Farm credit causing little trouble here

Staff and wire reports
Indecision in Washington about extending credit to struggling farmers has had little effect in Howard County.

Steve Kelley of the Farmers Home Administration office in Big Spring said farmers in this area have no reason at this point to be apprehensive. "We are in fairly decent shape" concerning funding.

Congress has moved to extend credit just in time for spring planting, but the White House says the proposal is too expensive and will likely be vetoed.

Area financial institutions are "evaluating their needs" at this point and verifying "what loan funds are available," Kelley said. Banks are "carrying the bulk of farmers in this county," he said.

But Kelley's crystal ball is cloudy about the next month. He is unsure what effect the bickering in Washington will have on direct loan funds and guaranteed loans from the government.

Both the House and Senate on Wednesday passed separate legislation offering various forms of credit relief to farmers having trouble getting operating money this spring. They include interest rate subsidies and loan guarantees and advances — all opposed by President Reagan as unnecessary.

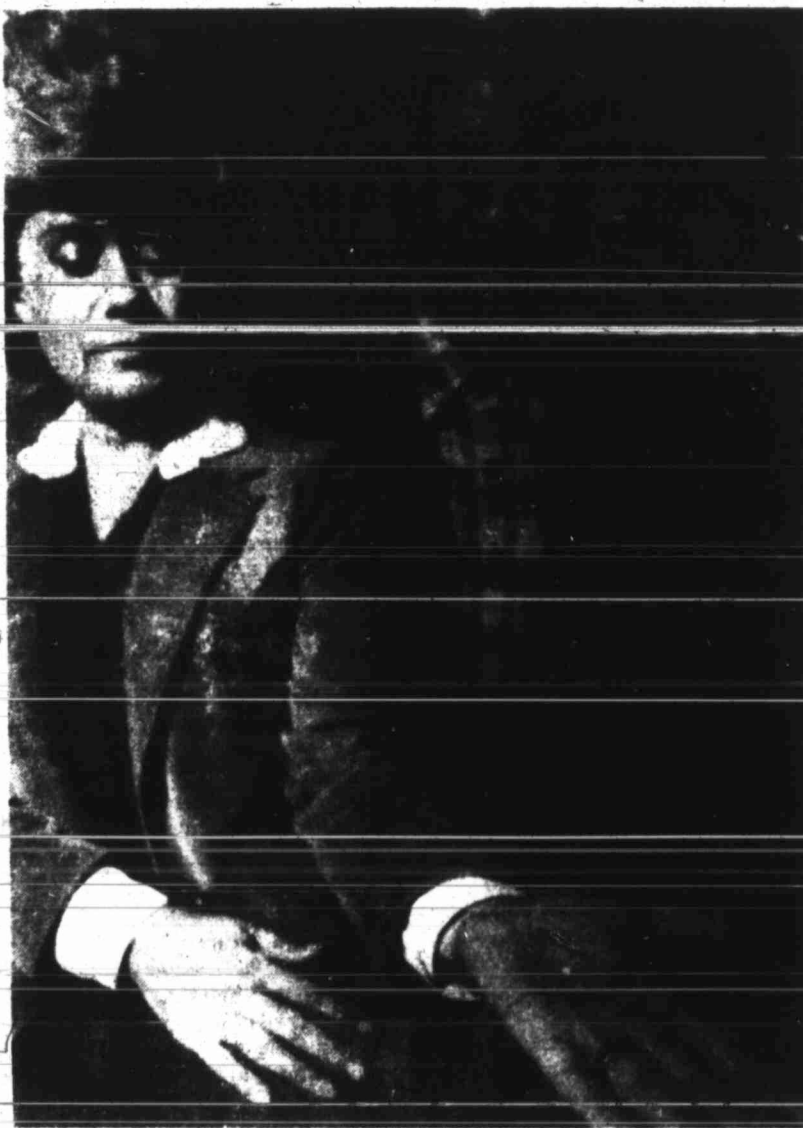

Backers of the credit-aid moves, mostly Democrats and farm-state Republicans, hailed the moves as a way to keep farmers caught in a credit pinch alive for at least another year.

But Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., said the action signaled a breakdown in budget discipline early in a year when Congress is grasping for ways to reduce the federal budget deficit.

"We haven't demonstrated we're willing to face up to the deficit," Dole told senators. "We're adding a billion-plus (dollars) to our problem."

Dole vowed that the credit

Jean Moore of Gail Route looked up from dinner one night to find her husband choking on the oysters.

"My husband was eating oysters — he eats them raw — and he said, 'Hey, mama, look at this,' and he pulled out a pearl," Mrs. Moore said.

"I guess that's what you find when you buy fresh oysters," she said.

A few days later, her husband found another pearl in the oysters they'd bought from the Rev. J.B. Hardeman, who runs Hardeman's Off Truck Sea Food at 104 N.E. Ninth.

The pearls are small, and one is a little darker than the other. But she said she is proud to have found them.

College appoints trustee, names director

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

David Gomez, 58, owner of Carlos' Restaurant, was sworn in as a member of the Howard County Junior College District board of trustees Thursday during a special meeting.

Gomez was scheduled to be sworn in at the Feb. 19 meeting, but a question was raised prior to that meeting on whether proper notice of his nomination was placed on the agenda. Trustees decided to call the special meeting Thursday to avoid any conflict.

Gomez and his wife, Francis, live at 402 N.W. 9th. They have five children, including two in high school, one in junior high school and one at Bauer Elementary.

Gomez is a member of the West Texas Girl Scout Council, Knights of Columbus and the American Legion.

• Trustees Thursday approved the hiring of Leatrice (Lea)

Whitehead as director of development for the Howard College Foundation. Ms. Whitehead has been creative services director at the Big Spring Herald for several years and is a Big Spring native.

She attended Big Spring schools, Howard College and has a degree in journalism from the University of Texas at Austin.

She worked in public relations in Houston for more than 25 years and has a background in fundraising, employee relations, press relations and special events planning. She is accredited by the Public Relations Society of America.

While in Houston, she won awards from the Houston Ad Club, the Texas Public Relations Society and the Public Relations Society of America.

She is a member of the Big Spring Symphony Association, Blue Blazers, Pottion House Committee, a board member of Rape Crisis Services and a member of the Howard County Sesquicentennial Committee.

Her salary will be paid through the Foundation. Dr. Bob Riley, president of the college district, said Ms. Whitehead "is the person to get our Foundation moving."

• Trustees accepted the resignation of George Taylor, science instructor at the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf. Taylor's resignation is effective at the end of the spring term.

• Also approved during the special meeting was the purchase of multi-peril insurance from Reeder Insurance in Big Spring. The policy will cost $52,900 for one year. The policy is up from $28,000 paid last year.

Trustees questioned the hike in the insurance. Terry Hansen, business manager, said a major steam leak, damages to the old Hawk gymnasium and freeze damages were among "several claims that hurt us this year."

Veteran actor, scientist die

Performer dead at 80

SAN JUA CAPISTRANO, Calif. (AP) — J. Pat O'Malley, whose character roles in films, plays and television ranged from a heavy in a Lasseie movie to a part on "My Favorite Martian," has died at the age of 80.

The Irish-born O'Malley had been suffering from a heart condition before he died Wednesday, relatives said.

O'Malley, who worked in British vaudeville acts before landing a Hollywood part as the heavy in the 1937 movie, "Lassie Come Home," appeared on Broadway in plays such as "Ten Little Indians," "Of Thee I Sing" and "Dial M for Murder" during the 1940s and early '50s.

His feature film credits included "The Long, Hot Summer," "Witness for the Prosecution," "Mary Poppins," "101 Dalmatians" and "Hello Dolly."

J. Pat O'Malley

Television appearances from the 1950s on included "My Three Sons," "The Twilight Zone," "My Favorite Martian" and "Gunsmoke." He appeared regularly with George Burns in the 1965 series "Wendy and Me," and in Shirley Booth's "Touch of Grace" eight years later.

He is survived by his wife, Fay O'Malley; two children and two grandchildren. Funeral services were pending.

Services set for Howard

LUTHERVILLE, Md. (AP) — Dr. John Eager Howard, a leader in endocrinology and metabolism research who developed drug treatments to prevent some kinds of kidney stone formations, has died at age 82.

Howard, professor emeritus of medicine at the Johns Hopkins Medical School who was on the faculty for 32 years, died Wednesday at his home.

He received the 1968 Passano Foundation Award for outstanding contributions to medicine, particularly for his studies of the cause of kidney stones and of vitamin D's relationship to calcium.

In 1963, Howard drew a connection between diseased arteries to the kidneys and the sudden onset of high blood pressure. He refined tests for determining whether an individual patient's hypertension was caused by kidney disease, so such patients could seek kidney surgery or other kidney treatment in order to lower blood pressure.

Howard discovered that the production of kidney stones is inhibited by the presence of phosphocitrate, a substance in the blood that keeps calcium in solution. People who lack that substance are more prone to develop certain kinds of kidney stones, Howard concluded.

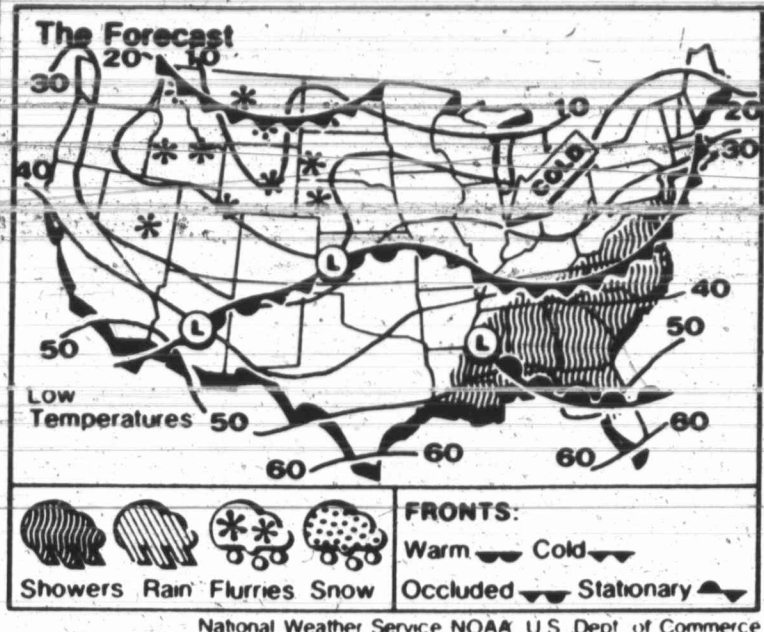

He proposed injecting such people with phosphocitrate to help prevent kidney stones.

