straight line affair with long side panels, the waist held in with a moderately wide self fabric girdle caught with an ornamental clasp. The frock is decorated with little inserts formed of round sections of the fabric mounted on buckram and lightly caught together at the edges. The frock is all in one color. It was displayed in several of the lovely pastel shades such as pink, yellow, green, as well as in navy and the popular henna.

Henna, by the way, has now reached the staple stage and is brought out as regularly each season as navy. When it was first launched under its new name, henna, a few seasons ago, many were inclined to turn their noses up and scout the idea that Terra Cotta color, which it really is, could find favor in the sight of the fashionables. The shade ingged a good deal during its first season of revival, then the public took to it, and since then its reign has seemed assured.

Each season fabric houses slpurge a good deal during the early days with long drawn-out color cards, but when the season really "finds itself" two or othree tones dominate the field, with navy pretty nearly always in the lead. For the coming fall and winter this condition probably will be settled by the adoption of navy, several interesting shades of brown, a few grays, green of the coppery type in evidence, henna still with us and for good mensure one or two of the more vivid shades, including royal blue. These will be for street wear with somewhat of a color riot in evening apparel, many rich brocades blending several shades to be popular.

Lesson No. 13

ELECTROMAGNETIC INDUCTION

The previous lesson explained the manner in which the expanding of contracting lines of force in a coil of wire inducted electromotive force and current in another closed coil of wire placed in close proximity to the first. This property is known as mutual induction and is an important factor in the transfer of electrical energy between coils which have no electrical connection.

There is another phenomenon which takes place in a circuit when there is an increase or decrease of current in a coil of wire. This property is known as self induction and may be expanded as follows: When current flows in the turns of a coil of wire, it creates a magnetic field about each turn. If the current increases, the magnetic lines of force in each turn expand and cut the adjacent turns of the coil. The cutting of these turns generates in them an electromotive force which opposes the electromotive force of the original current. In other words a counter electromotive force is induced which tends to prevent the increase of the original current.

If on the other hand, the original current in the coil diminishes and the lines of force in the magnetic field about each turn contract, this contraction causes the lines of force to cut the adjacent turns and induce an electromotive force which opposes the reduction of the original current.

In both cases, therefore, the effect of self induction is to oppose a change of the current either when it tends to increase or decrease.

Due to the fact that a direct current is normally steady, self induction occurs principally at the beginning or end of the flow current. In alternating current circuits, however, through which the current flows back and forth, the property of self induction is very prominent.

The self induction of a coil of wire is much greater than that of a straight conductor, and if the coil of wire is provided with a soft iron core instead of an air core, the lines of force find a much easier path through the iron and the self induction is greatly increased.

The following lesson will explain how the principal of electromagnetic induction is made use of in the alternating current transformer of the radio transmitter.

THE CASE OF HARDEN

MAX HARDEN is the foremost editor of Germany. He was the foremost editor of Germany during the memorable years of the world war. He was the most fearless editor of Germany for ten years prior to the coming of the world war. He was the only editor of Germany in the long ago who exposed the depotism of the Hohenzollern dynasty, the infamies of militarism and the follies of the inner circle of the nobility who were the parasites who attached themselves to that government whose emblem of righteousness was the sword.

Monarchists murdered Foreign Minister Rathenau because he was opposed to a return to the militarists form of government. They attacked Max Harden and nearly murdered him because of his merciless newspaper criticisms of the royalists who are ever scheming for the return of the Hohenzollerns. Rathenau, the ablest republican leader of Germany, was a Jew. Harden is a Jew. It goes without saying that the intellectual Jews of Germany are almost to a man, opposed to the royalists. They are opposed to the return to power of the Hohenzollerns.

They are opposed to the old order of things. For this Rathenau was slain; for this Harden was knifed by an assassin. Of course the royalists are planning to come back in Germany, but men of affairs who best know the temper of the German people are positive that when the kaiser was dethroned Teutonic imperial depotism forever perished.

This is a mad old world and the great war made it so. There is no perdicting to a certainty what will happen in the future but all the signs of the times seem to indicate that the divine right to rule dogma died when the thrones of the Hapsburgs and the Hohenzollerns were toppled over and two mighty emperors and their families were exiled by their people. Germany is coming back as a republic and not as an empire.

MONEY TO MOVE CROPS

GOVERNMENT aid to the extent of nine million dollars is practically assured for the moving of the Texas cotton crop this year by the Texas Farm Bureau Federation. There is to be a famine crop throughout the cotton growing states and an advance of eight dollars a bale Monday is a reminder that there may be a cotton famine this year. According to the reports from west Texas there will be a bumper crop grown in many counties as there has been a larger acreage than ever before.

All the lower panhandle counties report fine prospects. All the plains counties report fine prospects. This will make the fourth famine crop in four successive years in the cotton belt of the United States and in foreign countries where the cotton plant is cultivated, the reports received indicate that there will be a short crop the world over. During the cotton year of 1921 and 1922 the consumption of the fleecy staple was far greater than for the preceding cotton year.

Those who are familiar with cotton economics and conditions the world over see no reason why the American grower should not receive a fancy price for the product this year. Cotton is the gold crop of America. It is the gold crop of the south. It is the crop that brings new money to the south and whenever there is a fair price for cotton there is a fair degree of prosperity throughout the southland. Texas for thirty years has been the banner cotton state. An advance of seven to eight dollars a bale in the price is certainly encouraging to those who are engaged in cotton culture under Texas skies.

LEMP'S SLUMP

PROHIBITION does pronibit. When John Barleycorn went out William J. Lemp had a brewery plant in St. Louis that represented a cash outlay or investment of $5,000,000. It was sold at public auction last week for $588,000. This shows that a government can strip a citizen of his property, and laugh when he asks for reimbursement of his losses.

Nebraska needs 5,000 harvesters. There are five times that number of idlers in Texas cities and towns who are putting in their time saving the country by pushing favorite candidates for justice of the peace or constable. Ship the cannibals to Nebraska.

DR. CRANE EDITORIAL

THE REAL WAR

THE great decisive wars of the world are not fought with cannon.

The dominating nation of the world is not the one with the most armies and fleets.

That race or that kind of men which will overcome all others is the one that has the most outpopulating power.

The contest for supremacy is not one of blood, but of bloods.

It is the vigor of the stock that counts at last.

France and Germany are ancient rivals. France thinks that she is protecting herself against Germany by her vast army and her military preparations. That is shortsighted. In reality that is draining her resources and playing directly into the hands of the Germans.

The following facts, which are taken from the Paris Matin, are significant.

The French birth rate is diminishing constantly. This is the brutal truth which official statistics disclose.

The fall is rapid and uninterrupted in most of the great cities. Paris, which registered 27,489 births in the first six months of 1921, registered only 24,522 during the last six months of 1921.

In Nantes the figures for these two periods, respectively, were 1,967 and 1,767. At Strasbourg the fall was from 2,221 to 2,083.

In Toulouse there was a decline from 1,642 to 1,458.