Howard also determined that an excess intake of Vitamin D can cause elevated levels of blood calcium, causing damage to health.

A native of Baltimore, Howard was a descendant of John Eager Howard, who led a successful charge against the British in the Revolutionary War battle of Cowpens, S.C. Howard received a congressional medal of honor for his actions.

Howard is survived by his wife of 56 years, Lucy, a son, a daughter, two sisters and four grandchildren. Services will be held Saturday in Garrison.

Weather

Local

Fair skies and warm temperatures are in today's forecast with highs near 70. Southwesterly winds are blowing 10 to 15 miles per hour. The temperature tomorrow will be warmer with highs in the mid 70s. Skies will be partly cloudy with southerly winds blowing 10 to 15 miles per hour.

State

Clouds covered most of Texas this morning. Light rain fell across portions of the southern tip of the state, accompanied in the Rio Grande Valley by fog that cut visibility to one-half mile.

A few patches of light rain were scattered across Southwest Texas. No other rainfall was reported in the state.

A ridge of high-pressure covered the eastern half of Texas, where winds were light and variable. A low-pressure trough developed in far West Texas, producing southerly winds at 5 to 10 mph.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 40s and 50s. The coolest temperatures were in the northeast part of the state. At 4 a.m., temperatures ranged from 40 at Texarkana to 59 at Brownsville.

The National Weather Service said skies over Texas would be mostly cloudy today, with occasional light rain in South Texas and chances of light rain in Central Texas.

Afternoon temperatures were expected to be in the 50s and 60s, with rain possible for all but West Texas.

Forecast

WEST TEXAS: Fair tonight becoming partly cloudy Saturday. Warmer central and south Saturday. Lows tonight mid 30s. Panhandle to near 50 southeast. Highs Friday mid 60s Panhandle to low 80s Big Bend.

Two injured in car accident

Two persons received minor injuries Thursday night in a car accident that occurred on Midway Road, three miles east of Big Spring.

According to Texas Department of Public Safety reports, Jeffrey Carl Thompson, 20, of Route Three lost control of his pickup truck when attempting to pass another vehicle.

The pickup went off the roadway and struck a utility pole after it overturned.

Thompson and another passenger, Charles Thompson, 45, of Route Three, were treated for minor injuries.

A Big Spring man reported to sheriff's deputies yesterday that someone stole a silver-colored butane tank from a vacant lot north of Eubanks Road. Value of the tank is unknown as the sheriff's department continues its investigation.

Sheriff's deputy Robert Stapp issued Rodney Wayne Murphy, 19, of 3901 Hamilton a peace bond Thursday morning. Murphy was released on $1,500 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Hefflin.

Big Spring police transferred Freddy Olivarez, 33, of 1504 Harding and Manuella Olivarez, 31, of Gail Route to county jail after they were arrested for theft over $20 and under $200.

They were released on bonds set at $500 apiece by the city.

Man reports pistol stolen

A 9-mm blue steel pistol was stolen from a car owned by Sanders Chaney of Garden City Route, he told police.

Chaney said he did not know when the pistol, valued at $150, was taken.

Patricia White of 103 Carey told police someone took a .25-caliber automatic pistol from her house at 11 p.m. Thursday. A window also was broken in the burglary. The pistol was valued at $125.

Lougene Renshaw of 607 Colgate told police someone had damaged a concrete retaining wall at her house Saturday evening. The damage was estimated at $150.

Barbara Holmes of 706 W. 17th told police someone stole a cassette stereo, valued at $125, and three tapes, valued at $10 each, from her blue 1980 Chevrolet. The theft occurred between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Thursday while her car was parked in the east lot of Big Spring High School.

Caroline Decell of 2806 Coronado told police that someone stole a stereo cassette player and speakers from her car between 8 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Thursday while the car was parked in the east parking lot of the high school.

Ann Weaver of Weaver Real Estate at 204 Main told police she found four juveniles inside a vacant house at 1314 E. 17th at 2:35 p.m. Thursday.

Helen Davis of 307 N.W. Eighth told police someone had broken into the house at 1 p.m. Thursday, but no items were discovered missing.

Police arrested Christine Garcia Aguilar, 21, of 1503 W. Second at 4 p.m. Thursday at home on suspicion of assault.

Police at 6:30 p.m. Thursday arrested Manuella Olivarez, 31, and Freddy Olivarez, 33, both of 1504 Harding at the Penneys store at the Big Spring Mall on suspicion of theft of more than $20 and less than $200.

Penneys manager Don Fisher told police he saw the couple leaving the store with a peignoir dress, valued at $47, without paying for the garment.

Man hospitalized in collision

A 20-year-old pedestrian remains in serious condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital after he was struck by a car early this morning on Wason Road, according to police reports.

Anthony P. Munoz, 26, of Amarillo suffered multiple trauma and a fractured leg in the accident, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

Munoz was hit in the 2700 block of Wason by a black 1981 Pontiac Gran Prix, driven by Big Spring resident Ellen Marie Anders, according to Police Lt. Jerry Edwards. Ms. Anders is in her early 20s, he said.

Munoz was in the roadway at the time of the accident, 4:40 a.m. to day, Edwards said. The collision knocked him about 140 feet from the point of impact, according to preliminary police reports.

Ms. Anders was traveling southbound on Wason when the accident occurred, Edwards said.

The accident is being investigated by Sgt. Pam Jordan and patrolmen Oskar Everett, Randy Isbell and Kathy Hosler.

No arrests have been made or tickets given in the accident, Edwards said. There is no evidence Ms. Anders was speeding or driving while intoxicated at the time of the accident, he said.

Speed limit on the road is 40 miles an hour, he said.

legislation is "never going to become law," and that was backed up by a threat from deputy White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater, who said: "In all likelihood, we'll veto" if the measure reaches Reagan in its present form.

The GOP-dominated Senate slipped from the control of its leaders and approved the credit help 62-35 under the pressure of the mounting problems in rural America. Many producers, particularly highly leveraged farmers in the Midwestern grain belt, have found themselves unable to get planting loans as the value of their land and crops have plummeted.

Senators first passed, 54-45, a measure that would provide $100 million to "buy down" interest rates for farmers whose income is unable to meet payments on a loan at market rates. Commercial lenders would match the interest subsidy to bring down interest rates as much as four percentage points.

The bill, sponsored by Sens. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., and John Melcher, D-Mont., also would earmark an additional $1.85 billion in loan guarantee authority, on top of the $650 million or more set aside by Reagan, and boost the level of guarantees to 90 percent of principal.

them," she said. "I've thought about having them mounted (for earrings)."

She has not had them appraised, she said.

"They've bought oysters from me several times, but this is the first time they've found pearls," said Hardeman. No one else has found pearls in the oysters he trucks in from the Gulf Coast as far as he knows, he said.

The pearls were found in the same batch of oysters, Mrs. Moore said. "We found them about three or four days apart. It takes a while to eat a gallon of oysters."

New road construction covers slave cemetery

MCKINNEY (AP) — A four-lane road under construction north of Dallas bypasses a white cemetery preserved as a historical landmark, but may be covering a black slave cemetery, area residents say.

Local residents say a slave burial ground was located next to Bradley Cemetery, where white Collin County settlers were buried between 1855 and 1881. Bradley Cemetery is preserved as a historical landmark.

No one is sure exactly where the slave cemetery is located.

"It was my understanding, as we grew up, that there were blacks buried across the fence," Jay Crum, 49, told the Dallas Times Herald. He said he remembers five or six, 18-inch wooden markers next to Bradley Cemetery.

"As recently as 18 months ago, there were tombstones still there," Crum said during a recent visit to the site, which is now surrounded by a 218-acre development tract.

A year ago, Crum and his mother sold 70 acres of the family cotton farm to Vanro Development Co. Vanro plans to build 1,000 houses, townhomes and apartments on the 218 acres. The new four-lane parkway will bisect the development and link U.S. Highway 75 with State Highway 5.

"Maybe the road has gone over it," said Crum, who raises horses. "It's hard to tell."

A founding member of the McKinney Heritage Guild says a wooden marker was found on the road bed when the bulldozers finished grading the soon-to-be Wilson Creek Parkway.

Margaret Hughston, whose great-grandfather Edward Bradley was buried in the white cemetery in 1855, says no one knows exactly where the slave graves are located.

"I don't think you can say it is under the road," she said.

Members of the McKinney Historical Society and the Collin County Historical Commission examined the property last summer with Vanro vice president Robert Roeder. At the time, Roeder agreed to define and preserve a 250-by-150-foot plot for Bradley Cemetery.

"We found no evidence of any burial ground other than what we marked out," he said.

Historical society member Helen Hall says her group plans to fence in Bradley Cemetery and petition the state for a historical marker because the cemetery is the oldest in McKinney.

No one is sure how many people were buried in the Bradley Cemetery. Many of the markers have been moved, vandalized or destroyed since the turn of the century.

On the other side of the fence, because the names were never on the wooden markers, no one knows who the slaves were.

Ms. Hughston says it may be appropriate to place a historical marker just south of Bradley Cemetery saying, "This was the site of a slave cemetery."

"I do not think there is any reason to round off a piece of ground saying, 'this is it,'" Ms. Hughston says.

Panhandle residents attack site proposal

HEREFORD (AP) — The Texas Panhandle is so unsuitable as a site for the nation's first high-level radioactive waste repository that the government should eliminate it now as a potential area for further study, opponents of the dump say.

"You could and should pull back from this while there's time," Frank Ford of nearby Vega told Department of Energy officials Thursday night. "Twenty years ago, we could have pulled back from Vietnam, and that's where you are now."

Ford was one of several people to suggest to the DOE that it remove a nine-square-mile area in Deaf Smith County from consideration as a possible home for the controversial repository.

Ford, testifying during a

6½-hour hearing on the DOE's environmental assessment of the Panhandle site, said if the next step of the government's process continues, "there are 10s and 10s and 10s of 1,000s of people ready to go into an attack on the nuclear power industry."

Last December, the Energy Department named a nine-square-mile area of privately owned farmland in Deaf Smith County about 16 miles north of Hereford as one of three "preferred sites" for the repository. The other two locations are in Washington and Nevada on federally owned land.

The DOE issued environmental assessments of the three sites and is giving the public until March 20 to comment on the massive reports.

Deaths

Doyal Milner

Doyal L. Milner, 69, died Thursday morning in a local hospital following a lengthy illness. Services will be Monday at 3:30 p.m. at Nalley-Pickle and Welch Rosewood Chapel with the Rev. Johnny Robertson, minister at Wesley United Methodist Church, officiating.

Burial will be at Trinity Memorial Park.

He was born Dec. 25, 1915, in Crossville, Ala. He married Helen Eck July 18, 1943, in Dayton, Ohio. He moved to Big Spring in 1956 from Arlington. He was a member of the Wesley United Methodist Church. He was a carpenter and had been retired for seven years.

He served in the Army Air Corps during World War II.

Drug charges pending on 20

Charges are pending against 20 people arrested by police on suspicion of drug-related offenses on Jan. 26 and Feb. 8 and Feb. 9, according to the District Attorney's office.

The DA's office Thursday received files on the cases from the police department, according to Assistant DA Jeanene Walker.

The cases will be handled by DA Rick Hamby, she said.

Sgt. Bill Price, who brought the cases over, said the police department typist was running behind, Ms. Walker said. "There's so much paperwork on each case," she said.

Hamby should know which cases the office will accept by next week, she said.

SAN DIEGO — Mayor Roger Hedgecock says he cannot be ready for a retrial on conspiracy and perjury charges by May 8 and claims a judge's choice of that date is a "violation of my rights."

Louisiana governor named in federal indictment

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Authorities will try to seize nearly $10 million in "ill-gotten gains" from Gov. Edwin Edwards and six other men indicted for allegedly selling state certification for hospitals and nursing homes, a prosecutor says.

Edwards, two of his relatives and four friends and business associates were named Thursday in a 51-count federal indictment charging racketeering conspiracy.

Edwards, a 57-year-old Democrat in his third term, is the sixth governor in the nation this century to be indicted while in office. He is accused of netting $2 million from the alleged scheme.

Edwards has acknowledged receiving about $2 million from Health Services Development Corp., the company that allegedly obtained the state certificates, as fees when he was in private life, prior to his reelection in 1983. He served two terms as governor from 1972-1980, but by state law could not run for a third consecutive term. He began the third term last March.

Thursday's indictment said money the defendants received is subject to confiscation under the federal Racketeering Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act or RICO.

U.S. Attorney John Volz said prosecutors' aim is "seizure of all of the ill-gotten gains. The RICO statute enables us to do that...the FBI traced all the ill-gotten gains."

The indictment alleges Edwards used his position to gain favorable treatment for Health Services Development Corp., which allegedly obtained 15 state certificates that qualify hospitals and nursing homes for federal money. The certificates were then sold to those interested in actually building the facilities, the indictment said.

Authorities said they were tipped by backers of hospitals and nursing homes whose projects were blocked by a moratorium imposed by Edwards. Edwards ordered eight projects exempted, five of them involving his former business associates.

Louisiana Governor Edwin Edwards spoke to reporters outside the governor's mansion Thursday following a federal grand jury indictment of Edwards and six others on 50 counts of fraud and racketeering.

Volz said he wants the certificates seized, meaning the facilities could not receive federal reimbursement for building costs. He refused to say whether other indictments might be returned, or whether the continuing probe still involves the governor.

Edwards said he had not read the indictment and could not comment on it.

Turner considers CBS takeover

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Federal Communications Commission official says broadcasting magnate Ted Turner is considering an attempt to take over a major television network, which published and broadcast reports identify as CBS.

James C. McKinney, chief of the FCC's mass media bureau, said former FCC Chairman Charles Ferris, a Washington attorney who represents Turner, had met with a number of current commissioners to discuss the possible takeover bid.

McKinney did not identify the network, but today's editions of the trade journal Communications Daily reported Turner was eyeing CBS.

CBS News quoted an unidentified FCC source Thursday night as saying an attorney for Turner had discussed a bid to take over CBS with FCC commissioners.

A CBS corporate public relations spokesman, who declined to be identified, said, "CBS will have no comment."

Communications Daily said it was told Ferris tried to determine the commissioners' attitude toward such a proposal and they told him to "bring us something" to consider.

Roy Stewart, the FCC's chief expert on ownership transfers, said he was scheduled to meet today with Ferris. Ferris did not return a reporter's telephone calls on Thursday.

Turner, owner of Cable News Network and other broadcast properties, two years ago suggested a merger of his Turner Broadcasting System with CBS.

The network is already the object of a takeover bid by Fairness in Media, a group of political conservatives who have received support from Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

Turner was not available for comment Thursday night, and a spokeswoman for Turner, Judy Borza, said in a telephone interview from Atlanta, "We have no comment."

There appear to be no cross-ownership problems. FCC rules forbid owning a newspaper and a station in the same city or more than one station in a city. CBS has no stations in the cities where Turner owns stations.

There are 29.7 million shares of CBS stock outstanding.

Christianity is to blame

LONDON — A Church of England bishop said in an article published today that Christianity "must take a major share of the blame" for the Nazi attempt to exterminate the Jews.

John Baker, Bishop of Salisbury and one of his church's leading theologians, said Christianity has "spewed out" anti-Semitism from the earliest times.

He called for an act of "theological penitence" by Christians and urged them to disown "distorted features" of the New Testament.

The comments appeared in an article on racism and the Bible published by the church's Board for Social Responsibility.

Caller caught in the act

PEKING — Police have arrested a Peking shoe salesman for making more than 20 obscene telephone calls in less than an hour to a female operator, a newspaper said today.

The official English-language China Daily said Zhu Hongdong, a shop assistant at the Wanli shoe store, "was caught red handed making obscene phone calls to the female operator of dial 114, the Peking telephone directory assistance service."

Sikh assassin confesses

NEW DELHI, India — The widow of one of Indira Gandhi's accused Sikh assassins said her husband told her he wanted to become a martyr but did not say he wanted to kill the prime minister, the United News of India reported.

"In the last week of July 1984, my husband told me that he wanted to be a martyr," Vimla Khalsa, widow of police sub-inspector Beant Singh, was quoted as saying.

The agency on Thursday quoted a statement she allegedly made to police. UNI did not say when the statement was made or how the agency obtained it.

"When I asked what will happen to our children, he had said you will bring them up or God will take care of them," she was quoted as saying. "My husband never told me he wanted to kill Mrs. Gandhi."

Soviet wants his money

LONDON — Oleg Bitov, the Soviet defector who returned home and said he'd been kidnapped, is trying to recover the money he earned with anti-Soviet writings in Britain, his former friends here said.

"It's very surprising that he's somehow managed to get on the right side of the authorities and come back and surface," said Duff Hart-Davis, a Sunday Telegraph writer who edited Bitov's essays, on Thursday.

IRA guerrillas kill nine in attack

NEWRY, Northern Ireland (AP) — IRA guerrillas fired mortars into a fortified police base ringed by houses, killing nine officers dining at the base canteen in the bloodiest attack on police in 15 years of sectarian violence.

Thirty-seven people, 25 of them civilians, were injured in the attack Thursday. All but one of them were released from the hospital.

Police said the mortar shells whistled over a row of shops and offices and blasted the police compound, surrounded by houses in the center of this staunchly Roman Catholic border town. The police station was sealed off today and passers-by stared at the rubble.

The accuracy of the mortars raised fears the IRA had obtained sophisticated new weapons.

Several hours after the mortar attack, a terrorist bomb exploded in Pomeroy, 40 miles away, killing a soldier of the Ulster Defense Regiment.

The defense regiment, which is recruited locally, is part of the British Army. Like the police, most of its members are Protestant.

There was no claim of responsibility for the bombing in Pomeroy, but the Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility for the Newry attack in a statement telephoned to Belfast news organizations. "This was a major and well-planned operation, indicating our ability to strike where and when we decide," it said.

Dozens of officers were in the canteen for an evening meal when it was struck by a single mortar shell, said Michael McAtamney, Northern Ireland's deputy police chief. Police said a total of nine mortars were fired from the bed of a hijacked red truck.

Uruguay ends military rule; president inaugurated today

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Uruguay today formally ends 12 years of rightist military rule with the presidential inauguration of Julio Sanguinetti, a centrist politician, lawyer and journalist.

"Long live democracy," proclaimed a blue-and-white billboard bolted high on a building alongside the three-story stucco presidential palace, which will be occupied by an elected civilian for the first time since the mid-1970s.

Earlier this week, workmen tore down the walls that had been erected around the palace by military rulers.

Military rule followed a period of leftist terrorist activity and coincided with widespread labor unrest over an ailing economy.

Armed forces rulers failed to remedy the economy and agreed, after four years of on-and-off talks with civilians, to give up power.

Sanguinetti has said he will try to stimulate free enterprise rather than increase government control in his battle with 66 percent annual inflation, 14 percent unemployment and a $5 billion foreign debt.

Bach's fame can Handel it

If there is any year in the history of music comparable, say, to 1685, the year of birth for both George Frederick Handel and Johann Sebastian Bach. The two were born 26 days and less than 100 miles apart in what now is East Germany. Handel on Feb. 23 in Halle, Bach on March 21 in Eisenach.

Each was a miracle, far transcending what seems like the creative limits of an ordinary mortal, the first a worldly man recognized almost immediately, especially in England, where he spent much of his life and whose citizen he became; the other an organist and choirmaster whose keyboard talents were widely known but whose towering stature as a composer almost was unrecognized for almost 80 years after his death. It was not until 1829, when the young Mendelssohn discovered and conducted the St. Matthew Passion in Berlin, that Bach was fully appreciated beyond the bounds of Leipzig, where he composed most of his greatest works, as the giant he was.