In every other considerable city the diminution was proportional.

Unless there is some change in conditions the year 1922 bids fair to show still worse results, and there seems to be nothing upon which to base the hope for a change.

Over against these discouraging statistics Germany shows a birth rate which advances steadily.

The excess of births over deaths in 1920 was 623,000, while for the first six months of 1921 the excess was 369,000.

In spite of the loss of a part of Upper Silesia the German population reaches today the mark of 62,000,000 while that of France does not exceed 39,600,000.

The great statesman that France needs is one with vision enough to see that the real demand of his nation is an increase in vigor of those ideas and sentiments which favor family life. What France wants is new blood and an increase of outpopulating power.

If things go on in the present ratio France will be defeated and humiliated not by poison gases and big Berthas and ravaging barbarians, but more fatally in the silent fields of evolution.

OBREGON SHOWS STRENGTH

PRESIDENT OBREGON of Mexico is demonstrating his ability to enforce the law and to put down bandits in that nation whenever and wherever they place either life or property in jeopardy. He has his oldest generals and most thoroughly trained soldiers in the districts where bandits have appeared and where lawless acts on their part have been reported to the Mexican government. It always happens in the oil districts. This is the story of Mexico: Wherever there is petroleum there is hell. General Pelaz ruled Tampico for years.

Amrican correspondents say that his pickings were rich until President Obregon put him out of business. Some years he is said to have received as high as a million two hundred thousand dollars from oil interests. He claimed the Tampico field as his royal preserve, and he collected the taxes, maintained an army of bandits in the field and was ever a handy man for the nationals of other countries to have around. Obregon smashed him. Now the lieutenants of Pelaz are said to be responsible for the disturbance in the oil fields of the Aztec republic. There is one way for President Obregon to get rid of his bandits.

When they are captured they should be courtmartialed and shot. Profirio Diaz knew how to handle them. He shot them at sunrise. They never came back—that is the old ones never came back and the new ones did not come until Diaz had surrendered his crown and exiled himself to foreign parts.

This is the verdict of North Dakota inscribed on a tombstone: "Here lies Senator P. J. McCumber of North Dakota. Newberryism, taken with suicidal intent, caused his death. Rest in peace."

Rippling Rhymes

LOST LENORE

Beside the sea I saunter, and long for Lost Lenore; I want her, oh, I want her, but she comes back no more. Here once we roamed together, when all the world was sane, and talked about the weather, the price of hay and grain. Then maidens were not flapping, and they were full of grace; you didn't see them yapping around the market place. They thought of love and marriage, of wreaths upon the brow, of riding in a carriage to church, to make a vow. And where is now the maiden who walked the shore with me? She chases voters, laden with handbills fierce to see. She's out electioneering, she wants a public snap, while modern dames are cheering, and all the flappers flap. She's making dippy speeches, she trots from door to door, and I can find no peaches along the sandy shore. The girls are all so busy! They leave no graft untried. I drive my old tin Lizzie, and no one wants a ride. And once the laughing friskers come round me where I sat, and poured sand in my whiskers and kicked holes through my hat. But now the girls are flapping or doing kindred chores, and I, an old man, napping, can't find my Lost Lenores.

The Once Over

JOHN D. VISITS SCENES OF HIS BOYHOOD.

John D. Rockefeller has been revisiting the scenes of his childhood around northern York sate. John looked over all the old places—Morovia, Morundia, Sokony and other spots so dear to his heart.

And how the scenery has changed! You'd be surprised. The old creek back of the mill is now full of oil grease. Of course, John didn't mind that so much. Where the old red schoolhouse used to stand there is a gasoline pumping station. This broke John up. It was operated by a rival oil company.

The Ole Swimmin' Hole has been filled in and there now are five huge gasoline tanks on the site. Rockefeller nearly cried when he saw this. He had expected to see at least eight.

John went round to see the stately old walnut, chestnut, and apple trees he used to play in when a boy. They were all gone. All had given way to red gasoline pumps!

Then he went to the house in which he was born, at Morovia and looked over the room in which he slept as a boy of seven. The roof in those days was so open he lay many a night and watched the snowflakes sift through and fly about his bed. John used to imagine every flake was a ten-dollar bill.

If Morovia went two days without a snowstorm the young Rockefeller would lapse into spells of great depression.

For a time his parents thought they would have to move where there was more snow to keep the apple of their eye in happy spirits.

From the old house John went into the woods just behind and pointed out a spot where he had discovered, as a lad, a wild turkey hen, captured her brood, raised them, and thereby made his first dollar.

Even at that early age he was a great man for organization. He got the turkeys all working for him under the same management.

For some years a sort of deadlock existed between Rockefeller and the turkeys. Then John began to think of the automobile industry.

"When the auto comes what will run it?" he asked.

"Turkey hens?" he asked himself.

"Certainly not!" he replied.

"If not turkey hens, what?" he asked himself again.

"Gasoline!" came the answer, just like that, John always was good at repartee.

"The dickens with turkey hens! Gasoline for mine!" was his ultimatum, at that tender age. Looking back, John is inclined to think he made no mistake.

After looking over the woods and recalling the turkey hen incident John went to the swimming hole.

"Ah, the oil swimmin' oil!" he exclaimed, as he looked at the spot upon which it once, as it were, stood.

"Oil swimmin' oil!" exclaimed a bystander.

"I should say ole swimmin' 'ole!" corrected John.

The party then broke up in disorder.

The Mucker

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

"'Fraid he wont' never do," said Grayson, ruefully, after Bridge had passed out of earshot.

"I rather imagine that he will," said the boss. "He is an educated man, Grayson—you can tell that from his English, which is excellent. He's probably one of the great army of down-and-outers. The world is full of them—poor devils. Give him a chance, Grayson, and anyway he adds another American to our force, and each one counts."

"Yes, that's right; but I hope we won't need 'em before you an' Miss Barbara go," said Grayson.

"I hope not, Grayson; but one can never tell with conditions here such as they are. Have you any hope that you will be able to obtain a safe conduct for us from General Villa?"

"Oh, Villa'll give us the paper all right," said Grayson; "but it won't do us no good unless we don't meet nobody but Villa's men on the way out. This here Pesita's the critter I'm leery of. He's got it in for all Americans, and especially for the El Orobo Rancho. You know we beat off a raid of his about six months ago—killed half a dozen of his men, an' he won't never forgive that. Villa can't spare a big enough force to give us safe escort to the border and he can't assure the safety of the train service. It looks mighty bad, sir—I don't see what in hell you came for."

"Neither do I Grayson," agreed the boss; "but I'm here and we've got to make the best of it. All this may blow over—it has before—and we'll laugh at our fears in a few weeks."

"This thing that's happenin' now won't never blow over 'til the stars and stripes blow over Chihuahua," said Grayson with finality.

A few moments later Bridge returned to the office, having unsaddled his pony and turned it into the pasture.

"What's your name?" asked Grayson, preparing to enter it in his time book.

"Bridge," replied the new bookkeeper.