Bach and Handel never met, though Bach, who deeply admired Handel's work, twice made the attempt. Both went blind toward the end of their lives; ironically, the same surgeon operated on both of them, in each case with no success.

Because they are so transcendent, there is no way for anyone fully to appraise the influence of either on music, much less on Western civilization generally. Bach particularly is such an enormous figure that no catalog of works, no analysis of technical innovations, no tracing of style can more than hint at the whole of it. As one biographer put it, "His was the most subtle and universal force in the development of music."

In the coming months, there will be no end of concerts, seminars, conferences, and reappraisals of the works and influence of Bach and Handel, all of them trying to recognize and encompass what their music meant. None of them completely will succeed because, in the civilization of the past 300 years, there finally is nothing to compare them with except themselves.

An oil fantasy can come true

Ever since the oil crisis back in the Seventies, I've had a fantasy that someday I would drill a well in my back yard and hit the biggest gusher this side of Kuwait.

I made the mistake of telling my dream to a banker friend named Eyal Shapira.

"There's an oil glut now and you'd be better off capping the well and sitting on it until the prices go up," he said.

"But what about my fantasy? I need the money right now."

"Why don't you make a bid on an oil company?"

"How can I make money buying an oil company if there is an oil glut?"

"You won't make your fortune on oil. You'll make it attempting to take over the company."

"I'm listening."

"Name an oil company, any oil company."

"Phillips Petroleum out of Bartlesville, Okla."

"That's a good one. T. Boone Pickens made a pass at them and failed."

"Well, if he couldn't buy it how can I?"

"You don't want to buy it. You want to announce you're buying it. In today's world of high finance the easy money is made not from producing oil, but from producing threats."

"I don't see how I can make dough from threatening to buy an oil company."

"Haven't you ever heard of greenmail?"

"What's greenmail?" I asked.

"It's like blackmail, only it's legal. Now this is what you've got to do. You announce your intention of taking over Phillips for $9 billion."

"I may disagree with what you have to say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." — Voltaire.

Published Saturday and Sunday mornings and weekday afternoons; Monday through Friday, by Big Spring Herald, Inc., 710 Scurry St., 79720 (Telephone 915-263-7331). Second class postage paid at Big Spring, Tex.

"Wait a minute, where do I get $9 billion?"

"From the banks, you dumbbell."

"What do I put up as collateral?"

"The Phillips Petroleum Co. If you sold off all its assets it would be worth $15 billion."

"But I don't own Phillips yet. How can I put it up as collateral?"

"It doesn't matter if you own it or not at this stage. The bank doesn't have to give you money. All it has to do is promise to provide it for you if you win the takeover. In the meantime you can buy up enough stock to become a threat. Once the word is out that you're serious about the takeover you can demand an inflated price for your shares in exchange for promising not to raid Phillips again."

"I don't want to do anything illegal in my fantasy," I warned my friend.

"Everything I've told you is legal. That's the beauty of today's takeovers. You don't have to produce anything, or employ people, or worry about Japan. All you have to do is make nasty noises and you can walk away with a fortune."

"What kind of money are we talking about?"

"The last guy who tried to take over Phillips is ahead somewhere between $50 and $100 million, and he didn't have to find one cup of oil."

Shapira continued, "Just think, if, in your fantasy, you become a greenmailer instead of an oil driller, you could have the management of any petroleum company on your knees. That to me is a real American dream."

"What's the greenmail?" I asked.

"It's like blackmail, only it's legal. Now this is what you've got to do. You announce your intention of taking over Phillips for $9 billion."

Hearth, health a shambles

WASHINGTON — For Virginia Isaacs, the low-interest federal loan she got to fix up her modest home seemed like a gift from heaven. Instead, it plunged the 57-year-old Oklahoma City woman into that special section of hell reserved for those who put their trust in the federal bureaucracy.

She filled out all the necessary forms, submitted to all the routine red tape and selected an officially approved contractor. But the remodeling left her hearth and health in equal states of disrepair. The house was a shambles, and her doctors believe that a heart attack two years ago was brought on by stress.

Since the heart attack, Mrs. Isaacs has been unable to work full time. But this hasn't stopped the Housing and Urban Development Department from demanding that she repay every penny of her $31,000 loan. Nor has the fact that HUD's own auditors determined that she had been overcharged for the repair work by as much as $10,000 and that the supposedly rehabilitated house was a safety hazard.

Although the Scrooges at HUD pressed remorselessly for full payment, they were less dedicated about overseeing the repair work. They failed to enforce their own guidelines governing reconstruction contracts under the so-called "312" loan program.

HUD documents seen by my associate Corky Johnson show that the guidelines designed to assure proper work were not followed. The federal agency seems to have abdicated its responsibilities to the city urban renewal authority, which failed to follow the guidelines that might have spared Mrs. Isaacs her grief.

When she got her HUD loan in 1980, Mrs. Isaacs followed instructions and asked the local urban renewal office for a list of approved contractors. In hindsight, she probably should have been suspicious when several of the numbers she dialed had been disconnected. But she persevered and finally found a contractor who was still in business.

Here's what Mrs. Isaacs did — and didn't — get for her $31,000:

- She paid for new gutters and downspouts. HUD inspectors found the old ones still in place, leaking.
- Though she was charged $200 for replacement of rotted studs, HUD reported that "there was no evidence any replacement occurred."

- An old circuit breaker, frayed electric wiring and leaky sewage pipes were not replaced.
- Mrs. Isaacs couldn't use her kitchen for seven weeks while the contractor tried to repair it.

- The contractor tried to persuade Mrs. Isaacs to buy a refrigerator twice as expensive as the one she wanted. When she refused, the contractor put her old refrigerator out on the porch, where the motor burned out in two days.

- The house was left with gouged and rotted ceiling beams, a garage door completely off its hinges, and unconnected ducts and drainpipes.

Mrs. Isaacs wasn't the only one who saw her dream of government help turn sour. In Oklahoma City alone, at least a dozen families were the victims of shoddy work by contractors and sloppy supervision by officials. For example:

- One couple with a newborn baby had to use a kiddie pool for baths and dish washing for a month because the contractor had disconnected the bathtub and sink. They had to live in one room for months because the repair crew had knocked unnecessary holes in the walls of the other rooms.

- One eight-room house had electricity in only three rooms when the rehabilitation work was finished.

- One man learned that the contractor had been double-billing him for many items so the contractor could furnish another house he was building.

- Dozens of fire and safety hazards were reported by HUD inspectors, including additions in danger of collapsing because of faulty construction and furnace vent pipes that were removed and not replaced.

The HUD inspectors suspected that the dilapidated housing was the result of something more than bad workmanship. "Strong indicators were discerned that the possibilities of fraud, waste and mismanagement exist," one internal memo said.

Footnote: A HUD official declined comment beyond saying, "Some programs go better than others." A spokesman for Oklahoma City admitted to problems with some local contractors. Meanwhile, Virginia Isaacs has filed suit against HUD and Oklahoma City officials.

MORE ASBESTOS — The Pentagon isn't the only government building in town that has asbestos fibers in the air its employees breathe. Since I reported on the asbestos problem at the Pentagon, I have learned that asbestos has been detected in the air inhaled by Voice of America employees.

The impurity is minute — only 0.002 to 0.011 fibers per cubic centimeter of air, which officially is not enough to worry about. The Occupational Safety and Health Administration uses 2.0 fibers per cubic centimeter as its safety threshold.

But the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health uses a stricter standard of 0.1 fibers per cubic centimeter and informed VOA employees that it actually prefers a standard of 0.01 for office workers.

By SCOTT FITZGERALD

Sunday afternoon in El Paso. I'm saying goodbye to a friend before driving back to Big Spring. She's a television reporter for Channel 9-KTSM in El Paso and one of the few news media persons I still know who have remained in the Sun City.

Everyone else has either left or switched career paths.

And now she's trying to attain another job — outside of El Paso. If she transfers, she will become one of many who have tried to make a go of it with TV news in El Paso.

Walter Cronkite was a news correspondent stationed in El Paso for a brief spell. He transferred within a year.

ABC News White House correspondent Sam Donaldson is from El Paso. As soon as he completed college and began pursuing a career — he left.

When I covered television for the El Paso Times, I frequently wrote stories about new local TV personnel moving in.

To be honest though, more stories were written about those who had moved out.

Gary Cartwright said in a Texas Monthly article last year about El Paso that "almost everyone who has a job in TV has a bag packed."

Cartwright further says that salaries for TV news staffers in El Paso are among the lowest in Texas.

My friend griped about her low salary and the dismal working environment. She recently applied for an opening as a news reporter with a television station in Tucson.

How did she find out about the opening, I asked her.

Through a friend of hers who works at the Tucson station. She said in fact maybe I remembered her friend.

Sure I remembered her friend. He was a nice fellow. Grew up and attended college in El Paso.

When I first met him a couple of years ago — he was employed by a television station in El Paso. It only makes sense.

Congress scores victory in farm aid bill

By EVANS WITT

WASHINGTON (AP) — With thoughts of the 1986 election never far away, the new Congress has dealt President Reagan the first legislative defeat of his second term. But the farm-state Democrats who won this hand should wait before counting on too many political dividends from the early session victory.

Reagan, Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole and the Republicans have important cards yet to play in this poker game where the chips are farm credit relief, aid to famine-stricken Ethiopia, deficit-cutting and advantages for the crucial off-year elections in 1986.

Both the House and the Senate passed legislation Wednesday that gives far more direct aid to struggling farmers than the administration had wanted — from $100 million in new federal dollars to reduced interest costs to quick crop loans that will go on the ledger in this fiscal year rather than the next one.

The Senate measures were tacked onto a bill providing $175 million in non-food help to starving Ethiopians — a bill some on Capitol Hill called veto-proof, given the massive publicity the famine has received in this country.

It was a hard measure to vote against — aid to starving Ethiopians and struggling American farmers. And a lot of Republicans bolted the administration line — 16 on the Senate side and nearly half of the GOP members voting on the farm measure in the House.

Those same reasons are the ones that make it tough for Reagan to veto — or good cam-

"We have bitten a very tough political bullet... We aren't going to back away from that now."