"Nitials," snapped Grayson.

Bridge hesitated. "Oh, put me down as L. Bridge," he said.

"Where from?" asked the ranch foreman.

"El Orobo Rancho," answered Bridge.

Grayson shot a quick glance at the man. The answer confirmed his suspicions that the stranger was probably a horse thief, which, in Grayson's estimation, was the worst thing a man could be.

"Where did you get that pony you come in on?" he demanded. "I ain't sayin' nothin' of course, but I jest want to tell you that we ain't got no use for horse thieves here."

The Easterner, who had been a listener, was shocked by the brutality of Grayson's speech; but Bridge only laughed.

"If you must know," he said, "I never bought that horse, an' the man he belonged to didn't give him to me. I just took him."

"You got your nerve," growled Grayson. "I guess you better git out. We don't want no horse thieves here."

"Wait," interposed the boss. "This man doesn't act like a horse thief. A horse thief, I should imagine, would scarcely admit his guilt. Let's have his story before we judge him."

"All right," said Grayson; "but he's just admitted he stole the horse."

Grayson made a gesture which said: "Bet, I told you so."

"It was like this," went on Bridge. "The gentleman who owned the horse together with some of his friends, had been shooting at me and my friends. When it was all over there was no one left to inform us who were the legal heirs of the late owners of this and several other horses which were left upon our hands, so I borrowed this one. The law would say, doubtless, that I had stolen it; but I am perfectly willing to return it to its rightful owners if someone will find them for me."

"You been in a scrap?" asked Grayson. "Who with?"

"A party of Pesita's men," replied Bridge.

"When?"

"Yesterday."

"You see they are working pretty close," said Grayson, to his employer, and then to Bridge: "Well, if you took that cayuse from one of Pesita's bunch you can't call that stealin'. Your room's in there, back of the office, an' you'll find some clothes there that the last man forgot to take with him. You ken have 'em, an' from the looks o' yourn you need 'em."

"Thank you," replied Bridge. "My clothes are a bit rusty. I shall have to speak to James about them," and he passed through into the little bedroom off the office, and closed the door behind him.

"James?" grunted Grayson. "Who the devil does he mean by James? I hain't seen but one of 'em."

The boss was laughing quietly.

"The man's a character," he said. "He'll be worth all you pay him—if you can appreciate him, which I doubt, Grayson."

"I ken appreciate him if he ken keep books," replied Grayson. "That's all I ask of him."

When Bridge emerged from the bedroom he was clothed in white duck trousers, a soft shirt, and a pair of tennis shoes, and such a change had they wrought in his appearance that neither Grayson nor his employer would have known him had they not seen him come from the room into which they had sent him to make the exchange of clothing.

"Feel better?" asked the boss, smiling.

"Clothes are but an incident with me," replied Bridge. "I wear them because it is easier to do so than it would be to dodge the weather and the police. Whatever I may have upon my back affects in no way what within my head. No, I cannot say that I feel any better, since these clothes are not as comfortable as my old ones. However if it pleases Mr. Grayson that I should wear a pin Kimana while working for him I shall gladly wear a pin kimona. What shall I do first, sir?" The question was directed toward Grayson.

"Sit down here 'an see what you ken make of this bunch of trouble," replied the foreman. "I'll talk with you again this evenin'."

As Grayson and his employer quitted the office and walked together toward the corrals the latter's brow was corrugated by thought and his facial expression that of one who labors to fasten upon illusive recollection.

"It beats all, Grayson," he said precently; "but I am sure that I have known this new bookkeeper of yours before. The moment he came out of that room dressed like a human being I knew that I had known him; but for the life of me I can't place him. I should be willing to wager considerable, however, that his name is not Bridge."

"S'pect you're right," assented Grayson. "He's probably one o' them eastern dude bank clerks what's gone wrong and come down here to hide. Mighty fine place to hide just now, too.

"And say, speakin' of banks," he went on, "what'll I do 'bout sendin' over to Cuivaca for the pay tomorrow. Next day's pay day. I don't like to send this here bum. I can't trust a greaser no better, an' I can't spare none of my white men that I ken trust."

"Send him with a couple of the most trustworthy Mexicans you have," suggested the boss.

"There ain't no sich critter," replied Grayson; "but I guess that's the best I ken do. I'll send him along with Tony an' Benito—they hate each other too much to frame up anything together, an' they both hate a gringo. I reckon they'll hev a lovely trip."

"But they'll get back with the money, eh?" queried the boss.

"If Pesita don't get 'em," replied Grayson.

CHAPTER X.
Billy Cracks a Safe.

Billy Byrne, captain, rode into Cuivaca from the south. He had made a wide detour in order to accomplish this; but under the circumstances he had thought it wise to do so. In his pocket was a safe conduct from one of Villa's generals farther south—a safe conduct taken by Pesita from the body of one of his recent victims. It would explain Billy's presence in Cuivaca since it had been intended to carry its rightful possessor to Juarez and across the border into the United States.

He found the military establishment at Cuivaca small and ill commanded. There were soldiers upon the streets; but the only regularly detailed guard was stationed in front of the bank. No one questioned Billy. He did not have to show his safe conduct.

"This looks easy," thought Billy, "A reg'lar skinch."

He first attended to his horse, turning him into a public corral, and then sauntered up the street to the bank, which he entered, still unquestioned. Inside he changed a bill of large denomination which Pesita had given him for the purpose of an excuse to examine the lay of the bank from the inside. Billy took a long time to count the change. All the time his eyes wandered about the interior while he made mental notes of such salient features as might prove of moment to him later. The money counted Billy slowly rolled a cigarette.

He saw that the bank was roughly divided into two sections by a wire and wood partition. On one side were the customers, on the other the clerks and a teller. The latter sat behind a small wicket through which he received deposits and cashed checks. Back of him, against the wall, stood a large safe of American manufacture. Billy had had business before with similar safes. A doorway in the rear wall led into the yard behind the building. It was closed by a heavy door covered with sheet iron and fastened by several bolts and a thick, strong bar. There were no windows in the rear wall. From that side the bank appeared almost impgrenable to silent assault.

Inside everything was primitive and Billy found himself wondering how a week passed without seeing a bank robbery in the town. Possibly the strong rear defenses and the armed guard in front accounted for it.

Satisfied with what he had learned he passed out onto the sidewalk and crossed the street to a saloon. Some soldiers and citizens were drinking at little tables in front of the bar. A couple of card games were in progress, and through the open rear doorway Billy saw a little gathering encircling a cock fight.

In none of these things was Billy interested. What he had wished in entering the saloon was merely an excuse to place himself upon the opposite side of the street from the bank that he might inspect the front from the outside without arousing suspicion.

Having purchased and drank a bottle of poor beer, the temperature of which had probably never been below eighty since it left the bottling department of the Texas brewery which inflicted it upon the ignorant, he sauntered to the front window and looked out.

There he saw that the bank building was a two story affair, the entrance to the second story being at the left side of the first floor, opening directly onto the sidewalk in full view of the sentry who paced to and fro before the structure.