Reagan did veto the measure, Democrats argued privately, the Republican administration would look particularly cold-hearted.

But Dole, R-Kan., who faces his farm-state voters in 1986, said he thought Reagan would veto the bill with the Democratic amendments, and a White House spokesman described the veto possibility as "in all likelihood."

The reasons Reagan would likely cite for a veto are straightforward — both the farm measures and the famine relief are budget-busters in a year when deficit-cutting is the prime topic.

Dole claimed the bill put the government another $1 billion in the hole, especially since the famine relief was far above the $25 million asked by Reagan.

Dole, struggling through the first floor test of his tenure as majority leader, made it clear he considers this fight only the first round in the budget battle and so did the White House.

"We have bitten a very tough political bullet" in calling for severe spending reductions in numerous areas, said spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said. "We aren't going to back away from that now."

But that argument is a tough one for Republican officeholders. Twenty-two GOP Senate seats are among the 34 up in 1986, while all the House seats are, of course, on the line next year.

And nowhere was the 1986 political angle clearer than in the tally of the Senate roll call.

On the key vote on the first farm amendment, eight Senate Republicans bolted to join the Democrats, while only one Democrat went the other way. Of the eight Republicans, four are up for re-election in 1986 in the heart of the nation's Farm Belt: Jim Abner of South Dakota, Mark Andrews of North Dakota, Charles Grassley of Iowa and Robert Kasten of Wisconsin.

On the final roll call, when issue wasn't in doubt, those four were joined by these other 1986 Republican hopefuls: Alfonse D'Amato, New York; Jeremiah Denton, Ala.; Paula Hawkins, Fla.; Charles Mathias, Maryland; Frank Murkowski, Alaska and Arlen Specter, Pennsylvania.

Abner faced an especially clear choice and not just because the entire South Dakota legislature was in town on Tuesday to press for the bill. Reagan may have won South Dakota with 77 percent of the vote in 1984, but that is little comfort for Abner in 1986.

For all Abner has to do to consider the election possibilities is look to the chief sponsor of the farm credit passed in the House: Democratic Rep. Tom Daschle of South Dakota.

In speculation about the 1986 election, Daschle is the name most often mentioned as the Democrat most likely to oust Abner.

Coahoma alumnus, band open for Conway Twitty

Cary Banks, a former Big Spring alumnus of Coahoma High School, will perform with fellow members of the Maines Brothers Band in the opening set during the Conway Twitty concert Saturday night.

Banks, a guitarist and songwriter, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Banks. While in school, he decided football wasn't for him but a career as a professional musician was. He graduated from Coahoma High School in May of 1968.

Inspired by the American invasion of the Beatles in 1964, Banks began his interest in music. He began writing songs while a music student at Lubbock Christian College for two semesters. For ten years after dropping out of college, he continued his interest in music and was introduced to the business side through trial and error.

Banks lived in both Lubbock and Nashville twice during this time while, sometimes unsuccessfully, following his dream of becoming an accomplished songwriter and musician. After moving to Nashville the last time, he toured with the duo Tim and Monica and got a taste of life on the road. He returned to Lubbock unsure of his future but positive that he was improving as a songwriter.

In 1978, Banks married wife Carol, who has been encouraging and supportive of his dreams. He continued writing and performing at gigs wherever he could. He has written more than 200 songs.

Banks' two biggest jumps in his career have happened since. He joined the Maines Brothers Band from Lubbock as a full-time replacement for Randy Brownlow. He knew the band had potential to make it big. Previously he had been a guest performer for the band a few times during opening sets at concerts headlined by such acts as Alabama and Ronnie Milsap.

He also won first place for original song in the well-known Los Angeles Songwriters Showcase's Song Search Contest with his song "Lay It Down." This association's alumni list includes recognizable names such as Stevie Nicks and Steven Bishop.

Saturday's concert will begin at 7:00 p.m. at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Tickets are available at Hastings and Music Stores of Texas and Howard College Business Office. They are $13 for reserved seats and $12.50 for general admission.

Dear Abby

Woman takes backseat to boyfriend's daughter

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a wonderful man for a year and a half, and I am hoping to marry him. We usually get along beautifully, but there is one problem. He's divorced and has a 6-year-old daughter, "Lori," who lives with her mother in an adjoining state. "Peter" gets Lori every third weekend and on occasional holidays.

Peter recently acquired a new car with bucket seats, and when Lori is with us, she insists on riding in front with her daddy. That means I have to sit in the back alone.

I say that as an adult, my place is in front with Peter. He says he sees more of me than he sees of Lori, and I should sit in the back and not make a big deal out of it. I refused to go along with this, but the last straw was when Peter suggested that Lori and I "take turns" sitting in front with him.

How would you handle this?

CAMEL'S BACK

DEAR BACK: If I wanted to land Peter, I'd quit competing with Lori and quietly plant my bucket in the backseat. If you make a fuss, you'll force Peter to make a choice between you and his daughter. Then you'll find that blood is thicker than water.

(Do you hate to write letters

Dr. Donohue

Headache with sex should be evaluated

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I find this subject too embarrassing to go to my doctor and ask about. I've looked at various medical books at the library and didn't come across it. The question involves sexual intercourse. When I have intercourse and start to have orgasm I get such an awfully powerful headache in the back of my head! This has happened three times now. The pain is so excruciating that all I can do is lay there moaning and grip my head, and it seems to take forever for the pain to subside. I'm not married and don't have sexual contact with my friend that often. I don't know the answer. — Ms. A.G.

You are not alone in this. Many women have headache during coitus and many, like yourself, find it embarrassing to discuss. They should not feel that way. Incidentally, males as well as females may have pain during sex.

It is most likely a variation of the migraine headache. Many can be helped simply by taking an aspirin an hour before. Or you might ask your doctor if he would prescribe propranolol, one of beta blocker drugs, a medicine used often to prevent migraines.

But you really should look into this symptom, for it can reflect a more serious problem, like hypertension. There may even be a sudden blood pressure rise at such times traced to a pheochromocytoma, an adrenal gland growth that produces a blood-pressure-elevating substance.

There are many things to consider besides just the headache. Do you get a stiff neck with it? That can mean blood is leaking into brain tissues — very rare, I should add, but very serious. Please don't be embarrassed to discuss this with your doctor.

Heart transplant patient dies after second surgery attempt

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A Texas teen-ager, who was the third person in the world to undergo a simultaneous heart-liver transplant, died this morning during a second transplant operation, hospital officials said today.

Mary Cheatham, 17, of Fort Worth went into the operating room Thursday evening to receive a second set of organs after the first set of donor organs proved too large for her body.

She died at 3:36 a.m. in the operating room, about six hours after surgery began, according to Karen Lewis, administrative assistant at Presbyterian-University Hospital.

Hospital spokesman Tom Chakurda said he did not know if the second donor organs had been implanted.

"I do not know what stage they were in," he said. "We're still trying to locate the operating room surgeons."

Miss Cheatham underwent her first transplant operation on Monday when she received the organs of 22-year-old Mark Diggins of Columbus, Ohio, during an 18-hour operation that ended Tuesday afternoon. Diggins was 35 pounds heavier and three inches taller than Miss Cheatham.

Doctors said they had expected Miss Cheatham's first set of transplanted organs to shrink to fit the space around them. But her new heart and liver failed to adapt to the size of her body.

By Tuesday evening, her blood pressure had begun fluctuating because her new heart was crowded, and surgeons opened her chest cavity during two emergency operations that night. They closed her skin but planned to leave the chest bones open until the organs shrank.

Doctors decided to replace them, however, when suitable donor organs became available Thursday afternoon.

"All the doctors ... were in the operating room, and this is the option they decided to pursue," said hospital spokesman Mark

Shelton.

A transplant team headed by Drs. Thomas Starzl and Henry Bahnson boarded a chartered jet reportedly bound for Tuscaloosa, Ala., to obtain the second set of donor organs. The identity of the donor was not immediately available.

Miss Cheatham was taken into the operating room around 9:30 p.m., said Ann Mathias, an administrative assistant at the hospital. The second set of donor organs arrived at the hospital 30 minutes later, she said.

Miss Cheatham was born with a rare genetic disorder, known as hypercholesterolemia, that inhibited her liver's ability to gauge cholesterol levels in her body and remove the excess amounts. She had been in critical condition since the original operation.

A 7-year-old Texas girl and a 2-year-old Alabama girl were the world's first and second heart-liver recipients.

The Alabama girl died several days after her operation last November. The first recipient, Stormie Jones, of Cumby, Texas, is leading an active life.

Commission accuses Hunts of manipulation

LAS (AP) — The embattled Hunt brothers, reportedly faced by $4 billion in paper losses from businesses gone sour, have been accused of illegally trying to drive up the price of silver when they bought 100 million ounces of bullion five years ago.

The federal Commodity Futures Trading Commission on Thursday accused Nelson Bunker Hunt, Herbert W. Hunt and several other individuals and companies of the illegal manipulations during late 1979 and early 1980. The Hunts have denied any wrongdoing.

The Hunts bought up silver through a variety of transactions in the futures markets, sending the price skyrocketing, then tried to evade regulatory actions when the price began to tumble, the commission said. The Hunts ended up borrowing $1.1 billion.

On Thursday a Hunt International Resources Corp. official confirmed that paychecks for some employees had bounced. That was only the latest in a series of financial embarrassments for the family, which has suffered massive oil and commodities losses.

Woman bares body at store

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A 27-year-old woman described as "naked as a jaybird" because of hot weather landed in the county cooler after she stopped at a convenience store for a beer, police said. "She was naked as a jaybird," said Charlie Prior, manager of the Stop-N-Go store where the incident occurred Thursday.

"I came in shortly after it happened, but my boss said she was walking down the middle of Nacogdoches and took her clothes off," Prior said.

"She had her clothes off before she got inside the store. She came in here and paraded around the store, grabbed a beer and left," he said.

Police spokeswoman Delte Dascomb said officers were called to the scene by citizens.

John King's ministry spans decade

JOHN KING
...education and administration minister

By KIM KIRKHAM
Religion Editor

John King was a church member until he was asked to come to Big Spring, the beginning of a decade-long ministry.