Government Attitude Toward the Shopmen's Strike

In His Address at Marion, Ohio, July 4th, President Harding Declared—

"The foremost thought in the constitution is the right to freedom and the pursuit of happiness. Men must be free to live and achieve. Liberty is gone in America when any man is denied by anybody the right to work and live by that work. It does not matter who denies

"A Free American has the right to labor without any other's leave.

"It would be no less an abridgement to deny men to bargain collectively. Governments cannot tolerate any class of grouped domination through force. It will be a sorry day when group domination is reflected in our laws. Government and the laws which government is charged with enforcing, must be for all the people. ever aiming at the common good"

The United States Railroad Labor Board has declared the strike of Railway Shopmen to be in effect against the authority of the United States Government. and the Labor Board accordingly adopted the following resolution. July 3rd:

"Whereas the six organizations composing the Federated Shop Crafts have notified the Railroad Labor Board that a very large majority of the employes which they represent have left the service of the carriers, and that the members of said organizations are no longer employes of the railways, under the jurisdiction of the Railroad Labor Board or subject to the application of the transportation act, and,

"Whereas, in the future submission of disputes, involving rules, wages and grievances of said classes of employes of the carriers, it will be desirable, if not a practical necessity, for the employes of each class on each carrier to form a sort of association or organization to function in the representation of said employes before the Railroad Labor Board in order that the effectiveness of the transportation act may be maintained; now. therefore, be it

"Resolved that it be communicated to the carriers and employes remaining and the new employes succeeding those who have left the service to take steps as soon as practicable to perfect on each carrier such organization as may be deemed necessary for the purpose above mentioned; and be it further

"Resolved, that, on any carrier where either of the above named organizations by reason of its membership severing their connections with the carriers, ceases to represent its class of employes procedure similar to that above suggested in the case of the shop crafts is recommended; and, be it further

"Resolved, that the employes in the service and the new ones entering the same be accorded the application and benefit of the outstanding wage and rule decisions of the Railroad Labor Board, until they are amended or modified by agreement with said employes, arrived at in conformity with the transportation act or by decision of this Board: and, be it further

"Resolved, that, if it be assumed that the employes who leave the service of the carrier because of their dissatisfaction with any decision of the Labor Board are within their right in so doing it must likewise be conceded that the men who remain in the service and those who enter it anew are within their rights in accepting such employment; that they are not strikebreakers seeking to impose the arbitrary will of an employer on employes; that they have the moral, as well as the legal right, to engage in such service of the American public to avoid interruption of indispensable railway transportation, and that they are entitled to the protection of every department and branch of the government, state and national."

President Harding has announced that the Labor Board has the full backing of the government and the full power of the government will be employed to support its policies. For these reasons, patriotic and law-abiding citizens everywhere must regard the strike as directed at the United States government and should support the declaration of Chairman Hooper of the Labor Board that

Spudders Drop Another When Lohman Shows Rare Form

WHEELER WEAKENS IN TWO ROUNDS AND GASSERS GRAB GAME WITH BUNCHED HITS

Summa, Beck and Kitchens Only Spuds to Connect Safely; Game Requires But One Hour and 25 Minutes; Lohman Has Great Form and Stops Visitors With Six Hits

Special to The Record News.

SHREVEPORT, La., July 7.—Zeke Lohman blanked the Spudders today in the second game of the series when he let them down with six hits while the Gassers counted six runs off Wheeler for a 6-0 win.

Starting with a rush, the two teams played a lightning like game and finished in one hour and 20 minutes.

Bunched hits were responsible for the Gassers runs, but Adams' error on Hartford's grounder started the fireworks in the fourth. The errors and a late play at third permitted five runs to score on four hits.

Lohman was in rare form and only three of the Spudders were able to solve his delivery. Summa smacked out two doubles, Beck a single and double, while Kitchens singled to left on two different occasions for the other two blows.

The Spudders had runners in scoring position on several occasions, but were unable to deliver the pinch knock, due to the exceptional work of the Shreveport hurler.

Summary—Two base hits, Summa 2, Beck; three base hits, Storey; sacrifice hits, McDonald, Wheeler; double plays, Jackson to Hartford; Hollahan to Hartford to Jackson, Beck unassisted; base on balls, off Wheeler 2; struck out, Lohman 2, Wheeler 3; left on bases, Wichita Falls 4, Shreveport 4; time 1:25; umpires, Weir and Hill.

Only two bobbles marred the play of the two teams. Adams booted a grounder in the fourth and dropped Jackson's fly over short in the seventh.

A number of fast plays were turned in, with Ezzell taking the front when he made a wonderful play on Adams' grounder in the eighth. The ston was neatly handled and the throw from a difficult position finished one of the nicest plays seen here this season.

Except for the fourth inning, Wheeler was highly effective. Of the eight hits chalked up off his delivery, four came in the fourth and two in the eighth, netting six markers and the game.

Beck played a whirlwind game at first and accepted 14 chances, some of which were difficult. He had an unassisted double play in the eighth.

Lohman lost credit for a hit in the fourth inning when Summa came in on a line single to center and forced Vann at second. Two runners scored on the wallop.

MANY PLAYERS TO ENTER TOURNEY

Tennis Fans Show Much Interest In Move

Local tennis players are rejoicing over the Record News tournament which is to be held in the near future.

Arrangements are being made to secure courts for the play, with the understanding that none will interfere with matches scheduled for certain dates and hours.

More than 100 entries are anticipated for the matches, and due to the length of time required in the first round, the opening date will be chosen as soon as possible.

Entry lists will probably open Tuesday morning, following the meeting Monday night of enthusiasts who are willing to co-operate in the meet which will determine the city championship.

Merchants are offering prizes for winners in the various events. These will be awarded in addition to the two cups already put up, one of which will be offered by The Record News, the other by Collier and Landon.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 7.—John Bell, matchmaker for the Motor Square Boxing club today announced that Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, must reply by tomorrow to his offer to stage a bout between the heavyweight champion and Harry Greb of Pittsburgh, light heavyweight title holder of America or the negotiations would be dropped.

Bell said he had offered Kearns $100,000 or the option of 35 per cent of the gate receipts for the bout Labor Day." I need about two months to prepare for such a match," Bell declared, "and unless Kearns comes to a decision by tomorrow, I will have to abandon my plans."

He said that in the event the bout is arranged, the club will construct an arena to seat 30,000 people.

DEMPSEY HAS EYES ON MICHIGAN CITY

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Jack Dempsey and his manager, Jack Kearns, in spite of the flattering offer of $100,000 with privilege of 50 per cent of the gate receipts to meet Harry Greb at Pittsburgh, on Labor Day, had their eyes turned toward Floyd Fitzsimmons' new arena at Michigan City when they made their flying trip through Chicago last night en route to Syracuse, N. Y., where the champion is billed for an exhibition tilt with Les Darcy tonight.

When he announced the Pittsburgh offer and discussed the champion's affairs in general, Kearns said he had closed no contract with Fitzsimmons for a Labor Day match with Bill Brennan or any other heavyweight, but said Dempsey when he next risks his crown, is anxious to have the bout at Michigan City.

GRIGGS DOES IRON MAN STUNT

Maskat Hurler On Mound In 3 Of 4 Games

After taking four straight games from Austin and San Antonio, the Maskat Shrine baseball team returned home Friday. With a victory over Electra just previous to the southern trip the team has a record of five consecutive wins. Members of the nine attribute this to the reorganization of the lineup by Manager Al Ellis. The Maskats now have probably the strongest Shrine team in the state.

The games in the southern trip were featured by stellar pitching with Griggs carrying the heavy end for the locals. In the first Austin game which the Maskats won 5 to 4 he pitched a game which would do credit to a big leaguer.

At San Antonio Smith held the mound the first day, winning his game 5 to 1. After resting over the Fourth, Griggs again took the mound Wednesday and pitched his team to an 8-5 victory. The Alzafar aggregation brought players from the best team in southern Texas in an effort to take the second contest but found the local hurler too hard to hit. In this game Al Booth was spiked and was unable to continue being carried off the field. Shady Hale was also slightly cut by a sliding runner.

Not content with his work the day before, Griggs again took the mound Thursday and defeated Austin 9 to 4. Although his hurling was splendid it alone would not have won without the support of the entire team. Playing like veterans, they backed their pitcher in fine style and slammed the ball in every game.

TEXHOMA CATCHER BACK IN GAME TODAY

H. L. Blanton, catcher for the Texhoma team in the City league, is reported ready to play today, following an injury received last week when he was struck by a pitched ball and rendered unconscious.

Blanton has recovered sufficiently that he expects to participate in today's game.

LAST PASSES FOR KNOT HOLERS MONDAY

Officers of the Knot Hole gang announced yesterday that Monday will be the last opportunity to obtain passes for this season.

Many have lost their card boards, some have had them revoked, while many others have never obtained membership.

Those who contemplate securing passes are warned to be at the office of the juvenile officer in the courthouse not later than 9 o'clock Monday morning.

No passes will be issued for this season after this day.

Twilight Loop Finishing Play

This afternoon the Twilight league plays the last scheduled games before the final contests next Saturday. The Texas and Gulf companies are tied for the lead and the outcome of today's games will be a determining factor in deciding the winner of the pennant.

The Texas company nine is billed with the Presbyterians and should have little trouble in disposing of them. The Gulf will meet the Bankers and will have a stiffer game, but should take the long end of the score. Games in the local league are never cinched however and the dope bucket may take a spill and the leaders lose. At any rate the players will be on their toes for a snappy contest.

The Texhoma aggregation will meet the Railroaders in what promises to be an interesting game.

Now That's Rather Odd

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK —Reisenwebers restaurant, on the rim of the midnight fox trot belt, has been ordered closed for one year, but on condition that no liquor be made, sold or stored on the premises, the execution of the order is suspended for six months.

SAN FRANCISCO — An unusual demonstration in the ocean off Point Surf, below Monterey, Cal.—a battle between a whale and a sword fish—was reported today by Frank McDonald, custodian of the customs house here.

"The first I saw of the battle," said McDonald, "was when the Leviathan of the deep churned up a field of foam that looked like a white island in the sea. Then the big fellow spouted and leaped. I knew he was fighting a foe unseen. Suddenly as though he had been coming straight up for a solar plexus blow, a sword fish pierced the air."

After a battle lasting more than half hour the sword fish was victorious, McDonald said.

DENVER—Mamie Thornton 17 years old, who told authorities she is the daughter of J. B. Thornton of Conway, Ark., and who says she eloped from Little Rock, Ark., with an 18-year-old boy she described as "Bobbie," was found yesterday weeping in the Denver union station by police dectectives.

"My father wouldn't let me marry Bobbie because he thought we were too young," the girl explained. "So I got $50 and went to Little Rock where my sweetie lives and we went down to the station to elope to Denver. We didn't have enough money, so I bought a ticket ond Bobbie said he'd follow on a freight train. I got to Denver Tuesday and I've been sitting in the union station waiting and crying ever since.

NEW YORK BONDS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Keeping pace with the greater activity in the stock market, today's trading in bonds on the exchange was the largest in volume and most diversified of any session this week.

Liberty issues did not repeat their spectacular performance of the previous day, only one of that group, the first 4s, scoring a new high record at 100.30. Realizing for profits caused the nominal declines elsewhere in that division.

Foreign loans were reactionary, their heavy tone being ascribed to the further demoralization shown by internal currencies at this center. United Kingdom of 1937 lost one point and French government 7 1-2s and Mexican government 4s eased on moderate offerings.

Many domestic rails were higher by 1 to 1 1-2 points, the more conspicuous issues including Atlantic coast line 4s, St. Paul 4s of 1925, Pennsylvania general 5s, Erie general 4s, Minneapolis and St. Louis 4s, Colorado and Southern refunding 4 1-2s and Missouri, Kansas and Texas first 4s. American telephone convertible 4s featured the stronger utilities at a gain of 2 1-2 points.

STOCKS SHOW BETTER TONE

Foreign Money At Low Ebb

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Business on the stock exchange today was marked by greater breadth and a confident undertone, despite the existence in more active form of international factors which gave rise to a greater apprehension.

French, Italian and German currencies were at lowest quotations for the current movement, their decline, in the opinion of conservative banking interests, clearly reflecting fresh disturbances in the foreign economic situation.

Rails opened the session at variable advances over yesterday's gains but these were held within narrow limits, and almost entirely forfeited in the profit taking of the afternoon and a few leaders closing at sharp declines.

Studebaker Up

Independent steels, affiliated equipments, motors and numerous miscellaneous industrials and specialties participated irregularly in the early rise, but fell back as the session progressed. Studebaker was one prominent exception, making a steady advance on very large dealings and closing at a net gain of 4 1-4 points.

Selling of the Mexican oils was resumed. Mexican petroleum fluctuating within a 5 point range and ending at a decline of 2 5-8 with a loss of 1 3-8 for pan-American "A" shares. Domestic oils were inclined to strength, Pacific oil responding to the favorable showing made in the first annual report.

Coppers, leathers, textiles and several of the base metals had their occasional periods of activity and strength, although final quotations in most instances showed only nominal changes, the one exception being national lead at a gain of 4 1-2 points. Sales of stocks amounted to 935,000 shares.

Grain Producers Want Equality

Special to the Record News.

STAMFORD, July 8.—Grain producers on the lines of the Santa Fe in west Texas are asking through the West Texas chamber of commerce concessions from that railroad which would place grain producers on that line in adequate competition with producers along the lines of the Fort Worth & Denver, Rock Island, Wichita Valley, Abilene & Southern railways on the kaffir corn, milo maize and other sorghum grains, and in fact all grains to points in the northeastern and eastern part of the United States, as well as the southeastern region via the Fort Worth gateway and Mississippi river crossings at New Orleans, Vicksburg, Memphis, Cairo and St. Louis.