Eddie Thibodeaux, past pastor of East Fourth Street Baptist Church, asked King to move to Big Spring from Victoria and become missions director at the church. Thibodeaux had pastored the church King attended in Victoria.

King took the position and moved to Big Spring to find his field of ministry. He also began taking correspondence courses through Luther Rice Seminary in Jacksonville, Fla. He holds a bachelor of arts degree in religion.

"At East Fourth Street Baptist I had the opportunity to see every type of ministry," he said. This helped him decide that education was the direction he wanted to take.

Thibodeaux helped King through "his encouragement to be open to God's leadership in my life, and in counseling me."

After serving for 5 years at East Fourth Street Baptist, King became minister of education and administration at Hillcrest Baptist Church.

"I was brought up going to church," said King. But "it wasn't until I was 26 years old that I realized I was separated from the Lord. I was just a church member."

King says his wife Barbara has been totally supportive of his ministry. "Even though she was not the individual called to each of those churches, she's supported me in each," he said.

Mrs. King teaches in the Bible Study programs at the church and kindergarten at Hillcrest Christian School. They have a daughter Robin, 17, and a son Kevin, 15.

King's favorite group is middle-aged adults. "I feel like, because I have two children that are the ages mine are, I have some ideas I can offer to parents," he said.

In his spare time, King enjoys bow hunting, racketball, camping with his family, gardening and riding three-wheelers.

"I feel God has called me to be a minister and that means to be a servant of people," said King.

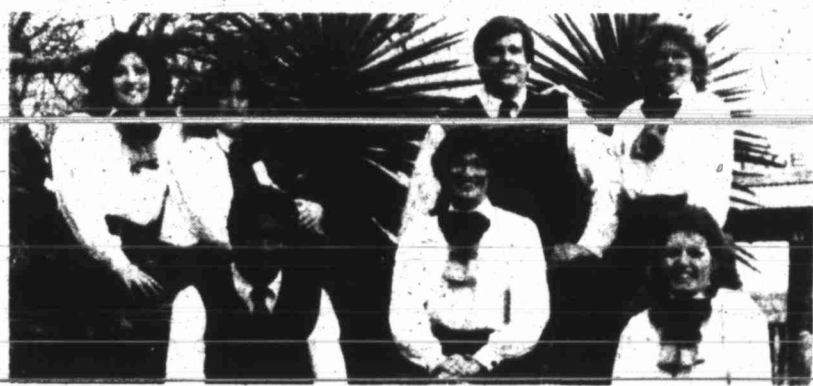

Hillcrest, SWCID present sign singing group

The Reach Out to Texas Deaf team, currently based in Austin, will present "Silent Touch", an ensemble which "sings" in sign language. The group is sponsored by Hillcrest Baptist Church and Baptist Student Union at SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

On Wednesday, the group will give a 7 p.m. performance at Hillcrest Baptist Church and a 9 p.m. performance at South West Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

At 10 a.m. Thursday, the group will lead a workshop, "The Fine Arts of Sign Singing", at SWCID. They will perform at 2 p.m. at Golden Plains Nursing Home.

The Reach Out to Texas Deaf project was established two years ago in response to the spiritual needs of the 1.5 million deaf and hearing impaired persons in Texas. Their purpose is to begin new work in areas where there are little or no Christian work with the deaf, to strengthen existing ministries with the deaf through increased training, to create awareness of the deaf's capabilities and needs of the deaf, and to give the deaf opportunity and training to reach out to their own people.

The team is comprised entirely of Mission Service Corps workers who are full-time volunteers, supported by churches, civic groups and individuals who wish to participate in the ministry.

The team is directed by Vesta Bice of Dallas, working with Severa Trevino, also of Dallas. Mark Mitchum of Arlington, Valerie Bingham of Farmers Branch, Regina Davis of Fort Worth and Judith Bishop of Plainview complete the team of six. Four members of the team are deaf.

Carman to perform in Midland Saturday

Carman will perform tomorrow in Midland. Tickets are available at Son Shine Christian Bookstore, 1002 11th Place.

Carman is a showman, storyteller, composer, singer and performer. "Everything I have to contribute is right there on stage," says Carman. He is recording a new album, "Coming on Strong" produced by Keith Thomas. It will be released in the fall.

Carman tries to cover several bases in his music: contemporary musical style for the younger set, biblically authoritative ideas for mature Christians, modern themes and concerts to interest the unsaved, and humor and fun for all audiences.

"Humor is an important part of my act," says Carman. "It lets people know there is joy in being a Christian."

Holts to lead Sunday morning service

The Rev. and Mrs. Herrick Holt will lead the 10:30 a.m. service Sunday at Gospel Tabernacle, 1905 Scurry. Because the Rev. Jack Crawford, pastor, is being hospitalized, ministers from Canada will fly in each week to lead the services.

Holt is from Victoria, British Columbia, Canada and is a missionary for Global Missions. He has traveled to many countries in his ministry, including Korea and Africa.

'The Prodigal' held over another week

"The Prodigal" is being held over another week. The movie is a World-wide Pictures release.

The film will be shown at the Cinema through Thursday.

Von Hassell speaker for second series

George von Hassell will speak on "Reflections of the Past" at the second Lenten series Wednesday at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 1001 Goliad.

Evening prayer begins at 6 p.m. A covered dish dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m., and von Hassell will begin his program at 7 p.m.

Von Hassell is a member of the Society of the Holy Family and "Stefanbruder", an American affiliate of the German Order of Deacons. He is the former director of "Centro de Accion Cristiana", a drug rehabilitation center in East Harlem, New York City. After leaving New York City, he worked in the San Joachim Valley in California among migrant workers being afflicted with the Clinica de Los Compensanos.

Von Hassell is an Aspirant to Holy Orders at the Episcopal School of Ministry in Lubbock. He is a member of St. Mary the Virgin Episcopal Church and the director of social services at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital.

Church to give free handbell concert

A Handbell Festival Concert will be given at 3:30 p.m. Saturday in Garrett Hall of First United Methodist Church. Admission is free, and the public may attend.

Conductor and clinician of the festival is nationally recognized composer and arranger Douglas Wagner. The U.S. Jaycees recently honored him as one of the Outstanding Young Men of America.

As a musician, Wagner has served Roman Catholic, Episcopal, Presbyterian and United Methodist congregations. He also is a member of the board of directors for Choristers Guild.

With more than 400 choral and instrumental titles in print and two million copies of his works in use, Wagner has an active schedule as guest conductor and workshop clinician with choral and handbell choirs from coast to coast.

Religion roundup

Many find services boring says priest

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Many people stay away from church services because they find them boring, a Roman Catholic priest told the National Catholic Lay Evangelism Conference. "Sometimes they've got every reason to be bored," said the Rev. Ron Luka of Oak Park, Ill. "We're boring. Our responsibility is to make church a celebration."

40 percent of Americans go to church

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — On a typical week in 1984, 40 percent of the American people went to church, reports the Gallup poll organization. It says church attendance has remained remarkably constant for 12 years, not varying more than 1 percent from the 40-percent mark since 1972.

The 1984 figures show 51 percent of Roman Catholics and 39 percent of Protestants attended church in a typical week.

Gordon MacDonald named president

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, which maintains ministries on campuses across the country, has chosen the Rev. Gordon MacDonald, 45, as its new president. MacDonald, for 12 years pastor of Grace Chapel in Lexington, Mass., and for the last year a minister for World Vision, a relief organization, was elected to succeed James McLeish.

Guideposts celebrates anniversary

NEW YORK (AP) — Guideposts magazine, the country's largest paid circulation inspirational periodical, observed its 40th anniversary recently, with its founding editor in chief, the Rev. Norman Vincent Peale, on hand for the occasion. The magazine first-person, true-life stories of how faith changed people's lives was started in 1945 as an irregular, four-page leaflet, but now is a full-color magazine with 4.2 million paid subscribers and an estimated monthly readership of 15 million.

Vice President GEORGE BUSH addresses the Texas Legislature Thursday.

Bush whacks Nicaragua

VP tells Texans Managua peace offer deceptive

AUSTIN (AP) — Vice President George Bush said Thursday he doesn't consider the latest offer from Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega to represent "significant moves" toward peace in war-torn Central America.

"We would surely welcome genuine Nicaraguan interest in peace," Bush told the Austin Council on Foreign Affairs.

"All we are asking is that the Sandinistas commit themselves to specific, concrete actions that would show their good faith interest in peace — actions involving no more than they committed themselves to five years ago," he said.

Ortega offered Wednesday night to have about 100 Cuban military advisers withdrawn from Nicaragua and to declare a "indefinite moratorium" on the acquisition of new weapons by his country.

The offer by Ortega was part of a peace proposal he said was being sent to U.S. congressional leaders. Bush said the United States isn't asking for much from Nicaragua.

All the U.S. wants, he said, is "that the Sandinistas stop exporting subversion to their neighbors; that they reduce their bloated military to restore regional balance; sever military ties with Cuba and the Soviet bloc, and begin to honor their promises to the Organization of American States to create a democratic, pluralistic political system."

Bush warned that Nicaragua is threatening to become more than just another Cuba in the Western Hemisphere.

"Worse than another Cuba, we run the risk of seeing another Libya develop — a warehouse of subversion and terrorism only two hours by air from the Texas border," Bush said.

"We should think hard and seriously about this — do we really want to allow the virus of international terrorism to infect the American mainland?"

The vice president also called on Congress to renew aid to the rebels.

Governor names 2 officials to grant review committee

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Two Big Spring officials were named Thursday by Gov. Mark White to a grant review committee.

White appointed Big Spring City Councilman Jack Y. Smith as chairman of the Permian Basin Region Community Development Block Grant Review Committee. His term will expire Jan. 1, 1987.

Howard County Commissioner O.L. "Louis" Brown was appointed to the committee for a term extending to Jan. 1, 1986.

Other committee members named by White are Andrews County Judge Les Brown; Winkler County Judge Frances Clark; Seminole City Alderman Dave Fisher; Ector County Judge Jan Fisher; Stanton Mayor Danny Fryar; Pecos County Commissioner M.R. Gonzalez Jr.; Fort Stockton City Councilman Danny Holguin; Reeves County Commissioner Bernardo Martinez; Dawson County Judge Glenn White; and Monahans City Councilwoman Clarese Gough.