It is pointed out that present "differential" rates are giving producers along the other roads an advantage which should also be enjoyed by Santa Fe railroad points. The removal of such alleged discrimination would make for a stimulation in the movement of the great 80,000,000 bushel crop annually to the northeastern and eastern markets, bringing a better market and providing more ready money for those sections.

The matter has been taken up with the Santa Fe officials and a decision is expected to be reached in a short time.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Butter lower, creamery extras 35c; eggs unchanged, receipts 15,710 cases.

This Man Wouldn't Stay Down

He was putting in long hours at unskilled work. His small pay scarcely lasted from week to week.

He saw other men promoted. Then he learned the reason. They had special training. He made up his mind to get that kind of training.

He sent to Scranton a coupon like the one below. That was his first step upward.

The reward was not long coming—an increase in salary. Then he was made Foreman. Now he is Superintendent.

It just shows what a man with ambition can do!

What about you? You don't have to stay down. You can climb to the position you want in the work you like best.

The way to do it is easy—without obligating yourself in any way, mark and mail this coupon.

WHEAT VALUES TURN DOWN

Weather Reports Are Blamed

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 7. — Excellent weather conditions for the spring crop together with continued absence of any reports of actual damage by black rust did a good deal today to bring about downturns in the value of wheat. Prices closed unsettled, 5.8 to 1 3-4c net lower with September $1.12 7-8 to $1.13 1-8 and December $1.15 1-2 to $1.15 5-8. Corn lost 1-4 to 1c and oats 1-8@1-3 to 1-2 cents. In provisions the outcome ranged from 30 cents deline to 10c advance.

Although there were reports of blakrust having been found at several Canadian points, bearish views regarding the rop outlook received general acceptance and sellers of wheat were in a majority throughout almost the entire session. At one time gossip about sales of 550,000 bushels to exporters stimulated a rally in prices, but it was asserted the wheat refered to was to fill purchases that Europeans had made quite a while ago. In this connection it was pointed out that seaboard advices told of British efforts to resell at 2 shillings under offers sent from this side last night. Weakness of foreign exchange was an additional factor.

Reports were current that rains had been causing delay to threshing in the southwest and west. Arrivals of 102 carloads of wheat at Wichita, Kan., tended however to discount talk of any serious check to the movement of the winter crop. On the other hand considerable notice was taken of Minneapolis messages saying flour demand had greatly improved.

Rains in many dry sections of the corn belt made prices easier for both corn and oats, notwithstanding good shipping demand here for corn.

Provisions averaged lower on account of lard selling on the part of houses with western connections.

BUSINESS NEWS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON. — Reduction of the rediscount rate o fthe federal reserve bank of San Francisco from 4½ per cent to 4 per cent, effective Saturday, was announced by the federal reserve board.

LONDON.—Calling attention to the fact that yesterday's bank return showed a reduction of 500,000 pounds in gold and that a similar decline occurred in the holdings of gold by the currency department against the issue of currency notes, the Morning Post today says: "The withdrawal is suggestive of import exports of metals and the development occasioned the greatest surprise in the city, because, rightly or not, it was regarded as being connected with preparations for meeting the service on our debt to the United States government."

NEW YORK.—The New York curb market association has announced the suspension of the firm of Wilbarger and Kane for failure to meet the engagements.

NEW YORK.—Under authority of a recent act of the legislature the Metropolitan Life Insurance company announced today that it had just authorized bond and mortgage loans amounting to $5,000,000, of which more than $3,000,000 was for housing projects.

NEW YORK.—German marks today fell to the level of 100 for 18½c, or almost three cents per hundred under the minimum established yesterday. Brokers attributed the decline to disturbing economic conditions in Germany.

EMMETT JONES PAYS COUNTY COURT FINE

Emmett A. Jones was fined $150 by a jury in county court at law Friday afternoon on conviction of violation of the Texas insurance laws. The specific charge in the case was that he solicited insurance without a state license and that such action is in violation of the law.

One case against Mr. Jones was dismissed during the morning and the second case went to the jury about 3:30 o'clock.

Deputy Hunt of the state insurance department was present to assist in the prosecution of the case. Mr. Jone's attorneys filed a motion for a new trial immediately after the verdict of the jury was rendered.

Mr. Jones contended that he does not have to have a license because he said he was advising individuals and that he had a right to do so and was violating no law. He said that when a prospective buyer of insurance came to him for advice that he would simply give them a list of companies which would best serve their needs.

FT. WORTH OFFICER BADLY BEATEN

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Texas, July 7.—Constable B. F. Clark was lured from his home in Mineral Wells at 11:30 o'clock last night by [illegible] claiming Ranger as their name. They told him they had some automobile thieves spotted and took him to the ball park in the city limits.

Fifteen masked men threw guns in his face. When his hands were above his head, he was slugged in the back of the head, tied and severely beaten.

He was taken to his actions were not satisfactory. He has been waging a strong fight against the "rough" element lately, it is said.

Burk Gets Completion

JUDSON LEASE WELL FLOWING

100 Barrels Daily Reported

South Burkburnett had a nice completion in the 1,040-foot sand reported for this past week, the Sure Oil corporation's No. 11 Dodson, on the old Judson lease, being reported completed, and swabbing and flowing at the rate of 100 barrels daily.

The Magnolia recently had a nice completion on an offsetting lease in this same sand, and has another well in process of completion.

In the new north pool, and just south of the Laning and Moninger operations, the Hobbs Oil company's No. 2 Murdock is a 50-barrel well in the 1,230-foot sand.

CRUDE OUTPUT IS INCREASING

May Production Up Over April

By B. N. TIMMONS
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Production of crude petroleum has been increasing steadily since the second week in May, in spite of a reduced flow in the Texas and Louisiana fields, the federal reserve board today announced. The total May output amounted to 46,473,000 barrels as compared with 44,657,000 barrels in April. The average daily production of oil in California was 357,876 barrels during May, as compared with 341,077 barrels in April and 337,101 barrels in May, 1921. Development work is increasing and completions numbered 64 wells n May in comparison with 49 wells in April. Shipments increased, but are still less than production, so that California stocks were 2,246,404 barrels larger on June 1 than on May 1. A number of new wells have been shut in to curtail the amount of surplus production.

In the fields of Kansas City federal reserve district crude petroleum production averaged 539,446 barrels a day during May, as compared with 535,234 barrels a day in April. The number of wells completed increased from 651 in April to 669 in May, although development operations in some localities werehindered by weather conditions. Average daily productions in the Dallas federal reserve district declined from 458,353 barrels in April to 426,173 barrels in May, while the number of completed wells dropped from 531 to 473. The production of the Mexia field continues to decline, but three new fields were proven in the Texas coastal region during May.

Prices of the best grades of Kansas and Oklahoma crude oil remain unchanged, at $2 per barrel, while the only important change in Texas prices was an increase in the price of the Orange crude from $1 to $1.25, the price already prevailing in other coastal fields. On June 5, the price of Pennsylvania crude was increased from $3.25 to $3.50 a barrel. Refiners have been increasing their operations during May and June, as demand has been somewhat stimulated by warm weather and the coal strike. Domestic sales of kerosene and fuel oil are increasing, while an improvement is reported in the export demand for gasoline.

STATE TO DRILL IN SUBMERGED LANDS

Special to the Record News

AUSTIN, July 7.—Drilling for oil in the submerged tracts of state land in Black Duck bay, bordering the Goose Creek oil field, which land was recently sold for oil development to the Gulf Production company for more than $100,000, will begin in a few days, according to Land Commissioner J. T. Robinson, who has just returned after 10 days spent in surveying the tract.

The state has a one-tenth royalty retained in the oil produced on the tract, and should extensive oil be found, would draw large revenues from this source, it was stated.

INSTRUCTED VERDICT FOR LIVINGSTON CO.

An instructed verdict for the defendant was returned by the jury in 80th district court Friday in the case of Burk-Vaughn Oil company against Livingston Oil corporation et al. The jury in rendering the verdict answered a special issue in a way which is said to construe as in favor of the plaintiff as against defendant Charles Baroff. The case was for damages because of alleged breach of drilling contract.

PACIFIC OIL CO., MAKES BIG PROFIT

By Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 7.—The first annual report of the Pacific Oil company and affiliated companies, once the property of the Southern Pacific company, which was made public today, shows gross earnings from operations in 1921 of $30,853,257. The net profit was $18,826,146.

Surplus income last year, after deducting for depreciation and depletion and federal income taxes was $16,261,292 against total liabilities of $81,157,051. Production for the year amounted to 14,047,293 barrels, the number of wells in operation on December 21, 1921, being 858.

TO REDEEM BONDS

Coal and Iron National bank, trustee of the United Oil Producers' guaranteed 8 per cent and participating bonds, announces that it will receive tenders up to and including Aug. 21, 1922, at 10 a. m., to sell to the sinking fund $27,000 par value of the bonds for redemption and cancellation. The amount originally out out on July 25, 1921, was $1,000,000, and with this forthcoming redemption the amount retired will total $310,000.

Five Wells to Be Drilled to New 1,900-Foot Sand in Dispute

Through mutual agreement between the Planet and Gladiolus interests, five wells are to be drilled immediately to the new 1,900-foot sand on the narrow strip which is in dispute between the two companies, in section 6, the original South Electra pool.

There are no deep wells on this strip, and producers in the deep sand on either side offer the likelihood of draining the disputed property until wells which might be drilled to the new sand after the litigation has been settled, would be of greatly decreased value.

The Planet-Gladiolus suit is now up for final appeal, being decided in the Gladiolus' favor on the retrial a few months ago. Application had been made for a receiver for the disputed territory but this was dispensed with, by the plaintiff and defendant agreeing on a drilling program satisfactory to both.

Two wells are now drilling and three derricks are up.

Little Stories For Bedtime

SOMEBODY ELSE GOES BERRYING.

Isn't it funny how two people will often think of the same thing at the same time and neither one know that the other is thinking of it? That is just what happened the day that Buster Bear first thought of going berrying. While he was walking around in the Green Forest talking to himself about how hungry he was for some berries and how sure he was there must be some up in the Old Pasture, some one else was thinking about berries and about the Old Pasture, too.

"Will you make me a berry pie if I will get the berries tomorrow?" asked Farmer Brown's boy of his mother.

Of course, Mrs. Brown promised that she would, and so that night Farmer Brown's boy went to bed very early so that he might get up early in the morning, and all night long he dreamed of berries and berry pies. He was awake even before jolly, round, red Mr. Sun thought it was time to get up, and he was all ready to start for the Old Pasture when the first Cheerful Little Sunbeams came dancing across the Green Meadows. He carried a big tin pail, and in the bottom of it, wrapped up in a piece of paper, was a lunch, for he meant to stay until he filled that pail, if it took all day.

Now, the Old Pasture is very large. It lies at the foot of the Big Mountain, and even extends a little way up on the Big Mountain. There is room in it for many people to pick berries all day without even seeing each other unless they roam about a great deal. You see, the bushes grow very thick there, and you cannot see very far in any direction. Jolly, round, red Mr. Sun had climbed a little way up in the sky by the time Farmer Brown's boy reached the Old Pasture and was smiling down on all the Great World, and all the Great World seemed to be smiling back. Farmer Brown's boy started to whistle, and then he stopped.

"If I whistle," thought he, "everybody will know just where I am and will keep out of sight, and I never can get acquainted with folks if they keep out of sight."

You see, Farmer Brown's boy was just beginning to understand something that Peter Rabbit and the other little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest learned almost as soon as they learned to walk—that if you don't want to be seen you mustn't be heard. So he didn't whistle as he felt like doing, and he tried not to make a bit of noise as he followed an old cowpath toward a place where he knew the berries grew thick and oh, so big! And all the time he kept his eyes wide open, and he kept his ears open, too.

That is how he happened to hear a little cry, a very faint little cry. If he had been whistling he wouldn't have heard it at all. He stopped to listen. He never had heard a cry just like it before. At first he couldn't make out just what it was or where it came from. But one thing he was sure of, and that was that it was a cry of fright. He stood perfectly still and listened with all his might. There it was again: "Help! Help! Help!" and it was very faint and sounded terribly frightened. He waited a minute or two, but heard nothing more. Then he put down his pail and began a hurried look here, there, everywhere. He was sure that it had come from somewhere on the ground, so he peeped behind bushes and peeped behind logs and stones, and then just as he had about given up hope of finding where it came from he came around a little turn in the old cowpath, and there right in front of him was little Mr. Gartersnake, and what do you think he was doing? Well, I don't like to tell you, but he was trying to swallow one of the children of Stickytoes the Tree Toad.

Letters From People

WRONG EITHER WAY.

Editor Record News:

There has been much said about the propriety of the United States government breaking the spirit of the 18th amendment and all the Volstead acts if not also breaking them literally, in an effort to make the operation of American ships a financial success under the management of Mr. Lasker.

We all have our views as to the principles and morals involved, even though there may be difference of opinion as to the expediency of allowing dollar chasing to interfere with honest enforcement of an amended constitution. But can there be any defense for incompetence in dollar chasing. As has been suggested, IF it's legitimate for the federal government to operate a bar on board its ships, then why not make real money by issuing federal orders to all officers to ship all liquor that is seized to Chairman Lasker, that instead of pouring it down sewers, it may be sold aboard ships at attractive prices in competition with that sold on foreign ships.

It seems clear, that either morals and decency in application of principles and substance of laws should apply, or EFFICIENCY could be expected from alleged efficiency experts who are compelled to meet competition. If liquor can be legitimately and legally handled by federal authorities, why tolerate waste and great loss, when the government needs the money and taxes ought to be reduced, and ship subsidies avoided. Is not Lasker legitimately condemned as lacking in morality, OR efficiency? Which?