4-5A teams highlight ABC Relays field

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

The Big Spring High School track team will be hosting the ABC Relays this Saturday at the high school track this Saturday. This is one of the area's biggest meets and will attract boys and girls teams from all over West Texas.

Heading up the boys teams will be District 4-5A members Odessa Permian, Odessa HS, Abilene Cooper, Abilene HS, Midland HS, San Angelo Central, and host Big Spring. 4A power Snyder will round out the boys field.

In the girls events, teams from Odessa Permian, Odessa HS, Abilene Cooper, Abilene HS, Midland Lee, Midland HS, Lubbock Monterey, Lubbock Coronado and host Big Spring will be competing.

The Big Spring boys had a strong showing at the first meet of the year last week in Fort Stockton. Freshman Brian Mayfield accumulated all 16 points in the meet for the Steers with high finishes in both the high jump and long jump.

"I was very pleased with the team effort at Fort Stockton last week," admitted seventh year head track coach Randy Britton. "All the boys maintained a real good attitude throughout the meet, and that is something we have been lacking in the past during the first part of the year. The boys have been working real hard in practice, and if the weather will cooperate I imagine we'll see some good times from the boys this year."

Heading up the weight events for the Steers is senior Doug Walker, who is back out this year after taking off his sophomore and junior seasons. Walker has been throwing consistently around 150 ft. in the discus and hopes to improve on his 49 ft. average in the shot put this year.

Mayfield heads up the jumping crew for Big Spring and coach Britton believes that the freshman sensation can reach 6'10" in the high jump. "I really believe that if everything goes right with his training and strength work he could hit 6'10" by district, but it's still too early to tell."

Mayfield will also compete in the long jump along with sophomore Shawn Shellman, underclassmen Phillip Matthews and Wimley White.

In the running events for the Steers, freshman Charles White, junior Alex Minter, and Matthews will run in the 100 and 200 meter dashes. Brian Reid and Dewayne Sherman are running the 330 intermediate hurdles for the Steers. Charles Young, Cedric Banks and Wesley Watson are scheduled to run the 440 meter dash for the Steers.

The middle distance men for the Steers include Dax McCracken and Sean Jackson in the 800 meter run. Preston Harrison will take care of the long distance competition for Big Spring running in the 1600 meters and 3200 meter races.

The sprint relay squad will consist of Matthews, White, Minter and, Sherman, Reid, McCracken, Young and Sherman make up the Steers mile relay squad.

Coach Britton sees Odessa Permian as the heavy favorites in the boys division Saturday. "Permian is extremely tough in the field events point wise. Tom Lish and Cleon Williams will be tough in the sprints as well. Permian's relay teams should be the class of the field." Other standouts planning to attend is Odessa High School's Gary Powell, who is one of West Texas' most explosive sprint men and Midland High's Darryl Davis, who earned a second place in the state meet last year.

Field events will start at 9:00 a.m. and the running prelims will start at 10:30. The 3200 meter race will be run at 12:00 and the running finals will start at 2:30 p.m. with the sprint relay.

Big Spring Invitational attracts 22 golf teams

The Big Spring Invitational Golf Tournament will be going on Friday and Saturday and it will attract 22 teams reaching from Ft. Stockton to Abilene and Amarillo to San Angelo.

Big Spring coach Mike Sharp labels the Abilene Cooper B team, San Angelo Central and Odessa Permian as the teams to beat. The Cooper A team is in a tournament in Austin this weekend. Last year Permian nosed out Cooper B by seven strokes for the team championship.

Other teams entered in the tourney are Abilene High, Amarillo High, Andrews, Big Spring A, B and C teams, Borger and Slaton. Also entered in the two day affair is Colorado City, Midland Lee A and B teams, Midland High A and B teams, Odessa High and Amarillo Palo Duro.

Rounding out the field is Amarillo Tascosa and Abilene Wylie.

Leading the Big Spring A team is returning juniors Robert Gilbert and Marc Couch. Sophomore Steve Ross is the other returnee. Freshmen Jeff Rhodes and Steve Porch round out the squad. Gilbert shot the best game in the first tournament of the season. His 93-88-181 helped lead Big Spring to a 9th place finish in the 18-team tournament.

Tee-off time was 8 a.m. today with action concluding at approximately 3 p.m. First round action was held at the Big Spring Country Club while Saturday's round will be at Comanche Trail Golf Club.

Stanton's Finch makes All-District squad

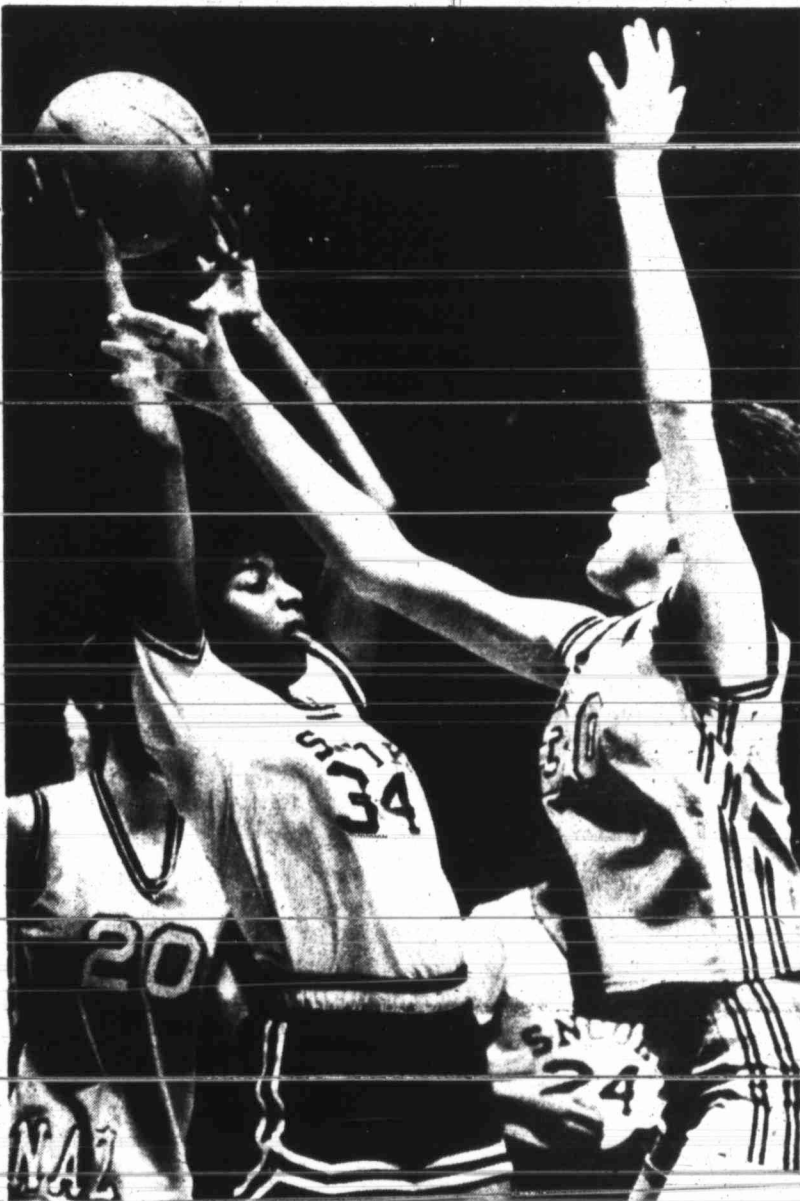

Sebrenia Finch was the lone Stanton Lady Buffaloes player to be named to the District 8-2A All-District team.

The 5-9 forward was the only sophomore selected to the team which was dominated by district champ Greenwood. The Rangerettes placed four players on the squad.

Finch averaged 12 points and seven rebounds for Stanton. Honorable Mention players from Stanton include Lee Ann Thom, a 5-5 junior guard and 5-9 freshman forward Rania West.

8-2A GIRLS ALL-District Team: Marla Morgette, 5-9, Sr.; Greenwood; Deona Dean, 5-8, Sr.; Greenwood; Terri Busic, 5-5, Jr.; Greenwood; Kendra Turbow, 5-5, Sr.; Greenwood; Lisa Gooch, 5-5, Jr.; Big Lake; Shelia Selman, 6-0, Sr.; Big Lake; Jill Fisher, 5-5, Jr.; Big Lake; Shelia Fields, 5-5, Sr.; Eldorado; Julie Williboy, 5-8, Sr.; Eldorado; Tracy Morton, 6-0, Sr.; Wall; SEBRENIA FINCH, 5-9, SOPH., STANTON

Snooks's CONNIE COLE (34) tries to keep the ball away from a reaching RAMONA HEIMAN (30) of Nazareth.

Nazareth headed for another state title

AUSTIN (AP) — Look over the list of Class 5A state champions for the past six years in Texas schoolgirl basketball, and you can just about call the roll at this year's schoolgirl state basketball tournament.

All four teams are recent state champs.

Victoria, a perennial South Texas power, won in 1979; South Oak Cliff won in 1980; Lubbock Monterey took the title in 1981; and Houston Yates captured the championship in 1982.

South Oak Cliff (32-2) and Monterey (27-3) clash at 4 p.m. today in the Frank Erwin Center in Austin in one 5A semifinal, with Yates (27-0) and Victoria (29-6) clashing at 8 p.m. The two winners will battle at 7:15 p.m. Saturday for the championship.

In today's other state tournament games, both in Class 2A, Abernathy and Honey Grove were scheduled to meet in one semifinal at 9:30 a.m., followed at 11 a.m. by Seymour and Troy. Abernathy won the 3A state championship last year, but was dropped to 2A this season.

In Thursday's first day of action in the tournament, Nazareth and Priddy advanced to the Class A title match. Nazareth marched closer to its seventh state title in eight years by beating Snook 50-32 for its 68th straight victory. Priddy advanced to the state finals for the second straight year by edging Petty West Lamar, 53-51, in overtime.

In the Class 3A semifinals, Vernon rallied from a five-point deficit in the fourth quarter to defeat Midlothian 59-54, while Sweeny led from the start in beating Boerne 63-41.