CUT RAIL RATE TO EXHIBITORS

Reduction Applies On Two States

Reduced rates for exhibitors at the Texas-Oklahoma fair to be held in Wichita Falls Sept. 30 to Oct. 4, inclusive have been secured by the fair association, according to an announcement made Friday.

The reduced rates will apply from all sections of Texas and Oklahoma and will allow exhibitors who bring livestock, poultry, farm products or any kinds of exhibit to get rates equivalent to one-half the regular rate.

When the exhibitor brings his exhibit here he will pay the regular rate from point of origin, but upon presentation of his certificate he will get his exhibit returned to point of origin free. In case he wants to send his exhibit on to the Dallas fair he will pay one-half rate to Wichita Falls, one-half rate from Wichita Falls to Dallas and one-half rate from Dallas back home. This reduction of rates will be instrumental in bringing a great many valuable exhibits here, members of the association said.

It was stated Friday that negotiations are now pending to a passenger rate of one and a third fare for the round trip to the fair here. The negotiations have reached a point where the association members say they feel sure it will be granted.

DAREDEVIL DYANSHINE OF WACO TO PERFORM HERE

THE LATEST IN SENSATIONS – THE DEATH DRAG.

Dare-devil Dyanshine is in town and he is going to risk his life at least one time before he leaves. He has a habit of risking his life. He has probably risked his life in as many towns and cities in the nation as any one living man.

Dare-devil Dyanshine is to perform his press-agented "death-defying stunt" here Sunday night at 7 p. m. at Lake Wichita. He will allow himself to be fastened in a straight-jacket and chained behind a Nash automobile. When the machine has speeded up to 60 miles an hour, with Dare-devil Dyanshine dangling along behind, hitting the righ places here and the rough places there, he will in his own mysterious manner work himself out of the straight-jacket and free himself. Then the racing machine is slowed down and he is unchained. King & Weaver will furnish the Nash car for the performance.

Dare-devil says he has the only stunt of its kind and he has performed to thousands in many Texas cities.

Dare-devil Dyanshine is on his way from Waco, Texas to Bangor, Maine for a $10,000 wager. He has to be in Bangor in 108 days exclusive of Sundays and holidays, has to give 120 exhibitions before a total of 500,000 persons and can't sleep in a rooming house or hotel unless invited. He started out with $5.00 and has to pay all expenses of his trip by giving performances but he can not set a price for his performances. He has to take what the people give him.

His stunt is one advertising a particular brand of shoe polish for a Waco manufacturing company and he has to visit every mayor in towns of 1500 people or more and give them a bottle of the polish.

Dare-devil Dyanshine has to keep his real identity a secret. But his face is a familiar sight to thousands of people. He has done dare-devil stunts all over the nation. He will do one here before he leaves. One of his stunts is to allow himself to be dragged by an automobile as he lays on his back, at the rate of 60 miles an hour.

He travels in a special Nash car and his motor was overhauled here by the Nash people free of charge as he has to "manage" for all repairs. He has given eight performances before 24,000 people since he left Waco last Friday.

GROSECLOSE TO PREACH SERIES

He Announces His Sermon Topics

Dr. Groseclose, of the Floral Heights Methodist church, announces that for the four Sunday nights in July he will deliver a series of sermons on the following subjects:

"July 9.—"Spiritualism Analyzed."

July 16.—"The Truth Concerning Christian Science."

July 23.—"Recognition in Heaven."

July 30.—"Divorce—the Peril of America."

In making the announcement, Dr. Groseclose said: "These sermons will not abound in ridicule of the subjects discussed, as such sermons often do, but will be fair, honest discussions of the truth. All person intereted are invited to attend, whether they agree with me or not."

EVANGELIST MEETING

Beginning Sunday afternoon, a series of evangelistic meetings will be held at the East Side Presbyterian church to which the public is invited. The pastor, C. C. Dooley, will conduct the services, assisted by Rev. M. W. Rogers who has had splendid success in pastoral and evangelistic work. The meetings will be held at 3 and 4 p. m. on Sunday and at 10 a. m. and 8:15 p. m. on week days.

SCOUT TROOPS PRESENTED FLAG

Scout troop 16, in the factory district, now has a charter and a flag. The charter from national headquarters was presented at the regular weekly meeting and the flag was donated by Mr. Flury of Austin and presented by Scoutmaster C. E. Russell and Executive Powell, both of whom made interesting talks. When the flag was raised the scouts came to attention in good form and gave the scout salute.

Scout Executive Powell delivered an address to the boys and told of the duties of scouts and of the many oportunities for them to forge ahead. He told the boys that each one of them would have to do their part to make the troop up to the standard and to be benefitted personally.

JAKE HAMON ESTATE NAMED IN SUIT

Suing for $4,700 which they allege is the value of material sold the defendants and for which pay has not been received, Weaver Brothers have named Frank Kell and Frank Ketch, the later administrator of the estate of Jake Hamon, as individuals and as receivers for the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth railroad. The plaintiff alleges that the amount sued for is still due on a quantity of lumber and other material used in the construction of the road. The case is on trial in the 30th district court.

Wichita's First Woman Lawyer Begins Her Practice in City

Hats off to Wichita Falls' first woman attorney.

Miss Bezie I. Dee has just returned from Austin, where she passed the state bar examination with high honors and is hanging out her shingle in a well known downtown office building. Not only is her shingle out but she already has a case.

Miss Dee is sister to J. Roy Dee, who is a candidate for county attorney of Archer county. They both graduated from Cumberland university law school the past term and then passed the bar examination to practice in Texas. Mr. Dee got back to Archer City, his home, too late to get his name on the ticket but is in the race just the same and has a bunch of friends boosting for him.

"I think I shall confine my practice to civil law," said Miss Dee, "because I think it is better for a woman than the practice of criminal law."

Miss Dee has been in Wichita Falls about two years. She came here from her home in Lamars, Iowa. Her bothers are interested in the oil business.

SALVATION ARMY TO DEMONSTRATE WORK

This will be an opportunity for those who know little about the social service work of the organization to come and see for themselves something of the work being done by this international organization. An invitation is extended to the public.

They were at Marlin when Mrs. King took suddenly seriously ill from a fever blister on her mouth, which quickly developed into blood poison. She was immediately rushed to Dallas for treatment, which proved futile. She died two days later. The body was taken to Kerens, Texas, for interment.

Mrs. King is survived by her husband and one son, Etheridge, and daughters, Ines, Jac and Frank.

At 9 o'clock this morning the case of the City of Wichita Falls against the county commissioners seeking an injunction to prevent the commissmissioners from continuing work on the Meridian highway over Fort Worth street, will be heard before Judge H. R. Wilson in 30th district court.

The city attorney was instructed in special session of the council Thursday to file the suit which is a friendly suit, it is said, to determine the routing of the highway through the city. In the petition the city attorney sets out that under the charter the city is given the exclusive control supervision and jurisdiction of all streets in the city limits.