Defending state champ Waco Richfield and Sweetwater advanced to the Class 4A finals. Richfield extended its winning streak to 63 games by waltzing past Fredericksburg 56-32, while Sweetwater eliminated Livingston, 49-42.

Not counting their recent state championships, the four Class 5A tournament teams have other similarities, says South Oak Cliff's first-year coach, Garry Beveridge. "Yates is the only one with real size. The rest of us depend on the press and defense."

The Monterey-South Oak Cliff match-up will pair teams with similar full-court pressing defenses.

Monterey has created an average of 29 turnovers in four playoff games. Two juniors, 5-8 Laura Supak and 5-9 Kira Morgan, and 5-8 senior Allison Taylor have led the attack. Supak has averaged 18 points a game, Morgan 11.8 and Taylor 11.4.

SOC's Lady Bears have a balanced 10-deep roster headed by senior Rhonda Biggs and sophomore Chandra Dismuke.

Victoria lost to South Oak Cliff earlier in the season, but Beveridge noted "it was so close, it never got more than five points apart either way. I don't think it will give either team an advantage now."

Beveridge added, "We feel good about our chances. Yates is the only team with height, at 6-2 and 6-8 inside. But we've learned to play against that. There isn't any reason why we aren't in as good a shape as anyone to win it."

Howard splits with NMJC

Queens romp, 88-72

The Howard College Hawk Queens went out in a blaze of glory Thursday night, defeating the New Mexico Junior College Lady Thunderbirds 88-72 at Hobbs, New Mexico. The victory gave Howard coach Don Stevens his eighth straight 20 win season.

The Queens started fast, opening up a quick 12-2 lead in the first period and never looked back the rest of the game. Lorri French had 10 of her 20 points in the first half and Molly Early gunned in half of her game high 28 points in the period to give the Queens a commanding 41-25 lead at halftime.

Alex Provencio dominated the second half boards, picking up 17 points and 17 rebounds for the game. Diane and Allison-Dickson also had fine defensive showings in their last games as Hawk-Queens. Tammy Winnans recorded two steals and pumped in 11 points as the Queens rolled to the 88-72 victory.

The Queens finished the season with a fifth place, 6-8 WJCAC record, and 20-11 for the year.

QUEENS (88): Alex Provencio 8-1-17; Lorri French 10-0-20; Molly Early 10-8-28; Tammy Winnans 4-3-11; Stacy Eitner 0-1-1; Allison Dickson 3-1-7; Diane Dickson 2-0-4; Totals 37-14-88.

NMJC (72): Sheila Christian 2-1-5; Susan McKear 3-0-6; Mary Puglise 2-0-4; Lorri Trollinger 2-0-4; Robbi Robinson 5-0-10; Tracy Barnes 5-2-12; Sharon Haynes 5-8-18; Beth Cherry 1-1-3; April Showers 5-0-10; Totals 30-12-72.

Hawks fall, 83-78

HOBBS, N.M. — The Howard College Hawks saw their hopes for a home berth in the conference tournament go down the drain with a 83-78 loss to the New Mexico Junior College Thunderbirds.

With the loss Howard will have to go on the road Saturday for their first game. The Hawks will battle Western Texas Junior College in Snyder at 7 p.m. WTC owns two previous wins over the Hawks.

The Hawks held the lead for the first 10 minutes of the game behind the hot shooting of guard Bruce Kimble, who ended the game with 23 points. At that time Howard led 28-20. But NMJC rallied to regain a 41-38 halftime lead.

Forward Derrick Hill paced the Thunderbirds with 24 points. Guard Eddie Newell added 17.

Michael Porter and Walt Reynolds were the other Hawks in double figures with 22 and 11 points. Porter also hauled down 11 rebounds from his guard position.

HOWARD (78) — Bruce Kimble 10 3 23; Bernard Bell 3 0 6; Walt Reynolds 5 1 11; Joe Burney 3 0 6; Michael Porter 11 0 22; Martin Jenkins 4 0 8; Isaac Varando 0 0 0; Al Willis 1 0 2; Totals 37 4 78.

NMJC (83) — Frank Bagley 6 0 12; Shelby Reeves 5 2 12; Shurkitt 2 0 4; Eddie Newell 7 3 17; Clark White 7 0 14; Derrick Hill 9 6 24; Totals 36 11 83.

HALFTIME — NMJC 41; Howard 38.

RECORDS — NMJC (9-9, 18-12), Howard (5-9, 13-15).

Stanton Relays on tap for Saturday

STANTON — Stanton High School will be hosting the Stanton Invitational Relays this Saturday in a meet that will feature boys and girls teams from Class 3A, 2A, and 1A schools.

The list of teams in the boys division includes Class 3A Coahoma, Crane and Denver City. Class 2A Stanton will host the meet, while Class A teams from Forsan, Sands Consolidated, and Ropes will also be represented.

The girls teams include 3A Colorado City and Denver City, 2A host Stanton, and 1A Ropes.

Standouts for the Stanton track teams this year will be Bobby Almagar in the shot put and discus. Almagar placed third in District 8-2A last year and is considered the favorite this year. Lori Janssen made it to the Regional meet last year in the 800 meter run and is considered one of the finest Class 2A middle distance runners in the area.

Forsan's Mitch Hayes will head up a strong squad from Forsan. Hayes will compete in the long jump and quarter mile and anchor both 440 and mile relays.

The field events will start at 9:30 and the running preliminaries will begin at 10:30. Finals in the field events will begin at 2:00 and running finals will follow at 2:00.

Boxer accused of taking stimulant

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A urine test turned up traces of a stimulant in champion Livingstone Bramble following his successful World Boxing Association lightweight title defense Feb. 16 against Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini in Reno.

The finding prompted Mancini's manager, Dave Wolf, to say Thursday he is protesting the fight and will ask the WBA to disqualify Bramble and strip him of the title.

"We fully expect justice to be done and for Bramble to be disqualified," said Wolf. "That stimulant gave him an advantage in the fight."

But fight promoter Dan Duva, whose father, Lou, trained Bramble, said the drug came from a nasal spray used by the champion the morning of the fight and labeled it "no big deal."

"He had a cold a couple of days before the fight and had a stuffy nose," said Duva.

Sports Briefs

Hawks change schedule

The Howard Hawks doubleheader with Bee County in Beeville this weekend has been canceled because of rain.

Instead the Hawks will play Cochise Junior College, Ariz. in a three-game series this weekend at Hawk Field. A double-header will be played Saturday starting at 8 p.m. A single game starting at 1 p.m. will be played Sunday.

Klondike at regionals

LEVELLAND — The Klondike Cougars will play their first game in the Region I-A tournament when they take on the Ft. Davis Indians at 8:30 p.m. tonight at the Texas Dome.

If the Cougars win they will play at 11 a.m. Saturday.

BSGA meeting

The Big Spring Golf Association will have a meeting tonight at Comanche Trails at 6:30 p.m.

Election of officers and tournament schedules will be discussed. A free spaghetti dinner will also be served at the meeting.

Red Sox meeting

The Big Spring Red Sox baseball team will have an organizational meeting Sunday, March 3 at 4 p.m. at 202 N.E. 8th.

Manager Bill Diaz and coach Manuel Villa urged all Red Sox players to be there.

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

Note: Today marks the 25th Anniversary of "The FAMILY CIRCUS."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 2, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early morning is the best time for you to put in action any plan involving favors from those in high office for later you find that you are apt to be too emotional.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Some possible family argument should be quelled early so that it will not turn into a royal battle later.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Communicate wisely in the morning. You should be courteous and kind with your partners. Be concerned with your personal safety.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handling a financial affair well in the morning helps you to understand other monetary matters without taking action as yet.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Early handle that personal matter that is important to you, but later make sure you do not lose your temper.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Early plan the future wisely and then you can get into outside affairs and make them work much to your benefit.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can easily get back-lashing from a friend for an enterprise that means a good deal to you, if you are tactful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make sure to get outside duties handled early otherwise your personal aims will suffer later. Don't go off on a spree with friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Early you have a good idea that needs to be put in operation quickly since later you have to handle problematical affairs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure to handle problems in the morning, and then you will have time to study into new ways to get ahead faster.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make sure that an associate goes along with some agreement that means a great deal to you in the morning.

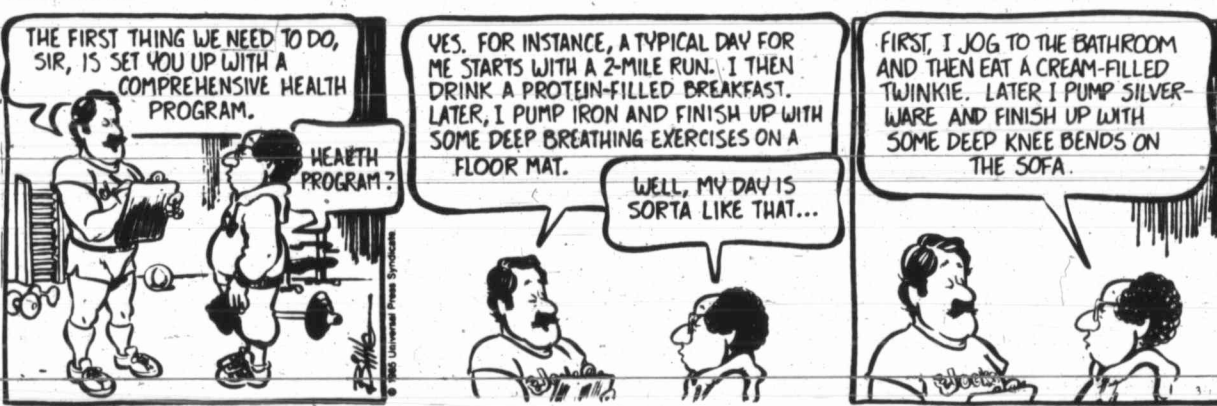

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get that work done early that is ahead of you and later avoid a partner who wants to handle matters differently from you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Early make arrangements for amusements later in the day. Buy a little present for your mate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will early in life appeal to the influential and will have many favors bestowed on him or her. However, teach to be more self reliant and give as fine an education as you can since there is much ability here and your progeny can become very successful. Teach to separate business from family life.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
